BELLEVILLE, N.J., VOL.14 NO.39—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1995

TWO SECTIONS — 50 CENTS

Common values

Neighbors gathered outside 54 Salter Place where tables and chairs were set up in the street. This group is waiting for seconds or maybe thirds. Salter Place is the boundary line between Bloomfield and Belleville in Silver Lake, since Belleville succeeded from Bloomfield in 1839. The boundary is only political, not in common family values and neighborhood social standards. See Page 3 for more photos.

Council bids Green Acres funds for stadium rehab

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

Citizens, civic groups and students can come to the aid of Belleville in the Township Council's push to obtain Green Acres bonds for the renovation of the municipal stadium complex by writing letters of support to elected officials.

Barbara Lawton, a grant consultant, addressed the council during the Monday work session to outline the township's final application for the funds.

With the approval of voters next month, $340 million in Green Acres funds will be available to municipalities across the state.

"What we need for the application are letters of support. Any and all, but as many as possible," Lawton said.

Green Acres would make funds available to Belleville through a combination of a low-interest loan and grant.

The township had put in for $5 million to revamp the stadium and fields, although Lawton indicated the final amount would be about $3 million if all goes well.

The final application must be filed by the end of this month.

Councilman Gerald Digori is expected to set up the required public hearing for the Green Acres money, and other projects for the next application will be incorporated in the hearing.

Tentative plans for the stadium complex will be put before the public during the hearing.

Other suggestions for Green Acres money came from Councilman Bill Cook, who suggested Belleville acquire the reservoir building for use as a museum.

Cook also wanted to explore Green Acres financing for the green areas around the senior housing project.

Lawton said she believed right-of-way problems had stalled previous efforts to acquire the reservoir building, and promised to check her records and report back.

Of the 34 acres at the Soho site, eight are being used by CMMI, five are expected to be pegged for senior housing and the rest could be developed as green areas.

A hitch, discussed briefly by the council, is that use of Green Acres locks the lands permanently into use as parks and green areas.

Hendricks Golf Course is one parcel for which state funds have been used and must remain unchanged from the uses the state money mandated.

The use of Green Acres money to develop green areas at the Geriatrics Hospital could forever prevent the development of ratables there.

Safety lights

Flashing safety lights will be the subject of a proposed bond ordinance the council instructed Township Manager Steve Cuccio to write.

The amber lights would be installed at Schools 8, 7 and 5.

Essex County has given permission for the light to be installed as long as Belleville purchases, maintains and installs them.

Home and school groups have been asking for the lights because of traffic concerns, such as speeding on Union Avenue and the blind spot caused by the hill on Greylock Parkway.

The lights cost $3,500 and installation costs $6,500. Four lights would cost $40,000.

Mayor Jim Messina hinted the cost could be offset by the sale of a Mill Street lot.

The sale by auction was discussed by council after a resident who owns adjacent land indicated he would be interested in a purchase.

Another issue which came before the council was the recent controversy concerning the fire department.

Deputy Mayor Tom Spillane asked that the council discuss the "recent fiasco" in the department caused by the "number of lieutenants."

The reorganization of the ranks has caused much criticism, and now will move into the litigation arena.

A multitude of lieutenants positions were created, and several firemen complained the new ranks were filled with men who had not taken the civil service tests for the positions.

Township Attorney Bob Giordano asked the discussion be in private session with the fire chief present to answer questions.

Dookchitra is named National Merit Scholarship semifinalist

Ben Dookchitra of Belleville High School has been named a National Merit Scholarship semifinalist.

"I was happy when I heard," Dookchitra said. "I worked hard for this."

NMSC announced the names of 15,000 high school seniors who are semifinalists in the 41st annual National Merit Scholarship Program. These academically talented young men and women have an opportunity to continue the competition for about 6,900 scholarship awards, worth about $26 million, to be offered in the spring.

NSMC is a privately financed, non-profit corporation whose scholarship activities are supported by 600 independent sponsor organizations and institutions. By publicly honoring semifinalists, NMSC seeks to broaden educational opportunities for these students and to encourage the pursuit of scholastic excellence at every level.

Juniors in 19,000 U.S. high schools entered the 1996 program by taking the 1994 preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, which served as an initial screen of more than one million program entrants. The highest scorers in each state were designated semifinalists in numbers representing about one-half of one percent of the state's high school graduating class.

Semifinalists must advance to the finalist level of the competition by fulfilling additional requirements such as having a superlative academic record, being endorsed and recommended by the high school principal and submitting SAT I scores that confirm the student's earlier PSAT/NMSQT performance. Other essential information about the student's educational interests and goals, as well as participation and leadership in school and community activities is provided in the detailed scholarship application the semifinalist and an official of the high school must complete.

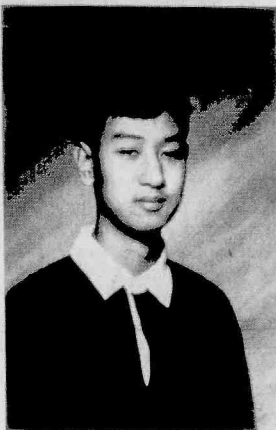

Dookchitra is a member of the track team, as well as the Key, Math and Pep Clubs, chorus, orchestra and is president of the environmental club.

"I would like to go to Princeton," he said. "I interested in a career in aerospace."

About 90 percent of the semifinalists are expected to become finalists, and every Merit Scholarship winners will be chosen from this group of exceptionally able students. Finalist candidates will be judged to have the greatest potential for success in rigor-

About 200 colleges and universities are expected to sponsor more than 3,800 Merit Scholarship awards. Winners of college-sponsored Merit Scholarship awards will be chosen from among finalists who will attend institutions financing their scholarships.

NMSC will announce the 1996 Merit Scholarship recipients beginning next April. These scholars will join 20,000 others to be enrolled in 600 higher education institutions during the 1996-97 academic year.

sional evaluations of their academic abilities, skills and accomplishment — without regard to gender, race, ethnic origin or religious preference.

Three types of scholarships will be awarded in 1996. Every finalist will be considered for one of 2,000 National Merit $2,000 scholarships to be offered on a state representational basis. NMSC's own funds will underwrite 80 percent of these awards and grants from corporate sponsors will finance about 20 percent.

More than 400 corporations, company foundations and other business organizations will support about 1,100 Merit Scholarship awards for finalists who meet the award sponsor's preferential criteria.

Auerbach is 'Bella Signorina'

By James Van Blarcom
Staff Writer

The Belleville Parade Committee has chosen Karen Auerbach as Belleville's 1995 "Bella Signorina."

Auerbach will represent township Saturday during the Columbus Day Ball and Oct. 15 in the Columbus Day Parade.

Auerbach was surprised at first when learning of her appointment, but understands her position in relation to her heritage. "Columbus discovered America, therefore I'm proud to represent Italian-Americans from Belleville," she said.

Candidates for the "Bella Signorina" were judged upon their resume, with their school performance and community service, followed by a personal interview.

The Columbus Day Ball is held in honor of the committee's choice, with a formal luncheon for friends and family. The winner also rides on a float during the parade.

Auerbach, a junior at Belleville High School, is a member of the Italian Club, among her other school activities. She also serves as the gymnastics team manager. She hopes to pursue a career in psychiatry.

The committee also recognized two other young women to accompany the winner during the parade.

Debra Percario and Andrea Zamloot of Belleville have been chosen as Auerbach's "Ladies in Waiting."

Percario, a senior at BHS, is a honor student and class senator. She hopes to continue her education in fashion design.

Zamloot is a senior at Mountain Lakes High School. She is in the school's hearing impaired program. She is a member of National Honor Society and tri-captain of the varsity softball team.

Elks host to blood drive

The Belleville Elks, in conjunction with the North Jersey Blood Center, will be host to its semi-annual blood drive Oct. 14 at Belleville Elks Hall, 254 Washington Ave., Belleville, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Belleville Elks asks residents of Belleville to help eliminate a critical blood shortage by donating blood during this drive, which will help maintain an adequate blood supply for local hospitals.

To assure blood will be there when needed, donate now and encourage friends and relatives to donate blood too.

Adults in good health are eligible to donate. Donors must weigh at least 110 pounds, know their Social Security number and must have with them a signed form of identification, such as a drivers license, to donate.

Donors will be given a mini-physical, with temperature, blood pressure, pulse and iron count, and a cholesterol screening will be taken with the results being mailed home.

Everyone donating blood to this drive will be covered for any blood emergencies for a period of one year. Parking is available in the rear of Elks Hall on Valley Street and metered parking is available on Washington Avenue.

Mishap causes delay in delivery

A delivery problem on the part of the Post Office caused a delay in the delivery of the Belleville Post to subscribers last week.

Last week's edition of the Post did not make it to the appropriate annex in time for Thursday's mail delivery.

Welcome, Mark, to Belleville!

Julian Caplan will present theatrical performances on Mark Twain Oct. 12 at 7:30 p.m. during a program sponsored by the Friends of the Belleville Public Library and Information Center. The program is dedicated to the memory of Frank DeLisi.

Senior citizen held on rape

Belleville Police kept busy this week as a Belleville man is charged with kidnapping and aggravated sexual contact. Police nabbed drunk drivers, car thieves and druggies.

Anthony Grieco, Jr., 76, of Belleville was charged with criminal restraint and aggravated sexual contact by Belleville Police and kidnapping by Newark Police.

Grieco allegedly abducted a 17-year-old girl from Newark Sept. 30, 12:44 a.m., and brought her to Belleville where the crime occurred. ♦ Detectives Michael Guiliano and Robert Capece arrested Leon Cooper, 37, of Newark Sept. 29, 10:01 p.m., on the 300 block Washington Avenue.

Cooper was found in possession of 10 clear vials of heroin and one wax fold of cocaine.

♦ Jerry Butler, 25, of Newark, was arrested Sept. 26, 12:51 p.m., on the 100 block Franklin Avenue for burglary and theft.

After receiving a call of a suspicious person, Sgt. Anthony Roman-

police blotter

detto found Butler in possession of stolen property, which was identified by the proper owner.

♦ Three juveniles were arrested Sept. 28, shortly after midnight, for attempted auto theft and resisting arrest on Dow Street.

Officers Anthony Passarella and Phil Gamarro were investigating an auto burglary when they observed the three juveniles in another car up the street.

Once juveniles saw police observing them, they fled the vehicle. Police apprehended the teenagers who were in possession of burglary tools.

♦ Officer Steven Linfante arrested a 17-year-old boy Sept. 29, 7:15 p.m., on Division Avenue near Washington Avenue, for underage drinking.

♦ Rafael Garcia, 51, of Newark, was arrested Oct. 1, 2:55 a.m., for driving while intoxicated. Garcia was Murdered police officer's wife, daughter can finally move on

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

Many sins in life warrant the wrath of God, but perhaps the most contemptible act one can commit against mankind is depriving a young child and a loving wife of their father and husband.

Al-Damany Kamau, also known as Eddie Lee Oliver, sinned against God and man when he murdered Newark Police Detective John Sczyrek in Essex County Courthouse on June 3, 1993.

On Sept. 13, 1995, Essex County Prosecutor Clifford J. Minor made public that Kevin Mattox, age 30, of Newark pleaded guilty to conspiracy to murder Sczyrek.

Minor said Mattox, the third person charged in connection with Sczyrek's murder, also pleaded guilty before Superior Court Judge Donald Coburn to separate charges of using a juvenile to distribute narcotics within 1,000 feet of a school.

"It has been a tough two years," said Cheryl Sczyrek, John's wife. "I went through the trials and my daughter went right along with me."

Cheryl grew up in Belleville, and lives locally with her daughter Shannon. "My daughter is the reason I made it through this. Family and friends have also been very supportive."

Deputy First Assistant Prosecutor John Redden said Mattox admitted to Judge Coburn that he agreed to be at the wheel of a get-away car near Essex County Courthouse waiting for Kamau.

Mattox told Judge Coburn that he knew Kamau planned to shoot someone in the courthouse.

"This plea closes the door on one of the most intensive and complex investigations which have been conducted by my office," said Prosecutor Minor. "Because of the outstanding efforts of the many members of the law enforcement community who participated in this investigation, each of the defendants charged in connection with the cold-blooded murder of Detective Sczyrek is now serving or facing substantial prison time."

Kamau was convicted on May 1, 1995 of Sczyrek's murder and was sentenced on May 8, 1995, to two life terms with at least 75 years to be served before he would be eligible for parole.

"The fact that he will never be out makes me satisfied," Sczyrek said.

On May 19, 1995, Tinesha James was sentenced to 20 years in prison with six and two-third years to be served before she is eligible for parole, after she pleaded guilty to aggravated manslaughter and conspiracy to illegally possess, transport or dispose of a firearm.

James admitted carrying the murder weapon into the courthouse at Kamau's request by concealing the handgun on her person and delivering it to him on the 11th floor of the courthouse where Sczyrek was about to testify at a narcotics trial against Kamau's brother and cousin.

When Judge Coburn sentences Mattox on Oct. 6, the defendant, according to the terms of the plea agreement, faces 25 years in prison with at least 12 and one-half years to be served before he is eligible for parole.

What was taken away from Cheryl and Shannon Sczyrek can never be replaced. No sentence is justification for the actions of Kamau, James and Mattox. Perhaps Cheryl's philosophy is the best and only way to survive, "Now it is behind us and we can move on."

Belleville's Flynn attains second community award

James Flynn of Belleville, a representative for Prudential Insurance and Financial Services has received a Prudential Community Champions Community Award of $500 for the Cerebral Palsy of Essex and West Hudson.

Prudential Community Champions Awards Programs annually recognizes Prudential employees and retirees who excel in volunteer commitment, leadership and service in their communities, and provides grants to the organizations in which they volunteer. In 1995, the Prudential Foundation is awarding $535,000 in grants to over 320 non-profit organizations nationwide on behalf of the company's employees.

James Flynn a 14 year member of the Belleville Elks and member of the Elks handicapped Children Committee, has been a volunteer for the Cerebral Palsy of Essex and West Hudson for two and a half years. Flynn has spent much of this time taking individuals with different disabilities on trips to the zoo and summer camps as well as visiting those individuals who are unable to attend such events. He also helps raise funds necessary to provide such trips. The goal of the organization is to educate and train individuals with disabilities, provide therapy for them, and access their capabilities as well as use technology to make their lives better.

This is the second time that Flynn has been granted a Community Champions Award.

The Prudential, with headquarters in Newark, is one of the largest financial institutions in the world, and the largest insurance company in North America. The Prudential supports a wide variety of non-profit programs benefiting local communities across the U.S. by donating millions of dollars and thousands of employee volunteer hours each year.

Mayor can change Belleville's future

Mayor James Messina has come out strongly for a renewed effort to get rid of illegal housing, illegal tenants and illegal students who cost Belleville property owners hundreds of thousands of dollars in school services and other municipal services.

Under pressure from the public — most resoundingly from school board Trustee Frank Montagna — the mayor has spoken forthrightly and intelligently in suggesting that state intervention may be needed. He also points to a recent ordinance enacted — introduced by Councilman Gerald DiGori, who also has begun to speak out positively — which requires the inspection of every house and apartment before a new owner or tenant assumes occupancy.

Where has the building inspector been these many years? If he cannot uncover illegal housing, he should be removed. It is as simple as that. Code enforcement is an essential issue should Belleville become, as it once was, the "beautiful village."

East Orange has experimented with a program of having each dwelling inspected, a kind of precursor to a revaluation of property, which gives it a legal basis. No one is asking that legitimate property owners be harassed should they have their mother or mother-in-law living in a home or they provide space to a family member who has come home to live. Nor are we questioning those families who permit a college student or other individual to live in a spare room or two.

Our concern is with illegal two-family or multi-family dwellings who rent out to multiple families, without paying the going tax rate and without a zoning variance.

Many such landlords use the illegal rents to purchase other real estate to rent, often with more illegal apartments. Meanwhile they retire to the Jersey Shore or to South Carolina, "to get away from Belleville" — the community they had ripped off!

We trust the mayor will continue to address this issue, with an apartment by apartment inspection, with proper notice, of course, of every multi-family dwelling in Belleville, sparing no friend of this or that power-that-be.

If he can turn around this problem and develop new variables, Messina, whatever course he sets for the future, will be, should be, eulogized.

Newark's newest insult to integrity

Word is that still more federal and, ultimately, state and county millions of dollars in tax revenues will be spent on something called Congressman Joseph Minish Park on the riverside near the new so-called Performing Arts Center, the latter of which has already received tens of millions of dollars in taxpayer subsidies.

The naming of federal, state, county, municipal and state agency facilities after politicians, alive or dead, is dubious at best and an insult to integrity, usually. Minish, as we remember, departed his reign in Congress with more than $300,000 in unspent campaign funds, a tidy sum indeed for a guy who once preached social justice and reformed politics and who walked humbly as any labor leader.

Newark, once again, is being provided with multi-millions in taxpayer revenues, and those dollars will go down the rathole, as so many billions of others have gone to rodent-land, in waste, inefficiency, no-show jobs, contract padding, substandard materials and regulations, and outright corruption.

