Aside From That

By Howard Klawnsner

Barbara Spillane says you can hop a subway train to a department store where leather jackets sell for $50, Reeboks for $20 and Liz Claiborne bags for $10. To get to the subway station, you go via Kennedy International to Seoul Airport, and you don't even have to know Korean. The department store with the bargain prices is only one of her discoveries during her recent trip to Korea under the auspices of the International Cultural Society of Korea. A social studies teacher at the Belleville Middle School, Mrs. Spillane made a similar visit to Japan two years ago. All in all, she finds, the Koreans have a lot to be said for them. ●●●● The Koreans have made enormous strides since they gained independence from Japan at the end of World War II, and despite the subsequent division of the country into two parts, the totalitarian North Korea and the very capitalistic, hard driving Republic of South Korea. "They've left North Korea so far behind," Mrs. Spillane said, "that they're concerned how they would ever absorb the North Korean economy when they reunite." Seoul, with 10 million population, is a peculiar city by our standards. You can walk the streets in safety even at night, except for the threat of maddened Hyundai drivers, and the town is clean and livable. A vast underground world of arcades and tunnels exists, as well, so that life bustles above and below the streets. And the Koreans are friendlier than the Japanese, less formal and more casual. Their secret weapon is the kimchi pot - supplying some of the spiciest appetizers to set a Westerner's tongue aflame. But you get used to it. ●●●● She had the opportunity of teaching a high school class there, and found the youngsters interested. How un-American can you get? On arriving home last week, she found a visitor at home, Linda Robb, a 16-year-old from Portadown here for a whirlwind tour of New York City and Great Adventure, with Melanie Spillane, 16, as her American companion. Linda is part of a group of young people from Northern Ireland here under Operation International Understanding for a look at how all us ethnic groups battle it out, or make our compromises, on this side of the Atlantic. That's Barbara Spillane, always learning, always teaching.

A colorful addition to the local scene is arriving. Brigadier General Harold Williams, USAF has reconnoitered Belleville for several years now, settling his wife here, and now he plans to settle here altogether, for as long as his restless spirit permits. He retires Aug. 7 after 37 years in military service, during which time he served in every conflagration that made the headlines, and a number that didn't, with his final stint of duty in Operation Desert Storm. The scion of a military family, he is one of the more uninhibited generals to make the scene. The Texas-born Williams sports an array of jewelry that would do credit to a rock star, and he looks as if he could still clean out a waterfront bar, if called on to do so. If nothing else, his presence in town should do a lot to bolster law and order. He looks like the type on whom John Wayne patterned himself, except that Williams is a genuine hero. ●●●● Richard Tramutola, Jr. is 48, and happy that he is. On June 26, he wasn't so certain that he would make his next birthday. Now, he is more confident. But at 11 p.m. that day he had the first symptoms of a major heart attack. "They saved my life at Clara Maass, and I want everyone to know it," Tramutola says that the hospital's staff came to his rescue, stayed by him through all the panic and the agony, and never left him alone during his six days in intensive care. "There was the most understanding nurse in the world in the Emergency Room, Denise Jason. And there was Dr. Keith Hawthorne, the cardiologist. They saved my life." Tramutola also had warm praise for his family doctor, Frank Mazzarella, M.D. who had recommended Dr. Hawthorne to him. Tramutola operated a delicatessen in Belleville, at Union and Greylock Avenues, from 1978 through 1981, until a physical injury disabled him. The heart condition is a new development. Now, Tramutola looks forward to more play time with granddaughter Brittany Vitano and more time with his daughter, Tricia, who played four years of varsity baseball for Belleville High School.

Belleville as Birthplace of Industrial Revolution gains endorsement of Chamber of Commerce

Community support for the Belleville Times' proposal that Belleville be declared the birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution is exemplified by the ringing endorsement given by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber has issued this statement:

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce wholeheartedly endorses the Belleville Times editorial highlighting our pivotal role as the birthplace of the American industrial revolution.

Our Board of Directors most definitely agrees that Belleville truly has unique qualities that makes our township rich in historic value.

We encourage our business community, private citizens and the volunteer sector to rally with us to preserve what our forefathers so valiantly built.

It was through their imagination, talent and resourcefulness that this community was made a dominant force in the Industrial Revolution, a fact that certainly has lain dormant for far too many years.

State disappoints Belleville; no funding arrives

The Township Council finally received word of state approval of its budget, and learned that not only did the state deny additional aid grants, but withheld $150,000 which the town had expected.

The result is that an anticipated tax cut of 14.5 points has been cut back to 11.5 points, according to Deputy Mayor William Cook.

In the budget for this year, the state had provided $150,000, a continuation of a grant of $150,000 annually for municipal aid to distressed cities.

This year, the Department of Community Affairs, which approves municipal budgets, did not include that amount in the Belleville budget.

Where cuts will be made will come from a $150,000 windfall in the form of a rebate from the Passaic Valley Sewage Commission, and $105,000 from a repayment fund from garbage collectors, who are paying the state a rebate for price fixing that occurred during the 1960s and 1970s.

Some of the credit for the refund is given to Belleville officials, including Township Clerk Mary Lou Hood, who helped assemble the data that led to the prosecution of the garbage collection firms.

Town officials had hoped that the $150,000 for aid to distressed cities would be continued by the state, and bids for other aid grants had been made, as well.

The council had delayed several weeks in enacting the budget, hoping that additional state funds would be forthcoming. Township Manager Bert Kendall was unavailable for comment, being on his vacation.

In Kendall's absence, W. Stanley Stiers, Director of Public Works, is acting town manager.

