Japanese educators to visit

It's time for everyone in Belleville to brush up on their Japanese. Or buy a translation book because a contingent of Japanese educators will be arriving next week to observe education in Belleville.

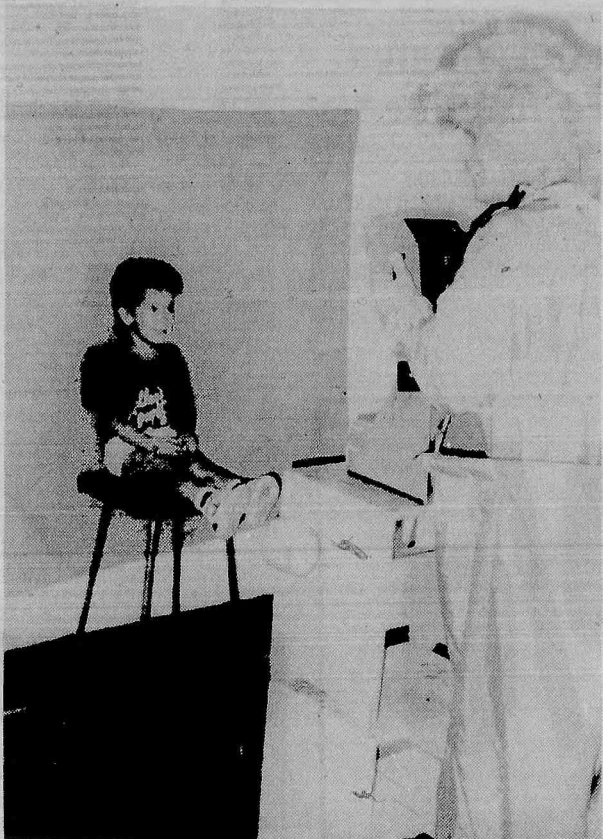

Belleville Superintendent of Schools Michael Nardiello was proud to announce the four-day visit of 22 teachers and administrators from Fukui Prefecture, Japan next week. The contingent will be broken into three groups and will visit the elementary schools, Belleville Middle School and Belleville High School, visiting classrooms and talking to both staff and students.

Nardiello explained while there is a set format that will be followed, once in the buildings the visitors from the Far East will be given a free reign to observe what they want. They will be allowed to walk in and out of classes, walk the halls and talk to almost anyone they wish, with the help of three translators who will accompany them. Guides will be provided to ensure that no one will get lost.

"You can see the excitement building," described Nardiello. "It's very good for Belleville." He said many staff members and children have been practicing common sayings in Japanese such as "How are you?" to make the visitors feel at home.

Nardiello said the whole idea was a pleasant surprise to him, he received a letter almost two months ago from Katsuyuki Tunaka, superintendent.

School system prepares for important monitoring session

By Pat Brightman

Editor's note: The New Jersey Commissioner of Education evaluates the status of each school district every five years, assuring that the district is implementing the standard set by law. This evaluation, or monitoring, is conducted by the county office staff under the supervision of the county superintendent. Based upon the evaluation, the Commissioner will recommend to the New Jersey Board of Education the certification of each school district meeting the established criteria.

The time has come. It has been four years and eight months since the last visit by the state evaluators and the school administration has been working overtime to ensure the district meets all the elements set by the state, of which there are ten. Everyone appears positive about what the results will be but there is the feeling among administrators that they can not wait for it to be over.

That wait will be slightly longer as the county has delayed its monitoring, which was to begin Tuesday, almost one month. October 17 is the date circled on many administrator's calendars, including Assistant Superintendent of Schools Michael Lally who is overseeing the preparation.

"Overall, I am confident that we will receive a passing grade," he said after explaining what was done to meet the 43 indicators that make up the ten main elements to be checked in a Level I evaluation. If the district fails to meet any one of the 43, "that's it," according to Lally. With a failing mark, the school system would drop to a Level II and must come up with a corrective action plan. If that does not meet specified requirements, the district would drop to Level III and could ultimately be taken over by the state.

The following are the ten elements and what has been done to ensure they have a passing grade beginning next month.

Chamber of Commerce to honor Ciccone and Spillane for service

Joseph Ciccone and Barbara Spillane, two vital cogs in the educating of Belleville youth, will be honored October 2 by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at its dinner dance to be held at the Gondola Restaurant.

Both Ciccone, who is principal of Belleville High School, and Spillane, a social studies teacher at the middle school, will be honored for their years of service to the children of town. Both were happy by being selected by the Chamber.

"I'm quite honored but there are many other people along the way who deserve the credit," stated Ciccone. He said any notoriety he receives is due to his staff, school administration and the students.

"It's quite an honor to be recognized by members of the community for volunteer work," replied Spillane when asked how she felt. "I'm very proud to be selected with Mr. Ciccone because I've always respected him and what he has done." Spillane also said it was an honor to be associated not only with Ciccone but with past recipients of the award.

Born and raised in Nutley, Ciccone came to the Belleville educational system in 1970 and steadily worked his way up to his present position. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Social Studies, Secondary Education from Fairleigh Dickinson University in 1970 and his Master's degree in Administration and Supervision in Education from Seton Hall University in 1977. Presently, he is

Things you never knew about car insurance

By Tom Sullivan

It is more than 15 years since New Jersey introduced no fault as the basis for auto insurance, and whenever opinions become heated as to why premiums here are as high or higher than anywhere else in the nation, no fault is frequently labeled the villain.

To clarify just how no fault works, the All-Industry Insurance Information Council has circulated a brochure titled "Car Insurance in New Jersey - Why Is It So Expensive?" and explains the system this way.

"No fault auto insurance replaced the traditional 'fault' system for personal injury. Just as the name implies, people injured in accidents had to prove that the other driver had caused the accident before they could be reimbursed for medical expenses.

"Determining who was legally at fault for an accident often required a time-consuming, expensive investigation by insurance companies and the people involved in the accident. In many instances, accident victims needed to hire attorneys to represent them in court. Even then, there was no guarantee that they would be paid for their medical expenses and other losses associated with the accident.

Does consumer benefit?

"In the early 1970's, New Jersey (along with many other states) began to examine the theory of no-fault. No-fault removes the need to determine who is at fault for an accident, so only the most seriously injured need to go to court. The cost savings from the resulting reduction in court cases and related costs allows more money to be paid to all injured persons for their medical benefits and other economic losses.

"Is no-fault better for the consumer? The answer is yes -- and here's why:

- No-fault is faster -- since there is no need to determine who caused the accident, all injured persons receive faster payment of medical bills and compensation for other economic losses.

- No-fault is guaranteed -- all accident victims receive payment of their medical bills, regardless of whose fault the accident was.

- No-fault is cost efficient -- a higher portion of the money the consumer pays for insurance is returned to the consumer for payment of medical bills and other economic losses."

'Cadillac coverage'

According to the All-Industry Insurance Information Council, New Jersey's auto insurance is often referred to as "Cadillac coverage" because it provides the most generous benefits in the nation, giving unlimited medical benefits to all injured persons. All costs for doctors, hospitals and other medical costs are fully paid, and only one other state out of 50 does as much.

What do the figures on your insurance policy mean?

Inevitably, the liability portion of your insurance bill is always the highest sum, and if the policy specifies 15-30-5, here is what it means as outlined by the insurance council brochure:

- "Liability insurance protects you if you are sued by the other party involved in an accident. An individual who sues for bodily injury ("pain and suffering") can recover up to $15,000 from your insurance company with these limits; two or more people can recover up to a total of $30,000. You are covered for up to another $5,000 for damage that you do to another's vehicle or property.

- "Uninsured - underinsured motorist coverage of 15-30-5:

"If you are involved in an accident with an uninsured driver and bring suit for pain and suffering or physical damage to your property or vehicle, your insurance company will pay up to $15,000 for bodily injury ($30,000 if more than one person is involved) and $5,000 for damage to your vehicle, depending on the degree of fault of the other driver.

- "The option of choosing a $200 tort threshold or a $1,950 indexed tort threshold:

"Depending on which threshold is chosen, you must incur more than $200 or $1,950 in medical expenses before you file a law suit against another individual for damages for pain and suffering. The higher the threshold, the greater the savings -- both for the individual and the system as a whole."

Other coverages

If you examine your insurance certificate, which the law requires that you carry in your car at all times, you will see that it has other coverages besides liability, such as collision, comprehensive (which covers theft or damage other than in a collision, perhaps towing service and rental car if you need one when your own vehicle is undergoing damage repair.

When someone is buying a car, they make their choice on appearance, power, space, features and such, before determining if they can pay for it. Rarely does a buyer consider up front what it is going to cost for insurance, and is subsequently hit with premium shock when the insurance company sends them the revised policy.

If you are upgrading from a five, six or seven year old vehicle, you are probably spending $9,000 to $20,000, which means should you file a claim, the insurance company is going to be faced with substantially higher repair and parts costs. So, the premium automatically goes up just on the inflationary aspect.

When you fall in love with a 12 cylinder Jaguar, a 300ZX or a Sterling, it is a very good idea to find out the total cost, then call your insurance man and ask about coverage. The chances are good that when you hear what the premium will be, you may settle for a Ford Escort.

Hospital costs

Medical costs are higher, too, so if the company has to pay claims for injury, the bill can be hefty.

The insurance council, as your own agent should be doing regularly, offers some advice about buying coverage. The council poses these questions:

- Check limits of coverage, deductibles, tort threshold and all other options to make sure you get what you thought you were buying.

- Have changing circumstances made it possible for you to reduce

Belleville POLICE BEAT

By Pat Brightman

A 27 year-old Newark man is being sought for aggravated assault and terroristic threats because of actions taken by him against a man on Cortlandt Street September 14.

