Macy's warehouse site would be bi-town mini-mall 'ratable'

By Donna DiLauro and Paul O'Keefe

Plans to redevelop the former Macy's warehouse on the Belleville-Bloomfield border into a "community shopping center" were discussed Monday during a conference session of the Bloomfield Township Council.

The building at the corner of Franklin Street and Watessing Avenue has been harassed by vandals in the last 15 years and been an eyesore for Silver Lakers and residents of portions of Bloomfield's southeast Fairview and extreme northeast Watessing neighborhoods.

The property — on the first or Old Road to Newark — is used by Sea-Jet Trucking and A.P.A. Warehouses. It was formerly used by L. Bamberger's for furniture distribution, and an adjoining spot was utilized by United Parcel Service as a depot for delivering Bamberger's household wares.

Although redevelopment plans are in the discussion stage only, Mayor James Messina of Belleville expressed enthusiasm for the project but noted security and traffic concerns would be of utmost concern.

"I hope that whatever plan is proposed will fit within the master plans of both Belleville and Bloomfield," said Messina.

Messina said he would like a new building be constructed and "perhaps it could be built on properties in both townships so as to increase ratables in Belleville and Bloomfield."

Angela Cuozzo Zarro, trustee for Silver Lake Civic Association, said she hoped the plan would be beneficial to the neighborhood. "Compared to the trucks, the garbage and the graffiti, anything would be better," said Cuozzo Zarro.

"It's sloppy and ugly now, it has been vacant too long," said Cuozzo Zarro. "I've heard rumors that Staples made a bid and perhaps a mini-mall would be constructed."

Several businessmen, who are also local residents, had mixed feelings regarding the redevelopment and would not comment.

Paul Ammiano, a Naples Avenue resident, likened to the idea of a mini-mall. "Belleville needs a mall," said Ammiano.

George Terranova, owner and operator of Cafe Cosenza, said he would like to see something built to bring people to his business. "Now, it is dead there," said Terranova. "There's no lights, no people."

Dean Borman, an urban planner retained by Bloomfield to review the Macy's plan, appeared before the council Monday.

Borman suggested at the next public meeting the council approve an ordinance on first reading to rezone the property from industrial to commercial use. The plan would then go before the planning board before coming back to the council for final approval.

Borman noted Belleville had been considering a similar plan.

The intent of the developers is to build a "community shopping center," defined as a center on up to 10 acres that contains at least two stores of from 75,000 to 150,000 square feet of total floorspace.

Borman suggested that typical stores would be K-Mart, Caldor or Bradlees.

Councilman Gary Iacobacci asked about a part of the plan that would permit less parking spaces than the normal amount required for retail stores.

Belleville joins National Night Out against crime — Tuesday

This week Belleville residents are being asked to step out against crime and to meet neighbors and police officers.

National Night Out, scheduled for Tuesday from 7-10 p.m., is a time for citizens in communities across the nation to gather together to discuss neighborhood crime watches or simply get to know each other.

Local police will meet citizens in the street as they barbecue and meet with neighbors.

As efforts to increase old-time neighborhood quality are made with groups such as Silver Lake Civic Association, Belleville's National Night Out should only make residents more aware of the need for neighbor support.

In celebration of the 12th annual National Night Out, Bellevillites are encouraged to keep their outdoor lights on and help children make anti-crime signs.

Students exceed state average School board mulls having state audit budget

By Paul O'Keefe Staff Writer

Superintendent of Schools Michael Lally reported adjusted test results of Belleville students to the Board of Education at its Monday meeting.

Iowa Basic Skills, Early Warning and High School Proficiency tests showed noticeable improvements over last year's results, with Belleville students scoring far above the minimum standards set by the state.

"96.3 percent of our students met the best the state could throw at them. If they had not, then taxpayers would have the right to ask 'why not,'" Lally said.

"All results exceeded the 1993-94 test results. Every one of our grade levels, every one of our schools not only met, but exceeded state standards," the superintendent said.

The High School Proficiency exam was given to 11th-graders, 96.3 percent of whom scored in the top two of three levels.

In the three sections, 96.8 percent of 11th-graders passed the reading test, 91.1 percent passed the math and 99.1 percent passed the writing section.

The Early Warning test, given to eighth-graders, showed equally good results.

Of 248 students taking the exam, seven failed to meet the minimum required score in reading, and will be given remedial instruction.

A total of 97.4 percent scored in the top two levels, up from 91 percent last year.

The math section showed a slight improvement from last year, with 82.9 percent passing up from the 82.3 percent last year.

Writing results for the eighth-graders rose to 95.1 percent passing from 94.9 percent in 1993-94.

The test results are welcome news as Belleville schools prepare for a Middle States evaluation next year.

The rise in average scores also comes at the end of a school year that has produced several notable academic successes, such as the acceptance of four Belleville High School students into the Oxford University program.

Lally's data, however, does not show how high above the state average Belleville students scored.

A better picture of Belleville test results would be apparent if they were compared with scores from school districts with similar socio-economic conditions, the so-called district factor groups.

In other board news, Trustee Thomas Fuscaldo suggested Belleville request the state review the district's budget.

Audits of municipal and school district budgets have been offered free-of-charge by Governor Christine Whitman's office.

Frank Montagna also urged the board to review the audit option as a way to find out if options exist to economize.

A state audit would have to be approved by the Belleville Township Council as well as the Board of Education.

Board President Ralph Mazucca, reading from a letter circulated to the board trustees by Fuscaldo that stated several school districts had benefitted from state audits, was unable to get Fuscaldo to name some of the audited districts.

Mazucca suggested Belleville get in touch with superintendents in previously audited districts to ask questions before committing to state scrutiny.

Montagna also suggested board meetings be reorganized so citizens could comment without waiting hours for their chance. Currently, citizens have a 30-minute section before resolutions are voted on to comment solely on agenda items. Another 30-minute period for general comments is granted to citizens at the end of meetings, but that may not come until near midnight.

Although each citizen who speaks is allowed five minutes, the usual pattern at board meetings has been to let speakers exceed the five-minute constraint, and the 30-minute segment is often stretched out to provide more time.

Montagna said he preferred letting individuals speak for 10 to 12 minutes each in one longer segment for public comments.

Library, school cooperation

Kiwanians hearts just keep expanding

By Michael Gallo
Staff Writer

Belleville Kiwanis Club has been the heart of the community for 40 productive years and it still beats strongly.

Receiving the highest national honor for a single service project, along with clubs in Texas and Wisconsin, Belleville Kiwanis was selected from 8,500 clubs for its work at Clara Mass Hospital and honored on June 25 at a ceremony in Las Vegas.

Mario Drodz, president of Belleville Kiwanis, Thomas Grolimond, vice-president, and Nino Bucciarelli, past lieutenant governor accepted the award.

Recently, the club built a deck outside of Cerebral Palsy Center in Belleville.

"It took over a month but our members actually demolished and built the deck, according to specific conditions," said Drodz.

Through generous donations from institutions like Broad National Bank, quarterly membership dues, auctions, raffles and the dedication of its members, the deck quickly became a reality.

"Ed Carolon, last year's Kiwanis president, actually payed his own men to begin construction — as his very generous donation to the project," said Drodz.

Carolon, as the 1993-1994 president, headed the cerebral palsy project.

Drodz proudly commented on the overwhelming "dedication and devotion" of Kiwanis members, enabling projects like this to occur.

Kiwanis was also honored with equal respect on state and local levels.

Kiwanis Belleville Chapter celebrated its 40th anniversary on June 1 in Belleville Public Library.

"Children are first priority in our eyes — on the third Saturday of September we sponsor a child identification program," said Drodz.

nationally and statewide. More than 500 million children that suffer from an iodine deficiency disorder receive national help from Kiwanis in conjunction with Unicef and World Health Organization.

On the state level, New Jersey Kiwanis organizations have committed to raising $500,000 in five years for the Robert Wood Johnson Pediatric Trauma Center — $200,000 has already been raised during the past two and one half years.

Other than the newly built deck, Kiwanis of Belleville has recently donated 45 bulletproof vests to the police force. An annual Belleville High School scholarship and Columbus Day Parade are also sponsored as well as child identification programs, support for Belleville and Nutley Key Clubs, Builder's Club, special education and food baskets for the homeless.

Many associations in Belleville township have showed appreciation. "We have received proclamations from the town, freeholders, Congressman William Martini and Belleville Library. And, the cerebral palsy center gave us recognition," said Drodz, "Kiwanis also recognized Gene Reilly, the original charter member, for his perfect attendance. He's been to every meeting in the last 40 years. The town gave him a proclamation."

While many communities are proud of their kiwanis clubs, Belleville township has reason to plume over its chapter.

"We're here to reach out and help the community," said Drodz.

♦ Shoplifting incidents were reported from Belmont Avenue Pathmark and Grand Union on Main Street.

♦ Pedro Ruiz, 39, of Newark was arrested July 19, 10:25 p.m., at Mill Street and Terrace Place for drunk driving. Officer Frank Malfatto observed Ruiz's car swerve and nearly crash into a line of parked cars.

At McFerrin master class are Howard Nasser, Newark; Wesley Tahsir, Belleville; and Bobby McFerrin.

McFerrin shared magic Legendary singer/conductor Bobby McFerrin shared his special brand of magic with Newark area students. He talked about his life and held a question and answer session for children to ask anything they liked of the entertainer.

The questions ranged from "What do you do when the critics don't like your music?" to "Do you wear your hair like that for fashion?" to "How much do you practice?" He demonstrated his improvisatory skills and encouraged others to express themselves, as well. The exercise culminated in an exotic dance performed by one of the students to an accompaniment consisting of McFerrin on improvised melody and the rest of the students in harmony.

The class preceded the first ever

AT&T Community Partners Concert presented that evening by New Jersey Symphony Orchestra and AT&T. The collaborative event benefited more than 20 of Newark's non-profit organizations by raising nearly $21,000.

Among the largest recipients of funds were the AIDS Resource Foundation; WBGO-FM; Newark Emergency Services; Urban League; Protestant Community Center, Inc.; Quest Essay Youth Services; and READY Foundation.

McFerrin performed a program of light classics including works from his to-be-released album Paper Music, including Mendelssohn's Scherzo from Midsummer Night's Dream, Vivaldi's Andante from Concerto in G Major for Two Violins and Harp and Paganini's Pavane.

Legendary Ladies of the Screen, a photographic exhibit by Jim Assal, will be highlighted in Belleville Public Library during August.

Among the featured stars will be Marilyn Monroe and Judy Garland. Assal of Paterson photographed the pictures of the ladies of the screen himself.

"If you are the lover of the film, like I am," said Library Director Adria Cohen, "you will not want to miss this exhibit in the Trustees Gallery."

Please in advance, if you are com-

Ratables, ratables and more ratables

Mayor James Messina has run Town Hall operations fairly well, although the lingering doubts of the past, especially with reference to the building department and its head, Bobby Dominick, persist.

The mayor has failed, miserably we say, in one critical, essential need for Belleville: new ratables. Yes, Taco Bell and CVS have been added, but vast acreage of former industrial or vacant land remains as is — deteriorating or becoming like a good deal of Newark proper.

Other Township Council members — all of them — share the responsibility or lack of responsibility. It is inexcusable that no effort has been made to bring ratables, new companies, new development to Belleville during the last 12 months. Prove us wrong!

What has Councilman Joe Scaperrotta done except feather his political nest?

As Belleville's property values decrease — net valuation is down overall again in fiscal year 1995 — the fiscal crisis worsens. Decreased net valuation can be stemmed somewhat through an aggressive campaign to induce businesses to locate or relocate in Belleville.

As state aid to Belleville and its schools goes down or even remains as is, the fiscal crisis will strangle homeowners and small businesses. Cutting waste from local budgets, downsizing Town Hall considerably or negotiating reduced fringes and perks will have but marginal effects.

The key to Belleville's financial future is increased commercial and, where they are still available in the state's sorry climate, industry or light industries.

As real estate agents always repeat, "location, location and location," so then Belleville politicians always must repeat "ratables, ratables and ratables."

Learn to subtract, as anyone can add

An "in" phrase from the past — remember "zero-based" budgeting?

Do you remember its budgeting partner, "sunset" laws?

They are most definitely used in the private sector, in business, as are "profit center" and "wired manager" and other advanced concepts put into practice to enhance proficiency, to maintain competitiveness in the marketplace and to make an honest buck.

In the public sector, however, politicians who set fiduciary, state, county and municipal budgets do not — repeat do not — begin with a zero base, never mind sunset or justifying a program periodically with a point-by-point review. We hear of something known as "base-line" budgeting, which usually means arguing about how much spending should be added this year, not how much spending should be subtracted from last year.

Privatization is sometimes nothing more than another cop-out. In most instances, but not all unfortunately, privatization tends to reduce labor costs, especially with reference to health benefits and perks. In more than a few instances, however, privatization does not eliminate wasteful social programs; as taxpayers must still pay the bills.

Take, for example, Gov. Christine Whitman's brand of privatization. Yes, privatization has increased. She has cut some costs in getting rid of Joe and Jane Sixpack, as that phrase has become applicable, but Whitman has not dared to cut back the payroll of state agencies, among others, the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission, New Jersey Sports Authority, New Jersey Turnpike, New Jersey Highway Authority or the Parkway, Blackensack Meadowlands Development Commission and, working with New York's fiscal conservative governor, scaling back The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

Despite what you read in the liberal media, Congress, too, rarely cuts spending. It simply reduces the projected rate of spending, as annual spending still rises overall.

On the municipal and school district levels, taxpayers are always reminded that police, firefighters and teachers cannot be reduced, which is often correct, but does anyone ask why the fringe benefits go up and up ad infinitum? The reason: Unions always ask for more. Rarely if ever do they propose sharing health costs, for example, as is the practice in most private sector jobs.

Politicians, as with "The Contract," can be forced to heed taxpayers. One only wishes such "contracts" were made on state, county and municipal levels.

Do not ask what should be added to last year's spending. Instead, state what should be subtracted from last year's spending!

Rally, oh Belleville, rally 'round your library

"The student has his Rome, his Florence, his whole glowing Italy, within the four walls of his library. He has in his books the ruins of an antique world and the glories of a modern one," stated Longfellow.

The Nazis burned books. The Communists censored them in favor of Marx, Lenin and Stalin. Politically correct "historians" of our time rewrite books; others had written — even the Lord will cry when that politically correct Bible is written.

George Orwell in "1984," and generally in his other works, feared history books written by scholars rather than by the party faithful would be vaporized. Plato, no friend of mine, also wanted to control thought — no one but "philosophers" would be allowed to read.

