Gore campaign stops at local college

By Joe Brennan

Vice president stresses higher education during speech

In an effort to drum up support for the Democratic Party ticket, Vice President Al Gore spoke to a packed amphitheater crowd at Montclair State University (MSU) last week.

Flanked by William Pascrell, mayor of Paterson and congressional candidate for the 8th district, MSU President Irvin Reid, and comedian Richard Lewis, Gore gave a speech blasting the GOP's stance on higher education and lauded the accomplishments of the Democratic Party.

Using the GOP's Contract For America as an example, Gore tried to woo the crowd by explaining the philosophical differences both parties have concerning education.

"They have proposed deep cuts in public education. They have opposed direct loans. We saw the ideas of the Contract for America," Gore said. "We believe that the choice is very clear. We are defending direct lending loans and PELL grants to make them more available to students."

Gore added that Democrats in Congress are working on legislation that might eventually make community college a free ride for students and offer parents no taxes for their money spent on college tuition.

In one reference to Republican Candidate for President, Bob Dole, Gore cited a question asked by a woman at a Dole press conference as to why he has supported deep cuts for funding education.

"A young woman asked the question, 'why have you (Dole) supported deep cuts in education,' And Dole didn't answer," said Gore.

When not comparing differences between the two parties on education, Gore praised the accomplishments of President Bill Clinton and the Democratic administration.

"We have seen the creation of 10 and a half million new jobs. Unemployment has changed dramatically. Real wages are going up again. The standard of living is going up again. The Urban Enterprise Zones (U.E.Z.) are bringing hope to impoverished inner cities," said Gore.

By citing the GOP's stance on cutting welfare and other social institutions such as Head Start and Americorps, Gore criticized what he called the "you're on your own" ideology of Republicans.

"This philosophy of you're on your own. The American people reject that viewpoint. That's not how we got here."

Gore made a point of attacking the policies of Dole and the GOP and not the personalities.

"Bob Dole is a good and decent man. We will treat him with the respect he deserves. They're (Republicans) good and decent people. But we disagree with their ideas," said Gore.

Gore also took the time to encourage younger college-aged students to vote in November.

"The choice on Nov. 5 is very important to the students gathered here, to those who care about the environment and investing in education. You hold the key to the outcome," said Gore.

In a closing moment of his speech, Gore reiterated the theme of "building a bridge to the 21st

Search party formed

Friends of Susan
Walsh create group

By James Zoccolli

Friends of a 36-year-old Nutley mother who disappeared more than two months ago say they plan to organize a search this weekend for the missing woman.

Continued sightings of Susan Walsh have been reported throughout North Newark over the past few weeks, according to Melissa Hines, a close friend of Walsh.

"I know she's in the area," Hines said. "She's been seen repeatedly."

Hines said after visiting with Walsh's 11-year-old son, she has decided to organize a search of the areas that Walsh has most frequently been sighted.

"I promised her son I'd find her," Hines said. "I don't believe she's dead."

There were moments when Hines did indeed believe that Walsh was no longer alive, but the constant sightings have given her hope.

But for Walsh's father, Floyd Merchant, hope has been tempered by fear that his daughter is gone forever.

"I just can't imagine her leaving her boy," Merchant said.

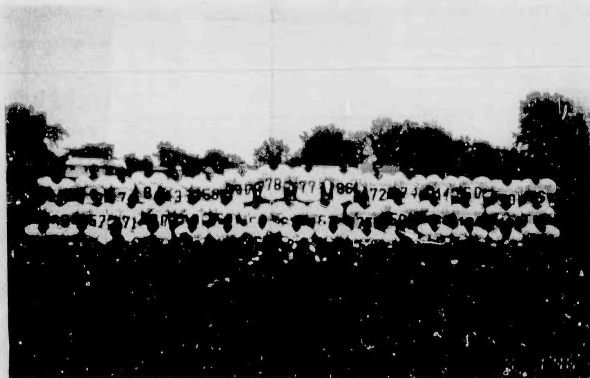

On July 16 Walsh told her husband and 11-year-old son that she would be back within a half hour. She left without taking her pocketbook and never returned.

Merchant and Hines admit that Walsh had some personal problems. She was a recovering alcoholic, but she had not been drinking until she recently began using Xanax, a controversial prescription drug.

"Xanax is the worst," Merchant said. "It mimics alcohol in the body and takes over your personality."

City adopting tattoo ordinances

By Joe Brennan

By scrutinizing ordinances pertaining to tattoo parlors from other communities, the Belleville Town Council is prepared to adopt their own set of rules and regulations.

Mayor Victor Canning said the town has no formal ordinance relating to tattoo parlors and is looking to keep the number of establishments the same.

"We're looking to adopt some similar town ordinances concerning tattoo parlors, not only to limit the number of them, but for health reasons," said Canning.

Township Attorney Robert Giordano said the ordinance would include regulations requiring tattoo establishments to be licensed by the state, and follow all health codes. There might also be stipulations limiting the number of tattoo businesses in town.

Officials review complaints...

Transit company looking at choices

By Joe Brennan

NJ Transit officials are reviewing other options for their light rail line proposal while they heed the concerns of residents.

Fenny Bassett-Hackett, spokeswoman for NJ Transit, said officials are responding to the concerns of residents and examining the alternate plans of Belleville resident, Bruce Hain.

"We're in the process of responding to the community concerns. We will review Mr. Hain's proposal and we want to continue the dialogue with the public," said Hackett.

Citizens of Belleville and Bloomfield voiced strong opposition to the proposal at a public hearing held in August at the Essex County Vocational and Technical High School in Bloomfield.

Since 1993, the agency has proposed placing a nine-mile rail transit line that would serve Belleville, Bloomfield, Newark and

Dispute over traffic data stalls Macy's

By Joe Brennan

One side is calling it a lack of cooperation, the other side is saying it's a breakdown of communication.

The Belleville Planning Board was supposed to have its own traffic engineer present testimony at a meeting last week concerning the Macy's proposal by Newel's Realty Co. Inc. But Chairman Sam Papa said a lack of cooperation from Newel's traffic engineer prevented that from happening.

"We requested that they supply some of the raw data and the feedback I got from our traffic engineer was he was having problems getting some of the information. We had the independent traffic report in our hands," said Papa.

Michael Turner, spokesman for Newel's and representative of MWW/Strategic Communications Inc., said the real estate company Century" used by Clinton at the Democratic National Convention, as he called upon voters to cast their ballot for his party and support Pascarelli and Rep. Robert Torricelli, who is vying for retiring N.J. Sen. Bill Bradley's seat.

"With your help, we'll do it and build that bridge to the future," said Gore.

Pascarelli, also a state assemblyman, gave a speech expounding the same themes as Gore, while stressing the importance of education.

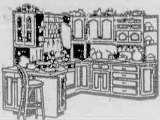

"I understand the importance of education in today's changing economy. The Republican Congress has not been kind to education. The Republicans are cutting what they should be protecting and protecting what they should be cutting," said Pascarelli.

Students and personnel at the college seemed favorable to both Gore and Pascarelli.

"I liked the pro-active take he's giving us," said Erika Wynzel, a graduated student from Wayne.

"He was very personable and very pro-education. I think he's doing more for America than the Dole ticket," said Joan Johnson, an administration employee for MSU.

Jaycees look for woman leaders

By James Zoccoli

Finding that special young lady will be the goal of the Nutley Jaycees later this year, as the civic group is already gearing up for its Essex County Junior Miss Scholarship Program.

The Jaycees are looking for Essex County high school senior women that are representative of their classmates throughout the county.

"We're trying to give notice to the girls early," said Michael Paolino, Jaycees candidate coordinator. "This is our 35th anniversary, so this year will be a big one."

The Jaycees will sponsor the event on Dec. 1 at Nutley High School. The young woman chosen as Essex County's Junior Miss will go on to compete with other county winners in January 1997.

Judging is based on scholastic achievement, panel evaluation, fitness, sense of composure, and creative and performing arts.

Applications may be obtained by writing or calling Paolino, at 161 Olson Ave., Nutley, N. J., 07110. For more information, call 667-7315.

has been very cooperative with the planning board. He then responded to Papa's comments.

"That's not true. That's simply not true. There could have been a breakdown in communication. Our report was conducted in the beginning of August and we didn't receive a request until the end of August. There's an amiable relationship between our engineers," said Turner.

Newel's traffic expert, Al Rinaldi, is an employee of THP Inc. of East Brunswick. Ray DePasquale, who works for Maser-Sosinski & Associates P.A. of Matawan, is the board's independent traffic engineer.

