Belleville Irish honor Kiernan

By Alec Moore
Correspondent

Patrick Kiernan of Belleville has been named "Irish Person of the Year" by the Irish American Association of Belleville.

Kiernan will be presented with his title during the sixth annual Irish Person of the Year award ceremony on Oct. 1.

Kiernan, 59, was nominated unanimously for the award by the group's nominating committee.

"I'm very pleased to have him as this year's Irish Person of the Year," said Patricia Nichols, president of the association. "Pat is a very, very nice person. He is always there when we need him and he always helps out. He would do anything for anyone."

Kiernan, for whom it would be an understatement to simply call modest, is quick to dismiss the praise and recognition that his fellow members of the Belleville Irish American Association gave him.

"I sincerely appreciate the honor, but I think there are other people who deserve the award more than I do," Kiernan said.

Kiernan is the owner of Kiernan Funeral Home in Belleville, which he purchased upon his father's retirement in 1974.

Kiernan and his wife, the former Barbara Carter, are the parents of Ricky and Jackie.

Kiernan is one of the founding members of the association, which was founded in 1989 to foster Irish culture in Belleville and to unite its Irish community. In addition to his service and contributions to the association, Kiernan is also a member of many Belleville civic and fraternal organizations.

Kiernan's love of his heritage is equalled only by his love for Belleville and its residents. "I've always loved Belleville," he said. "It's been good to us and I love all the people here."

One of Kiernan's greatest ambitions is to visit Ireland, the country of his heritage, and see first hand the lush green rolling hills that his father had described to him as a boy.

For information about the Belleville Irish American Association or to order tickets for the Irish Person of the Year award ceremony, call Patricia Nichols at 997-8034.

Council approves Hilltop deal; Canning faults ECIA bond debt

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

The Belleville Township Council approved a resolution Sept. 13 backing the sale of the Hilltop land by the county to the Essex County Improvement Authority.

Deputy Mayor Tom Spillane and Councilman Victor Canning dissented, as did every citizen who spoke about the deal.

"It is not $32.5 million the ECIA is asking for, it is a $50 million bond issue. Where is that money going to come from?" Canning asked.

"The county executive was several years ago the strongest opponent to the sale of this land," Spillane observed.

Canning and Spillane asked that the council delay approval until the state decides on an alternate plan that might allow the land to be bought and turned over to the municipalities whose borders encompass Hilltop.

Canning scored ECIA inclusion in the deal, a situation he had previously called an "unholy alliance."

Spillane noted that voter approval for Green Acres bonds will be sought in November, and he feared that approval of Hilltop might leave Belleville out of Green Acres money it has sought.

"The county has too much land already. It has a lot of land here in Belleville. It is time for them to get rid of some of it," Mayor Jim Messina countered.

"Personally, I'd like to see the land developed into some sort of ratable," Councilman Joe Scaperrotta said, while he also supported county plans to turn the land into a state park.

The state has made indications that it might not be able to accommodate another state park, however, as Assembly candidate Vincent Frantantoni pointed out.

"In November, there is a bond ordinance. Only $120 million is for the acquisition of land, and that $120 million is for the whole state," Frantantoni said.

A Green Acres representative had also told a meeting of Save the Mountain Committee Sept. 12 that it had no interest in or manpower to maintain another state park, Frantantoni added.

"I hope this resolution was not passed to thank someone for getting a council member a county job," Frantantoni concluded, with reference to a county Department of Public Works position given to Councilwoman Angie Paserchia recently.

In other business, the council tabled a resolution that would give Zoning Board member Kevin Kennedy an indoor used car license at 96 Academy St.

"There is a variance pending before the zoning board for some time now, and this applicant is a member of that board," Spillane noted.

"If this is not done properly, it could be very embarrassing for Belleville," he added.

Spillane urged tabling until the attorney for the board could clarify questions he had about the license, and whether a used car business was a continued use of the land or would need reapproval.

School board mulls over high enrollment crushes

High school band to perform in Yankee Stadium

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

The Belleville Board of Education discussed at its Sept. 11 meeting problems associated with increased enrollment.

Superintendent of Schools Michael Lally also reported good news at the meeting — that the Belleville High School Marching Band will put on a pre-game show at Yankee Stadium Sept. 24.

Meanwhile, teacher Richard Ruffalo has been selected to recognition in the Walt Disney-McDonald's American Teachers Awards show, Lally said.

The awards for select teachers will be aired on the Disney Channel Nov. 1, and individual teachers will be the subject of weekly segments on the same channel.

Lally began the meeting with a review of school opening and the preparations that had been made.

Belleville has 4,041 students this year, up 194 from last year.

The increase will be monitored by the administration and a full report will be presented to the board at a later meeting.

"We are not too happy with the enrollment in some schools," Lally said.

A number of parents agreed, and came to tell the board. One first grade class has 66 students between two teachers, and a large kindergarten class lacks a teaching aide.

"I can say that 32 or 33 students in a class is not acceptable," Lally assured the parents.

The superintendent has met with the principal of the school, and a plan will be developed "within the next week."

The enrollment is 5 percent higher than last year, and administration will watch for trends in its plans.

Lally touched on other issues of the new year, promising the continuation of family science and math, the partners in reading program, and the peers educating peers program.

Pallante also wants to hear from those considering such a move and their reasons for preferring private to public education.

Roller hockey, a game growing fast in the area, may find a home in Belleville soon if plans to construct a rink go through.

Gary MacDonald, who coaches a Belleville roller hockey team, addressed the board to show the 200 applications he has received, and review what he has been doing to build the sport.

MacDonald was invited by board trustees to sit in on meetings between the board and Township Council that have been considering roller hockey and other facilities for recreation.

Earlier cooperation between the two bodies resulted in a joint agreement to resurface the tennis courts and allow the high school team to host home matches for the first time in a few years.

Pallante also convinced the board to hold off approval of the purchase of Macintosh computers until more information could be presented as to their advantage over PCs.

Transportation of students should not be any problem. The number of students transported rose from 439 to 509, but the same number of routes will be run this year.

John A. Caruso and John M. Caruso addressed the meeting to report the donation of 14 basketballs to Belleville elementary schools.

Lally and board President Ralph Mazucca expressed gratitude for the donation, which was made possible by Castrol Oil Corporation.

"I love to see things like this, when the community gets involved with the schools," Mazucca said as he accepted the Carusos' donation.

Belleville Police corrected the location of the death of Hasan Cayli, who was discovered lying on the floor of a room at the Washington Motel — not the Belleville Motor Lodge, as police said earlier — Aug. 21.

During the investigation, police found an undetermined amount of a controlled dangerous substance in the room.

The cause of death was an overdose, said Lt. Joseph Rotunda.

♦ Detectives Rock Marotti and Phillip Gamarro arrested Edward Schnabel Sept. 10 after they discovered he had four vials of cocaine in his possession.

The 34-year-old was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance and endangering the welfare of a child.

♦ Mark Forlenza of Belleville was arrested Sept. 6 and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

The 24-year-old was stopped on Holmes Street and De Witt Avenue, when police discovered he had cocaine in his possession.

♦ Detectives Danny Ward and Craig Mack arrested Anthony Labrack Sept. 5 after he and an accomplice robbed a woman in the Pathmark parking lot on Washington Avenue.

The victim was walking to her car when a vehicle pulled alongside her and someone grabbed her purse. Labrack and the man in the passenger side of the car escaped on Washington Avenue toward Nutley.

Police have a warrant out for the man who was driving with Labrack.

♦ A 57-year-old woman was robbed on Honiss Street, Sept. 8.

The woman notified police after four men jumped out of Mercury Sable, shoved her and stole her purse. The woman gave officers a partial identification of the license plate which reads 444.

♦ Detectives Raymond Kimble and Danny Ward arrested Daniel Trainor Sept. 8.

For two weeks Trainor had been marking the Siver Lake district of Belleville with graffiti.

The 21-year-old Belleville resident was also responsible for graffiti in Newark and Bloomfield. Bail was $500.

♦ A juvenile notified police after he was approached on Montgomery Street and robbed.

He told officers that an "hispanic male about 15 years old" threatened to stab him and subsequently took his bicycle.

♦ Burglaries were reported on Cortlandt Street, Main Street, Joralemon Street, and the low numbered blocks of King Street and North 8th Street.

♦ Motor Vehicles were stolen from Heckel Street, Franklin Avenue and Main Street.

Pope's 'Crossing the Threshold of Hope' — a clear affirmation of 'Christ Crucified'

By Russell Roemmele
Managing Editor

In his world-wide message to men and women of all faiths, as expressed in "Crossing the Threshold of Hope," John Paul II's emphasis is on salvation — the "hope" in the title of his book.

An essential passage from his book reads:

Christianity is a religion of salvation. The salvation in question is that of the Cross and the Resurrection. God, who desires that man 'may live' (Ezekiel 18:23) draws near to him through the death of His Son in order to reveal that life to which he is called in God Himself. Everyone who looks for salvation, not only the Christian, must stop before the Cross of Christ.

Pope John Paul II is, therefore, reaffirming the primal Christian message, maybe a doctrine to some, but the hope for most: "I preach Christ Crucified." This is why, perhaps, Paul's letters, in total, are cited in Pope John Paul II's book almost as many times as Matthew, Mark, Luke and John — the revealed scripture. As a matter of fact, few Roman Catholic sources in themselves are cited as often as is Paul in his letters.

Does this mean that the Pope does not address that which some commentators read as a contradiction in Roman Catholicism and in Christianity in general: the alleged conflict between the message of the Cross and the Resurrection and the message of the Sermon on the Mount?

Thus if one does good, as exemplified in the Sermon, the Beatitudes, will salvation follow? Pope John Paul II is by no means excluding the often misunderstood essence of the Sermon, "Love One Another," he appears as if he is setting the Sermon on the Mount on the Ground of Faith, upon which rises the Old Rugged Cross.

commentary part two

Moreover, it should be noted that within the Sermon on the Mount is that hardest of Christian mysteries to understand — and it is equally difficult to comprehend in the Old Testament Book of Job — that "it rains upon the just and the unjust." Without the hope of salvation, why withstand the rain?

The Pope's message is not written in the necessary complex language of theology. His writing is clear and concise. Questions are asked of John Paul II and he answers them: Why is there so much evil in the world? If God exists, why is He hiding? What is the use of believing? Is there really hope for the young? Was God at work in the fall of Communism?

Surely, then, this Pope is unafraid to affirm, reaffirm, in language anyone could understand, the centuries-old Christian message. While the apostles and first disciples traveled by mule, literally, when not on their bare feet, this Pope travels also, not to speak to small communities of believers but to to pray pray with multi-millions men, women and children of other faiths. Chapters of the book are addressed to Jews, Orthodox, Islamic and, of course, Protestants.

The Pope in this book is one of hope and joy, which explains perhaps his charismatic effect upon young people, as was seen in his visit among youth in Colorado a couple of years ago and which has already enthused folks in the Newark Archdiocese prior to his pilgrimage here next month.

Yet as his message comes through over and over, a man of faith cannot dismiss evil, cannot dismiss the social wrongs but also cannot dismiss the consequences of sin, the negation of faith.

This is why the Pope is described as "conservative," that his "Hope" is founded upon Salvation — the victory of the Cross and the Resurrection and the routing of Evil.

Can a layperson, such as I, speak thus of the writings of Pope John Paul II. Of course, for the Pope is not speaking dogma as such, rather he is answering the doubts inherent in Christianity, in all faiths. With this holy man, his message to our times is not exclusive, sectarian, domineering. It is an exclamation of hope over evil.

Scott-Scaperrotta now bus drivers

We protest most vociferously the herding of the elderly — a portion of whom were not homeowners — to a recent meeting concerning the sale of the Hilltop property, which County Executive James Treffinger and apparently all freeholders wish to use to balance the county budget.

Fear has been spread by Belleville folks, mainly the "Belleville Republican Organization," that failure to sell the property would raise local property tax increases as much as $1,000! Council members Joseph Scaperrotta — follow the money trail and you will always find "Scap" — and Angie Paserchia, now with her county job, have been scaring elderly homeowners about taxes if the Treffinger deal fails.

We understand state Senator John Scott volunteered to have the elderly bused to the most recent hearing about the Hilltop. Scott, who ran as a "conservative" Republican, has been no such thing. He has become so far a wheeler-dealer for special interests no different from the Orechio and Piro faction representatives in the past. He should be ashamed of himself!

