Aside From That

By Howard Klausner

The sound of Big Band music wafted out of the Elks Club on Washington Avenue, recently, and the music once played by the Dorseys and Benny Goodman was heard again, with some 20 pieces, mostly brass, pouring out pure melody under the direction of Belleville's Bob Harris with arrangements by Belleville's Duke Anderson. In these days of Rock and Rap, the idea of music to dance by is a daring concept. But Harris says, "The Big Band is not totally dead. I personally love the Big Band sound. It's a nostalgia band, with some modern stuff." ●●●●● The players include doctors, business people and people of no determinate job status. But they are all musicians, happy to have the opportunity to play the kind of music they like. The band is booked into the Jasmine Club in Newark for Aug. 1. It also gets jobs such as performing at a Schering-Plough Corp. function, and weddings. Swing and soft rock are not the only kinds of music that Harris likes. He is into barber shop quartet work, which is a splendid world of its own. (Ever attend an Afterglow gathering of devoted barber shoppers?) "I always liked the old music," he says. But he also has to make a living, so until the Bob Harris Band is headlining the Capitol Theater on Broadway, Harris will be selling his line of synthetic stucco. "Business is fine," he said. ●●●●● Having Howard "Duke" Anderson at the electronic piano, and at the arranging desk, is plus for the band. At 77, Anderson is very active as a musician and teacher - "I still get plenty of job offers" - and he is possibly one of the last active musicians who came out of the 1930s. His songs have been sung by Dinah Washington and other greats. He has shared billings with Frank Sinatra - one of the greatest guys in the world" - and Tony Bennett and he has been pianist with Lionel Hampton, Buddy Rich and Charlie Barnett, and that is a mere sampling of hundreds of musicians with whom he is familiar. And he was a frequent performer at the old Meadowbrook in the days when Frank and Jim Daly ran it. He also was familiar with people of different reputations. His first job was in an Orange tavern owned by Louis Buchalter who later achieved some notoriety as a principal in Murder Incorporated. "In those days, the mob owned every tavern in New Jersey," Anderson said. It was 1933, and the pay was $2.50 a night, plus tips, and his take at the end of the week could be as much as $12, which was more than half the rest of the country was making at the time. It was also double the $1.25 a night that musicians normally received. Another tavern owner was known as Dave The Snake. Duke never really put the question to him of how Dave had achieved that moniker. It was part of the wisdom of the time - Live, live, and live. ●●●●● There was also Jukebox Harry, who had that name for the very good reason that he controlled all the jukeboxes in New Jersey. You could play a record on someone else's machine, but you wouldn't play it long. Duke was usually entitled to free drinks and a meal. He never took to drinking in a big way, and he avoided the narcotics that too many musicians used. But he did become a heavy cigarette smoker, a habit which cost him his larynx when cancer struck several years ago. "I'm all right, now." He still teaches voice, using a microphone and electronic voice box for communication. ●●●●● Duke's career took him through the next five decades, establishing him as a solid accompanist and performer, as well as arranger and teacher. He married Vermelle Adams in 1938, and the couple has stayed married ever since. Daughter Michelle is a teacher in the Whippany school system. Son Craig is an activist working in Alaska in behalf of Native Americans who are caught in the toils of the law. And there are five grandchildren. He is author of "Extensive Harmony", a book which is going into a new edition shortly, and on Oct. 6, a jazz concert will be held in his honor at Montclair High School to pay him his due as a music great. He likes the idea, and he also likes the idea of encouraging interest in the kind of music that used to make the world dance and sing, and not just listen. ●●●●● Pat Verlan, the executive secretary to Town Manager Bert Kendall, says she has just about mastered the computer in her office - "I keep picturing this busy little fellow throwing letters up on the screen" - but she is still no match for her grandson. At age 5, he plays a computer game with Grandma - "and he wins every time!" ●●●●● Another celebrity to hit town recently was Todd McNair of the Kansas City Chiefs football team. Police say that a girl friend, 22, claims he forced his way into her apartment and took an $800 camcorder, apparently to see if it contained tapes of boys who were beating his time with her. He then left for parts unknown.

State leaves Belleville at the altar, again; Trenton indecision leaves budget up in air

The Township Council had to postpone adoption of a budget, Tuesday, when the State of New Jersey failed to act on the town's budgetary aid requests.

Legally, the council could have adopted a budget, but the possibility of further state aid delayed action, because of the hope that further reductions in the tax rate might be possible.

At the present time, the town can reduce its tax rate by an additional 14.5 points.

A 5-point reduction is possible from state aid which has been guaranteed. Another 7.5 point reduction is made possible by a one-time rebate from the Passaic Valley Water Commission. And a 2-point reduction will come from money repaid the state by garbage collection firms who admitted fixing bids for contracts some 20 years ago.

The town also hopes for a $150,000 state aid grant which was provided in last year's budget, plus possible other amounts that the state could make available.

Failure to enact a town budget will be bad news for firms supplying goods and services to the municipal government. Instead of being paid in 30 days, they may have to wait 60 to 90 days.

The town operates on a month-to-month basis, which means that long term commitments cannot be made.

The budget approvals hinge on decisions by the Legislature, and on the Department of Community Affairs. The Senate and Assembly are at odds over the state budget submitted by Governor Jim Florio. No one is sure how the Community Affairs officials will parcel out the funds that the Legislature may approve.

Other business before the council included action on applying for 100 Housing and Urban Development senior citizen units, to be built on a tract of some three acres off Franklin Avenue behind Fire Headquarters.

The federal agency is offering funding for 345 units in New Jersey.

Town officials estimate that Belleville has a one-in-three chance of getting the units, because of competition from other communities. In Belleville's favor is the fact that it has no HUD-funded senior citizen units at present, while many other municipalities do.

The town has to find a non-profit organization to sponsor the units, and several organizations will be interviewed.

HUD grants for Senior Citizen units are 100 percent funding, putting no financial burden on the municipality. Township Manager Bert Kendall said that work could progress quickly once approval is given by HUD.

Man charges neighbor burglarized his home

Police said a Jefferson Street resident found his house being ransacked by a neighbor, early Saturday morning.

Anthony Torremo, 29 Jefferson St., told police he returned home at 2:30 a.m. to find the house in disorder, boxes strewn around and dresser drawers emptied.

Then, he said he came upon his next door neighbor, holding a glass jar filled with change.

The visitor said something about having come in to watch television, police reported.

The neighbor left, and Torremo called police. Police Officers George Geyer and Paul Lang came to 31 Jefferson St. where they arrested William Maroulakos, 21, and charged him with burglary. The suspect was released on $200 cash bail later that morning.

Police were investigating four burglaries that were reported over the weekend.

Tot saves toddler, 2

An alert seven-year-old and a quick witted baby sitter saved a two-year-old boy from drowning in a backyard pool, last week.

Police said that Gerard Schimmento, 2, was visiting at 169 DeWitt Ave., under the care of a baby sitter, Judy Thatcher. Ms. Thatcher had to enter the house to answer a telephone call, and Gerard apparently entered the pool.

Jessica Santinelli, 7, of 147 DeWitt Ave., who was also playing in the yard, noticed that Gerard was floating face down in the water. She immediately rushed into the house to alert Ms. Thatcher, who ran out to the pool and pulled Gerard out, and revived him.

Jessica's quick action saved Gerard's life, police said.

SWORN IN...Superior Court Judge John Marzulli last week administered the oath of office to publisher Frank Orechio upon his reappointment as a member of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission. Holding the Bible is Orechio's brother, state Senator Carmen Orechio; congratulating the commissioner is a longtime family friend, noted criminal attorney Michael Quezadas of Orange.

Stadium rehab project won't improve facade

The $99,000 rehabilitation of Belleville High School stadium had a ribbon cutting ceremony last Friday, but no welcome from residents of Nolton Street, who learned that the frontage on their street was not even scheduled for a coat of new paint.

