Aside From That

By Howard Klausner

Yugoslavians are among the most ruggedly handsome men and regally beautiful women in the world. They also have more physical courage than is good for them. They and the Greeks were the only Balkan nations whose people literally threw themselves at the German tanks and death squads, never giving up even when hostages were being executed by the tens of thousands. The Yugoslavians tied down enough German divisions to save both the Allies in Italy and the Russians on the Eastern Front. Now they are back to their old trade of dying rather than giving in. Which brings up the names of Willi Rogers, Senator Joseph McCarthy and, of course, Trivo Indjich. ●●●● Back in the days when maverick Communist Josip Broz was running Yugoslavia with an iron hand, but making overtures to the West at the same time, Trivo was an exchange student visiting New Jersey under the sponsorship of the American Field Service. The young Croatian was a sunny faced blond who would have been snapped up as a fullback by any American college. In any crowd of American farm boys he would have disappeared. His English was excellent, and he was so eminently likable that his host family wanted to adopt him. The father of the host family, whom I shall call Harry Boyle was a firm supporter of the policies of Joe McCarthy, with whom he had shared a tent during their Navy days in the South Pacific. He considered the New York Times to be an agent of Moscow. But this did not interfere with his befriending Trivo, who, after all, was a registered Communist in his native Croatia. ●

●●●● Never one to leave well enough alone, we wrote an article about him for the daily which then employed us, and we started with the ill-thought line, "The Harry Boyle family is harboring a known Communist..." Then we went on to show that Trivo Indjich was a rather nice young man who had won the affections of his American hosts, and the students of the suburban high school he was attending. The explosion followed shortly after the edition hit the town, ●●●● People who had never raised an eyebrow about our misspelling the Mayor's name or writing court stories in which we had the judge sentenced suddenly took telephone in hand and found our publisher's private telephone number to express their opinion of our libeling a fine young man. The Senior Class voted to make its fund raising project the public lynching of this writer. Elderly ladies crossed streets to whack us with their handbags. There was talk of boycotting our advertisers. This startled our editor into wakefulness, and the City Editor informed us we were going over to the high school to address the Senior Council - in 11 minutes. ●●●● The members of the Council looked like cast members of any Andy Hardy movie. It occurred to us that the heartbreakingly beautiful young teen-agers there would have rejected us even when we were a teen-ager, some time around 1912, but these creatures, and the athletic young men with them, were regarding us with cold fury. "Why did you call Trivo a Communist? He's a nice guy!" was the first query. We tried to explain irony as a humorous device. Dead silence. We went to a nearby library shelf where copies of two books by humorist Will Rogers lay. We opened one to the line: "The rope was a great method of uplifting humanity in Oklahoma." Deader silence. We gave up. We apologized. We slouched back to that den from which journalists emerge to stalk the earth. We tried to forget. ●●●● Several years passed. It was safe for us to walk the streets of that suburban town again. Trivo had returned to Yugoslavia, filled with milkshakes and memories of teen-agers who seemed not to have a care in the world, secure in their own world. Then, we read an article in The New York Times about unrest in Yugoslavia. Five professors at Zagreb University had been fired for agitating for democracy, preaching it to their students and defying bans on their speeches. One of them was Trivo Indjich. His American hosts may have been hazy about the concept of free speech, but Trivo wasn't. ●●●● And since we're digressing from the turf of Belleville to weighty comments on foreign affairs, we have to tell of our meeting with the last previous democratic leader of Russia, before Mikhail Gorbachev and Boris Yeltsin. That was Alexander Kerensky who headed the Provisional Government that succeeded the Czar in 1916 and was overthrown by the Bolsheviks in 1917. Kerensky was a physically impressive man, well over six feet tall, who had been a lawyer in pre-Revolutionary Russia, and a magnificent orator. He had been out of the country when a handful of Bolsheviks seized the Winter Palace in St. Petersburg and set themselves up as the revolutionary government. A pro-Czarist army led by a General Alexander Kolchak was coming down from the north, also with the aim of overthrowing Kerensky. "I was caught between the Right and the Left," Kerensky said to us, some 30 years ago. "Lenin was an opportunist who seized the moment to take power." By the time the dust had settled, Lenin had captured the revolution.

Belleville landmark granted reprieve; Van Houten Barn was facing demolition

A hearing before Municipal Judge Frank Zinna last week resulted in an agreement that Belleville's oldest structure, the Van Cortlandt Barn, which pre-dates The American Revolution, will not be razed to the ground, at least for another three months.

A summons had been served on James McCann, owner of the property, to have the property either restored or demolished, on the claim that the wooden structure is unsound.

McCann protested that it would cost him $8,000 to raze the building. He also disputed the claim that it was structurally unsound.

He said he had been attempting to obtain funding for the restoration of the historic building, considered to be one of the oldest buildings in Belleville.

Members of the Van Houten family settled in Second River by 1700 and the barn probably dates to the 18th Century. It would be of the proportions that a prosperous Dutch farmer would erect.

Among those coming to the aid of the barn were the members of the Belleville Historic Preservation Committee, the Belleville Historical Society, Councilman Dr. Frank Noonan and Town Clerk Mary Lou Hood.

Judge Zinna adjourned the hearing to his chambers and it was decided after some discussion that an effort would be made to raise state funds for the restoration of the barn. McCann, a World War II flyer who had to parachute into enemy territory during the conflict, has been making considerable repairs to the barn at his own expense, and is continuing to work on the building.

State responsible for Homestead Rebate 'errors'

Clara Maass denies bilking state

Jersey Care has strongly rejected media allegations of making excessive profit in its submitting of claims to the state for unpaid hospital bills.

John Colandriello, senior vice president of Jersey Care, Belleville, which Clara Maass Medical Center and Clara Maass Continuing Care Center are affiliated, denied Florio Administration charges that state Homestead Rebate checks had been erroneously withheld for unpaid hospital bills. The media reports implied that hospitals were being reimbursed for uncollectible accounts, but that the hospitals had failed to report bad debt recoveries or late payment of the hospital bills.

Clara Maass properly reported accurate billing data to the state, Colandriello noted. He also pointed out that "account balances do change and in many instances Clara Maass reported this data to the N.J. Department of Treasury."

Colandriello said: "The Department of Treasury's inability to perform this update is the cause of the current situation and (the cause is) not inappropriate activities on the part of the hospital industry."

Colandriello notes that Clara Maass and other New Jersey hospitals utilize several checks-and-balances to substantiate its claims to the state for unpaid hospital bills: independent audits (as many as four a year); physician attestation (standard professional reviews by groups appointed by federal and state governments); and extensive in-house auditing.

"As can be expected, when more than 100,000 patients are treated by the (Clara Maass) Medical Center, errors, while infrequent, may occur."

Clara Maass makes public each year a fully audited report of its financial status, Colandriello emphasized.

Other hospitals have denied media speculation that they were bilking the state or not adhering to standard state policies in collecting unpaid hospital bills.

Several hospitals have explicitly charged Florio Administration officials with trying to shift the focus of the anger of homeowners whose Homestead Rebate checks were withheld for payment of hospital bills.

Ambrosio to investigate Turnpike toll hike

Senator Gabe Ambrosio, recently appointed to serve on the Independent Authorities Oversight Committee, has asked the Committee to conduct immediate hearings on the recent announcement by the New Jersey Turnpike Authority of possible future toll increases.

When tapping Ambrosio for this assignment, Senate President John Lynch cited his "outstanding work as Chairman of the Senate Committee that investigated the Garden State Parkway." Ambrosio's committee conducted an exhaustive and hard hitting investigation of the abuses, official misconduct, and wasteful spending of the New Jersey Highway Authority, the independent agency that runs the Garden State Parkway. As a result of Ambrosio's work, the toll increases on the Parkway were scaled down, the Chairwoman was forced to resign, the Executive Director was replaced, and a series of reforms were implemented.

When asked about his new assignment Ambrosio replied, "I'm looking forward to the challenge. I have always felt that some of the same abuses we uncovered with respect to the Garden State Parkway exist in other independent authorities. The Senator contends that there is a pervasive attitude among those that sit on toll road authorities that they are not part of State government and therefore not accountable to the taxpayers. "They have become governments unto themselves," he added.

Ambrosio is particularly irked by the differences that exist with regard to tolls in the northern part of the state as compared to the south. "In our investigation of the Parkway we found that the cost per mile to travel through Essex, Passaic and Bergen counties was two to three times the cost per mile in the southern portion of the State."

2 Bella Signorinas to reign on parade

Mario Drozd, Belleville chairman of the Belleville-Nutley Columbus Day Parade Committee has announced that a "Bella Signorina" from Belleville is sought for the event. Two Ladies in Waiting are also wanted from Belleville.

Nutley will have its own Bella Signorina and Ladies in Waiting. The young ladies selected will represent the towns at the Ball on Oct. 11 and will ride on a float during the parade on Oct. 13.

Applicants must be 16 to 20 years of age and have at least one parent of Italian descent.

For information and deadlines, contact Drozd at (201) 751-2277. In Nutley, contact Nutley Chairperson Mary Romagnoli at (201) 667-1473.

Tom Salzano of Belleville is General Chairperson.

Council moves to okay contractor

A meeting between the Town Council and representatives of Ritacco Construction Co. last week reassured the council that the firm could handle the paving contract for which it is the low bidder.

