Longtime editor Roemmele dies

Fought for better government, to end corruption

By Tom Canavan
Editor in Chief

The voice of the man known as the crusader for good government was silenced this week.

Russell Roemmele of Bloomfield, the managing editor of four weekly newspapers in Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and Glen Ridge, died Oct. 26 in St. Michael's Medical Center after suffering from a heart attack. He was 64.

During his career in the newspaper business, Mr. Roemmele earned a reputation as a crusader for truth, justice and the American way, and along his route, exposed corruption, incompetent politicians and poorly run government agencies. As a result, he often received harsh criticism, and he became one of the most controversial figures in the towns where he served as editor.

Mr. Roemmele was the taxpayer's friend. In Bloomfield, he crusaded for more ratables to build the tax base in the township. In Glen Ridge, he crusaded against an interference of politics from outside the borough, while always holding borough government and the school district in the highest regard. In Nutley, he crusaded against possible discrepancies in tax assessments for politicians. In Belleville, he crusaded against poorly run government, and his weekly editorials and columns have been instrumental in reshaping municipal government and the school district in the township.

Mr. Roemmele had been serving as managing editor of the four newspapers since October 1993, when he was re-employed by Worrall Community Newspapers after serving 11 years at Orechio Publications' Bloomfield Life.

Born in Down Neck, Newark, as he often referred to his roots in his columns, Mr. Roemmele lived in Bloomfield for 28 years.

Mr. Roemmele served in the Marines during the Korean War and often reflected on his combat duty in columns he had written for The Independent Press, The Glen Ridge Paper, Belleville Post and Nutley Journal. He served from 1950-1952 in the Weapons Company 1st Division, 7th Regiment. He was discharged as a corporal.

Mr. Roemmele fought in the Battle of Chosin Reservoir in December 1950 and ultimately joined a Marine group called the Chosin Few, which is a group of Marines who fought in the battle and still meet today. He was president of the New Jersey Chapter of the Chosin Few, and will be honored by having the chapter named after him.

Mr. Roemmele also was a member of Human Rights and American Liberty, and was assistant director of the New Jersey Motor Truck Association, where he worked from 1979 to 1992.

Mr. Roemmele first worked for Worrall Newspapers from 1973 to 1980 before joining Orechio Publications in 1981. During that year, he was the driving force behind the start of the Bloomfield Life. He worked there until 1992, before returning to Worrall Newspapers in 1993 to serve as managing editor of the company's four newspapers in its Bloomfield region.

During the funeral Mass at Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church in Bloomfield on Monday, Rev. Daniel Danik recalled Mr. Roemmele as a man with convictions who had the courage to express those convictions. Danik recalled a conversation with Mr. Roemmele in which Mr. Roemmele said he always strived for the truth and could not support any politician who was not honest or truthful.

Danik also called Mr. Roemmele "sincere," and a man who genuinely loved his family, his friends, his country and his God.

In unique newspaper style, Mr. Roemmele normally began his work day at 2 a.m. and worked until 4 p.m. His favorite times during the day, he often recalled, were when readers and citizens would drop by the office in the early morning to discuss issues relevant to the towns he served.

Sometimes those hours and his accessibility to the public made life interesting for the Roemmele family at home.

Mr. Roemmele's son, Christopher, recalled this week that sometimes it was frustrating at home because of his father's commitment to his job.

"People would call and talk to him and believe that he could solve every problem the town had. He tried so hard and that was what he did best.

We were frustrated sometimes because of his commitment to the job, but that was dad," Christopher said.

Christopher said he and his family always supported their father in his role as a crusading newspaper editor.

"It made life interesting for us. It taught us a lesson in terms of really believing in something and standing up for what you believe in, in having strength and courage in your convictions. It wasn't easy going through school because sometimes you ended up with teachers who didn't like what your father said in his columns and took it out on you. But it was fun because you always knew what was going on in Bloomfield. Then it became knowing everything that was going on in Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and Glen Ridge," he said.

"We always liked knowing what was going on, but we always wondered why he had to get so involved in his work. But that was his passion," he said.

Mr. Roemmele will be missed by those with whom he worked. "Russell was a driven man. He cared about helping others to make the most of themselves," said Worrall Newspapers Publisher David Worrall. "Russell had a human side that few people saw because he wasn't a social individual. Family and learning were at the top of his priority list."

"Mr. Roemmele's weekly crusade opened the eyes of many people in the four communities he covered and got many people to question the actions of their local government leaders," said Raymond Worrall, executive editor of Worrall Newspapers. "The owners, management and staff of Worrall Community Newspapers were shocked and saddened by Mr. Roemmele's death, but we will do our best to continue his tradition and his crusade."

Mr. Roemmele is survived by his wife, Rosemary; three daughters, Lisa Hirsch, Suzanne Pennell and Laurie Ann; a son, Christopher Marc; four sisters, Marie Tanchyk, Lucille Giordano, Kathleen Cusumano and Jacqui, and four grandchildren.

Township employees to help with decorating Christmas tree

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

With 43 shopping days until Christmas, the Belleville Township Council got its arguing over early.

The work session Monday night began with a lively debate as to whether township employees would erect, decorate and dispose of the Rec Center Christmas tree.

The council approved the use of Department of Public Works employees, but not without reviewing problems the township has experienced with the tree and the Belleville Holiday Celebration Committee.

"I think it is a good idea, but the tree was supposed to have been put up and taken down at no expense to the town," Mayor Jim Messina said.

Messina also pointed out that the tree had blown down once and had to be re-erected by public works employees.

Deputy Mayor Tom Spillane opposed any use of township employees, favoring instead that the committee pay for the work.

"I am voting no to keep politics out of Christmas," Spillane said.

The holiday committee has been comprised of mostly political people, with members such as Joe Scapemotta, Tom Fuscaldo, Richard Yanuzzi, Angie Paserchia and Barbara Cicalose.

Yanuzzi, the Belleville Republican Organization chairman, twice ended up before a judge for problems concerning payments to merchants who did work on the tree.

A local electrician finally received payment for his services after pursuing Yanuzzi in court.

He also complained that equipment was never returned to him.

A Bloomfield man who had sold the tree to the committee also recovered money after bringing Yanuzzi to court in that township.

"I just wonder if it was anyone else we were talking about if discussion on this would last so long," Scapemotta said to Spillane after the deputy mayor had questioned the failure to pay for the tree.

Scapemotta and Paserchia are close Yanuzzi allies.

A further problem with the celebration committee arose after this newspaper discovered it was not registered with the state as a charitable organization.

Messina and Councilman Victor Canning favored a township tree be put up and paid for by the town.

Canning and Spillane voted against using DPW workers to erect the tree.

Messina voted for the proposal with reservations, voicing his concern that the committee keep its assurances to the township.

DPW Director Charles Cerami has suggested the township buy a permanent tree to use at Christmas.

In other business, the council discovered that billboards on Joralemon Street and Mill Street had no lease with the township.

The council voted to notify Gannett Company that the signs must be removed in 30 days.

Township Manager Steve Cuccio reported meeting with a Gannett representative in an unfruitful attempt to negotiate a lease.

The Mill Street billboards last had a lease in 1967. The Joralemon Street site had a lease in 1959.

The company has since paid the township the amounts agreed upon in those leases.

The notice to remove the signs appears to be a way to motivate negotiations with Gannett. Councilman Bill Cook advised any negotiation be retroactive to recover money lost by payments based on prices that are decades old.

The council requested that Cuccio and Police Chief Ray Kimble supply 911 tapes of emergency calls in two incidents.

BHS band to compete in festival

The Belleville High School Band will be among 120 top units from New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Virginia which will converge on Giants Stadium in East Rutherford for the U.S. Scholastic Marching Band Championships. The festival will be held over four days during two weekends, Saturday and Sunday and Nov. 10 and 11.

These championships mark the end of the Cadets Marching Band Cooperative season, which featured more than 50 local and regional shows throughout the tri-state area. The CMBC is a program of Bergenfield-based Youth Education in the Arts, which also sponsors the six-time world champion Cadets of Bergen County Drum and Bugle Corps.

All seats are general admission and priced at $12 for each day's event. Tickets can be purchased in advance from any participating band and at the Meadows Box Office at Brendan Byrne Arena.

Fair teaches children about health, safety

Nutley was the site of a children's health fair Oct. 21 as families from Essex, Passaic, Bergen and Hudson counties got together to celebrate Children's Health Month. In spite of severe rainstorms, 300 men, women and children attended this festive event.

A few years back October was designated as the month to focus education efforts around issues related to children. The main theme of Child Health Month this year is "Solutions before Problems," as suggested by The American Academy of Pediatrics. It is generally accepted that violence toward children breeds and perpetuates violence. The academy offers a 10-part approach to the prevention of child abuse.

The fair presented a multi-disciplined approach to children's issues. Professionals were available to speak to children and parents, many with multimedia presentations. Children were able to tour one of the ambulances manned by Lt. Steve Miller of the Nutley First Aid Squad. Miller spoke to parents and children and demonstrated the specialized equipment needed for emergency care of children in a hands-on manner.

Dr. Fred Applebaum, a pediatric dentist from Nutley, educated children in proper ways to brush and floss. The children were able to demonstrate their proficiency on an enormous set of teeth before receiving a cavity prevention dental care system.

Eye safety was the focus of Dr. Mitchell Strominger, a pediatric ophthalmologist from Belleville. Using pictures and a video presentation geared toward children, Strominger discussed ways to avoid eye injury.

The Nutley Fire Department was represented by Auxiliary Firefighter Tracy Peters. She had literature and demonstrated the proper use of smoke and fire alarms as well as fire extinguishers for home use. Demonstrations of the heavy firefighting equipment and try on helmets of different styles and sizes. Other videos on child safety was cancelled because of the weather. Discussing bicycle safety was Sgt. Nicholas Conditto from the Essex County Department of Corrections. Children were able to view a short video called "Bicycle Safety Camp" were shown including a video called "Never Talk to Strangers" which served to highlight another feature of the fair. A specialist from the Essex County Sheriff's Office was busy for three hours fingerprinting children onto individual identification brochures designed by the sponsor of the fair.

Families who raise puppies for Seeing Eye came with more than posters and literature. Several puppies were present, demonstrating their excellent upbringing and discipline.

Representing some less fortunate children, the Adoption Resource Center for Essex County was there in full force with literature, buttons, balloons and hope. Literature and promotions were on display from the New Jersey Department of Health on lead poisoning, the Children's Hospital of New Jersey and the Aids Task Force on Children with AIDS, and Children's Specialized Hospital with information on head trauma.

The day was overflowing with activities and giveaways including face-painting, removable tattoos, free gifts and samples of nutritional products, health and skin care products designed with the child in mind.

The sponsor of the Children's Health Fair was Nutley Pediatric Associates whose office was the site of the fair. The fair also served to celebrate the grand opening of the new offices of Nutley Pediatric Associates at 242 Washington Ave., Nutley, the addition of Dr. Offune Omo Obaze to the staff and the 10th year in Nutley for the group's medical director, Dr. Richard Marcus.

Marcus invites those unable to attend the fair to stop by the office and reminds parents to let their children know that they are valued, important, respected and loved.

Testimonial to honor retiring school director

"An Evening for Barbara," a testimonial dinner to honor Barbara Hampson of Nutley, will be Jan. 26 at 7 p.m. Hampson will be retiring Dec. 31 as executive director of The Community School in Nutley, Inc.

The event is set for The Landmark, 26 Rt. 17 South, East Rutherford. Reservations are $35 and may be made by phoning St. Paul's Church office at 667-4812. Proceeds will be used to establish The Barbara Hampson Scholarship Fund at the school.

Hampson began her career with the school, formerly called The Community Nursery School, in 1967, serving as a volunteer in setting up the school and assisting its founder, the late Norma Hall of Nutley for the first year. She was then named director.

The school, a non-profit corporation, is sponsored by six local churches, St. Paul's Congregational, Bethany Presbyterian, Vincent United Methodist, Franklin Reformed, Trinity Lutheran and Grace Episcopal. Growing from a small traditional nursery school program, it now encompasses an additional nursery school, a day care center, a full-day kindergarten and an infant toddler center. More than 300 children are served each year.

"Our goal has always been to meet the needs of young children and their parents," Hampson stated. "As the needs of families have changed over the past 28 years, the school has expanded and tried to meet the challenge of working parents needing affordable quality programs as well as providing developmentally-appropriate programs for children who can attend traditional nursery school. I am very grateful to our parents, our sponsoring churches and the community for supporting the school throughout my tenure here."

Clara Maass opens subacute rehab unit

Clara Maass Medical Center newest service "Bridges" is a state-of-the-art subacute rehabilitation unit.

Bridges Unit assists patients in bridging the gap between their acute hospitalization and their return to the community.

To achieve this goal, an integrated, coordinated approach to rehabilitation is utilized. Each patient is evaluated by the interdisciplinary team after which an individual rehabilitation program is designed and implemented.

Because Bridges Unit is part of Clara Maass Health System, patients are able to remain under the care of their physicians and surgeons. Additionally, Clara Maass Medical Center services are available to patients: diagnostic, laboratory, and emergency services.

At Bridges Unit, the range of services provided are psychiatry, physical therapy, audiology, speech/language pathology, occupational therapy, and recreational therapy. If further care is necessary following discharge from the Bridges Unit, arrangements are made by the interdisciplinary team for the patient to have skilled nursing care, rehabilitation services, or home health attendants in the comfort and privacy of the patient's home.

Services are provided by a professional team of highly skilled nurses, therapists, and board certified physicians.

Bridges Unit provides a pleasant environment that truly facilitates patient recovery. In a newly renovated wing of Clara Maass Continuing Care Center, the Bridges Unit offers attractively decorated semi-private rooms with television and telephone. Bridges Unit also has a complete program of recreational and socialization activities to promote independence and speedy return to the community.

To learn more about Clara Maass Health System's Bridges Subacute Rehabilitation Unit, phone Patricia Meyers, continuing care; Kathleen Scoble, patient services; or Tom Modica, program manager at 450-3525.

American Smokeout is Nov. 16

Next to Thanksgiving, it's the most famous Thursday in November. It's the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout.

Nov. 16 is your opportunity to quit smoking for 24 hours or to lend a hand to someone who's trying to quit.

The Essex County Unit of the American Cancer Society offers a variety of materials to the public, businesses, and schools to educate non-smokers about the dangers of smoking and help smokers to quit permanently, from literature to stickers and buttons.

School board member sees adult video as a threat to downtown

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

In June, Belleville Council approved a resolution to issue a license to David Kurzman for the property on 527 Washington Ave.

As of October, the store remains vacant, with signs "Video Thrills," adorning the front windows.

Former deputy mayor Mario Drozd and Belleville Board of Education member Frank Montagna see this business as a threat to Belleville.

When one applies for a retail mercantile license, he or she must state what will be sold on the premise.

