Cops log drop in car crime

Crime in Belleville dropped ever-so-slightly in 1987, according to initial figures provided by Captain Michael Petrillo and Detective Joseph Rotundo.

Crime figures are based on eight major areas: Murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft. Robbery is theft through force or the threat of force. Burglary is theft through illegal entry. Larceny is petty theft such as shoplifting or breaking into cars.

No murders, five less rapes

In the most vicious of crimes, murder and rape, Belleville was largely spared. There were no murders in town last year, against 2 the year before, 2 in 1985 and 1 in 1984. Only 3 rapes were reported in 1987, while 8 were reported in 1986. The 1987 figure is less than the 4 rapes reported in 1984 or the 6 rapes reported in 1985.

Motor Vehicle thefts dropped considerably. Part of the reduction may be due to Belleville's participation in a regional auto crime task force. A related article appears on page one of this week's edition.

"We had a big reduction in car thefts," Petrillo told the Times. This may be seen as particularly heartening news in a town where the stealing of cars - usually by suspects from Newark and East Orange - has become a sensitive and troubling issue.

In 1987, 499 automobiles were reported stolen in Belleville. This figure contrasts with a whopping 640 stolen cars in 1986, 441 in 1985 and 318 in 1984.

Robbery was down slightly, police said.

While there were 58 incidents reported in 1986, only 52 were reported in 1987. In 1984 there were 47 robberies and in 1985 there were 46.

Other areas, however, suffered increases.

Assaults jumped from 334 in 1986 to 378 in 1987. This figure apparently includes both simple and aggravated assaults.

Larcenies were also up sharply, but down from years past.

There were 858 larcenies reported in 1984, 937 in 1985, down to 787 in 1986 and back up to 857 last year.

Burglaries, the crime which many Bellevillites fear the most, was also up for 1987. There were 263 reported burglaries in 1984, 293 in 1985. By 1986, burglaries had passed the three hundred mark with 311.

In 1987, Police logged 335 burglaries, bringing the yearly average closer to the one-per-day mark.

In all, however, the initial crime statistics showed a total of 2124 incidents in eight categories for 1987. This is 16 incidents less than the 2140 reported in 1986, a slight drop.

Complete and final data for 1987 is being compiled by Belleville and State Police. Details will appear, as they come in, in future editions of the Belleville Times. — Bifani

At Feb. 9 commission meet

Potholes and more have citizens sore

By Christopher Bifani

The February 9 Commission meet at the high school featured heaping helpings of what Belleville Town Meetings have become notorious for: griping.

Commissioners were quizzed, berated and attacked by townspeople on a plethora of issues including potholes, door-to-door solicitation, future payments of fees in connection with the axed public safety building plan, issuance of licenses, lack of detail on the public agendas, faded yellow curbing and more.

Potholes and road conditions were brought up repeatedly. Commissioner of Public Works Angelo Risoli said his department is, in fact, filling potholes but some citizens complained that in areas where potholes had been filled, others were left unattended to.

"We'll get to them," Risoli promised.

Prior to the meeting, Deputy Commissioner Chester Green told the Times that because of the cold weather, only "cold patch" can be used to fill the potholes. He said this is a temporary remedy until the warm weather comes, and is used for the worst cases.

"We can't even get hot asphalt until about April because they're not selling it," Green said of the firms who supply the DPW with fill. Green explained that the temperature has to be 50 degrees or more in order for hot patch to take. He added that in the meantime he has been surveying the streets of Belleville to determine a priority list, and will be devising a schedule shortly.

The Commission approved a license request by two town residents to sell candy and flowers door-to-door, despite objections by other residents because of the solicitors' affiliation with Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church.

Township Attorney Frank Cozzarelli said, "While I may not agree with them personally, we are bound by oath not to discriminate on the basis of color, creed or religion." Reverend Moon was convicted of income tax evasion and his church has been accused of fanaticism.

Although the Commission voted in their last meeting to scrap the controversial $5 million public safety building project, the contracts with both engineer Neil Siciliano and the architectural firm of Beckhard-Richlan were formally terminated February 9.

"We have to terminate the contract so we can proceed to the next building project," Mayor Michael Pizzi said, without elaborating on what that next project will be.

Pizzi told citizens, weary of continual payments to both the engineer and architects, that they may still have claims against the town for more money. About $750,000 has been paid out thus far on municipal construction plans since 1986. Attorney Cozzarelli said he was negotiating a "financial arrangement" with the architects and hoped to put any termination clause claims "on the negotiating table" along with any pending bills the firms still have against the town.

A township taxi cab owner protested the issuance of a limousine license to a town resident, arguing that there is a limit on taxi cabs in town and there should be limits placed on limos, too. The cabbie said that limousines are often little more than conventional sedans, and are cutting into traditional taxi business. The Commission voted

Task force waging war on auto theft

By Karen A. Lynch

In response to the ever-growing problem of car theft, officers from enforcement agencies throughout North Jersey have banded together to pool information about trends, suspects and "chop shop" locations.

The North Jersey Auto Crime Task Force met in Bloomfield Thursday for such an exchange. Begun as a working unit with five police departments in 1986, the group, which meets monthly, now includes more than 30 agencies in its membership.

$1 million in recovered cars

And its efforts appear to be paying off. Last year, more than $1 million in expensive vehicles were recovered, according to president Ken Vitty, a detective with the Port Authority Police Department Auto Crime Unit.

Det. Thomas Galio of Bloomfield is vice president of the group.

85% of thieves armed

One drastic change in auto theft trends is that many thieves nowadays carry guns, Galio noted

"It's safe to assume in 85 to 90 percent of cases, they're armed, and we're assuming 100 percent," he said.

"They're willing to shoot it out and will stop at nothing to get away."

Belleville reports decrease

Belleville report decreases in auto theft, with a drop of 15 percent in Belleville last year, according to Det. Joseph Tortorello. He said older cars are being stolen at present, and some burnouts have been recorded near the Newark border.

In Bloomfield, car thefts occur at an average rate of 44 per month. About 50 percent of stolen autos are recovered, mostly in Newark, Galio said.

In contrast, 14,000 cars were stolen in Newark during 1987, with 84 percent recovered "from all over," Det. Joe Grasso of the Newark Auto Squad reported.

Fierce ambush tactics

In some areas of that city, he said, thieves' accomplices sometimes wait in cars along side streets. As officers follow the stolen vehicle, "They ram the radio cars and split," Grasso told the group.

And when cops follow thieves into housing projects, they are confronted with gangs, shootings, and

Public education health bill introduced by Assemblywoman

Assemblywoman Marion Crecco (R-Essex) has introduced legislation which would establish a public education campaign in the Departments of Community Affairs and Insurance to provide information regarding long term health care.

Consumer information

Under the provisions of the bill, A-2387, an education campaign would provide consumers with the risks, costs, and financing options available. This bill would also provide information about Medicare and Medicare supplement programs.

"This education effort will inform consumers about the nature of long term health care and the risk of needing this care," said Crecco, Assembly Assistant Majority Whip. "People need to know the potential cost and financial damage that can be done if they are not properly protected."

"This is the first bill of a package which will be aimed at revamping the structure of long term health care costs, and minimizing their fiscal impacts on people in New Jersey," Mrs. Crecco added.

This bill is a recommendation of the Task Force of Catastrophic and Long Term Health Care, which Crecco is the chairperson.

Literacy bill clears Assembly

Legislation sponsored by Assemblywoman Crecco that would establish an adult literacy partnership program has been passed by the General Assembly. Assemblyman Joseph Kyriilos (R-Monmouth) was the bill's co-sponsor.

Under the provisions of the bill, A-1996, the Department of Education would establish a partnership program between the state and private sector and coordinate the services provided by the state operated literacy programs with those offered by private and corporate groups.

"There are an estimated 700,000 to one million people in New Jersey who are functionally illiterate according to the Department of Education," said Crecco, Vice-Chair of the Assembly State Government Committee. "This means they are unable to perform vital tasks such as reading road signs, filling out job applications, and interpreting medical prescription instructions. To allow this to continue would be unconscionable."

Barbara Spillane is going to New England

Middle School teacher picked to present conference clinic

Barbara Spillane, a Social Studies teacher at the Belleville Middle School, has been selected to present a clinic at the 19th Northeast Region Conference for Social Studies held at the Sheraton/Hartford and Holiday Inn March 9-12 in Connecticut.

The implementation of geography skills in the Middle School curriculum presentation was selected from several hundred submitted and deals with refining geography skills through the use of hands on materials.

Mrs. Spillane will demonstrate how students can make and utilize original filmstrips to practice geography map skills. She is part of a team of six teachers representing the New Jersey Geographic Alliance at the conference.

The theme for the conference is Continuity and Change - a Global Vision and features David Eisenhower, author, and Gilbert Grosvenor of National Geographic. Elliot Wiggenton, editor and founder of Foxfire books will also be a major speaker.

Expecting to attract over 2,000 educators from New York, New Jersey and the New England states, the conference highlights recent developments in curriculum, computer assisted instruction, advanced Placement programs, and commercially available materials.

Social Studies special interest groups such as historians and geographers will also meet there, and area-wide museums will present a Museum Marketplace for educators.

Scapperrotta named recycling coordinator

Joseph J. Scapperrotta, a political science college student and newly elected parliamentarian for the Concerned Citizens of Belleville, was picked by Parks Commissioner Vincent Frantantoni to be the township's first recycling coordinator. He was approved by the Commission February 9 in a unanimous vote.

"I'm grateful the Commissioners expressed confidence in me and I'm looking forward to the challenge," Scapperrotta said shortly after his appointment. He added that his job will entail finding markets for town recyclables, the coordination and expansion of the program, and additional duties within the Parks department as a part-time clerk.

Some citizens apparently opposed the move, although the hiring of a recycling coordinator is a state mandate.

"How can you justify hiring a part-time clerk at $6,500 per year when part-time Commissioners get only $6,000? I think it's disgraceful," said Gabriel Nazzola of Van Reyper Place.

However, Scapperrotta told the Times he expects to work 20 hours per week, which would mean his part-time position was netting out in the area of about $7 per hour.

Although the selection of Scapperrotta as recycling coordinator signals a stepped up town recycling

BELLEVILLE briefly...

Happy 100th Birthday, John!

Belleville is about to have another centenarian! Born on Thursday, February 16, 1888 in Passaic, John Jacob Geary lived in Passaic all of his life, moving to Belleville three years ago. As a young man, he was a slate roofer, then after changing jobs he worked for 40 years for Jacques Wolf Co. in Clifton.

Mr. Geary was married to the late Eliza Veech on March 22, 1912, by the Rev. Jacob A. Cole of the First United Methodist Church. They were blessed with four children: John of West Sayville, Long Island; Andrew of Passaic, Charles of Clifton, and Lucy Pascale of Belleville. His extended family includes ten grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mr. Geary is a member of the Grand Lodge Independent Order of the Odd Fellows of New Jersey, Solar Lodge No. 171. An avid checker player, he loves card games and all sports on television, and when weather permits, he loves to plant and care for all kinds of flowers.

Rotary's 'Gift of Life...'

As part of its active participation in Rotary International's "Gift of Life" campaign, the Belleville Rotary Club recently met the first child in 1988, to receive the Rotary sponsored heart treatment that is the basis of the program. Rene Gabbai of the Belleville Rotary Club met young Da Rong, a beautiful five-year-old child from Korea at Kennedy airport. Then Gabbai and his wife Enza housed little Da Rong until Gabbai's son, Larry and daughter-in-law Maryann took the child home to briefly experience American life with their three children.

As Da Rong awaits further medical tests and eventual surgery, her stay in America has been marked by the warmth of the Gabbais and the Belleville Rotary Club. Pictured (l. to r.) are Tom Devine, club president; Da Rong, Rene Gabbai, Gift of Life chairman.

M. Valvano earns her Masters

Marigrace V. Valvano, valedictorian of the Belleville High School class of 1982, has received her Masters Degree in Electrical Engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Ms. Valvano also has a Bachelors Degree in Biomedical Engineering with a minor in Psychology. Marigrace has taken a position as a member of the technical staff at Bellcore, Bell Communications Research in Redbank.

