C-Span broadcast speech by Roe urging recognition for Belleville

The speech by Representative Robert A. Roe of the Eighth District, in which he offered his Resolution that the Congress and the President of the United States recognize Belleville as the Birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution, was broadcast on the C-Span Television Network last week.

The following are his remarks, spoken to the Congress.

Mr. Speaker, I take great pleasure in rising today to pay special tribute to a community in my Eighth Congressional District.

The City of Belleville, New Jersey has a special place in the history of our Nation.

As the site of the first functioning steam engine operating in the Western Hemisphere and the foundry where the first American steam engine was manufactured and constructed, Belleville has the unique distinction of witnessing the spark which heralded the beginning of the American Industrial Revolution.

In recognition of these momentous occurrences and the many other significant historic events in which Belleville has taken part, it can truly be called the Birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution.

Josiah Hornblower arrived in America from England in 1753 carrying duplicate and triplicate parts to erect the first steam engine in the Western Hemisphere. This engine was built at the direction of Colonel John Schuyler to be used in a copper mine near Belleville, New Jersey, then known as Second River.

Before coming to America, Hornblower was an associate and rival of James Watt, who is credited with inventing the steam engine. Hornblower and his family were very active in the research surrounding the steam engine and there is a substantial body of evidence which suggests that it was the Hornblowers rather than Watt who are due the credit. Josiah stayed on in America and became a successful entrepreneur.

He was much more than a simple businessman, however.

He distinguished himself as a patriot of the highest order during the American Revolution and was one of the shapers of our Nation.

Elected to the New Jersey State Assembly in 1779, he became Speaker in 1780. He was a tireless supporter of the war effort. A bounty of one thousand pounds was placed on his head, and he narrowly escaped capture by the British. Tragically, he lost a son in the conflict.

With the end of the war, he became a valued leader and helped shape the new government. Before retiring to his farm in New Jersey he served in the Congress of the Confederation.

In the 1790's, using designs developed by Hornblower, Nicholas Roosevelt, who was the great-uncle of both Franklin and Theodore Roosevelt, commissioned the first steam engine ever built in America to be made in a Belleville foundry.

The engine was used to power the first experimental steamboat in America, the Polacca, which sailed the Passaic River in 1797 several years before Robert Fulton's Clermont sailed the Hudson River.

Hornblower also served as a judge of the Essex County Court of Common Pleas from 1790 until his death in 1809. His youngest son, Joseph, became the Chief Justice of New Jersey. He was laid to rest in the churchyard of the Dutch Reformed Church, which is also the final resting place for soldiers of the American Revolution, Civil War and veterans from every era.

Upon his death, Josiah Hornblower was described as tall and commanding, dignified judge, a courtly gentleman, noted for hospitality, energy, courage, wide knowledge, conciliatory nature, and honest of purpose, a useful benevolent citizen. This seems a gross understatement for a man of his accomplishments.

Hornblower's presence attracted other scientists, engineers and entrepreneurs to Belleville. Over the years there have been many important developments rising from these seeds of progress.

Samuel Morse sent his first message to Washington, D.C. over copper wires made in Belleville; George Eastman developed the modern photographic plate; Thomas Edison created the voltaic battery, and so many other firsts occurred in Belleville that it may truly be considered as the cradle and incubator of modern industry.

Today, the people of Belleville have worked diligently to keep the spirit and accomplishments of Josiah Hornblower alive. The city celebrated Josiah Hornblower Day on August 13, 1992. This event was the work of the tireless efforts of many dedicated members of the community including Louis Cicien, Chairman of the Belleville Renaissance Committee, Mr. Edward O'Neil and Mr. Robert McFayden of the Belleville Historical Society and the Belleville Times newspaper.

This gala celebrated the proclamation by Governor James Florio recognizing Belleville as the Birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution. It also offered an opportunity to give well deserved recognition to the direct descendants of Josiah Hornblower, Joseph Hatch and Adeline Brehm, both of whom still reside in Belleville and who deserve a great deal of credit for keeping the memory of Josiah Hornblower alive.

Mr. Speaker, Belleville, New Jersey was truly blessed as the site of not just one extraordinary event, but a series of innovative discoveries which in the course of time have fundamentally changed the course of history and led to the significant advancement of industry in this Nation. I will introduce today a resolution recognizing the tremendous impact of these events.

Mr. Speaker, I have been proud to represent the City of Belleville, and I would ask that you and all my colleagues here in the House of Representatives join with me today in recognizing the outstanding contribution by Josiah Hornblower and the citizens of Belleville in creating the Birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution.

Aside From That

By: Howard Klausner

"If you're over six feet tall and you're Irish, people assume you're a cop." Joe MacDonald was looking every inch a cop in plainclothes as he stood near the reviewing stand of the Columbus Day Parade in Newark, camera in hand. As a former member of the Essex County Sheriff's Department, Joe has a reasonable claim to being a cop, but in point of fact the lure of higher income in the private sector drew him from the Sheriff's office and put him into the video tape rental business. "It was a part-time job that became too successful," MacDonald said. "After five years, the store went under." Joe shifted to a job with Mitsubishi, selling tapes for that company, and finally fell victim to a job layoff there. "I'm currently between assignments." However, he is exploring the idea of selling golf equipment. "The golf courses are always crowded. Somebody must be selling them the clubs," he noted. Joe has a way of getting what he wants, if he sets his mind to it. The limousine bearing Governor James Florio pulled to the curb a few feet away, and the Governor and his beautiful wife promptly began greeting everyone in reach. And well in reach was Joe MacDonald. He handed the camera to a bystander, stood by the obliging Governor, and posed for a dual portrait. Joe comes from a family of four strapping sons and a brave daughter, and the votes may come in handy for the Governor next year. ♦♦♦♦ Governor Florio informed the Belleville Times that the recent introduction of a Resolution in the United States Congress for federal recognition of Belleville as Birthplace of The American Industrial Revolution as a "Fine idea. It should be moving along." ♦♦♦♦ Belleville had an official contingent in the reviewing stand of the Newark parade. Mayor Marina Perna and Councilmen Jim Messina and Mario Drozd were honored guests, but, of course, the most honored guest was Belleville's native son, Oscar-winning Actor Joe Pesci. For some reason, the Newark police were not content to escort Mr. Pesci from point to point. They hustled him, moving him fast as if afraid of an assassination attempt. Possibly, it was the result of too many viewings of "Goodfellas." Pesci, a musician and former barber, and a man of some sensitivity, took it all with a good-humored smile. It turned out that the Newark police were indeed concerned that someone might try to disrupt the parade. Some idiot had sprayed red paint on the statue of Christopher Columbus on Bloomfield Avenue, the night before. Nobody knew if there might not be further incidents, a fine reflection on the state of the nation, 500 years after the Discovery. ♦♦♦♦ Becoming a Columbus Day Parade Marshal is no small honor, as James J. Cozzarelli, Jr. has discovered. He was called to Trenton where Governor Florio presented him with a personally signed proclamation honoring the Parade Marshals of New Jersey. He addressed the Essex County Board of Freeholders, receiving an official resolution from that governing body honoring him. (His remarks to the Freeholders are appearing as our Guest Editorial). The Belleville Optimists Club named him its Man of the Year, and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce named him Volunteer of the Year. The Columbus Day Parade Committee honored him at its annual dinner. And even the President of the United States has taken notice. A letter to Jim from Secretary of Education Lamar Alexander stated:

