More space for meetings

Town seniors happy with building addition

The newly completed addition to the Senior Citizen building on the corner of Mill Street and Franklin Avenue has been greeted with nothing but compliments as both the seniors and the town is quite satisfied with the result.

Actual construction of the 1,400 square foot addition began in May by Danza Construction of Newark and except for a few odds and ends such as one or two light fixtures the work is completed. Even during work the seniors were able to use the facility.

"They were more than accommodating," said Commissioner of Parks and Public Property, Vincent Frantantoni who oversaw the project along with engineer Neil Siciliano and Peter Kiernan of the town engineering department. Frantantoni said if there was a meeting while work was being done drapes were hung over the window to cut down on the disturbance.

"There were no problems, they were very good," commented Acting President of the Tuesday Club Regina Nuci.

"They coordinated everything so that we only missed one meeting," stated Joseph Restaino, treasurer of the Tuesday Club.

Frantantoni said the original plans were changed due to save money and be more practical. The plans showed an addition to the side of the building creating a long building, not appropriate for holding meetings, according to Frantantoni. By having the addition put on the back the meeting room remains square and allows all to hear speakers better.

Money saver

The commissioner continued explaining that if the construction had gone by the original plans the central air conditioning system would have to be moved, meaning an extra $100,000 in cost, approximately. By leaving the system and having the addition in the rear, the project cost $127,000, which was all funded by Essex County Community Development money.

Despite these alterations the main topic is the work done and what it means to the senior citizen clubs. The new brickface with a cedar wood top looks very good and blends in nicely with the existing building. New bathroom vents were also installed and paving was done in the parking lot to improve the drainage system. "They did excellent work," complimented Frantantoni.

"It's wonderful," exclaimed Nuci. "We don't have to worry about seating now," saying how people had to stand during meetings prior to the addition.

"It gives us breathing room, everyone can come down," said Restaino. "It also gives us more room for social events. Before, we had to cut them out at the door."

Al Vecchione, a member of the Tuesday club, said the addition was exactly what the clubs needed. "I want to thank the people involved in implementing this project."

Both Restaino and Nuci also expressed gratitude to the everyone who made the project possible. They feel with the addition and cooler weather, more people will become involved in both the Tuesday and Friday Clubs.

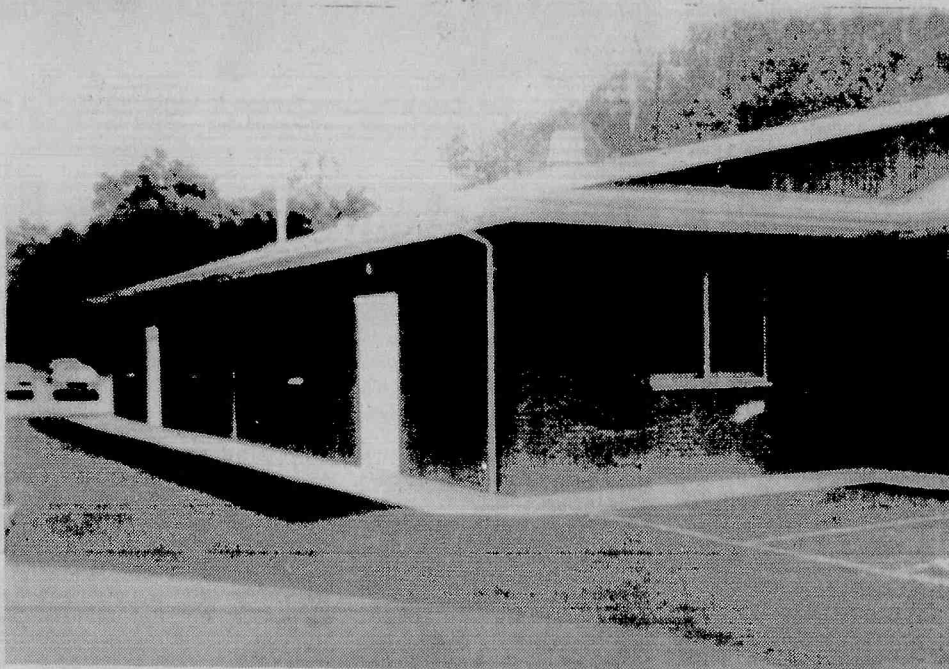

"We appreciate it very much," said Nuci. "More people will be coming out after Labor Day."

Board of Education discusses Special Services program

The Belleville Board of Education passed policy on high school graduation for educationally handicapped pupils and heard a presentation on the state of the Special Services from Director Dr. Anthony Chirico at its meeting Monday night.

Dr. Chirico expressed concern over a number of topics regarding the program, which will be part of the monitoring which will begin September 20. He said he foresaw potential problems with personnel, programs and facilities for the services but said he greatest concern was in the procedural manuals.

Dr. Chirico said he foresaw problems when the monitors come in to evaluate the program because many of the ideas expressed in the Needs Assessment Plan for 1987-90 have not been met because of budget cuts. According to him, curriculum guides have not been updated in the 10 years he has been there and other work has lagged behind due to a lack of secretarial staff. He said the curriculum has been updated but it wasn't completed.

"I have actually lent and delivered a typewriter to a person and after 30 hours she gave up," said Chirico. Presently the Special Services has only one secretary when for the past few years he has been budgeted for three but they have been done away with because of cuts.

While the board expressed concern over the situation they placed some of the blame on the people in the department, even Dr. Chirico.

"It looks like we ran out of time but it's really a lack of organization," said Felix Linfante, who asked if the curriculum was updated in the last five years and was told it wasn't. "To the state it looks like we didn't follow the report but you didn't file the paperwork," he told Dr. Chirico.

Dr. Chirico reiterated the fact he did not have the secretarial help to do the work.

Board Vice President Patricia Pisano said more parent involvement is needed and stressed the Special Education Advisory Committee be reinstituted. Dr. Chirico responded by saying he would be more than happy to hold committee meetings but the board had instituted it and he was not responsible for it.

"I think the system is falling desperately behind," commented

Pisano.

Board members Joseph Del Guercio and Joseph Papisidero expressed concern but over the fact that the problem has existed for a period of time and it was not brought to the board's attention until a month before monitoring. Del Guercio also said to hear that something so vital as special education is lagging behind amazes him.

Superintendent of Schools Michael Nardiello said the curriculum issue was misunderstood, saying the curriculum is the same for special education students as it is for other students but the philosophy is different. He also felt everything would be accomplished by September 20.

The resolution passed by the board about graduation requirements for educationally handicapped pupils will meet all state demands. For the 1988-89 school year, there will be 384 special services students, with 104 going out of district. Dr. Chirico said this would come to approximately $800,000 in tuition.

Town Bella Signorina applications accepted

As the weather is cooling down and autumn approaches the search for the Belleville Bella Signorina will be heating up. The Belleville Parade Committee is accepting applications for contest, with the winner serving as queen of the Sixth Annual Columbus Day Parade along with the Nutley winner.

Along with being the town's representative in the parade October 16, the Bella Signorina will be a honored guest at the annual Columbus Ball, scheduled for October 8 at the Gondola Restaurant on Franklin Avenue in Nutley.

To be eligible, the applicant must be a Belleville resident, between the ages of 16 and 20, single and have at least one parent of Italian heritage.

Resumes and applications should be sent to: Belleville Parade Committee, P.O. Box 676, Belleville, N.J. 07109.

The parade will begin at 1:00 p.m. at the municipal practice field at Belleville High School and continue through Belleville and Nutley, concluding in front of Nutley Savings on Franklin Avenue, according to Belleville Chairman Gabriel Nazzola.

With the two Bella Signorinas in the parade will be marching bands and floats as the two towns will pay homage to the man credited with discovering America.

Joseph Romagnoli is general chairman this year and John Yanuzelli is the Nutley chairman.

CHANNEL 36

CLAY'S NEW ORLEANS REPORT

DURING THE Republican National Convention from New Orleans Fifth District Freeholder Arthur Clay made daily reports on OBC's six o'clock news over cable Channel 36 and he filed stories with our three papers. Tonight he sums up at six o'clock with Julie Frees. And Senator Carmen Orechio phones in from the Council of State Governments conference in Vermont.

Honored by State

Arthur is one of the select teachers to attend conference

Eleanor Arthur

School 8 teacher Eleanor Arthur was one of only 100 teachers invited to the third annual Commissioner's Symposium for Outstanding Teachers which was held earlier this month at Trenton State College in Ewing.

The three days were packed with lectures, programs and discussion about teaching techniques. The teachers were selected randomly from among the 1,717 educators honored in the Governor's Teacher Recognition Program.

"It was wonderful," exclaimed Arthur. "It was a privilege and an honor to be there."

"It was very inspiring," she continued. "For three days we had programming from early in the morning to seven or eight o'clock at night."

Included in the program were talks by Dr. Michael W. Kirst, of Stanford University and the former president of the California State Board of Education, New Jersey State Commissioner of Education Saul Cooperman and presentations by teacher support groups from Massachusetts and New Jersey.

A luncheon was held that included John Klagholz, president of the state Board of Education, State Senator Matthew Feldman, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, and Assemblyman Joseph Palaia, chairman of the Assembly Education.

"Mr. Cooperman was there the first day and the last day," explained Arthur. "Dr. (Richard) DiPatri (Assistant Commissioner of the Department of Education) was there the entire time." She also said the governor's assistant for education, Marla Ucelli, attended on behalf of Thomas Kean, who could not make the convention.

While the three day symposium was similar in the Teacher Recognition Program in that the teachers were honored (Cooperman presented all with plaques) this had added features.

"In this one we took part, with the other we were just praised. It was sort of a rousing cheer," said Arthur. "We were able to share our expertise and what we know."

Arthur said she picked up a few ideas in talking with other teachers, including using a giant plastic bubble in science and having an area specifically designated just for writing. "I mentioned a few things that I picked up over the years," she said, noting how many of the teachers were younger than she.

"Everyone who went came away with the feeling that we really accomplished something," she concluded.

Belleville POLICE BEAT

By Pat Brightman

Four juveniles from Irvington were arrested after stealing a bicycle from a Belleville juvenile on Ralph Street August 17.

The Belleville youth was riding his bike and a friend was riding alongside him when a group of youths came down Holmes Street riding on bikes. The group attempted to take the bikes but the two youths resisted. With this one of the Irvington juveniles struck one of the youths and banged the youth's head against a telephone pole.

Eventually the group took one bike and rode away. Police received a description and the juveniles, aged nine, 11, 12 and 15 were arrested and released to their parents. The bike was returned to the owner.

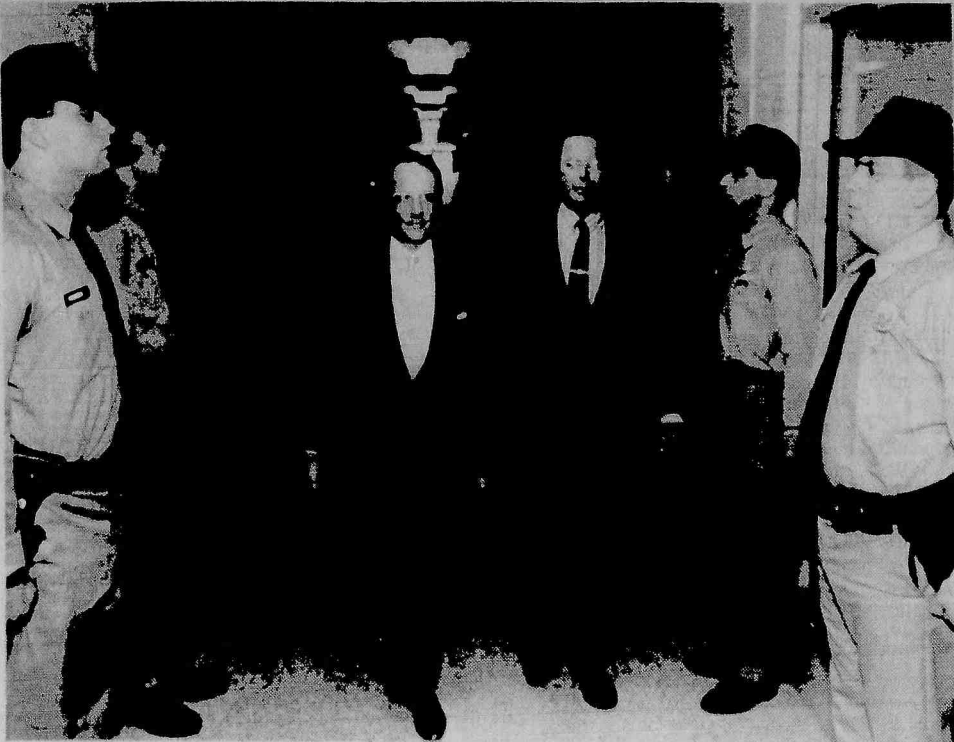

A house on Beech Street was burglarized August 17 and three items were stolen, including a gun.

