Date set for mall by zoners

A date for the proposed shopping mall at the Walter Kidde site was set by the Belleville Zoning Board at its meeting Tuesday night as most applications were adjourned to September's meeting because only four board members attended the meeting.

September 14, a Wednesday night, the board will meet with representatives from Route 21 Associates, the owners of the land, to have preliminary talks about plans for the tire manufacturing site. A use variance for the site was approved by the zoners last month.

Three apartment complex proposals were postponed because only four of the seven members were present. A fifth member, Kevin Kennedy, was not a member of the board due to the fact he had an application to present. For a proposal to be approved, it requires five affirmative votes.

Twenty-nine units over two three story buildings from 7-33 Cortlandt Street was to be discussed. Two three story apartment houses, creating nine new units on Harrison was also to be heard but both were moved to the September 6 meeting.

A third application, for two three story, 12 unit residential apartment complex was also to be heard but only after the attorney for the applicant, Jolly Roger Motor Court, asked for a postponement.

Robert Gaccione told the board he and his client were prepared to present the case Tuesday night but were requesting not to because not enough voting members were present.

By doing this, Jolly Roger was not forced to waive the time limit requirement to hear a case that is imposed on the board.

Birthday banners go up in town

As you walk in to Belleville Town Hall it catches your eye and offers a reminder as to what the year 1989 means to the town. The blue and gold brings a certain amount of life to the fact that Belleville will be celebrating its 150th anniversary.

For those who do not go to Town Hall or who have not noticed the banner, a second banner, violet in color, waves with the wind at Belleville Public Library. The banner at the library also signifies the birthday but also proclaims Belleville as "The Cherry Blossom Capital."

David Bryant, chairman of the anniversary committee, was more than satisfied with the banners and what they symbolize. "They're good symbols. They're early markers of what is coming in five months. It's a clue to the town that 1989 is something special."

Bryant said he and James J. Cozzarelli sat down and discussed the banners, coming up with the color, design and slogan for the library banner. He said they wanted to "play up" the idea of the cherry blossoms as well as the anniversary. Once a decision was reached they ordered banners, the one at Town Hall be 20 feet long by six feet high and the library's more modest one of three feet long by nine feet high.

"They may be a bit overbearing now but we chose bright, strong colors because we know they're going to fade," over the course of the year, explained Bryant.

Bryant ordered the banners from Apollo Flag Company in Totowa, whose part-owner is from Belleville. Bryant said the library had ordered a banner from the company in 1986 and he had no

Commission meeting cancelled once again due to lack of quorum

A special Belleville Board of Commissioners meeting was postponed for the second time in less than a week when a quorum could not be reached last Thursday.

Commissioner of Parks and Public Property Vincent Frantantoni and Commissioner of Public Affairs Joseph Fornarotto had called a meeting for last Tuesday but a quorum was not reached so the meeting was re-scheduled for Thursday. Thursday night the two were the only members of the five-man board to attend.

Mayor Michael Pizzi was out of the country on vacation while Commissioner of Public Works Angelo Risoli was admitted to Clara Maass Medical Center Thursday for a hernia operation. Commissioner of Finance Joseph McGreevey, when asked at his bar why he did not show for the meeting, said while he knew about the meeting he had seen his doctor Thursday afternoon and had been instructed to not do anything or go anywhere.

When citizens pressed McGreevey further, McGreevey asked who called the meeting. After he was told Frantantoni and Fornarotto had scheduled it, McGreevey said it takes at least three commissioners to call a special meeting.

State statute specifies it takes only two commissioners to call a special meeting.

"We're trying to do something here but we can't if the others don't show up," Fornarotto told the crowd as he closed his briefcase. He then explained to the audience at least three commissioners are needed for a meeting, therefore, no action could take place.

The two had called the meeting to discuss a variety of topics including the Board of Education budget cuts, renewing contract negotiations with town employees and resolutions authorizing pavement of streets and stating Pizzi did not have the power to call for a declaratory judgement on Fornarotto's two town positions.

Clara Maass construction halted because of gas smell

By Pat Brightman

Construction for a new tiered parking garage and addition to the Continuing Care Center at Clara Maass Medical Center has been halted until a determination of gases released from the ground can be made.

Robert Arnold, vice president of support services at the hospital, said an odor at the site first made everyone aware of the potential problem. Commissioner of Public Affairs Joseph Fornarotto said two equipment operators became dizzy while working at the site. At first the heat was considered the cause of the lightheadedness but they soon realized it was from the gas.

Arnold said Public Service Electric and Gas (PSE&G) visited the site last week and determined the gas has not been caused by any of their piping.

"The city of Newark used to dump their garbage there," said Fornarotto. "When they disturbed the ground it brought the gas out."

"Everything's O.K. now though," he said.

"We received a report of methane gas," described Belleville Health Officer Thomas Longo, "swamp gas also." Longo added ashes had been dumped there years ago by people living in the area because of coal-burning stoves.

Arnold said it does not appear to be methane gas, though he said no determination of the gas has been made. Specialists were brought in this week to investigate the cause and type of gas. "We are taking absolutely all precautions for the safety of everyone involved," he said. "If there are sufficient findings (from the specialists' tests) that would cause us to change the engineering we will do that."

"We will take the first logical step after we review the tests," declared Arnold.

"It is nothing of any significance," stated Longo. "They can vent it out. They may not find anything because by scraping the blacktop and digging the top dirt up they may have released all the gas. We won't know until the engineers take the samples."

Construction began approximately four weeks ago on the project. It is unknown when work will begin again at the site.

No decision given

Conflict of interest heard in Newark Superior Court

By Pat Brightman

Testimony regarding a potential conflict of interest with Commissioner of Public Affairs Joseph Fornarotto's two town positions was completed by both sides but the judge refused to render a decision, saying he would like to review some material.

The Honorary Charles Villanueva

ueva said he would send a written formal decision after he had read over some documents, saying he saw no rush considering the situation has been ongoing for a year.

One of the first matters Villanueva addressed was the Public Advocate's decision that there seemed to be a conflict. "That letter (the decision) does not matter and will not be considered or relied upon by this court. It has no weight."

Township Attorney Frank Cozzarelli agreed with Villanueva, saying ultimately the decision is his honor's, not the Public Advocate's, Cozzarelli's or Marvin Waxman's, Fornarotto's attorney.

Cozzarelli said as housing inspector Fornarotto could not exercise authority affecting commissioners but as a commissioner he could exercise authority affecting the housing inspector.

"It is not an easy case to litigate or present," said Cozzarelli. "There is no dispute he was an employee prior to the election."

"The question it comes down to is whether or not a housing inspector and being a commissioner can bring about incompatibility," he reasoned.

Cozzarelli explained former Belleville Mayor Michael Marotti was elected commissioner while he was a police officer and a court determined he had to choose. Villanueva said similar situations had occurred in Newark but the Marotti example would not affect his decision.

The town attorney changed directions after that, saying Fornarotto had participated in talks with the other commissioners about negotiations for the Belleville Municipal Employees Association (BMEA). Minutes from closed executive commission sessions indicate he participated in negotiation talks in at least three instances, according to Cozzarelli.

"If I read paragraph 15 correctly, the defendant states he had no active participation in the negotiations," countered Waxman. Waxman said Fornarotto is just a line item out of the entire budget and his salary is based on his hours of work and years of service. "He's just like every other town employee."

"Except he can vote on his own salary increase," replied Villanueva. A pay increase for town employees would ultimately have to go before the board of commissioners for approval and Villanueva reasoned Fornarotto would have to disqualify himself from the vote, which would mean he was in a conflict of interest.

Waxman said Fornarotto's vote would not be the determining factor of a pay raise. He also reasoned incompatible duties must clash and Fornarotto's positions do not because one is a full-time position during the day and the other a part-time position with meetings at night.

Waxman repeated a question raised by Villanueva as to whether

Belleville POLICE BEAT

By Pat Brightman

An estimated $14,000 worth of money and merchandise was stolen from an apartment on Cuozzo Street while the owner was at work July 22.

The owner said she had used a deadbolt to lock her door before leaving for work. When she returned she found her bedroom ransacked and assorted jewelry and other items missing. Entry was gained from sliding glass doors on the balcony.

The case is being investigated by the detective bureau.

A house on Lake Street was broken into two consecutive nights on July 25 and 26 with the culprits stealing a portable television, a VCR and a microwave.

The house was broken into on the 25th but nothing was taken. The following night apparently the same individuals broke in again and took the appliances. Entry was gained through a side door and the case is being investigated by the detective bureau.

On July 22 a house on Chestnut Street was burglarized with a white, vinyl pocketbook containing $200, credit cards and assorted papers being taken. Entry was gained by taking a picnic table in the back yard and placing it under the kitchen window. The only room that appeared to be checked was the kitchen.

An 18 year-old and 17 year-old juvenile were arrested July 22 and charged with aggravated assault after one apparently threw a brick at a delivery person.

The person was riding a bike and delivery Chinese food to an apartment. When he could not find the apartment he stopped three individuals, two juveniles and Doug Polec. Instead of getting directions he was pushed and the delivery person ran and hid in a basement.

Approximately 10 minutes later, the delivery person came out from the basement, anticipating the three individuals had left. When he came out one of the suspects struck him with the brick.

Golden Comments

By Jim Golden

Kuwait's prime minister had come to Washington fighting the most powerful lobby, the American-Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC), which had forced the U.S. Senate to eliminate a battery of advanced Maverick air-to-surface missiles from a proposed $1.9 billion sale of F-18 fighters and support equipment to Kuwait.

Sheik Saad al Abdullah al Salim al Sabah hinted the entire package would be imperiled unless Congress reversed its decision. The argument, under normal circumstances, would carry little weight with AIPAC's supporters in Congress, however, they do have reason to consider the broader ramifications. Saudi Arabia had just announced a 10-year arms agreement — worth up to $30 billion — with Britain... Riyadh, capital of Saudi Arabia, would have preferred to do business with its longtime American suppliers, but so big an arms deal would have caused intense hostility in Congress... "No one's willing to pay billions of dollars to be insulted," said a senior Saudi source.