Newel's, who owns the property, has plans to construct three or four large retail stores that would include 140,000 square-feet of space. The Macy's abandoned warehouse is located near Belmont Avenue and Franklin Street in Belleville and Franklin and

Life in Silver Lake By Marie Strumolo Burke

Before I do anything, let me apologize to Councilwoman Angie Paserchia for omitting her name from the column I wrote about N.J. Transit. It must have been a slip of the pen, or, better yet, a slip of the mind.

She has been very instrumental in helping our cause and has been against this proposal from the onset. She's always there when this subject surfaces and has been a proponent against the rail link and "junk yard" they want to put in Silver Lake.

And let me set the record straight, Angie. In my last column I asked, Where were you? I certainly didn't mean you, because you were there. Thanks and Silver Lake welcomes your support.

50th Year Anniversary

American Legion Post 299, Joseph J. Carbat, on Belmont Avenue in Silver Lake, celebrated its 50th Anniversary in August. I can hear everyone asking, who is Joseph J. Carbat? He was the first commander of the legion when it started in 1946. Boy, I'm a wealth of information, aren't I?

No, not really, I must admit I had a little help from the 1996 commander, Angelo Soric. We were invited to this shindig, but couldn't make it. But I do understand that there were at least 100 guests feasting in the yard of the legion on such tasty items like clams, and an assortment of catered food by Nicolini's.

What could be better than the 1996 Commander Angelo Soric of Heckel Street, being a Silverlaker? I can't think of anything, could you? The Commander told me that there were 3 honorees who had hit the 50 year mark as being charter members of the legion. Just think, between the three of them they have 150 years of service. Unbelievable.

The honorees were Benny Schiavo, better known as Benny B; Al Pace (Lesan, which means Tarzan in Italian); and James Delissio. For being '50 year men' they were awarded with certificates, letter openers and pens.

At the party, there was music with singing and dancing. I predict that the legion's newest commander, Angelo (Stumpy) Soric will go down in history as one of the best commanders. How can he go wrong, being a Silver Lake resident! Ooops, before I sign off, let me say hello to 'Scrappy' John Boy, and my cousin, Pete Pribula. Everyone knows this trio. Lord forbid if I didn't mention these guys.

You know there really are good people in this world. My husband and I went to a 'great' restaurant in Montclair called Il Bacio, which means "The Kiss," on Bloomfield Avenue in Montclair. The food was superb, the service excellent and the patrons friendly. The food was so good, my husband asked if the chef could come out and take a bow. Alas, Chef Gian Scibilia appeared. This restaurant is a family affair.

The owner/maitre 'd and father, is Paul Scibilia; the chef, his son, Gian; and the waitress, his daughter, Joanne. What a class act.

O.K., I know I got a little carried away, but let me tell you about the couple we met.

This man was seated at a table directly behind us and we engaged in some friendly chatter. He was very taken with the food and asked what we had ordered.

We finally exchanged names and found out that his name was Paul Seligman and his lovely wife's name was Estelle. They live in West Caldwell but were former Belleville residents.

Paul mentioned that he is a member of the American Legion Post 299 in Silver Lake. What a small world it is. He is an attorney in Roseland.

What a down to earth couple the Seligman's were. We enjoyed the evening immensely. I must say that Paul is a very dynamic individual. It was our pleasure to make your acquaintance, Seligman's.

Remember, we love Silver Lake.

Tattoo shops invite new codes

into regulating body piercing establishments.

"Any proliferation of these kinds of businesses wouldn't be in the best interest of the town," said Giordano.

Tom Longo, supervisor of the health department, said although the town doesn't have a formal ordinance, he uses a local administrative law to perform health inspections.

"We go down the checklist. So far I've had no problem with anybody," said Longo.

Longo said the checklist of regulations include single use of needles, proper waste disposal, cleanliness of the equipment and the entire establishment, and the proper forms for those seeking to have a tattoo. According to state law, people under 18 can only get a tattoo with parental consent.

Jim Feraco, owner of Pleasures of the Flesh tattoo parlor on Belleville Avenue in Belleville, said his relationship with neighbors in the area wasn't congenial at first.

"They didn't like me too much at first," said Feraco.

Feraco opened his business in Belleville in February of 1995, and recalls how the overall tattoo business has changed over the years.

"The business has changed so much in 10 years. It used to be just bikers who got tattoos. Now, there are a lot of young artists out there," said Feraco.

Feraco said the misconceptions about those who have been tattooed can become more rampant in a small town.

There's a very big misconception, especially in a small town like Belleville. When you get one, people don't look at you the same way," said Feraco.

However, Feraco said he is all in favor of establishing more stringent health codes for parlors. He feels something should be done on a federal level and the same ordinances should apply to hair salons.

"I hope the town does do this. They need to do it. They need to do it federally," said Feraco.

Angel Colon, a tattoo artist at Pleasures of the Flesh, couldn't agree with Feraco more.

Colon, who joined Feraco's staff in August of last year, said one infection from a tattoo parlor can mean a decline in business to all establishments in the area.

Colon said he always wears rubber gloves, and even the paint used by the artist is disposed of and never returned to the original container.

"I'm the one at greater risk than the client. I'm all in favor of enforced codes," said Colon.

Colon also echoed the same sentiments when discussing what they think are stereotypes surrounding tattoos.

"Only ex-cons, sailors, ladies of ill repute, and bikers get tattoos," said Colon about the misconceptions.

"I have personally tattooed housewives, lawyers, grandmothers, teachers, dentists, and nurses," he said.

Although Colon is glad to draw tattoos on willing clients, he said there are limits to what he and Pleasures of the Flesh will allow.

"The only parts of the body we won't tattoo are the face and hands," said Colon, who added that there might be an old state ordinance making it illegal to do so.

Colon said there is an integral mental preparation given to each client before any physical preparation. Colon "grills" the client on what exactly they are doing to their skin, then explains the process and reinforces the fact that it's permanent.

"I then clean the entire work area before anyone comes in, and then sterilize the single needles," said Colon.

While some people may frown upon the tattoo as an artistic trade, Colon takes his work seriously, and doesn't hesitate to treat his clients like a fresco painting.

"I call the person I'm working on a canvass. You don't look at the person. You talk to them. You are doing a piece of artwork on them," said Colon.

NJ Transit looks at alternatives

Elizabeth. The project would be a rebirth of an abandoned rail line called the Orange Branch.

The plans also include a vehicle base facility for maintenance purposes, located at the intersection of Franklin Street and Belmont Avenue in Belleville.

Hain, director of the grass roots organization Citizens for Sensible Transportation, filed a lawsuit against this proposal in the U.S. District Court in Newark in May.

Hain said he has tried to bring attention from transit officials to his plan, but hasn't received any recognition until after the public hearing.

Hain added, however, that he has received no contact from transit officials about their interest.

"This is the first I heard of it. As far as I know, it may only be lip service. They'll have to do something due to the opposition," said Hain.

The lawsuit Hain has filed might be amended to include libel. Hain said his legal papers gave NJ Transit 20 days to respond. But when he contacted the transit company, they said there was a 60-day response period.

Hain's plan calls for a maintenance facility to be placed at the present Franklin Avenue Subway Terminus in Newark. His proposal also includes use of the existing tracks to run out of the east side of Pennsylvania station.

Hain said NJ Transit has two alternate plans, one expensive, for a location on Orange Street in Newark.

"I don't know how carefully they've investigated it.

Transit officials said their plan calls for 16 new rail cars with handicapped accessibility, a rail operations center to maintain vehicles, an enclosed storage building and a police substation. The cost for the project is $80 million on a 13 to 15 acre property.

No matter what the cost of the project is, the Belleville Town Council has been unanimously opposed to the proposal. Councilwoman-at-large Angie Paserchia is trying to bring Gov. Christie Whitman to the area to explain the concerns of residents.

"I've been in contact with her office at least once or twice a week," said Paserchia.

Phil Angarone, deputy chief of staff for the Whitman Administration, didn't return calls for comment.

Paserchia said residents are mainly concerned about children crossing the intersections that the rail line will run through. She said both School 4, located at Belmont Avenue and Magnolia Street, and St. Anthony's school on N. 7th Street would be affected.

"Some years ago a boy lost his foot playing on the tracks. And I don't want to see anything like that happen," said Paserchia.

Other concerns include traffic congestion on what residents feel are already busy streets. Paserchia said transit officials haven't been truthful about how many parking spaces would be lost on Franklin Avenue.

"They told the people they would lose six parking spaces. I read the book; it's 36 parking spaces, so they're not telling the truth," Paserchia added.

OUR OPINION

Residents should read between NJ Transit's rail lines

The latest developments concerning the proposal by NJ Transit have transit officials "reviewing" plans by Belleville resident, Bruce Hain.

