Zoo told to become accredited

Committee advises
Turtle Back on future

By Joe Brennan

At a meeting held in Belleville Town Hall, a committee chosen by the Essex County freeholders to study ways of reviving Turtle Back Zoo issued a report stating the facility should concentrate on acquiring accreditation to have a secure future.

Louis LaSalle, chairman of the committee and public relations executive at St. Barnabas Medical Center, said Turtle Back should use the Bergen County Zoo and Cape May County Zoo as models and obtain certification from the American Zoological and Aquarium Association (AZA).

"To be a first class zoo, Turtle Back must instill a positive message, and accreditation is essential," said LaSalle.

The committee suggested four alternatives: make the zoo a stand alone entity, or a non-profit organization; place the zoo under direction of a parks and recreation commission; commit to reinvest all of its generated revenue to achieve accreditation; or privatize the zoo to a corporate or business entity.

Ann Bryan, president of the Society of New Jersey, Inc., said Turtle Back should become a separate entity, but establish a "consortium of outside businesses."

"We want privatization as a consortium, not sell the zoo off to a company. We're trying to work with the county. We're beginning to get the recognition in the county," said Bryan.

Bryan added the Zoological Society is already a non-profit organization and they've discussed this notion of long term stability with Essex County Executive, Jim Treffinger.

Another committee was formed at the meeting in addition to the ad hoc group and will work in conjunction with them. It will be comprised of freeholders Patricia Seboll, who will chair the organization, Sheila Oliver, Louise Palagano and Nicholas Rolli.

Treffinger planned to cut off funding for the 15-acre facility, located in West Orange, on March 31 because of a recurring $1 million annual deficit.

But staff, volunteers and the general public rallied to save the zoo. Also, the county rearranged the budget in April and allocated $634,000 for the zoo, said Bryan.

"In March, we began working with the county because of a tremendous outpouring of indignation when they (people) thought the zoo was going to be closed," said Bryan.

County Administrator Vincent DiMauro explained how the county has already cleaned up the zoo by painting and cleaning many of the exhibits. They've also reopened a souvenir shop, signed a contract with a food vendor and acquired the services of a Roseland petting zoo to offer extra attractions for patrons.

Bryan said in the past seven years the county didn't perform many services at the zoo. She

Blind teacher strives for Olympic gold

By Joe Brennan

When Richard Ruffolo isn't winning teacher of the year awards, he is preparing to compete in athletic events.

Ruffolo, a blind Bloomfield resident and Belleville High School science teacher, is readying himself for the Paralympics games, held at Olympic Stadium in Atlanta on Aug. 15.

The Paralympics attracts 4,000 athletes from 127 different countries and allows "physically challenged disabled athletes" to compete. The event has become the second largest sporting attraction in the world behind the Olympic games, said Ruffolo.

"I'm psyched. I'm trying to win a gold medal in the javelin and discus events to give to my parents for their 50th wedding anniversary," said Ruffolo, who added he will be a torch bearer in the opening ceremonies. "I want to do it to show that family is truly gold."

Competing in sports events is nothing new to Ruffolo. He began as a javelin thrower in 1973 at then Montclair State College. Since then he has won 23 medals, including 14 gold, and has held nine world records in javelin, shot put, discus and powerlifting categories.

"This disability if just a state of mind. If you strive for perfection, the worst you'll ever be is excellent," said Ruffolo, who will be 45 in September.

This attitude has earned Ruffolo prestigious awards. He received the Outstanding Teacher and Coach of the Year awards for 1995 by the Walt Disney and McDonald's School board members at odds...

Official calls for resignation

By Joe Brennan

A decision by the state School Ethics Commission regarding School board member Frank Montagna has another school official asking for Montagna's resignation.

Montagna was found guilty of violating the school ethics act last week because he voted to have his wife hired for game personnel at a meeting in October 1995.

School official Thomas Fuscaldo has called for the resignation of Montagna, claiming this is another example of him abusing his privileges as an elected official.

"I believe he should resign. This is just another one of his antics," said Fuscaldo, adding that Montagna has accused other school officials of the same conduct.

"Here's a man that has been calling the kettle black for the longest time and he himself is now found violating the ethics act. It's time that somebody stood up to Frank Montagna. It makes the rest of the board look bad," Fuscaldo said.

Montagna, said Fuscaldo, was accused of a similar violation and didn't follow proper board procedure when seeking legal counsel.

Fuscaldo was exonerated from the accusations.

"He's got a no-show job and he's talking about everybody else. When I fought my charges I went through the proper procedure. Fuscaldo kept everything quiet. Then Tommy submits a $1,000 bill for legal fees. We denied it. He didn't come to the board. I think the bill is a phony bill," said Montagna.

While Montagna was found guilty of influencing the hiring of his wife to participate in athletic events, he was also charged, but not found guilty, of using his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, secure financial gain, and unduly influence the Belleville Athletic Director, Karen Fuscello.

The commission accepted testimony that Montagna presented his wife's resume along with another resident "without comment."

But Gabriel Nazzola, former school board president who filed the charges against Montagna, disputed these claims.

Montagna has claimed the individual name list wasn't attached to the agenda when he voted for the game personnel.

Nazzola argued that Montagna received the individual names four days before the vote took place.

Some school officials sided with Montagna by saying the letter of reprimand he received was sufficient penalty.

School Board President Ralph Mazzuca said removing Montagna from the board is not necessary.

"I don't feel he should be reprimanded to that extent. He's been Macy's proposal tied up until September...

Board seeks own traffic expert

By Joe Brennan

At its last meeting, the Belleville Planning Board voted to hire an independent traffic engineer to study the proposed traffic flow from the proposition by Newell's Realty Co. Inc.

Ralph Salerno, attorney for Newell's, first called for an adjournment of the meeting because Newell's traffic engineer, Albert Rinaldi of T.H.P. Inc. of East Brunswick, wasn't ready with a written traffic report the board requested.

Sam Papa, chairman of the board, said the two engineers will work together on scrutinizing the plans. Newell's will be responsible for paying the independent engineer.

"I recommend we get a private traffic engineer to report back to this board, so we can make comparisons," said Papa.

Salerno said Rinaldi became tied up with another project, but the written report will be ready for the board by next Tuesday.

"He got delayed with another project so we couldn't have it ready. After completing the last meeting, it was apparent that the board wanted a written traffic report. Unfortunately, because of time constraints, he couldn't have one ready for this meeting," said Salerno.

Newell's has plans to construct three or four large retail stores that would include 140,000 square feet of retail space at the former Macy's location.

With a little help from friends...

Resident copes with incurable illness

By Sarah Treffinger

Andrew Idenden is a regular teenager. He likes science, plays the clarinet and is learning to play the saxophone. He will enter Belleville High School in the fall as a freshman.

There is only one difference between Andrew and other fourteen year-olds: he suffers from a genetic condition called neurofibromatosis (NF).

NF causes tumors to grow on the body anywhere nerves are located. The tumors can grow on the skin causing physical disfigurement or under the skin and affect internal organs or muscles.

In addition to physical disfigurement and internal problems, NF can cause blindness, deafness and paralysis.

In Andrew's case, the tumors grow under his skin and affect his back muscles and spinal area. He had his first surgery when he was 10 years old to remove tumors from his spinal canal and his second surgery, which took place on Monday, removed tumors from his back and muscle area, to the right of his previous surgery.

"There is no cure for NF," Andrew's mother, Kim Idenden, said. "There is also no guarantee that tumors are gone forever, they can grow back."

Andrew also has a small tumor at the base of his skull, Mrs. Idenden explained. Doctors have not removed it because it does not appear to be growing but, she said, it could.

As a result of the tendency for tumors to continue growing, Andrew will have to have MRIs for the rest of his life.

Unfortunately for Andrew and other NF sufferers, there is very little funding for NF research and, as a result, very little awareness of it. "It's called an 'orphan disease' because not a lot of people know about it," Mrs. Idenden said.

As far as awareness is concerned, it is important to note that NF is not contagious, like a common cold. "It is a genetic disease," Mrs. Idenden said. "You can't get it by touching someone who has it."

Peter Bellermann, chairman of the National NF Federation, is continually on a quest for research grants and funding, Mrs. Idenden explained.

Andrew's medical bills are high and the financial situation in the Idenden household has made things difficult.

After Tom Idenden, Andrew's father, lost his job and insurance, he began working in a deli for $6.50 an hour. Mrs. Idenden took a job for $142 a week as caretaker of Christ Church Cemetery in Belleville.

This job has also provided the Idendens with housing, which was once a problem.

Without medical insurance, the Idendens could not cover Andrew's second operation. But, "after a lot of legwork and paperwork and with the assistance of Special Child Health Services, we were able to get Medicaid for Andrew," Mrs. Idenden said.

Once people learned about the Idendens' plight, the family received an outpouring of donations, well wishes and prayers.

An anonymous donor is paying for Mr. Idenden to attend the French Culinary Institute and fulfill his dream of becoming a chef and Andrew is getting the assistance he needs.

"People have been absolutely wonderful," Mrs. Idenden said. "We've gotten contributions from people we don't even know and Andrew even received a tubful of cherry ice from the ice cream lady."

The Idendens appreciate all of the help that they are receiving and note that the New Jersey Blue Knights #4 and the New Jersey Police Square Club are putting together a fundraiser for Andrew on August 25.

"One thing that pleases me is that NF is getting some media atten-

Memories of a Deceased Dad

Remembering those days of yesteryear When to school 't was time for me to appear Hustling and bustling so quickly the time would go To miss my first class would worry me so. Such comfort dearest Dad you were to me Since driving me there, punctual it would be. Now that much time has gone by, I look back and give a profound sigh - I thank God for making me part of your Bone.

By Kathryn Van Riper

Welcome back to Rose Prezioso and my wife, Mary Restaino. Get well wishes to Ann Livecki, the Tuesday sunshine lady, who is not feeling well. To Micky Andriola who is recuperating at home from eye surgery, Jerry Marone, whose leg is in a cast, and Sigid Spinelli, who also is recuperating at home. Theresa Genovese is still in Clara Maass Hospital and Jim Troiano, president of the Friday Club is also recuperating at home.

Art Cirillo is still in the hospital. Marion Maggio, sister of Maria Tagliarini, was in Clara Maass, and at this time, I don't know if she came home.

A card was received from Jack Kieferdorf, who was attending the Olympic games in Atlanta, expressing his best wishes to all the Friday Club members, when lo and behold, Jack appeared in person. It seems that he had to return home because his wife, Theresa, became ill. Jack was glad that he missed the bombing but he had some interesting tales to tell about the Olympics.