Stiers reported that the town managed to escape any power failures during the oppressive heat wave over the past week.

At the same time, he said that sewers were being cleaned on a try-out basis, using a "jet-vac", a powerful vacuum cleaner that can handle storm and sanitary sewers as large as 30 inches in diameter.

The sewer cleaning operation in the Silver Lake neighborhood had brought some letters of appreciation, Stiers said.

It will cost $150,000 to purchase a sewer-vac, he said, noting that the cleaning of the sewers was preventing back-ups and other sewer failures.

Much of the town's problems with sewers is due to the age of some of the old clay tile lines that were installed in the 1930s, he said.

The cost of the sewer-vac would be met by bonding, Stiers said.

Stiers reported that New Jersey is funding Conrail for the improvement of the railroad crossing on Belleville Avenue. The improvement will be part of a reconstruction project for Belleville Avenue and Valley Street, which will include the laying of a new water main.

Stiers estimated the cost of the project at $170,000, with completion coming in 1992.

Stiers said he expected that the town would provide funding for the refurbishing of the Nolton Street side of the Belleville High School stadium.

Nolton Street residents have protested that the reconstruction of the stadium does not include the refurbishing of the facade, which many neighbors called an eyesore.

The residents said that previous administrations had promised high priority for the improvement of the facade, which now shows peeling paint, rusting pipes and boarded windows.

New parking fines

Municipal Court Judge Frank J. Zinna has announced the new parking fines, taking effect on July 22.

Fines, which formerly were $6, will now be $11 for illegal parking on school property, parking in prohibited areas, parking in no stopping or standing zones, on street cleaning days, in emergency parking zones, in time limit zones, in loading zones, and taxi stand zones.

Illegal parking in a fire zone will now cost $16 instead of $11, and fines will remain the same for parking at an overtime meter, $6; in a handicapped zone, $26, and truck parking, $51.

Belleville Navy man provides 'Fiery Vigil' aid

After a 600-year silence, Mount Pinatubo in the Philippines came to life in June, spewing tons of volcanic ash and debris over the island. More than 300 people were killed and 100,000 displaced by ash and mud which blanketed the country, turning day into night.

At Subic Bay Naval Base and nearby Clark Air Base, 200 buildings were destroyed by rain-soaked volcanic fallout. Power equipment failed, causing widespread blackouts and misery. Airports had to be closed, preventing evacuation by air.

Amidst this chaos and destruction, the U.S. Seventh Fleet arrived, following in the wake of large-scale Navy humanitarian and disaster relief operations in Kuwait, Turkey, Northern Iraq and Bangladesh. Twenty-five Navy and Military Sealift Command ships reacted quickly to "Fiery Vigil" an aptly dubbed operation described as one of the largest peacetime evacuations in history.

Airman Apprentice Kenneth P. Henry of Belleville, who is stationed aboard the carrier USS Midway, assisted in embarking more than 1,800 U.S. Air Force personnel and their families and transporting them to the island of Cebu, where the evacuees were then transported to Mactan International Airport by helicopter. In all, the Navy evacuated more than 20,000 service members, defense employees and their families.

"My role was to provide food and personal supplies to the evacuees and their guests to make the trip possible," said Henry, the 18-year-old son of Richard and Doris Henry of Belleville.

The Navy's 350-mile movement of evacuees to Cebu began June 16. The navy had ferried nearly 16,500 Air Force and Navy family members out of the area by June 30.

"My participation was important because the movement of such a number of evacuees was a large undertaking on the ship's part and the full cooperation of every crew member was of dire importance in making the operation a success," said Henry.

The sailors and Marines aboard Midway demonstrated their flexibility as they cooked hot meals around the clock, gave up their beds and carted thousands of pounds of the evacuees' baggage aboard the ship. Not only was the ship a haven for suddenly homeless military dependents, but the ship became a temporary home for pets.

For Henry, a Navy aviation structural mechanic, his involvement in Fiery Vigil was both challenging and meaningful.

St. Ann's Italian Festival summer in Hoboken

For 31 years the St. Ann's Italian Street Festival has been a summer tradition in Hoboken. The Festival, in honor of the Church's Patron Saint Ann, will be held July 20-26 from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. except on the Feast Day (July 26) which begins at noon.

On July 26 at noon the 600 lb. Statue of St. Ann will be taken from the church and carried by female parishioners through the streets of the urban city. Hoboken has become a hot spot in recent years with its many fine restaurants, shops and night life.

How have the newcomers to the mile-square city adopted to the custom brought to Hoboken by the Old World Italian from Monte San Giacomo, Italy? They love it, proclaiming festival chairwoman Marie Totaro. Their favorites are the homemade sausage sandwiches and chocolate covered cheesecake which former president Ronald Reagan and Hoboken born singer Frank Sinatra sampled in 1984 when they visited the parish on the campaign trail.

Of course the famous zeppole is still a favorite, made by the members of the St. Ann's Guild led by Mari Versaci.

On the opening night of the festival the organizing committee will honor Helen Boehm of the Boehm Porcelain Studio located in Trenton. Among many of her philanthropic endeavors, Mrs. Boehm is a member of the Board of Directors at the Vatican Museum in Rome, Italy. Mrs. Boehm has designed a limited edition of porcelain roses in honor of St. Ann. The first one will be presented to the new pastor of the parish, Father Bob Grix. Mrs. Boehm will receive the Italian American Heritage Award.

The highlight of the week's activities will be a guest visit to the Festival by internationally famous Italian singer, Connie Francis. Ms. Francis was born in Newark and is coming to Hoboken to help promote the preservation of events such as the festival in the metropolitan area.