Homeowners have been promised an improvement of the long stretch of stadium frontage which has peeling paint, sagging pipes, rusted window frames and a general look of dilapidation.

However, town officials and the contractor both agreed that the $99,000 in state aid provided under the Green Acres program did not include funding for the street entrance to the stadium. Instead, the money would be used to drill away some of the crumbling concrete in the stands, and replace it with fresh concrete.

An employee of the contractor agreed that rehabilitation of the street side once had "high priority" but the specifications for the work being done by the contractor, Keny Nicosia of Belleville, did not include the cosmetics sought by Nolton Streets.

The response to this news has been one of outrage. Homeowners, who asked to be anonymous, said that the appearance of the stadium street frontage had a damaging effect on property values.

But the greatest anger was expressed over the fact that previous town officials had promised there would be action to improve the looks of the Nolton Street side of the stadium.

Town Manager Bert Kendall said, "The town can do it." He indicated he would look into the situation, and expressed some surprise at learning of it.

An official estimated that the cost of improving the stadium's appearance would be "several thousand dollars".

Residents of the street pointed out missing glass in windows, rusted-out drain pipes, rusted screens and peeling paint. They also objected to stanchion posts that stood at erratic angles, and a sagging wire fence. The fence was bulldozed on Friday.

No one would say when work on the Nolton Street frontage would begin.

Neighbor held as burglar

St., 17 Continental St. and 191 Stephen St. reported forced entries, either through doors or rear windows, with losses of cash, jewelry and in one case, a video cassette recorder valued at $800.

Three cars were reported stolen, bringing the total this year to 292. Detective Captain Joseph Tortorello said the rate of car thefts was ahead of last year, when the first six months of 1990 saw 267 cars stolen. The total for 1990 was 525, with 226 cars being recovered, last year.

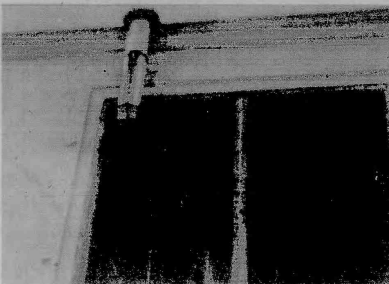

Tortorello noted that three bicycles were reported stolen over the weekend.

He said that residents should be alert to juveniles riding two on a bicycle, because the method appears to be to have the passenger steal the bicycle in Belleville and then pedal south to Newark.

"If one is riding and the other is walking alongside, be watchful," he said.

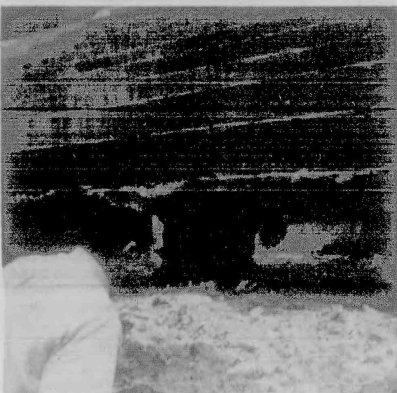

Tortorello said that flim-flam operators preying on elderly homeowners were back in town. Cases of "contractors" taking thousands of dollars from the elderly by offering to do repair jobs, and then not fulfilling the agreement, or simply burglarizing the house while one of them keeps the homeowner occupied, have been occurring "every other week," he said.

Keith Allum receives Ph.D.

Keith Allum, a 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, was awarded a Ph.D. in sociology from Princeton University at their June 11 commencement ceremony. He is the son of Elaine and John Allum of Belleville.

His doctoral research explored the barriers to technological innovation in public schools. Allum is an alumni of Rutgers University and a former Assistant Dean at Stevens Institute of Technology. He now lives in Washington, D.C., where he directs a nationwide program promoting the use of computers in education.

Clara Maass medical library receives grant

The Clara Maass Medical Center medical library was recently awarded a $10,500 resource information grant from the National Library of Medicine.

The grant will establish a business information service for the Medical Center's management and administrative staff. "In today's more business oriented health care environment it is important to provide our decision makers with the right tools which will enable them to make sound effective decisions," says Arlene Mangino, medical librarian at Clara Maass.

The grant will provide a new computer, a facsimile machine, DIALOG, an online retrieval system, a collection of business and health care journals, and an educational program of lectures and demonstrations.

The Information Access Grant is awarded under the National Library of Medicine's Extramural Programs and is designed to facilitate access to and delivery of health service information by utilizing the most up-to-date and effective computer and telecommunication technology available. Access projects promote a dynamic link between health professionals and relevant information resources.

The 10th largest hospital in New Jersey, Clara Maass Medical Center is a nonprofit, 475-bed acute care voluntary general facility located at 1 Franklin Avenue. Among the Clara Maass family of health care services are the Family Center for Maternal/Child Health, Medical Oncology Care, Cardiac Rehabilitation, Same Day Surgery and Community Services.

Golden Comments

By Jim Golden

The Star-Ledger Education Editor, Robert J. Braun, offers the suggestion that there is merit in the proposal offered by Edward Goldberg, the state's higher education chancellor, which propounds the idea that any high school graduate who needs help learning basic reading, writing and math skills is entitled to free remedial education, either at a college or a corporation. The cost of that remediation will be charged back to the high school that issued the diploma.

That's it. That's the idea. Simple and unvarnished. The consultants hovering around the Florio administration couldn't charge a nickel's worth of time for offering the idea — it's too brief comprehensible — but it should be tried.

The idea is good for children, especially those unskilled high school graduates who know they don't have the learning they were promised and have the motivation to get it. They would be able to receive instruction at no cost; colleges, incidentally, have a good record in providing basic skills.

The idea is good for high schools, although very few high school educators are likely to agree. Facing the loss of funds, high schools would have what Goldberg called a "powerful disincentive" to accept the continued failure of their students. Schools are protected from market pressures as well as from financial loss due to failure, under Goldberg's plan, failure would have consequences.

Obviously, the idea is good for colleges. Institutions of higher education spend up to $60 million annually to do what the public schools have failed to do — teach kids basic skills. Schools like Essex County College have to scrape, beg and claw for little more than $200,000 to operate a basic skills center that teaches men and women how to read and compute for $400 per student; most of those students are from Newark and other districts that spend more than $6,000 per student, only to fail.

Fiscal damage isn't the only consequence. New Jersey is turning some colleges into high schools because so many students come unprepared.

Illustrations show that in New Jersey strong high schools, perhaps one of the independent prep schools, when comparing its curriculum and academic standards to a state college... the chances are excellent the comparison would show the high school students learning more than their older counterparts in college.

Good high school students know that — and they are staying away from New Jersey colleges and universities. Before the Florio administration killed the New Jersey School Report Card, the data proved conclusively that New Jersey's public colleges were losing the best high school graduates to independent and even out-of-state public colleges and universities.

The failure of high schools, in short, is wrecking higher education. It is too late now to argue whether higher education contributed to the damage by opening its doors to unqualified students. Obviously, some institutions would have committed suicide by remaining selective in such an environment; however, the truth is education beyond high school is essential training for many jobs. Cutting off so large a percentage of high school graduates — for example, the tens of thousands who need remediation — would have had disastrous social consequences. Writes Mr. Braun.

He explains that the soul of the Goldberg plan, to punish high schools for failing their students by reducing their income. Students would not be punished because colleges would then free and effective remedial work.

He points out that in virtually all other employment enterprises but government, failure is rewarded with extinction. The system isn't perfect, usually because of government subsidies of private enterprises. Generally, however, a private enterprise that consistently fails to deliver what has been promised withers and dies. Private schools do. Public schools are immortal.

The Goldberg plan, while retaining that immortality, carries the threat of fiscal pain as an incentive to improve. That makes sense.