The owners of the house arrived home and noticed the lights on and the kitchen door open. An investigation revealed entry was attempted on the outside screen window of the kitchen by using a picnic bench to reach the window but this failed. Eventually the culprits forced a windowpane out from a cellar window and then opened the kitchen door. The master bedroom was ransacked with a Smith and Wesson .357 magnum, a five-gallon glass water bottle with an unknown amount of change, and a plastic scaled model missing.

A woman lost her change purse after shopping at Pathmark on Washington Avenue on August 17. The woman said she had her maroon change purse in her pocket-book but when she looked for it after leaving the store it was missing. Between $40-50 in bills and change was taken.

William Rice, a 29 year-old from Newark, was arrested for driving on the revoked list after he was stopped on the corner of Honiss and Heckel Streets. His bail was set at $250.

On August 17, two days after it occurred, a man reported the windshield of his car, valued at $250, was smashed.

Police Academy is back in business

The Essex County Police Academy was reopened recently, one year after its doors were closed because of insurance problems, which were solved when County Executive Nicholas R. Amato included the operation as part of county government.

Amato and a host of federal, state, county and local officials joined together at a brief ceremony to officially reopen the Academy.

The county executive and other dignitaries walked through two rows of 37 cadets who stood at attention in their gray fatigues, lining the corridor of the academy.

"I think it is important for the largest county in the state of New Jersey to have its own training facility," Amato said, "and together we are going to make the Essex County Police Academy the best training facility in the state."

Amato also announced that West Orange Police Chief Edward Palardy and Bloomfield Police Chief John McKniff will serve on the advisory board to the academy along with himself, Freeholder President Thomas P. Giblin, Freeholder Arthur Clay, Prosecutor Herbert H. Tate, Jr., Sheriff Thomas J. D'Alessio, Public Safety Director Anthony Carrino, Patrick Linfante, acting director of the county police, Peter Bordino and John Taylor, president of the PBA Local 54, representing county police.

Richard Peck of the state's Police Training Commission, which authorized the reopening of the facility, said the academy has "the potential to be one of the best in the state."

"What will make this academy stand out will be the people who run the academy—the director, all the instructors and the cooperation that has to come from the 22 chiefs of police, the prosecutor, the sheriff and the county police," Peck added.

The county police chiefs originated the training academy in 1955 and administered it until last summer when the association—unable to purchase affordable liability insurance—closed its doors on August 20, 1987.

Chief Palardy, who was head of the chiefs' association at the time of the academy's closing, explained that four civil suits had been filed against the academy in the prior year. One suit was brought by the family of a Newark teenager shot to death by an Irvington policeman trained at the facility.

Amato offered to resolve the insurance problem by providing coverage under the county policy, which would protect both the instructors at the academy and the municipalities. The county executive noted that the facility is already owned and maintained by the county.

In April, Amato announced his plans to reopen the academy and hired Bordino, the director at the Bergen County Academy, to become the director of the Essex facility.

Prior to the reopening of the academy, police recruits from Essex County had to train at facilities in Monmouth and Bergen Counties and at the state academy in Sea Girt.

Amato thanked the chiefs of police for supplying instructors to the academy and said he was "very proud to say there will be absolutely no charge to any municipality for any cadet."

Blood drive at Clara Maass

Once again Clara Maass Medical Center employees and community residents have shown they care enough about others to give of themselves.

Recently, the Blood Bank at Clara Maass Medical Center held a blood drive in conjunction with the North Jersey Blood Center to replenish their increasingly low blood supply.

Besides the satisfaction of giving much needed blood, donors are guaranteed full flood coverage for themselves and their family whenever needed for a full year.

Donors must weigh at least 110 pounds and should not be taking any medications. Those who have recently undergone major surgery, dental extractions or have been pregnant are also ineligible.

Incentives provided by local merchants to entice people to donate blood included tickets to see the Yankees, gift certificates from Pathmark and Shop-Rite, as well as Clara Maass Medical Center T-shirts.

"We'd like to thank everyone who donated blood, and for those who attempted, but were ineligible, we appreciate your effort also," said Laverne Hageman, Blood Bank supervisor. "We would also like to remind eligible donors that blood can be given safely up to five times a year at intervals of eight weeks apart."

To donate blood, call the North Jersey Blood Center at 676-4700.

Golden Comments

By Jim Golden

President Ronald Reagan, since his first term in office, has always wanted to get his hands on that tax-free Social Security money President Franklin D. Roosevelt promised would always be forever tax free. He set up a commission selected by himself to carefully study the matter...they ruled that single people with income of $25,000 or over and couples with income of $32,000 or more would be required to pay income tax, under a formula set by the commission, on one-half of their Social Security income.

Now, instead of putting most of the burden on the Medicare premium, with a series of basic and supplemental premium increases, the new law goes right to the income tax for most of its funding... along with that, when Social Security totals up all your social security benefits (what was received in your SS checks and deduction payments) many will find that they will have exceeded in total income, limitations which would have spared them from paying income tax on half of their Social Security benefits.

All of which, with Congressional sanction, should make Ronald Reagan a very happy man; at least he almost got it all. The tax on the rich was reduced 22%. Most getting Social Security will have to pay income tax on half of their Social Security and the be-draggled Senior Citizens will have to "shell out" more in a sur-tax imposed upon every $150 they owe on their federal income tax, meaning their pension money, interest on their savings in the bank, stocks, bonds and even on the interest they have to pay tax on the Savings Bonds they are forced to turn in, to keep body and soul together. Quite a guy, our President, we'd say.

Then comes along a bright ray of hope from a very inspiring article written by Susan Dentzer in a recent article in "U.S. News and World Report" captioned: "The next big ticket: Long-term health care" with a sub-title: "The elections will help to decide who pays — and how much."

Space limitations restrict us to excerpt salient comments of great import such as, "Like many other Democrats, (Congressman) Pepper calls for a public program — while most Republicans prefer a private-sector approach," Pepper says. The next President will have a big hand in deciding what that law looks like — with a little help from his elders.

Congress began to grapple with long-term care last spring, when the House considered a costly and controversial home-care bill backed by Dukakis and seniors' champion Pepper (and opposed by Bush and the Reagan administration.)

Most policy-makers share our concern: The desire to shore up the fragmented long-term-care payment system and modify the role of Medicaid. The joint federal, state and local program was primarily designed to pay for health care for the poor — but since it also covers nursing-home costs, it now pays 42 percent of the $40 billion annual tab for such care. Yet the extent of Medicaid coverage varies greatly from state to state — and the program's notorious "spend down" provisions require senior citizens to deplete much of their income and assets (excluding their homes or personal effects) before it will pay for their nursing-home stays. Although the Catastrophic Health Costs Law passed recently eased those requirements somewhat, the problem is still viewed as an inhumane aspect of the system. By contrast, "We'd never tell people they had to spend down their assets or impoverish their spouse before we'd let them in the hospital," says Jack Meyer, a Washington health economist.

Social insurance or private market? Legislators and policy-makers differ over how to make things better. The crux of the debate is whether to replace the system with a new public "social insurance" program, like Social Security or Medicare — or to encourage the private market to absorb the cost of long-term care. In general, many Democrats lean toward the former: This week (Aug. 8, 1988) Senator Edward Kennedy will introduce a bill that would create a new "lifecare" program to pay the lion's share of nursing home and home care expenses for the elderly. At a net cost of at least $19 billion a year, the program would be paid by the elderly and hikes in payroll taxes on the upper middle class.

'Faces in the Crowd' hopes to stand out on video show

By Pat Brightman

If you ask members of many rock-n-roll bands who do not have a recording contract what they need to become successful, most will say all they need is exposure. For a band with former Belleville residents comprising more than half of it, that exposure will come September 1 on MTV.

"Faces in the Crowd" will hope to stand out from the crowd next Thursday night as the cable music station will conduct a segment entitled "Basement Tapes," a show where viewers call in votes for heretofore unknown bands with the winner receiving extra showings of their video.

"We feel we definitely can win," explained bassist Kevin Mostillo. "If you don't win you get a three minute shot at midnight but if you win you get added exposure."

A concept video of "Love Without Fiction" from their debut EP album will be shown against three other videos. The video is your "basic love gone awol" story according to Mostillo, with footage of the band playing combined with a woman, played by Mostillo's wife, Paula, reminiscing about a love lost with footage shot in Central Park and Greenwich Village by Paine Productions of Manhattan.

"I don't know what the other videos look like so we're taking a workmen's like approach," explained Mostillo. "We know the business so we're going to keep it in check, it's just another step." Mostillo said the importance of the show is to get the band's name and sound out and known to record companies.

Other options

A loss will not mentally destroy the five member band, as they have taken some solace in the fact they were one of the four picked for the show from 120 tapes sent in and the fact they will be appearing on three other video shows in the area. They also play at clubs in the area, such as "The Dirt Club" and the "Stone Pony" and New York City, such as "Kenny's Castaways" in Greenwich Village. The band has also appeared on the "Uncle Floyd Show" and "City Rock Show," a cable station in Manhattan.

The band will appear at "The Cove" September 3 and is expecting to play at the "Stone Pony" later next month.

"We're not metal, we're heavy-edged rock," described the 29 year-old Mostillo, "with a lot of keyboards, something like Pat Benatar or Bon Jovi. Along with the bass Mostillo does backup vocals, his wife is the lead vocalist, his brother, Joseph, 27, is the drummer, Nick DeStafano is a 28 year-old guitarist and John Peccarelli, 22, plays keyboards. All the Mostillos are natives of Belleville, while DeStafano is from Lincoln Park and Pecialo is from Nutley.

George Louvis, who operates a 24 track studio called Stardust Studio in Upper Montclair, has offered to make a tape of "Love Without Fiction" and help in the selling of it to a record company. The EP was done on the band's own label, Power Triangle.

"We're trying to get on an independent label and then go from there," said Mostillo. He said the band has sent demo tapes to recording companies but at the time they were sent, many companies just were not looking as many tapes were sent back as unsolicited mail. "It's kind of depressing when they don't even listen."

The video took months to complete but the actual shooting took only a few days, according to Mostillo. The album, containing six songs, was completed shortly after Christmas and was released March 5. Mostillo said between 400-500 copies have been bought and "Love Without Fiction" has received radio play on the Montclair State College station and WDHA.

Another Bellevillite, John Pesaniella helps Mostillo write the songs and the two have completed two new songs for their second EP. If all goes according to plan, rock fans will be able to pick the bands faces out of any crowd.

OUR OPINION

The effects of DWI

The smashed car which appeared on the front page of the Belleville Times last week shows the other side of accidents caused by driving while intoxicated. The victims.

Often times only one side of the story is discussed, the driver who was foolish enough to jump into his or her car and drive when they obviously shouldn't. Increased penalties apparently have not been a strong enough deterrent as there are still many accidents, injuries and deaths each year. Roadblocks have not been successful and there seems to be very little a police officer can do until after the fact, or after the driver has made it blatantly clear he should not be on the road.

The story of Bruce Kimball is a perfect example. Kimball is the man who overcame his own personal tragedy and hardship to win a silver medal in the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles in diving. Last month Kimball drove his car through a group of teenagers, killing two and injuring four others. Empty beer cans were found on the floor of his car and he admitted to drinking beer earlier in the day. The children and their families are also suffering, not with penalties and fines which Kimball will undoubtedly receive, as he is charged with vehicular homicide, but with the loss of loved ones, or the injuries of the survivors.

