Michael Nardiello, Anthony Biondi to lead Columbus Day Parade Sunday

Michael Nardiello of Belleville and Anthony Biondi of Nutley have been named grand marshals of the 13th annual Belleville/Nutley Columbus Day Parade.

Michael Nardiello
Nardiello was graduated from Belleville High School in 1940 and went on to receive degrees from Montclair State University and Seton Hall University.

After college, he served his country from 1943-46, before teaching in School No. 4 from 1951-64. He became supervisor of special services in 1964.

In 1967, he became principal of School No. 4 where he served the community until 1980, when he became assistant superintendent of schools.

Nardiello was named superintendent of schools in 1983. He retired from that position in 1994.

This lifelong Belleville resident is married to Marion Caporaso, and the couple has one daughter and two grandchildren.

Nardiello is a member of Belleville Public Library board of trustees. He is also responsible for starting special education in Belleville and assumed responsibility for the Garden School for emotionally disturbed students and for the educational program at the Cerebral Palsy Center in Belleville.

Anthony Biondi

Biondi was graduated from Eastside High School in Newark. He served a three-year apprenticeship in mortuary science and was graduated from American Academy of Funeral Services in New York City in 1956.

Biondi has owned and directed the Biondi Funeral Home since 1963, when it was located in Newark. In 1968, he opened the Nutley facility.

Biondi has always participated in the community and is a member of many civic organizations. He has been president of Nutley UNICO, Optimist Club of Nutley, Nutley Italian-American Civic Association and Holy Family Home and School Association.

Biondi's civic service includes Nutley Clean Community Advisory Committee, Nutley Shade Tree Commission and Selective Service System.

In 1992, Biondi was honored by the Scarpelli Civic Association for his many contributions to his community.

Anthony Biondi

Michael Nardiello

In 1994, he was presented Nutley Chapter of UNICO National award as outstanding Unican of the Year.

Biondi and his wife Mickey have two children: Anthony Jr., who is a licensed funeral director affiliated with the family firm, and AnnMarie, who is a teacher in Wayne public school system.

Parade day Sunday

The Columbus Day Parade will be Sunday. General Chairman Sam Papa said the parade will begin at 1 p.m. on Centre Street and Park Drive in Nutley, and proceed to Union Avenue, down Jerusalem Street to Washington Avenue and end at the reviewing stand at Belleville Town Hall.

The Parade Committee is a non-profit organization that has been founded for the purpose of presenting the Columbus Day Parade for Belleville/Nutley and beyond. The townships work together year long to raise funds for the costs associated with running a parade.

The committee annually sponsors a scholarship to a deserving high school student. It exists to promote the Italian explorer Christopher Columbus who discovered the New World that we know today as America.

Belleville High School attains super star rating

Recently, Belleville High School attained recognition by New Jersey Monthly magazine as one of the top schools in the state.

Schools were ranked in three groups of 15—equivalent to the top 45 schools in New Jersey.

A lengthy application process that required detailed essays pertaining to the school's demographic structure, goals and achievements and major obstacles the school has overcome was compiled and sent to New Jersey Monthly.

Special programs of Belleville High School and program goals for future development were listed.

Belleville High School's substance awareness program, Peers Educating Peers Club, Project SALUTE, Project Graduation, SADD, Russian Exchange Program, Holistic scoring, vocational courses and the HSPT Prep video in mathematics were considered in Belleville's evaluation.

Faculty members who have been recognized on the national level were listed in the lengthy application—Richard Ruffalo for paralympics and Janice-Lynn Shuhan, who was named as one of the top eight math teachers in the country by the Tandy Corporation.

The 30-page promotional packet for the magazine was compiled by Shuhan for an eight- to 12-month review.

Now considered Belleville's best kept secret, Belleville High School is on the map.

Vets opposing Columbus statue's site at memorial

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

Members of the Belleville Veterans Council protested to the Township Council Tuesday that a statue of Christopher Columbus should not be placed at a war veterans memorial.

Barbara Tuck, secretary of the veterans council, was irked that nobody had consulted her group before the council approved the statue.

"As much as we all respect Christopher Columbus, we feel that Union Avenue is not the place for him. This place has been reserved by our town fathers in the past and hopefully in the future for dedication to all our service people lost in wars—all wars," Tuck read from a prepared statement.

"What I want to know is how the council approved this statue without ever consulting our veterans council," Tuck said after the meeting.

Joe Fornarotto, a war veteran who had engineered approval for the statue, differed with the veterans council position.

Fornarotto said he had asked the tax assessor and township attorney about the land's availability before asking the council for permission to place the donated statue there.

"We are not taking anything away from the veterans," Fornarotto said. "Columbus discovered America, but we defended it with our blood," said Angelo Benenati, who is state commander of the Italian-American War Veterans.

"I am not against Columbus. I'm Italian," Benenati said as he told the council he believed the Union Avenue memorial should be a war memorial only.

In other business, Assembly candidate Vincent Frantantoni raised the question of Belleville's creation of the $72,000 director of public works position.

A previous administration had argued, along with Township Manager Steve Cuccio, that the state required the new position.

A controversy arose when then-Councilman Charles Cerami stepped off the council to take the job. He was replaced by his brother, Nick Cerami.

"The council used this state statute to create that position, but I have it in writing that the law never required the position be created," Frantantoni argued.

The director, Frantantoni said, could be a part-time employee, the township engineer, or anyone else who qualified.

Frantantoni had vehemently opposed the new position as unnecessary and expensive.

"We don't need superintendents over there. We need a director with a fist of iron to run that department," Mayor Jim Messina responded.

Cerami has gained praise from several council members for his performance as director, but the furor regarding the creation of a job that was given to a council member continues among many taxpayers.

Three Belleville schools that are located on busy streets will be getting flashing amber safety lights.

A bond issue was introduced that will provide $50,000 to install five lights at Schools 8, 7 and 3.

Phyllis Frantantoni, who has pressured the school board and council for the lights, was grateful but questioned the bonding.

Frantantoni suggested the township bond for less, and seek money from the Board of Education to offset the cost.

Cuccio replied that he wishes to approach the board to ask for some contribution.

"Any money we receive from the board would be used to pay off the bond," Cuccio promised.

Five Community Development Block Grants earmarked for Belleville improvements will gain Township Engineer Tom Herits a 15-percent engineering fee.

School board toughening policy to remove illegals

By Jim Van Blarcom
Staff Writer

The Belleville Board of Education has reaffirmed its policy dealing with illegal students.

Meeting Tuesday at Belleville High School, the school board approved a resolution toughening guidelines to remove non-resident students from ninth-grade classes.

Board President Ralph Mazucca reported that effective Oct. 31, parents or guardians unable to substantiate proof of residency within the township of child or children enrolled in ninth-grade classes are subject to removal of such children from the public schools.

Such action will be undertaken unless appealed by parents or guardians with proper proof in due time.

Warning of such action had been made in writing to those concerned, said Mazucca.

No numbers were disclosed or names given of those affected.

Two presentations were given to the board concerning the implementation of new programs in the school system.

Pamela Hagerty, department chairperson, presented business curriculum guides outlining new course offerings for grades nine through 12. Elementary to advance computer education, thought necessary to prepare students for the workplace and college studies, is among the new courses. Hagerty appealed to the board to acquire more computer equipment for the school.

Board Vice President John Notari suggested that keyboarding ability should become more critical in pupil studies, maybe even a requirement for graduation.

Later, in a related comment, Trustee Robert Molinaro recommended to the board literature about schools going "on-line," and he welcomed feedback from the community.

Hannah Marcus, coordinator of Child Assault Prevention Network, outlined assault prevention workshops for grades kindergarten through six.

The program, "Staying Safe Strong and Free," is designed to reduce the risk of child assault and abuse by educating teachers, parents and students how to recognize dangerous situations. Workshops are financed by an $11,315 award from the state and will not cost the district any money.

Spaghetti on Monday afternoon

"How to make spaghetti" was presented by Nancy Petti Oct. 2 at the Shafter Branch of the Belleville Public Library. "It will be something that you never will see repeated soon," said Frederick Lewis, librarian. Ending the domestic violence cycle through Safe House care

By Donna Ryan
Staff Writer

In the wake of the O.J. Simpson verdict, America struggles with unanswered questions. Justice, if the gloves didn't fit . . . spousal abuse. A nation, and perhaps the world, listened to the frantic 911 calls of Nicole Brown Simpson. Those frantic calls, however, are far too commonplace in our everyday lives. Those same calls are made daily in Belleville, Bloomfield, Nutley and, yes, Glen Ridge.

"Since the O.J. trial, we have had calls flooding in," said Patty Boff, director of Safe House in Belleville. "The calls are coming from the more affluent women — they are beginning to realize that there is a chance of lethality."

Safe House is a battered woman's shelter. And it is just that — safe — the location is kept secret to prevent abusive husbands from stalking their wives and children.

"In my ten years here, only two husbands have found us," said Boff. "Once, the woman told him where she was and the second time, the husband followed her here."

Founded Jan. 1, 1986, Safe House provides shelter, counseling and legal advice for a maximum of 12 women and 24 children at one time. A woman and her children can stay at Safe House for up to 40 days — "But that is flexible," said Boff. "We have had stays up to four months."

Safe House is financed by a project grant from United Way and state and federal monies. Women are referred to Safe House by area lawyers, ministers, police, social services and Yellow Pages.

"Most of our women are from Essex County," said Boff. "Some are transferred for safety reasons from other counties."

Boff noted that Essex County has the highest rate of domestic violence in the state. "I like to think that it is because we have better police reporting than other counties," said Boff. "Only one of ten domestic violence incidents reach police," said Boff. "We could easily multiply our numbers by 10 to get a realistic figure."

Boff has seen women aged 17 to 65 at Safe House, women without a high school diploma and women with medical degrees.

"The best times here are when we see women do a complete turnaround," said Boff as she recalled the case of a 24-year-old woman with five children and no high school diploma. The woman became financially independent and Boff attended her graduation.

"Here at Safe House, we are not a bunch of radical feminist lesbians who want to destroy families," said Boff. "The program is about empowerment."

When a woman arrives at the shelter, she and her children are given a room. A case manager assists with job referrals, education and temporary welfare. A legal advocate advises women of their rights under domestic violence laws and assists the woman should she pursue a restraining order.

Group and individual counseling is offered and encouraged. "One of the best things about a shelter is that women see that they are not alone," said Boff. "Isolation from friends and family is one of the symptoms of abuse."

"The children are the most innocent victims," said Boff. "They are starved for affection — they are either completely withdrawn or aggressive."

Children, too, see that they are not the only kids dealing with family abuse. At the same time, children attend public school, which the district is reimbursed for by the child's home district.

"We help 100 to 150 women each year and 200 to 300 children," said Boff. Safe House does not serve women with active alcohol or drug problems.

If you need help or a referral, phone Domestic Violence Hotline at 759-2154.

Botanical Gardens grows green soon in Silver Lake

By Jim Van Blarcom
Staff Writer

Some neighborhoods lose their beauty and begin to look rundown over time.

This is not the case at Mill and Harrison Streets in Belleville. The site is planned to become Belleville Botanical Gardens.

Along with the plan is a story of a community that continues to grow and look better.

More than ten years ago the neighborhood was host for a yeast factory and a nightclub. They have been replaced by condominiums. Until April the former parking lot in between had been abandoned.

Since then, volunteer workgroups have cleared the tall grass and rocks. A tree and a flower bed have been planted. A sign has been erected identifying the spot.

Frank Recinello, who operates a barbershop adjacent to the site, has noticed the activity, describing the "hard, heavy work" as a "good sign for the community."

Homeowner Lynn Picone, whose well-maintained yard lies next to the site, also applauds the initiative of the workers.

"My husband and I put an extension on our hose so we could water the tree," said Picone. The proposed gardens would be ideal for "just sitting, especially for the elderly," Picone added, and "would reflect the heart and soul of the community."

Belleville Botanical Garden Society is proposing further refurbishing of the spot.

Its immediate goal is to recruit sponsors to purchase bricks that will be fashioned into walkways throughout the garden. Each brick would feature customized printing that recognizes each individual or group donation. Bricks also could be used as dedications to loved ones passed on.

Responsible for the idea of the gardens is Maria Messina, who lives close to the site. The area was such an eyesore that she, who incidentally is the mayor's wife, asked township officials what might be done to improve its appearance. After that the project grew wings.

Designs were drawn by local architect Jim Landon and help and ideas came in from all around the community.

Belleville High School's commercial art and carpentry departments fashioned the sign. Pat Barbone offered to fix the fence. Mike and Laurie Ippolito donated a pond. The local PBA and fire departments pitched in with help. Many others showed support.

The garden society continues to welcome any suggestions, and encourages financial support.

"We need help, anyone's ideas are open," explained Messina, and should not be limited to residents of Belleville exclusively.

With enough support she hopes to begin planting in the early spring. "Teachers could bring classes down to plant and watch things grow as a school project," said Messina, "maybe someone could build a shed. Really any donation would be appreciated."

To become an immediate sponsor of Belleville Botanical Garden Society the purchase of either a 4" x 8" brick for $35 or a 12' x 12' brick for $50 can be made. Both feature up to three lines of print with 18 letters in each line. For information and idea suggestions get in touch with Maria Messina, 14 Acme St., Belleville, or phone 751-5890.

Indictment brought in Belleville alleged child molestation case

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

Dr. Claus Speth, a former Gloucester County medical examiner, has been indicted by an Essex County grand jury for tampering with evidence, false swearing and witness tampering.

Speth was hired by the family of Ronald Puttorak of Belleville to conduct a private investigation of Puttorak's death while in custody.

Puttorak, 43, had hanged himself in a cell while under arrest in the 1993 molestation case that dragged a Belleville school principal and other employees through a legal nightmare lasting more than a year.

The principal was cleared of charges, and no indication of a molestation ring, outside of allegations about Puttorak's involvement, was proven.

Speth is charged with altering tissue specimens from Puttorak's remains. The indictment alleged Speth said he found a fracture of a throat bone when he did not believe the statement to be true.

Pathology experts testified that the hyoid bone had been in one piece until after Speth had examined it.

Speth is also charged with knowingly attempting to induce Dr. Geetha Natarajan to withhold testimony or physical evidence.

Dr. Natarajan was acting medical examiner for the county at the time.

Speth could face three-to-five years on the witness tampering count, and up to 18-months on the other charges.

Rumors had abounded after Puttorak's death that the county was investigating whether his death was a murder.

The prosecutor's office as well as the county jail refused comment on any investigation at the time, a standard procedure that may have contributed to the lifespan of the rumors.

The indictment of Speth is the most recent in several indictments surrounding the Puttorak case. Most of the cases were dismissed, with the exception of one Belleville school janitor who plead guilty to a minor charge having nothing to do with molestation.

Puttorak had been in possession of videotapes and photographs that authorities alleged were evidence of child molestation.

Puttorak's suicide prevented a full airing of the charges.

Onward with the crusade

This newspaper takes particular pride in the move by the county freeholders to reduce their staff of so-called personal aides. So far, this political move has resulted in more than $200,000 in economies.

It was this weekly newspaper as well as others in this region that relentlessly pursued this ripoff of county taxpayers. Yes, the freeholders got angry with us and their chosen underlings stirred up a storm.

Once again, we have shown the way not only for other weeklies to expose waste, inefficiency and corruption, to retain integrity despite the opponents of a crusading press, as we are, but also as a nudge to the dailies, who win awards for news coverage in Bosnia or in the Brazilian rainforest, while avoiding probing coverage back home — coverage that might embarrass one or more political factions.

A newspaper without a point of view is sterile. A newspaper without a crusade for good government is impotent.

Welfare pays more than honest work

A valuable article, otherwise unheralded, in The Wall Street Journal the other day has sharpened the debate about the failed welfare system in America and, after reading the article's facts, most grievously in New Jersey.

The article, a shortened version of a study by the Cato Institute in Washington, D.C., found that income, reckoning other than the monthly check, adds considerably to the welfare total package.

For example, adding in the benefits for food stamps, Medicaid, housing — as in Fair Housing laws — nutrition assistance and energy assistance, not even accounting for free college scholarships, stipends and other education funds, pushes the package above that of many millions of working Americans and their families.

The "Contract with America" calls for most of these programs to be turned over to the states in block grants, eliminating the cost of the federal bureaucracy as well as allowing residents of the states to determine the parameters of welfare.

As the Journal article noted, "Today, millions are paying taxes to support a public assistance system that provides a higher living standard than they themselves achieve through work and sacrifice."

The Cato Institute study reveals that the average wage equivalent of welfare in Hawaii, a good place to be on welfare for more than money reasons, is $17.50 an hour! Next in order of work equivalent are Alaska at $15.48, Massachusetts at $14.66, Connecticut at $14.23, Washington, D.C. at $13.99, New York at $13.13 and New Jersey, no less, at $12.74. How many of our readers make nearly $100 a day at work?

No wonder the bureaucrats are planting scare stories with their friends in the media. After all, this welfare reform might even make folks work for a living.

Reform schools are not boot camps

English author Rudyard Kipling, a patriot for his country if there ever was one, once bitterly denounced the English newspapers, high clergy and others as hypocrites when it came to peacetime "Tommys," the English equivalent of "G.I. Joe," or "Grunt," of more recent vintage as in the Korean and Vietnam wars.

Kipling wrote a masterful poem of praise for the Tommys, in which one verse goes, "It was Tommy this and Tommy that and Tommy everything/But it is a thin red line of heroes when the drums begin to roll."

We take offense, therefore, with recent media and law enforcement folks daring to name reformatories — what used to be called reform schools — as "boot camps." To describe the grueling training Marines receive in "boot" or in post-boot as any way similar to centers for juvenile delinquents or young adult criminals is, at best, arrant ignorance, and at worst, insulting.

It is insulting not only to Marines, but to those in any military service and particularly in special services units like the Rangers, air rescue teams, Green Berets, paratrooper and other units which train good men and good women to be better good men and better good women. These "boot" camps do not train lawbreakers at any age.

No Marine enters "boot" or long remains if the essential character is missing. Discipline, esprit de corps, even courage can be taught, but the willingness to serve above and beyond the call of duty can only come from the basic values and virtues instilled since birth.

These centers are reform schools, not boot camps. Too many good men and good women have graduated "boot" with honor — and many have sacrificed their lives, indeed — to have the time-honored term of respect, "boot," defamed.

When you say "boot," think first of the heroes who marched there and, as every "boot" learns, with the American flag held high always.

Will Messina take the 'Road to Damascus'?