"The White House forwarded to me a very nice letter written to President Bush on your behalf from David Bryant, Director of the Belleville Public Library. Mr. Bryant was thoughtful enough to bring to the President's attention your many contributions to the new look and new life of the Belleville Library, and I want to add my thanks to you for all your good work."

"As a result of your commitment and leadership, the Belleville Public Library is placed high on the list of more than 115,000 institutions across America in whose care we have placed what Henry David Thoreau called the "... treasured wealth of the world, and the fit inheritance of generations."

"As a center of educational discovery for the young people of Belleville, and as a center for lifelong learning for Belleville's adults, the Belleville Public Library is helping America become a nation of students. Keep aiming high."

SHE SAVED THE DAY - Mme Linda Heimal, opera soprano, and accompanist Harry Runyon, sang so well that $7,000 was raised to insure her appearance at Sunday's Columbus Day festivities.

Linda Heimal's singing credited with saving fete

The operatic performance of soprano Linda Heimal may have saved the day for the Columbus Day festivities following the parade, this coming Sunday.

According to Tom Salzano, past-chairman of the Columbus Day Parade Committee, it was Mme Heimal's singing at the Parade Committee Dinner last Saturday that persuaded Freeholder Art Clay to offer to finance the event, cancelled after the Township Council could not find $5,000 funding for it.

Clay's offer was seconded by Council President Dr. Frank Noonan, who offered $2,000 in addition, according to Salzano.

The money will provide a performance at the Belleville Stadium which will include the band music of Gabe Nazzola, Jr.; a performance by circus clowns; an operatic program by Mme Heimal and other opera singers; refreshments; and a stirring fireworks display. The event will start at 6 p.m.

Freeholder Clay announced he would fund the planned Columbus Day celebration at Memorial Field, out of his own pocket, after Parade Marshal James Cozzarelli Jr. pointed out to him that Mme Heimal's singing engagement had been cancelled for lack of funds.

Clay, a resident of Glen Ridge, learned that Parade Chairman Mario Drozd had announced cancellation of the event when the Belleville Township Council declined to vote a requested $5,000. The Council had voted $5,000 for the parade, but the additional activities were considered to be out of the budget.

Drozd said he had hoped to have a fireworks display and a musical program that would include operatic singer Linda Heimal, who sang the Italian National Anthem at the Newark Columbus Day Parade, as well as several operatic works.

Clay was attending the Annual Belleville-Nutley Columbus Day Parade Committee Dinner at the Chandelier Restaurant last week when he heard of the situation.

"I thought it would be a shame for the public to be disappointed, and to miss such a wonderful program," Clay said. He did not state how much he would provide, but the assumption is that the full program will be offered.

Its cost had been estimated at $5,000.

Dr. Noonan's donation would bring the amount provided to some $7,000.

Golden Comments

By Jim Golden

Excerpted from a recent space story in Time magazine by Michael D. Lemonick titled Beyond Pluto explains astronomers suspect that a faint ice body at the solar system's edge - evidence of the breeding grounds of comets.

Where does the solar system end? At Pluto, most folks would reply. Or at Neptune, the cognoscent might say, because thanks to Pluto's odd, egg-shaped orbit, the eighth planet has been outermost since 1979 and will be through 1998. But astronomers suspect that the sun's family actually extends far beyond either of these two planets. Out there in the frigid darkness beyond any known planet, they believe, lies the Kuiper belt, a ring of dusty ice chunks that surrounds the solar system. Beyond that, astronomers say, is the similarly composed Oort cloud, which forms a vast sphere around our planetary system. The cloud stretches two light-years from the sun, halfway to Alpha Centauri, the next nearest star. Occasionally one of the icy lumps in these outer regions is nudged toward the sun by a passing star or gas cloud. As it falls toward our world, it flares into view as a streaking comet.

Ever since these vast comet nurseries were first proposed four decades ago, the only evidence for them has been indirect, and theoretical. At last there is something concrete. A tiny reddish spot of light recorded on a sensitive electronic detector in Hawaii last month appears to be the first component of the Kuiper belt ever observed. The body, known for now as 1992 QBI, is about 200km (120 miles) across, and a preliminary calculation puts it at more than 5.1 billion km (3.2 billion miles) away. That doesn't necessarily make it the most remote object in the solar system, since Pluto retreats to more than 7 billion km from the sun. But it does imply that the Kuiper belt and the Oort cloud really exist and that the solar system's boundary may lie 10,000 times as far away as Pluto ever ventures.

The discovery was no accident. David Jewitt, a University of Hawaii astronomer, and Harvard's Jane Luu, now a postdoctoral fellow at the University of California, Berkeley, had been searching for just such an object for five years. Says Jewitt: "We were trying to understand why the outer solar system is so empty." Is it because there is really nothing out there or because things are just hard to see?