Attorney Stephen Gruen and Anthony Ritacco, an owner, stated that the firm had municipal experience in paving in East Orange and Bloomfield, and was qualified by the State of New Jersey to do work for the Board of Education.

The firm had bid $175,000 to repave part of Belleville Avenue and Valley Street.

Questions had been raised by council members about the ability of the firm to do the job. Ritacco had been in the home improvement business previously.

T & M Associates, the engineering firm that is overseeing the project, won authorization of payments totaling $19,000 for its planning work.

Landscape Techniques will be paid $16,164 and Elsa Construction will receive $14,364 for their work on community development projects.

Elsa has been involved in the Silver Lake Drainage Project.

Nicolas & Sons Construction Co. Inc., working on the rehabilitation of the Municipal Stadium, will be paid $39,044 on its account.

The firm responded to an inquiry from the town about speeding up work by doing week-end hours by stating that this would add $19,000 to the contract cost. Town Manager

Bert Kendall said he opposed the idea of paying the premium.

The construction work will go on, into the football season. Kendall said it would be cheaper to use temporary grandstands until the stadium work is completed.

Salvation Army to cite Messina

Councilman and Mrs. James Messina will be among several couples to be honored for public service at a dinner sponsored by the Salvation Army at the Chandelier Restaurant on Saturday, Sept. 21, at noon.

Former Mayor John Crecco of Bloomfield is chairman of the dinner.

Also to be honored are Freeholder and Mrs. Art Clay of Glen Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. John Garcia of Bloomfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Martino of Morris Plains.

For further information, call (201) 674-4277.

Golden Comments

By Jim Golden

The financial powerhouse Salomon Brothers dug a deep hole for itself in the most sacred market of trading in the market of U.S. Treasury securities. They violated federal rules against acquiring more than 35% of Treasury notes and bonds at a government auction... a ceiling designed to prevent large bidding firms from purchasing enough of an issue to dictate the price of the securities when they resell them to smaller buyers. The firm stood at the top half of half dozen such bidders. The firm's chairman and president both resigned after a week in which the trading scandal grew to endanger the health and the existence of the 81-year-old firm.

A bombshell was dropped when it was admitted that the firm's executives had learned last April of a trading violation but had failed to report it "due to a lack of sufficient attention" to the matter. The firm later found still more irregularities but apparently did not disclose them until faced with a government investigation. "The fact that they believed they didn't have to obey the rules is shocking," said Stephen Miller, a Philadelphia securities lawyer. "To be seen to have violated the rules and to have people at the highest levels of the company know about it — and possibly even wink at it — is also shocking."

Salomon rigged bids to exceed the 35% trading ceiling in at least three Treasury auctions during the past nine months. In December the firm bought 35% of an $8.5 billion, four-year-note sale and also submitted a $1 billion bid that was ostensibly for a customer but was really for its own account. The combined transaction gave Salomon a 46% share of the overall deal.

In Washington lawmakers called for tighter regulation of the $2.2 trillion government securities market. Declared Congressman Edward Markey, a Massachusetts Democrat who chairs a subcommittee that oversees Treasury bond trading: "The issue is the integrity of the most important financial marketplace in the world."

Markey blamed lax regulation for permitting Salomon to display "a cavalier disregard for the rules." Democratic Senator Christopher Dodd of Connecticut demanded that Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady conduct a "full review" of the department's auction rules. With a $300 billion federal budget deficit to finance, Washington cannot afford to scare any bond buyers away.

The Treasury Department, in an attempt to restore confidence in the market, barred Salomon from bidding at further auctions, however, when billionaire financier Warren Buffett announced he was assuming the chairmanship of Salomon Brothers on an interim basis, he stepped into the growing morass even before his new seat got warm, by in a series of telephone calls with vacationing Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, Buffett successfully lobbied for leniency. Salomon was permitted to trade, but for its own account only, not on behalf of clients. The decision was more than symbolic, since Salomon, one of only 40 firms designated as primary dealers in T-bonds and T-bills, directly and indirectly counts on government securities for about 25% of its business. The firm only recently participated in an auction under the watchful eye of Treasury officials.

The scandal aroused suspicion that other firms might be playing similar games. Therefore, an intensified array of investigations by the Federal Reserve Bank, the Justice Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission — where enforcement director William McLucas is personally heading the inquiry — and the New York Stock Exchange were launched.

The Treasury Department is re-examining the records of every auction since 1986, a total of more than 200, searching for evidence of collusion with customers to violate the 35% rule. Industry analysts expect only minor infractions to turn up. Still says Howard Sirota, a New York City attorney, "this proves that the market isn't quite as pristine and squeaky clean as its participants would have us believe."

Salomon already faces many lawsuits filed by investors who charge they overpaid for securities because of artificially inflated prices or were paid less interest income because of deflated yields.

Fire Dept. promotes "Escape Fire" drive

"Even seconds count in a fire," Belleville Fire Chief Walter Beresford said this week. "The less time spent deciding who will carry the baby or trying to open a painted-shut window, the more time you have to get out safely."

Fire Prevention Week has for its theme this year "Fire Won't Wait-Plan Your Escape."

"It isn't enough to simply install a smoke detector in the home and forget about it," Beresford said.

"Households can be lulled into a false sense of security once they purchase the required smoke detectors. It is important for people to understand smoke detectors are only one aspect of a comprehensive home fire safety plan."

He recommends that each home develop a fire escape plan, with each member of the household participating. Youngsters can help by drawing and coloring a floor plan showing exits.

Two ways out of each room should be identified and indicated on the floor plan.

Special provisions should be made for infants and very old and physically impaired family members, including locating their sleeping areas near an exit, on the ground level, if possible, and putting someone in charge of helping with their escape.

Once the escape has been established, Beresford stated, a walk-through is a good idea to try out each exit. Make sure windows open easily and that no exits are obstructed by furnishings, toys or heavy objects.

Also, test a smoke detector so everyone knows what the alarm sounds like, and instruct children to react appropriately to the alarm.

Caputo resumes citizen meetings

Councilman Frank Caputo will resume his regular monthly meetings with Second Ward residents on Wednesday, Sept. 18. Caputo said his purpose is to keep residents of the ward informed of events, and to share information.

Essex County Freeholder President Joseph C. Parlaviccio will be the special speaker at the meeting. County Executive Thomas J. D'Al-essio is scheduled for Oct. 16 and Town Manager Bert Kendall is scheduled for the Nov. 12 meeting.

Caputo said, "It represents a direct line of communication with the people. Everyone has an opportunity to be a part of accomplishing something in their community."

Meetings are held in the Recreation House, 470 Jerusalem St., at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments are served.

A REMEMBRANCE - Joseph Hatch of the Belleville Historical Society holds a painting of the Dutch Reformed Church made by Clara Ryan on a slate taken from the replaced roof of the church, which is the oldest functioning congregation in New Jersey. Hatch is direct descendant of Josiah Hornblower, who renamed Second River to Belleville, and brought the Industrial Revolution to America by bringing the steam engine here in 1753.

THE SLATE OF HISTORY - Belleville artist Clara Ryan created this rendering of the First Reformed Church and its historic cemetery on a slate that came from the roof of the church, replaced when the roof was rehabilitated two years ago. It seemed appropriate to the Belleville Historical Society that the slate be used to provide the background for the painting. The work is dated Aug. 11, 1991, and refers to "Beautiful Village" as Josiah Hornblower named the town in 1793.

Free children's IDs

Councilman Mario Drozd will be sponsoring a free Child Emergency I.D. Program. On Sept. 21, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., parents can bring their children to the Belleville Little League Club House located at 92 Montgomery Place.

According to Drozd, the photo and fingerprinting session is voluntary. Parent must sign a permission slip to have this service done. The child's photo, personal description and thumb-print will be placed on an I.D. card the size of a credit card and then laminated. The card is for the parents to take home and put in a safe place. Then in the event of an emergency (like the disappearance of a child) the child's card can be given to the police to aid them in their location efforts.

The event is in cooperation with the Essex County Crime Prevention Officers Association who will be supplying the equipment. Belleville's Police Department and the Essex County Sheriff's Office will be supplying the officers to do the fingerprinting. Members from the Citizens for a Better Belleville will supply the volunteers.

Councilman Mario Drozd is urging all parents to bring their children to this event. It is a free service offered to the community and applies to non residents also. Councilman Drozd said this is the 6th consecutive year he is directly involved with this program. This event is carried out annually due to the public's response and all of the volunteers who make this possible.

Christmas Show bus trip planned

The Friends of the Belleville Public Library have announced a bus trip to Radio City Music Hall for the Annual Christmas Show on Tuesday, Nov. 19.

The cost will be $39 per person, including transportation and a ticket to the show.

The chartered bus will leave the Belleville Library at 9:15 a.m. and return in late afternoon. Tickets may be purchased at the Main Library, 221 Washington Ave. or at the Shafter Branch Library, 30 Magnolia St. in Silver Lake.

IT'S OFFICIAL—When Jackie Rega's Lemon Ice closes shop for the year, summer can be officially considered over, at least in Belleville. For almost 40 years, the opening of the shop has been the official herald of Spring. Even now, Rega is planning his display of Christmas trees.