Tracey Ann Lockwood wins $1,000 grant

Tracey Ann Lockwood of Belleville is the recipient of a $1,000 Arnold Industries Scholarship Foundation Award. Lockwood will be attending Drew University in Madison in the fall of this year as a freshman.

In high school, Lockwood was a member of the National Honor Society, SADD, Key Club, Orchestra, Chamber Orchestra, Chorus, Epsilon, Montclair Cyclone's Swim Team and Young Woman of the Year Candidate. She won a second place medal in the Optimist Oratorical Competition, and first place in the 1990 Physics Olympic. Lockwood's hobbies are playing the piano and the violin, and swimming.

Lockwood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lockwood. Her father is a driver for New Penn Motor Express, Inc. at its South Kearny facility.

The Arnold Industries Scholarship Foundation has been established by Arnold Industries, Inc. of Lebanon, PA to provide one year scholarships to the qualified children of employees of Arnold subsidiaries; New Penn Motor Express of Lebanon, PA and Lebar-nold, Inc. of Camp Hill, PA.

We get $335,000 development grant

An Oracle Publication

Thursday, July 18, 1991

Belleville Times—3

Washington Avenue will have a facelift, Silver Lake will see new trees planted, and some long neglected roadways will be repaired, with a $335,000 federal grant.

Belleville officials accepted a symbolic check for $335,000 Tuesday from Essex County Executive Thomas J. Ialio as its share of a $5.1 million community development grant for suburban Essex County, Newark, Bloomfield and East Orange received separate grants.

Deputy Mayor William Cook and Township Administrator Bert Kendall all the honors for Belleville, taking the check at a ceremony held in the auditorium of the Essex County Police Academy in Cedar Grove.

With the funding, these projects are to be achieved: • The second phase of the reconstruction of storm sewers along Valley Street and Belleville Avenue, begun in 1990, for $140,000.

• Cleaning and relining of the town's main watermain to increase flow and eliminate discoloration, for $90,000.

• Planting of shade trees along Franklin Street in Silver Lake as a prelude to future improvements in the neighborhood's business district, for $15,000.

• The complete reconstruction of Ralph Street and Lawrence Street, with new surfacing, curbs and sidewalks, for $75,000.

• Improvement of the facades of businesses along Washington Avenue with 50 percent grants to the owners, for $15,000.

Theodore R. Britton, manager of the Region II Newark Office of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development, jokingly told the audience of municipal officials, "I've never seen a more somber audience. These are grants, not notices of tax assessments."

Britton noted that this year's community development block grant was more than $500,000 higher than the one provided last year. The statement was greeted with polite applause.

Town officials noted, in private conversations, that while the grants were welcome, their budgetary problems needed greater federal attention than they were receiving.

A fact sheet distributed at the meeting by the Essex County Division of Housing and Community Development showed that since the beginning of the community development block grant program in 1976, some $46.8 million has gone to 18 municipalities in Essex County, exclusive of Newark.

Belleville has received a total of $4,683,094.74, or 10.01 percent of the total. This is the third largest share of the Suburban Essex allotment.

Montclair has received $8,624,379.23, for 18.44 percent of the total, followed by Orange, with $6,972,372.04, or 14.90 percent. North Caldwell has received 0.1 percent, with $4,500, and Essex Fells has received .22 percent, with $104,000.

Nutley has received, $3,420,320.81, or 7.31 percent. Bloomfield's share was not listed.

Chris Conti is graduated

Christopher Conti of Belleville, formerly of Nutley, was awarded a diploma recently for studies completed in computer electronics technology from RETS Electronics School, Nutley.

A graduate of Nutley High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Conti Sr. of Belleville.

Leigh Ann Herschell going to Washington

Leigh Ann Herschell of Belleville has been selected to attend the 1991 National Young Leaders Conference from July 16 to 21 in Washington, D.C. Having demonstrated academic achievement, leadership and citizenship, Herschell will be among 350 outstanding high school students from across the nation at the conference sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council.

The theme of the National Young Leaders Conference is The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today. Throughout the uniquely designed six-day conference, Herschell will meet with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

Highlights of Herschell's week in Washington will include welcoming remarks from a Member of Congress on the Floor of the United States House of Representatives, a lobbying seminar, and a panel discussion led by prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Herschell will explore executive branch decision-making in a simulation entitled "If I were President." In addition, Herschell will attend a college preparation seminar and receive information about the admissions process from various university representatives. Herschell will also visit the diplomatic embassy of either Saudi Arabia, South Africa, Morocco, or the European Economic Community.

Herschell will meet with Senator Bill Bradley, Senator Frank R. Lautenberg, Representative Robert A. Roe, or designated congressional staff members. These meetings provide an opportunity to discuss important policy issues and focus on topics of state and local concern. Culminating the National Young Leaders Conference will be The Mock Congress on Gun Control during which scholars assume the roles of United States representatives by debating, lobbying, and voting on proposed hand gun legislation.

Founded in 1985, the Council is a non-profit, non-partisan educational organization committed to recognizing outstanding youth like Herschell and providing them with a "hands-on" civic learning experience in the nation's capital. Over 325 Members of the United States Congress join in the commitment to educational excellence as members of the Council's Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors.

"I firmly believe that by touching one life, the National Young Leaders Conference enriches thousands more," said John Hines, Council Executive Director. "Scholars return to their schools and communities charged with the lifelong duty of leading all Americans to better understand their rights and responsibilities in this participatory democracy.

Herschell will be a senior in September at Belleville High School. She has been active in the Foreign Language Club, Key Club, S.A.D.D., Chorus and the Show Choir.

Cerebral Palsy Center offers summer workshop

A "Performing Arts Workshop" will be offered at Cerebral Palsy of Essex and West Hudson in Belleville.

The workshop will include activities in drama, voice and instruments, and will take place twice weekly on Tuesdays. Sessions run from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Center, located at 7 Sanford Avenue. Deborah Cook, director of music for Dr. Martin Luther King School in Newark, will lead the workshop.

Anyone interested in the workshop can call the Center at 751-0200 for more information.

Home

Home is where the heart is,
you have often heard it said.
Home is where the songbirds sing their sweetest, overhead.

Home is like the rainbow's end that beckons in the blue.
Home is where your brightest dreams take root and all come true.

And yet it's more than just a place where people sleep and eat.
A home that's real has something indefinable and sweet.

It may be just a cottage
or a castle with a dome,
But if God dwells within its walls
it really is a Home!

With every passing day, the Belleville Times receives further confirmation of Belleville's place in history as the birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution.

Through the good offices of Joseph Hatch, a fifth generation descendant of Josiah Hornblower, we have seen the histories which show that Hornblower arrived here from England in 1753 with the first steam engine ever to operate on the North American continent, or indeed in the Western Hemisphere.

Hornblower, who had been an associate of James Watt, is credited by some historians as being the real inventor of the steam engine.

Whether or not he had that honor, the fact remains that he began his operations in Second River, which he was to rename Belleville many years later, and his engine operated to pump out the copper mines of the Schuyler brothers who worked in what are now Belleville and North Arlington.

Some years later, the name of another famous American family entered the Belleville picture. Nicholas Roosevelt of New York established a machine shop in Belleville in which the first steam engine manufactured in America was cast and built, in the 1790s.

Nearby was the shipyard of Cornelius Jeroloman, who "had the reputation of turning out the swiftest sloops that navigated the waters near New York" — according to a 19th Century history book.

Roosevelt's business partner, Robert Livingston, got the idea of building a steamship, and Roosevelt decided to make the engine here in Belleville, rather than order it from England. He hired an Englishman named Smallwood, who had settled in Belleville, to construct it. Smallwood had experience in England with steam engines.

Another Englishman who had come to Belleville, John Hewitt, was the pattern maker, and a German immigrant named Rohde, experienced in the foundry trade, cast the engine parts in the Belleville plant.

