A Times analysis

Proposed Essex Arts Complex — a big boost for Belleville?

By Christopher Bifani

People in Belleville have been following the various Newark redevelopment proposals for years. If Newark comes back, they reason, the pressure will be off Belleville and both property values and quality of life here will be secure.

Last year we read about Harry Grant's proposal to put the world's tallest building in Newark, the American city whose airport is closest to its downtown business district. Maybe the proposed building will be able to duck, like Lady Liberty in that old Abbott and Costello movie, when the planes get too close! Right now, though, it's pie in the sky.

Last year, too, the Times reported on the improvements slated for Route 21 through Newark as well as to the north. The highway will connect the long-troubled metropolis directly with Route 80 by the early 90's, hopefully bringing a surge of economic activity and development.

"Twenty summers after the Newark riots the south end of Belleville is still threatened with Newark blight. And Newark is still the epicenter of Belleville's crime woes"

Last year and this year, too, we read about new low-rise communities going up in Newark - and gutted, failed hi-rise projects tumbling down. We followed the rise of Gateway 4 and the Newark Legal Center - two more "actually happening" skyscrapers that are adding jobs to the area employment pool and definition to the Essex skyline.

'World Class' arts complex

But of all the Newark proposals and pipe-dreams, the most significant one so far is the "world class arts complex" which would encompass the old Hahne's department store site on Broad Street and two more blocks between Washington Street and University Avenue. The pricetag, in politi-speak, is a cool $200 million.

The proposal was bannered across the front page of last Thursday's Star-Ledger in big block letters. Underneath, Governor Kean beamed proudly at a sketch of the plan.

No doubt many Bellevillites took this as just one more in a long string of Newark redevelopment fantasies - proposals that either don't come to fruition, or don't live up to their fanfare if they do. After all, twenty summers after the Newark riots the south end of Belleville is still threatened with Newark blight. And Newark is still the epicenter of Belleville's crime woes.

But most townspeople recognize that restoring Newark is the key to preserving Belleville. And this arts complex idea is quite likely the key to restoring Newark.

For an area seeking to rejuvenate itself, certain kinds of development are more attractive than others. Office buildings, for instance, usually provide good ratables but do little for the evening economy. Downtown Newark is a ghost town at night. Few out-of-towners go there after hours because there's little to do.

But if this "world class arts complex" goes up there will be plenty to do. There will be theater, opera and ballet in the 3,000 seat theater, symphonies in the 2,500 seat concert hall, lesser musical performances in the 1,800 seat music hall and more.

All of this activity, proponents believe, will in turn generate hundreds of permanent jobs, and dozens of new establishments - such as restaurants and pubs - to serve the crowds before and after the shows. It is quite possible that private theater groups will set up shop in the area, providing a second off-Broadway alternative in the metropolitan area.

C.W. Shaver and Co., the New York firm that planned all of this, cites many other factors that make the site particularly inviting. So inviting, in fact, that the Governor has practically ruled out a suburban site, which was his original idea.

Among the factors that make the Hahne's site attractive are air, rail, bus and highway accessibility; proximity to the University Heights district; proximity to the Newark Museum and Public Library; and (perhaps most of all) proximity to the wealthy patrons of the arts residing in the Greater Essex area.

Big boost for Belleville

So how can all of this help Belleville?

First off, Belleville will become a more desirable place for yuppies to live. Yuppies are the wealthy young couples who drive up home prices and encourage the upscaling of local shopping districts. Belleville would actually be closer to the proposed arts complex than much of Manhattan is to its own Lincoln Center!

And Belleville and North Newark are the areas which will benefit most from gentrification spurred by the arts complex because of the subway line. Park at the Franklin stop and ride to the show. The uptown/downtown flavor would be hard to ignore. Maybe the subway line could even be extended someday.

The "no man's land" along Broadway between downtown Newark and the Belleville line would surely begin to shrink. Each new refurbishing, development, or commercial project would inspire others, and reverse blight would become the trend.

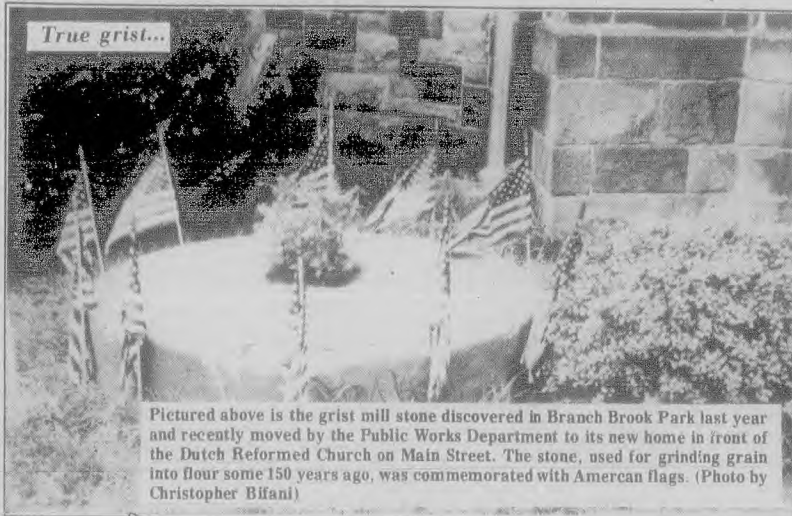

In the immediate future, Bellevillites would enjoy quality entertainment close to home. In the long run, Bellevillites (and all Essex towns) would enjoy a more stable county tax rate as Newark - benefiting from an influx of ratables - begins to assume more of the tax bite.

For all these reasons, then, it becomes apparent that this "world class arts complex" will be supported not only by Belleville's state and U.S. representatives, but by our local leaders as well.

If our own problems are caused by factors beyond our borders, then perhaps that is where our solutions lie.

Without a doubt, a $200 million arts complex some forty blocks from the town line is the best thing that could ever happen to Belleville outside of Belleville.

We should all keep our fingers crossed on this one.

True grist...

Pictured above is the grist mill stone discovered in Branch Brook Park last year and recently moved by the Public Works Department to its new home in front of the Dutch Reformed Church on Main Street. Job discrimination alleged

Municipal employee files complaint against tax department officials

A Belleville town employee filed a complaint against the municipality with the Division of Civil Rights claiming she was discriminated against because she was handicapped.

Bernadette Curley said she was denied the opportunity to work overtime on November 3, 4 and 8 during town election time.

The two officials named in the complaint, incumbent Commissioner Joseph McGreevy and Barbara Metz allegedly overlooked giving Curley any overtime assignments.

Curley is an amputee who relies on a wooden leg for mobility. It was alleged McGreevy thought she wouldn't be able to carry the voters registration book.

The Division of Civil Rights Deputy Director Jesus A. Rodriguez said the complaint has been verified and served to the defendants.

"From what I gather, an extension has been granted because the lawyer representing the defendants was on vacation when the complaint was served," said Rodriguez. The town's officials originally had 20 days in which to respond.

Both parties will meet face to face on August 3 during a conciliation meeting to be arbitrated by civil rights investigator Elizabeth Paredes.

After the facts from both sides are gathered, Paredes will make a decision of whether there was a violation of the law.

If the town is found in violation of the law, a conciliation agreement will be reached or it can be sent to public hearing before a judge.

If Curley's complaint is voted invalid, she would have 45 days in which to appeal.

Neither McGreevy, Metz or Curley would make a statement.

Belleville town attorney Frank Cozzarelli would not comment due to the fact the case is pending litigation.

Police apprehend gang of youths charged with stealing BMX bicycles

A gang of teens was apprehended last Saturday afternoon after a witness observed one of them knock a boy off of his bicycle and ride away, Belleville Police Lt. William Adelhelm said.

The victim, who was not seriously hurt in the incident, was a 12 year old Nutley boy riding his BMX-style bicycle near the intersection of Maier Street and Branch Brook Drive.

The witness, Joseph Dellemonache, 18, of Branch Brook Drive, reportedly foiled the theft when he stopped the thief on Union Avenue near Mill Street.

The other juveniles fled toward Newark.

"While this was going on, another Nutley boy was pushed off his bike by another one of the Newark boys," Adelhelm said. But police were already responding because Dellemonache had tipped them off. In short order, two juveniles were in custody.

Initially, three more Newark boys got away, but armed with descriptions from the witness and the Nutley boys, police were able to apprehend the young suspects in Branch Brook Park.

The five boy "gang" ranged in age from 13 to 15.

The two bicycles were returned to their young owners, who must have been quite happy since the bicycles are valued at $475 and $250. Adelhelm said the five Newark boys were charged under the juvenile statutes and released to their parents.