John Faria, 27, attacked the victim, striking him in the face, choking him and throwing the victim against the walls of the house. Faria is described as a white male, 5'7" with a balding head. Anyone with information should contact the detective bureau.

A Nutley woman had her purse stolen while she was parked in the Grand Union Mall September 12. The woman had just parked her car when a man opened the door, threatened her with a screwdriver and took the purse. The culprit then fled into a car and was driven away.

The suspect is described as a black male, in his early 20s, anywhere from 5'7" to 6'0" and has a slender build. The getaway car was stolen in Newark and eventually recovered but there were no fingerprints on the car and no signs of the purse.

A 38 year-old Nutley woman was arrested for shoplifting at K-Mart September 13.

Dianne H. Townes, of River Road, was apprehended after she attempted to leave the store while concealing $22 worth of Sasson jeans.

Two apartments on Heckel Street were broken into on the same night, September 12. Nothing was taken from one of the apartments but two watches, valued at $2,000, were stolen from the other apartment.

Asphalt Marking Incorporated, working on a project on Laverne Street had equipment stolen, apparently September 13. A representative from the company reported paving equipment stolen from the site when they arrived at work September 14. Tools taken were a paving handroller, 12-volt marine battery, and a hot tar bar.

A 35 millimeter camera and a radar detector were stolen from a parked car on Joralemon Street, September 13. The owner said his 1987 Subaru was parked in his driveway but it did not deter someone from breaking into the car and taking the two items.

Two hundred dollars were stolen from a house on Mt. Pleasant Avenue September 14. Entry was gained buying using a picnic table to climb through an open window.

Golden Comments

By Jim Golden

It's said that coming events cast their shadow afore them, "USA Today," is a new daily television show based on a newspaper based on the journalistic precepts of television...a renovation of 'The Nation's Newspaper' on Television.

When USA Today appeared on the newstands back in late 1982 the daily's brevity, glitz and cheeriness were considered to be more TV news than print. The print reporters, who are generally stuffer than their broadcast rivals, mocked the new paper like a country cousin likening it to fast food: "McPaper." Circulation increased fast, leveling off at 1.6 million, second only to the Wall Street Journal.

Al Neuharth, chairman of the parent Gannett Co. Inc., has wanted strongly to present a TV version of "The Nation's Newspaper": "We stole most of what we have in the paper from television," he admits. The show, produced by Gannett in partnership with ex-NBC head Grant Tinker, closely resembles the spirit and format of the paper.

It is divided into four sections having its own anchor: "USA" (the news with Edie Magnus), "Money" (Kenneth Walker), "Sports" (Bill Macatee) and "Life" (Robin Young). The daily "Cover Story" rotates among the four segments. The newspaper's colored national map jumps to TV, and so will "USA Snapshots," quick fixes on American life. Producers hope to run up to 30 stories into the 22-minute production.

The staff of the show works closely with the newspaper group: the two being tied together by computer and the TV people sit in on the paper's morning story meetings. Competition for the attention of news viewers matches the networks hard news against the easy-to-digest USA Today's "Journalism of Hope." After the success of its print predecessor, those in television can hardly dismiss USA Today as the "Mc Evening News."

The candidates aren't mentioning it, but each knows that the next President will be confronted with the prospect of an enormous crisis. The savings and loan industry is in bad shape, and taxpayers are being set up to pay the bill.

Assurances that the S&L problem can be managed by taxing the thrift industry, not the public, is designed to soothe Congress and maintain public and investor confidence. The feds helped investor Robert Bass gain control of a $30 billion California thrift with under 2 percent of new capital. Most of the salvage jobs are so shaky they could come undone at the first dip in the economy. So will the estimate that $31 billion, raised from levies on the industry, will be enough to clean up the S&L mess over four years. Experts think costs could climb to $80 billion, far too much for sound S&L's to absorb without sinking themselves. "We're past the point where the industry can pay the full bill," says a consultant.

That leaves the taxpayer. So far, no public money is involved in the S&L bailout. That can't remain the case for long, giving the pace of the S&L deterioration. The thrift industry is mired in its "biggest financial crisis since the Great Depression," says Peter Treadway of Smith Barney investment firm.

Bad management, poor supervision and haphazard deregulation were the causes of the S&L plight. Now, rising interest rates are the concern. Thrifts will have to pay more to attract deposits as home and real estate values, their main investments, sag. More S&L's will go under.

Mandatory recycling may not begin with passage of town ordinance

By Pat Brightman

Recycling will not be mandatory, even if the ordinance establishing such rules and regulations is passed by the Belleville Board of Commissioners at its next meeting, according to the township recycling coordinator.

Joe Scaperrotta said even if the ordinance were to be approved at the board's September 27 meeting, the town would not be obligated to set up a mandatory program because Essex County does not have an approved recycling plan.

"All counties were supposed to be approved by October," explained Scaperrotta. "Essex County's was not approved and had to make revisions and resubmit a proposal but they haven't."

He further explained once a county's plan is approved, a municipality within the county has six months to come up with a mandatory plan. Even after the county receives approval, Scaperrotta said the town is not obligated to set up a mandatory pick-up, as long as the town meets the percentage set by the state.

Every town must collect at least 15 percent of its total garbage through recycling this year and it is increased to 25 percent next year, according to Scaperrotta. "All of it is contingent on the county approval. Technically we don't have to pick up until the county (has an approved plan.)"

A county's plan must receive approval from the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and the Office of Recycling before it can be implemented. In the plan, at least three items must be identified to be recycled, not including leaves, which must be removed in any event.

"The municipalities are way ahead of the counties," said Scaperrotta, noting how in Essex County alone Belleville, Nutley, Bloomfield and Montclair have recycling programs in use. However, he said Essex is the rule, not the exception, as almost all the counties do not have an approved recycling plan.

Despite the county's difficulty coming up with a plan, Scaperrotta feels Belleville is doing very well. "We know we're on track," he said, "we have no complaints with our volunteer program." Scaperrotta estimated there is close to 15 percent of total garbage being recycled, noting how many businesses have hired outside contractors to remove recyclables.

Belleville, like all towns, will receive a tonnage grant from the state in an effort to create a more effective recycling program. Scaperrotta could not remember how much the town received last year and did not wish to speculate on this year's allocation.

The ordinance, which was on second reading, was rejected at the commissioners' last meeting, so that the wording can be changed. In the ordinance, a systematic pick-up of cardboard, glass, aluminum, and newspaper. It also explained what the procedures for throwing away such items as refrigerators, dishwashers, washers, and dryers.

New business course offered at Adult School

The Belleville Adult School announces a new course designed for successful business people and owners. It is entitled "How Small Businesses can Manage their Funds more Efficiently." It is believed this is the first course of its kind. It is specifically tailored for owners and officers of successful, small to mid-sized companies who want to learn how to save and protect their hard-earned dollars.

The topics covered in the two night course are: How to make liquid assets earn more, alternative ways of borrowing, strategies to reduce taxes, insurance strategies to protect owners and their families, extensive discussion on retirement plan development. Retirement plans discussed will include SEP, KEOGH, 401K's, defined benefit, and profit sharing.

The course will be given by Bruce G. Barth, vice-president in the Newark Merrill Lynch office. He has been with Merrill Lynch 15 years, 6 years as vice-president. Barth is working with businesses throughout New Jersey, New York and Connecticut, building up one of the largest practices at Merrill Lynch, by working with individuals and businesses in helping them reach their personal financial goals.

Assisting Barth the first evening will be Lisa Ferguson, regional finance manager for Merrill Lynch. She will discuss cash management and financing alternatives. Also present that evening will be Harold Frieder, resident insurance specialist at Merrill Lynch, who will discuss insurance and estate strategies to protect business owners and their families.

Lee Schraeter, pension specialist at Merrill Lynch will be present the second evening to discuss retirement plans and how to choose the one that will benefit your business the most. John Sessa, CPA in Bloomfield, will discuss tax-saving strategies.

Business owners can benefit by having all these professionals together to answer specific questions at the end of the evening. It will save them time and money in searching out answers on their own.

The course will run two evenings, October 11 and 18, 7:30 to 9 p.m. and will be held at Belleville Adult School, 100 Passaic Avenue.

Registration can be made by calling the Adult School at 877-3390 or Barth's office at 621-3313. The $17 registration fee goes entirely to the Adult School to cover their costs.

A strong interest in this class is expected and registration no later than Sept. 30 is recommended. Persons who have specific questions about what the course will cover, can call Barth's office at 621-3313. All business owners, and professionals are welcome to attend.

Giordano is promoted to captain

Essex County Executive Nicholas R. Amato conducted the largest promotions ceremony in the history of the Essex County Police Department as 20 officers were sworn in to their new positions.

Five officers were promoted to captain, seven to lieutenant and eight to sergeant during the ceremony at the Essex County Police Academy.

"This is indeed a very special day for Essex County and for the Essex County Police Department," Amato told the audience of about 150 people, which included the families of the officers. "We are witnessing the promotion of 20 officers who have demonstrated their dedication and service to the citizens of Essex County."

The officers were sworn in by Superior Court Judge John A. Marzulli, who praised Amato for "putting politics aside in making the promotions."

"I understand morale in the county police department is very high and that's because the men are receiving the promotions they deserve," Marzulli said. "I want to commend County Executive Amato for placing political considerations aside and giving the promotions to the officers who deserved them."

Amato said his administration is committed to making the Essex County Police Department the best in the state of New Jersey.

"Since 1987, we have added 40 men to the Essex County Police Department," Amato said. "But getting bigger, without getting better would be self defeating. We will not be satisfied until we are the best in the state."

Receiving promotions to captain were Patrick Giordano of Belleville, Anthony DeVizio, Frank Schaffer, Jr., Eugene Morris and Norman O'Connor.