More than money was involved in the deal. The primary goal of the current presence in the Persian Gulf has been to reassure conservative Arab states that the U.S. commitment to their safety is real. But, says Judith Kipper, a Middle East specialist at the Brookings Institute, "You can't have it both ways. You can't ask them for strategic cooperation, for moderation in their foreign policy, and then tell them they can't buy what they think they need for their security."

The loss of American arms sales will "obviously" weaken U.S. influence, says an Arab diplomat in Washington. "When we make a decision affecting war and peace, the higher the percentage of your equipment we have, the more we have to take your views into account."

The AIPAC may have harmed Israel by forcing the Saudis to go to London. Chief among the items to be bought from British Aerospace are 48 Tornado ground-attack fighters, regarded the finest in the world. They can fly low, evade radar and deliver a heavy payload of bombs, including munitions that break up runways — a likely Arab tactic in any future war with Israel.

Saudi Arabia will also enjoy greater freedom of deployment. Were the Saudis now buying F-15's for example, the Pentagon would almost surely require that they remain near the rim of the Persian Gulf, well away from Israel. "Britain wouldn't place that kind of restriction," says a British Aerospace official. A mid-level Israeli diplomat in London worries that AIPAC may be reacting instinctively to any potential sale to the Arabs. "I wonder," he says, "if anyone in Israel is making strategic analyses of these sales to the Arabs and deciding which to kill in Congress, or if they're just reacting to what AIPAC is doing in Washington. I hope someone is making the decision. But it may be a case of the tail wagging the dog."

Says Philip Robins, a Mideast expert with Royal Institute of International Affairs, "It's an insult to a state to suggest it will give its weapons to the PLO, when the U.S. gives portable Stinger missiles to the Afghan rebels who resell them to Iran."

What surprises some experts is that the Saudis waited so long to sever the U.S. connection... Saudi arms sales faced bitter fights in Congress as long ago as 1978. Trained observers have observed that, for a country that has put a premium on discretion, the congressional fights were too embarrassing.

White House officials are concerned and trying to revive the Kuwait arms deal... the alternative they fear would be further losses throughout the Arab world. Ronald Reagan told reporters, "You bet we're going to fight for it." Even AIPAC was having qualms about the impact of its lobbying.

With the entire Kuwaiti package in danger, AIPAC members are having second thoughts. Suggests the Israeli diplomat in London, the best thing that AIPAC could do now would be to lobby Congress to support reasonable arms deals. Or it could simply reconsider whether blanket opposition serves the cause of Israeli security — to say nothing of the diplomatic interests of the United States.

COUNTER POINTS

Very often, the best person to ask about drug-related matters is the pharmacist. His pharmacological training is constantly being updated so that he has the latest facts about drugs and their interactions. In fact, many physicians rely on pharmacists for this up-to-date information. More importantly, the pharmacist keeps a file on each of his customers so that he can track their intake of medicines. Such files provide warnings of allergic reactions, unwanted drug combinations, and any prolonged duration of use. Patients are thus provided with a comprehensive degree of protection from possible ill effects. As far as over-the-counter remedies are concerned, the pharmacist is a consumer's best source of information concerning their desirability and effect. However, a pharmacist is not in a position to prescribe medicines.

Friendly, helpful service is given to all customers at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956. We're Medicare and Blue Cross approved. Cameras, film, Timex watches, transistor radios and greeting cards are handled. Open 9 am - 10 pm daily, 9 am - 9 pm Sundays.

HINT: Many times a pharmacist can recommend an active ingredient in a different base which will avert allergic symptoms.

Local magician uses tricks to educate young children

By Pat Brightman

Magic and magicians have always had a certain allure to them. Performances where the eyes and minds of the audiences are baffled by the tricks have long mesmerized individuals since the days of King Arthur and Merlin.

In those days, however, it was called "black magic" in many circles and a characteristic of the magicians was the black hat and long black capes.

While many try to keep that image alive Belleville magician Joseph Fischer brings a different meaning to his act, wearing bright colors and outfits that on some occasions do not even match. The purpose is to make his primary audience relaxed and to comprehend the full effects of his show.

Fischer's audiences tend to be children and he brings a message with his shows, such as promoting reading and an anti-drug message.

"There's a fine line between educating and entertaining," explained the 25 year-old. "Educating becomes boring. The magic compliments the education and the education compliments the magic."

A non-traditional show is the description Fischer gave to his act. He does do famous magic tricks such as pulling a rabbit out of a hat but he promotes a great deal of audience participation during his 45 minute to one hour show and feels personality is the key.

"You can't fool the kids because then it becomes a puzzle and kids don't like puzzles," said Fischer, feeling audience participation will help the children remember not only the show but the message he conveys.

Mindful of whether the children understand the true meaning of the show, Fischer has the children write critiques of what they received from it.

His career as a professional magician has spanned the past four years, immediately after he graduated college, but has been practicing the art since he was 10. "A couple of friends were fooling around with it and I got started. They stopped but I've kept going."

Even after earning his degree in Marketing and Business he had the urge to try his hand at the illusionary skill and his parents have been nothing but supportive.

"I figured I would give it a shot while I was young," stated Fischer. "If it worked, great, if it didn't I'd always have my degree to fall back on."

He hasn't fallen anywhere, performing approximately 300 shows a year, traveling around the state and appearing at school assemblies, library programs and birthday parties. He has used his college education to promote himself, sending an estimated 5,000 direct mail brochures to the many institutions in the state. Beginning this year he and his assistant Michele De Meo, who is also his fiancé, will also look to expand their audience to include Pennsylvania, New York and Staten Island.

"We've done every little town you've never heard of in New Jersey so now we're going to try and do every little town you've never heard of in other states," he said.

On August 8, he will be performing in a town some people may have heard. The name of the town is Belleville and his show will be performed in the Belleville Public Library.

problems with it.

The committee held a meeting Wednesday evening and decided on subcommittees and discussed possible activities for next year. Among the topics discussed was a fundraising ball to help kick things off. Bryant also said citizen involvement is encouraged by all involved.

"At the first meeting we had about 30 residents," recalled Bryant. "We hope we can do better than that." He said he felt the awareness created by the banners may induce some individuals who know historic information on the town to come forward and help the committee.

Bryant said he expected citizen involvement over the "long haul" to be volunteering for activities and purchasing tickets to the ball.

Mountainside Hospital enjoys annual picnic

The annual picnic for members of The Mountainside Hospital family was held recently in the yard next to the School of Nursing Building. Employees, volunteers, physicians, students, children from the hospital's Small Wonders Child Care Center and recent retirees of the hospital all took part in the festivities. Martha Stewart, R.D., the director of Food and Nutrition Services at the hospital, estimates over 1,500 people were served during the picnic. In addition, evening and nighttime workers enjoyed the picnic menu in the cafeteria during their shifts.

According to Joseph Mitchell, Food Preparation and Catering Supervisor from the hospital's Food and Nutrition staff, the planning for the picnic begins one month ahead of time.

"The hospital's first large scale employee picnic was held in 1976. Each year since then we have made slight changes in an effort to make the event more special," explained

Mitchell. "This year, for example, we served sausage and pepper heroes for the first time. We also served Wellness Burgers, hamburgers made with leaner meats and served on whole wheat buns, which had been introduced in the hospital's cafeteria during this year's celebration of National Nutrition Month."

OUR OPINION

Digging up garbage

The discovery of gas at Clara Maass Medical Center is just another example of the past abuse of the environment finally catching up with us. It appears like so many other things, that by the time people realize they have made a grave mistake it is too late to change it.

For years the area where Clara Maass now stands was a dump for the people in the area. Garbage, ashes, whatever people did not want in their homes was dumped there. At the time no one thought anything of it, the effects were not known. It soon stopped but other areas were used for the same purpose, such as the Hackensack Meadowlands dump, which upon its closing has forced the garbage crunch to hit Belleville. But that is only a minor problem compared to what the effect this kind of thinking, and dumping, has done to our environment.

The land in Belleville was built upon but many other areas that served as dumping grounds can not be used for anything at all. The land has become what was tossed in it, waste. In fact, the only thing land used for dumping can do is destroy surrounding land, leaving little or no land for such things as gardens and farms. Granted not many farms could call Belleville home because of the lack of land but the quality of land will soon deteriorate even if the area was available.

It is just a sign of exactly what the earth can take and how much. Land is being used at a rapid rate for garbage, as waste from New Jersey must be shipped as far away as Ohio. Now, it appears there is not enough land, indicated by what has happened at the ocean shores over the course of the last two summers. Last year, promises were made to insure safe, clean swimming for this year but everyone knows how effective a job was done. With this summer worse than last it makes one wonder what next summer will bring.

The gas found at the area around Clara Maass (and it is obvious the hospital is not at fault, it was the people dumping before the facility even existed) makes one wonder how suitable the land is in other areas surrounding us. If a large medical center can be built on land where garbage once was dumped, so can many other buildings and houses, only we do not know of it yet.

Preserving town history

Recent actions by Commissioner of Parks and Public Property Vincent Frantantoni and the Belleville Historical Society to preserve land and buildings from Belleville's past is an idea that is worth mentioning. Frantantoni and the Society, particularly Bernard O'Conner, have spent hours trying to acquire historical land and give this generation and future generations a link with the town's past.

Work is being done to have the Recreation House on Joralemon Street named a historical landmark, as it was built in the early 1800s and still has many of the original qualities. Work is also being done on possibly leasing the Belleville Reservoir from Newark and preserving the buildings and land at the location, only a block away from the Recreation House. Both actions are a long time coming and if the actions are successful, would be a tremendous feather in the town's cap.

