

100 pt. tax hike

Officials see

A whopping tax hike of at least 100 tax points is foreseen by township officials thanks to salary hikes within the school system and the burden of transporting Essex garbage to out of state landfills.

for town

Board of Education trustees discussed a "built-in" 33 point tax hike directly linked to increases in salary contracts for school system employees. The tentative 1988 school budget, on its way to the county superintendant following its approval at the January 18 school board meet, reportedly amounts to a 40-50 point overall increase. "This is tentative," School Business Administrator Leonard DiGiovanni told the Times, "We still don't know how much the state is going to give us." He said that in past years, Belleville and all New Jersey municipalities have not received 100% of the state subsidies it is eligible for. Should the state fully fund its educational committment, some painful points could be cut.

"We're looking at a 40 point tax increase for garbage alone," Com-missioner of Public Affairs Joseph Fornarotto stated, Garbage removal costs fall under Fornarotto's departmental budget, and the prospect of mammoth increases in garbage removal costs makes him fume

He noted that Belleville, in addition to paying an estimated four times as much for garbage removal in 1988, will also have to pay for emergency payments authorized in 1987. Thus, the price for shipping our trash west - instead of across the Passaic River - will cost somewhat less in 1989 and beyond, but not by much.

Belleville's tax rate was $6.87 per $100 of assessed valuation in 1987. For 1986, the figure was $6.01.

"We're going to definately be in the area of $8.00 per $100 for 1988," Commissioner Vincent Frantantoni said. He noted that his own departmental budget would be about $10,000 less than the $996,000 1987 Parks & Public Property allotment. He said he was a $70,000 surplus to the

After a year of citizens' complaints over inadequate street cleaning, the Township of Belleville has finally received a new street sweeper. The machine is an ultra-modern Ravo 4000 model manufactured by Ravo International of Holland. It replaces two seventies-era Elgin street sweepers, both of which have been broken for months.

"We'll begin street cleaning operations as soon as the snow melts," Public Works Commissioner Angelo Risoli told the Times. The $72,000 machine was delivered to the Public Works Garage last week. It's first official appearance was at the January 12 Belleville Commission meeting, when it was parked outside the High School meeting site for inspection by townspeople.

Last year, Commissioner Risoli gave the Ravo-a test-run in Belleville before deciding to buy.

"It was very impressive," Ris-oli recalled, "The Ravo swept the entire neighborhood around Smallwood Avenue in two hours."

Belleville's newest piece of grime-fighting equipment was financed by a $41,000 Safe And Clean Neighborhood grant. The remaining $31,000 was bonded by Belleville to be paid out over time.

Public Works Deputy Com-missioner Chester Green said the Ravo sports an option which can "remove leaves and debris out of storm sewers"

Top speed for the Ravo is 10 miles per hour, and sweeping speed is between three and four miles per hour. More power

Although the Ravo is much smaller than the domesticallybuilt Elgins, Commissioner Risoli says it is more powerful. He adds that the machine is faster, too.

"I estimate that the Ravo can perform 50% more work than one of the old machines in the same amount of time," he said. However, even with the extra performance, there may be a problem with meeting Belleville's street sweeping schedule, which is defined via the parking restriction signs throughout town.

"That sweeping schedule is based on two functioning street sweepers," Risoli explained, "and although we know the Ravo is faster than the previous machines, we don't know yet if it's as fast as two of the previous machines"

Risoli said he would sit down and discuss the scheduling situation with Public Safety Department officials after he evalutates (continued on page 3) scraps plan for police headquarters In a split vote, the Belleville Commission has decided to scrap it's controversial $5 million public safety building plan in favor of pursuing alternative solutions to the problem of cramped police headquarters.

Commissioners Joseph Fornarotto, Vincent Frantantoni and Angelo Risoli voted against continuing with the plan. Mayor Michael Pizzi and Commissioner Joseph McGreevey voted in favor of it.

The votes were cast at a special meeting of the Belleville Commission held Tuesday, January 19 in Town Hall. The meeting was filled to capacity with townspeople who applauded the voting results loudly. Belleville, which has already paid out $750,000 in architectural, engineering and other costs, now faces additional claims from the two major firms involved in the

Neil Siciliano, the township's representative during the design phase of the project, and Beckhard-Richlan Associates of Manhattan, the township's architectural firm, apparently have clauses in their contracts which provide handsomely for early termination. Town officials say further charges to Belleville could be in the area of $50,000 from Beckhard Richlan and $7,000 from Siciliano. If these charges are paid, Belleville will close the current volume of the municipal construction saga at slightly more than $800,000 - or eight tenths of the $1 million which was budgeted for non-construction purpose

"We might be up for some legal action," Mayor Michael Pizzi told the Times. "We essentially forfeited our part of the deal." He said he would be meeting with the architects and with Siciliano to discuss the matter in coming days.

The Mayor expressed regret over the outcome of the vote

"How do you think I feel?" His honor exclaimed when asked of his feelings on the vote. Pushed to elaborate he added:

"I'm disappointed. I think I

eturni town coffers.