In other police patrol news, a car driving "erratically" was pulled over on Union Avenue last Saturday night and police wound up scoring a possible cocaine bust and illegal weapons charge.

"Officers John Martucci and Frank Malfatto pulled the car over, and as they approached the car they observed the front seat passenger drop a small package onto the ground. That package was filled with a small amount of white powder believed to be cocaine," Adelhelm said.

After 25 years

Tax Assessor calls it quits

By Samuel Williams Jr.

It is so hard to say goodbye to yesterday but on August 1, Belleville tax assessor Peter Anthony Torre Jr. must do just that.

Torre's retirement will become official then, and the Belleville native will end 25 years of service. "I think it is time to move on and concentrate more time and effort on my law business," said Torre.

Torre is a man of many talents and over the years has displayed them.

As a politician, Torre ran as a democrat for the State Assembly seat in the old District 10 in 1971.

"During that period, we were the highest assembly as democrats in my district," said Torre.

As an educator, Torre taught Business Law and Economics for a year at Pope Pius High School in Passaic.

Likewise, Torre is a former motor vehicle officer in Belleville for many years.

Torre, a native of Belleville, graduated from Belleville High School and excelled in football, basketball and baseball.

From there Torre earned a bachelor's in Pre-Law at Seton Hall College.

Later, Torre received his law degree from Rutgers University.

"We were a part of history because we were the first graduating class from the law school," said Torre.

From June of 1942 to September of 1945, Torre served in the Air Force as a gunner on the B-17 "Flying Fortress".

As a result, Torre has developed his own concept of the United States involvement in wars abroad.

"The United States should be interested in keeping peace rather than fighting for interest that aren't ours," said Torre.

"War does not correct problems between nations and people."

When it's time to relax, Torre enjoys sports and working with people.

"I enjoy being a participant in activities whether they are political or non-political," said Torre.

Torre said he enjoys doing consulting work as well at the Church of Religious Science located in Morristown.

Torre said one key aspect to his retirement however will be his ability to spend more time with his wife Mary.

Belleville briefly...

Jelsia Cortese passes N.J. Real Estate exam

Mrs. Jelsia Caprio Cortese of Belleville has passed the New Jersey Real Estate Salesperson's Examination and obtained her license following successful completion of her studies at the American School of Real Estate in Verona two evenings a week.

Mrs. Cortese, a teacher with the Belleville Board of Education, has taken a summer position as a salesperson with the Metro Agency in Belleville.

The American School courses are conducted under the direction of Charles E. Davies, a recognized leader in real estate education, who has assisted more than 10,000 salespersons in obtaining their licenses and improving their sales skills.

A graduate of Barringer High School in Newark and The Berkeley School in East Orange, now relocated in Garret Mountain, Mrs. Cortese earned a B.A. degree in elementary education and library science and an M.A. degree in administration and supervision from Kean College in Union. She is a former secretary of Kappa Delta Pi and is also a member of Phi Delta Kappa, fraternity for educators.

Mrs. Cortese is married to Anthony D. Cortese Jr. and the mother of two children.

But less than national average

Area fuel costs more

The average price of gasoline in the Belleville area continues to inch toward the $1.00 mark during July.

In a periodic survey based on information obtained from AAA contracted service stations in the area, the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club, based in Florham Park, found that the average cost of a gallon of gasoline is 99 cents, a 3 cent increase since Memorial Day and a 5-cent increase over the same time last year.

The average cost of the various fuel grades are: regular, 90 cents; unleaded 93 cents; premium unleaded $1.07; and diesel, $1.04.

"Experts have been predicting that gasoline prices may rise a few pennies a gallon this summer as demand increases," says Matthew J. Derham, president of the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club. "But they don't anticipate the 10 cent a gallon jumps of some previous summers."

For motorists in Belleville and throughout the Garden State, New Jersey continues to have the lowest average gasoline prices in the nation at 88 cents. "People travelling to shore points in Southern New Jersey, will be pleased to find that unleaded gasoline can be purchased for as low as 81 cents," Derham added.

DRUGS AND THE LIVER

One of the more important body sites where two drugs could influence each other is the liver. This organ is responsible for the detoxification and elimination of a great many of the foreign chemicals that we put into our bodies. Since it is so crucial in decreasing the amount of circulating drug, its size and ability to detoxify often determine whether or not we will experience a negative reaction. On the other hand, if the liver works too well, one might find that the beneficial response of a drug is prevented because the drug is eliminated for too quickly from the bloodstream. Many drugs actually do have the power to increase the size of the liver and, as a result, intensify its metabolic efficiency.

Friendly, efficient service and a complete prescription department will be found when you visit ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1988, 759-1956. We handle the sale and rental of convalescent aids including walkers, wheel chairs, crutches and canes. Cosmetics, toiletries and greeting cards are stocked. Hours: 9am-10pm daily, 9am-7pm Sundays.

Township mailman crusades against pit bulls

By Christopher Bifani

"I think that pit bulls should be banned," Joseph Della Ferra, a township post carrier said, "but since I know that will never happen, I'm hoping that they will at least enact legislation to control them...to keep them muzzled in public, and tied up."

Della Ferra's dislike for the controversial breed is more than just a reaction to the current wave of media hype - with him it's personal. On his mail route in the Soho section of town two years ago he was bitten by one. More recently, a pit bull on the same block lunged for his throat, but Della Ferra says he was able to protect himself by putting his mail sack in front of his face until the owner took charge of the animal.

Della Ferra's job status has been affected by the pit bulldogs on his route. Following the most recent attack, he refused to deliver the mail to the two homes on Forest Avenue where pit bulls are pets. His supervisor subsequently suspended him for a week.

He said he offered to buy the two pit bull owners mailboxes that could be mounted curbside, but they turned down his offer.

But Della Ferra, who still refuses to enter the yard where pit bulls may be, hasn't given up the fight. He said he has written to congressmen, town leaders, and has talked to anyone who will listen about his problem with the dogs.

Channel 2 News listened.

Last week they sent their "troubleshooter" news team to Belleville to interview Della Ferra, his supervisor and others about the pit bull controversy. Also, the crew reported on Passaic's recent pit bull ordinance. Meanwhile the State Assembly is scheduled to consider a bill next week strictly regulating the breed...with muzzles, six foot leashes and other provisions for walking the dogs in public.

Opponents of the bill say that a bill should be enacted for all vicious dogs, that it shouldn't just single out pit bulls. Others say that pit bulls aren't vicious by nature, it's how they're trained. Still others point out that the breed is not clearly defined...there are other dogs that look like pit bulls, but aren't. And there are pit bulls that don't look like typical pit bulls, or who have pit-bull breeding along with other lines.

The resulting publicity which mailman Della Ferra has garnered has thrust him to the forefront of the pit bull controversy. Here, he says, he can do some good.

"I'm not just fighting for myself," he explained, "I'm fighting for all the mailmen. Pit bulls are a job hazard."

In other town pit bull developments a town resident reported to Belleville Police that a man with a pit bull was in the yard. Patrolmen were dispatched to investigate, but upon arrival the reported man and his pit bull were gone.

Chamber to honor educators

Seymour Grossman (above) and Richard Ruffalo (below) will be honored at The Belleville Chamber of Commerce annual dinner dance, to be held September 27 at The Chandelier. Grossman, a former school board trustee, was also a township teacher and principal. Ruffalo is currently a BHS teacher and is actively involved with handicapped children.

Commissioner pushes for recycling...

DEPARTMENT OF PARKS & PUBLIC PROPERTY
MUNICIPAL BUILDING
BELLEVILLE, NEW JERSEY 07108
ARG. 3227

VINCENT J. FRANTANTONI
DIRECTOR

July 28, 1987

Dear Belleville Residents,

On July 31, 1987, Belleville and all of Essex County will no longer be allowed to dump our refuse in the Hackensack Meadowlands Development Commission landfill in Kearny. The cost of dumping our garbage will increase from the present rate of $25.28 per ton to the new proposed rate of $102.50 per ton. This tremendous increase will have to be paid for by every taxpayer of our Township.

If you expect government to solve this problem, you are right! Government will find a solution, but you can bet it will be costly. YOU CAN HELP YOURSELF! One way to cope with this problem is to reduce the amount of refuse to be disposed of. This can be accomplished quite simply by reducing or eliminating the use of disposable products, such as paper towels, plates and cups. Re-use products with excess packaging. Think twice before throwing something away it may be repairable or you can donate it to your favorite charity.

Another way to reduce our garbage disposal costs is recycling. The State of New Jersey recently passed a Mandatory Recycling Plan to be in place by 1988. If the Township of Belleville must purchase equipment and manpower to collect recycled items, the cost must be borne by you the taxpayer.