Progress is necessary to survive, there is no questioning that. But the past should always have a place in the present and by creating such a section of town, a large benefit would occur. Many of the old town artifacts can be gathered and stored in a central location, creating a museum for residents to visit and see the history of Belleville. The area will also give Belleville a stretch of natural land, where people can go and relax in a sea of green, surrounded by nothing but grass and trees. As most people know, open areas are becoming a thing of the past.

The action by these people will instill town pride and create a new flavor to the town, a flavor that many will find to have a pleasurable taste. And all of this is coming none too soon as everyone knows the town will be celebrating its 150th anniversary. Having something to remember those first 150 years would be a very intelligent concept.

Congratulations to all-stars

Special congratulations must be sent to the Belleville Little League All-Stars who won the District 8 All-Star Tournament. The American League stars defeated the National League counterparts for the title, a special feat, having two teams from the same town battle it out for a district title. With the victory the American League stars will now move on to the sectional championships with the ultimate goal reaching Williamsport for the Little League World Series.

Players from both squads should be very proud of themselves, as should the coaches, who are giving their free time for the development of Belleville's future baseball stars. We wish them continued success and hopefully the team will be on television later in the year taking on the best from the Far East.

Also deserving recognition is the 10 Year-Old All Stars who won the Tom Hanlon 10 Year-Old Nutley Tournament, defeating the best from surrounding towns. If this is any indication, the Belleville Little League is alive and well.

YOUR OPINION

A hearty laugh...

To the Editor:

I got the biggest laugh of my life in Belleville over 74 years, when I saw that banner which reads "It's better in Belleville." Whom is it better for, five commissioners who sit in their plush chairs at town meetings? I am so embarrassed when some out of town people ask me what's going on in Belleville. This commission without mention any names has the lowest mentality for leading our town that I ever knew in my 74 years in Belleville.

If this is all we can pick to run our town than we are in trouble. It's a disgrace the way they conduct these meetings, fights breaking out, shouting at one another and no work done. How do you five commissioners sleep at night?

As for Joe Fornarotto is concerned, why don't you let him do his job and he is doing it well. One job has nothing to do with the other. A man today with a family has to have two jobs, especially one part time job to feed his family.

Getting to the tax increase, it's ridiculous for what we get from Belleville, it's much too high.

Commissioner Frantantoni also is doing a good job, despite some critics telling him that he is doing nothing.

As for Mayor Pizzi, you have to learn to control your temper and control these meetings, or you are going to be lifted as some former commissioners were.

I can see some new commissioners as being a one time commissioner, or a one term commissioner, because of their actions at the meetings. I used to be a critic years ago with the old commissioners, but I would be glad to have them back.

Getting back to the Board of Education, why did this board allow a 8% and 9% pay increase when the rent control only allows landlords to raise their tenants 6% per year. If this isn't inflationary then what is?

I believe in giving a teacher a living wage but all the money in the world won't teach the kids any better. Teachers teach children, money don't. Whether you pay the teachers $20,000 or $50,000 a year they cannot teach your kids any different.

It's just pure politics in Belleville and always will be, until we get some honest people running our Board of Education and commissioners. No wonder Belleville is leading in the tax rate.

With all of the condos in Belleville the ratables should be enough to run our town. By the way, what happened to our new Police Station and our Seniors Building? I think we are the only town around that does not have a senior building. Maybe if the commissioners stop fighting at meetings, they can concentrate on these two issues.

Thank you for service

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Larry Schwartz and his distinguished staff for their services as attorneys to the Belleville Board of Education, for the past nine years, and through that service, they have contributed immeasurably to the quality of education for our children and to the understanding of the problems of education that confront members of the board and interested parents, and Larry Schwartz has also served as a trustee of that board and, through his dedication to his responsibilities, has demonstrated, time and again, his expertise in the law as it applied to Boards of Education. Larry Schwartz will soon depart the responsibilities he has handled with great competence in the service of the Belleville Board of Education to concentrate his many talents elsewhere.

Therefore, I, Joanne Sabatino, speaking as a past home and school president and also as an interested citizen, extend to Larry Schwartz the heartfelt thanks for the compassion, dedication, talent, understanding and competence with which he has discharged his official duties in behalf of public education in the Township of Belleville, New Jersey.

Reflect on democracy

To the Editor:

During this Presidential Election year's Independence Day celebration, Americans would be wise to reflect upon the "state of their Democracy."

I'm sure — after proper thought, on the vulnerability of their freedoms, concerned citizens would arrive at the conclusion that — crimes perpetrated against the Constitution of the United States, most definitely should be — "unpardonable!"

Landlord harassment?

To the Editor:

Please put this letter in the Nutley Sun and Belleville Times. I wrote a letter to judge in Landlord & Tenant Court. My landlord continues to harass me since 1986 and the lawyer knows the apartment I'm living in is under violation and threatened me on the phone to move out of premises.

Said she supened notice to quit and gave it to my daughter. My daughter isn't living here since March 1988. I've been looking for a suitable place to live, where home owners don't harass tenants and take care of property.

Ethnicity over ideology

To the editor:

Undoubtedly, many Greek-American Conservative Republicans will be casting their ballots for Liberal Democrat, Greek American, Michael Dukakis - this coming November.

In this fact lies the proof-in-the-pudding that, the bonds of our ethnicity are often far stronger than the shackles that bind us to our political ideology.

Chet Dobkowski

WE WELCOME LETTERS of interest to our local area. They should be short and to the point, they must be signed for attribution and contain the address and telephone number for verification.

Citizen harassment

To the Editor:

An open letter to the Mayor and the four Commissioners: Your Honor and Commissioners.

You gentlemen are duty bound to see that our town meetings are run in an orderly fashion. I'm making reference to the last meeting, where there was alot of jeering, booing and shouting by a few rabbel-rousers that it seems, their only purpose in attending, is to do exactly that. If anyone of you are insulted by people, then it is incumbent upon the rest of you commissioners to come to the aid of the commissioner who is being insulted, because it's not only the man you have to respect, it's the position that man has been elected to and should be accorded the respect of the people of Belleville. Commissioners, what's going on in town, is that people, who don't attend, read about it and aren't aware that it's just a few disgruntled people who are creating this horrible situation. We are the laughing stock of the state of N.J. if not, the whole country. Mayor Pizzi, don't adjourn the meeting because of these few people, who attend these meetings just to create chaos. These people are in the minority. You know who they are. If you five commissioners don't, then I'll spell them out to you.

To begin with: 1. Richard Yannuzzi, here's a man whose family moved out of town a few years ago to Marlboro. In order to keep his residency in Belleville, this man moves into a converted garage on Greylock Parkway, which is a one family zone and somehow got away with this violation. The home was sold and instead of going to Marlboro, which is his real residency, Mr. Yannuzzi established himself at another residence in Belleville. This young man, who drives around in a brand new Mercedes (and I don't begrudge him for that), does not work in town, he does not go to school in town, he does not own property in town, and he does not pay taxes in town. His true reason for establishing this residency in town is, to hold his position as an aid to Assemblywoman Marion Crecco and continue his political ambitions. The money, he is receiving as an aid, is a way a politician pays off their political debts.

2. Mrs. Florence Pentol - I attended one meeting and I heard this woman shout down a Belleville citizen, who was lamenting in a way about town affairs. She jumped up and said, "If you don't like it, move the hell out of town." At the last meeting, this woman had the unmitigated gall to make ethnic slurs to a citizen, who didn't happen to agree with her point of view. Mrs. Pentol, let me give you the definition of freedom of speech, because, I don't think you understand the meaning of it. An American can get up and express his views, without being jeered, so anyone can hear him whether he's in accord with your views or not! This is the American way, lady, and we as Americans hold that in very high esteem. Mrs. Pentol, if you have nothing better to do than to harass Belleville taxpayers, I suggest the next time the "Meals on Wheels" committee phones you for help, the least you could do is politely refuse, rather than just slam the phone down. I still suggest, perhaps if you volunteer to help us in this worthy cause, you might find that helping people is much more rewarding than booing and jeering people.

Please, once again, I appeal to the Commissioners, unless this harassment of citizens stops at once, not only does the town look bad, but it makes you five commissioners look equally the same.

Respectfully submitted,
 Jackie Rega

Staff excellence

To the Editor:

Our dad, Al Cairo, was a resident at the Clara Maass Continuing Care Center, Belleville, from January of this year to his death on July 22, 1988.

We wish to thank the entire staff for the excellent care he received and the genuine compassion shown to him during his stay.

White House shock

To the Editor:

I found it shocking, indeed, that the recent revelations of drug use by some White House personnel elicited little shock and no surprise from President Reagan.

I must say — White House drug-use could, very well, have been a contributing factor to those strange and weird happenings that have plagued the Reagan Administration these past four years.

Change of government

To the Editor:

Recently I have received many calls from citizens interested in a change of government and asking for my opinion and support.

Old timers in Belleville remember my past role as President of the Citizen's Tax Council. We were an active organization which finally succeeded in changing the government to the Council Manager form of government as per the recommendations made by a charter study commission who rendered their final report on Sept. 2, 1954. The first three pages of this final report are furnished for your and citizen's information.

We were finally successful in changing the government to council manager as recommended in the report. This government was most economical. As a matter of fact the city manager had 20 positions he was not filling because he said he did not need them.

After we had done our job and given the people of Belleville an efficient form of government we disbanded. This was an error on our part because after we disbanded the politicians organized because they could not bear to see 20 vacancies and in the old days they would have filled the positions with patronage, etc.

After so many years I am not personally interested in leading a new group, but I am providing this information for what it is worth. Incidentally, the Nutley Sun should also publish these findings, because they also are one of the few remaining towns with commission government. Thank you.

Foot Facts

by Paul A. Caputo, D.P.M.

FOOTLOOSE AND FANCY FREE

The health-conscious public and sports shoe manufacturers have paid considerable attention to the cushioning effect of running shoes. Podiatrists have long contended that walking barefoot (at the beach, for example) is good for the feet. Many podiatrists tell parents that allowing a toddler to walk unshod at home helps in the foot's development process. A study of recreational joggers shows that walking and jogging barefoot actually improves the structure of the arch. It is believed that because a bare foot can actually feel the surface underfoot, muscles at the bottom of the foot respond by strengthening themselves. X-rays of barefooted runners' feet showed an actual rise in their arches. Feet clad in running shoes were too insulated from stimulus to show any arch improvement.