What have Belleville and Nutley gotten? Not a dime, despite the much higher per capita tax realized from Belleville and Nutley, as contrasted with the per capita tax realized from Newark, reckoning residents only.

Belleville and Nutley desperately require funds to clean their share of the Passaic River, but then again Nutley and Belleville do not have rampant slums, mile-after-mile of devastation, and the degree of social unrest, discontent and outright evil as does Newark.

Perhaps this is the overriding factor in securing federal, state and county tax funds — go to the lowest depths and reach up with your hands!

Maybe Nutley and Belleville could do without those tax dollars because a riverside park would be named after another politician, another power broker, another insult to the integrity of Belleville and Nutley residents. If you believe we mean Frank Orechio — forget it. He already has half the Northern New Jersey District Water Supply named after him!

As for Joe Minish, we ask: "Where did you leave your humility, Joe. Where?"

Register to vote

One of the most important privileges granted to us as United States citizens is the right to vote. It is with this power that we can effect change in our municipalities, our counties, and yes, even our nation.

The right to vote — democracy — is among the privileges our men and women in the armed forces fought to preserve. Having the right to vote gives us the power to elect men and women who are looking for the best interests of our communities. It also gives us the power to remove men and women whose terms in office have shown no growth and left us with stagnant government.

Having the right to vote is not enough. Pulling the lever is. And in order to be able to enter a voting booth and pull the lever for the candidates of our choice, we must register to vote.

Tuesday is the deadline to register to vote in the Nov. 7 general election. Municipal clerks offices usually expand their hours to accommodate residents interested in registering to vote. Call the municipal clerk to find out their hours of operation this week.

Give yourself the power of the vote. Register.

'Oh, weep for Adonais, for he is dead!'

"St. Agnes Eve — Ah, bitter chill it was!

The owl, for all his feathers, was a-cold;

The hare limp'd trembling through the frozen grass,

And silent was the flock in woolly fold:

Numb were the Beadsman's fingers, while he told,

His rosary, and while his frosted breath,

Like pious incense from a censer old,

Seem'd taking flight for heaven, without a death,

Past the sweet Virgin's picture, while his prayer he saith."

The above is the opening stanza of "The Eve of St. Agnes," among the most beautiful and, in its way, the most spiritual fulfilling I know in English poetry. The inspired words of that poem were written by John Keats, whose death, at age 25, was the most tragic early ending of genius in the history of English poetry and, as we survey world literature, perhaps of any man or woman who ever wrote and then died young. Only Schubert in music was genius stilled too young, too young.

In essence, as one reads and rereads Keats, the loss becomes almost unbearable, for where there is greatness in so many of his verses, the promise unfolding in his later poems evidences that his fame would have gone beyond that of Shakespeare — or at least equal to the immortals such as Homer, Virgil, Dante, Milton, Goethe, T.S. Eliot and, as I should find room, Walt Whitman.

Amy Lowell, a famed biographer in her right, once wrote a massive biography of John Keats. She herself could not end the biography — an editor had to — for while researching Keats, she fell in love with him, vicariously but nonetheless passionately, almost rising in its spiritual yearning as can be found in the mystical writings of St. Teresa Avilla.

Thus the most quoted lines of romantic poets in English:

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever:
Its loveliness increases; it will never

Pass into nothingness; but still will keep

A bower quiet for us, and a sleep
Full of dreams, and health, and quiet breathing.

Therefore, on every morrow, are we wreathing

A flowery band to bind us to the earth

Spite of despondence, of the inhuman dearth

Of noble natures, of the gloomy days, . . ."

Enough of that recitation, which I had to memorize in sophomore English at St. Benedict's Prep, where the Benedictine priest led us through the heartbeats of the English older and younger romantic poets — Wordsworth, Southby, Coleridge, through Byron, Shelley and, the warmest of them, Keats.

Adrea Cohen will lead a reading of Keats at the Belleville Library Oct. 16. I shall try to be there, for one must outwait the decades to hear Keats' poetry recited or, heavens, discussed.

Two Fannys were loves of Keats, one love of his sister, sainted, and that of Fanny Brawne, immortalized. Their loss upon his death has resounded through the decades since he expired in Rome, Feb. 22, 1821. Of Keats, Shelley wrote his most beautiful poem, "Adonais." Ironic is Shelley's most masterful work in that Keats was conservative, to use a word, in most social values in contrast to the radicalism in Shelley's social expression.

Keats wrote that mournful line, on the better side of self-indulgence, "Here lies one whose name was writ in water."

Shakespeare wrote no better line. Yet, his name was not written in water, but in passion for Fanny Brawne, for beauty, and for what the divine Dante sought, immaculata amore.

In our sophomore English class one day, a visiting friar, an international authority on English poetry, read to us boys, and he read the entire "Eve of St. Agnes." Today, alas, visitors to schools speak about drug abuse and, sickeningly, condoms. Oh, if our young people today could understand, and then sense the body and the soul of such, as:

"Love! thou art leading me from wintry cold,

Lady! thou leadest me to summer clime,

And I must take the blossoms that unfold

In its ripe warmth this gracious morning time.

So said, his erewhile timid lips grew bold,

And poessed with hers in dewy rhyme:

Great bliss was with them, and great happiness

Grew, like a lusty flower in June's caress."

Frankly, I know no more sensual — and holy — words describing a kiss, "poessed with hers in dewy rhyme." Is it not sad that young men and young women no longer embrace or kiss so sensuously, so holy?

"Oh, weep for Adonais, for he is dead!"

Much of the go-go problem can be solved

Bel View

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

financial compensation is good and the lady is not used.

I do not like the signs outside the bars, especially in residential neighborhoods and main streets. Other avenues of advertisement, even word-of-mouth, are just as effective. Where women get naked has been on the minds of men since the dawn of time, and big street signs are not needed to spread the word.

The opening of the go-go bar next to a school, church and Knights of Columbus hall is an insult to a large group of people who have the right to shelter their children from that stuff, whether you agree with their view of sexuality or not.

Why this new bar was more of an insult than the go-go bar already in business nearby was a mystery to me. That establishment has been open for years without any complaints.

This newspaper once went after another go-go bar because citizen complaints to the township went unanswered.

The residents of a nearby street did not complain to us about the nature of the establishment as much as the behavior of those patrons and workers who would let the party spill onto the street.

The parents told me that when the bar was a popular gay hangout, before becoming a go-go bar, they had no problems.

The reaction against these establishments is not, I believe, the result of blue-nosed intolerance. Belleville residents have a strong "live and let live" attitude.

The Township Council has made moves to revamp the sign ordinance, and this is one area where the change is needed. Perhaps the entire situation of residents vs. go-go could be solved by a more responsible advertising of the entertainment.

A cap on these establishments has been concocted, to the credit of Township Attorney Bob Giordano.

Should the exterior lures of neon adult buzzwords be restrained, and extra care be shown by the bars to make sure the lust stays inside, much of the problem could be solved.

Most residents and some council members would like to abolish these establishments altogether, and I am with them if that is what the majority wants.

I fear the legal expenses and possible damages Belleville would pay, however, and recent Assembly initiatives, one by Marion Crecco, have bolstered the ability of municipalities to deal with these bars.

When the sign ordinance comes before the council, do not forget the residents who have come before the dais to complain about the problems they have had with adult establishments.

Another consideration is the use of drugs by many of these women, who dance to support habits. I do not like making addicts scapegoats, but the facts are there that these businesses draw drugs.

The Health Department should regularly leave drug and alcohol counseling literature in the dressing rooms of go-go bars. The recovery group phone numbers should be at hand.

Men who go to go-go bars are usually in the mood for special-occasion celebrating. The patron stands a better chance of leaving the bar in no shape to drive.

Belleville police have their hands full doing a spectacular job of keeping crime down. The border of Newark is their main priority.

Go-go establishments should strongly urge patrons to respect the road. One bar I know of has a standing agreement with local taxi companies to drive the incapacitated home for a set yearly fee.

In no way should excess drunks on the road be permitted to divert the uniformed officers from tackling more threatening crime.

Should all of the above suggestions be followed, the irresponsible go-go bars would fold. The others would be less noticeable and not as threatening to neighborhoods.

Coupled with Giordano's new ordinance, the problem could eventually go away.

County reeps green fees while Belleville pays for money cart

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

Essex County gets a neat profit from golf in Belleville. Hendricks Field Golf Course drew $874,000 in revenue last year from golfing fees and the cafeteria. Expenses ran $510,974. Salaries comprised $343,397 of expenses. Total profit for the county after expenses came to $363,026. Parkland owned by the county and the golf course have been a small blessing and big curse to Belleville.

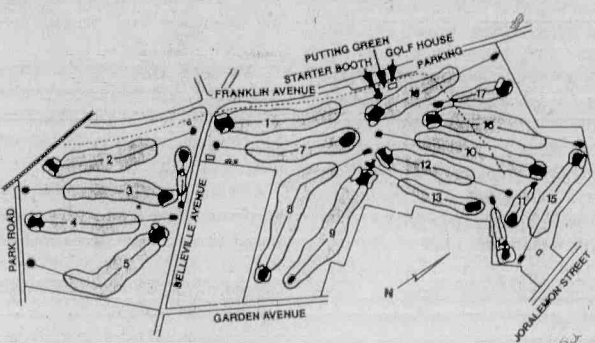

The blessing is the attraction of the golfing facility and parks, a true enticement for many to live in Belleville.

The curse is that Belleville sees one-third of its land paying no property taxes and beyond hope of ever supplying ratables.

Newark, with almost half its property unassessed for tax purposes, and Belleville share a common problem.

Small increases in school district or municipal spending translate into visible increases on tax bills.

Ironically, while Belleville land is used for the golf course, and that land is unassessed, the county government does not return funds to Hendricks Field Golf Course, a county bonanza, a loss to Belleville.

Belleville. One-fifth of Belleville homeowners are older citizens who feel the tax crunch acutely as many live on fixed incomes.

Services must also be provided by township police, fire and ambulance crews without compensation in most cases.

A billing procedure for ambulance service has been created in Belleville that recovers some of that service's expense.

Criticism of the handling of Essex County property in Belleville reached a high when the Garden State Cancer Center negotiated the acquisition of the Geriatrics Hospital.

Residents had hoped that Belleville could recover the land, or that the county could sell the parcel outright and return it to the tax roster.

The Hendricks family owned large portions of land from Mill Street to the Morris Canal.

The family leased land to Newark's Forest Hill Tennis Club for a nine-hole golf course at the close of the last century.

The Hendricks family donated most of the land currently used for golf, and Essex County opened the course in 1929.

Scaperrotta's new political bedfellow, Iacobacci, fails filing campaign report

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

Bloomfield Councilman Gary Iacobacci has failed to file election campaign finance disclosures with NJ Election Law Enforcement.

Iacobacci was fined once before for failure to file the disclosures that are required by law.

Iacobacci's failed bid to upset incumbent Republican Mayor James Norton in the recent primary was an expensive, high-profile campaign that drew support from Assemblywoman Marion Crecco and Belleville's own Joe Scaperrotta.

The 3rd Ward Bloomfield councilman has also made his presence felt in Belleville in recent zoning board hearings as he pushed against approval of United Treatment Centers office.

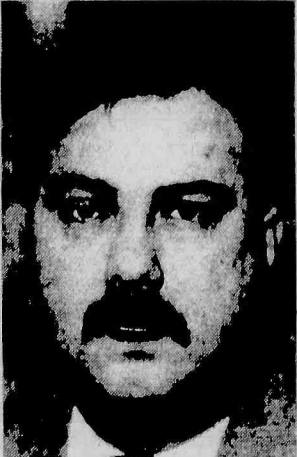

The recent primary campaign by Iacobacci featured trucks, poll workers, mailings, a host of signs, and an office on Broad Street where the window was decorated with a portrait of Iacobacci.

The failure to file required campaign finance disclosures has drawn no comment from Iacobacci, who, like Scaperrotta had been, is a featured weekly columnist in that township's Orechio publication.

No information has been provided to account for contributors to the Iacobacci campaigns, and whether a campaign fund was maintained between elections.

Joseph Scaperrotta

Gary Iacobacci

Such election funds are required to file quarterly reports of contributors and expenses.

Iacobacci has been the pointman in a fight to keep Home Depot from opening a store in the 3rd Ward of Bloomfield.

A recent lawsuit filed by Home Depot against Rickel's Home Centers alleged that a local community group was in actuality financed by Rickel's and run by Rickel's employees or agents.

Recent speculation by Bloomfield's official newspaper The Independent Press, a Worrall Community Newspaper, that Iacobacci's campaign may have received money from the front group drew an angry reply in Iacobacci's column.

Iacobacci has yet to list his campaign's contributors and disbursements, however, leaving voters in the dark as to the financial backing of Iacobacci campaigns as well as the interim two years during which the campaign fund may have existed.

Dataflex promotes former resident Ken Constantino

Kenneth Constantino of Edison, a longtime resident of Belleville, has been promoted to director of sales for Dataflex Corporation, a computer services and network integration company.

Prior to his promotion, Constantino was an account executive for Dataflex at the company's national headquarters in Edison.

In his new position, Constantino will be in charge of the company's southwest region which generates $50 million in revenue for the $400-million company.

"It's going to be a new adventure for sure," Constantino said of his upcoming move to Phoenix. "It's going to be a challenge. It's going to be a business challenge, but it's also going to be a challenge moving away from my family and friends and roots."

As a student at Belleville High School, Constantino played football and baseball. Following his graduation from high school, he attended University of Delaware and was graduated with a bachelor's degree in psychology and criminal justice.

Martini optimistic on medicare reform

Representative Bill Martini has expressed optimism regarding the Medicare Preservation Act of 1995 after a meeting with his Medicare Advisory Panel.

"In principle, it is a solid plan. I am eager to see the conclusions of the Congressional Budget Office and get some real numbers in savings we can discuss," said Rep. Martini. "It fulfills our commitment to today's seniors and the seniors of the future making Medicare solvent well into the next century."

Martini said, "The plan is fair, balanced and innovative. There are no changes in co-payments, deductibles, or the current rate for premiums, and per-beneficiary spending rises from $4800 in 1996 to $6700 in 2002. Medicare beneficiaries will be offered the kinds of choices that the current system simply doesn't allow. In short, we will put more decision making ability in the hands of seniors and take that ability away from the government and the bureaucracies that dominate the system now," said Rep. Martini.

"If a senior wants to remain in the current Medicare system, then he or she can do so at absolutely no penalty. But what this proposal does is open up a wide range of other options in the private sector unavailable to beneficiaries until now: Medisave accounts, coordinated care companies, and provider service networks that will provide more services in a better way to its enrollees. At the same time, the bill is very tough on fraud and abuse and contains provisions guaranteeing the solvency of the program" said Martini.

"Compare these proposals with the alternatives being offered by this bill's opponents. There are none. The Medicare Preservation Act is the only written proposal that will save a system that so many have come to rely on," said Martini.

"The bill is by no means in its final form; as has been the case throughout the entire process, input from our constituents will be valued and considered before we pass such a major piece of legislation. Just this weekend I convened a town meeting to discuss the plan with concerned constituents. The purpose of this Medicare Advisory Panel is to receive very substantive input from individuals with vast experience with the Medicare program. Outreach is such an important part of being a leader: one needs to listen, learn, help, and then go out and lead. That is what this process has been all about," said Martini.

Rep Martini's Medicare Advisory Panel, MAP, is a board of concerned constituents made up of seniors, medical professionals, and hospital officials. The MAP has met four times since April, providing Martini with a sense of the most essential issues in Medicare affecting residents of Bloomfield, Belleville, Glen Ridge and Nutley.

Bloomfield Art League's Alice Casella attains art critics' nod

Alec Moore
Staff Writer

Alice Casella, president of Bloomfield Art League, has attained recognition and prominence for her critically acclaimed work as an artist.

Casella's watercolor paintings have garnered her numerous awards and honors, with Bloomfield Art League's Artist of the Year Award in 1991, for which she was presented with her exhibition. "That publicity gave me five exhibitions of my own" she said.

In addition to Bloomfield Art League, Glen Ridge Women's Club, Montclair Women's Club, Nutley Public Library and Verona Public Library sponsored exhibitions of Casella's work.

Her most prized honor, she says, has been her acceptance to the prestigious New Jersey Watercolor Association, an honor which marked a turning point in her career, establishing her as a reputable artist.

"It was the opportunity of a lifetime," Casella said of her acceptance to the association. "When an organization of their caliber accepts a work it validates what you're trying to say. I got more recognition from that than from selling my work to corporations."

Casella, who describes her work as "a loose realistic style," has limitless inspiration for her work. Whether she is painting florals, still life, or landscapes her passion for her work transcends words.

She has painted in such locales as Maine, California, Hawaii, Prince Edward's Island in Canada. She completed one of her award winning paintings while on an airplane.

"There are so many things to paint," she said, "no matter where you go there's always something different."

A lifelong resident of Bloomfield,

Casella's interest in art developed as a student at Bloomfield High School where she was inspired by art teacher Dorothea Fischer, of teaching fame at BHS.