This kind of insider deal-making and the passing out of jobs is among the reasons the overall New Jersey economy is going nowhere, even as most of the other states show marked improvements away from deal-making and economic tailspin.

It is difficult to imagine Scott and Scaperrotta as political bedfellows, but what we see is believing what we see. What next?

Ease the burden; sell Hilltop

The fate of Hilltop, a 365-acre piece of county-owned property in West Essex, is not an issue that affects just the three West Essex municipalities where it is located. It is an issue that will have an impact on all Essex residents, whether they live in West Essex, the northern part of the county or the urban core around Newark, and all should take notice of it.

In addition, it would be naive to think that the primary focus of Hilltop's fate rests with preservation, because it does not. Hilltop and the many discussions about its future arose because it is the vehicle being used by County Executive James Treffinger and the Board of Chosen Freeholders to raise $32.5 million to balance the $520 million 1995 budget, to keep taxes from rising and hopefully is the first step to get county finances in order.

There are varying degrees as to what the fate of Hilltop should be — leaving it in its natural state, developing it to create new ratables, and a combination of both. Nevertheless, whatever option is taken, the county will no longer hold the title to the land, which it has been unable to upkeep since the geriatric center closed in the late 1970s.

One option for the county is to sell the land to a developer, who, through construction, would create new ratables in a county which is looking for economic recovery after losing $1 billion worth of ratables in 1994 and annually has seen tax increases for the last six years. Through rough estimates, it has been projected the prime land could sell for more than $100 million. Developing it could raise more money through fees, permits and the added taxes produced by the new residential ratables, for which the land is locally zoned.

Normally, we do not ever condone the use of one-time revenue sources to balance budgets, however, there are more than $90 million of one-time expenses to which money from this sale can be applied.

In the final analysis, the "highest reasonable return," as mentioned in the service agreement between the county and the Essex County Improvement Authority, is more than just a dollar figure.

Developing the land is nothing more than a "quick fix" to the county's budget crisis. Sure, the county coffers will overflow with money when the land is being developed, but the eventual strain on local and county services eventually will return the county to its current plight. A private developer, once taking control of the land, would be required to obey local zoning laws, which allows residential homes at most. Water and sewer systems, police and fire protection, and the public school systems of Verona, North Caldwell and Cedar Grove would have to be upgraded and enlarged to accommodate the added population, the cost of which will be passed to homeowners, the same as it is now.

Essex County is the most urban, densely populated county in the state. Developing Hilltop will exacerbate this situation. Not too long ago, Newark was the only urban center in Essex. Now, precious vacant land is being developed in the suburbs, leaving fewer and fewer spaces where residents can escape the sounds of engines and horns, poor air quality and congestion.

New ratables would not be directly created because of a state park, but the improvements in quality of life will have a beneficial impact that will make Essex more attractive to new businesses, thereby drawing new ratables and helping the tax base.

Keeping Hilltop in its natural state, however, is far from a certainty. To raise cash to balance the budget and keep the area preserved in its natural state, the county is seeking $32.5 million in Green Acres funding from the state. The money is part of Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden's referendum which is expected to be on the ballot in November, and voters should cast their vote in favor of it.

They also can show their support for preserving Hilltop even sooner by speaking out during public meetings scheduled on the sale, writing to their elected representatives on the local, county and state levels, and by becoming involved with the petition drive being conducted by the Save the Mountains Committee, an organization which has twice before fought successfully to keep Hilltop in its natural state. More than 5,000 signatures have been collected, but thousands more would make support for a state park/reservation on Hilltop more convincing.

While we have not been happy with the politics involved with the deal between the county, the ECIA and the state, Essex has a golden opportunity to balance its budget and, in the process, preserve what has been called a hidden "oasis." Selling Hilltop to make way for a state park or reservation is the best plan for this county.

What's your opinion about the Hilltop sale? Should it be developed, preserved? What about the deal with the ECIA? Call (908) 686-9898 and enter selection No. 8007. We'll publish your opinions next week.

Towns must unite to solve problems

Nutley, rah, rah! Belleville rah, rah! We cheer each, not only because the football season is upon us — and we certainly do not omit the girls sports — but we also believe that such competition, even rivalries, do stimulate civic pride.

Why then cannot Nutley and Belleville elected and appointed teams be united to take to the field against Essex County's? Would not the rah-rahing apply here?

Nutley, considering its taxes to the county, and Belleville, considering the amount of county land within its boundaries, are, to use the slang, losing — and have been losing for decades, to pre-World War I times.

Naturally, power brokers in both townships have been mum when it comes to the county's rip-off of their property owners because the power brokers, their families, and their hangers-on have benefited from county government, as even now, as the Hilltop battle goes on.

Our concern is not, however, about the politics at hand. We are addressing the failure of the two townships to consider — even discuss — ways in which the municipal governments could downsize their operations and otherwise reduce costs through merging services and other methods.

To share services would be a financial boon to both municipalities, and the elected leaders know or should know this can be achieved without losing hometown control and monitoring and with no loss of civic pride or spirit.

Also, Nutley and Belleville elected leaders should attend and speak up against county impositions, especially the excessive county spending.

Unite together or surely die separately, as Ben Franklin said.

Raising money

Whenever a government has to sell its assets to raise revenue for a balanced budget, it is certain a fiscal crisis is at hand. Essex County is in the throes of such a crisis, being faced with a $161.5 million deficit this year.

To bridge this gap, the county executive is proposing to sell the 365-acre Hilltop property in West Essex to raise $32.5 million to balance the $520 million 1995 budget. The county is lobbying for the state to purchase the property for a state park or reservation using Green Acres funds. The park plan would be the most beneficial for the county.

One drawback is that if Green Acres funds are allocated, the money will not be available until 1996. To bridge the budget gap, the revenue from the sale must be realized this year. To raise the cash, the Essex County Improvement Authority is being asked to issue revenue bonds which would be repaid once the Green Acres funds are received.

The involvement of the ECIA has been questioned and it has received a great deal of criticism. Residents have a right to be wary of the authority, as well as other independent authorities which have the capability to bond but whose board members are not elected or accountable to the public.

There are sufficient checks and balances in the service agreement between the ECIA and the county — two review committees and veto power for the county executive and freeholder president. These controls keep the ECIA in a subordinate position, reducing its role to one of an interim holding company.

Another control is a three-year sunset provision which limits the length of time to sell the property and pay back the bonds. This prevents the county from incurring long-term debt and high interest payments.

While the ECIA may not be looked upon favorably, it provides the most expedient and cost-effective option for the county to raise $32.5 million.

Aboard Scott's bus to a communal hot tub

"I get disgusted with men who go to editorial conventions and orate about freedom of the press when they don't use what freedom they've already got. They are generally frightened, timid rabbits when real questions of press freedom arise."

—John S. Knight

Now it is the elderly up for grabs.

The unforgivable misuse — nay, abuse — of older property owners by Councilman Joe Scaperrotta is characteristic of this vain, base man. He has tried to round up gullible elderly folks to flood county hearings in support of the Hilltop-ECIA deal to help County Executive James Treffinger reinforce county government.

Disgusting is the word appropriate as this Treffinger-Scaperrotta duplicity emerges. It is disgusting to watch the likes of state Senator John Scott giving away whatever values he has left to manipulate in the lower depths of Essex County as he has done in Hudson and Bergen counties.

Fundamentally, no differences exist between Republicans and Democrats in most New Jersey counties, especially in Essex, Hudson, Passaic, Union and Bergen counties. In 50 years in reporting on politics in this area, I have never witnessed so many vile interchanges among Democrats and Republicans, with one purpose in mind: making money at the expense of taxpayers.

The heart of the matter, the depressing atmosphere among these politicians, is not only the Scotts and Scaperrottas on the one hand but the Orechios and Piro on the other hand, the often behind-the-scenes power brokers. One does not fear here the strange bedfellows. They do not sleep with one another in strange political beds — they arrange for an orgy in a communal hot tub.

So for Scott-Scaperrotta to round up the elderly for political ambitions, for their adventures in the communal hot tub, is not the first nor the last time the aged will be herded on buses to conspire with the daily media to convince themselves and the public that the Hilltop deal will prevent property taxes from rising.

Belleville history is replete with Democrats and Republicans, often within the same families, breaking bread with the local untouchables. The unspeakables slept with the untouchables during the 1940-1995 era — yes, that orgy in the communal hot tub is still going on.

More than a few good men and women have tried to disassociate themselves, keep their clothes on and not jump sweaty and naked into the communal hot tub. The most recent of these decent folks has been Victor Canning on the Belleville Township Council and, thank the Lord, most members of the Belleville Board of Education.

Forcing the Orechio faction out of power in Belleville will not be easy. After all, Frank Orechio has enough money to finance as many communal hot tubs as is required for the political orgies and, in Scott's case, to finance bus rides to rah-rah for the biggest communal hot tub around, county government.

The public is not apathetic. It is antipathetic. Instead of asserting that the politicians, sweaty and naked in their communal hot tubs, put their clothes on — and with no transvestite crossing over — the orgies will become even worse.

The well-known observation of Ben Franklin is in order here. Upon leaving the final meeting of the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, Franklin was asked, "What kind of government do we have, Sir?" He replied for the moment but also for all ages, "A republic. . . if we can keep it so."

He was talking about the federal government. His words are as applicable in Belleville and in Essex County and in New Jersey today, as they are in Congress and in the White House. The people have given up that overriding substance, the structure of American civilization that made it the greatest nation, thence the greatest civilization the world has known, the Republic. We have orgies in communal hot tubs instead.

Franklin would weep. Decent men and women today do weep. Look there, the scoundrels are rounding up more elderly folks for the bus trip to the communal hot tub called county government. Oh, dear Belleville, do you not tremble when you read the graffiti on the wall?

Sorry to see Frank Orechio let you go, Joe

I had a good chuckle after reading Councilman Joe Scaperrotta's letter to this newspaper last week in which he alleged I advocated capital punishment for him.

Scap is the master of half-truth, the grandmaster of misinformation. Just witness his telling Belleville seniors that their taxes would go up $1,000 if the Hilltop deal were approved.

Falsehood comes from his lips with ease, the mark of a truly untrustworthy politician.

Look at the quotation Scap selected from my column to attack me.

"I would appreciate some sort of capital punishment... preferably capital punishment as India once utilized, in which an elephant would step on the convicted man's head."

Scap accused me of advocating this punishment for him, but what did the dots in his selected quotation leave out? "for those who pose as taxcutters," is the line Scap chose not to put in his letter.

I feel some progress is being made here. If Scap believes he is a phony taxcutter, who uses taxes as a red herring in his rhetoric while approving of higher county debt like the Hilltop scam, then certainly the column in question would frighten him.

This may be a first, Scaperrotta admitting he is a tax-cut poser. Many of us knew this long before he was elected.

How can Scaperrotta justify posing as a tax cutting fiscal conservative while his council ally, Angie Paserchia, steps into a lucrative county job?

Bel View

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

Did not County Executive Jim Treffinger promise to abolish political hiring during the campaign?

Did not Scaperrotta's campaign literature denounce political hiring and favoritism?

Plenty of local politicos have voiced support for Hilltop, Mayor Jim Messina among them, but the mayor has not lowered himself to scaring senior citizens with outright lies about taxes going up $1,000. Nor have we heard anything about the mayor receiving a political county job in return for his support of Treffinger.

I can admire and respect honest support for the Hilltop deal as represented by Messina and others. I cannot abide with the tactics of Scaperrotta, Paserchia and Senator John Scott.

To lie to seniors repeatedly, and supply buses to transport them to another town to support the Hilltop, is proof that these politicians manipulated the elderly, whipping them up with fear of losing their homes.

The magic buses appeared on schedule, to take the misinformed to rally for, the boondoggle — what a coincidence!

When citizens later pointed out the Scaperrotta falsehood, no apology, no explanation. Just hope they all forget before election.

Scap's farewell column cited his approaching election season as the reason he had to stop writing. I point out to Belleville readers that this is certainly not the policy of Scap's publisher, as he suggested.

Gary Iacobacci continued to write his column in the Bloomfield Orechio newspaper throughout the mayoral primary campaign.

The reason for Scap's departure is more mundane than a zeal for ethical campaigning.

His newspaper recently lost Belleville Board of Education public notice advertising. That Scaperrotta and his good buddy Richard Yanuzzi worked so hard during BOE elections to damage sitting board trustees was the main factor in the advertising switch.