Friends and relatives of those injured and killed by Kimball issued a protest to the United States Olympic Committee, asking that Kimball not be permitted to compete in the Olympics. They even formed a petition, collecting over 4,000 signatures, requesting this. It was not so much they wanted to see Kimball suffer, for apparently he will if he is convicted of the charges, but to prove that drunk drivers are not success stories. Having a person on the Olympic team who killed two teenagers because he was driving while intoxicated does not show a good example. Fortunately for the Olympic Committee, they did not have to make a decision, as Kimball did not qualify for the Olympic Diving Team.

Fortunately a case such as this is not commonplace, but once is one time too many. There are minor problems suffered by the people who are victims to DWI accidents that pale in comparison to the tragedy of the children Kimball ran down but they are problems that occur nonetheless. Problems because of another person's idiocy such as dealing with insurance companies and finding new transportation.

What is a person who is hit by a drunk driver supposed to drive. How can he get to work. Anyone who has had their car out of action for any period of time knows the difficulties associated with trying to function without one. After years of driving, a car becomes like a third foot, a very convenient, fast third foot. When it is taken away, many people seem lost. Anyone who has had their car out of action, knows what it is like to deal with insurance companies and the sometimes difficult, tedious procedures to try to get money to pay for the damages.

It is amazing how so many people have bad, difficult times for weeks and possibly months because of some people's few hours of "good" times, people who the victims do not even know.

YOUR OPINION

Protection over polish

To the Editor:

From time to time there has been some undeserved criticism of our Police Department.

I have recently had an opportunity to witness a splendid job of police work by our Police Department. On the evening of July 30, the police were alerted by one of my neighbors of a harassment, assault, and a threat on another neighbor from a boyfriend. The police immediately responded and set up a surveillance in the neighborhood and within a matter of hours apprehended the man.

I commend our Police Department and in particular, Officers DelGrosso and Ciccione, who were the arresting officers. The next morning, concerned for the safety of my family and home, I called the police to verify they still had the man in custody. I would like to commend Officer Grazzo for being understanding and very helpful of my concerns. He assured me this man was still in custody and indicated what the charges were. He also advised what my neighbor could do to prevent this man from coming near her again.

At many town meetings that I have attended, I have heard Commissioner Fornarotto say he could run the department better. I guess seeing is believing. Therefore, from what I witnessed, our Police Department is doing an excellent job. If Commissioner Frantantoni were running the department he would probably have our policemen polishing the headlights on their cars, instead of patrolling Belleville and bragging about it as progress.

This also might interest Commissioner Fornarotto, in that, when someone is under surveillance long enough eventually the guilty person will be apprehended!

Leave of absence accepted

To the Editor:

To: Joseph T. Fornarotto
Construction Department
Township of Belleville

Dear Joe,

Your request for a Leave of Absence without pay from your housing inspection position is hereby granted.

The Township of Belleville is temporarily losing one of its most able and dedicated employees. Let me extend my sincere thanks and appreciation for the outstanding services you provided this department as a Housing Inspector.

Relax, enjoy your dedicated family, and be at peace with the knowledge that those who conspired in this action against you will have to deal with their own consciences. Sincere thanks,

Vincent J. Frantantoni
Commissioner
Dept. of Parks & Public Property

Enjoys 'Hearty Laugh'

To the Editor:

I would like to openly thank Joe De Fabbio for his "Hearty Laugh" recently printed in "Your Opinion" in the August 4 issue of Belleville Times.

He said everything I thought over the years but he put it into words far better than I could. The banner he read, "It's better in Belleville" should be changed to read: "It was better in Belleville."

So, Bellevillites, what are we going to do about it? Are we going to sit back and let a few run the Town... or are we going to come forward and — instead of the people working for the Elders of the Town, have the Elders work for the people!

What about it, Mr. Mayor, you still can turn around and do the job you were elected to do... on your own. It won't be easy but with a little perseverance and doggedness, you can still do it. BUT, and this is a big BUT, you have to want to do it for the people of the Town and for yourself... not because someone else tells you to. Anyone can be a follower but not everyone can be a leader. You have to work at it; you have to want it. THAT is the key, YOU have to want it and YOU have to work at it.

Very truly yours,

Ann M. Donatiello

Stop signs appreciated

To the Editor:

Once again I write to the Commissioners of Belleville.

This past week several of the suggestions which have been made regarding the dangerous Division and De Witt Avenues intersection were put into operation; namely, two "stop ahead" signs were placed half a block away prior to the intersection and are clearly visible (no trees in the way, etc.) and also the word "stop" has been painted on the roadway at the intersection for east and west traffic on Division Avenue.

I realize it's too early to tell if these measures are the answer to solving the problem, but they certainly are a start, and we all appreciate this cooperation, especially the Traffic Department, which was instrumental in the installation and painting.

Division Avenue

Boozing not a hobby

To the Editor:

Those experts, who claim that alcoholism is not a disease, have written that — "boozing is a do-it-yourself hobby," and that, "others never drive you to drink."

I'll wager — many a boozier, after reading such "teetotally" biased, simplistic observations, immediately reached for the bottle.

Chet Dobkowski

Arthur one of the best

Once again Eleanor Arthur was honored by teaching officials for her outstanding performance in the classroom. This time she was one of only 100 teachers from around the state to attend the Commissioner's Symposium for Outstanding Teachers a few weeks ago.

The New Jersey State Department of Education sponsored the event and the purpose was to not only honor the work done by these outstanding educators but to also offer new and different ways to teach students.

So it appears both Arthur and the Belleville school system benefitted from the three days she spent down at Trenton State College. Arthur because she was honored once again for her ability and the school system because she will take what she learned and forward it to both her fellow teachers and her students. It should make for an improved learning environment in the schools, which open in a few short weeks.

Ruffalo in fine form

Richard Ruffalo continues to make his mark as he prepares for the Para-Olympic games in Seoul, which follow the Summer Olympics next month. Ruffalo recently set his third world record, this one in the discus, when he tossed it 36.61 meters last week at a meet at Montclair State College. Ruffalo's other records are in the javelin and indoor shot put.

With marks such as these, Ruffalo stands a good chance of bringing home some medals, possibly even a gold, when he returns. He is obviously someone everyone in Belleville, and even the entire United States, can look up to and be proud of, for not only his athletic accomplishments but also because of his attitude.

Ruffalo has trained and trained and trained to put him in the position he is in and we wish to take this opportunity to wish him the best when he competes. We would also say make us proud but he has already done that on more than one occasion.

'Die Hard' has a life of its own and Freddy Krueger is through the roof

TWENTIETH CENTURY Fox's "Die Hard" is one of those all too rare occasions when a production team manages to vest an inanimate length of film with a life of its own.

It is a totally no nonsense piece of entertainment that gets started early on and never quits, action and tension are piled on with a trowel. When audiences leave, they are excited and can't wait to tell their family and friends to go and see it.

"Die Hard" is, in fact, one of three very successful movies this summer whose box office clout is due far more to favorable word of mouth from those who've seen them than any skill on the part of the studio marketing staff, the other two being Fox's "Young Guns" and MGM's "A Fish Called Wanda."

The star is a partially completed high rise building in Century City, Los Angeles. Terrorist castoffs from the West German Baader Meinhof Gang take it over on Christmas Eve with enough weapons and explosives to wage a war in the third world. They kill the owner in the midst of his Christmas party, lock off all entrances and exits and hold his staff hostage on the 30th floor.

Their goal is to get the computer controlled vault open and steal $650,000,000 worth of bearer bonds. But, there is a fly in their well planned ointment.

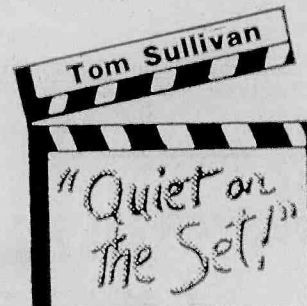

Seizes the moment

The estranged husband (Bruce Willis) of one of the owner's chief executives (Bonnie Bedelia) happens to have just arrived for a Christmas reconciliation. He also happens to be a hard nosed New York policeman with his off duty gun on his person, and when the shooting starts, he is out of sight and manages to stay so.

Despite the well armed, well trained band of killers, this fly in the ointment decides to fight back, playing cat and mouse with them, picking them off, in fact, one by one.

He also manages to get word to the outside world about what is happening, though that is not very easy. Pretty soon the Los Angeles P.D. is on hand with its SWAT team, totally unaware of just what they are facing, and under the command of a totally inept and incompetent deputy chief.

Well, needless to say, everything depends on that lone man against enormous odds, and to learn how the story is resolved, you will have to see the film. It is still all over the neighborhoods. The Franklin in Nutley for one, and it is well worth your admission money.

A high rise building is the star of this non-stop action adventure

That the movie is as successful as it is has very little to do with any on-screen personality, though Willis acquires himself well and gets excellent support from Reginald VelJohnson as the sympathetic cop who tries to be his link to the outside world, and Al Rickman as Gruber, the oily but icy killer who heads the terrorist band.

Edlund is the star

Mickey Mouse could have played the fly in the ointment and things would have succeeded just as well, given the quality of the concept, the tautness of the script and the general production values. If there is a star, it would have to be special effects man Richard Edlund. He's the one who turned the fireworks on to order.

But director John McTiernan also delivered the goods, keeping everything spare and moving at a nice clip. No one could say they dozed off for even a second in this one, and if the viewer is manipulated, that's a time honored skill that more directors wish they could master.

There is a great deal of violence and ample foul language. But "Die Hard" is excellent entertainment.

LAST WEEKEND'S TOP 10 at the box office as compiled by Exhibitor Relations Company were:

1. "A Nightmare on Elm Street 4," $12,800,000 for its opener.
2. "Young Guns," $55,400,000, down substantially from its opener, but $16,378,000 in two weeks.
3. "Die Hard," $4,523,000 for $46,026,000 in six weeks.
4. "A Fish Called Wanda," still the biggest laughs around with Cleese clowning it up in the buff, $4,407,000 for $24,363,000 in six weeks.
5. "Cocktail," also dropping fast with an even $4,000,000 for $46,223,000 in four weeks.
6. "Who Framed Roger Rabbit," $3,664,000 for $119,370,000 in nine weeks.
7. "Married To The Mob," a stronger opening at $3,321,000 than it probably deserves.
8. "Tucker," fading as fast as the ill-fated car, with $2,780,000, for $8,197,000 in two weeks.
9. "Coming To America," also tapering down, to $2,512,000 for $111,130,000 in eight weeks.
10. "Midnight Run," another word of mouth winner, but also slowing down to $2,107,000 for $29,083,000 in five weeks.

THE BIG surprise is, of course, the monumental figure for part four of 'Elm Street.' It should have run out of gas long ago, but the savvy producers have vested it with more and better special effects, and young audiences are gobbling it up.

We'll have more to say about it next week.

More helpful children

25 Years Ago

August 22, 1963...For the last few weeks, groups of children have given performances to benefit local charities. Well, here's two more to add to the list.

A backyard version of "Peter Pan" was put on under the direction of nine year old Mary Oertel, earning $4.36 for the Belleville Fresh Air Fund and, following the success of their carnival last week, a group of girls put on a second carnival, raising $41 for muscular dystrophy.

Nicholas Raimo became the second man (Bernard O'Connor being the first) to campaign for the vacant seat in the Town Council in the November election. The seat was vacated by the resignation of Councilman Thomas P. Greco. A truck driver by trade, Raimo gained political experience by running for the council in July. He was defeated by Councilman Vincent Strumolo in a run-off.

Belleville's Juvenile Department will be separated from the rest of the police department, said Chief Charles H. McGinnis. The juvenile section will be moved out of the detective bureau to the top floor of Town Hall, a move which will be more in line with the recommendations of Juvenile Court officials.