Casella was graduated from Glassboro State College with a degree in special education with a minor in art. She became a teacher of mentally and physically handicapped children.

Casella used art as a means of communicating with the children. "It was a great tool to use with them," she said, "we used art to communicate with each other."

As a full time teacher, Casella did not have adequate time to devote to her painting. During her time off from work following the birth of her daughter, however, she found time to re-dedicate herself to her painting. It was during this time that she became affiliated with Bloomfield Art League, of which she would become president in 1991.

Casella studied under the league's teachers and her work was displayed in the league's amateur exhibitions. Her outstanding showings as an amateur would help lead to her career as a professional artist.

Bloomfield Art League, established in 1930, is one of the oldest art organizations in New Jersey. It takes pride in promoting and stimulating interest in fine art in Bloomfield. "We're a learning organization for anyone who wants to learn about fine art," Casella said.

The art league is sponsored by Bloomfield Recreation Commission which donates the Civic Center to the art league for classes and meetings. "People need encouragement," Casella said, "a lot of art organizations are very cut-throat but Bloomfield Art League is very nurturing." She continued "It's a place where people can show their work without criticism."

Casella is the wife of Carl Casella, who serves as art league treasurer. Their daughter Corinne, 13, has won awards for her work in the art league's children's exhibitions.

For more information on Bloomfield Art League, phone 743-9074.

Poetry society reading Keats

The Poetry Society, newly organized at Belleville Public Library and Information Center, 221 Washington Ave, will devote its Oct. 16 program at 1 p.m., at the library, to "A Celebration of 100 years of the poetry of John Keats."

Also in honor of Arts and Humanities Month in October, Ann Kelley of Belleville will also read her original poems at this session.

Phone 450-3434 to register for this program, presented by the literature department of the Women's Club of Belleville.

Co-chair with Library Director, Adrea Cohen, is Helen Talbot of Belleville.

Lupus Foundation 'walkraiser'

A 5-K walk-along for the benefit of Lupus Foundation of New Jersey is planned for Sunday, Oct. 22. Walkers will depart from Saddle River Park, Otto C. Pehle Area, and Ocean County Park, Rt. 88 in Lakewood.

Walkers can register by phoning 791-7868 or 800-322-5816.

Midwifery option for expectant moms

Expectant mothers and those planning to be parents have an opportunity to explore their birthing options this week, National Nurse Midwifery Week.

The Birth Center at The Beth, Inc., is a non-profit, free-standing birth center accredited by National Association of Childbearing Centers. Staffed by CRMs, certified nurse midwives, the center is founded on the philosophy that birth is a natural part of life.

During Nurse-Midwifery Week, The Birth Center at The Beth, Inc. will hold an open house tonight at 7 p.m.

More than 4,000 certified nurse-midwives in United States are offering special education programs to acquaint women with their professional skills as primary providers of quality health care.

Attendees will receive an introduction to midwifery, orientation and a guided tour of The Birth Center from the center's CRMs and staff.

Certified nurse midwives are registered nurses who have completed an accredited graduate-level nurse-midwifery education program, mostly in schools of medicine, nursing and public health.

Midwives attend to women during labor and delivery, provide prenatal and postpartum care, well-women gynecologic, family planning and normal newborn care.

"The midwifery philosophy is to teach expectant mothers to be self-reliant, to trust their own bodies to deliver healthy babies naturally," said Diane Moore, C.N.M., Ph.D.

"CNMs specialize in prenatal care and have made significant contributions in reducing infant mortality and raising birth weights to curb the tragedy and expense of premature births."

For information on open house at The Birth Center at The Beth, Inc., 201 Lyons Ave., Newark, phone 800-94-BIRTH.

Clara Maass expands cardiac services

The cardiology department at Clara Maass Medical Center has been growing and expanding its diagnostic services to the community over the years. The most recent addition to Clara Maass' cardiac services is transesophageal echocardiography.

Transesophageal echocardiography, commonly referred to as TEE, is a procedure used to provide echographic visualization of the heart and aorta. The views are obtained from the esophagus via a transducer mounted on a flexible probe. The sophisticated omni-plane probe is attached to a state-of-the-art echocardiography unit. This equipment has 360-degree capability and allows maximum visibility of the heart and aorta.

The procedure begins after the patient's pharynx is sprayed with a 10 percent Lidocaine spray and is given a mild sedation. This multi-disciplinary procedure requires a registered nurse to continually monitor the patient pulse and vital signs. The registered nurse also communicates with the patient during the procedure and administers intravenous medications as ordered by the cardiologist.

The cardiologist then advances the probe and positions it to capture the appropriate data for a thorough study. An echo-technician manages the equipment and records the images under the cardiologist's direction. The entire procedure lasts under 20 minutes and has virtually no complications.

The procedure can be performed bedside in the critical care units or in the Clara Maass Echocardiography Laboratory. To make an appointment, or to find out more about TEE at Clara Maass Medical Center, phone 450-2087.

Gifted students earn recognition

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

There's more to being a "gifted and talented" student than just being smart. Too often children who merit placement in this category receive negative labels and are rejected, not embraced for their special attributes.

Removing primary school children from the classroom because they excel in academics can be constructive, but it can also be destructive. Signaling students out for their intelligence may result in isolation from peers. Accepting this reality, school systems have ceased the road of young scholars and artists by promoting assimilation within the classroom.

Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and Glen Ridge have numerous pupils who possess impressive academic skills and remarkable artistic skills. They share their wisdom and vision with classmates and instructors — what do these school systems offer in return?

Bloomfield
Gina Rosamilia, supervisor of education for K through 8, is positive about the advances being made in gifted and talented programs. "The philosophy of gifted and talented children is not where they are taught, but the quality of instruction."

During lunch students identified as gifted and talented are invited to explore curriculum dealing with archaeology, law and additional subjects.

In kindergarten and first grade programs are developed and utilized by classroom teachers, and are less formal. "Everything is designed to meet the needs of the student," Rosamilia said.

Grades two through six are taught in the classroom. The extent of instruction depends on the grade level and individual. Teaching a pupil how to use deductive reasoning would be an example of a lesson.

For seventh and eighth graders, honors courses are offered as well as courses in computers, the stock market, aerodynamics, saving the environment and more. "These are cycle courses," Rosamilia pointed out. "Some last 10 weeks, while others are 12 weeks."

Rozati is an SAT preparation course for students at this level.

Teachers in the district were invited to attend a workshop at the University of Connecticut. "It was exhilarating," Rosamilia said. "We worked with Joe Renzulli who discussed a school wide enrichment model. The model has three parts and these make up the 'enrichment cluster.'"

Rosamilia continued. "The first part is exploratory activity and this helps students with new material. The second is group training. And the third is individual and small group investigation which teaches children about research skills and creativity."

"Any program should emphasize societal and emotional skills as well as academic participation," Rosamilia noted. "Children need to be taught interpersonal relations and self-esteem."

Heather Carr, Marsha Napolitano and Laurie Cafone are gifted and talented teachers at the primary levels. Their goal is to promote lifelong learning.

ness — children who not only excel at learning, but also enjoy it.

Drama and music clubs and activities are also recognized and encouraged. "Whatever a child's strength is, we want to nurture it and see that it reaches its potential," said Rosamilia. "I love my work."

Bloomfield High School has advancement placement classes, honors classes and a bevy of other academically challenging courses.

"Brian Miller and the American Computer Science League is something we are proud of here," said Dr. John Szabo, principal. "Brian is a computer teacher, and our computer team took part in the national competition each of the last 10 years. The team has done extremely well."

Whether one's talent is biology or the state, Bloomfield High School has programs to support its students.

Belleville
"We call our students academically talented," said Marilyn Hawthorne, principal of School No. 7 in Belleville.

During kindergarten and first grade teachers provide appropriate instruction.

Third graders attend a Saturday program that meets for 10 weeks during the spring. "We plan to have second graders participating in the Saturday program which concentrates on language, math, computers and writing," Hawthorne said.

Children who pass the screening process in grades four through six, are considered full-time academically talented students. "They have a traditional curriculum in a traditional classroom setting, however they move faster than traditional students," Hawthorne noted. "In some cases text books for a higher grade level are supplied."

After the initial elimination of students, which is based on various test scores and a teacher's recommendation, eligible pupils enter the second phase — matrix.

Matrix for academically talented youngsters is an extensive system that incorporates — Iowa test and numerous other scores, a teacher evaluation, writing samples, study habits and general grades — to decipher which students will be classified as academically talented.

"The process is completed during spring for the following school year," said Gina Crawford, an academically talented teacher. "Many students who begin in the Saturday course come into the full-time program. We have more than 90 students in the full-time program."

"Students are honored to participate in academically talented curriculum," Hawthorne said. "Parents are also supportive."

Photography, drama, art and other creative projects are offered to students in School No. 3 in Belleville.

"I want to point out that we center on more than academics," Crawford said. "We have goals for the community. Last year we gave money after the Oklahoma City bombing. Attention is also paid to giving presentations and demonstrations in front of audiences and doing research on specific topics of study, culminating in an independent study project in sixth grade."

Problem solving competitions, academic bowls and performing on a musical instrument are also features of the AT program.

Students who have the opportunity to study in this program on a daily basis are "happy, motivated" students who enjoy giving their "all" for the treasure of a well-rounded education.

High school students are not classified as gifted or talented, but there is an array of courses designed to cultivate those who possess an above average academic intelligence or talent in the arts.

Nutley
"In grades K through 4 the teachers identify gifted children within the classroom," said Barbara Hirsch, director of special services. "The instructors then develop curriculum for gifted and talented pupils."

During fifth and sixth grades, teachers highlight advanced level thinking skills.

A Saturday program is also available to students. "There is no grading or homework in the Saturday course. We carry over what is taught during the classroom situation," Hirsch noted.

200 students participate in the Saturday program.

"We let students progress at their own rate. We are concerned with academic growth, but also with social and emotional growth," Hirsch said.

Nutley plans to evaluate the innovative trends available to gifted and talented students and adopt those that will best serve the youth.

Extensive opportunities in computers and arts are present throughout the school system.

"Any display of talent — whatever the gift may be — is supported," Hirsch added.

High schoolers can take advantage of AP classes, honors courses, art and music programs, and much more.

Glen Ridge
Cathy Cleenput beams with pride when discussing gifted and talented youngsters.

"We have something called 'future problem solving' and the students who participated in this finished first in the state last year and second in the international competition."

Cleenput continued. "The problem we addressed was child abuse and our children did wonderfully. It was a great experience. Children from around the world attended."

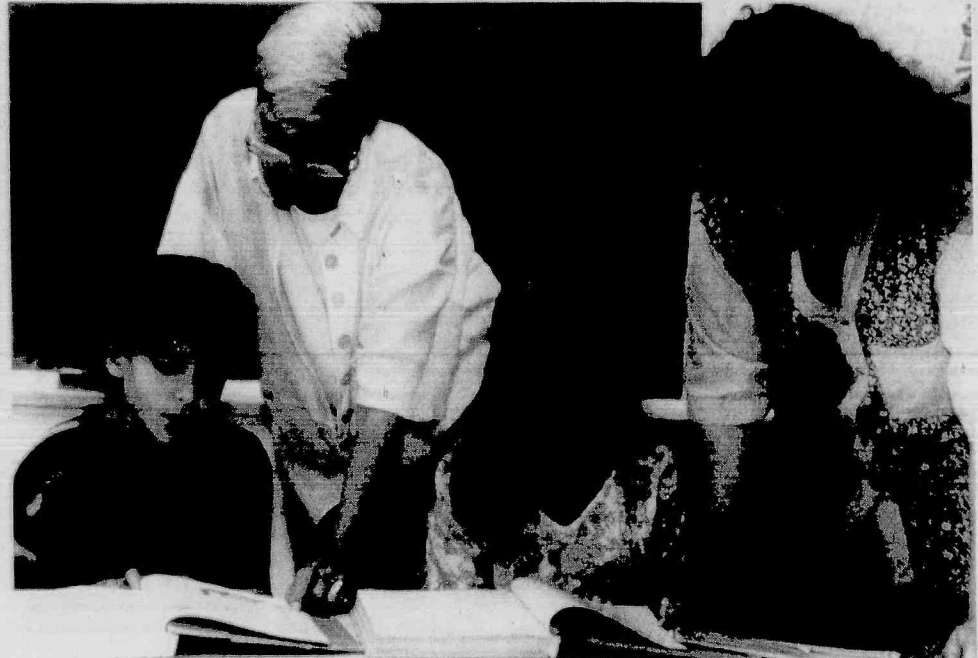

Gifted and talented children are identified in the third grade in Glen Ridge.

Being a part of the Essex County Steering Committee, which is an organization that meets with teachers in the district and designs different curriculums for different students, has been invaluable. "It is a fabulous committee," Cleenput said.

Grades four through seven experience a wide range of subjects. Astronomy, the judicial system and computers merely scratch the surface of what is offered.

Harrison family speeds to the front in drag racing competiton

By George W. Sulemman
Staff Writer

Dedication.

To the Harrison family, anything can be accomplished with dedication. Father, Russell "Hap" Sr., owner of Cluen's Auto Body on Broad Street, Russell Jr. and daughter Barbara Ann have learned where dedication can take a person.

"Down a quarter-mile in eight seconds," said Harrison Sr.

Literally.

For more than seven years, the Harrison trio have been among the most successful drag-racing competitors in the state.

All three family members have individually built and campaigned their own cars.

"We each do our own thing," Barbara said. "We all have separate cars, separate trucks, separate trailers, so that if we want to go to another race track, it isn't a problem."

Despite the family's individuality, Harrison credited her brother and father for her success.

"They've been a tremendous help to me," she said. "They've taught me everything I know."

Hap is a firm believer in the "healing-effect" drag-racing has on young people's bad driving habits.

"Kids don't know how easy it is to get on the race track," Hap said. "There's no need for kids to race around the streets... it's way too dangerous. The drag-strips give kids a safe place to compete. You get them hooked on racing. I guarantee they'll start driving better."

New Jersey requires drag-racers to possess a valid driver's license in order to compete.

"Also," said Barbara, "it's not too easy trying to get someone to trailer your car to the track each week. You have to keep your license clean just to get to the track."

After Barbara experienced the legal side-effects of street-racing, her father presented her with a 1987 IROC Camaro, which she began racing. Her first experiences on the track were quite impressive.

"I was hooked," she admitted.

Shortly after, she verified her father's theory.

"My driving straightened out right after that," she said. "I haven't gotten a speeding ticket in a long time."

Harrison's need for speed grew quickly. Shortly after her introduction to the sport, she purchased a 1966 Chevelle and began the arduous and expensive process of making the car faster.

Unfortunately, her job as an insurance underwriter was an hour away from the family's shop, which limited the amount of time she had to work on the car.

Eventually, her situation took its toll on her. A change was inevitable.

Rather than sell the car and pursue her financially rewarding career, she quit her job and took up the auto body trade, working with her father.

Did she regret the change?

"No way," she said.

Since then, she completed the car, and has been happily taking care of the books and painting cars for her father at the Bloomfield location.

Barbara admits that accomplishing the goals she sets for herself isn't easy.

"You have to want to work hard," Barbara Ann said.

When asked to describe the experience of driving a car from a stand still to over 130 mph in 10 seconds, the trio unanimously agreed, "It's a rush!"

"When you get out of the car, there's so much adrenaline going through you, you can't even think," Russell Jr. said.

Being able to properly handle a car at this rate of speed is no easy task, Hap said.

"It takes a long time to get to this point," Hap said. "To do it right, you have to start with slower cars, like the street stocks. Once you get used to them, you can move up to a quicker car."

Also, National Hot Rod Association, NHRA, and International Hot Rod Association, IHRA, the nation's two largest drag-racing organizations, require drivers who drive cars that travel the quarter mile in less than 10 seconds, to pass a series of examinations to assure the driver's ability to handle the car.

In addition to the driving requirements, racers must also pass a Federal Aviation Administration Class Three physical examination annually.

"They want to make sure that you're not going to have a heart-attack at the starting line," Russell Jr. said. "You have to be in good shape to handle the g-forces these cars put on you."

Despite the racing organization's requirements, the Harrisons took driving fast one step further. They attended a racing school in North Carolina.

The Harrisons attribute much of their success to their experience at the school.

"It was a good experience for all of us," Hap said.

"I learned a lot," Barbara said. "Most importantly, we were taught to do the same things over and over again before a race."

By getting in the car the same way, strapping on your helmet the same time each time, all of that becomes almost subconscious, which allows me to focus more on the race itself."

Going faster is an experience that takes some getting used to, the Harrisons said.

"When you go up to 150 - 160 mph from 130, everything's a blur," Barbara said. "But it's like anything else. Once you make enough passes, you're able to pick out people's faces on the sideline... you can see everything."

"It's like driving in a tunnel," Russ Jr. said. "Everything's a blur. It takes some getting used to."

In 1993, Russell Jr. won the Track Championship title at Island Dragway, Great Meadows. Barbara Ann placed third.

When the announcer asked who is the better racer, himself or his sister, however, Harrison replied, "She is, I was just luckier this year."

Competitive racing, for the most part, dictates how a person lives hid of her life.