"But the school budget and the garbage is going to hurt us," he said. Other town officials said a hike in the Essex tax is looming, the third in a trio of taxes on town property municipal, school and county.

Said one official: "Figuring 40 points for garbage and 40 points for the schools, we need only a 20 point hike to go over a hundred. So I'd say 100 points is a conservative estimate

At $8.00 per $100., a homeowner assessed at $60,000 would have to pay about $4,800 in total annual tax. One citizen, speaking at the school board meeting said, "If this keeps up you're going to have a tax revolt! Other homeowners said they were considering selling their homes and moving to new communities

However, one town employee said the town tax rate was in the same ballpark as surrounding towns. Others said "All the towns are getting hit with big tax hikes. It's not just Belleville's problem."

As the proposed municipal, county and school budgets become public, a more exact point increase will be reported in the Belleville Times. But for now, many township school and municipal officials agree, there's a 100 point tax hike in the wings for 1988.

Two seats open in 1988 school board race

By Christopher Bifani

The Belleville school administration is gearing up for another school board and budget election, set for April 5. Polling booths will be set up at schools throughout town and at the Board of Education office on Cortlandt Street.

"Two incumbent board of education seats are up for election,' stated Business Administrator Leonard DiGiovanni.

Those seats are presently occupied by Ernest Zoppi and Stephen Caputo.

DiGiovanni announced that residents of Belleville may file their petitions to run for a board seat no later than 4PM on February 11.

In addition to being a town resident for at least one year, he said, candidates must be United States citizens and be over the age of 18.

Other qualifications include the ability to read and write and candidates must not be "directly or indirectly interested in any contract with or claim against the board."

Also up for vote is the 1988-89 Belleville school budget which is currently in preparation for presentation to the Essex County Superintendant of Schools. After the budget is reviewed by the superintendant, it is scheduled to be the topic of a public hearing set for March.

In recent years the school budget has been handily defeated at the polls. If it is defeated this year, the budget goes to the Belleville Commission for cost-cutting recommendations. From there, the school board may choose to appeal the budget at the state level. This procedure occurred with the current school budget (about $18 million, $11 million of which was raised through the local tax levy) and resulted in a restoration of $95,000 in Commission cuts.

If the school budget passes, it goes directly to the state for final approval.

Potential candidates may pick up nominating petitions and make inquiries at the Board of Education office, 190 Cortlandt Street between the hours of 8AM and 4PM. Phone number is 450-3500.

A clean-sweep for Belleville

"We may have to get another sweeper eventually to meet the restricted parking schedule," Deputy Commissioner Green added. If a second Ravo were purchased, it would cost several thousand dollars less than the first one, since there would be no need to equip it with a storm sewer vacuum.

Further, say both DPW offi-cials, there will be little or no time left for Belleville to utilize the sewer vacuum since one Ravo would have to be continuously deployed in its primary function of sweeping streets.

No back-up

Until both Elgins broke down one after the other, the township had two operating street sweepers. During the periods of frequent breakdowns, there would still be an operating machine. Although DPW officials are jubilant over the acquisition of the Ravo, should it break down the department would be back to square one.

"But, fortunately, we were able to purchase the Ravo from Garden State Sweepers right over in Nutley," Commissioner Risoli said, "They promised that if there is any problem they'll come right down and take care of it.

The lengthy period which Belleville has endured without an operative street cleaner resulted in considerable outcry from townspeople.

Many times in recent months residents have spoken at town meetings and through letters to the Editor of the Belleville Times about the dirty curbs and streets in town.

Some township officials and citizens called for a return to manual street-cleaning to get the town through its dirty interim,

Commissioner Risoli said he would have preferred to purchase a domestically produced street sweeper but said the Dutch model was a better value for the town. He explained that modern comparably-equipped American sweepers were slightly more expensive, but not as efficient.

"These are the machines Essex County is buying along with a large number of Essex municipalities," he said.

Municipal 'monster'...

To the editor: The Belleville Town Commissioners have labored mightily and for a long time only to bring forth a monstrosity. Who's responsible for this costly blunder? In my opinion this owed to grow any more. It is already completely out of control.

We have had five years of opposition to every proposal ever put forth to improve the heart of Belleville. Each time a proposal was defeated, another was put forward at an even higher cost. Yet the \sim obstructionists' (for want of a better term) continued to lobby for cheaper and cheaper prices, gutting the architect's design in order to save money, meanwhile the cost was rising, not diminishing. We now have the spectacle of one commissioner trying to lower the payments to the consulting engineer in order to save one hundred thousand dollars while millions have been added to the costs.

How's that for a public spirited individual?

How blind can people be? Originally the price tag for a new Public Safety Building was a paltry sum, the Federal Government would have borne most of the cost. Some selfish, near sighted people defeated the plan. What a stupid move. We almost got a new building for free but we were led by foolish people who were only really interested in projecting a false image of being concerned.

I believe that the Belleville Police work in difficult surroundings. I believe that the holding cells are a blight not worthy or indicative of the humane people of Belleville. The revitalization of the seat of the town's government, I consider as crucial to the come back of this area. I, therefore, favored the putting up of a new structure at the proposed cost not to exceed 3.5 million as was proposed when the 10 million structure was defeated.