If Mayor Jim Messina continues on his current high road, he will soon confirm that conversions do occur on the Road to Damascus or, at least, on the Road to Washington Avenue. Paul, or Saul as he was known, was not a believer at first. I remember that our sixth-grade teacher in Bible history advised us that Saul had mocked Jesus and his followers before he took the most historic trip ever taken, the Road to Damascus.

This is not to proclaim Messina as a preacher. That would be somewhat out of place at his business establishment. Yet, who knows what good resides in the heart of man? So far, Messina has brought a strong measure of control to Belleville government, although it is still rife with bureaucracy, inefficiency, and even fraud.

The new Board of Education has become a model of what reform can do. Now Messina should join with Councilman Victor Canning and, as evident more recently, Councilman

Along Second River

By Russell Roemmele
Managing Editor

Gerald DiGori to get rid of the dead wood at Town Hall and to cleanse it of the corruption he should know exists there.

Most of all, Messina must seize political leadership in the county. If he understands that the county is in dire need of a candidate who was struck on the Road to Damascus — Treffinger never got past Newark — then he can easily become the next county executive. If he chooses to sleep with political prostitutes, however, he will never write, as it were, "Jim's First Letter to the Bellevillians."

The other night I spoke to a spirited group of good folks at Concerned Citizens of Belleville, so well alerted are they by that eternal reformer, Vince Frantantoni.

In substance, I spoke of the history of taxation in Belleville and, with fervor, the history of tax rebellion in what is now Belleville, going back to the land riots in Essex in the 1740s. The essential reason, I offered, in Belleville's secession from Bloomfield in 1839, in which Belleville took half the population of Bloomfield with it, was taxes, taxes and taxes. Religion, politics and ethnicity each had a minor role, to be sure, but it was the power brokers of Bloomfield at the time that forced Belleville to go its separate way.

This is the first commandment Messina should heed in his "First Letter to the Bellevillians" — taxes, taxes and again taxes. After taxes are stabilized, then in his "Second Letter to the Bellevillians," Messina can address other evils.

Messina would be the most feared politician in the county should he oppose the same old tired political prostitution as with the Scott-Pascerchia-Scaperrotta liaison. He should take on Treffinger for his opportunism. This is wishful thinking on my part, of course, or maybe I am fantasizing again, a crusader in search of a leader who would help save Belleville and, maybe, help save Essex County.

Among the truly great politicians in American reform movements — Lincoln, LaFollette, Teddy Roosevelt, Ronald Reagan — each had a political "Road to Damascus." Good heavens, I am not proposing our Mayor Jim Messina to join that honored list. I am simply hoping he keeps his luggage handy for his next trip.

Voters again betrayed by Scott, Treffinger

It's time for Angie Pascerchia to step aside from the Township Council.

The Edith Bunker of Kimbel Street has once again used her council position to politic and enrich herself. Pascerchia has proven that all her talk about saving tax dollars is just talk if she can get a job.

County Executive Jim Treffinger and Gov. Christine Whitman owe an apology to the voters of Belleville for the Essex County Department of Public Works' $32,000 pork job and the appointment to the Passaic Valley Water Commission that they served to Pascerchia.

What qualifications does Pascerchia have to serve as a water commissioner? She has yet to master the council level of politics, as witnessed by her participation in the bone-headed attempt to fire the tax assessor.

Is Angie an engineer? An attorney? Does she have a degree in public administration?

Of course not. Her sole claim to employment during the election was that she was an office manager at Wallace and Tieman.

I wrote a letter once to that company asking for confirmation of Pascerchia's job, but no reply ever came.

Pascerchia has been a good little pseudo-Republican, following Richard Yanuzzi and Joe Scaperrotta around on a political leash while those two do their dirty work.

The long list of legal problems that Yanuzzi has experienced never phased Pascerchia or Senator John Scott, who is sponsoring her PVWC appointment.

Pascerchia herself has a problem with NJ Election Law Enforcement, after declaring thousands of dollars in contributions as under $200 and therefore not required to be named.

No other candidate had such a swelling of small contributions.

If Pascerchia cannot be straightforward with her campaign finances, and if she is hiding her sources of money, what are voters to think?

Why, if Pascerchia dodges accountability in financial disclosure areas, is Senator John Scott sponsoring her nomination?

Scott has destroyed his voter base. He turned on the rank and file Republicans who worked hard to get him in office under the delusion that this was an honest conservative.

He is neither. He misrepresented himself to voters, has used his office to lead a grassroots political attack against local Republicans, and most dishearteningly, he has allied himself with the shadiest, most ethically questionable group in Belleville: The Belleville Republican Organization of Yanuzzi, Scaperrotta, Tom Fusco and Tom D'Alessio's son-in-law Jude Luongo.

The rewards of corruption are manifest now, and voters see more of the same kind of government that makes New Jersey the laughing stock of the country.

Scaperrotta's studied lies to Belleville senior citizens, when he told their groups that taxes would rise $1,000 if Hiltop was not approved, were abetted by Pascerchia.

She stood by and helped Scap and Yanuzzi scare seniors into thinking they would lose their homes, and friends of Senator Scott supplied buses to take the deceived seniors to rally for the sale.

No explanation came for the lies from Scap, of course, as he has no compunction when it comes to spreading falsehoods. That is the hallmark of the entire Yanuzzi organization.

Pascerchia owes the township an explanation of why she abetted the lies told to seniors. She was all over senior groups during the election campaign. This is how she treats them when she gets in office? She allows her ally to hold her lie to this constituency?

Scott, however, owes no explanation. The Pascerchia deal is right in line with this man's record of miserable political dealings.

It was Scott who sponsored a bill to help his limousine company contributor get out of paying overtime to drivers.

Why not the Pascerchia appointment, given the sorry state of Scott's ethical behavior?

Treffinger is the biggest disappointment, standing by while Pascerchia served herself tax dollars by getting a county job at $32,000.

Treffinger promised not to do such things during the campaign, and has shown himself to be worth his word. That is, not worth a damn.

Donna DiLauro Ryan begins another ascent

I won the bet. There are no more secrets here at the Belleville Post.

Months ago, I begged my colleague Doug Muro to show his tattoo to Russell — whose reaction I would love to videotape. Doug has been keeping his tattoo a secret and said he would only show Russell how he had vandalized his body when I leave Worrall Community Newspapers.

Doug made this bet, of course, thinking I would never leave. And now the secret is out — the ink marks of a sadist are forever etched on Doug's arm.

To the real topic at hand — I am leaving Worrall Newspapers — with fond memories. As I look back on my year's experience, there are more than a dozen things I could name off the top of my head that I have learned.

I often wonder how many things I have learned that I do not even understand yet.

Piece of Mind

By Donna Ryan
Staff Writer

It has been a long year. I remember my first assignment — a golf tournament at Forest Hill Field Club. It took me an hour to find the golf course, even though I grew up less than a mile away. I missed tee-off and my butt is still sore from having been driven about in a golf cart at 60 miles per hour.

Sometimes, as I would sit at my desk watching Russell, I would wonder — will that be me in 40 years? No, not an older man with gray hair — an editor, gobbling a bran muffin with one hand and banging on a desk, as only an editor can, with another hand?

Moving up, getting out, seemed only a distant dream this past year. My new job came knocking on my door. I did not seek it, it sought me, which leads me to believe that this is where I was meant to be.

I have loved my job. It has made me laugh, cry, yell and shake. It has taught me more about local politics than I ever wanted to know. Believe me — more than any of us wants to know.

Zoning boards, planning boards, budgets, audits, election laws, recounts, boards of education, council meetings, police overtime and sunshine laws — it made my head spin many a time, but it has taught me more than any other job.

There have been many times when I wanted to throttle the speaker during public comment. When the new monkey bars are not installed in my child's playground at 4:02 p.m. on the promised date is not my idea of public comment. It is more of a public display of stupidity.

As a reporter, I have seen some win and I have seen some lose whatever battle they brought to Town Hall. Some winners did not deserve to win. Some losers did not deserve to lose.

There were moments of justice — when councils and boards of education actually did their job. These were the moments I will cherish — when the person who may have been correct, yet wrong, lost. And the person who was right, yet incorrect, was given justice.

These were the good times. The bad times, more often than not, found good people unprepared, ignorant of parliamentary procedure and with a list of complaints a mile long.

Don't wait to become "fixed" with local government before letting your voice be heard. Speak now — while the problem is small. Stick to your topic — the one that affects you and your family personally. Don't get caught up in someone else's political agenda. Don't be a pawn.

My advice should not be considered condescending. I know absolutely nothing compared to many. But I have had to sit silently through meetings where lies were spread, good men kept down and legitimate concerns ignored.

As I leave the newspaper business, I return to my private, anonymous life. I look to that return, but I am a little wiser this time around.

And Russell, this one's for you — "An all-important meeting was held last night. It involved many of the town fathers, including George Washington."

Election coverage guidelines

In fairness to all municipal, county and state candidates and to provide the best service to our readers, this newspaper has established guidelines and a schedule for coverage of the Nov. 7 general election.

Under the guidelines, this newspaper is committed to specific elements of coverage. It will give background information about all known candidates, including stories on basic positions taken by each, and it will write news stories on the issues raised during the campaign.

Following is the schedule we will adhere to in the Nov. 7 elections:

Letters to the editor: Political letters, and those of endorsement, will be accepted up to and including the issue of Oct. 26. Letters may be printed or appear as excerpts at the editor's discretion.

Our endorsements: Endorsement editorials will appear Nov. 2.

Staff-written round-up stories: A final look at the candidates, their platforms and goals, etc., will appear Nov. 2.

Election results: Look for complete election result coverage Nov. 9.

"All these people talk so eloquently about getting back to good old-fashioned values. Well, as an old poop I can remember back to when we had those old-fashioned values, and I say let's get back to the good old-fashioned First Amendment of the good old-fashioned Constitution of the United States — and to hell with the censors! Give me knowledge or give me death!"

Rec committee needs volunteers

To the editor:

This reader expresses his appreciation to the mayor, council, board of education and the public officials who are greatly improving the roads and recreational facilities in our town, in addition to the Town Hall.

Last year, I was appointed to the Recreation Advisory Committee after having voiced my concerns of the deteriorating recreation facilities and the need for basketball courts, tennis courts, hockey rinks, and other outlets for our children on the weekends, after school and during school vacations.

It was gratifying to see the support the committee received from the council by several members, especially Gerald Digori, council liaison, who attended our meetings. The council often acted on our recommendations and I believe we were assisting the council as it had so many other matters requiring its attention.

Unfortunately, we often failed to have a quorum as several members had other commitments. Since we met only once a month, I urged the members to do their utmost to attend most of the meetings or at least let us know ahead of time so we could reschedule the meetings for a quorum. One member never showed up after the first meeting and failed to resign or be replaced.

All of the members, except myself resigned on June 28, but I was not notified and so went to the Rec House on July 6 for a scheduled meeting — only to find a locked door with a notice of the resignations.

To date, a new committee has not been appointed by the council. Each council person is to appoint one member — so that all areas of town are represented. It is hoped that the appointees will represent a cross section of the town, with women, which was not the case last time.

The Recreation and Cultural Advisory Committee has a vital function to play in the improvement of recreational facilities. I hope that interested citizens will get in touch with their council person for appointment to this important committee.

'Christian Coalition' is mainstream

To the editor:

The Christian Coalition has been referred to as a radical right wing religious extremist group out to take over the government and force the country to conform to its beliefs.

In reality, this coalition is comprised of people of different faiths, including Protestants, Catholics and Jews. But, more than that it is made up of fathers, mothers, husbands and wives who are concerned for their children's welfare. The liberals say the "Christian Coalition" is not mainstream America. So, who are these mainstream Americans: Are they people who think drugs should be legalized? Are they parents who want their second graders to read about "Heather" having two mommies? Are they parents of teenagers who want their children to be given condoms?

In the liberal, politically correct society a family with a strong father, a concerned mother and respectful, obedient children is an "offense." The Christian Coalition believes they are an asset to America. They believe in the traditional American dream.

Take heed mainstream America, although the radical left-wing liberals scream to be taking charge of politics in this country, the Christian Coalition is standing up for families, morality and traditional values without government interference.

Bellevillians toast Christopher Columbus, Michael Nardiello and Karen Auerbach at holiday gala

Karen Auerbach, Bella Signorina of the Belleville parade, was presented with a tiara and bouquet to mark the commencement of her reign.

Sam Papa, right, general chairman of the Columbus Day Parade Committee, joined former Deputy Mayor Mario Drozd at left and Belleville Tax Assessor Tom Salazano at the Columbus Day Ball held at Chandelier Restaurant, Oct. 7. Papa was presented with a plaque by the committee for his year-long efforts on behalf of the celebration.

Mayor Jim Messina drew the lucky winner of a $2,500 door prize. Carmen Marzola of Nutley won the money. Mario Drozd holds the ticket box.

New Eyes seeks donations of glasses for needy folks

New Eyes for the Needy, a non-profit group devoted to providing eyeglasses for those who cannot afford them, encourages Americans to make the most of those unwanted items which no longer have value to their original owner, but can mean the world to a person who is struggling with poor vision.

New Eyes President Cathy Herbst estimates there are millions of people throughout the world who need glasses but lack the money or access to get them. Thousands of these people are Americans. Through recycling, New Eyes' goal is to help 10,000 residents in the United States a year and to help people world wide in 25 developing nations.

New Eyes for the Needy has been in the forefront of recycling since 1932 by collecting discarded eyeglasses, jewelry, silver, watches, dental gold and hearing aids. Precious metal scrap is sold to a refiner to fund the program for needy Americans. Resuable plastic frames are tested by volunteers and sent overseas.

Donations of eyeglasses, jewelry and cash contributions are tax deductible and should be sent to: New Eyes for the Needy, Attention: Steve Allen, P.O. Box 332, 549 Millburn Ave., Short Hills, 97978. To organize a collection drive at your business or in your community, call 376-4903 or fax to 376-3807.

Former Superintendent of Belleville Schools Michael Nardiello was chosen grand marshal of the Belleville parade. Nardiello gave a moving speech that noted the long list of achievements by Italians, and defended Columbus against revisionist critics.

Belleville Columbus Day Parade Committee Chairwoman Camille Nazzola at right joined General Chairman Sam Papa during the gala, which attracted most of Belleville and Nutley's luminaries.

Free estate planning at Merrill Lynch office

A free educational estate planning seminar will be held at Merrill Lynch's Paramus office at Country Club Plaza, W115 Century Rd., Paramus, on Thursday, Oct. 26, 7 p.m.

New funding method is adopted by United Way communities

The Trustees of the United Way of Essex and West Hudson adopted a new method of funding agencies. Beginning October 1995, Health and Human Service Non-profit Agencies in the United Way service area will be eligible to apply for funds through a request for a proposal process.

Volunteers are needed to work in small groups to evaluate the new initiative funding process by reviewing the letters of intent and the proposals.

All nonprofit Health and Human Service Agencies in the following communities are eligible for United Way's strategic initiative funding: Belleville, East Orange, Irvington, Maplewood, Newark, Nutley, Orange, South Orange, West Orange, East Newark, Harrison, Kearny and North Arlington.

As part of the volunteer commitment, there will be an orientation, volunteers can choose either Oct. 19 at 4 p.m. or Oct. 20 at 8:30 a.m. Letter of intent reviews will be held Nov. 2 through Nov. 7, and proposal review will begin in January 1996.

'Behold what new things God is doing' — Grace Episcopal's pastor proclaims

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

The Rev. Wade A. Renn of Grace Episcopal in Nutley says "who needs religion?"

"Checking the dictionary for the word 'religion' we find 'ligion' comes from the Latin word ligare which means to bind together, to connect, as illustrated by the word 'ligament' that connects our bones to each other," said Renn.

"Religion then has to do with reconnection, specifically the reconnection of people with their deity or deities. Such a basic definition is in fact the common understanding and expectation of people."

Renn continued. "We ought not be surprised to recognize that a basic teaching of religions is that people are disconnected or alienated from their god or gods and religion is the means to be reconnected. Religion had to be the first successful marketing campaign ever and it has all been based on an image or illusion that created the market for itself."

"The grace of God liberates us from the abuse and bondage of religion. The Gospel of Jesus Christ is antithetical to religion as people have known it. God has never been disconnected from us."

For 22 years, Renn has been preaching in Nutley at Grace Episcopal.

After he was graduated from General Theological Seminary in N.Y. and ordained in 1965, Renn served at Grace Church in Newark and as a missionary for six years in Zambia.

"I have lived in Nutley longer than anywhere else in my life," Renn said. "This town has enabled me to grow personally."

Renn is married to Mary Ann and has two daughters, Margaret Ann and Julia. "My wife is on the flower committee. She arranges flowers for Sunday worship."

Renn's children also participate with the church.

As a youth Renn ignored his initial calling from God.

"My vocation as a clergyman was indicated in the 10th grade on a standard vocation test, but I went into physics instead."

"While working in physics in Washington D.C., I became a member of the Episcopal Church," Renn pointed out. "This helped me receive God's vision. I experienced an overwhelming awareness of God's vision of me as a minister."

The story of Grace Episcopal Church in Nutley began with children.

In 1863, a Sunday school was begun on the estate of Thomas Satterthwaite, which stretched from the river to Passaic Avenue and from Grant Avenue to Rutgers Place.

During those days, the Satterthwaites and others in what was then the town of Franklin had to travel by boat or carriage to Christ Church in Belleville. Satterthwaite, an Episcopalian, felt that his children and those of neighbors should be able to attend Sunday school classes closer to home. So, in 1872, the Satterthwaite family gave a parcel of land at Grant and Whitford Avenues as the site for the first Grace Church, called the Episcopal Church in Franklin.

During the first five years of its existence, Grace Church was conducted as a mission chapel with visiting clergy leading services. Rev. Dr. William H. Carter, rector of Christ Church in Bloomfield, was the first vicar of Grace Church.

In a letter dated March 25, 1891, the church was presented land on which it now stands. Construction of the rectory was started a number of months later and was completed in late 1892. Church services continued to be held at the church on Grant Avenue for another 15 years, however.

In 1904, the name of the town changed from Franklin to Nutley and the corporate name of the church was also changed to "Grace Church in Nutley." The first services of the new church were held on Christmas day, 1908.

The exterior appearance of the church buildings changed markedly through the years. A fire on the morning of Dec. 30, 1925, caused $50,000 in damage. The flames tore gaping holes in the roof and destroyed the organ, pews and Balmer murals. Fortunately, the artist was recommissioned and replaced the murals.