Kurzman wrote that videos, Nintendo and Sega Genesis games will be sold at the establishment.

Some oppose this new video business, believing that it is a front for adult entertainment — pornographic videos.

Adult videos will be sold at "Video Thrills," but according to Kurzman, no laws will be broken.

"I advertise adult videos to supplement my income," Kurzman said. "However, I do more general video sales than adult video sales."

"People misconstrue the purpose of my business," he added. "The store is not going to be what people think. Once we get people in the store, we want them to see our emphasis is on family videos. Palmer Video and Blockbuster have adult video sections in its stores."

According to a Belleville ordinance, "adult use and entertainment businesses have characteristics that are inconsistent with the community and residential character; and that such uses and businesses represent a threat to the serenity and quality of life; and the conduct of such adult use and entertainment businesses are of such a nature as to have a deleterious impact on the health, welfare and well-being of the residents."

The mayor and council of Belleville ordained: "A person, establishment or business whether retail or wholesale, having more than 25 percent of its stock in trade, recordings, books, magazines, periodicals, films video/tapes, cassettes, or other viewing materials for sale or viewing on or off the premises, which are distinguished or characterized by their emphasis on matter depicting, describing or relating to specific sexual activities or specific anatomical areas as hereinafter defined."

"Approximately 17 percent of the video store in Belleville will be adult video," said Kurzman. "At my 'Video Thrills' in Flemington, we do hundreds of general video rentals per day. There will not be a problem in Belleville. I will follow the ordinances passed by the township council."

Those searching for adult entertainment do not have to look far in Belleville, with go-go bars, sweet shops and tobacco stores offering an array of opportunities.

Residents have voiced their concern about the future of Belleville.

"I will respect the town," Kurzman said. "I am going in there like any other vendor."

Although no date is set, Kurzman hopes to open "Video Thrills" at 527 Washington Ave., in "a couple of weeks."

This writer journeyed to a "Video Thrills" in Lodi and discovered that more than 50 percent of the store space was dedicated to adult videos.

Library friends seek quality grand piano

The Friends of Belleville Public Library and Information Center are seeking a quality grand piano, more than six feet, for the Carnegie Room. The piano should be of excellent quality, in good condition and preferably a Steinway, Baldwin, Mason & Hamlin or Knabe Piano.

Phone Library Director Adrea Cohen at 450-3434 if you have a piano to donate or one which the Friends can purchase. The Friends require a piano of high quality for future concerts at the library.

To donate to the Piano Fund, phone 450-3434.

Sign committee meets Nov. 2

Belleville's legislative oversight committee will have its second meeting to discuss Belleville's sign ordinances.

The meeting will be Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in Town Hall, 152 Washington Ave.

Police continue war on crime

Car thefts, breaking and entering and narcotics are occurrences Belleville police are trying to prevent but are still plaguing the township.

Two arrests were made on Belmont Avenue early morning Tuesday after officers recovered a 1996 Toyota stolen out of Newark.

Juan Ramon Lamboy, 20, of Newark and a 17-year-old Newark juvenile were arrested for possession of a stolen vehicle.

Shoplifting was reported at a Franklin Avenue hardware store Oct. 25.

Arrested was Michael Foresta, 35, of Belleville for attempting to leave the store with $40 of unpaid merchandise.

Shoplifting was reported from a Washington Avenue supermarket Oct. 26. A juvenile was involved in the case.

CDS arrests were made Friday

police blotter

morning in the vicinity of Franklin Street and Florence Avenue.

Jamaa Jones, 23, and J. Lee Washington, 22, both of East Orange, were observed by patrolman entering driveways and backyards. When patrol approached, one suspect was seen throwing something on the ground. Upon inspection, officers found two vials of a white powdered substance in a plastic bag. Further investigation of the suspects found a folded wax-paper envelop of the same white substance.

Police arrested and charged Ramon Santiago, 21, of Belleville for possession of CDS with intent to distribute on Friday evening.

The arrest was made at a Washington Avenue motel. Santiago was found with approximately 40 grams of marijuana and CDS paraphernalia within 1,000 feet of a school.

A robbery occurred in the vicinity of Eugene Place and Honiss Street Sunday afternoon.

One male and one female suspect reportedly snatched a 76-year-old woman's purse and fled in a grey van.

A CDS arrest was made on Washington Avenue Sunday evening.

Police responded to a suspicious person report. Further investigation resulted in the arrest of John Hyatt, 38, of Bloomfield for possession of clear plastic vials containing residue of a white powder substance. Hyatt was also charged with possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Motor vehicle thefts were reported Monday at 668 Mill St., Tuesday at 266 Washington Ave., Thursday at 27 Rocco St., Friday at 53 Magnolia St. and twice Saturday at 14 Belmont Ave.

Death in the family

It is indeed sad when a newspaper says good-bye to a member of its family. This newspaper lost a family member with the death of Russell Roemmele, the managing editor of The Independent Press, The Glen Ridge Paper, Belleville Post and Nutley Journal.

Mr. Roemmele died Oct. 26 after suffering from a heart attack earlier in the week. He will be missed by the ownership, management and staff of Worrall Community Newspapers, but more importantly, we are certain that he will be missed by the people he served weekly.

Mr. Roemmele had a voice which few peers could copy, but which many tried to emulate. He spent the last 50 years in the newspaper business honing his craft, which meant rooting out corruption in government and exposing the truth when the truth needed to be told — never afraid to make enemies along the way.

Mr. Roemmele believed, and he was among very few newspaper editors who do today, that a newspaper's purpose is to crusade. Without a crusade, he often said, a newspaper is not worth the paper it's printed on.

Mr. Roemmele's crusade was for good government and a high quality of life for the readers he served. There are those who would challenge those comments, but those would be the people who probably found themselves criticized on these pages, deservedly so.

Mr. Roemmele was honest and forthright. He opened his life for anyone to scrutinize because he knew there were no skeletons. How many politicians today could do the same?

We offer our deepest sympathy to the Roemmele family, and our sincere appreciation to our readers who called, wrote and visited our office with words of affection this week.

We promise them that Mr. Roemmele's voice will continue in spirit on these pages. We promise Mr. Roemmele that we will continue to do our best to crusade for good government, quality education and public accountability. After all, that is our role.

We also ask readers to remember the Russell Roemmele Scholarship Fund at American Savings Bank in Bloomfield. Your contributions will help memorialize a great man who served with distinction in the war against evil and corruption.

For the Assembly

Voters in the 36th Legislative District would do well to send Vincent Frantantoni and Paul DiGaetano to the Assembly as their representatives.

Frantantoni, a former Belleville commissioner, has the integrity, knowledge of the issues and boundless capacity for work that more than qualifies him for the job. Even before declaring his run for office, Frantantoni has been a voice for the people and a watchdog of local and county government, questioning council members and freeholders when events seem to be headed down a dark path.

Frantantoni has campaigned that he will push for real spending cuts, initiative and referendum, and campaign reform, a platform on which he has stood for a long time.

He has brought recognition to the Conservative Party and has given voters an alternative to the two-party system which has often betrayed them. Voters can be sure this is one candidate who will not get in office and do an about face on the issues because of pressure from party power brokers.

Incumbent Republican DiGaetano deserves another shot at the office, as he has fit well in Trenton.

A staunch supporter of the general Republican platform, DiGaetano has tried to ease the burden on taxpayers by working with the state administration in delivering a hefty cut in the state income tax.

More importantly, DiGaetano's office has been run well and has been "user friendly" for his constituents. With the back-room deals and closed door attitude prevalent in this area, it is refreshing to have an elected official who answers citizen inquiries quickly and responds to problems in a responsible manner. In short, he does his job.

Frantantoni and DiGaetano deserve the support of voters on Election Day.

"In this land the citizens are still invited to write their plays and books . . . to meet for discussion, to dissent as well as to agree, to mount soapboxes in the public square, to enjoy education in all subjects without censorship."

McNally for Essex County clerk

For the first time in 27 years, Patricia McGarry Drake will not be working in the County Clerk's Office. Drake, who was snubbed by her party and lost in the primary election in June, will be replaced by either Irvington Councilman Patrick McNally, a Democrat who works for Essex County, or Republican Phyllis Cedola, an attendance officer at South Orange Middle School.

The clerk, who will be elected to a five-year term, is probably the most heavily trafficked and publicly recognized office at the Hall of Records, with its primary responsibilities being to oversee elections and issue passports and identification cards. Its responsibilities with Superior Court ended after the state took over the operation of the court system.

We encourage voters to cast their ballots for McNally on Tuesday.

McNally has made promises during the campaign to make the office operate more efficiently and make it more accessible to the public. He would sponsor outreach visits to every municipality to reach those who found it difficult to travel to Newark.

McNally also has said a flexible time schedule should be investigated so the office could be opened before 9 a.m. and stay open after 5 p.m., allowing working folks an opportunity to get their business done without having to take a day off from their job.

A large expense of the clerk's office is for printing, especially sample ballots mailed to all registered voters prior to every election. This service should be put out to bid so a cost savings could be realized, the Democrat said.

In addition to these common sense ideas, McNally recently was certified as a municipal clerk and would be only the second clerk in Essex's history to be certified for the job. While certification is not necessary for the elected position, it would be beneficial for the clerk to know the rules, regulations, tasks and procedures his employees know and execute.

This knowledge gives McNally more insight into how the office could be run more efficiently and the legal constraints it must follow in doing so.

The expertise McNally has could provide the professionalism the county needs to overcome its financial woes and to improve its reputation that has been tarnished by past corruption scandals.

For open spaces, a balanced budget

When voters go to the polls Tuesday, one of the referendum questions they will have to answer is how much they value the green, open spaces which are slowly disappearing as New Jersey becomes the most land developed state in the country.

The $340 million question, which deals with the Green Acres, Farmland and Historic Preservation and Blue Acres Bond Act of 1995, would authorize the state to sell bonds to preserve New Jersey's dwindling "green" and "blue" spaces.

From the bond, $250 million would be allocated to acquiring and developing land for recreation and preservation projects, $50 million would be allocated for farmland, soil and water preservation projects, $10 million would be allocated to preserve historical sites, $15 million would be allocated to fund a new "Blue Acres" bond program to provide a fund for the state and local municipalities to purchase coastal areas prone to flooding or storm damage and turn them into recreation areas, and $15 million to purchase from willing sellers property within the Passaic River basin floodway which are subject to flooding and storm damage.

This would be the ninth "Green Acres" bond question in the state's history and all have been supported by voters. Green Acres bond acts have, in the past, provided grants and low interest loans to local municipalities to build ball fields, maintain parks and purchase historical sites, all of which are important to improving the quality of life for residents. Moreso, open space is preserved to provide people with a place to go to escape the asphalt jungle which New Jersey is quickly becoming.

The 1995 Green Acres bond act is even more important to Essex voters because passage of this referendum will provide the county with its first balanced budget in at least six years.

On the revenue side of Essex's budget this year is $32.5 million it hopes to gain from the sale of Hilltop, a 365-acre undeveloped tract of land in Verona, Cedar Grove and North Caldwell. Without this revenue, taxpayers will see the county portion of their tax bills jump $300 to $500.

Hilltop, on which the former geriatrics and tuberculosis center was located, is home to countless species of birds, trees and other wildlife. It is a place few people have been able to enjoy because it has never been open to the public.

While the money from its sale would be beneficial to county taxpayers, preserving this tract would be equally important for ecological reasons.

The marriage between preserving open space and easing the tax burden is not as unholy as some might believe, because both are equally important to maintaining the quality of life and making Essex County a viable and attractive place to live and work.

The remaining ballot questions

New Jersey voters have four ballot questions to answer when they cast their votes Tuesday. Varying from environmental concerns to matters of government funding and representation, the four initiatives give the public the opportunity to amend the state Constitution. The following are our recommendations:

Question No. 1: Vote 'no'

- Public Question No. 1 calls for Trenton to amend the state Constitution to create a permanent New Jersey Redistricting Commission to establish congressional districts.

Voters should reject Public Question No. 1.

The demographic trends in New Jersey do not indicate severe changes either in population size or location. The creation of such a commission likely will result in manipulation — or "gerrymandering" — of the shape of congressional districts to accommodate a political majority.

This already has happened at the state government level, when Legislative District 21 was redrawn in 1991 by Democrats in an effort to unseat Republican legislators.

Question No. 2: Vote 'yes'

- Public Question No. 2 calls for Trenton to amend the state Constitution to allocate a larger percentage of the existing state tax on motor fuels toward the Transportation Trust Fund to finance a state transportation system. The current dedication is 2.5 cents per gallon; if passed, the dedication will grow to 9 cents per gallon during a four-year period. In addition, the dedication of the motor fuels tax revenues would be made permanent and would provide a stable source of funding for the Transportation Trust Fund. Approval of the question would not result in an increase in the state motor fuels tax.

Voters should approve Question No. 2.

Question No. 3: Vote 'yes'

- Public Question No. 3 calls for Trenton to amend the state Constitution to prevent the legislative and executive branches of state government from imposing programs on counties, municipalities and boards of education without also paying for them. Definitions of mandated programs would be decided by a "Council on Local Mandates." The rulings of the council would not be subject to interpretation by the courts.

This amendment would not apply to: federal mandates or entitlements; mandates imposed on public and private sectors; reducing or shifting mandates among governments not previously the responsibility of the state government; mandates that address failure to comply with previously enacted laws; mandates that implement provisions of the state Constitution; and mandates imposed by a three-quarters majority vote in both houses of the Legislature after a public hearing.

Voters should approve Question No. 3.

The so-called "state mandate/state pay" question would keep distant, centralized government in check by ensuring accountability on a statewide basis. With that scrutiny, the public would be able to put a limit on government spending, rather than permit the current fat government's divide-and-conquer system of inflicting programs on governing bodies dependent on local property taxes.

letters to the editor

A letter 'for' the editor

To the Editor:

What more can be said about a person who has said it all.

We all knew him for one thing or another, one fight or stand on a particular subject and his determination to see it through at all logical costs, forsaking those who might be hurt from his pen, should they be doing the wrong thing according to God's ways, the only way he ever knew.

He was a very complicated, sincere and brave person willing to undertake unpopular causes when just the opposite would have been the more advantageous and established course to travel. He followed his quest for the truth, always the truth, and never have I noticed him to waver in his pursuit of attaining it.

I didn't always agree with his literary writings and, at times, got mad at his stories and articles describing certain happenings that took place in our town, but I did admire his forthright courage in saying it, as long as it was the truth, and it was always was. When I disagreed and wrote a rebuttal, he always printed my comments, which, at times, were rather hostile, but he always allowed my feelings to be read. For this, I thank him.

Finally, I finish this sad but glorious letter "for" the editor who taught me a lot about life and its meaning by quoting a statement I once read: "Nobody can be somebody unless they've made a good pact of solid enemies." From some of the letters you have caused to be printed, you sure were somebody. But no matter how big the pact grew, there were one hundred fold that amount who were your true friends and knew you for your stand and your devotion to your God, family and to your country.

