RECYCLING CENTER...located on William Street for newspaper, aluminum cans and glass. The town hopes to institute curbside pickup, but will also offer other services at the center.

Officials discuss curbside pickup of recyclable items

By Mike Lazorchak
There was a time when recycling aluminum cans was a great way for kids to earn a little extra pocket money. A quick tour of the neighborhood once a week usually provided enough cans for a couple packs of baseball cards or a little after school candy.

However, since 1988, state requirements have turned recycling into a municipal necessity. According to Belleville's recycling coordinator, Joe Scapperotta, the state requires 25 percent of municipal waste be recycled. This includes newspaper, aluminum cans, glass and cardboard.

Although the state requires leaf and vegetation be recycled, these areas do not count towards the 25 percent minimum, Scapperotta said.

With approximately a month and a half of outstanding receipts, the coordinator estimates Belleville will have no problem making the necessary figure.

"With the figures I have through Nov. 15, 1990, I estimate will be be comewhere around 27 or 28 percent," Scapperotta said.

Based on previous data, the normal total waste figure for Belleville is around 330 tons. As of Nov. 15, Belleville recycled 855 tons of its waste, according to Scapperotta.

"Again, based on the figures, we anticipate a total recycled tonage of 1,048," Scapperotta said.

Despite the success in meeting the 25 percent requirement, there is pressure mounting to increase the town's capacity for recycling. According to Town Manager Bertrand Kendall the state may soon raise the recycled minimum to 60 percent of the total vaste.

vices at the recycling center at 48 William St.

The most significant feature of the plan would institute curbside pickup for all recycled items. At present, the convenience of curbside pickup is only available for newspaper.

"The easier you make it for the residents the more you can recycle," Kendall said.

Belleville also has one of the highest concentrations of senior citzens in the county, according to Kendall. Curbside pickup would make recycling available to those who would otherwise not be avle to make the trips to the center.

Kendall pointed out, however, that convenience and ost go hand-in-hand. A contract, which Scaperotta is hoping to acquire with the Essex County Occupational Center, must be incorporated into the budget which will be introduced in March.

Scaperotta is also looking to incorporate two special services at the recycling center to encourage residents to make the extra effort of a trip to William Street.
A goodwill box will be placed at the recycling center for residents to drop old clothing. Residents can help the environment and the needy with one trip.
The town has also purchased a log splitter for the center. Kendall hopes to provide residents with firewood from the dead trees cut down in the town.

Kendall summed up the efforts when he said, "We want good public works services for our residents."

Looking to the future, Kendall and Scaperotta hope the county will take at least some of the financial weight of recycling services off the municipalities.

According to the two officials, he original intention of the state was for counties to provide recycling services, but somewhere along the line those plans fell through. Now the high cost of mandatory recycling, which offers few incentives from the state, is viewed as more of burden to municipalities.

detectives arresting three Newark men.

Det. Sgt. Joe Tortorelli reported the three individuals, Dominic Manochio; 25, Edgardo Castellano, 19, and Cigfredo Perez, 21, were charged with burglary and theft in connection with 12 incidents in Belleville.

Since the identification process developed as more information became available, the arrests were staggered over a five day period last week. Manochio was picked up on Jan. 15, Perez on Jan. 17 and Castellano on Jan. 20.

Rossi also said there were two more suspects still at large.

The string of burglaries police have linked in this case began on Nov. 5 and continued until Jan. 15.

Although no property has been recovered, Tortorelli, estimates $10,000 to $15,000 of jewlery, video cassette recorders and other electronic equipment was stolen.

All burglaries took place during the day and entry was usually gain-ed when a door or window was forced open, Tortorelli said.

"Something a lot of people don't realize is most burglaries occur in the daytime hours," Tortorelli said, "and without a deadbolt, a simple

According to Richard Romano,

"We've got to do things that make the town more appealing," Romano said.

Romano also believes the neglectful appearance of the property may bring the value of his house down.

Panel endorses Orechio municipal police bill

A Senate panel recently endor-sed Senator, Carmen A. Orechio's bill that would grant full municipal police authority in county parks. The legislation, S. 1955, unania-ously cleared the Senate County and Municipal Government Com-mittee and now moves to the full Senate.

Senate.

Orechio (D-Essex) said the bill would give a town the right to authorize its police force to use police powers in any county park wholly within that municipality's borders.

"County sheriff's departments are not always equipped to patrol county parks as well as many city and municipal police forces are," he said.

"Nonetheless, citizens who liveness a county park have a right to expect they will be safe. This bill would provide them an added layer of protection."

The senator's bill would require consent of a county's board of chosen freeholders before a municipality may assume police duties. The legislation also would require the municipal clerk to notify the county board after its ordinance has passed first reading.