The church showed perhaps its greatest growth during the six years that Father Daniel Kilmer Sullivan was rector. "The Sullivan Years" saw the addition of a second full time priest, an increase of as much as 20 percent a year in attendance at services, the doubling of the parish's assets and a rise in the annual budget from $40,000 to $80,000.

"We have about 170 to 200 in attendance on an average Sunday," Renn noted. "We share this church with an Episcopal Chinese church. Rev. Phillip Wong approached us several years ago and asked to share our facilities. They have one worship service on Sunday and a Chinese school on Saturday mornings."

An adult and boys choir, music program aerobics class, dance consort and several 'anonymous' groups are offered by Grace Episcopal.

St. Thomas Craft Fair coming

St. Thomas the Apostle Home & School Association will hold its 8th annual Craft Fair, Saturday, Nov. 11, 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m.

This year's craft show will have more than 30 crafters from the tri-state area carrying a wide selection of crafted goods, jewelry and clothing, with special emphasis on the holiday season. Raffles will take place throughout the day along with a Grand Prize drawing. Refreshments will be available and admission is free.

A limited number of vendor spaces are still available. Each space is $25. For information or to reserve a space, phone 893-9625.

Sunday School Association sponsors a Christian Education Convention

Northern NJ Sunday School Association will be sponsoring the 1995 - 35th Annual Christian Education Convention on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 20 and 21.

The location will be the Hawthorne Gospel Church, in Hawthorne.

There will be more than 100 workshops and 50 exhibits. Registration begins at the door at 6 p.m., on Oct. 20, and at 8 a.m. on Oct. 21.

The keynote speaker will be Dr. Sid Buzzell, academic dean at Biblical Theological Seminary of Hatfield, PA. Dr. Buzzell has been operations manager at Word Of Life Inn in Schroom Lake, NY.

A professor at Dallas Seminary, Colorado Christian University, and Denver Seminary, before joining Biblical, he was academic dean at Seminary of the East in Fort Washington, PA.

Special music and workshops will be presented by The Grainer Family of Bala Cynwyd, Pa. The Grainers have been in music ministry for more than 25 years, travelling extensively. Their programs are of interest to all ages. They perform on piano, bells, choral concert glasses, and ventriloquism is also part of their concerts.

They have written material for Bible Visuals and the Charlie Flannelgraph Series.

For information, phone 283-1540 or 908-988-8563.

NNSSA is a cooperative organization of churches throughout New Jersey and the NY Metropolitan area, representing many denominations/independent churches. Since 1961, the NNSSA has been helping churches and individuals be better prepared to teach the Bible through Christian Education Ministries.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) — A new drug has been approved that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain. This material has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Lin." and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, neuritis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Lin...relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Lin...is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work. Use only on directed.

Woman's Club of Belleville exhibit

The Woman's Club of Belleville, founded in 1922, is providing an exhibit in the library's two display cases on the second floor of the Library of its programs and services.

The exhibit was provided by Barbara Spillane, president of the club who is also secretary of the library board of trustees.

In the display, the club indicates some of its projects, such as decorating and distributing gifts collected for the "Wish Tree" at two local churches; sponsorship of an annual poetry contest for Grades 7-9; and making holiday trays, which have been donated to the Clara Maass Continuing Care Center.

These are just a few of the many services and outreach programs the club provides for the community. The exhibit can be seen during regular library hours.

Noted scholar will clarify ethnic-Italian roots, heritage

The Center for Italian American Culture, Inc. of Cedar Grove and the Montville Chapter of UNICO National will have a slide and lecture, "Traces of Home."

This collaborative effort by two organizations who share a mission to promote the Italian culture and its contribution to Italian Heritage Month.

The Oct. 24 meeting will be held at the Fairfield Executive Inn, Route 46, Fairfield, 8 p.m.

Coffee and dessert will be offered for the $6 admission. For reservations, phone 812-0493.

In "Traces of Home," speaker Dr. Jerome Kruse will discuss the theory that if immigrants could, they would replicate the highly valued places and spaces from which they came. His slide presentation, however, will show examples of how it is more relevant to understand how immigrants use the environment they occupy rather than how they create new environments.

A quote from Dr. Kruse illustrates this statement: "On the Italian-American street scene, where houses were built with small front yards for ornamental plants, a productive fig tree is as appropriate as a Japanese maple."

His slides depict such scenes as traditional iron work in Potenza, Italy, and its influence on a Brooklyn iron worker on the adoption of public space for private uses in a slide from Avellino and the front yard of a Brooklyn home.

In introducing himself at a conference celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Center for Italian American Studies, Dr. Kruse said he found it "necessary to explain myself in anticipation of inevitable questions about my dubious ethnicity. Some people say I am 'half-Italian.' What does 'half' mean? My mother told me we weren't Italian at all; her mother told me she was Sicilian! As could be expected my father's name, Kruse, has given me a unique perspective on Italian American ethnicity."

Jerome Kruse is a professor of sociology at Brooklyn College of The City University of New York who received his bachelor of arts from Indiana University in 1967 and his PhD from New York University in 1973. A founding member of the CUNY Academy of Humanities and Sciences and one of its past officers, he was appointed by Governor Mario Cuomo to the New York Council for the Humanities in 1988 where he continues to serve.

He is president of the American Italian Historical Association, an international organization of scholars who collect, preserve and disseminate materials which shed light on the Italian experience in the U.S. and Canada.

SanFillipo reaches milestone

Nutley coach wins 100th with victory Friday night

By John Monteverde
Staff Writer

With the Nutley High School football team's 28-12 victory at Don Bosco Prep in Ramsey on Friday night, head coach Rich SanFillipo quietly recorded the 100th victory in his 18 years on high school sidelines.

Nobody knew it — not the media, his coaching staff or his own players. And that's just the way he liked it.

True to his ways of deflecting praise from individuals and stressing the whole team, SanFillipo kept the impending milestone a secret, quietly preparing for the contest with the Ironmen. And even after the victory, it wasn't until SanFillipo's wife called the locker room during Monday night's coaching staff meeting and told assistant Joe Affinito that anybody within the Raider family knew of the accomplishment.

But despite the cool exterior, SanFillipo knew it was coming and finally admitted that he did perhaps prepare a bit more diligently and thoroughly, and that he was looking forward to a win that would move his name among the state's elite coaches, which is no small feat in these ever-changing times.

"I knew it was coming, but nobody else did," said SanFillipo, who is now 100-49-5 in 18 seasons at Glen Ridge, Verona and Nutley, which includes a pair of state championships. "I really wanted to be low key about it, because all year I have been stressing team play to my kids and I didn't want to see me all excited over an individual thing."

"But if you're a competitor, which I definitely am, you want to get the win total up there and be recognized for the job you do. It was a big thing after the game, and I celebrated the win quietly at home. I can't deny I didn't have a little extra incentive. This is a team game, but it was a special victory for me."

While coaches of SanFillipo's caliber do not come down the pike every day, his ability to consistently get the most out of solid but certainly not superior athletes is nothing short of amazing. A quick look at schools like NNJIL Pacific rivals Hackensack, Paramus Catholic and St. Joseph of Montvale provides a laundry list of Division 1 talent, but Nutley certainly doesn't have that kind of athlete roaming its Maroon and White halls.

In fact, in SanFillipo's 18 years as a head coach, he has had just one player go on to Division 1 competition. Pete Anderson of Glen Ridge, an offensive lineman on the 1980 state championship team, went to the University of Georgia on somewhat of a reach, but he developed into a Kodak All-America center for Vince Dooley's squad. Anderson also went on to play a season for the Baltimore Colts.

But other than Anderson, SanFillipo's rosters through the years have been dominated by kids with overwhelming desire and grit, not outstanding physical ability. But the true test of a coach is to get the most out of the cards he is dealt, and at that comes out SanFillipo's true genius.

"It's certainly a fact that I haven't exactly had a lot of blue chip players over the past 18 years, but I've had my share of good players," said SanFillipo, who is in his sixth year at Nutley and sports a 26-22-4 record at the school. "Contrary to what I see a lot of coaches trying to do, I don't believe you need a lot of great college level kids to be successful. This is not college football."

While he doubts he'll stick around

Rich SanFillipo
'special victory'

to witness another 18 years on the sidelines, SanFillipo feels he's certainly not alone in that thinking. Gone are the days of the 30-year coaches like a Foley at Bloomfield, a Verducci at Seton Hall, an Anderson at Montclair, according to the coach.

"Guys are just not in the game as long anymore," said SanFillipo, who will be gunning for his 101st victory on Saturday against Ferris at Tangorra Field. "You just won't see guys sticking around 20 or 30 years, because the demands and the kids have changed so much. Coaches are forced to deal with a lot of kids who just don't want to invest in the long term, because they want immediate results or else they'll quit. That's why you see rosters dropping all over the place, because kids don't want to invest three years of hard work to become a senior starter."

The size of rosters are falling everywhere, and Nutley has certainly not been immune. The Raiders had 56 players out on the opening day of practice, but the roster today currently shows just 39 kids. In fact, SanFillipo's stops at Group 1 Glen Ridge and then Group 2 Verona (the Hilltoppers have since been moved down to Group 1) ended with rosters of 29 kids, dangerously low numbers to support any program, and certainly not a top-flight program.

But it's not the size of the dog in the fight but the size of the fight in the dog, and SanFillipo's 18 teams have certainly held up their end of the bargain throughout the successful years.

"I think we've had kids who have given us a shot to be good every year, and if you put kids in the right positions some years you can match up with the best of them," said SanFillipo, who is well respected by his peers. "One of the proudest aspects of my career so far has been that I've been to the state playoffs in all three places I've been, and I won a state championship at two of them. We gear ourselves as coaches to get the most out of the players we have, and I've been fortunate to have worked with some great kids over the years. Friday night's win was very special for me, I have to admit."

GRID NOTES — SanFillipo's coaching ability was put to the ultimate test in 1990, when he inherited a young team that took its lumps, finishing 1-8 while allowing close to 22 points a game. But in one of the more amazing turnarounds in recent state history, the Raiders reached the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 final a year later, falling to West Morris, and in 1992 they won an improbable crown...

Perhaps the greatest two games in Nutley history came during the 1992 season. On Oct. 17, the Raiders took a 14-13 decision at St. Joseph of Montvale, a state powerhouse. And on Nov. 7, 1992, Nutley rallied with a TD as time expired, kicked the extra point and escaped with a 14-14 tie at Hackensack, which was on its way to the second of four straight section crowns, a streak that is still intact.

Belleville booters sharp despite slew of injuries

By Matt Franklin
Sports Editor

The first half of the season brought no surprises to fans of the Belleville High School boys' soccer team. The Buccaneers played solid ball from the start and distinguished themselves as one of the top teams in Essex County.

Now that the second half of the campaign is underway, Belleville fans are hoping for more of the same success. However, a problem for the Bucs has been injuries, and head coach Gino DePinto is seeking relief from those injuries as the important contests await.

"We've played pretty well," said DePinto. "The main thing is that we've had a few injuries. If not for that, we'd be even better."

Belleville had a record of 6-2-1 heading into this week's action as it prepares for play in the Essex County Tournament. The seedings for the ECT took place Monday night, with the Bucs expected to earn a fairly high seed.

But for the Bucs to make a run in the ECT, they'll have to stay healthy. The main injury so far is to senior midfielder Tom Ranucci, who aggravated a knee problem he incurred playing winter ball. Ranucci, the team's captain, has only played in about four games but has still managed three goals and five assists.

"He looks okay," said DePinto. "He just has to relax. He may be back for the ECT."

Belleville has also been without the services of junior forward Mike Brown, who pulled a muscle in his leg. Other players are out with injuries which took place off the field, forcing DePinto to juggle his lineup a bit.

"A couple of kids were in a car accident," said DePinto. "One kid will be out for a couple of weeks."

But despite all of the injuries, Belleville has managed to remain one of the top teams in the area. The Bucs have recorded four shutouts and lost close 1-0 contests to both Nutley and Hackensack.

A big key this season is that Belleville is putting the ball in the net a lot more than last year. The Bucs scored 22 goals in the first nine games, at the same time allowing just five.

The leading scorer is junior forward Nick Colucci, a first-team All-NNJIL-Pacific Division selection in 1994. Colucci has score nine goals and leads the squad in assists with seven.

Another big plus has been the play of senior back Ricky Racines. Racines has scored four goals and four assists, all the while helping along the strong Belleville defense. The defense has been anchored by senior goalkeeper Natale Guagliardi.

A player who has come on of late is sophomore Danny Almeida. Almeida has seen more playing time because of the injuries and has responded with three goals and three assists.

The second half of the season promises to be an exciting time of the year for Belleville. The Bucs will begin play in the ECT this Sunday and are hoping for a good showing in the talent-rich event.

"The kids are always excited about the ECT," said DePinto. "It's probably one of the most prestigious tournaments in the state."

Belleville is further seeking continued success in the NNJIL-Pacific Division. Don Bosco appears to be the team to beat in the conference, but the Bucs are right in the race for a conference title.

The big thing now for Belleville is to get healthy and avoid further injuries. If that happens, the Bucs can be confident they'll hold their own in the big matches coming up.

"If there's anything we want to improve upon, it's the injuries," said DePinto. "If the kids get better, we'll get better."

CORNER KICKS — Belleville has an important contest today when it hosts Don Bosco Prep at 4 p.m. The two teams tied, 1-1, earlier in the season, with Ranucci scoring the lone Buccaneer goal. DePinto said Don Bosco (7-0-1) is by far the strongest team Belleville has faced.

"Don Bosco is unbelievable," said DePinto. "They have big, strong players who are quick..."

East Orange appears to be the team to beat in the ECT. The Panthers are ranked No. 6 in the state by the The Star Ledger and carried a record of 7-1-1 into this week's action...

ECT action gets underway this Sunday at the home fields of the higher seeded teams. The ECT final will take place Nov. 5 at New Jersey Tech...

Raider grid squad entering crucial stretch

By John Monteverde
Staff Writer

As the Nutley High School football team's 28-12 win at Don Bosco Prep was winding down on Friday night, giving head coach Rich SanFillipo his 100th career victory, the focus quickly shifted to Saturday afternoon's clash with Hudson County squad Ferris of Jersey City.

Ferris will be the first of three straight home opponents for the Raiders, who enter this crucial stretch at 2-1 and eyeing a possible return to the North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 playoffs after a two-year absence.

Although on paper this appears to be a game Nutley should handle easily, SanFillipo is not buying it. He realizes that Ferris, a Group 4 school, has some talented kids at the skill positions, and at 2-2 (wins over Lincoln and Snyder) they are certainly competitive.

"They have some athletes who can run the field," said SanFillipo, who has seen tapes of Ferris and will show the team excerpts of their big win over Snyder. "If we play well we'll win the game, but I've warned the kids not to get ambushed. But we've played hard every week, so I'm expecting the same kind of effort on Saturday."

The next three weeks, however, will go a long way towards determining how far Nutley will go this season. While a win over Ferris would improve the team's mark to 3-1, home games against Teaneck and Paterson Eastside and a road contest at Paramus Catholic will be tough.

Teaneck handed Nutley a road loss a year ago, and they have considerable Division 1 talent on both sides of the ball. Paterson Eastside always has athletes, while Paramus Catholic can be explosive offensively. And should the Raiders improve to 6-1 with three victories, a Week Eight showdown at powerful St. Joseph of Montvale may stand between them and a playoff berth.

"We don't think we're bigger and stronger than anybody we play this year, but we just have to execute properly and do what we can do to help us succeed," said SanFillipo. "But let's face it, we don't play anybody that doesn't have football players. That's a way of life in this league."

Sparking the Raiders has been the re-emergence of Sean Nicol, a senior split end/defensive back who has made a remarkable recovery from a frightening back injury. Nicol has a pair of TDs, and he caught seven balls for 70 yards against the Ironmen, but his defensive prowess has been nothing short of spectacular.

"He's real subtle out there, but he is just always making big plays," SanFillipo said. "He's been super. We're doing some things to avoid getting him in traffic, but defensively he's a great tackler who has been going around whacking people."

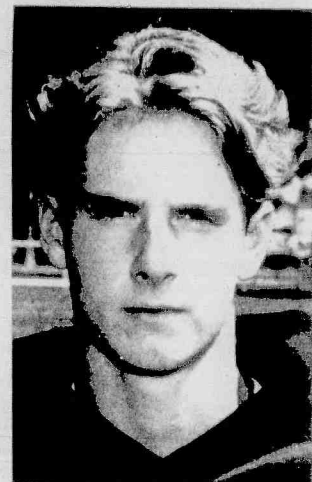

The offensive attack has been led by first-year starter Craig McCann, a senior who was injured as a sophomore and backed up Mike Greco last season. McCann has been steady under center, especially when he has had the luxury of handing off to senior tailback Robert Carey, who is averaging five yards a pop and has two straight 100-yard games. Throw in senior end Joe DeMaestro, and Nutley's attack appears as formidable as any.

"We don't blow anybody off the ball, but we've been successful at doing what we need to do to win," said SanFillipo. "We've avoided injuries, and if we continue to progress we might be capable of quite a few things this year."

GRID NOTES — SanFillipo was especially pleased with Friday's win at Don Bosco Prep, a recent bump in the road for the Raiders. "They have been a jinx for us lately, especially up there," said SanFillipo. "They are tough to play. First it's on Friday night, so we have to get our kids in by four in the afternoon, give them a sandwich and get on the bus. Then it's under the lights, and it's a long walk up a hill to the field. It's a tough place to play..."

In addition to his offensive skills, Nicol has also latched on to a pair of interceptions.

Cerone golf event at Hendricks Field

sports scene

Former Essex Catholic High School and Seton Hall University great Rick Cerone will serve as the host for the third annual Rick Cerone Pride Bowl Golf Scramble on Saturday at Hendricks Field, Belleville. The event will benefit Project Pride, which does so much to help inner city youngsters. Each year, the Pride Bowl football game raises thousands of dollars which benefit inner city youths.

Cerone's golf event will feature a shotgun start at 8 a.m. For additional information, contact Project Pride director Joe DiVincenzo at 667-8316.

Recreation wrestling

Applications for recreation wrestling are now available at the Belleville Recreation Department at 407 Joralemon St. between 8:30-12 p.m. and 12:30-4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Belleville Recreation Wrestling Program introduces boys ages 6-14 to the fundamentals of the sport. Basic techniques, moves and strategy are taught to beginners as well as to the more advanced wrestlers. In competition, boys are matched up against opponents of the same weight class.