Finally, there will be plenty of Italian and other ethnic foods on the menu. There will also be rides, games and a "Cafe Under the Stars" where visitors can sit and enjoy the sounds and smells of a true Hoboken summer tradition.

Clara Maass medical library receives grant

The Clara Maass Medical Center medical library was recently awarded a $10,500 resource information grant from the National Library of Medicine.

The grant will establish a business information service for the Medical Center's management and administrative staff. "In today's more business oriented health care environment, it is important to provide our decision makers with the right tools which will enable them to make sound effective decisions," said Arlene Mingio, medical librarians at Clara Maass.

The grant will provide a new computer, a facsimile machine, DIALOG, an online retrieval system, a collection of business and health care journals, and an educational program of lectures and demonstrations.

The Information Access Grant is awarded under the National Library of Medicine's Extramural Programs and is designed to facilitate access to and delivery of health service information by utilizing the most up-to-date and effective computer and telecommunication technology available. Access projects promote a dynamic link between health professionals and relevant information resources.

$10,000 scholarship to Tracey Ann Lockwood

Tracey Ann Lockwood, a June graduate of Belleville High School, has become the first person awarded the J.P. Miele Scholarship, worth $10,000 towards her college education, at Drew University.

In a letter to Miss Lockwood from Joseph P. Miele, president of the J.P. Miele Scholarship foundation, Miele stated: "Your presentation to the Scholarship Committee was outstanding, and you left an impression none of us will ever forget."

Miss Lockwood has won a total of $24,000 in scholarships. Planning to enter the field of special education, she works with disabled youngsters. She is also a lifeguard at a private swimming club.

Golden Comments By Jim Golden

(Part 1 of 2)

Our government grants use of the radio spectrum — worth billions of dollars — for nothing. It's crazy, but invisible, giveaway. For decades, the federal government has doled out for free and, in the process, spawned huge private fortunes in television and other communications services. It's the radio spectrum: The right to broadcast on a given frequency. Giving it away is an absurd bit of welfare for corporations and (mainly) the wealthy that, over the years, has aroused barely a squawk of protest.

Well, Janice Obuchowski is now squawking. She's the assistant secretary of commerce for communications — not exactly a high profile job — and she wants private companies to pay for the use of the spectrum. What could be simpler, and how could liberals and conservatives disagree? For liberals, Obuchowski offers populism: paying for a scarce resource (the spectrum) should promote efficiency.

Guess again. The odds that Congress will pass her plan are less than 50-50. The story of why is a dour reminder of how hard it is to make government work better.

Everyone agrees there's a problem: the spectrum is congested. It's already the lifeline for the television networks and 1,115 commercial television stations (1990 revenues: $27 billion), 9,356 commercial radio stations ($8.8 billion), 1,792 non-commercial TV and radio stations, long distance microwave transmission and mobile radio for everything from taxis to delivery trucks. And demands for spectrum access are multiplying: cellular phones, pagers and air-to-ground phones are recent new uses.

Virtually everyone also agrees that, to satisfy new demands, about 200 megahertz of frequencies now assigned to the federal government — mainly the Pentagon — should be shifted to nonfederal users. (A megahertz is a measure of spectrum space; a TV channel, for example, is six megahertz wide). Obuchowski's twist is to require the government to auction off the new frequencies rather than have the Federal Communications Commission award them for free on the basis of a hearing or a lottery.

At first glance, you'd expect this proposal to sail through Congress. It blends fiscal prudence and the promotion of high technology. An initial auction of 30 megahertz might raise $2.5 billion over three years, estimates the Office of Management and Budget. And the increased availability of spectrum space would spur innovation in communications technology: services like computer-to-computer radio connections and smaller portable phones.

The trouble that, in practice, our politics are concerned less with ideas than with the protection of existing interests. Strike one against the plan is that it's opposed by most (though not all) current spectrum users. Not that they'd be immediately affected; the plan would apply only to awards of new frequencies. But it's easy to understand why incumbents don't like it. Cosh, if you've been getting something for nothing for years, you don't want anyone to be forced to pay for it. Once Congress starts charging, the same principle might be applied to you. For example, a user's fee equal to 1 percent of revenues would raise about $360 million annually from TV and radio stations alone. Hey, that's not a bad idea.

OUR OPINION

*Time is not measured by the years that you live
But by the deeds that you do and the joy that you give —
And each day as it comes brings a chance to each one
To love to the fullest leaving nothing undone
That would brighten the life or lighten the load
Of some weary traveler
lost on Life's Road —
So what does it matter
how long we may live
If as long as we live
we unselfishly give

A killing indifference

The tragedy that occurred in the Bloomfield housing unit for the elderly points up the necessity of staying in touch with the loved ones in these institutions, at all times.

Left on their own, the elderly and the ill may not be able to call attention to their problems.

The failure of the air conditioning system in the Bloomfield apartment house for the elderly occurred long enough to have something done about it.

Certainly, the residents of a luxury high rise would have made their objections known very quickly, when it came to lack of air conditioning.

Apparently, the elderly residents of the Bloomfield units could not get attention to their plight.

Certainly, others should have been made aware of their problem.

Children, friends, even tradespeople visiting the housing, should have sensed the situation, and brought pressure to bear on the management.

The failure of the state-operated agency to act in time is outrageous. The response of one official that replacement of the air conditioning unit had to go "through channels" does not hold water.

In an extreme emergency, emergency action can be taken. Certainly, the members of the management body would not have tolerated an air conditioner failure in their own homes, not for more than one sultry, oppressive 24 hour period.

Two lives were lost. These were not people who had been turned out into the streets in their old age. They had entrusted themselves to the agencies that were supposed to look out for their well being. Perhaps their crime was in not being wealthy enough to afford luxury housing.