At Katharine Gibbs School

K. Petracca and R. Belen earn honors

Katharine Gibbs School in Montclair announces that Rita Belen and Kathleen Petracca, students in the One-Year Secretarial Program in Information Processing, received honors based on the grade point average of their first semester.

Ms. Belen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vladimir Belen, is a graduate of Belleville High School.

Ms. Petracca, the daughter of Giuseppe and Cassandra, is also a BHS graduate.

Parents' group hears speech on managing pre-school kids

The January 15 BIPPY Parenting Meeting featured a guest speaker on Early Childhood behavior management. Mrs. Suzanne Flannery, Essex County Pre-School Handicapped Resource Consultant, hosted an informal discussion group for parents of children in the program, parents of children in kindergarten at School 4 and the Pre-School staff.

Ciccone lists policies to

Get tough at BHS

By Christopher Bifani

In a presentation to the Belleville Board of Education, Monday, February 8, BHS Principal Joseph Ciccone described several recommendations to the school board which will make for a more rigorous high school program if approved by the board.

"The early dismissal program which has been in place since 1964 will be eliminated," Ciccone told the board, a proposal which was echoed by the board appointed curriculum committee last month.

Other recommendations made by Ciccone include a mandatory second year of science, a third year of history, a third year of math and a requirement of seven courses per eight period day, effectively eliminating study halls.

"We think our teachers are better utilized giving classes than conducting study halls," Ciccone said.

Ciccone further supports a tightening of attendance requirements. He said Saul Cooperman, the state Commissioner of Education, is requiring all high school students to meet a 90 percent attendance record in order to pass.

He said Belleville High School allows up to 20 absences per year course and 10 absences per semester course.

"This is below the 90% requirement," he explained.

Although Belleville could meet the requirement by reducing allowable absences to 18 per year and 9 per semester, Ciccone wants to get even tougher. The principal recommends 16 allowable absences per year and eight per semester.

In other school news, BHS Science Supervisor Bess Efstathiou gave the Board of Education a presentation on the implementation of a mandatory second year of science. Currently, only one year of science is required for graduation.

Efstathiou, who is on the executive board of the state association of science instructors, said that group's survey of New Jersey schools reveals that 40% already require 2 years of science, even though it is not mandatory for incoming freshmen until the 1990-91 school year. Belleville's second year of science goes into effect for the 1989-90 school year.

"Implementation of the second year of science will cost $6,010," she said, explaining that this would cover the cost of new textbooks and other materials.

Efstathiou supports a mandatory second year of science so students will have a better advantage in an "increasingly technological world." She added that students will be better prepared to achieve their career goals and will have a better understanding of environmental problems.

The required second year course is biology, which is being offered at three levels for students of various aptitudes.

V. Valvano makes Dean's List

Veronica A. Valvano, valedictorian of the Belleville High School class of 1987, has attained a Dean's List status at Rutgers College of Pharmacy. Ms. Valvano achieved a 4.0 G.P.A. for the Fall semester. Consequently, she was invited to participate in the Honors Program at Rutgers College of Pharmacy by Dr. N. Lordi, Assistant Dean.

Also, because of her excellent achievement during her freshman year, Veronica has been inducted into Phi Eta Sigma, the Freshman Honor Society at Rutgers College. Phi Eta Sigma is a nationally recognized scholastic honor society for men and women in their freshman year who have attained a 3.8 G.P.A. or higher.

Vander Zwan is elected to replace Nazziola

By Christopher Bifani

In a special election at the February 4 meeting of the Concerned Citizens of Belleville, the group has elected Cornelius Vander Zwan to assume the trustee position vacated by the resignation of former group president Gabriel Nazziola.

Vander Zwan narrowly edged Joseph Celso by a vote of 29 to 27, after both were nominated from the floor.

"I thank you for voting me in as trustee of this fine organization," Vander Zwan told the assembled members. Celso later congratulated Vander Zwan on his victory.

Under club charter, past presidents automatically become trustees for five year terms but Nazziola vacated his trustee slot following a bitter dispute over election rules.

Nazziola wanted to run for president, but the CCB determined that he could not run because he had already served two terms.

The words "duly elected" and what constitutes a "year" are the central components of the dispute.

Nazziola's two terms consisted of a half year - July, 1986 to December, 1986 - when he served as vice president, and 1987 when he was elected vice-president. In May of 1987, however, Nazziola assumed the presidency when Vincent Frantantoni resigned following his election to the Belleville Commission.

"The relevant two sentences of the CCB bylaws are so clear and straight forward that the deliberate misinterpretation by the political schemers is easily exposed," Nazziola stated in a letter to the Times.

He pointed to a key section which reads, "The term of office of all duly elected officers shall be one year. Officers may serve a maximum of two consecutive terms."

Nazziola believes that two consecutive years means two years in the same office. A year as vice-president and a half year as president doesn't count, he says.

He also believes that a year refers to a full 365 day calendar.

"Duly elected" is interpreted by Nazziola as "just that, not appointed or moved up by automatic operation of the by-laws."

The CCB, however, democratically voted 54-42 during the last meeting under Nazziola's presidency to deny him a shot at running for president. Although this vote may have been an indication of how the voting would have gone had he been given his shot, Nazziola is nonetheless bitter at being denied the chance. Since he was automatically appointed president, he never actually ran for the post.

Jerry DelGuercio was subsequently elected president with no opposing nominees from the floor. Nazziola would have been his only opposition.

"It is indeed unfortunate that such a well-intentioned, non-political organization of citizens had to succumb to political control in just a short year and seven months of existence. It has caused several members to have already resigned in disgust."

But this, too, is the subject of dispute.

Among the prominent members of the CCB who resigned with Nazziola, were Ann Brave and Mario Drozd. When Drozd turned in his resignation, CCB officials said, he also handed in a list of 41 other CCB'ers who resigned.

However, club president DelGuercio said the executive committee would not accept these resignations until they were handed in personally.

Other club officials said that of the 41 members on the list only 11 actually attended CCB meetings, so the effect was marginal.

But although DelGuercio maintained that the 41 members on the list would remain "members in good standing" until they personally resigned, the by-laws of the group state that members must pay renewal dues of $2.00 "not later than January 31 of each subsequent year."

Thus, resigning and simply not renewing appear to have the same effect.

Vander Zwan, who served as corresponding secretary from July 1986 to December 31, 1987 does not dispute the club's ruling on Nazziola.

"Those are the rules. It's as simple as that," Vander Zwan told the Times. Like Nazziola, his total a half, and he was "duly elected" only once.

But Vander Zwan said he readily accepts the club's decision to count the initial appointed half-year terms as full terms, and he is happy to be the club's newest trustee.

As trustee, according to group by-laws, Vander Zwan will share in the "responsibility of auditing the books of the CCB at least once each year and present such audit report at the first calendar quarter regular membership meeting."

He also becomes a member of the CCB Executive Board, which is the "governing and policy-making body." Since all officers of the CCB are part of the executive board, Vander Zwan has been on it all along.

Vander Zwan will have the opportunity to be reelected to another 5 year term following the expiration of the current one.

Thus, the special election triggered by Nazziola's resignation will allow the Marion Court resident seven to twelve unbroken years at the policy table of the township's bricks and cans thrown from the rooftops.

Other problems confounding investigators include re-tagging of vehicles and "burnouts" - commission of arson to destroy autos for insurance purposes, or sometimes, according to Vitty, just of maliciousness, particularly when the targets are radios, tires, wheels, or other components, rather than the entire car.

"They're making dents, breaking windows, slicing roofs and seats, doing graffiti, then burning the cars," he said.

"It's getting out of hand."

In nearby Irvington, auto thefts rose 12 percent between 1986 and 1987, according to Det. Robert Purro, task force secretary. About 2,100 cars were stolen last year, some at gunpoint.

"We're seeing a lot of stripped vehicles. Bumpers are big," Purro said, noting a set of Cadillac bumpers brings as much as $1,500.

Stripped, abandoned cars are also a problem in Jersey City, where "chop shops are running wild," according to Det. Robert Hennigar.

Closer to home, Glen Ridge and In South Orange and Maplewood, jeep wagons are thieves' current vehicles of choice, sometimes with accompanying purse snatches.

More disturbing news: some legitimate body shops are buying stolen parts, and joyriding is once again "in" in some areas.

"The old joyriding days are coming back," Vitty commented.

"Everyone knows how easy it is to take cars."

Along with lock pullers and other familiar theft tools, modified car keys are circulated in some areas of the country, Galioto told the group.

Two such keys, available for $20 from Asian gang members on the West Coast, are capable of unlocking within five seconds virtually all Toyotas and Datsuns made after 1967, according to a police advisory.

Task force members, however, are aware of many of the thieves operating in North Jersey. The mention of several suspects' names provoked knowing nods and additional bits of information from around the conference table.

And a computer at Newark Airport is updated every 24 hours, members were told.

The task force has generated considerable media interest of late. Subject of a recent series of articles in The Record in Bergen County, the group will be featured 11 p.m. Feb. 15 through 19 on Channel 7 with reporter John Johnson.

Still, members feel frustrated by what they believe is a lack of cooperation from the Essex County Prosecutor's Office. Essex has the highest car-theft rate in the state, and perhaps the nation, they believe.

Yet no county task force exists, although such units have been formed in most surrounding counties.

"They feel it's a victimless crime. 'Property can be replaced, so so what?' is the attitude," said Det. Edward Kisch of Springfield.

But, he and others point out, auto theft is not victimless. An increasing number of injuries have been reported during thefts and investigations, and the public pays higher insurance rates because of theft.

Stronger legislation would also be helpful, they believe.

"We have the cooperation of every county except Essex," Vitty contended.

"Where's the prosecutor?"

For the glory

With plans underway for a new, thoroughly-equipped and modern weight room, the administration at Belleville High School is setting the stage for an era of domination in league sports.

Already a powerhouse in most athletic events, BHS is virtually certain to further improve its reputation once the new equipment is in place. Quarterbacks will benefit from the extra split seconds a stronger offensive line provides. Wrestlers will benefit from having more muscle and less fat in their weight classes. Tracksters, especially those engaged in distance events, will have stronger, more powerful legs to propel them to the gold.

And all of this future glory will be installed at no cost to taxpayers.

Why? Because the nearly $9,000-plus pricetag of the facility is being borne entirely by donations from the township.

Already, the Belleville Athletic Council has pumped up the fund drive with a $2,500 donation. This alone is more than a quarter of the way there.

Now the BHS Administration, spearheaded by Principal Joseph Ciccone and Athletic Director Jim Silvestri, is asking township sports fans and civic groups to contribute to the drive so the weightroom may be opened as soon as possible.

We encourage the township to support this worthwhile endeavor and commend Ciccone, Silvestri and the Belleville Athletic Council for their efforts.

Weekend recycling

Since Commissioner of Parks & Public Property Vincent Frantantoni initiated the town's recycling program last year, it has had modest success which will no doubt be built upon in the months to come.

Initially, the Parks yard on Williams Street was open for drop-off of recyclable glass, newspaper and aluminum cans from 8PM to 5PM, Monday through Friday. But for many families in town - especially those in which both adults work - this meant there was no opportunity for them to recycle even if they wanted too. Recycling is a swell gesture, but few people are willing to take off from work for it!

Now, Commissioner Frantantoni has remedied the situation by opening the Parks yard for recycling on Saturdays, too. Township residents are encouraged to drop off their recyclables from 9AM to 5PM.

We suspect that the addition of weekend hours will have a tremendous positive effect on the tonnage collected in 1988. In short time, Saturday will probably be the "hottest" day of the program.

Thus, we again call on townspeople to get into the recycling kick, for the good of the whole town.

Thanks to weekend recycling hours, there are no more excuses!

Pothole season

As another season of snow, sleet and plowing melts into spring, the effects on township roads are glaring. New potholes, gouges and cracks have joined those of past years for an overall town-wide road condition that is worse than ever.

Streets like Malone, Division and New are just the tip of the iceberg in a township where road renewal - and basic road maintenance - never seem to get the priority they deserve.