Rec wrestling will be conducted on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:15-8:15 p.m. in the Belleville High School cafeteria beginning Nov. 6. Tentatively, ages 6-9 will be given basic instructions from 6:15-7:15, while 10-14 year olds are prepared for league competition between 6:15-8:15 p.m.

Boys can register for the activity by completing an application at the recreation office before participating. Birth certificates are required for all first-time applicants, who must be Belleville residents and not past the eighth grade.

For more information call 450-3422.

Basketball leagues

The Belleville Recreation Department is forming basketball leagues for children in grades three through eight. Applications are now available at the recreation office.

In preparation for the league, basketball clinics will be conducted at the Middle School Boys' Gym. Clinics will be held Nov. 13 and Nov. 14 as follows: Grades 3-4 from 6-7 p.m.; Grades 5-6 from 7-8 p.m.; and Grades 7-8 from 8-9 p.m. Boys and girls shall attend these clinics together. "Performance Clinics" for player assignment will be held Nov. 20 for girls and Nov. 21 for boys.

Interested players should pick up application forms at the Recreation House, 407 Joralemon St., and return them with birth certificates before participating. The registration deadline for the basketball leagues is Nov. 17.

The rec office on Joralemon Street is open for registration Wednesday nights from 6-8 p.m.

Photo nights

The Belleville Recreation Department office on Joralemon Street will be open on Wednesday nights from 6-8 p.m. for photo I.D.'s through Nov. 22.

Photo I.D.'s are required for all adults and children participating in the Open Basketball and Open Volleyball programs in the schools and at the Friendly House. A $2 fee and proof of residency is required when applying for I.D. cards.

Belleville residents will only be admitted into the gyms with their recreation I.D. cards. People with 1994 cards must renew for 1995-96.

Coaches needed

The Belleville Recreation Department is presently seeking adults to volunteer as coaches in its Junior Basketball Leagues for boys and girls. Games are played on weeknights and Saturdays. If interested, call the rec office at 450-3422.

Coaches clinic

The Bloomfield College men's basketball team will sponsor a comprehensive coaches clinic Saturday, Oct. 21 at Bloomfield College. Topics will include halfcourt offense (including the flex series), halfcourt defense and the pressing game, individual improvement drills and more.

Cost is $20 for pre-registration and $25 after Oct. 15. Staff discounts include $5 off for second coach and $10 off for third coach.

Fans asked to pick fame candidates

Who are New Jersey's greatest athletes? Its most influential contributors to sports programs? The Garden State's outstanding teams and sporting events?

Sports fans are about to get the chance to help pick them.

The Sports Hall of Fame of New Jersey is asking the general public to submit candidates for consideration for its fourth class of inductees.

The deadline for sports fans is Nov. 10, 1995. Then, a 25-member Nominating Committee will narrow the selection for a final vote by the Hall of Fame's Board of Directors.

The names of candidates should be submitted in writing by Nov. 10 to the Nominating Committee, Sports Hall of Fame of New Jersey, New Jersey

Sports and Exposition Authority, East Rutherford, NJ 07073, along with a brief reason why the candidate's name is being presented.

Jay J. Zizewski, chairman of the Nominating Committee, said the Hall of Fame will honor amateur or professional athletes, deceased or alive, who have resided in New Jersey or who have had a significant connection with the Garden State. There is a three-year waiting period following their retirement from active competition.

Also included is a category of contributors who are coaches, officials, members of the sports media, and individuals who served in administrative, promotional or other influential capacities.

UAHC intermarriage program opens the door for discussion

How will we raise our children? What holidays will we celebrate? How can I cope with the hostility I feel from my in-laws because I am not of their faith? What are the fundamental differences between being a Christian and being a Jew?

These are the kinds of questions addressed in "Opening Doors: A Liberal Jewish Perspective on Intermarriage," a program that offers partners in interfaith relationships the opportunity to discuss their concerns and explore their options with other similar couples.

The six-week discussion series, part of a national program under the auspices of the Commission on Reform Jewish Outreach, will begin Wednesday evening, Oct. 18 at Temple Ner Tamid in Bloomfield.

The group will be led by Cantor Sheila Pearl, who has extensive experience working with interfaith couples.

"Opening Doors" is sponsored by the New Jersey-West Hudson Valley Council of Union of American Hebrew Congregations. It is open to couples only; group size is limited to eight couples.

While the program is in no way conversionary, it is offered in a Jewish setting and provides a forum for participants to clarify any questions they have regarding Judaism.

"This is the first program of its kind available specifically for unaffiliated intermarried couples," noted Dru Greenwood, former outreach coordinator for the local branch of the UAHC. "We want participating couples to have the chance for frank discussions that can allow them to make informed decisions for themselves and their families."

To register for "Opening Doors," or for information on this or other offerings, phone Kathryn Kahn, UAHC outreach coordinator, 599-0080.

ESSEX COUNTY NEWS

WORRALL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1995

SECTION B

Handicapped to be feted at county's Expo '95

In recognition of October as "National Disability Employment Awareness Month," County Executive Jim Treffinger and the Essex County Office of the Handicapped announced Expo '95 will highlight outstanding handicapped workers and county-based businesses that routinely hire handicapped citizens.

The event will be Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Calvin Childs Activities Building on the grounds of the Essex County Hospital Center in Cedar Grove.

Expo '95 is planned for people with disabilities, their families and friends to access information and help them become more independent and productive. There will be various employers on hand to accept applications from qualified disabled individuals and exhibitors from public and private agencies will be available to address a variety of issues from assisting devices to transportation and more.

A resource person will be present to discuss the Americans with Disabilities Act and its impact on the disabled community.

A feature of the day's activities will be an awards presentation by the county executive. Three outstanding disabled employees will be honored along with three Essex County businesses who make it a practice to hire disabled workers. Nancy Starnes, Ms. Wheelchair New Jersey, will be on hand to meet the crowd.

Admission to Expo '95 is free and refreshments will be served. If requested, a sign language interpreter will be provided. For more information about participating or exhibiting at the event, call Director Joy Pellegrino at the Essex County Office of the Handicapped at 228-8230 or 228-8278 TTY.

Housing, social services to be highlighted at fair

State and county government agencies will join forces Oct. 19 to host an "Affordable Housing/Community Awareness Fair" at Essex County College. The afternoon event will be from 2-5 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room in the college's Physical Education Building on West Market Street in Newark.

Among the major sponsors of the event is the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency, a non-profit agency created by the state legislature. The agency works to increase home ownership among urban, low- and moderate-income families throughout the state.

Also on hand will be representatives from local banks, private mortgage companies and real estate agencies to discuss home buying options.

Local agencies sharing information at the fair will include the Essex County Office of Hispanic Affairs, FOCUS, ASPIRA, Inc. of New Jersey, La Casa de Don Pedro and the Essex County Sheriff's Office and Surrogate's Court.

The free event will provide informational booths describing in English and Spanish a wide variety of community services. In addition to housing assistance, staff members will be on hand from the Essex County Department of Citizen Services to discuss programs for the aging, the handicapped, child care service and health care assistance.

For more information, call the Essex County Office of Hispanic Affairs at 621-4958.

Honored ones

The Essex County Board of Chosen Freeholders honored Italian-Americans during a ceremony Oct. 5. Among the honorees from throughout the county were, from left, Anthony Biondi, co-marshal of the Nutley-Belleville Columbus Day Parade; Mario Crescito, Man of the Year; and Ace Alagna, national director of the Columbus Day Parade.

Clerk hopeful responds to criticism

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

After being criticized last week for using the county seal on an invitation for a Sept. 21 political fund-raiser, Irvington Councilman Patrick McNally, Democratic candidate for Essex County Clerk, said it was a mistake to use the seal and he would no longer use the seal in any of his campaign literature.

Meanwhile, County Executive James Treffinger, a Republican, has forwarded a copy of the invitation to his special counsel Michael Chertoff for review. Chertoff is a former attorney general for the state who gained notoriety for prosecuting Treffinger's predecessor, Tom D'Alessio. Treffinger said he believed the county seal is the property of Essex County and could be considered as its trademark. He is asking Chertoff to research the legality of a candidate using the seal on campaign literature and, if it is found to be an abuse, what the penalty would be.

McNally said he did not think twice about using the seal and said it has been common practice by politicians on many levels of government.

"Sometimes it takes an outsider to make you see something should not be done," McNally said. "I really was not sufficiently sensitive to the matter."

The Irvington resident said if he is elected county clerk, he will not use the seal or bring politics into the clerk's office, and will abide by the code of ethics introduced by the county executive Aug. 3. "I want to make sure nothing is misconstrued," he said.

The code of ethics, issued in an executive order, applies to all employees in the administrative branch which Treffinger has authority over. It prohibits employees from conducting political business while conducting county business and from using county property for personal or political reasons.

If an employee appointed by the county executive is found to be in violation of the code, they could be fired from their post. If a civil service employee is found in violation, they are subject to a penalty consistent with civil service laws.

"In retrospect, I shouldn't have done it," McNally said.

Business, prosperity heading west on Interstate 280

Lookout On Eagle Rock

By Russell Roemmele
Staff Writer

Big news: On the one hand, Newark is losing population; Nevada is gaining population. So says the U.S. Census Bureau. I do not know for which I should weep. The great migration of Americans to points south and west is continuing. How soon will the last picture show close in Essex County?

Business and industry, especially manufacturing, have been leaving Essex County since the 1950s. Office booms in the suburbs helped for a while. New housing seems to have helped and perhaps will continue to help in the desperate need for new rentals. Property values, the market price of homes, is decreasing in most Essex suburbs.

Simply stated, Essex can no longer compete. The power brokers could not care less, for they have their fiefdoms. The county is indebting itself with plastic card credit — bonds. It will not be able to pay for them, if present projections of county valuation of property follows past practice. I hold that the day of reckoning is approaching. The handwriting on the wall has been replaced with graffiti. Sound gloomy? Think back to other hurtful economic times in the county. What do you believe happened when steam took over from water as the horsepower of industry in Essex County, beginning in earnest about 1840. Where did the grist mills go? Where did the saw mills go?

One of the most remarkable of economic turnarounds, from a prosperous, expanding industry to decline and fall, was in the hat-making businesses, primarily centered in the Watsessing area of Bloomfield, Doddtown in present-day East Orange, and in the Orange valley.

Hatmaking began to boom when the Gill hat-forming machine was invented and then patented in 1857. The rival Wells hat-forming machine came to Orange about 1890. Hat-making, primarily of men's felt hats, became sick just before World War II and became terminal in the early 1920s.

This economic setback was caused not because of passing fancies, as most men still wore hats until after World War II. No, the fundamental cause for the demise of hat-making was the failure of the companies to compete in the marketplace against cheaper brands made in the Southeast and in economically depressed portions of New England.

This is not to say the hat-makers did not try to compete. They invented less labor-intensive production methods. They could not compete, however, against "Hong Kong" of the day — southern hat-making.

Most folks in Orange know or should know of one of its most profitable industries in the later part of the 19th century through the pre-World

Employees file complaint to halt sale of center

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

A group of employees from the Essex County Geriatric Center in Cedar Grove have filed a complaint against County Executive James Treffinger, charging that any layoffs brought about by the privatization of the center would be discriminatory.

The complaint, filed by CWA 1040 president Regina Burton to the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, claims that because a great majority of the Geriatric Center's employees are minorities and/or women, any layoffs would be discriminatory. Even if many of the employees with seniority exercise their "bumping rights" to obtain a similar position with the county, less experienced employees, also minorities and women, would be left without jobs, the complaint states.

The county is due to accept bid packages tomorrow from 12 private companies interested in operating the Geriatric Center, and expects to turn over control of the center to the successful bidder Nov. 11. In the bid specifications, current county employees at the Geriatric Center are guaranteed three months of employment with the new company, although benefits and salary may not be equal to what they receive with the county.

Privatizing the center will affect all 179 employees, 97 percent of which are minority and/or black. The complaint, signed by 28 employees of the center and two high-ranking officials of the Newark NAACP branch, requests the sale be stopped until an investigation by the EEOC is conducted.

"179 employees will be affected at the Geriatric Center. Because of bumping rights, most will lose their jobs, however should employees exercise their right to 'bump' employees in other areas of the complex, the domino effect will result and other employees will be subject to layoff," the complaint states.

"We believe a disproportionate number of women and minorities" will be impacted by the sale of the facility, said Gary Staples, chairman of the Coalition to Stop the Sale of County Services, who is listed as a second contact person on the complaint form.

Treffinger said the CWA was "grasping at straws" and called the complaint "extremely cynical and absurd." The layoffs have nothing to do with race, he said, naming the financial losses and substandard level of care the Geriatric Center has been plagued with over the last five years.

During the last five years, the county has lost more than $1 million annually trying to operate the 279-bed facility and expects to lose $3 million this year. It also has had to deal with drastically improving the level of care provided to patients after a state inspection landed the center with five major violations. The violations ranged from substandard conditions at the center to instances in which patients were not bathed or were harassed by nurses.

"Every citizen Essex County is not very good at providing elder care," the executive said.

Treffinger labeled Staples as an "outsider" who was brought up from Trenton to help the local CWA union fight the privatization of the center.

"Gary Staples is an outside professional labor leader who doesn't live in Essex County, he doesn't work in Essex County and he doesn't pay taxes in Essex County," Treffinger said about Staples being affiliated with the CWA division office in Trenton. "This is all he does. He's an outside labor agitator."

The executive also pointed out Staples, the alternate contact person in the complaint, is listed as a "friend" of Burton's and that no mention of his affiliation with the CWA is listed.

When the county distributed the "request for proposals" to the 12 private companies, it also sent a list of specifications to the CWA 1040 chapter. The chapter, with the Coalition to Stop the Sale of County Services, earlier had submitted a two-page proposal which outlined how the current employees at the Geriatric Center could take over the operation of the center for a six-month trial period. The objective would be to keep the center owned by the county and show it could be run profitably while maintaining the level of patient care.

Steve Aduabato to host new national TV show

Steve Aduabato, an award-winning PBS television anchor and producer as well as a prominent political journalist, will be hosting NewsTalk Television's two-hour late night segment "Final Edition." Each weekday, NewsTalk Television's "Final Edition" provides viewers with a review and analysis of the day's activities. Viewers and computer online users have an opportunity to voice their opinions to the host and discuss in-depth the issues of the day.

Aduabato officially joined NewsTalk Television Oct. 2 when "Final Edition" aired in its new late night time slot, moving from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Aduabato will host "Final Edition" Monday through Thursday, while political commentator and human rights activist Vladimir Pozner hosts Friday's "Final Edition: Week in Review." Pozner will continue to serve as a host for NewsTalk Television on other occasions and has begun producing a special television programming series in Russia.

Aduabato brings his journalistic, academic and public affairs background to NewsTalk Television. He is the anchor of two political issues-oriented programs carried on New Jersey's Public Broadcasting System. Since 1986, Aduabato has served as anchor and executive producer of "Caucus: New Jersey," a 30-minute national award-winning public affairs television series, and co-hosts WNET's Channel 13 news program, "Inside Trenton," which explores regional political issues on a weekly basis. His other on-air broadcast credits include contributing commentary for C-SPAN and WCBS-TV's Channel 2 Sunday Edition.

Aduabato's entry into politics began at the age of 26, when he was elected as the youngest member of the New Jersey State Legislature. He continues to stay active in New Jersey public affairs with a syndicated column on local and state politics, which appears in more than 15 regional and local newspapers throughout New Jersey and Philadelphia. Aduabato teaches public policy and mass media at Rutgers University, where he has lectured since 1984. Aduabato is completing his Ph.D. at Rutgers University in the field of mass communication.

Commenting on the recent appointment of Steve Aduabato, Thrall said, "We are thrilled to have Steve join NewsTalk Television as the cable service celebrates its first anniversary this October. We value the intelligence, integrity and commitment Steve brings to covering and exploring news issues that really impact people's lives. His wealth of experience in the political and broadcast arenas will be a valuable resource to our programming and viewers nationwide."

Thrall continued by saying, "In recent months, Steve Aduabato has served as a guest host for 'Final Edition.' The very positive viewer feedback we have received reflects our continued confidence in Steve and his contribution to NewsTalk Television programming."

Award-winning artist has watercolors on exhibition

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

Nothing stops a true artist from creating and sharing his creations with others.

Take Ray Horner Jr. of Irvington, for example. Right now, Horner's art exhibition, "Switching Channels," is being displayed at the Les Malamut Art Gallery in the Union Public Library through Nov. 10.

The award-winning artist, who is 43 years old and has been drawing since he was a little boy, has been acclaimed for his works in the Festival on the Green from 1987 through 1994. As an adult, even after being diagnosed with sarcoidosis, he continued to paint and draw.

"I always was influenced by my mother," he said. "Even as a young child in my hometown, New Haven, Conn., my mother, Mildred, who used to paint as a hobby, allowed me to draw quite a bit."

"Actually, I was drawing all the time — behind the doors of my house, cleverly behind my bed-post — and my grandmother, who worked in a supermarket, used to bring home cash register receipts for me to draw on. I was always encouraged," he said. "I remember when I was in school in New Haven, they had a special class for art, and an old Italian man with one arm used to come to our school, where we would do oils. He looked at our work, and he helped us with our oil paintings."

Horner received a bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of Connecticut and a master of fine arts degree from the University of Massachusetts. He moved to Irvington in 1979.

"Actually, I started out as a graphic and oil color artist," he recalled. "And about 1985, I became very ill. I have sarcoidosis. So, I started going back to drawing. I could no longer work as a graphic artist. I was in and out of hospitals. I did a lot of water colors because I couldn't do oils — you know, because of the fumes. That's how my watercolors got started."

"Every now and then it flares up, and it goes in and out of remission," he said, sighing. "But I've been dealing with it pretty well. It is not a contagious disease, just debilitating."

"I started to do landscapes. I needed something that was soothing, and so I started doing a lot of watercolors and pen and ink drawings of landscapes. I used to go to upstate New York and sometimes in Irvington Park. It doesn't take much for me to be creative," he admitted, smiling. "I look for the movement and space, and the rest is imagination."

How long does a watercolor painting take?

"Usually, my watercolors take a little longer than a lot of other watercolors, because I work in layers of colors," he explained. "I have to wait until each layer dries. One of the larger pieces usually take about a week and a half. I've done some in a day. I also do demonstrations for art groups or associations."

Horner has been participating in the Festival on the Green since 1986. "I won about eight awards at the festival."

Drawing since childhood

Also, I had the Les Malamut Purchase Award called 'The Family Conference.' I am very grateful to Mr. Malamut and to all the other wonderful people connected with the Festival on the Green and the art gallery," he added.