So what are we to do with characters from the "Inner Party," that group of British bureaucrats in "1984," who have turned up in Belleville and who have come up with still another way to get rid of books and, to be sure, get rid of information. I speak of Joe Scaperrotta and Angie Paserchia, who would do away with the Belleville Public Library through draining dollars from its budget. Scap and Angie are, in a matter of speaking, picketing outside the library, "Down with Books!"

For about 55 years or so, I have been in libraries all over New Jersey, America and the world. I rate the Belleville Public Library as, dollar for dollar, among the most inviting, most public-serving, most informative in other media than books, too, among those I have known and used.

What do Scap and Angie offer us in return for the money they would deduct from the library? Perhaps they would provide expense-paid trips to the casinos in Atlantic City for themselves and their political bedfellows? Perhaps they would be able to afford a $100 ticket to a cocktail party for Orechio and Scott. What else is new?

Belleville's library is but a few hundred yards from the Sodom and Gomorrah awaiting the Lord's final judgment on Broadway, Newark — or Washington Avenue, Belleville. Can you imagine, as ordinary folks battle to preserve property values and social standards, Scap's and Angie's only solution is take away books from the library!

The Puritan English and Reformed Dutch began to accumulate books so that a library of 100 books was available as early as 1690, in a small cubicle in Old First Church on Broad Street in Newark. Those books were mostly biblical commentaries and otherwise authored by great Puritan thinkers.

Today, Newark has, as it has had for more than a century, a monumental collection of books with many directly about Belleville or referencing Belleville. I suppose if Scap and Angie had their way, this cathedral of learning among the barbarism would be starved, too, as the two politicians would starve the Belleville library.

When will Belleville's 37,000 or so residents stand guard, as it were, to protect Belleville's foundation of learning and information? Yes, we have barbarians at the gate but what I fear most are the barbarians in public office!

The library workers are the most underpaid municipal employees. They make, reckoning the hours worked in a year, on average half as much as public school teachers. Now Scap and Angie want to put them on food stamps.

Curse these barbarians of the mind. Where will the children go for enrichment should library funds be cut, cut, cut so Scap and Angie and the others can be paid from tax funds to go to Atlantic City?

"What laborious days, what watchings by the midnight lamp, what rackings of the brain, what hopes and fears, what long lives of laborious study, are here sublimized into print, and condensed into the narrow compass of these surrounding shelves!" So wrote Horace Smith of libraries.

Dear Belleville, whither does thy path leadeth with Scap and Angie? Nay, as Minute Men at Lexington, stand strong and protect this land of yours, these books of yours, this history and heritage of yours!

Chris Albanese — a voice of civic concern

Bel View

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

He then went through a list of items he had uncovered in the proposed budget that he thought — not demanded — should be cut.

When the final budget was approved, with a slight cut in spending, every one of Albanese's suggestions were taken.

I wonder how many people ever thanked Albanese for taking the time to read the budget, talking to other concerned citizens about possible cuts, going to the meeting and leaving every listener there with a deep impression of his genuine class.

He criticized the proposed budget, but left the politicians feeling complimented. Albanese was not one to blame or publicly deride the council.

His respect bred respect, and got results. Many others had pointed to the same cuts during those hearings, but I believe Albanese made the deepest impression on the council.

I kept running into Albanese after first meeting him. One time stands out above all.

I was in line at a bank outside of Belleville when I noticed a bearded, long haired biker guy from Belleville whom I knew.

We began to talk Belleville politics in true Belleville fashion — loud, passionate and humorous.

A man chipped in an opinion from behind me, and I turned to see Albanese.

The three of us discussed the issues in detail, citing line item amounts from memory and opining on individual politicians.

I remember the looks we were getting from others. They must have thought we were accountants or township employees.

How many other towns can boast their citizens know detailed line items in the municipal budget? How many citizens even know how much their township budget is?

Albanese knew such things chapter and verse. He had a natural sense of presenting his argument. He would leave his listener feeling somehow complimented.

I wonder who will step up to take the place of this good man. He did a great service to his neighbors, and did it without fanfare. We need more like Albanese.

So the municipal budget is in, with a slight increase in taxes. What can we do now to help cut next year's budget?

All the talk about cutting the library, the Columbus Day parade and transportation at the health department was over small potatoes.

Joe Scaperrotta and Angie Paserchia were able to grandstand about how concerned they were about these small amounts. The other council members had to make the difficult and correct choices.

How much longer can Belleville property owners keep paying more each year? Let's start talking real cuts. Substantial cuts are needed mostly in education but also in the municipal budget.

We need volunteer firefighters. We need the auxiliary police back. We need volunteer ambulance crews.

We need to quit bonding everything. We need to radically reduce benefits spending and freeze salaries.

These are not nickel and dime suggestions like Scap's. Belleville needs to take the direction of actual downsizing its government. The tax cupboard is bare.

Town meetings restored my faith in humans

Muro's Musings

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

I am not alone in my worries about pollution, nor am I the only one who cares about escalating taxes. I certainly have company in my concern for our judicial system.

I applaud residents who attend meetings. Loyalty to one's town should be admired. It is not easy to come home from a long day at the office, shove down some food and rush to a council meeting. Perhaps you would like to spend time with your family, yet if you do not join the proceedings, some backstabbing, Kennedyesque councilman will abuse the power he has been given. Even worse, the council or commission will blatantly disregard the democratic policies supposed to govern this land.

If left alone, the majority of these council people would act like children in a candy store. Public scrutiny is necessary for survival.

Those who do not frequent town hall should reconsider. Groups or individuals turn out to state their claim. Many of the council or board members — they are not exempt from this attack — sit back and "yes" every resident who voices an opinion. Regardless of the topic, the answer is always yes. "It will be handled" or "we will investigate the matter" accompanies every request a citizen has. If you are lucky, expletives may be hurled back and forth the night you attend.

Please, spare me the complaints and excuses. I accept that some serve on the board and council because their schools and municipalities matter to them. But let us be honest just this once. There are others who serve for one reason — it looks good on their resume.

Names must be withheld to protect the guilty, but there is one particular individual who requires complete attention.

This person wrote a letter to our newspapers and said "I don't usually waste 50 cents on that local comic strip. I wouldn't even stoop low enough to use it, if I were in the woods and nature called."

This person continuously baits our editor and questions the integrity of our staff.

Men like this are a perfect example of why residents must present themselves and their convictions at town hall. Bring family members, bring friends, bring livestock, just go!

The time is upon us. Heed the call. Do not allow the above mentioned and similar dolts to destroy our communities.

We may be a motley crew, but if the desire to restore truth still exists we can avoid our impending extinction.

Remember what Edmund Burke said, "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is that good men do nothing."

I have been out there — and I know good people exist. It is time to act.

Newspaper letters policy

The editor continues to receive letters without signatures and without phone numbers for verification. No letter is published without verification of signature or through the phone number of the letter-writer.

Letters should be typed double-spaced or triple-spaced for editing purposes. Handwritten letters will be published but the writing must be clear or printed. Fancy handwriting may be pretty but hard to read by typesetters. Handwritten letters also should be double-spaced or triple-spaced.

Letters on editorials, columns or news items in this newspaper are given preference.

Letters are subject to editing for length or clarity. Try to limit your letter to one topic at a time.

Letters will be accepted up to 9 a.m. Monday, but should be in by Friday 9 a.m. for use in the next issue.

Any questions, phone Russell Roemmele, the editor.

"The security of the nation is not at the ramparts alone. Security also lies in the value of our free institutions. A cantankerous press, an obstinate press, a ubiquitous press must be suffered by those in authority in order to preserve the even greater values of freedom of expression and the right of the people to know."

'Kids' exploits young people

To the editor:

First we had the movie "Priest," which attempted to portray the average Roman Catholic priest as a drunken homosexual. Now we have "Kids," a dismal teen exploitation tale. It has received an NC-17 rating, a modern day X for its use of graphic sex scenes that are performed by child "actors." What makes this unholy one-two punch particularly disturbing is that both films were released by the same company, Miramax Productions. Miramax is owned by Disney Studios.

The plot of "Kids" centers around a group of young people in New York City. The unknown child stars of this movie range from 10 to 17 years of age. The film sets out to show us one full day of their life in the city, ostensibly to illustrate the dangers of unprotected sex.

The producers were quick to contend that the film did not exploit its young cast. This is quite interesting, as we hear these children discuss everything from group rape to necrophilia, and engage in sex scenes that feature frontal nudity. All of this was performed in front of a film crew of 60 adults and a subsequent worldwide audience of millions. I am sure glad that they were not exploited.

Disney Chairman Michael Eisner, Jr., a confessed ultra-liberal and longtime friend of President Clinton, did not let the controversy surrounding "Priest" break his stride. Before "Kids" was released, he hired attorney Alan Dershowitz to argue before the ratings board seeking to get the film a PG-13 rating. According to Mr. Eisner, "It would be a good thing if every teenager in America saw this movie." Sure a good thing for his wallet. Movies rated NC-17 do very little business.

There are many ways that Eisner could have demonstrated the realities of unsafe sex without subjecting us to this pedophilic peep show. How about a day at one of New York's many abortion mills? No, this would be too much reality for Hollywood's pro-abortion hierarchy. Maybe a day at a New York hospital that is overflowing with A.I.D.S patients. Also unlikely. But don't worry, Hollywood will continue its distorted "condoms save lives" campaign and will keep on wearing those little red ribbons on award shows.

Although I am certain that Eisner has all of the morals of an alley cat, he would not be prone to produce such rubbish if it were not financially expedient to do so. The motion picture industry is completely consumer driven, so we must shoulder much of the blame. We must let Eisner and Disney know how we feel about these recent endeavors. We must make them aware that we will no longer be buying their products or seeing their movies. We have created this monster and we are the only ones who could put it to rest. Keep this in mind when you are walking up to the register with that copy of "Pocahontas."

Support group for widows set

A Project GRO peer support group for widows will begin on Tuesday at the NCJW Center for Women in Livingston. Widows will be able to gain strength from sharing experiences, exploring feelings, and meeting others in similar situations.

The NCJW Center for Women in Livingston is forming two Project GRO peer support groups titled "Women Dealing With the Illness of a Family Member" and "Women Dealing With the Death of a Family Member." The illness or death may be of a spouse, child, parent, sibling or other relative. Women in each group will have the opportunity to explore their feelings, discuss options and exchange coping skills with women with similar concerns.

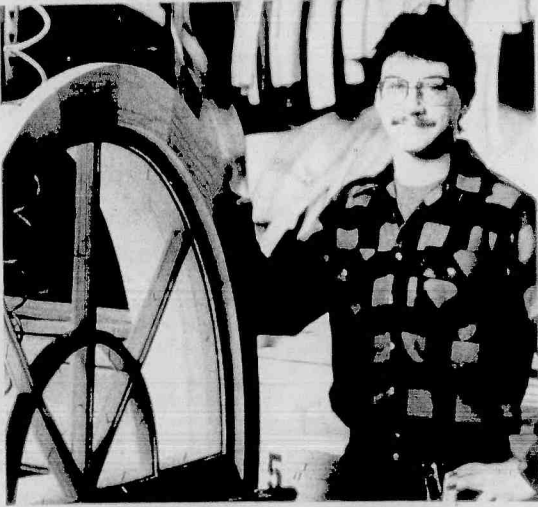

Project GRO peer support groups meet from 8 to 10 p.m. one night a week for eight consecutive weeks. There is a $40 registration fee for the series. These groups are open to all women in the community and require advance registration. Further information about these groups may be obtained by calling the NCJW Center for Women at 994-4994.

State municipal aid — no such thing

Analysis

By Michael Gallo and Russell Roemmele

State municipal aid to Bloomfield, Belleville and Glen Ridge has increased from the 1994 fiscal year to 1995 fiscal year while Nutley aid has suffered a loss.

That is only half the tale, however. Bob Friant, state community affairs spokesman, said The North Jersey Herald & News misrepresented these data in the July 12 edition of the paper. He continued his explanation, saying that the paper did not adjust numbers to provide for a pension law, recently agreed upon, entitling municipalities to higher annual state finances than in past years.

The chart printed below clearly illustrates the impact of this pension savings for each municipality.

Simply put, townships retain money for Police and Fire Retirement System and Public Employee Retirement System for municipal employees. This pension — representing money saved by the township — is added to the "cash" amount given to each municipality. This sum is the amount of state municipal aid.

The following outlines state municipal aid to Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and Glen Ridge. Data were reported by the Community Affairs Department of NJ State Treasury. The municipal aid does not factor in state funding to local school districts.

Bloomfield received $8,359,408 in aid in 1995, while in 1994, the township received $7,583,079. Belleville received $8,297,147 in aid in 1995, while in 1994, the township received $7,848,064. Nutley received $4,495,141 in aid in 1995, while in 1994, the township received $4,740,097. Glen Ridge received $706,426 in aid in 1995, while in 1994, the borough received $575,195.

It is essential to understand that the 1995 data can be reported as a "cash" sum and "pension" sum of money, reflecting the recently approved NJ pension law that entitles municipalities to higher state finances.

The following illustrates such a breakdown.

- Bloomfield: Cash — $7,677,465; Pension — $681,943.
- Belleville: Cash — $7,722,480; Pension — $586,932.
- Nutley: Cash — $4,090,233; Pension — $404,908.
- Glen Ridge: Cash — $593,835; Pension — $112,591.

In effect, the pension fund adjustment taken out, municipal aid from the state has drastically decreased, factoring in the rate of inflation and the expenses of mandated state programs.

Municipal aid is decidedly not a "gift" from state government. It is derived from taxes paid by residents of Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and Glen Ridge, as well as every official municipality in New Jersey. On a per capita basis, Glen Ridge, Nutley, Bloomfield and Belleville — in that order — taxpayers are taxed far in excess of any per capita state aid.

In 1974-76, during the day-by-day controversy over the imposition of a state personal income tax, signed into law by Governor Brendan Byrne, property tax relief — a kind of rebate of taxes paid — was held-out as an olive branch to induce political support for the Byrne tax program. The Homestead Tax Rebate, which has mostly disappeared courtesy of the Republicans one must note, was a leaf on that olive branch, to make taxpayers believe they were getting something for nothing courtesy of whoever was governor.

Reckoning inflation and the decreasing state aid to municipalities, the near extinction of the Homestead Rebate, and the affliction of mandated state laws specially those dealing with public employee benefits and employee group negotiations — reckoning all this, the per capita and overall taxes on Bloomfielders, Bellevillians, Nutleyites, and Ridgers have gone up — and Whitman's 30 percent tax cut in the state personal income tax has been, at best, a Bandaid proffered to stem the gush of blood — yea, taxes — from the middle class families of the four communities.