In an effort to reduce the cost, debates raged while the concerned citizens blocked effort after effort until the cost is now absolutely prohibitive. Instead of a 10 million Taj Mahal, a 6 million shack. The plan is now beyond salvation and should be scrapped. Michael Giordano

Girl Scouts seek members...

Girl Scouting offers exciting and fun-fuled opportunities for girls to learn about themselves as individuals and occubers of their families, communities, country and world. Through achievement oriented activities, each girl learns to master a full range of life skills designed to help her gain a positive perspective about herself, her womanhood and her role in society

Under the umbrella of Cirl Scouting, girls ages 5 through 17 actively participate in a group process of sharing, caring and growing through programs which promote friendship, self-esteem and group comradery.

The Belleville Girl Scout district has a goal to reach every girl in the community who is interested in becoming a Girl Scout by developing a program continuum from Daisies through Seniors in which girls can progress for as long as they desire to participate in the Girl Scout experience

The Belleville membership drive is underway, and although there are many girls who are eager to be Girl Scouts there is still a need for adult support. Traditionally troops have been organized at schools or houses of worship. Today though there are many options available to fit Girl Scouting into a busy adult schedule. Persons who are not able to make a commitment to lead a troop alone can opt for sharing the responsibility with a co-leader or a team of leaders. Meetings can be held during the day, at night or on weekends.

In addition to leaders, we are looking for short-term volunteers, people who have a par ticular skill they can share or those who can serve as chaperones or trainers. The Girl Scout Council of Greater Essex County, located on Valley Road in Montclair, offers extensive training for adult volunteers and provides support wherever it is needed. As you can see the options are many for those who have the time and interest. Take the lead...become a Girl Scout volunteer and remember, you don't have to be a parent to be involved in Girl Scouting!

Fighting the snow

Battling the throes of winter's most severe snow storm in many years, the valiant men of Belleville's Public Works Department, working in frigid temperatures, did an exemplary job in plowing and salting our township's streets keeping them open for emergency equipment and passage of cars and fuel trucks as well as pedestrians until sidewalks had been cleared.

Not only were they out early after the storm struck, but, well into the night and the next day and also Saturday for a final clean-up all over town in a welcome im provement over past years. For this long hoped for type of winter storm clean-up, we must offer the "tip-of-the-hat" to Commissioner Angelo Risoli, who sees that his charges get the job done the way he wants it done.

When it comes to money matters look to a banker to find the a novel plan arranged answer by J.P. Morgan, between Mexico and the U.S. Treasury, will allow Mexico to offer commercial banks up to $10 billion in new securities backed by zero-coupon U.S. bonds in return for their old, shaky Mexican loans, now trading for 50 cents on the dollar in the secondary market.

Mexico gets long-sought debt relief. Banks will trade in $2 of their old debts for $1 of the new issue. It's estimated Mexico will save around $900 million a year in interest costs as well as retire a significant portion of its old bank debt. Not only would that country's creditworthiness be helped but the saved money would be available for economic development

Although U.S. banks appear to be losers, that's only on the sur-face for most. It's true that banks, in effect, will be writing off 50% of the loans they exchange for the new issue, but they'll also be able to take a tax loss on the transaction, which they couldn't do last year when they shored up their loan-loss reserves.

The U.S. also gains, too. The Treasury benefits by borrowing from Mexico to finance the national debt but not having to pay interest on its first issue of zero coupon bonds until maturity in 20 years. The deal doesn't cost the taxpayer a cent. This enables Mexico to boost its economy, opening the door for increased U.S. exports There are no losers.

The big question is: Will this new novel approach help other Third World debtor nations solve their problems? The answer is not clear. Few, if any, have the cash reserve available to copy the Mexico pattern exactly. Yet there is reason for optimism. Although Wall Street creditors abhor the term "forgiveness" of debts, that's what the Mexican plan is all about and it brought cheers from a champion of Third World debt relief, Senator Bill Bradley (D.N.J.), who called it a "workable solution."

erving Belleville Since

Commission chops down the money tree

The Belleville Commission made a painful decision when it decided, 3-2, to stop throwing good money after bad in the municipal construction debacle. They put an end to a stream of spending, authorized by the previous administration, that now stands at three quarters of a million dollars.

Although Mayor Michael Pizzi, who voted with the previous commission to authorize the scrapped plan, said the Commission acted "irresponsibly" in the vote, the applause of townspeople indicated that the vote, nonetheless, was the will of the people

This Commission will not be held to blame for continuing to waste moncy on a plan which is obviously unsuitable to the township's requirements. Instead, this Commission is to be praised for chopping down the money tree, for having the the good common sense to know that enough was enough.

Mayor Pizzi, along with Commissioner Joseph McGreevey - the other remaining incumbent on the board - stuck by their guns and continued to support the plan. All the scrap votes were from the newcomers to the Commission.

But fortunately for Belleville, there are indications of hope and good will on both sides that can surely lead to a new plan that includes a handsome, sturdy - but economical - addition to the back of Town Hall, connected by corridors which would house an elevator to serve both structures.