The artist explained he started showing during college.

"I won my first purchase award in 1973," he said. "I was still in college at the time. I support myself through my watercolors, art commissions and custom framing, which I do out of my home."

"I've done other things, too," he said. "I had done carpentry and I taught art at Essex County College and Montclair Art Museum. I taught watercolor, art appreciation, designing, drawing."

"I prefer doing it myself, but I like teaching, too," said Horner. "Teaching art is good because it allows the student to learn, and the instructor also learns when he sees the growth in a student and the encouragement. Because they're trying new things, they're not caught up in the stereotype arts in the field. Students do not have the background yet. It's just a stepping out and trying new things, and I encourage it."

The artist enthused: "The real main thing is being around creative people — artists, writers, musicians. It helps to inspire the students."

Horner, who has been married for 17 years to Rosemary, a woman who continues to inspire him, said, "she's always been an encouragement. It's pretty hard to do without someone like my wife."

Rosemary is a health educator for the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey in Newark. "Right now," said Horner, "she's working with the lead poisoning program."

"Actually, I couldn't do what I do without a host of people, my wife among them, and friends who help along the way."

Some of his paintings are part of permanent collections in Connecticut, New York and New Jersey.

"I'm working on a series of oil paintings," he said. "I can do them now. With the odorless materials, they are easier to do. I'm also working on a series of etchings."

"About November, near the Thanksgiving holiday, I'm going to have an exhibit in Newark, in a small gallery in the Inner City called the Bergen Street Art Village. This exhibit will probably move to that location with some new pieces."

The future seems easier now for the artist, who is seeking new heights in creativity. He doesn't even think about the illness, now in remission, but only about art as an artist at work.

Craft show to comes to South Mountain Arena

This fall, the ice skating arena at South Mountain will be transformed into a captivating gallery of hand-crafted jewelry, leather, wood, fiber, pottery, glass, photography and fine art. The seventh annual New Jersey Fine Art and Craft Experience, co-sponsored by the Essex County Department of Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs and Rose Squared Productions, Inc., will feature 100 juried professional artists, photographers and craftspeople.

As an art form, carousel animal carving was nearly lost in America. Like many old world crafts, it has succumbed to changing times, space age materials and mass production sameness. Carl Wood has been recreating the carousel makers' craft through application of the old tried and true skills involved in the creation of his full sized figures. Working from large basswood boards, he hand crafts a single carving from start to finish. Each of his intricate creations represents detailed research of his subject, with careful attention paid to anatomical details of the character he is creating, so that each animal is balanced and proportional. Painting and finishing with vibrant colors and trapings rounds out the completed piece.

"We create clothing that is unique, pleasing to the eye, wearable and comfortable," said Clare. "Our work is color combination and design. The patterns are simple and very aesthetic and very different."

For the first time, $50 gift certificates to be used at the show will be raffled off every hour for the two-day event.

The seventh annual New Jersey Fine Art and Craft Experience is Oct. 21-22 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at South Mountain Arena, 560 Northfield Ave., West Orange. The admission is $3.50 for adults and $3 for senior citizens; children under 10 are admitted free. Parking is free. For more information, call (908) 874-5247.

Native American lecture comes to MAM Sunday

The state of Native American art today will be the subject of a lecture by Joanna Osburn-Bigfeather Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Montclair Art Museum. An Apache and Western Cherokee, Osburn-Bigfeather is an exhibiting sculptor and the curator and director of New York's American Indian Community House Gallery and Museum where she oversees some of the finest shows of Native American art produced in this country. The lecture is free with admission to the museum. The Montclair Art Museum is at 3 South Mountain Ave. in Montclair. For information or directions, call the museum at 746-5555. Museum hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday; 1-5 p.m. Sunday and Thursday and is closed Mondays and major holidays.

DINING/ENTERTAINMENT

HOROSCOPES

October 15-21

ARIES - March 21/April 20
Emotional tension brews at home. Things may come to a head before they get any better. Watch what you say or you could regret it later on. On a happier note, there will be luck in business. Making excuses will get you nowhere. A good time for large purchases.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21
A realistic look at a domestic situation will help you see what you're really up against. You may end up changing around your agenda. At work, you will gain more respect if you're willing to admit you made a mistake. Making excuses will get you nowhere. A Leo plays a role.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
Patience will be of benefit at work this week. A temporary — yet unbearable — situation seems like it will never end, but you can be assured that it will. Thursday will be a lucky day. Something you've been wanting will be easily accessible. A Scorpio will be in the picture.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
Good news! A risky investment will pay off. You'll realize that your intuition and financial savvy are a good combination. Your work schedule may be getting the better of you and it would be beneficial to take a "mental health day." A bit of relaxation could be just what you need.

LEO - July 23/August 23
There may be an opportunity to "bury the hatchet" in a broken friendship. Put that Leo pride to the side and make amends. If you're the boss at work, it may be time to show appreciation to those who've worked hard for you. A weird coincidence on Friday will be food for thought.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Your cynical attitude will take an optimistic acquaintance by surprise. A problem at home could be resolved easily if you are willing to express yourself. Go ahead. It's really not that hard. With a little practice, you may even become good at it! Fitness becomes important.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

A problem in the workplace will give you an opportunity to show off your skills. Higher ups will take notice. Finances look good. In fact, a recent investment will pay off. Catching up with an old friend will put you in a good mood. You'll realize the value of lasting friendships. Someone in need will ask for your help.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Your energy level will be higher than it has been for some time. Take advantage of it and tackle those tedious tasks that you've been putting off. A flirtation with someone at work could turn into more if you're interested. However, you must make the first move.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

A disappointment at work will force you to modify your game plan. You'll realize that nothing is guaranteed. If you're in a new love relationship, you may find out something interesting about your mate — especially if you're involved with an Aquarian. Good news comes from afar.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

If you're finding it hard to focus on your work, it may be wise to take some time off. A little diversity is what you need to recharge your batteries. News about a past love will surprise you. Watch what you say on Friday or you could be tasting a very large foot in your mouth!

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Hard work now will pay off doubly later on. You may have to sacrifice a bit, but it will be well worth it. Being in the right place at the right time could lead you to an interesting opportunity. Consider it carefully before committing. Delays on Friday will cause you to change your plans.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Teamwork is necessary to accomplish a work project. Just remember, when things get busy, avoid mixing business with pleasure. An important decision may present itself midweek. Don't be hasty. Think it through before making a choice. Your willpower will be tested this weekend.

Dining Review October 12, 1995

By Anthony C. Venutolo
Arts and Entertainment Editor
The home of authentic Italian cuisine continues to prosper in the village of South Orange.
Proprietors Bill Agnello and Barbara Cammarata of the Reservoir Restaurant in South Orange will make you feel as if you were dining at home. Aside from the wide array of scrumptious dishes available at the Italian eatery, the atmosphere coupled with the enticing aroma of its offerings will, no doubt, have patrons salivating from the moment they walk in.

The Reservoir offers a no-nonsense menu that will rival any restaurant — Italian or otherwise. Whatever you're in the mood for, The Reservoir will be sure to please.

Diners will be kept busy with the hearty appetizers — from the plentiful antipasto topped off with hearty garlic bread to piping hot minestrone soup, patrons must be forced to leave room for their entrees.

The menu, filled with massive and extremely reasonable offerings, include an impressive selection of chicken, veal, eggplant and sausage entrees. For example, at $11.75, you can't go wrong with the chicken parmigiana served with an order of spaghetti and salad. Also a must is the veal scalloppine. At $12.25, it too is a bargain.

But for that special dining occasion, try The Reservoir Special for Two, a perfect choice for those wishing to split delicious chicken, shrimp and broccoli for $27.

But what's an Italian restaurant without pasta? Don't fret because The Reservoir's pasta list alone will make you a faithful customer. The pasta they offer, robust and delectable, include spaghetti, linguini, ziti and shells at a very attractive $5.75. Topped with the specialty sauces the prices go up somewhat, but it's well worth it. The pasta offerings include mushroom sauce, white or red clam sauce, marinara, butter or meat. Also on the pasta list is baked ziti at $6.50, lasagna at $6.75 and, my dining selection, a perfect cheese ravioli served with either meatballs or sausage.

As for "the catch of the day," the Reservoir offers one of the best pesce offerings this side of the Hudson. The calamari and scungilli over linguini is a virtual bargain at $17.75. Also enticing is the fried shrimp platter served with french fries and salad for a reasonable $13.25.

When asked of one the more popular dishes? We were told the chicken murphy, chicken scampi and chicken saavy were among patron's favorites.

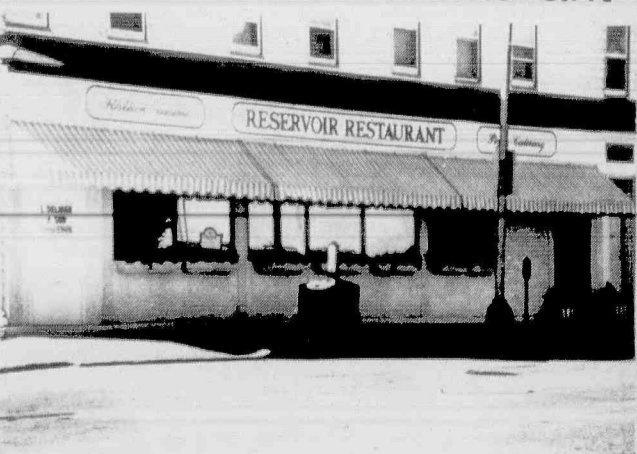

But what if you're not quite in the mood for refined dishes? You just want a quick bite? Well, another reason that makes the reservoir so special is that is the fact that you can order pizza. Starting with a regular pie with cheese at $6.50, diners can add literally any topping they wish for just a bit more.

As for the selections of my dining companions? They enjoyed a magnificent chicken fransese in all its lemony splendor and ziti with oil and garlic.

Our splendid third selection came from the head chef, Barbara Cammarata, straight from the specials menu. It was hearty tuna topped with a delectable homemade rosemary cream sauce.

Remember to leave room for desert because The Reservoir's menu doesn't just stop at fine food. Nope. It also offers a great selection of sweet and tart guilty pleasures from spumoni, cannoli and ice cream cake rolls. Particularly enjoyable was our tartoni perfectly washed down with one of the best cappuccinos I've ever had. Also available are espresso, iced coffee and hot chocolate. The establishment also offers wonderful homemade pies often. In our case, it was apple.

The Reservoir Restaurant is located at 106 W. South Orange Ave., South Orange. Weekday hours are 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for lunch and 4:30-10:30 p.m. for dinner.

Weekend hours are 4:30-10:30 p.m. on Saturday and 3-10 p.m. on Sunday. It offers smoking and non-smoking sections as well as a bring-your-own-booze option. The Reservoir is closed Tuesdays.

High blood cholesterol is a factor of heart disease

Blood cholesterol plays an important part in deciding a person's chance or risk of developing coronary heart disease. The higher your blood cholesterol level, the greater your risk. Heart disease is the number one killer of men and women in the United States. About 500,000 people die each year from heart attacks caused by coronary heart disease.

West Essex Community Health Services in Verona wants to remind residents that high blood cholesterol is one of the risk factors of heart disease that you can do something about. Lower your blood cholesterol level by eating less saturated fat, total fat and cholesterol, and lose weight if you are overweight. Generally your blood cholesterol level should begin to drop a few weeks after you start on a cholesterol-lowering diet.

Saturated fats raise your blood cholesterol level more than anything else in your diet. These fats are found in largest amounts in animal products such as butter, cheese, whole milk, ice cream, cream and fatty meats. They are also found in some vegetable oils such as coconut, palm and palm kernel oils.

Lowering blood cholesterol levels can help people who have already had a heart attack. People who have had one heart attack are at much higher risk for a second attack. Reducing blood cholesterol levels can greatly slow down and, in some people, even reverse the buildup of cholesterol and fat in the wall of the coronary arteries and significantly reduce the chances of a second heart attack.

Reading food labels can help you eat the heart healthy way. Look on the nutrition label for the amount of saturated fat, total fat, cholesterol and total calories in a serving of the product. Use this information to compare similar products. Also, look for the list of ingredients. Choose foods low in saturated fat or total fat, go easy on products that list fats or oil first or that list many fat and oil ingredients.

Being physically active helps improve blood cholesterol levels and help you lose weight as well as lowering your blood pressure, improve the fitness of your heart and blood vessels, and reduce stress.

Neighbors help American Diabetes Association

An estimated 35,000 New Jersey volunteers for the American Diabetes Association has begun contacting their neighbors this month by mail to encourage them to take a test to find out if they are at risk for diabetes and make a contribution to benefit diabetes research and education.

Neighbors in communities all across New Jersey will receive an envelope from the association's volunteers that contains a diabetes risk test, a brief letter and return envelopes for donations.

Patricia Barta, president of the American Diabetes Association, New Jersey Affiliate, Inc. said, "The goal of Neighborhood Check for Diabetes is two-fold. First, this program encourages people to check their own risk of diabetes by taking a simple test, and seek medical advice if they are at risk. Second, it encourages them to write a check to help the Association continue its fight against diabetes."

Nationwide, the ADA plans to reach more than 11 million households through Neighborhood Check and raise more than $8 million. Last year in New Jersey, the campaign contacted more than 259,000 households and raised $450,000.

According to the ADA, nearly 14 million Americans have diabetes, but half of these people are unaware they have it. Diabetes is a disease that affects the body's ability to produce or respond properly to insulin, a hormone that allows blood sugar to enter the cells of the body and be used for energy. It can cause serious health complications, including blindness, kidney disease, heart disease, stroke and nerve damage leading to amputation. Diabetes is the fourth leading cause of death by disease in the nation. There is no cure for diabetes.

The mission of the ADA is to prevent and cure diabetes and to improve the lives of all people affected by diabetes.

St. James Hospital plans groundbreaking ceremony

St. James Hospital in Newark is having a groundbreaking ceremony for its new, state-of-the-art emergency department today between 5-7 p.m. This also will serve as a kick off to "Saint James 2000," the hospital's 100th anniversary celebration. Archbishop Theodore McCarrick, Senator Frank Lautenberg and other local dignitaries are among the invited guests.

When completed, the new department will be three times its current size, which will enable the hospital to better serve the needs of the thousands of patients who use it each year. The new, expanded department will consist of a larger treatment area, two trauma rooms, including a unit specially designed to meet the needs of pediatric and adolescent patients requiring emergency services due to school-related accidents, child abuse and other special emergencies. The new department will feature new, specially monitored beds, a "fast-track" area for immediate treatment of minor illnesses and injuries, a campified walk-in entrance and new ambulance entrance, and a decontamination area. Plans for the new unit include new isolation and cast rooms, an area for ultrasound and x-ray equipment — including the Panorex camera, four examination rooms with rooms for obstetrics and gynecology and pediatrics, a new waiting room and a bereavement conference room.

"This renovation and expansion project is long overdue," said Dominick Caligi, the hospital's senior vice president and administrator. "Our community deserves quality, efficient emergency health care services. The new emergency department will enable us to provide the type of care the community deserves."

St. James' new emergency department will be dedicated in memory of Dr. Vincent James Giardina, who dedicated most of his professional career to the Ironbound community and St. James Hospital.

Advice for those who are arthritic

Osteoarthritis, or "wearing out," of the joint is a slow, progressive condition that advances with age and usually takes decades before becoming functionally disabling. Mid-stage arthritis suffers periodically experience throbbing aches, pain and stiffness on many days and discomfort during or after extended or strenuous activity.

Arthritic pain associated with exercise raises the fear in many patients that accelerated activity levels will quicken the appearance of arthritis and bring about the question of how the disease will impact one's quality of life. Using a conservative, non-operative approach, help is available for mid-stage arthritis patients to learn how to better control their symptoms while remaining active. Each treatment regimen varies according to the extent and location of the arthritis.

The hip is subjected to three to four times an individual's total body weight during weight bearing activities such as walking and stair-climbing. The foremost objective during treatment of arthritis in the hips is to minimize the level of stress and strain imposed on the joint. Many medical doctors recommend a weight control program of diet modification and moderate, non-weight bearing exercise, such as swimming. A 20-pound weight loss, if justified, can reduce the level of stress and strain imposed on the hip by 60 to 80 pounds.

Like the hip, the knee is a weight bearing joint. For that reason, weight control is again considered essential to reduce arthritic pain and slow down wear and tear.

For many individuals, overweight or obese, sustained activity is an important way to maintain quality of life and promote weight control. Since no evidence yet indicates that activity is bad for the knee joint, doctors should advise their patients to maintain their activity levels, as much as their symptoms comfortably allow, to keep their muscles strong and healthy.

Because the shoulder joint is technically non-weight bearing, it can lend itself to more aggressive therapies, particularly in younger patients, who recover more quickly. Long before considering surgery, doctors should advocate a supervised program of strength and flexibility exercises to maintain muscular integrity and range of motion in the rotator cuff. Although a patient's exercise routine may be modified — such as by moderating overhead sports participation and avoiding heavy weight lifting. Any activity that helps preserve flexibility and muscular strength can delay the need for surgery.

Even if the efforts fail, they can help ensure greater success should surgery become necessary. Many orthopedic physicians have found that patients were more likely to have successful outcomes from arthroscopic debridement if they already had near-normal range of motion and strength levels.

While osteoarthritis is a degenerative process is by no means reversible, it is possible to delay its painful and inhibiting effects. Although total joint replacement is now considered a reliable and widely prescribed treatment for individuals with end-stage arthritis, the procedure is too extreme for patients presenting only mid-stage symptoms.

Through a planned and persistent approach using conservative measures such as weight control, moderate exercise and physical therapy modalities, most patients with mid-stage arthritis can look forward to many years of relative comfort and activity.

Q: Why does arthritis affect certain joints more severely than others?

A: Weight bearing joints, such as the hip and knee, are generally more affected by arthritis due to the fact that they are subjected to three to four times an individual's body weight during certain activities. Any amount of weight loss will significantly reduce the level of stress and strain imposed on the lower joints. Because the shoulder joint is technically non-weight bearing, it can handle more aggressive therapies. A supervised program of strength and flexibility exercises can substantially improve arthritic shoulder pain.

National Mammography Day arrives on Oct. 19

Oct. 19, 1993, was proclaimed the first National Mammography Day in American history. Today, the objective continues to be to encourage millions of American women, especially underserved populations and older women who are at high risk for breast cancer, to receive, sign up for or make a commitment to get a screening mammogram. As an incentive, many accredited radiology centers will offer reduced-free screening mammograms during October.