Others will come and go, but you will leave a void in the pages of newsprint for some time to come in our town.

We'll meet again, it is written.

I bow my head in tribute

To the Editor:

On Oct. 26, Bloomfield lost one of its finest citizens, Russell Roemmele, managing editor of The Independent Press of Bloomfield, The Glen Ridge Paper, Belleville Post and Nutley Journal, died. With his passing, Bloomfield lost a man and a very bright and energetic individual, someone who stood up for truth, justice and the American way.

I bow my head in tribute to mark the passing of a great man, a man who always fought for and stood up for what he believed in. Russell has taught me the lessons of honest and objective journalism. I can best honor his memory by putting these lessons to good use — and, should anyone, including Jacobacci, try nefarious tricks, teaching troublemakers the moral lesson they deserve.

Reflecting on byways of this old seaport

Editor's note: This is one of the last columns written by Russell Roemmele before he died Oct. 26. How sad the school kids know so little of their community. I do not mean its geology, its geography, its geopolitics or its demography. I mean its history and heritage. How many weeks or months are given in the schools to those who came before us in Belleville?

As I was walking last Sunday afternoon through the Valley, I came upon a marker indicating the route of George Washington's Army as it retreated through Belleville more than 200 years ago. The marker had been placed in 1976 during the American bicentennial celebration.

On the ground I was walking was once a major seaport of the colonies. I have been researching the Valley as a landing place for bartering or "swapping" by farmers in hamlets along the Passaic, on the west and east shores, and also farther, much farther to the West Indies and to England, among others.

As I have written in this space before, this period of Belleville history and heritage, roughly 1700-1800, has never been detailed in the few worthy commentaries on Belleville's past — as with many municipalities nearby, no scholarly research of volume size has been written on Belleville, only popular, almost gossipary booklets.

Before Belleville became independent of Bloomfield in 1839, and before both had become independent of Newark, Belleville was an industrious trade center. Timber for the English Navy was shipped from the landing place near the Dutch Reformed Church. Only one scholar I know of, Herbert Fisher, had dealt with the transport of trees from Bloomfield, Montclair, Nutley, Glen Ridge, Woodside and Belleville itself in supplying the best timber and lumber for trade.

Many of the ships, which helped the English overwhelm the Dutch and, later, the French, were made of wood from tree-cutting in this area. Historical reference in English Navy documents refer to the need for more timber for masts for the fleet, specifically for English shipyards and those in Bermuda and in the West Indies.

Naturally, as I walked in the Valley I had to pass two go-go bars. I felt sorry for the residents nearby, not because the go-go bars were there, but because the residents did nothing to make them move on, to go away, as happened at least once during the time when the Valley was a seaport. For it seems the farmers and tradespeople of this area of Newark had protested the bawdiness of several establishments in the Valley about 1780.

It never ceases to trouble me that the positives and negatives of old Belleville rarely have been cited by adults and almost never introduced to school children, even at the junior or senior class level. It seems as if the educators are embarrassed about their scant knowledge, in that Belleville is not as essential to the education of our children as is the cultures of other nations, even Third World nations.

Along Second River

By Russell Roemmele

To instill pride in a community, one must instill its history and heritage. I fear our children are learning about other cultures more than they know of their own — America's. So, too, with Belleville's. Shame on those who forget the 300-year-old culture, the history and heritage, the traditions and institutions, the values and virtues of those who came before us — yes, in this old seaport, as old as Mystic, Conn., and Salem, Mass., without the whales and the witches commonly identified with the New England landing places.

Muro's Musings

By Douglas M. Muro
Staff Writer

Once again, he apologized. This man who taught me so much in such a brief period of time, apologized. He apologized because his will, his character, his soul wanted to fight, but his frail heart could beat no more.

Russell thanked me for coming as I grabbed his hand. Despite his weakened condition, he extended himself once again.

I turned back as I left Russell that evening and I heard his cry, "Semper Fi." I will never forget the image.

Russell was this newspaper. Without him, nothing will be the same. But we must honor him the only and best way we can — by keeping his spirit and his message alive in his newspapers!

As I drove away from Clara Maass on Oct. 24, I never imagined I would not see Russell alive again.

When I heard he had moved on to greener pastures, I felt numb. I realized a great man was no longer among us.

When I began at Worrall Community Newspapers last December, I feared Russell, until I saw his eyes. It may not be an original statement, but a person's eyes say a great deal. Russell's told the world he was sincere, loyal and compassionate.

Russell was always fond of quotes. He knew when and where to place them in his writings. He chose excerpts that perfectly illustrated his point or tugged at one's heartstrings.

Whatever I write on this page will not do justice to the unique individual who was Russell.

I do believe the words of W.H. Auden capture what I and the countless others who loved Russell are experiencing in these most difficult days.

"Stop all the clocks, cut off the telephone, Prevent the dog from barking with a juicy bone, silence the pianos and with muffled drum Bring out the coffin, let the mourners come.

"Let aeroplanes circle moaning overhead Scribbling on the sky the message He Is Dead, Put crepe bows round the white necks of the public doves Let the traffic policemen wear black cotton gloves.

"The stars are not wanted now; put out everyone; Pack up the moon and dismantle the sun."

For those who read this and share our loss, now is the time to honor our fallen editor.

For those who disagreed with Russell, silence your contempt and let us mourn in peace.

Even though we have lost our mentor and friend, the crusade will not end. The desire for truth Russell instilled in us is not about to subside.

To those who feared being exposed for the charlatans they are, continue, because your days are numbered.

To those who shared Russell's disdain of corruption, join us and honor his memory.

And to you, Russell, my dear friend, rest your precious heart and understand that the lives you touched are richer and wiser for having known you.

Semper Fi and may "flights of angels sing thee to thy sleep."

Your connection to Basic Checking.

Is your bank making you pay for checking extras you don't need?

Most banks offer checking packages with lots of stuff you really don't need.

Basic Checking from Collective Bank offers a simpler choice.

A lot of big banks think that they have to offer all sorts of unnecessary extras with their checking accounts. Then require sky high balances, expect you to pay a costly service charge every time your balance dips below the minimum, plus charge you for each ATM transaction. Not with Basic Checking from Collective Bank.

Basic Checking is a non-interest earning checking account with the lowest minimum daily balance anywhere. Just $100. If your balance falls below the minimum, you only pay a one-time service charge of $7.00 for the entire month — no matter how many times a month you fall below the minimum.

You also get an ATM card for just $1.00 a month — with unlimited transactions at any MAC location. Basic Checking from Collective offers just enough extras to make your banking easier. Like three months of free Bank-By-Phone, and a free initial supply of checks.

So while other banks are offering bells and whistles, Collective Bank is giving you just what you need. Simple, low cost checking that makes sense.

Get connected. Come to Collective.

We're connecting with you.

Russell has left a legacy in his four 'home' towns

The wrongdoers in local politics are breathing easier today.

A couple of their friends have been brave enough to make anonymous crank phone calls.

Russell Roemmele died on Oct. 26 from a heart attack.

Russell came into work at 2 a.m. Tuesday, as was his habit. He would work until the late afternoon.

How many politicians work that hard for us?

His chest began to hurt until he could no longer do the job.

He left a simple note on his desk, saying how many pages he had finished, apologizing for having to leave and closing with "Semper Fi."

Russell drove home, then his family sent him to the hospital.

I visited him for the last time that afternoon in the Intensive Care Unit at Clara Maass.

Again, the last thing he said to me was "Semper Fi."

That is the motto of the Marine Corps. "Always Faithful." No phrase better describes the man Russell was.

He was always faithful to his family, country, employer and employees.

He was faithful to his readers, too, never allowing his newspaper to be manipulated at the reader's expense.

I came to work for Russell at the beginning of 1994. During the first few meetings I covered, some politicians would bitterly criticize the newspaper, one even calling Russell crude names.

Something had to be right with Russell, I thought, to have political people seething against him.

Russell always told us that if a newspaper did not have a crusade, it was not worth the paper it was printed on. His philosophy was that a newspaper had to lead the way.

The reader should peruse his articles of the last two years. Look at the stories his reporters wrote.

The undeniable fact is that the four towns Russell covered have improved as a result of this great man's crusade.

In Nutley, citizens would never have known that the political friendlies enjoy less burdensome tax assessments had Russell not crusaded. Now the major media are beginning to pick up on this scandal. Eventually, the wrong will be corrected whether Nutley politicians help or not.

In Belleville, the Board of Education and Township Council are remarkably improved. The township enjoys a level of leadership that surrounding municipalities envy.

Bel View

By Paul O'Keefe
Staff Writer

Many of those who before were a detriment to Belleville not only behave themselves today, but work toward good ends.

That is the direct result of Russell's crusading.

In Bloomfield, the lowest denominator of politics has made a pressing effort to intimidate and take over.

Russell never wavered. The low-lives even staged protests outside this office. They verbally abused Russell at every opportunity.

Look at Russell's Bloomfield critics and judge. Gary Iacobacci, the man who would be mayor, has not filed his campaign finance reports for two straight elections. We are not allowed to know who paid for the councilman's vote.

Richard Galio has a single plank platform: how much he does not like Roemmele.

Galio and Iacobacci have accused everybody else in Bloomfield politics of scandal. Not one accusation came true. Not one.

Had Russell been interested only in selling newspapers, he might have inflamed the passions of readers by playing up to these accusations.

He fought these two demagogues all the way. Russell never buckled while the onslaught against Mayor Jim Norton was at its worst.

Norton is doing well now. Iacobacci will have to answer to Election Law Enforcement.

Do not expect other probes to cease.

Glen Ridge never suffered from the lowbrow politics other municipalities endured. A recent push by the Nutley crowd to get into Glen Ridge will fail.

Plenty of Glen Ridge viewers saw the Channel 2 news report about the tax assessments in Nutley, with the new borough publisher's building featured.

Russell's friends at this office were openly weeping Oct. 26. We loved him dearly. He touched and helped every person who ever worked for him.

His heart was immense. His intellect was sweeping. His soul was pure. None of his detractors can claim the same.

We will continue his crusade. Semper Fi.

About losing a man of great convictions

I am Jeanne!

By Jeane Mitchell

I do not want to write today, but I know I must. Russell would want me to. I can hear him saying, "Stop pouting Jeane, and write, write, write." So I guess I have no choice.

Russell was many things to many people. To me he was boss, editor, antagonist, teacher, friend and many times pseudo-grandfather.

When I first started at the paper, Russell intimidated me with his grumblings and growlings, but soon I understood that most of his noise was just bluster, at least when it was directed at me. When that noise was directed at "corrupt politicians" I knew to stand clear.

Russell has been one of the most influential people in my life, personally and professionally. Every time I write, I find myself looking for changes he might have made. I've never met someone more stubborn in his beliefs, yet his strength of convictions is what gave him passion. He pushed me to challenge myself and write on any topic no matter how sensitive the subject. I'm a better writer because of it.

When I was hesitant in writing my first column, Russell was relentless in demanding one. I didn't feel comfortable putting opinions and feelings out there for public consumption, but eventually Russell's hounding paid off and "I Am Jeane" was born — boy did he get a kick out of calling me that. No argument I made could get him to change that name.

Although he may have teased me about my opinions, Russell was very supportive of everything I wrote. We had our share of disagreements over sentence structure and vocabulary, but if I could argue a good enough reason I usually got my way. When I came in in the morning there was always at least one note on my desk with comments on whatever articles I had written the day before.

"Jeane, great article," underlined of course, along with any corrections he made would be scrawled across the paper in his expansive, sometimes illegible handwriting. "I did change the weak ending, however. You should end with humor! You may change, if you insist." At the time, I saved those notes so as not to repeat mistakes. I'm glad to have them now for other reasons, and he was right about the ending, so I didn't insist.

Some people reading this are probably scoffing at my sentimentality and I know that Russell had as many enemies as he did friends. That's what happens when you stick to your convictions and fight to expose corruption.

But those people do not know the hours he spent in that newspaper office, trying to put out the best paper possible. They don't know about the backbends he did trying to accommodate everybody who brought things in late that "just had to get in this week." They don't know about the time he did not run a story because a victim's family asked him not to, despite tremendous criticism from a borough that shall remain nameless.

These people don't know about the quiet afternoons when Russell would tell us stories about growing up in Newark, about his children when they were little and about funny conversations he had with his grandchildren. They don't know about the laughs we shared and the debates we had. They don't know about the advice he gave me on writing and my future, and they don't know about the glowing recommendation he gave me when I left the paper to pursue a career in public relations, a path he recommended.

Unfortunately, none of those things matter to those people. Fortunately, Russell didn't care what those people thought, he knew whose opinions counted and whose to disregard.

Right now, I feel for his family.

Russell spoke of them often and I wanted them to know how he proudly showed off his picture of his grandchildren, and how many times he told me that his daughter gave him the mug he drank his coffee from every day, and how he was always sure to use the pen his grandson gifted him with for Christmas. I can't imagine their loss.

I was only fortunate enough to know him for two years, yet I'll think of him every time I write a sentence, everytime I read a newspaper and everytime I pass through the townships of Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley and the borough of Glen Ridge.

Good-bye, Russell. Love, "I Am Jeane."

letter to the editor

Russell was always behind us

To the Editor:

I am extremely devastated to find out about the passing of my friend Russell Roemmele. Even though we have never met but were planning to do so, I feel as if I have lost someone who has been a part of my life.

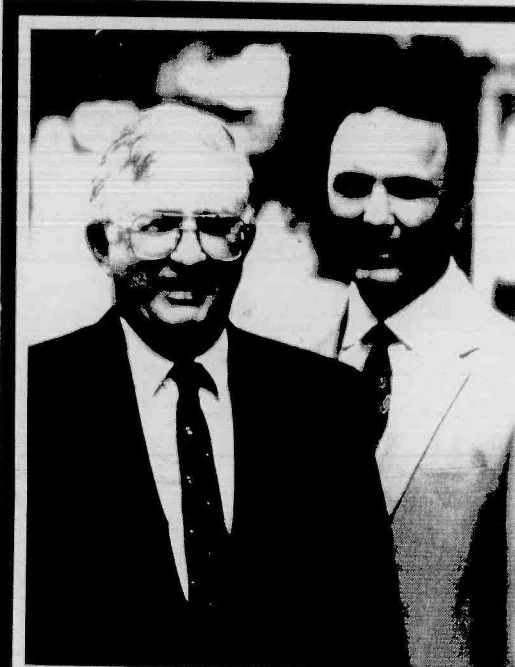

The Silver Lake Civic Association was always praised by him and his encouraging words made us want to continue in our efforts as we knew someone was behind us. As for myself, he always had a kind word and made me feel that all I got involved in was also worth doing. I cannot tell you how sad I feel to know that Mr. Roemmele will no longer be with us and that his honest words will no longer be read.