'Baby Boomer' marooned in almost free-therapy cyberspace

By Anthony Buccino

Cruising the information super-highway, I stumbled through the simplest of America Online services and wandered side streets, main roads and the central business district. It reminded me of riding around as teenagers did in the 1970s, before oil embargoes, when gas was less than a quarter a gallon.

Did someone say the '70s were 20 years 'ago? Nah. Couldn't be.

From the comfort of my keyboard, and a yellow Labrador Retriever nibbling at my socks, I motored past the Genealogy Club. I've already downloaded the names of Christopher Columbus' crew. Ditto the Mayflower — the ship, not the madam. I checked out hundreds and hundreds of names of other subscribers from Belleville, Nutley and Bloomfield. Could that be Bill Cook, the Belleville commissioner, online? Perhaps I should e-mail him something.

I slowed at the Chat Room names.

Neither the crowds nor real-time discussions of just about everything useful and perverse piqued my interest. Besides, they were almost all full anyway.

I chugged along aimlessly for a while. School reports were over, so no need right now for Compton's Online. The online encyclopedia had helped us learn about electromagnetic radiation and electromagnetic spectrum. Yes, father and daughter did well on that report.

I had an hour or so to kill and no new chapter to write. I steered my forty-something mind to the Baby Boomer arena. When I got there, it told me the last time I visited. That's more than some people do.

Baby Boomers are folks born after World War II and through the early 1960s. They have former long-haired flower children and hippy-wannabes of the 1960s. They listened to music on black disks and the pictures were in their minds. If you see a gray-haired guy with a pony tail, there's a real good chance he is a Baby Boomer. They are also the sandwich generation, the group raising children and dealing with older parents who need their attention, also.

But the thing that strikes awe in Baby Boomers is when we say things to our kids that our parents said to us. In Baby Boomers, a message board on America Online, in Where Are They Now, is Lies My Parents Told Me. Here, other Baby Boomers bare their souls.

Last July, Omar posted, "You'll thank me for this when you get older." He then added, "No, Mom, my therapist thanks you!" We hope you feel better now, Omar. Christi and others discussed the tale about what happens when you swallow your chewing gum — it twists around your intestines, etc.; if you swallow a watermelon seed, a vine will grow in your belly. BJMD posted, "If you put your ear to the ground during a storm, you could hear the devil beating his wife." What neighborhood did he grow up in?

"Can't get up because I have a bone in my leg," said Sislean's grandma when she asked her to get up from a comfortable chair. "Drinking coffee will make your nose turn black" is another posting. Sislean confesses, "I tell these same 'lies' to children today. They work and I never feel guilty."

A striking thing about this bulletin board is the number of similar sayings and reflections.

Childhood is supposed to be a happy, carefree time. Or was that all my parents let me believe? Perhaps that is why my generation, now that it has awakened to parenthood, and has realized this life and not a dress rehearsal — as my pal Lionel says — surfs into cyberspace to jettison this cosmic angst on that dead end street called Memory Lane. Then, calmly, signs off this almost-free therapy session and return to being work-a-day Johnnie and Susy, and Mommie and Daddy.

Or maybe we do it because it is a pleasant diversion to retirement planning, stock portfolios, life insurance, car payments, tax increases and real life. Me, I stopped in because the dog was on my toes, I have sat-ten, and can't get up! And because I need all the help I can get. Maybe there's a clue in here. Maybe not. It's worth a look.

Anyway, my daughter says I'll mess up her childhood now, present her in front of her friends — by acknowledging that I know her — or conversing when her friends are in the car, then when I get old, she will mess me in funny looking polyester clothes and leave me in a rocking chair on the front porch. Much to the amusement of passersby in the year 2025.

Local writer Anthony Buccino last wrote a My Generation column way back in the 1970s, when only NASA had computers and music was on black vinyl disks. A collection of his varied writings, "A Father's Place" is available from Cherry Blossom Press, P.O. Box 110252, Nutley, 07110.

Whitman slow in advancing privatization

By Paul O'Keefe and Russell Roemmele

Privatization of government services was one of Governor Christine Whitman's main campaign promises. It may be the most difficult to keep.

Recent moves to privatize NJ Division of Motor Vehicles met with stiff opposition from public employee unions and others.

The estimated economies of $4 million in restructuring state government will hardly dent a Whitman budget, approved by Republicans save one and by most Democrats in the state legislature, that has increased by $600 million this year.

Clearly, if privatization is to make a difference, much more of it will be needed. The question is whether Whitman and her fellow Republicans possess the will, and the expertise, to push an agenda of privatization where the big bucks are.

Whitman appointed a commission on privatization and competitive contracting as one of her first acts in office.

The commission reviewed state operations for five months, while it also compared successes and failures of privatization in other states.

For the past 20 years, state spending doubled every eight years while property taxes rose at a similar rate.

The commission on privatization saw how these expenses had chased business out of the state, along with their needed tax revenue to the state and the municipalities in which they were located.

The urgency of the situation was not lost on the commission, and sweeping recommendations for privatization and competitive bidding were sent to the governor's office.

The $4 million DMV savings were among the smallest savings recommendations made by the commission.

The difficulty in moving state government to privatize DMV is a preview of how difficult other measures to downsize state government may be, especially when the changes affect unions and highly placed political appointees not covered under Civil Service.

A good example of this problem was acknowledged by the commission when it reported on the feasibility of privatizing Newark Airport.

Although the airport made a $52 million profit for The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey 1993, the money was put into losing operations such as the Hudson Path system.

Many private companies are itching to get at such profits, and they believe they can run the airport more efficiently.

Britain has had great success in privatizing their ten major airports. No major American airport is privately owned and operated, although Indianapolis has issued requests for proposals to privatize its airport.

Los Angeles and Albany attempted to privatize airports, but were stymied by airlines, the FAA and unions.

The New Jersey commission recommended that Whitman study either a lease or management contract with a private airport operator.

The commission predicted that qualified private management could produce economies, if only through the process of competitive bidding.

Bonding and expansion projects would remain with the Port Authority, as some felt a private concern would be slow to spend capital on upkeep.

Another area examined by the commission was the Garden State Arts Center, operated by New Jersey Highway Authority and subsidized by tolls and taxes.

Requests for proposals to either sell or lease the center were recently drawn up by the highway authority.

Several partnerships between government and private business in the area of amphitheatres were examined, as with the the Louisiana Superdome and Nassau Veterans Coliseum.

The commission called the potential privatization of the arts center "an ideal opportunity" to use private capital and management to expand seating and create revenue for the authority.

Neither the airport or arts center recommendations came with estimated savings, as too many variables exist.

In future articles, we will examine specific areas where privatization is possible, along with estimated savings far in excess of the $4 million DMV privatization figure.

The privatization question has become more relevant recently, as large cuts in income taxes may create a revenue vacuum in light of $600 million more in Republican spending.

Nowhere in the commission report is it suggested that the state can or should downsize management of the so-called independent state agencies. These agencies are where the politicians bask, no matter who or what party is in office. They are political bedfellows, promiscuous and interchangeable.

We must also point out embarrassingly that the state media have tended to avoid the over-riding issue of privatization in favor of an annual report about excessive overtime by Joe Sixpack. His boss goes scot-free.

On the day I became a certified journalist

The hardest test I ever took was in the last Pullman of a troop train carrying Marines to Camp Pendleton, Calif., on our way to Korea in 1950.

In that unlikely spot, I was completing the last leg of a journalism certification of the Marine Corps Institute in Quantico, through which I had wanted to become a combat correspondent. I hoped to become like Ernie Pyle, the greatest of reporters of men in the field — or, as I had fantasized to become as Hemingway, in writing that masterful chapter of the Retreat from Campetto in his "Farewell to Arms."

Then, but 18 years old, I had not yet read Tolstoy's immortal chapters of Russians in war against Napoleon or Erich Marie Remarque's unforgettable "All Quiet on the Western Front" or Standish's "The Red and the Black."

The train rolled across eastern America. At Marietta, Ohio, it stopped. The platoon sergeant ordered us out, as he was to do at every major stop, for exercise with our M-1 rifles and then a spirited, close-order drill and march along the tracks to the delight of the local patriotic crowd who had come out to greet us. Never was the gunny louder and more demanding in his commands than at these "rest" stops. He knew and may have several of the old soldiers and Marines among the onlookers knew, that the little kids who scampered next to us did not know that about half of this line-infantry unit would never return to the Mariettas in America.

At any rate, after the Marietta stop, the regimental sergeant major — the most powerful man next to the commandant of Marines himself — came to me and, as I literally trembled in my boots, ordered me to the rear. I had no idea I was not getting a deck court-martial — I had conducted myself in a non-military manner with a girl next-door at our layover in Buffalo. Nothing serious, but my squad sergeant had to tap me on the shoulder not once but twice to break an embrace.

No deck court martial, but a far more difficult task, taking a 40-page test while seated among regimental staff headquarters, among them the colonel himself and, worse of all, the sergeant major. The test was three hours. The sergeant major had five "hash" marks, each of them indicating six years of service — not four as is the current custom. Obviously, he had gone back to pre-World War II service, probably in Latin America or China.

The written part of the test itself, administered by the sergeant major, was hardly difficult. It was the oral part that wounded me. The executive officer of the regiment, a light colonel later to be killed at Chosin, asked me the questions while I tried to answer quietly, almost silently, in fear of the brass assembled and his honor, the sergeant major.

Suddenly, the colonel came over to my seat and I snapped to attention. He looked me over, then he said: "Private, damn it, speak up! I want these officers to know as much as the privates!" That brought a restrained laughter from the officers. They had better laugh. He reached over and jabbed me lightly on the chin. I saluted, for no other reason than I otherwise would die there.

Then the exec winked at me. I barked out the answer to each question and the officers howled. Then, I asked the exec if I could go to the "head" because I felt nauseous — the swinging last Pullman had begun upsetting my guts. He nodded approval. The sergeant major followed me to the "head" and he watched as I upchucked a little.

As I turned to leave, I noticed the bottles of beer in a large bucket of ice and the hard liquor lined up in the corner. God's first assistant said to me: "Hear me out, Marine. If you so much as utter a word about the contents of this 'head' I'll have you" behind in Portsmouth! Portsmouth was the harshest of naval prisons, then as now in New Hampshire.

After saluting the regimental staff and, most emphatically sergeant major, I returned to the platoon's Pullman. Naturally, the sarge wanted to know everything and even the gunny came in to find out if I had been brought up on charges. I told him I had to take a Marine Corps Institute test for journalism. He huffed, sneered and then barked loud and clear for the three machine gun squads assembled, "You're not writing where you're going, Marine!"

So for a couple of hours I sat away from the invariable card games, the Hoboken cowboy singing western and hillbilly songs and the war stories told by World War II Marines — oh dear Lord, most of them to be slain or wounded in Korea!

Across from me, my buddy showed me pictures of his wife and two kids. He had been discharged after World War II. He was horribly frost-bitten and then went "psycho" up north. He snapped out of it and is a grandfather in Minnesota today.

By then in my pre-Marine life, I had digested Thomas Wolfe — one of my teen-age heroes — and as the train moved across mid-America and, at St. Louis, southwest, I was reminded of Wolfe's immortal passages in, I believe, "Of Time and River," as he passed through city after city, town after town, hamlet after hamlet, farm after farm. Or was it, "Look Homeward, Angel?" Funny, as I get older I forget names of specific novels, even as I never forget the words.

Yes, I passed the test. I never got to be a war correspondent. I never managed to write as well as Pyle, Thomas Wolfe, Hemingway. I never was able to put into words the agonized, soul combat as did Crane in "Red Badge of Courage." I was and I remain a grunt.

That image of America in the early summer of 1950 has not been forgotten. I remember it, every hour. I have obeyed the sergeant major until now. I never revealed those officers, several of whom having survived the battles in the Pacific in World War II and were to die at Chosin or in later battles, had some booze stashed away.

Of course, the colonel knew, the exec knew, the gunny knew, the squad leader knew and the ferocious sergeant major knew that we grunts had stashed away our provisions, too, on ice in the sleeping car porter's closet, not in the "head." The alcohol stimulated us and, besides, five days with a Hoboken cowboy singing "Born To Lose" was too much for any of us.

LET THE BIBLE SPEAK

1 Pet. 4:11

The Bible clearly teaches that in order to go to heaven we must DO the will of God as commanded in the bible (Matt. 7:21-23, Lk. 6:46). FOR EXAMPLE: When we read and study the "Book of Acts" (the book of conversions), we see exactly what people did to be saved from their sins and become true Christians.

They heard the gospel of Christ (Rom. 1:16) preached, and in faith (Rom. 10:17), OBEYED (Heb. 5:9) God's command; Repented and were BAPTIZED (Acts 2:38) for the forgiveness of their sins (Acts 22:16), thus being SAVED (Mk. 16:16). They were added to the LORDS CHURCH (Matt. 16:18, Eph. 5:23, Col. 1:18, Rom. 16:16) and were called simply Christians (Acts 11:26, 1Pet. 4:16).

We sincerely urge readers to INVESTIGATE the "TRUTH"- human churches, Catholic, and Protestant are NOT found in the Bible.

Please Consider: God's fundamental Principles in creation, and Redemption. Jesus teaches that the Word of God is like a SEED, and when sown in honest hearts, it will produce and (bring forth) AFTER ITS KIND - Gen. 1:11-12, Lk. 8:11, Acts 2:36-47, Acts 11:26. An apple seed DOES NOT produce oranges, and without exception, you can rely on the word of God (GOD'S SEED) to bring forth AFTER ITS KIND. - if not - why not? Police overtime costs add to municipal taxes

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

When you hear the word overtime what is the first image that comes to mind — money perhaps?

Overtime, a source of extra income, is not free, however; the cost is a person's time. All other things/being equal, the thought of having a fat wallet supersedes the sacrifice in time one is asked to make.

Police officers in Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and Glen Ridge are willing to punch out late, when called upon by superior officers as part of contractual obligations and by emergencies.

Taxpayers, however, may have a different look at overtime: insufficient planning and scheduling, mandated state mediation laws, and political coziness.

The facts:

Bloomfield

The police department spent $362,139 on overtime in 1994. As of June 23, 1995, $166,159 has been spent on overtime.

"We have a budget of $325,000," said John Zawacki, township administrator. "We are on target to stay within this figure this year. We had a rough winter in 1994, and that was the primary reason police overtime exceeded the limit."

Belleville

Due to an old computer system, Belleville was only able to supply data from May, 1994, to the end of 1994. The amount spent on overtime was $83,458.

Patrick's Day Parade. We do our best to live within a $65,000 figure."

Nutley's $65,000 budget for police overtime is comparatively low.