"This year, more than 46,000 women will die from breast cancer. Early detection could save as many as one-third of them. Mammography plays an important role in saving lives because it can find a breast cancer tumor as early as two years before it can be felt," Dr. Marianne Centanni, director of the Bloomfield Radiological Center, said. "Far too many women die because they did not find their breast cancer soon enough. We hope that National Mammography Day will encourage millions of women to follow mammography guidelines and give themselves the gift of life."

The Bloomfield Radiological Center joins the National Breast Cancer Awareness Board of Sponsors urging women to ask their health care providers about the appropriate timing of their first mammogram. Experts agree regular screening mammograms are the most effective means of finding breast cancer early and are most important for all women older than the age of 50.

According to the American Cancer Society, the benefits of regularly-scheduled mammograms should be supplemented by these simple measures:

- Consult a health care provider for regular clinical breast examinations.
- Perform breast self-examinations monthly.

For more information about reduced-free screening mammograms during October, call the Bloomfield Radiological Center at 748-7799.

Water is critical element for weight loss

Isn't it incredible how society works so hard and spends so much money to lose weight? It's a known fact that if you eat a well-balanced diet from the basic food groups and exercise, you should maintain a proper weight. Yet people still manage to lose and then regain their weight back. Only a small amount of people can lose weight for good and live a healthy life.

If you're one of those individuals who fights the battle of the bulge, this article may help you with your weight loss goals using a simple basic strategy. Perhaps one of the reasons why individuals are not successful is they forget a critical element of sound nutrition — water. If you were to drain all of the water from a 160-pound man, his dehydrated body would weigh only 64 pounds.

The body's need for water is second in importance only to oxygen. Water is the medium for all body fluids, including blood, the lymph, the digestive juices, urine and perspiration. It balances acids, moves nutrients into the cells and is the solution for holding electrolytes, which convey electrical currents throughout our body.

Water plays a vital role in our body, hence it is an effective ingredient in weight loss and keeping weight off. Below are some examples why water works.

- Water suppresses the appetite naturally and helps the body to metabolize fat. Studies show that decreased water intake increases body fat while increased water intake can reduce fat. Water intake is essential to weight loss.

- The best treatment for fluid retention is drinking water. When the body doesn't get enough water, it assumes a dehydration of sorts. It begins to store water so the body is not endangered, thus bloating and swelling occurs. If you give your body enough water, it will release the stored water.

- Water helps maintain proper muscle tone. Seventy-five percent of our muscles are made of water. Water gives the muscles its natural ability to contract. Water can also prevent the sagging skin experienced after weight loss.

- Water carries waste away. While you're losing weight, the body has more waste to get rid of, namely fat. Thanks to water, the fat can be flushed out.

- Water can relieve constipation. If the body needs water, it searches within the body for places to siphon it from. If it chooses the colon, constipation will occur.

So how much water should you drink a day? Eight eight-ounce glasses per day is a good amount. This amount may vary according to your weight. An individual who is overweight should drink more than eight glasses per day. The good thing is that you really can't drink too much water. Since water aids in metabolism, more water is needed for larger efforts. A good rule to follow is that for every 25 pounds of excess weight, drink one additional glass of water.

The following schedule utilizes the water in the most efficient way:

- Morning: one quart consumed over 30 minutes.
- Afternoon: one quart consumed over 30 minutes.
- Evening: one quart consumed between 5 and 6 p.m., before your evening meal to decrease your appetite.

Once you've started this schedule, you'll notice your hunger diminishes, fluid retention is alleviated and fat is used as fuel, not excess baggage.

Dr. Robert Ruffalo, director of A TEAM Approach Chiropractic & Physical Therapy Center, would like to offer you free information on the topic of weight loss and water. As part of the "Hands On Health Campaign," free information is available at the office at 265 Broad St., Bloomfield. The telephone number is 429-3001.

Cerebral Palsy Center seeks volunteers

The Cerebral Palsy Center, located at 7 Sanford Ave., Belleville, provides a range of volunteer activities for individuals of all ages including activities to do at home, activities at the center and assisting in developing the center's various special events.

Volunteers at the center are needed as classroom assistants, and library aides, to attend the center's fund-raising resale shop and assist in the therapy department adapting toys and other aides with switches for use by the students. Volunteers working from their homes are needed to make bibs, collect and donate Campbell Soup labels, cut and donate specific pictures from magazines and donate used and saleable household items for the resale shop.

Call 751-0200 for information and additional volunteer activities.

Local center recognizes Physical Therapy Month

Mary Louise D'Avino, MPH, PT, administrator of the OmniTherapy Center at 557 Broad St., Bloomfield, notes the American Physical Therapy Association has designated October as National Physical Therapy Month.

"The month-long theme, 'Hands On Health Care,' is designed to educate the public about ways to avoid common hand and wrist problems as well as the role of physical therapy in hand rehabilitation," D'Avino said.

A physical therapist for almost two decades, D'Avino's OmniTherapy Center is well-known in the North Jersey medical community for the treatment of complex hand injuries.

Additionally, the center is a source for referral by board-certified hand specialists and surgeons at Newark's University of Medicine and Dentistry-New Jersey, regional trauma center.

Among the conditions treated by the center, said D'Avino, are flexor/extensor tendon injuries, surgical and non-surgical arthritic conditions, carpal tunnel syndrome, repetitive stress syndromes, traumatic amputations and replantations, Dupuytren's disease and other hand conditions.

The OmniTherapy Center is open Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with evening hours until 8 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. The telephone number is 429-0890.

“My confidence in The General tripled overnight.”

"Nothing could have prepared me for the news that I was expecting triplets, but knowing that my doctor would deliver the babies at The General Hospital Center at Passaic gave me great peace of mind. Not only was my first child born at The General, but as a Passaic resident, The General was a familiar face when it counted the most.

"I will always be grateful for the care and support we all received before and after the delivery from both the hospital and the doctor."

Samira Tooley, Passaic

The General Hospital Center at Passaic is home to the BirthPlace, where babies are born into a family-centered environment with the support of a Special Care Nursery staffed by top-notch specialists in the care of well and moderately-ill babies. Its flexible and personal atmosphere, in conjunction with a highly skilled health care team, made it possible for the Tooley family to have the birth of their triplets be everything a "blessed event" should be.

If you're looking for a good doctor, it pays to ask the hospital of choice.

Doctors know The General Hospital Center at Passaic very well. And The General knows them even better.

Doctors work on a patient at the Montclair Surgery Center as they utilize the new Ultrapulse laser.

Facelifts just might become a memory

"Facelifts and expensive anti-wrinkle creams can be a thing of the past," Dr. Vincent C. Giampapa, director of The Plastic Surgery Center in Montclair, said in announcing the addition of the Ultrapulse Laser to the Montclair Surgery Center.

According to Giampapa, "this exciting new technology offers an alternative to the traditional treatments for eye and skin rejuvenation."

The Ultrapulse Laser gently "vaporizes" lip wrinkles, crows feet, acne scarring and other skin irregularities — all in less than an hour.

Giampapa said the procedure is completely "bloodless" because small blood vessels are instantly sealed.

The volume of tissue vaporized is extremely precise with minimal effect on underlying tissue.

Giampapa compared using the Ultrapulse to the way an artist applies paint to the canvas. The intensity of this laser never varies with the distance of the laser's hand-piece to the skin. Because of this, surgeons can 'scan' the skin without worrying about how far their hands are from the skin surface.

"I can use the laser right to margins of the eye lashes," Giampapa said. "It doesn't burn anything — the heat is dissipated in tissue that is vaporized."

Average healing time following the procedure is five to seven days, Giampapa said. The average procedure takes one to two hours, including preparation and local anesthesia.

Giampapa compared using the Ultrapulse to the way an artist applies paint to the canvas. The intensity of this laser never varies with the distance of the laser's hand-piece to the skin. Because of this, surgeons can "scan" the skin without worrying about how far their hands are from the skin surface.

"It also has an extremely low risk of scarring," he said.

Giampapa also specializes in traditional facelifts and reconstructive surgeries at his practice.

Children's Hospital offers health fun and information

The Children's Hospital of New Jersey is committed to keeping children healthy. The Healthy Kids Club offers free fun and helpful health information for children and their families.

Membership in the Healthy Kids Club can provide families with tips about bike safety, physicals, when to call the doctor and much more. In addition, the kit includes a growth chart, coloring book and other surprises.

With the kit, families will receive a brochure on United, The Children's Hospital of New Jersey, the state's most comprehensive hospital for today's youth. The children's hospital serves some 70,000 children a year from the tri-state region. And soon they'll be breaking ground on their new freestanding medical center just for children.

"As New Jersey's only hospital dedicated exclusively to children, United is well-equipped to handle everything from simple fractures to neurosurgery, cancer and cardiovascular surgery," said John Dandridge Jr., president and chief executive officer of United Healthcare System. "There is no magical formula for helping our children get the best start, but there are some things we do know — immunizations, exercise, proper nutrition and regular check-ups, both medical and dental, are vital."

To receive a free Healthy Kids Club membership kit, call 1-800-637-NURSE. Along with the kit, each child will receive his or her very own Healthy Kids Club membership card as well as a monthly newsletter offering additional health information.

Club Dent specializes in dentures

Club Dent Ltd. in Clifton is a new innovation in dental services specializing in full and partial dentures to meet the needs of today's senior citizens.

The professionals at Club Dent stress the importance of "quality of life" and restore the confidence and comfort to those who have lost all or some of their teeth, enabling them to not only chew their food but look their best as well.

Dr. Harry Huber, DMD, chief of staff at Club Dent, has more than 15 years experience in general dentistry and teaching.

There is a phone in the waiting area for the convenience of patients, and transportation assistance can be provided if necessary. "Each person that comes here is special and we won't be happy until they are happy," said Ed Ceccacci, president of Club Dent.

For each set of dentures that are made at Club Dent, $10 will be put aside to make dentures for those less fortunate individuals in the community and 5 percent of the net profit is donated to Alzheimer's research to try to make the "quality of life" better for others.

The prices at Club Dent are very reasonable, Visa and MasterCard are accepted and financing is available. Only the best materials are used and all dentures are guaranteed. You will never pay for a repair if you break one of our dentures.

For more information, call at 458-9899. There is no fee for a consultation.

Docket No. F-12340-95
STATE OF NEW JERSEY
TO
Florence Odoms, her heirs, devisees and personal representatives, and her, their, or any successors in right, title and interest, et al.

YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED and required to serve upon WILLIAM M.E. POWERS, JR., CHARTERED, Attorneys for Plaintiff, whose address is 737 Stokes Road, P.O. Box 1088, Medford, N.J. 08055, an Answer to the Complaint (and Amendment to Complaint, if any) filed in a Civil Action in which GE Capital Mortgage Services, Inc. is plaintiff and Florence Odoms, her heirs, devisees and personal representatives and her, their, or any successors in right, title and interest, et al. are defendants, pending in the Superior Court of New Jersey, within thirty-five (35) days after October 12, 1995, exclusive of such date. If you fail to do so, judgment by default may be rendered against you for the relief demanded in the Complaint. You shall file your Answer and Proof of Service in duplicate with the Clerk of the Superior Court at the Richard J. Hughes Justice Complex, CN 971, 6th Floor, North Wing, Trenton, New Jersey, in accordance with the rules of civil practice and procedure.

The action has been instituted for the purpose of foreclosing a mortgage dated September 1, 1970, made by Walter Odoms and Florence Odoms to Larson Mortgage Company and duly assigned to plaintiff, GE Capital Mortgage Services, Inc., and concerns real estate located at 195 22nd Street, Irvington, NJ.

YOU, Florence Odoms, her heirs, devisees, and personal representatives and her, their, or any successors in right, title and interest, et al. are made defendants because Florence Odoms was the maker of the bond and mortgage and owner thereof and the said Florence Odoms died intestate on April 16, 1995 and the plaintiff is unable to determine her heirs, devisees, and personal representatives and her, their, or any successors in right, title, and interest, et al., and representatives, and

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

This novena has never been known to fail. This novena must be said for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and call you to be invoked. St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys and 3 Glorias. Thank you, St. Jude. Amen. Joseph.

ST. JUDE Novena. May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, help of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. Thank you, St. Jude. Joseph.

THANKS TO St. Clare and Sacred Heart for prayers answered. AJ

'Curb appeal' leaves impression when people look for new homes

Ask Prudential

As part of The Prudential New Jersey, Degnan Boyle Division's longstanding policy to keep their customers well-informed and current on all matters pertaining to the real estate buying and selling processes, our company will present timely articles, whose topics will include issues that the average consumer would have questions or concerns about.

What is "curb appeal," and what do curbs have to do with selling my house?

"Curb appeal" is the term used to describe how your home looks from the curb or sidewalk. It's a first impression — and we all have first impressions about people, and especially homes. Without "curb appeal," prospective buyers will never come inside.

So, how do you make sure your property has "curb appeal"? First, by making sure lawns and shrubs are well-trimmed, the front of the house has a clean, fresh appearance, and the mailbox is attractive and functional. Believe it or not, a rusty, unheated mailbox can turn people off.

Often, when a homeowner has lived in one location for many years, "curb appeal" is overlooked. To test your home's "curb appeal," step back from your curb and objectively look at your property.

Now consider how to spruce it up. Remember to watch out for adding too much "gingerbread." "Gingerbread" is a real estate term for overuse of ornamentation, particularly around windows outside, or for gaudy knick-knacks inside.

To attract maximum interest in your house, it should have a neat, trim appearance that is open and inviting. The exterior should be cleaned well with strong soap and water, or if it is too drab, it should be repainted. If you repaint, stick to the color white. According to National Association of Realtor surveys, white homes sell faster than any others. If you want to use bright colors, paint the outside trim or window frames.

If you have a front porch, consider adding an attractive porch swing or window boxes to the lower level windows. On top, your roof should show no signs of peeling or cracking. Gutters and down spouts should be in good repair and cleaned out regularly. During the spring and summer months, consider adding pretty wicker furniture or plants in hanging baskets to the patio area to make it more inviting.

Maintaining and enhancing the landscape of your house is vital to its "curb appeal." Lawns and shrubs should be cut regularly, and flowers planted. Red or white ivy geraniums are ideal for parkways and red or white tree roses spruce up the walkways.

Remember, "curb appeal" may not sound like much, but it can add a great deal to the value and marketability of your home.

The Prudential New Jersey Realty, Degnan Boyle Division is an independently owned and operated franchise member of The Prudential Real Estate Affiliates Inc. PREA is the nation's largest and fastest growing real estate network with more than 1,100 sales offices throughout the United States and Canada, 31,000 sales agents, and 1994 sales of $52.4 billion.

Miggins wins awards

Maggee Miggins, a sales associate with Weichert Realtors' Short Hills office, has won the office top sales and top producer awards for the month of July with sales of more than $1.8 million. She also won regional honors in July for the greatest number of homes sold.

Miggins has been a licensed real estate professional for three years. She is a member of the Oranges/Maplewood Board of Realtors. Before entering the real estate industry, she was a residency counselor at Winchester Gardens at Ward Homestead, a continuing care retirement community.

Married and the mother of a son and a daughter, Miggins resides in Maplewood.

She may be reached for real estate transactions at Weichert's Short Hills office, 376-4545, located at 505 Millburn Ave.

According to a national report, Weichert Realtors is the largest independent real estate company in the country, with 7,500 sales associates in 200 offices from Connecticut through Virginia.

Baris named agent

Jordan Baris Inc. Realty Services' Commercial Division has been named the exclusive leasing agent for the historic Second National Bank building in Orange.

A community landmark in Orange since the turn of the century, it was formerly occupied by United Jersey Bank. Baris' Commercial Marketing Specialist, Karl E. Benedikt, has been selected as the designated agent responsible for the marketing of this property.

The four-story building, located at 308-310 Main St., in Orange, features 24,000 square feet of prime office space consisting of 8,000 square feet per floor plus 4,500 square feet of available retail space as well as secured on-site parking for more than 60 cars. The property's current anchor tenant is Public Service Electric and Gas Company.

"This opportunity epitomizes the phrase 'Location, location, location,' as it is situated on a primary county thoroughfare, having the benefit of convenient highway access, bus connections as well as the nearby Orange Conrail Station. Considered to have particular appeal because of its distinctive facade, historic significance and prime location, this facility lends itself to a myriad of retail and business applications," according to Benedikt.

A leading regional real estate concern for more than 43 years, Jordan Baris Inc. Realty Services has its corporate headquarters at 50 Mt. Pleasant Ave., in West Orange as well as offices at 203 Irvington Ave., in South Orange. With a large professional staff of highly trained and experienced sales, leasing, marketing and administrative specialists, Jordan Baris Inc. is a full-service Realtor with commercial, residential, investment and relocation divisions.

Leasing inquiries can be directed to Benedikt at 763-7700.

South Orange woman joins RE/MAX

Sharon Goldman recently joined RE/MAX Gold in Livingston as a broker/manager. With 16 years of real estate experience, she specializes in the listing and sale of luxury and residential properties in Essex and Morris counties. She joins RE/MAX from Gail Lowenstein Realty in Livingston.

Prior to real estate, Goldman attained a bachelor's degree in science and worked as a dental hygienist in New York and New Jersey. Since beginning her real estate career, she has been a consistent multi-million dollar producer and is working toward several advanced real estate designations.

"I want to be able to handle each transaction in a sophisticated manner and give each client and customer the personal care they deserve," she said. "RE/MAX provides me with this opportunity and surrounds me with entrepreneurial and dedicated Realtors like myself."

The mother of two grown sons, Brian and Adam, Goldman is a resident of South Orange. She may be reached by calling RE/MAX Gold in Livingston at 535-8889.

Realtor bills new financing program as 'unqualified success'

"An unqualified success." Those are the words of James M. Weichert, president of Weichert Realtors, used to describe the public's reaction to the new 100 percent mortgage financing program launched this summer by its affiliated mortgage company.

The breakthrough program, which enables qualified buyers to purchase homes selling for as much as $400,000 with no money down, is gaining widespread popularity through Weichert Realtors' market area.

The Weichert president stated, "Now that several millions of dollars in mortgage loans have been committed under the 100 percent financing program, what is most striking is that there is no single buyer profile emerging. People from all age groups and walks of life are responding to no down payment financing as a chance-of-a-lifetime means for making their dream of homeownership a reality."

Basically, 100 percent financing is offered as a two-piece loan, of which 90 percent is a first mortgage loan. The remaining 10 percent, which represents what might have been the buyer's down payment, is a second mortgage. Both parts of the loan are

'People from all age groups and walks of life are responding to no down payment financing.'