Their real crime was in growing old, and in not having enough family contacts on a regular basis to sound the alarm when something went tragically wrong.

Indeed, the culprit is the State of New Jersey, and us, the general public. We did not act in time, we did not do our duty by our elders.

Floating crap game

In New Jersey Register, issue of June 3, Casino Control Commission had officially published six closely-typed pages of new "rules of the games" for blackjack playing in Atlantic City.

No one seems to ask the question and, to our knowledge, no media source has probed the real cost to casinos and to casino players in having a Casino Control Commission to meddle into gambling operations and, in effect, to skim off the government share — a portion of which goes to "senior citizens" and a portion of which goes to feed the casino commission bureaucracy and other state bureaucracies.

Gambling, including blackjack (or "21" as it is also named), has been going on since — and perhaps before — mankind left the caves or swung down from the high limbs of the trees in the jungle. By this time, you would expect that most folks who gamble understand the risk that the odds always favor the casino — otherwise the casinos would have even more difficulties in staying in business.

It seems strange, to say the least, that so much paper and time and expense are wasted by the state government and its control commission to "protect" folks who willingly go to Atlantic City with the odds stacked against them.

You cannot run casinos with odds stacked against the casino and you cannot expect casinos to operate profitably with so many state guardians paid from the casino take.

The state should look towards phasing out casino controls and let the folks who set the odds and the folks who play against the odds have their set-to.

YOUR OPINION

An accolade for Times editorial

To the Editor,

Your editorial in the July 18 issue of the Belleville Times may well be the best I have read there in ages! Congratulations for standing up for the history and heritage of Belleville!

As you know, of course, when Bloomfield received its state charter in 1812, the new township included Belleville (still referred to as "Second River" by oldtimers), Montclair, Nutley (then known as "Franklin"), Glen Ridge and the Forest Hill and Woodside neighborhoods of North Newark.

In 1839, Belleville seceded from Bloomfield, the first independent community organized within the original Bloomfield boundaries.

Two primary reasons caused Belleville to seek independence from dear old Bloomfield: religious differences and business competition.

In the first instance, Belleville was settled primarily by Dutch Reformed farmers and tradesmen, unlike the Presbyterians (Congregationalists) who were primarily of English stock who traced their roots to the founders of Newark in 1666 (Puritan farmers from the New Haven region of Connecticut).

Frankly, neither the Reformers nor the Presbyterians were much toward ecumenical gentleness in those days. They loveth the Lord, but not necessarily their neighbor!

In addition to their religion difference, Belleville residents began to challenge the dominant Bloomfield political-economic power structure, especially after new mills and plants were built along the Second River in Belleville. Bloomfield, itself, especially along Bloomfield Avenue (it was then called Newark-Pompton Turnpike), was also exploding industrially.

The Oakes Woolen Mills and other mills had been established along the Third River, and, to a lesser extent, along the Second River, both tributaries of the Passaic River.

Therefore, it was only natural that the new entrepreneurs in Belleville resented the comparatively high taxes they were forced to pay to the Bloomfield powers-that-be. Moreover, they did not believe that Belleville property owners were receiving their fair share of town services — few as they were then!

Belleville may not be the Birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution, as you say, but certainly the early entry of Belleville in the building of American industrial power cannot be ignored. This aspect of Belleville history has rarely been explored, either scholarly or popularly.

Oh, yes, your other neighbor, Nutley, did not like Belleville's political-economic emphasis, or Bloomfield's, either. It became independent in 1873. Surely, Bloomfield-Belleville-Nutley would be a formidable political-economic-social influence in New Jersey today if they had remained one!

Why license cats?

To the editor:

July 9, 1991, an ordinance was introduced at the Town Meeting to license cats. Cats are no longer the pets they used to be; they are now a "necessity."

Companions for the elderly, the also help keep away the undesirable. Our two cats alert my mother that someone is at the door and which door.

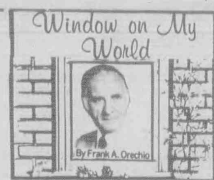

If cats are to be licensed, why not hamsters? Or rabbits and white mice? How about cockatiels? They are pets, too. And they all can get loose.

While we are licensing, why not humans who are lucky enough to pass the statistical life-span age of 85? I know of instances where someone in their tenth decade wandered off, got lost, and was so confused he did not know his name.

Golf balls should have the owner's named imprinted on them. I have a very nice one on my kitchen floor that hit the sidewalk in front of me (less than two feet) as I walk along Franklin Avenue by the Fire House. Suppose that hard ball hit a windshield or the driver of a car? Suppose it hit a baby being pushed in a carriage?

If the council feels cats need a license, then license the whole town — not just a segment.

3. Information concerning any pensions funded by the Nutley Savings Bank, SLA.
4. Any perks, i.e. motor vehicles, expense allowances, credit cards, telephones, portable telephones, mobile telephones, telephones installed in the homes of officers and board of directors paid for by the Nutley Savings Bank, SLA.

My original request was under date of May 29th. My second request was June 10th, and my third request was June 25th — that makes it just a month ago today! I made my last request and have not as yet received a reply. My first request was made almost two months ago. Logically, one may ask, "Are the officers trying to conceal something from the public?"

Rumors abound over the possible pensions that the officers of Nutley Savings and Loan voted to themselves — sort of a self-dealing arrangement. One report reaching us is that the top officers of the Nutley Savings and Loan will retire with a $100,000 pension?