Assembly candidate's residency questioned

By Jim Van Blarcom
Staff Writer

Democratic Assembly candidate John W. Kelly has been under fire this past week as a result of accusations made by incumbent Republican candidates Paul DiGaetano and John V. Kelly.

Republicans contend that John W. Kelly has misrepresented his place of residence within the 36th Legislative District thus violating election laws and making him ineligible to for Tuesday's election.

Before a court hearing Friday in Superior Court in Newark, John W. Kelly maintained he had been a life-long resident of Belleville and Republican charges that he resides elsewhere were ludicrous.

"The lawsuit is grossly wrong. It is an act by Republicans to hide from their own record," said John W. Kelly. "DiGaetano and John V. Kelly are using Republican wealth to divert the issues."

The lawsuit developed when Republicans were able to gain documentation of a mortgage for a residence on Rock Spring Road in West Orange that was in Kelly's name. Gregory J. Romano, attorney for Republicans DiGaetano and John V. Kelly, prepared a case which charged the Democrat received a reduced rate mortgage from Chatham Savings Bank. The reduced rate, Romano said, was based on John W. Kelly's representation that he was a West Orange resident.

Judge Carol A. Ferentz dismissed the case because Republicans failed to have enough evidence to substantiate their claims. Ferentz ruled with the stipulation "without prejudice," which enables Republicans to bring the suit back to court if more evidence is acquired.

Kelly commented that at one time he had planned to move to West Orange, but had changed his mind just after signing the closing of the title in September 1994. Kelly admitted to owning the property in question, but that it is not his primary residence. Kelly rents the house to someone else.

Romano was quoted by the Herald News on the outcome of the judge's decision saying that he was not disappointed.

"It was a Solomon decision by the court. It's more important for us to complete the investigation," said Romano.

Nutley senior standouts share monthly accolade

By Rick Bliwise

Assistant Sports Editor

When the Nutley High School football team captured the 1992 North Jersey, Section 2, Group 3 state championship with an impressive 8-1-2 mark, coach Rich San Filippo had a number of quality kids in the starting lineup. But there's little doubt that the leaders were quarterback Frank DeMaio and running back Don Sellari. DeMaio did a superb job of running the show, while all Sellari did was constantly come up with the big play as he ended the campaign with 17 touchdowns.

This fall, the Raiders could be headed for another Group 3 state championship. And as with the '92 edition, the leaders are at the quarterback and running back positions. Senior Craig McCann, a first-year starter at QB, has done a super job at that spot, while senior Rob Carey, who rambled for just under 900 yards last fall, has proven to be one of the premier backs in Essex County.

"We only have 39 kids on our roster and all of them have contributed a great deal to our success," said San Filippo, who picked up his 100th career triumph earlier this season when the Raiders topped Don Bosco. "But I can't say enough about the job Craig and Rob have done. Game after game, they've turned in spectacular efforts."

Even in Nutley's opening day loss against powerful Hackensack, McCann showed what he could do as the youngster connected on 13 of 26 tosses for 155 yards, including an eight-yard scoring strike to Carey. And he's gone on to throw for 127 yards against Paramus, 155 against Teaneck and another 155 this past weekend against Paterson Eastside as the Raiders prevailed, 35-12, to capture their fifth straight victory.

And as for Carey, the poised senior has been on fire during Nutley's five-game winning skein. Carey rambled for 101 yards against Paramus, 103 against Don Bosco, 130 against Ferris, 101 against Teaneck and 125 last weekend against Paterson Eastside. Carey rushed for two TDs against Paterson Eastside and also caught a scoring strike from McCann to run his season touchdown total to 11, tops in the local area.

McCann and Carey, who will next be in action on Saturday when the Raiders travel to Paramus Catholic, are the co-choices for The Worrall Community Newspapers Athlete of the Month for October. In the month, the Raiders went 4-0, averaging just under 33 points per game.

"I have to give a great deal of credit to Craig because he's done such a fine job for us in his first year as the starting QB," remarked San Filippo, whose team will face its stiffest challenge of the year with a road tilt against St. Joseph on Nov. 11. "I think the thing which impresses me the most is how accurate he is with his passes. Heck, even when he misses a receiver, he doesn't miss by very much."

"He's not the same kind of quarterback that DeMaio was, but like Frank, he always seems to get the job done. The kid is a National Honor Society student and he shows the same kind of smarts on the football field. And you know what, he's not too bad of a runner, either."

Carey, who formed a strong 1-2 backfield punch in 1994 with Mike Sellari, impresses San Filippo so much because he's such a great athlete. The youngster, who can bench press well over 300 pounds, also is a leader on the NHS defense at linebacker.

"Rob is a very intense kid out there," said San Filippo, who in the cold winter months keeps busy as a college basketball official. "I think this year he realized he would have to carry more of the offensive burden due to the fact that Sellari graduated, and he's certainly come through in a big way. He can frustrate opposing defenses because he's very quick (he has 4.6 speed in the 40) as well as being awfully tough."

"There's no doubt in my mind that Rob will go on to become a fine college football player. With his size at 5-11, 185, I could very well see him as possibly ending up as a strong safety on defense. But no matter where he plays on the football field, he's bound to be an asset because the kid is just a winner."

Also considered for Athlete of the Month honors in October were Nutley girls' tennis player Kathleen Pete, Bloomfield girls' soccer player Michelle Reilly, West Orange cross-country runner Ritesh Lakhani, Irvington football player Ahmad Vincent, and Bloomfield College soccer player Frantz Jean Charles.

Bucs enduring painful campaign

By Matt Franklin
Sports Editor

For the Belleville High School football team, the story of the 1995 season has been one of pain and suffering.

Belleville entered the season fully aware that this campaign figured to be a rebuilding one. The Buccaneers lost their entire offensive line from last year's team and fielded only a few experienced seniors.

However, Belleville probably didn't expect the season to be as painful as it has been. The Buccaneers will bring an 0-6 record into tomorrow night's contest against powerful Hackensack, with the prospect of another defeat probable.

The latest painful chapter for Belleville came last Friday night, when the Buccaneers dropped a tough 7-6 decision to Don Bosco Prep. Belleville nearly pulled out the victory late in the contest in Ramsey, but the Bucs were stopped on downs at the Don Bosco Prep 10-yard line with under two minutes remaining.

Friday night's loss was the second excruciating defeat of the season for Belleville. The other one came against Paramus Catholic, a 20-19 home loss when the Paladins scored a touchdown with just 31 seconds remaining.

"The losses keep getting harder and harder," veteran Belleville head coach John Senesky said. "It's almost the same thing every week. This is the hardest thing about coaching."

Belleville could very well be 3-3 at this point with some luck. The Buccaneers lost their first game of the season to Teaneck, 20-14, and easily could have defeated both Paramus Catholic and Don Bosco Prep.

The other losses for Belleville have been less eventful. The Bucs were blown out at home against Clifton (40-13), St. Joseph (47-0) and Mendham (34-0), but those three squads have beaten a lot of teams this season.

"I don't know which kind of loss is worse," said Senesky. "A loss is a loss, but the games where you try harder are more difficult to take."

Despite the winless ledger, Senesky said the Buccaneers aren't hanging their heads. The squad has left everything out on the field, he said, and doesn't play like a team that is winless.

"The kids are self-motivated," he said. "They're not the type to give up or quit, although I couldn't blame them if they wanted to. The kids are sticking it out and working hard."

The few seniors on the Belleville squad have played especially well in the tough losses. Those same Bucs don't want to end their high school careers without a victory, and it only seems fair for Belleville to break into the win column before the season ends.

Leading the senior crew has been Jeff DePeri, who caught a 22-yard touchdown pass in the loss to Don Bosco Prep. The fleet DePeri also caught a touchdown pass in the loss to Paramus Catholic and had two interceptions in that contest.

Some of the other senior Bucs fighting until the finish have been tackle Joe Cotugno, quarterback Ram Parekh and backs Dave Paladino, Joe Romano, Tyrone Fitts and Rob Romano. Cotugno, a bruising 5-foot-8, 255-pounder, has given his share of lumps during the course of the campaign.

After the seniors, the remainder of the squad has gained an education. Most of the Bucs lacked experience heading into the campaign, but players like junior quarterback Rich DeFalco have gained valuable varsity experience. DeFalco, who tossed the TD pass to DePeri last Friday night, has a strong arm and figures to be the starting QB next season.

"The young kids are learning," said Senesky. "They're doing the best they can. They started out slowly, but they've gotten better as the year has gone on."

After the Hackensack contest tomorrow night, Belleville concludes its season with road games against Paramus and Nutley. The Bucs may have their best chance for a victory against Paramus, while the Thanksgiving Day contest against Nutley is always an emotional affair.

For the Buccaneers, a win in any of the last three contests would heal some of the pain they've endured this year. That goes for the seniors, as well as the younger players who gained experience this season.

"The kids are being tested under fire," Senesky said. "Hopefully, this will help them in the next few years."

EXTRA POINTS — Belleville faces a stiff challenge against the speedy Hackensack Comets. Hackensack (5-1) is coming off a 35-7 loss to St. Joseph, but the squad played that game without injured All-State tailback Joe Dawkins. Dawkins could be back for tomorrow night's contest.

"Either way, we have to play them," said Senesky. "We still face the same team. But it's a challenge playing somebody like Joe Dawkins."

FMA Franklin Medical Associates
INTERNAL MEDICINE

Franklin Medical Associates takes pride in making advanced medical care available to everyone in our community. Our objective is to combine the latest technologies in the field of medicine with an attentive, caring approach to each patient. Our warm and informal atmosphere will help you relax and enjoy a different kind of experience when a doctor visit is needed. For several years we have been located on Franklin Street in the Silver Lake section in Belleville, and now have opened a second office in Bloomfield, off Broad Street. We continue to provide all the same services in the Bloomfield Office that are available in Belleville, and hope that the second office will provide greater access to the surrounding communities. Of particular interest is the fact that we are direct participants in most health plans, including Medicare, US Healthcare, Prucare, and other major insurance plans. If you wish, sample free charges for routine services are gladly quoted by telephone. Appointments are available both on day and evening basis, as well as Saturday mornings. We suggest that for routine medical care, it is advisable to schedule appointments in advance so that we may afford you and your family plenty of time and attention. However, for those unexpected emergencies, we are also able to provide same day service. Should the need for hospital care ever arise, we are on staff at all the local hospitals, including Mountainside Hospital, Clara Maass Medical Center, and Columbus Hospital. These hospitals provide state of the art technology with dedicated, personalized care. In addition to routine medical care, we provide ongoing care for such common ailments as high blood pressure, diabetes, asthma, allergies, and high cholesterol. It is our philosophy to stress preventive healthcare, as part of good health maintenance. Our commitment is to improve the healthcare of you the patient, and to provide the best medical care possible. We believe that quality medicine should be accessible to everyone, and we are committed to improving the healthcare needs of our patients. We are able to provide various health screenings, including blood pressure screenings, diabetes, and cholesterol screenings. Full laboratory testing, is available in both offices with results being available usually the next day. Our offices are staffed by caring, professional people, who are dedicated to providing personalized care for all your health needs. Our practice has thrived and grown based solely upon the referrals and loyalty of our family of patients. One visit will tell you why.

Editor's
NotebookBy Tom Canavan

"I shall rage on against the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. The heart, so badly wounded thrice, is holding out, thank the Lord and medical science. I am told to quiet down, to relax. That is the last advice I heed. On the contrary, I shall go up the hill with my squad to that moment, that only moment brave, when the corpsman puts the dog tag between my frozen lips."

These words appeared in a column last week by Russell Roemmele, the managing editor of our company's Bloomfield region office. They were some of his last published words because Russell died the morning the newspapers hit the stands.

Many readers, especially those reading our Union County newspapers, did not know of Mr. Roemmele. I wish they had.

Russell Roemmele was a newspaperman like few others. In old-time, unique newspaper fashion, he began his day at 2 a.m., at least five hours before the rest of the world was out of the shower and on their way to work. During the weekend, he gave himself a break and arrived at the office at 3:30 a.m.

You won't find newspaper editors today with that kind of stamina.

Mr. Roemmele became one of the most controversial figures in the four towns where he served as managing editor. In Bloomfield, Nutley, Belleville and Glen Ridge, he was hated by many for the crusades he embarked on, but an equal number price?

Referred to as the "invisible layer of government" by County Executive James Treffinger, Essex residents have often wondered what they receive in return for the property tax dollars collected for county government. They may not have been able to put a finger on the intricacies of the county's responsibilities, but they could at least look to the parks and roads maintained by the county to justify the expense.

But after a season of discontent, a season which saw a steady flow of complaints made about the maintenance of the parks and the county abandon its responsibility to sweep county roads, where do the people look to justify their expense?

The complaints and the messy conditions of the parks and roads were inevitable. To compose a balanced budget, more than 350 county employees were laid off, most of them within the Public Works and Parks departments, leaving an inadequate staff to

Mutual aid extends to fire preventionBy Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

Fire departments from throughout Essex County have extended their "mutual aid" agreements to include a program that will educate non-English speaking residents about fire prevention techniques.

Shortly after taking office, County Executive James Treffinger formed the County Executive's Fire Prevention and Awareness Task Force to investigate how non-English speaking residents, especially Haitians, could be educated about fire safety and improve their trust of the fire department.

The task force was formed in response to several tragic and devastating fires which occurred during December 1994 and January. In a fire in Orange, the fire department was not called and nine members of the family residing there died. In Irvington, a fire in an apartment building left more than 100 people homeless.

The program developed by the task force utilizes volunteers to act as spokesmen for the fire department who will visit churches, schools and neighborhood groups, even go door to door, to talk to community members about fire prevention. So far, 40 volunteers of all ages from Orange, East Orange, Irvington and Newark have been trained and 20 more are waiting for another class to begin.

The volunteers, who speak English, Spanish and Creole, will focus on the towns of Orange, East Orange, Irvington and Newark and will go into the community to install smoke detectors, explain the dangers of portable heaters and the need for evacuation plans for multi-family dwellings.

"This is an attempt to change the behavior patterns and show why fire safety is important," said East Orange Fire Chief Len McDaniel, who taught during the training session. He cited cultural difference and a language barrier as the toughest obstacles fire departments have to overcome. "We have lost lives because people do not know how to protect themselves, and unfortunately the majority of the incidents are in the Haitian community."

McDaniel said Haitians have a distrust of men in uniforms because of the political climate in their home country and do not trust firefighters.

"We don't want to see you ignorant of the laws," McDaniel said. "You have to protect yourselves."

Acting Fire Chief Mark Huber of Irvington said the program is like an extension of the "mutual aid" agreement fire departments have with one another. When a town is fighting a fire, other departments will help out at the fire scene if the fire becomes uncontrollable or will cover a town while a fire is going. This task force, Huber said, pools the resources of every department in the county together to help out before a fire starts.