"It's definitely a different lifestyle," said Russell Jr.

"You lose a lot of sleep," Barbara said.

On a typical weekend, Harrison would work on her car all day Friday, travel to a track at 5 p.m., race as late as 2 a.m. Go home, sleep, and show up at the next race at 8 p.m. Race until 5 p.m., go home again, and prepare for the race the following morning.

"Racing's definitely a lifestyle in itself," Russ Jr. said.

"You don't have a life outside of racing," Barbara said.

Having a family business makes racing much easier.

"A lot of racers are stuck working 9 to 5, five days a week," Barbara said. "There aren't too many employers who are going to let you take off every Friday for nine months, just to go racing. We need to be more flexible. Here, we can come in earlier, work later... basically work our work around our racing."

Vacation is also a problem for the Harrisons.

"Vacation is what race I can go to that's the furthest," Barbara said.

This November, she is towing her car to a West Palm Beach, Fla. raceway to compete in the championships for her division.

The Harrisons racing success has led them more into the business end of the sport.

Russell Jr. founded Harrison Race Chassis after having an bad experience with one of his cars, which was fabricated by another shop.

"I had problems with my Monte Carlo... after a while, I said, all right, that's it, I'm going to learn how to this myself."

And he did. Harrison learned the trade by trial and error on his family's cars.

"As long as you can figure out basic physics and geometry, you can figure out how to do it," Harrison said.

"None of the other chassis builders are willing to help you out," Harrison said. "Most of them don't even go to the track... once they have your money, they don't want to hear from you."

Harrisons primary purpose as a chassis builder, however, is not to make money. "I like to help people out at the track," Harrison said. "If people have problems with their set up, I try to help them."

The Harrisons have performed auto body work for fellow racers.

"I have been getting into painting race cars," Barbara said. "We've also done some body work on some of the older cars."

The Harrisons own many cars. In addition to Barbara's Chevelle, Russell Jr. owns a bright yellow, 1973 Chevrolet Vega and a 1986 Chevrolet Monte Carlo. Hap drives a beautiful blue 1967 Corvette. The Harrisons still own the first car they built, a 1972 Chevelle.

"It's hard to part with a car where you know everything about it," Russell Jr. said. "Where you've put every fitting and every end together yourself."

"You'll never get back what you put into it," Ann said.

After his championship, Russell Jr. said that he is not serious about racing any more.

"I'm just in it for fun," Russell Jr. said. "After doing what it takes to win, I'm taking it easy. I just want to go faster."

And faster, he is going. Russell Jr.'s Vega, traveled the quarter-mile in 9.6 seconds.

Despite the Harrison's accomplishments, Barbara Ann's need to go faster prompted her to build a dragster, Russell Harrison Jr.s 1967 Corvette at the starting line at Raceway Park, Old Bridge. This beauty is painted blue.

which makes her the fastest racer in the family.

To date, Ann has driven the custom-built, 215-inch monster down the quarter-mile in eight seconds at over 150 mph.

Harrison's father is pleased with his daughter's accomplishment.

"I didn't think that we'd be going this fast," Hap said. "But it sure has been a lot of fun."

Last year, during a race, the driveshaft in Hap's Corvette broke, and instead of getting caught in the car's driveshaft protective loops, it went flying into the air, clearing the grandstands.

"These things happen," Hap said. "You're pushing the car as hard as you can. Something got to give sooner or later."

St. Joseph's helps visually impaired

St. Joseph's School for the Blind, 253 Baldwin Ave., Jersey City, provides Early Intervention Programs, EIP, for children from birth to three years old who are blind or visually impaired.

St. Joseph's is the only EIP in the state of New Jersey that specializes in serving children who are blind or visually impaired.

Early intervention is essential for children with vision-related problems since they access information through different modes and in a different sequence than sighted children.

New Korean Presbyterian Church reaches out to all

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

"I lost my mother during the Korean War, and I began to ask questions about life and death," said Chong An Lee, senior pastor at Korean United Presbyterian Church in Bloomfield. "I majored in philosophy in school but I was unable to find answers, so I entered the seminary. There I found answers."

Korean United Presbyterian is the place Lee chose to share his wisdom. He was ordained in 1981.

The church began its first service in Orange, in 1974. Rev. Nathaniel Kiel served as pastor.

It moved to Montclair in 1977, where it remained until the Newark Presbytery approved the motion to transfer to Bloomfield in 1995.

"We were being hosted by Central Presbyterian Church in Montclair," said Rev. Paul J. Huh, associate pastor. "It became too crowded to have two congregations in one church."

Huh was ordained in 1991 and started at Korean United Presbyterian this September.

"It was an early decision in my life to enter the ministry," he said. "During childhood there was a pastor I admired back in Korea. I admired his life and dedication."

Huh continued. "Did you ever notice when someone tells you they are entering medical school, people ask 'when?' When someone tells you they are entering law school, people ask 'where?' Yet, when someone enters a seminary, people ask 'why?'"

Lee and Huh are originally from Korea and migrated to the states 20 years ago.

Lee attended Korean Presbyterian Seminary in Chicago, and Huh went to Princeton Seminary. Both are married with two children.

"Our wives are active in the church," Huh pointed out.

Lee said 250 Korean adults worship at an average Sunday Mass. About 120 to 150 children participate in Sunday School.

"We have approximately 30 English adults at one of our services on Sunday," Huh said. "We separate the masses because of the different languages. We do have joined services during Christmas, Easter and other holidays."

"Our central message is the Gospel of Jesus Christ," Lee said. "We want to give immigrants the vision to live in this land on the basis of the gospel. We also want to include our American neighbors in our services and purpose."

"It is essential that we emphasize our willingness to outreach to the community," Huh added. "We want to answer any concerns our parishoners may have."

Korean United Presbyterian belongs to the Presbyterian Church USA, whose main headquarters are in Kentucky. The sanctuary is 30 years old. Broughton Presbyterian once occupied the space on Bay Avenue.

Bible studies for every age, adult groups, fellowships and elderly groups are a sample of some of the activities Korean United Presbyterian offers.

Saturday, Oct. 14, will usher in a new tradition at Korean United Presbyterian when church members hold their first annual bazaar. Proceeds will go to nursing homes in Bloomfield. The event begins at 10 a.m. and concludes at 6 p.m.

"We will have toys, potteries, clothes and more," Huh noted. "It is another way for us to extend our open door policy."

Swann in organ concert at St. Philip

Internationally-renowned organist Frederick Swann will perform in concert at St. Philip the Apostle Parish, Clifton, on Wednesday, Oct. 18, 7 p.m.

Swann is the organist and director of music for the Crystal Cathedral, Garden Grove, California, whose Sunday morning services are taped for television and viewed by millions in the United States, Canada and throughout 60 European countries.

In addition, Swann was organist and director of music for Riverside Church in New York, chairman of the Organ Department at Manhattan School of Music, and he served on the faculties of School of Sacred Music at Union Theological Seminary, as well as Teacher's College of Columbia University, New York City.

Swann was recently appointed Professor of Organ at Chapman University, Orange, California.

Acclaimed as an outstanding artist for dedications of new instruments, Frederick Swann has been chosen to inaugurate organs at sold-out concerts for churches throughout the country. Joining Swann will be St. Philip the Apostle Choir, as well as singers from other diocesan choirs. Philip La Gala organist and director of music for St. Philip parish, will direct the ensemble.

This concert celebrates the renovation and enhancement of St. Philip's Peragallo pipe organ. The Peragallo Pipe Organ Company of Paterson is a family business, which started in 1918

Senior Pastor Chong An Lee and Associate Pastor Paul J. Huh.

This official state list reveals not only the total state aid given by New Jersey to Essex County school districts but also the relationship of the financing to the school district's tax base or net valuation and how much of the school district's budget is dependent upon local property taxes. The aid, so-called, is nothing more than the state government distribution or redistribution of the state personal income tax revenues. Note, for example, the state foundation aid, going to Newark, East Orange, Irvington, Orange, Essex County Vocational School, and most recently to Belleville. Note how little total state aid goes to Glen Ridge, for example, even though residents there pay extremely high state personal income taxes per capita. Compare Bloomfield's and Nutley's state aid to that of the so-called "needs" community — and one shudders to think of that time, but 40 years ago, when East Orange, Orange and Irvington were prized suburban communities! The equalized tax rate in Glen Ridge, Nutley, Bloomfield and even Belleville is above the state average. No one, it seems, understands the state's formula with reference to equalized tax rate. Whatever its factors, however, Glen Ridge, Bloomfield, Nutley and Belleville are arbitrarily penalized by the state formula.

This list does not reflect federal money pumped into Newark and the inner-suburbs, hence equally distressing in that it appears more good tax money is being pumped into bad school districts.

The running man

Marrero enjoys success with college grid squad

Frank Marrero of Belleville, a freshman on the Muhlenberg College football team, has already proven to be a fine collegiate player.

Marrero, a defensive tackle, recorded his first two career sacks in Muhlenberg's 38-10 loss to Franklin & Marshall on Sept. 23. His sack on a fourth down play stopped a Franklin & Marshall drive.

The loss to Franklin & Marshall left Muhlenberg with an 0-3 record. However, the Mules have mostly underclassmen on the squad, including Marrero and freshman fullback Mike Martino of Bloomfield.

As a senior at Belleville High School, Marrero enjoyed an outstanding campaign under head coach John Semecsky. He was a first team selection on the 1994 Wornall Community Newspapers All-Area Football Team.

Recreation wrestling

Applications for recreation wrestling are now available at the Belleville Recreation Department at 407 Joralemon St. between 8:30-12 p.m. and 12:30-4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Belleville Recreation Wrestling Program introduces boys ages 6-14 to the fundamentals of the sport. Basic techniques, moves and strategy are taught to beginners as well as to the more advanced wrestlers. In competition, boys are matched up against opponents of the same weight class.

Rec wrestling will be conducted on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:15-8:15 p.m. in the Belleville High School cafeteria beginning Nov. 6. Tentatively, ages 6-9 will be given basic instructions from 6:15-7:15, while 10-14 year olds are prepared for league competition between 6:15-8:15 p.m.

Boys can register for the activity by completing an application at the recreation office before participating. Birth certificates are required for all first-time applicants, who must be Belleville residents and not past the eighth grade.

For more information call 450-3422.

Pirate stars coming home

This year, three of the top players in Major League Baseball were former Seton Hall University standouts: Mo Vaughn, John Valentin and Craig Biggio. Vaughn and Valentin sparkled for the Red Sox, the champions of the AL Eastern Division, while Biggio, the starting second baseman for the NL in the All-Star Game, did a fine job for the Astros.

On Oct. 22, all three former Pirates are expected to be at the annual SHO Oldtimers Day at Owen T. Carroll Field in South Orange. The day is always a very enjoyable one for Pirate fans, because so many ex-SHU stars turn out.

As an added bonus this year, local fans might get a glimpse at a couple of future Pirate stars in Seton Hall Prep pitcher John Probst and Seton Hall Prep second baseman John Bravette. Both Probst and Bravette, who helped lead SHP to the 1995 Puncial A children in grades three through eight. Applications are now available at the recreation office.

In preparation for the league, basketball clinics will be conducted at the Middle School Boys' Gym. Clinics will be held Nov. 13 and Nov. 14 as follows: Grades 3-4 from 6-7 p.m.; Grades 5-6 from 7-8 p.m.; and Grades 7-8 from 8-9 p.m. Boys and girls shall attend these clinics together. "Performance Clinics" for player assignment will be held Nov. 20 for girls and Nov. 21 for boys.

Interested players should pick up application forms at the Recreation House, 407 Joralemon St., and return them with birth certificates before participating. The registration deadline for the basketball leagues is Nov. 17.

The rec office on Joralemon Street is open for registration Wednesday nights from 6-8 p.m.

Photo nights

The Belleville Recreation Department office on Joralemon Street will be open on Wednesday nights from 6-8 p.m. for photo I.D.'s through Nov. 22.

Photo I.D.'s are required for all adults and children participating in the Open Basketball and Open Volleyball programs in the schools and at the Friendly House. A $2 fee and proof of residency is required when applying for I.D. cards.

Belleville residents will only be admitted into the gyms with their recreation I.D. cards. People with 1994 cards must renew for 1995-96.

Coaches needed

The Belleville Recreation Department is presently seeking adults to volunteer as coaches in its Junior Basketball Leagues for boys and girls. Games are played on weeknights and Saturdays. If interested, call the rec office at 450-3422.

Raiders breathing easier following shutout victory

By Matt Franklin
Sports Editor

This time, the Nutley High School football team didn't run into any speed demons.

A week after facing the swift Hackensack Comets and All-State running back Joe Dawkins, Nutley received a breather when it faced Paramus in the second game of the season. The Raiders, behind a solid defensive effort, downed the Spartans, 28-0, Saturday in Paramus.

The victory evened Nutley's record at 1-1 on the young campaign and left head coach Rich SanFillippo with 99 career victories. The shutout was the first for a Raider squad since 1992, when Nutley defeated Don Bosco Prep, 41-0.

"I watched the films, and I didn't think Paramus would present many offensive problems," said SanFillippo, who has a career mark of 99-49-5 in coaching stints at Glen Ridge, Verona and Nutley. "They're getting used to a new coaching staff and new system."

The Spartans proved to have a sparse offensive attack, one not rivaling Hackensack's of the week before. That was good news for the Raider defense, which saw the speedy Dawkins run for three touchdowns in Hackensack's opening day 24-7 victory.

The Raider defensive line, in particular, drew praise from SanFillippo. Nutley has some of the smallest linemen in the NNJL-Pacific Division, with players like senior guards Mike Catanzarite (5-foot-9, 180 pounds) and Joe Graziano (5-9, 205). However, those players compensated for their lack of size with determination and toughness.

"We don't beat teams on the line because we're so small," said SanFillippo. "But we have some tough kids."

The Raider offense, meanwhile, put up the kinds of numbers Nutley fans are used to. Against Hackensack the previous week, Nutley moved the ball well but couldn't get the job done inside the 20-yard line.

The game against Paramus (0-2) proved to be different. The Raiders struck for three touchdowns in the second quarter to take control and added another TD in the third for good measure. Senior tailback Robert Carey led the way with three scoring runs, on runs of one, five and eight yards, and finished with 101 yards rushing on 21 carries.

Meanwhile, senior quarterback Craig McCann had his second straight fine game, completing 8-of-14 passes for 127 yards. He connected for a 21-yard touchdown pass to senior receiver Sean Nicol in the second quarter for his second TD pass of the young season.

"We had good balance on offense," said SanFillippo. "We spread it around."

Mike Catanzarite
senior guard

We threw underneath before we went downfield."

SanFillippo said the Raider offensive line, led by Catanzarite, Joe DelMaestro and Carlos Cline, neutralized a Paramus defense which had nearly shut out Paterson Kennedy the week before. That enabled the Nutley offense to gain the kind of rhythm it couldn't attain against speedy Hackensack.

The victory left Raider fans with renewed hopes of reaching the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 playoffs. A loss could have severely damaged any hopes Nutley had of reaching the states.

However, the contests don't get any easier for the Raiders. Tomorrow night Nutley must travel to Ramsey to face Don Bosco Prep at 7 p.m. in another difficult NNJL-Pacific Division contest. SanFillippo, for one, isn't looking forward to it, even though he could earn coaching victory No. 100 with a Nutley victory.

"I'm not happy with it," he said. "I don't know the last time we beat them in Don Bosco. That's a tough place to play."

EXTRA POINTS — Nutley kicker Frank Cozzolino was perfect in four extra-point attempts against Paramus. The senior has been good on all five PAT attempts this season...

Don Bosco Prep comes into tomorrow night's contest off a thrilling 33-32 victory against Paramus Catholic. Don Bosco scored twice in the closing minutes against the Paladins and won on a two-point conversion with four seconds left...

Even though Paramus didn't have the offensive power of Hackensack, SanFillippo said he left no stone unturned during practice the week before.

"We worked on tackling during the week," he said. "We did a couple of things with the alignment. The kids were focused and went after them."

Runners share accolade

By Rick Bliwise
Assistant Sports Editor

In any sport, the real key to having a successful team is the ability to play tough on defense. If a team doesn't play well on defense, it can't really expect to be a consistent winner.

But still, fans love to see the "home run" because an exciting offense is what fills the seats. The 49ers won the Super Bowl in 1995 because of guys on defense like Deion Sanders and Ken Norton Jr., but still, the fans who come out to watch San Francisco want to see the big offensive play from guys like Steve Young and Jerry Rice.

This year in the local high school ranks, two kids in particular, Ray DeCarlo of West Orange and Ahmad Vincent of Irvington, have stood out on offense. And because of spectacular efforts from those guys, it's not very surprising that West Orange and Irvington are off to such great starts. Both the Mountaineers and Blue Knights chalked up very impressive 3-0 marks in the month of September.