The Executive Vice President of the Nutley Savings and Loan has repeatedly said they will give no information to the Nutley Sun. Well, I personally am a depositor, and by law, I have been told by my counsel the Nutley Savings and Loan officers are under obligation to respond to my request. So, I'll am led to sue the Nutley Savings and Loan and its officers for the information they should voluntarily give to me, then the responsibility for legal fees will be at the doorstep of the officers who refuse to disclose information that should be in depositors' hands.

Let me ask other depositors of Nutley Savings and Loan a question. Did you ever receive financial information from the Nutley Savings and Loan? Did you ever receive a profit and loss statement from Nutley Savings and Loan? Did you ever receive a balance sheet from Nutley Savings and Loan? Did you ever receive a disclosure statement which revealed officers' compensation, benefits and pensions?

I think these are reasonable questions which should have been answered promptly by the responsible financial officers of the Nutley Savings and Loan. Other financial institutions — stock-owned — disclose their quarterly profit and loss statements as well as balance sheets. The financial pages of our daily newspapers recently told us how most of the area financial institutions made out for the first six months of 1991. Although the law doesn't require it, wouldn't it be nice if the Nutley Savings and Loan would volunteer to make public its June 30th financial statements? Inquiries in the recent past have been stonewalled by the Executive Vice President, Michael Shaughnessy. How about a responsible reply from someone higher up?

• MY wife's double hip operations have curtailed my frequent trips between Newark and West Palm Beach. I miss Continental Airlines. While there are other carriers offering service between these two points, my preference is and always will be Continental. The staffs at both ends are great; the equipment is super. The cabin crew is very solicitous; and the food, whether it be breakfast, lunch or dinner, is above par for an airline.

• THE battle for the Senate seat in the 34th District is primarily among rival Republican leaders, incumbent Senator Joe Bubba, incumbent Democrat Assemblyman Joe Mecca and Wayne Republican Mayor Newton E. Miller, a Republican Assemblyman, now an independent Senate candidate in the General Election. The district is borderline Republican. Because of the GOP family fight, Mecca is favored to win.

• IN the Nutley-Belleville new 36th District which stretches into Passaic, Passaic County and the Bergen County communities of Carlstadt, East Rutherford, Lyndhurst, North Arlington and Wallingford, incumbent Senator Gabe Ambrosio appears to be way in front of his Republican challenger, John Scott of Lyndhurst.

The Assembly race is a mixed bag. Nutley Assemblyman John Kelly and former Passaic Assemblyman Paul DeGaetano are running against incumbent Passaic Assemblyman Lou Gill and Nutley's Al Restalino. During the summer hull, the candidates are not doing much of anything — going to an occasional picnic and testimonial dinners of sorts. The real campaign should get underway after Labor Day. Along about October 10, the campaign should take shape, and students of politics may then obtain a reading of the potential winners.

• FORMER Senator Anthony Imperiale seeks an investigation of Newark's new Police Director, William Celester concerning an incident which Imperiale claims involves Celester's son, William, who according to Imperiale's charge, was driving in Newark without a license or insurance card in his possession. But that is only the half of it. According to Imperiale, the young Celester "resisted police, cursed and fought with the police officers; he was arrested and handcuffed."

Imperiale further states that a complaint was issued for young Celester's arrest. The complaint was cancelled, the arrest was cancelled, and the tow truck that arrived on the scene was requested to leave without the Celester car. More next week on Imperiale's "disclosures" concerning Director Celester's behavior on or about the day and night of July 12th.

• IN Tuesday morning's mail, I received an envelope with a return address "Office of the Sheriff, Essex County Courts Building, Newark, N.J. 07102." In opening the envelope, I expected to see a release from Sheriff Armando Fontoura with his photograph. Instead, I received a release with the following photo. (Insert photo of D'Alessio)

Thomas D'Alessio

Could it be that the County Executive Tom D'Alessio unconsciously continues his role as Sheriff. In his left lapel, D'Alessio has not stopped wearing the Sheriff's star? Lord knows, he earned it.

Pizza making and math combine at Domino's

When the fourth grade students of Donna Russomano and Palma Stabile at Holy Family School began working on a math project last January, they did not anticipate some "on the job" training at a local pizzeria.

The main objective of the program was to help students develop mathematical, problem solving and critical thinking skills. It also helped the children develop an awareness of the many different ways in which math is used in everyday life.

The idea of the project was for the students to develop an original math activity or board game based on one of four choices, "The Pizza Challenge," "Toy Store Fantasy," "Sports Day" or "Kitchen Counters." Working hard at home and at school for two months produced excellent results and Russomano looked into rewarding the children with a pizza party. Her first call was to Domino's Pizza in Nutley.

Carol and Bill Howler, the owners of the Nutley franchise, offered much more than a pizza party. They offered a tour of the store and lots of surprises, including the chance to perform many of the tasks that Domino's employees perform on a daily basis, from folding boxes to taking orders to making their own pizzas. Following the tour, everyone enjoyed a pizza party at Booth Park.

Now that all the hard work and fun is over, the children's activities have been sent to Domino's Pizza and the NCTM to be entered in a nationwide contest. Good luck, kids.

Belleville Times SPORTS

BUC SHOTS

By Mike Lamberti

In last week's quiz, I went back to a 1983 Belleville-Ridgewood football game. The answer to the quiz will appear at the end of the column, but the subject of football made me think back to some more recent Belleville football memories.

12 years ago, the Buc football team took the field with high hopes. The team had a strong pre season and third year head coach John Senesky expressed surprise optimism about the '79 season. I remember speaking to Senesky on the night of the season opener against Livingston.

You have to remember something about Senesky. This is a man who can watch his team beat an opponent by a 50-0 count, then express awe at how good the opponent might have been had it not been for a few turnovers early in the contest.