NJ Transit has proposed placing a nine-mile rail transit line that would run through Belleville at Franklin Street and serve Belleville, Bloomfield, Newark, and Elizabeth.

They also propose a vehicle base facility for maintenance purposes, located on the intersection of Franklin Street and Belmont Avenue in town.

Hain has been so opposed to these plans that he has formed a grass roots organization called Citizens for Sensible Transportation. More recently, he has filed a lawsuit in federal courts in Newark trying to receive an injunction against the rail link.

Since a meeting held in August at the Essex County Vocational High School in Bloomfield epitomized the public's overall outrage concerning the proposal, this "review" of Hain's proposal isn't surprising.

But sometimes state agencies don't always grant the public the whole picture.

Hain suggests utilizing the existing Franklin Avenue Subway Terminus in Newark for the vehicle base facility. The lawsuit he filed in May, according to his affidavit, gave the transit company 20 days to respond.

The interesting aspects of this sudden reconsideration by NJ Transit are twofold. First, no one from the transit company notified Hain that they were "considering" his proposal. Secondly, after the 20-day period was over and NJ Transit hadn't even winked at Hain's proposal, he contacted them. Then a representative on the phone told him they had 60 days to respond.

If no one from NJ Transit notified Hain about their "all of a sudden" interest in his ideas, then how interested are they? Also, does NJ Transit have the power to change time frames concerning legal matters?

Residents of Belleville, especially in the Silver Lake area, shouldn't take at face value anything company representatives tell them. The massive outrage against the proposal that was presented during the meeting should be enough criteria for NJ Transit to get the message.

When the Belleville Times contacted the transit company, a spokesperson, although saying they were reviewing the residents concerns, added that the Franklin Street location was the best choice for this project.

The Essex County Vo-Tech meeting was almost two months ago and the voices of residents were loud and clear. How long will it take for NJ Transit to hear them?

Senior citizen housing

The Council is discussing the possibility of constructing senior citizen housing. Belleville is the only Essex municipality without accommodations for senior citizens.

Several Council persons are of the opinion that the Council should not accept federal funds for senior housing because it would open the project to anybody in the United States.

Nutley has had a sad experience with senior housing. It received federal funds, and, consequently, anybody that meets the qualifications is entitled to be considered.

This is wrong. If the object is to take care of our own seniors, then it must be limited to Belleville only. Lord knows we have more senior citizens than any housing built could accommodate.

The sacrifice of federal funds should only add to the determination of Belleville Council members' vision to move ahead and get the job done. The land is available. Even the cost may be negotiable. — F.A.O.

Philanthropy comes in all shapes and sizes

There are so many ways to help the needy and show some humanity toward others.

Nutley resident Carl Johnson found a way by joining Habitat for Humanity a few years ago and helping build homes for the homeless.

Johnson, a Belleville school teacher, just returned from Africa two weeks ago where he joined with natives to build homes. Johnson's previous efforts were in urban areas of North Jersey.

On the surface it may seem that such gestures barely scratch the surface of the massive need that exists in the world. But remember, every small act means the world to those who receive the much-needed help.

Many acts of benevolence are often seen as a one-way street, in that the receiver gains and the giver gives. But Johnson's unique act of giving on a global scale may help show that the giver also receives.

Johnson has dramatically expanded his life experience by working hand-in-hand with persons living in a primitive culture, where the luxuries that Americans often take for granted are virtually unknown.

When someone gives to a charitable cause on a local level, the giver often sees the good that his or her generosity bestows, but rarely realizes a second benefit, one that literally enriches life's learning experience and broadens the knowledge of the giver.

Local philanthropy, however, can sometimes offer an even greater reward if the giver donates time and energy to a charitable cause rather than just money. Under such circumstances, the giver can literally inspire the needy to believe that someone really does care, while the benefactor also has a profound and positive impact on the region where he or she lives.

The point is that there are so many ways to help others that everyone should offer a hand somewhere, sometime to somebody.

Helping others, globally or locally, helps us all.

YOUR OPINION

Resident defends his scooping

To the editor:

This letter is in response to Mr. Vacaturo's letter, which appeared in the Belleville Times of Aug. 22 where you made reference to "Jackie Selling Lemon Ice to Kids."

You are absolutely right, Mr. Vacaturo. I have been scooping 3,500 cups of lemon ice, every year, for the past 10 years, for the Belleville school children, free of charge. In addition to that, to make sure no one is left out, Gabe Nazzola and I have made arrangements with the Belleville elementary school parents and the Music Parents Assoc. to hand out certificates to the bearer to redeem a free cup of lemon ice. That would confirm your statement that I'm scooping a lot of lemon ice.

People may ask, "Why is he doing this? Is there an ulterior motive? Is he going to run for office?" I doubt it very much. My reward is the love I have for kids. (Lou Palante's involvement in kids' sports events was also visible to their parents. That doesn't impress me at all.)

"I'll give you a shining example of how serious this has become to me."

I had an occasion a short time ago to attend a St. Peter's affair in the school gymnasium, which was filled to capacity. When I arrived, I discovered, to my surprise, that I was one of the honorees. I was overwhelmed by the people greeting me. Also, in addition to the 3,500 cups of lemon ice I scooped for the children of Belleville, I, along with other dedicated volunteers, delivered hot "Meals on Wheels" for approximately five years to many disabled seniors of Belleville. This was supported by the county, in all kinds of weather. This was a tremendous feeling of happiness and accomplishment that I felt, to perform this service.

So, Mr. Vacaturo, let me just leave you with a closing thought: remember, it is much better to give than to receive, because your reward will be much bigger.

Hospital contract saves Essex $2.5 million over two years

In September 1995, the administration of Essex County Executive James Treffinger contracted with St. Elizabeth Hospital to provide inpatient and outpatient services, as well as emergency medical care, for inmates of the Essex County Jail and Jail Annex.

According to the administration, this relationship has reduced costs by as much as 47 percent, which will result in a savings of nearly $1.1 million by Aug. 31.

Although the average monthly inmate population has increased from 1,871 to 1,964, the number of hospital admissions and hospital days has decreased, the administration said. This, the administration said, is attributable to better screening and treatment by Correctional Health Services Inc. (CHS) staff at the correctional facilities.

"One of our principal goals has been to provide cost containment/cost reduction programs that control taxpayer expenditures for inmate medical services and comply with the standards of the National Commission on Correctional Health Care (NCCCHC) and with state and local guidelines regarding inmate health care in correctional facilities," said Treffinger.

"This led us to contract with CHS to provide a managed care delivery system to the jail, jail annex and juvenile detention center. We have as a result both improved services and saved taxpayer dollars," he said.

The agreement with St. Elizabeth Hospital has allowed for uninterrupted medical services for inmates in an inpatient locked unit that has realized the county a 42 percent, or $350,887, savings in the past nine months, he said. In the past, one-to-one supervision was required, which put a strain on personnel requirements, Treffinger said.

Treffinger and CHS fixed a strategy which resulted in negotiations with St. Elizabeth Hospital for a Diagnostic Related Group (DRG) rate structure that reduces average hospital costs per admission by approximately 20 percent.

St. Elizabeth has agreed to utilize the lower 1996 DRG rates, instead of the 1994 rates currently in effect.

"From the start of this administration, we have attempted to apply business approaches to the running of this government while being as creative and innovative as possible," Treffinger said.

Renewal of the contract with defined reimbursement rates, will save the county nearly $2.5 million over the two-year period, Treffinger said.

Of All Things
By Frank Orechio
A feature of the Nutley Sun, Bloomfield Life and Belleville Times

NUTLEY'S Joe DiVincenzo, Democrat, President of the Essex County Board of Freeholders, has a record in office worth bragging about.

Of all his achievements, perhaps, most important is the fact that he has established a harmonious working relationship with Republican Essex County Executive Jim Treffinger. Some of the more important of DiVincenzo's achievements are:

- Cut his salary by 10 percent which led Freeholders Sebald and Rolli to voluntarily take a 5 percent cut in salary.
- Reduced the cost of the president's aides 50 percent from $40,000 to $20,000.
- Aides for other freeholders were reduced 33 percent.
- Eliminated Freeholder Discretionary Grants of $650,000, including the elimination of $125,000 grant to the North Ward Center of which Mr. DiVincenzo is an officer.

- The overall freeholder budget was reduced 69 percent.
- Freeholder expenses were reduced 78 percent.
- Using the flex work day, he reduced the freeholders clerk's office overtime by 93 percent.
- Cost of trips and conventions was reduced by eliminating attendance to three freeholders instead of permitting nine, thus effecting a 65 percent reduction.

- Reduced the number of freeholders' aides from 105 to 29 and eliminated perks that went with the job.
- Initiated a change in the freeholders' meetings from day meetings to night time for the convenience of voters.