Nevertheless, we need shoes to protect our feet from injury. A good running shoe will have plenty of insole cushioning, good longitudinal arch support, and a flexible sole. Make sure your running shoes fit your feet properly. For a consultation, call DR. PAUL A. CAPUTO at 759-6560. Our office is at 345 Washington Ave., Belleville. X-ray facilities available on the premises. Office hours by appointment only.

HINT: While walking barefoot all the time is impractical, occasional barefoot walks on sand and soft ground are beneficial.

DENTALLY SPEAKING

By Drs. James D. Muglia and Paul N. De Maio

Mrs. L. from Clifton asks: "How can I stop from grinding my teeth at night?"

"We suspect, Mrs. L., you're probably grinding during the day as well but it's not as recognizable. We often hear the reason for grinding as being 'nerves.' While being nervous may enhance the grinding conditions, let's look at alternative reasons. Have you had a recent filling or other dental treatment? Have you had teeth removed and other teeth are tilting into the created space? When you close your jaw, does one side meet opposing teeth sooner than the other side? Were you in any accident that could have shifted your jaw some? These are a few questions we have. Grinding may indicate something interfering with the proper closure or meeting of one jaw against another. During the day people are busy in their activities so grinding goes unnoticed. Check with your dentist and once the proper closure is restored, grinding will stop. Unfortunately grinding your teeth could become habit forming and that's where 'nerves' contribute, but we don't feel it a cause for grinding. Thank you.

RELIGIOUS VIEWPOINT

Gerald Fortunato, Pastor
Silver Lake Baptist Church

Lessons learned in the gale of affliction

And they feared exceedingly, and said to one another, "Who can this be, that even the wind and the sea obey Him!" (Mark 4:41)

Some things are certain. Like death, taxes, and taxing situations! Count on it - there will be storms and difficulties in every human life. You, like the disciples in Mark 4, may sometimes wonder, "Teacher, don't you care if we drown?"

Yes, He does care. Infinitely. Christ is faithful to see you through difficulties. Here are some reassuring words for stormy times.

Here were the twelve disciples in the path of duty. They were obediently following Jesus wherever He went. Yet here we see these men in trouble, tossed by a tempest and in danger of being drowned. Mark well this lesson. Being in Christ's service does not exempt His servants from storms.

It will not be strange if we have to endure sickness, losses, and disappointments just like other people. Our Savior has never promised that we shall have no afflictions. He loves us too well to promise that.

By affliction He teaches us many precious lessons, which otherwise we would never learn. By affliction He shows us our emptiness and weakness, draws us to the throne of grace, purifies our affections, weans us from the world, and makes us long for heaven.

It is easy to breathe a prayer of thanks when a storm is over. But what about when the waves are breaking? When there is water in the boat? When the noise of your circumstances threatens to drown out the prayer on your lips.

If faith in God works, it had better work then! Rest assured, it works. But, as the disciples learned, there is nothing like a good gale to add zest to your prayers!

Amato welcomes seven to Essex police force

Essex County Executive Nicholas R. Amato recently welcomed seven new recruits to the county police force.

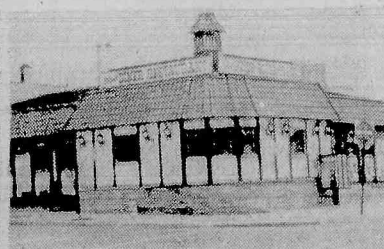

"I am very pleased to welcome these fine young men to the Essex County police force," Amato said. "I am certain these men will be a great asset to the county police and will serve the citizens of our county to the best of their abilities."

The new recruits are Gerald LaVacca and Anthony Nigro of Bloomfield, Stuart Lukowiak and Orlando Baez of Newark, Michael Kasper of Nutley, Stephen Xenios of Belleville and David S. Drylie of West Orange.

The county police force patrols all county parks, reservations, recreation facilities and other county-owned property, enforces traffic codes and assists local police when requested. Additionally, the county police force has a Special Weapons and Tactics team and a scuba team for emergency situations.

IT'S BETTER IN BELLEVILLE — Co-owner Joe Berger, Robocop, co-owner Lou Paravoschi and Belleville Chamber of Commerce Jaye Tarantino.

BRING OUT THE BAND — Even musicians came out for the opening of Palmer Video on Washington Avenue last week. Also there were Commissioner of Parks and Public Property Vincent Frantantoni, co-owner Joseph Berger, co-owner Lou Paravoschi and Commissioner of Public Affairs Joseph Fornarotto.

Declaratory judgement hearing

a housing inspector is an office. Through a series of cases, the attorney attempted to show it was not.

After Villanueva asked if Fornarotto was aware of the potential problem when he ran for the commission seat, Waxman explained Fornarotto had solicited opinions from the Department of State Election Division, the Housing and Development of the Department of Community Affairs and Division of Local Government Services before the election, all stating they felt there was no conflict of interest.

When Cozzarelli gave his opinion that there was a conflict at the request of the commissioners after the election, Fornarotto received opinions from various attorneys stating, in their opinions, there was no conflict, Waxman added.

Another contention raised by Waxman was that Mayor Michael Pizzi had no right to call for the declaratory judgement, noting how Pizzi called for the judgement on his own at the June 14 commission meeting. Waxman said because the law department is under Pizzi, he serves as Public Safety Director, does not mean he can call for a judgement on his own.

"This action had to be approved by a resolution and it wasn't," d Waxman, citing Cozzarelli's letter from last year stating a formal vote of the commissioners was needed for him to take action. Villanueva asked if the mayor, as a private citizen, could ask for a judgement and Waxman said he could.

"I would hope Mr. Cozzarelli will get paid for his services but it is not my problem whether he does or does not," replied His Honor, feeling a determination on who should pay for attorney's fees, Pizzi or the town, is not the overriding issue.

When Villanueva asked if the commissioners as a body had discussed calling for a judgement, Cozzarelli explained how Fornarotto and Frantantoni had called for two meetings last week to include discussion of the matter but both were cancelled due to a lack of a quorum.

Anniversary

In recognition of its 40th Anniversary, the Association for Retarded Citizens of Essex County will hold a celebration at Camp Hope in East Hanover on August 7 from noon to 6:00 p.m. All are welcome to join in this memorable occasion.

For more information contact the Association for Retarded Citizens of Essex County, located in Livingston.

Mrs. Catherine Clark receives volunteer honor

Mrs. Catherine Clark of Belleville, a long-time volunteer at Clara Maass Medical Center, was honored recently as an outstanding volunteer by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Essex County.

Mrs. Clark, known to friends and associates as Kay, was one of 10 selected from the 1700 volunteers in RSVP.

Her service at Clara Maass includes her work with the monthly Maternity Tea and the Baby Photo project and as a receptionist in the Social Service Department. She is the immediate past president of the Clara Maass Auxiliary.

Chicken pasta delight

Chicken, fresh mushrooms and pepper, added to a creamy and flavorful pasta salad mix, make this dish delicious. It's also a quick and convenient way to prepare an impressive dinner in a hurry.

Creamy Chicken and Mushrooms

- |  |  |
|--|--|
| 1 package (5.4 oz) Mueller's Creamy Cucumber Salad Bar Pasta | 3/4 cup sliced mushrooms                         |
| 2 tablespoons margarine                                      | 1/2 cup chopped onion                            |
| 8 ounces boneless, skinless chicken breast, cut in strips    | 1/2 cup chopped sweet red pepper or green pepper |
|  | 3/4 cup chicken broth                            |
|  | 1/2 cup sour cream                               |

Cook and drain pasta according to package directions. (Do not rinse with cold water.) In large skillet melt margarine over medium heat. Add chicken, mushrooms, onion and pepper; sauté 5 minutes. Stir in seasoning mix and chicken broth. Stirring frequently, simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in sour cream until well blended. Toss with pasta. Makes 4 servings.

Junior Woman's Club donates Tel-Med tape to Clara Maass

The Junior Woman's Club of Belleville has donated a tape of information concerning Tourette Syndrome to Clara Maass Medical Center's Tel-Med system. Tourette Syndrome is a neurological disease that begins affecting sufferers from childhood through the early adult years.

The tape includes information about the symptoms and management of the disease as well as a follow-up phone number for further information. As a statewide project, the Junior Woman's Clubs of New Jersey raised funds for the Tourette Syndrome Foundation.

The Clara Maass Tel-Med tape library includes tapes on a large number of health concerns and illnesses. Those interested may dial 751-7000 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays or 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and ask for the Tourette Syndrome tape.

Clerical skills are needed at Clara Maass

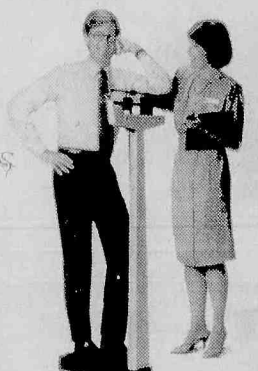

Adult volunteers with clerical backgrounds and good interpersonal skills are needed at Clara Maass Medical Center, Belleville, to answer telephones, act as receptionists and do filing and light typing needed in many departments.

Volunteers might include retired people who can offer a few hours a week or those who wish to polish their skills before returning to the workplace.

All volunteers are given training and orientation. They can commit themselves for as few as two hours per week. Interested persons should call the Clara Maass Volunteer Department at 450-2150.

Belleville Times SPORTS

Success in the field of athletics has become pretty common in the Corino household. The Corino brothers, Jimmy, Carl and Mark have all had their moments in the sun as educators and coaches in this area. All three men are graduates of Belleville High School.