The departure of Scap is, I believe, an olive branch to board trustees who have been candid in their outrage that Scaperrotta received a weekly forum in the Orechio newspaper.

Recently, Scap wrote in his column that an inflated number of illegal students had been discovered by the domicile inspector. I support the strict residency disclosure form and the efforts by the board to root out improper students.

I do not, however, feel obligated to print a falsely inflated number in my column to drum up voter support.

Certainly, more illegals will be discovered now that school is back in session.

letter to the editor

Probe of county government urged

To the editor:

I call upon the NJ Attorney General to make a full scale investigation of Essex County government, the E.C.I.A. "County Scam Authority," C.M.M.I. Soho land deal in Belleville, and the proposal to sell Hilltop's 365 acreage.

The Essex County executive has lost the trust of the taxpayers of this county.

When I, as a senior taxpayer bring out facts of corruption at an Aug. 31 meeting and hear — "someone should break his legs," it's time that these low life people who cannot earn a salary by honest work are exposed as the true leeches they are.

LET THE BIBLE SPEAK

1 Pet. 4:11

Jesus said the TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE (Jn. 8:31-36). The Bible clearly teaches that God is more interested in man's spiritual well-being (Isa. 59:2, Rom. 3:9-10,23). Hence, Christ's Blood was shed the cross to provide man freedom from the bondage of sins (Jn. 1:29, Heb.5:8-9, 1 Cor. 15:1 - 4). Thus God has placed "All Spiritual Blessings In Christ" (Eph. 1:3)

Just look at the list: Redemption, Forgiveness of sins, Salvation, Reconciliation, Peace with God, New Creatures, Eternal Life, etc.

But how does one get into Christ, to receive the benefits and blessings from the shed blood of Christ? (Matt. 28:18-20, Acts. 2:36-47, Sal. 3:26-27, 1 Cor 12:13. Rom. 6:3-4)

We urge our Catholic and Protestant friends to go BACK TO THE BIBLE to the "Teachings of Jesus Christ," and INVESTIGATE THE TRUTH, that they may be enlightened.

For Basic Bible Studies of the Profound Truth, call (908) 964-6356. We offer BASIC BIBLE STUDIES free for the asking.

Raider girls' soccer club looking to fill vacancies

By John Monteverde
Staff Writer

Four the last four seasons, Don Tobey has had comfort in knowing that every time his Nutley girls' soccer squad took the field, Sarah Clarke and Amy Hessels were there.

Clarke, a three-sport standout who netted 23 goals last season, and Hessels, another triple sport threat who served as the starting goalkeeper, competed for four seasons on Tobey's varsity squad, helping the Raiders gain a trip of Essex County Tournament final appearances and a share of one county crown.

But more importantly than the win-loss ledger, Clarke and Hessels provided the heartbeat for a team that always seemed to give its top effort regardless of the competition. They were Nutley soccer.

But with both Clarke and Hessels gone, each having graduated in the spring and moved on to college, Tobey will have to rely on a more balanced attack if his Raiders are to remain among the top teams in the NJSIAA Pacific Division and the county.

"We lost four starters from a year ago, and basically we have a lot of new people stepping up into important roles on this team," said Tobey, who led his squad to a 9-9-2 record a year ago. "Losing Sarah up front will hurt our attack for sure, so we are looking more towards getting an overall team effort offensively."

While the offensive load will be placed on a number of players, Tobey is looking towards an experienced player to replace Hessels between the pipes. Junior Kristen Puzio, a starting fullback for Nutley a year ago, will move into the role of starting goalkeeper.

Puzio, who showed signs of things to come when she posted a shutout of Paramus in her only appearance a year ago, is used to being the last line of defense — she is the starting catcher on Nutley's Group 3 championship softball team.

"We talked to her about the move a while ago, and she was very excited about the opportunity," said Tobey, who is entering his fifth year at Nutley after moving over from Bloomfield. "She's a talented athlete, and we're confident she will come in and do a fine job."

The offensive load is going to fall on the shoulders of every member of the team, with junior Gayle Weber, senior Kristy Olmsted and promising sophomore Heather Syme expected to contribute the most.

Stepping into the leadership role vacated by Clarke and Hessels will be a trio of senior co-captains, midfielders Jennifer Cohen and Janine Scfaria and fullback Alicia Hudnutt, a four-year varsity player.

Joining Hudnutt in the defensive roles will be sweeper Jennifer Yammazzelli, a junior, as well as senior Sarah Kostuliz, junior Jennifer Pasternick and freshman Jonine Ryder.

While the outlook for the 1995 season appears to be somewhat of a rebuilding mode, Tobey's program was bolstered by the addition of a freshman team, a Nutley first. Carlos Folleco was appointed the first frosh coach, while Cheryl Reed, a Nutley native and NHS graduate, will serve as JV coach.

"Having a freshman team for the first time is a definite plus for this program," said Tobey, who should have a contending team in a league which features Bloomfield, Immaculate Heart and Ridgewood at the top. "The work ethic we have gotten from these kids has been phenomenal, and although we have some new starters, most of them have been with the program for a couple of years and know what we expect out there. Working together as a team on the field is the key to soccer, and if we get that communication we should be competitive."

NUTLEY NOTES — Although similarities between this team and Tobey's first at Nutley in 1991 do exist, the coach is quick to reject those notions. "Each year is different," said Tobey. "Remember, when I came here we had All-State caliber players in (Lindsey) Hill, (Jennifer) Berry and (Lauren) Olmsted, and we had freshmen like Sarah and Amy come aboard..."

Nutley's season does not start easily, as they open against Immaculate Heart on Saturday at 11 a.m. at Owens Park. That is followed by a road game at Clifton on Tuesday, through six from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

Belleville soccer squad seeking further success

By Matt Franklin
Sports Editor

There was a time in the late 1980s when the Belleville High School boys' soccer team struggled to find any kind of success. A handful of wins in one season was the norm for those Buccaneer teams.

In the decade of the 1990s, however, Belleville soccer has enjoyed a resurgence. The Buccaneers have annually fielded one of the top teams in Essex County, and winning campaigns are now expected.

This year, the challenge for the Belleville varsity squad will be to keep that success intact. The Buccaneers lose most of the varsity experience from last season's 12-2-5 squad, so the jury is still out on most of the players, even though the majority of them are seniors.

"We've got a lot more seniors this year," said veteran head coach Gino DePinto, who's played a big part in revitalizing the program. "This year we have 12 seniors, but basically they are J.V. players from last year."

Belleville returns only two starters from last year's team, senior sweeper Sal Aguiar and senior goalie Natale Guagliardi. The two should shoulder much of the leadership burden for the Bucs and will once again play key roles.

Last season, as a junior, Aguiar anchored the defense and was a first-team NJSIAA-Pacific Division selection. Guagliardi, meanwhile, proved to be a stubborn performer in goal.

"We were basically a defensive team last year," said DePinto, whose team opens regular season play tomorrow at Nutley. "They were all close games. The only way to win games is to score goals."

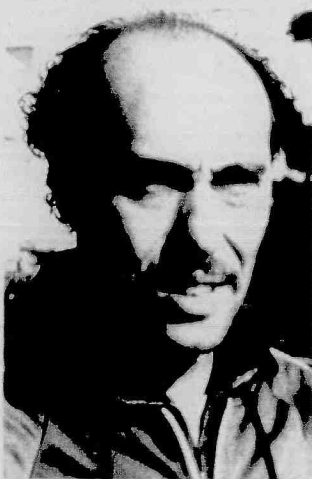

DePinto is obviously hoping for more offensive production this season, but he's got a head start since junior forward Nick Colucci returns. Last year, as a sophomore, Colucci collected eight goals and was a first-team All-Conference selection.

The rest of the squad is comprised mostly of seniors, including midfielder Tom Ranucci. Ranucci, however, injured his knee and will miss at least the first week of the season.

The defensive backs on the squad include seniors Ricky Racines, Nick Andreottola and Danny Bartosiewicz, along with sophomore Lawrence Martin. Midfielders include seniors Eric Guevara, Hamilton Reyes and Miguel Vilarinho, along with junior Nick Thatcher.

On the offensive end, the forwards include senior Raymond Iannitelli, junior Mike Brown and sophomore Danny Almeida.

Belleville lacks varsity experience, but the good news for Buc fans is that most of the players have been busy working on their games. Much of that fine tuning came in the Belleville Soccer Association, which has played a key role in helping Belleville players gain experience.

Gino DePinto
veteran coach

"We have a good feeder program," said DePinto. "To have success in soccer, you have to play all year. That's what we have with the B.S.A."

The B.S.A. concluded its spring portion in June and is now readying for the fall campaign. However, many of the Belleville players were busy over the summer at soccer camps and tournaments, further helping their development along.

"A lot of the kids went to soccer camps and played in tournaments," DePinto said. "Some played in the Lipton League in Lyndhurst, while other guys played in a tournament in Wayne."

That kind of dedication to the game has helped the Belleville program become one of the stronger in the county. This season, another strong showing in the Essex County Tournament is a possibility.

But while Belleville has enjoyed success in the 1990s, with success comes expectations. The jury is still out on the 1995 squad, which should find out in a hurry just how talented it is.

"We have a tough schedule," said DePinto. "With our first five games, four are away. That will give us a better picture of how good we are."

CORNER KICKS — After Nutley tomorrow, the rest of Belleville's early season schedule goes like this: Tuesday, at Don Bosco Prep; Thursday, home to St. Joseph; Sept. 25 at Emerson; and Sept. 27 at Hackensack...

The only Belleville losses last season were to Don Bosco, 1-0, in the second game of the season, and Westfield, 2-1, in the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 4 semifinals...

Rumor has it that perennial power Columbia could be headed for a rebuilding season. The Cougars, under head coach Gene Chyzowych, annually have one of the top teams in New Jersey. Chyzowych enters the 1995 campaign with an all-time record of 505-99-43, making him the winningest active coach in the United States...

Hurricanes were impressive

Belleville Soccer Association's Division 6R team, the Hurricanes, completed their spring soccer season in the championship game, held June 24. The Hurricanes played well but lost to the A Team, 4-3, to finish in second place overall.

The Hurricanes had a starting lineup for the game of goalie Luis Gonzalez, defenders Tyler Ratta, Samuel Hernandez, Cecilia Ortiz and Randy Valverde, and forwards Daniel Balabar, D.J. Thatcher and Jose Vasquez. Balabar and Thatcher scored goals in the contest. Missing from the game were goalie Raphael Gerraty and attackers Myles Gerraty and Daria McCann.

The Hurricanes, who have been part of the B.S.A. for two years, finished the season with a record of 6-2-2. The top scorers for the season were Balabar, Thatcher, Myles Gerraty and Vasquez. The squad was coached by Debbie Bangert and Jose Vasquez.

In this listing, Nutley and Belleville are in the middle grouping pertaining to general administration salary costs per pupil, but Nutley then leaps to the top category with reference to school administration salaries, while Belleville stays within the "middle." The relatively higher ranking for Nutley is accounted for, in part, due to the lengthy tenure of the school district's top salaried posts, just as with school systems who have a higher number of teachers with lengthy tenure and post bachelor degrees or credits or both. Belleville spends next to the bottom in per-pupil library costs that points up the value of Belleville Public Library as a resource for young people.

The Park Diner 372 Centre St., Nutley

Comparatively speaking, Park Diner has not been in Nutley long, but it is becoming a landmark. Celebrating its 10th anniversary Dec. 27, Park Diner has been named best diner in New Jersey by New Jersey Monthly magazine three years in a row and is one of the most popular eateries in the area. "We give them the best restaurant-quality meals, using quality ingredients, but with diner prices," said John Stoupakis, one of the owners. "We cook right, we buy right, and our customers keep coming back." Stoupakis and his partners, Demetrios Douranakis and Peter Kavalos, first started looking at the Centre Street location in 1983. They had made a business of starting diners and selling them and thought Nutley would be a prime location. "We were looking around at the time and we were negotiating to buy the Nevada Diner in Bloomfield when we saw this place," Stoupakis said. "We saw banks and businesses here; that's why we took the chance." The deal to purchase the building did not close until 1984, and then the place had to be renovated. It was run-down, he said, so the contractors came in and left nothing, but the four walls. "We were a success right away as soon as we opened the doors, and six months later we wanted to expand," he said. "We had lines every night and we just couldn't take care of the people." After some tangling with the township, a variance to expand was granted and Park Diner has never looked back. "We're the busiest diner in New Jersey," he said. During its 10 years of existence, Park Diner has maintained the same cooks and has become well-known for its seafood dishes. "Our specialty is fish. We broil fresh fish everyday," Stoupakis said. "We also make chicken and shrimp szechuan. It's one of our biggest sellers and many of our customers say it's better than at Chinese restaurants." Other specialties include, Veal a la Park with fresh mushrooms, peppers and onions, chicken or veal cordon bleu, and a veal marsala/shrimp scampi combination. The diner is also well-known for its baking, which is done on the premises. Stoupakis said he has customers who travel to Florida for the winter who phone him requesting cheesecakes and other baked goods. In addition to quality food and service, Stoupakis credits much of the diner's success to the township itself. "The town needed a place like this. People like to go out a lot. They appreciate a good place and we gave them this, and they don't have to travel," he said. "We love the people in Nutley and they love us." Though his business has been in the buying and selling of diners, Stoupakis, and his partners are not planning to sell this one. "We've owned a couple of diners, but this is the best," he said. "We're going to keep it. We've found home here and this is where we'll stay." Park Diner is open 24 hours, seven days a week. As Stoupakis put it, "We're always open; we never use the key."