I took a ride to Scotch Plains to attend a birthday party for Sue and Lefty Sheldon's son Chris. I must thank my brother-in-law and sister (Carmine and Ann Cerami) for taking me there because highway driving is a no-no for me. Thanks a lot, Carmine and Ann.

My son Alan, his wife Debra, John and Tracy Scheckel with their families just returned from a vacation to the Cape in Massachusetts. They had a ball and all enjoyed the ocean and the many tourist attractions. Welcome back! I understand it was quite a terrific vacation, but all good things must come to an end.

Why do some people keep lambasting seniors? They say we are responsible for the financial problems of young families. The older generation raised children: (good ones) and contributed to their country without whining about how tough we had it. We do not have children in the schools, but we still pay a high tax for other people's kids. We are willing to do our share, so stop picking on us. We have just begun to fight!

No one gave us anything. Today they give food stamps, rent subsidies and God knows what else. Oh yes, you get homes for practically nothing. What the hell did we seniors get for our sweat, tears and hard work? Let's get back to this system and the country will be better off for it. Let's teach the kids today the three R's: reading, writing and arithmetic, and after they learn this they can continue to extend their education to more advanced subjects. Let's go back to the old system and drop the eggheads of today. When it works o.k., why change it! Seniors and citizens, beware!

A new con game prevails on all by appealing to their instinct of helplessness. A distraught person will approach you and say, I hope you will help me. She claims she was in a department store and someone had stolen her wallet, including her credit cards and money, and needs a few dollars to get home. When she receives the money, she gives a phone number and address, which turns out to be phony. So beware of these con artists. Don't be a patsy!

Also, your garbage can be a windfall to unscrupulous people. They will go through your garbage to recover cancelled checks, deposit slips and credit card receipts. They create phony identifications and use this information to collect on fraudulent claims. So shred or burn personal records or receipts of personal records. Do not throw them out in the trash!

Tid Bit: What a better world this would be if we did unto others as we would have done to us!

I tried to make Belleville beautiful, did you?

Belleville Barbecues Crime-Township leaders and police officers took the time for a picture to promote Belleville's participation in the national 'Night Out' against crime. Citizen group supports 'National Night Out'

By Joe Brennan

The City Council presented a proclamation to the District Partnership on Thursday for sponsoring the "National Night Out" in Belleville.

The theme for the event, "Belleville Barbecues Crime," signifies a going away party for crime and drugs in the township. The partnership, along with the Township Police and event supporter, Spencer Savings, are asking all residents, merchants and local organizations to participate.

Tuesday, Aug. 6, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. is the prime-time for the event, but organizers are asking those interested to host their own little events throughout the week-end.

Besides a cookout with neighbors, some of the other ways that citizens can participate are: turn your outside lights on all weekend, Friday through Tuesday; get the children involved by making anti crime/drug signs and display them; get your neighbors together to exchange their phone numbers and ideas on looking out for each other; have a flashlight parade along your block; or just sit out to increase people presence.

To receive your participation form and promotional materials, call the District Partnership at 450-1111.

Sports star reaches out

By Joe Brennan

Former football Giants star running back O. J. Anderson has been doing a lot of work with children since retiring his football jersey.

And now he wants to do similar things in Belleville.

Anderson met with Town Manager Steven Cuccio earlier in the week to discuss ways he could use his status as a football celebrity to become a role model for children.

Anderson joined the Madison Consulting Group in Morristown in 1984, and is now vice president of public relations.

"Anything to do with kids I want to be a part of," said Anderson.

"It shows when you help a community, you help that community grow. I want to do a lot with the educational programs to enlighten kids and stress the importance of education," said Anderson.

tion, even if it is on a small scale." Mrs. Idenden said. "There are other things beyond AIDS, cancer and heart disease that people suffer from. NF really needs help."

Andrew agreed with his mother's sentiments and added, "NF is rare and not many people know about it. I understand that all AIDS and cancer patients need help, but I want to be cured, too."

Andrew is well informed about his condition and very vocal about its lack of funding. As a result, he knows that NF rarely skips a generation and that children of NF sufferers have a 50/50 chance of getting it. Both Mrs. Idenden and her mother have NF, however, Mrs. Idenden has never had to undergo surgery for it.

"Andrew has decided that he won't get married or have kids. He's going to be a confirmed bachelor," Mrs. Idenden said.

"I don't want anybody else to get it," Andrew explained.

Andrew's knowledge of NF goes even further than its genetic roots. He plans to donate his tumors to research because two different scientists in two different states want to study them. He also does fundraising, not for himself, but for the National NF Federation itself.

"Last year, Andrew raised $235 for NF and received a plaque for his fundraising efforts," Mrs. Idenden said.

Andrew has had a hard time with NF. The pain that he has suffered has caused general weakness in his legs and cannot be controlled by medication.

"Aspirin, Tylenol, Ibuprofen and Advil don't work anymore," Andrew explained. "Surgery is the only thing to do and it's better than taking drugs, which make you feel good only for a little while."

"Andrew's DARE (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) instructors taught him well," Mrs. Idenden said. "He refuses to take any kind of narcotic because he doesn't want to get addicted. Surgery is the only other option."

In addition to NF, Andrew suffered from scoliosis, a lateral curvature of the spine. NF was the cause of this affliction, which forced Andrew to wear a brace for the whole summer.

Now, as Andrew prepares for another summer physical therapy, he and his parents would like people to educate themselves about NF.

"Awareness will lead to acceptance," Mrs. Idenden said. "People shouldn't be scared of someone who has NF. That's ignorance. It was the same way when people first learned about AIDS. People have to take the time to listen and understand."

Andrew is living proof of the pain NF sufferers must endure when people do not listen and refuse to understand. He was, by his own account, shunned in grammar school. "When we moved to Belleville after sixth grade, it was completely different," he said. "The kids here are nice."

Prior to his surgery on Monday, Andrew was amazingly calm. "I'm not nervous," he said. "I've been through it before."

"I am nervous," Mrs. Idenden said. "I don't really know what they're going to do this time and what kind of physical therapy he'll need, but obviously we'll do what needs to be done."

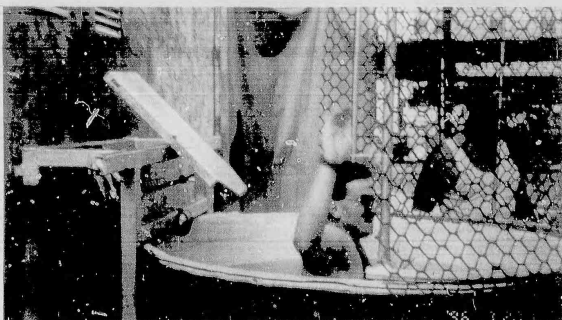

They are already doing what needs to be done. With the help of friends, and even strangers, who care, and the backing of his family, Andrew is getting the financial, emotional and physical support he must have. According to Mrs. Idenden, things are looking brighter.

added that when publicity began that the zoo might be closed, people believed it had already happened.

Life in Silver Lake

By Marie Strumolo Burke

Marie Strumolo Burke

Well, the Feast of St. Anthony came off with a "boom." Yeah, I know it's almost August...but as the old saying goes...it's better a little late than never. The SLCA and the parishioners of St. Anthony's joined together to make the feast a huge success.

A lot of credit goes to Father Dennis Cocozza, pastor, also known as the "captain," and his troops. His second in command, Angela Cuozzo Zarro, deserves a big pat on the back. You could tell exactly who the committee was by their St. Anthony Feast shirts, which, by the way, were a hit. Everyone was interested in purchasing one as a remembrance, but we promise next year we will have them on hand.

So now let's get to the committee and give them a big round of applause. Much credit is due to Nick Inaugurato, who is tireless, along with Grace Constantino, Anthony Renna, Sebastian Papa, Eugene Romano, Joe Murra, Dennis Forlenzo, July Bowers, Nick Trabucco, Billy Bizzaro, Pat Barbone, and me.

The Township also came through. Without them, it wouldn't have come off. So thanks to the Mayor and Council; Director of Public Works Charlie Cerami and his able-bodied crew; Chief Ray Kimble and his finest (who, by the way, donated their time...free...do you hear me...free); along with the Belleville firefighters, and the residents of Heckel Streets, who put up with it for three days. Anthony Marotti of the Public Works Department once again came through with flying colors, along with his friend Tony Ciucciulli from Naples Avenue. They were there each morning to clean up the big mess. Also appreciation to the Rosary Altar Society.

One of the highlights of this year was the Cafe St. Honore, which was in front of my house. They had their cafe tables done with red and white checkered cloths which added to the ambience of the night. The menu included an array of Italian pastries which I can't name because, frankly, I can spell them all, along with Focaccia sandwiches, and a variety of hot and cold cappuccino and espresso coffees. While the people sipped their cappuccino they were entertained by Italian music. The proprietor of the cafe is Joe Carretto, who studied in France and worked at the Plaza Hotel in New York as the head pastry chef. Now, you all know who owns the Plaza don't you. Need I say more? If you closed your eyes for a moment, you would think you were in Italy with all the delicious aroma and Italian music.

And where did the music come from, I hear someone ask. My neighbors Benny DelMauro and Nickie Carsella of Heckel Street hired an Italian DJ for Sunday evening, compliments of my new-found friend, Benny DelMauro. The DJ was set up in front of their home. You should have seen everyone dancing the Tarantella, from the youngest to the oldest. The youngsters were having their own good time doing the Macarena. You all know what the Macarena is, don't you? Well, it's the newest dance craze. And boy, do you have to wiggle. Try it sometime, you'll have a ball. Let me try to explain how you do it. First you put your right foot in...no, that's not the dance. Let me start again...you put your hands outstretched in front of you, then you turn your left palm over, then your right...oh, forget it. I'm sure one day you'll learn it if you don't know it already. Benny, your DJ was the hit of all hits and Father Dennis appreciates your kind gesture. Grazie.

Some of the other treats included an honest to goodness Pizza Truck where you could watch the pizza being prepared. As you walked down Heckel Street you could smell the aroma of freshly baked pizza. There were other tasty items such as zeppoles, sausage and peppers, cheese steaks, foot-long hot dogs, butterfly ribs, pork and chicken on a stick, popcorn, funnel cakes, clams, mussels and shrimp and on and on.