Glen Ridge

With comparatively high numbers, Glen Ridge spent $66,335 on police overtime in 1994. As of June 30, 1995, the total for overtime was $36,125.

"We had four people at the academy in 1995, so we were short in $64,479 is the amount the police department has spent so far in 1995.

"If I had to make a guess, we usually run a little over $100,000," said Art Minsky, chief financial officer."

The 1995 budget for police overtime is $150,000.

Nutley

At press time Nutley's 1994 data was not available.

So far in 1995, $41,000 has been spent on police overtime.

"We are higher than normal at this point in the year," noted John Holland, deputy police chief. "We had a major murder investigation, a couple of additional major incidents and we needed extra manpower during the St. Manpower," said Robert Wohlgenuth, chief of police. "One of the reasons these figures may appear high, is that a mandated state training is added in as part of these totals."

The 1995 budget for police overtime is $83,720.

Mundy seeking to adapt to new role at Rutgers

By John Monteverde
Staff Writer

Adjusting to college life can be a problem to many freshmen. But consider adjusting to the school-work as well as athletics, and the transition becomes especially difficult.

Mike Mundy, a former three-sport standout at Belleville High School, experienced such a culture shock a year ago, as he found out the hitters in the Atlantic 10 Conference were a bit more seasoned than those he faced in the Northern New Jersey Interscholastic League.

Despite possessing an impressive assortment of pitches, topped off by an exceptional slider and rising fastball, Mundy struggled as a freshman at Rutgers University, due mainly to a lack of control. Doing most of his work in middle relief, Mundy could not seem to harness his exceptional talent, and he was hit hard.

But despite the struggles he went through, Rutgers head coach Fred Hill is expecting big things out of the righthander. He envisions a day when Mundy becomes his stopper, but right now he figures to spend his sophomore season in a similar role, that of a middle reliever and spot starter.

"To be honest, we expected him to contribute more than he did last year," said Hill, a Verona resident and one-time Upsala College standout. "He had some control problems, and that hurt him. But in his defense, we put him in the game in some difficult situations, and he struggled with his confidence. I think it really shook him up."

Mundy, who was a premier starting pitcher for the Buccaneers, had to make the adjustment to coming out of the bullpen, which is extremely difficult both physically and mentally. Relievers have less time to warm up, and more often than not they are forced to enter the game in precarious situations.

"He was a starter in high school, and it was a tough adjustment for him to adapt to college life as well as to being a relief pitcher for the first time," Hill said. "It is a big adjustment mentally."

After a successful stint with Verona in the highly-touted Metropolitan League this summer, Mundy was extended an invitation to join the Sussex, N.J. entry in the Atlantic Collegiate Baseball League, one of the premier amateur diamond circuits in the country. The ACBL

Mike Mundy
former Buccaneer

is partly funded by Major League Baseball in an effort to develop prospects, and like the Met League, the hitters are required to use wooden bats. His teammate at Rutgers, Rich Kennedy of Glen Ridge, also plays for Sussex.

"Mike was pitching for Verona and doing quite well, but a guy on the Sussex squad was signed to a minor league contract and a roster spot opened up," said Hill. "They decided to give him a chance, and from what I have heard he has been pitching extremely well."

Despite the adversity Mundy faced as a freshman, Hill expects the hard-throwing righthander to rebound nicely.

"His confidence was shaken last season, but I expect that will make him tougher mentally," Hill said. "We expect good things from him in the future."

DIAMOND NOTES — Rutgers is a new addition to the Big East Conference, meaning that a rivalry with Seton Hall University that was already simmering will come to a full boil in future seasons. Seton Hall has had more notable success on the diamond and the hardwood, while Rutgers has one of the premier soccer programs in the United States...

Hill's brother, Brian, recently made a name for himself by leading the Orlando Magic to the NBA Finals for the first time in team history...

Sussex plays its home games at Skylands Park, which also serves as the home to the New Jersey Cardinals, a Class A affiliate of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Nutley squad falls short in legion final

By Rick Bliwis

SOUTH ORANGE — When Vailsburg beat Belleville for the 1994 Essex County American Legion championship at Seton Hall University, the story of the game was the sterling mound effort turned in by Pat Henning. In that contest, Henning tossed a brilliant two-hitter to lead Vailsburg to a 3-0 decision.

On Saturday afternoon, Henning was again on the mound as Vailsburg took on Nutley for the 1995 county legion championship at SHU's Owen T. Carroll Field. But this time, things were a bit tougher for the poised righthander who will play his college ball at Princeton. Henning, who pitched Seton Hall Prep to the Parochial A state championship in the spring, yielded 12 hits and four runs in the five plus innings he worked. But John Probst came in to bail out Henning in the top of the sixth and Vailsburg managed to come up with a 7-4 triumph. The last county team to repeat as champion had been Caldwell, which turned the trick in 1985, 1986 and 1987.

"In the early going you could tell that Pat was having trouble spotting the ball so I kind of figured that we would have to bring someone else in during the latter stages of the contest," said Vailsburg head coach Frank Gately. "But we're pretty fortunate because we have two great pitchers in Pat and John, and a couple of pretty fair guys behind them. Even though Pat didn't pitch a great game today, he's still had a superb summer. He's one of the main reasons why we're county champs for the second straight year."

Nutley, which jumped to a 1-0 lead in the top half of the first, certainly had its chances against Vailsburg. But despite the 12 safeties, some mistakes on the basepaths hurt Bruce Gallagher's squad.

"I can't complain about the way we hit the ball," remarked Gallagher, whose squad edged out Bloomfield for the circuit's American Division crown. "But we made a few mistakes out there, and against a strong club like Vailsburg, you really can't afford to do that. I still give our kids a lot of credit because they've had a marvelous season despite the fact that we're lacking in depth. We played the latter half of the year with only 11 kids on the roster."

Nutley, which beat Livingston for the 1992 county legion championship after bowing to Newark East Side the previous year, got off to a quick start against Henning when Mike Azzato led off by reaching on a dropped fly in the outfield. Then, consecutive singles by Eric Puzio and Brian Veneziano resulted in the first run of the contest. But the fans in attendance had a lot more offense to look forward to as the two clubs combined for 25 safeties, including seven of the extra-base variety.

For Vailsburg (23-2), which enters the state playoffs with a seven-game winning streak, John Bravette, Mike Kahney, Brian Cooper, Kevin Toothill, Bill Hahn and Luke Iorio all collected two hits. Nutley, which will bring a 15-4-1 mark into the state tournament, spotlighted five players with two hits — Puzio, Veneziano, Brian Dena, Mike DiPiano and Chris D'Amboia.

"The ball seemed to be carrying a lot in the hot weather, particularly to right," observed Probst, who came up with his second save of the summer (to go along with a 5-0 mark and .350 average). "We knew Nutley had the capability to put some runs up on the scoreboard so I think we kind of expected a game like this."

Vailsburg, which has only lost to Cedar Grove and West Orange this summer, stormed right back in the last of the first against Nutley starter Greg Pierro, who ended up allowing 10 hits and five runs in the four innings he worked. Bravette, the team's outstanding second sacker, led off with a double to left and Probst then reached first when he was hit by a pitch. After Kahney grounded to second, Cooper followed with an RBI single to left and the game was knotted at 1-1. Vailsburg then took the lead for good when gritty backstop Joe Stephenson delivered a clutch RBI single to right.

Gately's team, which hopes to make a bid for the state legion championship (Nutley, Bloomfield and Maplewood will also be vying in the tournament), continued the onslaught when Toothill cracked a single to center. Then, with Hahn at the dish, a wild pitch brought in another tally. Finally, Pierro escaped further trouble when he got Hahn to hit into a fielder's choice play at home and then retired the side when John Rodriguez hit into a force at second.

Vailsburg, which put together a 21-5 state last summer, got going again in the last of the third when Hahn singled in Toothill, who had reached base on a two-out double to center. And the next frame, Vailsburg made it 5-1 when Probst knocked in Iorio with a sacrifice fly to center.

Despite being down by four runs midway through the contest, Nutley was far from finished. In the top half of the fifth, the visitors pushed across two big runs to narrow the Vailsburg advantage to 5-3.

"I never thought we were out of things," expressed Gallagher. "During the regular season we lost to them by a run in 10 innings, so I think our kids were confident for this game."

Nutley started its comeback in the top of the fifth when pinch hitter Mike Wilson cracked a single to right in place of Pierro. Following a fielder's choice play at second, Puzio cracked a tremendous triple to right and then scored himself when Henning was called for a balk. Henning, who improved to 7-0, seemed to get back in the groove when he fanned the dangerous Veneziano, but Cline answered with another triple to deep right. The frame finally ended for the home side when Shawn Gallagher, the son of the coach, flied out to Hahn in right.

With a new hurler on the mound for Nutley, DiPiano, Vailsburg came right back in the last of the fifth, Hahn reached on an infield hit, advanced to second on an error and then took third on a bad pickoff play. Rodriguez made it 6-3 by lifting a sacrifice fly to right.

Nutley scored its last run in the top of the sixth thanks to a double to right by Dena and an RBI single to left by DiPiano. But again Vailsburg answered back in the bottom half of the frame as Kahney belted a double to center to drive in Bravette, who had led off with a nice bunt down the third base line. Probst then took care of business in the seventh as things ended on a double play, the third twinkling of the contest for Gately's crew.

"We had to work hard for this game but it feels nice to win another county championship," smiled Gately. "Now the real season starts and we're determined to make a run at the state legion championship. It would be something if our kids could play for two state championship clubs in one year."

GAME NOTEBOOK — Vailsburg turned in big DP's in the first, fourth and seventh innings. Another key defensive play came when Stephenson picked a man off in the top of the sixth...

Veneziano had the blast of the day when he socked a tremendous double to straightaway center in the top of the third. But then Nutley made some mistakes on the basepaths to take itself out of a possible big inning...

Pierro, a righthander who is attending the University of Rhode Island, entered the championship tilt with a 2-1 mark. Henning entered Saturday's affair with a sparkling 1.46 ERA...

Vailsburg took a .318 team batting mark into the title contest to go along with a strong 1.86 ERA. Cooper's .396 mark led the hitting parade, while Iorio at 4-0 and Tom Lyons at 4-1 complemented Henning and Probst on the hill.

Del Vecchio cracks opponents

The Belleville Recreation Men's Softball League playoffs concluded July 13, with Del Vecchio Chiropractic emerging as the "A" Division champions.

Del Vecchio topped their nemesis, Michael's Roscommon I, in the finals. The two squads split the first two games before Del Vecchio rallied in the bottom of the seventh to win game three, 12-11.

During the regular season, Michael's had defeated Del Vecchio three times as they achieved a 15-0 record in the Wednesday "A" League. Sisbarro Disposal, winners of the Monday "A" League with a 12-3 mark, was defeated by Del Vecchio in the semifinals.

Auriemma Electric swept their way through the "B" Division playoffs, winning in the finals over St. Anthony Church of Silver Lake, 12-10 and 12-7. Auriemma won the Thursday "B" League with an 11-3-1 record.

Tuesday "B" League champs Andros Farms finished with a record of 11-3-1 but was eliminated early in the playoff tournament.

Belleville resident sparks win

SOUTH ORANGE — In baseball, a team won't be all that successful if it isn't strong up the middle. And that's true no matter what the level of competition may be.

This summer, Vailsburg has had an outstanding campaign and one of the reasons why has been the strong play of second baseman John Bravette. During the high school campaign, the kid from Belleville hit .365 to help Seton Hall Prep to a 25-6 mark and the Parochial A state championship. And during summer legion play, Bravette has continued to excel. Heading into Saturday's Essex County American Legion championship tilt against Nutley at Seton Hall University, Bravette was hitting a solid .344.

In the contest against Nutley, Bravette continued to show what he could do. The youngster, who will try and make it as a walk-on at Seton Hall University next spring, belted two hits in three appearances and scored two runs to help Vailsburg gain a 7-4 decision. Fittingly, he helped turn a DP on the final play of the game when he scooped up a grounder hit by Carlos Cline, tagged the runner on first who was heading for second, and then made the peg to first to retire the dangerous Cline.

"I think early in the high school season, people might have been surprised by John's play because he was a first-year starter," said John Probst, who came up with the save against Nutley in the championship. "But this kind of performance today is what we expect from John now. He played great in the spring, particularly down the stretch, and he's continued to play very well in summer ball."

solid campaign

Bravette, a spunky 5-foot-8, 130-pounder, got Vailsburg going in the last of the first after Nutley had picked up an unearned run against Vailsburg starter Pat Henning in the top half of the frame. Bravette, the Vailsburg lead-off man, greeted Nutley starter Greg Pierro with a solid double to left and eventually came around to score on a single to left by DH Brian Cooper. Vailsburg would go on to pick up two more runs in the inning to gain a 3-1 margin and remained in the lead the rest of the way.

Bravette had a nice sacrifice bunt in his next appearance in the second and then grounded out to short in the fourth. But in the sixth, he reached base on a nifty bunt down the third base line and came around on a double to center by Mike Kahney to account for the final tally of the contest.

"John is the kind of kid that can do everything on the ballfield," commented Vailsburg head coach Frank Gately, who guided his team to the 1994 county legion championship over Belleville in a game also held at SHU. "As a hitter, he sets the table for us. And in the field, he's always very solid. There's no question that he's been one of our outstanding players this summer, just like he was during the high school season for Seton Hall Prep."

DIAMOND NOTES — Bravette, who hopes to join Probst on the 1996 SHU varsity, always had the confidence that he could play at a top level in the sport. Once he made the SHP roster this spring after being cut the three previous seasons, Bravette was out to prove that he belonged...

Labor Delivery Recovery Suites debut at Clara Maass Center

As part of its growing continuum of care, Clara Maass Medical Center of Belleville announces the opening of its new state-of-the art labor, delivery and recovery, LDRs.

The traditional mode of maternity care has been replaced with new and improved LDRs. In the new Clara Maass LDR unit, patients have the luxury to labor, deliver and recover in a beautiful, spacious, state-of-the-art LDR suite. Amenities offered in the LDRs are in-room stereo, central monitoring, choice of relaxing soaking whirlpool tub or a shower with shower massage.

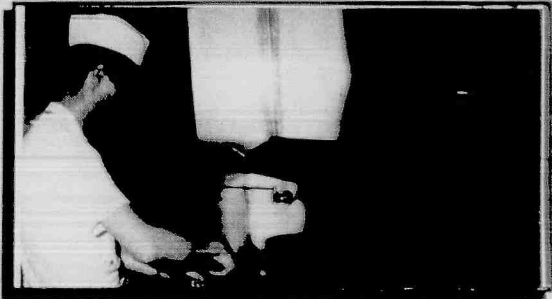

Each LDR conceals the necessary medical equipment while maintaining a pleasant, comfortable home-like atmosphere. The suites are complete with parquet floors, coordinating linens and window treatments, and create a sense of warmth and comfort.