GOP calls on Turnpike to brake on toll hikes

Assemblyman Marion Crecco was among the ranking Republican members of three Assembly committees today which called upon the New Jersey Turnpike Authority to refrain from incurring any additional debt that may result in higher tolls in the future.

Six Republican legislators sent a letter to David Goldberg, chairman of the authority expressing their outrage at the disclosure that the Turnpike Authority anticipates a 50 percent toll increase in 1995 to support more than $2.8 billion in bonds to be issued by January 1992.

In addition to Mrs. Crecco who serves on the Transportation Authorities Committee, the letter was signed by Assemblyman John V. Kelly, Dick Kamin, Alex De Croce, Scott Garrett, and Frank Catania, also of the Transportation Authorities Committee.

The six charged that the authority is in fiscal disarray because it has agreed to become a "cash flow" for the Florio administration. The most recent example they cited was the authority's willingness to bail out Gov. Florio and balance his proposed state budget by purchasing a 4-mile stretch of I-95 in Bergen County for $400 million. They pointed out that the authority originally insisted the money for the road scheme would come from an existing 1985 bond issue designated for Turnpike widening — not from the issuance of new bonds.

"It has been reported that not only does the Authority intend to reissue its entire $2.5 billion in outstanding debt, but also intends to issue an additional $322 million in bonds," said Crecco.

"Additionally, the entire amount of the bonds will be issued under broad covenants which will allow Turnpike revenues to be used to further support both current and future tax-borne and deficit-ridden state budgets, as well as to fund special, as yet unidentified, projects," Crecco added.

The Republicans said the Turnpike Authority's recent toll increases, when coupled with Port Authority toll increases on its Hudson River bridge and tunnel crossings, "have unjustly burdened the state's over-taxed commuters and are devastating New Jersey's trucking industry."

"To ask the citizens of our state to anticipate another toll increase of such magnitude is unacceptable, especially since the size of the increase may be the result of the issuance of additional debt which was never anticipated by the legislature."

"For the sake of the taxpayers and the fiscal future of the state, we are asking that the Turnpike Authority rethink its position and act responsibly in this matter," Crecco concluded.

Fact sheet: Passaic River Flood Protection Project

Ed. note: The following has been submitted by Phyllis Kronick of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in response to the August 8 letter submitted by Misak Mardichian.

Purpose/description: The Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (P.L. 101-640) authorizes the construction of the Passaic River Flood Protection Project. The 935-square-mile Passaic River Basin has been subjected to serious flooding throughout the last century. Portions of eight New Jersey counties — Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Morris, Passaic, Somerset, Sussex, and Union — and parts of Rockland and Orange counties in New York are in the basin. These include 117 municipalities in New Jersey and 15 in New York.

The severe flood problem in the Passaic River Basin results from its location in the East Coast storm belt. The terrain is studded with lakes and tributaries, namely, the Pompton, Pequannock, Wanaque, Ramapo, Mahwah, Saddle, Whippany, and the Rockaway rivers. Intense residential and industrial flood-plain development has increased flood damage potential.

The basin's flood-prone areas hold about 30,000 structures, which sustain, on average, about $100 million in damages a year. If the 1903 flood (the flood of record) were to occur in this area under current development conditions, an estimated $2.1 billion (in October 1990 dollars) in flood damages would result.

Parts of the Passaic River Basin were declared national disaster areas in 1968, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1984, and twice in 1975. Severe localized flooding occurred in November 1977, January 1979, and March-April 1983. The storm of April 5, 1984, in northern New Jersey caused flooding so severe that it claimed three lives and $410 million in damages (October 1990 dollars).

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers developed plans to reduce flooding in the basin in 1939, 1948, 1962, 1972, and 1973. None of those plans were implemented. Congress then authorized the Corps to conduct a new study of the Passaic River Basin for the State of New Jersey in the Water Resources Development Act of 1976.

Status: In studying the Passaic River, the Corps of Engineers evaluated more than 150 alternatives, including a full range of non-structural plans such as buying out flood-prone homes. After carefully evaluating the economic, environmental, and social aspects of the alternative plans, the State of New Jersey in 1984 selected the concept of a dual inlet diversion tunnel system as the key to the Passaic River Flood Protection Project. On May 8, 1987, the State formally announced its intention to act as the project's non-Federal sponsor.

The Water Resources Development Act of 1990 authorizes the construction of the Passaic River Flood Protection Project at a cost of $1.2 billion (October 1989 price levels). The Federal government will pay $890 million; the State of New Jersey will pay $310 million.

The act extends the tunnel to an outlet in Newark Bay and eliminates the need for nine levee-flood-wall systems in eastern Essex and southern Bergen counties. The Corps is to be involved in the maintenance and operation of the water diversion tunnels. A $6 million stream-bank restoration project in the City of Newark is also authorized.

The major elements of the project are two tunnels, a 20.1 mile-long, 40-foot-diameter main tunnel and a 1.2-mile spur tunnel. The main tunnel will carry flood waters from an inlet at the upper Pompton River down to an outlet in Newark Bay. The spur tunnel will convey Central Basin flood waters from an inlet just downstream of Two Bridges on the Passaic River to an underground connection with the main tunnel. About 5.9 miles of channel modifications will be required to direct the flows into the tunnel inlets and 17.6 miles of levees and 6.2 miles of flood walls will increase flood protection.

The diversion tunnels and associated surface works are designed to protect against a 100-year-flood event (a statistical term describing a severe flood that will occur, on average, once every century). Some levees provide protection against the 500-year flood. The project has a benefit-to-cost ratio of 1.1 to 1.

In addition, the Water Resources Act recognizes New Jersey's earlier contributions of lands and project works by crediting these investments toward the State's share of the project's cost. It also establishes a wetlands bank as a demonstration project to enable the State of New Jersey to purchase wetlands and parklands that can be credited toward its share of the project's cost.

The Passaic River Flood Protection Project calls for the acquisition of 5,350 acres of natural water storage areas, 5,200 acres of which are wetlands. Without the project, these lands could conceivably be developed, worsening existing flood problems.

In agreement with the Corps, the State of New Jersey has promised to continue to protect 6,300 acres that are annually inundated by the river, thus avoiding any secondary development. About 9,500 acres of the Central Basin are already protected as designated parkland, bringing the total of natural storage areas that the Corps permanently preserves to 21,000 acres.

The Passaic River Flood Protection Project includes preservation measures for fish and wildlife, and provision for wetlands mitigation. It will provide more greenways and expand the opportunities for recreation along the river. These efforts will be directed and assisted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in cooperation with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the State of New Jersey, and local authorities.

FLYING THE FLAG—This Labor Day marked the first use of 50 American Flags purchased by the town from Annin Flag Co. The flags were mounted on utility poles on Washington Avenue by Parks Department workers, who had to climb 17 feet to post them. The flags will be used on major national holidays.

FDU announces academic honors

Fairleigh Dickinson University has announced the names of undergraduate students from the Rutherford and Teaneck-Hackensack Campuses who have been selected for the Honors and Dean's Lists for the Spring 1991 semester.

To qualify for the Honors List, a student must maintain a 3.5 or higher grade point average out of a possible 4.0.

Students named to the Dean's List have maintained at least a 3.2 GPA.

Named to the Honors List from Belleville are Matthew Cain and Gregory Muselli. Named to the Dean's List from Belleville are Karen Fulda, Robert Hutchinson and Arthur Stanis.

OUR OPINION

Guilt by sensationalism

The continuing program to demean the reputation of Belleville seems to be a hallmark of the out-of-town publication that loves to put the worst about the town above the best.

Printed in the most prominent part of the front page last week was a story about a Belleville resident accused of complicity in a car towing racket in another part of the state.

The headlines and the story spoke about his being "caught" in a "sting" operation, which implies that he is proven guilty. Placing the story in such a prominent position virtually guarantees that the person named will be found guilty, if the publication in question has anything to say about it.

A responsible journalist would know that accusations, arrests, and even indictments do not necessarily result in convictions. The question, then, is how newsworthy is the story of the arrest.

An arrest is news, but not necessarily newsworthy if there is any consideration given to the family, friends and community. Belleville gets bad enough bad press as it is, without jumping to conclusions about the guilt or innocence of an accused person.

Reporting the story is acceptable, but giving it such prominence that the guilt of the person is virtually assumed by the reader is not responsible journalism.

Should we then close our eyes to criminal accusations against residents of Belleville? No, provided we offer some balance to the news, and the out-of-town publication has a long record of not presenting balanced news.

People trying to feed scandal to the publication find a ready market. Childish behavior gets ready coverage.

Positive programs for the community are not as forthcoming. A publication that does not require paid subscriptions or newstand sales for existence does not have to be responsive to readers. As long as it has advertisers willing to support, or tolerate, its policies, it will prosper.

The Belleville Times, however, is a part of the community, supported in part by advertisers, and in good part by readers who pay to buy it, and it is responsive to the sensitivities of its readers.

We know there are struggling dailies around that have long since given up coverage of day-to-day events in our communities, and only arrive on the scene to report major scandals or disasters.

That is not news coverage. That is sensationalism. And it takes long and patient effort to overcome a single slur against the town. It takes even greater effort to overcome the constant accumulation of slurs that has been Belleville's burden over the years.

This town, the Birthplace of The American Industrial Revolution, has a lot going for it, not the least of which is the decency of its people.