"Heaven can wait" so says

ARP's (American Association of Retired Persons) Bulletin in regards to older Americans 'trial balloon' on benefits. The article by Don McLeod boldly proclaims "Bigger cuts to come?" which points out that our older Americans emerged from the 1990 "battle of the budger' relatively unscathed, but that they shouldn't assume that 1991 will go the same way.
Pointing out that already, there are signs that proposals will be advanced in the new Congress that would cut government benefits to better-off older Americans, and possibly increase them for lowincome elderly and poor children (an objectionable policy of punishing prudent seniors who had husbanded their earnings and invested wisely to pay for and supplement the imprudent fiscal profligacy of many improvident or irresponsible individuals).

The strongest indication that higher-income elderly may be targeted for such cuts came tast year when Budget Director Richard G.
Darman said the Bush administration was looking for ways to redirect government benefits from the wealthy and middle classes to the poor . . . Although he exempted Social Security from this review, Darman did suggest that Medicare might be singled out for benefit redistribution.

Congressional observers say proposals may be put forward to might be singled out for benefit redistribution.

Congressional observers say proposals may be put forward to require higher-income enrollees to pay a larger premium for Medicare's Part B program (Part B pays for a part of beneficiary doctor's bills in most instances, unless the doctor accepts assignment, which indicates acceptance of Medicare's payment as full payment).

Rep. Pete Stark (D-Calif.) chairman of the House Ways and Means health subcommittee, told the AARP Bulletin that "It is apparent (the administration is going to go after seniors and they are going (to try) to cut Medicare benefits to save money"—a charge that administration defenders deny. The administration effort may not get very far. The Darman

WE ARE SPECIALIZING

IN BUSINESS INSURANCE... SMALL OR LARGE COMPANY

"Just because Darman proposed this doesat" mean it's going to happen," adds AARP legislative director John Rother. He treminds that congressional leaders rejected similar proposals last fall or grounds that the "hit" on the elderly would be too severe.

In the end, lawmakers rejected proposed increases in the Part B premium and deductible that stirred opposition from the AARP and other advocacy groups. The boosts approved in the final budget bill were much smaller.

Ironically, Rother says, the elderly are vulnerable precisely because they seemed to fare so well in the last Congress. "The widespread perception on Capitol Hill," he says, "is that older Americans got off too easy and, therefore, next time they'll be at the head of the list (for big cuts)."

What makes the issue tougher this time, he adds is that Darman has subtly changed the Jebate. "For the first time he's not talking about deficit reduction," says Rother. "He's saying now that we've agreed how much we're going to spend on Medicare, let's ask; may have a subtly because it would mean higher premiums and deductibles for some, but also because it could be a step toward transforming Medicar from social insurance into a welfare program.

Thus, Rother adds, much of AARP's efforts in the new Congress will be aimmed at heading of legislation that could be harmful to older Americans.

AARP and other organizations representing the elderfy will push shead with an active legislative agenda in 1991, although it will be scaled down.

Congressman Pete Stark states, "It is apparent (the administration) is going to go after seniors." Remember it was the Republicans that taxed Social Security payment after FDR promised that they would never be taxed.

for eight weeks by the Science Tech Center at Liberty State Park. It is a sesearch mentorship program available to selected, academically talented juniors and seniors planning a career in a science-related field.

'The program offers these gifted and motivated students the opportunity to do research in a particular scientific field that interests them. Students work under the guidance of professional scientists, engineers and mathematicians. Students also attend skills workshops, seminars, tecevire career and college counseling and write a research paper on their summer's work which they present to their peers. Selected papers are presented to professional scientists through a symposium.

'Through countless efforts of Mrs. Bess Efstathiou, science supervision of Grades K-12 in the Belleville School District, Belleville students have participated in this program every year since 1986. Heather Kane, who was selected tast year for the program and is now a senior the Belleville, stated: "Partners in Science is a very educational program."

'Mrs. Efstathiou stated that there are approximately 160 applicants nominated state-wide, and approximately stated.

Imately 50 nominees are selected to participate. High school transcripts, questionnaires, teacher recommendations and a personal interview with Dr. Dana Levine, Outreach Coordinator for Liberry Science Center, Jersey City, are all part of the final selection process. The Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation finances part of this program, but in order to qualify, the high school must agree to share the high school must agree to share the bootained through sponsor. Previous sponsors for BHS are the High school, Junior Women's Club, the Middle School, Schools 5, 7, and 8, Silver Troy Co. Disabled American Vets, Beisler-Weidmann Co. and the Kiwanis Club of Belleville. Mrs. Efstathiou stated that, "Without all of these very generous sponsors, this program would not be possible."

Unfortunately, sponsors aren't always easy to find, Mrs. Efstathiou commented: "A very large amount of time is spent seeking sponsors." Mrs. Efstathiou will be attending a Home and School meeting in January to pursue additional funding. She remarked, "The only way that Believille students can benefit from the Partners in Science program is if sponsors continue to provide student tuition."