Jim, the oldest of the three brothers, is currently the Principal of a grammar school in Lyndhurst. Before becoming involved in the administrative end of education, he was the head basketball coach at Lyndhurst High School for ten years.

When he first took over the program at Lyndhurst, in 1974, Jimmy inherited a program that needed a major overhaul. In just four years, he had Lyndhurst vying for county and state supremacy. By the early 1980's, Lyndhurst had developed a reputation of basketball excellence and Corino was clearly the man behind that success.

He was a disciplinarian who knew the sport of basketball inside and out. He was offered the chance to coach on a Division 1 collegiate level, but opted to keep his family in the Lyndhurst area and stay as a coach at Lyndhurst High. He was Athletic Director at Lyndhurst High before accepting the job of principal in the elementary school system.

According to his brother Carl, Jimmy misses the excitement of coaching, but moving up to the level of principal was certainly a big step in Jim's professional education career.

Carl Corino is certainly well known to Belleville High School fans. He was a very successful freshman football coach in the late 1970's, helping to develop such talents as Frank Fazzini, Phil Cerza and Eugene Cancelliere. Corino also served as freshman baseball coach for many years.

In 1980, he took on a new venture, as head coach of the Belleville softball team. The rest is history. In nine years, he has amassed over 200 wins. He has led the softball team to the county finals for the past seven years. Corino's team has won two county championships and in 1987, captured a state sectional title. Also in 1987, the team went to the state Group IV final before losing to Edison.

The youngest of the three brothers, Mark, has also developed a solid reputation in the area of coaching.

Mark took his talents to the collegiate level, where he served as head basketball coach at Bloomfield College for the past six seasons. Before his tenure as head coach, Mark was the assistant coach at Bloomfield College.

Recently, Mark Corino received a big honor that should boost his career tremendously. He was named the Athletic Director at Caldwell College.

"I'm real excited about the opportunity," Corino said. "This is the first time that the A.D. position is a full time job at Caldwell College. The mens' program is just starting to get underway, and I'm hopeful we can develop it into a very competitive situation."

Caldwell College was an all womens school until five years ago. Since it went co-ed, the school has made a determined effort to develop a good mens' sports program. Currently, the mens' program is limited to basketball, with soccer and tennis on the horizon.

The womens' program at Caldwell consists of volleyball, basketball and softball, with more sports perhaps on the way in the future.

"The idea of running my own program was certainly a challenge," said Corino. "You need proper cooperation and support to develop the program and the college seems to be behind it 100 percent."

Corino gave up a good deal of security to take on the new position. He was previously a full time teacher, with tenure, at Lyndhurst High School and the mens' basketball coach at Bloomfield College, which was considered a part time position.

Caldwell College, like Bloomfield College, is a member of the N.A.I.A. Bloomfield and Caldwell have battled each other in basketball in previous years.

As the A.D., Corino will be responsible for budgeting, scheduling of events and the hiring and firing of coaches for the various teams at Caldwell. He will be on a one year contract, but Corino is not worried about the pressures that will await him.

"I know what it takes to run a college program," he said. "I'm looking forward to this. The school is very supportive of me and I think we can get a lot done."

Corino does admit that he'll miss the challenges of coaching basketball.

"I'll miss all the aspects of coaching," he said. "I'll miss the recruiting, working with the players and being in the trenches. Maybe I'll be back in it one day, but right now, this (the A.D. job) is my responsibility."

Corino enjoyed a very successful career as head basketball coach. He was 97-68 in six years of coaching. Corino was just 27 years old when he was appointed the job as head coach at Bloomfield. Now just 33, he will be one of the youngest Athletic Directors on the collegiate level.

Caldwell College, a four year institution, has invested a good deal of funds into the athletic program of late. The school has installed two new modern fields, one for soccer and the other, softball. All told, the student body at the school is about 700.

"It's a young program, but certainly one that can be very competitive," the coach said. "I'm really looking forward to the challenge."

Corino is also proud of following in the footsteps of his successful older brothers.

"That was always important to me," Mark said. "Hopefully, I can do as well as they have in their careers."

Based on his background, there seems little doubt that Corino will excel in his new position. Corino and his wife Susan live in Belleville. The couple is expecting its first child in February of next year.

These certainly seem like good times for the Corino family. Best of luck to Mark Corino in his future endeavors.

LAST WEEKS QUIZ

Back in 1980, the Baltimore Orioles won 100 ball games, but didn't win the divisional title. The Orioles were 100-62, but the New York Yankees won 103 games under manager Dick Howser. The Yanks were upset in the playoffs that year by Kansas City, losing in three straight games.

Rainouts ruin chances

Legion season ends off-field

As last week unfolded, the scenario was cut and dry for the Belleville American Legion baseball team. The club had to defeat the winner of the Millburn-South Orange game, then needed one more victory to gain access to the prestigious state legion tournament.

Because of the rain, it took a few days to complete the Millburn-South Orange game, which Millburn eventually won. Belleville coach Frank Stanco, Jr. had to be optimistic about his team's chances. Belleville's top pitcher, Albert Maldonado was back in the lineup after working out with the Pan American team.

All Belleville needed was a field and some decent weather to determine its own fate. Unfortunately, neither of those prerequisites panned out. Steady rain last week forced two postponements of the Belleville-Millburn game, and when the rain finally stopped, the fields were too wet to get the game in.

Meanwhile, the state stepped in, saying that three teams from the Essex division of the legion bracket were needed for the tournament, and there could be no further delay. There were two choices. The top three teams in the regular season would gain immediate access, thus giving Bloomfield, Caldwell and Livingston the nod, or the top five teams in the playoffs, which included Belleville and Millburn, would be put into a hat, with the first three selections gaining access to the states.

As fate would have it, Bloomfield, Caldwell and Livingston were selected by the luck of the draw, and Belleville's season ended without a chance to win or lose on the diamond.

"It was an unfortunate situation," Stanco said last Monday evening. "I think we would have had a good chance against Millburn, then we needed to win just one of the next two games to gain the state tourney. It was within our reach, but unfortunately, the bad weather held things up and the state tourney had to go on."

Needless to say, the players were disappointed, too.

"I feel bad for the kids," Stanco said. "It would have been better to win, or lose a shot at the states on the field. Hey, we beat Caldwell (one of the state entries) during the regular season. We knew we could play with the better teams in the league."

Thus, Belleville's season ended with 14 victories, by far one of the finest seasons in team history.

"Our kids did a fine job," Stanco said. "It was one of the best years we've had in legion play in a long time. We won a playoff game, and had a shot at the states. Our record was outstanding."

One of Belleville's big accomplishments this summer was winning the prestigious Meadowlands tournament in early July. That performance proved Belleville's ability to play against the best teams in the state.

Next week, the Times will wrap up the 1988 campaign.

Summer basketball wins first game

After winning its first game in the Elizabeth Summer League against Berkeley Heights 40-37, the Belleville boys' basketball team lost a one sided contest to Irvington, 63-39 last Monday night.

Leon Puentes' team battled Academic last night and will play Berkeley Heights tomorrow evening at the Dunn Arena at 7:30 p.m. Next Monday, the Bucs finish the regular season with a game against St. Peter's. The playoffs begin next Wednesday.

Belleville (1-7 entering this week) won its first game of the year after six losses when it stopped Berkeley Heights, last Wednesday. In the game, Belleville used a strong second quarter to gain the lead for good.

Berkeley led, 9-8 after one frame, but Belleville outscored its opponent by a 14-6 count in the second frame to gain a 22-15 halftime advantage. Berkeley made a run in the second half, cutting the lead to as little as two points, but the Bucs had enough to win the game.

Dominick Straface led the Belleville attack with 17 points. Mike Young had 11, Jim Krupka and Andy Duhaime had four points each and Mike Powers and Michael Trezza closed with two points a piece.

In the second quarter, Young and Straface combined for 12 of Belleville's 14 points.

"It was a total team effort," Puentes said of the victory. "Everybody played hard. We switched to a 1-3-1 defense in the second quarter and it helped us. We were quicker than they were and we began to execute. It was good to see that our system is beginning to take shape."

After a promising game with Berkeley, Belleville was out of synch for its game with Irvington last Monday. The Campers led 17-0 after one quarter and never looked back.

"It was one of those games where nothing went right," Puentes said. "They (Irvington) played pretty well and we did nothing right. It's going to happen once in a while. Hopefully, it won't happen that often."

Straface led the Belleville attack with 17 points. Krupka finished with six, Young had five, Trezza and Hoogendyke scored four points each and Sal Straface finished with three.

All teams in the league qualify for the playoffs, however Puentes is not sure whom Belleville will face next Wednesday. Currently, St. Peter's and Elizabeth are the top teams in the league, and chances are Belleville will face one of them in the first round.

The 1971 baseball team remembered

This weeks Flashback takes us to the spring of 1971. The Belleville baseball team has just concluded a fine season, finishing in a second place tie with the Nutley Maroon Raiders in the Big 10 conference. A late season rally by the Bellboys puts them in a position to end the '71 campaign on a bright note.

Where were you in 1971? Well, if you're going to be a senior at Belleville High School this fall, chances are you were just entering the world then. The Belleville freshman rowing team posted a perfect 20-0 record. John McCarthy wrote a weekly sports column entitled "Sports Corner". The current sports editor of the Belleville Times was playing right field for Biancardi, a Belleville little league entry. Another little league player in '71, Anthony Blafore, was impressing his coach, Mike Marotti, with his swift play at shortstop for the Amvets team.

Blafore, of course, would lead the 1976 varsity baseball team to a 24-4 record and was later drafted by the Chicago Cubs. A house in the spring garden section of Nutley cost approximately $34,900.00. An ultra modern apartment in Belleville would cost about $260.00 a month in rent.

This article about the '71 baseball team appeared in the June 3, 1971 issue.

Belleville ended an "up and down" season with two impressive wins over West Orange and Nutley to tie the Maroon Raiders for second place in the final Big Ten Conference standings.