Towards the end of June, it was reported that Gwen Gaudio, 16, was chosen as a finalist in the Miss New Jersey High School beauty pageant. After gaining wider recognition from her showing in that contest, Gwen was selected as finalist in the Miss American Teenager contest. The pageant will take place in Palisades Park in early September.

The Belleville Fire Department, sparked by the pitching of 54 year old Chief Carl Hunderpfund, beat Lenihan's, 7-6, in Belleville Mutual Softball League action. The loss dropped Lenihan's into a tie for first place with the Knights of Columbus, who will play the Firemen next week.

Essex police and educators help AAA remind motorists "School's Open - Drive Carefully"

The beginning of a new school year always brings the issue of safety to the minds of parents. Unfortunately for students, safety often takes a back seat to the excitement of seeing old friends and starting a new year of study.

Police departments and schools throughout Essex County are working with the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club to remind motorists that "School's Open - Drive Carefully." This year's "School's Open" program focuses on running feet - the feet of children across the nation on their way to and from the classroom.

"Safety is usually not the first thing on a young child's mind as he or she travels to and from school. Impulsive actions are normal behavior for children," said Paul Kielblock, safety manager for the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club. "For this reason, it is important that drivers take the safety initiative by keeping their eyes open for children."

Traffic accidents kill more children up to age 14 than drowning, burns, falls and choking/poisoning combined. Last year in Essex County, 257 school-age children were killed or injured by motorists.

AAA's Kielblock indicated although motorists have the major responsibility to drive carefully, students and their parents must also make safety a top priority. Parents must discuss and reinforce basic traffic safety rules with their children to ensure a safe trip to and from school.

Parents can help, advised Kielblock, by observing these guidelines: talk to your children about proper pedestrian safety, including only crossing at corners and obeying pedestrian traffic rules; discuss bus safety with your children. Bus riders should wait for their bus away from traffic, board and exit only when the bus driver indicates it is okay to do so and remain seated while on board.

Others noted by Kielblock were: avoid driving your children to the bus stop; if you must drive your children to school, remember the most dangerous stop is the one in front of the school, and tote bags, bookbags or backpacks are wise investments for your children since many accidents occur when a child dashes to retrieve a dropped book.

To get the school year off to a safe start, local police departments will be displaying AAA "School's Open" posters near roadways and distributing general traffic safety materials to all area schools.

Additionally, many public and parochial schools, including School 10, will be using AAA's "School's Open - Drive Carefully" lapel stickers to help identify first time school bus riders and their respective bus route.

Local businesses and agencies including Carteret Savings Bank, Kings Super Markets, Pizza Hut, Charlie Brown's Restaurants and Motor Vehicle Services are also participating in the program. Any businesses desiring "School's Open" materials may order them by calling Tina Levorse at 377-7200, Ext. 291.

RELIGIOUS VIEWPOINT

Gerald Fortunato, Pastor
Silver Lake Baptist Church

The Service of Love in Every Situation

"A prophet is not without honor, except in his own country." (Mark 6:4)

No glory. No recognition. No thanks. That's why very few people make a career of being a servant. But servanthood is the calling of every true disciple of Christ.

Jesus often met rejection in Nazareth. There was no honor or welcome for the Savior in His own home town. And yet, His motivation to serve did not spring from a desire for human recognition. As Jesus did not serve for human recognition, so likewise we should serve in the same manner.

Let your life be one continuous service of love, a service which never grows irksome, a service which will ennoble even the smallest task. Do not seek the external, the visible, that which the world chooses as its goal. Seek instead that which is invisible — the hidden power behind the things we see.

In short, seek the Kingdom of God, where God is enthroned and self is denied. Seek these things not only in seasons of prayer and worship, but always — in every situation, in every daily task.

See if God does not give you ample strength for your service of love. See if He does not increase your joy and fill your heart with an exhilarating peace such as you never knew before.

Service for God puzzles the world. Of what other work could it be said that the longer your work, the stronger you become? That the more you give, the more you want to give? That the higher the cause for anxiety, the deeper the cause for peace?

It's clear that serving God may not add up in earthly dollars and "sense." But it's hard to match the fringe benefits. Or the retirement plan! Best of all, there are always positions open. And one is tailored just for you.

FEVER PITCH

One of the most prominent numbers in our lives is 98.6 degrees F. This is believed to be the normal body temperature of a person when taken by an oral thermometer. However, a person should not become alarmed if a reading is above or below that number. Because of individual differences, a person's normal range can extend from 96.5 degrees F. to 99 degrees F. There are also other considerations that can affect body temperature. For instance, such drugs as antibiotics and birth control pills can induce fever. Known as drug fever, this phenomenon usually occurs during the second week of taking the drug. Another consideration for women is their fertility cycle. Ovulation can raise body temperature by a degree. All such things should be considered when a temperature is taken.

Nine state residents indicted for theft

Attorney General Cary Edwards announced August 11 that a State Grand Jury has returned indictments against nine New Jersey residents on charges related to the theft or attempted theft by deception of over $67,000 from several New Jersey insurance companies.

The Attorney General said that charges contained in the indictments allege that the defendants submitted false automobile theft claims to their respective insurance carriers ranging from $2,000 to $15,000. The insurance companies receiving the fraudulent insurance claims include The Travelers, Hanover, Allstate, New Jersey Manufacturers, Prudential and CIGNA-INA.

"These indictments," Edwards said, "represent a concerted effort by our newly formed Insurance Fraud Task Force which combine the resources of the Fraud Prevention Division within the Department of Insurance and the Division's of Criminal Justice and Law within the Department of Law and Public Safety.

"Essentially," he added, "we have merged the expertise of the Insurance Department with the Department of Law and Public Safety to significantly crack down on all types of insurance fraud."

Edwards noted that the Insurance Fraud Task Force has set a goal to reduce fraudulent acts that eventually cost the public tens of millions of dollars a year in higher insurance rates.

Insurance Commissioner Kenneth D. Merin agreed with Edwards that insurance fraud is one of the most rapidly expanding and costly white-collar crimes in the country.

Donald R. Belsole, First Assistant Attorney General and director of the Division of Criminal Justice, said that in each case, the indictments allege that the insured motor vehicle was found abandoned or in a derelict condition prior to the date and time each defendant claimed to have last seen or used the vehicle.

In some cases, Belsole said, sworn affidavits were submitted to the insurance company as part of the insurance claim. Accordingly, a charge of false swearing was returned by the State Grand Jury against those defendants who attested under oath that they used or were in possession of their vehicle at a time when the vehicle was actually identified as abandoned.

Income tax course popular adult education

Many adults are taking adult education classes to learn skills, or add to their existing job skills. H&R Block teaches a nationwide course in tax return preparation to give interested people the practical skill of preparing tax returns.

Bert Tobia, H&R Block District Manager, explained that H&R Block's courses are designed for adults who have finished formal schooling and are looking for a new skill they can use for their own personal use, or possibly for earning money. "These courses have been especially popular with working people, housewives and retired persons who want a skill that will help them pick up some extra income."

Last fall, more than 70,000 persons enrolled in Block's Basic Income Tax Course, which provides instruction in preparing individual income tax returns for self-use, or as a potential source of income.

A similar course will begin this fall in Nutley, Belleville and Bloomfield, starting September 8th & 9th, and running for approximately 13 weeks, with 75 hours of instruction. The curriculum covers application of tax laws for federal, state and local returns. Students use actual tax forms to solve problems in conjunction with materials prepared by the tax preparation firm.

"The special thing about this course," said Mr. Tobia, "is that all of our classes are taught by experienced H&R Block employees, which means students get the benefit of their instructor's experience."

The course is also designed, like many adult education classes, to fit individual work schedules and family commitments by offering morning, afternoon and evening sessions. In addition, no requirements, such as previous tax or accounting knowledge are necessary.

Graduates will be awarded certificates and 7.5 continuing education units. The cost of the course includes all texts, reference materials, tax forms, supplies, registration and tuition.

"Job interviews may be offered to interested top graduates. However, the student has no obligation to seek or accept employment with us, and in turn, Block is under no obligation to offer employment," said Mr. Tobia.

For additional information about the income tax school, contact the H&R Block Registration Center at 155 Franklin Ave., Nutley, NJ, or call (201) 235-1000.

Board of Education meeting

themselves and with citizens present options to help reduce the problems of teenagers congregating at Belleville High School.

Complaints were heard regarding loud music playing to late hours and garbage being strewn in the street. Nardiello said the board of education had an agreement with the police department about patrolling the grounds and he would send a letter to remind them.

Recommendations were made to have a meeting between the board, the recreation department and the town to come up with programs to entice teenagers such as opening schools for gym use and having dances. Another suggestion was to suggest that the teenagers gather between the gym and the tennis courts rather than between the tennis courts and the street in the hopes the distance would cut down on the noise. It was also suggested to place a garbage bin there so the teenagers would have a place to dispose of the garbage.

Board Secretary/Business Administrator Edward Appleton informed the board of the status of asbestos removal in the schools. Appleton said school numbers 4, 5, 8, 9, Belleville Middle School have been completed and school numbers 7, 10 and Belleville High School have almost been completed. Appleton also said the painting of the middle school is moving along.

"All reports say it looks excellent," he said about the interior. Appleton said he had been in the school last week and was impressed. He also suggested passing by the middle school and see the exterior painting. "If you see it being done, the contrast between what was there and what there doing, it's phenomenal."

Volunteers paint locker room

Sports psychiatrists often say the coloring of a locker room can be very important to a team's attitude going into a game. The Belleville High School soccer team may not have used that advice but they will have new surroundings as they head into this season.

New Head Coach Gino DePinto, taking over after seven years as assistant, and four others took time out from their summer vacations and re-painted the locker room at Clairmont Field, where the team plays its home games.

"It was the seniors idea, there's not many of them, only three," explained DePinto. "They did it five years ago, so we figured it was time."

Two of those three seniors volunteered to give their best impression of Picasso, Goalie Joseph Barreire and Defenseman Tim Cook. The others were Freshmen Frank Crocco and Franco Ditella. Meeting at the locker room at 9:30 Tuesday, the four began painting the seven benches, 40 lockers and door, under DePinto's supervision. At noon they took lunch and then spent the afternoon putting on a second coat of paint.

To help change the atmosphere of this year's team, a light blue was painted, replacing the navy that had been the color for years. While the players supplied the muscle, the Belleville Board of Education supplied gallons to make sure the job was completed.

"We came over Friday and brought the equipment over," explained DePinto, who described the work as spring cleaning. A practice was held Monday and that is when Cook, whose brother was part of the first player painting, recruited the three others to help.

"I think it's a moral boost," said DePinto. "We're going with a young team, maybe it will boost the freshmen."

The locker room was aired out and ready for practice Wednesday but DePinto made sure the painters realized they would get no special treatment. "No, they'll be out here running, we've got a lot of work to do."

TENSE MOMENT — Governor Thomas Kean and Freeholder Art Clay (who covered the Jersey aspects of the Republican convention for us) share a tense moment during vote counting in the Superdome.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT:

Quayle opened the door himself

By Arthur Clay,
Freeholder, 5th District

During the just concluded Republican convention in New Orleans I got to say a brief hello to Senator Dan Quayle, Vice President George Bush's choice of running mate, and I was impressed at his dynamism.

Normally he seems poised, but like Bush, who has been a neighbor of ours in Kennebunkport, Maine, for many summers, there seems little question that he does better one on one than before a large group.

Governor Kean and I were standing nearby when Senator Quayle was being quizzed by the press and after he mentioned his six years service with the Indiana National Guard and said how proud he was of those years, he added "...but calls were made," and thereby, himself, opened the door to all that followed.

My heart missed a beat. I said to myself "That does it." And, indeed, it did uncork a reaction that put him off balance. Governor Kean said later that if asked, his advice to Quayle would be to learn how to deal with the media.

'He'd go to heaven'

Of course there was nothing improper about the National Guard situation. George Bush had a son in the guard, so did Lloyd Bentsen, as did hundreds of thousands of other American families. Many guard units saw service in Vietnam and 7,000 guardsmen lost their lives there, so it was never a sure thing that being in the National Guard was a safe haven.