In the past, it seems like the Commission hasn't realized what a negative effect bumpy, irritating roads has on both residents and visitors alike. Don't we all breathe a sigh of relief, for example, after we get off of Little Street and onto the smooth asphalt of Route 21 North?

Commissioner Risoli has indicated that road maintenance is one of his top priorities. Soon after taking office last year, he had DPW crews out on the streets with steaming blacktop, pounding into some of the holes that have made driving through Belleville a horrible joke.

This year, his first full year as Commissioner of Public Works, he will have more than seven months to fill potholes and repave some roads.

This is more than enough time to get to every street.

By next fall, we hope to be able to drive down every block in town without being snagged by a single crater. Yes, we know that Belleville is in a tough tax position and it's fiscally - and physically - impossible to resurface every moon-surfaced road.

But filling potholes costs peanuts. It doesn't take any special equipment the town doesn't already have and it doesn't take any special talent.

This newspaper - and the townspeople of Belleville - have been calling for proper road maintenance and pothole repair for years.

Perhaps in 1988 Commissioner Risoli and his deputy commissioner, Chester Green, will silence us once and for all!

First baby thanks...

To the Editor:

At this time, I extend my sincere thanks to the following members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce who so generously donated to our annual First Baby of the Year project:

Ever Ready Label, Washington Motel, Pro Lumber & Hardware, Bella Casa Caterers, Milt's Photo, Belleville Times, Rossmore Pharmacy, Plaza Men's Shop, Supermarkets General, Crown Chevrolet, Belleville Public Library, Sherman's, First Jersey Bank, New Jersey Bell, Clara Maass Medical Center, Gino's Pizza, Charles Jewelers, Kondreck Studios, P.N.C. Inc., K-Mart, Flowerama.

With your support, my job would be impossible. Thank you again, and much success for the coming year.

Sincerely,

Shirlee Sherman, President,
Belleville Chamber of Commerce

Fornarotto's good work...

To the Editor:

Christmas Day was a far more beautiful sight as compared to Thanksgiving Day on Belmont Avenue. Removal of the intoxicating fumes and noise, plus the ugly sight caused by the trailer trucks has made a tremendous improvement in appearances.

When the snow came, it truly was a beautiful winter scene.

Would like to openly thank Commissioner Joe Fornarotto and whoever assisted him in removing the trailer trucks from the Belmont Avenue area for their quick response to the problem.

Joe, my neighbors and I had a nicer holiday because of your efforts. Keep up the good work...Belleville may soon become the Belleville you and I grew up in.

Very truly yours,
Ann M. Donatiello

Support School 1 plan...

To the Editor:

We of the Marmo family are a second generation of Belleville taxpayers, and we do support the alternative plan proposed by G. Nazzola, DeFeo, and D. Bryant, to move all township offices to School 1, Cortlandt Street, and also sell 338 Washington Ave. property for capital improvements. Keep Mayor and Police Dept. in Townhall. Now with the garbage, schools, and county taxes going up we can't afford anymore, at the present time we don't support any construction. That's why we think that the alternative plan is a good one, it makes good sense.

Sincerely yours,
Frank Marmo and family

Says CCB supports it, too...

To the Editor:

I belong to Concerned Citizens of Belleville. Mr. Gabriel Nazzola's suggestion on moving the Town Hall to School 1 on Cortlandt Street meets most of Concerned Citizens approval.

1. The cost already is anticipated going from $2 million to $2.5 million - soon it will be $5 million.

2. Commissioner Joe Fornarotto's plans for improving the Town Hall met with great applause, another gentleman had a plan for the cells.

At present, with runaway inflation - costs increases, a tax assessment around the corner - Commissioner Fornarotto's solution along with School 1 for administration is the best - no time should be wasted and action should be taken as soon as possible - this coming Spring. The first thing you should do would be to move the Police Department from the basement and provide them with adequate space and furniture.

Sincerely,
Ann V. Naberle
Berkeley Avenue

Bifani story had the beef...

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Belleville Board of Education's Curriculum Committee, I would like to thank Mr. Bifani for a very positive article entitled "Curriculum Committee Beefs Up School Standards" in the January 28, 1988 issue.

I was very pleased to see you have taken the time and interest to get a first hand look at what this committee's long and short range goals are for our school district now and for the coming years.

Articulating a K-12 district is our number one priority and by highlighting our high school you have given your readers an insight into one avenue of things to come.

I also appreciate your concern about the two remedial teachers and the librarian. Your comments are well taken and we have been exploring other possibilities.

However, it is the responsibility of this committee to make any recommendation that will help our children who are above the minimum level of proficiency and yet need extra help in becoming more proficient in reading and math. We will be remiss if we didn't point out what is needed for academic growth. Whether or not these recommendations will be accepted will rest with the entire Board of Education.

I truly understand our budget restraints and I assure you this committee, at its ongoing monthly meetings, and the Board of Education will make every effort to pursue other avenues for this remedial help for our children.

Thank you,
Mrs. Barbara Cicalese,
Board Trustee/Curriculum Committee Chairperson

Tyranny

While winnowing through some recent letters to the editor of the Star-Ledger we came across this one written by John L. Kucek of North Plainfield, which is interesting.

It was captioned "Tax penalty tyranny" and reads:

"Dear Editor:

"Now that tax amnesty is over, the people of New Jersey are faced with a horrendous new tax law.

"It imposes late payment and filing penalties of up to 30 percent of the tax due, plus $100 per month, plus interest up to 20 to 30 percent compounded daily. This means: If some poor soul is one year late in filing a state tax return on which he owes a mere $100, he could be required to pay $1,300 in penalties.

"The state government has involved itself in the numbers racket, gambling casinos and now loan sharking. I suppose legalized prostitution will be next, all in the name of funding its incompetent, overstuffed, tyrannical bureaucracy.

"Also, according to the new law, there is a $7,500 fine and 18 months in prison awaiting some unemployed person or moonlighter, who tries to earn a few bucks without the government-required "license" or registration.

"These late payment and filing penalties are imposed by administrative edict with no hearing or trial; a blatant violation of our U.S. Constitution, Amendment VII, which states, 'In suits at common law, where the value of controversy shall exceed $20, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved...' Apparently, our elected officials, who are required to take an oath to uphold the U.S. Constitution, do not include the first ten amendments which are supposed to guarantee our rights to life, liberty, property and freedom of government tyranny."

Signed John L. Kucek

This man strikes a sound note and seemingly is conversant in his knowledge of Constitutional law...perhaps our state lawmakers should review the legality of their enactment.

New on OBC

The content and quality of programming on OBC's Channel 36 continues to increase, with more new entries already scheduled and others in the works for early debut.

Each night Fred Capitani's "Cappy's casino Corner" caters to those with an interest in the Atlantic City gambling scene and its big-name entertainment. It airs at 7:30 Monday through Thursday, and 7 p.m. Friday as a lead in to "The Rainbow Magazine."

"The Rainbow Magazine" was known as "The V Channel Magazine" for the eight years it was seen on Channel 35-V out of Clifton, but its host, Nutley Sun Editor Tom Sullivan, is the same, and so is his far ranging menu of music, comedy, medical call ins, interviews with the movers and shakers in the OBC viewing area.

"Power Play," an hour-long rock music show, is attracting audiences young and old at 8 p.m. Saturday nights; "Religious Viewpoint" with Reverend Gerald Fortunato of Silverlake Baptist Church, Belleville, is seen at 8 p.m. Thursdays and 9 a.m. Sunday morning, providing a valuable spiritual uplift for shut-ins around our 12-town viewing area, and that is followed by "Faceoff," a lively debate on current affairs between Bernard Rabinowitz and Russell Roennele, with Sally Goodson moderating.

Coming soon is "Simply Speaking," a thoughtful and penetrating look at area affairs and the people who make news, produced and hosted by Marc Brevard. And the 30-minute "People in The News," with Bette Lee Carlson, anchorwoman on our evening news bloc.

effort, Frantantoni said mandatory recycling is not imminent.

"We're studying it," he said.

In the meantime, Scaparrotta is asking citizens to voluntarily get into the act.

"This recycling is only the beginning," he said, "I urge all residents of Belleville to get involved."

An IRA guideline

The new tax law that recently went into effect benefits some taxpayers and hurts others. The one thing it uniformly does for everyone is cause confusion.

"One of the areas in which we are getting numerous inquiries is the subject of IRAs and their deductibility," noted Bert Tobia, district manager of H & R Block.

"Taxpayers hear ads on TV and radio saying they can still save money by contributing to an IRA, but they read articles about the new tax law's restrictions curtailing the IRA deduction. For each individual, the situation will be different, but here are the general guidelines to help you make sense of it all."

The new law, Tobia explained, affects your 1987 IRA contribution. If you (or your spouse if you are married) are not covered by an employer-maintained qualified pension plan, your 1987 IRA contribution will still be fully deductible on your 1987 tax return which you will file in 1988.

However, if either you or your spouse are covered by an employer-maintained qualified pension plan, you will only be allowed the full deduction for your 1987 IRA if your joint adjusted gross income is under $40,000. For persons filing individual returns, the adjusted gross income must be under $25,000.

For higher adjusted gross incomes, the deduction is phased out, so that the IRA amount you are allowed to deduct decreases by one dollar for each five dollars of adjusted gross income up to $50,000 for joint filers and $35,000 for individual filers.

Above those figures, no deduction is allowed, although you still are permitted to contribute to an IRA and you still can defer taxes on any income earned on your IRA contributions.

Contribution limits remain the same as under the old law: $2,000 for working individuals, $2,250 for a working person with a non-employed spouse, and $4,000 for working couples.

For example, Tobia said, "A man called us last week to ask if he can contribute and deduct an IRA contribution of 1987. He is single and his employer maintains a pension plan covering him. His adjusted gross income for 1987 will be about $30,000."

"We explained to him that he can make his full $2,000 contribution for 1987 before April 15, but only $1,000 of that will be deductible because his adjusted gross income is halfway between the $25,000 phase-out floor and $35,000 phase-out ceiling on deductibility."

"A couple from New Jersey who both work in New York asked how they would be affected. Since neither of their employers has pension plans, they will be allowed a $4,000 deductible contribution on their joint federal tax return for 1987, no matter what their income may be. New York will allow whatever the federal government allows."

"We have the answers to these and other confusing problems raised by the new tax law. We will be glad to help people find solutions if they stop by or call their local H & R Block office," Tobia said.

Little 'blips' can change the world

By Frank Orechio

With the Iowa Caucuses and next week's New Hampshire meetings expected to determine the direction of the 1988 presidential sweepstakes, it appears that it is little blips on the political horizon which may determine the fate of the nation — and the world.

An American president is perceived to be the leader of The Free World; and thus, if tiny Iowa, with its handful of caucus voters, rejects the ablest presidential candidates, not only will the United States lose a potentially valuable leader, but so will the world.

New Hampshire comes next week, and if a candidate makes it big in Iowa, he starts off with a leg up on any other contender in that primary vote. If the candidate who wins in Iowa also wins New Hampshire, we may end up with another unknown as a presidential candidate representing the Democratic Party.

The Republican presidential candidates are a foregone conclusion. The G.O.P. candidate will be either Vice President George Bush or Senator Robert Dole.

Unless a Cuomo or Bradley comes off the shelf, either Bush or Dole will be the next president of the United States.

And that won't be all bad.

The Democrats must have a leader who will rise above the herd. At the moment, there is no candidate who stands above the crowd. If the Democrat nominee is among today's active candidates, the Democrats will give the 1988 presidential election to the Republicans by default.

THERE IS MORE at stake than the important presidential election for either party. There are state governors to be elected. There are U.S. senators and control of Congress. These are big stakes.

The results of the 1988 presidential election may influence the 1989 New Jersey gubernatorial election. If a Republican takes the White House, he will have great influence upon the election of a New Jersey Republican nominee.

Then, of course, there is always the question of Governor Tom Kean's selection as a candidate on the national ticket. Tom Kean is qualified to be the G.O.P. presidential candidate. If geography becomes paramount, more than likely, the G.O.P. presidential candidate will come from the midwest, and the party will look east for a vice presidential candidate.

The most popular Republican east of the Mississippi River is our own Governor Tom Kean.