This concept, proposed by Frantantoni in 1986 - and which consulting engineer Neil Siciliano said he considered as far back as 1981 - is endorsed by this newspaper as the most practical and costeffective answer to municipal and police department needs. We'd like to see four floors of 5,000 square feet go up right in back of Town Hall, simply fashioned but constructed of the strongest brick and steel.

The town center needs more parking, and a building which takes up 5,000 square feet at ground level is going to leave room for more cars than one which takes up 8,000 square feet in an irregular form, as the Beckhard-Richlan plan would have done.

An extension to the back of Town Hall will also provide for allweather access between police and municipal offices. This is a key reason for our endorsement of the addition idea over the separate building idea. The Beckhard-Richlan plan would have been situated across a parking lot on Belleville Avenue.

We encourage our town fathers to investigate the possibility of a $3 million cap on a common-elevator addition project. Are there architects out there, perhaps based in Essex (or at least New Jersey), who can blue-print what we want for the price we can afford to pay?

That notion is a promising avenue to pursue.

One more thought on the $750,000 money tree:

It is no fault of either Beckhard-Richlan nor Neil Siciliano that they received large sums of money for their role in the scrapped plans. They were legally and publicly hired by the township to perform their functions.

Their fees, while high, are not unrelaistic in the world of major construction. They were business professionals making money at their businesses.

At times, townspeople were openly hostile to these Commissionauthorized firms when they were only doing the jobs the town was paying them to do, at a price agreed on by the town.

That $750,000 down the drain was the result of the previous commission. It was a mistake made by our own elected officials.

But all that's in the past now, and it is with optimism that we turn to the future.

Perhaps in 1988 and 1989, the Mayor, the Commissioners and all Bellevillites will be treated to the thrilling spectacle of giant girders rising behind our Town Hall, followed by steel crossbeams, floors, and the laying of permanent, enduring masonry.

After all we've been through, this would surely be a sight for sore eyes

Commissioner Risoli praised.

To the editor:

I would like to comment Commissioner Risoli for a job well done in our recent snowstorm

On Friday, Jan. 8, the plow that finally arrived on Mitchell Street made a path down the center of the street, cleared up the dead-end and then returned up its narrow path to the main road. Furiously, I called the Dept. of Public Works and informed Commissioner Risoli that although everyone had removed their cars from the street, the plow did not go anywhere near the curbs. Within 10 minutes, he was at my home, examining the job done by the plow. Within 30 minutes, the plow returned and did a magnificent job of cleaning the remaining snow

To my surprise, on Saturday morning, without making any calls to the Public Works Department, the plow returned and cleaned up the snow which had fallen during the night. In my 11 years as a Mitchell Street resident, a plow never even came down the street without first having been called and requested!

The town of Belleville is very fortunate to have such a conscientious gentieman as Commissioner Risoli in office He and his crew did a splendid job!

Thanks, too, to Deputy Chester Greene who accompanied Commissioner Risoli and made personal visits to several homes on my street to see if anyone else had complaints. These men are really doing the job they were elected to do! Thank you!

"Moonstruck" from MGM and director Norman Jewison is that rarity in these enlightened days, a thoroughly literate film for adults who like gentle laughs. No car chases, laser zapping, fist fights or foul language. It has a well known star in Cher, less well known leading man in Nicholas Cage, and a supporting cast of Broadway players who make it a real slice of life and, to qoute the well known film critic, Tom Kean, "play off one another like a string quartet, making the written word so much better.

That Kean is, of course, the same one who occupies the state house, and it may surprise many to know that he is an ardent theater and movie goer, and more than capable of deciding why a given play or movie works and another one doesn't.

BECAUSE ONE OF the support-ing players in "Moonstruck" hap-pens to be Olympia Dukakis, producing artistic director of Montclair's Whole Theater, MGM agreed to allow a charity premiere for the film at The Clairidge last Friday evening, with many of the players on hand and Governor Kean there, too, because he has long been a supporter of Whole and likes a dress-up night out, any Like most of the well dressed guests who crowded in to the largest chamber of Paul Peterson's nicely modernized Clairidge, Kean enjoyed the movie with its bittersweet comedy, and made a very telling point about the effect of ensemble playing.

"Norman Jewison didn't know it when he hired us," said Danny Aiello, another of the ensemble, "but we had mostly known each other for years and in many cases which is relatively unheard of in the movie business, so when the cameras started to roll, we had our accents and our relationships down pretty well."

"WHAT YOU HAVE in 'Moonst-ruck' is a play on film," Dukakis explained, "and for those of us who are stage actors, it was a treat. Such a literate script and from a relatively young man, John Patrick Shanley. In fact, just stating a fact, without downgrading anyone, you can see the difference between movie actors and stage actors in this film

"Movie actors tend to take a script such as this and start scaling it down for themselves. Cher did that

and to a certain extent, so did Nicholas. But that's okay.

If she didn't say it, we can, that this movie about Italian-American life in Manhattan were given us by Dukakis, Aiello, Julie Bovasso and Vincent Gardenia. If you go over to the Clairidge and catch it, you will see an awful lot of people in it you know, and I don't mean the actors. I mean the people they play.