Some respect for that decency would be in order.

One man, one vote, one what?

The one man, one vote (or one person, one vote) idea is basic to our freedom, but in the case of the drawing up of New Jersey Legislative Districts, it has somehow gone awry.

The districts are simply a hodge-podge of disparate towns which often have very little in common with each other, and in which the elected lawmakers and their opponents for election are known to only some in the district.

Originally, of course, the arrangement was that each of New Jersey's 21 counties sent a senator to the upper house of the Legislature, and a number of assemblymen based on the county's population.

There was, and still is, a good reason for this kind of representation. The oysterman of Cape May County would have reason to believe that a Hudson County lawmaker would not have the Cape May interests uppermost in mind, and Essex County's problems were not those of Gloucester County's.

The problem was that the rural counties easily dominated the Senate so that a minority of the citizens controlled the destiny of the majority.

But the counties were the natural outgrowth of mutual development, and the citizens of each county usually have more in common with each other than they do with those of distant neighborhoods.

Destroying the county borders to create legislative districts was not a good service to the people as a whole.

It certainly hasn't served the interests of suburban Essex County. No matter who wins the November elections, there will be no more than one resident of Essex County representing us in Trenton, outside of Newark.

Both the candidates in the Senate District that includes Belleville reside in Bergen County. Neighboring Bloomfield will be represented by somebody from Passaic County. Morris and Union counties will supply the Senators for other parts of Essex County. Only Richard Codey of West Orange may be left.

It is not possible, mathematically, to go back to an approximation of county representation? Could not each county again provide an Assembly delegation based on population? With a minimum of two from each county? And could the Senate district take a number of Senators from each County based on one half the number of Assemblypersons? That's the way it is done now, actually, but in such a nonsensical way as to leave nobody properly represented.

The voters have at least the right to know whom they are electing. And under the present system, most of them don't.

YOUR OPINION

Some good advice

To the editor:

The 1991-1992 school year has begun for many of you. The special fun of summer is behind, and now you face new experiences.

What you get from your school depends on several factors, but you are the most important factor of all. What you get from your school comes in direct proportion to what you desire.

This is an immensely important time for the world. It appears that we might have found a period of peace, and you will play a great part in preserving that.

There are many distractions which can divert your attention from school. These things seem ultra-important today, but they dwindle in significance in later years. Your most important objective now is to complete your schooling, and learn something while you are finishing.

It is not sufficient for you to be some bump on a desk chair. The things which are said in the class should become part of your life. When you hear about the Constitution in history, be sure you understand that this document guarantees your individual rights and makes America whatever she is.

You may echo the old complaint about your class subjects and wonder when you will ever use geometry or algebra. On a busy day 10 years from now you will want to come back to school and kiss the teacher who taught you how to figure the area of a rectangle. Your bedroom floor is a rectangle and you have to figure just how many tiles it will take to cover the floor.

Beside the many home applications you may make, there will be hundreds of uses in business and your position in life then will depend on what you do now.

Many of us outside your school world wish we had paid more attention and learned more when we had the chance. Many wish they had finished their education. They can tell you what a treasure you really have before you.

A good education opens the world for you. You may not like geography this semester, but it will surely mean something when you take that business trip to Brazil, and you know where you are.

You get from school what you take to school. If you take a negative attitude, you will find a negative experience. If you are enthusiastic you will find many rewards. Your teachers and fellow students will be enthusiastic too, and class will be fun.

If you are just a plain normal kid, don't worry about that. Sure there will be geniuses around you and maybe a few star athletes, but you are something special too.

The friends you make now and things you learn will last a lifetime. Make good choices in both areas.

I would like to welcome you back and wish you well. You are an important concern because you are our children and the future belongs to you.

Patricia Pisano, President
Belleville Board of Education

Working on the RR

To the editor:

The closing of the railroad tracks on Joramelon St. has caused nothing but aggravation for the residents and business community. I realize that work and maintenance must be done by the railroad to improve the street and tracks. What I will never understand is why it takes so long to complete a job. The United States can put a man on the moon in less time than it takes to repair a bridge, pave a road or some other public works project. I believe the railroad and government agencies need to be sympathetic to the local business people who strengthen the economy of the municipality and to the residents who pay taxes and have to put up with the detour in traffic. Not only are they inconvenienced but the noise and extra traffic on the side streets present a hazard to the children playing.

One year ago I was deprived of my location selling hot dogs. Now I'm completely hidden from view, and the shutdown of Joramelon Street has caused even more of a loss. I would sincerely hope that the merchants of Belleville would be accorded the respect and consideration they deserve.

I believe that work should have proceeded on Joramelon Street first and finished. The street should then have been opened and work could have gone ahead in the other areas needed. We've got to start thinking of the other guy and caring. Let's work together in creating a better community, by care and consideration.

Will Rogers' words

To the editor:

When politicians run for office, they mean well. They get in office and forget their promises. If only they would remember the words of Will Rogers: "It's great to be great; but it's greater to be human."

• NUTLEY'S Spruce Street, east of Bloomfield Avenue, is approximately 200 feet long. Only one house fronts on the street. No parking is permitted on the south side, and two-hour parking is permitted on the north side. There is space for four automobiles on the north side. A long time ago, a recommendation was made to make adjoining Funston Street, dead end. If this were done, it would eliminate a number of motorists that use Funston Street to avoid the light at Bloomfield Avenue and High. Moreover, parking on both sides of Spruce Street should be eliminated. It's a very short street — relatively narrow and should not be used for parking.

• THE Nutley Democrat County Committee and the Democrat Club are sponsoring a pre-election breakfast for Sunday, October 27 at the Gondola Restaurant — thus carrying on a long tradition of election time breakfasts for Democrat voters to meet the candidates — and vice versa. A notice of the meeting was mailed to members of the Democrat County Committee and the Democrat Club. Somebody doesn't know how to spell the name of the Senate candidate. Senator Gabe Ambrosio appears in the notice as Ambrosia. I guess Gabe doesn't care how anybody spells his name as long as he gets the vote.

The notice also includes an announcement that "a special presentation will be made to Senator Carmen Orechio for his unparalleled contributions, service and leadership to Nutley and his District during his 18 years in the Senate." Somebody forgot to check with the Senator regarding his availability.

• IN the September 24 issue of "Your Health Magazine," a list of the "most stressful jobs" makes interesting reading. According to the health magazine, bankers are the least stressful, politicians are the next least stressful. Ranged from 1-25, the number one stressful job is that of an inner city school teacher with a stress factor of 25. Police officers are ranked second with the same 25 stress factor. Surprisingly, air traffic controllers are ranked third with a stress factor of 23, shared with medical interns, firefighters, waiters and assembly line workers. Customer service representatives are ranked eighth with a stress factor of 22. Newspaper editors are ranked tenth with a stress factor of 21, a stress factor shared with advertising executives and public relations specialists. Middle level managers share their 18 stress factor with sales persons and attorneys. The real estate agent shares his/her stress factor 17 with urban bus drivers, roofers and politicians.

Strangely, executive secretaries apparently have such a low stress factor that they don't even make the list.

• HEALTH CARE in New Jersey is the main dish to be served at the September Dinner Meeting of the League of Women Voters of the Nutley area. The meeting will be held at the usual place, Nutley Museum, 65 Church Street, at the low, low cost of $10. The meeting is scheduled to begin promptly at 6:00, dinner at 6:30, speakers at 7:00. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Anne Lynn Eisenfelder at 667-3013. The principal speaker will be the Honorable Bernard Rabinowitz, Chairman of the Board of Directors of United Hospital Medical Center and one of Nutley's hometown treasures. If you need directions or a ride, you are asked to please call Peggy Farabaugh (667-3784) or Anne Lynn Eisenfelder.

• FRIENDS of Agnes Kelly, the distinguished former principal of Lincoln School, are hosting a birthday celebration for a small group of intimate and long time friends of Miss Kelly.

I knew Agnes Kelly when she dominated the scene at Lincoln School. As a gradeschool principal, Agnes Kelly was without peer. She could scold a student who needed talking to, but maintain a gleam of friendliness in her expressive eyes. Agnes Kelly was not the type of educator who demanded respect — she commanded it. I have very fond memories of the lady, and I'm looking forward to Sunday when I could press the flesh and let her know how much her years in Nutley enriched the lives of those among us fortunate to be the beneficiaries of her friendship and respect.

• CONGRESSMAN Peter Rodino — remember him? If you do, you are among the few. As Chairman of the Congressional Watergate Investigation Committee, he presided over the proceedings that led to the resignation of President Richard Nixon. Rodino is only one of thousands of former public officials who lived to see the day when they realized fate is a fleeting thing. After Rodino retired from Congress, suddenly, his phone stopped ringing.

That experience doesn't surprise me. I have seen it happen all too often — an ex-public official usually is deadlier than yesterday's news. When a person loses power to be influential, he/she becomes another number among the anonymous. So what does one do in the circumstances? Well — Congressman Bob Roe is a good example. He has served in Congress for a couple of decades and currently is among the most influential members of Congress. He chairs the important House Public Works Committee which authorized construction projects throughout the United States of America. Roe is in the position of using his Chairman's post to reward the faithful. As ex-Congressman Bob Roe would go down the same lonely road where Peter Rodino finds himself. No favors — no friends — what a sad ending. Rodino conducts seminars as a distinguished visiting professor at Seton Hall Law School. He also contributes articles to the University publication. So — Roe doesn't retire — he keeps on serving the public he loves.