Accepting the selection of a midwesterner as the presidential candidate, make book that Tom Kean will be the vice presidential candidate. Kean's candidacy will open up the governor's chair to a Democrat, Senate President John Russo. Tom Kean has said that if he were offered a national candidacy, serious consideration would have to be given to the opportunity. The possibility of an Acting Democrat Governor should not require Tom Kean to give up a spot on the national ticket. After all, a 1989 gubernatorial contest will be anybody's race to win.

An interim Acting Democrat Governor will not have time to build a personal record since most of what will happen in the State of New Jersey will have its roots in the philosophy of Tom Kean. At any rate, we urge Governor Kean to consider favorably an offer to be a candidate for national office in 1988.

THE INDICTMENT of Panama

strongman General Manuel Noriega by Miami and Tampa federal juries could endanger the future of the Panama Canal.

The United States has a treaty with Panama for use of the Panama Canal which expires in 1999. Despite the written agreement, General Noriega can cause all kinds of problems for the U.S. For example, he can arrange to sink a couple of ships in the canal, and thus, interfere with the use of this strategic waterway.

It is interesting to note that U.S. Senators are already finding General Noriega guilty of the charges made against him. The general may be 100-percent guilty. But, it is not the duty of an American legislator to pronounce the man guilty before a jury trial. There is ample time for politicians to climb aboard the bandwagon against Noriega.

Attorneys representing the Panamanian general — there are now four of them — have made public statements indicating that the general will come to the United States to defend himself against the charges. Noriega's lawyers are asking for the right to cross examine witnesses whose testimonies led to the indictments.

Drug abuse is America's number one enemy. It destroys much of the potential for the nation's future. Today's youth will be the leaders of America tomorrow.

We need to eliminate the drug menace from American life in order to preserve the best of our youth, permitting it to grow up and serve the next generation to follow.

In some countries, people who deal in drugs are executed. We think it might be a good idea to execute a few drug dealers. It may well be the only way the drug traffic can be stopped.

The stakes are high — the rewards incalculable. No effort should be spared in order to prevent drug use in America. The idea of stopping its traffic at the source makes sense. The country that knowingly permits drug traffic to America should be subject to presidential embargos and any other penalties that can be invoked, ie. withdrawal of loans, prevention of American tourists obtaining visas to the countries involved, stopping immigration to America of citizens of the offending countries.

Cites town's 100 pt. tax hike projection

Delegate supports state aid for township garbage crisis

Assemblywoman Marion Crecco (R-Essex) today announced that she is in favor of state aid for municipalities for the purpose of dealing with additional costs due to the garbage crisis.

"Two municipalities in my district have already expressed that they will suffer from a 100 point tax increase this year, with a large part of that form the garbage crisis," said Crecco, Assistant Assembly Majority Whip. "The state is fortunate to have a large surplus and some of these monies should be dedicated for this purpose."

Crecco added that there are bills currently presented before the General Assembly that will allocate state funds for this purpose. "Essex County will suffer more than any other county in the state. We must do something in order to keep property taxes from going out of control," Crecco added.

Constituent Services

Assemblywoman Crecco has announced that her Bloomfield legislative office offers a wide variety of constituent services.

Among the services offered are information and assistance with Social Security, Medicare, landlord-tenant information, and notary public applications.

"Anyone in need of any kind of assistance should feel free to contact my legislative office," said Crecco, vice-chair of the Assembly

State Government Committee. "I also welcome any input someone might have about an issue of concern to them. This input is extremely valuable to me."

Mrs. Crecco's office is located at 1029 Broad Street in Bloomfield. People should feel free to write to her at this address or call at 338-7552.

Assemblywoman Crecco is currently serving her second term in the New Jersey General Assembly. She also serves as Assistant Assembly Majority Whip and as a member of the Independent and Regional Authorities Committee. She represents the towns of Belleville, Bloomfield, Cedar Grove, Glen Ridge, Montclair, Nutley and Verona.

It seems like only Yesterday

Residents should be good!

By Gregg Friedmann
25 YEARS AGO

February 7, 1963...Every Belleville resident was encouraged this week to "Be A Good Citizen...Vote Wednesday!" in a banner headline. After all, February 13 was Election Day for the Belleville Board of Education. Two positions were open, and there was some scandal going on. It seemed Earnest S. Arvidson, a candidate for the Board of Ed., was charging Duncan M. Freel, another candidate, with issuing false statements about his competition.

Meanwhile, a public hearing on the proposed school budget for 1963-64 drew an audience of 59, who found little to criticize in the carefully prepared $2,910,215.40 projection.

The Belleville/Nutley Crew teams found themselves in a mess this week as they faced possible extinction. The teams, which had once stroked their way to a National Championship, did not have financial backing, nor a boathouse. At this point, it looked like 160 kids would be sorely disappointed.

In Belleville High School's initial wrestling season, the team was not doing that bad, with a record of 3-2. The "dribblers" rolled over Orange, 62-54, and David Hatch managed to pour in 31 in the contest.

How did George Washington overcome his mother's dominance? Why did Washington come to regard slavery as wrong? Why was Washington miserably unhappy as commander of the Continental army? How did Washington's leadership qualities show in his military defeats? Did British generals actually want the colonists to win the war?

Ju-Jitsu master coming to Essex

The Olympic Karate Institute of Nutley will be sponsoring the visit of Shihan Lemel Stroud, a sixth degree black belt with a masters title in the art of Ju-Jitsu. This particular style of Ju-Jitsu is called Hakko-Ryu Ju-Jitsu and emphasizes pressure and manipulating the joints for throwing or subduing an opponent.

Instructors and students from New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania will be participating in the seminar in order to supplement their self-defense capabilities. As Shihan Rogu Wehrhahn of Olympic Karate Institute says:

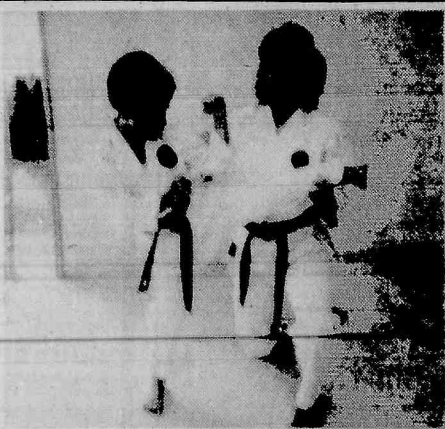

"The Ju-Jitsu is incorporated into our method of fighting, so that not only do we learn how to kick and punch effectively, but we also learn how to subdue an opponent or break away if grabbed."

Mr. Stroud will be in the area from Friday, March 4 to Sunday, March 6, when he will return to his home in North Carolina.

The seminar will be held at the Olympic Karate Institute, 177 Franklin Avenue, Nutley on Saturday, March 5 at 12 noon. Visitors are welcome. For more information, please call Roger Wehrhahn of O.K.I. at 667-8345.

Hey, Jerry, what's the story?

Jerry Del Guercio, the animated man from Silver Lake and an also-ran in the 1987 Commission race, took charge of the first 1988 meeting of the Concerned Citizens of Belleville, February 4 at the Elks Club.

Del Guercio is the third club president in a line that includes town newsmakers like Vincent Frantantoni and Gabriel Nazzola.

Having remembered the fiery speeches Del Guercio made at Commission meetings prior to the May election, I expected plenty of the same during his first public appearance as CCB president.

I actually thought the CCB, which rose to prominence under Frantantoni and Nazzola for its successful opposition to costly municipal construction, would unveil and vote on some stands for 1988.

Like their position on future municipal construction. Or what to do about improving the Lake, the Valley and Washington Avenue. Or how this group plans to oppose - and maybe reduce - the projected 100 point tax increase in store for township property owners this year.

This, however, is not what Jerry had in mind just yet.

In the most traditional New England style of democracy, the group moved through old business - like the reading of the minutes from the last meeting, complete with the official CCB version of how Gabe Nazzola got aced out of a shot at running for club president. Then new business was discussed, but it wasn't the kind of business I expected from the group that helped bring down an unpopular Commission.

A CCB picnic was discussed. And a buffet-dance.

And, of course, the annual CCB Christmas party was discussed because, after all, Christmas is less than 11 months away - practically right around the corner!

All of these events were dealt with in the most commendable democratic fashion. Motions were made and seconded from the floor, then voted on by voice vote. For the record, the picnic, buffet-dance and Christmas party were all approved.

Questions like "Should the CCB accept an invitation to the Elks' dinner dance be accepted if we are asked?" were voted on by the entire membership. For you Elks out there, the CCB will, in fact, accept your invitation should you decide to offer it.

The most substantial new business covered at the meet was a CCB fund-raiser - perhaps a dinner-dance - which would raise money for an annual CCB scholarship. That's very nice but I couldn't shake the feeling that this wasn't the same CCB we had all come to know.

Although the crowd of about 60-55 of whom were either middle aged or seniors-participated heartily in the process of approving these "town-shaking" agenda items, at least some CCB'ers were looking to address the meat of town issues, not the meat at picnics, dances and parties.

Said one member from the floor: "What are we going to do about the Town Hall? What do we support?"

Jerry responded that the issue, and other important town issues, would have to be studied before the CCB could take a stand. He reiterated this to me after the meeting as well.

Still, it left me with a hollow feeling to say the least.

In addition to "studying" the issues, they should also be debated and discussed by the general membership, at the beginning of the year so there is time to take appropriate action. As members pointed out, there are lots of things which town boards will act on in coming weeks. Del Guercio instructs the membership to attend these meetings, but the membership has no official stands. They may attend meetings as CCB'ers, but should they decide to speak out, they must speak as individuals - because without a united group stand, their opinions may or may not represent a consensus of CCB thought.

And besides, you've got more than 60 people who braved the cold to attend and hall rentals do cost money. One would think matters of substance - not subsubstance - would be addressed if one is to get their money's worth.

But Jerry said that at future CCB meetings - the next one is slated for March 31 - issues will be discussed and stands will be taken. So we'll take him on faith at that.

***

In the meantime, there were definite flashes in Jerry's oratory which indicate the road which the future CCB will travel.

Referring to the potential 50 point school tax hike, Jerry said "We have to get the right people in there," Jerry said the group would look at all the board of education candidates and support the two who seemed to be the best.

Now, although Jerry didn't say the group would actually field two candidates, getting "the right people in there" suggests a major change for the group which originally promised never to "go political."

In the last Commission election, the group appeared to oppose the incumbents - but no endorsement or open support was actually given to anyone. CCB'ers were free to choose whomever they wanted behind the curtains of the voting booths. That two CCB'ers got in - Frantantoni and Joseph Fornarotto - was the logical outcome, but it certainly wasn't rammed down the membership's throats.

Two other CCB'ers, by the way - Nazzola and Del Guercio himself - were defeated handsly.

***

With a school board election right around the corner, the CCB is well worth watching especially with a colorful and flamboyant character like Jerry Del Guercio at the helm. My nose for news tells me that this guy is going to make for some good copy, especially if he begins attending and speaking at public meetings on a regular basis like his predecessors.

The rotund, mustachioed, baby-faced leader speaks in an engaging East Essex Italian accent that fills meetings with or without a microphone and the statements he fires come right from the heart - with little or no concern over how they look in print. Case in point is his "getting the right people in there" statement which is certain to be eaten up by CCB critics, however well-intentioned that quote may be.

***

Now that the CCB has shown indications that it will openly support candidates, the April school board election will be a true test of the group's voting power.

We all know that the organization helped Frantantoni and Fornarotto, but the fact that Nazzola and DelGuercio didn't get in means their batting average stands at .500 - not bad, but not phenomenal either.

Township political observers also know that both Commissioners have considerable support outside the CCB anyway - which may have figured more prominently in the voting than the CCB voting bloc. Fornarotto, for example, is immensely popular with senior citizens - ALL senior citizens, those who are in the CCB and those who are not.

Frantantoni has support from a wide cross-section of citizenry due to his involvement in Little League, scouting, the Chamber of Commerce and other areas.

The CCB says their membership is 500 strong, but there were only 60 or so at the meeting. A bloc of 500 can certainly influence an election, but 60?