PAINTING UP A MURAL — BHS seniors, Anthony Roig and Rich Pretto paint a mural of Dalmatians on the Franklin Avenue Firehouse wall.

Senior art students paint up' the firehouse

By Cyndee Rodriguez

Twelfth grade vocational commercial art students from Belleville High School, Anthony Roig, Robert Sebben, and Rich Pretto spend two mornings a week painting a series of murals at the Franklin Avenue Firehouse. Chief Walter Beresford thought it would be appropriate to have something different done in some areas of the Franklin Avenue Firehouse since it is used for training sessions, meetings and pre-school tours. Since he has had such a good response in the past with poster and logo contests, he contacted Belleville High School and the project was given to he contacted Belleville High School and the project was given to Barbara Di Lea, commercial artphotography program instructor. The subjects of the murals were a result of class discussion, research and input from Ms. Di Lea, Chief Beresford and members of the fire department. When asked about the project, Anthony Roig commender, "We've spent a lot of time so far planning the subjects of the murals."

Roig said that the process is time consuming and tedious. First the students make a penell sketch of the subject. They enlarge the sketches on a stack machine. Specific wall space areas in the firehouse are selected. The enlargements are accrefully placed and rubbed against the walls in order to leave a print of the sketch. Finally, the print is completed with acrylic paints.

The students work at the fire-house during their commercial art classtime two days a week. They receive credit for the independent study portion of the program. They also have been assisted by class-mates Kathy Sibrel and Lisa Scap-perotta in preparing the illustra-

By Kristen Brauer
Fourteen members of the Belleville High School Student Government Organization attended a convention of the N.J. Association of

After the campaigning ended, students attended various seminars run by different schools about a variety of topics that included Drug dent's meeting in order to hear speeches given by the executive council candidates. Council presidents voted for those most qualified for the position.

Votes submitted and ballots counted, all those attending gathered in the Trenton State gymnasium for the announcement of the election results. Although Belleville's candidate did not win, the club was proud of the fine job she did preparing for the occasion and the well written speech that se gave.
Virginia Rajnes said, "I would love to try to win again, but Northern Region Candidates are eligible only every other year." Rajnes felt that the experience of campaigning and the entire program was very informative and educational.

So Little Time

So little time to say the things You'd really like to say — Before you even find the words, The time just slips away

So little time to do the things You feel that you must do. So treasure, like the purest gold, The time God's given you.

So little time to dream your dreams, For youth has passed its prime, And all too soon you realize That there's ... so little time.

So little time to reach the height To which you're bound to climb. For swiftly pass the waning years, And there's ... so little time.

So little time for past regrets, And less, to make amends Yet God can heal the deepest wounds In chosen, cherished friends.

Oh, yes, there is so little time To seek the hidden door That opens up to heaven's time, Where time's forevermore.

Even as America is preoccupied in the sands of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, protecting its national interest, the communists are desperately trying to hold on to their dictatorship over and oppression of non Russian and Russians, too.

Mikhail Gorbachev — the "Man of the Decade" for TIME magazine, The New York Times, The Newark Star-Ledger and other assorted media numbskulls — has moved to squash independence movements in the Baltics and in other communistretrorized lands. His invasion of Lithuania is no less a violation of human rights as was Stalin's in 1941.

America should cease all financial aid and food shipments to the Soviet Union communists. No American bank should be permitted to joan money or give credit to the communists until they leave Lithuania and wherever else they are unwanted.

Gorbachev "Man of the Decade" has shown his true color, red for blood, and quickly become "Tyrant of the Decade" in killing those who want only to live in independence and liberty and without fear of terror.

Shutting down the ovens

From the sublime to the ridiculous. The Bergen Record reports that authorities (environmental crazies is a more proper descriptive) in Southern California have gone out as far as gone out can be in adding bread and pastries to the growing list of air-pollution aduling oreal and pasties to the growing list of air-pointion culprits.

It seems environmental crazies, otherwise known as South Coast Air Quality Management District, in Los Angeles have ordered 24 commercial bakeries to install smog control on their ovens to prevent the aromas of bakery products from reaching nostrils.

The environmental crazies say the odor of the bakery products includes smog-producing ethyl alcohol, apparently formed during the leavening process and emitted with the enticing aroma.

To facilitate the removal of this mouth-watering aroma the environmental crazies are forcing up the price of bakery products to consumers because the bakeries must pay for the smog controls.

Why do not the bakers and ordinary lovers of bakery aromas rise up and stick about a dozen muffis or donuts up the nostrils of these crazies so they will not be offended with those most delicious of aromas we can think of or we can smell?

Alas, will grandma be barred from baking her apple pies, next?