The statue of St. Anthony was placed on the street during the feast hours and was guarded by the Rosarians. Father Dennis thought of this one. Good thinking, Captain. But the "piece de resistance," defined as an outstanding item or showpiece, was the Sunday Procession through the Silver Lake streets where the residents pinned their money on the Saint. The statue had layers and layers of money pinned on him, which looked like a cape.

Thanks to our Silver Lake men who wheeled the Saint through the streets with Sgt. Anthony (Babbers) Renna dish out the orders to Russell Mazza, Michael Ruvo, Joe Bunucci, Michael Forte and Charles Bocchino. Last year, I got scolded by Russell Mazza when I referred to them as "boys." Russell said, "Marie, we are not boys any more, we are men" - and men you are.

So another year has passed and we await the arrival of another St. Anthony's Feast, which I'm sure will be another hit.

Remember, we love Silver Lake and St. Anthony, too.

Memories of a Deceased Dad

Remembering those days of yesteryear. When to school 't was time for me to appear. Hustling and bustling so quickly the time would go. To miss my first class would worry me so. Such comfort dearest Dad you were to me. Since driving me there, punctual it would be. Now that much time has gone by, I look back and give a profound sigh - I thank God for making me part of your Bone.

By Kathryn Van Riper

Welcome back to Rose Prezioso and my wife, Mary Restano. Get well wishes to Ann Livecki, the Tuesday sunshine lady, who is not feeling well. To Micky Andriola who is recuperating at home from eye surgery, Jerry Marone, whose leg is in a cast, and Sigrid Spinelli, who also is recuperating at home. Theresa Genovese is still in Clara Maass Hospital and Jim Troiona, president of the Friday Club is also recuperating at home.

Art Cirillo is still in the hospital. Marion Maggio, sister of Maria Tagliareni, was in Clara Maass, and at this time, I don't know if she came home.

A card was received from Jack Kieferdorf, who was attending the Olympic games in Atlanta, expressing his best wishes to all the Friday Club members, when lo and behold, Jack appeared in person. It seems that he had to return home because his wife, Theresa, became ill. Jack was glad that he missed the bombing but he had some interesting tales to tell about the Olympics.

I took a ride to Scotch Plains to attend a birthday party for Sue and Lefty Sheldon's son Chris. I must thank my brother-in-law and sister (Carmine and Ann Cerami) for taking me there because highway driving is a no-no for me. Thanks a lot, Carmine and Ann.

My son Alan, his wife Debra, John and Tracy Scheckel with their families just returned from a vacation to the Cape in Massachusetts. They had a ball and all enjoyed the ocean and the many tourist attractions. Welcome back! I understand it was quite a terrific vacation, but all good things must come to an end.

Why do some people keep lambasting seniors? They say we are responsible for the financial problems of young families. The older generation raised children (good ones) and contributed to their country without whining about how tough we had it. We do not have children in the schools, but we still pay a high tax for other people's kids. We are willing to do our share, so stop picking on us. We have just begun to fight!

No one gave us anything. Today they give food stamps, rent subsidies and God knows what else. Oh yes, you get geriatrics for practically nothing. What the hell did we seniors get for our sweat, tears and hard work? Let's get back to this system and the country will be better off for it. Let's teach the kids today the three R's: reading, writing and arithmetic, and after they learn this they can continue to extend their education to more advanced subjects. Let's go back to the old system and drop the eggheads of today. When it works o.k., why change it? Senior and citizens, beware!

A new con game preys on all by appealing to their instinct of helpfulness. A distraught person will approach you and say, I hope you will help me. She claims she was in a department store and someone had stolen her wallet, including her credit cards and money, and needs a few dollars to get home. When she receives the money, she gives a phone number and address, which turns out to be phony. So beware of these con artists. Don't be a patsy!

Also, your garbage can be a windfall to unscrupulous people. They will go through your garbage to recover cancelled checks, deposit slips and credit card receipts. They create phony identifications and use this information to collect on fraudulent claims. So shred or burn personal records or receipts of personal records. Do not throw them out in the trash!

Tid Bit: What a better world this would be if we did unto others as we would have them to us!

I tried to make Belleville beautiful, did you?

Citizen group supports 'National Night Out'

By Joe Brennan

The City Council presented a proclamation to the District Partnership on Thursday for sponsoring the "National Night Out" in Belleville.

The theme for the event, "Belleville Barbecues Crime," signifies a going away party for crime and drugs in the township. The partnership, along with the Township Police and event supporter, Spencer Savings, are asking all residents, merchants and local organizations to participate.

Tuesday, Aug. 6, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. is the prime-time for the event, but organizers are asking those interested to host their own little events throughout the week-end.

Besides a cookout with neighbors, some of the other ways that citizens can participate are: turn your outside lights on all weekend, Friday through Tuesday; get the children involved by making anti-crime/drug signs and display them; get your neighbors together to exchange their phone numbers and ideas on looking out for each other; have a flashlight parade along your block; or just sit out to increase people presence.

To receive your participation form and promotional materials, call the District Partnership at 450-1111.

Sports star reaches out

By Joe Brennan

Former football Giants star running back O. J. Anderson has been doing a lot of work with children since retiring his football jersey.

And now he wants to do similar things in Belleville.

Anderson met with Town Manager Steven Cuccio earlier in the week to discuss ways he could use his status as a football celebrity to become a role model for children.

Anderson joined the Madison Consulting Group in Morristown in 1984, and is now vice president of public relations.

"Anything to do with kids I want to be a part of," said Anderson.

"It shows when you help a community, you help that community grow. I want to do a lot with the educational programs to enlighten kids and stress the importance of education," said Anderson.

OUR OPINION

Voice of Democracy breathes new life into Turtle Back Zoo

A political scientist once said that the main problem with democracy is that masses of citizens don't know or understand the powers they possess, or simply don't utilize their voices and let politicians know they exist.

Whether or not anyone actually believes in this theory, the events that have transpired concerning Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange can be used as an example of the true "voice of democracy."

Essex County Executive James Treffinger was caught in a dilemma when looking over the county budget and noticing the zoo had a recurring annual debt of about $1 million. Sagging attendance rates have been cited as the main reason for the depletion of funds.

Treffinger felt taxpayers shouldn't be burdened with the debt, and wanted to cut off funding for the zoo on March 31. Then a voice was heard.

Actually it was thousands of voices, in the form of letters, that expressed a heightened sense of concern over the proposal by the county.

Treffinger then reconsidered his plans and the Essex County Board of Freeholders appointed an ad-hoc committee to study the zoo.

At a recent freeholder meeting, the ad hoc group presented its report to the members, and the findings weren't surprising.

The group suggested the zoo become a stand alone entity, possible in the form of a non-profit organization, to achieve accreditation.

tion. Another suggestion was to privatize the zoo.

We feel the former might be harder to achieve than the latter, but it should be focused upon. Zoos aren't businesses and shouldn't have to be taken over by a business just in order to survive. However, receiving monetary help from businesses is imperative for its existence.

The county has also taken the time to make improvements on the property, such as fixing the children's train, preparing for food concession stands to be built, and acquiring the services for a petting zoo.

But one mustn't forget that the citizens of Essex County communities made this possible. It was their "outcry" or "voice" that became the impetus for the zoo's rebirth.

The freeholders have a vested interest in this facility and did their part with giving it a facelift, but one must ask how the zoo was allowed to deteriorate in the first place.

Ann Bryan, president of the Zoological Society of New Jersey Inc., said that for the past seven years the county didn't do much to maintain the zoo.

Guides and other personnel have been rallying to keep the zoo properly funded, but they can't be in charge of everything.

Hopefully, the zoo will survive with a little help from charitable businesses. In tough economic times, Treffinger and the county were going to do what they had to do, but "democracy" made them think again.

Burglars Beware: Belleville readys for 'Night Out' against crime

Someone driving through Belleville on the night of Aug. 6 might sense there is a celebration and stop to participate in the festivities. That's, of course, if you aren't a criminal.

The District Partnership, affiliated with the Silver Lake Association, is sponsoring the "Belleville Barbecues Crime," which is part of the "National Night Out" against crime. The best times to participate are from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Although it is depressing that communities have to coordinate events like this, it's uplifting to see residents preparing to come together for something that can affect everyone.

Most people lead hectic enough schedules that volunteering for anything is an effort. But crime and violence in one particular area only begets more crime. And this is no matter how strong the police presence.

The District Partnership suggests that citizens turn their outside lights on for the weekend, get children involved by making posters, and basically be a roving eye for crime.

All these are most likely good measures to let criminals know a town is serious about not having crime enter its community.

But these types of events shouldn't stop when the "National Night Out" finishes.

The education should be repetitive and reinforced as much as possible. If enough residents become aware of preventive measures, then all the better for the entire community.

Although it's realistic to believe that everyone will not always have the time to devote. But in the long run, any time spent to deter crime is a positive step in the right direction.

Resident speaks out against taxes

To the editor:

Belleville taxpayers received their 1996 tax bill this week and once again must endure another large increase. The 11 point increase in the municipal portion of our tax bill does not reflect the true increase in actual spending.

Our 1995 budget was $30,054,601 and the new 1996 budget is $31,509,654, or an actual increase in the spending of $1,455,052. This large increase in spending actually represents a 33 point tax rate increase. The reason for only an 11 point increase is a large amount of state aid and a tremendous surplus from last year's budget of $2,502,300. With $8 million in state aid and $2.5 million in surplus, Belleville taxpayers should have received a tax decrease this year.

On July 9, a public hearing was held on the municipal budget. Many citizens pleaded with the council to reduce the budget, and suggestions of specific line items to cut were presented to Council. A ray of hope flickered when the Council moved to table the vote to approve the budget and stated they would look to reduce the proposed budget. But alas, six days later, at a workshop meeting, the Council majority voted to increase the proposed budget another $84,300, without a public hearing on the amendment. In just 15 days in office, the newly formed Council has displayed their arrogance and refusal to attempt to stabilize spending.

In six years of council-manager form of government, annual spending has increased by over $8 million, our bonded debt has increased over $10 million, our water bills have increased 100 percent, and our construction permit fees have doubled. Our legal fees are over $300,000 per year, we receive $130 fines for placing our refuse or recyclables out on the wrong day, and we are now receiving a 500 percent increase in parking meter rates. (I guess that's to encourage us to shop locally, we certainly don't want the free parking available at the malls!)

With all this increased spending, answer this question, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer. What has happened to your property value?

Town meetings are held on the second and fourth Tuesday of the month, and there is no admission charge, yet!