If every member the CCB claims actually showed up at the meetings, they wouldn't be meeting at the little Elks hall!

So how will the CCB inform its entire membership? A newsletter was discussed, but no vote was taken on it. And no discussion of the current candidates for school board took place at the February 4 meeting.

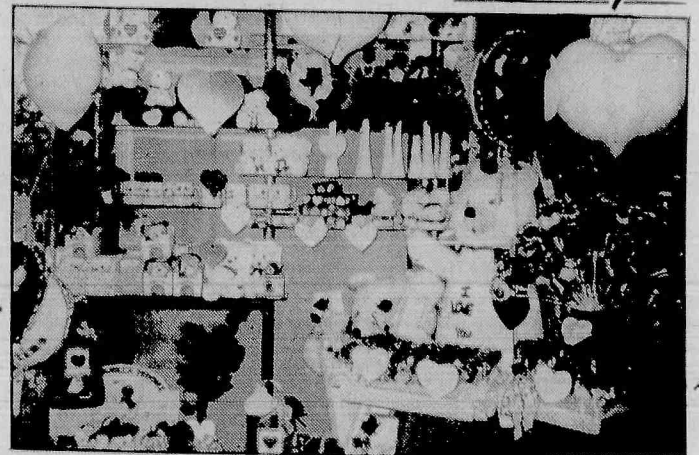

True, all the potential candidates have not yet declared so any endorsement discussion would have been premature. But the CCB has only one meeting (March 31) scheduled before the April election. Is there enough time to arrive at a democratic consensus?

It will be interesting to see how Jerry and the CCB pick their choices for school board, how they get the word out to the claimed 400 or so members who don't attend the meetings, and how they get out the vote come election day.

The continued prestige and clout of the CCB is now riding on their April choices.

And that, Jerry, is no picnic.

After Zoning Board turns down proposal

Happy Apple school seeks home

By Christopher Bifani

The break-up of a family can be a painful experience, especially if it is borne of circumstances beyond the family's control. For the "family" of pre-schoolers, parents and staff at Happy Apple Nursery School, an impending break-up caused by the lack of a new location has been particularly painful.

Bethany Lutheran Church at Joramalemon and New Streets has been the host locale for the school since it was begun by Linda Moeller in 1983. Now, however, the school has been asked to leave the basement room it has occupied there by June. "We don't know what we're going to do, or we're we're going to go," Moeller told the Times, as several pre-school parents nodded. Moeller, who serves as head teacher for her school, said she is desperately seeking a new location within Belleville, since the vast majority of her forty-five pupils reside here.

Bethany Lutheran had been letting Happy Apple Nursery School operate in the basement for a "monthly donation." Now, however, the trustees of the church along with Pastor Nancy Moore have decided to rededicate the room for church and religious activities. The school, which is secular and non-sectarian, was asked to leave.

Moeller said she and her husband, Joseph, immediately began looking for an alternate site in 1987. Their search took them far and wide throughout the Belleville area and finally ended on what appeared to be the answer to their prayers: A large one-family house right around the corner at the intersection of Union and Division Avenues. The house, which was formerly a doctor's office, seemed perfect - and already zoned for commercial activity.

So, the Moellers put a deposit on the house, hired an architect to draw up plans for expanding one room and demolishing a garage, and then went before the Zoning Board of Adjustment for a variance.

By a vote of 7-2, the Zoning Board denied the variance. Happy Apple parents left the meeting in tears while neighbors who protested the variance applauded.

Roseann Filangieri, whose daughter Regina, 4, attends Happy Apple, spoke highly of Moeller and her effort to turn the Union Avenue house into the future school.

"She's so dedicated," Filangieri said, "that she was willing to sell her house to buy that house - to uproot her life for the children." Moeller explained that only by selling their current home and moving into the Union Avenue house would they have been able to swing the financing.

But now that the Zoning Board has denied the variance, Moeller said she will look for another location rather than seek an appeal.

"We don't want to get into any controversy with the church or the town," Mr. Moeller explained. Moeller and his wife are parishioners at Bethany Lutheran. Joseph Moeller was formerly a church trustee but said he resigned following the church's decision to use the nursery school's room for other purposes.

"We just want to find a new location for our school," Mrs. Moeller said. Total cost for lawyer and architect fees in their failed variance effort was about $6,000, the Moellers said.

Jean Allen, whose son Timmy, 4, is a Happy Apple student, believes Belleville government should encourage - not discourage - the presence of nursery schools in town.

"The Town of Belleville needs young families, and you need a good pre school to keep them here," she said. Allen said she has just sold her house and is preparing to move out.

"We have nothing against other pre schools in the area," said Julie Paoiella, "but we feel that Happy Apple is the optimum in pre school education. We're contributing better students to the school system." Paoiella's son Anthony, 3 1/2, presently attends Happy Apple.

Paoiella continued, "The Zoning Board was listening but I don't think they heard a thing."

Shirlee Sherman, owner of Shermans' Children Shop on Washington Avenue and the Chairwoman of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, lends clothes and helps coordinate the school's annual dinner and fashion show. More than 300 tickets have already been sold for this year's affair on February 15, which is being held at the Fiesta on Route 17.

"It's just awful," Sherman said of the impending break-up of the Happy Apple family, "I'm heartbroken over it."

Paoiella said, "Now we're having a dinner as a fundraiser for the 1988-89 school year, but for what school? We don't have a location."

Happy Apple School is one of only a handful of affordable pre school facilities in Belleville. Tuition for 12 morning or afternoon school sessions per month is $60. Moeller said there is a waiting list to get into the school, which limits enrollment to 15 kids per session.

Activities at Happy Apple include painting, clay, water and sand play, puzzles, block building, dramatics, role-playing, puppetry, stories and songs, simple science and math, the alphabet, and outdoor play. The school also utilizes a pre-school computer for learning games.

Surrounded by the happy, colorful pictures, toys and decor of the schoolroom and the playful banter of the children present, Linda Moeller and the Happy Apple parents displayed feelings that were anything but happy. Most were misty-eyed and clutching Kleenex by the end of the interview, and all said that hope for the school's future in Belleville may rest with the community.

Said one parent: "Maybe one of your readers will see this story and know of a place."

In the meantime, The Moellers will keep on looking.

Town auto dealership expands

By Pat Brightman

In an effort to upgrade service to customers, Mead Ford on Washington Ave. has undergone renovation plans that will expand and improve the car dealership.

"We felt it would be more advantageous to both Mead and our customers," said General Manager Peter Falzo when asked why the changes are being made.

Along the same lines, Falzo said that the sales department has been increased and upgraded by having more qualified and knowledgeable sales people.

The physical structure will also be altered as a new building will be built around the existing one, according to Falzo. A new Parts Department building will also be constructed. Even with the added construction, Mead has not purchased any new land, all the additions will be built on land the dealership presently owns.

With the expansion plans, up to 75 used cars and 150-200 new cars will fit comfortably on the lot.

"We're out to service the area better," said Falzo.

Completion of the renovations is expected within two years.

AT THE MOVIES:

Essex-made movie doesn't cut it

By Tom Sullivan

When someone has labored and struggled as long as writer-director Stephen Vittoria did to make "Lou, Pat and Joe D," we could only wish to be able to praise it as a notable first work but, sad to say, we cannot. This low budget, black and white creation just doesn't cut it.

Getting the film made was almost certainly a miracle, and perhaps those who have been touched by its production around Essex County will enjoy it as a curiosity in its current engagement in The Wellmont Theater, Montclair.

But as an entertainment or even as a provocative piece of sociology, "Lou, Pat and Joe D" is a disappointment, however good its basic idea.

The bulk of its action takes place in the 1940's and 50's, and Vittoria takes the unpardonable license of vesting it with 1980's mores and language, which strips it of credibility.

Adolescents in the 1940's didn't talk about "having a relationship."

Nor did anyone else, for that matter.

Teenaged girls never used the F word when talking to boys in the 40's or 50's. In fact boys would never use that word when a female was within earshot.

Soldiers in the Korean War had many colorful words and expressions to describe their sorry lot but saying "It sucks" wasn't one of them.

And that ugliest of contemporary expressions, "scumbag," didn't fall on the ears 30 years ago.

Those are for starters.

And how could a man whose idol was Joe DiMaggio, who talked incessantly about the Yankee Clipper and his achievements, not have known for two months after the event that the baseball ace had retired? DiMaggio is the Joe D of the title, Lou Costello is the Lou.

Little things? Hardly. A film such as this with no studio pharisees to interfere, no tasteless money men to apply the blue pencil, ought to be verite par excellence, so its other moments of truth pale in the shadow of these inconsistencies.

Convolutions

There were some convolutions in the storytelling that left this viewer confused, too, largely due to the use of flashbacks with characters who weren't all that well established in the first place.

With his story about the friendship of a white boy and a black in Newark when bigotry was an open and often violent thing, Vittoria had a good basis. In fact within the movie are some great little vignettes that punch up this ugliness. When Pat (Nick Furris) discovers his chum, Jake (Kim Delgado) hanging dead in South Carolina, killed by redneck bigots, it's a powerful moment. Unfortunately there aren't enough of them.

The script needed an editor and the production needed one, too.

God's Valentine

Two young people were expecting their first baby. At last, they rushed to the hospital with a blizzard to their backs. The snow stopped, then the husband tramped around during the labor period. He walked into the maternity ward in time to year, "It's a boy!" He admired the infant with happiness. After all, had anyone else ever had a little boy? He talked to his tired wife for a few minutes before she drifted off to sleep. "Remember, darling," he said, "when you wake up in the morning, look out your window. A message is on the front lawn."

The next morning the new mother admired her baby. When he was returned to the nursery, she remembered her husband's final words.

She slowly raised herself in bed and looked out the window. He had tramped around in the snow and formed a huge heart with "I Love You" written inside the heart. The new mother cried a few tears of thankfulness. The weather held steady, and the Valentine was still imprinted in the snow a week later, when the proud family left the hospital. The Valentine was a symbol of her husband's love.

God's Valentine to each of us is not in the shape of a heart tramped in the snow or printed bright red on a card but is in the shape of a cross planted upon a rocky hill called Calvary. Romans 5:7 declares: "But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." 1 John 4:8 and 9 elaborates on this truth: "He that loveth not knoweth not God, for God is love. In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent His only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him."

The original Valentine's Day!

According to legend, the Valentine takes its name from a young Christian, who once lived in ancient Rome. Like so many of the early Christians, Valentine had been imprisoned because of his faith. Often and longingly he thought of his loved ones, and wanted to assure them of his well-being and his love.

Covered by most major health insurance carriers.

A collection of books on New Jersey and Essex history described as "priceless" has been donated to the Belleville Public Library by a 91 year old Newarker.

Library Director David Bryant told the Times that Dr. Samuel Berg, M.D. of North Newark has donated 68 volumes "which are priceless because many of these books are so rare that they may be the last known copies."

Bryant said that library staff will design a section for the collection next to the library's current section on New Jersey history. It will be called "The Samuel Berg Collection of New Jersey History" in honor of the donor. In addition, special recognition plates will be placed in the books to identify them as part of the collection.

Many of the books, because of their rarity, will be for reference only and will not be removed from library grounds.

"We're flabbergasted, overjoyed and astounded," said Library

Board Chairman Joseph Casale, "It represents an excellent addition to our collection."

Director Bryant echoed the chairman: "When trimming his personal library he offered many of his best books to us. Dr. Berg's gift to the library and the people of Belleville is unprecedented in our library's history. These fine books, many by some of the state's finest scholars, join our existing New Jersey collection to create a resource that, in its depth and quality, is unique among public libraries of our size."

Bryant indicated that Berg may donate more books to the library, and that all the books are in fine condition. Some date back to the 1800's.

Bibliography available

A five-page bibliography of the Berg collection has been prepared by library staff to help readers use it more efficiently.

Titles include rarities such as the "The History of Newark," which was written by William B. Guild back in 1878. Other topics deal with Indians, immigration, Jewish history, geology, urban renewal, industrial development, commerce, the Revolutionary War, colonial life, religion, and much much more.

Because so many of the books were written many years ago they not only offer valuable insights into New Jersey's past history, but also insight into the historical perspectives of the past. The addition of these books to the library will help students and scholars explore how attitudes toward history have evolved over the years, while recovering many obscure facts.