Whom can you trust?

The debate about the sale of Hilltop has raised many questions about the county executive, Essex County Improvement Authority and whomever else involved in the deal the taxpayers and residents of Essex are being asked to trust.

The Hilltop "line item" is unlike any other budget item because of its large dollar amount, its scope and the number of people who will be impacted by what occurs there in the future. After seven public hearings about Hilltop, with several more scheduled in the coming weeks, it is clear most people would like the Hilltop preserved in its natural state and there is overwhelming support for the state to purchase the 365-acre parcel for a state park or reservation.

County Seat

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

There is genuine concern about the financing of the sale, the use of the ECIA to provide interim bonding so the county can receive $32.5 million to balance its budget in 1995 and not wait until 1996 when Green Acres funds hopefully are allocated for the purchase.

Guiding the sale of Hilltop, the point man so to speak, is County Executive James Treffinger. If there is anyone who has control over the outcome, he is the person. He is the person on whom the residents of Essex County should be banking their trust and here are 10 reasons why:

1. Treffinger is a resident of Verona, one of the municipalities where Hilltop is located. "Is it likely that I will do something that will affect me adversely," he said during an Aug. 31 meeting in Belleville. "I live in Verona, I raised my kids in Verona, I will die in Verona."
2. Treffinger has worked to preserve Hilltop in the past. In the 1980s as a Verona councilman, Treffinger fought then-County Executive Peter Shapiro's plan to build a hotel and conference center on Hilltop. In 1991, Treffinger hosted a series of hearings to uncover who was responsible for illegal dumping on Hilltop.
3. Treffinger came up with the state park/reservation idea.
4. Treffinger is committed to the park plan. "I say to you emphatically that if the state gives me the money for a park, it will become a park," Treffinger said during the Belleville meeting. If the county does not receive Green Acres funding, the executive said he will turn to Verona, North Caldwell and Cedar Grove, each of which has placed an individual application with the ECIA.
5. Treffinger, not a fan of county government, said the best way to preserve the land is take it out of the county's control. Hilltop is not protected by any legislation and the county could develop anything on the land that would benefit the public, such as a new jail. Green

Treffinger cited for downsizing government

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

Members of the House of Representatives' Committee on Government Reform and Oversight staged a public hearing Saturday in Montclair to hear ideas about how to downsize government and make it more efficient.

The hearing was the second of six the federal committee has scheduled throughout the country. A hearing was held in New Jersey because elected officials in the state have "already met the challenge" in making government "smarter" and "more efficient," said William Clinger, R-Pa., chairman of the oversight committee and moderator of the event.

Clinger said the objective of the committee is to "smartsize" the federal government and is the first real attempt at downsizing government options.

Among the witnesses at the hearing were Gov. Christine Whitman and Essex County Executive James Treffinger, both of whom were recognized for their privatization of government services.

Whitman, who was greeted by boos from representatives of the CWA union as well as cheers from the crowd, said making government more efficient was an issue "dear to my heart."

As examples of eliminating offices which had outlived their usefulness, Whitman said she closed the Department of Higher Education and the Office of Public Advocate. Among her privatization efforts, the governor cited 11 state-operated day care centers for a savings of $1.9 million, seven activity centers for the disabled for a savings of $2.3 million, 23 Division of Motor Vehicle offices and inspection stations for a savings of $4.4 million and a $1 million savings by privatizing 10 percent of the state custodial services.

As advice to the committee, Whitman said privatization is an option and should be reviewed carefully and planned for extensively before it is followed through. She added that retraining programs can be beneficial to help displaced workers find employment.

"People who have made their living off the system will object, but you have to stay the course and bring them in on the front end," she said.

Treffinger's testimony also read like a summary of what he accomplished during his first eight months in office.

He said the county has saved $2 million with the privatizing of the security and custodial services at the Hall of Records. Other downsizing efforts in the works are the selling of the Geriatric Center and utilizing a not-for-profit group to operate Turtle Back Zoo.

"Essex County is the best example of why to downsize," he said about this layer of government not being needed and his desire to get rid of county government altogether.

"It is my philosophical opinion we do not need county government," he said, receiving applause from the crowd.

The densely populated and urban county has 22 municipalities that are capable of delivering efficient services and whatever the state mandates it should pay for, Treffinger said.

The county executive advocated for the state to have more control and for it to take over the operation of the welfare system just like it did the Superior Court system. He also argued for state mandate-state pay and, as an example, cited the Essex County budget, of which 60 percent is made up of programs or positions mandated by state government.

Treffinger gave his support for block grants, and said that procedure may work to fund the welfare system because local agencies can allocate money to address specific problems. He added there should be no middle man, such as the state acting as a clearing house and charging an administrative fee to distribute the money, and money should go directly to whatever level of government is providing the service.

During the public portion of the meeting, Rosary Morelli of West Orange said she agreed with the premise of "giving power to the people" and taxpayers should have a greater voice in governmental decisions.

"I wish we had more control over how our money is being spent," she said. "Higher taxes don't guarantee better services or better education."

Kelly Conklin, a resident of Glen Ridge, said he was concerned about Superfund budget, which has funded radioactive cleanups, being eliminated. Money from the Superfund was used during an extensive radium cleanup in Glen Ridge.

"States can't afford to deal with radioactive cleanups," he said. "We need a superfund program."

Should the Superfund be eliminated, funding for the cleanup of an old radium factory in Orange slated to begin would be stopped.

State seeks partnership with municipalities

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

The state is committed to helping preserve the Hilltop property, but is looking to form a partnership with the county or local municipalities instead of creating a state park, according to Kevin Richardson, principle planner with Green Acres.

County Executive James Treffinger is planning to balance the $520 million county budget for 1995 with $32.5 million in revenue generated from the sale of Hilltop, located in Verona, Cedar Grove and North Caldwell. The county executive has lobbied state officials, including the governor, to allocate Green Acres funds to turn the site into a state park or reservation.

Speaking during a meeting of the Save the Mountains Committee Monday night in the United Methodist Church in Verona, Richardson said the state, forming a partnership with the municipalities, is moving toward the same goal of preserving the land. He said the state has hesitated at purchasing the site outright as a state park or reservation because of maintenance, policing and budgetary concerns.

"There's much concern and agreement the state needs to provide some role in the sale. The state is trying to establish its role," Richardson said. "The state's role is probably going to be as a facilitator or cost sharer where the property will be maintained locally."

"Certainly there is a state park absence in Essex County, but the state would prefer not to acquire the land because of its own operational deficiencies," he said about the closest state park being located in Morris County.

A similar area in which the state arranged the financing but does not maintain is High Mountain in Passaic County. That open space is maintained and operated by Wayne.

Richardson said county and local officials need to determine what areas of Hilltop they would like to preserve and conduct an appraisal of the property to determine its worth. These steps would provide more information in the application process and enlighten the state of its obligation.

"The confusing aspect is how Hilltop is referred to, don't know the total acreage or what will be preserved, developed or designated for recreational purposes," Richardson said.

Verona, Cedar Grove and North Caldwell have submitted individual applications to Green Acres to purchase pieces of Hilltop: Verona has asked for 125 acres, Cedar Grove for 90 acres and North Caldwell for 14 acres.

These requests, however, make up just 229 acres of Hilltop and ask for only $23 million. Richardson further clarified what the state was considering as Hilltop property, and that is 338 acres where the sanitarium and hospital were once located. County-owned property where the jail, police academy, geriatric center and hospital center are located are not being considered by Green Acres, he said.

Usually when municipalities use Green Acres money to purchase land, 25 percent of the money comes as a grant and the 75 percent is in the form of a 2 percent loan the municipality must pay off over 20 years. Richardson said how Green Acres allocates the money will depend on the appraisal of the property.

The planner also said more money could be allocated to the property should a not-for-profit organization, such as the Trust for Public Land, New Jersey Conservancy or Save the Mountain Committee, should it receive proper designation by the state, become involved. Richardson said grants are often given to not-for-profit organizations which have an interest in preserving the land and the added grant would contribute to the purchase price of Hilltop.

"There is a concerted effort to preserve the Hilltop. Unfortunately it all boils down to money," he said.

On the Nov. 7 ballot will be a referendum question for the $340 million Green Acres Bond Act, which will provide any funding Hilltop receives. Of that bond act, $250 million will be allocated for acquisition and development of land for parks, and only $18 million has been designated for a specific park, Liberty State Park.

Acting County Counsel Catherine Tamasic relayed a message from Treffinger about his continued commitment to preserve Hilltop. The county executive has met with state officials, including Gov. Christine Whitman, and "all individuals have assured there are no legal or policy impediments to this issue," she said, except the public vote on Nov. 7.

Tamasic reiterated the county's willingness to provide for the maintenance and policing of Hilltop should it become a park and said meetings with local officials from Verona, Cedar Grove and North Caldwell are in the process of being planned.

Treffinger is counting on the sale of Hilltop to balance the 1995 budget. The Essex County Improvement Authority is bonding $32.5 million so the county receives the revenue this year, and will be repaid with Green Acres bonds should it be allocated. If the property is not sold, it is estimated county taxes could increase $300 to $500. *

Stephen Freeman is unknown to 99.9 percent of folks of Essex County, I dare say. He and his great-great-great-great-grandchildren until the 19th century were among the leaders in the founding of Newark and later the development of Essex County.

The Freemans were leaders in the separation of Orange from Newark in the early 19th century and, subsequently in the mid-1800s, instrumental in one degree or other in the founding of East Orange and West Orange.

NAACP hosting seminar to help homebuyers

Potential homebuyers will learn how to make better home selections and get more home for their money at a series of free seminars given by the New Jersey NAACP Community Development Resource Center. The seminars will cover important topics that potential homewoners should know in order to avoid home purchase scams, pitfalls and problems.

Introduction to the homebuying seminars will be at the following locations: Saturday at Tri-Cities Peoples Corporation, 675-81 S. 19th St., Newark, at 10 a.m. and Wednesday at East Orange Community Development Corporation, 490 Main St., East Orange, at 6:30 p.m.

Attendees also will learn about the Community Homebuyer Program, in which low- and moderate-income buyers can earn a certificate qualifying them for special loan programs.

For more information about the seminars, call David Stephens, community housing specialist, at 266-1229 between 9:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday to Friday.

State to have hearing on quality of education

There will be a hearing on the quality of education in New Jersey Tuesday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Essex County College, Lecture Hall 2131, Newark. This is the second hearing on the topic in Essex County; the first was in West Orange in May.

Those who wish to testify on the quality of education New Jersey provides must notify the Office of the Essex County Superintendent of Schools at 857-5700 at least 48 hours before the public hearing. Speakers must address the following question:

"What are the elements of schooling that are essential to providing a 'thorough and efficient' education and, therefore, are those for which funding must be guaranteed in all school districts throughout the state?"

The Department of Education requests that those who testify bring a copy of a concise written statement that can be presented in five-minute time limit.

Peter Carter, Essex County superintendent of schools, will be the moderator.

Domestic violence is topic of Unity meeting

The Unity Group, a non-profit advocate group which assists victims of domestic violence, will sponsor a meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Millburn Public Library.

Forensic psychiatrist Dr. Jeffrey Brown and his associate Connie Castellan will present a program relating to domestic violence. In addition to serving as chief executive officer of the Hospital Planning and Rescue Company Inc., Brown is assistant professor of clinical psychiatry at the University of Medicine and Dentistry in New Jersey. There will be a question and answer period.