With 15,000 newsmen in New Orleans and not much in the way of hard news, it was something to latch on to, and under other circumstances, wouldn't have amounted to much.

Quayle had run successfully twice for the house and twice for the senate, and it was never a problem. It has since come out that Governor Michael Dukakis asked his draft board for three deferments during the Korean War and was granted them in order to finish his education.

If this is all that can be hung on Senator Quayle, he will certainly go to heaven.

Bush reunion

My wife, Heather, my son, Arthur, and I managed a quick reunion with members of the Bush family. We have been neighbors with them in Kennebunkport, Maine. In fact we attend the same church, St. Ann's Episcopal, and fondly remember occasions when the vice president delivered the sermon.

When we ran in to Marvin Bush on Monday I asked him who the vice presidential choice would be and he said, in all honesty, he had no idea.

Change noticed

A lot of people in Kennebunkport have expressed fear that if he becomes president, the character of the place will change. I can say that it already has during the Reagan years. Fences went up, security came in. But the Bush family still likes to go out and eat at local restaurants and so on.

Thanks to the generosity of Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick, my son, Arthur, was able to spend some time on the floor. He made dozens of pictures for us, and at 16, he was probably the youngest participant.

Everywhere we went we heard warm praise for Governor Kean. Even allowing that the Quayle announcement upstaged the Kean speech, everyone seemed to have heard it and were impressed. I was surprised, as were many other Jersey delegates, at the strength of his attacks against Governor Dukakis. Usually Tom Kean isn't quite that strong in his criticisms.

For the New Jersey delegation, perhaps the most suspense was generated by the question "Will there be enough water in the Mississippi to float the riverboat for Chuck Hardwick's party?"

There was, and it turned out to be the single best event of our convention days.

As to whether the Quayle flap will hurt the Bush campaign, I doubt it. So far the only people who seem to be upset are members of the media. Polls and all my contacts with my constituents, Republican and Democrat, suggest it's a non-event.

DeJessie fined on assault

Municipal Court Judge Anthony Amoscatto imposed a $25 fine on Richard DeJessie of Belleville on a simple assault charge at hearings conducted July 17. DeJessie also had to pay $25 in costs and a mandatory $30 to the violent crimes fund.

The charge, which arose from an April 20 incident when DeJessie pointed a weapon, said to have been mace, at Officer Richard Ruby, was down graded from aggravated assault to simple assault earlier by an assistant county prosecutor.

Any physical force against a police officer in the performance of his duty is considered aggravated assault.

Judge Amoscatto adjourned to September 7 a hearing on Anthony Roesch of Nutley. Roesch has been charged with malicious damage in an incident March 1, being in possession of a controlled dangerous substance March 18 and criminal trespass plus possession of marijuana on April 18.

The Judge also issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Christopher Alioto.

Alioto did not appear for his hearing on a malicious damage charge.

Sales campaign

Pragma Bio-Tech, Inc., of Bloomfield, has initiated a national direct marketing program for its new product, Liqui-Mega, a micro-emulsified fish oil said to reduce cholesterol and triglycerides in the blood if taken twice daily as a dietary supplement.

The company has signed an agreement with National Syndications, Inc., which works with publications such as Parade, Woman's Day, Weekly World News, TV Guide, The National Inquirer and USA Weekend. Pragma Bio-Tech's chairman and president, John Bruno, said the company anticipates $3 million annual sales for Liqui-Mega.

Foot Facts

BIG TOE JOINT PAIN

Gout is a form of arthritis which usually affects the joint at the base of the big toe. An attack begins with sudden sharp pain, and may last up to five days if left untreated. A slight fever may accompany an attack. This condition usually affects middle-aged men, most of whom are overweight and genetically predisposed to the disease. Its causes are rooted in the body's inability to dispose of excess uric acid. This waste product of the body's metabolism is usually excreted in the urine. As the uric acid crystals form in the afflicted joint, ingested by white blood cells, inflammation and pain result. Treatment consists of drug therapy and a commitment to dietary restriction.

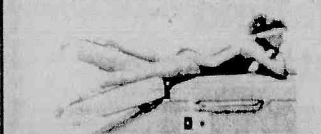

Gout can occur as a side effect of other medications, specifically those often prescribed for high blood pressure. The affected joint(s) often turn red, and the toe may feel as if it's broken. Effective treatment is available. For a consultation call DR. PAUL A. CAPUTO at 759-6560. My offices, including X-ray facilities, are nearby at 345 Washington Ave., Belleville. Hours by appt. Most medical plans accepted.

HINT: Along with the big toe, the ankles, knees and fingers may be afflicted with gout.

Belleville Times SPORTS

The decade of the 80's has been one of excellence for the Belleville football program. Under the guidance of John Senesky, the Buccaneers have put together some exciting ball clubs. Now, with the 1988 campaign just days away from opening practices, this seems a good time to look back at the first eight seasons of the 1980's.

We'll start with the 1980 campaign, a season in which the Buccaneers weren't supposed to do very well because of youth and inexperience.

Belleville opened the 1980 campaign when it battled Livingston on a Friday night at Municipal Stadium. The Lancers were the pre season pick as the number one team in the state, and had standouts Stan Yagiello and George Alpert as a deadly pass combination. The Bucs, who had drilled Livingston, 35-8 the previous season in the opener, lost 22 seniors from the 1979 team that went 8-2 and advanced to the playoffs.

The game was a blowout by halftime, as Livingston used its superior air game to win impressively, 36-12. Belleville did receive some good performances from quarterback John Melillo and running back Frank Fazzini, who was starting at halfback in the game.

Belleville used that loss as a springboard to a tremendous season. The Bucs upended Montclair in week two, 7-6 and then went wild, beating its next eight opponents and advancing to the state championship game, against West Essex, at Giants Stadium.

Along the way, Belleville won some important games. It beat Passaic in week four, 13-9, in a game where Fazzini was moved to fullback and the Belleville offense took off. It stopped Seton Hall Prep, 34-8 in week seven, erasing a 63-0 loss the program suffered at the hands of Seton Hall just three seasons ago.

The Bucs defeated Morris Knolls in a first round playoff game at Giants Stadium and left the field to a triumphant chorus of "Another One Bites The Dust", the big song from the group "Queen" that was on top of the charts in '80.

Some of the heroes from that club were Phil Cerza, Paul Scheuplein, Luigi Chimento, John Cataldo, Bob Dalla Riva, Anthony D'Agostino, Ricky Racioppi and Ken Constantino. Fazzini rushed for over 1,000 yards and Melillo threw 13 TD passes.

The '81 club was a veteran crew, with Cerza and Fazzini back for their senior campaigns. Newcomers like David Grant, Danny Palumbo, Jeff Walsh, Angelo Centanni, Ray Kimble, John Borrello and Jimmy Castelli kept the winning tradition at Belleville High.

The Bucs won its first three games in '81, then lost a thriller to Passaic, 7-0 at Municipal Stadium. Belleville got back on track with two more wins, then lost a controversial game to Seton Hall Prep, 27-7. The game was tied in the fourth quarter before Seton Hall scored three unanswered TD's. Both Seton Hall and Passaic finished the season at 11-0 that year, so Belleville certainly didn't lose to lower level teams.

The Bucs finished at 7-2 that year, missing the playoffs by one half game to Barringer, who was 6-1-1 after eight games and got the nod. Belleville had defeated Barringer, 39-14 that season in regular season play, but Barringer, with a lighter schedule, didn't lose again and got the nod.

I've always said that the 1982 club brought out the true coaching talent in Senesky. The Bucs were young and inexperienced that year, although talents like Grant, Castelli, Kimble, Robbie Cancelliere, Craig Mack, Billy Baber, Mike Murphy and Mark Walsh were outstanding players.

The Bucs won its opener against Passaic Valley, 27-7. The '82 campaign was Belleville's first in the NNJIL. In week two, the Bucs defeated Passaic, 3-2, in THE GAME. Passaic was ranked number one in the state and seventh in the nation, and featured an awesome running game led by Craig Heyward.

Belleville had its own future pro in Grant, however, and the defense was simply awesome. Cancelliere kicked the field goal in the second quarter and the smaller Belleville team just found a way to win.

After beating Passaic, the Bucs won at Clifton, then lost its only regular season game at Montclair. Belleville went to the playoffs, where it lost a thriller to Union, 12-7. The Bucs ended the year at 8-2. Murphy, a junior, rushed for over 1,000 yards. Belleville captured a share of the NNJIL with Montclair.

Belleville was led by Murphy, Walsh, John Olivieri, Bob Mozeika, Dave Mozeika, John Apicella, Anthony Gizzo, Ralph De Falco, Frank Tursi and Mike Gibbons. The Bucs started off 2-0, then lost at Montclair. After beating Teaneck, Belleville lost games to Ridgewood and Passaic, dropping the team record to 3-3.

The Bucs finished strong, winning the final three games for a 6-3 season. The team opened the year at Nutley in '83 and won, 12-6. Murphy, again broke the 1,000 yard rushing mark for the season.

The '84 campaign started quickly for the Bucs. The team won its opener against Don Bosco, with Gizzo and Gibbons scoring the TD's. After losing to Bergen Catholic, Belleville reeled off five straight wins. Included in those victories was a 7-0 win over Passaic and a 7-3 victory against Clifton the following week. It was two of the most intense, exciting weeks of football seen in this area in a long time.

After beating Paterson Kennedy in week seven to boost its season mark to 6-1, Belleville was beset by injuries. The Bucs had lost six players in the Kennedy game to knee and ankle injuries. Many feel the artificial turf at Paterson played a part in those injuries.

Without key players like Dom Di Paolo, Ralph Chimento and Gizzo, the Bucs lost to Montclair, 28-0 in week eight. Despite the loss, the team still qualified for the state playoffs, where the opponent was an awesome squad from Union.

The Bucs were never in the game, as Union won handily, 42-0. The season ended on a down note, as the Bucs lost on Thanksgiving to Nutley, 19-6. If Belleville had won, it would have

Commitment to excellence

Buc football hopes to have continued success on the field

As the Belleville football team prepares for the upcoming 1988 season, it looks to continue the fine tradition of outstanding teams that has dominated the 1980's. This is the ninth season of the decade, and thus far, the decade has produced six winning seasons and three trips to the sectional playoffs.

The architect behind this success, of course, has been head coach John Senesky. While Senesky receives most of the credit through the print media, he is quick to direct praise to his fine corps of assistant coaches.

Assistant coach Gennaro Russo once said of the assistant football coaches at Belleville, "they come and go like gas station attendants." Certainly, the coaching staff at Belleville went through a number of changes in the early 80's, but recently, the staff has stayed intact and the men put in many hours with the athletes in an attempt to mold a winning team.

Joe D'Ambola is back for another year at the helm. D'Ambola has been the rock of stability at Belleville High, working under Senesky since the head coach took the reigns in 1977. Before that, D'Ambola worked under the staff of Tom Testa.

Russo has been coaching at Belleville since 1980 and is perhaps the most colorful of the coaches. There are many instances where he has "motivated" his troops, but perhaps the most memorable came in a 1984 contest with Passaic.

Belleville and Passaic have staged some memorable contests over the past ten seasons. Passaic has a tradition of warming up before a game and chanting "war". It has become an Indian tradition and serves as extra motivation for the team.

In 1984, the Bucs defeated the Indians, 7-0, stopping a Passaic winning streak that had hit 16 games and dated back to the 1982 campaign. With time running out and Belleville in control, Russo yelled across the field to the Passaic contingent, "you wanted a war, you got a war."

There was an instance in the Belleville-Montclair game of 1985 when Russo took exception to a late TD Montclair had scored in a game that was out of reach in the Mounties favor. Russo had questioned why the Mounties were throwing long bombs in the waning minutes of a 14-0 contest.

Russo is a dedicated coach who, like D'Ambola, gets the best out of his players.

Russ Pagano is back to lead the defensive charges. Pagano was a Belleville star in the late 70's, earning all state honors for his outstanding 1979 campaign. He was graduated in 1980 from BHS and after attending college, came back to Belleville as a coach and teacher in the school system.