Giordano joined the Essex County Police in April 1969. He was promoted to sergeant December 1977 and promoted to lieutenant January 1984. Since June of 1986 he has been a platoon commander within the Patrol Division. As a captain he will be assigned to the Internal Affairs Office. He served in the United States Army and was awarded the National Defense Service Medal. He possesses an Associate Degree in Criminal Justice.

OUR OPINION

Monitoring success crucial

A very important period in the Belleville school system will begin in a few weeks as the state monitoring team will come in and evaluate the quality of education in Belleville. Just like a student, the district will receive a grade from its "teacher," the New Jersey Board of Education. Like any other student, if the district passes, it can move forward and tackle new concepts and create new goals. If it fails, it will "stay back" and have to rectify the problems over a period of time.

If there is a failure, the district will be "suspended," dropped to a lower qualification of education and that would create major problems within our school system, and, therefore, Belleville.

A possibility if the district does not come up to snuff over a period of time is a state takeover, something that would be a tremendous setback to the educational well-being of any town. A state takeover would leave the school system's reputation at an all-time low, making it very difficult for any student of Belleville High School to continue his or her education at a quality college or university. This takeover would not be a one year deal, therefore the present senior class would not be the only students affected, it would be everyone in the high school and middle school. And it wouldn't stop there; once a reputation is tagged on a system it is there longer than it should. It could take a decade before the slate is cleaned.

It would also have an affect on real estate, as the higher the quality of education, the higher the price of property. If the school system is run by the state the property value in town would drop drastically, and many people feel the property value is already much too low. There are certainly other variables to consider when the price of a home is set, but, by and large, the educational system is at the top of the list.

These are all possibilities that can occur, but most likely will not because the administration and the Board of Education has worked extremely hard to make sure all 43 areas to be checked will pass the test. But what if it wasn't? Belleville would certainly be in a bind. That is something for everyone to think about the next time they attend a board of education meeting and blast the spending policies. This is not to say the board should not be questioned, it should considering the great amounts of money it does spend. And it is understandable for people to want to know where there money is going. But if the money is going to better our educational system it is money well spent.

Applaud density reduction

An ordinance that reduced the density per acre of townhouses from 24 to 16 was passed by the Board of Commissioners at its last meeting, after receiving the recommendation from the Planning Board. It is the first step, a very large one at that, towards straightening out the overgrowth of complexes in town. The reduction of eight per acre will have a definite effect on the future of such complexes in Belleville.

By creating such a law, the obvious effect is any new complexes will be much smaller than many of those that have been built in town. Simple arithmetic says there will not be as many units in Belleville because of this. However, another aspect that is created by the passage of this ordinance is it may deter some developers from wanting to come into town. With 24 units per acre, the developer could view the town as a definite money-maker, one which would allow them to construct large complexes and make large profits. By reducing the allowable amount, the profits are also reduced, making it less appealing to developers. They may start turning to towns that have more favorable density laws. It may also send a sign to developers that Belleville will no longer look blindly towards townhouse construction and is beginning a crackdown. It is human nature to take an easy situation but that easy situation is no longer available to them in Belleville, they will have to go elsewhere.

Also under consideration, but withdrawn for further review, was an ordinance redefining restaurants in town. It was originally drawn up because it appeared there was a loophole that would allow take-out restaurants to sprout up in certain zones in town where they were not supposed to. But after looking into it further, Planning Board Chairman Joseph Doyle, discovered there appears to be no loophole and there was a wrong interpretation. Doyle also addressed the board, informing them how at least two take-out restaurants have opened without coming before the planners, despite the fact it was required. This kind of discussion and action is good to see and appears to be the beginning of the straightening out of the confusion in town regarding development.

A welcoming committee

Next week Belleville will have 22 visitors from Japan, observing who the school system works in our town. It is something for everyone in town to be proud of and we are sure everyone will make them feel as comfortable as possible. We at the Times would like to help in this endeavor by extending a hearty "Hello!" to our visitors from the Far East.

YOUR OPINION

She supports Rega...

To the Editor:

In response to a letter from Richard P. Yanuzzi:

Mr. Yanuzzi, I feel compelled to answer your letter, which appeared in the Belleville Times, attacking Jackie Rega, inasmuch as I was responsible for introducing you to this man.

You were so impressed with the warmth that he and his wife, Lucy, demonstrated to you, that you became a steady visitor. You found a home away from home, especially with Mrs. Rega treating and feeding you like a son (and she is some cook), which she does to anyone who visits her home. This is the way these people are; warm, generous and very much concerned with others.

Suddenly there seems to have been a falling out between you and Jackie.

When you decided to run for the board of education, you joined Jackie and I in the food nutritional program, commonly known as "Meals on Wheels" just to show your face, in order to get the senior citizen's votes. Jackie would not tolerate such nonsense.

Despite the fact that you spent a considerable amount of money in your campaign to try to win a seat on the board of education, Jackie Rega mustered all his friends, (which he seems to have a galaxy of them), to defeat you in your run for the board of education.

And one more thing, as far as Jackie bossing his employees, I, being a former employee of his could attest to the reverse. I've noticed the kids bossing him around, and he loved it.

I sincerely believe, because of Jackie Rega's constant intervention and concern about the board of education legal fees, where we were paying approximately $100 an hour to the former board attorney; we are now paying $40 an hour.

By no means am I trying to defend Jackie Rega, because I don't feel he needs any defense. He doesn't pull strings, but he is very visible trying to make Belleville a better place to live in. When this man donates his time, he does it from his heart, because he has no political aspirations and receives no monetary rewards. There is the difference! You are being rewarded with taxpayer's money because of your political appointment and have demonstrated that you have self-serving political ambitions in Belleville. It's that difference that separates you from him.

Camille Nazzola
Belleville

...but she doesn't

To the editor:

An open letter to Jackie Rega:

Upon my recent return from vacation, I read the letter you sent to the editor attacking me and my behavior at town meetings - which you do not attend. I was on jury duty with you for one week and you were never aware of my name or that I was from Belleville. And not knowing me, you had the gall to call my home one evening at 11 p.m. to talk politics and to brag about how great thou art. During that call, you mentioned that you deliver Meals on Wheels in town every week with your lady friend. Are you the Meals on Wheels committee and was I to take that as a request to deliver meals with you? And after keeping me on the phone for one hour until midnight, do you call that "slamming down the phone?" Your political stooges, who can't take the heat but will not get out of the kitchen, should give you the true facts of happenings at town meetings when running to you with their tales of woe.

It is quite obvious who wrote the letter on which you allowed your name to be used. Jackie, if you want to write about harassment, how about the constant harassment of Commissioners Fornarotto and Frantantoni by all the soreheads and losers in town.

Florence Pentol

Tempted to change focus

To the Editor:

There are a great many people who are demonstrably upset, hurt, and very much insulted by what they are calling the "insensitive" release and distribution of the movie "The Last Temptation of Christ."

Among these are the more eminent, enlightened and influential within and without the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish communities who, by spoken or written word, argue that the film, at the very least, is an "insult" to the Christian world.

With heart-felt indignations and concerns just as deep, the "just plain" Peters, Pauls and Margies boycott, protest and placard-wave to manifest their reactions to the showing of the "offensive" film.

Despite all this, with some obviously being piqued by it, multitudes are waiting in lines, some for many anxious hours, to see the "religious" film that even its director, Martin Scorsese, admits is a "fictitious and unbiblical" depiction of the Jesus whose disciples, past and present, know to be truth, perfect and holy.

What, then, is a disciple of Christ to do?

Why not change the focus from self to others?

As a disciple of Christ, I would suggest that the most obedient and fruitful thing to do would be to organize sponsorship and other support for those gifted, willing and able to go to "make disciples," by compassionately preaching and teaching the Gospel of Christ to the many, in those lines who are truly hurting, searching... and waiting.

What a wonderful opportunity.

Letter was not 'bogus'

To the Editor:

In response to Anthony Lombardi Jr.'s letter to the "bogus" letter written by me, I would like to set a few things straight.

1. What gives me the right to complain about Dennis is as you stated in the letter of rebuttal — "The Freedom of Speech."

2. I, as a taxpayer of Belleville am interested in how and what programs are handled in this town for our youth.

3. I do enjoy my daughter and her youth and for your information, my daughter accepted the fact that she did not make the squad. I was not complaining for my daughter individually, but for all the childrens programs that are handled poorly, and that gives me the right.

Dennis is a public servant and he must expect criticism in order to better his programs — and if he cannot accept this then he should examine his options to make the right decisions to better the programs.

Mr. Lombardi, if you find the need to defend Dennis Buckley, then my letter must have hit home and incidentally, I am also a disgruntled taxpayer.

Welcome back students

To the Editor:

Welcome back! I am appreciative for this opportunity to welcome the student population of the Belleville schools, both new and old, and the faculty and staff to a new school term.

We all have new opportunities to excel and reach greater levels of achievement as the autumn days bring everyone a "fresh start."

I have been fortunate to be able to serve you as a member of the board of education and promise to continue serving with the quality education of our students being my utmost concern. Thank you.

'Miles From Home' is dynamite farm story

THERE IS one brief scene in the new movie "Miles From Home," that does more to paint the plight of the small American farmer than all the occasional news segments on television or newspaper think pieces that have been written thus far.

The brothers Roberts, Frank (Richard Gere) and Terry (Kevin Anderson), are at the end of their financial rope, and like so many farmers in the great heartland, they are reduced to selling off their possessions in a yard sale.

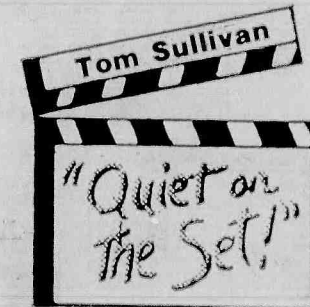

They have little of value, any way, and even if they did, their neighbors who come by to pick it over, wouldn't be able to pay much, since they are mostly in the same boat.