The Unity group provides legal and medical aid, assistance in job placement and relocation to save housing. For information, call (908) 522-8772.

Whom can you trust in the deal?

Acres funds would protect the land.

6. Treffinger has kept his word on campaign promises not to raise taxes and to downsize county government. Selling Hilltop would balance the $520 million 1995 budget, which does not increase the county tax levy from 1994, and would take the property out of the county's control.

7. Treffinger has worked for economic reform and recovery in the county and the sale of Hilltop for a park/reservation will improve the quality of life, preserve open space and make Essex County more attractive for new businesses, thereby attracting new residents.

8. Treffinger has held eight public meetings throughout the county during which residents could ask questions and make comments about the sale. Another round of public hearings will be scheduled when Hilltop is sold to a third party, hopefully as a park to the state.

9. Treffinger has subjected himself to the comments and criticism of residents throughout the county. He has enabled residents to speak their mind and has answered their questions. While debatable if the Lustbader Law applied to the sale of the property to the ECIA, Treffinger went ahead and scheduled hearings despite his opinion the law did not apply.

10. Treffinger has veto power over any plan about the Hilltop. After being reviewed by planners, engineers and a review committee, the county executive can still veto the sale of the property if he does not like it. Treffinger, as well as the freeholder president, who also has veto power, has advocated the state park idea, and it is far-fetched he would veto it should it be proposed.

During a hearing in Belleville Aug. 31, Treffinger labeled himself an "environmentalist with a concern for taxes." This is an uncharacteristic blending of beliefs which are often on opposing sides of the debate. But selling Hilltop for a state park satisfies the goals of environmentalists and those concerned with taxes. It's the best of both worlds.

This is not to say taxpayers should sit back and take it easy, letting Treffinger do all the work. Residents can still lobby their elected officials, write letters and join the Save the Mountain Committee's petition effort.

More importantly, the public should hold Treffinger, the freeholders and the ECIA accountable. Just as Treffinger "stormed the Bastille" of Essex County when he was elected, so should the public with its ire if the deal turns sour.

ly because the Pequots were being harassed to no end by the aggressive Iroquois and their native allies centered in northern New York. No quarter was given in these violent wars as neither the Puritans nor the Indians exempted women or children from mortal combat.

Second, southern Connecticut was not exactly the best site for a "City on the Hill," as it could not, at the time, support a growing colony of "begats." The New Haven Puritans had already gone to Long Island for a new settlement, changed their mind — perhaps they had nightmares of the Long Island Expressway or Kennedy Airport — then learned of Essex County. They obviously had previous information about the Passaic River and the Newark area and they must have been told that the few Indians in this area were not particularly war-like, certainly not like the Pequots.

Third, Stephen Freeman, Robert Treat and the other first families to settle in Newark were, I note, highly conservative Puritans. They created a church-city or city-church, in which and through which order reigned. A degree of equality existed, but only within the religious convictions and civic morality generally agreed upon and adhered to for about five generations before fundamental changes were to come.

What drove these settlers from Newark to the suburbs was land for their growing families but also for real estate speculation. They wanted to secure the land cheap and sell it for a profit, as folks do today without compunction. In this spirit of investment, should we say, were the roots of early capitalism, as more than one great economist and social historian have written.

Each generation of the Freemans expanded their holdings, especially in present-day West Orange, Orange, Montclair, Glen Ridge and East Orange. I recently studied original documents about the Freeman family, with a deed going back nearly 300 years and a will from 1803. Their holdings abutted the Crane family land in Montclair around 1818, when Montclair was within Bloomfield Township.

Several earlier scholarly histories of Essex County — the most recent was written in the 1920s — detail the accomplishments of the generations of Freemans. I know of no separate scholarly book on the family through its departure from England, perhaps with a stay in Holland, to New England.

Why is this essential — knowing the biography of one of the founding families of Essex County and, for that matter, among the founding families of Connecticut and America itself? History and heritage are elemental factors, or course, but something else is overriding: the family values and virtues, the spirit that propelled the Freemans, as it did the Dodds, Wards, Harrisons, Davises, et al.

Each township in Essex County has at least six and several have about two-dozen families whose influence have been marked in the municipalities and in Essex itself, and later in New Jersey as a whole. They were the first immigrants, excluding the Indians and their most ancient predecessors who came here about 50,000 years before, probably right after the end of the Wisconsin Glaciation.

Alas, political correctness has tended to censor or revise the history and heritage of each wave of immigrants, and the process is going on even as I write. I just wanted to say a few words on behalf of Stephen Freeman, a leader of the first immigrants from Western Civilization in Europe to settle in our county, but about whom our age neither respects nor even recognizes.

He, they had vision. We have little vision. Then again, we have a whole lot of television, if you understand my meaning. Raise high, thee, the drink of his time, cider, for Stephen Freeman, a forefather.

Festival for animals set for weekend

The little jewel of a theater this side of the Hudson is gearing up once again.

Fresh off the heels of a wonderful season, the Baird Theater of South Orange, starts its 22nd season with Neil Simon's "Rumors."

What's more, the small and quaint theater has been nominated for three ACT awards — a very professional and dedicated organization that honor Achievements in Community Theater, ACT.

The Baird's nominations are as follows:

- Outstanding Performance by a Featured Actress in a Play, Amelia C. Leites for "Cafe Au Lait Et Sucre."

- Outstanding Performance by a Featured Actor in a Play, Bill Joachim for "Cafe Au Lait Et Sucre."

- Outstanding Performance by a Featured Actor in a Play, Cliff Parent for "Beyond Therapy."

All 22 ACT Awards will honor almost every major category of the stage in both drama and musical as well as such behind the scenes categories as stage management, props, light, stage, sound and set design.

In the past, the Baird has been honored with two AVY awards — another award that honors the hard work of community theater. That program was loosely based on New York's Tony Awards.

After 22 years, the originator and head of that group, Perry Morgan relocated out-of-state and, unfortunately, left a void in the theater community.

With that in mind, a group of dedicated performance veterans decided it was an opportune time to continue and expand upon the concept of the AVY Awards with the genesis of the ACT Awards.

The effort was spearheaded by Ken Paris of North Brunswick in January 1994. Since then, a steering committee was established to brainstorm and evaluate various con-

The Baird was founded in 1973 by Gerry Nardone, Patricia Nardone and Fred Shaw with their first production "Gypsy." Success soon followed. Since then, the troupe has presented almost 70 productions that range from light musicals to potent dramas.

The Baird was founded in 1973 by Gerry Nardone, Patricia Nardone and Fred Shaw with their first production "Gypsy." Success soon followed. Since then, the troupe has presented almost 70 productions that range from light musicals to potent dramas.

The theater, located at the Baird Community Center, on the top floor allowed the troupe to present their productions in a variety of ways — proscenium, in-the-round, or most recently in the atmosphere in a small cafe.

One of the wonderful aspects of the Baird is the talent. In addition to producing five shows a year, the players always seem eager and hungry. Its no doubt that many of its past performer have gone on to land roles on Broadway and films. It allows new actors and actresses to hone their craft and use the Baird's small stage as a wonderful starting ground.

It has also acted as a host to budding playwrights to perform their works as a showcase to producers and agents for a pre-Broadway run.

cepts of the awards process. An acting board of directors were named with Paris as chairman.

Currently there are over 35 theaters representing counties throughout the state with hundreds of individuals participating.

Another local theater included on the ACT nomination roster include the JCC Theater Company of West Orange who grabbed two nominations for their production for "The Music Man." One is for Outstanding Production of a Musical and the other Outstanding Direction of a Musical.

Neil Simon's "Rumors" will begin its run at the Baird Theater on Nov. 2. Also on the Baird schedule this season includes "Sugar," "Shock," and an evening of theater during South Orange/Maplewood's First Night Celebration. For more information, call 763-1140.

The First Annual ACT awards celebration will be held this Sunday at the Hunterdon Hills Playhouse in Old Perryville at 5 p.m. For more ACT information, call (908) 422-6909.

On the talent scale, Mill's 'Nine' is a ten

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

On a scale of one to 10, "Nine," the Paper Mill Playhouse musical in Millburn is a 10. It is undoubtedly new and different from what the Paper Mill has offered through the years, but it is a wonderful and unique vehicle for the opening of the new season.

Also new is the beautiful courtyard and riverwalk surrounding the theater, which Angelo Del Rossi has initiated for the season's opening.

"Nine" is a lavish production derived from Federico Fellini's Oscar Award-winning Italian movie of yesteryear, his autobiographical "8½," and the more recent Broadway musical of 1982 which won five Tony awards. However, this production is very much changed from the original stage musical, and it was changed by its own composer/lyricist, Maury Yeston and playwright Arthur Kopit, who were responsible for the highly successful "Phantom" at the Millburn theater. The new version, as presented at the Paper Mill has original, exciting music, stunning, colorful costumes, unique, scenic backdrops, wonderfully operatic voices and some serious and moving acting by the principals.

With the marvelous, multi-talented Robert Johanson as artistic director, "Nine" is brought to the stage in a most unusual fashion. It tells a more realistic story of an Italian movie director, Guido Contini, who has come to the crossroads of his life at the age of 40, contemplating a loss of ideas for a movie. He has contracted to write, too many women in his life, his many fantasies and his memories of a Catholic upbringing and education. In the Venetian Spa and the Fontane di Luna, reliving his life at the age of 9, when his dear sweet mother and aunts and nuns attempted to shape his life, which turned promiscuous and disenchanting by the age of 40, Guido ultimately finds himself washed out, wrung out and hung out to dry.

Paul Schoeffler, last seen at the Paper Mill in "Phantom," portrays Guido Contini, with verve and an exhaustive display of talent. He is on stage in practically every scene, singing, emoting, wrestling with his fantasies and trying to come to terms with life as a 40-year-old — physically played by Matthew Fasano — an exceptionally talented youngster, who can sing and dance with the best of them. They are particularly effective when they sing "Long Ago/Now" with each other. It is a particularly moving moment. Fasano also sings "The Bells of St. Sebastian" with a group and as a solo, "Getting It All."

Judy McLane, a beautiful woman with a voice to match, is marvelous as Guido's faithful, but suffering wife, who eventually comes to terms with a stilted marriage and her wayward husband. The other principals in the cast are especially good, with Glory Crampton as Guido's glamorous movie star who wants to become a serious actress; Lauren Kennedy as Guido's mistress, who can't seem to get enough attention from him and Stephanie Pope, who plays Guido's threatening producer with some show-stopping moments.

However, the real treat to Paper Mill audiences is the wondrous appearance of Judith McCauley, who plays Guido's beloved mother, who is deceased but comes to him in his many imaginative moments. The lovely actress, who has appeared in many musicals at the Paper Mill Playhouse, has a changed habit and is an absolute delight as she glides across the stage to offer words of comfort or sings in her melodic, operatic voice, "Nine" and "The Bells of St. Sebastian."

Adding to the fine cast of players are Stephanie Pope, Robin Irwin, Giusepe DiSimone, Jan Neuberger and Sally Ann Tumas.

The musical numbers are attractive, and often provocative, with masculine, handsome men and beautifully sensual women, in such numbers as "Follies Bergeres," "Spa Music," "Not Since Chaplin/Guido's Song," "The Germans at the Spa," a scene stealing number, and "The Grand Canal." The other numbers, wonderful to watch and listen to, although not memorable enough to hum on the way home, include "My Husband Makes Movies," "A Call From the Maiconi,"

"Only With You," "The Script," "A Man Like You/In a Very Unusual Way," "I Can't Make This Movie" and the title song, "Nine."

Michael Annin, scenic designer, in his own imitable style, has come through again with unique, exciting, dazzling sets, including the grand canal, a gondola making its way across simulated waters, in which young boys swim and cavort.

Jim Cullinan, music director, offers his own special talents; Greg Barnes costumes are carefully intriguing, and a theatergoer is impressed by the sound design by David Pearson, the lighting effects by Tim Hunter, and the new and creative choreography by D.J. Salisbury.

The Paper Mill audience appeared to welcome the new changes Sunday on press night with an enthusiasm that should delight the entire cast, Johanson, Annin, Yeston and Kopit, and of course, the proud papa of them all, Executive Producer Angelo Del Rossi.

CFS/Candidiasis Support Group meets Sept. 27

Germs are proving to have more evolutionary "oomph" than we've given them credit for. The same century that saw the triumphant eradication of smallpox has given us retroviruses, antibiotic-proof bacteria, and a wide variety of puzzling chronic infections.