Who would think that even after twenty-five years, once again our country is on the verge of being thrusted into yet another war, again taking our young men and women thousands of miles from home to fight another manical enemy, Saddam Hussein. Hopefully, war will not have to be the answer to this situation, but if it has to be, then I believe that we should be involved, we should act swiftly, effectively and forcefully. The quicker that Hussein is moved out of Kuwait, the sooner our people can return home.

Saddam Hussein will not be deterred by economic sanctions, as proposed by some of our legislators in Congress, his country and people are used to deprivation, his people know no free society or democracy, therefore like the old adage, "you can't miss something you never had." Economic sanctions will do nothing to a country who can fend for itself, and make the most of what they already have.

Saddam Hussein will understand only one thing and that is a military action against him. We can not afford to spend months offering peace proposals or conditions like we did in Vietnam, nor can we afford another twelve year war. We could not negotiate with Adolf Hitler, or the Emperor of Japan, or Ho Chi Minh, and now we cannot talk with Hussein. America does not want another war or another Vietnam Memorial, but we cannot just sit back and do nothing. Sure our country and our troops are fearful. No one wants to kill or be killed, but there are times when mere words will not suffice. Deleve that this is one of those times.

Our forces now more than ever need our support and our rayers, they need a country who is behind them and not divided against them like we were in Vietnam. I myself served in Vietnam in 1969 with the 1st Infantry Division and I can say that the psychological damage that the war protestors did to us inflicted more damage go our purpose and morale than did the enemy. The day Vinnie received 3,380 votes — the highest in that election — another lost altogether, and that's when all h-broke loose. Vinnie could not — would not — be manipulated, so guess what happened? Let's continue.

Didn't you ever wonder, Jackie, why Vinnie did not become mayor? Although I did not know Vinnie very well in those days, I questioned (letter to Belleville Times) why he did not receive (mayor) what he was entitled to. Then I sat back and watched, and learned, why. Are you beginning to get the picture? Remember the gentleman who openly stated he was the mayor as species of the commissioners voted for leader, a follower???

While Vinnie was cutting his budget, giving to another department, the mayor was cutting someone's throat. Who paid for the surveillance? Why you and me and every other tax payer in town, that's who.

Mike Marrotti will wouch I attended many a meeting; Mayor Perna will tell you I'm visible but I don't see Jackie — never did. To be more specific, Vinnie was very visible while he was in office but the odds he had to buck were tremendous. He may have lost the election, but thank God, the people of Belleville did not lose Vinnie.

To read your letter and to hear comments at town meetings, anyone would think Vinnie was the only one in office — perhaps he was.

Thank you again, Jackie, for reminding me of the grants Vinnie got, the way he left his family at the dinner table to help a Bellevillite, etc., etc. We humans do tend to forget the god.

Along the Passaic

Everyone can help control floods

By Ella F. Fillppone
Executive Administrator,
Passale River Coallition
Recently, we at the Passaic River Coalition have been spending a great deal of time on review of the "cumulative" effect of development in flood plains. Several years ago when a large development was being planned and many of us questioned the Army Corps of Engineers on the impact on flooding, the response was that the overall effect of a 150 acre development is minimal in the basin. However, when viewed in the "cumulative" sense (one plus one plus one, etc.), the flooding downstream increases.

reases. With 118 municipalities in the Passaic With 118 municipalities in the Passaic River Basin, the manner in which development takes place becomes a high priority. Since stormwater earnies with it topsoil, stringent erosion control methods-should be required and inspected, such as silf tences during construction and covering bare dirt with straw. Vegetation should be preserved along streambanks and streambeds so that a buffer exists to control and absorb runoff.

Replanting of such areas should have the highest priority because preventing silt and pollution from getting into water-ways is ecologically better and financially ways is ecologically better and financially efficient.

Trees should be preserved as much as possible in any development, and with site plans, municipalities should require proper landscaping plans regarding tree and shrub planting so that rainwater filters slowly into the soil and keeps the water where it falls instead of hurriedly sending it downstream.

When planning site developments, care should be taken to reduce the use of impervious surfaces where other processes do as good a job. For example, insteamd of paving a driveway with macadam or concrete, use gravel or paving stones. Consider ground oversinstead of lawns. Grass lawns can become as impervious as some pavements.

Citizens should seek to determine whether their towns consider stormwater retention practices when planning additional services of the participant of the planning additional services as some planning additional services.

whether their flowis consider so introduce retention practices when planning addi-tional growth in their communities. Eve-ry person must take care of their part in the total scheme of stormwater management, as is necessary in every aspect of maintaining the ecological viability of life on this planet. So as Spring is not that far away, begin to plan now, how you on your property can make improvements to participate in the stormwater management of the Passaic River Basin.

saic River Basin.