With nothing else to occupy their time, two aimless town dwellers, Sally (Penelope Ann Miller), and Jennifer (Helen Hunt), stop in, and after looking over the woebegone collection, Sally tells Terry "Isn't it awful to have to come to this. Now people will know they have nothing left."

When she sees Terry's pained face, she realizes what a terrible gaffe she has made, and splutters "You live here, don't you?"

THAT SHOWS US two important things about "Miles From Home." That scriptwriter Chris Gerolmo really took the trouble to know what he was writing about, and young Mr. Anderson is an actor of uncommon sensitivity, one who can and does all through the picture, convey volumes without saying a word. Time and again his expressions tell and advance the story far better that several pages of script could.

Unfortunately his skills don't save enough pages, and the editing by Jane Schwartz Jaffe is too undisciplined, with the result that "Miles From Home" runs an overlong 113 minutes, detracting mightily from its impact and coming dangerously close to snatching defeat from the jaws of victory for director Gary Sinisi.

But, "Miles From Home" is nevertheless a very important movie for the late 1980's, and anyone who knows its Iowa locale or any other part of the midwest, and the people who live there, will be overwhelmed by the way Sinisi and cinematographer Elliot Davis have captured it.

It starts out with a black and white prologue from 1957 as Soviet Party Chairman Nikita Khrushchev (Larry Poling), is shown a typical American farm during his visit here. It is the Roberts Farm he goes to, welcomed by the smiling patriarch and farmer of The Year, Frank Roberts Sr. (Brian Dennehy), and shyly greeted by the sub-teen Roberts boys, Frank (Jason Campbell) and Terry (Austin Baumgartner).

IT IS NOW when next we see the boys, mature young men grappling with the problems of the farm economy 15 years after their father's death, and quite unable to cope, despite the fertility of their land and the bounty of the crop.

When the bank forecloses Frank torches the farmhouse "So no fat cat will get it for peanuts," and for good measure, they burn the corn crop, which is ready for harvest. In the eyes of their peers, it is precisely the quixotic gesture that the times called for. In the eyes of the law, it is criminal arson, and the brothers are on the run.

In a character shift that is always hard to fathom when you see it happen in real life, and not explained here, Frank plunges in to the life of an outlaw with gusto, enjoying it and the Robin Hood image he gets in the public eye. Terry is quite unwilling, but not sure that he has any other option at first.

Their need for money is solved when an 'exotic dancer' (Laurie Metcalf), arranges for them to do a paid interview and photo session with cynical freelance writer Barry Maxwell (John Malkovich), who lands it on the cover of 'Rolling Stone.'

THE FILM WINDS down to a less than conclusive ending but with uncommon violence as Frank stops the mindless brutalizing of a bull at the county fair and later when the brothers fall out as Terry's good sense finally takes over.

During the interview with Maxwell, Frank gets serious for a moment and snaps "When my father was running the farm a combine cost $6,000 and corn sold for $1.05 a bushel. Twenty five years later that same combine costs $130,000 and corn sells for $1.25."

He's right. He may well have been an inefficient manager, but to be a farmer in America today one needs to be a magician working mortgage free land, who has acquired and paid for the best labor saving machinery, and has sufficient money in the bank to tide over a grim period such as the great drought of 1988.

Otherwise, your farm goes the way of the Roberts spread.

"Miles From Home" for the moment is at only one theater, The Paris, opposite the Hotel Plaza on 58th Street, Manhattan.

RELIGIOUS VIEWPOINT

Gerald Fortunato, Pastor
Silver Lake Baptist Church

Filling the mind with timeless truth

Give attention to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine... Meditate on these things (1 Timothy 4:13,15).

Garbage in, garbage out! It's a principle of computer programming which states that a computer can only respond to a question on the basis of information it has been supplied. If all you put in is "garbage," that's all you will get back in return.

What you feed your mind becomes the basis for the lifestyle you lead. It is unreasonable to expect to be conformed to the image of God unless the truth concerning God operates continuously upon the mind.

How can the love of Christ increase in those who hardly ever think of Him or of His work? We cannot make progress in holiness unless we devote much time to reading, hearing, and meditating upon the Word of God, which is the truth whereby we are sanctified.

The more this truth is brought before the mind, the more we commune with it, entering into its concerns, applying it to our own case, appropriating its principles, rejoicing in its promises — the more we may expect to be transformed by the renewing of our minds.

Those distinguished for their godliness have been those accustomed to withdraw the mind from the influence of the world and to bring it under the influence of the Word of God.

Walk closer to God. Here is a helpful "five-finger" method for getting a grasp on a passage of Scripture:

1. Read it.
2. Hear it.
3. Study it.
4. Memorize it.
5. Meditate upon it.

The grasp will be weaker or stronger depending upon the number of fingers you use, and how often you exercise that grasp.

Cicccone and Spillane to be honored by Chamber

working on his Doctorate at Seton Hall.

Cicccone began his career as a Social Studies teacher at the middle school, and he developed and implemented curriculum for a Career Education cycle course. During the summer of 1976 he was named Summer School Director, being responsible for the administration of summer school, which included scheduling, discipline and employment of teachers.

In 1979 he was named vice-principal of Belleville Middle School, where he was responsible for the disciplinary control of 1,200 students, as well as supervising a variety of school functions, including bus transportation, staff development and orientation of new staff.

For the past six years, after being chosen over nine other applicants, he has been principal of the high school and has either taken part or been directly responsible for a great many changes in the school, including reviewing and revising 182 curricula guides, adopting a standardized format for curricula development, instituting a new drug and disciplinary policy, introducing a new computer course for the ninth and tenth grades and creating the new weightroom.

Born in Scranton, Pennsylvania, Spillane moved to Belleville as a child and is a graduate of School 7 and Belleville High School. She furthered her education at Kent State, earning a Bachelor of Science degree in Education in 1964. Four years later she earned her Master's degree at Montclair State College and has taken additional graduate courses at Rutgers University.

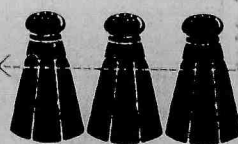

The mother of three children, has been teaching at the middle school for the past five years and has still managed to find time to participate in a number of professional and community activities.

Spillane is the coordinator of Geography Awareness Week at the middle school, co-authored the content writing across the curriculum and is the Belleville Education Association Representative. She is also the secretary of the Home and School Association of School 8, charter secretary of the Belleville Historical Society, a member of the 150th Anniversary Committee for Belleville and is on the Belleville Adult School Advisory Council.

She was the charter president of the Junior Woman's Club (JWC) of Belleville from 1971-73, where she helped institute the window painting contest, a scholarship fund for Belleville High School students and a poetry contest. She was the state director of the Junior Membership Department from 1980-82, president of the Eight District Contemporaries Woman's Club from 1982-84 and founded the Sub-Junior Woman's Club of Belleville in 1982 for girls between 12-18.

School system readies itself for state monitoring visit

ous Home and School Associations. These objectives are forwarded to the county superintendent for approval, and at the end of the school year, a report on whether the objectives were met must be sent to the county superintendent.

"We expect no problems with planning," commented Lally, noting how the reports were made to the county and Belleville has received favorable analysis from the county.

School and Community Relations— This element looks to see how effective the school communicates with the community. Lally pointed out pamphlets which are sent to homes, a twice annual newsletter and the ample opportunity the public is given to speak at Belleville Board of Education meetings. He said many community members have been part of ad hoc groups that have discussed school related items.

"In my own estimation, I feel we have made every effort to make the community an integral part (of the school system)," said Lally. "Not only do we send out information, we elicit information from people at-large."

Lally said many school supervisors, coordinators, directors and principals have worked to ensure this element's passing.

Comprehensive Curriculum and Instruction— "We've worked very hard in the last five years. We've been curriculum orientated," stated Lally. Seven components make up this element and Lally is confident the district will meet all of them. In the past five years, committees have been made, research accumulated, reports made and a host of curriculum changes in almost all subjects, for all grades.

Lally expressed gratitude to a number of people, including Dr. Richard Beninger, Paula Cummis and School 7 Principal Marilyn Hawthorne for the success of this element.

Pupil Attendance— According to Lally the state is very rigid in its guidelines for students attending class. Daily attendance must be at least 90 percent for the total district and at least 85 percent for each school in the district.

"It's cut and dry, you either have it or you don't and we have it," he said, explaining each school has more than 90 percent daily attendance.

Facilities— Perhaps the biggest source of concern when administrators looked at what had to be done, it appears the school buildings have come a long way in a short time. The state provides a checklist of health and safety requirements and Business Administrator Edward Appleton has worked to make sure they are met.

Appleton and the Essex County Business Administrator toured all nine schools and made a list of what had to be repaired before the monitors came. Appleton said the main thrust was to fix the many small defects, which individually do not seem to be a problem, but grouped together could cause difficulties.

"It's difficult to assess where we are," he said. "What it hinges on is if we just happened to walk by something," explaining it is difficult for two people to comb every inch of nine school buildings.

Staff— Teachers must be properly certified and their in-service record is checked, including staff attendance. "I feel we'll comply. Our staff is competent, certified and professional," detailed Lally. He also said a kindergarten through 12 articulated program has been established and one series of books, sequenced, is used from kindergarten to eighth grade. "I have a very good feeling."

Mandated Special Services— Lally said the monitors will look very closely at this because the state provides so much money for it. The Basic Skills scores are up, there is a current curriculum implemented and the teachers and supervisors are properly certified. "The people in these areas are working very hard (to ensure the passing of the element)," said Lally. The people he is talking about are Dr. Anthony Cherico, Isabelle Giordano and Nicholas Petty.