Along with AIDS, chronic fatigue syndrome, CFS, and candidiasis are fast earning the moniker of "twentieth century illnesses." Although they're infrequently fatal, CFS and candidiasis can be as disabling as the opportunistic infections that characterize the more serious illness. All stem from immune system dysfunction.

"CFS and candidiasis transformed me from an energetic businesswoman to an always tired, severely allergic invalid," noted Reverend Susan Velicoff Pelechaty. Reverend Pelechaty and her acupuncturist husband Orest Pelechaty, C.A. run Aware of Life Options and Healing Arts, ALOHA, a holistic health clinic in Short Hills.

"I slept 16-18 hours a day, had allergic reactions to almost all foods and chemicals and continually battled bacterial, viral and fungal infections," said Velicoff Pelechaty.

Reverend Pelechaty's experience with CFS is shared by about 3 million Americans and 90 million people worldwide. Symptoms can include deep fatigue unrelieved by sleep, impairment of memory and concentration, recurrent infections, allergies, muscle and joint pain, depression and anxiety, and a host of other problems.

The causes of CFS are still being debated, despite the disease being recognized by the Centers for Disease Control in 1988. Some physicians argue that CFS is the result of infection by the Epstein-Barr virus, the same agent that causes mononucleosis. Others state that CFS is the outcome of simultaneous, untreated infections in different parts of the body. Another group believes that CFS is the result of poor nutrition, a stressed lifestyle and a toxic environment.

Whatever the trigger, physicians agree that CFS impairs the immune system and thus weakens the body's ability to heal itself. Because of the disease's affect on a body's defenses, a person with CFS is frequently found to have other systemic infections like candidiasis.

Everyone has candida yeast in their bodies. In healthy individuals with strong immune systems, candida is harmless. But in ailing persons, a damaged system can allow candida yeast to grow unchecked in the body. This condition is called candidiasis.

Like CFS, candidiasis causes fatigue. It also affects digestion, the respiratory and nervous system and libido. And like CFS, in some patients candidiasis responds well to alternative, holistic therapies.

"It was at a real low point in my illness when I decided to seek holistic treatment," continued Reverend Pelechaty. "Traditional remedies were giving me no evidence of permanent improvement in my health. After combining a variety of alternative therapies — acupuncture, nutrition, exercise, massage and chiropractic — I saw a real change for the better."

Another client of ALOHA, Linda Chelis, reports a similar history. "I suffered with CFS for a number of years with no help from other medical professionals. I had just about given up hope of ever feeling well again when I came to ALOHA for treatment. I am regaining my hope, my health, my life."

"My experience with CFS and candidiasis gave me a determination to help others," offered Reverend Pelechaty. "That's why ALOHA is starting a support group for individuals with CFS/Candidiasis."

"Not everyone with these sickness is going to benefit from the same kinds of treatments," admitted Reverend Pelechaty. "But one of the best therapies for anyone who is ill is knowing that she or he can play an important role in her or his recovery. Another powerful remedy is finding that you are not alone — there are others who are going through what you're experiencing."

"There are no magic pills for these twentieth century illnesses," concluded Reverend Pelechaty. "The CFS/Candidiasis Support Group will allow us to wrap information, trade histories and help each other through illness and recovery. Together, we should be able to forge a path to better health."

The first meeting of the CFS/Candidiasis Support Group will take place September 27 at 7:30 at the ALOHA Clinic in Short Hills. Interested parties should call 376-4669 for directions and details.

"Accolades and Applause"

Herbert P. Dooskin to be honored at gala dinner

Herbert P. Dooskin, a Trustee at Mountainside Hospital since 1985, will be honored during the Hospital's gala dinner dance, "Accolades and Applause," to be held October 13 at The Hilton at Short Hills.

Dooskin, Executive Vice President of PLY GEM Industries, a New York City-based Fortune 500 Company, will be cited for his role in initiating and leading collaboration talks among Mountainside, Morristown Memorial and Overlook Hospitals.

The result is a consolidation which will create New Jersey's largest healthcare system. Dooskin, formerly chair of Mountainside Hospital's Board of Trustees, has been named chair of the new hospital system's Board of Trustees.

"The communities served by Mountainside have benefitted greatly from the leadership of Herb Dooskin," said Jim Meister, current Chair of Mountainside Hospital's Board of Trustees and President/Chief Executive Officer of Kings Super Markets Inc. "Through his tireless efforts and commitment, the stage has been set for a new partnership which will ensure the continuation of the highest quality healthcare for the communities and prepare us for the many challenges of the changing medical environment of the future."

Recognizing the need to adapt to changes in the new healthcare environment, Mountainside Hospital initiated collaboration discussions to form a strategic healthcare alliance.

"After studying collaboration opportunities with the leading hospitals in the region we concluded that a full merger with Morristown Memorial and Overlook Hospitals was the ideal solution," said Mr. Dooskin. "I would like to thank the Chairs of those boards — Clifford "Mickey" Michel of Morristown Memorial and Bart Sheehan of Overlook — for all their efforts."

"Accolades and Applause" seeks to top the $100,000 that was raised at Mountainside Hospital's last gala. All proceeds will benefit the Mountainside Hospital Foundation and will be used to meet the capital needs of the hospital. Ticket prices range from $100 — a special price for those up to 40 years of age — to $175, $250, and $350. Those purchasing $250 and $350 tickets will also have their names included in the evening's program.

For more information or to purchase gala tickets, call the Mountainside Hospital Foundation at 429-6130.

A mammogram can give the gift to last a lifetime

The most important piece of information women need to know about mammography is that it is the single most powerful tool to detect breast cancer early, and the earlier the detection, the wider a woman's options are for treatment. Get a mammogram when you need one and give yourself the gift of a lifetime.

Mammography is particularly important because it can detect breast cancers too small to be felt by physical examination. Research has shown that routine mammography detects 40 percent of cancers not found on physical examination, thus reducing the death rate from breast cancer by 30 percent.

Medical experts agree that mammography screening done at regular intervals, together with clinical breast exams, and monthly breast self-examination are the three techniques that provide the best means of protection against breast cancer.

radiologists, accredited by the American College of Radiology, will be offering discounted screening mammograms. Every woman is at risk for breast cancer, no matter her age, family history, or current health. Seventy-five percent of women who are diagnosed with the disease have none of the commonly known risk factors. However, mammograms are especially important for older women.

As a woman ages, her chances of developing breast cancer increase.

Medical experts agree that all women age 50 and older need to receive regularly scheduled mammograms. An annual screening is the usual recommendation.

For women ages 40 to 49, some intervals, together with clinical breast exams, and monthly breast self-examination are the three techniques that provide the best means of protection against breast cancer.

The importance of self-examination and examination by a health care provider should not be minimized. In about 10-15 percent of women, breast cancer is found solely on the basis of physical examination, and would not be detected by a mammogram. Therefore, any breast lump needs further evaluation, no matter what a mammogram shows.

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, a program dedicated to educating women about breast cancer and the importance of early detection. Again this year, a highlight of the program is National Mammography Day, October 19, a day when women will be encouraged to get mammograms. During the entire month of October, participating community events as to when and how often to have a mammogram. In November 1993, 21 organizations met to recommend mammography every 1-2 years in women in this age group, while the National Cancer Institute recommends checking with your health care provider to decide what is best for you.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) A new drug has been approved that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain. The material has been included in the formula for a new product known as "Arthur Itis™" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis™ relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis™ is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream, and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work.

IOF offers college finance advice for all

In order to help parents sort through the college financial aid process, The IOF Foresters is offering a free guide called "38 Ways To Guide Your Child to a College Education." The guide offers practical ways to save money during college and lists various types of financial aid. To receive your free copy call, toll free, 1-800-922-4-IOF.

The money is there. Billions go unclaimed.

The National Commission on Student Financial Assistance found that while there was more than $35 billion in aid available to students from corporations, only $2.7 billion was used. Some $33.7 billion went unclaimed, not because people were unqualified, but because they didn't know where to look.

College is expensive. According to IOF Foresters, a fraternal organization that provides college planning assistance, the cost of a four-year private college education is fast approaching $100,000 and some state schools have been raising their tuition faster than the privates. During the past 10 years the cost of a college education has doubled. Financial aid experts at the IOF Foresters say that over the next 10 years costs will keep climbing.

Fraternal Benefit Societies like IOF Foresters offer $11 million in financial assistance. They also inform their members and the public about the ins and outs of paying for college.

Did you know that if you're a Mexican American between the ages of 17 and 22 and live in the Golden State, you just might strike gold with the $1,500 Vikki Carr Scholarship. And for those whose ancestors put their John Hancock on the Declaration of Independence, the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence have scholarships available. Harvard has scholarships for students named "Pennoyer," "Downer," and "Ellis," regardless of need.

Don't think you can't get financial assistance because you earn too much money, 80 percent of the private sector does not require a financial statement or proof of need.

And don't believe that grades are the only consideration for an award; 90 percent of private sector applications are not concerned with grades.

The truth is that the families who receive the most financial aid are not necessarily the ones with the most need. The people who receive the most aid are the people who best understand the aid process.

The IOF Foresters is one of the world's oldest and largest family fraternal benefit societies dedicated to supporting projects that strengthen family life.

Fontoura warns against steroids

Essex County Sheriff Armando Fontoura has issued a warning about the growing use of steroids citing studies that indicate over 500,000 teenagers nationwide are using them to try and improve athletic performance unaware of their dangerous side effects.

"In an ill advised attempt to increase muscle mass and strength, speed and endurance, too many of our young people are experimenting with steroids with out sufficient knowledge about the serious threat and consequence to health they represent," said the Sheriff who stressed that more needs to be done to acquaint people to the dangers of steroid use.

"This is no longer a problem confined to professional athletes. There is a growing recognition that this problem has surfaced among high school athletes all over the country. But, in the drive to get the edge on the competition they are putting themselves at risk for the many serious side effects of steroid use.

The Sheriff cited the side effects include brain and liver cancer, impotence, cardiovascular problems, prostate enlargement, jaundice, high blood pressure, abnormal bleeding, degeneration of tendons and ligaments. Other adverse effects are baldness, acne and water retention. Women can also develop masculine traits such as deepened voices reduction in breast size, and increased facial and body hair. Also of great concern are the psychological effects associated with steroid use. Users exhibit increased almost uncontrollable aggressiveness, even rage which can lead to compulsive and addictive dependence on the substance.

"They should also know they face prosecution for illegal use of steroids or worse-serious health effects and even death," he said.

Miss Roseanna's School of Dance gears up for another new season

Miss Roseanna's School of Dance is opening this month for its 47th season. Classes will be conducted in pre-school, pre-K and kindergarten for ages 2½ through 5 and in Tap, Ballet Jazz, and Gymnastics for ages 6 through young adult. Ballroom lessons are also available.

The current staff includes: Miss Roseanna, Miss Dianna, Miss Linda, and Maureen Sheridan. All staff members are certified to teach and are members of one or more of the following organizations: Dance Masters of America, Dance Educators of America, Associated Dance Teachers of New Jersey and Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing.

Class size is limited so that each student may have personal attention. The philosophy of teaching presented by the staff is "learning to dance should be a joyful experience." Each student is encouraged to reach his or her potential in a loving and caring atmosphere by a concerned and dedicated staff.

Students are encouraged to perfect their art through performances at nursing homes, senior citizen affairs, charity benefits, shows and plays in their schools and our yearly recital. For further information call 743-5030 or 338-8252 and speak with Miss Roseanna or stop at the studio.

We are also pleased to announce the grand opening of Miss Dianna's Rainbow's End Pre-School. Miss Dianna is a graduate of Felician College with a degree in education. She has teaching experience in the field of education as well as dance.

Pre-school classes will be conducted Monday-Wednesday-Friday,

8:45 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. for children age four and Tuesday-Thursday, 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. for children age three.

Classes will be conducted by state certified teachers — not aides. The student teacher ratio will be a maximum of one to seven. All of the latest teaching methods will be used including computer programs.

Registration is currently being taken over the phone at 338-8252 and will be taken at the studio, located at 403 Broad St., Bloomfield.

To register your child call Miss Dianna at 743-5030.

Back-to-school time means checkup time

It's back-to-school time and your child wants to play a sport this fall. According to the school coach, he or she will need a physical in order to participate. But, she's 10 years old, and as far as you can see she's a picture of health.