There were several reasons to think the latter is true. For one thing, the existence of the belt and cloud are natural consequences of established theories about the birth of the solar system. According to such theories about theories, the early sun, formed a cloud of gas and dust, was surrounded by a disk-shaped nimbus made up of the leftovers. The newborn star's heat drove smaller particles and gases, including water vapor, out from the center. The heavier, metal-rich rock left behind condensed into asteroids and the inner planets: Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars. Much of the gas and light dust farther out was gathered up into the so-called gas giants: Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. The rest was blown by solar heat and wind to the outskirts, where it presumably congealed into chunks of ice and dust. (Rocky Pluto is anomaly, and many astronomers believe it isn't a planet at all but a giant comet or asteroid flung into its present position when it had a close gravitational encounter with one of the outer planets).

The existence of comets provides further evidence comets are orbiting chunks of dusty ice, whose surfaces evaporate in the warmth of the sun to form halos and tails. "What makes us happy," says Jewitt, "is not just that we may have found the source of the short-period comets, but also that these objects have stayed largely unchanged since the solar system formed."

Brian Marsden, the Harvard-Smithsonian astronomer who actually calculated its orbit: "All we can say for sure right now is that it's far away, and that it is most likely one of the larger members of the Kuiper belt. But it could be something else." If it is part of the belt, a worldwide search will begin for similar objects.

Belleville joins hands with Lavagna in Renaissance ceremony at Library

Belleville and Lavagna, Italy, were "twinning" at a ceremonial signing complete with Renaissance costumes and folk dances, last week, in the Carnegie Reading Room of the Belleville Public Library, itself a Renaissance creation. Mayor Gabriella Mondello of Lavagna signed a treaty document with Belleville's Mayor Marina Perna, who had invited the Italian delegation to Belleville for the ceremony.

The impressive and authentic costumes of 15th Century Genoa did not seem out of place in the muralled room of the library, designed by James Cozzarelli Jr. with a classical motif.

The costumes were worn by Italian actors who have been appearing in the United States for the past year, showing the clothes and the customs of Columbus' time.

Lavagna is a resort seaport town near Genoa, Columbus' birthplace, and the Italian government had delegated Genoese officials to take part in the Columbus Day Parade in New York City. Among the officials was Senator Emilio Taviani, who had visited Belleville earlier this year and had spoken about Columbus. Taviani is a world respected authority on the Genoa Navigator.

Mayor Perna had asked him to find a community near Genoa that could be twinned as sister city with Belleville. He produced Lavagna, a town of some 12,000 population with an ancient history, famed both for its slate quarries and its beach and harbor.

Music and dance of Columbus' time was featured. A repeat followed, catered by Calandra's Bakery.

Mayor Perna emphasized that the Belleville Township Council was not involved in any way with the event, except as welcome guests. Hopefully, cultural exchanges will follow between Belleville on the Passaic and Lavagna on the blue Mediterranean.

Silver Lake sets Halloween contest

Larry Walsh of the Silver Lake Business Council has announced that a window art contest for Halloween will be sponsored by the Council this year.

Open to school children aged 7 through 12, merchants will allow their windows to be decorated or painted for the contest.

Prizes will include a $100 savings bond, a $50 savings bond and a $25 merchandise certificate, and all entrants will receive certificates of participation.

All Belleville children in public or private schools are eligible. For information, contact Walsh at (201) 759-9743.

Annual Democratic breakfast to honor Congressman Roe

The Nutley Democratic County Committee and Democratic Club will honor retiring Congressman Robert Roe at their Annual Breakfast. This event will be held at the Gondola Restaurant, 258 Franklin Avenue, Nutley on Oct. 25, at 9 a.m. Nutley's County Committee Vice-Chairperson Nancy Pepe also will be honored for her years of dedication and service to the Democratic Party.

"We hope and expect to have a good turnout at this year's breakfast," reports breakfast co-chairman Pat Pulese. "A special presentation will be made to Congressman Bob Roe for his years of outstanding service representing our district in Washington. We want this to be a 100 percent show of appreciation to Nancy Pepe and the congressman in this crucially important election year."

Breakfast co-chairman Anthony Tortorello said that Herb Klein, the Democratic candidate to succeed Congressman Roe, is expected to attend.

"We also expect other top elected Democrats to be on hand for this important annual gathering."

he added.

Tickets for the breakfast, priced at $20 each, can be obtained by phoning 284-0927 evenings after 7 p.m. Reservations for tables of 10 can be made by calling the same number, according to ticket chairman Paula Lee. Because of high demand for tickets at this limited seating event, it is recommended that ticket reservations be made as soon as possible and no later than Oct. 19.

OUR OPINION

Discovering Columbus

Imagine the ultimate historic trip - the irresistible lure of the sea. A uniquely gifted navigator out to defy the established boundaries of the known world - guided by day with compass and by night with the added assistance of starlight - millions of years old.

Include in this drama an inexplicable sixth sense which exponentially increased the navigational abilities of Christopher Columbus. The stars his guide, a refreshing balm for his concerns and a sight to elevate his consciousness as he would turn time and again to the Madonna in devoted prayer.

Columbus was also a believer in the doctrines of Saint Francis and would meditate for the love of peace. Could Columbus, in his quietness, have explored the thought of humanity and its place in the vast realm of creation - rather than within the limitations of this one small blue planet?

Could he have realized in his most peaceful hours that his star-guided ships were within himself and that his thoughts were indeed the vehicle in which he could cross untold distances?

I am reminded of that magnificent prophetic line from Jonathan Livingston Seagull - "Perfect speed, my son, is being there."

Columbus would come to explore his genius, his spirituality, his pragmatism and conviction during his four voyages of discovery across the "Dark Sea." He would sail on wings of polished glass, passing moments from a star point millions of miles away to one millions of light-years distant.

This was for him euphoric - the sheer rapture of exploration.

Christopher Columbus was a master of higher sensory perception - he knew the strength of his ideas. He was fanatically certain of the success of his enterprise from the moment of its inception. He sensed the far-reaching impact of his proposal, so he held the idea firmly in his mind - against all opposition.

Columbus created circumstances and America has been blessed ever since.

Francis Bacon stated, "No pleasure is comparable to the standing upon the vantage-ground of truth."

Columbus, a man of passion and action who triumphed over the barriers - to his dream - stands supported by posterity that shall forever acknowledge him as The Greatest Discoverer in History.

He purchased this distinction with the worth of his deeds.