Vincent J. Frantantoni

Men, women in blue are appreciated

To the editor:

In times when unfavorable publicity has been an on-going theme for members of the law enforcement agencies, we are fortunate to have a police department that is both community minded as well as safety conscious.

We rarely stop to say thanks for a job well done. We tend to constantly focus on the negative aspects of these civil servants and overlook the positive things they do.

Because of them our streets are safe to walk and park our cars, playgrounds and parks are kept free from unwanted and undesirable elements that threaten the safety of our children and ourselves. Their involvement in community activities, implementation of community programs and thoughtful acts of humanity to their fellow man are just some of the assets they exhibit to foster good relations with the citizens of this township.

We should remember that these individuals daily lay their lives on the line for us and an expression of gratitude and appreciation takes so little time to say... "Thanks for a job well done."

A RECENT political report published by Cook and Company, a political monitoring organization out of Washington, D.C., in a release noted, "There's really only one vulnerable incumbent to be found among New Jersey's 13 congressional seats, and it's freshman Rep. Bill Martini (R) in the 8th district."

Two years ago, Martini beat incumbent one-termer Herb Klein by one percentage point. Clinton won the district in 1992, 45 percent to 42 percent Bush. Martini's Democrat challenger is Paterson Mayor and N.J. Assemblyman Bill Pascrell who has a master's degree in philosophy from Fordham University. A former high school teacher, Pascrell taught for twelve years and served on the Paterson Board of Education, and eventually served as its president. He also spent eight years as a member of the Board of Trustees at Passaic Community College. His past service includes Paterson Director of Public Works and Director of Policy, Planning and Development. Political professionals believe the Clinton/Dole contest gives the edge to Pascrell.

I THINK Bob Dole's best bet as his vice presidential running mate is our own Governor, Christie Whitman. For a winner, he shouldn't look any further.

WILL ROGERS once said, "Personally, I've always felt that the best doctor in the world was a veterinarian. He can't ask his patients what's the matter, he just knows." How right he was.

FRIENDS of Congressman Bob Franks, former New Jersey Republican State Chairman, have scheduled a "Franks Congressional Gala" for Friday, September 20th. Guests are promised an inspiring speaker for the event. Voters interested in keeping Franks in Congress can forward campaign donations to Franks for Congress, P.O. Box 661, New Providence, N.J. 07974.

THE North Ward Center President Steve Adubato never stops thinking and acting. Every month, his organization has an important public event scheduled. In August, the North Ward Center will celebrate its 16th Annual Puerto Rican Scholarship Celebration. Four outstanding students will be selected to receive scholarship awards. Keep up the good work, Steve.

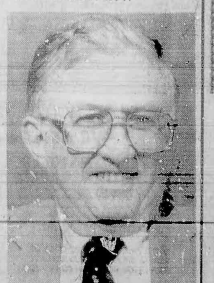

THE Nutley Board of Education should be commended for selecting John Walker as Assistant School Superintendent. This gentleman is really loved by the students and parents of Yantacaw School where he served as principal for many years.

THE disclosure that former Public Safety Commissioner John Kelly, with the utmost secrecy, signed benefits agreements with Police Chief Robert DeLitta, Deputy Police Chief John Holland and Executive Fire Officer Charles Kucinski, in December 1995, five months before he left office. The contracts cover sick leave, vacation time, and none of the three shall be disciplined, reprimanded, reduced in rank, compensation, etc. Representatives of the press tried to reach Kelly, but he wasn't talking. DeLitta said he can't talk on advice of counsel. Clearly, this act will haunt John Kelly for the rest of his public life. It was downright stupid, and the shocking thing is that John Kelly is a rather intelligent fellow. But, his record indicates that he is a very careless guy. Even Kelly will admit it was a stupid thing to do. No doubt, patty officials will have second thoughts before Kelly is endorsed for re-election in 1997.

School official Louis Pallante said the infraction was an "oversight" and Montagna is an integral part of the board.

"Personally, I don't think he should step down. He's a good board member and he lends a lot of credence to what we're doing. He made a mistake and it was inadvertent. We still can work cohesively as a board. We should concentrate on that. Let's move on to positive things," said Pallante.

Fuscaldo said Montagna is a vindictive person who attempts to control the board proceedings.

"If we're going to govern by vendetta, then we're not doing our job. If he didn't know the names were attached, the board attorney should have told him. The point is he should have known better," said Fuscaldo.

If you're looking for the best rates...

You'll Love Ours!

There's nothing magical about American Savings' Below Prime Rate home equity credit line. Except, of course, for the rate itself.

Your hometown bank, American Savings Bank, is still the first and only bank in New Jersey to offer Below Prime Rate home equity credit lines for the life of the loan.

There are no application fees, no closing costs, no teaser rates, no gimmicks.

Look at what other banks are offering. Some have home equity loans below the prime rate, but the rates are only good for a short period of time. Then they jump above prime. And, of course, they may also charge you application fees and closing costs to boot. Others may not charge these fees but their rates are above prime for the duration.

Call us today. You can apply by phone and we often provide an answer the same day! Find out what many of your neighbors already know about our home equity credit line. It's clearly the best in the business.

Now you can bank without a crystal ball.

Essex County Utilities

Authority elects new officers

The Essex County Utilities Authority unanimously elected Mauro Tucci of Nutley as chairman and Dr. William Oser, M.D., of Verona as vice-chairman at its June reorganization meeting in Cedar Grove.

Tucci, the senior member of the authority, will serve his second consecutive term as chairman. He is a New Jersey certified public works manager and is the deputy director of public works and recycling coordinator for the township of Montclair.

Tucci thanked his fellow commissioners for their continued support and stressed that the major focus of the ECUA will be reducing waster disposal costs for Essex County residents through more efficient and effective use of the county's Resource Recovery Facility in Newark.

Dr. Oser is vice-president for medical affairs for JFK Health Systems, Inc. in Edison as well as an adjunct professor of law at Seton Hall Law School and an assistant professor of medicine at UMDNJ.

He is serving his second term as vice-chairman of the ECUA.

Commissioner Charlotte Garrett of East Orange, a retired educator, will continue as ECUA secretary, and Commissioner Frank Alexander, a retired business executive from Millburn, will continue as ECUA treasurer.

County Executive James Treffinger, who appoints all commissioners to the ECUA, commended the board leadership and noted that the authority plays a critical role in guiding Essex through a rapidly changing solid waste disposal market and reacting to changes in governmental regulations regarding solid waste policies.

The Essex County Utilities Authority was created in 1992 to manage all solid waste disposal and recycling activities in Essex County. The agency oversees the contracts for the Essex County Resource Recovery Facility and the Solid Waste Transfer Station.

OTC IBUPROFEN FOR CHILDREN

Recently, the FDA gave its approval to a liquid unit of ibuprofen for over-the-counter (OTC) use in children ages 2 to 11. This gives parents another treatment option beyond acetaminophen to use when young children have a fever, achy muscles, headache, toothache, and sore throat. Its approval is based on a study of more than 14,000 children at the Boston University School of Medicine which found that pediatric ibuprofen was safe for the short-term treatment of fever in children. Researchers elected to see if the newly approved medication produced allergic reactions, gastrointestinal (GI) bleeding, kidney failure, or Reye's syndrome (a potentially fatal illness that is associated with aspirin use in children who have viruses). Other than some minor GI bleeding, the ibuprofen posed few risks; however, a child should not take ibuprofen for more than three days without the specific direction of a physician.

You should always check with your physician before giving any medication to children. Prescription and over-the-counter medications are available at ROSHORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Avenue (759-1565, 759-1968). Your Doctor Knows Us: Your Doctor Trusts Us. Time watches, transistor radio, and other gift items are stocked. Open: Daily 9am-10pm, Sundays 9am-9pm.

HINT: As with acetaminophen, dosage of pediatric ibuprofen is based on the age and weight of the child.

Nutrition On-line

By Michael A. DeAngelis

A feature of The Nutley Sun, Belleville Times, Bloomfield Life and Glen Ridge Voice

Many food manufacturers are producing foods that romance people who have certain disorders or diseases. People with diabetes are often the target of many new foods.

More and more baked goods are being prepared without sucrose and being marketed as sucrose or sugar free. However, this is not a license to freely indulge with reckless abandon.

Many of these baked goods, despite the fact that they are sugar or sucrose free can still cause a diabetic's blood sugar to increase, and there are good reasons for this.

First, many of these baked goods are produced using fructose which is a type of sugar found in fruit and honey. This sweetener has the same calories as table sugar (sucrose) and must be considered into a food plan to adjust medication; the advantage is that fructose causes a slower rise in blood glucose.

Other baked goods are actually prepared with aspartame, such as in Equal, and saccharin. These sweeteners are virtually calorie free and do not contribute to the rise in blood sugars, provided they are not consumed in excess.

However, the biggest factor in baked goods that causes the blood glucose to increase, is the flour used in the baking. Flour contains starch which is a long chain of glucose (blood sugar) molecules.

When flour is digested, the glucose molecules are released into the blood causing an increase in blood sugar despite the lack of sucrose.

Finally, fruit fillings must be counted as fruit servings in the meal plan and the fat content may be high in the baked goods.

The key to enjoying "sugar free" baked goods is to read the label and determine how the dessert fits into your meal plan. Then, you can relax and enjoy an occasional "sugar free" baked dessert.

High In Nutrition, Grilled Fish Adds Fresh, Low-Fat Sizzle

(NAPS)—Looking for a change-of-pace? Try grilling fish. Whether it's a whole trout or a thick salmon steak, fish is delicious charcoal grilled.

Today's lighter eating trends have caused a growing number of Americans to add more fish to their diet. Barbecue enthusiasts, in particular, are grilling more fish than ever, according to a recent Kingsford survey.

So, reel in your own "catch of the day" or check out your grocery store's seafood section. If you've never grilled fish before, here are a few tips and an easy, mouth-watering recipe from the barbecue pros at Kingsford.

- Start with a clean grill (grilling surface), lightly oiled, to prevent sticking.

- Use good-quality charcoal; briquets should light easily and be ready for cooking in about 25 minutes.

- Baste fish with sauce or marinade to keep it from sticking to the grid; grilling baskets make turning fish especially easy.

- Allow three to five minutes total cooking time for each 1/2 inch of thickness.

- Cover the grill while cooking fish to intensify the true barbecue flavor and to help keep fish moist.

- Fish is done when it flakes easily with a fork.