Unlike the traditional birthing room utilized by low-risk women who want a home-like delivery, Clara Maass' LDRs provide the same capability as a delivery room. Women with low and high risk pregnancies can use them. The LDRs are fully equipped for many situations, operative vaginal delivery among them.

Complicated deliveries and Cesarean births can be handled in one of two operating suites which are also within the LDR wing. Patients requiring surgery can recover in the fully equipped recovery suite located next to the LDR surgical area.

After delivery and recovery the mother and her baby will be transferred to a mother-baby unit. The mother will arrive on the unit first and will become acquainted with her primary mother-baby nurse. Her baby will receive his/her initial assessment and bath in a special care nursery prior to being transferred to his mother's room.

On the mother-baby unit, the primary nurse guides and teaches the mother self-care and parenting skills while attending to the mother's and baby's physical needs. Baby remains with the mother as much as possible.

Bocce Ball a big hit at Meadowland Park

By Rose K. Manzo
Staff Writer

A trip to South Orange's Meadowland Park would not be complete without a stop to watch — or join in with — the village's Bocce Club, which plays most days and nights in the park.

The club members vary in age but are predominately senior citizens who find the activity a great way to get out and meet people.

"We have a lot of fun playing," said Ralph DeNunzio, who has been enjoying the sport for many years. DeNunzio said during the past 25 years, seniors have gotten together at the park to play bocce. He said the group consists of about 20 regular members but at one time reached a total of 50 members.

DeNunzio said, although the club provides seniors with an enjoyable outing, the games are crowd pleasers for spectators as well.

"Sometimes we have a lot of people watching," DeNunzio said.

DeNunzio said the club members "play for fun" and to enjoy a nice time outdoors. He said they do, however, have tournaments throughout the year — the annual Fourth of July and end of summer competitions.

For nearly a decade, the Bocce Club has taken on the South Orange Board of Trustees in the July 4 game — and they've beaten the governing body each year.

"The Fourth of July game is our main event," DeNunzio said.

Recreation Director Andy Brady said the date for this year's end of summer tourna-

Brady said the tournament is expected to draw from 30 to 35 players, featuring about eight teams with four members on each team.

Brady said the village installed lights at the bocce court about six years ago and the results have been positive.

Glen Ridge councilman takes active role in life

Senior citizen. The term denotes a higher status in society — an earned, learned posture in a seemingly less knowledgeable, yet more informative culture.

What truly defines a senior citizen, as compared to pre-political correctness terms such as elderly, old person, and aged, is the will — and willingness — to succeed and help others succeed.

While the younger generation generally is credited with all the energy and vitality of life, in many cases it is the senior citizen whose energies are boundless.

"I am not satisfied to see a canoe go down a river," said Frank Schulte, age 63. "I want to be in the canoe."

According to the New Jersey Municipal Data Book, the estimated percentage of senior citizens relative to the town population for 1992, the most current calculated year, is 12 percent in Glen Ridge. Senior citizens were counted as those age 65 or older.

Schulte is dipping his feet in the political arena as councilman in Glen Ridge.

"I have the time and the energy and I would like to give back to the community," said Schulte. "I don't have one complaint. I am very blessed."

Schulte said the secret to staying young is keeping active. "You can't think like an old fuddy duddy," said Schulte. "Get out and do — exercise!"

Who says seniors can't run a marathon? Glen Ridge Councilman Frank Schulte takes a "romp" down Ridgewood Avenue during the annual Ridgers' Romp in the fall.

few exceptions, draws our senior citizens out after dark" more than any other facility, Brady said.

Bocce players Dan Santinelli and Jim Mindo agreed the Bocce Club is a wonderful opportunity for seniors to get together. Santinelli said he plays almost everyday with fellow retirees. He said the group alternates between playing bocce and going into the nearby Club House for card games.

Mindo said he spends time at the bocce court during the daytime as well as some nights from 7-11 p.m.

"It gives us something to do," Mindo said. He said the facility is an important place for seniors, and South Orange is fortunate because not many towns have bocce courts or clubs.

DeNunzio said the bocce court attracts residents as well as former residents who still come back to play the popular game.

The game is played in one of the two courts set up in Meadowland Park near the Duck Pond. There are two teams for each game and DeNunzio said team members are selected quite democratically using a set of playing cards. For example, if six people want to play, someone will select six playing cards — three red cards and three black cards. Each of the players will choose a card at random to determine which team they will be on. DeNunzio said teams participating in the Fourth of July or end of summer tournament are set up differently and members can choose who they want to play with.

The game starts with a player rolling a small white ball to the other end of the court. Each player then rolls a larger ball — colored green or red depending on which team a player is on — down the court to see which comes closest to the white ball. Each ball that comes closest gains one point for the player's respective team; a score of 21 wins the game.

According to team members, the game is fun to play and watch. With shade provided by the trees which surround the court, the bocce club is a perfect way to spend a warm summer day.

A Continuing Care Retirement Community

"With my spacious floor plan, I'll be organizing events, not closets"

No matter which yardstick you measure them by, Lois Hawkins' accomplishments are impressive. A Graduate of Westminster Choir College in Princeton, Lois later became a music teacher at Baird School. Her Masters Degree in Voice was earned at Boston Conservatory.

So when she began looking for a retirement community, Lois voiced her opinion. "I'll be leaving a large house", she says, "so I wanted my new home to have ample square footage"

She found it at Winchester Gardens. Her two bedroom apartment is airy and roomy, and all apartments come with a fully equipped kitchen and include a washer and dryer.

There's enough storage space so a born organizer can focus on more important things, such as being the President of the West Orange Women's Club.

Lois also appreciated the fact that we reserved plenty of room for future residents' suggestions. As a result, underground parking, an auditorium for musical events and indoor pool are all in the plans.

A healthcare center offering all levels of nursing care will also be a part of the community.

To learn more, send us the coupon or call (201) 378-2080, M-F, 9 am till 5 pm. Make an appointment today. If your life as full as Lois', no other community will measure up.

Plan ahead for a healthy retirement

Let's face it, most of us will spend most of our lives earning a living. We have to wait until retirement to have the freedom to completely take advantage of the things we love to do in life — traveling, fishing, playing golf, doing volunteer work, turning a hobby into a business.

What exactly is retirement planning?

Retirement planning is a process that assesses your financial situation, your goals and objectives, and helps you determine what you need to do and what you have to look forward to during retirement.

When is the right time to start planning for retirement?

If your retirement is five to 15 years away, the time to start planning is now. Even if you think retirement is a long way down the road, you should be aware of the fact that less than half of the people who retire do so when they expect. Many people find themselves retiring early for health, family or professional reasons and are not financially prepared.

Won't the money I have in my retirement programs be enough?

Maybe not. For example, a report from the Bureau of National Affairs shows that for employees who retired on Jan. 1, 1984, with 15 years of service and final earnings of $30,000, the average private pension benefit in 1984 was only $4,260 per year. This amount doesn't include any supplemental pension plan benefits. Also, private pension plans don't provide for automatic inflation protection after employees retire, so they may find the value of their pensions shrinking yearly.

An additional concern regarding pension plans is they often only provide minimum benefits for the surviving spouse if an employee dies. This can be extremely important to women who generally live seven years longer than men and are often left with inadequate incomes.

A retirement plan will review your current financial situation, including Social Security and pension benefits and project how much you can expect from these sources. Your financial planner can help you determine the amount you will need to supplement your benefits in order to live comfortably.

What should I do with my retirement money when I retire?

Depending on your retirement benefits, you probably have several options. You could take a lump sum distribution, choose monthly payments or roll your money over into a qualified account. You should consider this decision carefully and take into consideration how much income you will need to meet your monthly expenses. Your financial planner can help you determine which option is best for your personal situation.

What type of investments should I consider when planning for retirement?

Perhaps the most important element in choosing appropriate investments is time. For example, if you have only five years until you retire, it may not be to your benefit to invest in a real estate partnership that will lock up your capital for 10 years.

After you retire, your main focus will most likely be on income. If you are in a high tax bracket, you will want to look at tax-management techniques. If tax relief is not an issue, you can consider a broader field of investments. Whether you're still working or are already retired, any investment you choose should fit into your overall financial plan.

Will I have to sacrifice present comforts for future security?

Not necessarily. You may have to make minor adjustments in your current lifestyle to assure a comfortable retirement. However, a retirement plan may enable you to live even better during your retirement years.

Your planner also can help you determine how your retirement needs, such as housing, will affect your finances.

Cardiac screening turns into lifesaver

Ten months ago, Josephine Clark, a 66-year-old retired grandmother, attended the 20 Minute Heart Check, a cardiac screening offered by Senior Passport to Health. The 20 Minute exam turned into a lifesaver.

The nurses found Clark's blood pressure to be dangerously high. The results from the test and others at the screening led doctors to admit her to the hospital. Further testing revealed she had a blockage in one of her heart valves, and surgery was needed to clear it. Today, Clark is doing the things she loves most, such as cooking and enjoying an active life with her family and friends.

Senior Passport to Health is a free membership program for adults 55 and older and is provided by Cathedral Healthcare System, a non-profit hospital system of the Archdiocese of Newark. Senior Passport is offered at St. James Hospital and St. Michael's Center, both in Newark, and St. Mary's Life Center in Orange.

Senior Passport members receive many benefits from the program, including early detection of disease. Each month, the program offers free health screenings and education programs. Members receive discounts on trips, free parking, one week free TV and telephone rental at member hospitals. In addition, members can also win prizes just by attending a health screening or education program.

Welcome to reporter's unretirement party

By Russell Roemmele
Staff Writer

Retire. Never. Unless he, number 1, intervenes, naturally.

As a recent article in "Worth" magazine stated, "Scared you won't be able to retire? Give thanks instead. Retirement is a weird social experiment, a historical blip. Its collapse will be a triumph for common sense."

What sense does it make that a particular date at age 65 or age 62 or age 60 or, as some advocates for the elderly say, age 55 makes one different from those folks born one day or one month or one year or one decade earlier? Another device for Hallmark to sell greeting cards?

Why is that retirement date — either to collect Social Security or to be installed in AARP or to get a cheaper ticket at Disney World — ennoble a person? Beats me.

People do not stop loving one another or tolerating one another at age 65. People do not stop faith, hope and charity at age 65. People do not stop having sex — to be blunt — at age 65. People do not stop enjoying children, that is, putting up with generational differences, at age 65. What is the big deal about being 65?

Not for me. I shall never retire, as my father before me and his father before him. My dad was forced, more or less, at age 68 out of a job — that was before age discrimination laws. So he promptly found another one. He also had a part-time job, too, as resident weekend handyman at the homes of his six children. He died at age 74 without one complaint. He joked to Mom, "Now I won't have to get that damn Social Security anymore!" Then he left, just like that.

Grandpa — and Grandma, of course — had 14 children. Neither stopped working, obviously. George Roemmele worked until 81, with the only retirement he ever wanted: to sit in his rocking chair teasing his three dozen grandchildren and dozen great-grandchildren.

Joseph Addison, that greatest of English essayists said it well: "He who would pass his declining years with honor and comfort, should, when young, consider that he may one day become old, and remember when he is old, that he has once been young."

That is what I have been getting at. I mean no offense, for surely the aged deserve whatever they have earned in dollars or in respect, but the politicalization of older folks has gone too far. Growing old should be like serving your country in war: Be thankful for the honor.

Retire. Count me out. I shall always hack away on the computer, as I did on the Underwood, for 70 hours a week until death do us part. Just make sure my final editorial has no typos.

On Oct. 6, 1996, at age 65, I am throwing a big "Alice in Wonderland" party to celebrate my unbirthday, but my unretirement. You are welcome to join.

Seasoned hoofers gather at Degnan Field House

By Robin Wallace
Staff Writer

Blanche Watner of West Orange and Mike Bykowsky of Seaside Park originally met during a senior citizen weekend trip in the mountains, but the romance didn't swing into full gear until Watner invited Bykowsky to attend one of the Thursday afternoon ballroom dancing sessions at the Degnan Field House in Degnan Park, West Orange.

"I leave the sand, sun and ocean to come here. I travel 75 miles," said the tanned, handsome Bykowsky of his enthusiasm for the dancing and his new love. On this particular Thursday, the new couple are just two of about 70 senior citizens from points near and far who flock to the Degnan Field House every week to trip the light fantastic.

"It's great exercise. It's much better than sitting home watching television," said Louise Delps, a 25-year resident of West Orange and president of the Ridgewood Senior Citizens, who attends the dances with her husband, Everett.

The Delps are one of the few married couples who attend the dances, and while many of the seniors extol the virtues of exercise over soap operas, it's clear they are not going without romantic afternoon drama. Despite the agility and grace with which these seasoned hoofers spin across the floor, it's unmistakable that meeting and mingling are as big an attraction here as the opportunity to shimmy and shake.

One suave octogenarian who attends the sessions faithfully every week does not want to be identified. His significant other has not yet joined the ranks of the seniors and would not approve of his afternoon pastime.

"I have a young girlfriend and she would get jealous if she knew I was here," he said.

"There are very few husbands and wives here. We had a man and woman who met here and now are engaged," said West Orange Councilwoman Toby Katz who launched the program two months ago.

"We have a woman now who wants to go steady with one of the men, but the man doesn't know what to do about it," Katz said.

A senior herself, Katz has managed to coordinate the program at very little cost to either the township or the seniors. West Orange residents pay a one-time $2 fee, out-of-towners pay a $2 fee for each session, and coffee and cookies are sold for a quarter. The band, the Innovators, lead by Verona senior Al Middleton, play for free, using a piano donated by the Essex chapter of the National Council of Jewish Women.

"Our policy is just to cover expenses," said Middleton, who calls the band the Innovators because all the musicians in the ever-changing ensemble play without sheet music. The band, and the senior dance circuit, allow the older musicians the opportunity to continue to play and perform.

"Musicians have to have an outlet. It is in your system," said Middleton, who has been strumming the banjo for 50 years.

"It is a lot of hardwork, but it is pleasant

Volunteerism keeps retired seniors active

By Chantae Benson
Staff Writer

Senior volunteer programs continue to provide an outlet for retired people who wish to devote their time to serving the community. Many are utilizing senior volunteer programs offered by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program and the Volunteer Center of Greater Essex County.

RSVP serves as a senior service sponsoring agency with 1,750 volunteers throughout Essex County and 150 sites for volunteer work — 200 sites in East Orange alone.