DeCarlo, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound senior, has scored two touchdowns in every one of West Orange's games so far this fall to give him an area-leading six on the campaign. The Mountaineer star has picked up 218 yards on just 27 attempts and come up with five receptions good for 74 yards. And all Vincent, a tough 5-11, 185-pound senior, has done, is pick up 488 yards while scoring three TDs. Vincent, who came close to the 1,000-yard mark as a junior, got off to a blazing start this fall when he rambled for 284 yards in Irvington's 49-0 opening day victory over Kearny.

DeCarlo, a kid who also excels in the classroom, and Vincent are the clear-cut choices for The Worrall Community Newspapers Athlete of the Month for September. Last week, DeCarlo helped the Mountaineers upset traditional state powerhouse Wayne Valley by picking up 78 yards in only seven carries, while Vincent was one of the keys as the Blue Knights stunned Union, a team that has always been like the Notre Dame of high school football in the Garden State.

"I can't say enough about what Ray has meant to our team so far this season," said veteran WOHS mentor Mike Pizzi. "He can do so many things on the field to help the team be successful. As a runner he can go through people or around them, but I think the thing which really impresses me is his great decision-making abilities on the field. He always knows what to do in a given situation."

DeCarlo, who also contributes in the WOHS secondary (he has 15 tackles already), had his most spectacular run of the campaign in Saturday's clutch 26-21 triumph over Wayne Valley. In the third quarter, the youngster, who scored 1,360 on his college boards, stunned Wayne Valley when he reached payday on a brilliant 35-yard sweep play.

Vincent, who had a superb effort against Westfield last fall when he rushed for 176 yards and scored two TDs to help Irvington roll to a 40-20 decision, has impressed new IHS coach Gil Bragg for a variety of reasons. But one of the things which really has impressed Bragg is that Vincent has "an uncanny ability" to follow his lead blockers.

Also considered for Athlete of the Month honors in September were Grant, Columbia grid star Ryan James, East Orange soccer player Nyema Wisner, Nutley girls' tennis player Kathleen Pete, and Seton Hall University soccer player Mike Magarinos, a youngster who hails from Belleville.

Nutley High soccer team seeking further progress

By Matt Franklin
Sports Editor

For the last few years, the Nutley High School boys' soccer team has taken a back seat to neighboring Belleville. The Buccaneers have consistently fielded one of Essex County's finest teams, while the Raiders have been somewhat mediocre.

This season, however, could be the start of something different for Nutley. While Belleville once again has a strong team, Nutley already has the upper hand on its neighbor by virtue of an early season victory. The Raiders also have a nice mix of experienced seniors and promising underclassmen, meaning Nutley soccer could be a force to be reckoned with in years to come.

The Raiders had a strong 4-2 record heading into this week's play, having lost to only St. Joseph and Don Bosco Prep. However, second year head coach Dan Cicchino, while pleased with the early results, said Nutley still has room for improvement.

"We're a young, enthusiastic group that hasn't clicked," said Cicchino. "If we just clicked, we'd be even better."

Cicchino said a lack of communication between the players — both on and off the field — has been his main concern. However, that hasn't prevented the Raiders from clicking in the win column so far.

The Raiders got off on the right foot in the first game of the season, when they downed Belleville, 1-0. The winning goal came with just 43 seconds left, when senior midfielder Nick Cascarano booted home the winner. The victory was the first for Nutley over Belleville since 1991 and helped get the Raider ball rolling in the right direction.

"It was a while since we had beaten them," said Cicchino. "The other wins have been good, but that was a nice one."

Cascarano is one of four experienced seniors who hold major keys to Nutley's success. The other seniors include fullbacks Pete Berardi and Joseph Kula, as well as Vinny Abbatiello.

Abbatiello plays what Cicchino calls a "fluid" position, meaning he flows freely on both sides of the field. That has helped the senior distribute the ball well, as evidenced by his two assists in a 3-1 win over Bloomfield.

"He's fast and he has experience," said Cicchino. "His nickname is 'Gazelle.' He can move."

The Raiders have some other good seniors on the squad, including forward Josman Villada and midfielder Gianluca Bianchino. Villada took last year off but returned this season and came up with three goals in a 4-2 win over Paramus Catholic.

But while the seniors play key roles, a strong sophomore class is also contributing. Nutley has nine sophomores on the roster, each of whom has the ability to start.

The leading sophomore has been midfielder Steve Azzato, who had a big game with a goal and two assists in a 3-0 win over Paramus. Azzato's older brother, Mike, is a key player for the Nutley football team.

"I'm glad we took him on board," said Cicchino. "He's really coming along. He's directing traffic very well."

Three other sophomore midfielders — Dean Berardi, Adam LaReau and Dennis Costa — are also important members. Berardi is the younger brother of senior fullback Pete Berardi, while LaReau played last year as a freshman and scored a few goals. Costa, meanwhile, has started quickly and had one goal and one assist in the victory over Bloomfield.

The defense is anchored by Pete Berardi, Kula and junior sweeper Rich Mikolitch. The goalkeeper this season is junior Jeff Lahm, who has looked sharp in his first year starting on the varsity. Lahm played with the Union Lancers club team which traveled to Italy over the summer and has shown steady improvement, according to Cicchino.

"He's really matured," said Cicchino. "He's probably our most enthusiastic player."

The Raiders are well on their way to surpassing last year's victory total of six, and Cicchino said he'd like to double that number to 12. He also said Nutley would like to qualify for the state tournament, which is well within reach at this point.

Cicchino further said that Nutley would like to develop more offensive power. The Raiders haven't had that attacking power in the past, but this season could be the start of something different.

"With the formation that we have we can be an attacking team, but Nutley has always lacked strikers," Cicchino said. "But we're developing some. It's all about putting a little round ball in a big rectangular box."

CORNER KICKS — The other members of the squad include senior Eric Geib, juniors Mark Priolo, junior Dan Miesieski, and sophomores Anthony Hadjipetros, Jay Cofone, Jim Kula, Chris Paserchia and Rocco Santini...

Nutley will play West Orange this Monday night in the first Friendship Cup. The game, which the two schools hope to make an annual affair, will be played at Owens Park at 7 p.m. Cicchino organized the contest along with West Orange head coach Fred Sisbarro, a resident of Nutley...

The Raiders have another big game Tuesday, when they travel to Belleville for a 4 p.m. start...

Belleville teacher learns, now will teach about China

By Barbara Spillane

As a seventh grade social studies teacher and a Belleville Education Association representative, I was among 16 teachers from the United States selected for a Fulbright-Hays Fellowship Seminars Abroad program to China this summer.

The fellowship is designed to help educators learn about Chinese society both the traditional and contemporary. From June 26 to July 22, the other educators and I attended seminars and briefings; and visited schools, cultural sites, small factories and rural areas in China. The cities on the tour were Beijing, Xian, Chengdu, Shanghai and Hong Kong.

The program was centrally administered in China by the State Education Commission, SEDC. SEDC is responsible for formulating laws, policies and overall planning of the country's vast school system. The local governments conduct the daily activities of the schools within their districts. The seminar program was handled by Beijing Normal University, founded in 1905 primarily to train teachers.

China is a country of 1.2 billion people boasting the largest population in the world. More than 80 percent of the population live in rural areas. Today it is a rapidly developing Third World nation existing under a Communist government. There are nearly one million schools at different levels with nearly 200 million students enrolled.

Basic education in China includes preschool, for ages three to six years; primary school for six years; and middle school, which is divided between a junior division for three years and a senior division for three years. Students attend school five days a week for two terms running from September to January and February to June.

Compulsory education is through junior high school or nine years. The Chinese government places great emphasis on compulsory education in rural and poor areas as well as for young girls. Traditionally girls have often only attended primary or elementary school and thus have been unprepared for today's society.

In autumn 1995, the SEDC began to implement curriculum at all levels. The plan called for standardized lesson plans and outlines for all courses which were then to be administered at the local level.

Students are required to take an examination for each term, and in order to advance to the next level of schooling. Upon completion of the senior division of middle school, students take a competitive, uniform university entrance examination. The required subjects for the examination are Chinese, foreign language, history, geography, and political science. Those students who will major in science must also take an examination in that subject. This stressful examination took place during the seminar.

The China Daily, a state-run English newspaper, reported that 26,700 students in Beijing sat for the examination hoping for the 20,600 available university positions. Approximately 10 in 13 would be successful. In 1993, there were 1,065 institutions of higher learning. One hundred of these are designated as key universities. An interesting school was the Shanghai Sports School for grades four through senior high school. At this school gifted athletes in many sports attend to academics for half a day and the remainder of the time receive training in a specific sport. Many famous athletes have graduated this school.

The teachers I met were enthusiastic and highly motivated to have their students succeed. Even though they had a class size of 40, discipline problems are at a minimum. Many teachers we met spoke English, which is taught to Chinese students from grade seven. They were eager to share ideas with their American colleagues. I presented the teachers with gifts from the Belleville schools as well as from the NEA including teeshirts, newsletters, pens and pencils. One neighborhood government official called teachers, "The engineers of the soul" in her welcome address. She stated that teachers are well respected in China.

Our delegation was fortunate to have traveling with us Huang Biao, a division chief with the SEDC. He related some of the problems China experienced in education. Biao suggested that the greatest problem was educating large numbers of students with often limited funds available to do so. Also he cited the inequality of education received many times between the rural and urban areas, with the rural areas often being shortchanged. Another problem in the quality and quantity of qualified teachers. A primary level teacher may teach with only the equivalent of two years of college.

A program was observed at the Shanghai Middle School's International Division. World Teach is an international program administered by Harvard University. The group observed American students teaching English to not only Chinese students as well. In return for teaching, the Americans can take classes in Chinese and get to tour China upon completion of the summer program. During the regular school term, this division has anywhere from 25 to 100 students of foreign diplomats and businessmen's children attending the school. The annual tuition is about $15,000 for this elite boarding school.

As a result of this fellowship, I am incorporating Chinese studies into the Belleville Middle School curriculum and activities. I took plenty of photos and brought back many artifacts which I can show and display to my students. I plan to celebrate Geography Awareness Week, Nov. 12 to Nov. 18, by focusing on China in school-wide activities. In addition, I will present a community program at Belleville Public Library and Media Center on Oct. 26 and will conduct a workshop for the N.J. Council of Social Studies on Oct. 27 for teachers from New Jersey.

I consider myself to be very fortunate. This is my third fellowship to study Asian cultures, previously having visited Japan and Korea. Each country is unique and has given me a new perspective on my teaching. The experiences have greatly enriched my life and the lives of my students whom I teach. Barbara Spillane is a middle school teacher in the Belleville school system.

Italian language classes

The Center for Italian and Italian-American Culture, Inc., is sponsoring Italian language classes for children from 7 to 12 years of age. The classes will begin Saturday, Oct. 14, at Holy Angels School in Little Falls, 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. There will be 15 one-hour Saturday morning sessions and class size will be limited. Pre-registration is required and the cost for the lessons is $75.

For information and registration forms, phone the Center at 812-0433. The Center is a non-profit organization with offices in Cedar Grove and a membership which seeks to perpetuate and preserve the Italian culture and heritage.

Conversation and coffee Tuesday

The Center for Italian and Italian-American Culture, Inc., is again sponsoring evenings of Conversazione e caffè at Cafe Michela, Bloomfield Ave., Montclair.

The first evening is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $5 for Center members and students, $6.50 for others.

The evening is designed to give participants the opportunity to practice and refine their Italian Language skills in a social setting.

For reservations, phone 812-0433.

The Center is a non-profit organization with a membership which seeks to perpetuate and preserve the Italian culture and heritage.

Violation, misuse and abuse

It's election time again and voters should realize candidates, for whatever post they are vying, will do and say anything to attain or retain a public office. One thing to be sure of, voters and taxpayers never really know the elected candidate before they enter office and establish a voting or track record.

An election is like a popularity contest, and candidates will try to make themselves fit the agenda of whomever they speak before and win the name recognition from the general public with the number of lawn signs and campaign literature mailed to homes and passed out in front of the local supermarket.

County Seat

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

During an election, voters get a lot of information from candidates, but unfortunately that is not all of it. There are invitations for fund-raisers sent only to supporters with lots of cash and invitations for fund-raisers to those with not so much cash. There are mailers sent to specific towns or voting districts designed to target voters in that specific area. There are plenty of self-serving press releases, some of which do not get published.

Sometimes these items, and how they are distributed or sent, can be more enlightening about the candidate than the information they are trying to release.

Take this example involving Irvington Councilman Patrick McNally, the Democratic candidate for county clerk.

On Sept. 21, the Election Fund of Patrick McNally hosted a $150 per person reception at the Mayfair Farms, the invitation for which had the county seal on the front cover.

The use of the county seal is an abuse of an office McNally does not even hold. Using the seal makes it seem like the county is sending the invitation and is endorsing McNally as its choice. What makes this preposterous is the county administration is led by a Republican, County Executive James Treffinger.

Or maybe McNally and his supporters who designed the invitation believe it is a foregone conclusion that his opponent, Republican Phyllis Cedola, will lose the election. Can McNally have that kind of audacity?

It is likely the county executive, regardless of the fact he is a Republican, will not look favorably on McNally's use of the county seal. In an executive order released in March and in a code of ethics for the county released in August, Treffinger attempts to remove politics from the workings of the county. Both documents state that employees of Essex as well as outside vendors cannot play the political game when working on county time, cannot use county facilities or materials — in short, cannot abuse their office and essentially waste taxpayers' money.

"County property, including but not limited to vehicles and office supplies, shall not be used for any purpose other than for the benefit of the county and the public. No officer or employee shall use county money or property for private purposes," states the code of ethics released Aug. 3.

The code of ethics and early executive order clearly state department heads and directors face serious repercussions — loss of job being a very viable option — if violated. Other employees could find a haven behind civil service laws, but positions under the direction and discretion of the county executive should be wary.

Obviously, the county seat, with the familiar lion standing on its hind legs, is the property of the county and should not be available for the liberal use of any candidate.

Freeholders to discuss downsizing aides

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

A resolution drastically reducing the number of freeholder aides and the total amount of stipends allocated for their salaries is expected to be introduced by Freeholder President Joseph DiVincenzo during a meeting today at 4 p.m. in the Hall of Records, Newark. The discussion will take place after a Columbus Day ceremony.

DiVincenzo unveiled his plan to allow a maximum of 36 aides for the nine-member board and reduce the allotted amount of money freeholders have to pay aides by $10,000 each Sept. 26.

The proposal, a drastic change for the board since it employed 105 aides in January, has received positive reviews from a majority of DiVincenzo's peers on the board. Freeholder vice president Arthur Wright was with DiVincenzo when the proposed resolution was unveiled and was in support of the cuts.

If accepted, the resolution would take effect Jan. 1, 1996, irrespective of whether DiVincenzo was president of the board or not. His term expires Dec. 31.

Freeholder Pat Sebald said she was "completely supportive" of the president's proposed resolution and had an interest in "changing the whole structure" of the freeholder board and its support staff.

"I do not have any trouble with this resolution," she said. "We ought to set an example. With the fiscal concerns of the county, we have to show we are concerned."

In addition to this cutback setting the tone for next year's budget deliberation, Sebald said the board should review its needs and "become as efficient as possible." The freeholder said this reform is a concept for which she had no specifics. She employs five aides.

Freeholder Sara Bost, a member of the freeholders' budget committee, said the resolution was "an excellent proposal."

"It's up to us to take the first step," said Bost who employed 19 aides earlier this year. "This is one way to demonstrate our commitment to cut spending and lower taxes."

Bost said the resolution, if approved, would affect her because she "relies on her community based aides for feedback and information."

Freeholder Louise Palagano also said she was supportive of the resolution, but was hesitant because the board had not discussed it during a committee meeting. While in favor of reducing the total allotted for freeholder aides from $30,000 to $20,000, Palagano questioned if a cap on the number of aides at four per freeholder was necessary.

She said it would not matter how many aides a freeholder employed because they would not be eligible for benefits unless they earned the entire $20,000 allotment. "The number is irrelevant, the dollars are the factor," said Palagano who employs 10 aides now.

Palagano said not having representatives in each town will be a "loss" but she is willing to make the cut to save money.

Freeholder Nicholas Rolli, who employs three aides, said he supported the resolution, but more could be done to make the freeholders' office more efficient.

"I would take it one step further and eliminate all the aides," he said. "People will argue we need the aides, and I agree. But there are a lot of resources already available to us in the freeholder office."

The freeholder office employs a clerk and support staff, a team of attorneys and budget consultants, all of which should be utilized by the freeholders, Rolli said.

"We should look to further reduce spending" and the appearance of handing out patronage jobs with these positions, he said.

The sole Republican on the board, Rolli said he would rather see the reforms introduced as an ordinance because it involves salaries and would be more enforceable and binding.

County Executive James Treffinger said the resolution was "in complete harmony" with his budget goals and was "a welcome ingredient" to reform county politics.

The proposed cuts by DiVincenzo are the second initiative he has introduced this year and would save the county more than $1.3 million in 1995. The president said introducing the cuts in resolution form will make it more difficult for future freeholder boards from disregarding the cuts. In order to hire more aides or increase the total allotment, another resolution would have to be introduced and passed, he said.