Jarreau Israel of Orange, coordinator of the Haitian-American Advancement Society, said in the wake of last winter's fires "the situation became a concern of everyone."

"We have to come out and learn and educate the community," he said, adding the training course was "profund and intense."

"The tragic fires of last year woke up the count of Essex to the need to re-examine our existing fire prevention efforts," Treffinger said. "While Essex County's residents are blessed with excellent fire professional firefighters in all our towns, we found that often cultural barriers interfere with prevention attempts."

The task force announced its plans at CAHACO, the Caribbean Haitian Council in East Orange. The crowded ceremony was marked by cheers for every volunteer as their names were called out and the distribution of coloring books, shirts and smoke detectors, all reinforcing the importance of fire safety.

McDaniel said when he turned to COHACO to find volunteers, many people were receptive to the program.

The program represents a joint effort between municipalities, the public and private hospitals and medical groups. Two representatives of the task force are the St. Barnabas Burn Foundation and the National Burn Victims Foundation, both of which provided the education material about fire prevention.

The program is being viewed as a pilot new and will be expanded into other municipalities later.

Officials urge support of state pay

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

Sixty percent of the county budget is comprised of mandated or constitutional costs, over which the administration has no control. In West Orange, one-fifth or $10 million of the Board of Education budget goes toward programs and policies that are state mandated. Irvington must pay $200,000 to equip its firefighters with turnout and bunker gear because of a state mandate. What's more, a lawsuit against Irvington was brought by its firefighters when the town did not supply the gear because it did not have enough money in the budget to purchase it.

Taxpayers are hit with property tax increases almost on an annual basis, and county and municipal governments and board of education are finding it more and more difficult to find areas of their budgets to cut because of funding they must provide for state mandates.

There is a referendum on Tuesday's ballot which would establish a policy requiring the state to provide the funding for a program if the program was mandated. This would mean the money to fund the program would come from the state budget and would not impact property taxes.

County and local officials are urging voters to support Public Question No. 3 when they go to the polls Tuesday.

"For years our state legislators have required local and county governments, as well as school boards, to implement costly new programs without providing any funds to pay for them," said County Executive James Treffinger. "While the vast majority of these mandates do serve a worthwhile purpose, they come to us with no dollars attached. The cost for these programs is borne by the people who live in our communities — the local property taxpayers."

"These unfunded mandates force local governments to either raise property taxes or cut back on services," he said.

Freeholder president Joe DiVincenzo said the mandated costs often penalize urban centers like Essex County because it is an area which requires the most services.

"The issue of state mandate-state pay is one of fairness," he said. "It is no secret that many of the people who need services that are mandated by the state are located in our urban centers. Many of the programs that are mandated are needed. But they should be paid for by all of the people in the state because they benefit all of us."

"We constantly have to cut back on basic services to pay for mandated programs. This negatively affects the quality of life for the people of Essex," DiVincenzo said. "And it's all because the place they live is overburdened with mandated costs."

Irvington Mayor and Freeholder Sarah Bost said the state mandate-state pay would provide a "clear picture of how tax dollars are being spent and by whom." She said no matter how hard county and municipal governments and school boards try to get a handle on budget increases, they take the blame when the increase is due to mandated programs.

"It will make the state think twice when they consider establishing new requirements. The result will be greater prudence by elected officials in spending the public's hard-earned money and create greater overall accountability," Bost said.

If approved, the state mandate-state pay would require the state to fund programs it mandates and, if it does not include a funding source for the program, the regulation or law would no longer be in effect.

A bipartisan Council on Local Mandates would also be formed to review state laws, rules or regulations to determine if they are being unfairly unfunded. If so, the law would be declared void and the local government or school board would not have to fund it.

There are exceptions to state mandate-state pay. The amendment would not apply to federally funded mandates, mandates equally imposed on the public and private sectors, mandates that were not previously the responsibility of the state, mandates that address the failure to comply with previously enacted laws, mandates associated with enacting the state Constitution or mandates passed by three-fourths of both houses of the state Legislature.

County budget, open space depend on Green Acres bond

By Anthony Puglisi
Regional Editor

County politicians and grassroots environmentalists are urging the voting public to support a bond referendum on Tuesday's ballot which would dedicate $340 million in bonds to preserve open spaces, historic sites and coastal properties.

Essex residents have an important stake in the bond issue, because county officials are hoping to receive money from Green Acres to balance the 1995 county budget.

The 1995 Green Acres, Farmland and Historic Preservation and Blue Acres Bond Act, Public Question No.

4, will provide $340 million in bonds to preserve open spaces, historic sites and coastal properties, including areas prone to flooding and storm damage in the Passaic River basin.

County officials, however, are lobbying for $32.5 million from the state for the purchase of Hilltop, a 365-acre tract of land which straddles Verona, Cedar Grove and North Caldwell. The revenue generated from the sale of Hilltop would produce the first county budget in six years that did not increase the total county tax levy.

The county is hoping the state purchases the tract and turns it into a state reservation. The county has tried to make the plan seem more enticing by offering to maintain the park once the reservation is complete.

"The passage of the Green Acres Bond Act is important for all the people of New Jersey, but it is especially crucial to Essex County," County Executive James Treffinger said. "Part of the funding in the bond act will cover the cost of converting Hilltop into a state reservation, preserving this precious piece of open space for generations to come."

"The plan to create a state reservation at Hilltop benefits our citizens in two vital ways. It helps us solve a severe fiscal crisis without increasing the tax burden and it will allow this presently unused tract of land to become a beautiful site for passive recreation for our residents," he said.

The executive has gained support from the Save the Mountains Committee, a grassroots organization based in Verona that is committed to preserving Hilltop. This is the group's third campaign to preserve the land, the first in the 1980s when it stopped a plan by then County Executive Peter Shapiro to build a hotel and convention center and the second in 1991 when illegal dumping by the county on Hilltop was exposed.

Formerly located on the site was the old tuberculosis and later old Geriatric Center. Many of the buildings have been torn down.

Sale of Hilltop has generated some controversy which was aired during a series of hearings in the summer. People protested the use of the Essex County Improvement Authority to provide interim funding. If approved, Green Acres money will not be forthcoming until 1996, although Essex County needs the money in 1995.

To bridge that gap, the ECIA has bonded $50 million which will be repaid with the Green Acres money when it is received.

As the sale of the Essex County Geriatric Center moves forward, the freeholders and employee unions have undertaken steps to increase their influence on the process.

Thursday afternoon was the deadline for private companies to submit proposals to take over the operation of the 236-bed center in Cedar Grove. Of the 12 companies that expressed interest, five submitted proposals.

A day earlier, freeholder president Joseph DiVincenzo announced the formation of a four-member volunteer committee which would review the qualifications and proposal of the finalist or finalists the county submitted as its choice to take over the facility. This committee would help the freeholder board determine if the quality of care provided would be satisfactory, the freeholder president said.

County employees at the center continued their campaign to dissuade the county executive from selling the Geriatric Center by holding a candlelight vigil in front of the Maplewood Municipal Building before the freeholders' Oct. 25 meeting. A handful of speakers also were provided time to address the board during the meeting.

County officials were silent about the proposals submitted by the five private companies, withholding the names and the amount of money each had bid to take over the center and 20 acres of land surrounding the site.

It is unknown when the county will submit its list of finalists to the freeholder board for review, and it is unknown if a private company will be in place by Dec. 1, the layoff date employees were notified last month. If a new provider is not in place, it is expected employees will be given another 45-day layoff notice.

DiVincenzo said he announced the formation of his review committee one day before the bids were received to eliminate any perception the committee members were chosen with a political agenda in mind.

"I wanted to announce this committee before the proposals were received so it was clear to everyone that our review will be the same no matter who the proposers are," he said. "This committee will guarantee that the review of the county executive's choice is an open process that will result in the county finding a purchaser who has a proven track record of providing quality care."

Members of the committee are Steve Rother, a mortgage banker who has been acting as an adviser to the freeholders on health care and financial matters; Gina Thomas, president of the Family Council at the Geriatric Center; John Danbridge Jr., president and chief executive officer of United Healthcare System, Newark, and Bernard Rabinowitz, chairman of the board of the United Healthcare System and a former Essex County freeholder who served on the board when the Geriatric Center was built.

DiVincenzo has agreed with County Executive James Treffinger that the county needs to sell the Geriatric Center because of the financial drain it is on the budget and to ensure quality health care for its patients. The center is operating at a deficit of at least $1 million for each of the last five years and has been cited almost annually by the state for substandard conditions, the most recent being four violations which necessitated the hiring of a private health care management firm.

Danbridge called the committee's role a "selection validation process" which will focus on the provider's capacity and ability to respond to the community.

DiVincenzo stressed the committee will not be evaluating the sale price negotiated between the county administration and the private provider. "The dollars is for the administration to decide. This committee is just dealing with the quality of care the patients will receive," he said.

Thomas, who is not in favor of the county selling the Geriatric Center, said she volunteered for the committee to ensure quality does not decline. "They are going to present someone to us and I want to be part of the selection process," she said. "I'm going to resign myself to the sale" and get what is best for the patients, she added.

Showing their fight is not over, union representatives marched before the Oct. 25 freeholder meeting holding signs that read "The man of the year wants to lay us off" and "Jobs with Justice."

Martin Robinson Jr., an employee with the county for 31 years, said the problems with the Geriatric Center originated from its director and poor management, not due to the fault of the workers. He added that anytime the county wanted to sell property, it should be placed on the ballot as a referendum question.

ECUA reorganizes with new members, chairman

The Essex County Utilities Authority has reorganized with three recent appointees made by County Executive James Treffinger replacing three holdover members of the authority.

The ECUA was created three and one-half years ago to manage all solid waste disposal and recycling activities for Essex County. This agency oversees the contract for the Essex County Resource Recovery Facility in Newark.

Mauro G. Tucci of Nutley was unanimously elected chairman of the ECUA at the authority's Oct. 17 meeting. Tucci, the senior member of the authority, replaced Stephen Edelstein as chairman. Edelstein is the former Essex County counsel whose term on the authority had expired. Tucci has more than 20 years of governmental experience. He is a New Jersey certified public works manager and has the positions of deputy director of public works and recycling coordinator for Montclair.

Frank Alexander of Millburn was sworn in as a new commissioner of the authority and was unanimously elected as the authority's treasurer. Alexander, who retired from the Prudential Services Company as vice president and comptroller after 29 years, operates a personal computer learning business. Alexander replaced Donald Biase, former Essex County administrator, whose term had expired.

Also sworn in as a new commissioner of the authority was Louis S. E. Greenleaf of South Orange. Greenleaf is the former chief of investigators for the Essex County Prosecutor's Office. He also served as director of police for the city of Newark and is a 28-year veteran of law enforcement. Greenleaf is serving as president of the Garden State Bar Association.

Dr. William Oser of Verona, a medical doctor and lawyer, is scheduled to be sworn in at the authority's Nov. 9 conference meeting in Cedar Grove. Oser is vice president for medical affairs at JFK Health Systems Inc. in Edison. Oser is an adjunct professor of law at Seton Hall School of Law in Newark and assistant professor of medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey in Newark. Oser is replacing Robert Leopold of Livingston, whose term had expired.

Treffinger said he is pleased with the new appointments and reorganization of the authority. "Serving as a commissioner on the utilities authority carries a great responsibility and I searched extensively for citizens with impeccable credentials," he said.

"The ECUA must deal with many emergent issues regarding solid waste policy," Treffinger added. "It is critical that these issues be handled in a prudent, expedient and economic manner to protect Essex County taxpayers from any adverse impact from the rapidly changing solid waste disposal market and an uncertain regulatory environment."

Blood center gears up for holiday shortages

The North Jersey Blood Center is announcing a variety of times and locations for opportunities to donate blood. "As the holidays approach, there is a need to build up the supply now," said Judy Knecht, spokesperson for the blood center.

"Because donations fall during holidays and long holiday weekends and red cells only have shelf life of 42 days, the goal is to beef up donations before a crisis hits," she said.

Donors must be 18 years of age. Seventeen-year olds may donate with parental permission. There is no upper age limit for donors provided they have donated within the last two years or have a doctor's note. Donors should know their Social Security number and bring a signed form of identification. People with cold or flu symptoms should wait until they are feeling better before donating and there is a 72-hour deferral for dental work, including routine teeth cleaning. For information or to sign up for a blood drive, call the blood center at (800) BLOOD NJ.

Drives will be conducted at the following times and locations:

• Today, Boreas 7th Day Adventist Church, Prospect Street and

Parker Road, Maplewood, 4-8 p.m.

• Saturday, Franklin School, 85 Curtis St., Bloomfield, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

• Sunday, Sacred Heart Parish, 537 Grove St., Irvington, 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

• Monday, St. Barnabas Medical Center, East Wing, New Building, Room E26, Old Short Hills, Livingston, 6-9 p.m.

• Tuesday, New Jersey Institute of Technology, 150 Bloeker St., Newark, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

• Wednesday, St. Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, 6-9 p.m.; New Jersey Institute of Technology, Newark, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

• Nov. 9, Montclair Chapter, American Red Cross, 63 Park St., 2:30-8 p.m.

• Nov. 13, St. Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, 6-9 p.m.

• Nov. 15, St. Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, 6-9 p.m.

Donations also may be made at the Regional Donor Center at West Orange, 401 Pleasant Valley Way, Mondays and Fridays from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Tuesdays to Thursdays from noon to 7 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The telephone number is 669-9898.

ber — if not more — loved him for the same crusades.

A man of convictions, Mr. Roemmele used his editorial space each week to root out corruption and expose truth where truth needed to be told and was never afraid of the repercussions. People feared him in life, and, as we learned this week, they fear him even in death.

Mr. Roemmele's weekly columns will be silenced, and that's sad for the many readers who learned a lot about their town's history. It's also sad because the power he had behind those words effected positive change in the towns he covered. They even helped change the course of government.

That's the role a newspaper editor should play. He or she should look upon their communities with a certain kind of love and always have the courage to stand up for what is right — as long as it is right. And when we receive a response in which the letter writer or phone caller shouts at us and curses at us for our opinions, we should sit back and tell ourselves that we've done our jobs — as long as it is right.

I will miss Mr. Roemmele. During the two years I have known him, he has taught me a great deal about the newspaper business. He taught me never to be afraid to write the truth, as much as it might hurt the subjects of articles. He taught me to remain steadfast in my convictions, even if it meant enduring a barrage of criticism against me.

That's what we should be prepared to accept, after all, when we make the decision to join the newspaper industry as reporters and editors.

In the opening paragraph of this column, I quoted from a column published last week by Mr. Roemmele. He talked about going up the hill with his squad to the moment when the corpsman puts the dog tag between his frozen lips. Mr. Roemmele many times used military analogies to describe life, and this was no different. His hill was his crusade — a crusade against corruption and evil. His hill was always steep, but he always managed to reach the top — except this last time.