In 1985, Pagano was selected to the Belleville Hall of Fame. He returns for his sixth season of coaching.

Another former Belleville star, Russ Cirillo, is back for his fourth campaign. He was graduated in 1981 from BHS and starred on the 1980 club that went to the state finals at Giants Stadium.

Larry Zacche and Jack McGregor round out the 1988 staff. Both men were a part of the team last year and will head up the freshman gridders once again. Zacche is the former Nutley High School football coach who directed the '81 Raiders. Zacche's team at Nutley in 1981 posted a 1-8 campaign, but he was up against one of the toughest schedules in school his-

Flashback!

Municipal stadium opener remembered

This weeks Flashback takes us all the way back to the Fall of 1945. The Belleville football team has opened the regular season with a game against Barringer, and it's the first game ever played at Belleville Municipal Stadium.

In the Fall of 1945, prosperity reigned. World War II had just ended. Harry S. Truman was our nations president, having continued the administration of Franklin Delanor Roosevelt, who died suddenly in June of '45. The Belleville Times-News cost .05 a week, or $2.00 for an entire years subscription. The week of October 7 was designated as Fire Prevention Week by President Truman.

A full court of Vermont cost $1.69. Back in August of '45, the streets of Belleville exploded with joy as the Japanese surrendered and WW II officially ended. If you wanted to buy slip covers and draperies, Russell T. MacEachern on Washington Avenue in Belleville was the place to visit. If you wanted to re-roof your house, you could have called T.W. Monaghan Co. His telephone number was Belleville 2-2717.

This article appeared in the October 4, 1945 issue.

Before the largest home crowd to see a Belleville football game in recent years, the local high school eleven made a successful inauguration of the Municipal Stadium last Saturday when they bumped off a heavily favored Barringer High by a 19 to 6 score. It was the opening game for both teams, and the Bellboys, on the strength of this win, served notice to the scholastic world that they are a team to be reckoned with this year.

Don Smith, a bull-like halfback, starred for the home team, tallying one touchdown on a sensational 73 yard run and heaving two passes to Johnny Distasio to account for the other scores, with Distasio kicking one of the extra points.

The Belleville eleven took the opening kickoff, but fell into hot water when the Newarkers recovered a block punt in the homesters territory, but the Bellboys held, with the aid of a penalty and took the ball on their own 27. Here, Smith took over, and on a straight line play, smacked his way through the line and broke into the open. He outran the Barringer secondary to reel off the necessary 73 yards to payoff territory and ring up the first counters of the contest. John Distasio failed to connect on his try for the point, and the Yellowjackets led, 6-0.

The Big Blue team recovered a Belleville fumble shortly after, however, and starting from the home teams 41, quickly tied the score. Two nice passes, clicked for the visitors, the first from Gene Nisivoccia to Tom Gialanella that carried to the 19, and then Nisivoccia found Art Berry in the end zone and dropped a toss into his arms for a touchdown. On the try for the extra point, Berry was smeared as he attempted to buck for the one

A preview of fall sports ...only two weeks away

Coaches and athletes are gearing up for the 1988-89 sports campaign, which begins in just two weeks. Belleville Athletic Director Jim Silvestri announced that all of the varsity coaches, with the exception of soccer, will be back at the helm for the fall campaign.

Tony De Aquino, who guided the soccer program from 1980-87, resigned his position after a successful campaign last fall. De Aquino put together some strong teams during his eight year tenure. Before taking the head coaching position in '80, De Aquino served as assistant coach to Tony Cahill. The soccer program at Belleville began in 1974 as a junior varsity entry and moved to the varsity level in the Fall of '75.

The new varsity coach is Luigi Pinto, who served as junior varsity mentor for the past four seasons.

John Senesky will lead the Belleville football team. This is Senesky's 12th campaign as head coach, and he is hoping the Bucs can improve upon last years 3-6 record. He has a good senior class leading the way in '88 and optimism is at a high level, especially with the new weight room recently installed at Belleville High.

The weight room has received strong accolades from Silvestri, who feels it will help all the athletes at BHS this year.

"I think it will help all the sports programs," Silvestri said. "From September to June, it will give the kids additional conditioning. Don (Roll), the varsity basketball coach at Belleville) hopes his kids get a lot of mileage out of it from September until the start of the basketball season (in late November). The same for the wrestlers. The football

Ruffalo excels in preparation for Seoul

Richard Ruffalo continues his commitment to excellence. Last week, the Belleville High School teacher and coach set another world record, this time in the discus at a meet at Montclair State College.

Ruffalo, a blind athlete who has set numerous records, threw the discus 36.61 meters, breaking the world record by 2.09 meters. The previous record was held by an East German athlete.

Ruffalo is now gearing for the most coveted prize of his career. The Olympics for the Disabled will be held in October on Seoul, South Korea. They will be held one week after the regular Olympics are completed in Seoul.

"I'm really looking forward to going to Seoul," Ruffalo said. "That's my biggest challenge. My ultimate goal would be to win gold medals in the shot, discus and javelin. If I do that, then it's time to hang the chickens in the tree".

What Ruffalo means by that prior statement is he will retire from active competition should he win those coveted gold medals.

Ruffalo now holds world records in nine track and field and weight lifting events. He is still vying for the outdoor shot put world record, which is currently 12.18 meters. Ruffalo holds the indoor shot put world record of 11.96 meters.

The coach also holds three javelin world records and a number of weight lifting records.

At the Olympics, Ruffalo will throw the shot put, discus and javelin. Ruffalo attended Bloomfield High School, and later, Montclair State College. While at college, Ruffalo excelled in the javelin.

He began his coaching career at Belleville High in the Fall of 1974 by leading the cross country team. He coached cross country at Belleville High from 1974-81. He was the head coach of the track team from 1975-82, then turned the job over to John Tosato. Ruffalo continues to coach track in an assistants capacity, working with the weight team.

Ruffalo's vision began to diminish in the early 1980's. Today, he is legally blind, however his work with the blind athletes and his athletic accomplishments more than make up for any "handicap."

A very upbeat man, Ruffalo is optimistic about his chances at the Olympics. He will travel to Colorado Springs on Labor Day Weekend to compete in a tune up meet before the Olympics. That meet will be held at the Olympic Training Center.

BEING DRIVEN — Richard Ruffalo as the Grand Marshal at the Columbus Day Parade last year. Ruffalo is now driving himself as he prepares for the Para-Olympics.

clicked, the latter grabbing one of Smitty's tosses on the 17 and dashing the remaining distance to the goal line. A placement kick by Distasio was successful and the Yellowjackets walked off the field with a 13 to 6 halftime lead.

Belleville continued to outplay the Barringer pigskin warriors, and really put the clincher across in the final period. Moving the ball from the Blue 43 to the 15 on ground plays, Distasio worked into the clear once more to nab one of Smith's aerials and cross the Barringer goal line, and although failing in the conversion attempt, took a 19 to 6 edge which they held until the final whistle.

The Belleville forward wall did a commendable job in holding the heavier visitors in check, and with a little more work on the ground attack, the Bellboys will prove formidable foes for the opposition this year.

EDITORS NOTES: Belleville battled Bloomfield the following week. The Bengals were coached by the legendary Bill Foley back then. The Belleville coach was William Chapman. His assistant was Hermany "Jitty" Wische. Wische, of course, served as Belleville Athletic Director until retiring in the Spring of 1976. Jim Silvestri took over for Wische in the Fall of '76 and has held the job ever since. Frank Spotts was the Belleville line coach. Belleville lost to Bloomfield in '45, 18-13 at rain soaked Municipal Stadium. The starting 11 for the Barringer game featured Naturale at left end, Cook at left tackle, Joe Distasio at left guard, Kline at center, Del Grosso at right guard, Pudney at right tackle, Grecco at right end, John Distasio at quarterback, Smith at left halfback, Del Vecchio at right halfback and Cerami at fullback.

BUC SHOTS

captured its second NNJIL crown in three seasons. Nonetheless, it finished 6-3 in regular season play. Walsh closed out a brilliant high school career at quarterback by being named Co-MVP of the Belleville-Nutley game.

Next week, we'll look back at the past three seasons at Belleville High and a look at the 1988 season, which kicks off regular season play in just four weeks.

THIS WEEK'S QUIZ

When Todd Worrell of the St. Louis Cardinals appeared in the All Star game this season, it marked the first time a Cardinal pitcher had appeared in an All Star game in seven years. Who was the last Cardinal to pitch in the All Star game before Worrell and who was the last Redbird to start an All Star game. A hint: the last Card to start an All Star game did so in 1973.

Football

Former Belleville High School star John Olivieri is new to the coaching staff this fall. Olivieri was graduated from BHS in 1985. He had a standout senior campaign in the fall of '84, catching key TD passes in the Passaic and Clifton games.

The pre season conditioning drills began last Monday with the power index ratings. The annual decathlon, weather permitting, is set to commence today. Practice begins next Monday, and the regular season opener is September 24, when the Bucs battle Passaic, at Passaic, starting at 1:30 p.m.

Baseball game time changed

A Belleville resident who works for the New York Yankees wishes to inform those who would like to attend, or plan to attend the Yankees - Oakland A's game this Sunday that the time has been changed.

The game was originally scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. start but has been switched to a 1:00 o'clock start. For any information, interested people can call Annette Guardapascio at 212-293-6013.

Fall sports

players have been using it during the summer.

"Weight lifting should cut down on injuries and keep the kids healthier," Silvestri continued. "The knee guards helped prevent injury last year and now the weight room should continue that trend."

The cross country team will be under the direction of veteran John Tosato. Karen Fuccello returns for her 11th campaign as girls' tennis coach. Back for her second year of coaching the gymnastics team is Gina Lemongello.

Lemongello, a 1985 BHS grad, did a fine job in her first year of coaching. She took over for Ray Iannuzzi just before the start of the '87 season.

Finally, Grace Worley returns for another year of volleyball. The volleyball teams at Belleville have been highly successful for the past six years. Last season, the team posted a 23-3 record, including a 23 match winning. Worley is the only coach of the volleyball program at Belleville, which began playing varsity matches in 1980.

Cook return to goal for New Jersey Tech

Brian Cook returns for his fourth season in goal for New Jersey Tech under new Head Coach T.J. Kostecky. A Dean's List academician, Cook won nine varsity letters at Belleville High School and was first team All-State Group IV goal keeper for the 1984 team which fashioned a 15-6-2 record, the best in the school's history.

Cook, a senior majoring in marketing, is a 6'0", 180 pound three year varsity starter for the Highlanders and has compiled a 29-23-6 record over that span. At Belleville, he registered eight shut-outs during his senior season when Belleville made it to the finals of the Essex County championships.