- Instead of holding the freeholder meetings in Newark, they now rotate so that a meeting is held in every Essex County municipality at least once or twice a year.
- Of great interest is the innovative program whereby instituting third and fourth quarter budget hearings, it insures that government will operate within its budget restraints.
- Incidental expenses for the nine freeholder members was reduced from $18,000 to $1,000.
- The county budget went down from $520 Million to $485 Million — a result that was negotiated with Essex County Executive Jim Treffinger.

DiVincenzo is running for reelection in November. Based upon his outstanding accomplishments, he should be elected by acclamation. However, this won't happen. Some patronage-driven leaders of his party have no enthusiasm for a dedicated and honest public official delivering public service to the people at a minimum cost.

Jim Treffinger

Both Treffinger and former Essex County Executive Republican Nick Amato have complimented DiVincenzo on his accomplishments. DiVincenzo is the first freeholder board president in the history of county government who has made such drastic cuts in the operation of government that has drawn the ire of Democrat leaders more interested in patronage jobs than good government. Mr. DiVincenzo does not look upon politics as a game. The former All-American quarterback perceives his duty as an obligation to serve the best interests of the taxpayer. Clearly his record shows that he has accomplished his mission. As a result of the cooperation of DiVincenzo and Treffinger, county government is no longer an employment agency for deserving Democrats.

THE Whitewater independent counsel, Kenneth Starr, must be very calloused to permit an indignity to be visited upon Susan McDougal who exercised her right not to testify. So what does Starr do? He arranges for the press to be conveniently near the courthouse where McDougal came out handcuffed and wearing leg irons. So — the Associated Press just happened to be in a location permitting the reporter to take a picture of McDougal. Shame on Mr. Starr!

Search team formed for Susan Walsh

Hines believe that Walsh is not herself and has fallen back into alcoholism as a result of her prescription medication.

"She's not really responsible for her actions," Merchant said.

Merchant eagerly awaited a report from Newark police on Monday night that he hoped would lead to Walsh's recovery. But it proved to be just the latest in a series of dead ends.

His worst fear, however, came last week, when he experienced an unusually vivid dream about his missing daughter.

"I dreamt she called me on the phone and told me she was no longer in any pain," Merchant said.

Merchant's voice hesitated as he said the implication of the dream was clear to him: that his daughter was no longer alive.

But one local psychic claims just the opposite.

In a recent exclusive interview with The Nutley Sun, famed psychic Dorothy Allison offered her first insight into the baffling case.

Allison offered her intuition on the mysterious disappearance.

"I don't feel any real danger for her," Allison said of Walsh.

Chorus of Communities sing-along Sunday

The Chorus of Communities will sponsor its third annual "Messiah" sing-along on Sunday, Sept. 22 at 3 p.m. at Bethany Lutheran Church, New and Jerusalem streets, Belleville.

All are invited — newcomers, intermediate and advanced singers, sight readers and those who do not read a note.

Soloists may let their voices be heard and organists and choir directors may play or direct at least one piece. Soloists, organists and choir directors must call 895-4563 to arrange who will do what.

Each participant must bring his/her own copy of the "Messiah," preferably the edition by G. Schirmer or a similar music publisher. A free will offering will be taken to defray the cost of refreshments.

The Chorus of Communities is an ecumenical, inter-faith chorus from over 23 surrounding area towns including Belleville, Bloomfield, Glen Ridge and Nutley. It is sponsored by local ministries and contributes to local charities including Clara Maass Medical Center. Rehearsals will begin Oct. 3 for its Christmas performance, slated for Dec. 15.

For more information about the Chorus of Communities or the Sing-Along, call William Moore, director, at 895-4563.

Exchange Students Tour Library. Twenty-five students from the Rotary International Summer Youth Exchange Program, led by Shirlee Sherman, director of the Belleville Rotary and eastern area coordinator for the Exchange Program, tour the grandeur of the Carnegie Room of the Belleville Public Library and Information Center. The tour was led by Joan Taub, head of adult services. The tour was arranged by Library Director, Adrea Cohen, also a Rotarian and Sherman, past president of the Belleville Rotary.

Internet at the Library. Classes in the Internet, the World Wide Web, and the Belleville Public Library and Information Center's CD ROM technology have been so popular that already there is a need for additional computers to be added to the library's computer LAN.

Martini Foundation, Rotary Club of Belleville, Woman's Club help fund upcoming library concerts

As a result of grants from the Nicholas Martini Foundation and the Rotary Club of Belleville, the Belleville Public Library and Information Center will be sponsoring several upcoming concerts at the Library.

On Wednesday, Sept. 25, at 7 p.m., Bob McHugh will perform "A Piano Concert of American Music," in a concert sponsored by the Nicholas Martini Foundation and the Woman's Club of Belleville.

A pianist and composer, McHugh has played for over 30 years in New York and New Jersey and has lectured and performed at colleges and universities.

One of his album releases, "Soaring On Wings of Ivory and Black" is on the Outstanding record label, and his latest release, "Manhattan Sunrise," is on the Alliance Label.

Listed in "Who's Who in America," McHugh has composed music for Frank Chacksfield, aired over the BBC.

Also, on Sunday, Oct. 20, Derek Smith, jazz pianist, will be performing at 2 p.m. in the Carnegie Room, in a concert also sponsored by the Nicholas Martini Foundation.

Probably, the world's most recorded jazz pianist, Smith may be heard on recordings ranging from Burt Bacharach/Dionne Warwick and Steve Lawrence/Eddie Gorme tracks, recorded in the 1960's to jazz albums with Dizzy Gillespie, Buddy De Franco, Louie Bellson, Milt Hinton and Clark Terry.

A native of England, he joined the Benny Goodman Band in 1961 and was the pianist on "Benny Goodman — The Swing Era," released by Time/Life Records.

The roster of notables with whom Smith has performed includes a who's who of show business from Sinatra to Parovoz, from Plácido Domingo to Robert Palmer. In 1989, his trio album, "Love For Sale," gave him a Grammy Nomination.

On Sunday, Nov. 3, concert pianist, Heinz Hammerman will perform at 2 p.m.

He made his formal concert debut in Carnegie Hall, hailed there by the critics, and recommended by Leonard Bernstein for a Julliard Scholarship.

The concert is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Belleville.

The final concert will feature, back by popular demand, the Chorus of Communities on Thursday, Dec. 19, at 7 p.m.

Reservations are required for all performances.

Mental health organization receives good review

The Bureau of licensing and inspections of the department of human services in Trenton recently reviewed the Community Mental Health Services at 570 Belleville Ave., Belleville.

The reviewers, led by Alan Carmy, were recently at the agency reviewing agency services and interviewing clients and families with regard to their satisfaction with the care they received.

Prior to the review, the department of human services had distributed questionnaires to clients, families and other agencies regarding their experience with, or knowledge of the agency. The response reflected satisfaction with the care received.

Mental Health Services "meets the majority of the department standards with major strengths noted in staff responsiveness, clinical skill and clinical documentation." The reviewers also noted that there are no waiting lists for treatment.

Plan ahead before you travel

It's your vacation of a lifetime. You've dreamed about it, saved for it, counted down to it, and you've spent the past few months planning ahead to ensure a pleasant journey. Right?

Planning is the key, according to the AAA New Jersey Automobile Club. If you're planning a vacation, it's not a bad idea to make your reservations as much as a year in advance to ensure the accommodations and transportation that suit your needs and budget. After all, the more prepared you are before you go, the more you're likely to enjoy yourself.

A good first step when planning a vacation is to be as specific as possible. Make a list of your priorities. Then find a travel agent you can work with and ask a lot of questions.

Those traveling with children should consider everything from day-care options to the feasibility of using local water for making baby formula. Even medical conditions may need to figure into your plans. Don't take any special needs for granted. For instance, you're a diabetic on your way to the British Virgin Islands. You don't want to be surprised to find that none of the rooms have a refrigerator for your insulin.

The extra planning will also go a long way towards maximizing your enjoyment once you choose your destination. Avid sightseers should plot out their touring schedules, while sports enthusiasts should investigate what's offered at the destination so they don't miss out on a new adventure. Those traveling to domestic or international cities might benefit from boning up on bus and railway systems. In addition to providing a broad perspective on the city, public transportation, as opposed to taking taxis everywhere, can cut your costs.

Though destination and mode of transportation are often the make-or-break components of a vacation, some finer points should never be overlooked. Details such as an improper proof of citizenship or inappropriate attire can dog your adventure from the starting gate and are best dealt with by making advance inquiries.