On Oct. 21, 1798, according to the history, "the Polacca, a little craft, 60 feet long, with a 20-inch cylinder and 2-foot stroke, started out on her trial trip."

The propulsion consisted of a stream of water forced out of the stern by a powerful centrifugal pump, and the success of the method was debated. But the boat was the forerunner of further developments, and John Stevens ordered an engine from the Belleville firm for his screw-driven steamboat, which sailed in 1804.

Fulton's Clermont followed in August, 1807, for the first run of a steamboat considered to be commercially feasible.

The Stevens family, some of whose members are buried in the churchyard of the old Dutch Reformed Church of Belleville, went on to pioneer the American steam railroad system, building the first railroad in America, between Camden and South Amboy.

All of this, plus the growth of many other industries in Belleville, support the claim that this town is indeed the Birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution.

It's our title. Let's claim it!

YOUR OPINION

This is historic town Bush doctrine questioned

To the editor:

Your article entitled, "Birthplace of U.S. History," touched upon the very core of the great, historical existence of Belleville. Not many people realize, as you've indicated, that major national events occurred in our town.

From the development of the first steam engine by Josiah Hornblower to the Revolutionary War, where George Washington fought battles with the British along the Passaic River, Belleville has earned its place in American history.

All Bellevillians should be proud of this and should agree with the suggestion that Belleville should be recognized and declared by the government one of the great historical sites in this country.

A graduation thank you

To the editor:

On June 20, 1991, Graduation Celebration '91 was held aboard the Spirit of New Jersey. This was a culmination of 11 months of planning. Many, many thanks go out to all who have contributed and donated their time and energy to make this a successful undertaking.

First, on behalf of B.A.S.E. I would like to thank from my heart Mrs. Pat Taibi, who brought to us this idea and chaired this committee. She organized and coordinated this event every step of the way. Miss Debbie Meola whose help and guidance in this effort and everything else our alliance does. We thank you, Mrs. Eileen Brown who chaired the breakfast committee. They came into the high school at 2:30 a.m. to set up our breakfast and greet a weary group to serve breakfast. We love you.

We thank Mr. Joe Ciccone for his foresight and support of this project, his help to generate an ongoing substance awareness to our students.

We thank our Town Council, whose unending support for a substance free community, without you there would be no alliance. Thank you for your constant support and encouragement.

We thank the board of education for the set graduation date. The use of the cafeteria for the breakfast and for allowing us to purchase the services of the school buses for the evening.

I would like to thank my executive board, members of B.A.S.E., chairpersons, chaperones, merchants and of course you the community. Untiring are your efforts, you have gone above and beyond for the well being of our children and community. The hard work that I have witnessed this past year was amazing, especially the efforts to raise the funds needed.

I thank God for all of you. We are truly blessed by your kindness. May God bless you all.

Barbara Cicalese
Chairperson, B.A.S.E.

To the editor:

The United States is not, nor has it ever been a nation of purely Christian character. We are however facing the immediate threat of becoming exactly what President Bush has been pushing for: "A Christian Nation." So what does that mean for the Moslems, Jews, or Atheists in this country? It means that this country will not tolerate anybody but Christians, and beware to those who are not!

Religious fundamentalism has effectively infiltrated our governmental agencies like the Supreme Court, the Legislature and the Presidency, whereby the legal policies of this country have become saturated with a theological thought process. A thought process that historically has been responsible for promoting intolerance and hatred (Deuteronomy 13:1-10); the suppression and stagnation of the sciences (evolution, heliocentricity, the list is endless); the suppression of information regarding sexual behavior (health education, homosexuality, birth control); and a lust for war (Inquisition, Crusades, Desert Storm). The infusion of religion and government has proven to be counterproductive.

If America is to become a Christian Nation, we will have succeeded in becoming just what our Founding Fathers did not want to be: a Theocracy.

It is amazing and disconcerting when individuals are empowered to develop guidelines for social behavior attributes theological basis on their policies. This is seen in the constant calling for a return to "Christian values." What is so divine and brilliant in a life philosophy which calls for "no killing," "no greed," "no cheating," and "love"? It is sickening to credit some mythological entity for the formulation of these basic values.

We are responsible for all our actions. We are responsible for our future, we can create a better world, we are solely responsible for the social order. The ability to develop a system of behavior beneficial to everyone has been around long before Christianity entered the stage. Helping those in need is a behavior which occurs naturally, developed through our understanding of, and exposure to human nature. The need to survive as a species carries with it the innate mechanisms responsible for preventing self destruction. Theistic planning and aid intervention does not exist.

The basis of theocracy is rooted in archaic mythological mysticism which resulted from the human's inability to understand and control his environment. This is no longer the case. As a species we have evolved beyond the psychological inadequacies which necessitated a reliance upon primitive mysticism.

There is nothing to be gained when our government policy embodies the dissection of theistic dogma. There is nothing but divisive hostility when it becomes government policy. Let's not become a "Christian Nation."

• FOR ALL of you graying men out there who are consuming pumpkin seeds to strengthen the prostate gland, I'll give you some information you probably don't want to read about, but I learned about it today. There are 744 calories in one cup of pumpkin seeds. One ounce of pumpkin seeds equals 158 calories. One eight-ounce bag is 1,264 calories!

For a long time, I have been wondering why I experience an inability to shed five pounds. I have been consuming pumpkin seeds ever since a close friend of mine was afflicted with prostate cancer several years ago which led me to do a little research on the prostate gland and the trouble it presents to our aging masculine population. A booklet entitled, "The Prostate," contained a report by doctors who were convinced their experiments proved pumpkin seeds nourished the prostate gland back to health. And the research further uncovered the conclusion that the ingestion of pumpkin seeds strengthened the health of the prostate gland. The booklet never mentioned calories. So — I assumed that calories were only incidental.

Well — today, I am shocked. I guess I'll consume less pumpkin seeds daily — perhaps, limiting myself to one ounce. Pumpkin seeds are worth 158 calories a day, and my body can handle that. So — out comes the miniscale and on go the pumpkin seeds. I don't know about the reader of this column, but I have a tough time trying to keep off weight — I love food too much — and Italian meals are not considered to be low calories. The authority for the amount of calories in one ounce of pumpkin seeds is direct from the manufacturer — yes, I went to the trouble to call, much to my disappointment.

• BOB ROSE, who, for many years, split his time between Nutley and Hallandale, Florida, is in Mt. Sinai Hospital, Miami, Florida, recovering from an illness that cannot be classified as a major or minor — it's somewhere in between. Bob is expecting to be discharged from the hospital this weekend. He has had more than his share of bumps in the past couple of years; hopefully, his luck will turn in the second half of this year.

• MONDAY, I received nine Nutley real estate tax bills, each was accompanied with a note that indicated the New Jersey State Legislature adopted "municipal property tax relief" requiring towns and cities to use the funds for direct reduction in the amount of money raised through property taxes. The sum appropriated was $2,761,211. State aid for the Nutley school system was $327,332.

The state budget also included $3,324,226 for a state takeover of county welfare costs — the last item a matter that Senator Carmen Orechio has been seeking for years, together with a requirement for the state to take over the cost of the state court system which runs into millions of dollars for Essex County property owners. The Nutley per capita increase in state aid is $236.64. The foregoing figures represent state aid funding over what was received in 1990.

• THE JUNE 27th issue of the Nutley Sun included a supplement saluting the Class of 1991 graduates. The pictures in the graphic came from the 1991 Exit Yearbook of Nutley High School, whose co-advisor was Tom McCrohan. The Class picture was taken by Joseph's Studios. Co-advisor McCrohan personally was responsible for eleven photos. The film was not paid for by the Board of Education, neither was the development — it was all a matter of non-public funds. An apology to Mr. McCrohan for failure to give a credit line is certainly in order — at any time I regret the editorial oversight.