This is a guy who, in the height of those "glory" years in the early 80's, gave the Lou Holtz speech of being worried about an opponent even after the game is over and the Bucs won. His idea of bragging about a victory was saying "we were fortunate to come through with no injuries." Another words, here is a man that puts this game into proper perspective.

Anyway, I get Senesky on the phone on that day in 1979 and he says, "I'm really expecting a good season from this team." Shock immediately sets in, because on the night of the season opener John Senesky is actually predicting success.

The Bucs were 6-3 in 1978, the best mark for a Belleville team in over nine years. Many of the players from that '78 team were returning and the optimism of the fans and players was obvious. The summer "skills and drills" camp in 1979 attracted a large contingent of players and the enthusiasm was at a fever pace.

For some reason, the season opener was on a Monday evening at Belleville Municipal Stadium. I don't remember if it was a rainout, or if then A.D. Jim Silvestri had scheduled it like that all along. Anyway, there was a large crowd on hand and the Bucs played like a veteran team on a mission.

Livingston, the Buc's opponent that evening, had a talented team with junior quarterback Stan Yagello and junior split end George Alpert. However, Buc quarterback Ed Aulst directed the offense to near perfection.

Belleville took a 7-0 lead, but Yagello led the Lancers right back on a 75 yard drive. Livingston passed for a two point conversion and for a few minutes in the first quarter, the Lancers led 8-7.

The Buc defense dug in and late in the first quarter, Belleville went ahead for good, 14-8.

The rest of the game was a clinic as the Buc scored often with a solid running game paced by Bob Labruzzo, Mike Niclosa, Frank Swain and Lenny Mendola.

The receivers were Gabe DeFabrizio and Mario Colombrito. DeFabrizio also was the Bucs kicker, and he got that job under strange circumstances.

"It's the day before the opener with Livingston," Senesky said, "and we don't have a kicker. We're trying kids out and no one is really making an impression. Gabe steps up and starts booming the ball into the end zone. (Joe) D'Ambola takes him and works with him on field goals. He's ready to go the next night and does a great job."

The Bucs went on to roll past Livingston, 35-8, setting up what would be a memorable season.

Livingston's coach, Al Jacobson, has been a good friend of Senesky's for many years. When I first started covering football in 1978, I was 20 years old and basically believed everything an opposing coach told me. So, when I got Jacobson on the telephone before the '78 opener, he says to me in what appeared to be total seriousness, "we might not even show up for the game. Belleville is that good."

I truly believed that Jacobson was serious and in talking to D'Ambola later in the day, I relayed Jacobson's comments.

"Don't believe that (stuff)," D'Ambola growled. "He says that every year and, believe me, they still show up."

Before the '79 matchup, Al was back at it again, this time saying, "It's like the men (Belleville) against the boys."

"For a few years, they snookered us," Senesky said. "We would watch them scrimmage and really believe we could beat them. Then, on opening night, they would dominate us. Livingston is always an organized team and Al runs an excellent program."

Livingston had indeed dominated Belleville in '76 and '77, winning by scores of 20-0 and 40-0 respectively. That 40-0 debacle in '77 was Senesky's first game as a high school coach.

In '78, the Bucs upset the Lancers, 28-14 and now, in '79, the roles were somewhat reversed as the seasoned Bucs were beating the young, but talented, Lancers.

Over the next two weeks, we'll look back at that '79 campaign, talking with Senesky and perhaps with some of the players on their memories. Give me a call, or drop a line to the Belleville Times if you have any special thoughts from that 1979 football season.

LAST WEEK'S QUIZ

In a 1983 Belleville-Ridgewood football game, the Bucs trailed 12-7 midway through the fourth quarter. Mark Walsh scored the go-ahead touchdown on a seven yard run on fourth and goal to give the Bucs a 14-12 lead. Ridgewood would rally to win the game, 20-14.

Anthony Gizzo intercepted a pass for Belleville and returned it for an apparent touchdown. However, Gizzo's score was called back because of clipping.

Wins 3 gold medals at Nationals

Barcelona next for Ruffalo

By Mike Lamberti

He first made the scene at Belleville High School in September of 1974 at the fall sports physicals before the start of another school year. He was 23 years old, was brand new to the school system and was to be the new cross country coach at Belleville, taking over for Ray Haneke.

He drove a red '65 Chevrolet (it might have been a convertible) and didn't say a lot to his new troops that first morning on Labor Day weekend. He just announced that practice would be the first day of school and we had all better "be men."

This reporter will tell you that the Fall of '74 wasn't that long ago, but you need only look at the last graduating class at Belleville High and know that those kids were about one year old and just learning to walk when Rich Ruffalo was beginning his career at Belleville.

It's been said (by this reporter from time to time) that Ruffalo is a man who could see, then lost his sight, then regained it in a way that only Ruffalo can best explain. Nonetheless, Ruffalo, who was "legally" blind over a decade ago, has attained some tremendous goals.

A fine all around athlete at Bloomfield High and later Montclair State, Ruffalo would not let his "handicap" affect his ability in the area of track and field. In 1988, his determination took him all the way to Seoul, South Korea, where he won a gold and silver medal at the Olympics for the Disabled.

He was granted a hero's welcome upon his arrival at Newark Airport after those '88 games. He married shortly thereafter and today, Ruffalo and his wife are the proud parents of a baby girl, who is now 18 months old and the absolute pride of Ruffalo's life.

"She's great," Ruffalo says of his daughter. "She's crazy, like me."