Columbus presented a gift to the world - his reason for existence - that humanity may awaken to its future destinies and reach out to explore - without any preconceived limitations.

Shakespeare wrote:

"There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in your philosophy."

Christopher Columbus provided the incubator for a new society. He as a human entity was consigned to limitations and failings. He was not exempt from the "human condition" nor was he responsible for its existence.

Many societies have exploited man, conquered man, enslaved man, released pestilence upon man and destroyed man. So far, no society has ever had for its primary aim and purpose, the discovery and development of the unlimited potential of man himself.

Columbus was a genius who not only discovered America, but also the multiple routes between Europe and the Gulf of Mexico. He was a unique discoverer because he invented a new idea and a greater perspective. He was, however, a mortal, not a saint or a superman. He did have personal limitations and tragically lacked the capacity to understand human nature. Thus he failed to provide history with what would have become its greatest discovery - a supereane humanity.

I urge you to consider this final thought - no matter what your opinion of Christopher Columbus may be - ponder these lines by Rudyard Kipling:

"One everlasting whisper -
Day and night repeated so -
Something hidden, go and find it -
Go and look beyond the ranges -
Something lost beyond the ranges -
Lost and waiting for you."
GO!

The 'sole source' aquifers of the Passaic River Basin

By Ella F. Fillipone
Executive Administrator,
Passaic River Coalition

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has designated the Ramapo Aquifer in New Jersey and New York as a "Sole Source Aquifer" under Section 1424(c) of the Safe Drinking Water Act in response to a petition submitted in 1991 by the Passaic River Coalition and the Township of Mahwah. Since the 1960's, scientists in New Jersey and New York have recognized the importance of this aquifer as a water supply source. While the primary requirement for "sole source" designation is that more than 50 percent of the people using its water are dependent upon it, EPA now requires more specific scientific data before it will consider a petition. Extensive mapping is also called for.

Meeting the requirements to petition EPA for the Ramapo "sole source" aquifer designation was made easier because all the information needed was presented in two reports issued by the U.S. Geological Survey, which employs some of the best hydrogeologists in the country.

The Ramapo Aquifer is geographically located in both New Jersey and New York. Both states supported the petition. In addition, public support was positive. Many of the towns overlying the aquifer are 100 percent dependent on it for their drinking water supplies. In addition, the surface water flows of the Ramapo River which contributes drinking water for much of northern New Jersey's needs is closely interconnected with the aquifer.

The Passaic River Coalition has led the effort to protect ground water in New Jersey. They first petitioned EPA in 1980 to have the Buried Valley Aquifer System of the Central Passaic River Basin designated as the seventh "sole source" aquifer in the United States. Since then, the PRC has attained similar designation for the Highlands Aquifer, which is mainly in northern Passaic County and New York State.

Two other "sole source" aquifers exist in the Passaic River Basin: the Rockaway Quaternary Aquifer and the Ridgewood Aquifer, totaling five in all.

Now that all of the high yield aquifers in the Passaic River Basin are considered "sole source," the PRC is going to begin a major education program to inform people about ground water and how it functions. A three dimensional model will be used to show how ground water flows, how pumping wells pull water from beneath the ground, and how pollution travels from landfills, spills, etc. A booklet will also be available entitled "Ground Water in the Passaic River Basin," completed under a grant from EPA. This booklet will provide participants with not only standard groundwater principles, but will direct them specifically to the towns in northern New Jersey dependent on groundwater for their drinking water supplies.

Maintaining an adequate supply of groundwater and managing it properly is directly related to surface water users, as most of the surface water in these aquifer areas is transmitted via pipelines to the urban portions of the region. If interested in this program, call the PRC at (908) 766-7550.

By Frank Orechio

• JOE ROMAGNOLI, a pillar of the Nutley Italian-American Civic Association, is discharged from the hospital and is now recuperating at home. We wish him a speedy recovery.

The Nutley-Belleville Columbus Day Parade will start at 1PM Sunday, October 18. Following the parade, refreshments will be served in the ballroom of the Civic Association headquarters at 642 Franklin Ave, Nutley.

The organization is also selling tickets for the award-winning film, "Mediterraneo", for October 22. Sittings are scheduled for 7 PM and 9 PM. The movie will be in the Italian language. It was voted the Best 1991 Foreign Film. Tickets for the movie are $4. Tickets for coffee and Italian pastry are $5. The tickets for the Columbus 500th Anniversary Party scheduled for Saturday, October 24th, are $25 per person.

• THE national recession which started two years ago has led to more than ten million Americans unemployed. Throughout the first year of the recession, President Bush, apparently on the advice of his former Chief of Staff John Sununu, was trying to convince the American public no recession existed. Since the first of the year, recognizing that the people were not buying his story, Bush began acknowledging the seriousness of our unemployment problem. Recently, we heard Pat Buchanan and former President Ronald Reagan lambaste the Democrat Party and its standardbearer - but, neither speaker had any recommendation to resolve the unemployment problem.

I am tired of politicians criticizing the other party. We live in one America. The needs of our country should rise above party loyalty. The president and congressional leaders should meet tomorrow and develop a program that will immediately put back to work the ten million that are now unemployed.

If FDR was president, we would have had a (WPA) Work Program Administration developing jobs in the public sector. We would have had a Civilian Conservation Corps travelling around the country working on varied projects. Two years ago, instead of people losing their homes because they couldn't meet the mortgage payments, Bush could have produced what FDR did in the 30's - a three-year moratorium on principal. I'm a Republican, but I'm disgusted with the negative campaign waged by Bush.

George Bush

Franklin D. Roosevelt

• JULY 2, 1994, the Nutley Sun newspaper will be celebrating its 100th birthday. During the past two and a half years, the columns of trade publications have reported the demise of weekly newspapers in many states of the union. Despite the recession of the past two and a half years, we have been able to maintain a solid base of readers and advertisers for which we are very grateful. Can we do better? Of course, we can - and we are trying. Recently, we made a substantial capital expenditure requiring state-of-the-art computers that merge photographs and artwork with editorial material. We are also on the verge of eliminating the use of film and replacing it with a photo disc. Fifty photographs could be stored on the disc. This is a far cry from the nine linotype machines that we used in our Franklin Avenue location 35 years ago. Life goes on . . . high tech science practically makes obsolete equipment recently installed. You may not realize it, but the country and the world are in another industrial revolution. The quality of life should be improving and our standard of living, likewise, should be improving. Unfortunately, the sour economy has resulted in broken dreams, broken homes and broken hearts. People wonder when will it end? It's anybody's guess.