• LAST WEEK, Senator Gabe Ambrosio saw his legislation signed that gives individuals the power to dictate that they not be treated with tubes or respirators should they become permanently ill or comatose, a tremendous people victory.

• CONGRATULATIONS to Nutley's Andy Andriola upon his election as State Commander of the Amvets. Andy's leadership qualities have long been demonstrated as a major player in developing the Nutley Amvets Post 30, which under the leadership of Andy, achieved national recognition. A poem written by an unknown author caught Andy's eye. It is entitled, "A Soldier." It would have been more appropriate for July 4th, but when it's an Ode to A Soldier — its publication is always timely:

I was that which others did not want to be.

I went where others feared to go and did what others failed to do.

I asked nothing from those who gave nothing, and reluctantly accepted the thought of eternal loneliness should I fail.

I have seen the face of terror; felt the stinging cold of fear; and enjoyed the sweet taste of a moment's love.

I have cried, suffered pain, and hoped — but most of all, I have lived times others would say were best forgotten.

At least some day I will be able to say that I was proud of what I was — a soldier.

RECENTLY, Freeholder Arthur Clay announced his intention to seek a referendum on the November ballot to ask the voters if they support the county's decision to say the state to take over the court system. Who in his right mind would believe that voters would not vote in favor of the state to take over the cost of our court system? Clay goes on to further elaborate, "After sentiment would be invaluable as a means of bolstering our case." While he is at it, Clay ought to ask the voters if they approve of the Freeholders having a discretionary fund to hand out gifts to organizations that prove helpful at election time. The "discretionary fund" at times has reached $1,500,000, every dollar representing taxpayers' hard earned money. If taxpayer money is to be given away, it should be the right of the taxpayer and not an opportunity for freeholders to make friends wheeling and dealing with the taxpayers' hard-earned money. Clay's public referendum is for the birds.

Please call the library at 450-3434 to register.

50 Ways to Fight Censorship

An appropriate book in the year of the Bill of Rights celebration that has been added to the collection of the Belleville Public Library and Information Center is "50 Ways to Fight Censorship and Important Facts to Know About the Censors," by Dave Marsh, the first how-to manual for people who want to respond to the growing list of challenges to First Amendment freedoms.

During 1990, the American Library Association's Intellectual Freedom Committee reported over a thousand attempts to ban books from libraries and schools, and censors made countless attacks on popular culture and the arts, despite a July, 1991 Newsweek poll that showed that 75% of Americans fully support the right of adults to freely "determine what they may see and hear."

This book will tell you things you can do, on your own or with others, to fight back against censorship and will provide extensive lists or organizations and resources. The book is available in the library's new books' section, Number 323.44.

July displays unique

July displays are unique at the Belleville Public Library and Information Center. In the large display case are miniatures by Sally Diaz and Lynn Early. In the small case is a varied display of holiday items, entitled "Christmas in July," by Michaelina Zatorski. Stop by and visit the exhibits on your next library visit.

Letters to the Editor

Parents win praise

To the editor

On behalf of Belleville Alliance for Substance Education, Inc. (B.A.S.E.) Chaparrone committee and myself, who participated in this year's Graduation Celebration '91 Boat Cruise, we would like to commend you, the parents of our Senior Class. You have all done a great job in raising your children.

This Senior Class was a pleasure to serve. They were courteous, good natured and well mannered young adults. Their exemplary behavior and warm heartedness towards our committee and their peers made this night memorable for all. This also reflects on you as parents and we thank you for a great group of young people.

The crew aboard the Spirit of New Jersey remarked, "They were the best group of seniors they had ever seen." They are a credit to our community, we are very proud of them and wish them all the best in life.

Flag distribution

To the editor:

On behalf of the Belleville Republican Party, I'd like to take this opportunity to thank Township Manager Bert Kendall for allowing us to distribute almost 5,000 American Flag lapel stickers on Independence Day.

Almost everyone who entered Municipal Stadium was given one of these lapel stickers in honor of our Nation's birthday. I also would like to commend Deputy Mayor Bill Cook and his committee for the outstanding program they organized, including one of the best fireworks displays in years.

It was quite a privilege to participate in such a glorious Fourth.

Richard Yanuzzi, Chairman

Diabetes information

Thomas J. Longo, Director of Belleville's Department of Health and Human Services, calls attention to a new handbook put out by Pfizer Pharmaceuticals called Learning to Live With Diabetes.

It is for those who have diabetes who are not dependent on insulin. Some of the topics discussed are: what diabetes is, causes of diabetes, treatment, proper diet, health problems associated with it, and, of course, living with it.

Anyone wishing a free copy may call 450-3389, or write to Belleville Health Department, 383 Washington Ave., Belleville, N.J. 07009.

AN UNWANTED COMPROMISE

Women who rely on oral contraceptives for birth control should be aware that certain prescription and over-the-counter drugs can diminish their effectiveness. By the same token, the effectiveness of these medications may be compromised by the oral contraceptive. Among the drugs that do not mix with the pill are anti-ulcer medications such as cimetidine, which is commonly prescribed to treat yeast infections. Such antibiotics as penicillin, tetracycline and ampicillin may also decrease the effectiveness of oral contraceptives. Other drugs to be wary of include anticonvulsants (such as phenytoin), sedatives (particularly the barbiturates), tranquilizers, antibiotics, and decongestants in cold remedies, and diuretics, such as furosemide.

Whenever you have a question concerning a medication you are taking, feel free to ask our pharmacist at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 238 Washington Ave., 759-1956, 759-1968. Our stocks include cameras, film, Timex watches, transistor radios, Russell Stover candies and gift items. In the upcoming weeks we will feature many different topics on health and medications. Watch for various subjects in our columns. Open: Daily 9am - 10pm, Sundays 9am - 10pm.

NOTE: Always check with the physician or pharmacist about drug interactions with old medications before taking a new medication.

Belleville Times SPORTS

BUC SHOTS

By Mike Lamberti

SOCCER CLINIC AT HIGH SCHOOL

There will be a series of soccer clinics which will be held at Belleville High School, starting on July 23. The clinics will continue on July 25, July 30 and August 1.

Sponsored by the Belleville Soccer Association, the clinic is open to Belleville residents ages 5 through 18. On all four dates, the clinic begins at 6 p.m. and lasts until 8 p.m.

Okay, it's only mid July. The temperatures are hovering in the low 90's and the humidity makes it feel even warmer. Baseball is the dominant sport and the Garden State Parkway is a parking lot on Friday and Sunday evenings as people transport back and forth to the Jersey Shore. It's the height of summer, right?

Well, for those people who enjoy the autumn and the sounds of referees whistles and bands playing and helmets cracking, the football season is now underway. The professional football season, anyway. Locally, the Giants, Jets and Philadelphia Eagles have started training camps with the infamous two-a-days. Preseason games kickoff in about two weeks, and even though the games don't provide much drama, it is a way for the football junkie to get accustomed to another season of the NFL.

The opening NFL regular season games begin early this year, on September 1. I've already made my plans for that weekend, with a trip to Anaheim, California to see the L.A. Rams and Phoenix Cardinals play. The Giants, who seem to be a fixture on Monday nights in the season opener, will take on the San Francisco 49ers at Giants Stadium on September 2. (My Philadelphia Eagles open the season at Green Bay, then come home to Veterans Stadium on September 8 to play host to Phoenix. I became an Eagles fan when I got season tickets for their home games last season.)

The college season kicks off even earlier, with the annual Kickoff Classic at Giants Stadium in late August. This year, the Kickoff Classic has set up what could be a super matchup. Penn State and Georgia Tech will play and both teams have its sights set on a big year. Georgia Tech won a share of the national championship last year. Penn State had a good season in 1990 and bigger things are expected in '91.