For those mulling over their next vacation, the AAA recommends heeding the following advice before leaving home:

- Check and double check. Look carefully at your tickets to be sure you've been assigned the correct dates. Confirm all flights personally.

- Secure documentation early. Passports can take as long as six weeks to obtain and are required for identification in most foreign countries. Your registration cards are no longer accepted in the Caribbean and Bahamas; you must bring a passport or a birth certificate with an official seal. Photocopies are also not acceptable.

- Consider travel insurance. Low cost insurance reimburses you for the unused portion of your trip if you have to cancel for any reason.

- Use a reputable travel supplier. If you're booking a tour "package," that is, a vacation that includes accommodations and possibly some sightseeing, choose a package deal from a well-established company that has a relationship with your travel agent. Travelers unhappy with accommodations will have an easier time upgrading if they have local assistance.

- Pack light. Three outfits using mix and match separates should be plenty for a one-week vacation. It's a good idea to inquire ahead about dress codes. Some cruise lines, for instance, require formal wear or even costumes.

- Get to the airport on time. Bad timing can ruin a vacation before it starts. Plan to arrive at the airport at least one hour before a domestic flight and at least two hours before an international flight.

- Expect the unexpected. Bring enough foreign currency to get through the next business day after arrival. Equip a carry-on bag with essentials — prescriptions, cosmetics, eyeglasses, and a change of clothes — in the event your luggage is lost. Put identification and an itinerary inside your luggage so misplaced bags can be forwarded to you wherever you are.

IT'S NOT ONLY OUR PATIENTS WHO KEEP GETTING BETTER...

NEW ENTRANCEWAY CONSTRUCTION BEGINS

Our exciting project to create a new Main Lobby and Reception Area on the Ground Floor of Clara Maass Medical Center continues.

Part of our $3 million Construction and Renovation Program designed to provide you easier, more convenient access to the hospital, the project will enter its next phase on Monday, September 23, as the existing Ground Floor Entrance to the Medical Center is closed to prepare for construction of a larger vestibule and installation of a canopy over a portion of the walkway leading into Clara Maass.

During this time, visitors and patients to the Medical Center can access the Main Entrance via an outdoor stairway which is located immediately to the right of the Ground Floor Entrance. For those who cannot use the existing stairway, a vehicle drop-off and pick-up location has been designated outside the Main Entrance.

For exact directions, just follow the signs throughout the Medical Center campus. Or ask someone on our Clara Maass staff for assistance.

BUC SHOTS

By Mike Lamberti

'Shirl'

"There's a place in the sun, where there's hope for everyone, movin' on, movin' on"

She was a wife and mother.

She was the fabric of many lives at Orechio Publications.

Her name was Shirley Reid. Most people at Orechio called her Shirley. I called her "Shirl".

We lost Shirl last week. She passed at the very premature age of 58. She left a husband, Fred, and two sons, John and Chris.

She also left a number of friends (a.k.a. co-workers) at 800 Bloomfield Avenue, and previous to that, 777 Bloomfield Avenue.

If you knew Shirl on a very casual basis, then you would have thought of her as shy, quiet and basically, to herself.

I had the privilege of knowing her for nearly 20 years, and can share numerous stories about our working experiences.

Shirl had a unique and very dry sense of humor. She could take a crazy Tuesday, when it appeared all hell would break loose ("I'll walk") and make it seem part of a prime time sit-com.

I can remember times when, with the deadline nearing on a frantic Tuesday, people who normally are good friends, would be screaming at each other ("Not for nothing") and Shirley would be at her computer, typing legalese and just smiling at the commotion around her.

There were numerous times when she would take a break, go outside the building and just marvel at the insanity that would take place.

"This place is crazy," Shirl would say to me. "I wonder who's going to quit today?"

But when the deadline would arrive, the paper was ready to go and sanity would return the following day. No one quit, but the pace of the place would be prime for the next Tuesday.

Diane Lombardy and I went to Belleville High School together in the mid 1970's. She has been with Orechio for about 14 years now and we maintained a good friendship with Shirl.

There were numerous times when Diane and I would be working in the photo room on a busy Tuesday and Shirl would peek her head in the door and say "leave the door open just a crack, I don't trust you Mike."

Because of that, Diane and I would purposely close the door, just to drive her crazy.

But, without question, Diane and I had the most fun with Shirl when we would say, in unison, "I'll walk", a reference to a former co-worker.

If Shirl wasn't in a good mood that day, for whatever reason, it would always bring a smile to her face.

It was Shirl's wit and humor, good nature and caring heart that almost everyone who worked with her will remember the most.

I'll miss sharing Teddy Grams with her when I was hungry and there wasn't time to go get something to eat.

I'll miss her accidentally turning off my computer in mid stream, the apologizing and saying "you should remember to save your stories, so that if the power goes off, it won't ruin your work."

I'll miss not seeing her at 7 a.m. at her computer and her listening to Howard Stern on the radio.

I'll miss the fear in her eyes when a 45 page legal would arrive at 2 p.m. on a Tuesday afternoon and it HAS to be in this weeks paper.

I'll miss her not asking me about my latest soap opera life and what woman I'm seeing this week, or month.

I'll miss not giving her a ride to work.

Most importantly, I'll miss her because she was indeed a fabric of my life, and I'm sure a fabric in the lives of her other co-workers.

Shirl, thank you for sharing some of your life with me. To say you'll never be forgotten is a gross understatement.

Last week, our office manager, Helen Maguire, went over to Shirl's desk, for the pain staking task of cleaning it out.

As she opened it, the first thing she found were the Teddy Grams.

"You were right," Helen said to me. "They're here."

May eternal happiness and peace come your way, Shirl. And don't forget, "I'll walk."

Kickoff set for 1:30 p.m.

'96 Bucs open this Saturday

By Mike Lamberti

Cautious optimism.

Call it very cautious optimism.

The '96 Buccaneer football team will take the field this Saturday at Scotch Plains in the season opener fresh off a good pre season performance against Parsippany Hills last week.

Beginning his 20th year as head coach, John Senesky has seen just about everything related to football at Belleville High School. He's been a coach in the system since 1968 and knows that pre season hype will not determine the success of a regular campaign.

"We're looking better," Senesky said last Monday. "The kids have game experience, it's the largest senior class we've had here in at least ten years and I'm happy with the leadership qualities the kids have shown."

The Bucs are coming off a winless season in 1995 and Senesky readily admits, "we need a win and we need to do it quickly."

The Bucs chances this Saturday could be considered good. Scotch Plains went through a similar fate as Belleville last year. They, too, have some talent returning this year and Senesky knows it will be a good test.

"They have backs with speed, and that's something that's been a nemesis for us this year in the scrimmages. They have size, but I think we'll match up in that category."

Offensively, look for Rich DeFalco to start at quarterback. The senior will also see time at outside linebacker.

Greg Sheridan has also looked good at quarterback and don't be surprised if he sees action this Saturday.

Donnell Graham has moved to tail back from full back and he should give the Bucs the necessary speed to open the passing game. Graham was by far the Bucs most explosive runner last year.

Chris Zarro, a guard last year, moves to full back this season.

"It's a good spot for Chris, because he's a good blocker," Senesky said. "He'll get the chance to run on the trap plays. I think he'll do a good job."

Tyree Huffin, a starting wide receiver last year, moves to slot back this fall.

"Tyree is one of our best athletes," Senesky said of the senior. "He gives us another weapon in the backfield."

Edwin Garcia and Tristyn

Kvetkus should get the starting nod at split end.

The offensive line returns intact from last year. The center is Richard Shenton, the guards are Robert Shenton and Ricky Neiman and the tackles will be Ernie Compusano and Nick Muscara. The tight end is Tom Dyer.

On defense, Senesky is pleased with the aggressiveness his team has displayed.

"We have a good scheme. The mistakes we're making are more physical than mental. We might be a little over aggressive, but that's something that can be worked on. The kids are comfortable with the defense and I think they'll be effective."

The Bucs will employ a 4-3 defense.

"We've changed the format, using a seven man front," Senesky explained. "The keys are simpler and the reads are easier. We have more linebacking candidates this year, which gives us depth."

The four down linemen are Compusano and Rob Shenton on the inside and Dyer and Neiman on the outside.

Brian McIntosh will start at middle linebacker. DeFalco starts at one outside linebacker post while Mike Abidelli, Chris Zarro, Tom Barbella and Frank Zarro are battling for the other linebacker position.

In the secondary, Phong Nguyen and Ricci Bello start at corner back while Huffin and Efrain Mercado start at safety.

Also playing well in the secondary and expected to see time are Kvetkus, John Farina and Garcia.

The kicking chores will be handled by Garcia, who has done a very good job thus far in pre season. Bello and Sheridan are vying for the punting job.