In other ways, the film shines. Its cinematography by British cameraman David Watkins is impressive and oldtime music man Dick Hyams almost steals the show away from a seasoned crop of show stealers by scoring the proceedings with variegated performances of operatic arias and resurrected 1940's and 50's recordings.

It's a good movie, for discriminating adult viewers, and we're happy to report that its opening weekend in a wide break was highly success-ful. If you have been heard to say They don't make movies the way they used to," go see it. You may be glad you did. The premiere will be seen on "The Rainbow Magazine" at 7:30 Friday night on OBC's Channel 36.

Medically Speaking

By Dr. Lou Citarelii Dr. Dan Marucci

Dear. Dr. Citarelli:

I am a 31 year old female, who was recently diagnosed as having Raynaud's disease. My doctor advised me to stop smoking, and avoid exposure to the cold whenever possible. I am curious to know if there is any other treatment or medication available for this problem?

ANSWER:

Raynaud's disease is classified as a type of vascular (blood vessel). disease, in which the affected blood vessels undergo spasms, that compromise the blood flow through these vessels. The areas most commonly affected are the hands and feet. These spasms are usually triggered by exposure to cold or to emotional stress. Classically, the skin of the affected areas often change colors during these attacks, turning pale, then bluish, then red. The duration of these attacks varies, from minutes to hours. The cause of Raynaud's disease is often unknown, or may be related to other diseases or exposure to certain toxins. It is very important that a careful medical history be obtained.

Therapy is usually directed towards treating the underlying cause of the disease, if one can be found. Smoking should be stopped, as nicotine can precipitate attacks. Direct exposure to cold or emotional stress should be avoided whenever possible.

Medication is available, but it is of limited value in the treatment of this disease.

When all the above measures fail, and the patient is suffering severely, surgery is sometimes performed on the affected areas to alleviate these spasms, but again, this is with limited success. There is much study being conducted with regards to the treatment of Raynaud's disease, and hopefully in the near future new treatment will be available.

Dear Dr. Marucci

Next month, I'll be planning to take a winter vacation cruise. My problem is that I suffer severely from motion sickness, for which I usually take dramamine to control this problem. Recently, friends of mine informed me that that there is another medication available which is available as a "skin patch." Could you comment on this? A.W. Belleville

Answer

What you are referring to is transfermal scopolamine. Scopolamine is from a family of belladonna alkaloids, with well hown pharmacological properties. Scopolamine is indicated for prevention of nausea and vomiting associated with motion sickness in adults. This medication is marked as a small, flat, circular disk which is applied to the skin of the head, behind the ear. This disk will release medicine continuously over a period of three days. Certain patients prefer taking medication in this form due to the convenience it offers. Before using this type or any other anti-emitic medication, consult your physician.

Township FRADE'S

From the Editor's Desk The King is dead, long live the dream

By Christopher Bifani

As I write this, it is Martin Luther King's birthday and the American nation mourns and remembers anew his brutal assasination nearly twenty years ago. Black people - and all minorities in America have come a long way since 1968. But the Dream, of course, is still a fantasy.

True, there are more black elec-ted officials today. About 4,000, according to the almanac, or about twice as many as there were the day the King was shot.

True, there are more blacks in executive positions. And more blacks living in the suburbs. And more blacks moving through the corridors of power, complete with magazines, associations and even "old boy networks" to move them up and along.

But the black underclass is just as rock solid as it was in 1968. Children who live in the predominantly black neighborhoods that lie mere blocks from the Belleville line will not receive an education equal to that of Belleville children residing immediately to the north. Not this year, not next year, not any time

Black working-class men will not be hired as readily as white men when seeking employment or apartments.

History of exploitation

The history of the negro, like that of the Jew or the American Indian, can not be changed. It is a history of savage prejudice and exploitation, and there will always be those in which that history festers like a sore.

There will always be those who will seek revenge for the past, rather than hope for the future - the essence of Dr. King's Dream.

This bittemess, so evident in the metropolitan area in recent months, presents more of an obstacle to fulfillment of the Dream than any bigotry on the part of the white majority. In fact, it provides cannon fodder for the bigotl

When black activists - led by a pastorl - engaged in civil disobediance actions to tie up vehicular and subway traffic, what was the result? How many black citizens and citizens of all colors sat fuming in those traffic jams, alienated from the "cause" in one fell swoop? "You have to draw the line somewhere," said one Essex news-paper editor. "What if someone was sick and had to get to the hospital? That kind of action increases prejudice. It sets black people back." Interestingly people back." Interestingly enough, that editor leans toward liberal thought. Other media professionals, to be sure, disagree. Said one associate editor of an Essex weekly on the transit tie-ups: "Those actions pro-vided an outlet for blacks to express their outrage. If even one black chose participating in the civil dis-obediance instead of committing an act of violence, then it was worth

Civil disobedience?

But is it civil disobediance? Or, like the first editor suggests, is it crossing the line?