• FORMER Assistant United States Attorney Al DeCotis was recently appointed by Assembly Speaker Joseph Doria, Jr., to the Legislature's Joint Committee on Ethical Standards. DeCotis is senior partner in the Roseland law firm of DeCotis, Phillips and Lundsten. He is Counsel to the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission, serving in that post for the past two years. In making the appointment, Doria said, "Al DeCotis' experience, his commitment to public service and his reputation for intelligence and integrity will be a great asset to the Community." And that's the way I know Al, too. DeCotis is married to the former Elizabeth Delahunt of Nutley, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Peter "Scotty" Delahunt.

Cardiac rehabilitation: the heart and soul of Clara Maass

Heart disease. Years ago, such a diagnosis conjured up images of massive heart attacks, paralysis and death. Today, such a diagnosis coupled with preventive treatment can lead to a healthier more productive life.

In the Cardiac Rehabilitation Department at Clara Maass Medical Center exercise is the primary focus. Through the Cardiac Department's L.I.V.E. (Life Improvement Via Exercise) program, and Preventive Exercise Therapy a variety of state-of-the-art equipment is used to improve cardiovascular function and total body conditioning. The exercise program begins at a gradual pace and progresses to meet the needs of the individual. "Heart disease is the number one killer in the United States, especially for people between the ages of 35 and 65. Preventing or reducing the risk of heart disease can not only help people live longer, but improve the quality of their lives," said James Fredrickson, M.S., Coordinator of the Medical Center's Cardiac Rehabilitation Department.

Candidates for the L.I.V.E. program include those with heart attack, angina, heart surgery, angioplasty, compensated heart failure, cardiomyopathies, worrisome arrhythmias, pacemaker or cardioverter - defibrillator implantation, heart valve repair or replacement and cardiac transplantation. Candidates for Preventive Exercise Therapy include those with major coronary risk factors (blood pressure 160/90, cholesterol 240, diabetes mellitus) or symptoms (unaccustomed shortness of breath with exertion, dizziness or fainting, ankle swelling, chest palpitations or rapid heart rate, chronic leg or arm cramping, known heart murmur). Candidates enter both programs through their physicians referral.

In addition to exercise, there is an educational component to help reduce personal risk factors. Information on nutrition, smoking cessation, medications and stress are available. Counseling by a registered dietitian, social service worker and psychologist can also be arranged.

The L.I.V.E. program consists of 36 telemetry monitored sessions. The Preventive Exercise Therapy program consists of 12 telemetry monitored sessions. Each session is arranged by appointment and last approximately one hour. Heart rhythm, blood pressure and body reaction are closely monitored throughout the session. Participants sign up for 3 - one hour classes per week.

Graduates of the L.I.V.E. program may continue to participate in a medically supervised maintenance exercise program.

Staffed by a Master's prepared exercise physiologist and cardiac nurse, the Cardiac Rehabilitation Center offers flexible scheduling. For more information on the Cardiac Rehabilitation program at Clara Maass Medical Center call (201) 450-2960.

ON YOUR MARK...Marti Brower, left, of Belleville, had her blood pressure taken by Clara Maass Medical Center nurse Linda Palma at the Cherry Blossom 10K Run. Brower was one of more than 1,200 runners who participated in the run held last month at Branch Brook Park.

Stamp collectors to gather

The Bloomfield Philatelic Society (Stamp Club) will resume monthly meetings 7:45 p.m. Sept. 19 at the Bloomfield Civic Center, 84 Broad St.

The "kick-off" meeting will be highlighted by a mini stamp auction and a short talk on and display of early United Nations first day covers by Samuel S. Goldsticker, society president.

Refreshments, instructions on stamp collecting for novices, North Jersey Federated Stamp Clubs, books from which stamps can be purchased, and an opportunity to trade and talk about stamps also will be provided.

The meeting is open to stamp collectors and those interested in becoming collectors, regardless of age or residence. For more information phone Goldsticker (748-0930) or Winn Darrow (338-4626).

Federal deficits leave the cities in tight situation

This is the 10th year after the Reagan years of supply-side economics and the New Federalism. To commemorate the occasion states, counties, cities, towns, boroughs and hamlets will lay off police officers and social workers and teachers; raise taxes, cut programs for the poor, let streets and parks clean themselves, closes libraries, eliminate hospital beds and watch bridges fall down.

Supply-side was the notion that if taxes were cut, especially taxes for rich, the country would then experience great business growth. Such expansion would generate a rising tide of revenue that would lift the economy. There would be no need to cut back on social programs because whatever the treasury might lose as a result of lower tax rates would be easily covered by new taxes in all the new jobs that would be created.

Taxes were indeed cut and, in time, jobs were created, but somehow the national debt kept increasing — from less than a trillion dollars before Ronald Reagan took office as president to more than $3 trillion when he left, and now moving rapidly higher.

The New Federalism was supposed to render unto the several states the money and the authority to operate domestic programs therefore heavily regulated by Congress or federal agencies. What the states wound up getting was the authority to either cut programs once paid for with federal dollars or to replace the federal money with their own.

The city of New York during the 1980s lost a minimum of $7 billion in federal aid. Money that was used to help pay for housing, education, job training, mass transit, sewer and water projects and so on. So too did many, many cities, counties, towns, villages and hamlets throughout the country.

New York is not alone in singing "The Where Did All the Dough Go Blues." The National Conference of State Legislatures reports that 21 states will be forced to kick off the new fiscal year and aggregate $35 billion behind the budgetary eight ball.

New York State has a projected deficit equal to 22.3 percent of its original budget; Connecticut, 36.7 percent; California, 20.8 percent; So too does our State of New Jersey suffer from a huge deficit.

All of these states are being forced to reduce state aid to local governments and school districts and to raise taxes. Most will lay off workers.

And so, here is where we are 10 years after Ronald Reagan conjured up and unleashed on America what George Bush once described "voodoo economics." In the middle of a recession that will be longer and harder than it needs be because the federal government, desperately trying to reduce its debt, cannot prime the pump with some old-fashioned borrowed money.

We are laying off workers who will have to be supported with unemployment compensation funds. Raising state and local taxes to keep basic services going and cutting back on other so that a private sector in recession will get no help from a public sector in depression. Public employees are consumers just like anyone else and public agencies spend money just as private business does. And when they suddenly get out of the buying loop, the private economy feels it.

The Mayor of New York City recently traveled to Washington, D.C., to plead for government help ... He didn't get it.

At work? While on vacation?

Fire Prevention Week
October 6-12, 1991

No matter where you are, take a few moments to look around you and plan how you would get out if a fire started. For example, if you're in an unfamiliar building, locate the exit doors nearest you and make sure your exit path is clear. When riding in an airplane, listen carefully to the emergency evacuation advice and then count the number of seats between you and the closest exits in case you have to find them in the dark. When staying overnight at someone's home, be sure you know two ways out of the rooms you'll use. And most importantly, develop and practice a fire escape plan for your home with your entire family. Being prepared before a fire makes sense. It could save your life.

The heart and Seoul of Korea

By Barbara Spillane

This summer as part of a group of 39 teachers, textbook writers, and editors from the United States and Canada, Barbara Spillane, a middle school teacher participated in a study tour of the Republic of Korea (South Korea). This was the third year of the seventeen day workshop sponsored by the International Cultural Society of Korea.

The program consisted of over thirty hours of lectures by distinguished Korean professors from various universities that were presented at Yonsei University in Seoul. The lectures ran the gamut in content from Korean history, religion, and philosophy to economy and family structure.

In addition tours of Seoul and other significant cities were explored. Some of the cultural sites will be highlighted in this travelogue of Korea, which was named by the Chinese, who called it 'Chosun,' the 'Land of the Morning Calm.'

Seoul, the capital of the Republic of Korea and the site of the 1988 Olympic Games, is a city of many contrasts. Looking in any direction, one can see low-lying mountains surrounding this modern, bustling Oriental city. However the real soul of Seoul is in the network of alleys and backstreets. It is here that the people live, work, and play. One can truly savor the city here with the sounds of hawks, friendly conversation, the smell of fresh fish, barbecued beef being cooked on a hibachi, and of course Kimchi (made from cabbage, radish, seaweed, chili, ginger, and garlic, which is then fermented in large pots), and bright neon signs in Hangul, the Korean alphabet.

Several important cultural sites were visited in Seoul. Kyongbok Palace (Palace of Shining Happiness) was built in 1394. However it was destroyed by the Japanese in one of their invasions of Korea. Of the original 330 structures only ten major buildings exist today including a ten story pagoda dating back over 2,000 years. Also on the palace grounds is the National Museum which contains artifacts from ancient dynasties.

Built in 1405 by the Third King of the Chosun Dynasty was Changdok Palace with the Biwon (or Secret Garden). This too was destroyed by the Japanese and rebuilt. It remains Seoul's best preserved palace. The harmonious balance of heaven and earth, man and nature, yin and yang, as depicted on the Korean flag is reflected in the architecture and the garden of 78 acres of walkways, ponds and pavilions which are home to various forms of wildlife.