Included in the first round of cuts proposed by DiVincenzo called for the freeholders to make a voluntary 5 percent cut in pay, although only DiVincenzo, Sebald and Rolli followed through in accepting the pay cut. The other six freeholders are still collecting their full $28,884 salary. At the time, Rolli wanted the pay cut to be introduced as an ordinance, but did not gain support from a majority of his colleagues.

Exec targets trips of autonomous entities

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

County Executive James Treffinger is cracking down on the number of conventions, conferences and junkets autonomous boards and authorities within the county take, and is using the 1996 budget as leverage.

In a memo dated Sept. 29, the county executive requested all autonomous entities abide by an executive order to curtail their travel expenses in light of the budget crunch. Should the boards and authorities take frivolous trips, Treffinger stated in the letter, he would reduce the 1996 budget allotment "dollar for dollar" to match the expenses.

The recent memo was distributed because "it has come to my attention, however, that at least one such entity is planning to spend taxpayers' money on a 'junket' which will include not only full-time professionals, but also members of the governing board," it states.

Because of confidentiality Treffinger promised to his source, he would not reveal which entity was the cause of the abuse.

"While there is no law that they have to follow it, they do so at their own risk," the executive said. "I will not include in my budget for next year anything frivolous and the memo reinforces that."

Treffinger issued an executive order in January to all county employees under his jurisdiction which eliminated all conferences, conventions and junkets. The executive, however, does not have authority over autonomous entities — such as the Essex County Improvement Authority, Essex County Utilities Authority, Board of Elections, Prosecutor's and Sheriff's offices, commissioner of registration and superintendent of elections, Board of Taxation, Essex County College and trustees, Essex County Superintendent of Schools, and Essex County Vocational School Superintendent, business administrator and board members — and his Sept. 29 memo serves as a request.

The executive, however, is pressuring the autonomous agencies by threatening to cut their budget for 1996 if they continue to go on junkets.

"As county executive, I do not believe that I possess the legal power to impose" the executive order on the autonomous entities, the memo states. "Even though this may not be within my purview to directly prohibit, please know, as a certainty, that any amounts of public funds that are used in such manner will be deducted — dollar for dollar — from the 1996 budgets for the entities involved."

Treffinger acknowledged it was one autonomous entity which was allegedly abusing the use of public money for trips and that many entities, including the Sheriff's and Prosecutor's offices, had voluntarily complied with the order when it was issued in January.

Robert Noonan, superintendent of the Essex County Vocational School System, said a trip to the National School Board Convention in the spring was cancelled in deference to Treffinger's order and a trip he took to Atlantic City for a conference of the state Vocational Council, of which he is an officer, was reduced to a day trip.

"We've been very frugal," he said. "I thought we've responded well."

Tom Banker, executive director of the ECIA, said the only trip the authority is planning this year is to the League of Municipalities convention in Atlantic City in November. Banker said trips will not be provided for board of commissioner members and administration members are attending to an information booth about the ECIA.

He said the League of Municipalities convention would be an important time for the ECIA to market itself, especially since recent legislation has enabled it to lend money to entities outside of Essex.

He said he is not aware of any other convention.

Officials of other autonomous authorities and boards could not be reached for comment.

Week celebrates accomplishments of 4-H programs

National 4-H Week, Oct. 1-7, celebrates the accomplishments of 4-H youth throughout the United States. The theme for 1995, "4-H: More Than You Ever Imagined," reflects the variety of 4-H programs and the diversity of the lives of 4-H youth. Information and educational programs are offered to all youth without regard to sex, race, color, national origin, handicap, disability or age, on a grade-appropriate basis. These diverse groups of youth participate in 4-H projects which are related to biological sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, and arts and humanities.

The 4-H Youth Development Program, originally designed as a educational program for farm youth, has grown considerably in urban areas. There are more 4-H members in the United States living in cities than in rural areas, according to a recent membership report. Only 49 out of 100 4-H participants live in rural areas and, of those, only six actually live on farms. In New Jersey, 20 percent of 4-H youths live in cities. Only 3 percent live on farms. The remainder live in rural and suburban areas.

The U.S. Census Bureau classifies all of Essex County as urban, from downtown Newark to Fairfield and Livingston. The Essex County 4-H Youth Development Program is part of Rutgers Cooperative Extension. It is sponsored by Essex County Executive James Treffinger, the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Rutgers-State University, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

4-H has unique qualities which are not directly related to farming. 4-H members do not have to live in rural areas to learn about caring for plants and animals. In fact, there are 4-H educational resources available for almost any project the club members may choose. In addition to gardening and caring for pets, city kids can learn about science through the 4-H Series and Spaces curricula. Nutritional science today goes beyond cooking and health and can lead a student into a career in food technology. 4-H has resources and training available for volunteers, teachers and community program providers who want to provide fun educational activities for youth.

4-H Club members in Essex County participate in the Seeing Eye Puppy Project, Teen Leadership Council, arts and crafts, environmental awareness and gardening. A 4-H Horse Club is currently being organized at the Montclair Public Library, and a new leader is seeking a meeting site for a Pet Care Club. New clubs are being formed as leaders are recruited, screened and trained.

In addition to community 4-H Clubs, there are several other ways in which youth can participate in 4-H. These include School-Age Child Care, school enrichment programs, short-term special interest programs, overnight camping, individual study and video series.

Soweto Academy in Newark is an example of a SACC program which is managed by 4-H. This program has received national recognition for its effectiveness in improving the interpersonal and educational skills of inner-city youth. Sponsored by USDA and the Newark Housing Authority, it is seeking local funding to continue its after school program.

The 4-H club at the Irvington Housing Authority Educational Center is an example of 4-H resources enriching its funding from the Housing and Urban Development Drug-Prevention Program. Staff and community volunteers who have been trained to be 4-H Leaders provide an hour or more of 4-H educational activities to IHA youth once a week.

4-H also provides learning activities to students through after school clubs and classroom enrichment programs. A teacher at Costly Middle School in East Orange and one at Bloomfield Middle School are 4-H leaders in their schools. Adult volunteers from Essex County are participating in a training program which will prepare them for teaching school children about trees. Activity kits from the New Jersey 4-H Science Discovery Series are available to teachers this fall, and the Talking Plant program can also be borrowed from the county 4-H office.

The New Jersey 4-H Camp at Beersville provides week-long resident camping programs during the summer. The camp is at a real farm, and includes traditional camping activities, as well as programs on science and nature. The most popular program is "Youth on the Move," which provides adventurous activities appropriate for youth who have completed grades 3-7. Team Challenge Camp is available for youth who have completed grades 8-11.

Throughout Essex County, the state and the nation, 4-H provides supportive environments for culturally diverse youth and adults to reach their fullest potentials. 4-H members in grades 11 through the first year out of high school develop leadership, citizenship, interpersonal and workforce skills in a wide variety of 4-H programs. Innovative 4-H educational activities meet the changing needs of suburban and urban youth while continuing to fulfill the needs of young people in rural America.

For more information about 4-H in Essex County, call Wary Lou Mayfield, 4-H program associate, at 678-7817 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Mental health, treatment topics of lectures to raise awareness

In recognition of Mental Health Awareness Week, the staff of the Essex County Hospital Center invites the public to attend a series of lectures on the nature of mental illness and current breakthroughs in treatment. The three lectures will take place in Room 200 of the Hospital Administration Building located at 125 Fairview Ave. in Cedar Grove. The sessions, which will all begin at 7:30 p.m., will be held on three consecutive Tuesday evenings, Oct. 10, 17 and 24.

County Executive James Treffinger, who invites all citizens to attend these informational talks, stressed the importance of public education in the area of mental health.

"The mental wellness of an individual is as vital to his or her health as physical well-being. It is important that individuals, parents, teachers and employees recognize the signs of mental illness and make certain that proper treatment is sought as in any other sickness," said Treffinger.

Noting that "one out of four families is affected by mental illness — a disease that does not discriminate and that respects no racial, religious, age or socioeconomic boundaries," the county executive stated he was pleased to offer the professional resources of the Essex County Hospital Center for this educational awareness program.

The Oct. 10 session is entitled "Why Do People Get It" and will outline the causes of mental illness. Registered nurse Jeanne Kirsch of the hospital staff will lead the discussion.

On Oct. 17, the topic will be "How Do We Know Someone Has It" and will describe the symptoms of mental illness. Nancy-Carm Vogle will be the speaker.

The final session on Oct. 24 will discuss "How Do We Treat?" and will outline support treatment modalities for the mentally ill. Discussion leader will be Helen Zinn.

All three sessions are free and open to the public. For more details, call Clinical Specialist Nancy-Carm Vogle of the Essex County Hospital Center at 228-8236.

COUNTY NEWS

Why did the bands stop playing in Essex? news clips

The other day I came across a calendar of major events occurring in New Jersey during the mid-1930s. I immediately searched for particular listings for Essex County, where I was attracted to "Totting Meet at Weequahic Park" held the first week of September. I remember one year my father took me there, and that got me to recall other county and state events.

For example, I did not know that in Elizabeth, a princess of a city before World War II, dog-sled races were held each February. Nor did I know that in the 1930s, and perhaps continuing to this day, election of officers was held of Council of West Jersey Proprietors, whose predecessors were most reluctant to the Revolutionary War cause and its land schemes.

Essex County is represented by, among others, the "Rock Spring Horse Show." Are there any horse shows still held in West Orange? When did they cease, if they have ceased?

Newark, then in its glory days despite the Great Depression, enjoyed a dog show in February, an indoor polo championship in March, a horse show in May and a flower show during the same month, an "electrical" show in November, and a large auto show and a stamp exhibition in December.

Of interest in the state list were three religious events: Methodist Camp Meeting at Ocean Grove, when that community maintained itself as "blue" as any community in the state and was far more a haven for the elderly than it is today, as its gates were outlawed and its Sunday closings were cited as "discriminatory." Such progress?

The other two events on the calendar of religious connotation were "Feast of Lights," held in Trenton in September, and "Festival of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel," held in Hammonton in July.

Unusual state events: Muskrat Skinning Contest held in Salem in January; "Confederate Memorial Pilgrimage" at Finns Point in April; "Mibs" or "Marbles Competition" in Wildwood in July, and an egg-laying contest in Paterson in November — I know not whether it was of chickens or humans.

Maplewood held a golf tournament at the end of June. I vaguely recall this attraction. When did it discontinue, if it has?

Not in the annual listing are parades held in Essex County, which once was known as "The Parade Capital of the Nation." I recall as late as 1947, the managing editor of The Newark News kept on a large slate against the wall in his office a two-month list of parades. The newspaper never missed covering one of them. No reporter, however high up in the newspaper's presidium of talent, was exempt from writing still another detail about the annual Armistice Day Parade, when 11 a.m.,

Nov. 11 rolled around each year.

One did not have to leave the county in those days to visit special events, usually centered around ethnic or religious heritage, occurring in Essex. As a boy, I watched many of them, as our father loved a parade as did anyone. Besides, he always bought us ice cream cones, a rare luxury in our youth.

It is time for the private sector, or even this newspaper, to publish an annual calendar of events. I suggest that it be paid for by the private sector because the freeholders would hire a dozen politicians to do it or, heaven knows, float still another bond.

If you remember one or more, do not hesitate to write to me about your parade experiences. I just recalled at this moment the annual Halloween Parade in downtown Newark at least through the 1940s. As a youth, I was scared by several of the "monsters."

Where have they all gone, the parades of another day? Where did the marchers end up? Where did the bands stop playing?

Voters should be aware of campaign abuses

Let's hope not, and let's hope the county executive, who has big legal gun Michael Chertoff as his advisor, takes some action against McNally.

Another apparent violation was made by Kevin O'Toole, chief of staff for Treffinger, mayor of Cedar Grove and a candidate for the 21st Assembly District.

In a campaign press release faxed to this newspaper Sept. 21, O'Toole endorses the Green Acres/Blue Acres Bond Act, one of the referendum questions on the Nov. 7 ballot. It should come as no surprise that O'Toole has thrown his support behind this referendum because the bond act is where his boss, Treffinger, hopes to receive the $32.5 million to complete the sale of Hilltop and balance his 1995 budget.

What is interesting about this release is its origination point. The typed letterhead on the cover sheet says the release comes from the Committee to Elect Kevin O'Toole, Assembly District 21, 287 Bloomfield Ave., Verona. Handwritten under that are telephone and fax machine numbers. However, a contact number and fax number near the bottom of the cover sheet are for O'Toole's county office in the Hall of Records. Furthermore, it appears the release was faxed to the media from the Hall of Records using government machines.

O'Toole said he is "very careful" and "meticulous" about not mixing campaign business with county business. He said whatever county materials he has used for his campaign, such as the fax machine in this case, he has reimbursed the county. For the Green Acres release, O'Toole reimbursed the county $2 for each page faxed for a total of $8 and produced a check and fax confirmation sheet as evidence.

O'Toole should not have been using his county office for any campaign work in the first place, but it is a nice gesture he reimbursed the county.

McNally and O'Toole should not be allowed to sidestep what they did. A public apology would be nice, but this will do little to prevent them from repeating their acts or making up for what was already done.

Misuse of the county seal, fax machines and work time occurs on every level of government and cannot be overlooked. When abused, the only people who lose are the taxpayers, and this occurs on two fronts — tax money is misused and the public trust placed in them has been lost.

When voters go to the polls Nov. 7, they should remember this and weigh them along with the often empty promises made by candidates because voters should not have to wait until a candidate is elected to judge their character and performance.

Proposals sought for employment services

The Essex County Division of Community Action is soliciting proposals from local agencies able to provide employment services to eligible refugees and entrants.

The division has received a grant of $145,968 in federal funding under the Targeted Assistance Grant Program. Requests for proposals are now available at the division on 15 S. Munn Ave., East Orange. The program is scheduled to start Jan. 1, 1996.

ARTS &amp; ENTERTAINMENT

What Exit? Theater Co. debuts play tomorrow

ArtsMaplewood's What Exit? Theater Company is at it again with "Baby Presents Bathwater," starring Maplewood's own husband and wife thespian team of Brian Corrigan and Bev Sheehan.

Fresh off the heels of last year's "Package Deal" by Fred Stroppel, this year's What Exit? production promises to show playwright Christopher Durang at his biting best as he takes walloping swipes at the inevitable folly of parenthood. "You know how everyone always says 'Look what my parents did to me?' Well, Christopher Durang has taken that concept and carries it to the next level," Sheehan said. "Surprisingly, he somehow manages to give it a happy ending."

Through a series of short, riotously funny scenes in the life of the title character — a baby whose being is passed from hand to hand by less than competent and totally self-obsessed "care givers" that include a pair of neurotic parents, a hard-boiled nanny and a host of others whose sensitivity and parenting skills could rival even the Addams Family, Durang certainly gives new meaning to the word dysfunctional.

"All parents start out with really good intentions," Corrigan said. "Most of them are totally blind to the ways in which they are so screwed up passing it on to their children. 'Baby with Bathwater' is a play where that is taken to an absurd degree," he said.

The comedy's main characters are a couple who are probably the world's worst parents anyone could possibly ever imagine. They raise a child who becomes so incredibly screwed up, he has to deal with it his entire life.

The opening scene finds the overjoyed parents somewhat baffled the baby cannot speak and totally confused about when and how sexual differentiation occurs. Mind you, as they muddle through parenting like a rat in a lab experiment, the comedy begins because we realize they mean well.

As the parents, the local couple took a break from real-life. Corrigan plays the father, and Sheehan plays the nanny. As the mother, Emily Zacharias takes a hilarious turn showing the ups and downs of motherhood.

"Sheehan, who is also the play's producer, said the inherent humor in this play rests in the fact even the most straight-faced parent can see a bit of himself or herself in it.

Center Stage

By Anthony C. Venutolo
Arts and Entertainment Editor

The couple's alliance with ArtsMaplewood began a couple of years ago when the Maplewood Arts Cafe showcased local performers in a comfortable, relaxing, warm hometown atmosphere.

Coupled with the number of talented people in Maplewood and based on the cafe's success and the great reception it generated, Sheehan and Corrigan, in association with ArtsMaplewood, created the What Exit? Theater Company. It will be a place where offbeat and quirky pieces can be locally showcased.

"What we originally intended to be was the local equivalent of Off-Broadway Theater," Corrigan said. "Not a venue that is geared toward large-scale audiences and productions with grand sets but the sort of thing you can do in New York with a black box," he said.

The rest of the cast includes equity performer DeAnne Kemp, Greg Derelien who appeared last spring at the Burgdorff Cultural Center courtesy of Playwrights Theater of New Jersey and Maplewood resident and equity actress Zacharias.

Playwright Durang, a comedy veteran, has enjoyed a considerable amount of success on Broadway and off in plays that include "Beyond Therapy," "Sister Mary Ignatius Explains it all for You" and, most recently, a series of one-act plays produced under the title "Durang, Durang."

The play will be directed by Jim Peskin.

In terms of working together? The couple couldn't be happier. Often working together in radio and TV voice-overs as well, the couple's symbiosis couldn't be better.

"When you know the person you're working with so well, it's a real shortcut," Sheehan said. "I do love working with him."