In this editor's opinion, it is crossing the line. And, once crossed, we wonder where it ends. Black activists now talk of attempting to close down an airport. If this scenario comes to fruition, there is a potential for danger and the loss of countless dollars in productivity, manhours, and even spoilage - not to mention the disruption of thousands of lives, black and nonblack.

More disturbing is the chain reaction which may arise. Clashes between white reactionaries and black activists are virtually certain, and polarization - not equality, will be the immediate result.

One wonders what Dr. King would think of all this activity being committed in the name of his Dream!

Education is the key

As the increasingly turbulant eighties draw to a close, it is becoming obvious that the fulfillment of the Dream rests not with law-breaking antagonistic activists, but with the people of all races who are striving first and foremost for equality in education.

Because when the day comes that the children in the neighbor-hoods south of the Belleville line are receiving educations equal to those which Belleville children receive, only then will the festering hatred begin to heal.

Only then will our future generations, bonded by the common thread of knowledge, have the tools to live in harmony.

Martone is Library artist of the month

Imagine possessing the gift of expressing creative imagery on canvas and suddenly losing your only means of expression in an accident?

This is what occurred to Julia Martone, but instead of retiring from an exciting career, she started an exciting career, by beginning a rehabilitative process that enabled her to continue painting with her left hand.

Today, a member of the Rutherford Art Association, Art Center of New Jersey and the Ridgewood Institute, Julia Martone has created an immpressive array of paintings, which are currently on display at the Belleville Public Library, 221 Washington Avenue, during library hours. Ms. Martone has exhibited her works at the William Carlos Williams Center, receiving the "Thoughts of Youth" award, and the North Arlington and Woodbridge Public Libraries. She has also been the recipient of the honorable mention citation at a showing of artists' works at the Rutherford Public Library. Originally from the Ukraine, she was educated at the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Art and the Fashion Institute of Technology. Painting since the age of 9, she has lived the past 27 years in Rutherford. During her years as owner of a fashion design company, her list of prestigious clients included Neiman Marcus and Lord and Taylor. Her exhibit includes watercolors, pastels, and oils.

Berrard Extoral

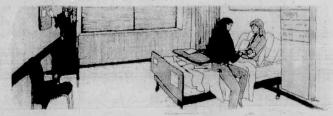

Bernard G. Koval President and Chief Executive Officer

This is the year that The Mountainside Hospital will open and formally dedicate its new six-story patient care tower. We'll be ready to provide you with up-to-the-minute services in our new Critical Care Units by the end of January. And, by the Spring, the tower will be fully opera-tional and officially dedicated.

We've worked hard for the past few years to reach this moment. The hospital is proud of its record of providing for the health care needs of the community with peak services since 1891, and looks forward to continuing to provide the service along with the latest advances in medical technology with the completion of our new patient care lower

With the opening of the new facility, The Mountainside Hospital will replace the majority of its beds. while enlarging and upgrading most major diagnostic and treatment programs. The new facility will be equipped with state-of-the-art medical technology, a totally new and expanded Emergency Room, as well as brand new Critical Care Units. Same-Day Surgery Units, Obstetric/Cynecological Unit and Radiation Therapy Department. The greatly expanded oncology program will feature the addition of the most sophisticated radiation equipment available today.

The new patient care tower will also include:

- O Crisis Intervention Center
- O Birthing Center with three Birthing Rooms
- O Three floors of Medical/Surgical Units

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gammo — nee Deborah LaBar

Gammo-LaBar wedding held in St. Anthony's

Deborah LaBar, daughter of Walter LaBar of Stroudsburg, Pa. and the late Jean LaBar, and Daniel Gammo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gammo of Newark, were married recently in St. Anthony's Church, Belleville.

The Rev. Patrick Wilhelm performed the ceremony which was followed by a reception at Atrium West, West Orange. Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown fashioned with a mandarin collar, draped open back and dolman sleeves. It was accented with fringe beading on the shoulders and hemline and trimmed with sequins and pearls.

A headband of pearls held her veil and she carried calla lilies, babies breath and eucalyptus. Joann D'Amico of Syracuse

N.Y., was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Cynthia and Camille LaBar of Belleville, sisters of the bride and Paula Iannia and Tina Matto, also of Belleville. Flower girl was Jacqueline LaBar of Bartonsville, Pa., niece of the bride.

They were attired in electric blue silk tea length dresses fashioned

BHS girl hoopsters beat Nutley, Passaic

The Belleville girls' basketball team won two big NNJIL contests last week, downing Passaic and Nutley. The victories boosted the team record to 8-3 on the '87-88 season.

Karen Fuccello's troops took on top ranked Kennedy last Tuesday. This afternoon, the team is in Clifton for a 4 p.m. start. On Saturday, the girls play host to powerful Bloomfield in a 1:30 p.m. start. Next Tuesday, the team is of to Eastside for a 4 p.m. tip. The girls started the week with a 55-51 setback at the hands of Columbia last Monday. The story of the game was the poor foul shooting by the Lady Bucs, who hit on just 11 of 22 attempts from the line. "That pretty much sums it up,"

Fuccello said last weekend. "It was knew it would be a tough contest, but we could have won it. We missed if four sitors and lost by four points. That tells the story.