So why should you bring her to the pediatrician for a checkup? For plenty of reasons, even if she weren't planning to play a sport. According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, every child should have a minimum of 20 well-child visits, starting shortly after birth and continuing throughout adolescence.

Terri Smith, MD, a pediatrician at the Family Health Centers of United-The Children's Hospital of New Jersey explained, "Our job as doctors is to make sure that a child is on track developmentally and screen for even the most subtle abnormalities. And, in addition to conducting a head-to-toe physical, we provide guidance on virtually any aspect of parenting from diapering to discipline."

Regular checkups are the best form of preventive medicine. "Parents have the opportunity to talk with a professional about such issues as how the child is progressing in school, interacting with friends and even concerns or questions about toilet training," said Dr. Smith. "No subject is off limits. We focus on the whole child including emotional, intellectual and physical growth."

Doctors use well child checkups to conduct physicals, that include weight and measurement and blood pressure checks to detect high reading or potential heart problems. And, depending on your child's age and medical history, screening tests for urine, anemia, cholesterol and tuberculosis may be done.

According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, every child should have a minimum of 20 well-child visits, starting shortly after birth and continuing throughout adolescence.

Check hearing and vision. "Hearing and vision are some of the most important tests, especially for younger children," said Dr. Smith. "Often children will have speech problems and it turns out that they are having difficulty hearing. And, teachers will report that children are doing poorly in school — not completing homework and we discover that the child has a vision problem and can't see the blackboard to copy down assignments."

Vaccinate your child against avoidable illnesses. Immunizations are a key part of regular physicals. Children should be immunized against many dangerous and highly contagious diseases, including polio, measles, diphtheria and tetanus.

Monitor growth and development. According to Dr. Smith, "We ask parents questions such as can your 8-year-old write numbers without reversing the order? Can your three year old turn pages of a book one at a time?" These questions help the doctor decide whether your child is progressing as expected. And, if a potential problem does surface, the sooner that problem is uncovered, the better, she explained.

"As doctors, we focus on preparing parents for each new stage of their child's development," said Dr. Smith. "A good portion of each visit is dedicated to addressing the concerns of the child or the parent. One of the greatest benefits of a checkup is that neither child nor parent are distracted by the need to discuss a disease. We can focus on the well being of the whole child."

Martin Luther King as you have never seen him before! See him raise his arms in triumph, see him shake his fists with rage, meet the firm gaze of the man who died to make you free. This is the "fighting" Doctor King who inspired generations of freedom fighters. He lives in your heart, now keep his dream alive in your home. Feel his presence.

For a short time only, we offer you "His Righteous Anger", a stunning triple portrait of Martin Luther King created just for us by award-winning artist Thomas Clough, who is famed for his realistic portraits of Black Americans. Not available anywhere else.

Each fine art print is on heavy acid-free museum quality paper and is signed personally by the artist. Guaranteed not to fade or change color. A generous 17 by 22 inches big. New real estate laws to help buyers, sellers

The New Jersey Real Estate Commission has announced new laws applicable to all New Jersey Real Estate agents which became effective July 1. The law requires all real estate agents to disclose the four types of agency relationships available and to declare in what capacity they will represent a member of the public. The law requires that this be done at the first meeting with a member of the public. A real estate agent may become the agent of the seller (traditional method), the agent of the buyer, a disclosed dual agent, (agent for both), or simply a transaction broker, representing no one.

When an agency agreement is signed with either a buyer or seller, the confidential information given to the agent must be kept secret unless the agent receives permission to reveal the information to others. In this way, the agent is not giving information to the other party that would cause his client to be at a disadvantage at the bargaining table.

For example, if a property owner signs an agency agreement with an agent and tells him in confidence that his job has been transferred out of town and he must sell quickly, this information may induce a buyer to present a very low offer on the house, knowing that there is a great pressure to sell.

Conversely, when a buyer's agency agreement is in effect, information from a buyer that the house he has been renting has been sold may cause a seller to hold out for a higher price knowing that the buyer is under pressure. This information may put the buyer at a disadvantage and cannot be disclosed if a buyer agency agreement exists.

In the third case, the agent may represent both parties as a dual agent, and must have informed written consent of both parties to act in this capacity. In this case, the agent must keep the secrets of both parties in order not to give either party a bargaining advantage.

The last option is a transaction broker. In this case, the agent gives no allegiance to either party, but becomes a manager of the transaction holding no confidential information from either party. A transaction broker does not promote the interests of one party over those of the other party to the transaction.

Wayne K. Thomas, broker owner of Century 21 Wayne K. Thomas Realtors, announced that his office will continue to serve the interest of the many property owners in the Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and Glen Ridge areas as always.

"We feel that in the beginning, these disclosure requirements will confuse and sometimes irritate buyers and sellers, but in the end, consumers will get great benefits from these changes," Thomas said. "Now as in most of the other states in the country, buyers of real estate will be able to retain real estate agents to represent them in the purchase of real estate in New Jersey. Traditionally in the past, agents represent the seller only."

He continued, "Now, for the first time in New Jersey, a customer will know if the agent with him is on his side or working against him."

Century 21 outlines reorganization plan

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation, a division of Hospitality Franchise Systems Inc., has outlined a new organizational structure designed to make the organization more entrepreneurial, faster-moving and more responsive to its 6,000 franchised brokers.

The centerpiece of the new structure is the redefinition of Century 21 field operations to allow the vice president/regional directors to focus on brokers' needs and become the direct contact for brokers/owners. Internal administrative functions of Century 21 regional and divisional offices will be consolidated at international headquarters, and many service functions will be moved to its divisions.

Additional broker support will be provided by new "quick response" broker service teams. Combining the most experienced business consultants from Century 21 regional offices, these teams will be available over the telephone or on-line at all times, and in brokers' offices as needed, increasing resources directly available to brokers.

"We're excited by the progress the company is making to keep us on the cutting edge," said Joseph Emma, broker of Century 21 Emma Realtors at 1908 Springfield Ave., in Maplewood. "Hospitality Franchise Systems is known for innovation. The bottom-line is that our buyers and sellers will benefit from technologically advanced tools and systems which will enable them to make informed decisions when it comes to their real estate transactions."

Robert W. Pittman, incoming chief executive officer and managing partner of Century 21 Real Estate Corporation, said, "When HFS announced the acquisition and my role in the Century 21 organization, we made it clear that we were committed to transforming the system into one of the most entrepreneurial companies anywhere — and to providing new services never before offered in the real estate industry."

"We look forward to having a new, more efficient and responsive organization in place. We can hit the ground running and bring about some dramatic changes — in our company and the industry," Emma said.

Hospitality Franchise Systems Inc. is the world's largest franchisor of hotels and residential real estate brokerage offices. Its stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "HFS."

In lodging, HFS has more than 4,400 Days Inns, Howard Johnsons, Park Inns, Ramadas, Super 8's and Villager Lodge franchised hotels with approximately 435,000 rooms in the United States, Canada, Latin America and Europe. In residential real estate, the Century 21 system has presence in 16 countries and territories, including approximately 6,000 independently owned and operated franchised broker offices worldwide.

"It's exciting to know that I'll be working with other real estate people from all parts of the United States and Canada, representing and promoting our area."

INTRODUCING BUYER EDUCATION WEEKS

We'll help you see things in black and white!

Decisions, decisions. The ins and outs of homebuying are complex. There are lifestyle issues, economic issues, and – of course – tax consequences. That's why you need lots of information to make a sound decision.

CENTURY 21® brokers throughout the Northeast are here to help with Buyer Education Weeks. During September, participating offices will host a series of seminars covering each cycle of the homebuying process. There is a workshop for first-time buyers, another for people contemplating a move up. There's one for families considering new construction; and one for empty nesters on whether to downsize or stay put.

There is no cost or obligation for any of these sessions, but advance registration is requested to assure adequate seating. To find out about dates, locations and topics of seminars in your area, call the CENTURY 21 office nearest you. Because knowledge is power. And homebuying is no place for amateurs.

'96 Dodge Viper RT/10 redefines the American sportscar

Since its debut as a concept car in early 1989, the Dodge Viper RT/10 has devined the quintessential American sports car - big blocked,attention grabbing, fast, loud, untamed,and definitely a modern standard-bearer for pure American heritage and tradition. While Viper has remained virtually unchanged through 1995, the 1996 Dodge Viper RT/10 will mark the opening of another chapter in an emerging Viper history and tradition with changes in appearance and performance.

"Beginning with the 1996 model, a number of product changes are planned with each successive version contributing to the evolution and tradition of the marque," said Martin R. Levine, Dodge division general manager.

"We believe the original Viper RT/10 roadster, produced from 1992 through 1995, has secured a place in history as a vehicle that defined a new Chrysler way of business by taking on fresh challenges,and once again, defining the genre of what a pure American sports car should be," Levine continued. "The 1996 Viper RT/10 will open a new chapter in the legendary Viper story."

The first and most noticeable changes in the 1996 Viper are three new exterior design themes. Customers will have a choice of red exterior paint with yellow five-spoke wheels and yellow Viper logo decals; black exterior paint with a silver center stripe and polished aluminum five-spoke wheels; or stone white exterior paint with a blue pearl center stripe and white five-spoke wheels. All previous color choices will be retired at the end of the 1995 model year run. Interior changes to complement the new exterior color themes include red leather-wrapped steering wheel, transmission shifter knob and hand brake with the red and yellow exterior theme; and blue leather-wrapped steering wheel, transmission shifter knob and hand brake with the white exterior paint and blue pearl stripe. a new all-black interior will be provided with the black exterior paint and silver stripe.

Sliding access side window curtains, replacing the soft zipper curtains,and available removable color-keyed hardtops are also new for 1996.

The legendary Viper side exhaust has been changed to a rear outlet exhaust system for 1996. It has less restriction for improved performance and a throatier sound due to a redesigned muffler system. Exhaust pipe routing follows the sills as in the former system, but turns inboard forward of the rear wheels. The pipes pass over the rear suspension and enter a tandem muffler with dual outlets on the centerline of the car. The muffler outlets have a polished ceramic coating for a long-lasting quality appearance. An aluminum shield protects the trunk floor and fuel tank against heat from the exhaust system.

Viper's 8.0-liter OHV V-10 engine horsepower and torque ratings are increased in 1996 due primarily to the redesigned exhaust system. Horsepower increases to 415 bhp at 5200 rpm, with torque at 488 foot-pounds at 3600 rpm. Internally, the engine also has a new windage tray to reduce drag due to excess oil rotating with the crankshaft.

The Viper driveline includes a more robust differential and stronger drive shafts capable of accepting up to 500 foot-pound of torque. There is also a revised differential mounting system to reduce housing movement under heavy acceleration and deceleration.

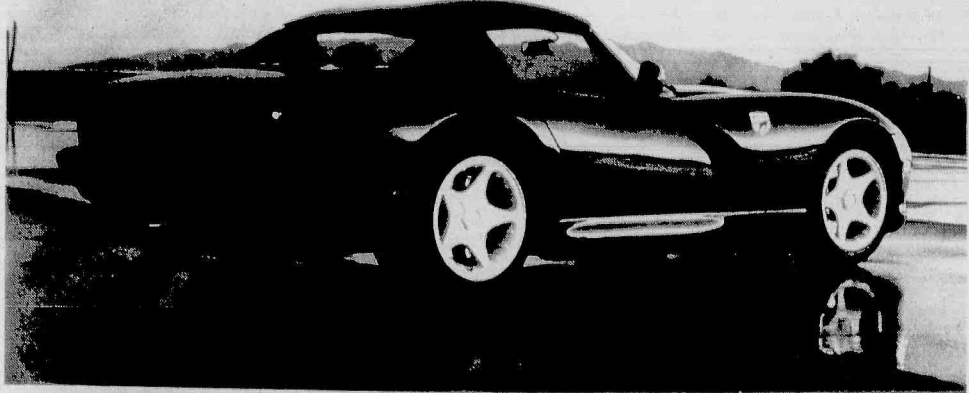

Aluminum suspension components improve Viper's handling and provide increased ride compliance.High-ductility A206 cast aluminum control arms and knuckles replace welded steel control arms and malleable cast iron knuckles. The change of material reduces the weight of the vehicle by 60 pounds. At the same time, the rear roll center has been lowered and geometry revised to reduce track change during ride motions. this makes the car more stable during hard cornering on rough roads. At the same time, the rear caster angle was increased from -6 degrees to +1 degree, improving straight line tracking.