The mark by the Bellboys, who finished 12-6 in the conference and 15-11 overall, easily makes Belleville the most improved team in the Big Ten. Last year, the Bellboys finished eighth with a dismal 7-11 record.

It took a 7-3 win over West

Belleville American wins district tournament

The Belleville American All-Star team defeated the Belleville National All-Stars, 6-2, to win the 1988 District 8 Little League All-Star Tournament, played at Rick Cerone Field in Newark last week. By winning, the team advances to the Sectionals to be played in Union this week in a double elimination format.

Mike Mundy (3-0) pitched four and one thirds innings, allowing two runs on five hits and struck out eight. Kevin Johansen worked the final inning and two thirds, striking out four of the five batters he faced.

Belleville American, trailing 1-0 in the fourth, came alive as First Baseman Mike Puleo led off with a single up the middle. After a walk, fielder's choice and infield error, Jason Ventola lined a single to right center scoring Puleo to tie the game. An infield error, followed by a RBI groundout by Chris Ricci gave the Americans a 4-1 lead.

The American team added two runs in the fifth on Kevin Johansen's double, a fielder's choice by Mike Mundy and Kenny Johansen's sacrifice fly to center.

Mark DeBenedetto made his first appearance in the All-Star games for the Nationals, allowing only three hits in a losing effort. Jerry Turi, Marc Bruzzio, Anthony Pace and Jimmy Landon contributed hits for the Nationals.

The Belleville National Team had reached the finals with wins over Kearny American, 7-6, and Livingston American 16-7. They lost a semi-final game to the Belleville Americans and continued in the losers bracket of the tournament until they reached the finals.

On their way to the championship, the Belleville American team had victories over Nutley National 16-3 and the Belleville National 12-

6. Mundy hit a home run while going three for three at the plate and picked up his second win against Nutley. Jason Ventola, with relief help from Al Vitelli, pitched the Americans over the Nationals. Mike Danduone, home run and three for three, Mike Puleo's three hits and two RBIs and Kevin Johansen's two doubles paced the offense.

Ventola and Mundy both went 3-0 in the district games with relievers Vitelli and Kevin Johansen also pitching well. The hitting was led by Kevin Johansen (10-20, .500), Mundy (8-19, .421), Mike Puleo (9-22, .409) and Kenny Johansen (7-19, .368).

10 year-olds

The Belleville Little League 10 Year-Old All-Stars won the 1988 Tom Hanlon 10 Year-Old Nutley Tournament by defeating Bloomfield Midtown in the championship 17-8.

Jason Dunn's clutch triple in the third inning provided Belleville with the spark to come from behind to win the game. Trailing in the third, they scored six runs to take the lead for good. Mike Schmitt's three hits and seven runs batted in highlighted the hitting for Belleville. Dunn and John Bravette also contributed three RBIs each. Mike Capozzi and Brian Dena helped cause with two RBIs each, with Dena hitting a home run to power the Belleville team to five straight wins and the title.

Bravette got the win, turning in a fine effort in the championship.

Chestnut Place Condominiums are ready for occupancy

Rose Corso, sales representative for Century 21 Stanford Agency, and well-known former owner of the Charming Lady Beauty Salon, was given a two-family house on the corner of Chestnut St. and Chestnut Place to market. She came up with what she thought was a realistic price. What she didn't know was that there was structural damage and even though the price was reduced and it was shown to countless people, no one would buy. The sellers, Bill and Pat Smith, were anxious. They wanted an apartment and no more headaches.

As she usually passed the property every day, she naturally took this concern home with her. Her son, an architect, agreed to look at the property to see the extent of the damage. His opinion was to demolish the building.

She had many friends who often said to her, "Rose, if you could find me something smaller I'd sell my big house and move." She talked to her son about this too. At the time, he was working on Chestnut Street and would pass the property several times a day. He came up with the idea that a building with all the features of the Chestnut Place Condominium project would satisfy the needs of many Nutley residents.

The Chestnut Place Condominiums are now ready for occupancy, so please drive by to see the results. Rose will be holding Open House most Sundays.

Century 21 Stanford Agency, located on Union Avenue, Nutley, and Rose are proud to represent this development which they strongly believe is to the benefit of the Nutley community.

For more information call Century 21 Stanford Agency, 235-9000.

REAL ESTATE FORUM

By Jim Farese

Q. If I purchase a four family home in Clifton, is it true that I can not get one apartment vacant for myself at closing?

A. That's correct. In Clifton, rent control applies to buildings of 4 families and over. If this four family home is completely occupied, the tenants, regardless of whether they are on a month to month or lease tenancies, do not have to vacate just because the new owner wants to reside in one of the units. For more information on Clifton rent control laws, you may contact the Rent Leveling Board, Mondays between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. at Clifton City Hall or call 470-5818.

Q. What is the basic difference between a co-op and a condo and why are co-op maintenance fees so much higher?

A. The basic difference is in the legal application. In condo ownership, you actually take title and own your apartment. It is by definition: the individual outright ownership of a single unit in a multi-unit property together with an interest in the common elements of the property.

A co-op or cooperative ownership usually takes the form of shares of stock in a corporation owning the entire building and a property lease giving the stockholder/tenant the right to occupy a unit for which he pays a proportionate share of the maintenance and operating expenses. In a co-op, there is only one deed and one tax bill.

To answer the second part of your question, co-op maintenance fees are generally much higher because it includes not only the normal common area maintenance, but also a share of the real estate tax, insurance and, often times, heat and air conditioning, as most co-ops were converted apartment buildings with one central heating and/or air conditioning system. Many condo complexes will have similar fees with the exception of taxes which are paid on the individual unit directly by the owner or heating/air conditioning costs if the units have separate & individual systems.

Q. Could you explain what my tax liability would be on the sale of my house and purchase of a new one? I think I may have a problem in that I sold my home one year ago for $170,000. My new home which I currently live in cost $255,000. I've decided to move to South Carolina and the home I want to purchase is only $150,000. How is this viewed by the I.R.S.?

A. According to the 1034 rollover, you are allowed to defer the gains on the sale of your principle residence, once in a four year period, beginning 2 years before you sell and 2 years after. If you buy and occupy more than one house during the Time Replacement Period, only the last house purchased and occupied as your primary residence will count as your replacement residence for rollover. So in your case, you will be taxed on the difference between house No. 1 and your new home in South Carolina, disallowing the rollover of your present home.

Q. In arriving at a commission with a broker, can I state an amount I want in my pocket and anything over that amount would be the commission?

A. No, this is called a net listing and is an illegal practice. Commissions must be stated on the listing contract as either a percentage or a dollar amount.

Q. I am presently renting a store in a building. I have a 5 year lease with 3 years remaining on the lease. The bank is foreclosing on my landlord and may be taking over the building. Would my lease still be honored?

A. A lease would have to be honored by the landlord or anyone he sells the building to. However, a lease does not have to be honored by the mortgagee if they take the building. (Some of the questions may contain legal or accounting matters. Mr. Farese is not an attorney and advises you to consult the proper authority before any decision is made)

Q. I am planning to remodel my kitchen in my home. Do you recommend a home improvement loan or a home equity loan?

A. The average kitchen remodeling is running anywhere from $8,000 to $20,000. A home improvement loan is probably the best way to go for improvements which are under $20,000. The basic advantage is that there are no closing costs and they are offered at a fixed rate, with payouts over a 3 to 5 year average. In addition, they are considered consumer loans and they do not tap the equity in your home. On the negative side, in 1988 only 40 percent of the interest is deductible and in 1989 only 20 percent. Find out what your payments will be. If you feel comfortable with them, I'd suggest the home improvement loan over the home equity loan.

Q. I own a two family house in Paterson. Twice I've had it sold and twice the buyers couldn't get the mortgage because the house has a gas on gas heating system. The attorneys have suggested that I hold the mortgage. I'm moving out of state and don't want to worry about someone not paying me and foreclosing. Plus, I need the cash. Do you know of any banks or other ideas to finance this house? I'd really appreciate any suggestions.

A. Just to clarify for my other readers, a gas on gas unit or cold water flat, is an antiquated heating system used in very old buildings. Existing buildings with this type of heating, while they are legal, do not appeal to lenders. I've never found a lending institution which will mortgage them. A bank will require a central heating system, either for the whole building or for each apartment. In other words, each room must have heat.

I'd suggest one of two ways. First, get a contract of sale and a bank commitment subject to the new heating system being installed prior to closing. Negotiate who pays for it. Generally, for a gas hydro-therm hot water baseboard heating system and hot water heater, the cost is about $3000 installed per unit. Second, you can hold the mortgage short term, say for 6 months. This will give the buyers time to install the new units and obtain a conventional mortgage from a bank and pay you off.

How do you show off a prized Indian or Persian rug and still place a coffee table in front of the sofa? With a glass-top table, of course. Bases are available in a wide choice of decorating styles.

The easiest way to sand round table legs and other curved surfaces is to cut a strip of abrasive paper and then pull it back and forth around the leg, "shoeshine" style.

Display headboard can dress up a youngster's room — and hold toys, too. Shallow shelves behind the bed show off books and cuddly animals.

Stepladders and straight ladders are balanced differently. Don't try to use a closed stepladder as a straight ladder by leaning it against a wall; it's liable to slip.

"Closing" is when a real estate transaction is formalized, confirming the original terms in the agreement of sale. The buyer gets a certificate of title, abstract and deed. The seller gets the money.

We speak the language of real estate. We'll gladly translate as we help you buy a home of your own. See the friendly real estate pros at Century 21 Stanford Agency, 86 Union Ave., Nutley 235-9000.

Commissioners approve funds for series of improvements

By Pat Brightman

A series of resolutions for payment on town improvements were passed by the Belleville Board of Commissioners at its meeting held Tuesday night in Belleville High School.

There was no disagreements of the board as engineering and professional services and funding for park improvements, road improvements and cleaning and relining of watermain were approved by the board.

Neglia Engineering, a Lyndhurst based company, will provide services to the town for the improvements to the park at Joralemon Street and Garden Avenue and for the cleaning and relining of the watermain in the Valley section.