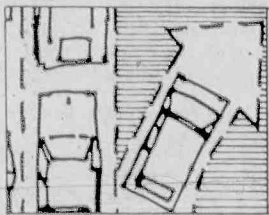

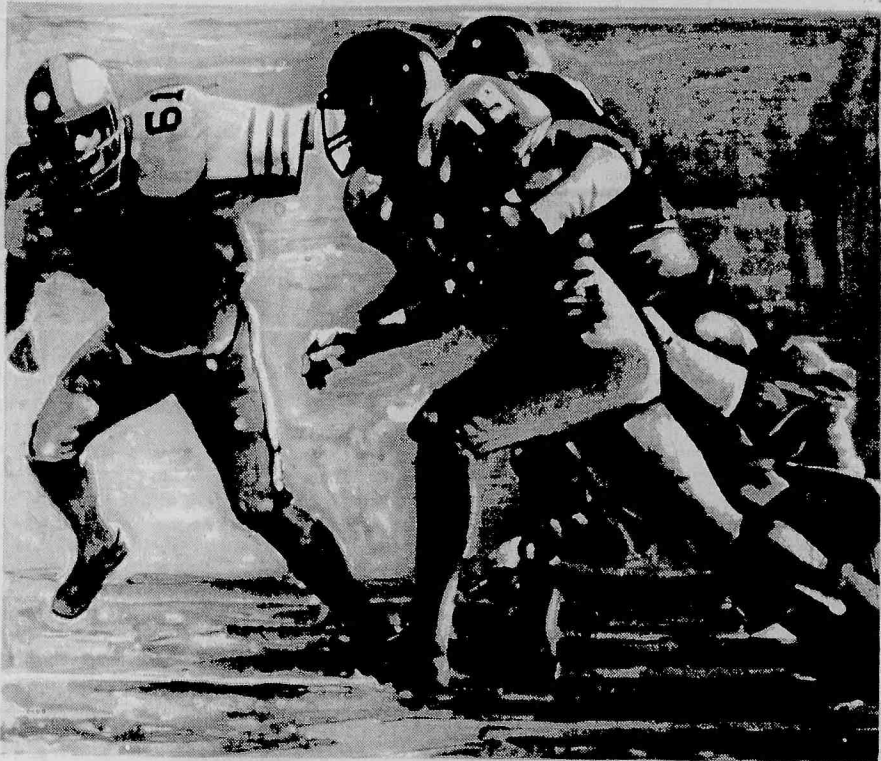

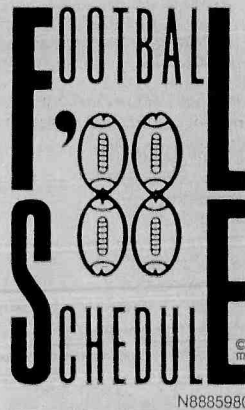

Cook, who scored four goals against Yeshiva in 1986 when he was switched to a midfield position in the second half, is a prime building block in Kostecky's defensive plans.

Kostecky, who was an all-state player for Woodbridge High School in 1976 and 1977, is embarking on his first head coaching position in intercollegiate circles. After finishing his career at East Stroudsburg University, Kostecky was head coach at Jefferson Township High School from 1981 through 1986, when he was appointed Director of Athletics at Centenary College in Hackettstown.

In announcing the soccer appointment, N.J. Tech Athletic Director Mal Simon said, "In naming T.J. Kostecky as Tech's first fulltime soccer coach, we have taken a major step in the development of our athletic program."

Kostecky looks forward to the Tech soccer challenge with great anticipation. "It is clear that New Jersey Tech is committed to enhancing its soccer program," he said. "The appointment of a full-time coach and the improvement of the athletic facilities here on the campus are clear evidence of that commitment."

Farese completes Century 21 investment course

Jim Farese of Century 21 A CV Real Estate recently graduated from the five day Century 21 Investment Qualification Course, a course designed to prepare investment brokerage graduates to list and sell neighborhood oriented properties as investment properties.

This course enables the graduate to evaluate the fundamental elements of any investment for the purpose of determining Cash Flow and Sales Proceeds, with emphasis on basics such as risk, appreciation, liquidity, management, and yield on investment. The general definition of real estate investment is any real property bought with the intention not to use it as a principle or primary place of personal residence, and often interpreted as any property larger than a three-unit building, duplex, or major development property.

Robert Sperte, President and Regional Director of Century 21 of the Northeast, Inc. stated, "Salespeople completing this course take the first step in becoming real estate experts, a necessary tool in today's viable market. Century 21 designed this course in line with future plans to concentrate on investment real estate as more and more people turn to Century 21 for expertise and service."

As a graduate of this course, Mr. Farese becomes a candidate for the Century 21 Investment Society in N.J. which regularly meets for instant marketing sessions, and can utilize the Century 21 Real Estate Investment Journal and International Property Data Bank. Jim reflected, "This course enabled me to understand the benefits of real estate as an investment opportunity and has given me a foundation for expanding my skills. I can now apply this knowledge to new transactions by assisting my customers in putting together investment deals."

Century 21 continually provides its franchisees with new courses and training to meet the needs of real estate buyers and sellers in the '80's.

Century 21 A CV names new associate

Century 21 A CV Real Estate of Clifton is proud to announce that Joan Robertazzi has joined their firm as a sales associate according to Carole Viola, Broker.

Ms. Robertazzi is a licensed real estate salesperson and has completed training in the Century 21 2 & 1 course.

A resident of Clifton for 20 years, Joan graduated from William Paterson College and has a Masters Degree in Education. She has been employed by the Paterson Board of Education as a teacher and will specialize in residential sales in the Clifton area.

Century A CV has more than 20 sales associates serving the Clifton, Paterson, Passaic, Bloomfield & Nutley communities. Its services include a commercial and investment division, a rental department, insurance services and professional mortgage and finance placement.

Century 21 is the nation's leading real estate sales company with over 7,000 offices and 8,000 salespeople worldwide.

Century 21 A CV honors Asto

Century 21 A CV Real Estate of Clifton honored Gus Asto as Sales Associate for the month of July. This was the second time this year that Mr. Asto received this distinction. Jim Farese, partner in the firm, presented Asto with the award at a presentation reception

August 8th. According to Mr. Farese, "Gus is one of the new breed of Realtors. He is young, highly trained and motivated for ultimate professional service."

Included among Asto's achievements are successful completion of Century 21's 2 & 1 Training course, VIP Sales Associate course, and is a graduate of Montclair State with a

B.A. in Fine Arts & Philosophy. He has completed the Effective Financing course of Century 21 and also the 3 month Floyd Wickman's S.T.A.R. salesperson course.

Mr. Asto is a member of the Passaic County Board of Realtors and has resided in Clifton for 11 years.

Tiffany Park townhouses open

The completion to the first townhouse condominiums at Tiffany Park was the occasion for a recent Open House with a model in the first section open for inspection.

Tiffany Park is a new community in the Forest Hill section of Newark, bordering Belleville Park. The first phase consists of 48 three-story townhouses being constructed on vacant land opposite the former Tiffany & Co. jewelry and silversmith plant.

Tiffany Park condos offer 1,887 sq. ft. of space, including two fully carpeted bedrooms and two baths on the second floor level. The first floor has a carpeted living room, dining room, half bath, and fully equipped kitchen. A 7' x 17' deck adjoins the kitchen. Central air-condition is standard.

The lower level provides entry from the private garage, laundry and utility room with an optional family room and hardwood floors. The first phase units are priced from $150,000 and a select few are available for immediate occupancy. Later, the original factory building will be converted to include 129 townhouses.

Franklin Building Corporation of Montclair, real estate developers, are responsible for management and design of the project.

Tiffany Park is located on Tiffany Boulevard off Mt. Prospect Avenue, one block from Mill Street in Belleville. For easy directions, call the model sales office at (201) 485-8833. The sales office is open daily and weekends from noon to 5 p.m.

REAL ESTATE FORUM

By Jim Farese

Q. I have heard there is a new government program to help first time home buyers. Where can I get information on this?

A. The State of New Jersey periodically offers a fabulous home loan program. It is called the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency (NJHMFA). This program is designed to help the first time home buyer afford their own home. It is limited to 41 designated areas throughout the state. Our area does include many targeted areas. The requirements are that the sale price of the home not exceed $179,089 and the total family income not exceed $59,500.

The NJHMFA offers 5% down payment loans at a rate of only 8.15% for 30 year fixed mortgages with only 2 points. For further information, you can call 1-800-NJ-HOUSE or contact me for more information and a copy of the target area map.

Q. Is it true that if I purchase a multi-family building in Clifton that falls under rent control, I can raise the rent to any amount if the apartment is vacant?

A. As stated in the Clifton Rental Ordinance Chapter 363-14, "Initial Rents Following Vacancy," a landlord is not governed under the laws if a tenant vacates an apartment voluntarily or dies. In other words, an owner can charge any rent he wishes for a vacant apartment even if it is in a building where rent control exists.

The Home Front

By Nina Kaeser

"A rose is a rose is a rose," the poet Gertrude Stein wrote. She might have been writing about the current decorating craze, which has seen the flower on china, pottery, sheets, quilts and napkins, in addition to chintzes and carpets.

***

It's easier to evenly coat the lamp or other small object you're spray-painting if you place it on a lazy susan (protect the tray with foil first) and slowly turn it while you spray.

***

Fixing up your attic? Add skylights - several, if you can - to bring in light and air. Costs less than a dormer, and looks more modern.

***

Brick walkway will hold up better if you start with a sand base of about two inches to keep bricks from sinking into the soil.

Reduction-option mortgages are new on the market, and popular. Special feature: borrower gets a one-time chance to reduce interest rates on the loan if mortgages fall at least two points in a year. Adjusting the loan costs less than refinancing, and it's simpler, too.

150th birthday committee meeting

The third meeting of the 150th Anniversary Committee, Belleville in Bloom, will be held Wednesday, September 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the Belleville Public Library, 221 Washington Ave.

General Chairman David Bryant extends an invitation to all interested people to attend the meeting and offer input as the committee attempts to make the celebration something special.

At the last meeting, August 3, sub-committees were formed and they have been meeting over the past month, formulating ideas to commemorate the town's 150th birthday. The results of these sub-committee meetings will be part of this month's meeting. Other interested individuals will be allowed to offer suggestions and discuss Belleville's history.

The five sub-committees are:

Public Relations; Belleville Beautification; Research/Publications Committee; Events Committee, and Fundraising Committee.

Clara Maass to start work as gas problem is solved

A gas leak which halted construction of a tiered parking garage and an addition to the Continuing Care Center at Clara Maass has been corrected and work is expected to begin this week, according to a hospital spokesman.

Vice President of Facilities Development Robert Arnold said two firms had been brought in to evaluate the area and they diagnosed that methane gas had been excreting from the ground after digging had begun. Further tests, however, showed it was no longer a source of concern.

"They confirmed it was methane gas," explained Arnold, "but the concentration was minimal and it disapated." He said the second firm, an engineering firm specializing in soil, dug 11 holes randomly throughout the area and concluded there was no more gas. "They felt that after disturbing the soil there was no major problem with gas or anything else."

Arnold said the engineers told him in future excavations to wait a period of time after breaking soil to continue because gas may leak out but it will soon disappear. The engineers said the gas was gone after only two hours, according to Arnold.

"We had hired them (the engineers) for two days but after the first few hours they said there was no problem and said the second day was not warranted," he said.

Construction of the project began in early July and was halted the first week in August. The first firm was brought in for an initial observation and their review specified further checks. The second firm began work August 11.

"We had wished they could have gotten in sooner but (they couldn't make it)," commented Arnold.

The leak was discovered after an odor was discovered by workers and a few had become dizzy while working at the site.

Meeting in Nutley

Town officials meet to discuss flood tunnel

By Tom Sullivan

Elected officials from area towns which would be affected if the Army Corps of Engineers flood tunnel is built, have been invited by Public Works Director Peter Scarpelli to a meeting in Nutley on September 28 to develop a joint opposition to the project.

"Let's organize," Scarpelli said in his letter of invitation. "As a united body we can be very effective."

And Belleville will be part of that organization as Commissioner of Parks and Public Property Vincent Frantantoni and Commissioner of Public Affairs Joseph Fornarotto will attend.

"I intend to go to show our opposition to the project," said Fornarotto, while he said Frantantoni voiced similar sentiments.

Scarpelli describes the gathering as an informal one, set for 7:30 p.m. in the Parks and Recreation Building, 44 Park Avenue.

"All concerned public officials are being invited to join forces," he said. "We have to unify our thought and make plans to fight this project that will adversely affect all of our areas. Together, we can move mountains — or better yet, stop this project."

While Scarpelli feels a strong showing may stop the project, Fornarotto thinks the tunnel is as good as built. "I don't think it will do any good. I think the money has already been appropriated in Washington, D.C.," he stated. He said he is voicing his opposition now in the hopes it will help his grandchildren 10 or 15 years down the road.

All the commissioners have been opposed to flood tunnel, passing a resolution against it and sending it to Trenton. Frantantoni had even suggested passing a second resolution and sending it to drive home the point.

13.5 miles long

The project in question is a proposed 13.5-mile long deep drilled tunnel that would gather flood waters from above Wayne and discharge them in the Passaic River at the Nutley-Clifton border.

It is the brainchild of the Army Corps of Engineers, which has grappled for 49 years with the problem of flooding in the Passaic River Basin, and finally decided that shifting floodwaters downstream is the best solution.