Front suspension geometry is unchanged but the lower ball joint has been relocated from the knuckle to the lower control arm, reducing the bending movement in the arm under braking. This allows it to be lighter than with the previous configuration.

Front and rear shock absorber effective travel is increased for better controlby moving the pickup points farther outboard on the lower control arms that the previous system. Higher rate springs, 18 percent rear and 12 percent front, and new shock absorber valving improve impact feel and increase high speed control. Shock absorber valving has also been recalibrated for better control at low temperatures.

The 1996 Dodge Viper RT/10 will be the first domestically produced car to use Michelin Pilot MXX3 tires. The carcass, tread and compound of these tires are tuned to the new suspension package to provide more stability. The most notable construction change is a significant increase in sidewall stiffness. Reduced road noise and improved low temperature and wet traction objecties have been achieved along with substantial increases in cornering and braking traction. Wet cornering traction increased six percent in a standardized wet traction test. Peak lateral acceleration on the skidpad increased by over 5 percent. Stopping distance from 60 miles-per-hour is reduced by over 13 percent.

A DIFFERENT KIND of COMPANY. A DIFFERENT KIND of CAR.

The Chevy Van line has come a long way in 25 years

The year was 1970. George C. Scott turned down an Oscar for Patton, Simon and Garfunkel were at the top of the record charts with "Bridge Over Troubled Water," thousands marched in the first Earth Day observance, and Chevrolet introduced its new full-size van.

Fast-forward to 1995: After 25 years, six U.S. Presidents, several energy crises and the advent of MTV, Chevrolet debuts its first "new from the ground up" full-size van in a generation. Combined with the new interior on the Astro and the all-new front-wheel-drive minivancoming next year, nobody will cover the van market as completely as Chevrolet.

The 1996 Chevy Van and Chevy Express Van have the safety, styling, comfort and convenience features that customers want today. With new aerodynamic exteriors, longer wheelbases, rugged new full-frame construction, higher GVWRs and ergonomically designed interiors, Chevy Van and Chevy Express Van are the most advanced full-size vans on the planet.

The "Voice of the Customer" was heard at every step in the design and manufacture of the new Chevy Van and Chevy Express Van. Both models offer a high level of standard safety and convenience features, including dual frontal air bags—up to 8600 lbs. GVWR—and four-wheel anti-lock brakes.

The new exterior has wide-opening rear cargo doors with hidden hinges that make it easy to load large objects. Getting people in and out is easy, too, thanks to a longer wheelbase and wheelwells that don't block access to the front seats.

There's a lot to like on the inside, too. Chevy Van and Chevy Express Van have new, ergonomically designed interiors and instrument panels. These spacious, full-size vans rank at the top of their class with cargo space of about 267 cubic feet for regular length models and 317 cubic feet for extended length models.

A rugged, new, high-strength steel ladder frame is the rock-solid foundation of these new Chevy vans. The 1996 Chevy Van and Chevy Express Van have longer wheelbases than 1995 models — 135 inches in standard versions and 155 inches in extended models — for improved entry/exit, stability and ride quality. A full-size tire is mounted under the body to add cargo room, and a larger 31-gallon fuel tank increases driving range between fill-ups.

A family of new Vortec V6 and V8 gasoline engines offer more performance without sacrificing fuel economy — up to 60 more horsepower than last year's optional powerplants. And for the first time, a turbocharged diesel is available in Chevy Vans.

The Chevy Express Van can accommodate a crowd — up to 15 passengers in extended models — with car-like comfort and style. Express Van is a favorite for airport shuttle services, delivery vans, ambulances, motorhomes, large families and tour groups. Commercial vehicle buyers appreciate Chevy Van's ample interior cargo room and its wide range of door and window configurations. In addition, Chevy Van cutaways are available in GVWR's of 9500 lbs. to 12,300 lbs. with 3 wheelbases: 139", 159", and 177".

The Chevy full-size vans have changed as much as the times. Baby boomers who stayed in vans at Woodstock are now shopping for van conversions for vacations with their families. Vans carry socially conscious commuters to work in ride-sharing programs, ferry desktop computers for delivery services and haul cans and bottles to recycling centers. Chevy Van and Chevy Express Van have the features, room and performance that will propel the full-size van into the 21st century.

The 1996 Chevy Van and Chevy Express Van have the safety, styling, comfort and convenience features that customers want today. With new aerodynamic exteriors, longer wheelbases, rugged new full-frame construction, higher GVWRs and ergonomically designed interiors, Chevy Van and Chevy Express Van are the most advanced full-size vans on the planet. Pictured above is the 1996 Chevy Van, Extended Express Van and Express Van. Pictured below is the 1996 Chevy Express Van.

Hauling cargo would be very easy on the 1996 Chevrolet Express Van. Commercial vehicle buyers appreciate Chevy Van's ample interior cargo room and its wide range of door and window configurations.

A brother and sister team

The 1996 Ford Thunderbird and the 1996 Mercury Cougar still will be able to turn heads this year as both still behold their trademark striking appearance. Minor changes have been implemented that include the altering of the noses and tire rims. Chrome is at an extreme minimum on the Cougar and almost nonexistent on the Thunderbird. Headlights are now sleek and trim and possess more of a wrap-around look than previous years. Inside, the two offer luxury options found in cars costing many thousands more. Performance still packs a wallop with a base six cylinder — a powerful eight cylinder is available as well. The 1996 Ford Thunderbird and Mercury Cougar remain such an absolute pleasure to drive, it is no wonder the legendary pair are still a favorite among automobile consumers and car fleet buyers all around the country.

General Motor's Vortec engine is here

Perhaps the best thing about GM's 1996 truck engine program is that you'll continue to discover its many benefits throughout your ownership experience.

Turn the key on your 1996 truck equipped with a Vortec engine and you'll notice how quickly it starts - no annoying grinding or delays. Then enjoy the smooth idle quality that's free of unwanted noise and vibration.

Despite the temperature outside, you'll notice how quickly the heater warms up.

As you depress the accelerator, there's no hiding the engine's powerful punch. Engineers have used a variety of designs and technologies to unleash more power at specific times during the driving cycle. This means more torque for off-the-line acceleration, better towing capacity and better 30 to 70 mph passing performance.

In fact, engineers have porred over every detail of these engines in an effort to deliver customers the best product on the market. Every soul. Every sensor. Every system.

Attention to the big things and the small. That's what you'll discover as you journey down the road with your '96 GM engine.

Watch for drowsiness when on the road

Most people know how drugs and alcohol affect a driver - slowed reaction time, decreased awareness and impaired judgement. But many drivers are unaware that sleepiness can have the same effects, making driving drowsy as dangerous as driving drunk.

It is difficult to attribute accidents to sleepiness because there are no tests or standardized criteria to clearly determine the extent of the problem. Still, Federal Highway Transportation officials estimate that drowsy drivers are involved in anywhere from 60,000 to 240,000 accidents each year. Drowsiness, they say, contributes to about 10,000 auto-deaths a year.

"The groups most at risk for drowsy driving are young people, shift workers or those with non-traditional work schedules, commercial drivers, and people with undiagnosed sleep disorders," says John Tieme, executive director of the New Jersey Insurance News Service.

Young people under the age of 25 account for 55 percent of all sleep-related driving accidents, he notes. They are typically sleep-deprived from staying up late and sleeping too little, and they do much of their driving at the time of greatest risk, at night. Shift workers, 20-30 percent of whom reported having a sleep-related driving mishap in the last year, find the morning drive home from work especially risky.

"Commercial drivers are also especially susceptible to sleep-related accidents," adds Tieme. "In addition to the high number of miles they drive each year, much of their driving is done at night, when the body is sleepiest."

What times and situations put drivers at the most risk for sleepy driving? "Between the hours of midnight and six a.m., or in the middle of the 'afternoon lull' are prime times for drowsy driving accidents," says Tieme. Drivers are more likely to fall asleep at the wheel when driving alone or when on a long, monotonous drive. Waking up early to start a journey, or staying up late the night before a trip to prepare, also puts drivers at a greater risk, he reports.

The New Jersey Insurance News Service offers the following advice to help drivers prevent drowsy driving:

1. Recognize the danger signals for drowsy driving. If your eyes close or go out of focus by themselves, if you have trouble keeping your head up, cannot stop yawning, have wandering, disconnected thoughts, cannot remember driving the last few miles, drift between lanes, tailgate, miss traffic signs, or have a difficult time maintaining constant speed, take these as warning signs that you could fall asleep at the wheel.
2. Coffee and other stimulants are substitutes for sleep. They may help you feel more alert, but the effects last only a short time and you may still experience "micro-sleeps" (brief naps that last about five seconds).
3. Pull over frequently. Schedule a break every two hours or every 100 miles. During your break take a nap, stretch, get some exercise. If you pull over for a nap make sure you park in a safe spot and lock your doors.
4. Don't get hypnotized by the road. Drivers frequently get hypnotized by the lines on the road. Make a conscious effort to keep your eyes moving every few seconds from the road to the side and rear mirrors and back to the road again.
5. Keep your body relaxed. A tight grip on the wheel and tense neck and shoulder muscles add to fatigue.
6. Vary the climate control settings in your car. A cool car will keep you more alert. Rolling down the window for fresh air also helps.
7. Play games or find activities that keep you awake. Make sure, however, that they do not interfere with your driving.
8. Listen to the radio, or cassette tapes.
9. Talk to your passengers; ask your front seat passenger to stay awake.
10. Switch drivers.
11. Plan to drive during the hours of the day when you are normally awake. Avoid driving during your body's down time, at night and during the midafternoon.
12. Have your car checked for exhaust system problems. Carbon monoxide emissions can cause fatigue.

AAA tries to prepare all for chilly weather

Properly maintained vehicles can usually weather winter's chilly temperatures, but special steps are required to protect cars from the season's fiercest arctic blasts, according to the American Automobile Association.

As part of National Car Care Month, in October, AAA is urging motorists to prepare now for the severe cold snaps that strand millions of motorists each winter.

"In 1994, AAA received nearly 27 million calls for emergency road service," said George Geik, managing director of AAAA Automotive Services. "Much of that record volume is directly attributable to periods of single-digit and sub-zero temperatures in many parts of the nation."

The best strategy to combat severe winter weather is to make sure your car's battery is in proper working condition.

"Motorists should check to make sure the cable connections are tight and there is no corrosion on the terminals," said Geik. "Also, if the battery fluid level can be checked, make certain the fluid covers the battery plates."

If the engine fails to start, turn on the headlights. If the headlights work, even if they are dim, the battery power may only be low and a jump start does not work, the vehicle may require service by a qualified technician.

If the temperature has been extremely low and the battery is weak, the battery could be frozen. Motorists should not attempt to jump start a frozen battery.

Moisture in the fuel line can sometimes freeze, blocking the flow of fuel and preventing engine start-up. AAA recommends adding a commercial additive containing isopropyl alcohol to the gas tank when filling up before and during periods of extreme cold weather.

For motorists who live in areas prone to extremely cold temperatures, an engine block heater that warms the engine oil can be installed to help ease cold weather starts. Even something as simple as burning a 100 watt light bulb under the hood can provide warmth to assist in starting the engine.

Severe cold also can strand motorists by causing door locks to freeze. If locks are frozen, AAA recommends motorists try using a hair dryer to heat the lock area. Also, heating the tip of the door key with a match will sometimes be effective. If the lock still does not function, contact your auto club or a certified service facility for assistance.

Basic vehicle maintenance also plays a vital role in cold weather vehicle performance. In addition to the battery, ignition and engine cooling systems should be inspected and engine oil changed before frigid temperatures hit. Be certain the engine coolant is a 50/50 mix of anti-freeze and water.

Maintain the great look of your car for resale

Keeping your car looking nice does more than make you feel good it helps your wallet as well. A well maintained vehicle may be worth twice as much as a neglected one at trade-in time.

Dealers like a car that requires minimum repairs before being put on the market. One of the first places an appraiser will look, for example, is under the floor mats to check the condition of the carpeting. Take care of the interior fabrics. And, to prevent rust, repair minor dings and scratches as soon as possible.

At an average price of more than $18,000, today's cars represent a major expenditure for most families, an investment which deserves better care than most vehicles ever receive.

Make a special effort to protect that investment. It will pay off not only at trade-in time but during the years you're enjoying your vehicle.

For a free illustrated pamphlet on appearance maintenance, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. N, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.
