Change of government petitions filed

By Howard Klausner

4,000 signatures on their petitions last Friday.

The number needed to put the proposal on the November ballot is 3,596. The signatories have to be registered voters.

According to Jerry DelGuercio of the Change of Government Committee, which gathered the signatures, "Thousands of Township residents have expressed their disdain for the current form of government and strongly favor a return to Commission government."

The Township has had a Council-Manager form of government since July 1990.

Mayor Mario Drozd, who led the move for Council-Manager government in 1989, said he would not oppose the petitions.

"Let it get on the ballot. Let the public decide."

"In my opinion, the motive for a change can be summed up in one word - power. There are people who do not like the present form of government because they do not have power. They do not want to legislate. They want to administer."

Township Manager Ray Kimble had no comment on the petitions.

$3 million bond to build stadium

The Township Council was scheduled Tuesday to approve a $3 million bond issue for the upgrading of the athletic complex which includes the Municipal Stadium.

The funding will be implemented by $2 million in Green Acres funding which has been given to the township.

While no plans have been approved for the project, it reportedly includes the replacement of the present concrete stadium with a new structure.

A threatened hostage situation on Academy Street was prevented by police action, last Thursday, when a man was talked by police into leaving a house in which his three young children and a supply of weapons and ammunition were located.

Joseph Gallant, 39, of Bayville, who recently had lost his job, and was under court order to stay away from his wife and four children in Belleville, surrendered quietly to police after a telephone conversation with Captain Charles Hood.

Hood entered the white frame house at 144 Academy St. with Deputy Chief William Adelheim to effect the surrender.

In the house was a laundry bag containing two loaded handguns, a .25 caliber pistol, a .22 caliber pistol, 84 rounds of .22 hollow point bullets and 43 rounds of .25 caliber bullets.

Police said Mr. Gallant had a license to purchase weapons.

Neighbors said Mr. Gallant was seen walking in the neighborhood with three young children, carrying a white bag.

The incident began at 11:43 a.m. when police received a telephone call from Jose Gonzalez of 144 Academy St., saying that his life had been threatened by Mr. Gallant, who was coming to his house. Mr. Gonzalez reportedly is a relative of Mr. Gallant's estranged wife.

Police Officers Carmen Ceretto and Nick Tribble responded to the call and immediately set up a perimeter about the house.

The negotiations with Mr. Gallant lasted about an hour, before he agreed to surrender. He left the house wearing a bandana around his head. He removed the head-covering before being handcuffed.

Virtually the entire detective bureau joined uniformed officers at the scene. Township Manager Raymond Kimble was also there.

Mr. Gallant was held in $10,000 bail on order of Municipal Judge Frank Zinna, to face charges of illegal possession of hollow point bullets, possession of weapons and making terroristic threats.

Water main work

The Belleville Water Department will do repair work on the water system, starting at 9 p.m. on Aug. 27 and continuing through the night.

Sections of the Township will experience reduced water pressure and discolored water.

The department recommends that bottled water be consumed and no laundry be washed during the repairs.

For further information, call the Engineering Department at 450-3442.

The crime watch

Girl, 11, is molested in abandoned house

Police reported that an 11-year-old physically handicapped girl was taken to a boarded-up house at 26 Watchung Ave. on Aug. 5 and sexually assaulted.

The victim is a resident of the Stephen Crane Village in Newark. Her mother reported to Newark police that her daughter had been raped by two young men who had taken the child from Newark to the Belleville location.

Belleville Police Officers Joseph Zarrella and Anthony Tucci met Newark police at the location, an abandoned building.

The mother had reported the girl missing for several hours. When she turned up, the mother learned that she had been molested.

Because the child has difficulty speaking, it took a few hours to gain this information.

After talking with the child, police brought Ruben Gonzales, 19, of Newark to headquarters for questioning.

Police said they are also seeking a 16-year-old male juvenile for questioning.

Petition circulated for return

Parents want 2 guards back

By Howard Klausner

They moved Crossing Guard Alice Clarkson from her post at the corner of Union and Belleville Avenues after 14 years on the job.

Her partner at the busy intersection, Marge Gregor, was moved to another location after some seven years.

Both Mrs. Gregor and Mrs. Clarkson live within a block of the intersection they have guarded all these years, and both would like to be back at the same location.

Enthusiastically endorsing the idea is a group of neighborhood parents led by Dionne Schroeder and Jackie Cardona.

"The kids like them," Mrs. Schroeder said. "They look forward to seeing them, because they play with the kids. They talk with the kids."