Director Bryant hopes that the township's public and private schools make full use of the collection.

"The Samuel Berg M.D. Collection will tie in beautifully with school assignments on local and state history," he explained, "We intend to communicate the potential of this new resource to the Belleville Board of Education and we hope the availability of the Berg Collection at our library will encourage classroom teachers to include more local, county and state history in their curriculum."

Bookmarks reader

Bryant said that Berg, a regular

Times reader, became aware of the wide range of programs and activities at the town library from what he saw listed in the newspaper's weekly "Bookmarks" feature.

From reading Bookmarks week after week, Berg was "impressed with the library's resourcefulness and ability to promote itself."

When he decided to donate some of his personal collection, estimated at over 5,000 volumes, he chose the Belleville Public Library.

"Dr. Berg is widely known for his interest in - and knowledge of - New Jersey history," Bryant said.

And now that history will have a permanent home here in Belleville.

Appointee becomes candidate as Caputo race stresses education

In September of 1987, Frank A. Caputo was appointed to the Board of Education to fill the position vacated by Joseph Cappello. As a Board member, he says he has "consistently shown his concern for providing our children with a quality education."

He has served on the Curriculum Committee which has just developed standards for textbooks to provide uniformity within the school district.

"The committee has also enhanced the curriculum by increasing the number of credits required for graduation," Caputo said.

meeting the needs of the majority of students. A more structured program should be developed to enable students to gain basic computer skills and a greater understanding of computer systems," he said.

In an effort to stretch our educational dollars, Caputo feels we should investigate every possible avenue of additional revenues.

"For example, the state has just granted funds to the Township under the Substance Abuse Coordinator Grant Program and the Chemical Health Curriculum Development Grant Program. These resources will be used in an effort to prevent drug and alcohol abuse by the students."

Caputo feels that "We must continue to research State and Federally funded programs as well as grants which may be available through the business sector. We must take full advantage of every opportunity to improve our educational system without spending additional funds."

Lamberti dwells on 'history'...

To the Editor:

I have but one question to ask your sports editor, Michael Lamberti. Are you the current sports editor or the resident historian for the Belleville Times?

I know of many articles sent to the Belleville Times that were left unprinted for weeks because Mr. Bifani deemed them untimely. How untimely is the 1971-72 basketball season? Certainly this is not current news! In the January 21 issue of the Times, Mr. Lamberti promised a column on the girls basketball team. Being the trusting person I am I purchased a paper expecting to read an article about the current team. Instead, I read a 28 paragraph column of which the last two paragraphs pertained to the current team. While these articles are historical and the people he writes about newsworthy, they should be saved for the summer or between seasons when there is nothing really happening on the current sports scene. But then again, perhaps Mr. Lamberti writes of the 70's and 80's because this was the last time he attended a game.

I have yet to have seen Mr. Lamberti at a girls' game this season. Is this also the reason he stopped printing an "athlete of the week" — because he doesn't know who the current athletes are? The sports coverage of your paper, with the exception of Joe Piegario's articles are disgraceful. The entire sports section is 1 1/4 pages and lousy coverage at best. I say, Mr. Lamberti, if you can't do a good job in the one day you cover for the Times, let the paper find someone who can be a full-time editor and give us the 2 1/2 pages that the Nutley Sun gives its readers. I'm sure there must be a college student or high school journalism student who can do an ample job, cover current sports events, and give a little praise to the current history makers. Belleville has many current and talented athletes. While we are rich in tradition and rich in history, I see no reason why all of your columns must be historical documents and rarely timely pieces.

Sincerely,
Mary Anne Lopreato

Memories are great!...

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago you printed the words of the chorus of "The Stars and Stripes Forever," our National March, by John Philip Sousa.

When I was a child in Grade School 3 in Belleville, we often sang this during assembly period (a much-anticipated period then). The words to the verse are:

"Let martial note in triumph float,
And Liberty extend its mighty hand,
A flag appears mid't' thund'rous cheers,
The banner of the Western Land;
The emblem of the brave and true,
It's folds protect no tyrant crew,
The Red, White, and starry Blue,
It's Nation's shield and hope.
Other nations may deem their flag the best,
And cheer it with fervid elation,
But the flag of the North, East, South and West
Is the flag of flags, the Flag of Freedom's Nation.
Hurrah....."

Memories are great!

"Not in his office"

School board mum on status of DiGiovanni

By Christopher Bifani
Where is Leonard DiGiovanni, the school business administrator?
This is the question townspeople asked the Board of Education at their February 8 meet at Belleville High School.

"The status of Mr. DiGiovanni is a personnel matter," Superintendent Michael Nardiello said, "therefore we cannot comment."
At the start of the public meeting, 8PM, the board immediately adjourned to go into "private session to discuss personnel matters," as announced by Board President Phil Linfante. This move came right after the board had already met in private session from 7PM to 8PM, and despite the fact that the board would again meet in private session shortly after 10PM when the public session was adjourned.

At least three citizens questioned DiGiovanni's whereabouts, including Commissioner Joseph Fornarotto, and each time the reply was "no comment" because the board is allowed under law to discuss personnel matters in private. Only the results of personnel matters must be made public, and apparently the board had not taken action on DiGiovanni's status by the time the public session was convened.
DiGiovanni was not in his office Monday morning, and no explanation was given for his absence by school administration staff.
Tuesday morning, a Times reporter again tried to contact DiGiovanni at his office. The reporter was asked to "hold on," but before put on hold the words "Go answer that Joe, it's for Leonard DiGiovanni. You can be Leonard DiGiovanni" were heard.

When the call was finally put through, DiGiovanni's secretary said the business administrator was not in, and would not say when he would be in.
Should DiGiovanni be dismissed by a majority vote of the school board, he will be the third business administrator in about a year to depart the school system.
DiGiovanni could not be reached when phoned at home, at had not returned phone calls at pres-time.

The school board is scheduled to again meet in private session this coming Tuesday. In the meantime, the 1988-89 school budget - already reported to contain a 40-50 point tax increase - may be subject to revisions due to the possibility that even less money from the state will be allotted to the township.
Previously, DiGiovanni said that in his preparation of the 1988-89 budget a "conservative" estimate of state aid was being figured in.
Now, as another controversial school budget moves to the forefront of township news, the big question remains:
"Where is DiGiovanni?"

Who's Who in American Education?

Paula Cummis, that's who!

Paula Cummis, Supervisor of Reading for the Belleville Public Schools, has been elected for inclusion in "Who's Who in American Education."
Mrs. Cummis is a native of Belleville and a graduate of Belleville High School. She was a dean's list honor student at Columbia University and Boston University where she earned her B.A. degree in American Literature and biology. Later she earned her Masters Degree in reading and did post-graduate work in educational administration and supervision and English at Montclair State College.
Mrs. Cummis began her teaching career as a second grade classroom teacher in the Newark Public Schools. She then became an English teacher at Belleville High School. Upon earning her graduate degree, she was invited to be an adjunct professor at Montclair State College and also taught reading at Belleville Junior High School. In 1980 she was appointed to her present supervisory position by the board of education. In addition, Mrs. Cummis has held a number of administrative positions with the district including acting vice-principal of the Middle School and acting principal of School 4.
In her capacity as reading supervisor, Mrs. Cummis has been responsible for planning the district's library and reading programs including the summer Reading List and for conducting numerous teacher training workshops in both reading and writing. She has developed and implemented the Middle School reading program and "Study Skills Handbook," which have both received state-wide recognition.
Her activities have included holding leadership positions in many district curricula projects including development of Basic Skills Magnet at School 10, and she has been actively involved in other district programs such as English as a Second Language and Academically Talented.
Mrs. Cummis has been dedicated to searching for bringing to the children and staff of the Belleville public schools the best modern educational theory and practice has to offer. As a reading expert, Mrs. Cummis is convinced that literacy is the underpinning of learning and civilization and that all Belleville children can and must reach beyond the basics.

Mrs. Cummis has also contributed her expertise to several State Department of Education committees, to which she has been appointed, including Language Arts Needs Committee, the High School Proficiency Test Format Committee and the High School Proficiency Test Testing Committee, Reading.

Mrs. Cummis lived in North Caldwell with her husband, Philip, an administrative-law judge, and her two children, Joshua and Samantha, both college students. She is the daughter of the late Edward J. Abromson, former Belleville Municipal Judge and the late Ruth Abromson, both life-long residents of Belleville.

Potholes and more have citizens sore

unanimously to delay action on the vote, pending further study.
Perceived vagueries in the Town Meeting agendas were the target of citizens' angst.
"We waste ten minutes trying to find out what the resolutions are about," said one citizen, "If there was a little more detail, we'd save time." The citizen was referring to the public hearing held before resolutions are voted on, so citizens can speak on them. Often, instead of voicing opinions on the actions about to be taken, much of the citizens' time is spent just learning the nature of those actions.
Meanwhile, a five minute limit per speaker is in effect.
And curbs. Are they yellow or are they white?
One resident said police had been issuing tickets for illegal parking, but that the yellow curbs are so faded that it is difficult to tell where the no-parking sections begin and end.
Mayor Pizzi, who oversees curb painting in his capacity as Public Safety Commissioner, said his department does have a schedule for curb painting, but conceded that it is not always "ongoing."
Townpeople tossed the Commission a diamond or two along with the coal.
Commissioner Risoli was praised by some public speakers for his purchase of the Netherlands-built RAVO-2000 street-cleaner, a technological marvel that scrubs streets thoroughly and can also suck the gunk out of storm sewers.
Said Cornelius Vander Zwan of Marion Court, an Americanized Dutchman: "With all we hear about the technological superiority of Germany and Japan, it's nice to know that good things come from Holland, too."

BUC SHOTS

There are three weeks remaining, possibly more, in the basketball season at BHS. Thus far, it has been a year to remember.
LAST WEEKS QUIZ
The last time the Chicago Bears did not win the NFC Central division crown was 1983. That year, the Detroit Lions won it, but lost to San Francisco, 24-23 in the first round of the playoffs.
FOR THIS WEEK
The last time the Washington Redskins made the Super Bowl, before this year, they were bounced by the L.A. Raiders. Who did the Skins beat in the NFC playoffs to advance to the Super Bowl.

Belleville Times SPORTS

The basketball programs at Belleville High continue to excel this winter. Last week, the boys and girls' teams combined for four victories in five attempts and both teams advanced in their respective Essex County tournaments.

For the girls, under veteran coach Karen Fuccello, the team won two of three games last week and improved its season mark to 12-7. The girls have as many wins this winter as they had the previous two seasons combined. And there's still plenty of action left this winter.

Fuccello's troops were scheduled to play Vailsburg in a second round Essex County tournament game earlier this week. A victory there would propel the team to the quarterfinals, where a difficult assignment awaits in University High School of Newark.

University is the defending county champ and is favored by many to repeat its championship. You might, however, get a few arguments from the contingents in Bloomfield and Irvington.

There have been many heroes to the squad this winter, despite a rash of injuries.

Juniors Simone Edwards and Laurie Dondarski have led the way in scoring. Both girls have been a part of the varsity program since their freshman campaigns and know the agony of defeat quite well. As freshman, the girls were a part of a team that finished 2-18. Last year, the record improved to 10-15.

Edwards and Dondarski have dedicated a great deal of time to hoops. Both girls played AAU ball last summer for coach Fuccello and traveled to Mississippi for a national tournament.

Both girls should also receive post season accolades from the various newspapers when this current campaign comes to an end.

Edwards is a 5'8" forward who has excellent leaping ability. Because of her strong rebounding skills, she has the ability to draw fouls on offensive bounds and is improving from the foul line.

An all around athlete, Edwards also plays volleyball in the fall and competes for the track team in the spring.

Dondarski, a 5'4" guard who also plays volleyball and softball, is, as Fuccello says, "the quarterback" of the team.

Recently, Fuccello emphasized Dondarski's importance to the offense.

"When she's down, we're down," the coach said. "She is expected to lead us offensively. We need her to run the offense and get something going."