• "GEE, you are a real friend." I thought I understood what the man meant by the statement. And, I suppose, each of us has a personal interpretation of the meaning of the word. C. Raymond Beran has his own. I commend it to our readers: "WHAT IS A FRIEND? I will tell you. It is a person with whom you dare to be yourself. Your soul can be naked with him. He seems to ask of you to put on nothing, only to be what you are. He does not want you to be better or worse. When you are with him, you feel as a prisoner feels who has been declared innocent. You do not have to be on your guard. You can say what you think, so long as it is genuinely you. He understands those contradictions in your nature that lead others to misjudge you. With him you breathe freely. You can avow your little vanities and crimes and hates and vicious sparks, your meanness and absurdities and, in opening them up to him, they are lost, dissolved on the white ocean of his loyalty. He understands. You do not have to be careful. You can abuse him, neglect him, tolerate him. Best of all, you can keep still with him. It makes no matter. He likes you - He is like fire that purges to the bone. He understands - he understands. You can weep with him, sin with him, laugh with him, pray with him. Through it all - and underneath - he sees, knows and loves you. A friend? What is a friend? Just one, I repeat, with whom you dare to be yourself."

Toxic spill met by firefighters

Training for hazardous material spills paid off for Belleville's firefighters last Friday, when a toxic fungicide spilled into a Belleville street and threatened for a time to close School 9. School authorities decided that the school be kept open, after learning that the fungicide was not dangerous in its liquid form.

However, municipal, state and federal authorities are investigating the reasons for the fungicide's presence in Belleville.

The incident began before noon when a tank truck piping the liquid fungicide into a tank at ELAN Technology, 471 Courtland St., had a kickback from the tank. The hose carrying the chemical broke loose from the truck, and 400 to 500 gallons of the chemical flowed into the street, then into Bella Vista Avenue, and then into sewers leading past School 9 on R Talph Street. A nearby factory was evacuated, and there was concern expressed about School 9. School Principal Pat Forte, Superintendent of Schools Michael Nardiello and Assistant Superintendent Michael Lally conferred with fire fighters and finally determined that the threat was not serious enough to warrant closing the school.

Department of Public Works trucks laid sand barriers to block the flow of the chemical, and tarpaules were laid over sewer openings. However, some of the chemical did enter the sewers and empty into the Passaic River.

Coast Guard officials were notified of the spill, at this point.

Deputy Chief Richard Triano and Deputy Chief Gabriel Santuso directed the efforts to block the flow of the chemical.

Vacuum trucks were provided by Clean Hardware Co. of Edison to suck up the chemical, a job that was completed by 3 a.m. Saturday.

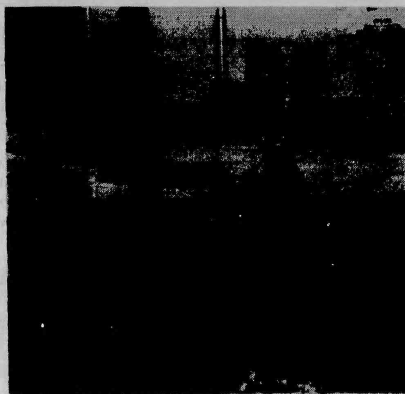

Fire Department officials said that ELAN is a manufacturer of glass beads. There was no information provided by the company that toxic chemicals were being used, according to a Fire Department source.

The fungicide reportedly was being used as an experiment.

Now interested in the incident is the State Department of Environmental Protection and Energy, the Coast Guard and OSHA, the federal agency overseeing safety in the workplace.

DECISION MAKERS - From left, Belleville Superintendent of Schools Michael Nardiello, School 9 Principal Pat Forte and Assistant Superintendent of Schools Michael Lally were on the scene when toxic spill occurred near School 9.

BUILDING BARRIERS - Belleville firefighter works to build sand barrier against flow of toxic liquid at site of spill on Bella Vista Street.

Court Gratia presents winners of annual poetry contest

The winners of the annual poetry contest sponsored by Court Gratia 751, Catholic Daughters of the Americas, have been announced by education chairpersons Agnes Liddell and Marie Bigley.

Jennifer DeAngelo, a recent graduate of Holy Family School, now Good Shepherd Academy, placed first in Division II. Meave Sheehan, a fifth grade student from the same school, placed first in Division I.

Their poems appear below.

I Am God's Instrument

By Jennifer DeAngelo

We can all find a way to spread the word of God today.

If I could have my choice, my instrument would be my voice.

I would sing a tune of His love and humbleness, even the unworthy would see His goodness.

Loud clear notes would carry afar telling of God's suffering for us.

To all souls the melodies would convey the commandments of God for all to obey.

Singing of hope, peace and sharing in a spiritual chord would send a loving message to the Lord.

Thank the Lord for my voice, I am God's instrument by choice.

I Am God's Instrument

By Meave Sheehan

My eyes look to those who have no home,

Those who are left to wander and roam.

My heart prays for the sick and dying,

The sad souls who are lonely and crying.

My hands long to pull food-filled bags

To hungry people dressed in rags.

My ears listen, tell me what to do,

I am yours, Lord, I belong to you.

Mr. and Mrs. De Luca honeymoon in Florida

Wedding vows were exchanged recently by Felicia Ann De Falco of Belleville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Falco, and Joseph De Luca, son of Ann De Luca of Nutley and the late Donald De Luca.

The Rev. Richard Francesco performed the ceremony in St. Mary's Church, Nutley. A reception followed at Nanina's in the Park, Belleville.

The bride was escorted by her brother, Nicholas of Freehold. Her gown was an off-the-shoulder satin fitted sheath with illusion sleeves accented with Alencon lace, pearls and sequins. A matching wreath of pearls, silk flowers and rhinestones held her veil and she carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and cymbidiums.

Jayne Urgo of Clifton was matron of honor. Nina Prosperi of

They were in pink satin jacketed sheaths accented with lace and beading and carried white calla lilies.