YOU CAN HELP YOURSELF

As Director of Parks & Public Property, I have instituted a voluntary recycling program. I urge all residents who are physically able to drop off newspaper, glass, aluminum cans and aluminum scrap at the Parks & Public Property yard at 48 Williams Street, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

Here's how you will be saving tax dollars. #1. For each ton we recycle we will be saving $102.00 in disposal fees; #2. We will earn $10.00 to $30.00 per ton selling the recyclable materials, and #3. We will receive a recycling tonnage rebate from the state.

So you see, it pays to recycle. If we can educate our residents to make our voluntary program successful, we will save many tax dollars. We will also be setting a pattern for other communities to follow.

I am also asking for volunteers to assist our program so we may expand it to other areas of town and possibly provide Saturday drop-off locations. Please contact my office at 450-3322 or my home at 759-4111.

Each of us creates garbage, therefore each of us must make a commitment to do our part to make this recycling effort a success.

Thank you for your anticipated cooperation.

Sincerely yours,
Vincent J. Frantantoni

Sometimes the most difficult problems have the simplest solutions.

Take graffiti...please!

When driving through some neighborhoods of Newark, East Orange...and, increasingly, Belleville, the problem seems nearly insurmountable. Graffiti "artists", using cheap, readily available spray paint, attack public and private property under the cover of night. And they work quickly - so fast, in fact, that the common graffiti "style" actually grew out of the need for speed. The perpetrators have to scrawl their messages before anybody sees them!

Punishment for first-time graffiti painters is usually lenient, and if the offender is a juvenile (they usually are, since graffiti is such a juvenile act) the punishment promises to be more lenient still.

The solution to the graffiti problem doesn't lie in the punishment anyway. Most of the scribbles seldom get caught.

For example, some years back there were two graffiti artists, one who called himself "Chopper" and another who called himself "Trivvy." For years and years these two vandals had a competition going - to see how many walls, cliffs, rocks, driveways and any other paintable surfaces they could defile. In time, it seemed, there wasn't a town in North Jersey that didn't have those two monikers scrawled somewhere.

For all we know, "Chopper" and "Trivvy" are still spray-painting their way to fame today.

Our common sense solution to the graffiti problem is to fight fire with fire. Or more specifically, to fight paint with paint.

As soon as graffiti is noticed on a surface, it has to be painted over immediately. Once the vandals notice that their "artwork" is being lost forever, they'll move on to a less cared-for site - or better yet, they'll see the folly of their endeavors!

In the Times photograph above, a portion of the graffiti on the Route 21 retaining wall along Main Street is shown.

Even without the graffiti there, the wall is not an appealing site. It's imposing and overbearing, with a dull, lifeless beige color.

Now, imagine if the wall was painted in Buccaneer gold from the base to about 10 feet high. Then, imagine a one foot band of Buccaneer blue across the top. This would look alot better than dull beige, and show some Belleville spirit as well.

But would this deter the graffiti vandals? Not a chance. It would be scrawled over just as fast as if the school-spirit paint wasn't there. However, with a base coat of paint already in place, and a ready "touch-up" supply at the ready, it would be a simple matter to simply brush over what the vandals had sprayed!

Private landlords could take similar steps. Rather than trying to scrub, scrape or blast the graffiti off their unprotected walls (probably at great cost and effort) the simple solution is to paint first in a complimentary color. One need only paint the base of a graffiti plagued building, working out a paint scheme that takes into account the building's architecture. Any existing graffiti vanishes with the stroke of the brush, and the left-over paint is saved for any return trips scribbles may make.

Obviously this is not the solution to every graffiti problem. Fine brickwork, for example, is one type of surface most landlords would be loathe to paint over.

But graffiti criminals largely prefer the kind of flat, smooth concrete surfaces that could likely benefit from a base coat of paint anyway.

And if there's no way to actually stop graffiti criminals, wouldn't it be nice to at least beat them at their own game?

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

To walk life alone takes courage.

To bend to life's needs takes patience.

To carry one's sorrow takes strength.

To live one's life takes faith.

To find one's courage takes bearing.

To find one's patience takes caring.

To find one's strength takes deep inner searching.

To find one's faith takes God's love.

Talking garbage...

To the editor:

My apologies! After reading your 'thumbnail bio' under 'Bifani on Belleville' including the "rock n' roll, motorcycles and comic books," "cuts and sick days," "I dropped out," "Graduate Equivalency Diploma," "I failed English, too," "playing catch up at Bergen Community College, the only school that would have me," I realize that perhaps I was attributing motivations and thought processes to you which exceeded your depth.

Having heard rumors about the township's garbage contract, more specifically about the 'dumping tickets' included therein, and with the expectancy of a garbage strike, I began a careful perusal of that contract.

Here is what I learned:

1. The five year contract began 9-5-84 with a starting sum of $3,444,000, based on a $3.63 per cubic yard disposal (dumping) fee.

2. An escalation clause (Section 2.14) allowed this to increase to $4.80 per cubic yard. (A 32% increase in this contract item.)

3. The garbageman must collect all ashes, offal, garbage, rubbish, debris, other refuse matter, objects not exceeding 200 pounds; and dead animals not over 100 pounds, twice each week from all dwellings, schools and business property and any property of the Township (except factories); including not more than 50 Township litter containers. Solicitation of gratuities is prohibited.

4. No collections are to be made after 6:00 p.m. and before 4:00 a.m.

5. The garbageman shall provide to the Township, for all its departments refuse, street sweeping, road materials, trees brush, leaves and other material disposal needs...350 dump tickets for five cubic yard trucks and 400 dump tickets for 25 cubic yard trucks each year of the five years contract.

This is the first of three letters dealing with the town's garbage contract rendered in the interest of making the taxpayer more aware of what they're getting for their money.

Next week, more on the mysteriously elusive 'dumping tickets.'

Very truly yours,
Gabriel A. Nazzola

School vandalism affects all...

To the editor:

The vandalizing of public and private properties has become a cause for major concern. The cost of removing graffiti from buildings and the cost of repairing the damage that are done must concern us all.

Our school buildings have been entered. The perpetrators have broken windows, sprayed the walls and they have stolen valuable property.

We have been working very closely with our police department to reduce and if possible stop these crimes against society.

A few weeks ago computers and VCRs were stolen from one of our buildings. The theft was reported to the Belleville Police Department. Detective John Marotti was assigned to the case. As of July 21, 1987 most of the goods have been returned and compensation was received by the Board of Education for the missing computers.

Firstly I want to congratulate Detective Marotti and the Belleville Police Department. Secondly I want to alert future perpetrators that we are protecting our buildings with electronic security systems. I will ask our legal department to prosecute to the fullest extent of the law.

Residents I remind you that the buildings are yours. If you see any act committed against your community please call the police. The money spent to repair vandalized buildings can be better spent in providing educational services to your children.

Can't judge a box by its cover...

To the editor:

The criticism of the architecture of the Belleville Public Library in "Bifani on Belleville" (7/23/87) by you and Mr. O'Neill deserves an answer. When the "sixties style brick and glass box" was added to our Carnegie Library in 1980, several forces were at work:

1. Problems related to the acquisition of the property to the south thwarted expansion in that direction

2. Constraints on funding

3. The architectural thinking of that era which prompted an addition as a "statement" rather than a building expansion sympathetic to the original structure.

Our Library Board of Trustees, led by its President Joseph Casale and then-Director, Gerard Hickey opted for a cost effective expansion of the Carnegie Library that relied heavily on State Library Aid, putting little burden on local taxpayers. Former Mayor, Michael Marotto and the Commissioners supported the plan for expansion as a practical solution to resolving problems of space for display, storage and access to public library materials.

The "brick and glass box" added four thousand square feet of useful floor space to the existing library at low cost. Inside the addition, we offer a public meeting space, the site of over 600 quality library programs since completion, a peaceful oasis for browsing more than a dozen current newspapers and nearly one hundred different magazines. Belleville's only true gallery space for area artists, and shelving for 30,000 good books.

I suggest that your next ride down Washington Avenue with Mr. O'Neill be taken on an evening when the library is open. There is no better lit, more inviting, prettier or prouder community beacon on the Avenue than the Belleville Public Library. The "box" serves as a symbol of enlightened public service by our Library Board, as a place for ideas to grow, and as the daily "home" to a library staff that genuinely likes Belleville people of all ages. I am pleased that our library draws so many people to our part of Washington Avenue.

Sincerely,
David Bryant
Library Director

Golden Comments

By James R. Golden

The financial outlook for Medical care under Medicare is improving. Offering new gains in the solvency of the program, it should remain solvent through the year 2002. That's six more years than the outlook only a year ago - and 16 years more than 1981 projections that led to reforms in Medicare.