Here in town, the Belleville football team won't begin official practices until late August, but that's only five weeks away and you can bet the prospective players are beginning to think about the upcoming fall. The Bucs open the regular season on September 21 with a game at Hackensack. The players are pretty optimistic about this season, especially after the 6-3 season in 1990, culminated by victories over Don Bosco and Nutley.

Getting back to the NFL for a minute, two former all-pro players made their exits from the game on the first day of minicamp. Mark Bavaro was waived by the Giants and Mike Quick retired from Philadelphia. Bavaro gave a statement last Monday in which he expressed hope that the Giants did not cut him just to avoid paying Bavaro the $750,000.00 he would have earned this year.

Quick had some excellent years with Philadelphia, but tennantitis in both knees told him that his career was over.

Part of the enjoyment of the NFL is the memories attached to the game. In the 1980's, both Bavaro and Quick provided plenty of them. Bavaro was famous for his bruising runs after catching the ball. He played perhaps his best games against the San Francisco 49ers. His catch and run in a 1986 regular season game at Candlestick Park will be a part of NFL films for decades to come. Bavaro carried at least three 49er players ten yards downfield.

Last season, also at Candlestick, Bavaro made a catch and then had a violent collision with then Niner (now Raider) free safety Ronnie Lott. Many people say that Lott hasn't been the same since that hit.

In a 1985 game at Philadelphia, Eagle quarterback Ron Jaworski went back to pass in his own end zone. The Eagles were playing the Atlanta Falcons and the game was in overtime. Jaworski completed a short pass to Quick, who split the Falcon defense and ran 99 yards for a touchdown. What was most amazing was Quick's open field speed that made the winning score look so easy. His last name certainly matched his game on the field.

So, two more players who made the 1980's a memorable time in the NFL have retired. More will come, obviously, as both this season and future years progress. Unlike baseball players, football players do not have an especially long playing tenure. That's why it's especially impressive to see players like Lott, Joe Montana, Dan Marino, Roger Craig, O.J. Anderson, Freeman McNeil and Gerald Riggs still playing the game and being effective.

Some final notes on the NFL this week. Who do you think will win the Giant QB battle? It's the biggest quarterback question since the Richard Todd-Matt Robinson debate in 1979.

This is Dave Grant's fourth year in the NFL. The Cincinnati Bengal defensive lineman has made quite a name for himself with his steady play. This could be the year that the entire NFL takes notice of this rising star. Good luck, Dave.

Can Joe Montana do it one more time and lead the Niners to the Super Bowl? It would be perhaps his biggest feat in the league, because this year's San Francisco team will have a decidedly different look.

LAST WEEKS QUIZ

Before that answer, John Fortunato wrote me to see that Tony Tucker went the distance with Mike Tyson after James "Bonescrusher" Smith did. The question also was which fighter went the distance and wasn't knocked down in the fight. Did Tucker go the distance and stay on his feet all the way?

Anyhow, Boris Becker beat Kevin Curran in the '85 Wimbledon finals. In 1985, Martina Navratilova won the women's singles crown.

FOR THIS WEEK

Let's stay on a football theme, but keep it local. In a 1983 Belleville-Ridgewood football game, the Bucs trailed 12-7 midway through the fourth quarter. The Bucs rallied and a player made a tremendous run for the go-ahead touchdown. Who scored the touchdown and how did Belleville eventually do it in that game? Also in that game, a Belleville player intercepted a pass and returned it for a score. However, it was called back because of a penalty. Which Belleville player made the interception and apparent touchdown?

Boost record to 11-3

By Mike Lamberti

The Belleville junior legion baseball team clinched a berth in the state playoffs and snapped a two game losing streak by beating Hawthorne 6-4 and Bloomfield 11-7 last week.

Pat Turi's team took an 11-3 record into a game with Secaucus last Monday. That was the final regular season contest of the summer. Belleville will then get in some practice time before the states begin in ten days.

Against Hawthorne, Belleville struggled early and fell behind 3-0 after four and a half innings of play. However, the bats found their target in the bottom of the fifth when four Belleville runs crossed the plate.

Jim Napolitano started the rally by drawing a walk. Jerry Turi and Ken Johansen then singled to load the bases. Sam Marino hit into a fielders choice, forcing Napolitano at the plate. With the bases still loaded, Robert Dena was hit by a pitch for force in Turi. Mike Mundy hit into a fielders choice, with Johansen out at the plate. Mike Morgan singled, driving in Marino with the second Belleville run. John Engdahl singled in Dena to tie the score and Anthony Pace walked to force home Mundy with the go-ahead run.

Hawthorne tied the game in the top of the sixth off Ken Johansen, who would eventually be credited with the victory in relief of Kevin Johansen. In the bottom of the sixth, Belleville went ahead for good, scoring twice.

Napolitano started the rally again, this time with a single and stolen base. Turi walked and Ken Johansen laid down a sacrifice bunt, moving the runners to second and third. Kevin Johansen hit a sac fly, driving in Napolitano with what proved to be the winning run. Robert Dena then singled to score Turi with an insurance run.

Turi, Engdahl and Morgan led the Belleville attack with two hits each. Kevin Johansen pitched the first four innings, walking four and striking out none. Ken Johansen got the win, pitching three innings and striking out one while walking two.

Against Bloomfield last Sunday, Belleville jumped out to a big lead, only to see the Bengals come charging back to within one run. The Bucs then regrouped, scoring three times to pull away.

Belleville scored twice in the bottom of the first. Turi singled and scored on a Ken Johansen triple. Kevin Johansen then hit a sac fly that scored Ken and gave Belleville a 2-0 lead.

In the second, Matt McGough walked and scored when Anthony Pace capped a homerun. Anthony DiMeo was hit by a pitch and Turi walked. Ken Johansen doubled to score DiMeo and Kevin Johansen singled to bring home Turi. Robert Dena's single allowed Ken Johansen to score the seventh Belleville run.

In the fourth, Belleville went ahead 8-0. Turi and Ken Johansen walked. Kevin Johansen singled to load the bases and Mundy singled to drive home Turi.

Meanwhile Mundy was cruising along with an 8-0 lead until the sixth inning, when the very warm day began to take its toll. Bloomfield combined some key hitting and walks to score seven times and narrow the deficit to 8-7. Mundy, the winning pitcher, hurled the first 5 1/3 innings before giving way to Kevin Johansen, who finished the game and earned the save. Mundy struck out six and walked two while Johansen had two strikeouts and walked one.

Bloomfield's rally only inspired Belleville, who came right back with three runs in the bottom of the sixth. Dan Constantino started the inning by pinch hitting for Turi. He did his job, collecting a single. Turi came back into the game to pinch run and went to second on a sacrifice by Ken Johansen. Kevin Johansen doubled home Turi and Joe DePeri cracked a double that scored Johansen. Morgan then singled, scoring DePeri with the 11th Belleville run.

The victory assured Belleville a berth in the state playoffs, which begin either July 27 or 28.

"We qualified for the states and we still have a shot at winning our division," Pat Turi said. "We're tied with Nutley and we needed to beat Secaucus in our final game and hope that Nutley loses its final two. But overall, we're glad to be in the playoffs."

Turi said the team would practice for the next ten days and would also have some scrimmages in preparation for the state tourney.

Take on European All-Stars

Cosmos back at Giants Stadium Sunday

By Mike Lamberti

There was a time, not so long ago, that Giants Stadium was a scene of pandemonium with big crowds and exciting play. The participants on the field did not wear blue jerseys and weigh well over 200 pounds. Instead, they were players who wore white shorts and white jerseys and chased a black and white soccer ball around the artificial turf.

From 1977-83, the New York Cosmos were a fixture at Giants Stadium from April through early September. That was back in the days when the New York football Giants weren't too successful but did sell out all of its games anyway.