Mandated Basic Skills Test— Lally said the test results are encouraging and the district will continue to focus on improving the scores. The monitors will look at the scores from grades three, six and nine in the High School Proiciency Test (HSPT) and at least 75 percent in each grade must meet or exceed the state requirements. According to Lally's figures, the third and sixth grades have 90 percent of the students meeting or exceeding the requirements and approximately 95 percent have met or exceeded in the ninth grade.

Equal Educational Opportunity/Affirmative Action— School 9 Principal Michael Harvey is the head of this element and all the data required by the state is in order and should meet with the monitors approval, according to Lally.

Financial— Appleton said this element is out of his hands right now because the financial reports of the past year are usually evaluated and must meet six indicators. Appleton said much depends on if the reports are timely. "Over the last four months there should be no problem but if they take exception to a year ago there could be a conceivable problem," admitted Appleton. "I don't think that will happen though."

Everyone associated with the monitoring will use the extra time to double and triple check everything to make absolutely sure the ten elements are completely met. The future of Belleville, its children, rests with the grade the district will receive.

Japanese visit

intendent of schools in Fukui Prefecture, requesting the visit. This will be their third a final stop, with previous visits being held in California and Canada. The best guess Nardiello could give as to why Belleville was chosen was because it may be similar to their district in Japan.

The contingent will be greeted by a group of Belleville educators when they land in New York Monday morning. An invitation has been given to them to attend the Belleville Board of Education that evening and Tuesday morning they will visit the high school and take of tour of Belleville and the North Ward Educational Center.

Wednesday the elementary group will visit schools four, 10, eight, and three. A junior high school group will spend the morning and early part of the afternoon visiting classes in the middle school and a high school group will do the same at the high school. In the afternoon the entire contingent will get together and travel to Montclair State University.

Thursday is more of the same with the elementary group attending schools seven, five and nine in the morning, followed by a visit to St. Peter's. The other two groups will spend the day in both the middle school and high school.

C.C.B. urged to attend flood tunnel meeting

Jerry Del Guercio, president of the Concerned Citizens of Belleville (C.C.B.), has announced a contingent of C.C.B. members will be attending the September 28, 1988 meeting of the Passaic River Coalition at the Parks and Public Property Building, Park Avenue, Nutley.

The meeting will discuss the proposed flood tunnel plans and alternative ideas to the tunnel will be presented at this time.

"Everyone who cares about the integrity of our township should attend this meeting," said Del Guercio. "We must stay united in our efforts with neighboring communities and make sure that this billion dollar flood tunnel is never built."

Del Guercio added he and several other C.C.B. members attended the last meeting of the Coalition in Rutherford on September 14.

"This was a very insightful meeting," continued Del Guercio. "Everyone should attend and hear the facts on this project for themselves."

Crecco denounces flood tunnel

Assemblywoman Marion Crecco (R-Essex) denounced plans by the Army Corps of Engineers to construct a flood tunnel along the Passaic River Basin at a meeting of the Passaic River Coalition this week. Crecco supported plans proposed by Dr. Ella F. Filippone of the Coalition to buy out homes in the flooded areas.

She also cosponsored two bills with Assemblyman Arthur Albohn (R-Morris) requiring disclosure of costs to print and distribute certain State publications and requiring that local bond ordinance be submitted for voter approval.

"I completely support the initiatives of the Passaic River Coalition and I will not support any legislation which would lead to the construction of this tunnel," said Crecco. "I have always supported the concept of a buy out of the affected areas, and I still believe it is the only feasible solution to this problem."

The Passaic River Coalition also invited staff members from the offices of Congressman Robert Toricelli to explain a new plan developed by the Army Corps. This plan extends the original project to Newark Bay at an additional cost of $300 million. This raises the total cost of the project to $1.3 billion.

"After all the public input and testimony on the tunnel, it is clear this proposed extension should not be considered," added Crecco.

"What is even more unbelievable is the Army Corps of Engineers expects the state legislature to fund 25 percent of this boondoggle. This comes to $325 million. There is no way I will ever support this."

The proposed buy out project by the coalition involves the purchase of 197 homes in flood affected areas and allowing the area to become a wetlands.

"Buying and compensating 197 homeowners is a great deal cheaper than $1.3 billion," concluded Crecco. "I would support state funds for this purpose."

The first bill Crecco cosponsored, A-48, provides for the state to print on each publication prepared for public distribution the number of copies printed, state employee man-hours, and publication and printing costs. The Stat Library would be responsible for keeping an index of all documents with the disclosed information.

"Many of these publications from state agencies have been described as 'ego-boosters' and 'trade organs'," said Crecco. "The legislature will better evaluate the cost of utility of each publication under this bill."

A-48 is currently under consideration in the Assembly Government Efficiency and Oversight Committee.

The second bill, A-23, requires all local bond ordinances adopted pursuant to the "Local Bond Law" be submitted to the voters in the municipality for approval.

"This bill gives the voters the same powers with respect to local bond issues that they have with state issues," said Crecco. "The people can vote these bond issues up or down on their merits."

This legislation is currently under consideration in the Assembly Municipal Government Committee.

Kvetkus to direct play

"The Unwicked Witch" will be presented by the Studio Players Magic Trunk Series of plays for children, October 1, 2, 8, and 9. Performances are 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Written by Madge Miller and directed by Auris Kvetkus of Belleville, "The Unwicked Witch" is a hauntingly different story about three ancient witches and their newest young member, a "witch in training," who doesn't really want to be a witch at all.

The box office in the Studio Playhouse on Alvin Place in Upper Montclair is open Wednesday through Sunday, from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m., for sales and reservations.

Foot Facts

by Paul A. Caputo, D.P.M.

REGISTERING A TILT

If a runner or jogger experiences foot, leg, and hip problems on a particular side of the body, a leg-length discrepancy must be considered. A larger-than-suspected portion of the population has legs of different lengths. When this problem shows up on a runner/jogger, it makes the longer-leg side of the body more susceptible to injury. This is because the longer-leg foot will strike the ground harder than the shorter-leg side. As a result, muscles may pull from the hip and buttocks down to the calf and Achilles portion of the foot. Clicking in the hip or friction in the outer portion of the leg above the knee may also be experienced. If so, a podiatrist should examine for leg-length inequality, and prescribe an orthotic if necessary.

Runners and those who play active sports such as tennis or racquet ball have special needs for foot care. Regular foot health check-ups with your podiatrist can help prevent injuries, and can improve your performance in your sport. When you need a podiatrist, call DR. PAUL A. CAPUTO at 759-6560. My office, including surgical facility and x-ray, is nearby at 345 Washington Ave., Belleville. Office hours by appt.

HINT: Strain in the bottom of the foot is but one symptom arising out of unequal foot-length.

RECIPE

From the Kitchen of:

Ann Chieppa
(Classified Dept.)

Italian Pie (Pizza-Piena)

3 lbs. pot cheese
5 eggs
2 oz. parmesan cheese
1 lb. Genoa salami

1 lb. prosciutto
2 sticks pepperoni
Small bunch parsley
2 pkgs. frozen deep dish pie shells

Mix together pot cheese, eggs, chopped up parsley and parmesan cheese in large bowl.

Dice salami, prosciutto and pepperoni and add to cheese mixture.

Divide into two pie shells, using additional shells as top crusts. Pinch tops and bottoms together to seal. Prick tops with a fork.

Bake in pre-heated 350 degree oven 45 mins. to an hour or until top is golden brown.

(Ann says to fill the pie shells almost to the top. And for a nice shiny crust, brush the top with egg white.)

Belleville Times SPORTS

BUC SHOTS

By Mike Lamberti

Another football season is ready to begin at Belleville High School. There is something special about a season opening game. It marks a new beginning, a fresh start, the hope that the season will be a big success.

The players are pumped up, perhaps a little more than normal. I've always said that Belleville players seem to get sky high for three games in particular. The season opener, the Passaic game and the Nutley game.

Well, this season, there are two reasons to be excited. The opener and the Passaic game are one in the same and Schools Stadium in Passaic should be rocking with excitement come kickoff time at 1:30 p.m. this Saturday.

I don't have to tell you much about the Belleville-Passaic football rivalry. It's been well documented throughout the years. During the decade of the 80's (1980-87), Belleville and Passaic have split eight games. The Bucs have won in 1980 (13-9), 1982 (3-2), 1984 (7-0) and 1987 (31-22).

Passaic's victories came in 1981 (7-0), 1983 (28-7), 1985 (21-0) and 1986 (14-9). With the exception of the 1985 game, every battle in the 1980's has basically gone down to the wire. Even the 1983 contest, which ended at 28-7 was a little closer than the final score would indicate.

That game was tied at seven at halftime and was 14-7 early in the fourth quarter. Last years game was a wild affair, which featured an uncharacteristic offensive battle. Belleville led, 25-0 in the third quarter, only to see Passaic stage an incredible six minute rally that accounted for 22 unanswered points.

The Bucs were able to get its act together over the final twelve minutes, however, and prevailed by nine points.

Belleville's success ratio in season openers during the John Senesky era (1977-present) is quite good. In 11 previous openers, the Bucs have won seven times. Ironically, in Belleville's finest season during the Senesky era, 1980, the Bucs were beaten handily in the opener.

Let's look back at the season openers over the past 11 seasons, starting with the 1977 contest, Senesky's first game as Belleville coach.

In that '77 game, Belleville was ripped by Livingston, 40-0, at Livingston. Belleville was in the second year of its season opening rivalry with the Lancers of Livingston, having lost in 1976, 20-0. The '77 game had been postponed twice because of rain and Livingston was geared for a big outing.