Also more people must participate in the decision-making process in their local governments. We need more aggressive programs to acquire lands alongside our rivers and streams. Land in the flood plains should be taken out of private use so that they can flood as nature originally intended. Our land use laws call for economic return on such lands, when in effect development in flood plains costs all of us more in tax dellars to protect these who ultimately find themselves in the flood waters. Only citizen action can begin to correct such abuses. To learn more and become more involved, work with organizations like the Passaic River Coalition which for 20 years has been striving to make proper stormwater management a priority "Along the Passaic."

Dollhouse miniatures

On exhibit at the Belleville Public Library and Information Center are the dollhouse miniatures of Terry Gleason, who initiated her hobby three years ago, when her son gave her a dollhouse for Christmas Currently she has four dollhouses, which she has filled with furniture from kits. The hobby, however, is time-consuming, as one bookcase took 25 hours to make.

A respiratory therapist at Passaic General Hospital, Gleason, now a resident of Garifeld, had lived in Belleville for 10 years. The exhibit can be viewed in both cases during regular library hours.

Belleville Times SPORTS

BUG By Mike Lamberti

Chances are, you will always remember where you were on Wednesday evening, January 16, 1991 at approximately 7, pm. Many of you were probably driving home from work, like I was. Many more were probably driving home from work, like I was. Many more were probably sitting down to dinner, when the television, in essence, became one.

Any station you flipped to, with the possible exception of TBS, who aired "Happy Days" in its usual 7:05 pm. time slot, reported that the bombings had begun. (In fairness to TBS, they did flash a report on the programming telling people to turn to CNN for further details). The war in the Middle East had commenced and many a collective heart beat a little faster. I don't know about you, but every time one of the stations flashes "Special Report" on the screen during regular programming, a knot begins to form in my stomach. Everytime I see it, I'm hoping Peter Jennings, or Tom Brokaw, or Dan Rather is going to announce that the hostillities have ended and that our troops will be coming home soon. And, one day that will happen. Hopefully, sooner than later. In the interin, the world continues to function. The coverage provided by the television stations has been pretty good. Lord knows, we've seen this war in just about every perspective possible. Everyone who knows just about anything about strategy has been interviewed. Family members of the troops have been interviewed. The secretary of Defense, Generals and Admirals have appeared on television to give press conferences and journalists, anxious to crack some special code, have pressed these guys to give information that, let's face it, just can't be given. I'm not a military anaylist, nor an investigative reporter. I'm just activize of a small town in the United States, who, like 100,000,000 other people have an interest in what happens a half a world away from here.

other people have an interest in what happens a half a world away from here.

The sports world, of which I have a more than passing interest, has done its best to show that it understands and respects what is going on in the Middle East.

How many times have you heard the following phrase? "In an effort to put sports in its proper perspective."

And sports has tried, perhaps too much, to put this difficult time into its "proper perspective."

The night the war began, the North Carolina-North Carolina State basketball game, which was supposed to tip off at 9:10 p.m. was cancelled. The fans there applauded the decision.

That was done in excellent taste. It should have been done nation wide that evening.

But since then, questions and more questions have been asked about an upcoming sporting event named the Super Bowl, Porty sports station has done a poll on whether the Super Bowl, or for that matter, the conference championship games played last weekend, should be contested.

The NFI, still stinging to this day because it played football on Sunday, November 24, 1963, contacted officials at the White House and State Department to find out their feelings on whether the games should be polyed. The response from Washington, D.C. (asif the President and Congress didn't have enough on their minds) was go ahead and play.

So, with that, another phrase became quite popular. "Sports is a diversion from real life. The people need it." Sports is a diversion five recreation, not only for the players on the field, but for the fans in the stands and in front of televisions world wide.

But sports is also a business. And a verybig business at that. The world wide.

But sports is also a business. And a very big business at that. The Super Bowl is scheduled for this Sunday. And the NBA schedule has games tonight and over the weekend. And the NHL will continue its schedules. The theatres will be open throughout the country. And, in essence, life will go on.

But there is a heavy heart. A very heavy heart. And, as long as our people are there, we should never forget the tremendous sacrifice they are making.

The sports world has recognized that, and after all the politicing, the fans have spoken and have done so in a classy manner.

The sports worth as recognized that, and after all the politicing, the fans have spoken and have done so in a classy manner.

The National Anthem has taken on new meaning, bringing back memories of eleven years ago, when a troubled nation adopted an amateur bockey team that won a gold medal in Lake Placid, New York.

At the AFC and NFC championship games, the fans sang the anthem in a stirring tribute. But it was at the NHL championship game, played last Saturday, where the emotions overflowed.

Did you see the game? The Great One, Wayne Gretzky didn't want it to be played. But it was and before the face-off, the anthems of Canada and the United States were played. As the Canadian anthem was in its final bar, the fans began to cheer, which is somewhat traditional. But, as the Canadian anthem ended and the National Anthem commenced, the cheering grew louder and the fans waved the Red, White and Blue. And throughout the song, the cheering gol louder and louder.