Donald De Luca served as his brother's best man. Armand Leonardi of Bloomfield ushered and Christopher De Falco, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Some tears are needed to prevent dry eyes

Not all tears are the same. We are most familiar with crying tears, those that come in response to emotion or eye irritation. But the eye also produces a tear film that is always present and normally prevents the condition known as dry eye.

This constant film of tears, spread over the eye's surface by blinking, consists of three layers that perform several vital functions. The outer oily layer, produced by the small glands at the edge of the eyelid, smooths the surface and reduces evaporation of tears.

The middle layer, the largest, is the mostly watery substance we think of as tears. It is produced by small glands in the conjunctiva, the membrane that lines the eyelid and covers the eyeball. This layer keeps the cornea wet and helps the entering light refract or bend so that it hits the retina properly, producing a clear image. These tears sweep away debris and help fight infection.

An inner layer of mucus helps spread the watery layer so that it adheres to the eye and keeps it wet. This substance is produced by other cells in the conjunctiva.

Tear production decreases with age but almost all people will have dry eyes at some time. The condition is more common in women but research is needed to determine if menopause and declining estrogen levels are a cause.

Dry eyes can occur as a side effect of certain medications and are associated with a rheumatic disorder called Sjogren's syndrome. Windy days and irritants such as smoke can make a person with dry eyes more uncomfortable. In winter, when lack of moisture in the air can aggravate dry eyes, measures to prevent evaporation, such as using a humidifier, can help.

Symptoms can include a dry, gritty, sandy sensation, accompanied by mucus. Paradoxically, increased tearing can be a symptom of dry eyes. This can happen if secretion is too little, signalling the body to produce more tears. But the consistency is often too watery and the normal drainage system can't handle it, causing an overflow.

Eyedrops called artificial tears can replace the missing tears. But don't use them before an ophthalmologist performs a complete eye examination to rule out any underlying disease that may be the cause. A simple tests can measure tear production by placing filter paper strips under the lower lid. Sometimes the ophthalmologist may conserve natural tears by blocking tear drainage ducts.

In the five mile run, the youngest male to cross the finish line was 11 year old Parinhas Daniel. Also, David Bai of Livingston competed in the five mile race and he, too, is 11 years old.

Congratulations again to all the runners who competed. Also, special accolades to race coordinator Tonia Moore for her fine work in putting the race together. Moore had plenty of help from many people who loved Sam Giuffrida and wanted to make this a special day.

JOE BRUNNER AWARD

Joe Brunner was a professor at Montclair State College. He ran in the first two Sam Giuffrida five mile runs. Sadly, he died on March 5, 1992.

While Brunner was a tough competitor, he never finished in the top in his age group, due to the strong competition.

This year, the race committee of the Sam Giuffrida run put together a plaque in Brunner's memory. The Joe Brunner Award is given to a runner who exemplifies determination and the spirit of competition.

The winner of the first Joe Brunner Award is James O'Brien, who finished fifth in the 50-59 male category.

Team improves to 8-1, county tourney nears

Bucs win on Groeling 'trick'

By Mike Lamberti

The Belleville soccer team was unable to recover from a poor first half and ended up dropping its first game of the 1992 season to Don Bosco last week.

Gino DePinto's team did come back to defeat St. Joe's 4-1, the victory improving the Bucs season record to 8-1.

Belleville will be host to Paramus this afternoon at 4 p.m. This Sunday, the Bucs will begin play in the Essex County tournament. The seedings were not set as of press time last Monday. DePinto is hoping his team can get a first round game at home. Whether the game be home or away, it will be contested this Sunday.

Next Tuesday, Teaneck comes to Clearmont Field for a 4 p.m. game.

The Bucs and Don Bosco met last week for first place in the NNJHL. Unfortunately for Belleville, the first half was not one of their better performances and Don Bosco capitalized for two quick goals.

"We didn't play well in the first half," DePinto said. "But despite that, we were able to hold them. They scored their first goal on a very questionable penalty kick. Their second goal was deflected off one of our players."

"In the second half, we played a much better game. We had some scoring opportunities but couldn't put the ball in the net."

Greg Groeling, Belleville's leading scorer, had the best shot at a goal, hitting the cross bar midway through the second half.

"Greg was closely defended," DePinto said. "They marked him very aggressively. He had to work for every shot."

The Belleville defense played well in the second half, keeping Don Bosco off the scoreboard, but the Bergen County school held on for a 2-0 win.

"Don Bosco is a very good team," DePinto said. "They have so much talent. We'll be playing them later in the season at our place, so hopefully we can have a shot at beating them."

Against St. Joe's, a sluggish Belleville team put the game away in the second half. In the first half, Giuseppe Manella put Belleville ahead 1-0 off an assist from Alex Alexandre.

The Bucs tallied three goals in the second half, all off the foot of Groeling. Assists on the goals came from Manella, Matt Kastner and Joe Colucci.

St. Joe's only goal came on a penalty kick late in the second half.

The J.V. team dropped two games last week, failing to Don Bosco and St. Joe's by 2-1 decisions. Joe Cotugno scored for Belleville in both games.

On the freshman level, the Bucs fell to Don Bosco 1-0.

"We're playing good soccer," DePinto said. "I'll take 8-1 anytime. The kids are playing hard and the effort is outstanding. I'm very happy with the performance so far."

NOTES: Bucs are hoping to have the services of Reddy Perez this week. Perez was injured and missed last week's games.

Belleville had a high seed in last year's Essex County tourney, but the Bucs were upset by Livingston in the first round at Clearmont Field.

Bucs have clinched a spot in the state tournament.

Host Bergen Catholic tomorrow night

Football team stopped by P.C., 34-14

By Mike Lamberti

When Belleville football coach John Senesky first analyzed the 1992 schedule last spring, he knew right away it would be a tremendous challenge for his team.

Now, three games into the season, the coach's prognosis has proved quite accurate. The Bucs dropped its second game in three tries last Saturday, falling to a good Paramus Catholic team, 34-14.

There is little time for dwelling on the defeat. Tomorrow evening, the Bucs play host to a powerhouse in Bergen Catholic. Kickoff time is 7 p.m. at Doc Ellis Field. Coming into the game, B.C. is ranked second in the state and holds a 3-0 record. The Crusaders have averaged nearly 40 points a game in the first three contests.