A strong voice in the newspaper industry has been silenced, and for the moment, my heart is silenced with respect.

Sacrificing services

handle the load. And it was a conscious decision by the administration to eliminate street sweeping.

Several municipalities have shown their dissatisfaction with the level of service the county is providing, and it is a displeasure which probably began brewing long before Treffinger took office.

Newark is threatening to withhold a third quarter tax payment of $9 million to the county because it is unhappy with the state of the county's roads and parks. Similar complaints have surfaced in Irvington, Orange and East Orange. In Belleville, the council approved a bond ordinance to purchase snow plows and new trucks because its fleet was aging, but also because it was unsure if the county would fulfill its obligation to plow the roads. The mayors of West Orange and Verona have long said they no longer rely on the county to plow their roads because a good job is rarely done in an expeditious manner.

There also have been no takers for a plan by Treffinger to have the county reimburse municipalities to plow the county roads in their town. Reimbursement figures offered by the county were reportedly only one-fifth of the cost towns would incur for the added responsibility.

Despite this displeasure and evident degradation of county parks and roads, nothing has been done to rectify the situation.

When asked what the county was legally supposed to do, counsel for the freeholders, Francis Giantomas-i, said the statutes say it has to "maintain" the roads and parks. The definition of "maintain" is up to individual interpretation.

Maybe residents were tolerant with the state of affairs because they realize the county is still trying to climb out of its proverbial budget hole. But during a recent fourth quarter budget hearing held by the freeholders, it was made public there was a $1 million combined surplus in the Public Works and Parks departments' budgets. While the parks and roads are going to pot, so to speak, the county is building a surplus to offset deficits in other areas of the budget, namely the line items for the corrections department and Geriatric Center.

This throws the entire budget process out of whack because as much time as the freeholders have spent reviewing this budget, it is not the one the county executive is following.

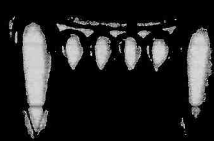

Moreso, as legitimate complaints about the cleanliness of the county's parks and streets mount, the money to do the job is sitting there in the county coffers.

As the attention of the freeholders and administration turns to formulating the county's 1996 budget, some rethinking has to be done about parks and roads. These relate to quality of life issues and, although it does not make for a "sexy" headline, their upkeep will depend on how attractive Essex remains to its local business and residents.

'Dreamgirls' debuts at Paper Mill Playhouse

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

There is so much entertainment up on the Paper Mill Playhouse stage in Millburn these days with such a variety of talent that a theater-goer is in his or her glory throughout a performance. The show is "Dreamgirls," a musical that took six Tony Awards in 1982 during its Broadway run, and won two nominations for Jefferson Awards in Chicago.

Amidst the heart-pounding music, the marvelous choreography, the exquisite gowns, the magnificent costumes, the incomparable scenic delights, there is a dramatic, moving story that follows the careers of a trio of girls from Chicago, who make it to the top. "Dreamgirls," with book and lyrics by Tom Eyring and music by Henry Krieger, both of whom offer a rock-and-roll and rhythm-and-blues score to the production, is reminiscent of the careers of the legendary Diana Ross and the Supremes. In chronological order, the play unveils the "show biz" struggle in the lives of the lead performers and the numerous compromises made by black singers in the 1960s to be accepted by white audiences.

The performances of the main characters are so strong they can tear one's heart out, particularly the beautiful women who make up the trio, LaTonya Holmes, Angela Robinson and Sharon Wilkes, and in the second act, Deidre Lang, who joins the trio when Wilkes is fired. The other principals in the cast who give powerful performances include Alton Fitzgerald White, who plays Curtis Taylor Jr., the trio's unscrupulous manager; Marshall Titus, the overbearing star singer whose appetites for fame and women are insidious; Curtiss L. Cook, as C.C. White, the songwriter-brother of the Sharon Wilkes character; Herb Downer, as Marty, an honest promoter, and David White, who plays Little Albert, who leads his Tru-Tones group.

Mark S. Hoebee, who held the directorial reins of "Dreamgirls" in Chicago and won a nomination there, is responsible for the superb production that is at the Paper Mill Playhouse. Choreographer Kenny Ingram has created some really fine dances in cooperation with Wendy Bobbitt, musical director. Michael Anania, the incomparable scenic designer, has provided the various parts of the backstage of the Apollo Theater and the dark and bright corners of other theaters in conjunction with Tim Hunter and Gregg Barnes, lighting designer and costume designer, respectively.

The early days of the pop rock concert and recording industry and the emergence of the Motown dynasty are clearly shown in the music and the musical dialogue of "Dreamgirls." With 12 scenes in the first act, from the Apollo Theater, Atlantic Hotel in Miami to backstage and on stage in Las Vegas, such numbers as "I'm Looking for Something," "Goin' Down-town," "Cadillac Car" and "I Want You Baby," consistently tell the story of the trials and tribulations of the rise to stardom of four young women. And the music and the musical dialogue follow the story line with such numbers as "I Am Changing," "One More Picture Please," "When I First Saw You," "Got to Be Good Times," "I Meant You No Harm," "I Miss You Old Friend," "One Night Only," "Hard to Say Goodbye My Love," and the title song, "Dreamgirls."

The dramatic talents that are unfolded in this Paper Mill production are surprisingly outstanding. The sparkling show, which is unlike any show that the Paper Mill Playhouse has staged in the past, is a most unusual experience. And if one likes loud, significant music, fantastic drama and spotlights occasionally turned onto the audience, then it is one's cup of tea.

And, as it is often mentioned in the dialogue throughout "Dreamgirls," "that's show-biz," well, that's exactly what it is. Show biz — personified.

The Miss Essex County pageant seeks contestants

Around Essex

By Robin Wallace
Staff Writer

it, it's not something you'd know about," he said.

Though last year's Miss Essex County, Princeton University student Marlo Graves, was from East Orange, Roemmele said the county pageant itself has had trouble recruiting native contestants. The rules of the pageant allow the contest to be open not just to residents of the county, but to women attending school or employed by businesses in Essex County.

The 1994 Miss Essex County, Jennifer Jarvis, went on to win the Miss New Jersey title and capture the second runner up position in the national pageant behind Miss America Heather Whitestone, but she was raised in Cherry Hill.

Roemmele said the pageant also suffers from a lack of community sponsorship, which the organization relies on to fund the prizes awarded the winners. The pageant manages to raise enough funds to support a one-year, $1,000 scholarship for the winner, but Roemmele said he would like to see sponsorship increase to allow him to increase the scholarship, and even award lesser scholarships to the runners-up.

Businesses can donate services or merchandise as prizes. Jewelry, clothing, health club memberships, hair and nail service, luggage and athletic equipment would all make valuable prizes for the contestants, Roemmele said. He said he is hoping interest in competing in the pageant will grow hand in hand with sponsorship support.

Along these lines, Roemmele is working to make the title of Miss Essex County a less empty reign than it has been in the past, booking appearances and engagements for Graves.

The Miss America Scholarship Pageant is the single largest provider of college scholarships for women in the world, but according to pageant officials, Essex County has been sorely underrepresented in the local and state level pageants that send contestants to the national competition.

This element of the pageant had been neglected in the past.

"Most people don't know or think of it, but there is a Miss Essex County, and she is available to make appearances at your parade or school," Roemmele said.

This aspect of the title is important training for contestants who might succeed to the state or national level of the pageant. As part of her duties, Miss America is required to maintain a grueling schedule of appearances across the country for the duration of her term.

"She is out there every day for the pageant," Roemmele said. "We don't see her as much here because it is not that big of a thing, but in other parts of the country, she is a very popular guest of honor," he said.

For young women still leary of going the pageant route, the following numbers might cause some reconsideration. Miss New Jersey receives a $9,000 scholarship plus assorted prizes and earnings from personal appearances. Miss America is awarded a $40,000 scholarship as well as prizes such as automobiles, fur coats and jewelry. In addition, Miss America earns about $200,000 during her one-year reign from personal appearances and endorsements.

Though the pageant has yet to abolish the controversial swimsuit competition, which accounts for 15 percent of the contestants' total score, the personal interview, which focuses on the candidates' academic achievements, community service and career ambitions, accounts for 30 percent, and the talent competition 40 percent. The evening gown segment accounts for 15 percent of the final score.

Contestants, even at the county level, are required to have a platform — a cause or issue they want to support or publicize. Roemmele said some young women are discouraged by the requirement of developing and committing themselves to a platform, but he said this is not as difficult as it may first appear.

"There is probably a hobby or concern she has, or an organization she is already involved in," Roemmele said.

With the exception of administrators at the top level of the pageant, the Miss America organization is run entirely by volunteers. Any contributions made to the pageants are tax deductible.

This year's Miss Essex County is Feb. 24 at Bloomfield High School, and is open to any female between the ages of 17-24 who was born in the United States and is a resident, student or employed by a company of Essex County. Anyone interested in entering or sponsoring the pageant should contact Roemmele at 748-6377.

'Most people don't know or think of it, but there is a Miss Essex County, and she's available to make appearances.'

'Tsalah' plays at JCC on Nov. 13

"Tsalah," a documentary by Claude Lanzmann, the director of "Shoah," will be presented over two days at the JCC of Metropolitan New Jersey, 760 Northfield Ave., West Orange.

Part I will be shown Nov. 13 at 1:30 and 7 p.m. in the Maurice Levin Theater. Part II will be shown Nov. 14 at the same times. The screening is part of a series of events scheduled during the Annual Community Festival of Jewish Books and Culture.

Shot in 1991-92, "Tsalah" is a probing inquiry into the inner workings of the Israel Defense Forces. Part I examines the 1973 Yom Kippur War, largely through the testimony of the soldiers and officers who served in the conflict. Part II examines the repercussions of Israel's militarism on its civil life, as Lanzmann tours the occupied Gaza Strip, interviewing the soldiers who patrol Gaza and an Israeli settler on the West Bank.

Tickets are $8; $6 for students and seniors. Group rates are available. The Maurice Levin Theater is accessible to the handicapped and listening devices are available. Tickets may be purchased at the JCC Box Office.

For telephone ticket orders or to receive a complete schedule of Festival of Jewish Books and Culture events, call 736-3200 ext. 253.

Symphony gives first performance

The South Orange Symphony Orchestra will give the first concert of its 1995-1996 season Nov. 11 at 8:15 p.m. in Sterling Hall of South Orange Middle School, 70 N. Ridgewood Road, under the baton of Robert Helmacy, its music director.

The soloist will be Joyce Geeting, who now serves as faculty cellist at The University of The Redlands in California. As a member of the chamber quartet, Descano Players, she has performed in more than 100 concerts throughout California since its inception in 1982. In addition to her performances, she aids young cellists in their musical development, many of whom are now professionals throughout this country and Europe.

At this concert she will perform the Haydn C Major Concerto. After this appearance in South Orange, she will be the soloist with the Rome Festival in Italy.

Geeting is writing a book on the life story of Janos Starker, her teacher, one of the great cellists of this century. She plays a 230-year-old cello made by John Edward Betts of the Royal London Exchange.

The orchestra also will perform the Symphony in D minor by Cesar

Joyce Geeting
Solo cellist

Franck and the Lucio Silla Overture by Mozart.

The orchestra does not charge admission.

• Four artists, whose work can be seen in "Fall Showcase" at the Sheila Nussbaum Gallery, Millburn, make everyday sights seem magical, mystical and intriguing by using symbols and imagery that touch the heart and mind. Painter John Dawson, contemporary folk artists Jeanine Anderson Guncheon and John "Jandy" Anderson and enamelist Colette are internationally known and will be showing their work through Saturday. The Sheila Nussbaum Gallery is at 341 Millburn Ave. and is open Monday through Wednesday, Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Admission is free. Call 467-1720 for more information.

• The new fall exhibit of large abstract paintings by West Orange artist Ben Georgia is at the Ben Georgia Gallery and Studio, 56 Main St., Third Floor, West Orange. The show will run through Nov. 19. Hours are Wednesdays through Sundays from noon to 6 p.m. For more information, call 731-9652.

• Contrasting perspectives on American Indian life, as depicted in art by non-Indians and Native Americans themselves, will be presented in "Varied Visions: The Native American at the Turn of the Century." The exhibition will continue to Jan. 21, 1996, at The Montclair Art Museum. Guest curators George Abrams, a member of the Seneca Nation, and Alfred L. Bush, curator at Princeton of its collections of Western Americans, have organized the exhibition using works from the museum's own collection.

• Clothing is about who we think we are and how we choose to represent ourselves. "Empty Dress: Clothing as Surrogate in Recent Art" is running at The Montclair Art Museum. The exhibition, organized and circulated by Independent Curators, ICI, N.Y., makes its final tour stop at the museum through Dec. 31. "Empty Dress" features mixed media works, photographs and sculptures by

'Rumors' comes to the Baird

"Rumors" by Neil Simon will come to the Baird Theater of South Orange Nov. 9, with a benefit to be performed for First Night Maplewood/South Orange the day before. The play revolves around an anniversary party for the deputy mayor of New York City and his wife in their townhouse. The party never begins because it is revealed the host has shot himself in the head — with only a flesh wound — and his wife is missing. The plot thickens with the arrival of four hilarious couples, and as they arrive a new version of the truth is disclosed. Doors slam as another Neil Simon roller-coaster ride of laughter gets underway as the cast gets more and more crazed trying to sort everything out. Pictured is the cast of "Rumors," that will run Nov. 9-11, 16-18 and 24-25. The Baird Theater is in the Baird Community Theater, 5 Mead St., South Orange. For more information, call 763-1140.

Song and dance man Chiller to perform in Newark

Watch out because Chiller is about to make a name for himself in the music world.

Born and raised in Northern New Jersey, Jerome "B.J." Streeter, also known as "Chiller," was gifted as a child with phenomenal musical talent.

At the tender age of 8, Chiller started singing in church choirs and talent shows. He graduated from the School of Performing Arts in New York. He is a creator of music and is an electrifying performer on stage. He has performed at various local clubs in New Jersey, such as The Peppermint Lounge, Club 88, Sir Richards and the Zamzibar Club.

In 1992, Chiller received a "Singer of the Year" award, presented to him by Mayor Sharpe James of Newark for his performances as a local singer in New Jersey clubs.

Of his singing talent, Chiller also has an ear for creating music and playing various instruments such as the saxophone, various keyboards and drums.

With all of this talent, Chiller names none other than Michael Jackson, "The King of Pop," as one of his biggest inspirations.

Chiller is arranging a world tour as a promotion for the "Michael Jackson: King of Pop" movie. He is set to kick off this tour in May.

Chiller will be appearing at the Robert Treat Hotel in Newark on Dec. 2.