— James Weichert, President
Weichert Realtors

offered with a choice of fixed or variable interest rates.

Among those "thrilled and excited" with the 100 percent financing opportunity are Barry and Nancy Turner of Wayne, who recently purchased a three-bedroom ranch through Weichert's Wayne office. For the Turners—he's a police officer in Wayne and she works part time—the program could not have come at a better time.

The couple had been renting an apartment in a two-family home when a devastating fire in the upstairs unit forced the couple, along with their baby and 3-year-old, to move temporarily with a relative. Having had to replace possessions destroyed in the fire, the Turners saw savings enough for a down payment as "five-even 110 years" down the road.

Their timetable changed dramatically, thanks to a phone call about 100 percent financing from a Weichert salesperson they had talked to a year earlier. Shortly thereafter, Nancy Turner's mother called to tell her the house next door had gone on the market. The Turners bought the home, and as she said, "Now our kids can grow up in the same neighborhood I did and have grandma right next door."

Their mortgage payment is "a little bit of a tight squeeze," but the Turners, putting their money into "a dream of our own" each month instead of "living our landlord's pocket" was an easy choice.

The strong emotional and financial benefits associated with homeownership were also cited by Lionel and Linda Lavelanet of Maywood, who took advantage of 100 percent financing to move their family into a $199,000 Cape Cod they "love everything about."

The Lavelanets originally had contacted the Oradell office of Weichert Realtors looking for a house to rent. Their excellent income, however, immediately suggested to the Weichert sales agent that the family was an ideal candidate for 100 percent financing.

"We saw how our monthly payment would be pretty close to what we would pay to rent and that we'd also get the financial benefits of owning," recalled Lionel Lavelanet, a business manager with a Chrysler dealer. "When he realized that this program was the real thing, it was a good surprise."

Of others interviewed who have closed on homes during the opening months of the 100 percent financing program, the enthusiastic endorsement was equally unanimous.

"The whole experience has been positive," said Frank and Eleanor Fendler of Malvern, Pa., the parents of three, with two children in college, who purchased a four-bedroom, two-and-a-half colonial through Weichert's Paoli office that is "larger than the rental we were in before." While the Fendlers expect to pay off the "second mortgage" portion of their 100 percent loan within a year, they said, "Even if we didn't have that ability, we would have gone with the program. The terms were very feasible."

That sentiment was echoed by John and Deborah Reis, who happened to be "window shopping" at Weichert's Germantown, Md., office when they were told about the program. The couple used 100 percent financing to buy a three-bedroom, two-and-one-half bath ranch in Gaithersburg. Said John Reis, an information technologies specialist with IBM, "No down payment financing worked out very well for us. Without it, we wouldn't have been able to buy."

The Weichert president said requests for information on 100 percent financing are "growing daily." He stated, "Saving for a down payment has long been the biggest hurdle to owning a home. As more people hear about no down payment financing, we're going to see homeownership again become what it should be: an attainable goal for any working American."

Weichert Realtors' affiliated mortgage company is using expanded qualifying ratios to qualify prospective homebuyers for 100 percent financing. The program is not available in New York and certain restrictions apply.

According to a national report, Weichert Realtors is the largest independent real estate company in the country, with 7,500 sales associates in more than 200 offices from Connecticut through Virginia.

BABY BOOMER MARKET CHANGING

The "baby boom" put quite a bulge into our population between 1945 and 1960. This boom has had a great impact on real estate market and will continue to do so, but in a different way. The boomers are getting older. Baby boomers are maturing from being first-time buyers to move-up buyers. As move-up buyer with more income and equity, they are demanding more luxury and space as the purchase their second and third homes. Home builders are aware of this trend and are building more homes with added space and amenities.

The housing market is not suffering from the tail-ending baby boom—it is evolving. What this change in demographics means is this: There may be less demand for starter homes than for move-up homes. Because of this, many owners of starter homes are already thinking selling before the crowd and trading up earlier to take advantage of the changing market.

Insight Into Real Estate

By Vincent J. Carano, Realtor

WHERE'S THE "SCRIVENER?"

Much of the tradition and ceremony has disappeared from the business of transferring real estate. You might enjoy learning how it used to be done in the old days.

The law has always regarded the transfer of real estate as one of the most solemn acts and thus a great deal of formality attended the transfer. In the early days of land tenure, transfer was accomplished by "livery of seizen" which, literally, means transfer of possession.

The buyer and seller would go upon the land in question and there in the presence of witnesses, the seller would take a clod of turf and a twig from a tree and hand it over to the buyer as a symbol or token of the transfer.

The transfer was then made a matter of record by having the "scrivener" (the person in the community who could write) do his thing and write out the transfer on a parchment and affix his seal.

BLOOMFIELD

GOOD THINGS DON'T ALWAYS COME TO THOSE WHO WAIT!

Like waiting for the perfect song to ask Marybeth to dance - the next thing you know her coy glances are turned to some other 8th grader and your Dad is honking the horn outside the gym!

NOW is the time to visit and jump on this opportunity to rent a magnificent one bedroom. Magnificently renovated units including new oak kitchen cabinets, new appliances (Dishwasher/Microwave), refinished hardwood floors, upgraded electric and more. Not to mention what this fabulous community and super location have to offer - public transportation at door, shopping, fine dining, etc.

Lincolns for the new year look elegant, classy and refined

The full-size Lincoln's Diamond Jubilee with a luxurious Diamond Anniversary model offered in a choice of two exterior colors — Cordovan or Silver Frost.

The special edition Town Car's supple leather seating surfaces are embroidered with a distinctive anniversary emblem, which also appears on the rear quarter windows.

In addition to the leather seating surfaces, the anniversary model has standard equipment as a cellular telephone system.

The three conventional Town Car series — Executive, Signature and Cartier — also are offered in the 1996 model year. Six of the 13 exterior color selections for these series are new for 1996.

Every Lincoln Town Car is powered by a 4.6-liter V-8 engine linked to a four-speed automatic overdrive transmission. A dual air bag supplemental restraint system and a four-wheel disc anti-lock braking system head a long list of standard safety features.

An anti-theft system and a steering-effort control that allows the driver to select the preferred amount of power assistance also are standard.

The Lincoln Mark VIII luxury sports coupe offers a full complement of sophisticated occupant comfort and convenience features coupled with advanced powertrain and suspension technology.

Mark VIII's high performance centers on its 4.6-liter InTech DOHC V-8 engine, rated at 280 horsepower, which is linked to a precise-shifting, electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission. The computer-controlled ride and suspension system automatically adjusts vehicle level and height, based on speed.

The LSC, for Luxury Sports Coupe model, made its first appearance late in the 1995 model year, will become a full-fledged member of the Mark VIII line during the 1996 model year.

The LSC's monochromatic look, which can be accented by optional chrome wheels, gives it a more nimble appearance. In combination with a revised axle ratio, its 290 horsepower InTech 4.6-liter DOHC V-8 engine gives it even higher performance than the regular Mark VIII, and the standard high intensity discharge headlights provide improved visibility. LSC will be available later in the model year.

Inside every Mark VIII's cockpit-like passenger compartment, both front seats provide six-way position adjustments plus dumbbar support. A garage door opener located in the driver's sun visor is programmable to the owner's individual codes. A dual air bag supplemental restraint system and a four-wheel anti-lock braking system also are standard, along with a remote keyless entry/anti-theft alarm system and electronic temperature control.

Options include a JBL Audiophile Sound System, a compact disc player with 10-CD capacity, automatically dimming inside/outside mirrors, power moonroof and Electronic Traction Assist for increased stability on slippery road surfaces.

The 1996 Mark VIII also is offered in a special version that honors Lincoln's 75th anniversary, the Diamond Anniversary Feature Car.

The Lincoln Continental luxury sedan advances its technological leadership for 1996 with a breakthrough in personal safety and security.

Continental becomes the first automobile in the world to offer a personal protection system using global positioning satellites and cellular phone technology to signal for emergency aid — all at the touch of a button.

Known as Lincoln RESCU — for Remote Emergency Satellite Cellular Unit — the system provides two signal buttons on Continental's overhead console, a positioning transmitter in the trunk, an antenna and a cellular phone. Pressing one button summons roadside assistance. The other button calls for appropriate help for crime or medical emergencies.

The system pinpoints the vehicle's location, typically within 100 feet, through a network of orbiting communication satellites, and puts the driver in voice contact with a response center. When appropriate, a trained operator at the Westinghouse Emergency Response Center stays in phone contact until help arrives.

Lincoln RESCU is one element of the optional new Continental Personal Security Package, which will be available later in the model year. A second is Securisure with Pressure Alert, a system that is designed to keep motorists from being stranded with a flat tire in an unfamiliar area or on the shoulder of a busy freeway.

Drivers can safely drive up to 20 miles at 55 mph with a totally deflated Securisure — a Michelin ZP (for zero pressure) with reinforced sidewalls, mounted on a specially engineered chrome wheel. Driving at lower speeds increases the distance the tire can travel.

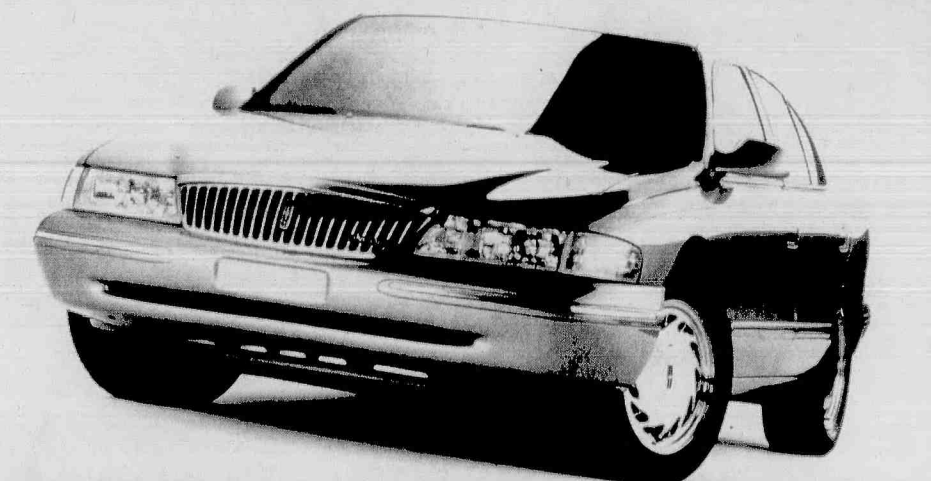

To head off the need to use the tires' run-flat capability, a tiny Pressure Alert sensor in each tire signals a warning light on the overhead console when tire pressure is getting low. A message also appears in the vehicles message center if the tire pressure continues to drop.

The 1996 Continental also provides an anti-theft alarm system as standard equipment.

A special Diamond Anniversary Continental model celebrates Lincoln's 75th Anniversary. It is offered in a choice of either Cordovan or Silver Frost exterior colors.

The LSC's monochromatic look, which can be accented by optional chrome wheels, gives it a more nimble appearance. In combination with a revised axle ratio, its 290 horsepower InTech 4.6-liter DOHC V-8 engine gives it even higher performance than the regular Mark VIII, and the standard high intensity discharge headlights provide improved visibility. LSC will be available later in the model year.

A special Diamond Anniversary Continental model celebrates Lincoln's 75th Anniversary. It is offered in a choice of either Cordovan or Silver Frost exterior colors. The front floor mats and the rear door glass carry the Diamond Anniversary designation. Eight of the Continental's 15 exterior paint choices are new for 1996.

Jeep Grand Cherokee has many improvements for 1996

Extensive improvements to the standard 4.0-liter I-6 engine, an enhanced Quadra-Trac all-wheel drive system, and a new, stronger four-speed automatic transmission on V-8-equipped models make the 1996 Grand Cherokee smoother, quieter and an even better performer on- and off-road.

Grand Cherokee owners have always used 'rugged and powerful' to describe their vehicles' standard 4.0-liter, 185-horsepower I-6 engine. For 1996, their praise will include the words 'smooth and quiet' because the Jeep platform team has eliminated key sources of noise, vibration and harshness (NVH) while expanding the engine's already broad torque curve.

These upgrades are the latest among hundreds of continuous refinements that have kept Grand Cherokee the benchmark among sport-utility vehicles since its 1993 debut.

Using Finite Element Analysis computer methods, engineers designed a revised, stronger cylinder block with strengthening ribs cast into porate revised ramps for quieter valvetrain operation. This 'new' profile also reduces valve overlap for improved idle quality and lower emissions, while fattening the already broad torque curve between 1200-3600 rpm — the range where it's most beneficial. Maximum rated torque is 220 foot-pounds at 2400 rpm.

To complement the internal changes, a new re-usable, silicon-beaded, steel backbone gasket seals the valve cover to the cylinder head. Rubber grommets and compression limiters isolate the valve cover from its fasteners and the cylinder head. This significantly reduces the transmission of valvetrain noise by the cover.

Additionally, Grand Cherokee's engine mounts have been recalibrated, with larger rubber surfaces for improved engine-to-chassis isolation.

Even the sound quality of the '96 Grand Cherokee's exhaust has been improved. 4.0-liter-equipped models feature an all-new exhaust system, Under dry road conditions, the improved On Demand Quadra-Trac now delivers 100 percent of torque to the rear axle. This greatly reduces driveline friction, while improving slow-speed cornering responsiveness and high-speed stability.

But when the going gets slippery or the terrain is tough, the new On Demand Quadra-Trac instantly delivers maximum torque to whichever axle needs traction. The result is true on-demand capability for all driving situations.

An added feature of the '96 On Demand Quadra-Trac system is Lo-Lock. When extra traction is needed — such as in deep mud — the shift system overrides the viscous coupling and provides a mechanical lock in the Low Range position. In addition, torque is multiplied by 2.72, giving increased off-road capability.

Further enhancements to the '96 Grand Cherokee driveline include a new aluminum center housing for the stronger Dana 44 rear axle. The lightweight housing — unique to the sport-utility segment and a first for Chrysler — shaves 16 pounds off the previous steel unit's weight.

On the front propeller shaft, a constant-velocity (CV) joint replaces the previous shaft's Cardan-type U-joint. This upgrade contributes to reduced NVH at highway speeds.

1996 Grand Cherokee customers opting for the 5.2-liter V-8 will notice improved responsiveness, compared with previous models. This is a result of Jeep's new wide-ratio 44RE 4-speed automatic transmission, standard on V-8 models.

The goal for '96 was to boost performance feel, particularly at launch, without compromising fuel economy.

The 44RE features first and second gear ratios that are numerically higher than '95. For improved launched feel, first gear ratio is 15 percent higher than previously — 2.74:1, versus 2.45. The new transmission has higher torque capability than its predecessor, and features a smaller, more lightweight housing which saves 35 pounds.

To improve shift quality, the 44RE incorporates a new electronic governor. First introduced as a running change on 1993 4.0-liter Grand Cherokees, the electronic governor communicates directly with the V8 engine's JTEC power control module.

Extensive improvements to the standard 4.0-liter I-6 engine, an enhanced Quadra-Trac all-wheel drive system, and a new, stronger four-speed automatic transmission on V-8-equipped models make the 1996 Grand Cherokee smoother, quieter and an even better performer on- and off-road. Grand Cherokee owners have always used 'rugged and powerful' to describe their vehicles' standard 4.0-liter, 185-horsepower I-6 engine. For 1996, their praise will include the words 'smooth and quiet' because the Jeep platform team has eliminated key sources of noise, vibration and harshness, NVH, while expanding the engine's already broad torque curve.

The interior for the all-new Jeep Grand Cherokee has also been completely redesigned for 1996 adding a spice of luxury to this all-terrain vehicle.

the inner and outer walls. This extra 'beef' makes the new block substantially stiffer, reducing the amount of mechanical noise it transmits.

The stouter block also incorporates a one-piece main bearing brace, which locks the main bearing caps together. Anchoring the bearing caps as a single unit eliminates their natural tendency to move in opposite directions during normal operation — a potential NVH source.

New lightweight pistons and wrist pins reduce reciprocating mass by 26 percent, smoothing the power delivery. The pistons feature shorter, reprofiled skirts for lower friction. New piston rings are also lighter and more flexible for improved sealing.

Following the lead of last year's 5.2-liter V-8 improvement program, Jeep's 4.0-liter I-6 gains a new camshaft for '96. Cam profiles now incorporating a retuned muffler and larger 2.25-inch tailpipe.

These extensive refinements add up to a significant overall reduction in powertrain NVH, particularly at idle and launch, with no penalty to fuel economy.

Quadra-Trac, Jeep's ultimate all-wheel drive system, has been improved for 1996. The changes provide Grand Cherokee customers with increased on-road flexibility and off-road traction.

Grand Cherokee owners appreciate Quadra-Trac's full-time, 'transparent' operation in all driving situations. The improved On Demand Quadra-Trac eliminates a planetary gearset which formerly split the torque between the front and rear axles. That function is now managed completely by the system's viscous coupling center differential.

Chrysler now offers the 1996 Sebring JX convertible

Chrysler, long an industry sales leader in convertible automobiles, announced plans to introduce an all-new model later this year — the 1996 Chrysler Sebring JX convertible. The Chrysler-Plymouth Division of Chrysler Corporation revealed a rendering and announced the name of the new car today at the Chicago Auto Show.

The Chrysler Sebring JX, an all-new Chrysler vehicle platform, is designed from the ground up to be a convertible — not an altered coupe — and as such will offer outstanding passenger room and body rigidity.

Convertible automobiles were a common part of the American motoring landscape until the early seventies, when they gradually disappeared. About a decade later, in 1982, Chrysler virtually reinvented the convertible market with the introduction of several small, fuel efficient, affordable convertibles, including the Chrysler LeBaron.

But it was the second-generation LeBaron convertible, introduced in 1987, that single-handedly re-defined what a convertible for the eighties would be — stylish, roomy, safe and affordable. In fact, in 1989, at the height of its popularity, more than 46,000 Chrysler LeBaron convertibles were sold in a single year.

The introduction of the Sebring JX convertible signifies a complete renewal of every Chrysler-branded product since the introduction of the Chrysler Concorde in 1993. Since the Concorde, Chrysler has introduced the LH5, New Yorker and Cirrus sedans, the Sebring Coupe and the upcoming new Town & Country minivan.

"The new Chrysler Sebring JX continues the string of new Chrysler products. In addition to assisting in the evolution of the Chrysler brand, the Sebring JX will once again redefine the classic American convertible," said Steven A. Torok, General Manager of the Chrysler-Plymouth Division. "I can assure you that there will be nothing quite like it in the marketplace. Chrysler has developed a reputation of bringing fresh approaches to established car segments. Likewise, the Sebring JX won't be a 'me too' kind of car. I believe it will set a new standard by which future convertibles are judged."