Dondarski's offensive skills were highlighted in a game against Eastside two weeks ago. Belleville started slowly against the Paterson school and trailed by five at intermission.

Since Belleville was expected to beat Eastside handily, Fuccello wasn't very happy in the lockerroom at the half. Not so coincidentally, Dondarski had just two points at the half.

The second half was a different story. Belleville's offense got in gear, the girls won handily, and Dondarski lead all scorers with 22 points. 15 of those points came in the last quarter when Belleville broke a close game wide open.

After a slow start this winter, senior Racquel Melson has been playing well. Melson was hit with a serious knee injury in 1986 and has been working hard to rehabilitate the leg. Recently, Melson has added some good offense to the Belleville lineup and has been playing very good defense.

Junior Carol Morrison has been improving consistently as the year progresses. A forward, Morrison has offensive talent.

The girls have been without the services of sophomore Stacey Johansen, out since early January with a hyperextended knee. However, youngsters such as Jennifer Bridge, Nicole Wright, Mia Hanos, Amalia Fabiano, Thelina Espiritu and Maria Chanley, have seen extended playing time and have done well.

ROLL'S CLUB CLINCHES WINNING SEASON

The boys' basketball team won two more games last week and improved its record to 13-4 on the season. Since the team has eight games remaining in the year, it's safe to say the Bucs have clinched the first winning season in boys' basketball at Belleville since 1975.

However, Roll, who was a freshman on that '75 club, isn't rejoicing, yet.

"If we go 13-12, I don't think that's a good year," he said. "We're 13-4 now, we're looking for more than that."

The Bucs have been playing with intensity. Last week, the team upended a solid club in Teaneck, 63-56, then came back and beat Glen Ridge, 51-44, in the opening round of the Essex County Tournament. Glen Ridge was 13-1 entering that game.

The Bucs will play Shabazz in the quarterfinals of the ECT tomorrow night at Essex County College. The last time the boys' basketball team made it that far in the ECT, Roll was about four years old.

Of course, you know about the heroics of senior Ted Sochaski, the all time leading scorer in mens' basketball history at BHS. Sochaski is having a solid campaign and has caught the eye of a number of college scouts.

Leon Puentes, the Bucs underrated point guard, was set to break the 1,000 career point mark this week. He has done a tremendous job in running the Buccaneer offense and has sacrificed a lot of his potential points in order to help his team.

Chris Chiarmonte, a senior forward, has been outstanding. He is providing offense and is very tough on the boards. He is also playing excellent defense.

Ditto for Steven Schwed, a senior who isn't afraid to mix it up underneath the boards. Schwed provided the Bucs with some valuable points in the Glen Ridge contest last Saturday. He scored 10 points and with Chiarmonte, was very valuable on the boards.

Ray Zamloot, a sharpshooting junior guard, has excellent three point range and plays solid defense. Dominick Straface plays a heady game on the court and can play forward, or guard. Anthony Rodriguez has also seen some varsity action and should be a big help for future Belleville teams as well.

Lady Buc B-ballers

Win in the cities

Although the Belleville girls basketball team lost one of its talented starting forwards, the team has been playing some outstanding basketball.

Last week, the girls posted two more victories, beating Barringer, 71-31 and Passaic, 60-46. The victory over Barringer was a preliminary round, Essex County tournament game. The only blemish on Belleville's record this past week was a 76-57 setback to powerful Teaneck last Tuesday.

Karen Fuccello's troops took a 12-7 mark into a game with Arts last Monday. Yesterday, the girls battled Vailsburg in the second round of the Essex County tournament. The game was to be played at West Side High School in Newark. Tomorrow afternoon, the girls are home to Nutley in a 4 p.m. start. Next Tuesday, the team plays host to Paramus Catholic, also at 4.

While Fuccello is certainly pleased with the 12-7 mark, the coach points out the team could easily be 15-4 at this stage.

"I look at three of our losses and know we could have won," the coach said. "I feel we could have won the second Clifton game, the Columbia and first Montclair contest. However, we have been hit with injuries. Our younger kids are getting more of a chance to play varsity ball."

Fuccello has been without the services of sophomore forward, Stacey Johansen. She went down with a hyperextended knee back on January 7 against Eastside and has been out ever since. Currently, Johansen is rehabilitating the leg and it is questionable whether she will return this season.

Another player who started the year with an injury is senior guard, Racquel Melson. However, she has been playing very well of late and turned in a solid performance in the three games Belleville played last week.

In the victory over Barringer last Saturday, Belleville took control early and coasted home to victory. This was the second time the teams had met this season, and in both cases, Belleville was the dominant club.

"We got the chance to use some of our junior varsity players," Fuccello said. "It was a good opportunity for them to play extended time in the Essex County tournament."

Belleville jumped out to a 22-6 first quarter advantage and boosted the margin to 37-9 by intermission. It was 48-23 after three quarters, with the final count, 71-31.

Simone Edwards, the teams leading scorer, poured in 20 points to lead the Belleville attack. Laurie Dondarski had 14, Maria Chanley and Mia Hanos had nine points each, Carol Morrison and Melson finished with eight each, Amalia Fabiano and Thelina Espiritu scored three points each and Jennifer Bridge scored two to close the Belleville scoring.

The victory moved Belleville into the second round of the ECT, where Vailsburg will provide a tough test.

"We expect a difficult time with them," Fuccello said of the Newark school. "They have a legitimate division one college prospect. It will be a good test for us."

Earlier in the week, Belleville posted an NNJIL victory, beating Passaic for the second time this season. The final score was 60-46, and once again, Dondarski and Edwards paced the scoring attack for Belleville.

Dondarski, a junior guard, finished with 21 points. Edwards, a junior forward, had 19. Melson had a strong game, scoring nine points. Carol Morrison had seven and Nicole Wright, four.

"We were in control of the game early on," Fuccello said. "They (Passaic) were a tired club after playing a tough game with Bloomfield earlier in the week. We felt we could run and press them effectively."

Indeed, Belleville did the job, opening a three point lead after one quarter and extending the margin to nine points, 28-19, at intermission.

The girls were never headed in the second half and went home to a 14 point win.

The week started with a 19 point defeat to a powerful Teaneck club. Although the final margin would indicate a one sided contest, Fuccello was pleased with her teams effort against one of the states best.

"It's tough to contend with a team that jumps and runs as well as they do," she said. "They have an outstanding team. I thought we played well, but they had some excellent athletes out there."

Edwards and Dondarski combined for 41 points in the game, Edwards scoring 21 and Dondarski, 20. Morrison had eight points in the game and Melson finished with four.

NOTES: As far as the ECT is concerned, Belleville would play defending champion University in the quarterfinals if it defeated Vailsburg yesterday. Bloomfield is the top seed, with Irvington number two in this years ECT.

CUPID'S CUP — a gymnastic meet held last Sunday at Gymnastic World, Hillside Avenue, Nutley, is sanctioned by the U.S. Gymnastic Federation. This local quartet, Natalie Mancuso, Belleville; Meredith Behson, Kearny; Roxanne Campione, Nutley and Jennifer Hoyt of Bergenfield, defended their Class II state title.

A year of firsts for Varsity Bucs as Teaneck, Glen Ridge go down

This has been a year of firsts for the Belleville boys' basketball team. Belleville beats Passaic for the first time in ten years. Belleville beats Nutley for the first time in five years. Belleville stops Montclair at home for the first time in 20 years.

Last week, Don Roll's club added two more "firsts". The Bucs downed Teaneck in an inter-conference battle, 63-56, then stopped Glen Ridge, 51-44 in the first round of the Essex County tournament. It was the first time Belleville had ever defeated Teaneck in boys' basketball and it's the first time in some 22 years that Belleville has advanced to the quarterfinal round of the Essex County tournament.

Belleville took a 13-4 record into this weeks action. The Bucs battled St. Joe's of Montvale last Tuesday and will play Shabazz High School tomorrow night, at Essex County College, in the quarterfinal round of the ECT. Game time is 7 p.m. Shabazz is the number two seed in this years ECT, but Belleville feels it has a good chance to advance to the semi final round. The Bucs will play Paramus Catholic, next Tuesday on the road, game time at 4 p.m. The Bucs were scheduled to play Nutley tomorrow night, but because of the ECT, that game has been rescheduled for February 23, at Nutley in a 7:30 p.m. tip off.

In beating Teaneck and Glen Ridge last week, Belleville upended two very good basketball teams. Teaneck was ranked number one in Bergen County entering the week and is usually one of the stronger teams in Group IV, Section I. Glen Ridge entered last Saturday's ECT game with a 13-1 record, its only defeat coming to Nutley earlier in the season.

Although the Bucs beat Glen Ridge, and the team never relinquished the lead after the first quarter, Roll was not handing out cigars after the game.

"Do you think we played well," the coach questioned. "I don't. Yes, we won, and it was a good victory for our program, but ask the kids. They'll tell you it wasn't one of our better efforts. What's good about a game like this is the kids know they could have played better. They weren't celebrating in there (the lockerroom) after this game."

The Bucs played a strong defensive game in the first half, holding Glen Ridge, a Group I power, to eight points in the first and second quarters. The Bucs led, 23-16, at intermission, but the feeling was Belleville couldn't put the game away.

Glen Ridge chipped away at the deficit in the second half, closing the Belleville lead to seven points at one stage in the third quarter. However, the Bucs would not relent, and with Ted Sochaski, Leon Puentes, Steve Schwed and Chris Chiarmonte leading the way, Belleville never allowed Glen Ridge closer than five points.

It seemed the Bucs had the ability to pour it on when necessary, but the team couldn't break the game wide open.

Sochaski led the balanced Belleville attack with 15 points. Puentes, moving ever closer to the magical 1,000 point plateau, scored 12. Entering last Tuesday's game with St. Joe's, the senior guard needed just two points to become the fifth Belleville mens player to eclipse the 1,000 point mark.

Schwed scored ten points and played a strong defensive game. Chiarmonte finished with seven points, Ray Zamloot had five and Dominick Straface, two.

Last Tuesday, Belleville won a gigantic contest against a very good Teaneck club. It was a game that Roll felt his team had to win.

"After the Montclair disaster (a 57-39 loss on January 29), we were down," the coach said. "We needed a game like this to get us back on the winning track."

Teaneck, with some big men on the front line, provided stiff competition for the Bucs. However, Belleville met the challenge. The Bucs jumped out to a 20-19 first quarter lead and maintained that one point lead after three tough quarters. Entering the final eight minutes, Belleville led, 43-42.

The Bucs enjoyed the challenge of a close game down the stretch and took it to the Bergen County power. Belleville outscored Teaneck, 20-14 in the final frame and came away with a seven point win, 63-56.

Puentes paced the Belleville offense with 25 points. Ten of those came in the final quarter when Belleville pulled away to victory. Sochaski closed with 20, Chiarmonte had nine, Zamloot finished with four, Straface had three and Schwed closed the scoring with two.

For Teaneck, Jean Prioleau had 18 points and Walter Hume and Sam Rowe had 14 points each.

It certainly was a week of firsts in a season of victory for the Belleville boys' basketball team. A few more of those firsts, and Belleville could be sitting on top of the ECT in a few weeks.

NOTES: The quarterfinal matchups, all of which will be played at Essex County College, feature Orange vs Weequahic, Verona vs Clifford Scott, Nutley vs Columbia and Belleville vs Shabazz. The way the brackets are set up, if Belleville and Nutley get by their quarterfinal matchups, they will face each other in the semi final round, at Essex County College. Orange and Scott are slight favorites to win their quarterfinal contests and meet in the other semi final match.

Puentes will become the second Belleville player in two years to break the 1,000 point mark. Sochaski eclipsed the mark last year and earlier this season became the all time leading scorer in mens basketball history at BHS. Second on the list is Abdel Anderson, third is Phil Colalillo and fourth, Wayne Bubet.

Track team in novice meet at Peddie

The Belleville indoor track team took part in a novice meet at the Peddie School and competed in the boys' state championships last weekend.

The Bucs will compete in the girls' state championships this weekend at Princeton and next Thursday, the entire squad races in the Essex County championships at the Peddie School.

At the novice meet, head coach John Tosato saw his younger runners turn in some strong performances.