There is, however, bad news for those enrolled in Medicare. The reasons? Out-of-pocket expenses, figured on a per capita basis, increased around 49 percent under Part A (from $84 to $125 during 1980-85, and about 31 percent under Part B (from $395 to $516).

Beneficiaries are contributing more to the cost of their health care than ever before. Clearly this cost-shifting has been a crucial factor in lowering Medicare's rate of growth.

The average Medicare patient spent about 26 percent fewer days in a hospital in 1985, compared to 1980. Predictions indicate the hospital insurance (Part A) trust fund will be exhausted just after the turn of the century unless further changes are made in Medicare's financing and coverage. That could affect part of the current Medicare population - and virtually all of the current 74 million baby boomers now entering their 40s.

Health care costs are increasing much faster than wages or costs generally; overspending on technology and unneeded beds in hospitals, physician payments that reward the most expensive forms of treatment and the projected increase in future demands for health care.

Should the assets of the elderly, as well as their income, be considered in determining public programs? Americans will probably have to pay more for health care. But this would be better if Medicare were maintained as a social insurance program, with no stipulation of financial need.

Long term solvency may possibly depend on a 13 percent reduction or Medicare payments to providers by 15 percent. Early corrective action is needed to avoid the need for later, more drastic changes.

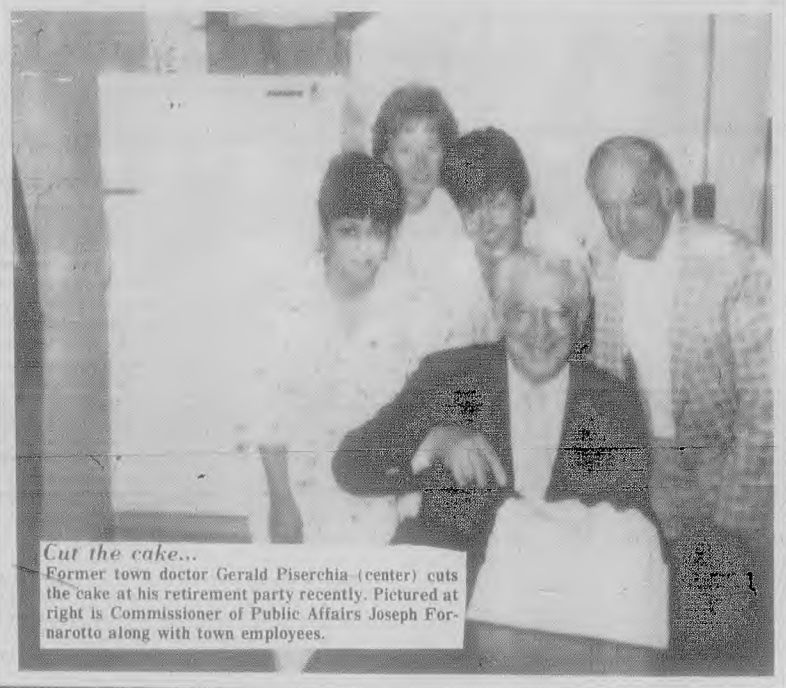

Under consideration to finance a more modest benefit package, one proposal would impose a flat $4 monthly increase on beneficiaries - an amount in addition to the existing Part B premium which is $17.90 a month or an annual cost of $262.80.

Another proposal also provides a new double-premium system: All beneficiaries would pay a "basic" premium of $1 per month starting 1990, rising to $1.50 in 1991. This would be on top of the existing Part B premium.

Beneficiaries would pay a mandatory "supplemental" premium based on income, under this approach, most families with incomes under $15,000 would not have to pay any supplemental premium. Older persons pay no income tax beyond the flat premium. Medicare Part B costs keep rising beyond the ability of many to pay.

When Ollie North took the stand in the Iran-Contra drama President Reagan tried to present himself as a man with more important work. But in the back rooms of the White House, the sound from the televised hearings came out from a few doors. Two aides monitored every second of the hearings.

Many Republicans are asking privately whether the President should fire Edwin Meese as questions mount about the Attorney General's ethics. Several GOP Senators are outspoken and more blunt. They fear Meese's problems "could become a political liability for the President." They fear Meese's problems will hurt Republicans up for re-election next year and would like to see Meese replaced by some one with an impeccable reputation, such as U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani of New York. But it will take an extraordinary effort, they say, to persuade Reagan. He believes in the honesty of Meese, who is his last old friend in the administration.

Assembly approves bill that allows deduction for radon decontamination

A bill sponsored by Assemblyman John V. Kelly and Assemblywoman Marion Crecco that would grant property owners a deduction on their state income tax for the cost of ridding their homes of radon contamination was approved by the Assembly.

Radon is a colorless, odorless gas that comes from disintegrating uranium - a radioactive metal found in some types of granite. Exposure to the gas has been known to cause lung cancer.

"Radon gas is seeping from the Reading Prong, a geological formation that runs through northern New Jersey," noted Kelly, an Essex Republican. "It is a potential threat to the nearly 250,000 homes that have been built on the prong."

"Preventative measures can cost up to $2,000 or more if an elaborate ventilation system is required to remove radon from a building and vent it outdoors," said Mrs. Crecco, also an Essex Republican.

"Afflicted homeowners need help, and a tax deduction would help," added Kelly.

Under the bill, the state Division of Taxation, in consultation with the Department of Environmental Protection, would establish standards for devices and services eligible for the tax deduction.

The measure, A-2940, was approved by a vote of 54-4 and sent to the Senate for its consideration.

Good News For Truly Disabled

by Curt Clinkscales

The United States Supreme Court has ruled that to collect disability payments from the taxpayers, a worker must be truly disabled.

Hundreds of thousands of disability checks go out monthly to people who have some problem which renders them unable to perform the work they formerly performed.

Now the court has ruled that a person must be truly disabled to collect those checks, not just unable to do what they used to do.

The Social Security Disability program is the most abused welfare program in our history.

Since it was enacted in 1956 to help those who were struck down by accident, illness or other debilitation, it has been systematically abused by those who would rather take than work.

This ruling will help assure that those for whom taxpayers pay to receive disability payments are the ones who are getting the money.

Like all political programs — and Social Security is the most political of all government programs — the disability welfare system has been regularly expanded in the endless quest by politicians to continue being re-elected by dispensing favors to special groups.

Social Security Disability quickly became the deadbeat's dream.

Anyone tired of earning a living could find some doctor to certify them "disabled" under the loosest of terms. If benefits were denied by conscientious government employees, a long list of costly (to the taxpayers) appeals were available to overturn the decision.

Abuse became so commonplace that the Democratic Congress and President Carter enacted urgently needed tightening laws in 1980 to halt the rising tide of welfare disability red ink.

This law went into force in 1981, and with its enforcement came an end to the free lunch for many who never belonged in the program in the first place. The program worked so well that it elicited a deafening outcry from the able-bodied "disabled" who were told to seek gainful employment.

However, once an individual has a regular income for doing nothing, they respond with righteous indignation to any challenge to the money they claim as their "right."

Timid politicians found their public meetings, telephones and mail filled with demands for disability checks from those with time on their hands and an axe to grind for their "right" for the checks.

Congress cowered, and demanded that the reviews stop with a relaxation of the new rules.

Now in response to a court case which the Social Security Administration pursued to the Supreme Court, the justices ruled that those not totally disabled — unable to work in any capacity — have no "right" to disability payments from America's working people.

That is indeed progress.

Golden replies...

To the editor:

Let the fact be conclusively established for the edification of the readers of this column, that the distorted and repugnant representation by Letter to the Editor writer Mr. Cornelius P. Vander Zwan that is completely at variance with the facts and only a badly conjured up imagined conception "cooked up" in his mind because he could not understand how we could so accurately foretell who would be named Mayor or the departments the Commissioners would be assigned.

We knew Thursday, May 14, 1987, so too did "Boss" Rega. This was to be confirmed by the Friday morning caucus meeting. We wrote the column Thursday evening and mailed it in Friday morning May 15, 1987 which was delivered to arrive at the Belleville Times office Saturday morning May 16, 1987, addressed to Mr. Bifani the editor.

There was no need for any crystal ball. We knew Thursday May 14, 1987... That's why we directed the erroneous Mr. Vander Zwan to visit Mr. Rega. We are without knowledge as to how the determinations were made nor do we know who made them... we composed our column on the presumption they were accurate and had they not been, we would have called the editor, Mr. Bifani, to "pull the copy."