GRILLED HERB TROUT
6 whole cleaned trout, pike or perch (each at least 10 ounces), head removed if desired, boned and butterflied
Salt and black pepper

6 bacon slices
1 or 2 medium onions, cut into wedges
Grilled New Potatoes (recipe follows)
Lemon wedges
Dill or tarragon sprigs for garnish

Kinase fish; pat dry with paper towels. Season lightly with salt and pepper. Place 1 slice of bacon and 1 herb sprig in the cavity of each trout; close fish. (There's no need to tie the fish; it will remain closed during cooking.) Place fish in a grilling basket, if desired.

Oil grid to help prevent sticking. Grill fish, on covered grill, over medium-hot briquets, 8-12 minutes. Halfway through cooking time, turn fish and add onions to grill. Continue grilling until fish flakes easily with a fork. Serve with lemon. (The bacon does not become crispy; it flavors and bastes the fish during cooking. It can be discarded, if desired, just before serving.) Garnish with dill or tarragon. Makes 6 servings.

Grilled New Potatoes: Cook or microwave new potatoes until barely tender. Brush lightly with oil; season with salt and pepper. Grill over medium-hot briquets, 8-10 minutes, turning occasionally. (Potatoes can be added to grill two minutes after the fish so that they are ready at the same time.)

Medical centers agree on joint specialized care

High-risk maternity patients as well as newborns and pediatric patients from Essex County requiring intensive medical care are being provided with specialized treatment under a partnership formed between Clara Maass Health System Inc. in Belleville and St. Joseph's Hospital and Medical Center in Paterson.

The mutually beneficial partnership allows each facility to offer the highest level of care while centralizing the high-risk care required by a small number of patients annually at St. Joseph's.

Clara Maass, a 475-bed, 127-year-old hospital with an intermediate community perinatal center, has the ability to offer on-site neonatology services (care for newborns with medical difficulties) while making appropriate referrals for those babies with more complications, when necessary, to St. Joseph's.

"This partnership between Clara Maass and St. Joseph's expands a relationship that has already been in existence for some time," explained Dr. Thomas Potter, St. Joseph's chairman of pediatrics.

"We have been working together primarily in the area of pediatric intensive care; however, we will be expanding our relationship to the area of neonatal intensive care," he said.

"The majority of the 1,000 babies born at Clara Maass each year are healthy and can get all the care that they need at Clara Maass," said Dr. Rudy Messina, the hospital's director of pediatrics. "However, we want to be able to provide those infants who are born either prematurely or with special problems with the best possible care we can," he said.

St. Joseph's, with 792 beds, is Passaic County's largest medical center and has relationships with other area hospitals that are similar to the neonatal intensive care agreement forged with Clara Maass.

A neonatologist — a physician who specializes in the care of newborns with medical difficulties — from St. Joseph's will always be available to the staff at Clara Maass. If a Clara Maass physician deems that a patient requires specialized services not available there, then the patient will be transferred to St. Joseph's. Transport may also take place prior to a patient giving birth if the patient and her infant are at risk.

According to Dr. Wendy Warren, chief of perinatology at the Children's Hospital at St. Joseph's, the perinatal center is fully equipped to handle complications from pregnancy, labor, and delivery.

"More than 300 women are referred to St. Joseph's annually for such care," she said. "In fact, many high-risk mothers are transferred to St. Joseph's via our specially-equipped emergency maternal-child transport."

The Children's Hospital at St. Joseph's, dedicated to pediatric care, includes a pediatric unit, adolescent unit, neonatal intensive care unit, pediatric intensive care unit, and an adolescent unit for psychiatric care.

Does Flatulence Embarrass You? Most Say No

(PX) — It appears that flatulence in America is no longer a social taboo. According to a national survey, many people with intestinal gas recognize and admit they have flatulence and, surprisingly, are not readily embarrassed.

The independent survey was conducted on behalf of Phazyme (simethicone antifoilant) Gas Relief, the No. 1 and fastest-growing antifoilant product available today. The study finds that three-fourths of the respondents pass gas at least once a week. Almost one-third say they have daily episodes. Daily flatulence is greater among men than women and increases with age.

While passing gas may be a problem in social settings, the survey finds that embarrassment is not an overwhelming factor — especially for men. Thirty-seven percent of women say they are not embarrassed, while among men, almost one-half — 48 percent — say they are not at all embarrassed.

Ironically, healthier diets seem to contribute to gas. Certain foods are widely recognized as the chief culprits. Beans are cited by almost one-half of respondents as a leading offender. Milk and milk products are a problem for almost one-fourth of all respondents, and a number of commonly prescribed and over-the-counter medications also are thought to cause gas.

One-fourth of survey respondents say they have sought treatment for their gas problem. Fifty-four percent say they take a gas-relief product. Eighty percent of this group reports taking a product specifically for gas relief, while 20 percent mistakenly use another type of stomach-relief product.

According to Dr. Douglas D. Dietrich, a New York gastroenterologist, "Only anti-gas medications containing the active ingredient simethicone, such as Phazyme, are proven to effectively treat flatulence." He recommends these tips to reduce gas episodes:

- Eat slowly, and chew food thoroughly before swallowing.
- Avoid carbonated drinks and activities that increase air swallowing, like chewing gum, eating hard candies and smoking.

Select and prepare foods with an understanding of what is most digestible.

+ INTERNATIONAL BAKING Low-Fat Italian Chocolate Spice Cake

by Richard Alexei

(NAPS)—Can there really be such a thing as a rich, moist chocolate cake with hardly any fat? This traditional Italian "torta" proves it—cocoa powder adds the flavor of chocolate without the cocoa butter of baking chocolate. Just two tablespoons of butter and one egg are the only fat components. Helping to give this cake its unique flavor is FOUNDER'S RESERVE PORT from THE HOUSE OF SANDEMAN, which has been producing lovely dessert-style wines in the Duero Region of Portugal for seven generations. SANDEMAN PORT wines offer a rich and elegant finish to any meal and are an indispensable addition to any chef's pantry.

1 cup raisins
1/2 cup SANDEMAN FOUNDER'S RESERVE PORT
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 large egg
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup whole wheat pastry flour (or all purpose flour)
2/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
pinch salt
1/2 cup espresso or other strong coffee vegetable oil or nonstick spray for pan waxed paper or parchment

Soak raisins in SANDEMAN PORT for a few hours. Drain, reserving PORT.

Beat butter until light, then beat in sugar, then egg. Beat thoroughly.

Combine flours, cocoa, baking powder, spices and salt.

Fold dry ingredients into butter-sugar mixture, alternating with espresso and 1/4 cup PORT from raisins. Fold in raisins. Stir until well combined; do not overwork batter.

Lightly oil or spray a 9-inch cake pan, or a piece of waxed paper or parchment to fit bottom, and oil or spray paper. Dust pan with flour.

Add butter to pan, spreading it out evenly. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Cool on a rack for 5 minutes, then turn out of pan. When cool, remove paper. Brush top of cake lightly with PORT remaining from raisins. Cover tightly with plastic wrap.

Top of cake may be dusted with powdered sugar before serving.

Serves 10.

spotlight on health

(NAPS)—Medical experts are now using the information superhighway to improve the quality and lower the cost of healthcare.

Officials in Florida recently built the nation's first transcontinental teleradiology center—a facility that beams medical images from patients there to radiology specialists at the nationally renowned UCLA Medical Center in California.

Using a fiber-optic system designed by Harris Corporation, the staff at the University Center Imaging facility sends digital medical images—such as MRI's and CAT scans—from patients in Central Florida to experts at UCLA. Radiologists there, who specialize in 14 areas of radiology, then "read" the images and provide a diagnosis—all at less cost than traditional radiological services.

The center represents the first such center established in connection with UCLA and could serve as a pilot for similar centers throughout the world. It is being operated by the University Technology Transfer Corporation (UTTCO), a private medical management company.

Better healthcare at a lower cost. That's the prescription for health with today's modern technology.

Harris Corporation, a Fortune 200 company based in Florida, designed the information system that transmits the medical images. Harris' 9,000 local employees also are using the facility under the company's managed care program. Along with providing world-class medical service to Harris' employees, the center will cap the company's cost of radiology services—which has been growing at nearly 20 percent a year.

NUTRITION & YOUR HEALTH

Multivitamin And Mineral Supplements Are Often Low In Calcium

by Kathryn Scherb
Registered Dietitian

Kathryn Scherb

(NAPS)—Adequate calcium intake is important from the formative years of childhood through mature adulthood, when the threat of osteoporosis looms for many women. Yet, the average American diet is deficient in this important bone-building mineral. Turning to an all-purpose nutritional supplement to make up the shortfall isn't the answer because many of them contain very little calcium. In addition, some calcium-only supplements may not be easily absorbed by the body.

To reduce the risk of osteoporosis, your diet should include a variety of calcium-rich foods, such as lowfat milk, yogurt, tofu and broccoli. An eight-ounce glass of milk provides approximately a third of your daily calcium requirement (1,000 mg).

However, few Americans eat enough of these calcium-rich foods every day to get recommended amounts from diet alone. It makes good sense to augment your intake by choosing a high-quality nutritional supplement that contains a sensible amount of calcium. Check labels, especially when choosing a multivitamin and mineral supplement for children and mature adults. The label will tell you how much elemental calcium the product provides—this is the amount of calcium that will actually be absorbed by the body.

Bones need nutrients in addition to calcium to stay healthy. These include vitamin D, vitamin K, boron, magnesium and manganese. If your diet is low in calcium, chances are it may be low in some of these other nutrients as well. Make sure the supplement you choose has the full complement of nutrients that are important for optimum bone health.

Avon Products, Inc. recently introduced AVON LIFE, a unique line of multivitamin and mineral supplements with formulas for pre- and post-menopausal women, children, teenagers and men, all containing higher levels of calcium than the regular formulas of other leading supplements. The product line also includes Bone Support, which can be taken either alone or in combination with the multivitamin and mineral supplements. It's created especially for those people concerned about osteoporosis or who have a low calcium intake.

Calcium is particularly difficult for the body to absorb—and if you're not absorbing it, it's not getting into your bones. AVON LIFE supplements are taken in divided doses to enhance absorption of calcium and other nutrients, and, for convenience, are delivered directly to the consumer.

To order AVON LIFE, contact your local Avon representative or call 1-800-756-3650.

On the Quest for Energy? Knowledge Has Sweet Rewards

(PN)—With more and more people juggling a career, family life and recreational activities, energy is becoming a No. 1 priority. So, what are the best foods to eat to get this much-needed energy? Many people just don't know.