Junior guard Laurie Dondarski led the Belleville attack with 22 points. Dondarski had an outstanding week on the offensive side for the Lady Bucs. In three games last week, she tallied 66 points and was very impressive from the foul line. Against Columbia, she hit 7 for 10 from the stripe.

Junior forward Simone Edwards turned in 19 points in the Columbia game. Carol Morrison had three, Nicole Wright finished with two and Maria Chanley had two. The girls were without the services of sophomore Stacey Johansen, who has been out of the lineup with a hyperextended knee incurred in

An examination of Johansen's knee revealed no ligament damtion time before she can return to the Belleville lineup. After losing to Columbia, Belleville came back strong the following day and defeated an old nemesis, Passaic. The final score was 60-55, with Dondarski and Edwards once again pacing the Belleville attack.

It was a game that appeared to b a cakewalk for the Lady Bucs, The score was tied at 12 after one frame, but Belleville outscored the Indians, 18-8 in the second frame and led, 30-20 at intermission. The lead ballooned to 47-30 after three quarters, but Passaic staged a furious rally in the final eight minutes before the clock ran out. "We tired in the fourth quarter, year," Fuccello said. "We've been hurt by a lack of depth, and with Stacey and Racquel (Melson) hurt-ing, it takes away from our attack."

Melson, a senior guard, had a strong game against Passaic, but reaggravated her knee during the game and is questionable for this weeks action.

Leading the way for Belleville against Passaic was Dondarski, with 22 points. Edwards finished with 20, Melson had eight, Joann D'Ambrose had four, Wright finished with four and Chanley had two. It was the first time Belleville had beaten Passaic since January of 1985, when Desiree Johansen scored 30 points to lead the way.

Last Friday night, Belleville traveled to Nutley and came away with an impressive 52-40 win. The victory boosted the girls record to 4-2 in the NNJIL, good for third place in the league behind powerful Kennedy.

The game was decided early when Belleville jumped out to a 13-3 first quarter lead and a 31-18 halftime advantage. The second half was just about even, with Nutley picking up a point advantage in the final 16 minutes.

Edwards turned in a super ball game, hitting for 25 points. The junior also had 20 rebounds. Dondarski closed out her excellent week with 19 points. Wright had four points, Morrison closed with two and Chanley had two. Belleville shot 21 of 33 from the foul line in the game.

Last Tuesday, Belleville had a monstrous assignment when it took on Kennedy, ranked second in the state and undefeated this season. The Lady Knights not only have good size with center La Tonya Johnson, a 6'4" division one prospect, they also have excellent speed.

"They're an excellent team," Fuccello said of Kennedy. "Johnson gives them strength in the middle, but they also have good speed in their backcourt. Kennedy is a very young team, too. They're going to be good for many years.

This Saturday, the assignment is also a formidable one when Bloomfield comes to town. The Bengals are ranked sixth in the state and number one in Essex County. The girls started slowly, but are on a roll now and appear to be one of the best teams in the Group IV, Section II area once again. Last year, Bloomfield won the state sectional championship and advanced to the Group IV title game before losing. To Belleville's credit, it battled Bloomfield hard a few weeks ago, losing by 13. It was a one point contest after three quarters before Bloomfield took control in the final eight minutes.

week as well, beating Passaic and Nutley. Belleville took an 8-3 record into this weeks action, not bad considering all the injuries that have hit the team this winter. Head coach Karen Fuccello has done a fine job with the team. The girls are led by juniors Simone Edwards and Laurie Dondarski. We'll have more on the girls' team in next weeks issue. LAST WEEKS QUIZ

The Los Angeles Rams were the last NFC team to win the conference championship on the road. The Rams defeated the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, 9-0 in the 1979 title game. The Rams lost in the Super Bowl to the Pittsburgh Steelers, 31-19 in Janaury of 1980.

Crecco sworn in Assemblywoman Marion Crecco (R-Essex) was sworn in to her second term in the New Jersey General Assembly this past Tuesday. At the swearing in ceremonies, conducted at the Trenton War Memorial, Crecco was sworn in along with the other 79 members of the Assembly.

The Oath of Office was administered by Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick (R-Union). Speaker Hardwick received his Oath of Office as Speaker of the General Assembly by Governor Tom Kean. Hardwick was re-elected as Speaker by a unanimous vote. "My first term in office proved to be an invaluable learning experi-ence," Crecco said. "The last session of the Legislature was very productive and I look forward to working with Speaker Hardwick and Governor Kean to make the 203rd Legislature even more productive."

Crecco, a resident of Bloom-field, was elected to her first term to the General Assembly in November 1985 and re-elected this past November.

Fights on for reserve cap In an attempt to help stabilize municipal property taxes, Assemblywoman Crecco has reintroduced a bill which would place a cap on the amount a municipality can hold in reserve for uncollected taxes. The bill was known as Assembly Bill 4388 during the past session.

Under provisions of the bill, the cap would be 10 percent over the average amount of taxes not collected by the municipality for the previous five years, or 5 percent of the total local tax to be raised for municipal purposes. Currently, there is no cap on this amount.