I don't know about you, but I was overcome with the fans performance in Chicago Stadium last Saturday afternoon. That type of support to our troops should do wonders for morale. Sports does play an important part in this, and if everyone would just stop debating the issue and let the fans speak, things could be much simpler.

As for the Super Bowl, I have an answer that I haven't heard anyone else say throughout constant hours of debate.

If the security people in Tamps feel they cannot control a possible terrorist attack, then, of course the game should not be played. You don't put people's lives on the line needlessly especially for a sporting event that is designed for pleasure.

However, If the question exists simply because the game would he in bad tast be because of hostilities, then I pose the following question.

Super Bowl's I through VII were played while a conflict called Nrs. Do you?

The best thing the sports world can do is continue business are usual, with, of course, the necessary security updates. The professional athletes can provide so much imput just by showing the rest of the world that they have feelings that are attached to the second wind and go on to accomplish most, if not all their goals set in pre-seasort. It is called "Sag Time" and it has hit the boys at BHS just, as it does about this time every year. Three victories, 48-15 over South River, 57-9 over Don Bosco Prep and 34-30 over traditional arch rival Nutley, only disguised a malady which is as predictable as flowers in the springtime. Of course, every wrestler does not go through this phase. Some guty just prove immune to "Sag Time" and keep the same level of competition throughout the year. Three such boys wrestle for Belleville and have become role models for the rest of the team. Soph Josh Cardinale is now 13-40 for the year and appears to be getting a smidgeon better with each bout. Cardinale's practice partner, Mike Conte, also has avoided the mid-season doldrums and has compiled a very creditable 12-2 record in only his second year the species.

By Mike Lamberti
A balanced offensive attack propelled the Lady Buc basketball team to its second victory of the season, 32-28 over Hackensack last week. It was Belleville's first league victory of the season and improved the teams season mark to 2-9.
Karne Fuccello's team battled Immaculate Heart last Tuesday. This afternoon, the girls are home to Nutley in a 4 p.m. game. Next Monday, St. Vincent's comes to town for a 4 p.m. game. Next Tuesday, the team is at Paramus Catholic in a 7:30 p.m. tip off.
Belleville's first conference victory of the season was a defensive struggle. None of the players scored in double figures, but all the players who participated came through with excellent contributions.

By Mike Lamberti
O.K., let's get this straight. The Belleville boys' basketball team wins a game against Paramus, snapping a three game losing streak and head coach Don Roll is dissappointed with the performance. Three days later, the Bucs lose by ten points to Hackensack and Roll is quite optimistic with the results.

It was just another whacky week in the land of Buc basketball as Roll continues to audition for the Rolaids commercial. Don't be surprise ed to see the coach asking a nation ned say, "how do you spell reliet?"
In the interim, Roll's Bucs defeated Paramus 54-49 and lost to Hackensack, 51-41. Entering this weeks action, Belleville was 4-6 overall, 3-4-in NNJIL, Pacific

Entering the game with Paramus, Belleville was riding a hree game losing streak and had been beaten convincingly in two of those loses. This was ovivously a learn in need of a jump start and Roll provided the jumper cables early in the fourth quarter.

In a game Belleville was supposed to win, the Bucs trailed early in the final frame, 50-44, having been outscored, 22-45 in the third quarter. A questionable call by the officials early in the fourth quarter upset Roll, who let the officials know of his displeasure.

"I was hit with a teolinical (foul)," Roll said. "The call was questionable, but I was just finartaed with our teams performance. During the ensuing timeout, I asked them, "am I the only person

introgin with excellent contribu-tions. "It was obviously a conservative game," Fuccello said. "We played the player to six points. It was basically a game where we led by two points for most of the game. We opened it to six points late, then held on in the final seconds. Our half court trap helped pick up the tempo in the second half." For those fans who enjoyed the "Phi Slama Jama" of the Houston Cougars back in the early 80; or who enjoyed the quick scoring or Leyola-Marymount last season or who currently enjoys the high tem-po of the UNLV Rebels, this game Colucci, Dieguez, Martin chosen for state team

The New Jersey State Youth Soccer Association conducted tryouts for their its five area select teams during the weeken of December 6 and 7. Three Belleville players were chosen as part of the Northeast area team.

Steve Dieguez and Ivan Martin have been playing soccer for the past seven years. The Northeast area select team is part of the state select/olympic development pro-gram. The area select teams will be involved in controlled practices.

"Our offensive turnovers basically created their offense," Fuccello said, "They had too many break away layups. Zulay (Fiallos) played a solid defensive game on their top player in the first half, but as we threw the ball away in the second half, they opened up the lead."