Two payments, each for $2,500, were also approved to Neglia for providing professional services for resurfacing Division Avenue and Passaic Avenue. They also received $4,687.50 for services for watermain work and $2,925.50 for services for improvements to the Recreation House.

A resolution authorizing Mayor Michael Pizzi and Township Clerk Mary Lou Hood to apply for funding under the New Jersey Trust Fund was approved. It is hoped the town will receive money for improvements on four streets. Three other streets are expected to be applied before the September 1 deadline.

Commissioner of Public Works Angelo Risoli requested the board to approve an allocation for $30,000 for work on Essex Street but the board decided to wait until further discussion can be held. Risoli said there has been a problem for 15 years at the street, and an outside contractor should be brought in for repairs. According to Risoli, work was done approximately eight months ago which revealed there is no pipeline under the street for 25 feet.

Commissioner of Parks and Public Property Vincent Frantantoni said he had questions about the money, noting he had received a letter stating only $25,000 would be needed. Risoli said he had seen that letter and admitted the meeting was the first he saw of the $30,000 figure.

Payments of $500 each were approved for legal services towards Frantantoni and Commissioner of Public Affairs Joseph Fornarotto. The commissioners were reimbursed the money because they had legal consultation regarding action taken by the two as town employees.

Harrassment charges were brought against both by Michael Giordano after Gioirdano received housing citations. A few citizens voiced displeasure over the fact the town had to pay for the services considering the charges were dropped. Cornelius Vander Zwan and Henry Chazewski both called the charges "frivolous" and felt Giordano should pay the legal fees.

Gabriel Nazzola rebuffed the use of frivolous, saying there were outside influences that caused Giordano to drop the charges.

SIGN OF DIRECTION — New sign lets everyone know just where the recycling yard is on William Street. Signs were also put at the corner of William and Washington Avenue to help those who wish to drop off newspaper, cardboard, aluminum and glass. The Recycling Department wishes to notify everyone they will no longer be accepting tin. (Photo by Pat Brightman)

Education and enforcement used in Belleville's battle against drugs

By Pat Brightman

Narcotics related arrests for the first seven months of this year have already exceeded total arrests from 1987, according to Belleville Police records.

Last year 171 arrests were made on 226 charges while as of July 31 of this year 175 arrests have been made on 237 charges. According to Detective Joseph Rotunda, the most significant increase has been in cocaine, with 48 arrests coming so far this year compared to 47 for all of 1987.

"It's because it's popular and there is a decreased price," explained Rotunda, "It's almost as cheap to get coke as it is to get marijuana. Plus, people still believe it is not addictive or harmful."

Another area that has had a large jump is in drug paraphernalia, 38 arrests this year compared to only 10 in 1987. Rotunda said this increase is mostly due to the new laws passed that have expanded the criteria and search procedures.

"Before, if a person was driving around and they had a roach clip around their neck or clipped to their rear view mirror they couldn't get arrested but now they can," noted Rotunda.

In an attempt to lessen the drug problem in town and to make people aware of the new drug laws creating stiffer fines, including losing your driver's license, Rotunda and the department have instituted a series of programs over the past few years. During the last week in August Rotunda will attend seminars hosted by Essex County to address the laws and programs.

Programs aid fight

Projects include the reinstitution of Defenders Against Drugs, P.B.A. poster contest and the Drug Hotline. The Defenders program ran from January of 1987 to April of the same year with Rotunda and other officials speaking to approximately 2,300 students in town about drugs. In January of this year students at the high school were briefed on the new drug laws and come September Rotunda hopes to visit the schools once again.

"They (Board of Education) hired a substance abuse coordinator and we hope to work closely with her," he said.

"In my experience, the seniors and juniors were much more receptive, especially after finding out about the fines," he continued. "The freshmen and sophmores weren't as concerned because they don't have their licenses yet and they thought it wouldn't affect them but we explained that if they were caught before they turned 17 they wouldn't be getting their licenses when they reached 17."

Rotunda estimated three arrests have been made because of the hotline, which has been in service for approximately four months. In evaluating the drug situation, Rotunda said the problem is no worse in town than anywhere else.

"There is definitely a problem in Belleville but there is a problem all over the country," stated Rotunda. "The majority of residents get their narcotics from Newark or New York City. We do have some (drug houses) in Belleville and when we discover them we make a bust." Since February, five raids have been made in town.

Affect of new laws

The new drug laws have had, and will continue to have an impact, according to Rotunda. An expansion of the search and seizure procedure have allowed police to take, and keep more. Rotunda explained prior to the new law if a police department made a drug arrest and confiscated money the county would take it. Now, the individual department keeps the money and it can be used by the police in the fight against drugs. As of now, Belleville has confiscated $1,900 in drug monies.

He also feels the new laws will have an affect on drug users after they are arrested. Previously, drug users would receive little more than a slap on the wrist but with more stringent laws users may think twice about taking drugs after getting caught.

Despite all the work being done, Rotunda feels the fight is far from being over. "We're just trying to keep our head above water," he explained. "Through education we can help (but tough laws are also needed). One can't work without the other, it won't work."

Board of Ed locates extra money for current expense

An additional $100,000 was added to the operating expenses of the Belleville Board of Education announced Board Secretary and Business Administrator Edward Appleton at the board's meeting Monday night.

Appleton said he cancelled the deferred revenue account established last year by the auditor, which freed up the surplus and gives the board operating expenses totaling $121,523.

"I have good news, though it is somewhat embarrassing," said Appleton before he announced the money change. Appleton explained after informing the board of its financial straits at its July 25 meeting he reviewed the financial report and discovered the account. The $100,000 would not have appeared on the budget if left in the account, according to Appleton.

"It's very unusual, I've only seen it one other time," explained Appleton. "The auditor deferred the money to the revenue account last year and I made the adjusting entry."

Appleton said the money was from the 1985-86 budget and was used to establish a liability account.

The board rejected a resolution issuing retroactive pay to former Assistant Board Secretary Charles Miele. Miele was officially laid off by the board at its May 23 meeting after the Belleville Board of Commissioners cut $886,641 from the school budget which was rejected by the voters.

Miele was to receive $2,500, which would have been charged to last year's budget, if the resolution was passed. After some discussion about the resolution the board voted 3-3 not to pay the money. Daniel Borgo, Barbara Cicalese and Felix Linfante voted to pay while Joseph Papisidero, Patricia Pisano and Dr. Anthony D'Agostino voted against the measure. Joseph Del Guercio did not attend the meeting.

The original resolution called for paying the assistant board secretary/purchasing and assistant board secretary/operations but after talking the matter over, the board decided to divide the resolution into two separate ones and vote on each position individually. Payment to the assistant board secretary/purchasing was approved.

A motion to table the resolution for operations payment was rejected as some board members appeared to have questions about whether or not they could reject payment and felt an executive session regarding the matter should have been held.

A resolution approving 1987-88 salaries of non-unit secretarial personnel retroactive to July 1, 1987 was passed by the board. The increases will allow the secretaries to have salaries on par with their counterparts, according to Superintendent of Schools Michael Nardiello.

Nardiello also announced a dedication for the new weight room will be held September 19. He said the weight equipment is already at the school and the dedication will include the hanging of a plaque with all the donors engraved.

Anniversary committee sets up events calendar

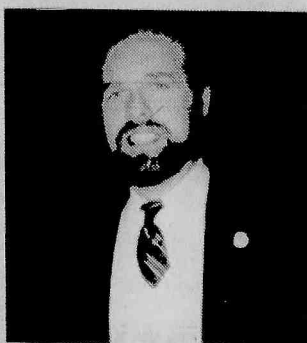

A calender of events and sub-committees were made up as the Belleville 150th Anniversary Committee met for its monthly meeting at Belleville Public Library last week.

Approximately 35 people attended as ideas were bantered about by individuals in attendance. General Chairman David Bryant referred to a list of events that Bloomfield had done last year for that town's 175th anniversary. Bryant said he hoped to use it as a "springboard" and noted professional basketball Kelly Tripucka's visit and historian and author Thomas Fleming's program were "excellent ideas."

Cherry Blossoms remained the focal point of the conversation as almost everything discussed would have the flower intertwined in some way with projects. Bryant suggested that cherry blossoms should be "hammered home" since they are nationally known.

Bumper stickers, commemorative plates and buttons will be designed with the "Belleville in Bloom" slogan and cherry blossoms and should be for sale by the fall. Commissioner of Parks and Public Property Vincent Frantantoni will take care of the bumper stickers and buttons while the Jr. Woman's Club will have the plates made.

On February 2 a train ride consisting of chamber of commerce from the state will bring individuals to Washington, D.C. While there, a resolution honoring Belleville's anniversary will be signed by New Jersey State Congressional figures. On February 9, a trip to Trenton is planned where state figures will present town officials with a resolution. Plans are to have both blown up and hung in Belleville Town Hall.

David Bryant

A $100 a plate dinner celebration is tentatively scheduled for February 18 at the Chandelier Restaurant. The Cherry Blossom Pageant will return in April which will be followed by a motorcade through town. The queen will also have her own float for the 1989 Columbus Day and Veterans Day parades.

Kevin Kennedy, a legislative aide for Assemblyman John V. Kelly, told everyone Kelly will have all Nutley Savings billboards in Belleville say happy birthday by January. Kelly is president of the bank.

An idea to have a steam engine used as the logo was rejected, despite a claim that the first steam engine to come to America was brought to Belleville and the first U.S. built steam engine was assembled in town. Famous facts

Belleville POLICE BEAT

By Pat Brightman

Two men were arrested and charged with burglary after being found in a house on Cortlandt street by police August 2.

Police were detailed to the house after receiving a call of a burglary in progress. Upon entering the house, the police noticed Anthony Russomanno, 20, of Newark and Wayne Barnes, 20, of Belleville in the house. When questioned, both Russomanno and Barnes said they had permission to be in the house but a phone call by police to the renter of the house revealed he had given permission to no one.