The Lancers were one of the states best in '77. The team advanced to the sectional playoffs that year, where it lost to Westfield and Butch Woolfolk.

In 1978, Senesky had a more experienced team, with players like Ed Aulisi, Angelo Santinelli, Joe Francheschini, Joe D'Agostino, Perry Mayers and Tom Henry. The Bucs began a 6-3 year in '78 by beating Livingston, 28-14 at Municipal Stadium.

Mike Nicosia played a solid game for Belleville and the Bucs broke this contest open early, scoring 21 points in the first half.

In '79, a veteran Belleville team was geared for a big season. The Bucs ripped Livingston, 35-8 in the opener at Municipal Stadium. Aulisi threw a couple of TD passes and Lenny Mendola was outstanding in the backfield, along with Nicosia.

Ironically, it was Livingston who would open eyes in '79. The Lancers did not lose another game until the state championships, when Union beat Livingston, 35-14. Union had defeated Belleville in the first round of the sectionals at Giants Stadium, 15-12.

In 1980, Belleville was blitzed by Livingston, 36-12 in the season opener, once again at Municipal Stadium. Livingston came into the game as the number one team in the state and had the passing of Stan Yagiello. Like the '79 Lancers, the '80 Bucs rebounded from the opening night defeat and won its next nine games, losing only in the state finals to West Essex, at Giants Stadium.

In the 1980 game, Belleville had a new quarterback named John Melillo, who would put up some tremendous numbers as the year progressed.

In 1981, Belleville and Livingston met at Livingston, with the Bucs prevailing, 31-8 in the opener. Frank Fazzini was nearly unstoppable in the backfield and Rob Woodcock played well at quarterback. Phil Cerza spearheaded the Belleville defense.

In 1982, Belleville began play in the NNJIL and faced Passaic Valley in the season opener at Montclair State College. Playing on astroturf, Belleville was outstanding, winning 27-0. John Borrello threw two TD passes, one to Jim Castelli. Robbie Cancelliere ran well and the defense was headed by David Grant, Ray Kimble and Craig Mack.

The '83 Bucs opened the season at Nutley against the Maroon Raiders. This was the first time on record that the Bucs and Raiders met each other in a season opener. Belleville won, 12-6, as Mike Murphy ran wild and Mark Walsh led the offense and defensive secondary.

In 1984, the Bucs traveled to Ramsey to play Don Bosco Prep in the season opener. Behind the running of Mike Gibbons and the opportunistic play of Anthony Gizzo, the Bucs won, 14-0 on a very hot afternoon.

Don Bosco and Belleville played in the '85 opener at Belleville and this time, Don Bosco was the winner by an 8-2 count. The only TD came in the third quarter on a long bomb and a missed Belleville defensive assignment.

In 1986, the Bucs lost to Paramus, 9-6. Jim Dunphy scored the only Belleville TD on a pass from Jeff Spitsbury.

Finally, the Bucs broke a two year opening game losing streak by beating Paramus in '87, 7-0. Craig Jackowski scored the only TD of the game in the fourth quarter and the Belleville defense did an excellent job.

And now, it's time for another opener. Good luck to the entire Belleville football program this Saturday as it looks to write another chapter in the success story that is Belleville football.

Visit Passaic

Senesky prepares for opener

The pre season is over. The two a day practices and summer preparations are a thing of the past. This Saturday afternoon, the Belleville football team gets down to serious business when it kicks off the 1988 season at Passaic High School.

Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. from Passaic Schools Stadium in the renewal of an intense football rivalry.

Head coach John Senesky and his team completed the pre season last Sunday afternoon with a game against Livingston. The coach was pleased with some aspects of the game, but noted his team has a long way to go before it can be satisfied.

"Livingston has a very good team this year," Senesky said. "They executed well, and showed us where we need work. They got outside on our defense and were able to break a few runs. We got a look at some different people and this week, we'll make the determination of who will start where."

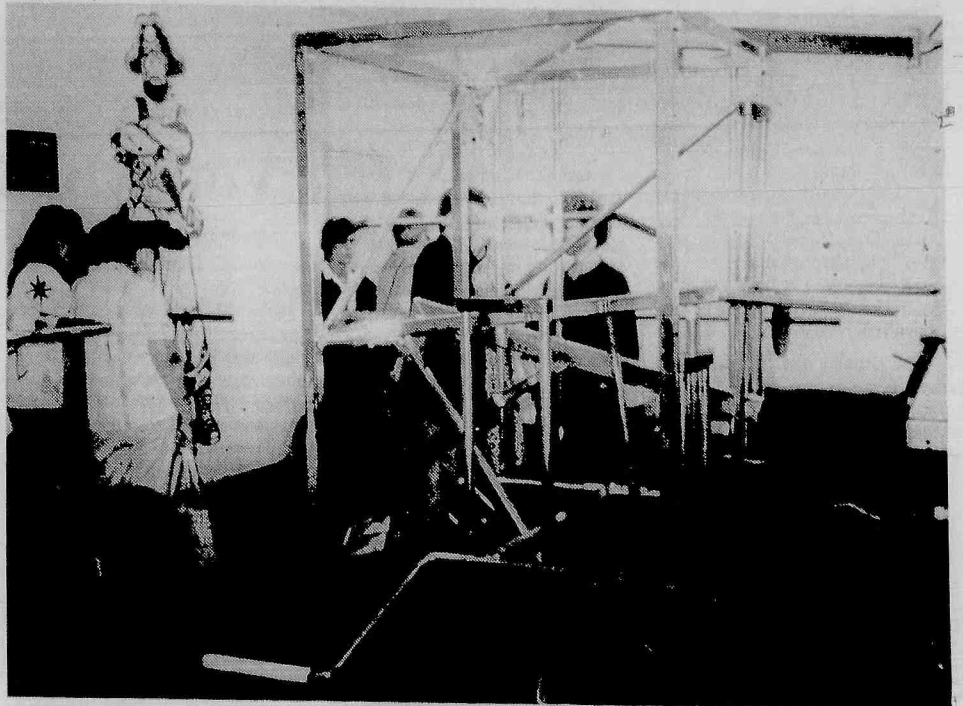

Last week, the coach was concerned about the injury list, which showed Nick Turano (groin injury), Gus Leming (knee) and Chris Young (knee). Since then, Turano has been upgraded from doubtful to probable while Leming will be lost until at least mid season.

He underwent microsurgery on the knee and is currently on rehabilitation. Young is possible for the Passaic game, but the Bucs lost the services of Scott Domanowski last week to a fractured leg. He could be lost for six weeks, if not more.

Senesky can not lament on the DL for too long, however. His concern is on the players who will fill the various positions for this Saturday.

On offense, Jason Silletti will start at center and the guards are Vito D'Alessio and John Cerza. The tackle positions were not decided as of last Sunday, with Andre Graham, George Wallace, Steve Caponi, Gerard Tucci and Mike Toro all seeing action in the pre season.

The tightends are Bruce Melson, Mike Trezza and James DuHaime.

The split end candidates are Bruce De Maio, Phil Albanese and Mike Auriemma.

In the backfield, the quarterback selectees are Steve Tice, Ken Sainz and Art Caruso. The fullbacks are John Napolitano and Tom Wolfe. The slotback candidates are Turano, Carmen Spina, Sean Kimball, Michael Senesky and John Sternik.

Senesky had not decided on any of the starters in the backfield and was using this week as the final determination before the opener.

Defensively, Silletti will be at a tackle, Cerza and Mike Zaccarella have a beat on starting linebacker positions and Richard Rizzolo has looked good at a defensive end slot. Graham will be the starting nose guard.

In the secondary, Napolitano and Turano have some experience.

"We don't have much in the way of experience this season," Senesky said. "Right now, we have to keep the injuries down and hope the kids continue to improve. We have to improve our containment on end sweeps on defense and hope our offense can come around."

The Bucs opponent this Saturday will be tough. The Passaic Indians are known as a physical club with good speed and 1988 should be no exception.

"They have pretty good size and excellent speed," Senesky said. "They're working with three quarterback candidates. They've got tough kids and are a very aggressive club. I hope we play better against them than we did last Sunday against Livingston."

During the decade of the 80's, Belleville and Passaic have played eight times, with each club winning four. The Bucs were victorious in 1980, '82, '84 and '87. The victories in 1980 and last season were at Passaic Stadium.

Football game changed

The Paramus Catholic - Belleville Varsity Football game, originally scheduled for October 8, has been changed to Friday, October 7 with kick-off at 7:30 p.m. at William "Doc" Ellis Field.

Defeat Clifton, Good Council

Volleyball opens with two victories

When we last left Grace Worley, she was busy telling anyone who would listen that her team was inexperienced and she didn't know what to expect in the 1988 volleyball season.

After six straight outstanding seasons, you would think people wouldn't take Worley seriously when it came to question marks on Belleville volleyball. However, her point about inexperience and a tough schedule seemed to bear some merit.

The critics may still be out, but the early signs are quite positive for the Belleville volleyball team. Last week, the girls defeated Clifton and Good Council in its first two matches and in both instances, the victories came in straight sets.

Belleville battled Kennedy last

Tuesday and will host Ridgewood this afternoon in a 4 p.m. start. Tomorrow afternoon, the girls travel to Passaic for a 4 p.m. match. Next Monday, Belleville visits Bloomfield and next Wednesday, the team is at Immaculate Heart. Both of those matches commence at 4 p.m.

"It was a good way to open the season," Worley said referring to the 15-6, 15-9 win at Clifton. "It's always a tough match with them, so we're very happy. The girls gave an excellent account of themselves. Our experienced players, like Laurie (Dondarski), Simone (Edwards) and Kathy (Eng) all came through and our younger kids really responded."

Worley noted Edwards usual strong play at the net.

"Simone played well. Her hitting and blocking at the net were excellent. She played a smart, consistent game."