Many of the volunteer sites include East Orange General Hospital, Norman Towers, Parkway Manor Health Center and various other sites.

RSVP is one of the largest non-profit agencies in the state of New Jersey, according to its director Joyce Rescinnelle. Seniors who volunteer are usually older than 55 and perform a total of 350,000 hours of free community service in Essex County on a yearly basis.

Francis Vitalino does a variety of volunteer work through RSVP, including working at Norman Towers, a senior citizen building in East Orange. In 1986, Vitalino was asked to take care of the Norman Tower volunteer and RSVP program. Vitalino's position consists of taking care of the older RSVP women by keeping track of their volunteer hours. According to Vitalino, Norman Towers has 40 volunteers, 22 of whom are from the RSVP program.

Vitalino has also organized bookies, age-hams and hats to donate to different hospitals, and assisted in giving out more than 250 toys to the homeless, poor children and different hospitals as part of her volunteer work at Norman Towers.

Vitalino finds her work rewarding because it gives her the opportunity to help others.

"I enjoy helping people and doing things for people," said Vitalino.

Nenie Mayo is also a volunteer through the RSVP program. She works as a phone alert, which requires her to call up individuals who have requested the service to check up on them. The individuals are usually senior citizens who are living by themselves and have no friends or relatives living nearby.

Mayo has two people she calls in Newark and West Caldwell. One individual is called three times a week and the other five times a week. Mayo said the individuals request how many times they would like to receive calls.

Mayo said her satisfaction in doing volunteer work comes from her ability to help others through her actions.

"It's rewarding to me because I'm doing it from my heart. I want lonely people to know that someone loves them," said Mayo.

Mayo said when she retired she decided volunteer work was the way she wanted to spend the rest of her time.

"I love to reach out. I made up my mind when I retired that I was going to do this. I'm giving as much as I can now at my age," Mayo said.

Another volunteer service which seniors have the opportunity to utilize is the Volunteer Center of Greater Essex County, located on Main Street in Orange. The Volunteer Center provides volunteer services for seniors and various sites at which seniors can do volunteer work.

The Lighthouse Community Service Incorporation in Newark is a non-profit organization which serves as one of the sites the Volunteer Center offers to seniors. The Lighthouse Community Service feeds between 400 and 600 people five days a week free of charge and provides a shelter for 50-75 men, women and children. Self enrichment programs are also offered.

Betty Martin, who has been working at the Lighthouse since its inception in 1981, utilized the services of the Volunteer Center of Greater Essex County. Her tasks include supervising residential areas, providing mentorship, cooking, doing laundry for those who stay at the Lighthouse, working in the executive office when the secretary is away, and she is a member of the board of trustees. Martin does volunteer work five to seven days a week, which has gained her the name "Mother Martin" and the outstanding volunteer award for this year.

Jacquelyn King, who is the deputy executive director at the Lighthouse, views Martin as an invaluable component because of her dedication to her job.

"She is just as committed here as if she was getting paid $1 million. She is in a lot of ways more dedicated than paid staff. She is definitely a jewel here and invaluable. I don't know what we would do without 'Mother Martin' here," said King.

Martin said being a volunteer allows her to be in an environment where she can do what she enjoys the most — helping others. "I'd like to be in a place where I can help people, where I can talk to them," said Martin.

She said her most rewarding experience doing volunteer work is being able to help the less fortunate and having the ability to make a difference in the lives of others.

"I think the most rewarding experience is helping someone that's less fortunate than I am. It makes you feel good when you talk to somebody and see that your doing good."

Senior Citizens cut a rug at Degnan Field House work," said Ceil Rosenfeld of West Orange, who regularly plays piano with the Innovators. "We enjoy seeing these people have a good time."

The West Orange dances are the newest stop on a circuit that includes similar dances at lake houses in Verona Park and Little Falls, but it is quickly becoming the most popular.

"We hit them all. This is one of the nicest places we come to," said Catherine Hauptmann of Montville, who like many of the dancers, are regulars on the circuit. "It's many of the same people. Everyone loves it here," she said.

"I've come every week since they started," said Mildred Monaco of Livingston, herself a former dance teacher. "It is so much fun."

But one does not have to travel the circuit or be a life-long dance enthusiast to enjoy the afternoons. Anton Chafrank was encouraged to attend the dances to help him recover from the loss of his wife one year ago.

"I have a very good time here. I don't miss one day," Chafrank said. In addition to helping him re-enter the social world, the dances have had their practical benefits as well.

"I was dancing before I came here, but I was clumsy," said Chafrank, who is now one of the most popular partners in the place.

Another popular partner is Pete Luongo, a Department of Recreation employee whose responsibilities include maintaining the field house and keeping the air-conditioning running during the summer afternoons. In between his duties, Luongo hits the floor.

"I sneak in a little dancing every week," Luongo said.

The West Orange Senior Ballroom Dancing program is every Thursday from noon to 3 p.m. in the Degnan Field House in Degnan Park on Pleasant Valley Way, West Orange.

Despite the agility and grace with which these seasoned hoofers spin across the floor, it's unmistakable that meeting and mingling are as big an attraction here as the opportunity to shimmy and shake.

Advice on Funeral Planning

Because families must arrange a funeral service when they are most vulnerable emotionally, it's important to make decisions based on one's own past experience and good judgment.

That's the advice of Hugo F. Barth III, partner in Haerberle Barth of Union, Smith and Smith of Springfield and Brough Funeral Home in Summit. "When families choose a funeral director at the time of a death, they should seek out a home in which they feel comfortable as a result of their own experience in visiting friends and relatives who have lost loved ones," Barth says.

As a third-generation principal of a 93-year old family establishment, Barth believes that those who must make arrangements at the time of need should also consult a trusted friend or relative who has been involved in planning a funeral in the recent past.

"I'd suggest that they ask the friend or relative if they had felt comfortable with the professionalism of the funeral director and the sensitivity of the staff," Barth continues. "If the individual consulted shares the same values, the comments should weigh heavily in the decision-making process."

Although most funeral are arranged at the time of a death, a growing number of thoughtful individuals are pre-planning their own arrangements, Barth points out. "By pre-arranging a funeral, one is assured of having precisely the type of service he or she would prefer--and avoid leaving the decisions to others who might not be familiar with the wishes of the deceased."

"Pre-arranging one's funeral is really nothing more than sensible planning, just as making out a will or purchasing life insurance are steps most prudent people take," Barth notes.

Haerberle & Barth, Smith and Brough Funeral Home offer free booklets that provide complete details on pre-planning.

Prevent Worry, Confusion, Heartache

When Mrs. Barbara W. walked into my office today, I could see how she was terribly upset. She was fighting back tears, and her face was gray with grief and exhaustion.

Barbara's husband of 27 years died unexpectedly yesterday. Today, on what was probably the most painful day of her life, Barbara had to make his cemetery arrangements...

ALONE

You see, even though Barbara and her husband were very close, they'd never discussed what they would actually do when one of them died. So today, in a state of shock, Barbara had to make all the decisions herself.

If Tragedy Struck Would Your Family Know Exactly What To Do?

No one likes to think about death. Frankly, I don't want to see your family or ANY family go through what Barbara did. That's why I'd like to help take some of the burden off your family by offering you our Family Record Organizer.

Hollywood Memorial Park Company Can Help You Make Things Easier On Your Family

Here's a partial list of what's included in this record book:

1. A checklist of what the family will need to do.
2. Pages for listing the locations of all Social Security benefits, personal papers, bank accounts & Veteran's benefits.
3. How to spare your family the lonely and difficult task of making final arrangements when they are burdened with grief.
4. How to choose exactly the arrangements you prefer—crypt, niche, or ground burial — and then tell your family what you've chosen. That way your family won't have to worry about making the "right" decision or feel compelled to "overspend" without a clue about what you really wanted.

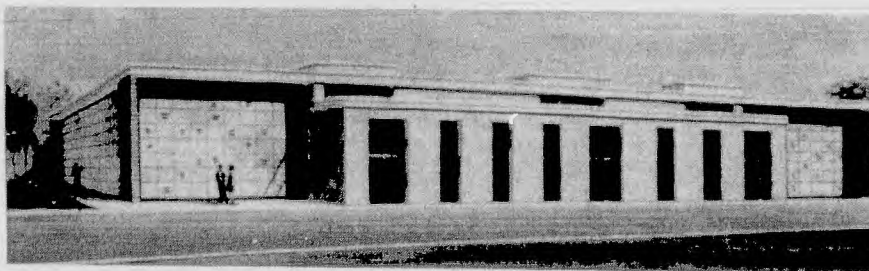

To get your Family Record Organizer without charge simply call Hollywood Memorial Park at the telephone number listed below. I assure you, there's no obligation whatsoever.

From 'The Editor's Notebook'

By Tom Canavan
Editor in Chief

Tuesday is National Night Out, the time of year when citizens across the United States are asked to participate in their municipality's efforts to fight crime.

Usually, those efforts include a police department's crime prevention unit making itself available to the public and distributing literature detailing ways a person can protect their property from break-ins and themselves from criminal harm. It also includes asking residents to sit on their porches with their lights on during National Night Out to show criminals they have joined the fight against crime.

Call me a pessimist, but a once-a-year effort in the fight against crime hardly seems enough to win the battle. This certainly is not a knock against police departments, which, I am sure, would love to see an end to crime and would be willing to put all their effort into the fight to end it once and for all.

But incidents of criminal behavior never will go away. Does that mean we should abandon events like National Night Out? Of course not. These events should be starting points for a year-long effort by police departments to enlighten residents about how they can protect themselves and their property. Look at the efforts of the Orange and East Orange police departments, which have been cited throughout the years for the programs they sponsor for their citizens. But citizens must always be aware.

Recently, I was talking to someone on our way out of the house. She was leaving a window open in the rear of the house to let some air in while we were out. I told her I've written and read too many police blotters during the last eight years and know that leaving a window open even a crack, especially at the rear of the house where there is nothing but a yard, is enough for someone to get into the house.

Fighting crime must be a continuous effort on the part of the resident as well as the police department, and it must be given more effort than one can spare in one night. Reading the police blotter in your local newspaper is one way to learn how homes are broken into, or when and how automobiles are stolen. Police blotters also offer information such as where muggings occur most frequently, and they alert residents to be careful when walking in those areas. But it takes a large effort on the part of police departments to share that information — public information — with the public; they are sworn to protect.

When residents come together throughout the year to fight crime, only then will their efforts be fruitful.

I've had some inquiries about my vacation. "I hate to ask this, but..." or "Since you're back to work, I guess everything went well," are two of the remarks made by readers who read my column two weeks ago, when I described my vacation periods being synonymous with tragedy.

I'm happy to report that the week of July 10-14 came and went without a hitch. I had a great vacation.

County to investigate privatizing Geriatric Hospital

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

The Treffinger Administration, with the Freeholder Board, is exploring the possibility of privatizing the Essex County Geriatric Center, with the hopes a private company can improve the quality of conditions at the once substandard center.

Hit with five violations after a state inspection was conducted in March and its report issued in June, the county has corrected most of the deficiencies with the help of a private management firm which specializes in geriatric care. It is hoped, however, a private company with a proven track record can reverse the situation, operate the hospital more efficiently and improve and maintain conditions.

On Friday, the county began the process by placing an advertisement seeking "request for qualifications." This is the first step to find qualified private companies that are interested to take over the operations of the Cedar Grove center. The advertisement places an Aug. 3 deadline for companies to submit an RFQ.

"We are concerned first and foremost about the quality of life and care provided to residents of the Essex County Geriatric Center, and we believe we must find the best way to meet those concerns and provide that care, including the possibility of hiring in an experienced long-term care provider other than the county government to manage, operate and own the center," County Executive James Treffinger said.

Treffinger said the decision to explore privatizing the 236-bed Geriatric Center was made after the state Department of Health cited the center with five violations last month.

The report from the state Department of Health listed a wide range of problems with the way the Geriatric Center staff was treating and caring for the elderly residents. The five violations were:

- Failure of staff to properly develop and implement individual care plans,
- Theft of residents' personal property,
- Failure of staff to properly bathe residents or assist them in bathing on a regular basis,
- Verbal abuse of residents by staff, and
- Inadequate staff supervision and staff assistance of residents at meal time.

In its report, the state recommended a private firm be hired to help correct deficiencies and monitor the center. When informed of the findings and violations last month, the county contracted, on an emergency basis, Care Perspectives, a Lakewood firm specializing in the management and operation of nursing homes. Care Perspectives had been recommended as one of its preferred firms.

When the emergency period ended earlier this month, the state recommended the county retain the services of Care Perspectives for another 90 days. At this time, a contract was presented to the freeholders during the July 19 meeting and was tabled until the Aug. 9 meeting. Care Perspectives will continue working until the contract is discussed.

County Administrator Vincent DiMauro said Care Perspectives was not hired to assume the operation and management of the Geriatric Center and its contract will not be affected by the request for qualifications.

Since citing the county for the five violations, the state has not allowed any new patients to be admitted to the center.

There are 180 long-term patients residing in the 236-bed center in Cedar Grove. There is a staff of 225 doctors, nurses, nurses aids and support staff. The center costs about $6.6 million to operate annually.

"The state findings, together with the concerns raised by residents and

Opposition to sale of Hilltop mounts

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

The sale of the 350-acre Hilltop tract to the Essex County Improvement Authority again came under fire during the freeholders' July 19 meeting.

During the meeting, the freeholders were presented with a resolution which spells out the details of the land deal that would put the much talked about West Essex property into the control of the ECIA.

Thomas Banker, executive director of the ECIA, said it was imperative the freeholders approve the resolution so the county could spend the revenue in its 1995 budget, which relies heavily on the $32.5 million it would gain by transferring the land to the ECIA.

The resolution "is the next step in the process," said Banker, and sets out clear responsibilities for the county and ECIA, and a timetable for the sale of the land. "Once the land is transferred to the ECIA, the authority will have three years to sell it to a third party."

Banker said the resolution does not commit the property to one use, and does not exclude or interfere with plans to turn the Hilltop into a state park.

He encouraged the freeholders to adopt the resolution so the county could be paid the bonds in time for the 1995 budget. Even if Green Acres money is obtained to turn the Hilltop into a park, "the money won't be put into the budget until 1996," Banker said.

No matter what road the county takes, bonding will be necessary to bridge the gap between the grants or the sale of the land, he added.

"I'm working to help balance the county budget first and my second concern is to get the highest and best value for the land," Banker said.

Attorney for the freeholders, Francis Giannetti, highlighted the fact the ECIA would be paid an annual fee of $100,000 during the three year process to act as a broker and market the property.