We were neither "zonked out" nor oblivious and "dead to the world on May 12th and did not come to till Tuesday, May 19th," which Mr. Vander Zwan wrote "admittedly zonked out" which we challenge him on, to establish by whom.

Likewise, Mr. Vander Zwan's feeble attempt to seek exculpation from libel by referring to his "James Golden admittedly zonked out, dead to the world on May 12th and did not come to till Tuesday, May 19th..." by essaying to classifying it as "using this slang expression..." will not wash. A retraction of that statement has been called for or else a defense of a libel action looms.

A previous Vander Zwan patent irresponsible letter published stated that "...May 19th, when he (Golden) 'composed his column' with his 'predictions' of who would be Mayor, and who would be commissioner of what department" is proven to have been false because of the anachronism in the postmarked date of our copy of May 15, 1987 sent to the Times editor, Mr. Bifani, which was published in the May 21, 1987 issue of the Belleville Times which was "put to bed" or printed on Tuesday evening May 19, 1987 so that it could be in the hands of news dealers on Wednesday afternoon and brought to the postal depot for delivery on Thursday.

Apparently Mr. Vander Zwan is unaware that newspapers are printed with much time being consumed in proof reading and being "set up" and that is why our copy had to be written, proof read and set up before the Tuesday deadline for copy and the reason our copy was prepared on Thursday May 14, 1987 and mailed on Friday May 15, 1987 which proves and establishes the error of Mr. Vander Zwan's errant distortion of the time elements and facts in this matter.

Instead of stultifying himself by dashing off a hasty letter which contained his inane, and inaccurate, presumption of when, and under what circumstances our copy had been prepared, sent and received; all he had needed to have done was to call Mr. Bifani, the editor, who would have told him.

It would appear from the general tenor of most of Mr. Vander Zwan's letters or commentary regarding this column are actuated by what seems to indicate a deep seated animosity which actuates him to nitpicking strictures designed to denigrate and disparage.

We do not expect the editor, Mr. Bifani, to expurgate or bowdlerize every letter to the editor sent to his newspaper; we, however, certainly do want him to so scan all of our copy, which we so deeply appreciate for his many corrections and ability to overcome our poor typing and punctuation. He he any doubts about our having submitted to him (from our mail dated May 15, 1987 letter) that our copy was based upon information obtained prior to any May 15, 1987 caucus meeting that he would NOT have "ran it" as published in the May 22, 1987 issue of the Times.

Belleville is 'ground zero' in Elections...elections...and more elections...it seems like Belleville is always coming off of an election or getting into one. Has it really been almost nine months since Belleville native Nicholas Amato defeated incumbent Peter Shapiro for Essex Executive? Belleville made headlines in that race because town voters gave "Nicky" four votes for every one they gave Shapiro. County-wide, we recall, the ratio was only seven to six!

Then there was the school board race...a ho-hum affair that nevertheless yielded a big surprise: Incumbent Sy Grossman was edged by Patricia Pisano, the only one challenging Grossman and Board President Phil Linfante in that race. Grossman, by the way, still attends all public board meetings and will be honored for his lifetime commitment to Belleville (along with Richard Ruffalo) next month at the Belleville Chamber of Commerce annual dinner.

Freshest on the minds of Bellevillites, of course, is the Belleville Commission race. One dozen candidates! Mayor Marotti edged out! CCB president is top vote-getter! Buller voting alleged! Sorry voter turnout assailed!

And now, just when you think it's safe to forget about politics for awhile, comes what promises to be the most exciting campaign for Bellevillites in years: The race for State Senator.

It has all the makings of an intriguing battle, with Belleville being the town at ground zero.

This time around a Bellevillite - Township Prosecutor Thomas Zampino - is challenging veteran Senator Carmen Orechio. And the polls open just thirteen weeks from Tuesday!

Republican Zampino's biggest claim to local fame was his unsuccessful bid to unseat Congressman Robert Roe last year. Although he was defeated handily in that district (which is predominantly in Passaic County - Roe's home turf) he scored big in the seven Essex communities which comprise the state senate district.

Those towns are Belleville, Bloomfield, Cedar Grove, Glen Ridge, Montclair, Nutley, and Verona.

Zampino beat Roe on this seven-town territory by a score of 23,741 to 19,227. Is it any wonder the GOP gave him the chance to try again, this time on an all-Essex battlefield?

In Belleville, Zampino picked up almost half his Essex margin. Here, he whipped Roe 4,099 to 2,266! In Nutley, Senator Orechio's hometown, Zampino also won handily - taking 3,902 votes versus Roe's 2,997.

But Zampino will have his work cut out for him because Senator Orechio is a proven winner.

His margin of victory in the 1983 election - versus Bloomfielder Ralph Salerno (who now resides in Verona, but maintains a law practice in Bloomfield) was even more impressive than Zampino's margin over Roe.

Orechio scored 28,613 votes against Salerno's 23,523. And in that election Orechio proved he could win in his opponent's hometown. He took Bloomfield by more than 400 votes - 6,746 to 6,340.

In Belleville, meanwhile, the Senator was more than 1000 votes ahead - 4,697 to 3,532. And Orechio's own hometown provided more than enough insurance. He took Nutley 5,867 to 3,653.

In this district the towns with biggest voting blocks are Bloomfield and Montclair. In the last State Senate race Bloomfield turned out more than 13,000 votes while Montclair turned out almost 11,000. Nutley and Belleville delivered more than 9,000 and more than 8,000 votes respectively.

Obviously, Tom Zampino is going to need a big, big piece of the Belleville pie if he hopes to take the district.

Out on the streets the election talk is already beginning. Township voters, it seems, are weighing the advantages of being represented by one of New Jersey's most prominent and influential democratic senators (in a democratic controlled senate) versus the advantages of being represented by a home-town republican who will enjoy at least two years of working with a republican governor.

Some of the issues that are sure to surface in the weeks to come include positions on preventive detention, radon, state aid to municipalities, the condition of state roads in our district, and many more.

For Carmen Orechio the election is just another chance to spotlight his record. For Thomas Zampino, however, the election is a political gamble. The conventional wisdom has it that if you lose twice in a row, you're through. Political pundits at the Essex level, for example, consider Peter Shapiro (defeated in the 1985 gubernatorial race as well in the 1986 Executive race) to be washed up. Locally, Gabe Nazziola's future is equally uncertain having been defeated in the 1986 school board race as well as in the 1987 commission campaign.

Obviously, Thomas Zampino doesn't want to join this club of two-time Essex losers. (Note, however, that if he does lose in November it will be his first all-Essex loss, so it need not be fatal if he fails.)

So look for a lively, animated campaign in the coming weeks along with much higher profiles for both the Senator and the Prosecutor. And just when you thought it was safe to forget about politics...

What's up, Docs?

The doctor is in, the doctor is out...this summer has been newsworthy on the township medical front as one longtime physician retired from township service while another marked thirty-five years of practice and is still going strong.

Dr. Gerald Piserchia, a Nutley resident, was Belleville's Child Health Conference Physician since 1950. For thirty seven years the doctor "examined children up to the age of five, and gave preventive care - guidance and immunizations," he said in a recent interview.

Just how many township children did Dr. Piserchia help to grow up big and strong?

"Oh, God, thousands," is his reply.

Many of the children Dr. Piserchia aided over his four decades of service were those born to needy township families, those who are aided by the Department of Public Affairs now headed by Commissioner Joseph Fomartotto.

At a retirement party this summer, Commissioner Fomartotto and many employees and officials in that department gathered to wish a fond farewell to Dr. Piserchia. In addition to sandwiches, beverages and cake, Fomartotto presented Piserchia with a plaque commemorating his service to Belleville.

At his Nutley practice, meanwhile, the Doc's nurse commemorated him in another way - through kind words.

"He's just the finest gentleman you could ever work for," said Anne Hosie, R.N., "Every patient has adored him. He's a very special man. Just put down that it was an honor and a privilege to work for him!"

So what's the good doctor doing with his time?

"Just relaxing," he replies, which is the perfect RX after a lifetime of medical service. He said he and his wife, Iona, intend to visit their three grown children residing in Colorado and Virginia, and to do other traveling too.

And golf?

"I'm not a golfer," he readily admits.

Also this summer, Nanina's In The Park was the scene for a grand celebration honoring another township physician, Dr. Frank Joseph Noonan. The celebration marked 35 years of practice in the township for the Elizabeth native, who decided to set up shop here because "he felt Belleville was nice, he liked the area and decided he wanted to practice here." This from his wife Cathleen, a Belleville native.

Many notables attended the lavish affair in Dr. Noonan's honor - including County Executive Nicholas Amato who recognized Noonan's service to the township with an official proclamation. The Belleville Commission also recognized Dr. Noonan with a proclamation.