"Baby with Bathwater" is presented by ArtsMaplewood's What Exit? Theater Co. tomorrow and Saturday and Oct. 12 and 14 at 8 p.m. and Oct. 8 and 15 at 3 p.m. at the Burgdorff Cultural Center, 10 Durang Road, Maplewood. Tickets cost $15.

Local young actor not letting success go to his head

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

One of the most unaffected young actors ever to perform on the stage at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, is Matthew Fasano of West Orange. Fasano, who is 12 years old and plays a 9-year-old child in the role of Young Guido in "Nine," is making his seventh appearance in a Paper Mill production.

He came by the other afternoon with his warm, friendly and unaffected mother, Gail, to talk about life on the stage, off the stage, in school and at home.

"I like being on the stage," Matthew said shyly. "And playing the inner child, I'm having fun. I like everybody in the show, mainly the little boys who are on stage with me."

"And the adults have been very kind to him, too," said his mother. "Robert Johanson, the director, Paul Schoeffler, who plays the adult Guido, and all the rest of the cast."

"We started with rehearsals of 'Nine' on Aug. 17," Matthew said, "and we rehearsed until opening night. I caught on pretty quick. Paul is really nice. It's easy to coordinate with him."

"The boy has natural talent," added his mother. "He has never taken an acting or singing lesson in his life."

Young Fasano, a very serious boy, performed in "Oliver!" as young Eric in "Phantom," in "The Wizard of Oz," "Jesus Christ, Superstar," and two New Year's Eve shows, one in 1992 and one in 1994. "I guess I became an actor because it's what I like to do. I like being on stage. In fact," he smiled charmingly, "I remember when I was 9 years old, I was just first getting into acting. I was in the third grade then."

"He rarely makes mistakes," said Gail. "When Matthew was 3 years old, my eldest daughter, Karen, was about 7 and she danced in the New Jersey Ballet Co. in the 'Nutcracker.' I used to take Matthew every time I brought her, and he would see the show over and over again. He loved it. And when he was 7 years old, he said, 'I don't want to watch this anymore. I want to be in it.' So, they gave him a role in the 'Nutcracker.' When he was having the audition, he had memorized the dancing just by watching the scenes. He remembered it, and he did it, with no singing, no acting and no dancing lessons."

While Matthew was auditioning for the "Nutcracker," he got three shows after that at the Paper Mill.

The only school play the boy appeared in was "Pinocchio." "I played Jiminy Cricket in St. Cloud School in West Orange when I was 11," Matthew recalled. "I tried out for the 'Wizard of Oz' at the Paper Mill. And after auditioning, they picked me to fill in someone's role in 'Jesus Christ, Superstar.' Then I was called for 'Wizard of Oz.'"

Then came "Phantom," "Oliver!" and now — "Nine." In "Oliver!" I played the chimney sweeper, and other little roles. In "Wizard of Oz" I played a soldier in Emerald City, a poppy and a monkey. I really had a great time."

"Robert, our director, he's really nice," Matthew said. "He called me back for the shows. He's a very good actor. He can go from his starring role as Jesus to an old man in 'The Secret Garden.' That's really something."

Matthew, who attends Roosevelt

Middle School in West Orange, said to his mother, has regular school days and hours with the exception of Thursdays when the playhouse has a 2 p.m. matinee. "On those days," said Gail Fasano, "he leaves school a little earlier."

Does his career interfere with his school work?

"Last year," said Gail, "he got great straight A's. He belongs to HAP, which means High Aptitude Program — it's for the gifted and talented. He has one period a day. It's non-traditional learning."

"We do different projects," said Matthew. "Most of the time I get my school work done, but sometimes, it piles up."

"He's a good student," assured his mother. "He knows school comes first."

Doesn't the youngster get tired after eight performances a week — Wednesday to Sunday nights and Thursday, Saturday and Sunday matinees?

"I don't get tired of the show," he said. "I like everything about the show. When you get home, that's when it hits you."

"But he's usually in bed by 11 every night," said his mother. "We live minutes away from the theater."

Matthew, son of Bob and Gail Fasano, has lived all of his life in West Orange. The family has lived there about 19 years. In addition to Karen, 17, he has a sister, Lynn. "They are both proud of him just as his parents are," said Gail Fasano.

And what about his friends and school chums?

"Not many know that I'm in a show at the Paper Mill," said Matthew. "Some kids pay more attention because I'm an actor. But my good friends don't really talk about it very much. They are very low key about it."

Matthew does study the piano with a private tutor in Livingston, according to his mother. "And in school," said Matthew, "I play the trombone in the band." The youngster also makes time at home to play with his beloved puppy, a Bichon Frise. "Her name is Hannah, and I got her at the end of April. I've always wanted a dog. And I love animals."

What will Matthew do when he grows up?

"I'll probably be an actor," he said. "Or maybe even a professional soccer player."

Fall showcase opens at the Sheila Nussbaum Gallery

Making sense of the physical and often irrational world is one of the perennial quests of artists. Four artists, whose work can be seen in "Fall Showcase" at the Sheila Nussbaum Gallery, Millburn, make everyday sights seem magical, mystical and intriguing by using symbols and imagery that touch the heart and mind.

Painter John Dawson, contemporary folk artists Jeanine Anderson Guncheon and John "Jandy" Anderson and enamelist Colette are internationally known, and will be showing their work Oct. 14 through Nov. 4. The show opens with a lecture by Dawson, "Time in a Blender," Oct. 13 from 6-8 p.m. in the gallery.

Using the ancient art of cloisonne, Colette creates elaborately-painted brooches, bracelets and pendants. Her exquisite craftsmanship has earned her a fine reputation among top art jewelers around the world. The imagery for her designs are personal hieroglyphics blended with symbols that include dream-like eyes and hands, birds of prey, cats and other creatures born of fantasy. In visual and palpable terms, the artist examines the paradoxes of life, which include "exaltation and sorrow, tension and relief, rationally and passion, and the physical and metaphysical," said the artist.

"Time is a blender" is how Dawson describes his new paintings for "Fall Showcase." "I wondered what it would look like if I put time in a blender and poured it out onto the canvas," said the artist, who has exhibited from coast to coast and in, among other places, the Art Institute of Chicago, Phoenix Art Museum and the Tucson Museum of Art.

"These paintings are about the individual moving at the speed of light in an undefined direction for an indeterminate distance, to an unknown destination until time, the stuff life is made of, runs out for all of us," Dawson said.

Contemporary, naive and visionary are the painted furniture created by Guncheon and Anderson. Vibrantly-painted fish with human faces and spiritual figures that soar high overhead come to life as they embrace functional objects of art, such as bowls, bureaus, tables and cabinets. The creativity of this self-taught brother-sister team has captured the hearts of many, including celebrities such as Robin Williams and Eddie Murphy.

"Blues in the Night," by John Dawson from the "Fall Showcase" at the Sheila Nussbaum Gallery in Millburn.

LEO — July 23/August 23

Don't book your entire weekend with social obligations. Leave yourself some free time. Quiet moments by yourself could help you gain a new perspective. A well-deserved promotion is just around the corner. This is your time to shine in the workplace. Be fair when disciplining children.

VIRGO — Aug 24/Sept 22

Set realistic deadlines when planning a project. It's better to overestimate than underestimate when it comes to your time. A disagreement with a friend will weigh heavily on your mind. You may have to put your pride to the side if you want to patch things up. It's worth it.

LIBRA — Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't jump to conclusions in a romantic relationship. Know all the facts before you make any accusations. Good advice will come from an Aquarius. Take it. A meeting with a higher-up at work will make your position clear. You'll realize that hard work does indeed pay off. Art and culture will play a role this week.

SCORPIO — Oct 24/Nov 22

A disappointment at the beginning of the week leads to a change of plans this weekend. A Libra friend will offer good advice around midweek. Even if it sounds out-of-the-ordinary, be sure to consider it carefully. Your intensity may be too much for a Gemini friend.

SAGITTARIUS — Nov 23/Dec 21

Your health may be of concern this week, so be sure to get plenty of rest. A friend will stick out his/her neck for you this week. Be sure to show appreciation. In matters of love, you may have to take a step back in order to forge ahead. Learn from your mistakes.

CAPRICORN — Dec 22/Jan 20

Welcome constructive criticism rather than becoming offended by it. You could learn and grow from positive change and self-improvement. A Leo associate will play a role in your week. Look at the big picture when planning career moves. Get-rich-quick schemes are not for you.

AQUARIUS — Jan 21/Feb 18

A social event will be more fun than you had imagined — especially if you are the organizer. Your affinity for the arts will lead you to an interesting place towards the end of the week. Choose the right words when dealing with a difficult coworker. Time with family brings a feeling of security.

PISCES — Feb 19/March 20

A mistake you made a while back will come back to haunt you. Use it as a learning experience rather than a reason for guilt and self-pity. Good news will come towards Friday, setting you in a more positive frame of mind for the weekend. A new love interest is likely.

12 Miles West kicks off season with playwright festival

'Empty Dress' opens at the MAM Oct. 15

"Clothing is about who we think we are and how we choose to represent ourselves. It is about how we are seen and culturally defined," said artist Elise Siegel in the catalogue accompanying "Empty Dress: Clothing as Surrogate in Recent Art," opening at The Montclair Art Museum Oct. 15.

The exhibit focuses on the use of clothing abstracted from the body as a means of exploring issues of psychological, cultural and sexual identity.

The exhibition, organized and circulated by Independent Curators, ICI, New York, makes its final tour stop at the museum through Dec. 31.

"Empty Dress" features mixed media works, photographs and sculptures by 29 contemporary artists from the United States, Canada and Europe, including five native and/or adoptive New Jerseyans that includes Sarah Charlesworth, born in East Orange; Barbara Kruger, born in Newark; Stephen Schofield, a resident of Jersey City; Cindy Sherman, born in Glen Ridge; and Elise Siegel, born in Newark.

In this major exhibition, guest curator Nina Felshin focuses on the use of clothing abstracted from the body as a means of exploring issues of psychological, cultural and sexual identity. The clothes one wears, and how one wears them, send signals, right or wrong, to others about one's profession, social status, culture, gender, values, history, political stance and more. "Clothing," Felshin said, "is where our interior selves meet the world."

The artists included in "Empty Dress" separate clothes from the human figure to better examine their meaning and to underscore the significance of the absent body. Because clothing is often gender specific, many artworks in "Empty Dress" also address issues of gender and sexual difference, including the social and psychological constructions of gender, gender stereotypes, the instability of gendered identity, and the fluidity of gender boundaries.

Sarah Charlesworth's "Figure," 1983, from the series "Object of Desire," taken from the exhibit "Empty Dress: Clothing as Surrogate in Recent Art" which will be on display at the Montclair Art Museum starting Oct. 15.

Others use the 'empty dress' theme as a narrative clue, exploring clothing as a repository of emotion, dreams, anxiety, desire and ethos.

Clues to the meaning of pieces in the show can be found in the artists' selection of diverse materials that include rubber, sheer fabric, felt and metal, methods of construction, use of color and scale, and the number and relationships of their parts. Unlike much recent art that addresses political and cultural issues, the multifaceted works in "Empty Dress" resist single interpretations, offering numerous visual and poetic pleasures.

As an adjunct to the exhibition, a commissioned topiary sculpture by Montclair artist Rolla Herman was installed on the museum's front lawn in June. Clothed in living plant materials and tended by volunteers, Big Dress hints at gender stereotypes, providing an appropriate preview of what follows in the galleries.

Guest curator Felshin will discuss the exhibition and its works in a slide lecture Oct. 29 at 3 p.m. The program is free with admission to the museum. The Montclair Art Museum is located at 3 South Mountain Ave. in Montclair. For information or directions, call the museum at 746-5555. Museum hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday; 1-5 p.m. Sunday and Thursday and is closed Mondays and major holidays.

Admission is free to museum members. Admission for non-members is $4 for adults; $3 for senior citizens and students with I.D.; children under 12 are admitted free. Admission to the museum is free to everyone on Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Minniti wins sales award

James M. Weichert, president, has announced that Diane Minniti, a sales associate with Weichert Realtors'
Caldwell/West Orange Area Office, has won the office top sales award for the month of April.

Minniti, who qualified for the New Jersey State Million Dollar Club for the third consecutive year in 1994, is a consistent top producer. She earned company recognition for her sales achievements, qualifying for Weichert's 1994 Million Dollar Club.

She is a member of the Oranges/
Maplewood and West Essex Boards of Realtors.

Minniti may be reached for real estate transactions at Weichert's

Caldwell/West Orange Area Office,
731-6064, located at 460 Prospect Ave., West Orange.

McCormac is associate

Susan McCormac of Livingston has joined Burgdorff, Raltors as a sales associate in the firm's Livingston Office.

McCormac has been a real estate professional since 1977. Prior to beginning her real estate career, she attended the University of Massachusetts and went on to volunteer in many civic and school organizations.

Throughout her real estate career, she has been included in the New Jersey Association of Realtors Million Dollar Sales Club for several years.

A native of Dalton, Mass., McCormac has resided in Livingston for the past 28 years and has participated actively in both political and civic organizations. She was co-president of the League of Women Voters of Livingston and is a longtime member of the local Advisory Council on Recreation and Parks. She is also a communicant of St. Philomenas Parish.

Burgdorff Realtors has 34 offices across New Jersey and eastern Pen-sylvania. A family-owned firm in its 37th year, Burgdorff offers an acclaimed training program, a full spectrum of residential services, and national and international ties through PIHH Homequity, the world's largest relocation firm.

Smith to promote two counties

Mary Smith, a sales associate with RE/MAX Gold in Livingston, has been selected by the Nevada and British Columbia based Top 10 Relocation Network to represent and promote the areas of Essex and Union counties.

The Top Ten Relocation Network chooses only one real estate sales professional each year to represent the network in each area. "I feel honored to be chosen for this program," Smith said. "It's exciting to know that I'll be working with other real estate people from all parts of the United States and Canada, representing and promoting our area. Being connected to other top professionals across the country allows me to do an even better job for sellers moving out as well as for buyers moving into this area.

Smith, who has a bachelor's degree in management, is a native of St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands. She is working toward the Certified Residential Specialist designation. With more than a decade of professional real estate experience, Smith specializes in residential and commercial listings, sales and relocations in Essex and Union counties.

Also, Smith has recently joined the RE/MAX-
Children's Miracle Network "Miracle Home" program to benefit local children's hospitals. In this program, she has agreed to donate a specified amount of money per transaction to CMN. All money raised will stay local to benefit sick children in her community.

Smith is an active of the National Association of Female Executives, and Omicron Delta Epsilon Economic Honor Society. For information or to talk to Smith, call RE/MAX Gold in Livingston at 535-8889.

Century 21 outlines new plan

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation, a division of Hospitality Franchise Systems Inc., has outlined a new organizational structure designed to make the organization more entrepreneurial, faster-moving and more responsive to its 6,000 franchised brokers.

The centerpiece of the new structure is the redefinition of Century 21 field operations to allow the vice president/regional directors to focus on brokers' needs and become the direct contact for brokers/owners. Internal administrative functions of Century 21 regional and divisional offices will be consolidated at international headquarters and many service functions will be moved to its divisions.

Additional broker support will be provided by new "quick response" broker services teams. Combining the most experienced business consultants from Century 21 regional offices, these teams will be available over the phone or on-line at all times, and in brokers offices as needed, increasing resources directly available to brokers.

"We're excited by the progress the company is making to keep us on the cutting edge," said Joseph Emma, broker of Century 21 Real Estate Realty at 1908 Springfield Ave., in Maplewood. "Hospitality Franchise Systems is known for innovation. The bottom-line is that our buyers and sellers will benefit from technologically advanced tools and systems which will enable them to make informed decisions when it comes to their real estate transactions."

Robert W. Pittman, incoming chief executive officer and managing partner of Century 21 Real Estate Corporation, said, "When HFS announced the acquisition and my role in the Century 21 organization, we made it clear that we were committed to transforming the system into one of the most entrepreneurial companies anywhere — and to providing new services never before offered in the real estate industry."

"We look forward to having a new, more efficient and responsive organization in place. We can hit the ground running and bring about some dramatic changes — in our company and the industry," said Emma.

Hospitality Franchise Systems Inc. is the world's largest franchisor of hotels and residential real estate brokerage offices. Its stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "HFS." In lodging, HFS has over 4,400 Days Inn, Howard Johnson, Park Inn, Ramada, Super 8 and Village Lodge franchised hotels with approximately 435,000 rooms in the United States, Canada, Latin America and Europe. In residential real estate, the Century 21 system has presence in 16 countries and territories.

MOVING WITH KIDS

How and when do you break the news to the children that you are going to move? Let the youngsters know about the move as early as possible. The first reaction of some young children involve fear of the unknown. Teenagers, on the other hand, may worry about leaving their friends and missing their social life going down the drain.

Offer the news in an honest and POSITIVE light. Knowing your children's interests, show them how they can continue doing what they like to do in the new place. If you visit the new location to look it over, take the children along. The payoff will more than offset the extra expenses. Seeing things for themselves will help overcome that fear of the unknown.