Despite this, and in the face of opposition from the public, the freeholders held off in their decision on the resolution and are expected to discuss and take action on it during their Aug. 9 meeting in Newark.

Vincent Frantantoni, leader of the Concerned Citizens of Belleville, said the county was selling Hilltop to "balance an over-inflated budget." Calling the Hilltop sale a "gimmick," Frantantoni said he objected "wholeheartedly."

Sam Perelli, leader of the United Taxpayers, urged the freeholders to abort the transfer of the land to the ECIA. "What is the race to balance the budget if we don't know the alternatives? There are too many important unanswered questions."

Perelli added he is attempting to convince the towns of North Caldwell, Verona and Cedar Grove to pay for legal fees to get an injunction to stop the land transfer.

Public hearings

Perelli and Frantantoni also objected to a series of daytime public hearings that had been scheduled to discuss the Hilltop sale, complaining people who work would not be able to attend.

County Executive James Treffinger confirmed Tuesday three hearings will be held Aug. 21 in North Caldwell, Verona and Cedar Grove at 10 a.m., noon and 2 p.m., respectively. The executive added another hearing will be Sept. 5 at 10 a.m. in Newark.

County Administrator Vince DiMauro said Monday another meeting may be scheduled during the evening, although no date has been set.

The scheduling of at least four meetings at this time appeases concerns of citizens who have argued the county is in violation of the Lustbader Law by not holding hearings when the land is transferred to the ECIA.

According to the Lustbader Law, hearings must be held if public land is being sold. County officials have maintained the law does not apply because the land is being transferred to another county agency. The hearings would be required when the land is eventually sold to a third party.

"Regardless of whether the Lustbader Law applies now or not, I take responsibility for not clearing up any confusion about our plans and hopes," Treffinger said. "These four Lustbader Law hearings will provide an open forum to discuss all concerns and to give interested citizens an accurate and updated description of the sale process and our four-month lobbying efforts for a state park."

Mr. Fix It comes to aid of seniors

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

Living on a fixed income consisting of pensions and Social Security, senior citizens are finding the cost of home maintenance too high for them to handle.

Lottie Metal, a 66-year-old Irvington resident, would have repaired the plaster walls of her house a "little at a time," unsure if any work other than the plastering would have gotten done.

Willie Cooper of East Orange and Theresa Agigio of Orange admitted they would have let the broken ceilings, deteriorating porch and chipped painting remain unattended in their respective homes, unable to pay for a private contractor to perform the work.

These days, however, hope is being restored to seniors, and physically disabled people, who now have somewhere to turn when their homes are in need of minor, yet necessary, home repairs.

Many senior citizens who call the service are widows who have owned their homes for a long time and have difficulty maintaining them, and do not have children to help them, said Carmen Vicari, director of the Mr. Fix It/Repair Assistance Program.

"We want to keep senior citizens independent and living in their own homes," said Vicari, a retired fire captain who spent more than 30 years with the Newark Fire Department.

Funded through a grant from Senior Services, Mr. Fix It provides minor plumbing, heating and electrical maintenance as well as painting and plastering. In partnership with PSE&G and the state Division of Fire Safety, Mr. Fix It also has begun installing free smoke detectors.

Vicari said many of the homes are older and need more routine maintenance, but the occupants, now senior citizens, cannot perform the work themselves and cannot afford to pay contractors. Unfortunately, Vicari added many of the priority calls are from seniors whose homes have been broken into by burglars.

Under the Mr. Fix It program, Essex County seniors living alone and receiving less than $9,300 annually or couples receiving less than $12,000 annually are eligible to get free repairs. Since September 1994, 180 clients have been served and 68 are on a waiting list.

Realizing the $30,000 grant has to be stretched over a 12-month period, the Mr. Fix It program is bolstered by money it earns through the Repair Assistance Program, a similar program in which home maintenance is provided for a nominal fee to seniors who do not qualify for the free service.

Living on pensions and Social Security, "these people are suffering for no reason," Vicari said. "I can't believe the poverty out there."

By all accounts, Vicari and his corp of six workers has received rave reviews and appear to be viewed as angels by those who they have helped.

"I would have let it go or done a little at a time," Metal said. "They did a good job. They were magnificent, wonderful."

"They did an excellent job," Cooper said. "They were really good to me. I am very happy."

"I think it's wonderful what they're doing," Agigio said. "They do such nice work. It's been a big improvement on my house."

A hidden value in the program is all of the Mr. Fix It workers are also senior citizens who are employed under the Older Americans Act.

William Hunter, a foreman, said he "gets a kick" from helping other senior citizens out. "I really enjoy working because we get praised for the work we do," he added about the clients appreciating the service they provide.

For Hunter, working for Mr. Fix It was an opportunity to continue to support himself. At 56, Hunter was laid off from his previous job and was having difficulty, because of his age, to find another job.

For more information, call Vicari at Mr. Fix It/Repair Assistance Program at 673-0640, ext. 42.

COUNTY NEWS

Whither the jobs of fathers, grandfathers?

"No man is born into the world whose work is not born with him. There is always work, and tools to work with, for those who will; and blessed are the horny hands of toil," stated James Russell Lowell.

The other day, I drove from the Parkway through Lyons Avenue in Irvington to pick up 1-78 to Newark Airport to drop my son off to meet his flight. It was sad and depressing to see the scores of former industrial sites, mostly manufacturing plants, closed and, frankly, falling apart as one passes Irvington Park to the interstate ramp.

Because of a traffic jam, as usual, going north on the Parkway, when I exited the airport I took Route 21 through Newark to Belleville and back home to Bloomfield. If Irvington's once booming industry is dead, even more so is Newark's to Mill Street in Belleville. I bit my lip as I passed the industrial wasteland. Performing Arts Center — bah! Whither the jobs of our fathers and grandfathers?

As one exits Route 21, still as dangerous as the Indy 500, at Grafton Avenue to Mill Street, one passes the towers of steel and concrete, the failure of high-rise public housing, the Archbishop Walsh Homes, and then piles of debris dumped at the boundary of Newark and Belleville. North Newark townships here is a pile of garbage, damn ye politicians!

The great Wallace & Tiernan, the last of Belleville's mighty manufacturing tracts, looked the way I remember so much of the Ironbound section of Newark and the inner-suburbs of Newark: Belleville in the Valley, in Watsessing-Ampere neighborhood of Bloomfield, in Ampere in East Orange, in Irvington along Coit and Grove streets, and in other industrial centers of Essex County.

The smokestacks still seen from my perch on this rock are but relics now. They are reminders of the industrial revolution that once identified Newark and its inner suburbs not with the glory that was Greece or the grandeur that was Rome, but the common values of America. Hear me, the common values which was our America.

If there was any value the Puritans brought with them to their Newark colony and thence to Essex County it was, in a word, work. It was not, after all, political power or financial power that built the county. It was "work power" or, still more simply, labor.

Even the sacred shelves of the great Newark Library do not have one scholarly book — I know it would have to be rows of such volumes — to record

Lookout On Eagle Rock

By Russell Roemmele
Staff Writer

the rise, decline and fall of manufacturing in Essex County. Look at the shelves in your local library. There again one cannot unearth histories, even monographs, on the native manufacturing, to use a phrase. Whither the jobs of our fathers and grandfathers?

A few new and attractively designed books about industry in New Jersey can be found, but they are at best general and often superficial, vapid. The who, when and where are there — for a few of the bigger companies — but the how and the why are missing. It is as if America, or at least its academia and media, have conspired to ignore and, in several instances, condemn the jobs of our fathers and grandfathers.

Where once stood the Sprague Electric Company in Watsessing in Bloomfield — that large building at the right as East Orange and Bloomfield meet on Parkway North — George Sprague, a worthy contemporary of George Westinghouse and Thomas A. Edison, employed hundreds and hundreds in what was then new manufacturing of electrical equipment. Sprague had invented, that is to say he manufactured efficiently and profitably, the first electric street cars.

General Electric took over the works and operated there until the early 1960s when the flight of manufacturing from the inner suburbs followed the flight of manufacturing from the cities. This migration in the Northeast, this demographic revolution, matched other historic movements, such as the great treks to the Old West — Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan — and thence to the Old West and America's last frontier, the Pacific.

Not in all Essex County do we have a permanent exhibition, a grand site, an eternal monument I dare say, to the industry of our past, to the manufacturing of those who came before us. No one seems to care anymore, as you will find if you visit the former grounds where our fathers and grandfathers labored.

Thus I weep on this rock for I see no smokestacks fuming. I suppose the air is cleaner for other microbes to take over. Where, I ask, has gone the labor — hard, sweating labor of our fathers and grandfathers? We gave that common value of their labor not even a decent burial.

Men of Essex golf tourney to raise money for students

The Men of Essex, Inc. has set a goal of raising $25,000 at its 35th annual Amateur Golf Tournament which will be played for the first time at the Maplewood Country Club in Maplewood Aug. 7. Proceeds from the tournament benefit the organization's Student Aid Fund which assists Essex County high school students entering college or continuing their college education.

The tournament, which is the county's longest running sports benefit hosted by an African-American charitable organization, has attracted the attention of leading New Jersey-based corporations which have joined the Men of Essex as co-sponsors.

The Men of Essex tournament features 18 holes of championship golf plus tennis and swimming for non-golfers, as well as brunch and an awards benefit. Entry fee is $135 and the deadline is Monday.

Several broadcasting personalities will be on hand, including Dr. Max Gomez of CBS, Reggie Wells of WOR-TV and Bill McCreary and Cheryl Washington of FOX 5 TV and professional sports personalities Lee Rouson, formerly of the New York Giants, and former NBA star Ray Williams.

"The Men of Essex Tournament is a fun benefit and the addition of celebrities brings special excitement," said Charles L. Smith III, tournament chairman. "Team competition play in the tournament under the Miami version of the scramble format also adds to the excitement and challenge to golfers on all levels."

Many prizes also will be given out during the event. Co-sponsorships and tee sign packages are still available. For more information, call the Men of Essex at 783-2012 or 746-5080.

Process to privatize county center begins their family members, demonstrated to us that dramatic steps must be taken to assure the best, most appropriate levels of care for those elderly citizens who reside at the center," said Treffinger.

"It is clear to us there may be private organizations that are more capable and competent at providing long term care than county government," the executive said.

Treffinger said his administration has begun detailed discussion with Freeholder President Joseph DiVincenzo and the freeholder board in an effort to begin addressing the most "effective and efficient means" of providing high quality geriatric services.

"I support the move to privatize the Geriatrics Center. The health care field is changing and it is time for the county to look for an experienced operator to ensure that quality health care is provided efficiently and economically for the patients at this facility," DiVincenzo said.

"The care of the patients is the number one concern. I believe this move is best for the patients, their families and the county," he said.

"Perhaps internal reforms alone can rectify the inadequate conditions, but it would be irresponsible if we did not explore all other possibilities aimed at reforming this institution, including the privatizing of the operation," Treffinger said. "We understand consideration of any move toward privatization may raise concerns among present employees of the center and we are determined to move forward in the most prudent and responsible manner. By initiating an RFQ and RFP process, we are exploring all avenues but have not foreclosed on any possibilities."

Plenty of summertime jazz events to keep cool

Sick of the summer heat? Don't fret because there's an abundance of cool jazz events to chill out these hot summer nights.

The Newark Museum's nighttime Jazz in the Garden series continues with the Eli Yamin Trio today at 12:30 p.m. in the Dreyfuss Memorial Garden.

The trio consists of Yamin, bassist Bryce Sebastian and drummer Marty Beller.

Yamin is reknown throughout the metropolitan area for his years as an announcer and producer at WBOG, Jazz 88. His radio program, "Sunday Morning Harmony," had a weekly listenership of more than 30,000.

In 1993, Yamin went on the road as a pianist, conductor and musical director for the three-month national tour of Duke Ellington's "Sophisticated Ladies."

On Aug. 3, Libby and Co. will be performing in the Garden.

Libby Richman leads a musical ensemble that specializes in original contemporary jazz. Her influences ranging far and wide, listeners will be able to tell how masterfully she blends her classical, Latin and pop into an exciting brand of contemporary jazz to call her very own.

No stranger to the stage, she's performed throughout the world in venues with Leslie Gore, Martha Reeves, The Shirelles, The Earls, The Duprees, The Happenings and the Kit McClure Big Band.

Noted for her alto sax and flute skills, Richman will be cited in the forthcoming "Madame Jazz: Women Jazz and Pop Artists in Transition" by Leslie Gourse.

In conjunction with Jazz 88, The Jazz in the Garden series continues on Thursdays from 12:30-1:30 p.m.

The Riker Hill Art Park Jazz Festival will take place this weekend as part of the Essex County Parks Centennial Celebration.

Featuring artists from all over the Garden State, this spectacular event will run Saturday from noon to 10 p.m. and all day Sunday as well.

Located on Beaufort Avenue in Livingston, Riker Hill is an ideal site because of its natural amphitheater atop a mountain which provides a wonderful and picturesque view of Morris County just miles away.

Scheduled to perform at the Jazz fest is guitar virtuoso Frederick Neal, The Richard Rieter Swing Band, vocalist Rich Everhardt, the Lenore Raphael Quartet, The Garden James Band, Dave Rimelis and "Life," vocalist Rasheema and poet-vocalist Patricia Woolfork-Simmons — known to many as "Trishann."

Orange resident Trishann will perform Saturday and Sunday. She has been long recognized as the "sensual" poet because of her melodic voice and passionate See JAZZ, Page B5

Sexual harassment is key topic in 'Oleanna'

As topical as today's news, National Enquirer, CNN or Court TV, Summerfun Theater is offering the New Jersey professional theater premiere of David Mamet's "Oleanna."

Mamet, the author of such works as "Glengarry Glen Ross" and "Speed the Plow," walks the cutting edge of drama to challenge his audience's thinking on the topical issue of harassment through a study of power, morality and political correctness.

"Oleanna" requires only two actors, a male English teacher and his female student — a student in danger of failing a course and a professor up for tenure.

Mamet translates counsel, conversation and controversy into volatile vernacular verbiage for the sparring duo. His language is as infectious as rap, but has the wisdom of a philosopher and the bite of hemlock. The work has a certain duality of classifications; as drama it is tense and provocative, but as a mystery it is cunning and maniacal, challenging audiences to decipher the real victim.

The Summerfun Theater production of "Oleanna" promises to be a challenging and thought-provoking. It is masterly directed by Rebecca Strum and features the talented Anne Sapienza and Patrick Turner.

The one week run continues each evening at 8 p.m. through Saturday. Additionally, there is a 2 p.m. matinee today.