The average American doesn't really understand essential nutrients, namely carbohydrates, and the role they play in fueling the body, according to a recent nutrition survey. The release of the survey results marks the second anniversary of the implementation of the Food & Drug Administration's Nutrition Facts label for packaged foods.

The survey reveals that 36 percent of those polled mistakenly think meat, fish and eggs are carbohydrates, which indicates a basic lack of nutritional understanding. Furthermore, 22 percent incorrectly identify proteins as the best source of food energy.

While energy does come from all foods, there are some food groups that provide energy more efficiently than others. Carbohydrates, in fact, are the most efficient energy source, because the body requires less oxygen to burn them than it does to burn proteins and fats. Carbohydrates also are more readily absorbed into the bloodstream as glucose—the body's fundamental carbohydrate. Glucose is either used immediately for energy or stored in the muscles and liver as glycogen for energy replenishment as needed.

Protein's primary role is to build, repair and maintain muscle tissue. However, when there are insufficient carbohydrates, protein will be broken down for energy.

Another misconception emerges from the survey with respect to glucose. While 86 percent of those surveyed realize that glucose is a food nutrient, 32 percent do not know that glucose is a carbohydrate. This seems to indicate an uncertainty about the function of major nutrients and the role that glucose plays in providing energy to the body and brain. Glucose, a simple carbohydrate, is the body and mind's preferred fuel, as well as its fastest source of energy.

The survey also shows that many Americans have a misconception about sugar: 75 percent of those polled indicate that too much sugar causes hyperactivity. 73 percent think it causes weight gain, and 24 percent agree that there is no relationship between sugar and hyperactivity or acne, and weight gain cannot be attributed simply to sugar intake. Weight gain is the result of eating more calories than the body can use. Gram for gram, fats provide more than twice the calories of sugar, a simple carbohydrate (four calories in sugar vs. nine calories in fat). What's more, fats are more likely to be stored as fat by the body than carbohydrates, which are more easily used for energy.

According to most experts, a nutritious diet in which carbohydrates make up approximately 55 percent of one's daily caloric intake is a must. Continuing to learn about the role of carbohydrates as a way to incorporate them into their diet is important for people to better understand how to maximize their personal energy potential naturally.

For more information on glucose, people can call the Glucose Hotline at 1-800-461-7448.

Taking The Itch Out

(NAPS)—Once again, it's the time of year that has allergy sufferers crying for relief—literally. During ragweed season (mid-August through the first killing frost), 15 million Americans with hayfever struggle with itchy, watery eyes.

"Most of the patients with allergies that I see suffer from ocular itch. If the primary symptom is itchy eyes, I recommend a topical nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drug (NSAID), such as Acular®. Topical medications are safe and fast-acting, and do not cause side effects, such as dehydration, drowsiness and headaches, nor do topicals have drug-to-drug interactions that come with some systemic medications," explains Michael Raizman, M.D., assistant professor of ophthalmology at Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston.

In contrast to oral antihistamines, eye drops work immediately. This is important because most people continue to rub their itchy eyes while waiting for systemic medications to take effect. Instead of relieving ocular itch, repeated rubbing actually exacerbates itchiness. Itching stimulates the release of prostaglandins, chemicals that trigger itching in sensitive eyes. This is what physicians refer to as the Itch-Rub Cycle.

A new brochure, Caring For Your Eye Allergies, offers a comprehensive guide to the symptoms and treatment of seasonal allergic conjunctivitis. It is available as a public service from Allergan, Inc. For a free copy, write to Acular/KTI, P.O. Box 1615, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101-1615.

Bill Murray watches as Woody Harrelson prepares to throw a strike in MGM's "KingPin."

'Kingpin's low brow humor is a sure strike

By Kelly Tahaney

Rating: PG-13 Grade: ***
From the directors of "Dumb and Dumber" comes another comedy hit in "Kingpin."

Directors Peter and Bobby Farrelly bring the same sick visual gags and snappy one liners in "Kingpin."

The cast of Woody Harrelson, Randy Quaid and Bill Murray works surprisingly well together.

Harrelson plays Roy Munson, a has been bowler who lost his right hand due to a gambling bet.

Munson was wronged by the Murray, who plays Ernie McCracken, a less talented and shady bowler.

The story is centered around the Munson's bowling apprenticeship of Quaid, who plays a guy who plays an Amish man named Ishmael.

Basically, most of the film is about the road trip that Roy and Ishmael partake on their way to a million-dollar bowling championship in Reno, Nevada.

Hilarious laughs and few dead spots keep "Kingpin" a couple steps up from the likes of "Tommy Boy" and "Happy Gilmore."

Surprisingly talent-less but none the less attractive actress of this flick is, Vanessa Angel.

She plays, Claudia, a hustler who tags along with the two misfits after they messed up her scam.

The deterioration of Ishmael's moral character is so classically funny that it conjures up memories of Quaid's comedic talent in the early '80's film, "National Lampoon's Vacation."

Harrelson breaks his dreary acting streak with a great performance as the born loser, Munson.

Also, the "Late Night with David Letterman" sometime performer, Chris Elliott adds an excellent cameo as a big shot gambler (he spoofs "Indecent Proposal" when he asks Harrelson and Quaid a question).

Murray puts in a good effort with a performance that reminds Saturday Night Live fans that he still has a lot of talent left.

Fast laughs and good direction should keep most audiences entertained.

See this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release at the Clairidge.

HOROSCOPES

August 4-10

ARIES - March 21/April 20

Trying to manipulate others to get your own way will only backfire—especially when it comes to family. Instead, try a straightforward approach. You'll see that it's much more effective. If changes are going on in the workplace, this may be the opportunity to advance.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

Unforeseen interruptions will keep you from your original agenda this week. It will be especially frustrating because you will probably have no control over the situation. You may have to subscribe to the "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em" theory. Good news comes Thursday.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

An unexpected show of emotion from a work associate will take you by surprise. You'll see a completely different side of this person (probably an Aries). What seems like a wild goose chase early in the week could lead to an opportunity later on. You'll feel that it was "meant to be."

CANCER - June 22/July 22

Out of town visitors brighten the week ahead. You'll have fun playing host and tour guide. An upcoming anniversary or celebration gives you an excuse to splurge a little. A relationship you form now could hold important meaning in the years to come. Be patient with an irritable Libra.

LEO - July 23/August 23

Don't let insecurities get in the way of opportunity. Believe in yourself and others will, too. A down-and-out friend will come to you with a problem. Don't be afraid to give honest advice. It may hurt at first, but (s)he will appreciate it in the long run. The mail brings good news.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

A dream you have early in the week will help you figure out an answer to an ongoing problem. Midweek, you could be faced with a confrontation in the workplace. Don't back down—especially when dealing with authority figures. New romance is a big possibility for the weekend.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Be positive, but don't let your hopes up too high when it comes to a long shot. Think realistically. Have a big home project? Enlisting the help of friends could cut the work time in half. Just be sure you give detailed instructions or you might not get the result you want. A look towards the future gives you reason to smile.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

A scandal in the workplace makes the beginning of the week more interesting. You'll find out some interesting and shocking news. If you've been thinking about taking on a creative hobby, now's the time to make a move. You may find out something new about yourself.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

A series of mishaps on Monday could delay weekend plans. If you're in a new relationship, this could be a tricky time. Keep things at a slow pace or the object of your affections could get scared away. This is especially true with Leo. A reminder of your past comes Tuesday.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Take a stand this week or you'll be taken advantage of. Your willingness to please needs to be curbed—at least when it comes to business. In matters of love, you could be in for a pleasant surprise. When a friend connects in you later in the week, be sure to listen with both ears wide open.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

A spur-of-the-moment night out will set a relaxing tone for the rest of the week. You'll pledge to take life less seriously. News of a friend's good fortune will provide inspiration. A Scorpio's actions will effect you in some way later in the week. Keep a tight hold on finances.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Don't back down if you feel strongly about an issue. Even if you're not the most articulate debater, you'll get your point across with pure passion. Something that started as a temporary situation will turn permanent if you want. A heart-to-heart discussion makes Friday more meaningful.

Respect is a powerful aspect of life,
As it cannot be bought or be sold,
Respect is more valued than fortune or fame,
And is much more sought after than gold.

Respect must be earned; it's not given away,
You'll have to work for it from the start.
But once you receive it, you won't be the same,
For in life, you'll have a better part.

You need it to get where you're going in life,
It will help you to smooth out the way,
If you can both respect and be respected,
Then you'll have great success as your pay.

If we could all have respect for each other,
We would live in peace and harmony.
We could control all our hate and bad feelings,
And the Earth would be as it should be.

— Rebecca Price

Our spirit is filled with respect,

Hope, and Joy

There is no black soul within us

Walking down at night

Hearing the words of hatred

I lay in silence

Not paying attention to what anyone says

Until I see a light

It shines on me

As it seems to give me a message

The message ...

is ...

Respect one another

Try to reach for your goals

That lead you to happiness

As I look to the other side

I saw the dark sky

With the ones who did not want to reach for their dreams

Lonely as they are

They did not lead to the right path

As I stood here in the sun

Which leads me to my destiny of ...

Respect,

Goals,

and Joy

Just try your best and you will succeed

One try will make your life change

Respect your people and the world

Everyone will have a second chance in life

Just don't be afraid

We all have equal rights and different dreams

Just pick the door that leads you to your success

And we would always reach for the stars.

— Julielyn Bolante

Saturday in Brookdale Park

4-H members, puppies at fair and youth festival

Did you know you can help provide a pair of eyes for someone who needs them while keeping your own?

Puppy raisers enrolled in the Essex County 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Project do this, puppy after puppy.

Area residents can watch 4-H members and their Seeing-Eye puppies strut their stuff this Saturday at the 4-H fair and youth festival in Brookdale Park, Bloomfield.

At 10 a.m., a Seeing Eye puppy obedience show will be held; a friendly but competitive event designed to help build self-confidence in both the puppies and the 4-H members. All will be judged by the Danish system and colored ribbons will be awarded according to their performance.

At 3 p.m., the puppy raisers will give a demonstration which will include a short summary explaining the project and a training drill by the puppies. Puppy raisers will be at the fair all day to answer questions and to speak to anyone interested in raising one of these puppies.

Mabel, a Seeing Eye puppy

The Jersey Animal Coalition will sponsor a Pet Adoption Day at the fair for persons interested in obtaining their own pet. There will be other demonstrations and performances during the day as well as exhibits, games, pony rides and a featured performance by the Apache Twins band.