The key now is to get off to a good start, something that didn't happen last year.

The '95 Bucs played well in its season opener at Teaneck and held a 14-6 lead in the second half. But some bad officiating and opportunistic play by Teaneck helped the Highwaymen to a 20-14 victory. The loss sent the young Bucs spiraling to a winless season.

"It will do a lot for the kids momentum (to win early)," Senesky said. "We're looking forward to the start of the season."

NOTES: Bucs have never played Scotch Plains before. The last time Bucs won a season opener was in 1993, when the team won at Don Bosco, 14-13.

Clarke-Cameron scores Belleville's first goal

Lady Bucs fall to Teaneck, 4-1, in opener

By Mike Lamberti

History was made at Clearmont Field last Monday when the Lady Buc soccer team played its first varsity game.

Arlene Mueller's squad fell short in its debut, losing to Teaneck, 4-1, but there were certainly some encouraging signs.

The team will be at Montclair today and will play at Paramus Catholic next Wednesday.

"We played pretty well," said Mueller. "We've been hurt by injuries in the early going. But for our first game, we did a good job."

The team played without the services of co-captain Joelle DellaVolpe (dislocated knee, out three weeks) and Jessie Santiago (fractured ankle, return date unknown).

Teaneck scored two goals in the first half within a two minute span. But Belleville rallied back a minute later when Malerie Clarke-Cameron drove the length of the field with some tremendous moves and beat the Teaneck goalie one-on-one.

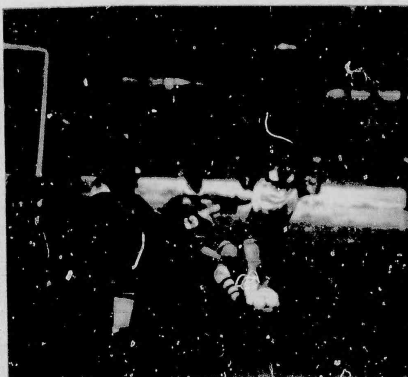

Clarke-Cameron, a sophomore, played an aggressive game on the front line throughout the contest.

"We couldn't get the ball to her as consistently as we had hoped,"

Mueller said.

The score remained 2-1 until midway through the second half. There, Teaneck scored goals at the 21:33 and 28:15 marks to wrap up the victory.

"The kids have improved a great deal from last year," Mueller said. "They worked hard during the off season and we played our first varsity game pretty well."

Lady Buc player battles for loose ball during season opener with Teaneck last Monday. Team will be at Montclair this afternoon.

Sophomore Malerie Clarke-Cameron celebrates first Belleville varsity goal in team history last Monday at Clearmont Field. Her teammates run over to join in celebration.

Lady Bucs soccer coach Arlene Mueller (center) and co-captain Joelle DellaVolpe (right) survey the action during home opener last Monday at Clearmont Field. DellaVolpe has been sidelined with knee injury. She's hopeful to return to lineup by early October.

Players battle for position during first half of Belleville-Teaneck girls soccer match at Clearmont Field last Monday. It was a good reason opener for Belleville, despite 4-1 loss.

Job Haines Home to host speaker on assisted living

This fall, the Job Haines Home, 250 Bloomfield Ave., Bloomfield, will host an educational seminar for area health-care professionals.

The guest speaker will be Robert Van Dyk, president and CEO of Van Dyk Health Care, Inc. Van Dyk's presentation is titled, "Assisted Living: The Basic Concept" and is designed to provide an introduction to the guiding principles and unique format of this new level of service available to the senior population.

In addition to his duties at Van Dyk Health Care, Inc., Van Dyk is a principle in Assisted Living Training Associates (ALTA), a professional organization specializing in the training of assisted living administrators and ancillary personnel.

Van Dyk served on the policy committee responsible for authoring the assisted living regulations for the State of New Jersey. He has served as an active member of several health care organizations at both the state and national level, including the American Health Care Association (AHCA) and the New Jersey Association of Health Care Facilities (NJAHSCF).

Van Dyk was recently selected to serve on the White House Conference on Aging in Washington, D.C.

Executive Director Jacqueline Kerr Harrold said, "We are very pleased to welcome Mr. Van Dyk, a leader in assisted living and the health care field, to the Job Haines Home to address the philosophy and merits of this new alternative to nursing home care."

Assisted living is designed to eliminate, or at least defer, the need for nursing home services by combining a supportive housing environment with individualized health care services. In addition, assisted living is characterized by a residential environment and an approach to health care that promotes independence, dignity, personal choice and privacy.

The Job Haines Home is currently in the process of developing an assisted living facility to add to the services provided at its current location.

The seminar will be held on Thursday, Oct. 3. Breakfast will be served in the home's assembly room at 8 a.m. and Van Dyk's presentation will begin at approximately 8:30 a.m.

The Job Haines Home sponsors educational seminars for area health care professionals twice each year.

For those health care professionals interested in attending this or future seminars, please contact Anita Merrill, assistant administrator, at 743-0792, for more details.

Space is limited and reservations are required.

A new treatment for corneal abrasions ends pain, worries

"I felt the most excruciating pain just after my puppy scratched my eye. I couldn't function with this abrasion on my cornea, and I was worried about missing work."

"It was a couple of days before Valentine's Day, one of the busiest days of the year for a florist, certainly not a time to call in sick!"

"I suffered the pain for three days and had to visit both the emergency room and a doctor's office before being referred to Dr. Jonathan Dikoff, an ophthalmologist at The Eye Care Center of New Jersey who specializes in corneal disease. I went to his office, hunched over in pain and unable to open my eye."

"Dr. Dikoff gave me the option of a traditional treatment of repatching the eye or a new technique of placing a bandage contact lens with a non-steroidal, anti-inflammatory drug on the cornea, in hope of relieving most of the discomfort."

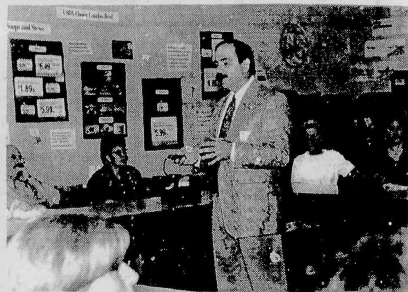

"I chose the bandage contact lens. What a difference! I walked out of the office a completely different person. That afternoon, I returned to work. A couple of days later, I was able to remove the bandage contact lens and return to my daily-wear contacts. This method of treatment not only relieved my suffering, but saved Valentine's Day for the shop and my customers."

Dr. Joseph A. Carluccio, M.D., co-director of the Headache and Pain Management Center at Mountainside Hospital, gives some pain pointers to King's Supermarket's corporate employees during a recent summer workshop on headache treatments. Speakers from the center regularly give talks to community organizations and businesses.

Headache sufferers helped by Mountainside experts

At least 18 million Americans experience migraine headaches each year, and for well over half of them, the pain of a migraine attack can be completely disabling. Headaches and chronic pain can totally disrupt lives, causing sufferers to miss work, lose appetite and forfeit sleep.

Help is on the way. The medical specialists at Mountainside Hospital's Headache and Pain Management Center have developed a special one-hour workshop to help individuals recognize different types of headaches, avoid common triggers and learn about the latest revolutionary treatments available for relieving head pain.

Conducted by a physician specialist, the workshop can be presented at meetings of local organizations or at company workshops.

"On the average, United States businesses lose 5.5 work days per year for each employee with head pain," said Dr. Joseph A. Carluccio, M.D., the center's co-director.

"Lost productivity is estimated at over $17 billion each year. Headaches and chronic pain are exacting a heavy toll on the quality of life of a huge number of Americans. When we go out and bring our information to headache and pain sufferers, we're helping them understand they are not alone, that these problems can impact all areas of their lives. We emphasize that help is readily available," he said.

The Headache and Pain Management Center is housed in private offices within Mountainside Hospital in Glen Ridge/Mountclair, so that all of a patient's diagnostic and treatment needs can be met in one central location, surrounded by the full medical services of the hospital.

It is co-directed by Dr. Carluccio, an internist who has specialized in headache and pain treatment for the last 12 years, and Dr. John Robinson, a board-certified neurologist in clinical neurophysiology.

The center's physicians, therapists, nurses and support staff care for each patient individually, drawing up a comprehensive, multidisciplinary treatment plan that is unique to his or her needs.

The staff is expert in treating all types of headaches (migraine, cluster, rebound, tension, post-traumatic and chronic) as well as chronic pain problems, such as low back pain, neuralgia, skeletal muscle pain, temporomandibular joint (TMJ) pain, and chronic pain syndromes. Treatment methods may include medication, exercise, behavior modification, dietary recommendations, biofeedback, acupuncture, physical and heat therapy, and relaxation and stress management techniques.