On a lighter note, the nostalgic musical hit, "Forever Plaid," brings together three local personalities whose paths have crossed but who had never worked with each other until this season at Summerfun Theater.

Musical director Barbara Hegner Leutz, music teacher at Edison Middle School in West Orange; Billy Hipkins, professional actor and a graduate of Verona High School; and director Maurice J. Moran, Jr., a Rahway resident and Verona High School faculty member, bring to life the golden oldies of the late '50s and early '60s at Summerfun.

In a scenario that plays like a juicy soap opera, Kismet has placed this trio together after years of crisscrossed treks down the same paths. Moran is a Summerfun Theater veteran of some 18 years, but has never worked with Leutz who has been a frequent musical director for the company during the past five years. Hipkins was a student at Verona High School, but graduated just prior to Moran's arrival on the faculty. Leutz, who has played for numerous shows in the Essex County area, has never worked with Hipkins, who performed on various local stages before becoming professional. Each anticipates the opportunity to work together in the raucous revue, "Forever Plaid."

Sexual harassment comes of age when the intellectual thriller "Oleanna" takes to the Summerfun stage. When a college student, played by Anne Sapienza, is in danger of failing a course, Patrick Turner as Professor John is reviewed for tenure in this drama from David Mamet.

"Forever Plaid," the blockbuster musical revue, closes Summerfun Theater's sizzling 24th season. Come out of the heat into the air-conditioned Weiss Arts Center as the pop tunes of the late '50s and early '60s come alive in the screamingly funny, delicious trip down musical memory lane with The Plaids.

Broadsided by a busload of Catholic school girls on their way to see the Beatles live on the Ed Sullivan Show, The Plaids career ended before it began. Harmonizing in heaven was just the ticket for a trip to planet earth for their one night stand; the perfect gig to immortalize them as "Forever Plaid."

The show reels with the best of a not-so-long-ago golden age. Who can resist tunes like "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing," "Three Coins In The Fountain," "Moments To Remember" and "A Lady of Spain"? It ran for years in New York, but you have only two weeks to catch Summerfun Theater's production. "Forever Plaid" plays Aug. 1-5 and 8-12 at 8 p.m. Additionally, there will be a Thursday matinee Aug. 3 at 2 p.m.

Summerfun Theater performances are presented in the air-conditioned Weiss Arts Center, located on Lloyd Road and Bloomfield Avenue in Montclair. Standard ticket prices are $18 and $22 with discounts for students and senior citizens. For reservations, call 256-0576.

HOROSCOPES

July 30-August 5

ARIES - March 21/April 20
Showdown Aries. Yes, there's a lot to do, but take it one day at a time. Prioritize work-related projects. Good news: heads your way in terms of romance. Money is tight over the weekend. A half-hearted invitation from an in-law is best ignored. You'll learn something new on Friday.

Taurus - April 21/May 21
Don't let your stubbornness get in the way of good sense. Give in to the advice of a good friend. Lay low on Tuesday. A compliment to a female family member goes a long way. Stay close to home as the week ends. Keep track of spending and remember upcoming financial obligations.

Gemini - May 22/June 21
Both sides of your personality surface this week. Keeping things in their perspective puts you in control. Challenges at work try your patience on Wednesday. Keep calm. A romantic weekend helps ease your mind. Showing only part of the story can make you look suspicious.

Cancer - June 22/July 22
The summer heat brings you out of your shell. It's a good time to flaunt your quiet charm. Dress to kill on Wednesday and a Libra will take notice. A lion offers good advice as week closes. An upcoming celebration will require advanced planning. Don't leave things until the last minute.

Leo - July 23/August 23
Stop talking and start doing. This is a good week to put plans into action. A Gemini or Taurus brings you good news at work. Choose your friends carefully. What you see is not necessarily what you get. A new romance may be just around the corner for single Leos.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22
Tell an old friend that you miss her. You'll be glad you did. You must choose between two romantic prospects. Look to a Libra for guidance and support. Himesy goes the distance over the weekend. A work project may be more of a burden than you had anticipated.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23
Stay physically active this week. It will ease stress at work. Planning a move? Don't forget the people at home. A Leo and Scorpio team offer stability through chaos. Good news comes via the mail over the weekend. Risky financial investments should be avoided this week. You may want to curb spending altogether.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22
Having second thoughts about romantic commitment? Don't be afraid to take the plunge. A Capricorn friend will be there to break your fall. Money matters look good midweek. Show a partner that (s)he is important with a special gesture on Saturday. It will go a long way.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21
It's time to mend fences with a Leo. Let your true feelings show through. Down-time at work allows you to reflect on past mistakes. A new love interest brightens things up on Saturday. Let your guard down. Something big coming up? Remember, careful planning is key.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20
The dull routine syndrome has started to set in. If a good week to take a day off. Indulge in outdoor activities over the weekend. Watch your pennies. Unexpected expenses head your way on Saturday. If you're emotionally drained, now's the time to pick up that paintbrush.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Fight the urge to run outside and play. It's a good week to concentrate on overdue work. Try to get ahead if you can. Your creativity is overflowing. Focus it in the right direction. Don't lose sight of short- and long-term goals. A Cancer friend will offer solid advice.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Control your emotions this week. Pisces. Nothing is as bad as it seems. A romantic quarrel might get you down on Wednesday. Stand your ground. Giving in will only make things worse in the long run. An Air sign sees things your way. Steer clear of routine this weekend.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

The next 12 months:

Changes are approaching slowly. Sit tight; you'll start to settle around December. A boss or associate pushes you to your limits by spring. Strive to meet his/her needs; it will pay off doubly later. A new romance keeps hum-drum days exciting for single Leos. Married? Take advantage of extra income by planning an exotic vacation with your mate. Quality time will help you find even more to like about each other. A new friend will bring out a different side of your personality this year. (S)he will make you realize strengths you didn't know you had.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

This novena has never been known to fail. This novena must be said for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised.

Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near to me is Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and call you to be invoked. St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Say 3 our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys and 3 Glorias. Thank you, St. Jude. Amen. Joseph Prayer of Application To The Holy Spirit. Holy spirit you who solve all problems who lights all roads so that I can attain my goals. You who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you even in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. The person must say this prayer for three consecutive days. After three days the savior request will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor. Only your initials should appear at the bottom. M.F.

ST. JUDE Novena. May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, help of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. Thank you, St. Jude. Joseph.

Monthly payments are for 30-year conventional fixed rate mortgages as detailed below. Please ask about: Lower Downpayments • Lower Monthly Payments • Other Options

For purchase prices up to $253,937, monthly mortgage payments (principal + interest) quoted in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 7.625% with 3 points, A.P.R. 7.94%. As an example, a $100,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $707.80. For purchase prices from $253,938 to $625,000, the monthly payments are to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 7.625% with 3 points on a "Jumbo" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an A.P.R. of 7.94%. An example of a $500,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $3,538.97. Figures herein are approximate and do not include property taxes, hazard insurance, or homeowners association dues for a condominium purchase. Interest rates quoted are as of May 18, 1995, and subject to change. Not responsible for typographical errors; while information is believed accurate, we request that the payment be validated with a mortgage provider prior to purchase.

Insight Into Real Estate By Vincent J. Carano, Realtor

TROUBLE WITH DOWN PAYMENT?

For young people who want to buy their first home, the single biggest hurdle is raising cash for the down payment. It's a tough requirement to meet, particularly when inflation is pushing up the cost of housing and other family expenses.

There are several ways, however, that would-be homeowners can deal with the down-payment obstacle. One is to recognize that the best source of financing for an older home often is the present owner. Many sellers, especially people who have retired and are interested in dependable monthly incomes, are willing to take back a first mortgage and sometimes even a second mortgage. Under such an arrangement, the seller might settle for little or no downpayment.

Meanwhile, prospective homeowners should also be aware of the three types of insured mortgage loans that can sharply reduce a required down payment or even eliminate it. I am referring to VA Loans, FHA-insured loans and privately-insured mortgage loans. Your Realtor or banker can apprise you of the availability of such loans in your area.

Sweden's Volvo has many changes in store with a new wave of autos

Things are changing at Sweden's largest car maker and chances are you will like the changes. Since the beginning of the 90's, there has been a continuous flow of new products. While these new models were true to Volvo's reputation for safety and durability, they were also noticeably more stylish, and a great deal more fun to drive. Volvo has kept the changes flowing for 1995, offering a new 960 Series, the world's first Side Impact Air Bags, and an illuminating idea to improve daytime driving safety.

The new 960 retains the distinctive overall appearance people have come to expect from Volvo's larger rear wheel drive cars. But wait, while the strong character of the car is still there, the lines are much softer, bumpers and trim more integrated, and the front-end visibly lower and sleeker. The smooth and flowing exterior design theme has been carried over to the redesigned interior, where an extensive array of luxury features tell you that you are sitting in a top-of-the-line automobile. Even the shortest test drive in the new 960 will let you know the changes are not limited to cosmetics!

Power for the 960 comes from Volvo's 2.9 liter in-line, six cylinder engine with four valves per cylinder. For '95, the engine management system has been recalibrated to put out significantly more torque at speeds below 4,200 rpm which means more performance where you can use it to enter freeways and accelerate into traffic.

Intent on making the value of the 960 as impressive as its appearance and handling, Volvo is introducing the fully equipped new 960 sedan at a suggested retail price of only $29,900. The elegant wagon will be $31,200. These cars require virtually no options. Standard equipment includes: deluxe leather interior with wood accents, alloy wheels, glass sunroof, and a custom audio system.

The benefits of Daytime Running Lights may appear obvious at dawn, dusk, or in foul weather. But they have also been shown to enhance the visibility of oncoming cars in extremely bright environments like the desert.

Like all Volvos, the 960's also have four-wheel disc brakes with ABS, SRS with driver and passenger air bag, CVC-free climate control, and an all welded steel body with roll cage like construction. The 960 has been designed and priced to please its owners and frustrate its competitors.

Safety and the name Volvo are interchangeable in many people's minds. Volvo engineers have always worked to expand the frontiers of automotive safety and that is exactly what they have done with the introduction of the world's first Side Impact Air Bags on the 1995 Volvo 850's. Volvo is the only car company offering this added level of protection! It will be standard equipment on 850 Turbo sedans and wagons and a $500 option on other 850 models.

Because the air bag is mounted in the seat, it is always in the proper location relative to the occupant. This means the bag can be much smaller than a bag mounted in the door, which would have to be big enough to cover both tall and short operators. The bag itself has a 12 liter volume and is roughly six inches in diameter and twelve inches long.

Volvo believes the Side Impact Air

Bag is a true safety breakthrough and will help to save thousands of lives in the years ahead. It is an idea you will likely see offered by virtually all car manufacturers at some future date. While not required by law, it could well become the new standard of the industry and Volvo pioneered it.

The benefits of Daytime Running Lights may appear obvious at dawn, dusk, or in foul weather. But they have also been shown to enhance the visibility of oncoming cars in extremely bright environments like the desert. DRL's help oncoming traffic to be aware of you. Their ability to reduce the frequency and even the severity of accidents has been proven again and again. Volvo believes the benefits of Daytime Running Lights will be very visible in the years ahead.

As you can see, there are a lot of changes coming out of Volvo. They are changes not just for the sake of change, but rather to improve the safety, enjoyment and value that customers will experience in their products. The Volvo people think that is definitely change for the good and they don't intend to stop anytime soon.

IRS seeking volunteers to help with returns

For many people, the IRS might be the last place they would expect volunteers to donate their time. However, last year alone, more than 90,000 people volunteered to help more than four million people with their taxes. This year marks the 25th anniversary of IRS volunteer programs such as the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance.

To volunteer for the VITA program, call the IRS at 1-800-829-1040.

Driving while sleepy is just as dangerous as driving drunk

Most people know how drugs and alcohol affect a driver — slowed reaction time, decreased awareness and impaired judgment. But many drivers are unaware that sleepiness can have the same effects, making driving drowsy as dangerous as driving drunk.

It is difficult to attribute accidents to sleepiness because there are no tests or standardized criteria to clearly determine the extent of the problem. Still, Federal Highway Transportation officials estimate that drowsy drivers are involved in anywhere from 60,000 to 240,00 accidents each year. Drowsiness, they say, contributes to about 10,000 auto deaths a year.

"The groups most at risk for drowsy driving are young people, shift workers or those with non-traditional work schedules, commercial drivers, and people with undiagnosed sleep disorders," says John Tiene, executive director of the New Jersey Insurance News Service.

Young people under the age of 25 account for 55 percent of all sleep-related driving accidents, he notes. They are typically sleep-deprived from staying up late and sleeping too little, and they do much of their driving at the time of greatest risk, at night. Shift workers, 20-30 percent of whom reported having a sleep-related driving mishap in the last year, find the morning drive home from work especially risky.

"Commercial drivers are also especially susceptible to sleep-related accidents," adds Tiene. "In addition to the high number of miles they drive each year, much of their driving is done at night, when the body is sleepiest."

What times and situations put drivers at the most risk for sleepy driving?

"Between the hours of midnight and six a.m., or in the middle of the afternoon between one and four p.m. during the 'afternoon lull' are prime times for drowsy driving accidents," says Tiene. Drivers are more likely to fall asleep at the wheel when driving alone or when on a long, monotonous drive. Waking up early to start a journey, or staying up late the night before a trip to prepare, also puts drivers at a greater risk, he reports.

The New Jersey Insurance News Service offers the following advice to help drivers prevent drowsy driving:

1. Recognize the danger signals for drowsy driving. If your eyes close or go out of focus by themselves, if you have trouble keeping your head up, cannot stop yawning, have wandering, disconnected thoughts, cannot remember driving the last few miles, drift between lanes, tailgate, miss traffic signs, or have a difficult time maintaining constant speed, take these as warning signs that you could fall asleep at the wheel.

2. Coffee and other stimulants are substitutes for sleep. They may help you feel more alert, but the effects last only a short time and you may still experience "micro-sleeps", brief naps that last about five seconds.

3. Pull over frequently. Schedule a break every two hours or every 100 miles. During your break take a nap, stretch, get some exercise. If you pull over for a nap make sure you park in a safe spot and lock your doors.

4. Don't get hypnotized by the road. Drivers frequently get hypnotized by the lines on the road. Make a conscious effort to keep your eyes moving every few seconds from the road to the side and rear mirrors and back to the road again.

5. Keep your body relaxed. A tight grip on the wheel and tense neck and shoulder muscles add to fatigue.

6. Vary the climate control settings in your car. A cool car will keep you more alert. Rolling down the window for fresh air also helps.

The New Jersey Insurance News Service, NJINS, is an information association sponsored by 21 property/casualty companies with headquarters or major facilities in New Jersey.