But perhaps the best recognition came in the form of the succulent veal and seven course meal enjoyed by the doctor and the eighty friends and relatives at the Nanina's affair.

While Dr. Piserchia's role in township care was small children, Dr. Noonan's role is caring for township employees who are injured on the job or who take ill. In addition, his wife (who is also the manager of his office) notes that Dr. Noonan, a longtime Chamber of Commerce member, has provided care to over 10,000 townspeople over the years, while still managing to be personal and friendly to all.

"He can recall the details of a case that happened years ago," his wife reports, and he has become a popular and well-liked medicine man in the process.

Dr. Noonan graduated from Georgetown University and interned at the Martin Hospital in Newark. He resides in Belleville with his wife and their four children - Margaret, 13; Joseph, 10; Linda, 9 and Elizabeth Ann, 7. They range in grades from 2nd to 8th and are all enrolled in the Belleville School System.

We asked his wife the standard questions laypeople ask of docs.

Does he still make house calls?

"Yes, he still makes house calls on his older, longtime patients and you don't find that anymore!"

Does he play golf?

"He plays a little golf, but he's an avid reader - that's his biggest pastime."

Cathleen summed up her husband's service and dedication to the town in a personal way: "This man is a gem - he's so dedicated. I'm proud to be his wife and I'm honored to work with him."

She added that Dr. Noonan intends to keep his Holmes Street practice going for some time to come. At 58, the doctor is a bit younger than the retiring Dr. Piserchia, but both have demonstrated a lifetime of service to keeping Belleville's townspeople healthy and fit.

DENTALLY SPEAKING

By Drs. James D. Muglia and Paul N. De Maio

Mrs. R. of Nutley asks: "Is it safe to receive dental treatment during pregnancy?"

Firmitly congratulations Mrs. R. It is certainly safe and only slight modifications of treatment procedures are done. Usually radiation is avoided during pregnancy, but by the way are vital to your gums well being. Often due to hormone changes the gums are very sensitive to plaque (food debris) and the gums easily bleed and become swollen. Two to three cleanings prior to delivery may be indicated along with more efficient home care on your part. If an x-ray is vital in making a proper immediate diagnosis of an oral problem than it can be taken with an apron in the fetus making sure lead aprons are used to screen radiation from non oral areas.

Sometimes your dentist may temporize a problem area until after the baby is born if he feels it can wait the nine months without any worry. Often routine fillings can be accomplished with a local anesthetic or if desired no anesthetic during your pregnancy.

Should you have any other concerns please talk them over with your dentist and again congratulations and thank you for writing and for bringing more teeth into the world.

Orechio seeks passage of animal testing ban

Senator Carmen Orechio, long-time advocate of animal welfare, is actively seeking passage of legislation he is co-sponsoring which would ban the use of the animal experimentation method known as the Draize test.

The bill, S-894, would amend the law regulating animal experimentation to prohibit the testing method currently used to test compounds such as oven cleaners and shampoos.

"The Draize test inflicts needless suffering and permanent injury on helpless animals. I'm convinced that more modern and scientific testing methods are available," Senator Orechio said.

The Senator explained that since 1944 industries which produce household products, cosmetics, fragrances, and drugs have relied on the Draize test, an eye-irritancy test performed on live rabbits to determine potential harm to humans. The test requires that the toxic chemicals be applied to the eyes of live rabbits. It has been the focus of criticism and concern by animal rights groups and scientists.

The Senator, who is a member of the Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee, where the bill has been assigned, said that he will work vigorously towards the passage of the bill.

Senator Orechio was the sponsor of a 1984 law which banned the ownership, possession, and use of steel-jaw leg-hold traps and has been cited by the Humane Society for his efforts in the area of animal welfare.

Zampino blasts DEP on mercury issue

Belleville legal assistant Tom Zampino, Republican candidate for the 30th Legislative District Senate seat, last week criticized the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) for their handling of the recent reports of high mercury levels in soil in Bloomfield and Belleville.

Zampino said, "I think it's a disgrace the way that the DEP has handled this incident up to this point. In the first place, the DEP should already have some sort of policy developed for the disposal of these contaminated soils. They've had two years since the Montclair incident occurred—however, they obviously didn't learn anything from it. Why the DEP didn't realize that some sort of policy should have been established regarding the removal of these wastes is beyond my understanding. Now I'm afraid that we may have another Montclair blunder on our hands."

Zampino continued, "Not only do I find fault with the fact that the DEP didn't practice some sort of planning for the future, for these types of incidents, but I'm also disappointed in their lack of communications with the residents of these two towns."

"The DEP's notion of public relations is slightly less than scare tactics. They will come into a town, tell you just enough of the problem to scare you, tell you not to eat any of the vegetables growing in your garden, land helicopters in your back yard, and then walk around in their white, radioactive-proof suits. The people in these towns are feeling somewhat like patients whose doctors refuse to tell them what is ailing them. All they want are some straight answers. And frankly, I think they deserve them."

Belleville Times SPORTS

Football has been making news in the world of sports recently. The professional teams are beginning summer training camps and its just a month before the first college game of the season at the Meadowlands.

Three linebackers and a quarterback make up the news for this weeks issue. One story is local and the others professional with the concern leading back to our youth, once again.

Let's start with the local news, which is positive. Back in May, Bloomfield High School named Chet Parlevechio its new football coach. Parlevechio becomes the fourth Bengal coach over the past four years, but the feeling here is he can be the man to turn the program around.

The name Chet Parlevechio should certainly bring back memories to local sports fans in the Northern New Jersey area. He was a 1978 graduate of Seton Hall Prep, where he was a standout linebacker. Parlevechio attended Penn State University, where linebackers are practically manufactured.

Buc Shots

By Mike Lamberti

After a fine collegiate career, he was drafted by the Green Bay Packers in the 1982 draft and played a few years in the NFL with the Pack and St. Louis Cardinals. An injury put an early end to his professional aspirations.

Parlevechio brings two important things to the Bengal program, youth and a penchant for winning. He should command the respect of the players immediately, and his knowledge of the game should be considerable, even though he is a "rookie" coach.

Bloomfield certainly needs a boost in football. For years, the Bengals had one of the best teams in the area, but in the late '70's, the team began a down hill trend. The Bengals have not won a game since the 1982 season.

Seeing Parlevechio back in this area brings back memories of his playing days. As mentioned, he was graduated in the summer of '78 from Seton Hall Prep. In his senior year, the fall of '77, he led an awesome Prep squad that went 10-0-1 and won a Parochial A title.

The Pirates only blemish in '77 was a scoreless tie with Kennedy High School in week number six. The following week, the Pirates traveled to Belleville for a game against a young Bellboy team under first year coach John Senesky. It turned out to be a game to remember for Belleville, because Seton Hall won, 63-0.

Many will argue that the '77 Seton Hall team was the best in the state, however a team from Westfield laid claim to that honor. The Westfield High Blue Devils were 11-0 that year and beat Barringer at Giants Stadium for the sectional crown.

That game at Giants Stadium attracted over 30,000 fans and featured the awesome running of Westfield's Butch Woolfolk, who later achieved fame at Michigan and was the Giants number one draft choice in 1982. Barringer was paced by Andre Tippett, who many claim is the best linebacker in the AFC and second best linebacker in the NFL behind Lawrence Taylor today. Tippett played his college ball at Iowa and now is a mainstay for the New England Patriots.

Talk about talent, that class of '77 certainly had it. Getting back to the Belleville-Seton Hall 63-0 contest of '77, the game was memorable for Belleville because the players built a program from that difficult season. Just two years later, in 1979, Belleville posted a 14-13 win over Seton Hall and later played in the state sectionals at Giants Stadium.

Good luck to Parlevechio as he attempts to turn around a struggling program.

Lawrence and Brian

Excerpts from Lawrence Taylor's book will be appearing in the August edition of Sport Magazine. I'll be you can't wait to read that. Here is a man who lives in Saddle River, N.J., not too shabby an area, makes nearly $1 million per season, not to mention endorsements and writes a book about how he ducked the Giants drug testing standards.

Isn't this just another wonderful example for our youth to follow. Big time linebacker was on drugs, submits faulty urine samples and then makes a small fortune by writing a book and telling about it.

Good timing too, with the summer training camps about to begin. The last thing a Super Bowl champion needs in its defense of that title is more distractions, especially when the team comes from the media hot bed of the world.

Dave Klein wrote an interesting article in his Star Ledger column about the Taylor affair last Sunday. He brought up some interesting points, such as, which Giants aided Taylor in submitting the samples and are these players doing it for other guys today.