"At the center, we will be holding monthly headache support groups, which are sponsored by the National Headache Foundation," said Dr. Carluccio.

To schedule a presentation for your meeting or business site, call Mountainside Hospital's Corporate Health Services Department at 429-6882. To make an appointment to be evaluated at the Headache and Pain Management Center, call 429-6961.

Mountainside Hospital is part of the Atlantic Health System, one of New Jersey's largest hospital systems, which also includes Morristown Memorial and Overlook Hospital in Summit.

Safe at home

If your home was built prior to 1978, reading this article may be important to your family's health. If your present home was built after 1978, this article may be used as a reference regarding a future home sale or purchase. The reason that homes constructed prior to 1978 are considered "target residences" is that in 1977, lead-based paints were banned for use in private home construction.

RCS, Inc. has found that concerned homeowners are now asking, "What can I do to protect myself and my family from possible lead hazards in the home?" Whether you are the seller, buyer, or just want to be aware of an existing problem, there is only one way to answer all of your questions. A lead hazard assessment. This assessment will educate the homeowner as to any lead hazards that may be present in or around the home in a time-effective, cost-efficient manner. If lead is detected, a competent assessment company should provide inexpensive abatement and/or control procedures for the homeowner. Another frequently asked question is, "How do I know that some unethical company doing my assessment will give a false positive so that I will use them to abate the hazard?" Unlike other notable hazard abatement regulations, no company can be certified to conduct lead assessments and abatements. "These new lead-hazard regulations have been written to place the homeowner in a position of dictating what type of abatement activities are to be performed..." states J. Anthony Garrido, the President of RCS, Inc. He also adds, "There are logical cost-effective methods that the homeowner may do themselves to relieve or at least limit the hazard. The most important aspect of this regulation is to eliminate this hazard without the owners of the residences being too scared of the cost involved in detecting a hazard."

In the past several months, Regulatory Compliance Services, Inc. has received numerous urgent telephone calls from local homeowners regarding lead issues. It became increasingly apparent the lack of information being provided to the local homeowners regarding lead. The information has been either completely false information, half-truths or at the very least, entirely vague. In conjunction with the Board of Realtors, RCS, Inc. has been visiting homeowners and businesses to educate and offer assistance to local authorities in improving the surrounding environment. With the tremendous need for accurate information and solutions to lead problems, RCS, Inc. is offering neighborhood discounts for lead-assessments. We believe that this is the only way that the public will become educated regarding lead, while financially enabling homeowners to rectify any possible lead-hazard problems. For more information regarding lead-based paint or to schedule a lead-risk assessment, please contact RCS, Inc. at (201) 480-4RCS.

The Smile Center celebrates National Hygiene Month

In conjunction with the American Dental Hygiene Association, Dr. Harry Harsczark and Dr. Richard Ekstein are proud to announce their recognition of October as National Hygiene Month.

"Our Hygiene Department plays a vital role in maintaining the oral health of our patients," states Dr. Harsczark. "The hygienists provide our patients with the continuous care that is crucial in maintaining healthy teeth and gums. Most adults don't think much about their teeth beyond the twice-daily brushing and flossing and twice-yearly dental visits. That's too bad because there is quite a bit to be aware of when it comes to protecting the only set of teeth you are ever going to have."

Experienced hygienists are dedicated to not only providing professional and thorough cleanings, but also checking each and every patient for any stage of gum disease along with giving each patient personalized oral hygiene instruction. As with any disease, early detection is vital.

In commemoration of National Hygiene Month, The Smile Center is offering each and every new patient a complimentary complete periodontal evaluation by one of its skilled hygienists and a FREE dental care kit. Brochures and pamphlets will also be available describing gum disease — its prevention and cure.

For further information, please contact Diane Katz, registered dental hygienist, at 991-2111.

The Smile Center is located at 837 Kearny Ave., Kearny.

'Hands on Health'

Condition your body

By Robert Ruffalo, PT, DC, CCSF

Here it comes — another season. What will this fall bring? An abundant harvest, home baked apple pies, feasts fit for a king? Don't forget to exercise and get outdoors. We tend to settle in at home and become more sedentary. While outdoor activities were away, our bodies suffer the loss of exercise and activity. Conditioning your body for the change of weather will help chase away the ache and pains associated with a less active body.

Over the years, we tend to take body mechanics for granted. Learning safe body mechanics and conditioning ourselves for physical activities helps to prevent injuries. Each body part functions differently and is susceptible to different types of injuries. Strengthening exercises designed to prepare the body for overuse will often prevent most sprains and strains.

Below are some suggestions on how to strengthen isolated parts of your body. Please keep in mind that you must be in good physical health before attempting to begin the body-conditioning process. You may want to consult with your physician before starting an exercise program.

The back, our main support for the entire body, needs constant conditioning and care. By understanding how your back works, and how to keep it strong, flexible, and balanced, you can condition your back to support you during almost all activities. If you're overweight or out of shape, your chances of back injury increase. Simple relaxing exercises, such as wall slides, press-ups and partial sit-ups, give your back the support it needs.

The knee is prone to traumatic injuries when involved in contact sports such as football, soccer or even raking leaves. Due to high-velocity position changes and overuse from repetitive motion, ligaments and joints often suffer instability. This increases the amount of stress sustained by muscles surrounding the knee, causing injury. Wall slides, placing emphasis on strengthening the muscles around the knee, will help prepare the knee against overuse injuries.

The shoulder is the most mobile joint of the body. Its great freedom of motion makes it inherently susceptible to injury. "Throwing" athletes like football players, as well as "household" athletes (engaging in activities such as vacuuming, lifting packages, and washing windows), are subject to injury of the rotator cuff. "Contact" athletes, on the other hand, are prone to shoulder dislocation. Push-ups and weight lifting are a great exercise for strengthening shoulder muscles. Proper instruction is needed so further injury does not occur.

The hip provides the base support for walking. Most hip injuries are a result of direct impact on the area such as a fall or sudden twist. The joints in your hips, knees and ankles are flexible and have a wide range of motion. Hip rolls, done while laying on your back, can help strengthen the hip joint and surrounding ligaments.

Finally, the foot and ankles, hands and wrists, should not be overlooked as integral parts of the body. Range of motion is key when participating in all types of activities. Grip strengthening exercises and weight bearing exercises help to condition as well as provide endurance in the wrists and ankles. Protection for these areas of the body should be considered with proper equipment also.

Regardless of the body part, conditioning has its merits. Before engaging in his annual fall cleanup, my patient, Lou, always remembers the years when he didn't prepare himself. Painful joints, an aching back, and sore muscles are no longer part of his routine since he began conditioning.

"Although I don't relish the dropping of the leaves, I can enjoy the activity, knowing I will not suffer later," Dr. Ruffalo showed me how to condition myself before beginning the job," Lou commented.

As part of the "Hands on Health" campaign, A.T.E.A.M. Approach Chiropractic & Physical Therapy Center offers FREE information on safe conditioning techniques. Dr. Robert Ruffalo, a licensed Chiropractor and licensed Physical Therapist, also offers strengthening exercises in his office, located at 265 Broad St. in Bloomfield. To make an appointment or obtain FREE information, please call 429-3001.

Hospice seeks volunteers

Do you ever ask yourself, "How can I make a really big difference in this world? How can I make sure that I matter to the people within my community?"

The answer: Become a volunteer with the Center for Hospice Care, Inc., of Glen Ridge.

The Hospice, a division of The Center for Hospice Care, Inc., will teach you, free of charge, to assist terminally ill patients who wish to remain at home with their families. This could involve providing companionship, shopping, transportation, and/or giving the primary caregiver some time away from home. You can spend as little as one hour or as much as three hours with your patient.

Last year, this non-profit organization served 810 patients and their families in northern New Jersey. Its volunteers contributed almost 14,000 hours of service during that time.

To learn more about this volunteer opportunity, call 429-0300.

MEDICAL RESEARCH

Age spots? New research project may help

Some news for people bothered by "age" or "liver spots".

People who work outdoors or sunbathe without sun protection can develop various skin problems. The sun can cause large freckles called "age spots" or "liver spots". These flat, brown spots are medically referred to as "lentigines". They have nothing to do with the liver, they are caused by the sun and usually appear on the face, arms and hands. Most commercial "fade" creams will not make lentigines disappear.

Dr. Manuel R. Morman of Rutherford is conducting a research study on a medication being developed to lighten these areas of sun damage. Qualified participants receive the following at no charge: Physical exam and laboratory work; Study product; A stipend of $20 per visit for travel related expenses.

If you are at least 30 years of age (females must not be of child bearing potential) do not have a history of skin cancer and would like more information, please call the study coordinator at 460-7362.