Both were taken down to police headquarters and arrested.

On August 1 police were detailed to CVS Pharmacy on a complaint of false prescriptions. The pharmacist said on July 24 a man came in and asked to have three prescriptions filled. According to the pharmacist he felt something was wrong and noticed the DEA number was incorrect. Upon seeing the pharmacist's actions, the individual left the store.

The suspect was described as a white male, age 30, 5'7" and a slim build. He attempted to purchase Restoril, Pamelor and Colnapis.

A thief broke into a house on Hilton Street through the back door on August 4, taking a Cannon AE 35 millimeter camera and camera equipment and assorted jewelry from the house. It is being investigated by the detective bureau.

Five hundred and thirty-five dollars was stolen from a wallet which was left in a car on Church Terrace August 4. The owner of the wallet said he left it in the car and when he returned five minutes later it was gone.

Thursday, August 11, 1988

Also on August 4 a house on Columbus Avenue was burglarized while the owner, her children and a friend were in the backyard by the pool.

The woman stated she had left the side door open and possibly the front door and when she went into the house she found a jewelry box opened. Taken was a diamond insert, a gold bracelet and matching earrings and an opal ring. It is being investigated by the detective bureau.

While walking down Academy Street August 3 a woman was approached by a white man driving a dark van. The woman said the driver pulled up near her and called her over. She then ran to the closest house and called the police. The van was last seen driving south on Washington Avenue.

Assorted jewelry was taken from a house on Belmont Avenue August 1. An investigation revealed the door was forced from the frame by a screwdriver type object. Bureaus were overturned and drawers were ransacked. It is being investigated by the detective squad.

Corrections

In the July 14 edition of "It Seems Like Only Yesterday" it was written a juke box and records had been sent to Diamond Spring Lodge by the Belleville Lions Club. Apparently no juke box or records were ever sent to the lodge, a summer camp for blind women.

In the August 4 issue of the "Belleville Times" it was reported that Kevin Kennedy was a member of the Belleville Zoning Board. Kennedy is a member of the Belleville Planning Board, not the zoning board. The Times regrets these errors.

Crecco urges insurance reform

Assemblywoman Marion Crecco (R-Essex) is urging her legislative colleagues to pass provisions which are designed to bring relief to skyrocketing auto insurance premiums.

The first provision is consumer choice of either a full verbal threshold or a $1,900 threshold. Crecco is also pushing for a cap of medical coverage offered by auto insurance companies.

"New Jersey is the only state which has unlimited medical coverage for auto insurance policies," said Crecco, Assistant Majority Whip. "By bringing this provision in line with the rest of the country, substantial savings can be offered."

Crecco added that health insurance policies would then be eligible to cover an individual for any medical benefits needed that exceeds the cap. Crecco is also calling for a four year depopulation of the Joint Underwriting Association (JUA).

"With the implementation of four surcharges from the Department of Insurance to assist the deficit-ridden JUA, good drivers are being asked to bear the burden for poor ones," added Crecco. "The need for reform is obvious."

Governor Thomas Kean conditionally vetoed bills which offered these provisions August 4 due to unfavorable response in the Senate.

Crecco is also urging Senate Bill 124 to become law. S-124 makes several substantive changes and a number of administrative changes to the current excess profits law for insurance companies.

"This bill establishes a sliding scale for determining excess profits, based on the relative size of an automobile insurer's New Jersey business," explained Crecco.

Assemblywoman Crecco, vice-chair of the State Government Committee, is serving her second term in the General Assembly.

Local students earn honors, degrees

A number of Belleville students made the Dean's List or graduated from colleges this past year. The following is a list of those who achieved the honors.

Kean College of New Jersey — Five residents earned degrees at the Union based school, including Joy Santangelo, who graduated magna cum laude with a B.A. degree in Elementary Education. The others were Diana Angelino, B.S. in Management Science, Brian Carpenter, B.A. in Urban/Outdoor Recreation, Ria Crapis, Early Childhood Education, and Tresann Crapis, a B.S.W. in Social Work.

Montclair State College — Fourteen Bellevillites made the Dean's List for the spring semester. They are: Francesca Allen, majoring in Physical Education, John Auriemma, Biology, Anna

Cameron, Fine Arts/Studio, Mary Dassing, Sociology, Dina Deaquino, Physical Education, Yulia Efremova, Biology, and Ronald Hromoko, Computer Science.

The remaining students are: Lori Jackson, Music, Stefanie Martinez, Home Economics, Carol McShane, Karen Morrison, Business Administration, Ralph Russo, History, Teresa Violante, Political Science, and Rosann Vreeland, English.

New Jersey Institute of Technology — Eighteen Belleville residents were part of the largest commencement in the school's history, 1,385. They are: Riyad Mohammad Ahmad, William Chilletti, Claudia Hughes-Stasells, with a B.S. in Industrial Administration, Ravindra Jagnandan, with a B.S. in Electrical Engineering, Cherm-Piao Lee, with a Master's of Science in Computer Information Systems, Mao-Sheng Lin, with a Master's of Science in Computer Information Systems, Po-yi Liu, Master's of Science in Computer Information Systems, James Livolsi, B.S. in Mechanical Engineering, and Szumming Lo, Master's of Science in Mechanical Engineering.

Others are: Yee-Ching Lo, Master's of Science in Computer Information Systems, Peter Manzetti, Jr., Master Thesis in Engineering Management, Herbert Petrat, B.S. in Electrical Engineering, Divyang Shah, Master's of Science in Electrical Engineering, John Tully, Master's of Science in Computer Information Systems, Frank Valesi, Master's of Science in Industrial Engineering, Yen-Bin George Wang, Master's of Science in Computer Information Systems, Yih-Sheng Wang, Master's of Science in Computer Information Systems and Chris Zigmund, B.S. in Industrial Engineering.

Rutgers University — Russell Zamloot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Zamloot, made the Dean's List at the Newark campus with a grade point average of 3.7. Zamloot, a junior next semester, is majoring in accounting.

Golden Comments

By Jim Golden

Were the Township of Belleville a ship on the high seas insured by Lloyd's of London, its executive officers would be sorely worried that she might founder on the troubled heavy seas as this rudderless vessel with a fledgling captain and a mutinous crew argue what action should be taken and course to follow, they realizing the heavy loss such a disaster would mean to its investors.

The analogy in this case alludes to the ship of state of the Township of Belleville as a political entity in which we its citizens are the stockholders who must sustain the cost losses as taxpayers.

Belleville's turbulent political history, which goes back into the 18 hundreds, has been characterized by litigious controversy and political strife along with recalls and deep seated political enmity which in many instances has hurt rather than helped betterment and progress.

Political dynasties sprang up predicated largely upon the strength of strong leaders and based principally upon political, nationality, religious or national organizational groups. The vicissitudes of the times largely determined the outcome.

Belleville became and remains a "hotbed" of political turmoil because the minority of local political activists dominate the politics of the community while the great mass of its apathetic citizens ignore and disdain vital matters which directly affect and control their lives in diverse ways...illustration, about 17,500 registered voters...on an important local municipal election that involves how the municipality will be run...around only 6,500 come out to vote. The political machines got out their vote...Why didn't the rest of the town's voters come out and vote? It's too late to lock the barn door after the horse is gone. Think about it.

The previous administration, under popular Mayor Marotti, devised and had legally passed and adopted a plan to construct a new $10 million town hall at the present site while buttressing up the present old town hall.

A new group, The Concerned Citizens of Belleville (CCB) was formed in opposition to the proposed edifice on the grounds it was to ornate and costly; strife and anger between CCB and the commissioners developed. Hectic and heated meetings produced shouting matches and meetings into the wee hours of the night...everyone agreed the police headquarters was in shambles and a disgrace and new quarters were absolutely required, yet, because of the continuing squabbling over costs hasn't yet been settled...three new commissioners were elected more than a year ago; discord and differences, some with bitter rancor, exist much to the chagrin of the CCB group which helped elect them.

The CCB holds that the two remaining incumbents resent the loss of the former mayor and their majority rule of the governing body and would like to get rid of some of the newcomers on the commission board because they have ideas contrary to their own.

Threats of recall, court action and prospects of a move to change the form of government pervade the political climate of town with the resultant results that nothing constructive is being accomplished to the disappointment of the police officers who badly require new habitable working quarters...a stalemate of proper governmental functioning is obvious which justifiably calls for prompt intervention and review of the Belleville municipal administrative affairs of this community by either the Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, the County Prosecutor of the Common Pleas or both.

It is about time that some action of that nature be taken by responsible objective agencies of this community to bring this repugnant, disruptive conduct to a workable solution...A house divided, cannot stand! They shall not bear down upon the brow of Belleville's good citizenry this wreath of thorns & high taxes.

Brady named center director

Christian Health Care Center (CHCC) Executive Director Robert Van Dyk is pleased to announce the appointment of Sharon E. Brady, MSW, to the position of Director for Center's new Dual Diagnosis Day Treatment Center.

The Day Treatment Center, located on the CHCC campus in Wyckoff, is the first of its kind in the state of New Jersey. The Center has been designed to care for 12 Bergen County residents, age 18 or older, suffering from both mental illness and mental retardation.

Brady, a former Belleville resident, received her Masters Degree in Social Work from Rutgers University and has eight years of professional health experience in both the developmental disability and mental health fields. Her previous positions included serving as Program Specialist for the Association for Retarded Citizens of Essex County and working as a special education teacher for physically, mentally and emotionally challenged children and adults.

In her new position, Brady is responsible for administrative duties and leading the multi-disciplinary team of professionals at the Day Treatment Center.

Dean's List

Two Belleville residents were among 20 Essex County residents who made the Jersey City State College students named to the Dean's List for the 1988 spring semester, it was announced by Dr. Marco Cirincione, dean of students.

Regina Blise and Maria Phaedonas were the Bellevillites who attained a semester average of 3.5 or higher.