The Cosmos were a popular entry in the now defunct North American Soccer League (NASL), drawing big name players from Europe who were nearing the end of their professional careers. Well established players like Pele, Franz Beckenbauer, Dennis Tuart, Carlos Alberto, Werner Roth, Nelsai Morais, Vladislav Bogicovic, Giorgio Chinaglia, along with younger stars such as American's Ricky Davis and David Brice, Jack Brand, Roberto Cabanas, Julio Caesar Romano, Steve Wegerle and Belleville's own Hernan "Chico" Borja, the Cosmos drew big crowds to the Stadium and won NASL titles in 1977, '78, '80 and '82.

In the late 70's, the team had consistent sellouts, especially when Pele was still playing for the team. The crowd interest began to dwindle, however, in the early 80's and by the 1983 campaign, the team was playing well but not drawing at the box office. When the defending NASL champs were upset in the first round of the playoffs by the Manic of Montreal, the writing was on the wall. The team played poorly in 1984 and by early '85, it was announced that the Cosmos had folded its operation.

For those fans and media members who followed the Cosmos during its "hey" day, the teams demise was sad to see. However, the old adage of losing the battle but winning the war certainly applies here. The Cosmos brought soccer interest to a fever level in the United States, and now the sport is one of the most popular on the youth level. In addition, the United States is fielding a team it hopes will have a legitimate shot at advancing in the 1994 World Cup, which the U.S.A. will host.

This Sunday evening, the Cosmos will have a reunion game of sorts, taking on a group of All Stars from Europe, many of whom starred on the 1982 Italian team which won the World Cup. The game will be played at Giants Stadium, starting at 7 p.m.

The players will be a little older and the action might not be world class anymore, but it should be fun to see the players back in action once again. It seems like yesterday when the Cosmos beat Tampa Bay for the '78 Soccer Bowl at Giants Stadium. A year later, the Cosmos and Vancouver Whitecaps hooked up at Giants Stadium in an intense semi final playoff game. The 'Caps had beaten the Cosmos in the first game at Vancouver and the Cosmos needed to beat the 'Caps at Giants Stadium, then had to win the "mini game" a half hour after the regular game to advance to the championship game once again.

The Cosmos beat Vancouver, 3-2, then battled Vancouver in the mini game to a scoreless tie. Late in the mini game, Mark Liveric scored what appeared to be the winning goal for the Cosmos, but he was had beaten the Cosmos and the contest went to the shootout. A long hot Saturday afternoon on Labor Day weekend ended for the Cosmos when Vancouver won the shootout and went to the championship game.

There was the tremendous comeback in the '78 playoffs against Minnesota, highlighted by Carlos Alberto's tremendous kick in the shootout. In '79, the Cosmos had to beat Tulsa and Jack Brann in the playoff game and mini game just to get a shot at Vancouver.

In 1980, the Cosmos won the crown, beating Ft. Lauderdale in RPK Stadium. It was supposed to be Beckenbauer's last year with the Cosmos, but the German superstar came back to the team in '83 for one more season.

There were so many tremendous games. The Transatlantic championship provided some international flavor in the early 80's as two teams from the NASL played against two European clubs. The Cosmos won the Transatlantic crown in '80 and '83.

Belleville fans got a big thrill when Borja made his NASL debut with the Cosmos in 1981. Borja starred at NJIT and caught the eye of Cosmos coach Hennis Weisweiler at the Senior Bowl soccer game.

Most of the Cosmos players who starred a decade ago will be back for another curtain call. For soccer fans of the past and present, this Sunday evening at Giants Stadium should provide some outstanding memories.

Flashback! '52 Bellboys stop Nutley

By Mike Lamberti

This week, "Flashback", a summer feature since 1983 returns. For the remainder of the summer months, we'll have a weekly look back at a Belleville sporting event of the past that made news at one time or another. During the past eight summers, we've gone as far back as 1932 and as recent as this just completed school year.

This week, we begin Flashback '51 with a look back at the 1952 Belleville-Nutley game. The Bellboys had a big day, beating the Raiders handily. This article appeared in the October 16, 1952 issue.

By Charlie Maguire
Belleville High's griders passed, ran, intercepted and stole Nutley dizzy before 4,000 fans at Belleville Municipal Stadium last Saturday to send the Maroon to a crushing 44 to 7 defeat. The victory was the largest score that a Belleville time has ever recorded in inter-scholastic football. For the Bellboys it was their second victory plus one time, while for Nutley it was their third straight loss.

In the first quarter it looked like we were going to see a traditional tooth and nail battle until the middle of the period when the Bellboys took a Maroon punt which went out of bounds on the 35 yard line. With the offensive driving in, the Blue and Gold began to move. Bill "Tex" Dunleavy dashed around right end for 15 yards and Rocco Cafone pushed to the 14 on a quarterback sneak. Fullback Ron Worthington plunged to the 8 on a crossback, and scored on a center back. Don Pomponio's placement was good, and the score stood at 7-0. Early in the second quarter Larry D'Onofrio intercepted a Nutley pass on the Belleville 45 and ran it back to the Nutley 40. Half-back Terry Gahr, who subbed for Joe Sorrentino who was ill, went around right end for 30 yards to put the ball on the 10 yard line. Cafone then hit Terry in the end zone with a pass, for T.D. number 2, and Worthington dove over the goal for the extra point.

On the following kick-off Sergio Rinaldi recovered a Maroon fumble on the Nutley 34. Dunleavy cut off tackle and after an offside penalty Cafone passed to Mike DeFilippo for six points. The conversion was good.

At this point, Nutley started to show some life. An end run and an 18 yard pass put the ball on the Belleville 15. For the feature play of the afternoon, Tom Apicella stole the ball from Frank Close, who was in the process of an end run, and ran 85 yards for touchdown number 4.

After the halftime display the Belleville onslaught continued. Ron Worthington cut through the middle and plowed through three or four linebackers and went 70 yards to score. At this point the Bell cleared the bench and sent everybody in except the manager. Nutley found the subs a little easier and pushed them backward until they scored on an end run. With their extra point try good the score became 32-7.

Bill Dunleavy cut around left end from the 15 to score T.D. number six a few minutes later. Terry Gahr scored again with only seconds remaining when he intercepted a Nutley pass on the 50 yard line and dashed over standing up to end the game 44-7.

Belleville plays host to West Side Saturday and my crystal ball tells me the Bellboys will win by a 19-6 score.

EDITORS' NOTES: Charlie Maguire's "crystal ball" was pre-ty accurate. Belleville did defeat West Side the following week, by a final score of 13-6. The '52 Bellboys went on to a 6-2 record. It tied Orange in the season finale, 7-7. Orange and Belleville were 6-1 going into the Thanksgiving Day game.

Cafone later became the Belleville varsity football coach. He held the post from 1970 through '73, compiling a record of 17-18-1. Apicella had a standout career at Belleville and later at Syracuse. He is a lifelong Belleville native and had four children go through the Belleville school system, including daughter Jennifer who became the all time leading scorer in New Jersey high school girls' basketball.

If you need discounts for fuel, you could have called A.B.C. Fuel Oil Co. Karl's T.V. Service on Washington Avenue was the place for television repairs and purchases. Snow suits for boys cost $6.95 at Hargel's Department Store on Washington Avenue. Acme Supermarkets was having its Open House on Washington Avenue. Two pounds of bananas cost .27. New Jersey Bell Telephone was looking for girls to be telephone operators.

RECREATION ROUNDUP

Playgrounds open

The Belleville Recreation Department's summer playground program began in June and will continue through Aug. 9.

The five playground sites are located at School 9, the Municipal Stadium, the Recreation House, Cleman Field and the Friendly House. The special education playground is set up at the Belleville Little League Field.