So, here is a guy that has inspired many handicapped athletes to attain a new level. Here is a guy that today is a successful science teacher at Belleville High, has a wonderful family and recently purchased a house. Ruffalo will tell you that his life is pretty good. But, there is still a goal, a desire for one more shot at the top.

So, Ruffalo took his javelin, shotput and discus and competed in the Nationals at Hofstra University a few weeks ago. The results were almost boring. Three gold medals, a film crew doing a piece on his exploits for cable television, and, by the way, an invitation to compete in the 1992 Olympics for the Disabled, which will be held in Barcelona, Spain.

The Olympics are something that Ruffalo wants a second opportunity to compete in. In '88, he was thrilled about his gold and silver medal, but a little disappointed because a sprained ankle at the Olympics affected his performance somewhat. Ruffalo is not hesitant in desiring his Olympic goal for '92.

"I want to win the triple crown," he said, referring to gold medals in all three throwing events. "I'm going to begin final preparation for the Olympics next March during track season and hopefully, I'll peak by the games next summer."

At the Nationals, Ruffalo won the javelin with a throw of 38.68 meters, the shot in 10.21 meters and the discus at 30.98.

At the Nationals, SportsChannel filmed a piece on Ruffalo's exploits and will air the show on August 1. According to Ruffalo, it's a two hour feature on his career in sports. Ruffalo's success is a family affair, too. His brother, Joseph, who is also legally blind dominated the weight lifting events at the Nationals.

Rich Ruffalo, pictured here at 1988 Olympics for the Disabled in Seoul, South Korea. The Belleville teacher and coach will be returning to the Olympic scene in Barcelona in 1992. He qualified by winning three gold medals at recent Nationals in Hofstra, New York.

Joe won the gold in weight lifting and was selected as the best overall lifter at the Nationals. He set a world record in the squat with 330 pounds and lifted an incredible 898 pounds overall.

Unfortunately, powerlifting is not an Olympic event, so Joe will probably take his talents to Perth, Australia next year for the weight lifting championships.

Rich Ruffalo has indicated that the '92 Olympics in Barcelona will most likely be his swan song for active competition. In the meantime, he will work long and hard at his goal for the "Triple Crown."

If anyone can attain that dream, Rich Ruffalo can.

Cosmos reunion game draws over 30,000

By Mike Lamberti

Despite intense heat and the threat of severe thunderstorms, over 30,000 fans attended Giants Stadium last Sunday afternoon to see the Cosmos Reunion games against teams from Italy and Brazil.

On the field, the Cosmos didn't fare that well. Against Italy, a group of former Cosmos were stopped 5-0. The majority of the Italian team was made up of players who had competed for the '82 World Cup champions. The talent of the Italian club was quite evident as they controlled the ball on offense and made things very difficult for an older group of Cosmos players.

The second game was more entertaining as Cosmos players from the late 70's and early 80's battled a Brazilian Masters team to a scoreless tie. Although there was no scoring, there was plenty of excitement as both clubs had some excellent scoring opportunities.

Goalie Hubert Birkmeier did a solid job for the Cosmos in the first half, stopping a number of close range shots. The Cosmos offense was paced by Seninho, who showed the skills that made him a very exciting player for the team from '79 through '82.

The Cosmos played very well, with stars such as Vladislav Bogicevic, Rich Davis, Johan Neekens, Andranik Eskandarian, Dennis Turt, Seninho, Marinho, David Bick, Erol Yasin, Francois vanDerElst and Carlos Alberto playing the game with the same grace and style they did a decade ago.

At halftime of the game with Brazil, Pele, considered by many the greatest athlete of the Century, made a special appearance at mid-field and was greeted by a very appreciative crowd.

Also performing at the game were the Cosmos Girls, and dancing to the famous Cosmos theme, the girls gave the crowd some very pleasant memories of the days when the Cosmos used to dominate Giants Stadium.

However, this was a reunion game, and after an enjoyable evening with plenty of good memories, the players went their own way. Perhaps one day, the Cosmos will be an active team playing that famous international schedule.

In the meantime, there are memories and the fans who followed the Cosmos during the hey day from 1977-82 have plenty to remember.

Rush scores 33 points in victory

Flashback: '65 Bellboys stun Bengals

By Mike Lamberti

This week's Flashback takes us to the Winter of 1965. The Belleville Bellboys are taking on the Bloomfield Bengals in High School basketball. Bloomfield came into the game with a 10-1 mark while Belleville was enjoying one of its better years, coming in with a 6-5 record.

This particular article appeared in the January 21, 1965 issue of the Belleville Times. There was no by line with the article.

Bill Rush scored 33 points, just three shy of the school record, to lead Belleville's 65-35 upset of Bloomfield. After the Bengals had cut Belleville's lead from 12 points to one, the Bellboys ran off nine straight points in the final 1:29 to knock Bloomfield (10-2) from first place in the Big Ten. While taming the Bengals, the Bellboys (7-5) trailed only once, at 21-19.

Rush had one of his best, if not the best, games of the season. Bill hit on 10 of 15 field goal attempts for 67 percent. He got off to a fast start by collecting 10 points in each of the first two quarters. A big factor in his seventh straight over 19 point game was four shots. Rush made 13 of 16 free ones for a remarkable 81 percent. He also pulled down eight of the Bellboys 21 rebounds. (The Bengals had 22 rebounds).

Just as it has been in so many games this season, this contest was decided from the foul lines. Although the Bellboys led in percentage from the floor (53 to 35), the Bengals had 48 points on field goals to 38 for Belleville. The Bellboys capitalized on the Bengals 23 personals by making 27 of 36 charity shots for 75 percent; Bloomfield made 7 of 11 from the line for 64 percent.