A special visit was arranged by Mrs. Choi, the United States coordinator, to the home of former president, Yun Bo Sun (1960-1962). This compound consists of several buildings each with a specific purpose surrounding a courtyard. There are separate wings for men and women to receive guests as well as various other living quarters essentials. A unique feature of the home was the 'ondal', an underfloor heating system.

No trip to Seoul would be complete without several shopping sprees to Itaewon. It is an international bazaar with vendors everywhere selling authentic and good reproductions of many items. The group set an all time record for leather purchases of jackets, purses, and accessories.

An important aspect of the trip for the teachers was a visit to Hyundai Senior High School (for grades 10-12), which is known as the best high school in the country. This co-educational school of approximately 3,000 students is housed in a contemporary building facing a courtyard. The teachers in the group teamed up with another teacher to take a guest lesson.

Mrs. Katherine Lai, a middle school teacher from San Francisco, teamed up with Barbara Spillane. The two veteran teachers designed a lesson in U.S. geography stressing physical features and ended the lesson with a rap session on life in America for their fifty tenth grade boys.

"For me personally it was an enjoyable experience," stated Spillane. "It was an opportunity to work with another American teacher and in a small way give Korean students a sampling of our education system."

After the weekend the group departed from Seoul for a six day tour of southern Korea. The first destination was Kyongju, the ancient capital of the Silla Dynasty, which lasted from 57 b.c. to a.d. 935. This era is considered the 'Golden Age' of culture.

Significant burial mounds are located throughout the area. At Tumuli Park the burial ground of King Michu who reigned from a.d. 262 to 283 was viewed in its natural setting. The serene setting of juniper, pine, and bamboo trees in a parklike atmosphere was very enjoyable.

On display at the Kyongju Museum were exquisite, solid gold ornaments of the period. On the grounds the famous Emille Bell, one of the largest and most resonant in Asia, is housed in a pavilion.

Next on the itinerary was Pusan, the second largest city and principal international seaport. Like Seoul it is designated as a 'Special City' which means it is administered directly by the central government rather than by the provincial authorities.

In the southeastern sector of the city a somber visit was paid to the United Nations Cemetery. In the central plaza the flags of all sixteen nations fly, overlooking the tombstones of the soldiers who fought under the UN Command to defend South Korea during the Korean War.

Our quick paced walk through the Pusan Fish Market livened us up quite a bit. Stalls, both outdoors and indoors, displayed an exotic array of fresh fish and mollusks from the East Sea. At many of the stalls one could have a seafood dinner as well.

Our accommodations that evening was the ornate but beautiful Commodore Dynasty Hotel set in a landscaped hillside. Near the entrance stands a replica of Admiral Yi's Turtle Ships, the world's first armor-plated ships.

Perhaps the most total immersion into the heart and soul of Korea was experienced at the Songkwangsa Temple, the center of the Son (Zen) sect of Buddhism, a major Asian religion. This certainly was a highlight of the trip for many of us because it enabled us to practice this ancient religion. In a tranquil setting resident monks and nuns share their simplistic existence with visitors. The buildings are of the traditional Korean architecture. In the temples the altars displayed one or more gold-plated statues of Buddhas. One temple actually had over 1,000 small Buddhas. Buddhists believe that by practicing meditation one can receive true enlightenment.

The overnight stay consisted of a lecture and tour by Ying Kyung, translated means Young Monk; meditation sessions, and a special lecture by the Son Master, the head of the order. After sleeping on a floor with only a blanket for a pad, it was difficult to arise for the first service at 3:45 a.m. All meals were vegetarian.

"This experience gave me a true feeling for Buddhism as a religion and appreciation for the humbleness of a monastic life," stated Spillane.

As with all cultures, Korea's rich history is brimming with ancient legends of heroism. One such story is that of Puyo's 3,000 courtesans in full court attire who hurled themselves from Falling Flowers Cliff into the White Horse River far below. These heroic palace ladies chose death rather than invasion by Chinese soldiers. All of the females took this photo on the cliff's platform.

Upon returning to Seoul the group experienced many emotions. We knew that our study tour was near completion; welcomed the luxurious accommodations at the Seoul Plaza once again; and anticipated the trip to Panmunjom in the DMZ (Demilitarized Zone).

The DMZ, located 35 miles north of Seoul, separates North from South Korea. Straddling this is the village of Panmunjom. The area of no man's land (about three miles wide) is heavily mined; surrounded by barbed wire in many places; and constantly patrolled. The United Nations Command (UNC) is responsible for the area of South Korea and supervises tours for visitors. An American soldier accompanied us on the military bus which made two stops at lookouts for photos. Approximately 1,000 American troops are permanently stationed among the joint UNC forces protecting the DMZ.

In the Conference Room of the Joint Security Area, which is where truce talks are actually held, two North Korean guards were friendly enough to pose for pictures through the windows. Veterans of the War will recall the Bridge of Freedom over the Injun River, where it is said the river ran red with blood from several ferocious battles. And also the Bridge of No Return, so named because at the end of the war all prisoners were given a final choice between North and South Korea.

Finally on July 17 my second trip to the Orient ended with the trip to the airport. My mind drifted back to the western dinner and commencement exercise the evening before at the Plaza and the many new friends that I had made. But most of all I thought of the wonderful experience that I had just completed delving into "The Heart and Soul of Korea."

Belleville Times SPORTS

BUC SHOTS

By Mike Lambert

After spending a week in Southern California, it's time to get started with a new sports season at Belleville High School. This begins my 17th year (it can't be that long) of writing for the Belleville Times. My first article appeared in the September 18, 1975 issue, in the school page. (I was a senior at Belleville High back then).

To give you an idea of how time travels quickly, consider that the students in the senior class of Belleville High School this fall were about one year old when I wrote my first article.

The past sixteen years of writing for the Belleville Times have been quite enjoyable. Over the years, there have been some outstanding athletes who have worn the Blue and Gold over the years. However, this is a new school year and it's time to look at the Fall of '91.

SOCCER TEAM OPENS THIS FRIDAY

Varsity soccer coach Gino DePinto, who admits that he is quite superstitious, won't comment too much on the '91 team, not until the pre season scrimmages end this week.

"I don't want to say too much," DePinto said. "We'll see what happens."

When pressed as to how the team has looked thus far, the coach grudgingly said, "well, we scrimmaged Columbia last week and we fared pretty well. We lost 2-1, but the kids played well."

Columbia is traditionally one of the top three teams in the state, and even though it was a pre season game, the results had to please the coach.

"One of Columbia's goals came on a penalty kick," the coach said. "The kids really played hard, but it's just a scrimmage."

Could it be something to build on, coach?

"We'll see what happens," DePinto said again.

The coach did say that the turnout of players on the '91 team was excellent.

"It's the best turnout since I've been here," he said. "We had 49 kids come out for the team. We should have three teams this season, a varsity, JV and freshman team. We have 19 kids on the freshman team alone."

Thus far, DePinto and George Tortorello are the coaches, with Tortorello working with the JV players. DePinto was hoping a third coach would be named sometime this week.

"We've been practicing since late August," the coach said. "Many of the kids competed in the BSA (Belleville Soccer Association) and some of them took part in the Bloomfield Tournament this summer. There were some excellent teams in that tournament, teams from Kearny and Toms River North, to name a few."

The coach also said that the rules of varsity soccer have changed somewhat.

"The game used to be four quarters of 20 minutes each. Now, with the World Cup coming to the USA (in 1994), the rules have been changed on the high school level. Now, the kids will play two halves of 40 minutes each."

"That means the players will have to be in better shape because there won't be as many breaks. They have to play 40 minutes straight, rest, and then go another 40."

The coach admits that with a bigger turnout this fall, the depth problem won't be nearly as severe.

"But I don't want to talk about that," DePinto cautioned. "Let's wait until the pre season is over. We open on Friday (tomorrow). I'll know more then."

The coach was so cautious that he chose to hold off in talking about possible starting players on the varsity team until next week.

The Bucs open the season tomorrow afternoon, at Teaneck, starting at 4 p.m. Next Wednesday, the team is home to Paterson Kennedy, also at 4 p.m. Don't forget, all Belleville soccer home games are contested at Clearmont Field.

Any final words on the NNJL, coach?

"Well, Don Bosco should be the team to beat in the division. They return just about every player from last years team."

How about Belleville?

"I don't want to say too much," DePinto said again. "We'll see what happens."

TOSATO LOOKING FOR RUNNERS

Veteran cross country coach John Tosato enters his seventh year at the helm with some experienced runners. But he also indicated that the search is still on for new runners.

"We're hoping to field a varsity, JV and girls' varsity team this year," Tosato said. "We have some kids back who competed last year, but we could always use some new runners."

Returning from last year are sophomores Dave Luongo, Roger Hanos, Sungbok Lee and Sendip Desai. Also competing is senior Rafael Ortiz, who competed for the indoor and outdoor track teams last year.

The cross country team opens the season on September 20, against Barringer, at home. The home cross country races are held at Nutley Park.

Next week, we'll have previews of the tennis, gymnastics and volleyball teams.

Once again, if anyone is interested in reporting on JV and/or freshman sports, please give me a call at the Belleville Times, 759-3200.