James McCann, technical director of the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, has said that water levels will be raised significantly.

Medals ceremony brings back memories of Vietnam for vet

By Pat Brightman

A 20 year quest for Raymond Pizzano ended Sunday on the Michael Marotti Little League field as the ex-Marine received 10 medals for his service during the Vietnam War.

A host of Marine officials, local elected officials and friends and family attended the ceremony that Pizzano had all but thought would never happen. Thanks to his family, Senator Carmen Orechio (D-30) and Congressman Robert Roe the dream never died, unlike many of those who fought in the war.

"I was bitter," recalled Pizzano of his failed attempts to collect his honors. "You get bitter and then you don't want them anymore but my wife pursued it and my two sons wanted to see them."

He admitted his feelings changed when he received the medals but the entire ceremony left him with mixed emotions. "I was sad because you don't really want to remember what happened over there but I was also proud because I finally received what was due me."

What happened over there was while he and seven others of the 7th Marine Division were on their way to Danang in a supply truck, they drove into an ambush, which killed two and injured the other six. Pizzano described it as a U-shaped ambush with the truck running over a mine and Viet Cong troops attacking from three directions with machine guns and hand grenades. Before it was over Pizzano was shot in the lower back and had shrapnel in his left hand and right leg.

"I heard the mine go off and I went to jump," he recalled, "then the V.C. crisscrossed us with fire. They got us all."

Long journey home

That is when his odyssey began. For three days he was unconscious in the Danang Naval Hospital before being sent to Japan for treatment. He was then sent to Hawaii for a period of time, Alaska and finally New York City before being returning to active duty in late September of 1968. He was shot on July 28.

He was stationed in North Carolina but was transferred to Quantanamo, Cuba where he served the remainder of his enlistment, until April 9, 1969.

"I couldn't stand the cold (in North Carolina)," explained Pizzano. "Vietnam was a warm climate and I had malaria there and a recurrence of it in North Carolina, so I asked to be transferred to a warmer post."

He was offered $5,000 to reenlist but as he said, he "wanted out." After getting a job with Bell Telephone he applied to the Veteran's Association for disability and compensation but he wasn't concerned about the medals.

"I never bothered to go for the medals," he said, noting the cold shoulder than many Vietnam veterans received from the public and many vets just did not want to talk about the war. But his wife, Theresa, with the help of Orechio and Roe, would not let it just pass by and so came about Sunday's ceremony.

No longer a secret

"In the beginning she tried to keep it a secret. I was hoping it was a diamond ring or something," he said with a laugh. Theresa contacted Roe's office and the two, along

Belleville POLICE BEAT

By Pat Brightman

A 28-year-old woman from Mountside was arrested on four separate charges August 23 as police apprehended her after she attempted to cash a bad check at a bank in town.

Officers Jack Baumgartner and Daniel Ward were detailed to First DeWitt Savings Bank while Abey Goodman was trying to have a false check cashed. Upon their arrival, Goodman ran out the rear door in an attempt to escape but Ward pursued her, catching her not far from the bank.

Two bank employees identified Goodman as the person and a search of Goodman revealed drug paraphernalia. When she was taken to police headquarters, she produced a New Jersey driver's license as identification but it had been altered and was discovered to be stolen from Newark.

Goodman was charged with possession of stolen property, giving false information to police, possession of a controlled, dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia.

On August 19, two motorcycles and two bicycles were stolen from a shed behind a house on Greylock Parkway. The owner told police a 1986 Yamaha motorcycle and a 1984 Yamaha were stolen, along with two 20-inch BMX bicycles.

Four males arrived at headquarters August 20 and said they saw someone in the office of the "BP" gas station on Franklin Avenue. When police arrived at the scene, the front door to the office was smashed and their were office items on the ground outside.

The four described the thief as 5'11", thin, wearing a baseball hat and possibly having a stocking over his face.

Town Deli on Joralemon Street was broken into August 22, with merchandise taken from the store. The owner said the screen on the back door was cut open and a check of the inventory revealed 65 cartons of cigarettes were missing.

Sometime between 11:45 p.m. August 22 and 11:24 a.m. August 23 a person or persons robbed "Gino's Pizzeria." Entry was gained by slipping the latch on the back door and money and a portable television were taken.

On August 23 a house on Beech Street was burglarized but only five VHS video cassettes were taken. The owner said he left early in the morning and returned in the afternoon, only to discover his side door window had been broken and entry had been gained into the house.

Record enrollment in nursing school

Despite the well-known shortage of registered nurses in the United States, in at least one school for preparing RNs, there is good news. According to Mary Jo Candido, director of the Clara Maass School of Nursing at Clara Maass Medical Center, Belleville, the school's goal of enrolling more than 100 students for the September term has been reached, setting a record high for enrollment since 1974.

Candido pointed out a number of reasons for the school's healthy enrollment. "Students know," she said, "that a two-year program is a good way to get started in a meaningful profession that is beginning to be lucrative as well. The cost of tuition is extremely low, with assistance available in scholarships, loans, grants, and a reimbursement plan for those who work at Clara Maass after graduation. We've also made new efforts to attract students through an advertising campaign and a new evening and weekend program."

Full-time students can graduate in 22 months, ready for employment and prepared for the registered nurse licensing examination. Students can begin in September, January, or May. Starting in September, the School of Nursing will be located in the former school of St. Valentine's parish in Bloomfield. Academic courses, as before, are conducted at Upsala College.

The 95-year-old Clara Maass School of Nursing was named for one of its graduates, who became head nurse of the hospital that bears her name and who later gave her life in the medical experiments that led to the control of yellow fever.

Treating Childhood Infections

Pediatricians frequently prescribe liquid antibiotics because they are so easily ingested. Taking a fruit-flavored liquid antibiotic to knock out an infection is much preferred by children over tablet form. However, parents must bear in mind that liquid antibiotics enjoy a very short life span. They must be continually refrigerated, and properly disposed of when the prescribed medication period has elapsed. In general, this type of medication only remains potent for about two weeks. Parents should resist the temptation to use any surplus of this type of medication to treat another child. All bacterial infections are not alike, even if they attack the same area of the body. In addition, dosages vary from individual to individual, making the transference of medication a risky enterprise.

When your physician prescribes an antibiotic, bring your prescription to ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956. We handle the sale and rental of convalescent aids including walkers, wheel chairs, crutches and canes. Stocks also include cosmetics, toiletries, cameras and film. Open: 9am - 10pm daily, 9am - 9pm Sundays. Please drive carefully over the holiday weekend.

HINT: Doctors often do a culture before selecting an antibiotic that will effectively treat a strain of bacteria.

Golden Comments

By Jim Golden

Under the caption "Sticking seniors with med care bill" a new recruit to the ranks of senior Americans, John Conniff, Sr., of East Brunswick, wrote in his published letter to the editor of the "Sunday Star Ledger" ... "unlike in the days when I was a tax-paying member of the work force, this bill (catastrophic medical care) will not cost any working American or member of Congress one red cent in taxes."

"It is not free, of course. Starting Jan. 1, 1989, senior Americans will pay taxes at an effective rate of 32.2 percent (rising to 35.8 percent over four years) while congressmen, and other working Americans will (with luck) pay 28 percent."

"It is an innovative departure from tradition, wherein we all shared the cost of another's problems. In the confident awareness that our congressional leaders are thoughtful men..." That's only four months away. Why the change?

Another cost increase we can soon look forward to is fuel oil and gasoline prices brought about by what is known as the bridge formula, the regulations concerning federal weight regulations, governing the trucking industry.

The regulations are of particular significance in New Jersey to bulk carriers — trucks of bulk fluid loads such as fuel oil, gasoline, chemicals and similar materials — and nationally to the containerized cargo industry.

The regulations, first instituted in 1975, limit the amount of weight that can be supported by each truck axle and dictate the spacing between the axles so as to prevent premature wear-and-tear of the nation's interstate highways and bridges. In order to comply, trucking firms must either buy new equipment, retrofit their existing vehicles or carry less cargo when using the interstate highway system.

The bridge formula was randomly enforced by the individual states until 1983 when the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) required all the states to comply. However, several states, including New Jersey, were allowed to grant a five-year reprieve to certain industries to phase in new equipment. The exemptions expire Oct. 1.

"They will be held to the deadline," said David Oliver, an FHWA attorney. "It's time to come into compliance." States which fail to enforce the regulations could lose all interstate highway funding and up to 10 percent of their other federal highway aid.

The New Jersey Motor Truck Association (MTA) is seeking another two-year extension and has the support of the state Department of Transportation. MTA Executive Director Sam Cunningham said too many New Jersey trucking firms would be forced to sideline workable equipment in order to comply with the regulations.

"They definitely need an extension, they have a choice if the exemptions are not extended — either get rid of the equipment or cut back on the payloads."

Cutting back on payloads could translate into higher home heating oil costs for consumers, said Fred Sacco, executive vice president of the Fuel Merchants Association of New Jersey which represents 400 retail home heating oil dealers and 80 wholesale gasoline distributors serving 1,300 gas stations.

Sacco said fuel oil trucks carry about 3,200 gallons and would be forced to cut back by several thousand gallons to meet the bridge formula. Because of the reduced carrying capacity, the trucks will have to make more trips to their supply depots, adding a cost that will have to be passed on to consumers.

"When you shortfall in the transportation business, no matter what the material, that means the prices of most commodities will go up," Sacco said.

The association has been urging its members during the past five years when buying new trucks to purchase vehicles that properly distribute the load and comply with the bridge formula, he said.

The federal regulations have played havoc with the intermodal container industry because of the international scope of the shipping business, according to trucking officials.

Books to the Moon?

25 Years Ago

August 29, 1963...The number of candidates in the race for the vacant council seat doubled when Patrick Greco and Michael Maglio entered the race. Greco, the older brother of former Councilman Thomas P. Greco, is the owner of Greco Construction Company. He said that his "business experience would help expedite a good and prosperous service to Belleville."

Belleville's Cherry Blossom Queen, Andrea Gale Demco, was scheduled to model campus fashion in Lipton's Fashion Show at the store in Bloomfield. Proceeds from the show went the United Fund of Bloomfield.

The Belleville Tri-County Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy sent Senators Case and Williams a petition with 147 signatures. The petition asked that the senators do everything they could to lead the Senate in ratification of the nuclear testing ban treaty signed by the United States, United Kingdom and Soviet Union.

In Belleville Mutual Softball League action, Lenihan's rebounded from last week's loss to the pesky Firemen to win their final contest of the season. The Knights of Columbus, the defending champions, defeated the Firemen, 13-11, to move into a tie for first place with Lenihan's. Both teams finished with a 9-3 record and will face off in a playoff for the championship.

The library's "Books to the Moon" summer reading program ended this month. Certificates were given to all children who completed the "trip to the moon" (meaning they read and reported on twelve books). A prize was awarded to the boy and girl who completed the most books.

Foot Facts

by Paul A. Caputo, D.P.M.

PERSPIRATION AFOOT

When the temperature rises outdoors, the body responds by coating the skin with perspiration. This is the body's radiator by which heat can be drawn away through evaporation. While this system works best for exposed areas of skin, the feet often find it difficult to give off heat while encased in socks and shoes. If foot perspiration builds up with no place to go, the environment is perfect for bacterial and fungal growth. This can lead to infection, "athletic's foot," or just plain bad-smelling feet. In addition, wet skin is a prime candidate for blistering. By all means, therefore, the feet should be treated as well as the underarms.

Perspiration can be countered with foot powders, deodorants, and drawn away with cotton socks. Expose the feet to circulating air as often as possible. Sneakers are among the worst offenders. Wearing cotton socks will help, as will giving your sneakers a day off to dry out between wearings. Sandals may be your best choice for summer footwear. For a consultation with a podiatrist, call DR. PAUL A. CAPUTO at 759-6560. My offices, including x-ray facilities, are nearby at 345 Washington Ave., Belleville. Hours by appt. Most medical plans accepted.

HINT: If foot perspiration leads to a serious odor problem, (bromidrosis), turn to the podiatrist for treatment.