Remember, children are generally more adaptable than parents often give them credit for. Many experts recommend moving during the school year to help children get acquainted with new school mates faster, rather than moving during vacation and waiting months until school starts again. Few things beat the bus for making new friends.

Chrysler gears up for 1996

Chrysler's brand strategy for 1996 is on track as the company's flagship nameplate keeps in tune with changing values in the premium vehicle market.

"The most important trend in the premium vehicle market today is that the notion of what luxury is all about has changed dramatically," said Stove Torok, General Manager of the Chrysler-Plymouth Division.

The success of innovative design and a complete revamping of its product portfolio in the last three years — Concorde is now the oldest vehicle in Chrysler's line — are already evident in the company's flagship brand. In the last three years, the average age of a Chrysler brand buyer has dropped 15 years, while annual household income has risen by more than 40%.

That doesn't mean consumers are willing to pay more for luxury car amenities which have little practical, everyday use. "People have become a lot more aware of what they pay and what they get," said Torok. "They are less interested in all the jewelry, or pretentious add-ons, and more interested in a vehicle's inherent qualities such as balanced blend of comfort, performance and style."

'Practical' luxury

Gradually changing consumer attitudes toward luxury cars led Chrysler several years ago to redefine its role among all premium vehicle segments, including minivans and smaller cars. "Our strategy is not to just duplicate other luxury cars," said Torok. "With each new vehicle introduction, regardless of market segment, we must ask ourselves exactly what are the features buyers want and use."

By today's definition, a 'true' luxury vehicle — whether it be a sedan, minivan, coupe or convertible — must include:

- a well-appointed, comfortable interior with practical, not pretentious, features that are easy to use

• a stylish, provocative exterior design

• a balanced blend of performance, handling and fuel efficiency

• high value that exceeds customer expectations in every area

Every vehicle in Chrysler's portfolio, including the all-new Sebring Convertible and short-wheelbase Town & Country minivan for 1996, has these attributes.

"Instead of having a single flagship luxury vehicle such as our LHS sedan, we aim to have a flagship vehicle in a variety of segments," said Torok. "That's because comfort, style and performance are desired by more than just luxury sedan buyers."

Chrysler's brand strategy for 1996 is a logical extension of the initiative started almost three years ago with the ground-breaking "cath forward" designs seen in the Concorde and LHS sedans. Engineering advances and constant refinement are now being highlighted to expand the message beyond design expertise, and further hoister the Chrysler brand as the company's flagship nameplate.

All-New Showroom

An orderly phase-out of older vehicle lines such as LaBarron and New Yorker, combined with new offerings such as the sleek Sebring convertible, have transformed the Chrysler brand into one which has the most contemporary lineup of cars and luxury minivans of any automaker for 1996.

"A new kind of contemporary, affluent buyer is emerging for us," said Ron Hein, National Marketing Manager for the Chrysler brand. "They are bringing with them a completely different set of values which extend from their tastes in clothing and music to the kinds of vehicles they want to drive."

Specifically, Chrysler's latest "Brand Report Card," which tracks demographic and psychographic profiles of its buyers, shows that the average customer age in the second quarter of 1995 dropped to 47 from 49 just one year earlier — and from an average age of 62 in 1992. Average household income of Chrysler brand buyers, meanwhile, has risen to $64,000 from $55,000 one year earlier.

Moreover, the Chrysler brand is now attracting twice as many import car intenders than three years ago, according to the latest Consumers Attitude Research (C.A.R.) study.

U.S. retail sales of Chrysler-brand vehicles are now forecast to climb to about 220,000 for the 1995-model year, and to 300,000 for the 1996-model year. Helping drive the sales increase for 1996 is an expanded lineup of Chrysler's Town & Country minivans which have once again leapfrogged the competition in luxury, design and innovation, and the all-new Chrysler Sebring LX and LXi convertibles, which will set new industry standards in interior room, driving enjoyment, safety and value.

To increase consistency throughout the brand, all models in the Chrysler portfolio except the LHS will have one of two series designations for 1996: the well appointed LX series, which provides a long list of standard features found optional in competitors' products, or the premium LXi series, which has the highest level of equipment and features.

"The message is clear," said Torok. "The Chrysler brand is now attracting younger, more affluent buyers thanks to new offerings such as the Cirrus and Sebring. With the all-new showroom for 1996, we have raised our quality, refinement and design leadership to premium levels."

Chrysler Dealerships Among Most Desired Franchises

The success of the Chrysler brand's redefined product philosophy which

The Chrysler Concorde, through its innovative cab-forward architecture, is one of the most stylish and well-appointed family sedans offered.

Completely redesigned for 1996, the Chrysler Town & Country is the perfect answer for buyers who need more space and utility in a vehicle without sacrificing luxury car features.

began in the early 1990s is also evident throughout the dealer organization.

"Chrysler-Plymouth has been among the Top 10 most desirable franchises for the last two years," said Tom Peyton, Chrysler's National Marketing Plans Manager, in citing data from J.D. Power & Associates. "The recognition of new luxury buyer values by Chrysler has not only attracted new buyers, but new sellers."

Sales per dealer increased to 561 this year, from 492 in 1990 — a 14 percent jump. Moreover, dealers have been at the highest profit levels in several years.

Chrysler now has 2,950 U.S. dealers. The long term goal is to keep the dealer count at about 3,000.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF COMPANY. A DIFFERENT KIND OF CAR.

Ford Motor Company to introduce new '96 lineup

Led by the stunning all-new Taurus, the latest version of America's best-selling car for the past three years, Ford Division and Ford dealers across the country enter the 1996 model year with a lineup of outstanding models.

With its trend-setting styling, spacious interior, high-performance engines, and customer-oriented new features, the 1996 Taurus is primed to match the sensational impact of the first Taurus 10 years ago.

All 1996 Ford cars come with the peace of mind of 24-hour Roadside Assistance, which delivers tow truck aid in case of a flat tire, empty gas tank or other roadside problem. Ford cars also offer the safety of a standard dual air bag supplemental restraint system. And many 1996 models provide the customer convenience and savings, thanks to 100,000-mile engine tune-up intervals under normal has been improved to perform better and more quietly than the V-6 engine used in previous models. It turns out 150 h.p. The GT and Cobra models feature Ford's all-new Passive Anti-Theft System.

FORD PROBE

The value-priced SE model, which shares the spotlight with the high-performance Probe GT for 1996, further broadens the market for the sporty front-wheel-drive car. Both models have technologically sophisticated multi-valve powerplants, and the 1996 seats have a more luxurious fabric that heightens their good looks and comfort. The GT's sport suspension has been revised to provide a smoother, more comfortable ride while retaining its crisp handling.

FORD CONTOUR

The five-passenger Ford Contour sedan enters its second year on the an armrest, to a center console with room for beverage cups, coins, audio-cassettes, etc. An innovative oval-shaped Integrated Control Panel, also an industry first, puts all climate-control and audio system switches into a single easy-to-see, easy-to-reach unit.

While its overall design may give the impression that the new Taurus is more compact than previous models, the interior is 17 percent larger and the body is five inches longer and nearly two inches wider. The new Taurus is offered in the GL and luxury LX series, in both four-door sedan and wagon models.

A choice of two V-6 engines — each with a 100,000-mile tune-up interval under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes — is available. One is the all-new high-performance 3.0-liter, 24-valve DOHC V-6 Duratec, the newest of Fords' technologically advanced modular engines. The other is an enhanced 3.0-liter overhead-valve V-6 Vulcan engine.

FORD CROWN VICTORIA

For 1996, the full-size Crown Victoria four-door sedan adds a new model that operates on natural gas. These cars are expected to be bought by municipal, law enforcement, commercial and fleet customers. They are powered by a modified 4.6-liter V-8 engine similar to those found in conventional gasoline-engine Crown Victorias. All 1996 Crown Victorias are available in four new exterior colors, and have a new two-spoke steering wheel with a convenient center-blow horn.

The 1996 Mustang features a freshened exterior with a modified grille treatment, new wheels and new taillamps. The Mustang GT for 1996 is powered by Ford's 4.6-liter single-overhead-cam V-8 modular engine, rated at 215 horsepower. The limited-edition Mustang Cobra is powered by a double-overhead-cam variant of the 4.6-liter V-8 delivering 305 h.p. The 3.8-liter engine in the V-6 Mustang has been improved to perform better and more quietly than the V-6 engine used in previous models. It turns out 150 h.p. The GT and Cobra models feature Ford's all-new Passive Anti-Theft System.

The five-passenger Ford Contour sedan enters its second year on the market with improvements that enhance its reputation for performance, handling and advanced technology. To increase the comfort of rear-seat passengers, the backs of the two front seats in the 1996 Contour have a scooped design, providing additional knee room. There are also five new colors. Offered in three series, Contour continues to be powered by a choice of two engines — the 170-horsepower, 2.5-liter, 24-valve DOHC Duratec V-6 or the 125-h.p., 2.0-liter, 16-valve DOHC four-cylinder Zetec engine. Both engines are available in state-of-the-art manual or automatic transmissions.

Here is a rundown on Ford Division cars for 1996, ranging from the subcompact Aspire to the full-size Crown Victoria:

FORD ASPIRE

The subcompact Aspire, which comes in three- and five-door hatchback versions, provides interior roominess for four adults and many safety features that are found in more expensive vehicles — including a standard dual air bag supplemental restraint system and standard child-proof rear-door locks on the five-door model. With the rear seat folded down, the three-door Aspire has almost 38 cubic feet of cargo room; the five-door model has 41 cubic feet.

FORD ESCORT

A new electronic controller smooths the operation of the standard Escort engine for 1996. The 1.9-liter four-cylinder engine calls for a tune-up only once every 100,000 miles under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes. Under the Escort's One Price plan, any LX model — either three-, four-, five-door, or wagon — is offered at the same Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price. The price includes air-conditioning, AM/FM stereo radio with digital clock, dual remote-control mirrors, power steering and rear window defogger. A sport appearance package with spoiler and cast aluminum wheels is available for three-, four- and five-door models at no additional cost. Escort also offers an optional integrated child seat for added security and convenience.

FORD MUSTANG

The 1996 Mustang features a freshened exterior with a modified grille treatment, new wheels and new taillamps. The Mustang GT for 1996 is powered by Ford's 4.6-liter single-overhead-cam V-8 modular engine, rated at 215 horsepower. The limited-edition Mustang Cobra is powered by a double-overhead-cam variant of the 4.6-liter V-8 delivering 305 h.p. The 3.8-liter engine in the V-6 Mustang market with improvements that enhance its reputation for performance, handling and advanced technology. To increase the comfort of rear-seat passengers, the backs of the two front seats in the 1996 Contour have a scooped design, providing additional knee room. There are also five new colors. Offered in three series, Contour continues to be powered by a choice of two engines — the 170-horsepower, 2.5-liter, 24-valve DOHC Duratec V-6 or the 125-h.p., 2.0-liter, 16-valve DOHC four-cylinder Zetec engine. Both engines are available in state-of-the-art manual or automatic transmissions.

FORD THUNDERBIRD

A fresh new look comes to the Thunderbird for 1996, with styling enhancements to the front, sides and rear. With the elimination of the Super Coupe model, the focus is on the LX series, offered in a choice of two convenient "packages" — One keyed to the 3.8-liter V-6 engine, the other to the performance-oriented 4.6-liter V-8. And a new Sport Package with 16-inch aluminum wheels and a sport-tuned suspension can be ordered for the V-8 version. Optional chrome wheels and a perimeter anti-theft alarm system also are new for 1996.

FORD TAURUS

Everything about the totally new 1996 Taurus is designed to make it perform better and be more customer-friendly. Its striking aerodynamic shape, for example, enhances fuel economy and road handling — and reduces wind noise. And the elliptical headlights, with their jewel-like complex reflectors, project a broader, brighter field of light for better visibility. Its rear design features a large, elliptical back window that provides excellent visibility, a low-liftover trunk, and highly visible taillights that are integrated into the body.

Interior user-friendly design elements and features include an industry-first three-way flip/fold console on six-passenger Taurus models that quickly converts from a center front seat with its own safety belts, to Ford has focused on putting user-friendly design elements and features throughout the new Taurus. For example, one interior innovation is the Integrated Control Panel, which puts climate and audio controls into a single easy-to-see, easy-to-use oval-shaped unit. Research shows that drivers can learn to use these controls faster and with fewer errors because of their unique design and larger size.

Next generation Ford Taurus

Just as the first Ford Taurus revolutionized the look of four-door sedans and wagons in 1986, the strikingly innovative 1996 Taurus represents a leap-ahead design destined to establish another new styling standard.

"We're confident that the head-turning design and customer-friendly advancements of the 1996 Taurus sedans and wagons will attract not only the large body of current Taurus owners, but younger and import buyers, as well," says Ross Roberts, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"Everything is designed to make the new Taurus look and perform better than ever before," adds Jack Telnack, vice president, Design for Ford Automotive Operations, who had overall design responsibility. "Its highly aerodynamic shape enhances fuel economy and road handling, while reducing wind noise, for example. And the elliptical headlights, with their jewel-like complex reflectors, project a broader, brighter field of light for better visibility."

The front design features a dramatic arching hood line with aggressively styled air inlets and sporty headlights. The rear design presents a unique rounded back window, a low-liftover trunk and integrated taillights that blend into the body. The side view is accented by three-dimensional sculpting, six flush-glass side windows, and a sweeping roof line.

Telnack notes that while the rounded design may give the impression that the new model is more compact than its predecessors, the 1996 Taurus sedan is more than five inches longer, almost two inches wider, with more interior room than the 1995 Taurus. The wagon is more than six inches longer and nearly two inches wider than the model it replaces.

Powering the new Taurus models are a choice of two V-6 engines, each with a 100,000-mile tune-up interval under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes — except for the Flexible Fuel Version. Standard on the LX is the all-new, high-performance 3.0-liter, 24-valve DOHC V-6 Duratec engine. This newest member of Ford's family of advanced technology modular engines is rated at 200 horsepower. The second engine is a significantly improved version of the 3.0-liter overhead-valve V-6 Vulcan that has been the base powerplant in Taurus models. Standard on the GL, it has a 145-h.p. rating.

Another interior innovation is the Integrated Control Panel, which puts climate and audio controls into a single easy-to-see, easy-to-use oval-shaped unit. Research shows that drivers can learn to use these controls faster and with fewer errors because of their unique design and larger size.

The 1996 Taurus also provides rear-seat air-conditioning and heating ducts, available on models with five-passenger seating configurations, heated outside power mirrors, Ford-patented Solar Tint glass that greatly reduces the sun's heat inside the car, and height adjusters on the outer front safety belts for greater comfort.

Ford's Dynamic Safety Engineering System helps make the 1996 model even safer than the 1995 Taurus. The system consists of active safety features designed to help avoid an accident and passive safety features to provide protection if an accident occurs.

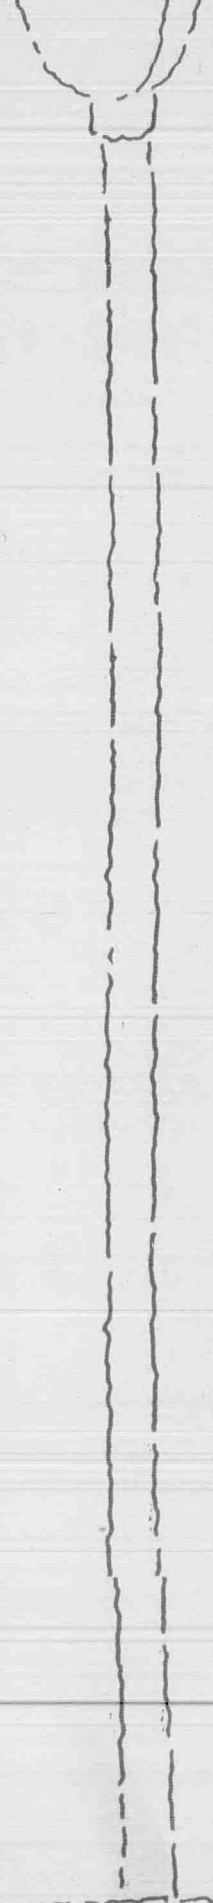

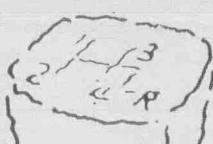

Active safety aspects include precision-engineered handling, steering and braking. A four-wheel disc anti-lock brake system is available on all 1996 Taurus models. Among the passive features is "Safety Cell" construction, which integrates structural elements into a protective impact-absorbing system and meets 1997 Federal Dynamic Side Impact requirements.

Other standard safety equipment includes a dual air bag supplemental restraint system, seats designed to help keep occupants from sliding under the safety belts in emergency stops, and on sedans, a shoulder harness for the rear center-seat passenger.

A high-performance Taurus SHO model, equipped with a new 3.4-liter, 32-valve all-aluminum V-8 engine and sport-tuned suspension, will be introduced next spring, joining the GL and LX models.

Ford fully expects the 1996 Taurus to sustain, and even accelerate, the car's enormous sales success. Taurus has been the best-selling automobile in the United States for the last three calendar years. Since its introduction as a 1986 model, more than 3 million units have been sold in the United States alone.