Dondarski was also solid, turning in an excellent setting game and giving Edwards the chance to hit the winners.

Eng did a good job at the net and Worley feels the senior could be even more effective as the year progresses.

"Kathy should hit more," the coach said. "She has a good spike at

Strong showings not enough for gymnasts

Despite some good individual performances, the Belleville gymnastics team was defeated by Clark in its season opener last Friday, 87.10-72.25.

Gina Lemongello's club travels to Fair Lawn this afternoon for a 4 p.m. start. Next Tuesday, the girls face Ridgewood at home in a 4 p.m. match.

Last Friday, Belleville battled a very good team from Clark High School and did well by scoring over 70 points in the opener. Last year, the girls managed 57.3 points in the season opener.

"Overall, we did pretty well," Lemongello said. "Clark has an excellent team this year. I wasn't sure what to expect from them. Last year, they weren't as strong, this year they looked outstanding. I was proud of our kids, though. We made some mistakes in routines, but the girls learned from them and hopefully we can build from this match."

The only Belleville athlete who placed in the top three was Andrea Lemongello, who finished second in the balance beam. Her score in the event was 5.65.

In the vaulting exercise, Nicole Zelna led the way for Belleville with an impressive score of 7.6. Joell Veltre finished the vaulting with a score of 6.6.

Belleville recieved three strong performances in the floor exercise. Veltre was the leader at 7.5. Zelna finished at 6.75 and Nicole Puciarello had a score of 6.4. Freshman Lori Aiello, in her first varsity match, scored a 4.9 in the floor exercise.

In the uneven parallel bars, Veltre had the highest Belleville score of 5.85. Zelna finished with a 5.55 and Danielle Groelling finished at 4.85.

In gymnastics, a perfect score for an event is 10.0. The top three scores in each event is calculated into the final team score. Thus, a team could compile a score of 120 points with a perfect 10 performance in all four events.

While that seems a bit unlikely, Belleville has faced teams in the past that have broken the 100 point plateau for a match. In 1986, Belleville broke the 90 point mark, which is also considered an excellent accomplishment.

So, looking on the bright side, a score of 72.25 in the season opener for a young team is something to be optimistic about. Coach Lemongello and company hope that last Friday's match is just the start of an excellent campaign.

Steady improvement has DePinto optimistic

The Belleville soccer team opened the 1988 season with two losses and a tie last week, but the team showed improvement in all three matches and coach Gino De Pinto is optimistic about the upcoming games.

The Bucs will battle Hackensack this afternoon in a 4 p.m. match at Clearmon Field. On Saturday, the team is host to Weehawkin in an 11 a.m. match, also at Clearmon. Next Monday, the Bucs face a good Paramus club on the road at 4 p.m.

The season opener against Don Bosco last Wednesday was a one sided affair as Don Bosco prevailed, 7-0. De Pinto expected a difficult outing with DBP, who is considered the team to beat in the Pacific Division of the NNJL.

"They (Don Bosco) were a very good team," De Pinto said. "Our goalie (Joe Barrero) did a very good job, despite the score. He must have saved at least ten more goals. He also saved a penalty shot, which is very difficult."

The penalty shot is difficult to save because the goalie cannot move to one side or another until after the shooter makes contact with the ball. The shooter gets a free kick just ten yards away from the goalie, with no interference from the defense.

"Our kids were a little nervous in that Don Bosco match," De Pinto said. "We weren't able to get anything going offensively."

The Bucs lost its second match last Friday afternoon to Montclair, 3-0. In this match, Belleville fell behind by three goals early in the second quarter, then began to play a more aggressive defense.

"After halftime, we began to come around, especially on the defense," De Pinto said. "I was happy with our play in the second half of that game."

The Bucs continued its improved play last Monday night when it tied Bloomfield, at one. Belleville scored first, in the first quarter on a goal by senior Joe Giunta. The Bucs then played a solid defense and held a 1-0 lead until late in the final quarter.

Bloomfield tallied the equalizer at the 2:00 mark of the fourth quarter and the teams settled for the tie.

"We made one mistake and it cost us," De Pinto said. "We played very well, though. At least we were able to get on the board. We have to get our offense moving, because we can't settle for just one goal a game. It puts too much pressure on the defense."

Barrero turned in another excellent game in the net and the Belleville defense, led by sweeper Angelo Silva, stopper Frank Crocco, right halfback Rich Preto and left halfback Tim Cook played extremely well.

The Buccaneer midfield has been gaining experience. The return of senior John Scoriolla to the midfield gives Belleville some punch to the scoring attack.

Another player De Pinto hopes will be back soon is Alex Araya. He had a hernia operation a few weeks back and is hopeful of returning to the lineup in about three weeks.

the net and I feel she should use it more."

Belleville received excellent performances from junior Tricia Donnelly and sophomores Judy Krych and Chris Bonacorssia. All three girls were starting their first varsity matches and all responded to the challenge.

"Tricia gave us a good service game," Worley said. "I think her backline game will improve as the year goes on. She did a nice job for the opener."

"Judy played a good defensive game. She had to handle some tough spikes from the Clifton players and responded well. She's really trying hard."

"Chris did well in her first start, too. Her defense is her strong point."

Last Monday, Belleville defeated Good Council, 15-4, 15-11. It wasn't a particularly outstanding effort on Belleville's part, but the Lady Bucs got the job done.

"We played a sloppy game," Worley admitted. "We were trying a few different things in the match, but our kids didn't play nearly as well as they did against Clifton. When you play the tougher teams, like Ridgewood and Paramus and Paramus Catholic, you have to capitilize. We really didn't do that today. Our passing was sloppy and we weren't able to get the setting and front line play that we need to do well."

DENTALLY SPEAKING

By Drs. James D. Muglia
and Paul N. De Maio

Mr. O. of Nutley asks: "Porcelain broke off my crown. Can it be repaired without removing the crown?"

There are porcelain repair materials, Mr. O., that can be applied. Our own experience indicates they work fairly well if the repair is in a non-contacting area. If the repair is on the biting surface of the crown, then the repair material doesn't hold up. Most times, Mr. O., the repair is for cosmetic reasons only. The exposed metal provides the needed protection for the tooth, regardless of the presence of porcelain.

Another method used is as follows. All the porcelain is removed and the underlying material is prepared or drilled to receive a new laboratory-made porcelain covering. This covering then is cemented over the prepared metal crown.

Discuss these options with your dentist.

NON-PRESCRIBED FOOD

Tetracycline is an antibiotic that physicians commonly prescribe for the treatment of bacterial infections. What patients must bear in mind when taking tetracycline is that drinking it with milk or any dairy product will greatly inhibit the drug's effectiveness. This is because the calcium found in dairy products will bind with the tetracycline to form a complex which cannot be absorbed into the small intestine. It is through this intestinal lining the drug normally gains access to the bloodstream. In fact, certain other nutrients, including magnesium and iron, also bind with tetracycline and prevent it from being absorbed into the body. It is also not a good idea to take a multi-vitamin supplement simultaneously with tetracycline.

Your pharmacist will provide you with the necessary information on taking medications. For all your prescription needs stop at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956. We have a complete prescription department. Greeting cards, Russell Stover candy, cosmetics and toiletries are also handled. Hours: 9 am - 10 pm daily, 9 am - 9 pm Sundays.

HINT: It is best to take tetracycline on an empty stomach one hour before or two hours after a meal.

REAL ESTATE FORUM

By Jim Farese

Q. We purchased our home one year ago with a One Year Adjustable Rate Mortgage. Our adjustment period is nearing and we are feeling a bit uncomfortable about the future of interest rates. Do you feel we should convert to a fixed rate now and is there a formula to help us decide?

A. Converting to a fixed rate mortgage usually means refinancing which often involves paying expensive closing costs. Whether converting to a fixed rate makes sense for a homeowner depends on several factors however, and the answer won't be the same for every homeowner. Still, many mortgage brokers, financial analysts and real estate executives say that in general, now isn't the time for a switch. The feeling is that the time to lock in is when fixed rates are in the single digits. A simple rule of thumb is that if the differential between ARM's and fixed rates exceed 2-2 1/2 points it doesn't make sense to switch to a fixed rate. For example, if your rate is 8 1/2 percent, don't refinance to an 11 percent fixed rate.

Another major consideration is how long the homeowner plans to stay in the home. If you plan to stay only 3 to 4 years, converting to a fixed rate mortgage probably isn't worth the cost.

Q. What is the tax treatment of closing costs if I purchased a new residence? Will the fees be deductible?

A. In the purchase of a principal residence, various costs are incurred. Some of these typical costs include:

- * Finance Charges
- * Service Fees
- * Appraisal Fees
- * Title Insurance
- * Credit Investigation Fees

Any points paid by the buyer or stated finance charges are deductible as an itemized interest expense deduction. The remaining closing costs are non-deductible & are added to the cost basis of the house for purposes of determining future gain.

Don't wait to check your car filter: Do it right away

The traditional combination of three or four drive belts which operate a vehicle's various accessories is giving way to a single serpentine belt on many new cars.

A product of automotive design technology, this long belt powers as many as seven pulleys, driving the alternator, water pump, radiator fan, power steering, air conditioning compressor and, on some engines, the air (or "smog") pump.

The single belt not only consumes less power, it also conserves space under the hood. These are important considerations for those automotive engineers challenged with the downsizing of our vehicles.

The state-of-the-art design, known as a V-ribbed, is wider and thinner, providing greater flexibility to bend around small pulleys. It also can transmit power off its top surface. The conventional "V" belt contacts the pulley only on its lower side.

While one of these serpentine belts is easier to replace than four standard belts, mechanics are advised that pulley alignment must be perfect to assure proper wear and pulling power.