The new Chrysler Sebring JX convertible takes Chrysler's signature cab forward design to a new level, allowing for vehicle packaging never before seen in a convertible automobile.

"The car possesses a fresh and aggressive cab forward appearance that provides greatly improved interior space and usable trunk volume," added John E. Herlihy, Vice President-Product Design.

"And, if you desire more than a hint of Chrysler 300 heritage in the grille design and graphics, I can assure you that the coincidence is purely intentional!"

The new Chrysler Sebring JX convertible takes Chrysler's signature cab forward design to a new level, allowing for vehicle packaging never before seen in a convertible automobile. The Chrysler Sebring JX, an all-new Chrysler vehicle platform, is designed from the ground up to be a convertible — not an altered coupe — and as such will offer outstanding passenger room and body rigidity. It will reach Chrysler-Plymouth showrooms late this fall.

"It's an exciting new car that will open the next chapter of Chrysler's continuing convertible excellence."

"No longer will convertible-driving enjoyment be limited to the front-seat passengers," said Joe Caddell, General Product Manager - Small Car Platform. "The Sebring JX is a true four-seater. It provides the design and the fun-to-drive excitement of a convertible, plus the spaciousness for four adults. The unique Sebring JX successfully combines high-style with functionality."

Chevy Monte Carlo wins NASCAR Cup

Jeff Gordon, driver of the No. 24 DuPont Automotive Finishes Monte Carlo, captured the 1995 NASCAR Winston Cup manufacturer's championship for Chevrolet with a victory Sunday in the Mountain Dew Southern 500 at Darlington Raceway.

Chevrolet wrapped up the title with eight races remaining on the 1995 NASCAR Winston Cup schedule. Gordon's circuit-leading sixth triumph of the season accelerated Chevrolet to an insurmountable 190-146 advantage over arch-rival Ford.

Since NASCAR's modern era began in '72 when the schedule was cut to 31 or fewer races per season, modern era began in '72 when the schedule was cut to 31 or fewer races per season, Chevrolet has won 19 of 24 titles. The '95 title was the 11th for Chevrolet in the past 13 seasons. Chevrolet won an unprecedented nine straight manufacturer's championships from 1983-1991.

"It is the combined effort of all the Chevy drivers and teams that produces a manufacturer's championship," said General Motors Vice President and Chevrolet General Manager J. (Jim) C. Perkins, "and we applaud their efforts and team commitment regardless of where they might have thus far finished individually."

The Chevrolet Monte Carlo, returning to the track for the first time since 1989, wasted little time reclaiming the NASCAR Winston Cup winner's circle this season. The Monte Carlo won seven straight races to open the season and has won 11 of the last 14. The Monte Carlo has also captured 15 pole positions, plus victories in the Busch Clash and Winston Select non-points events.

Monte Carlo drivers have led 4,206 of 6,696 laps, 62.8, in 23 races. Ford Thunderbird drivers, outnumbering the Chevys 2-1 at some events, have led 2,111 of 6,696 laps, 31.5 percent. Gordon, a 24-year-old driver with only 85 career starts on the NASCAR Winston Cup circuit, leads the way in several categories this season. Gordon leads in victories, 6 poles, 8 and laps led, 2,051.

Gordon has scored 776 of Chevy's 190 manufacturer's points in '95. With victories at Rockingham, Atlanta, Bristol, Daytona, London and Darlington, Gordon has proved the team win with the Monte Carlo at any size track on the NASCAR circuit.

"Chevrolet gave us a great race car this year with the Monte Carlo, and we were proud to be able to clinch the manufacturer's title for them," Gordon said.

The third year Hendrick Motorsports driver also leads a Chevrolet trifecta at the top of the Winston Cup drivers' standing with 3,540 points. That's 217 more than Daytona 500 winner Sterling Marlin, who drives the No. 4 Kodak Film Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

Seven-time Winston Cup champion Dale Earnhardt, driver of the No. 3 GM Goodwrench Service Monte Carlo, is third in the standing, 294 points behind Gordon.

And the Chevrolet rookies are also battling it out in their Monte Carlos on the Winston Cup circuit. Newcomer Ricky Craven, driver of the No. 41 Kodak Monte Carlo, leads Robert Pressley, who drives the No. 33 Skoal Bandit Monte Carlo, by seven points in the rookie of the year standings.

The victory was also the 217th career win for the Monte Carlo, winningest model ever on the Winston Cup circuit. No manufacturer has carried more drivers to the Winston Cup championship than Chevrolet. The Ford Thunderbird is a distant second with 155 career victories.

Chevrolet also recently captured the inaugural NASCAR SuperTruck manufacturer's crown for full-sized pickup trucks with its C1500-based racer.

The 1996 Plymouth Breeze offers values for car buyers

The newest entry from Plymouth - the Plymouth Breeze compact sedan - is more than just a product introduction, it is further confirmation that Plymouth is taking aim at the affordable entry level market. With Breeze, the new Plymouth lineup now offers young singles, couples and families an exciting choice of affordable cars and minivans.

Breeze supports the entry-level positioning of Plymouth by giving the brand a significant, new option for young couples and families seeking an affordably priced four-door sedan that offers utility and space without sacrificing personality. With the latest in cab-forward architecture, comfort, handling and style for much less than many simpler subcompacts and compacts, Breeze offers the perfect combination of features and benefits for younger buyers with an active lifestyle.

With the latest in cab-forward architecture, comfort, handling and style for much less than many simpler subcompacts and compacts, the 1996 Plymouth Breeze offers the perfect combination of features and benefits for younger buyers with an active lifestyle.

Available in the first quarter of 1996, the Breeze will come equipped with a standard 2.0-liter 16-valve, SOHC four-cylinder engine mated to a five-speed manual transmission. A four-speed electronically-controlled automatic transmission will also be available.

Breeze distinguishes itself from the competition by offering class-leading room, numerous storage compartments in both front and rear seats, the largest trunk — 15.7 cubic feet — in its class with lockable pass-through, and many other standard comfort and safety features.

Standard equipment will include driver and passenger air bags, air conditioning, AM/FM stereo radio, tilt steering column, electric rear window defroster, full-folding rear seat, remote trunk release and tinted glass.

Anti-lock brakes, power windows, locks and mirrors, an integrated child safety seat, personal security group and either cassette or compact disc player will be optional equipment.

Breeze will meet all 1997 federal dynamic side impact standards.

"Breeze supports our philosophy of providing vehicles for important life stages, specifically young people who have recently married or have a small family," said Steve Torok, Chrysler-Plymouth General Manager. "Along with Neon and Voyager, we now can welcome the entry level buyer at any stage."

Breeze makes an important connection in the stair-step buying process for a good portion of car buyers. Plymouth's research shows that 45 percent of people trading out of subcompact cars graduate to a compact/mid-size car, while 30 percent of compact/midsize traders move on to a minivan.

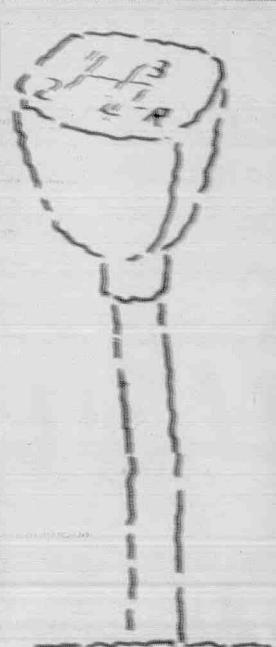

"We no longer run the risk of losing our owners coming out of subcompacts," Torok said. "With Breeze, torok advisors to answer any questions.

In addition to Plymouth Place, the brand is developing on-line shopping services, designed to provide the same information for home computer users.

"There is an important part of the buying process, the 'just looking' phase, where many consumers believe they are unprepared to talk to a salesperson," Torok said. "By providing them with things like prices and options before they go into the showroom, our Plymouth Place visitors have told us they are much more informed."

After more test marketing this year, Plymouth hopes to develop a national program to help consumers in the shopping process.

Sweden's Volvo has many changes in store with a new wave of autos

Things are changing at Sweden's largest car maker and chances are you will like the changes. Since the beginning of the 90's, there has been a continuous flow of new products. While these new models were true to Volvo's reputation for safety and durability, they were also noticeably more stylish, and a great deal more fun to drive. Volvo has kept the changes flowing for 1996, offering a new 960 Series, the world's first Side Impact Air Bags, and an illuminating idea to improve daytime driving safety.

The new 960 retains the distinctive overall appearance people have come to expect from Volvo's larger rear wheel drive cars. But wait, while the strong character of the car is still there, the lines are much softer, bumpers and trim more integrated, and the front-end visibly lower and sleeker. The smooth and flowing exterior design theme has been carried over to the redesigned interior, where an extensive array of luxury features tell you that you are sitting in a top-of-the-line automobile. Even the shortest test drive in the new 960 will let you know the changes are not limited to cosmetics!

Power for the 960 comes from Volvo's 2.9 liter in-line, six cylinder engine with four valves per cylinder. For '95, the engine management system has been recalibrated to put out significantly more torque at speeds below 4,200 rpm which means more performance where you can use it to enter freeways and accelerate into traffic.

Intent on making the value of the 960 as impressive as its appearance and handling, Volvo is introducing the fully equipped new 960 sedan at a suggested retail price of only $29,900.

Volvo engineers have always worked to expand the frontiers of automotive safety and that is exactly what they have done with the introduction of the world's first Side Impact Air Bags on the Volvo 850's.

The elegant wagon will be $31,200. These cars require virtually no options. Standard equipment includes: deluxe leather interior with wood accents, alloy wheels, glass sunroof, and a custom audio system. Like all Volvos, the 960's also have four-wheel disc brakes with ABS, SRS with driver and passenger air bag, CVC-free climate control, and an all welded steel body with roll cage like construction. The 960 has been designed and priced to please its owners and frustrate its competitors.

Safety and the name Volvo are interchangeable in many people's minds. Volvo engineers have always worked to expand the frontiers of automotive safety and that is exactly what they have done with the introduction of the world's first Side Impact Air Bags on the Volvo 850's. Volvo is the only car company offering this added level of protection! It will be standard equipment on 850 Turbo sedans and wagons and a $500 option on other 850 models.

Because the air bag is mounted in the seat, it is always in the proper location relative to the occupant. This means the bag can be much smaller than a bag mounted in the door, which would have to be big enough to cover both tall and short operators. The bag itself has a 12 liter volume and is roughly six inches in diameter and twelve inches long.

Volvo believes the Side Impact Air Bag is a true safety break through and will help to save thousands of lives in the years ahead. It is an idea you will likely see offered by virtually all car manufacturers at some future date. While not required by law, it could well become the new standard of the industry and Volvo pioneered it.

The benefits of Daytime Running Lights may appear obvious at dawn, dusk, or in foul weather. But they have also been shown to enhance the visibility of oncoming cars in extremely bright environments like the desert. DRL's help oncoming traffic to be aware of you. Their ability to reduce the frequency and even the severity of accidents has been proven again and again. Volvo believes the benefits of Daytime Running Lights will be very visible in the years ahead.

As you can see, there are a lot of changes coming out of Volvo. They are changes not just for the sake of change, but rather to improve the safety, enjoyment and value that customers will experience in their products. The Volvo people think that is definitely change for the good and they don't intend to stop anytime soon.

Ready to rip up the road

The 1996 Ford Mustang has a new addition to its family. Enter the 1996 Ford Mustang Cobra — a monstrous machine with well over 300 ponies under the hood. Made to compete with the Pontiac Trans Am Ram Air and the Chevy Camaro Z28 SS, the Cobra will be sure to rip up the road in a zero-to-sixty acceleration well under seven seconds. Check out the Cobra at a Ford dealership near you.

If blazing speed isn't your style, then check out the 1996 Ford Probe GT. While it's not quite the racehorse that the Mustang is, it will hold its own with its refined and quiet six-cylinder engine. A favorite among car buyers for years, the Probe GT offers style, comfort, speed and luxury under a domestic nameplate with value and price in mind. The Probe GT is now on sale at all Ford dealerships in the area.

Montclair-Bloomfield Ford offers the all-new Taurus

Since 1956, Montclair-Bloomfield Ford has offered Montclair and its surrounding communities the finest the Ford Motor Company has to offer, in accordance with friendly, hometown service.

Currently, the excitement level at the dealership is sky-high, what with the introduction of the all new, 1996 Taurus.

With its trend-setting exterior styling, spacious interiors, and high-performance powertrain, the '96 Ford Taurus is once again the design leader in a segment that accounts for about one of every four cars purchased in the United States.

Just as the 1986 Ford Taurus changed the way buyers thought about four-door sedans with its inventive aerodynamic styling, the 1996 models introduce buyers to an innovative shape that embodies the "form contains function" concept.

"With these new models, Ford aimed for tension and tautness in the design. I think it expresses the energy beneath the surface," said Joseph Carley, president of Montclair-Bloomfield Ford. "They wanted a one-piece overall silhouette — a seamless quality with everything integrated. I'd say the design team accomplished their mission."

World Class Design Distinguishes Ford Taurus

From the start, Ford Taurus was designed with an elliptical theme that is carried throughout even in the cross section of the car. The hood surface flows into the windshield, and the rear window flows into the deck. The front and rear fenders wrap smoothly into the bodyside, and the high shoulder ties together the front and rear.

The overall glass area has increased by 28 percent from the previous models. Rounded corners, softened shapes and extended windshield make the car appear to be the same size or smaller than the original Ford Taurus. In reality, Ford Taurus sedan has grown 5.4 inches in length and nearly two inches wider overall than the previous model.

The wagon model retains a family resemblance by repeating the elliptical theme that characterizes the sedan. Much of its design was carried out in a wind tunnel, resulting in superb aerodynamics.

After nearly 40 years in the automobile retailing business, Carley has seen many product introductions come and go. However, then there are others that are truly special.

"Ford Mustang is a perfect example of a car that seized the attention of the American public. It went on to become a huge success. More recently, the phenomenal sales performance of Ford Explorer has helped build the sport utility class to unprecedented levels," Carley stated. "I see the new design of the Taurus doing much the same for the mid-size class, too."

"It's true that the quality of American-made cars has never been better."

Montclair-Bloomfield Ford is located at 15 Bloomfield Avenue in Montclair, just west of the Glen Ridge border. For more information, call 746-6900.

Dodge Viper is a lethal automobile

Since its debut as a concept car in early 1989, the Dodge Viper RT/10 has devined the quintessential American sports car - big blocked, attention grabbing, fast, loud, untamed, and definitely a modern standard-bearer for pure American heritage and tradition. While Viper has remained virtually unchanged through 1995, the 1996 Dodge Viper RT/10 will mark the opening of another chapter in an emerging Viper history and tradition with changes in appearance and performance.

"Beginning with the 1996 model, a number of product changes are planned with each successive version contributing to the evolution and tradition of the marque," said Martin R. Levine, Dodge division general manager.

"We believe the original Viper RT/10 roadster, produced from 1992 through 1995, has secured a place in history as a vehicle that defined a new Chrysler way of business by taking on fresh challenges, and once again, defining the genre of what a pure American sports car should be," Levine continued. "The 1996 Viper RT/10 will open a new chapter in the legendary Viper story."

The first and most noticeable changes in the 1996 Viper are three new exterior design themes. Customers will have a choice of red exterior paint with yellow five-spoke wheels and yellow Viper logo decals; black exterior paint with a silver center stripe and polished aluminum five-spoke wheels; or stone white exterior paint with a blue pearl center stripe and white five-spoke wheels. All previous color choices will be retired at the end of the 1995 model year run. Interior changes to complement the new exterior color themes include red leather-wrapped steering wheel, transmission shifter knob and hand brake with the red and yellow exterior theme; and blue leather-wrapped steering wheel, transmission shifter knob and hand brake with the white exterior paint and blue pearl stripe. A new all-black interior will be provided with the black exterior paint and silver stripe.

Sliding access side window curtains, replacing the soft zipper curtains, and available removable color-keyed hardtops are also new for 1996.

The 1996 Dodge Viper RT/10 will be the first domestically produced car to use Michelin Pilot XXX3 tires. The carcass, tread and compound of these tires are tuned to the new suspension package to provide more stability. The most notable construction change is a significant increase in sidewall stiffness. Reduced road noise and improved low temperature and wet traction objectives have been achieved along with substantial increases in cornering and braking traction. Wet cornering traction increased six percent in a standardized wet traction test. Peak lateral acceleration on the skidpad increased by over 5 percent. Stopping distance from 60 miles-per-hour is reduced by over 13 percent.

trains, and available removable color-keyed hardtops are also new for 1996.

The legendary Viper side exhaust has been changed to a rear outlet exhaust system for 1996. It has less restriction for improved performance and a throatier sound due to a redesigned muffler system. Exhaust pipe routing follows the sills as in the former system, but turns inboard forward of the rear wheels. The pipes pass over the rear suspension and enter a titanium muffler with dual outlets on the centerline of the car. The muffler outlets have a polished ceramic coating for a long-lasting quality appearance. An aluminum shield protects the trunk floor and fuel tank against heat from the exhaust system.

Viper's 8.0-liter OHV V-10 engine horsepower and torque ratings are increased in 1996 due primarily to the redesigned exhaust system. Horsepower increases to 415 bhp at 5200 rpm, with torque at 488 foot-pounds at 3600 rpm. Internally, the engine also has a new windage tray to reduce drag due to excess oil rotating with the crankshaft.

The Viper driveline includes a more robust differential and stronger drive shafts capable of accepting up to 500 foot-pound of torque. There is also a revised differential mounting system to reduce housing movement under heavy acceleration and deceleration.

Aluminum suspension components improve Viper's handling and provide increased ride compliance. High-ductility A206 cast aluminum control arms and knuckles replace welded steel control arms and malleable cast iron knuckles. The change of material reduces the weight of the vehicle by 60 pounds. At the same time, the rear roll center has been lowered and geometry revised to reduce track change during ride motions. This makes the car more stable during hard cornering on rough roads. At the same time, the rear caster angle was increased from -6 degrees to +1 degree, improving straight line tracking.

Front suspension geometry is unchanged but the lower ball joint has been relocated from the knuckle to the lower control arm, reducing the bending movement in the arm under braking. This allows it to be lighter than with the previous configuration.

Front and rear shock absorber effective travel is increased for better control by moving the pickup points farther outboard on the lower control arms that the previous system.