Taylor also claimed that the Giants knew about his drug habit and the Bergen County law officers also knew of it, but did nothing because of who he was. Isn't this wonderful? Now, he will make a small mint on the book when it officially hits the stands in late August. Where is the justice?

As for Brian Bosworth, who really cares which team he plays for? Bosworth has made a list of the teams he prefers to play for, and Seattle might not be on that list. He wants an incredible amount of money, somewhere in the $9 million range for five years, plus incentives.

This for a guy who has not played an NFL down and will be battling for a position at one of the NFL's toughest slots, linebacker.

Oh, by the way, Bosworth is another fine example for our youth to follow. Primadonnas, unite.

Finally, to Ken O'Brien of the Jets, a holdout is really a good idea. After all, $750,000.00 for the season just isn't enough. If he doesn't get at least $1 million this year, he'll sit. O'Brien is breaking his contract, which calls for him to make a set salary and the Jets offered to boost it to $750,000.

Face Essex Catholic tonight

Bucs move to playoffs

With its regular season winding down, the Belleville boys' basketball team dropped one game in the Bloomfield Summer League and split two contests at Elizabeth.

The Bucs began play in the Bloomfield League playoffs last night. If Belleville won, the team was scheduled to play for the league championship tonight, at Bloomfield High. Meanwhile, in the Elizabeth section, the Bucs battled Franklin last Tuesday and face Essex Catholic tonight at 6:15 p.m. from the Dunn Arena. Next Tuesday, the Bucs play Elizabeth at 7:15 p.m. and next Thursday, the team completes regular season play against Don Bosco Tech.

The Elizabeth League playoffs are set to commence on August 11.

Last week, Belleville defeated Columbia, 65-52 and lost to Rahway, 55-42 in Elizabeth league action. The Bucs took a 4-3 mark into the Elizabeth league this week and were 6-3 at Bloomfield after a two point loss to Bloomfield's A team last week.

"We played well against Columbia," head coach Don Roll said. "We can beat anyone in this league when we play to our capabilities. I'm convinced of that, however we have to continue to play at our level. There are times when we don't."

Versus Columbia, Ted Sochaski had 26 points, Chris Chiarmonte scored 18, Ray Zamloot finished with 10, Leon Puentes scored five, Doug Hoogendyke tallied two and Chris Smith had one.

Versus Bloomfield "A", the Bucs didn't play one of their better games and fell, 53-51. Belleville was held to just six second quarter points after starting the game strong with 22 first quarter points.

"I pulled a few of the starters in the second quarter," Roll said. "I wasn't happy with the way they performed. If the kids don't play to their level, then they're going to be here (on the bench) next to me."

The Bucs did stay close throughout the game. They were hurt by a league rule in their efforts to close the game in the final minutes.

"In the Bloomfield league, if you foul in the final two minutes of the half, or the game, there are no one in one situations. The team that is fouled gets the ball out of bounds and can run the clock out," Roll said.

Steve Schwed led Belleville with 17 points. Sochaski had 16, Puentes finished with 10 and Zamloot and Chiarmonte had four points each.

Heading back to the Elizabeth league, the Bucs lost to former coach Rocco Collucci and Rahway, 55-42. Earlier in the season, Belleville had beaten Rahway, but the Bucs were without Sochaski and Zamloot for the rematch and a strong 1-3-1 press by Rahway helped to defeat the Bucs.

Rahway led, 14-9 after one quarter and 30-26 at intermission. In the third quarter, the Union County School pulled ahead with a 15-7 spurt and never looked back.

Puentes led the Belleville attack with 19 points. Chiarmonte, who has been doing well, scored 10, Dom Trezza finished with five, Tom Cook had four and Hoogendyke and Schwed closed with two.

"The younger kids got a chance to see a lot of playing time in that game," Roll said. "Hopefully, Teddy and Ray will be back in good shape for the playoffs in Elizabeth."

For the Peanut league Tigers, game is fun for parents, too

How would you like to be taking a breather on the bench after the final inning of the last game of the regular season and find yourself surprised from behind with a pie in the face, bombarded from overhead with a hail of water balloons, then "finished off" with a saturation shower spray of fake "champagne" (it was really apple drink)? This was exactly the fate which befell the Belleville Recreation Peanut League Tigers on June 24, 1987, as they came off the playing field at Fairway following their 21-6 victory over the Astros.

To make it worse, the perpetrators of such dastardly deeds were none other than the Tigers parents, brothers, sisters, relatives and supporters themselves — and they were taking no prisoners. These otherwise generally reserve and unassuming adults turned into a crack "hit squad" which gave no quarter to these 8-9 year olds.

Although the idea for the surprise attack was conceived by the Tigers coaching staff, it was the Tigers team parents who planned and executed the battle maneuvers to perfection.

Following the "good game" high-fives exchanges between the Tigers and Astros at the end of the game and the "2-4-6-8, who do we appreciate" cheer, which has become a Tigers tradition over the years, the coaches instructed the team to be seated on the bench. Paying close attention to a trumped-up critique of the game, all players' eyes were riveted on their coaches, who stood before them.

Led by "field generals" Lauren Dyer, Marie Zarro, Lindsay Jarowicz, Maria DiMeo, Marie Panos, and Marie Kvetkus, the specially assembled parents brigade quietly outflanked their unsuspecting victims, crept up to within arms-length, then let loose with a fusillade of whipped cream pies. No Tiger was left "uncreamed" in the melee, not even the coaching staff of Sue Citerella, Bob "Mr. B" Jarowicz, Frank Bravette and Phil DiMeo.

A special "pie in the face" was reserved for utility fielder Tystyn Kvetkus, who managed to escape a similar fate from Jarowicz and DiMeo on "Mr. B" Day during his 1986 soccer season with the B Division Champion Spurs.

With whipped-cream faces scurrying all over the field, the Tigers were not about to be outdone by their elders.

With the help of their coaches, who summoned the parents to the same bench that was the earlier scene of the crime and created a diversion by browbeating them with more trumped-up criticism, the kids uncovered an awaiting arsenal of water balloons. Within seconds, an artillery barrage of the black and white water-filled balloons rained down upon the equally unsuspecting Tigers parents. No one was going home unscathed.

But that wasn't all. The grand finale came in the form of a 3-year old Tigers end of the season tradition — the ceremonial uncorking of the fake "champagne". Each player, as well as each of the coaches, received a souvenir bottle of "bogus bubbly", displaying a special label with the Tigers team logo on it.

The end of the season champagne-spray celebration was in full swing. Corks popped and targets were selected. Although the Tigers coaches and players were supposed to be the intended combatants, it wasn't long before everyone was getting into the act. Anything wet was used and anyone dry was a target.

Lauren Dyer, the Tigers kazoo orchestra leader, along with Marie Zarro and Marie Panos, who try to be a calming influence on Lauren, had their own cache of Gatorade which they liberally poured over the heads of the Tigers coaching staff.

These heretofore quiet, reserved and unassuming parents were on a "mopage now and having as much fun as their kids and coaches in this end of the regular season celebration.

When there wasn't a drop of anything left to pour or squirt on anyone, there wasn't a dry member of the Tigers family to be seen — except one. Mr. Steve Quine, Mike's dad, expressed surprise at being the only one to escape a hosing. "I just sat on the bench, didn't move, and watched everybody squirting around me," he said, "and, for some reason, I escaped it all."

This is just one more example of how much fun playing Belleville Recreation Peanut League is — not just for the kids, but for the parents as well whose participation and involvement is justly important.

Bellboy hoop power

Belleville's ability to control the boards, both offensively and defensively and Montclair's "big men", Ben Mobley and Elvoid Christmas, were the underlying factors in the victory. It was evident that the squad had worked especially for this game, as they knew how to confine the Montclair attack as well as how to break through their opponents' defense.

IMPORTANT TURN

complished official, doing both high school and college games. Mobley and Christmas of Montclair finished with 27 points combined, with Mobley scoring 13 and Christmas, 14. The Belboys had said it could beat Montclair if it held the duo to 25 points or less. Close enough.

The pitching staff consisted of Mark Bruzzio, Jim Napolitano, Dennis Dework, John Engdahl, Mike Morgan and Jerry Turi.

Men's softball playoff results

In the 'B' Division quarter-finals, Motorcycle Mall eliminated Andros Farms 6-2; Belleville Shoes shut out the Belleville Political & Social Club 5-0; Eastern Molding edged the Aces 5-4; and Carolan Construction won 4-0 over Eastern Sales. The final results will be posted in next week's edition.

Finally, the Dennis Villano freshman wrestling series will begin next week. My vacation schedule conflicted with this weeks issue, but it will be in next weeks paper.