JUNIOR BUCS OPEN SEASON THIS SUNDAY

The Belleville Junior Bucs open their 1991 season this Sunday, at Wayne. Once again, the Junior Bucs will field three entries, the "A," "B" and "C" teams. The A team will be for the players 12 and 13 years old, the B team is for 10 and 11 year olds while the C squad is for 8 and 9 year old players.

The Junior Bucs will be at Totowa on September 22 and then venture to Bloomingdale on September 29. There is a slight possibility that the Totowa game could be played at Doc Ellis Field on September 22, but that depends on the progress of the renovations on the football field.

THIS WEEK'S NFL PICKS

In case you didn't notice, I was 11-3 in week one of the NFL season. The upset prediction of New England over Indianapolis also came through. My trip to California last week negated week two's predictions, but now we're ready for a shot at week three.

Giants 21 Chicago 17, Buffalo 34 Jets 14, Detroit 26, Miami 20, Pittsburgh 23 New England 14, Philadelphia 24 Dallas 23, Washington to end Phoenix' run, 27-23, Green Bay 16 Tampa Bay 14, San Francisco 27 Minnesota 17, Cleveland 19 Cincinnati 17,

Bucs play at Hackensack, Sept. 27

Football opener in two weeks

By Mike Lambert

The 1990 Belleville football team improved so much during the second half of the season that the team was awarded a victory after the season was officially ended. The reason for that was Bloomfield, who had defeated the Bucs 17-7 in week two last season, had to forfeit the contest because the Bengals used an ineligible player in the game.

On the field, the Bucs were 5-4, winning three straight and four of its last five games. The only loss in that five game span was a heartbreaking 14-6 verdict to then unbeaten and defending Group IV, Section II champs, Morris Knolls.

The official record will say that the '90 Bucs were 6-3, thanks to the Bloomfield decision in December. Had that decision been rendered earlier in the football season, the '90 Bucs would have qualified for the Group III, Section II playoffs.

That of course is old news and the '91 Belleville Bucs are approaching the season with a guarded optimism. With John Senesky as the head coach, you wouldn't expect anything less than guarded optimism.

"The kids have been working hard and are quite enthusiastic," Senesky, beginning his 15th year as head coach, said. "We've had a good turnout throughout the program. The freshman team had one of its biggest turnouts in years."

Senesky felt the key to the '90 success was the team learning how to win, especially in the close games.

"You have to remember that some of the kids were coming off a 1-8 season (in 1989)," Senesky said.

"They were playing hard that year, but the breaks weren't coming and more the team lost, the more confidence the kids lost."

"When we started to win in the second half of last season, the confidence began to snowball. Consequently, we got the breaks that helped us to win."

The key to the Buc turnaround of 1990 was the Paramus game in week five. The Bucs were 1-3 coming into that game and trailed 18-7 in the fourth quarter. The team appeared to be struggling, but a late rally by Belleville enabled the Bucs to win, 19-18. From that point on, the team began to find ways to win, rallying to win at Teaneck, 9-6 and then pulling a major upset at home against Don Bosco, 13-6. In three of Belleville's last four victories in '90, the Bucs had to come back from at least a touchdown deficit to win.

The '91 team returns a number of players who contributed to the varsity success last fall. In the teams first scrimmage at East Orange last Saturday, the Bucs looked pretty good.

"We came through the game without injury," Senesky said. "The key is to stay healthy. We've got some kids with experience, but the key now is developing the depth factor. We don't have many seniors on the team, so we'll be looking to the sophomores and juniors to fill some important roles."

"East Orange was a good test for us. They have good size and speed at the skill positions. Overall, the scrimmage worked out well, especially playing against an Essex County school."

Senesky noted that the renovations at Doc Ellis Field have made for some modifications in practice schedules.

"We've had some obstacles in practice because of the renovations to the varsity field. We've had to alter the practice field a little and a few kids have turned ankles. We also can't scrimmage another team at Belleville until the field is ready."

Senesky and other school officials have been told that the field will be ready for the Bucs home opener, which is set for the first week in October against Bloomfield.

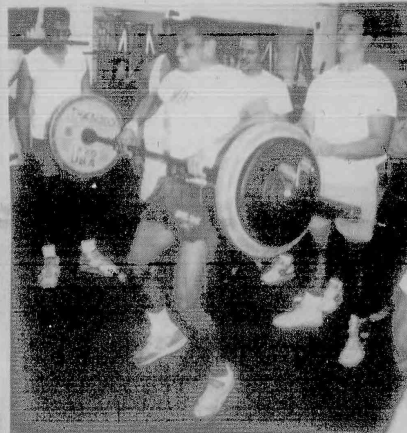

Belleville was scheduled to have "passing" scrimmages with West Essex and Cedar Grove this week. On Saturday, the Bucs will travel to Columbia for a game scrimmage, starting at 10 a.m.

The following Saturday, September 21, Belleville will travel to Livingston for its final pre season game. The regular season opener is slated for Friday evening, September 27, at Hackensack.

"This should be a good week of competition for us," Senesky said. "We'll scrimmage three times and I'll know more about what kids will be playing at certain positions."

Senior defensive back John McAloon attempts a 215-lb. lift.

Junior QB John Alvarado receives encouragement from teammates as he completes a 230-lb. lift.

RECREATION ROUNDUP

Fall programs

The Belleville Department of Recreation & Cultural Affairs has announced the start of its fall activities schedule.

The Girls' Cheerleading Program will take place on Thursdays at School 3, as of Sept. 19. Girls in grades 1-4 should report from 6:30-7:30 and girls in grades 5-8 should report from 7:30-8:30. Cheerleading is also offered on Tuesday nights at School 8 beginning on Sept. 17 for girls in grades 1-6 from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

Intramurals for children in the Middle School grades 7-8 will be held on Tuesdays and Wednesdays in the JHS Boys Gym from 3:00-4:00 beginning Sept. 24.

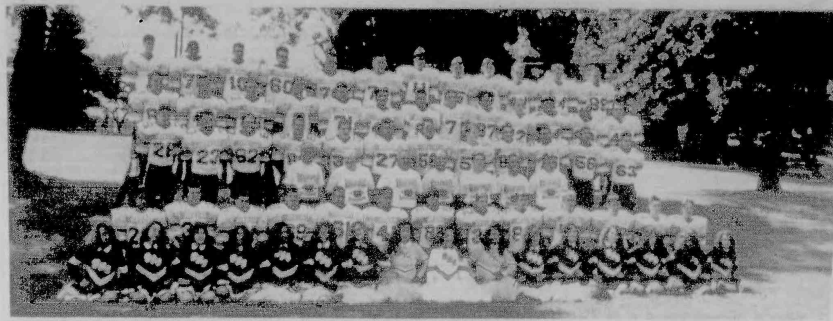

Girls' Twirling will be held on Mondays at School 10 beginning Sept. 23. Girls in grades 1-4 will meet 6:30-7:30 on Mondays and grades 5-8 will meet 7:30-8:30 at the School 10 session. Girls must provide their own batons for this activity. Twirling will also be offered on Wednesday nights at School 7 beginning Sept. 25. The twirling program is tentative, pending the hiring of qualified instructors.

Adult Open Volleyball will start on Wednesday, Oct. 2 from 6:30-9:00 p.m. at School 3 for men and women.

For more information on upcoming programs like basketball, volleyball leagues and wrestling, call 450-3422 between 8:30-4:00, Monday through Friday.

Basketball and Wrestling applications for children will be available at the Recreation Dept. office, 407 Joramemon Street, by mid-October.

Seattle 28 Denver 26, Atlanta 20 San Diego 17, LA Raiders 30 Indianapolis 14, New Orleans 27 LA Rams 20. On Monday Night, a good one in Houston, with Kansas City beating the Oilers, 35-31. The upset pick is Detroit over Miami.

There are some good games this week, with the Giants-Chicago, Washington-Phoenix, San Francisco-Minnesota, Kansas City-Houston and Philadelphia-Dallas games leading the way.

THIS WEEK'S "JOHN ENGEL" QUIZ

Teaneck's own John Engel, who will probably be at the Belleville-Teaneck soccer game tomorrow afternoon in Teaneck (he'll probably kick out the ceremonial first ball), wants to know when was the last time the New York Giants did not score a touchdown in Giants Stadium? How did the Giants do that season? Who quarterbacked the Giants' opposition that day?

Chiropractic & Sports

Studies have shown that a chiropractically aligned spine and nervous system increase the performance of any athlete.

Nerves that come from the spinal cord must go through the vertebrae and connect to different body parts. These nerves must be 100% functional in order to have 100% in performing. Pinched nerves reduce this effect. Get a Chiropractic Exam today. Also ask about our Massage Therapy Care.

RECREATION ROUNDUP

Over 30 League teams needed.

The Belleville Recreation Department is presently seeking teams for its "Over 30" Men's Basketball League. The league plays its games on Wednesday nights at the Middle School, beginning Nov. 13. Teams must be comprised of 75% Belleville residents and an entry fee is required. For more information, or if interested, call the Recreation office at 450-3422.

Twirling

instructors needed

The Belleville Recreation Department is presently seeking two adult girls to work as instructors for its recreation twirling program. The program is on Monday and Wednesday nights, 6:30-8:30 p.m., beginning Sept. 23.

Qualified applicants must know baton twirling and must be able to teach it to children in grades 1-8. Responsible high school seniors might also be considered for employment in this capacity, but adult applicants would be given priority.