Mannion led Belleville with 13 points. Abrams sorred ten, Calvi had seven, De Work soored six and Fiallos had two.

year the three players were born. Recently, the players were selected to the Jersey Hills 1977 Select Team. Colucci, Dieguez and Martin have various experience at different positions. Colucci plays as a midfielder, sweeper and delender; Dieguez is a sweeper, stopper and midfielder while Martin plays as a striker and midfielder.

The staff of the state select/ODP will be using these games as part of the evaluation pracess to choose the final roster of the state select/ODP team. This team will then participate in tournaments in New Jersey and out of state during the summer months.

season with nine straight wins.
Carlo has lost three of his last four bouts, two by, agonizingly close margins. Not, to, worry however, Ritacco's best trait may be that he is a lousy loser. It's something that every good wrestler has to possess, that absolute hatred of losing. He has it, and as soon as he stops using a 3/4 Nelson so much, we may see more of the talent that he has hidden under that quiet exterior.
This year's team wit, Vimine De Simone, was one of those hit with he "Sag Time" blues A three match losing streak, against some formidable competition, left the lighthearted 140 pounder talking to himself in the showers. He has shown signs of coming out of his mini-slump by winning his last three bouts, all easily, while improving his record to 9-4. Vinnies return to last year's form is one ingredient the Bues must have if they are to challenge St. Benedict's for the District 7 title in Feburary.
New oc-optain Lee Hands, as stated many times before, is having one heckuva season. While bouncing between 145 and 152 pounds. Hands has become the strength of the middle weight division, one of the guys you assume will win his match every time out. Not too shabby for a kid who didn't step on a mat until his freshman year in high schoo!!

The best news the team has had in almost a month is the return to action of co-captain Dan Hywel. After going through surgery on his right knee for a grade 3 cartilage tear, Danny came back to the mats at South River and Nutley to improve his unbeaten status to 6.0. Still "a bit stiff and sore, Hywel's presence in the lineup was the degiding factor in the victory over. Nutley.

Probably the last upper weight wrestler to draw the same sense of security from the coach and teammates was Mike Gibbons. Hywel's nostion in the lineup eases the pressure on every weight class beneath him, allowing everyone the luxury of concentrating on their own strategy and game plan. Although Dan has not wrestled yet at 160 pounds, that is where will be by season's end. Jimmy Mastropoalo has wrestled all but one of his bouts at 160 pounds, but when Hywel'returns to top form, Jim will be moved up (continued on page 13)

here who is mad about the way we're playing?
The players had an answer, and it was a resounding no. The Bues

Troy Talmadge led Belleville with 22 points. Dennis DeWork

Caruso finished with nine and Jim DuHaime and Michael Vista scored three each.

DuHaime and Michael Vista scored three each. "Overall, we didn't play a very good game," Roll said. "But the kids responded when they had to and got the win."

The Buss traveled to Hackensack last Friday to take on a very-talented group of Comets.

This time, the Buss responded with a solid defensive effort and left Hackensack knowing they could have won the game.

"This was a game we could have won," Roll said. "We must have missed 12 layups on back-door cuts. Hwe hit those layups, then we don't have to foul in the fourth quarter to stop the clock."

Hackensack led 9-5 after one quarter and 19-13 at the half. It was 33-25 after three quarters, with Hackensack outscoring Belleville by two in the final frame to win, 51-

"We slowed the tempo down," Roll said. "If we could have just hit a few of those layups..."

DeWork led Belleville with 12 points. Taimadge scored ten, DuH-aime finished with seven and Caruso and Straface scored six each. NOTES: Buc assistant coach Jimmy Sickinger should be okay after nearly being fix twith Roll's jacket during the technical foul in the Paramus game. The game with St. Aloysis starts a stretch of "home cooking" for the Bucs. Believille with play four of its next five games at Belleville High, with a game at Teaneck on February 1 the only road game in that stretch. The other home games will be St. Joe's on February 4 and Bloomfield on February 8. Bucs then finish the season with two home games and two road games. that great game last Sunday with San Francisco, urged everyone to support our troops. Many other players from both teams expressed similar sentiments.

Do you remember the Super Bowl played ten years ago?

Ronald Reagan had just become our nations President. 52

American hostages were released from Iran after 444 days of captivity. The Louisiana Superdome was wrapped in a giant yellow ribbon.

wouldn't it be nice if this weekend we could be welcoming back our troops and the Super Bowl could be the center stage for tha exhuberance?

cettiberance?

That, to me, could be sports in its proper perspective.

SUPER BOWL.

The Giants and Buffalo Bills will play this Sunday in Tampa for the Super Bowl. As if you didn't know that already, right?

Anyway, since I picked San Francisco and Buffalo at the beginning of the season, with the Niners to threepen, I've got to go with the Giants to find another way to wip.

I'm just interested in seeing what will happen next July when summer training camp arrives and Phil Simms, (you remember him, don't you?) and Jeff Hosteller compete for the starting QB job. I wouldn't want to be in Bill Parcell's shoes when that decision has to be made.