A blood drive will be held from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

You look up to your mother in many different ways

And you carry it with you through all of your days.

It can't be given or handed down

And certainly not just passed around.

Respect is something that is taught from the start

And through your life it plays an important part.

It's not a demand, or a book, nor is it a rule.

To sum it up it's a useful tool.

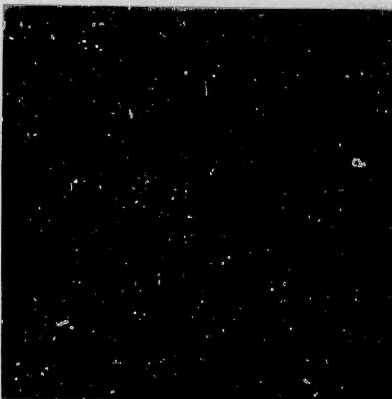

You respect your parents till you're old and gray

And your friends and family till your dying day.

So keep on respecting and doing good deeds,

Because giving respect in turn you'll receive!

Belleville Middle School welcomes speaker from India

Mr. Satyapal Sanghui of Bombay, India recently spoke to a group of seventh graders at Belleville Middle School.

India, along with five other countries make up what is known as a subcontinent. Although India is only one fourth the size of the United States, it has a population of 920 million people.

India's history dates back thousands of years and is one of the world's oldest civilizations. Mr. Sanghui spoke about the love story that led to the building of the Taj Mahal, built in memory of the wife of Shah Jahan.

He told the students that he learned British English because Great Britain controlled India for many years until 1947, when Gandhi led a non-violent movement against the British.

Some of the questions students asked dealt with the religions of India, the main ones which are Hinduism, Islam, Buddhism and Janism, and also asked about food.

The program, arranged by BMS history teacher Mrs. Barbara Spillane, was informative and interesting. It was another in a series of multi-cultural programs for the middle school students.

DiGaetano criticizes 'political use' of SCI

Assembly Majority Leader Paul DiGaetano, R-36, has expressed concern about attempts to "politicize" the work of the State Commission of Investigation.

DiGaetano pointed out that Assembly and Senate Democrats have developed the habit of using the SCI to serve their own political agenda.

"In just the last three weeks, there have been three public requests for SCI investigations," stated DiGaetano, whose district includes Nutley and Belleville. "Some legislators are being very cavalier in their requests for SCI investigations. It is becoming the new spectator sport."

"The recent rash of demands for SCI investigations is very troubling," added DiGaetano. "Calling for SCI investigations seems to be the Democrats' latest public relations strategy to discredit Gov.

Whitman. It is clearly political nonsense and it ought to be stopped immediately."

The State Commission of Investigation was created in 1968, as an independent body, to help in the fight against organized crime and against mismanagement and corruption in government.

"The work of the State Commission of Investigation should not be politicized," said DiGaetano. "My colleagues are turning this independent body into a publicity clearinghouse. Using the SCI for political gain is an outrage."

"The continuous use of the SCI for political gain by one party undermines the credibility of this organization with the public," added DiGaetano. "I call on my colleagues to put politics aside and preserve the integrity of this important investigative institution."

Today every municipality wants to stabilize property taxes, strengthen its bond rating and improve its water delivery system. The City of Bayonne is accomplishing these things thanks to a unique public-public partnership with the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission, the largest water supplier in the state. No wonder Mayor Leonard P. Kiczek called it a wonderful deal for the people of Bayonne.

In Bayonne, the Commission will provide a $25 million project fee, provide $6 million for system improvements, and assume $2 million in existing water bond debt. Our proposal was more than three times that offered by an investor-owned utility, United Water Resources/Lyonnaise des Eaux. As a regionalized public agency we can offer a better deal because we're here to deliver value to taxpayers, not shareholders.

It's not surprising that more and more municipalities like yours are talking to us about regionalizing their water service.

Fourth in a summer series

Biancardi gets off to flying start in second half of '71 season

We had finished 3-4 in the first half of the 1971 Belleville Little League season, but our team felt that better times were ahead.

We lost a few games we felt we could win in the first half of the season. But that was behind us, and since the season was split in half, we would get a fresh start when we played Wallace & Tiernan to start the second half of the season.

We had beaten W & T earlier in the season, 8-2, but they had improved tremendously since that game and we knew it would be difficult.

They jumped on us early, taking a 4-0 lead in the second inning. But our team showed some character, and we got back into the game in the fourth, tying the contest at five.

I remember scoring the tying run in the game and getting spiked at the plate. It cost me the rest of the game with an ice pack on my leg, but the pain wasn't too bad when we got the final out and recorded the 7-6 victory.

Our next game would be against Colony Club, which meant, in all likelihood, it would be time to face pitcher Ricky Loma once again. In the first half of the season, Colony Club had beaten us 3-1 and Loma was incredible. Of the 18 outs he recorded, at least 12 of them had to be by way of strike outs.

I remember my father taking me to the batting cages in what is now the Meadowlands. (Back then, Giants Stadium was still a blue print and the only thing down there was the batting cages and a small golf course.)

I went into the cage where the fast pitch was working and took some good cuts.

I felt pretty confident that this time, I could hit Loma, at least make contact which is something I didn't do the first time I faced him.

It was a night game and there was always electricity in playing at night at Marotti Field. Loma was their starting pitcher, but this time a few of our guys were able to hit the ball.

I remember Ronald "Booper" Beck hitting a long drive that just missed being a homer. He settled for a double, and since I was the next guy up, with two outs, it was a chance to drive home a run early in the game.

I fouled off a few of Loma's pitches, but once again, he struck me out.

I ended up striking out twice in the game (again) and we lost a 5-0 decision. I also remember that our infield of Jim Clemenaghan, John Herko and Beck turned a double play, which was almost unheard of in little league.

Our next game would be against Landolfi, a new team in the little league that year. We had beaten them 11-6 earlier in the year and won this time, 12-5.

So, we were 2-1 with a key game coming up against Varsity Club. We had been humiliated by them the first time we played them, losing 12-2. This was a big game for our catcher, Mickey Lemongelli, because his cousin, Dean Campana was starting for Varsity Club and he had pretty much shut us down the first time we played them.

It was a night game once again, and we were in the hitting mode that night. In the first inning, Lemongelli hit a long home run off Campana. In the fourth, he hit his second homer of the game and Beck followed with his first home run of the season. I remember hitting after Beck's shot and also getting some good "aluminum" but flying out.

We had taken an 8-1 lead by the fourth inning, and even though Varsity Club staged a rally, we were in good shape and came away with a 9-6 win.

This was a big win for our team. We were now 3-1, with a big game scheduled against the Elks, who I believe were also 3-1.

It was a great game. Joe Gelpi pitched for them and he was their best pitcher.

I remember making a catch in the first inning when Gelpi hit a drive into the gap. I couldn't see the ball too well, it was an early evening game and the sunlight was strong in right field. Somehow I found the ball in time and we managed to avert what could have been a big first inning for the Elks.

Later in the game, I made a huge error which almost cost us the game. Anthony Speer was pitching for us and he was doing well. In the bottom of the third inning, we had a 2-0 lead and appeared to be in good shape.

I think there were two outs in the inning. They had runners in scoring position and one of their hitters hit a shot right to me in right field. I just had to move about an inch to the right to catch it, but my spike went the other way and the ball sailed right by me. Three runs scored and before you knew it, they had a 4-2 lead.

I had made two nice catches in the game, but the one that stuck with me was: the one I should have made. The team was supportive of me, but I wanted to make up for the error. In the top of the fifth, we tied the game at four and I hit a single up the middle that drove home the go-ahead run. It was a big hit for me because Gelpi had struck me out twice earlier in the game.

In the sixth, Herko hit a long drive to right center field, good for a double, and he later scored an insurance run.

We won the game, 6-4 and now were 4-1. We would next play the Rotary Club, who was 6-0. A win there and we would have the inside track on the second half championship. The reason being a win would have made us 5-1. Rotary would have finished 6-1 and we had one game left against Riefolo's.

We figured we could beat Riefolo's, finish 6-1 and tie the Rotary for the second half title. That would then force a one game playoff, similar to the one Rotary had to play against Colony Club at the end of the first half of the season.

Next week, I'll wrap up this series with the final two games.

Megaro completes thrilling season

Final record is perfect 19-0

The 1996 Junior Girls' Softball League was filled with excitement and intense competition. Megaro Memorial, sponsored by Pat and Mike Megaro of Union Avenue, completed a perfect season with a 16-0 regular season record and a 3-0 tournament record for a combined 19-0.

Remarkably, Christine Varacallo pitched every inning of every game. Varacallo pitched 1 no hitter and 2 one-hitters. She posted 108 strikeouts and 2 shutouts. Christine also swung a respectable bat, posting a .560 batting average.

The other half of the battery was catcher Tiffany Cubellis. Tiffany batted .645 with 6 doubles, 2 triples, and 2 homers. She has a strong arm with great ability to throw out the runner at second.

Shauna McGowan anchored first base, batting a strong .628. Her stretch and ability to scoop up the ball stole many singles from the opposition.

Janelle Romano was an extremely agile second baseman. Her ability to bunt and hit away stymied many opponents. She batted .610.

Nicole Andreola is a solid, hard-hitting shortstop with great range.

As the team leader and moral booster, Nicole batted a strong .640. Considered by many to be the best player in the Junior League, Nicole will bring her talents to Belleville High School next year.

Lauren Maliszewski played the hot corner at third. She batted .545 and had tremendous speed on the bases.

Jody Renna was considered the most improved player. Jody was a dedicated and diligent player with a keen batting eye.

Also contributing to the team were Cynthia and Erica Gonzalez, Brandie Tortorelli, Stephanie Marino, and Tracey Gulick. These girls played the outfield well. As well as first year player Erin Chamberlain shows great promise for the future.

Coached by Vic Andreola and Rich Chamberlain, these girls exemplified team play, hard work and respect for each other.

The final game against the team sponsored by Councilwoman Pascheria was a thrilling 5-3 victory for Megaro. Pascheria players Jessica Touw, Angie and Lisa Cavallo, and Melissa Carlo put up a tough fight before the victory was posted for Megaro.

Bulldogs gain playoff berth (barely)

By Mike Lamberti

Momentum is such a key factor in team sports, especially when it comes to the post season.

The Belleville Bulldogs unfortunately didn't have much momentum heading into the Essex County Baseball League playoffs earlier this week.