Dining Review November 2, 1995

By Yolanda McBride
Staff Writer

Although Don's Diner at 666 Nye Ave. has been a part of the Irvington community for just two years, it has distinguished itself from the rest of the township's fast food restaurants and diners by providing a casual atmosphere and good service to its customers and by serving quality food.

"Our goal is for a customer to not get up and still be hungry," said owner Don Papamarcos, who describes his business as the classic American diner.

Breakfast, lunch and dinner is served at the 24-hour diner. Breakfast meals include omelettes, pancakes, bagels, french toast and bread and muffins.

The menu, which boasts everything from snacks and starters and tasty sandwiches to full entrees that include roasts and steaks, has much to offer. Chicken fingers, potato skins, mozzarella sticks, buffalo wings or french fries serve as a tasty appetizer before the main course of any of Don's main courses.

Patrons of Don's Diner have a variety of meals to choose from such as the hamburger corner which offers a plain hamburger to a bacon cheeseburger deluxe. From baked virginia ham and sliced london broil to veal cutlet or cream cheese sandwich, Don's tasty sandwiches are served with cole slaw or a pickle.

Salad lovers have an assortment of salads to choose from at Don's such as the shrimp, whole shrimp, tuna salad and chicken salad platters that are served at the diner.

Entrees include broiled New York cut sirloin steak, broiled rib eye steak, roast sirloin of beef, roast ham, and baked meatloaf which is served with a salad, potato and vegetable.

A taste of Italy can also be sampled at Don's from spaghetti and meatballs to shrimp parmigiana.

With so many appetizing meals on Don's menu it is hard to name every meal that is listed, customers will just have to check it out for themselves.

Every meal must end, but let's not forget dessert. Don's Diner has its own bake shop which bakes delicious pies, cakes and pastries such

Kessler gives away a Saturn

Robert Rossiter, center, sales representative of Saturn in Livingston, and Debra Marr, right, special events coordinator of the Henry H. Kessler Foundation, hand over the keys to Vermont resident Ira Pike, left, winner of a 1996 Saturn after making a hole-in-one during the Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation's 13th Annual Golf and Tennis Classic at the Canoe Brook Country Club in Summit. This is the first time a golfer has made a hole-in-one during the classic. This year's tournament netted more than $100,000 for the Patient Services Fund at Kessler. Kessler has inpatient facilities in East Orange, Chester, Saddle Brook and West Orange. Outpatient facilities are in Amundale, Budd Lake, Morris Plains and Union. The Patient Services Fund provides financial assistance to those who may not be able to afford the many aspects of their physical rehabilitative care.

Healthier babies

Workshop to be held at Millburn Middle

Cancer Care of New Jersey and Millburn Middle School are sponsoring a workshop entitled "Let's Talk About It: Helping Children Cope with Parental Cancer" at Millburn Middle School, 25 Old Short Hills Road, Millburn. This free two-hour program, for parents with cancer, their partners and their children ages 6-12, will help families learn to cope and communicate with each other more effectively. Separate and together time for parents and children will include discussion of children's needs for accurate information and emotional support, games and exercises for children to dispel myths and provide information, and an emphasis on identifying feelings and sources of support both within and outside of the family.

Facilitators are professionally trained social workers skilled and experienced in helping families cope with cancer. The program will be Nov. 14. Call 379-7500 for the exact time and to register, as attendance is limited and pre-workshop screening is required.

Cancer Care, Inc., a non-profit social service agency was founded more than 50 years ago by a group of dedicated volunteers who realized that "life does not end when cancer begins."

St. Barnabas provides young adult support

"Living with a chronic condition such as diabetes poses many challenges," said Joslin clinical psychologist, Dr. Charles E. Dodgen. "This is especially true for young adults ages 18 to 30." The Joslin Cancer for Diabetes at St. Barnabas provides a free quarterly young adult support group for people with diabetes. The group will meet Tuesday from 8-9:30 p.m. at Joslin, 101 Old Short Hills Road, Suite 415, West Orange, directly across the street from the St. Barnabas Medical Center.

The group is led by Dodgen and is designed to provide contact with others who have diabetes, are about the same age and are dealing with similar family, social, emotional and career issues. The young adult support group helps reduce feelings of isolation and increases support, feedback and encouragement, said Dodgen.

The Joslin young adult support group is open to all young adults from 18- to 30-years-old who have diabetes. It is open to the public and free of charge, but seating is limited and reservations are required. Call 325-6555.

E.O. board of health offers free flu shots

East Orange Board of Health will offer free flu shots to East Orange residents and city government employees today from 9-11 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m. The shots will be administered in the basement of the Health Department, 143 New St., East Orange. Appointments are not necessary.

According to Mary Stanford, acting health officer, "The flu shots are recommended for those citizens wishing to reduce their chances of catching the flu and those who are chronically ill. Stanford said senior citizens who missed receiving their shots during the Board of Health's visit to the senior buildings many also schedule to receive them today.

The shots will be administered on a first come, first serve basis. For more information, call 266-5480.

Restructuring the system

Dwayne Wilson and Kathleen Ballard of East Orange, board members of the Mental Health Association of Essex County, attended the organization's recent annual meeting at Prospect House in East Orange. Terri Wilson of the New Jersey Department of Health and Human Services spoke to the group about restructuring the state's mental health system.

HOROSCOPES

November 5-11

ARIES - March 21/April 20

Consider all options before making a serious commitment this week. Shopping around prevents future regret. At work, it's time to change a system that doesn't work. There's no better time like the present to make improvements. Bad news comes in threes on Wednesday.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

Make use of extra time by tackling those tasks you always mean to "get around to." You'll feel productive and satisfied with yourself. If you're in a new relationship, this may be the time to let your true feelings be known. A Pisces associate will show you the way.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

A temporary situation may turn into a permanent one if you play your cards right. Stay focused and you will get what you want. Pay attention to details at work, especially on Thursday. Your sense of humor lifts a gloomy friend into a happier state of mind. Children play a role.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

Don't be defensive when dealing with criticism. Try to be confident and open to change. Remember, there's room for improvement with everyone. A selfish acquaintance may try to take advantage of your kind nature. Stay one step ahead and you'll come out on top.

LEO - July 23/August 23

Even the most outgoing Leo will find more pleasure staying close to home this week. Quiet moments will give you the most enjoyment. A friend from far away will have some interesting news. You'll be intrigued at the way people change. A valued item may be carelessly lost.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Expect the unexpected this week. As much as you like to plan, there are some things you can't control — or anticipate. The answer to a puzzling question is right in front of you. Take a good, long look and you will find it. A Scorpio may need your help this week.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't procrastinate when it comes to important projects. Take tasks head on and you can kick back and relax when it's all over. Putting things off will only prolong the inevitable. A Scorpio will do something nice for you this week. Make sure you show your appreciation. Long-awaited news will finally arrive.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Your tenacity and endurance will be necessary to get you through a busier-than-usual week. If working too hard puts you in a cranky mood, try not to take it out on loved ones. Best to keep a low profile at home. An old friend may need a favor. Be willing to oblige.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

A week of ups and downs. A disappointment early in the week will be countered with some very good news later on. Keep a positive attitude and everything will end up going your way. Your sense of humor will come in handy at the workplace this week.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Communication is very important in a romantic relationship. Why be frustrated when you can get your feelings off your chest? A misunderstanding at work could set you behind schedule. You may have to put in extra hours to make up for it. Try to keep an optimistic attitude.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Unforeseen interruptions will keep you from the task at hand. Give yourself extra time when planning any projects. A family dispute could put a damper on your spirits, but don't let it get you down. Things will work themselves out with time. Finances look good.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

A good week for meeting new people and making new friends. Your friendly nature will set the stage for an interesting social scene. A work associate may try to make you look bad in order to look good. Don't let it happen. Stay on your toes and the rest will fall into place.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

The next 12 months:
Even if things seem pretty stable right now, change in some areas is inevitable. A rocky romantic relationship could reach a major turning point.

Now screening an early Oscar favorite

"The American President," directed by Rob Reiner and starring Michael Douglas and Annette Bening, will have its New Jersey premiere Monday in the Sneak Preview Symposium. Screenwriter Aaron Sorkin who also wrote "A Few Good Men" and "Malice" is scheduled to appear. The symposium is part of a six-week series. Subscriptions are $115. Anyone interested in attending the screening at the AMC Headquarters Ten Theatre in Morristown on Monday evenings can call 228-4424, ext. 544.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED MOTHER (Never known to fail.) Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful Vine Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me, show me herein, you are my Mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee. Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. PAB

THANK YOU St. Jude for answering my prayers. A.C.

THANK YOU St. Jude. C.F.

Three massive bedrooms add sizzle to home

Volume ceilings in the foyer, dining room, master bedroom, master bath and activity room add sizzle to this elegant home. Entry is through a wide foyer that continues on back to a particularly impressive great room. This room is highlighted by one complete wall of windows overlooking an expansive sundeck and a fireplace flanked by bookshelves.

From this central core, access is provided to almost every room in the house, as well as basement and attic areas.

The dining room is secluded enough for those more formal occasions, but still completely accessible from the deluxe kitchen. This kitchen is perfect for casual entertaining. It includes a large island with cantilevered counter and another snack bar area overlooking the sun-drenched breakfast area. An out of the ordinary laundry room is nearby and includes freezer, laundry tub and pantry space.

Featured Home

Three bedrooms and two and one-half baths complete this country french home. The two front bedrooms share a powder bath and each has large closet space. A half bath is at the end of the hall for guests or daytime use.

The master suite is unsurpassed elegance. The room size alone is sumptuous. Private entry to the rear sundeck is provided alongside a majestic garden bath with double vanity twin closets, separate shower and garden tub.

This brick country french home's features are emphasized by tall hip roof lines and shuttered windows. Plan No. 2465 includes special construction details for energy efficiency and meets FHA and VA requirements.

For more information about this home, write W.D. Farmer Residence Designer Inc., P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta Ga., 31145.

European home leaves spacious first impression

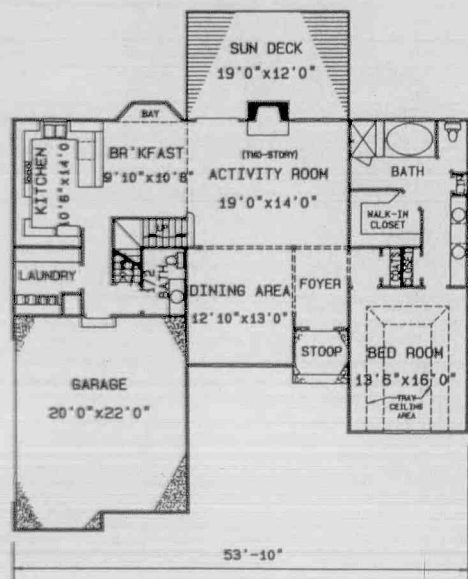

A spacious first impression greets anyone entering the front door of this stunning European style home.

There are virtually no walls in the central living core. The dining room is completely open on two sides to the two-story foyer and the two-story activity room.

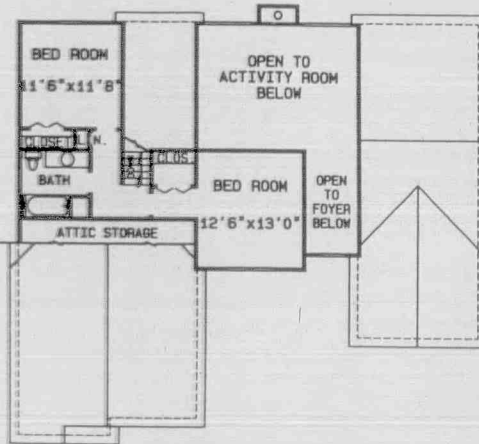

The activity room includes a fireplace and sundeck access. A breakfast room with bay window flows together with both the kitchen and great room, and a snack bar is provided for convenience.

Stairs up to the second floor and down to the basement are located nearby, convenient but out of the way. Adjacent is a full laundry room with extra cabinet space, double garage entry and a half bath for daytime use.

The master retreat encompasses one entire wing of the home. A massive round top window and tray ceiling in the bedroom are only the beginning of the sumptuous features awaiting the homeowner. The deluxe garden bath with large tub, separate shower, double vanity with knee space and large closet continues the elegance.

Upstairs are two family bedrooms, sharing a hall bath. Each bedroom is impressively sized for a home in this square footage range.

The exterior is stunning with multiple roof lines and multitude of shuttered windows. Plan No. 988 includes 1,992 square feet of heated livable space with an additional 360 square feet of heated space in the upper activity room and foyer. It is a computer generated plan and is furnished with details necessary to meet FHA and VA requirements as well as energy efficient details.

Automotive

New Fords and Subaru's are now available at Fette Ford

The auto industry has been buzzing for months about two revolutionary new car models — the re-designed '96 Ford Taurus and the first ever sport-utility wagon, Subaru's Outback. Now both are available at Fette Ford/Imports in Clifton.

Automotive experts give rave reviews for the '96 Taurus and, according to a recent Business Week article, Ford competitors are "flabbergasted" at its competitive value pricing. Just as the original Taurus took the industry by storm in 1986, the new model is a well-engineered, feature-laden vehicle with bold new styling inside and out.

According to Joe Nigro, Fette Ford Sales Manager, the new model process was as change-filled as the design itself. The project was customer-driven, with Ford taking direction from customers' — including their competition's — statements of what they wanted. "Team Taurus" worked together under one roof to better integrate all phases of development and to assure higher quality standards from the drawing board through production. Near the end of the design process, factory workers were brought in to build 200 prototypes; their suggestions for improved production were incorporated into the engineering.

To assure high quality manufacturing standards, new equipment was phased into factories three years before the launch so any kinks could be worked out before full production. Prototype builders trained other workers in advance of the changeover.

Inspired by the elliptical shape of the Ford nameplate, the '96 Taurus is a study in softly sleek and rounded forms from its sculpted hood and oval headlights to its rounded rear windows and tapered rear fender. An integrated spoiler built into the trunk lid improves aerodynamics and fuel economy. Sleek side panels are stamped from a single piece for a more rigid chassis and smoother ride. A revolutionary oval dashboard is ergonomically designed to put controls just where a driver wants them.

Ford engineering shows in the quiet ride assured by inset doors with triple rubber seals and the improved engine options. Other standard features include a weld-free muffler to reduce rusting, power windows, variable assist steering and a versatile armrest console.

Until now, all those sport-utility vehicles basically have been trucks adapted to be more comfortable for passengers. When TV viewers see Paul Hogan's adventures driving the new '96 Subaru Outback, they'll be watching the first sport-utility wagon in action.

The commercials will show not only the Outback's ability to handle rugged off-road driving, but also its roots in the popular All-Wheel Drive Subaru Legacy Wagon. With fewer than 5 percent of sport-utilities — SUVs — actually being driven off-road, most consumers do not necessarily want a truck-based vehicle. In the Outback, they have a new option — a passenger wagon engineered with sport-utility features.