As for the game, I have to admire Jila Kelly of Buffalo for job. I wouldn't want to be in Bill Parcell's shoes when that decision has to be made.

As for the game, I have to admire Jim Kelly of Buffalo for coming back so quickly after damaging his knee rather severy in the Glinnts game back in December, Kelly worked long and hard to get back for the playoffs and the Bills offense has never been better. The NFC title game last weekend was one of the best football games the NFL has ever staged. It was one of those games where you just knew the Glants were going to find a way to win. San Francisco was just holding on, having scored its lone TD on basically a broken play. The Niner offense was dominated by the Glant defense.

This could be one of the best Super Bowl games ever. Especially because there isn't that two week layoff associated with most games. A prediction: Glants 28, Buffalo 27.

LAST WEEKS QUIZ.

Super Bowl XVI was played in the Pontiac Silverdome in January of 1922. Joe Montana was San Francisco's QB and Ken Anderson was the Bengals QB. San Francisco von, 26-21. Ray Wersching kicked four field goals for San Fran.

Injured wrestlers hoping to return to action

to the 171 pound division. Currently at 6-6, Mastropoalo does not possess the physical talent that others on the team have. His forte is his drive and absolutely fearless approach toward his opponents. His exciting, free for all type of competition has been both his boon and his bane. A slightly more controlled use of risky maneuvers would improve lim's record and give him a better shot at a medal come districts time. Up until two weeks ago, the Bucs had no one to wrestle at 189 pounds, forfeiting every match at that weight. Soph Ricky Constantino filled that void by coming out for the team and allowing coach his work of the team and allowing coach his pounds, forfeiting every match at that weight. Soph Ricky Constantino filled that void by coming out for the team and allowing coach his work of the team and allowing coach his pounds, for the team and allowing coach of the team and allowing coach his sensor was not constantino's courage can't help but improve all the up-per classes.

Finally, at heavyweight, George Wallace has formed a 7-5 record in his senior season. Another grapher who only began competing as a freshman, George has fallen off his form a bit of late. A series of nagging injuries (pinched nerve in December, sore knee in January) have held the big guy back a bit, but he has the talent — as proven by last year's 21-5 record — to finish strong and, be the closer the Bucs so desperately need.

Mid-season evaluation of the team may be a bit less than expected, while certainly a strong squad and one of the better teams in North Jersey, there are still too many holes left yet uncovered to compete favorably with the state's elite.

The return of Hywel, Miele and Nardone will close many of those gaps, but at this point in the year our Bucs would appear to be a bit behind St. Benedict's as the top team in Essex County.

BUC NOTES: Answer to last week's Trivia Question — in 1962.63, Belleville's first varsity season. Joe DelGuereio formed a 7-0 dual meet record to become the first BHS westler to go undefeated in the dual meet season. Trivia question of the week. Only two Belleville wrestlers have ever transferred in from other schools and won a district championship in the same year — Who were they?. Congrast so Angelo Torromeo for making a successful

Co-captain Lee Hands, here moving out of trouble against Nutley opponent, has been picture of versatility this season. Hands has wrestled in the 145-pound and 125-pound classes this season with excellent success. But wrestling team is beginning to get healthy after a rash of injuries early in the season.

Roe announces polio vaccine contract signed

Congressman Robert A. Roe (D-8th Dist.) today announced that the Centers for Disease Control has signed a $26 million contract with Lederle Laboratories Division of American Cyanamid Co. in Wayne for production of oral polio vaccine. Congressman Roe said the contract would fund the purchase of up to 13.2 million doses of oral polio vaccine through January, 1992.

He said the 12 million of the 18.2 million doses may be purchased by 63 health departments consisting of all 90 states, several cities and territories. The state purchases are partially funded through the federal childhood immunization program grants for pollo vaccines, which this year received $13 million. An additional 1.2 million doses will be purchased for the Defense Personnel Support Center.

The Home Front

By Nina Kaeser

Did You Know??

Thomas Jefferson covered floors in his Monticello home with sisal rugs for a cool look in summer. They're made from hemp fiber.

Lumber sizes aren't really what they seem. What's called a 1 x 2 strip is really only 3/4 inch by 1½ inches; a 4 x 6 is only 3½ inches by 5½ inches. The difference occurs with shrinkage during drying or trimming necessary for smoothness.

It takes a lot of knowhow — or courage — to mix different pat-terns in a room, One solution: choose one wonderful pattern and use it everywhere. Choose a solid from the pattern for visual relief.

visual relief.

Paint from a garage floor may "lift" when hot tires drive over it. Some latex-base paints resist this phenomenon. Another option is laying down pieces of carpeting or plastic floor mat for the tires.

Planning a move? It's smart to establish bank accounts at your new location a couple of months in advance so that personalized checks will be ready when you need them.