Joe DeLanzo's team staggered into the post season, losing three games and tying one in the final week of the regular season.

The Bulldogs finished 15-17-2 for the season, earning the fourth and final playoff spot. That earned the team a first round battle with the defending E.C.B.L. champions, South Orange.

The best of three playoff semi final began earlier this week (last Tuesday) at South Orange. Yesterday, the Bulldogs and Orioles played at Belleville and this evening, if necessary, the third and final game will be contested at South Orange, beginning at 5:45 p.m.

"They have a real good team," DeLanzo said of South Orange following Belleville's lopsided 20-3 loss to the Orioles last Saturday in the regular season finale.

"There aren't many weaknesses on that club. They hit well, they pitch well, they do the little things right."

DeLanzo is hoping his team can take a page, ironically, from South Orange's run to the E.C.B.L. crown last season.

The Orioles struggled for most of the '95 season, but caught fire in the final week of the season to finish third in the division with a .500 record.

Once in the playoffs, South Orange was a different club, stunting powerful Crescent in the semi finals, then beating Cranford in a tremendous final round.

South Orange, in 1995, was greatly helped by the late season arrivals of Jeff Spilsbury and Jamie Galioto, two excellent players who starred for Belleville High School in the late 1980's.

This season, Spilsbury and Galioto are on Belleville's roster and DeLanzo expected both men to be in the lineup for last Tuesday's playoff opener.

"It's a new season now," the coach said. "South Orange had a great year (27-8), but everyone starts with a clean slate now. With our team at full strength, I think we can be competitive."

"Just look at what South Orange did last year."

Belleville entered the final week of the regular season playing well.

The team was 15-14-1 and needed just a win, or Millburn loss, to clinch a berth in the post season.

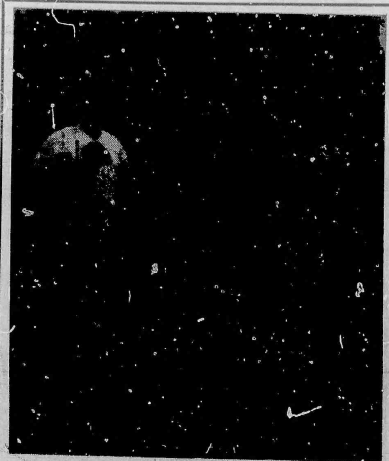

The win never came, but fortunately, a tie with Millburn early last week proved to be enough.

There was some question as to whether the 6-6 tie with Millburn last week would be left a tie. The game was called after six innings due to darkness.

League officials did consider possibly continuing the game last Sunday until a winner was decided, should the game be necessary for playoff consideration. Had Belleville lost that game, then the regularly scheduled game set for last Sunday would be needed to determine who would make the playoffs.

But it was decided last weekend that the tie would stand, thus giving Belleville one point and the playoff spot.

Third time is a charm

Team Thunder of the Belleville Soccer Association made it to the Division 6 championship game for the third time.

The final game came down to two Division 6 town teams, the Hurricanes and Thunder. The spring season championships turned out to be a "storm" on June 18. After two overtime periods the game ended up in a sudden death match. The final decision came out in favor of Team Thunder, crowning them the champions over the Hurricanes with a 3-2 win.

The Hurricanes finish in second place overall after playing with only six players and no substitutes for the entire season.

The team's line-up included goalie John Ventura, defenders George Ventura and Matthew Hernandez and forwards Eric Downey, Victor Silva and Loui Antonino III.

Being a part of the Belleville Soccer Association for the past three years, the Hurricanes finished their season with a record of 5-5-1.

The Hurricanes were coached by Debiote Bangert and Neil Downey. This is the Hurricanes second spring trip to the championship, placing second in both.

The Belleville Recreation Department is seeking persons interested in coaching its 6-14 year old soccer league. The league is separated into several divisions according to specific age groups.

The children learn the basics of soccer and all those attending regular practices play in all games. Games are played on Saturdays and Sunday afternoons, beginning in mid-September. All volunteer coaches will be required to attend a certification clinic by the NYSCA before the season begins.

Those interested in coaching may call the Recreation Department at 450-3422 weekdays before 4:00 p.m. or contact League Director Carmen Goglia at 751-7560.

Belleville Rec announces Summer Playgrounds

The Belleville Recreation Department's summer playground program is taking place through Aug. 2.

Under the Supervision of the Department of Recreation and Cultural Affairs, the five playground sites are located at School No. 9, the Municipal Stadium, the Recreation House, Clearman Field and the Friendly House. The special education playground is set up at the Belleville Little League Field.

The playgrounds will be open daily to all Belleville residents in Grades Kindergarten through 9 from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Playgrounds are closed noon to 1 p.m. for lunch and when it rains.

While there are no restrictions as to which area a person must attend, generally youngsters attend the closest playground to their home.

An adult director will be on hand at each playground to organize athletic, games, tournaments, parties and other activities and an arts and crafts supervisor will travel from site to site to do special projects with the children one day each week.

Tentatively, tennis lessons, "open swim" and special tournaments are planned throughout the summer. These programs are all pending the hiring of qualified instructors/supervisors and pending the availability of adequate facilities.

Applications for all summer program participants must be completed and signed by a parent. Registration forms will be available at the Rec House office and at all playgrounds. No pre-registration will be required; however, parents must accompany their children to the playground on the first day so that application forms may be signed before participation.

There will also be a special event for all children ages 4-12 on July 4 at 10 a.m. at the Municipal Stadium.

For further information, call 450-3422. Special Education playground information may be obtained by calling 450-3494.

Hole-in-one

At Hendricks Field in Belleville, Jesse Henton hit a hole-in-one last weekend. Henton was on the 125-yard sixth hole. He was playing with Morris Retraino.

Players like Jason Leyner, here taking a swing in early season game, are needed to play key roles if the Belleville Bulldogs are going to get past South Orange in the E.C.B.L. semi finals.

Bulldogs Baseball

Millburn, 11-5 the next night, then lost a 6-3 decision at home to Cranford last Friday, followed by the 20-3 fiasco versus South Orange last Saturday. A game with Millburn last Sunday was cancelled.

NOTES: In the other E.C.B.L. semi final, Crescent plays Cranford. The winners of the two semis will begin a best of five championship series starting this Saturday at the home of the higher seed.

Belleville last won the E.C.B.L. title in 1978. In 1993, the team won a first round playoff series from Crescent, then lost in the semis to Verona.

In 1994, the team missed a playoff berth by one game. Last year, Belleville was swept in two close games by Cranford.

Joe DelMaestro had an RBI single versus Millburn that tied the game in the fifth inning. That hit proved to be the one that put Belleville into the playoffs.

In the loss to South Orange last Saturday, Mike Powers hit a long homer in the third inning. He was injured an inning later, splitting a finger nail while trying to field a grounder at first base. His status was questionable for the first round of the playoffs.

In the loss to Crescent, Van Matos was 2 for 3 with two ribbies.

CRIME PREVENTION TIPS for THE ELDERLY

Protect your "life lines." Your financial lifelines, such as your Social Security or retirement checks should be sent directly to your checking or savings account.

Travel with friends when you leave your home. Some communities have mini-buses especially for Senior Citizens or women who otherwise have to travel alone.

Never trust strangers or casual acquaintances who tell you how you can get rich quick, or who ask you to give them large sums of money - even for what seems to be a good reason. The elderly are often more prone to fall for a get rich quick scheme because they have limited incomes and would like to see them grow.

If you are not now a member, try to become a member of a Senior Citizens Club. Persuade your Senior Citizens Club to get involved in crime prevention activities, such as police home security checks, Operation Identification and Neighborhood Watch. You'll find your sense of security increases and your chance of becoming a victim decreases.

Animals highlighted at county 4-H fair

The theme of the 1996 Essex County 4-H Fair, to be held Saturday, Aug. 3, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Brookdale Park in Bloomfield, will be "Essex County Youth—Celebrate—Our Animal Friends."

Visitors will have an opportunity to share in the fun and responsibility of caring for an animal friend.

The Jersey Animal Coalition will bring stray pets to be adopted and taken home. Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange will invite participants to sponsor a zoo animal by joining the Adopt-An-Animal program, and the Essex County 4-H "Eyes of Hope" Seeing-Eye Puppy Club will show visitors how they can provide foster care for future seeing-eye dogs.

Youth who want to learn about horses will be invited to join the "Bits and Bridles" 4-H Club, and potential volunteers who would like to teach youth how to care for their pets will learn how to start a 4-H club or short-term project.

This event is sponsored by Essex County Executive James Treffinger and the Board of Chosen Freeholders, and is coordinated by the Essex County 4-H Youth Development Program and the Essex County Division of Cultural and Historic Affairs.

Members of the 4-H Youth Development Program from around Essex County will be exhibiting items they have grown, cared for, or made in their 4-H projects throughout the year. Other exhibits will include New Jersey fresh produce, Rutgers Cooperative Extension soil testing and composting displays, the New Jersey Antique Automobile Club, the annual model boat show, hands-on craft activities, safety, health, and environmental programs.

The Blood Center of New Jersey will provide free cholesterol screening for blood donors.

Vendors will include hands-on crafts such as sand bottles and ceramic painting. "Dot Your Face" will appear as Pocahontas and do face-painting. Food concessions will include hot pretzels, funnel cake, zeppoles, calzones and other treats.

The Essex County 4-H Youth Development Program is part of Rutgers Cooperative Extension. It is sponsored by Essex County, Rutgers - the State University, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Information and educational programs are offered to all people without regard to sex, race, color, national origin, handicap, disability, or age.

The Essex County 4-H Fair and Youth Festival will be held rain or shine, and admission is free.

Brookdale Park is an accessible park with paved paths and a ramped parking lot for persons who have difficulty walking. The park can be reached from Garden State Parkway Exit 151 or NJ Transit Bus Line No. 72.

For more information, contact Mary Lou Mayfield, 4-H Program Associate, at 678-7807, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Elks thank

blood donors

The Belleville Elks Lodge 1123 and the Blood Center of New Jersey would like to take this opportunity to thank all the blood donors who responded to our special blood drive held on Tuesday, July 23, 1996, held at the Belleville Elks Hall.

We appreciate you taking the time out of your busy summer schedule to spend a little time with us to donate blood so that we can all help to provide that an adequate blood supply can be maintained to provide for any blood needs in our area hospitals. We would also like to thank the businesses that displayed our blood drive posters. Again, thank you for your concern and blood donation.