For more information or to apply, call the Recreation office at 450-3422.

Engineering honor society induction

The New Jersey Gamma Chapter of Tau Beta Phi, the national engineering society, has inducted two Belleville residents, students at the New Jersey Institute of Technology.

Josephine Marino, a Senior majoring in Chemical Engineering and Steve Allen Platt, a Senior majoring in Industrial Engineering, received the honor.

To be eligible for admission,

Seniors must be ranked in the top fifth of their class.

Members of the Gamma Chapter, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary, perform various roles in the university, including sponsorship of the Order of the Engineer, the proctoring of Junior Engineering and Technology TEAMS competition and acting as tour guides for the university's open house.

Candidate urges reform

"The time is now for reform in county government," Phil Nufrio, Republican candidate for freeholder at large, said in a press statement.

"Virtually every piece of news about county government tells us of one disaster following another. Our Essex County Democrats have covered the spectrum from sloppy fiscal spending to myriad improprieties."

County executive Thomas D'Alessio recently appointed Assemblyman Willie Brown as chief of staff.

This is a very demanding job, requiring full-time participation and then some. We have been told that the assemblyman will work weekends and evenings to fulfill all his obligations," Nufrio said.

No matter what kind of balancing act the assemblyman intends to use, the public will be sold short. Is the assemblyman to ignore the needs of the people in his district, or is he being paid $60,000 a year for what is essentially a part time job. This political appointment is a perfect example of heaping insult upon injury," he said.

Nufrio called attention to other outrages in place: The U.S. Attorney's investigation of personnel practices of the freeholder board, which is spending more than $250,000 beyond the legal limit so that many political friends and family members can be hired as confidential aides to the freeholders.

"Also," he continued, "there is the acting warden of the West Essex Jail Annex, the acting public safety director for the county, and chief in the Sheriff's department who are being paid over $50,000 per year while they simultaneously collect a municipal or county pension."

Nufrio noted the Democrat mayor of Orange, a candidate for state assembly, was recently appointed legal counsel to the Passaic Valley Water Commission, an agency funded by Essex County taxpayers, at a salary exceeding $35,000 per year.

"Here we are faced with more than simple cronyism," said Nufrio.

"Should he be elected to the assembly, a serious conflict of interest could exist. The legislature makes the laws which controls these commissions."

"Meanwhile, Essex County is faced with a financial disaster. There have been monumental layoffs of county employees which have seriously effected the functioning of county services."

HOW ASPIRIN WORKS

Only recently have scientists been able to pinpoint the way in which aspirin is so effective at relieving pain. It does so, it turns out, by interfering with the body's synthesis of a naturally-occurring substance called prostaglandin. Specifically, aspirin inhibits the formation of PGE2, a prostaglandin which increases the awareness of pain. Aspirin also targets prostaglandins which are responsible for the heat and swelling of inflammation and others which promote blood coagulation. The unwanted aspirin side effect of stomach irritation is due directly to the drug's suppression of the prostaglandin responsible for inhibiting acid production and preventing acid damage in the lining of the stomach. To counter this undesirable effect, most aspirin users turn to buffered aspirin.

Turn to ROSSMORE PHARMACY for all your medication needs. We have a full service pharmacy at 338 Washington Ave. Free delivery is provided by calling 759-1956, 759-1968. "Your Doctor Knows Us - Your Doctor Trusts Us." A wide selection of items are carried including greeting cards, baby needs, cosmetics and Russell Stover candy. Watch our column in the upcoming weeks for different topics on health and medications. Open: Daily 9am-10pm, Sundays 9am-9pm.

HINT: Aspirin belongs to the group of drugs known as "non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs" (NSAID's) which include ibuprofen and other relatives.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice of Approval

Please be advised that the Zoning Board of Adjustment of the Township of Belleville, New Jersey on September 3, 1991 approved via a resolution, the Application of V.J. Valley Corp., a New Jersey Business Corporation for a variance site plan approval at property located at 11-13 Valley Street, Belleville, New Jersey and being further identified as Block 73 and Lots 32, 34 and 35 as shown on the tax maps of the Township of Belleville.

By virtue of the approval adopted by the Zoning Board of Adjustment of the Township of Belleville, the Applicant will be permitted to use the subject property as an auto body repair shop with fenced in parking on the adjoining lot on Williams Street subject to the conditions imposed by the Zoning Board of Adjustment as it effects the environment, traffic pattern, circulation, drainage, sewer systems, public utilities or transportation and requiring the demolition of the existing structure at the corner of Williams and Valley Street within six months and subject to the approval and confirmation of the Township Shade Tree Commission and the Township Engineer's review of the final plans and subject to all the appropriate approvals of the DEP, EPA and BOCA requirements.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

SEALED proposals will be received by the Board of Education of the Township of Belleville, County of Essex, New Jersey, at its Administrative Office Complex, 190 Corlandt Street, Belleville, New Jersey in accordance with the specifications prepared by the Secretary/School Business Administrator, for Public Address System at the Belleville High School, on September 25, 1991 at 11:00 am previous time.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids and/or to accept the bid that in its judgment will be best for the School District of Belleville, and to waive any informalities. If only one bid is received, the Board reserves the right to reject said bid without opening the same.

No bid will be accepted unless accompanied by a certified check or bid bond for ten percent of the bid, drawn to the order of the Belleville Board of Education.

The bidders are required to comply with the requirements of P.L. 1975, C. 127, New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, and Ch. 33, Laws of 1977.

No bid will be considered, regardless of the postmark unless it is in the hands of the Secretary/School Business Administrator prior to the time act for the opening of the bids.

High-Tech Furnaces Need Professional Care

Sophisticated new natural gas heating equipment needs regularly scheduled service by a professional heating contractor to ensure top performance, according to the American Gas Association.

Like today's high-tech automobiles, the new generation of high-efficiency natural gas furnaces should be serviced by a trained professional. A.G.A. recommends that a qualified gas contractor perform an annual routine inspection of any heating system.

During the service call, the contractor should visually inspect the furnace venting system and chimney for any signs of leaks, corrosion, rust, moisture or blockage; test for proper combustion and, if necessary, adjust the burners; clean and replace the air filter; lubricate motors and fans that require it; check for cracked or frayed blower belts; clean the pilot and burner chamber; and clean and adjust thermostats.

Between annual inspections, the homeowner should clean or replace the furnace filter or air cleaner every three months, and remove dust and lint from the furnace, vents, registers or baseboard heating units on a regular basis. Outside, gas meters should be kept cleared of snow and debris.

Video conference planned on home ownership for Sept. 23

Lucietta Monteleone, President of the Bloomfield, Glen Ridge, Nutley, and Belleville Board of Realtors announces that Governor Jim Florio, in cooperation with the New Jersey Association of Realtors (NJAR) and the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency, will host a free statewide video conference on buying a home. The conference will take place Monday, Sept. 23 beginning at 6:45 p.m.

The video conference, "Yes, You Can Buy A Home In New Jersey," will be broadcast from Newark to local sites in each of the state's 21 counties. Essex County residents can attend the seminar at New Jersey Network's studio in Newark.

Other county residents can attend at the following sites:
Bergen County: Ramapo State College, Mahwah; Hudson County: Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken; Hunterdon County: South Hunterdon Regional H.S., Lambertville; Middlesex County: Middlesex County College, Edison.
Monmouth County: Brookdale Community College, Lincroft; Morris County: Drew University, Madison; Passaic County: William Paterson College, Wayne; Somerset County: Watchung Hills H.S., Warren; Sussex County: Kittatiny Regional H.S., Newton; Union County: Kean College, Union; Warren County: Roxbury Twp. H.S., Succasunna.

The evening's program will consist of a panel discussion on the benefits of home ownership, how to find financing for a home, special loan programs, and the tax advantages home ownership provides. The panel discussion will be broadcast to the local sites where attendees will be able to phone in questions to the panel. Following the broadcast, attendees will be able to further explore the topic of home ownership with local realtor and bank representatives on site.

The Sept. 23 video conference follows the success of a similar program held in June which was attended by more than 1,100 New Jerseyans.

learn how to make that dream a reality by providing them with a working knowledge of the home buying process and the many financing programs available in New Jersey.

Reservations are required for the event and can be made by calling toll-free 1-800-437-5679.

The Home Front

By Nina Kaeser

Did You Know??

For glamour baths, some folks are installing vanities made like fine furniture, many carved or painted with brass or inlay detailing. A few add upholstered chairs and TVs for total comfort.

Don't run a leaf blower or other power equipment on old gas from a gas can. Gummy deposits can cause engine damage.

Mixing textures adds interest in any decor. Contrast slick leather and glass with nubby wool and heavily grained wood. It's effective even in a one-color room.

How to "recycle" old sneakers: put shoes on your ladder. The sneakers, holding the feet of the ladder, will give it greater stability on soft ground.

It should come as no surprise that housing costs differ around the country. In St. Louis and Greensboro, North Carolina, it took less than 20 percent of income to cover mortgage, taxes and insurance. In Los Angeles, costs averaged more than 37 percent of annual income.

Homes are more affordable today. Come see what your housing budget will buy at Century 21 Stanford Agency, 86 Union Ave., Nutley. Call 235-9000.