Last Saturday, undefeated Paramus Catholic showed its experience and skill at key positions to pull away to victory. It was the second year in a row that the Bucs have lost to the Paladins and the first time, ever, the Bucs have lost at Paramus Catholic.

"They had so much talent at the skill positions," Senesky said of P.C. "We weren't able to control their receivers. Our secondary just doesn't have the experience to cover those type of players."

"(John) Alvarado did a good job, but our secondary is young and it takes time, especially against a team with their offensive abilities."

Paramus Catholic, led by quarterback Vito Campinelli, has had essentially the same cast of players for the past two years.

"Most of their guys have been playing together since their freshman year," Senesky said. "Now most of their guys are seniors and the experience factor is a big plus for them."

Campinelli's accurate passing shot down the Bucs, who did a pretty good job of moving the ball on offense themselves.

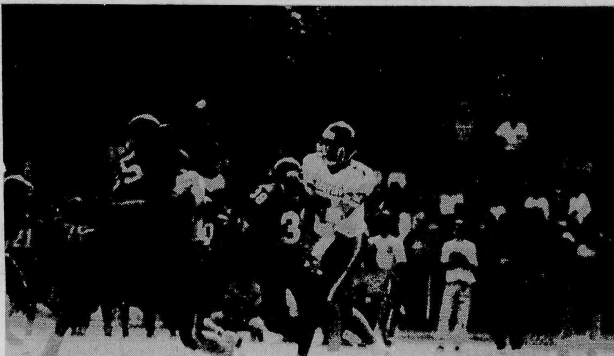

"(Mike) Mundy threw the ball well and we gave him a chance with better offensive line play," Senesky said.

P.C. went ahead 6-0, but the Bucs showed mettle in driving 75 yards on its next possession and tying the score on a Ricky Constantino run. The big play in the scoring drive came on a 45 yard run down the sideline by Sal Berardi.

Unfortunately for Belleville, Berardi went down with a sprained knee on the next offensive series and his services were lost for the rest of the afternoon.

With the score tied at six in the second quarter, P.C. drove the field, keyed by a very questionable roughing the passer call on the Bucs. Campinelli led P.C. to a 14-6 lead, then rallied his troops for another score a minute before halftime.

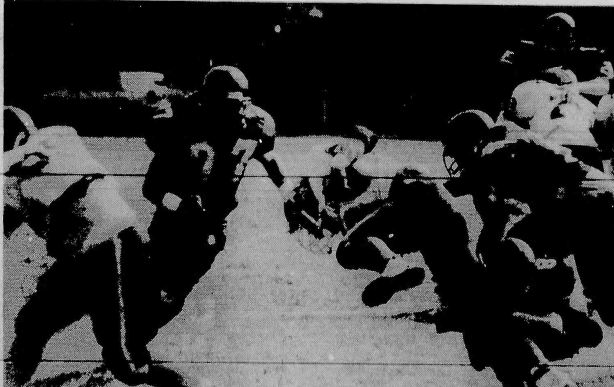

The Bucs came back in the waning seconds of the first half, driving 60 yards to the P.C. three yard line. The big play in the drive was a 40 yard strike from Mundy to Joe DePeri. DePeri's catch gave the Bucs a shot at a touchdown, but with :03 left in the half, Mundy's Quarterback Mike Mundy gets off pass despite heavy pressure from Paramus Catholic defenders. Mundy threw a TD pass in the game and Bucs had best offensive show so far this season.

Running back Sal Berardi looks for running room as Buc lineman leads way. Berardi was injured in second quarter of game and did not return.

Running back John Alvarado lunges for extra yardage as P.C. lineman holds on during second quarter of game last Saturday.

LAST WEEKS QUIZ

Before we do that, let me thank James Fox for correcting an error in last weeks quiz answer. Alfredo Griffin was on first base when Kirk Gibson hit his game winning homer in game one of the '88 World Series. I said it was Alvin Davis.

The last time the Miami Dolphins won a playoff game was in 1990. The Dolphins defeated Kansas City 17-16 in the first round, then lost at Buffalo the following week. Miami last made it to the AFC title game in 1985. The Dolphins were upset by New England at the Orange Bowl for the right to go to the Super Bowl.

FOR THIS WEEK

The 1981 New York Jets are the last time to start 0-3 in a season then make the playoffs. What teams defeated the Jets in the first three weeks of that season? Who did the Jets defeat for its first win of that season? Who coached the Jets that year? How far did the Jets advance in the playoffs in 1981?

pass into the end zone was deflected and the Bucs trailed 21-6 at the half.

P.C. extended the lead to 28-6 in the third, but the Bucs came back, with Mundy hitting senior William Gallego on a scoring pass. For Gallego, it was his first catch on the varsity level and his reception cut the Paladins lead to 28-12. The score was cut to 28-14 when Mundy hit Alvarado with a pass for the two point conversion.

On the Belleville scoring drive, DePeri had another excellent reception and Brian Harvey pulled in a pass in traffic and held on despite a big hit in the P.C. secondary.

While it appeared the Bucs had momentum, Paramus Catholic quickly took it away on the next series, driving 65 yards for the insurance score. Campinelli once again took control, throwing 40 yards for the touchdown which gave the Paladins a 34-14 lead.

"Campinelli's running, Lopez's running and the passing game were very effective," Senesky said. "They gave us too much to defend. We weren't able to put enough pressure on the quarterback. Their offensive line is so experienced they know the necessary blocking angles and are able to keep the heat off their passer."

The Bucs will face another enormous task tomorrow evening when Bergen Catholic pays a visit.

"It's going to be a big test for us," Senesky said. "Their big, quick and have very talented runners and receivers. Defensively, they're very tough."

NOTES: Berardi's injury last Saturday has him questionable for tomorrow's game. After game with

B.C. tomorrow, Bucs have another big task the following week when they play at Randolph.

Bucs and B.C. last met in 1985 at Bergen Catholic. In that game, B.C. won a defensive thriller, 3-0, on a 38 yard field goal as time expired in the fourth quarter. In 1984, Bucs lost to B.C. 21-0 at Municipal Stadium.