CONCERN OVER ANTIBIOTIC USE

Once patients are prescribed antibiotics, they should finish the entire prescription in order to completely kill the offending bacteria. A recent survey of 1,000 adults by the American Lung Association, however, indicates that about half of the people who had received an antibiotic prescription failed to finish it. Most of those who stopped taking the medication said that they did so because they felt better. And more than a third of those polled saved the leftover antibiotic. What they may not realize is that improper use of antibiotics merely adds to the increasing problem of drug-resistant infections. Even though a patient may feel better, failing to follow the entire course of antibiotic treatment allows the hardest bacteria to survive and multiply to possibly create the future need of a more powerful antibiotic. As for those who take leftovers, it may not be the right drug to fight the current infection — allowing the bacteria to multiply while treatment is delayed.

If you have any questions concerning the use of an antibiotic, call to our pharmacist at RICE-MORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Avenue (759-1968, 759-1956) — Your Doctor Knows Us. Your Doctor Trusts Us. We carry convenient oral, injectable, and topical antibiotics. Also, we carry a full line of oral and topical antibiotics including walkers, wheelchairs, crutches, and canes. Baby needs, cameras, and film are also available. Open: 9am-5pm daily, 9am-5pm Sunday.

HINT: Nearly 60 percent of those surveyed in the poll mentioned above incorrectly believed that an antibiotic would be effective in fighting a viral infection such as a cold or the flu.

Jean Ascoli

Jean Ascoli, 79, of Nutley died Sept. 16 in Clara Maass Medical Center, Belleville.

A Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. today in Holy Family Church, Nutley. The funeral will be from the S.W. Brown & Son Funeral Home, Nutley.

Mrs. Ascoli was born in Newark and lived in Belleville before moving to Nutley 20 years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Rose D'Amato and Louise Ephraim; three grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Healing Mass set at church

There will be a Healing Mass at St. Peter's Church in Belleville on Saturday, Sept. 21 at 12 noon.

A Healing Mass is a Eucharistic celebration that has a greater emphasis on its healing aspect.

The celebrant will be Rev. John Campoli, who has conducted healing masses in the United States, Europe and the Middle East.

Following the Mass there will be an opportunity for individual prayer. During this prayer time, the priest will lay hands on those who come forward asking God to touch them with His healing in mind, body and spirit. Rev. Campoli will explain the difference between a healing and a cure, and he will make it clear that a true healing takes place when one is able to surrender to the will of God.

Books, audio and video tapes on healing will be available for purchase after Mass.

Everyone is welcome to attend, and for further information you can call 751-2002.

St. Peter's Church is located at 155 William St., Belleville.

4th Annual Bloomfield Harvest Fest 1996

Sunday 9/22 12am-6pm
(rain or shine)

A Multi Cultural Celebration
Bloomfield Center — On Broad Street — On The Green

• Ethnic Dancers • Clowns
• Country & Western Music
• Childrens Rides • Crafts • Ponies
• Food Food & More Food!!

Harvest Fest '96: Buggy races, La Grande Macarena

Antique cars, baby buggy races for adults and "La Grande Macarena," featuring the metropolitan area's hottest dance craze, will be among highlights of the fourth annual Bloomfield Harvest Fest on Saturday, Sept. 21, and Sunday, Sept. 22, in downtown Bloomfield.

More than 50,000 people attended last year's fest, which takes place annually on Broad Street between Bloomfield and Belleville avenues. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

As in past years, the free event will offer continuous live entertainment, ethnic food and dance, crafts and other goodies for sale, a health fair and children's activities, including a petting zoo.

Fest organizers, chaired by Debra J. Pross of Bloomfield, anticipate crowds of up to 75,000 this year.

"We've been planning since last October and expanding our activities that were popular at Harvest Fest '95," Pross said. "Visitors to this year's festival also will find a number of new attractions that, we hope, will be enjoyed by all. Harvest Fest is a family-oriented event, so we try to offer something for everyone."

Harvest Fest is a non-profit enterprise run by volunteers in cooperation with the Township of Bloomfield. The organizing committee welcomes newcomers, Pross said. Anyone interested in volunteering or wanting vendor information can call 680-4077.

New to the fest this year are:

• An antique car parade Saturday, which will showcase some of the area's premier older vehicles. Cars will be displayed on Park Place, off Liberty Street, after the parade for examination by visitors, with trophies awarded to the best entries.

• A pie-throwing booth. Municipal and school officials will be under fire — actually, whipped cream — in a sweet way for fest visitors to vent their frustrations.

• A "Hawaii for a Dollar" drawing on Sunday at 4 p.m. How about a round-trip, four-day vacation for two to Hawaii? Two airline tickets to anywhere in the contiguous United States? A large-screen TV? Three lucky fest visitors will win those prizes. Tickets will be sold at the fest. Winners need not be present.

• Baby buggy races. They must've been some beautiful babies... and they'll be racing for trophies Sunday afternoon, with wives and girlfriends pushing their guys down Broad Street to victory. Those who saw last year's tricycle races for adults at the fest won't want to miss this event.

• "La Grande Macarena." They'll be dancing in the streets when this event goes off at 4 p.m. on Sunday, with Miss Essex County and Miss New Jersey overseeing the festivities. Can't dance? No problem. Aficionados say the dance is learnable in two minutes or less.

Also in the entertainment lineup will be such popular local groups as the Mel-O-Chords, the Cider Mill Players, the Electric Alligator Ensemble and Higher Power.

For more information about Harvest Fest, call 680-4077.

Committee seeks classic cars for parade

The fourth annual Bloomfield Harvest Fest is looking for owners of classic cars and trucks to participate in an antique car show and parade.

Cars at least 20 years old are being sought; trucks can be newer. The show's goal is to have more than 100 vehicles attending the weekend festivities and participating in the parade, set for Saturday morning, Sept. 21.

Prizes will be awarded to the best vehicles in several categories, and a hospitality area with free refreshments for volunteers is planned.

Those interested in entering their cars and trucks in the parade can call the parade office at 429-2557.

Miss New Jersey
Janie Bell

Miss Essex County
Dawn Fantasia

Pageant winners to visit

Miss New Jersey and Miss Essex County will be on hand during Bloomfield Harvest Fest to oversee festivities and sign autographs.

Dawn Fantasia, Miss Essex County, will emcee the continuous live entertainment on the main stage Saturday, Sept. 21 and Sunday, Sept. 22.

An aspiring actress, she is a 1995 graduate of Davis and Elkins College in West Virginia, where she earned a degree in theater and minored in communications.

Fantasia also is interested in senior citizen nutrition and has worked with the Essex County Division on Aging to promote local Meals on Wheels program.

Miss New Jersey, Melanie Bell, a resident of Vernon, is a junior biology/chemistry/dance major with honors standing at Wilkes University in Pennsylvania. She has received awards for ballet, jazz and lyrical dancing.

A premier dancer for the Jazz Dance World Congress in Washington D.C., Bell earned a national dance championship as Miss Starpower 1995, soloed at the Garden State Arts Center Talent Expo, and is a member of the Northeast Ballet Company, with whom she toured in "The Nutcracker."

Her ultimate goal is to become a doctor of veterinary medicine.

Along with showcasing their individual talents at Harvest Fest Fantasia and Bell will assist with the adult baby buggy races and "La Grande Macarena" Sunday afternoon. Free photos of both will be available to fest goers for autographing.

Job Haines' Harvest Fest booth will promote safe Halloween

The Job Haines Home in Bloomfield is looking forward to this year's Bloomfield Harvest Fest celebration.

Again this year, the main attraction at the Job Haines' booth will be the drawing for names of area children to attend the Celebrate Safe Halloween party hosted by the residents and staff of the Job Haines Home.

"As part of the community, we feel the safety of the children of Bloomfield is important. This is especially true at Halloween," said Executive Director Jacqueline Kerr Harrold.

Last year, 25 area children were invited to trick-or-treat throughout the 1902 building and enjoy a party in the home's assembly room that included games, refreshments and fortune-telling.

"Last year's party was a big hit," says Anita Merrill, assistant administrator. "Residents and staff alike look forward to providing a safe, fun alternative for parents and children again this year."

Invitations to the party will be issued following a random drawing. The number of children invited to attend will be limited to 25.

To enter your child's name, please visit the Job Haines' booth at the upcoming Harvest Fest on Saturday, Sept. 21.

In keeping with the Celebrate Safe theme, free trick-or-treat bags with safety tips for children will be available at the Home's Harvest Fest booth. Children will also be able to view the plush, stuffed version of McGruff, the Crime Dog, to be given away the night of the party.

For more information, please call 743-0792.