Personal fouls probably hurt the Bengals one other way. By 2:21 in the final quarter, the Bengals had cut the margin to one point. The one of their big men, Bob Grant, fouled out. Shortly after that, the Bengals fell apart, and the Bellboys ripped the game open. Maybe that didn't make the difference, though. After all, Ken Fulmore's superlative defensive job had held Grant to just four points.

Speaking of Fulmore, he hit double figures for the second straight game to help take some of the pressure off Rush. Bloomfield's high scorer was Bill Muse who hit with 9 of 16 long shots for 18 points. Jimmy Brown held high scoring Doug Wells to 13 points which is well below his average. Rush held Glenn Gerber to ten, and Nick Pizzuto held Bloomfield's high scorer, Ted Jasienicki, to eight. Belleville's magnificent man to man defense went a long way in this upset victory.

Bellboy Bounces: Bloomfield's Junior Varsity (6-6) built up a 20-15 halftime score and then stole the third quarter rally to break Belleville's 11.V's winning streak at three, 54-43. Rich SanFilippo led the Bellboys with 17 points followed by Jim Catalano with ten. SanFilippo finally overtook Joe Pisano for the team scoring lead. Rich has 134 points, Joe, 124. It also was the eighth time that SanFilippo has hit double figures.

On the varsity side, Bill Rush flirted with the school record for the second time in six games; he had 34 points against Nutley. If Bill could play another game like Tuesday's he should break Dom Klein's mark of 36.

EDITORS NOTES: Bloomfield

was one of the tallest teams in the Big 10 back in '65. Belleville went on to a 13-9 record that season. The Bellboys lost three games in '65 by a total of 12 points.

The Belleville wrestling team also did well in January of '65, with Tony Sorrentino and Dan Bivona leading the Bellboys past Nutley, 21-17. Joe Villano made his varsity debut in that Nutley match and defeated the Raider's Carmen LoRe at 135 pounds.

In town, you could get the Business Men's Lunch at Frank's Pizzeria & Restaurant, on Union Avenue in Belleville. Lunch was $95 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. It was strictly home cooking.

Learnard Chevrolet "Will Better the Deal", no matter what you've been offered. You were encouraged to see DeRosa & Sons for a Meyer Snow Plow. DeRosa & Sons was located on Roosevelt Avenue in Belleville.

A luxurious 2 1/2 room garden apartment in Belleville, near Clara Maass Hospital went for $85.00 a month. Four rooms in Nutley, with water supplied, was $95.00 a month.

Weichert offers garage sale tips and complimentary signs

Moving soon? Planning to put your home on the market? What better way to reduce clutter than to have a garage sale! Weichert, Realtors offers the following five tips to help prepare for a garage sale.

1. Plan ahead. Select a place (garage, yard, patio, for example) and set a date and time. Consider a rain date.
2. Bargains galore. Look for items to sell from every nook and cranny of your home, including the basement, attic, and garage. Price items to sell — after all, the object is to reduce clutter — and use easy-to-read labels to indicate your price.
3. Advertise! Stop by your local Weichert office to receive complimentary garage sale signs to post in your neighborhood. Post notices on bulletin boards at the supermarket, church and club. Place an ad in your community newspaper.

4. Show them off. Display your items to show everything to its best advantage. Dust, clean, or polish the more valuable items. Group similar items together.
5. Final count down. On the day of the sale, have all items ready to be displayed. Have an extension cord handy to test electrical items and a tape measure nearby for customers. Have plenty of change on hand.

Weichert, Realtors is a full service real estate company, whose divisions include mortgage, insurance, relocation, rentals, commercial, new homes and land, and moving services. According to a national report, Weichert is the top-ranked independent real estate broker in the Northeast.

The Case Of The Fickle Microwave Oven

Does the power in your microwave oven mysteriously come and go? Does it take two minutes to boil a cup of water one day, then three minutes the next day?

The problem, according to appliance experts from Whirlpool Corporation, could be that your refrigerator is "stealing" energy from the microwave oven.

A frost-free refrigerator requires extra power when the compressor is running or it's in the defrost cycle. And when a microwave oven and refrigerator are on a common circuit—even though they may be plugged into separate outlets—the refrigerator always takes precedence.

So your oven may be in perfect working order, but it may appear to be cooking erratically, either in the difference in the time it takes or the sound it makes.

It doesn't take a detective to crack this case, say the Whirlpool appliance experts. A quick check of your circuit box will tell you if the microwave oven and refrigerator are on the same circuit. If they are, simply switch one to an outlet serving another circuit in your kitchen, to give you top working results for both refrigerator and microwave oven.

The Home Front

By Nina Kaeser

Did You Know??

Consider lattice panels to define space at an entrance, along the backyard, even inside the house. Paint them white for a more formal look; stain in natural wood tones for a casual feel.

What works in any style or period home? Window space — uncovered where possible, lots of white on walls, fabrics, even floors, and plenty of textured fabrics.

Smart gardeners use mulch around plants to make their job easier. A 3- to 4-inch layer of organic material — shredded bark, pine needles, grass clippings or straw — reduces runoff and discourages weeds.

To refresh old wicker, clean well and then apply a liquid sander. If you're changing colors, spray on two coats of primer, then spray enamel. To restore the same color, two coats of enamel will do.

It's wise to let a repaired window sit for a week to let the glazing compound dry completely before covering it with a protective layer of paint. Let paint extend 1/16th of an inch onto the glass and sash.

It's wise to work with an expert when you put your home on the market. You'll get super service when you list at Century 21 Stanford Agency, 86 Union Avenue, Nutley. Call 235-9000.

Think about this: the sudden breaking off of a thought is known as apoplepsis.