Hackensack lost to St. Joe's of Montvale last Saturday. That leaves St. Joe's, Nutley and Paramus Catholic undefeated in the Pacific Division. St. Joe's and Nutley will play each other this weekend.

Zarro TD pass leads Jr Buc 'A' team

By Mike Lambert

Taking a page out of a movie script, the Belleville Junior Buc "A" team rallied to defeat West Paterson last Sunday, 19-13. For Joe DeRiggi's team, the victory was the second in five attempts. The win also keeps Belleville in line for a playoff spot in the Twin County Suburban Football League.

The Bucs took on Bloomfield this Sunday at Doe Ellis Field. Kickoff time is 11:30 a.m. for the "C" team, 12:45 p.m. for the "B" team and 1:50 p.m. for the "A" squad. The game will be televised on OBC-TV Channel 36.

This victory had plenty of excitement. The Bucs won on a late touchdown pass from backup quarterback Chris Zarro to Justin Mohren in the waning seconds of the fourth quarter.

The score broke a 13 all tie and gave Belleville a much needed win.

"Chris is one of our better linemen," DeRiggi said after the game. "During the week at practice, he was practicing as our backup quarterback. In the last series, he asked for a chance to play and we decided to give it a shot."

Zarro's shot came in a most difficult situation. Belleville had a 4th and 22 at the West Paterson 45 yard line. It was at that time that DeRiggi gave Zarro a chance to play quarterback. Zarro took the snap, looked downfield and found Mohren for a 23 yard gain and a first down at the W.P. 22.

From there, Zarro finished the job, hitting Mohren again, this time in the end zone to complete a frenzied comeback.

Belleville never trailed in the game. The Bucs took a 6-0 lead on a run by Jim Palo. The score was set up by a fumble recovery from Ricci Bello.

West Paterson tied the game at six, but Mark Constantino gave Belleville the lead back on a touchdown run. Mike Abidell ran for the conversion and the Bucs led 13-6. Constantino had a marvelous day. He ran the ball 17 times for 142 yards and scored once. Palo was also outstanding, rushing for 78 yards on 14 carries. He, too, had a touchdown.

Zarro was 2 for 2 passing, good for 45 yards. Mohren had two receptions to lead the receiving corps.

Zarro's fine day was not limited to offense. He had ten tackles defensively and a key fumble recovery which set up Belleville's second score.

Phong Nguyen was voted the MVP of the game. He collected 16 tackles and one interception. Al Fusco was once again outstanding, coming through with ten tackles and two quarterback sacks.

"It was a big win for us," DeRiggi said. "We have another tough game coming up with Bloomfield this weekend. But this game should give us some momentum."

The Ghosts of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue Whooooooo Haunts the White House?

The White House is 200 years old this year!

Most of us don't really believe in ghosts, but we all like ghost stories — especially at Halloween!

WHAT SOUNDS MIGHT GHOSTS MAKE?

Knock, knock, knock!
One night, the Queen of the Netherlands was spending the night in the Rose Room at the White House. She heard a knocking sound at her door.

She opened it... and there stood the most famous White House ghost — Abraham Lincoln!

Lincoln's ghost has most often been seen in the Lincoln bedroom on the third floor.

HAVE YOU EVER SENSED THE PRESENCE OF AN INVISIBLE SPIRIT?

Presidents, their wives and many White House workers have sensed Lincoln's presence.

Eleanor Roosevelt said she felt his spirit around, but never saw him.

Lincoln's wife, Mary Todd Lincoln, was interested in the supernatural. She sometimes held seances, or meetings, with people who claimed they could put her in touch with departed loved ones.

HAVE YOU EVER THOUGHT THAT YOU HAVE SEEN A GHOST?

About 40 years after Lincoln's death, President Teddy Roosevelt said he often saw Lincoln's ghost.

LOOK THROUGH YOUR PAPER FOR SIGNS THAT HALLOWEEN WILL BE HERE SOON.

The ghost of Abigail Adams sometimes haunts the White House. She was the first "first lady" to live there.

Some visitors have seen her carrying a load of dirty clothes.

They claim they can also smell soap and wet laundry in the East Room.

That is where she hung her clothes out to dry!

HAVE YOU EVER SMELLED A GHOSTLY SMELL?

How To Choose Home Insulation

Homeowner studies Manville Homeowner's Insulation Guide to select the right R-value rolls or pre-cut batts.
Once you've decided to remodel or add on to your home, you want to select the right insulation for your project.

Check the insulation aisle at your building supply retailer or home improvement center for displays like this "Insulation Information Center." It features a map and chart that show Dept. of Energy recommended R-values for your area, and it holds copies of the Manville "Homeowner's Insulation Guide."

Manufacturers' information materials can make your selection easy. For the many small jobs around the home, choose the continuous rolls of insulation such as Manville PowerPak™ Rolls in the white bags. They allow you to cut insulation to fit small spaces, wrap pipe and ducts, or reinsulate your attic.

For larger remodeling jobs, you may want to use what professional remodelers prefer: pre-cut lengths of insulation such as Manville ProPak™ Battis in the black bags.

For more information, see your nearest dealer, or contact the Product Information Center for Manville brand insulation, P.O. Box 5108, Denver, CO 80217. Or call, 800 654 3103.

DID YOU KNOW?

Style note: line bathroom drawers and cabinets with terrycloth washcloths to match your towels. They'll cushion bottles and protect them from breaking - - and they're easier to wash than the shelves.

Before you start painting a room, protect the phone with two plastic bags, one for the receiver and one for the base. If the phone rings while you're working, you can answer it without making a mess.

Wallpaper borders can alter the looks of a room, yet they're relatively easy for a beginner to put up. Borders at top and bottom give a more unified appearance. You can integrate doorways and built-ins by continuing borders around them.

The weight of a hammer refers to the weight of the head. If you have only one, a 16-ounce carpenter's hammer is a good choice.

Do-it-yourself facelift for the kitchen can save a bundle. Paint cabinets, replace countertop with pre-made sections sold at building supply stores, and install vinyl flooring to coordinate.

Do-it-yourself? No. Smart home buyers put us to work to find the just-right house with no hassle. See us soon at Century 21 Stanford Agency, 86 Union Ave., Nutley. Call 235-9000.