In the 50 yard run, Freshmen Emilio De Guia, Phil Patuto and Brian Doyle turned in times of 6.7, 7.2 and 7.3 respectively.

In the girls 50, freshman Melanie Bonacorsa ran a 7.4 and another freshman, Justine Ernst, turned in a 7.6. Sophomore Diane Di Vincenzo finished the 50 in 7.6.

In the 55 meter hurdles, sophomore Mark Tonelli ran 9.5. Tonelli then came back and ran a strong 800 meters, clocking in at 2:29.

A host of Belleville runners took part in the 400 meters. De Guia had the top time with a 68.3. Doyle finished in 71.1, freshman Danielle Grouling turned in an excellent time of 72.2, Di Vincenzo crossed the wire in 78.9, Bonacorsa, 80.5 and Ernst, 83.0.

In the mile run, freshman Paul Parmenter continued his strong running with an excellent time of 5:23. Sophomore Garf Nanjia ran the mile in 5:43. Grouling, after a fine quarter mile, ran a very good mile in 6:54.

The two mile saw Parmenter finish in 11:54.3 and Nanjia, 12:58. In the shot put, Vin Strumolo had the top throw of 26'4 1/2". Patuto was second with a throw of 24'2 1/2" and Andrew Hutchison came in with 17'8 1/2". All three men had their best throws of the indoor season.

"We were happy with the performance of our younger athletes," Tosato said. "It was a good test for them and they had some good numbers."

At the state championships, last weekend, Mario Lemongello turned in a personal best in the 400 meters with a time of 58.1. Jay Marchese ran the 55 meters in 7.1 and Bob Scheible had a 9.1 in the 55 meter hurdles.

In the 800 meters, Greg Moriello ran a 2:13.9. Moriello came back with a strong 1600 meters, coming in at 5:07.

The Bucs were without the services of Vin Padula, who has been sidelined with a back injury. Tosato was hopeful that Padula would be back in the lineup for the county championships next Thursday.

Roots Of Words

TAWDRY: St. Audrey was a very fine person. However, cheap trinkets and souvenirs used to be sold at fairs held in her honor at Ely in England. Eventually, the objects came to be described by the way the English pronounced St. Audrey—Staudrey. Staudrey turned into tawdry.

Children's librarian named Mountainside Director

Alice Cronin, the popular children's librarian of the Belleville Public Library, left her post on February 6 to become the new director of the Mountainside, N.J. Public Library.

To children and parents, who have made the library's James J. Cozzarelli Jr. Children's Room one of the busiest children's libraries in New Jersey, Mrs. Cronin's departure signals the end of an era, a time when the children's facility went from a dingy, green basement corner to become a showcase for children's books and programming.

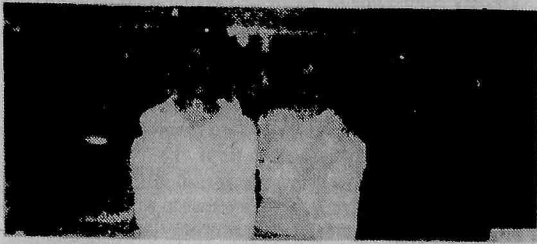

According to library director David Bryant, "Alice came to us in 1984, full of energy and with a clear vision of the potential of our children's department. She never flagged in her commitment to quality, in book selection and in imaginative programs."

Continuity will be maintained, in both the character of new book purchasing and in the variety of children's programming.

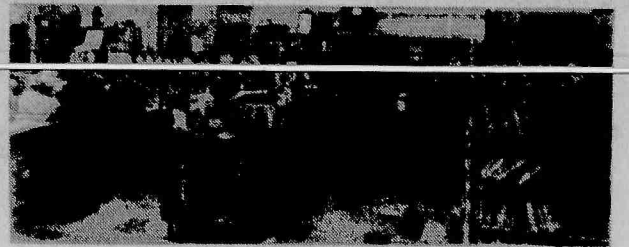

"Alice Cronin was responsible for the sparkle in the Cozzarelli Room," Bryant said, "but I know that I speak for our Trustees when I say that Kathleen Mollica, appointed interim children's coordinator, will maintain the high standards of our children's services."

the library, the community and members of the staff. She will be supported by library assistants Lorraine Kimmel, Barbara Fischer and Laura Hiller.

In approaching her new responsibilities, Mollica said, "This challenge comes to me at a time of transition at the library. But the environment of the Cozzarelli Room, our good collection and the very willing staff will make this change easier." Mollica will also continue to oversee much of the Shafter Branch operation, particularly the children's programming.

The Children's Department transition team: (l. to r.) Kathleen Mollica, Alice Cronin, Lorraine Kimmel and Barbara Fischer.

Before: The Children's Room in 1984, at the time of Alice Cronin's arrival as children's librarian.

After: The James J. Cozzarelli Jr. Children's Room in 1988, a tribute to the hard work and good design of Library Trustee Cozzarelli and Alice Cronin.

Bella Casa Caterers

The important words around Bella Casa Caterers are — quality, service and dependability. Quality, because at Bella Casa Caterers, only the freshest and finest foods reach the customer and enhance the memory of the catered event. Service, because the people of Bella Casa will do whatever is necessary to assure that customer concerns are minimized while these experts in food service assume responsibility for your next affair. Dependability, because with eight years of experience in Belleville, Bella Casa Caterers have established an enviable record of performance.

Bella Casa was established in 1980 and as Gary Carfagno, sales representative, says "We take special pride in understanding the important needs of our customers." The experts in food service at Bella Casa include the owners, Peter Norton and Michael Dala Riva, who offer full catering service at their facilities at 2 Acme Street, Belleville, or the same service in the customer's home.

With 12 employees, each trained with strong people-orientation and each with great enthusiasm for gourmet food service, Bella Casa has satisfied hundreds of customers, some celebrating in small groups while others enjoyed large, catered events. As Gary Carfagno says, "Our crack staff will go to great lengths to insure your satisfaction."

Bella Casa Caterers is one of 165 member businesses that make up the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, where the slogan — "It's Better in Belleville" means business.

WHAT MEETS THE EYE
"Red eyes" may result from contact with smoke, polluted air, or chlorine, or stem from fatigue. The redness results when blood vessels dilate in the white portion of the eye. Many popular eye drops are available to treat this problem. They all contain ocular vasoconstrictors which narrow the blood vessels in the eye. Such preparations, however, should not be used when it is necessary to flush, or irrigate, the eye. For instance, when a foreign particle must be flushed from the eye, an eye wash should be used. These products contain no active ingredients which might worsen the irritation and pain. In fact, they consist of sterile water and inactive ingredients that approximate natural tear's salinity and acidity.

There will be no problem getting complete prescription service if you come to ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 438 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956. We are Medicare and Blue Cross approved. See us for gifts for Valentine's Day. Greeting cards, Russell Stover candies, cameras, Timex watches, transistor radios and many other items are stocked. Hours: 9am-10pm daily, 9am-9pm Sundays.

HANDY HINT:
Conjunctivitis, red eyes with tearing and a discharge, require an ophthalmologist's exam, not OTC eye drops.

Head nurse of Clara Maass oncology unit

Inserra named chairperson for Essex cancer fundraiser

Rosemary Inserra, head nurse of the oncology unit at Clara Maass Medical Center in Belleville, has been named chairperson of this year's Daffodil Days, an annual fund-raising event for the Essex County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Inserra will coordinate all activities for the sale of fresh-cut daffodils. Last year's sale raised $11,500 for the Society's research, education and patient service programs.

Inserra, who graduated from Felician College in Lodi, has been head nurse for the past three years. She is a member of the Oncology Nursing Society, the Board of Managers of the Essex Unit of the American Cancer Society and the Service and Rehabilitation Committee of the American Cancer Society.

The Daffodil Days Committee plans to sell the flowers from March 21 to 26 at various locations throughout Essex County, including businesses, hospitals, colleges and high schools.

"As the first flower of spring, the daffodil symbolizes life and hope," Inserra said. "Supporting Daffodil Day means giving hope to cancer patients and giving yourself a touch of spring."

Volunteers will be taking donations for the flowers, which are shipped from Washington especially for the festival at $4 a bouquet of 10, $110 for 1/2 box (250 daffodils) and $190 for a full box (500 daffodils).

In addition to the donations by the general public, Inserra hopes the majority of funds will be raised through advance purchase by local businesses and corporations.

"We've had tremendous success in the past from business and industry. Some companies have purchased flowers for every secretary as a token of appreciation, others have purchased bouquets and donated them to local hospitals for the patients," she said.

For more information on Daffodil Days, including details on advance sales, contact the Essex County Unit of the American Cancer Society at 678-1990.

Book Review

by Ralph Hollenbeck

BRENDAN, by Frederick Buechner (Atheneum: $17.95).

Some years back, Tim Severin emulated the example of Thor Heyerdahl to prove that the legendary transatlantic voyages of Ireland's St. Brendan to the New World in a hide-covered craft were indeed possible. Frederick Buechner cites Severin's book a source in compiling this biographical novel that engrossingly combines fact, legend and imagination in a compelling recreation of a man and his time.

Mr. Buechner, author of the award-winning "Godric" and other fiction and nonfiction, has penetrated the mists of the Dark Ages to flesh out the bare bones of a man who followed in the footsteps of St. Patrick but whose life and deeds exist only in the sketchy records of the early Catholic Church and in the 10th century account of his voyages that became the stuff of medieval legend.

Brendan the saint, though prone to speak openly of his exploits, would scarcely have been as earthy in their recital as his friend and follower Finn. The author chose wisely in Finn, for he is a realist, capable of seeing his friend's faults and yet still bound to him in faith and brotherhood.

Ireland six centuries after Christ was a world of minor kings and would-be saints. Brendan, taken from his parents at birth, was destined to be one of the latter. Mr. Buechner's description of the harshness of life at that time reads true but it is his account of the flourishing Church and their practices that captivates.

Yet Brendan is known for his westering voyages as much as for his religious zeal, and here the author excels in recounting his subject's attempts to Tir-na-n-Og, the Terrestrial Paradise he sought. There is even conjecture Brendan made landfall in Florida, which is adroitly depicted in the book.

Fiction it may be, but there's probably no better biography of the navigator-priest than "Brendan."

DENTALLY SPEAKING

By Drs. James D. Muglia and Paul N. De Maio

Q. Mrs. K. asks: "What is fluoride and how does it work?"

A. Fluoride is a chemical which in some areas is naturally in the drinking water. Fluoride is like calcium in its chemical structure so sometimes it takes the place of calcium in molecules. When teeth are formed they are mostly made up of molecules containing calcium. If the child has fluoride either naturally or in their vitamins the fluoride is substituted for some of the calcium as the tooth grows. Fluoride is incorporated into the tooth making it part calcium and part fluoride.

Teeth that have fluoride in their makeup are stronger chemically and decay cannot penetrate as quickly. Therefore when plaque lays on the tooth it is harder for the bacteria to eat into the enamel.

Philomena Capanear

Philomena S. Capanear, beloved wife of the late Michael A. Capanear, entered into eternal rest on February 4, at Clara Maass Nursing Home.

Mrs. Capanear was born in New York City on January 17, 1902. When still a child, the family moved to Newark and since 1921 she had been a resident of Belleville.

Mrs. Capanear was a charter member of the Columbus Hospital Ladies Auxiliary, Newark, the Belleville Chapter of Deborah and the James G. Shawger School

PTA in Belleville.

She is survived by her three children, Mrs. Cornelis (Marie) Vander Zwan, Michael and Donald Capanear, all of Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. P. Kazalski of Freehold and Mrs. E. Smith of San Francisco, six grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were conducted by the La Monica Memorial Home. A Mass of Requiem was offered at Holy Family R.C. Church, Nutley, and interment at Immaculate Cemetery in Montclair.

Last year 105,000 Americans under age 65 died of heart attacks. In fact, 45 percent of all heart attacks happen to people younger than 65. If you're old enough to be concerned about heart disease, be wise enough to take the steps recommended by the American Heart Association to reduce your risk. Don't smoke. Reduce the fat and cholesterol in your diet. And control high blood pressure. Act now. Because it's never too early to start taking care of yourself.