In fact, according to Bill Tiers, Fette Import Sales Manager, the Outback was developed to meet the top five attributes SUV owners said they wanted in their next SUV. According to a survey conducted by AutoPacific Group, SUV owners' wish list includes: ease of entry/exit, lower step-in height, fuel economy, easy to maneuver, automatic transmission, and precision handling. The '96 Outback meets all these demands and boasts Subaru's unique All-Wheel Driving System comprised of full-time all-wheel drive, optimally tuned suspension and horizontally-opposed engine which provide superior handling, control, traction and performance.

The Outback can claim more cargo space and ground clearance than many of its SUV competitors. A raised roof over the cargo and passenger areas expands storage capacity. Safety features include dual airbags, side-impact protection and anti-lock braking system. For driving in rough terrain, 15 x 6 inch 6-spoke alloy wheels with 205/70 SR all-season tires, sturdy bumper caps, and stone shields over the halogen fog lamps are practical design advantages.

Both the '95 Ford Taurus and the Subaru Outback are available now at Fette Ford/Imports. Fette has earned Ford Motor Company's 1994 Distinguished Achievement Award for Quality, based on customer satisfaction. With over 600 Ford, Isuzu, Subaru and Select Pre-Owned vehicles in inventory, Fette is conveniently located in Clifton on Route 46 near Routes 3 and 80 and the Garden State Parkway. Fette serves Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Morris and Passaic counties and beyond. For more information call Jim Russomano at 779-7000 x 269.

“ My kind of people. ”

Conventional wisdom might dictate that the more expensive the car, the more satisfied the owner. Well, we'd argue that there's a bit more to customer satisfaction than money. Like a pressure-free showroom and a pleasant service department, both full of regular folks — you know, sort of like you. And at Saturn, those people happen to come along with a well-built, affordable car. So maybe customer satisfaction is all about money, after all. Less of it. Hope to see you soon. SATURN.

Saab convertible celebrates anniversary

Celebrating its 10-year anniversary in 1996, the classic Saab 900 Convertible is an all-season success story — capturing more than a quarter of Saab's total U.S. sales in 1995. The reasons for this perennial performer's timeless appeal are simple. As a pioneer of the four-passenger luxury European convertible concept, Saab set the benchmark for the competitive set by engineering the 900 Convertible as a soft-top from the ground up. Integrating an unprecedented level of structural integrity, a triple-layer top that could withstand the vagaries of cold or warm-weather climates, a triple-layer top that could withstand the vagaries of cold or warm-weather climates, and comfortable seating for four, the first-generation Saab 900 Convertible appealed to buyers' practical as well as leisure needs.

Today's Saab 900 Convertible, which debuted as an all-new model in 1995, takes this seamless blend of business and pleasure attributes to an even higher level. Features such as a micro-computer controlled top — standard equipment on even the lowest-priced Saab 900 S Convertible — with a heated glass rear window, three distinctive powertrains, and a rear seat that folds forward for extra storage room, again set new benchmarks for the competition.

Like all 1996 Saab 900 models, the 900 Convertible driver's seats now integrate adjustable lumbar support, for an even greater level of operator comfort. For added value, hand-sewn black leather is now utilized for manual transmission equipped 900 Convertibles. Also new for 1996 is a reflective panel between the 900's rear taillights, which streamlines the back for an updated look. Saab's exterior color palette adds a vibrant new metallic Sky Blue. Buyers who specify their 1996 Saab 900 Convertible in this attractive color also receive a dark blue fabric top and a light gray leather interior.

Today's Saab 900 Convertible, which debuted as an all-new model in 1995, takes this seamless blend of business and pleasure attributes to an even higher level. Features such as a micro-computer controlled top — standard equipment on even the lowest-priced Saab 900 S Convertible — with a heated glass rear window, three distinctive powertrains, and a rear seat that folds forward for extra storage room, again set new benchmarks for the competition.

Saab's first open-air motoring venture occurred four decades ago, in 1956, when the Swedish automaker crafted six prototypes of a sporty two-seater and called it the Saab Conett Super Sport. The low-slung two-stroke, three-cylinder roadsters were built to compete in international rally races, but unexpected changes in rally rules rendered the cars unsuited for such competition. The Sonnet sports car eventually evolved into a production hardtop coupe, and Saab's dream of a true soft-top was put on hold.

That dream became reality when an open-top Saab was introduced to rave reviews at the 1983 Frankfurt Auto Show. After stunning the international audience with a pearl-white Saab 900 "Concept Convertible," Saab realized that a star had been born. The first 400 production Saab 900 Convertibles were delivered to the U.S. in 1986 — one to each Saab dealer. Demand far exceeded expectations and supply as enthusiastic consumers applauded the idea of a four-passenger Convertible that could be driven in sun, sleet or snow. The Saab Convertible quickly earned accolades for daring to be different, while offering a high level of comfort, luxury, performance and versatility.

Since this illustrious beginning, Saab Convertibles have been assembled on a dedicated production line. Because they are engineered and factory-built as true Convertibles, Saab 900 soft-tops boast an immediate advantage in the areas of structural integrity and quality. Rather than "chop" the top off a coupe, the Saab Convertible has been engineered and factory-built as a true open-top car. Today's Saab 900 Convertibles share only its front-end design and lower side door assemblies with the equally new Saab 900 three-door Coupe.

Three powerplant options — a 150-hp naturally aspirated 2.3L four-cylinder, a sporting 170-hp normally aspirated 2.5L V6 and a potent 185-hp turbocharged 2.0L four-cylinder — each provide a distinct driving character.

The Saab 900 S Convertible is equipped with the naturally aspirated 16-valve four-cylinder with counter-rotating balance shafts for smoothness, matched to either a five-speed manual or electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission. Luxury features abound, even on this lowest-priced of the Saab soft-tops. In addition to a power top and leather upholstery, the 900 S Convertible is equipped with a lengthy list of standard features including a premium stereo, power windows, CFC-free air conditioning, attractive 15-inch short-spoke alloy wheels and remote lock/alarm. The sophisticated alarm system includes an engine-immobilizing feature and intrusion sensors for the doors, hood and trunk.

MacAvery joins dealership as a sales consultant

Joseph Carley, president of Montclair-Bloomfield Ford, proudly announces that Elizabeth MacAvery has joined the dealership as a sales consultant.

MacAvery becomes the first woman salesperson in the history of the Montclair dealership.

"I looked at a lot of other opportunities. There are several reasons why I'm so happy to be here," MacAvery said. "I'm close by home, and I've purchased several cars from Montclair-Bloomfield Ford in the past. I've always found this place to be a friendly, hometown kind of dealership. There's no pushiness going on here like it does at the big dealerships."

Montclair-Bloomfield Ford will celebrate its 40th anniversary in 1996. The dealership is located at 15 Bloomfield Avenue, Montclair. For information, call 746-6900.

Al Bluh honored

Follow these helpful tips to stay up when you're driving

Did you know that sleep plays a role in up to 10 percent of the 20 million U.S. automobile accidents?

According to the New Jersey Automobile Club Foundation for Safety, experts agree that lack of sleep and subsequent lack of alertness frequently lead to tragedy, especially on the highway. In fact, most people have taken the wheel at least once when they were too tired to drive. In one study, fully half the drivers admitted to having had near-mishaps because of sleepiness, and one-fifth said they'd actually fallen asleep while driving.

Fatigue impairs judgment, reduces the ability to concentrate and delays reaction time — all essentials of safe driving. Paul Kiehlblock, AAA's safety manager of the Florham Park-based Club, says you can drive more safely by following these suggestions:

Travel rested. Get a good night's rest before you start the trip. Wear a good quality pair of sunglasses in bright sunshine to prevent fatigue.

Exercise during your breaks. Stop periodically for rest and light exercise. Drive for two hours, then take a 10 to 15 minute break outside your vehicle. Run or walk briskly, even if it's around the edge of a rest stop.

Follow your clock. Most people feel sleepy in the mid-afternoon and between midnight and 7 a.m. If you must drive at those times, don't wait until the "first wave" of sleep hits. Instead, pull off the road and nap.

Share the driving. The most mentally rested person is normally the person sitting in the back seat, not the front. So share the driving with your passengers.

Monitor your medications. Some medications, particularly cold and allergy pills, increase drowsiness so don't use them before you drive. Caffeine, on the other hand, keeps some people alert.

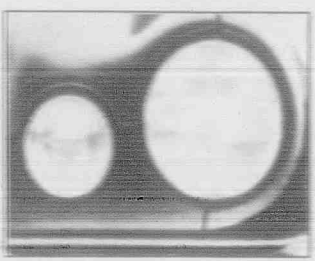

Don't drink. Alcohol doesn't sedate unless you have a sleep debt. But, many alcohol-related mishaps involve a driver who is sleepy as well as drunk.

Look for signs of a sleep disorder. If you snore loudly, feel tired when you wake up and fall asleep at inappropriate times, you may have a sleep disorder known as sleep apnea. If you suspect a problem, see your doctor.

Founded and funded by AAA members, the New Jersey Automobile Club Foundation for Safety & Education sponsors education programs for residents, businesses, and non-profit organizations in Essex, Morris and Union Counties.

1996 Mercury Mystique

1996 Mercury Cougar

Mercury ushers in new year with outstanding automobiles

Mercury Mountaineer

The Mercury Mountaineer, a brand-new four-door sport utility vehicle, will be introduced in 1996.

With a V-8 engine and automatic transmission included in its significant list of standard equipment, the Mountaineer gives Lincoln-Mercury dealers a well-engineered, highly sophisticated premium compact sport utility vehicle for upscale customers.

"With demand for sport utilities continuing to run high, we see this as the perfect time — and the perfect way — to expand Mercury's lineup," says Keith Magee, Ford vice president and Lincoln-Mercury division general manager. Sport utility sales have nearly doubled since 1990.

Magee says customers and dealers alike have been asking for a sport utility vehicle bearing the Mercury brand name, which has a reputation for quality vehicles. Production is set to begin during the first half of 1996.

Additional details about the new Mercury Mountaineer will be made available in the coming months.

1996 Mercury Villager

Front and rear styling changes give the 1996 Mercury Villager a fresh new look to complement its reputation for car-like comfort, ride, handling and seven-passenger seating flexibility.

A new grille, featuring the Mercury emblem, has replaced the familiar light-bar and gives the front-wheel-drive Villager a more contemporary appearance. The headlights and front bumper fascia also are new. The revised taillights harmonize with the tailgate design and the new rear reflector.

There are significant new safety features, too. A passenger air bag to supplement the safety belts joins the driver's system as standard equipment. And dual built-in children's safety seats become available on Villager for the first time. New convenience options include remote keyless entry and Ford's Electronic Automatic Temperature Control system.

Offered in GS, LS and sporty Nautica versions, Villager remains a leader in interior versatility. Rear seats can be folded flat, moved forward on the second row seat can be removed to carry people or up to 1,200 pounds of cargo.

1996 Mercury Grand Marquis

The full-size 1996 Mercury Grand Marquis builds on the major exterior and interior changes made for the 1995 model year by adding a number of technical improvements to its engine and transmission.

The modifications to the Grand Marquis' 4.6-liter overhead-cam V-8 engine enable it to run more smoothly and quietly than ever, and the electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission has improved shift quality.

A notable change inside the new Grand Marquis is a four-spoke steering wheel with center horn activation. Controls on the optional electronic automatic temperature control module are larger and have been redesigned for easier use. An auto-dimming rear-view mirror is optional on the LS.

Standard safety features include a dual air bag supplemental restraint system and side-impact protection that meets 1996 federal standards. Anti-lock brakes with Electronic Traction Assist are available.

Grand Marquis' exceptional ride and handling qualities stem from its speed-sensitive variable-assist power steering, nitrogen-pressurized shock absorbers, and a coil-spring suspension system enhanced by stabilizer bars.

There are four new exterior colors for 1996.

1996 Mercury Cougar XR7

A bold new grille design, new "cat's eye" headlights, a softer hood shape and new front and rear bumper fascia all contribute to Mercury Cougar XR7's new look for 1996.

A side view shows new wide lower bodyside cladding that is color-keyed to the exterior paint with bright inserts; door handles that also are color-keyed; and new 15-inch aluminum wheels. Optional chrome wheels will become available during the model year.

New seat fabrics freshen the interior appearance.

The Cougar XR7's standard 3.7-liter V-6 engine has been improved for 1996 and now has a 145-horsepower rating. The optional 4.6-liter V-8 engine has a number of technical changes that result in improved throttle response.

Cougar XR7s equipped with anti-lock braking may be ordered with the Electronic Traction Assist control system. Traction Assist helps the driver maintain control on slippery surfaces.

1996 Mercury Mystique

The sophisticated 1996 Mercury Mystique brings together high levels of comfort, safety, technology and handling in a distinctive mid-size four-door sedan.

Interior changes for 1996 result in more knee and head room for rear-seat passengers. The backs of the front bucket seats are "scooped" rather than flat, which adds a full inch of knee space for rear-seat occupants.

Mystique offers two advanced-technology engines — the 125-horsepower, 2.0-liter, 16-valve DOHC four-cylinder Zetec and the all-aluminum, 2.5-liter, 24-valve DOHC V-6 Duratec, rated at 170 h.p. The V-6 engine has a 100,000-mile tune-up interval under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes.

Either engine can be ordered with a five-speed manual transmission or an electronically controlled four-speed automatic that delivers lively acceleration and excellent fuel economy.

Key standard safety features include a dual air bag supplemental restraint system and "Safety Cell" body construction that is engineered to spread the energy of an impact away from occupants.

Four-wheel disc brakes and an anti-lock braking system are available, as is the All-Speed Traction Control system, which helps maintain stability on slippery roads.

Mystique's standard equipment includes a system that removes microscopic dust and pollen particles from air entering the passenger compartment; 60/40 split fold-down rear seats; curb illumination, tachometer, and high-level sound insulation. Tilt column steering will be available later in the model year.

1996 Mercury Tracer

For 1996, the most-affordable Mercury, the compact Tracer, continues to provide an appealing combination of crisp good looks, front-wheel-drive performance, and excellent fuel economy — plus a dual air bag supplemental restraint system as standard equipment.

And an integrated child safety seat is optional on two Tracer models — the standard four-door sedan and the wagon. It is the first child safety seat built into a fold-down rear seat. An interlock prevents use of the child safety seat until the fold-down seat is safely latched.

The popular Trio package — available at no charge in 1996 — which includes cast aluminum wheels, spoiler, and leather-wrapped steering wheel, is available on the sedan. A Trio package without the spoiler is available on the wagon.

Tracer's standard 1.9-liter engine has a new electronic controller for improved operation. This engine features a 100,000-mile tune-up interval under normal driving conditions with routine fluid and filter changes.