Roche to test anti-AIDS drug

The National Technical Information Service, licensing agent for the Public Health Service of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, has signed an agreement with Hoffmann-La Roche Inc. to evaluate the potential of dideoxythymine (ddC) as an AIDS drug.

The agreement gives Roche the exclusive license to develop, and after approval, to market ddC for the treatment of AIDS and other disorders caused by the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). Roche scientists will work closely with the PHS, including scientists of the National Cancer Institute and the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

Dr. Samuel Broder, associate director of the NCI Clinical Oncology Program, and his colleague, Dr. Hiroki Mitsuya, discovered the activity of ddC as a possible AIDS medicine in laboratory research begun in May 1984, after the discovery of HIV as the cause of AIDS.

NCI began the first Phase I study of ddC at the end of 1986 and together with Roche has recently undertaken Phase I trials.

Dr. Broder stresses that it is too early for any significant conclusions and that the first Phase I study is still under way.

Crime-free vacation tips

When you go on vacation, make sure crime doesn't travel along with you. Unless you take the proper precautions, crime can become an unpleasant part of your vacation. When the summer months arrive, criminals seem to work harder and the number of crime victims increases. To insure an enjoyable vacation the following are some suggested strategies to make you and your family less vulnerable to crime:

1. Before leaving home, make sure your residence has that "occupied-at-the-moment" appearance while you are gone.
2. As you travel, try to avoid that "I'm a tourist" look about your car. Vacationers' autos are frequently victimized because thieves know that travelers often leave valuables in their vehicles. Maps and travel brochures left in the dash and seats are telltale signs that the occupants of the car are vacationers.
3. Clothing hanging in a car or luggage on the backseat is an open invitation to thieves. Whenever possible, do not leave those items in your car while the vehicle is unattended. Instead, put them in the trunk if you can't take them with you.
4. Don't carry an excessive amount of cash. If it is necessary to travel with a large sum of money, don't display it openly. Whenever possible, use travelers checks instead of cash.
5. Don't leave valuables in your hotel or motel room. Most lodging facilities will provide a safe place to secure your valuables while you are staying in their accommodations.

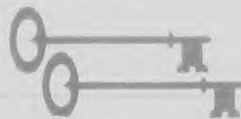

For additional information on this or any other crime prevention topic, contact the Crime Prevention Bureau at 234-4346.

BENEFIT FROM BURGLAR BARRIERS

1. Install proper and secure locks, then use them properly.
2. Always report to the police any suspicious occurrences or people in your neighborhood.
3. Never hide keys to your home near the premises such as in the mailbox or under a doormat. Burglars look and find them.
4. Keep your home and the area surrounding it well lighted.
5. Always keep any garage doors closed and locked.
6. Record serial numbers on all valuables. Keep a small book with these numbers in a safety deposit box. If you cannot find a serial number on any valuable, engrave your own identifying number or sign on it. Small inexpensive engravers are available at major hardware stores.
7. Rent a safety deposit box for the storage of small important valuables.

Real Estate Briefcase

By Jack Reilly, G.R.I.

What is a survey and why must one be performed when I purchase property? — P. Reese, Bloomfield

When you enter an agreement to purchase a home, many steps are taken either by your Realtor or your attorney (depending on custom) to be very careful about exactly what it is you are purchasing. One of these steps is the land survey, which is instrumental to determining a precise, legal definition of that particular parcel of land which the house sits upon. Even if the purchaser of a property is relatively secure with a general knowledge of the boundaries, other parties usually involved in the transaction will demand that a precise description be given prior to passing of the title.

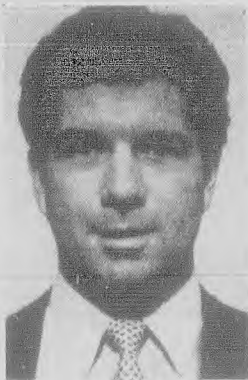

The exact history of surveying is unknown, though it is known that modern day surveying still incorporates principles and techniques first applied by the Romans thousands of years ago. The surveyor reduces the exact perimeter of a given piece of property to a written description using measurements of distance, angle, and direction. Through this description, precise legal boundaries can be determined between land owners. A scaled down drawing of the property is then engineered, which gives an overview of the boundaries and notable improvements and fixtures upon it. Buildings, paved drives, sheds, patios, pools, ponds, streams, etc. will all be noted on the drawing in relative position to the boundaries.

Also, "invisible" easements or right-of-ways which are passed by deed will appear on the drawn survey. These are things which are sometimes common to all properties such as power lines, telephone lines, and such. Occasionally, an oddity will appear, such as underground tunnels used by utilities or easements granted to a neighbor to access a certain strip of land at will. Perhaps even a past owner had allowed a neighbor's garage to sit slightly across the line, without changing the deed to reflect it.

All of these reasons and more may be the cause for a purchaser to re-think the transaction and highlight the importance of the survey to be performed. However, more importantly, it may often times be impossible to obtain a mortgage loan for the purchase unless the purchaser can obtain a title insurance policy to indemnify the mortgagee (bank). All title insurance companies will demand and carefully review a recent survey to determine if there is an acceptable risk to insure.

In our area of Bloomfield, Glen Ridge, Nutley and Belleville, the custom is that the attorney for the purchaser is responsible for ordering and reviewing the survey. A visit to your attorney will clear up any questions you may have regarding your individual property survey.

Mc Donald Realtor offers warranties

Margie Mc Donald Realtor, Ltd. is pleased to announce that it has become a member of Homeowners Marketing Services, Inc. (H.M.S.). H.M.S. has grown very rapidly during recent years to become the nation's leading independent supplier of real estate support services, with over 14,000 participating firms from coast to coast. Through H.M.S., Mc Donald Realtor will be able to provide expanded services to clients, importantly including home warranties.

A recent Gallup Poll showed that 79% of today's home buyers and 74% of sellers want this kind of protection. Studies have shown that warranties have added as much as 3% to the sale price of a home, as well as helping it sell faster. Of two similar homes, a buyer will generally choose the one with the warranty.

The home warranty being offered covers heating and air conditioning systems, electrical systems, plumbing systems, and most major appliances found in the home. "Claims will be handled promptly and by local service businesses," says Margie Mc Donald. The plan covers the seller on most items while the home is being offered for sale and the buyer for the first year of ownership.

To get the new warranty campaign off to a solid start, Margie Mc Donald Realtor is offering it free of charge to sellers who list with their office. "That should make for more attractive listings that sell faster and at better prices, making everybody happy," says Mrs. Mc Donald. The Home Front

By Nina Kaeser

Did You Know??

A "white on white on white" room takes discipline, but the effect can be dramatic. Most beautiful: the light that glows through translucent white curtains and reflects off different white surfaces.

New synthetic penetrating finishes are faster and easier to apply than old-fashioned linseed oil, yet the appearance is similar. Best of all, the new finishes are more durable and easier to keep up.

Give a new look to old furniture, or a whole room, with well-designed hardware, new drawer pulls or door knobs.

Air conditioner filters should be checked every month and changed as needed. It's a good idea to vacuum condenser coils, too, to keep air conditioning units - window or central - working efficiently.

It takes only 40 minutes to factory-build the new houses being test-marketed in Alabama, California and Texas. Lower prices are expected to make them popular.

It doesn't take long to sell your house - and get a good price, too - when you list with the "can do" professionals at Century 21 Stanford Agency, 86 Union Ave., Nutley, 235-9000. Call us today for a no-obligation review.

We don't know how to solve every problem in the community, but we know the people who do.

Wherever you live there are people with problems to be solved.

Your United Way volunteers include resourceful leaders uniquely qualified to deal with community problems, however complex. But if, for some reason, they come up against a situation they're not equipped to handle, they are also adept at finding the best help possible.

With your support we'll continue to find the right people with the right answers. So that more people who really need help will get it. For which we say, "Thanks to you, it works for all of us."

WHERE THERE'S A NEED, THERE'S A WAY.

THE UNITED WAY

Portrait of the Great American Investor

She's never in one place for long. Wherever the story takes her, she'll go. She invests her time in her work and her money in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Over 23 million Americans like her invest in Savings Bonds. They are the Great American Investors. People everywhere are discovering that Bonds have changed. When held five years or more, Bonds pay competitive rates, like money market accounts. And they're free from state and local income tax. Bonds are easy to buy. You can purchase them at most banks or through Payroll Savings at work. So, whether you are investing $25 or $5000, buy U.S. Savings Bonds. The Great American Investment. Find out more, call 1-800-US-BONDS.

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

WATCHES
Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

If you need a good helper, try advertising in our classifieds. Who knows? You may spark the beginning of something big!