"The reserve for uncollected taxes is charged directly on municipal tax bills," said Crecco, Vice-Chair of the Assembly State Government Committee. "If a municipality is charging more than is necessary for this purpose, then we as taxpayers pay more than we should. This bill will correct this January 17, 1963...Mrs. Anne Bini had the last Belleville baby of 1962 (named Thomas), while Mrs. Marie Drake gave birth to the first Belleville baby of 1963 (a boy).

Criminal activity this week was the work of Belleville teenagers. First, two Belleville High School students skipped school, took the family car, and went for a ride. The pair managed to crash it into a tree, and left a note explaining what had happened. Next, they stole a station wagon in West Millford and drove to Florida, where they were caught and thrown in jail. Their fate was unknown.

The second escapade involved a Belleville boy and his Newark companion (both 18) who were being held in a Passaic County Jail under $2500 bail. This duo was charged with three counts of auto theft, based on their possible involvement in a large auto theft ring.

and lower property taxes." Crecco added that this bill will be before the municipal government committee during the legislative session. She stated that the idea for this legislation was suggested by Commissioner Vincent Frantantoni of Belleville.

Crecco is currently serving her second term in the New Jersey General Assembly. She also serves as a member of the Independent and Regional Authorities Committee. She represents Belleville, - and the Essex municipalities of Bloomfield, Cedar Grove, Glen Ridge, Montclair, Nutley and Verona.

Are vou a slanderer ... or a whisperer?

An Orechio Publication

You have heard them. I have, too. Maybe, in our weaker moments, we have been among them. A name comes up in a conversation. Someone has something good to say about that person. However, our twisted minds hear in their praise some implied criticism of ourselves.

Immediately, our tongues spring into action. Where praise has been offered, we return censure. "Did you know..." or "Have you heard ... " or "I wonder .. " may be the way we begin. Then we offer our little innuendo, our slur on his character, our question about his motives or our reminder of some long-forgotten mistake.

We do not do it openly - that would be too obvious. Then folks

Silver Lake Baptist Church would know our real motive is jealousy. No, we whisper our "concern" in hushed, reverent tones. That way no one can doubt our "sincerity." "Sincerity" is what we call it; the Bible just calls it "sin." Paul accuses the godless of being "...gossips, slanderers..." (Rom. 1:29,30). These two sins are companions. The difference between them is more subtlety than substance.

The slanderer is one who does not care who hears what he has to say. He openly talks others down.

The gossip is much more subtle. He does his work in small, intimate groups. The slanderer and the gossip are both character assassins. The slanderer "blows away" his victim; the gossip slips up and quietly slits his throat.

The whisperer is much more dangerous than the slanderer. He is harder to defend against for a couple of reasons:

1. Slanderers make allegations; whisperers cast aspersions. They do not charge wrongdoing; they just question motives. Motives are a hard thing to prove or disprove.

 Slanderers do their work openly; whisperers do theirs secretly.
 The victim may never know he has been victimized, so he never has a chance to clear his name.

There are six things the Lord hates. Seven that are detestable to Him: haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood, a heart that devises wicked schemes, feet that are quick to rush into evil, a false witness who pours out lies and a man who stirs up dissension among brothers" (Prov. 6:16-19).

Fornarotto had said prior to the vote. "This thing would end up costing at least $7 million."

Commissioners Risoli and Frantantoni said they didn't make up their minds until just a few hours before the vote.

"I don't know which way I'm going to go. I'll probably make up my mind at dinner with my wife Commissioner Frantantoni said at lunchtime, the day of the meet. Frantantoni was a strong supporter of building a "modest extension" to the back of Town Hall, with a common elevator connecting both buildings

The Commissioner first proposed this concept in 1986 when he was President of the Concerned Citizens of Belleville.

Commissioner Risoli said, "I didn't make up my mind until 6:30PM " He added that the Commission would move forward by looking at alternatives.

"It was a shame to waste $800,000 but I made up a list of reasons why we should continue with this project and reasons why we should end it. I came up with about eight reasons for ending it and only two or three for keeping it," the Public Works Commissioner explained.

Jerry DelGuercio, newly sworn President of the Concerned Citizens of Belleville said "I'm jubilant at the outcome of the vote." He added that he supports a modest expansion to Town Hall, after the township knows how much the Essex garbage crisis is going to cost.

Haynes miniature wins highest merit

"A Private Peace" is the title for Richard Haynes' prize winning miniature (above) enlarged to show detail. Actual size is 31/4 by 31/2 inches.

Belleville artist Richard William Haynes has won the First In Highest Merit Award at the 13th Annual International Miniature Show in Clearwater, Florida.

The show features nearly 1000 art works juried from thousands submitted by artists throughout the world

Haynes' realistic style displays the extreme detail that is a hallmark of Miniature Art.

"Quite separate from 'dollhouse art,' miniature fine art is the same as 'normal size' art except that is is perhaps 3x4 inches instead of 3x4 feet. Miniature art is much sought after by collectors, as little space is required to build a substantial collection," Haynes said.

Richard Haynes' work may be seen locally in the Essex Fine Arts Gallery in Montclair and in the annual New Jersey Miniature Art