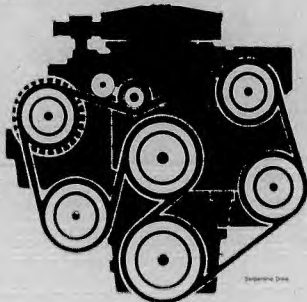

Conventional drive belts should be inspected periodically (ideally once a month) and replaced when worn, frayed, cracked or glazed. Belt life generally ranges from three to four years.

Belt adjustment is critical. According to Car Care Council, the frictional heat from a slipping belt transfers to the pulleys, possibly melting the bearing lubricant.

While the new serpentine belts are far superior to their predecessors, they and their pulleys do require periodic inspection. Foreign objects in the pulley can erode the ribs, causing the belt to lose its pulling power.

Inspect for uneven ribs, says the Council and, if necessary, replace a damaged belt.

Grim results when you fill to brim

Do you try to "fill 'er up" to even money at the gas pump, causing the automatic nozzle to shut off several times before you're satisfied the tank is full? Break the habit, urges Car Care Council.

Overfilling can waste fuel and cause engine problems as well. Further, it pollutes the air.

The reason for all this, says the Council, is that raw gasoline at the top of the tank enters a tube leading to a vapor recovery container under the hood.

The charcoal filled canister is supposed to send gas vapors to the engine where they are burned off, but the raw gas presents a problem. It creates an over-rich mixture and causes poor combustion in the engine.

The results are poor gas mileage, rough running and possibly hard starting. You also may notice a gas odor in the car.

Unburned hydrocarbons from auto exhaust, a major cause of air pollution, have been reduced by 96 percent since 1960. The biggest source of trouble from the tail pipe now is due to maintenance neglect: A dirty air filter, worn spark plugs, incorrect timing or general lack of tune-up.

But other sources of hydrocarbon vapors, such as fuel evaporation when filling the vehicle, continue to plague us.

Corrective measures are being taken. In some states, for example, service stations must have special nozzles and hoses to capture these vapors and return them to the underground tanks. This is an expensive proposition, but effective.

There's talk of incorporating sealed systems on future vehicles, whereby the vapors cannot escape during the refueling process.

For now, however, vigilance is the answer.

And, of course, it is important to keep the engine in good mechanical condition. An added caution for motorists with respiratory ailments: Avoid gasoline fumes. They are especially irritating to sensitive lungs. Spend the little bit extra for full service, concludes Car Care Council.

Retread tires can save you money this winter

How can economy-minded motorists save important money on tire purchases without sacrificing safety and comfort? The answer is retreads.

- Retreads are extremely well suited for light trucks, 4x4s and recreational vehicles. They are used on school and municipal buses, police and emergency vehicles, racing cars, taxis, airplanes, trucks, and federal and military vehicles.

- Retreads make great snow tires. In fact, more retreaded snow tires are sold than new snow tires.

- Retreads are absolutely as safe as comparable new tires, and can be driven at the same speeds as comparable new tires. They are processed according to Federal Safety Standards.

- Retreads are available in high performance sizes in all tread designs, including all season designs.

- With proper maintenance and care, retreads can give you the same mileage as new tires, and they look just like new tires.

It's a good idea to comparison shop for retreaded tires and to ask for a written warranty. The warranty may be for workmanship, mileage or some combination of the two.

For more assurance, look for a dealer who buys from a retreader who's a member in good standing with the American Retreaders' Association, National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Association and/or Tire Retread Information Bureau.

Once you have retreads installed on your car, be certain your wheels are properly aligned and check your tire pressure regularly to add miles to the life of your tires.

For a free brochure about the features and benefits of retreaded tires, send a stamped, self-addressed #10 envelope to the Tire Retread Information Bureau, 26555 Carmel Rancho Boulevard, #3, Carmel, CA 93923.

RADIATOR HOSES must be flexible to absorb vibration between the engine and radiator, but, unfortunately, they are not as durable as these metal parts. The Gates Rubber Company suggests changing these hoses every two years.

Avoid a heater that won't work

There is perhaps no greater inconvenience of winter driving than a heater that won't work.

Most passenger compartment heaters use the coolant to warm the incoming fresh air. In addition to providing driver and passenger comfort, the warm air directed to the inside of the windshield generally prevents fogging or icing which obscures vision.

The personal distress of cold fingers and toes can be avoided, says The Gates Rubber Company, by inspecting the heat producing cooling system components in your car.

Troubleshooting should begin with the coolant level in the radiator (just below the filler neck) and mixture (50 percent each water and antifreeze). A low level will reduce or cancel the flow of coolant to the heater, thereby reducing or preventing any heat output.

The radiator pressure cap helps to raise and control the temperature of the coolant in the system. It should be replaced if the seat or gasket is damaged, or if the spring is broken.

The thermostat acts as a heat sensitive valve which regulates the flow of coolant to the radiator. When the thermostat fails or malfunctions, the engine either will overheat or take longer to get any heat, because the engine will take longer to reach proper operating temperature. It is a good practice to replace a thermostat if you're in doubt, advises Gates.

Flexible hoses convey the liquid coolant between the radiator and the engine. They should be inspected for softness, cracks and cuts. In normal service, they are affected by air, heat, chemicals, oil and constant vibration.

These conditions either could harden or crack hoses, which destroys flexibility and causes leakage, or soften and swell the hoses, producing lining failure and hose rupture.

Two other important hoses run parallel from the engine to the heater, normally found under the dashboard. These, too, should be checked for swelling and cracks, and for abrasion to the hose cover where the hoses come in contact with the engine block.

The water pump/fan drive might be called the heart of the cooling system. Coolant circulates throughout the engine by means of the water pump, which is driven by a rubber belt.

Loose or worn belts could mean failure of the drive. Check the condition of the drive belts by turning them over, Gates suggests. Replace any that are cracked, frayed, brittle, wet with oil or highly polished on the sides that contact the pulleys.

Regardless of the visual condition, belts that are more than four years old should be replaced, according to Gates.

These troubleshooting procedures could solve the problem of a malfunctioning heating system. Other trouble areas, such as a clogged or leaking heater core, faulty electrical connections and fuses, a broken blower motor or a non-operating heater control valve, should be checked by an experienced mechanic.

At the very least, this exercise will prepare your cooling system for the hard winter months ahead.

Prevent perils of a disabled vehicle

Street and highway crimes are a growing menace. Car-to-car sniping, shootings at stoplights and attacks at the scene of an accident have prompted law enforcement agencies in some cities to increase patrol activity.

Motorists are advised to be conscious of their vulnerability, especially in the event of a disabled vehicle. Not only should drivers be cautious and alert, they also should take precautionary measures to avoid such an occurrence.

Preventive maintenance of the vehicle is essential. A dependable car can whisk you away from trouble, says Car Care Council.

A worn-out tire, on the other hand, could leave you stranded on a dark street. A weak battery or corroded battery cable, a leaking radiator or a flat spare tire could lead to a dangerous situation for the driver.

When an engine fails to start on a cold evening in a remote section of a parking lot, the driver could find him or herself in real trouble. That is also true in the case of the engine that falters and stalls at a busy intersection, where an accident could occur.

Car Care Council urges owners to take precautionary measures to help avoid car trouble, beginning with periodic maintenance of their vehicle. This should include a check of the battery, and the electrical and cooling systems, replacement of worn tires, and an engine tune up.

Be sure your emergency flashers, horn and spare tire are in good condition, too. Take care of your car, reminds the Council, and your car will take care of you.

Does your car have the "blahs?"

With each gallon of gas your car burns, it consumes 14 gallons of air. For ideal combustion, that air should be at a temperature of between 70°F and 90°F. When it's too cold, the car will run poorly, stall, get poor gas mileage and generally be sluggish in performance.

This common winter driving symptom, says Car Care Council, is often caused by a damaged or missing "heat riser" tube. This is a flexible metal duct that directs heat from the hot exhaust manifold to the air cleaner intake.

Also known as the preheater duct, it connects to a fresh air duct at the air cleaner housing. Here, a temperature controlled valve mixes hot and cold air to keep intake at the right temperature.

Sound complicated? It's nothing more than a simple hot air furnace for the benefit of the carburetor or fuel injection.

In a similar way, the fresh air duct to the carburetor is designed to provide cool air to the system in hot weather, when under-hood temperatures may exceed 200°F. If the air in the fuel/air mix is too hot, a lean mixture will result, causing power loss, excessive emissions and/or severe engine damage.

This fresh air intake tube also often is found damaged or missing, according to reports to the Council from vehicle inspection lanes. Both of these ducts should be examined periodically and replaced when necessary. They are easy do-it-yourself jobs for owners so inclined.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION LAST & LAST...

TIPS FROM TRANSMISSION SPECIALISTS:

- AFTER STARTING THE ENGINE, ALLOW IDLE SPEED TO SLOW TO NORMAL BEFORE SHIFTING.
- AVOID HOLDING ONE FOOT ON THE BRAKE, THE OTHER ON THE ACCELERATOR.

NEVER ROCK YOUR CAR MORE THAN A FEW TIMES WHEN STUCK IN SNOW. ROCKING OVERHEATS THE TRANSMISSION.

- CHECK TRANSMISSION FLUID REGULARLY.
- IF FLUID HAS TURNED BROWN OR SMELLS BURNED, CHANGE FLUID AND FILTER.
- IF YOU NEED TO ADD FLUID, CHECK FOR LEAKAGE.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A "SEVERE SERVICE" DRIVER (TRAILER TOWING OR OTHER ABNORMAL LOADS) CHECK YOUR OWNER'S MANUAL FOR SPECIAL SERVICE REQUIREMENTS. CONSIDER INSTALLING AN AUXILIARY TRANSMISSION COOLER.