The playgrounds will be opened daily to all Belleville residents in grades kindergarten through 9 from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Playgrounds are closed 12-1 for lunch and when it rains.

An adult director will be on hand at each playground to organize games, parties and other activities and an arts and crafts supervisor will travel from site to site.

Tentatively, tennis, lessons, "Open Swim" and special tournaments are planned throughout the summer. These programs are all pending the hiring of qualified instructors/supervisors.

Applications for all summer program participants must be completed and signed by a parent. Registration forms are available at the Recreation House office and at all playgrounds.

Soccer & touch football applications

Applications for the Belleville Recreation 1991 Fall Sports program are now available in the schools and at the Recreation office. Boys and girls ages 7-14 may participate in recreation soccer, Belleville resident children who will be 7 by Dec. 31 and who will be no older than 14 on Dec. 31 are eligible. Nobody above 8th grade can play, and all returning players must re-apply.

Boys ages 8-10 can play touch football. Belleville boys who will be 8 by Dec. 31 and who will be no older than 10 on Dec. 31 are eligible. All returning players must re-apply.

For both soccer and touch football, all completed applications must be returned to the Recreation Department, 407 Joramelon Street, with birth certificates. The registration deadline for soccer is Aug. 9, and the deadline for touch football is Aug. 30. Children are advised not to register for more than one full sport since football, soccer and touch football game and practice schedules conflict.

Night registration for fall sports

The Belleville Recreation Department office at 407 Joramelon Street will be open on Thursday nights from 6 to 7:30 p.m. for Soccer/Touch football registration. The Recreation Dept. staff will register people who can't get to the office during regular hours on Thursdays, beginning July 11 through Aug. 8. Birth certificates are required for all applicants at registration and all returnees must re-apply. For further information, call 450-3422. The registration deadline for touch football and soccer is Aug. 9 while the touch football deadline is Aug. 30 - no exceptions!

Soccer coaches needed

The Belleville Recreation Department is seeking persons interested in coaching its seven-to-fourteen year old soccer league. The league is separated into several divisions according to specific age groups.

The children learn the basics of soccer and all those attending regular practices play in all games. Games are played on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, beginning late September. All volunteer coaches will be required to attend a certification clinic by the NYSCA before the season begins.

Football registration

There will be registration for the Belleville Recreation Department's 1991 Junior Buss tackle football program at the Recreation House, 407 Joramelon Street, now through Aug. 9. Boys who will be 8 years old before Sept. 1 and who will not be 14 before Sept. 1 are eligible. Those wishing to play tackle football must weigh a minimum of 60 pounds and a maximum of 135 pounds and no one above 8th grade can play. Players will be broken down into three teams according to specific age/weight requirements as set by the Suburban Twin County Football League.

To register, players must obtain an application from their school or the recreation department office. All completed applications with parent approval must be brought to the Recreation House by Aug. 9, with two passport size photos of the player and a copy of his birth certificate. All returning players from last year's team must re-apply. Tryouts will begin around Aug. 5. Players who choose to participate in tackle football cannot also play soccer or touch football in the same season.

Preschool registration

The Belleville Department of Recreation & Cultural Affairs is presently looking into expanding its pre-school play program for 4 year old children. The program consists of games, stories, songs, art, outside play when weather permits, short rest periods and occasional holiday parties especially designed for pre-school children. If feasible, an afternoon session will be added from 12:45 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. five days a week with class limited to 23 students. The cost of the 32 week session is $100.

An Orchestro Publication

Children already enrolled in the morning program cannot also be in the afternoon program. The mothers of the children accepted must participate by serving one duty day about every 8 or 9 days according to a published schedule.

The afternoon session will be added only if 20 or more people register. School will begin on Sept. 16 and will run through May 1992.

Children born between October 1986 - September 1987 who will enter kindergarten in September 1992 are eligible. Participants must be Belleville residents. Since there are just a limited number of openings, applications will be accepted on a first come - first served basis only.

For further information and enrollment, contact the Belleville Recreation Department at 450-3422 as soon as possible, Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Men's softball champs

Roscoe's swept Rossmore Pharmacy 4-3 and 10-9 to capture the Men's Softball "A" Division playoff championship. Roscoe's also won the Monday "A" League with a 12-3 record, while Rossmore (11-4) took the Wednesday "A" League crown.

In the "B" Division playoff finals, Michael's Rossmore House emerged as the victors over Essex Design Contractors, winning dramatically the first game 16-15 then outlasting the underdogs 15-8 in the nightcap. Michael's also won the Tuesday "B" League with a 14-1 mark.

The Belleville Recreation Department's Senior League Baseball season ended July 1 with the A's coming out on top with a 12-1 record. The A's, coached by Ron Rodriguez, won with a total team effort and many come-from-behind victories. Finishing second were the Cubs coached by Joe DeRiggi who finished with a 13-3 record. In the Junior League, the Clippers won in a close race over the Indians. The Clippers finished with a 10-0 record compared to the Indians who were 9-1. The coaches of the Clippers were Ramon Matos and Rory Wells and the coach of the Indians was John Zorpe.

Many teams in both leagues had parties to celebrate the end of the season. The Recreation Department would like to thank all the coaches and players for participating in the program this year. Have a good summer!

Century 21 Stanford Agency enhances customer service

NUTLEY, July 18, 1991 — Century 21 Stanford Agency is instituting major changes designed to enhance customer service in the 1990's, according to broker/owner Nina Kaeser. All aspects of professional service throughout the Century 21 system will be affected.

Change having the most direct impact on the customer include the "Self Service Pledge" certificate, written pledge of service to homeowners that will be given with each listing taken. In addition two "Customer Satisfaction" surveys are being developed that allow consumers to evaluate and rate the quality of service they receive from Century 21 sales associates.

"Quality service will be the driving force of the Century 21 organization and our office in the upcoming decade," said Nina Kaeser. "This emphasis is system-wide, from the training of our sales associates can receive to the maturing of customer satisfaction long after the sale of a home."

Quality service courses for both brokers and sales associates have been developed and distributed throughout the system.

"Our goal as an office is to provide a level of customer service to the community that is above and beyond anything else in our industry," noted Ms. Kaeser. "The Century 21 system is providing the tools and training to achieve this result."

In conjunction with the emphasis on service, Nutley, Belleville, Bloomfield and Glen Ridge residents will notice new gold and black Century 21 Stanford Agency signs in their neighborhoods that feature an updated Century 21 logo. Residents will also notice that employees at Century 21 Stanford Agency are wearing new career apparel in a softer, more stylish gold.

Century 21 Stanford Agency has been serving the Nutley, Belleville, Bloomfield and Glen Ridge communities since 1980. The office provides a full service real estate capacity.

The Century 21 system is the world's largest real estate sales organization. Century 21 Real Estate Corp. is a wholly owned subsidiary of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Ms. Micki Shillito, Executive Director of the New Jersey Real Estate Commission speaks about guidelines for escrow account records at a recent Board of Realtors dinner held at Forest Hills Country Club.

Did You Know??

Floral fabrics are especially popular now to bring the garden indoors. Use florals as a countertop to solids and plaids in soft colors, or against still more florals in a print.

New copper piping may produce a bluish tinge in the water. It's usually a short-term issue that will not cause either damage to the pipes or to the family's health.

Many homeowners today are reducing the size of their lawns and devoting more space to easy-to-grow, no-maintenance ground covers, which have low moisture requirements.

Before shaving wood on swollen doors, on furniture or the house itself, remember that dryer weather may cause the wood to shrink.

Fewer mortgage delinquencies are expected in the 1990's, according to the Mortgage Bankers Association of America. Lenders have tightened standards and borrowers are generally disciplined about meeting mortgage payments before any other bills.

Mortgage money is available to help you buy the home you always wanted. We'll find a winner for you at Century 21 Stanford Agency, 86 Union Avenue, Nutley, Call 235-9000.