"You get to know the kids," Mrs. Clarkson said. "Like the time a kid was missing. Actually, he had been picked up by a neighbor. But I knew he hadn't passed this spot. And when a kid was sick, I knew his mother wouldn't be home, so I had the police call a relative of his."

It takes years - and a devotion to duty - to provide that kind of service, the parents say.

Neither of the ladies have taken many sick days in their time on the job. "And when it is snowing, or the weather is bad, they are out there, on time, every day," Mrs. Schroeder said.

A letter signed by some 60 area residents stated:

"Please return our crossing guard back to the corner of Belleville and Union Avenues."

"The children in the neighborhood of School 8 have been devastated enough by the loss of their school principal, Mr. Arthur Pico. Marge and Alice are familiar with the children in this neighborhood along with most of the parents."

"We feel it is in the best interest of the children to have them back in their former posts."

Some children at the corner expressed their own support for the idea. They said they missed their crossing guards.

Aside from That

By Howard Klausner

Dominick Porcello, so far as we can gather, is an example of a disabled person who has fallen between the cracks of federal, state, local and private bureaucracy. There is no question that he is disabled. Now in his 20s, he has been cared for by his parents, Florence and Joseph, who is himself classified as disabled. Billions of dollars have been appropriated over the years to provide the disabled with assistance they need to maintain life, from medical care to special housing. Somehow, it has dribbled down to Dominick at the rate of $150 a month. His father receives another $150 a month in benefits. His mother brings home $300 a week as a nurse's aide at Clara Maass Medical Center. The combined income would be barely enough to support a three-member family in the best of health. Yet the Porcellos do not seem to qualify for the kind of assistance that one would think that any American citizen should receive, in view of the humanitarian legislation that has been enacted in the past century. . . . A problem may be that Joseph Porcello is not the easiest person in the world with whom to deal. Overwhelmed by the day-to-day responsibilities of looking after a son who is virtually helpless, he has flooded the mails with inquiries, protests, demands and pleas to the point of being dismissed as a crank. But no matter how annoying the elder Mr. Porcello may be, he is a crank with a valid cause. He needs care and his son needs care, and the care they receive - so far as we can determine - is inadequate. We do not think that institutionalizing the son is an answer. Aside from the devastating effect on the family, it is far less expensive to look after Dominick at home than in any group living center, or hospital. There are families with lesser problems that are receiving more help. At a time when the State of New Jersey is forking out a couple of hundred thousand dollars to meet the legal bills of a legislator accused of sexual harassment, there has to be something available for someone whose only sin is to be physically disabled. . . .

Civility in the courtroom is the goal of Kelly Connors, Esq., who practices law with veteran Belleville attorney Samuel A. DeGonge. "We have too many Rambo lawyers, and not enough respect for the practice of law," Ms. Connors said. She has been elected to the National Board of Trustees of the American Inns of Court, an organization of some 20,000 members which purports to provide a meeting ground for younger lawyers and older, more experienced, and presumably non-disbarred attorneys. According to Ms. Connors (Her married name is O'Shea - "But he's half Italian") the sharing of information is extremely helpful. "A lot has to do with ethics," she said. Ethical behavior of lawyers is something we all know about from watching television series and the Court Channel on television. Apparently, some of the courtroom behavior on fictional television has spilled over into the actual courts. Our own opinion is that if you show us a decorous criminal defense lawyer, you will show us 1) someone with a terrific investigator who has really provided the lawyer with an unbeatable case; 2) someone who has a long standing poker playing relationship with the judge's best friend, or 3) a loser. After all, you're dealing with jurors who want to be convinced you really think your client is innocent. The Inns of Court in this country is derived from the British institution of the same name, which has a more official status. You don't practice law in England if you are not properly affiliated with an Inn. And if the wigged judges do not like you, you don't practice law at all. British law is very prosecution oriented and does not tolerate vituperative lawyers who too often defeat the Crown. . . . Having stated that, we hasten to note that Ms. Connors received her law degree from Villanova University of Law in 1994 and that she won the Reimal Moot Court Competition in 1993, with Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia presiding, and won Best Brief honors at the 1993 National Moot Court Competition. Moot Court, of course, is a practice trial session in which issues are raised which would be far beyond the ability of a real court to adjudicate. The answer - stay out of litigation. . . .

Linda Welch is organizing a support group for victims of deadbeat parents. "In the year we have been divorced," she said of her former husband, "he has contributed nothing. Not medical expenses for his daughter. Not the payments the Court ordered him to make. Nothing." She said that not much help is found from the Essex County authorities who are supposed to collect the money owed her. "We get an order, and nothing happens," Ms. Welch - that's her maiden name - works five days a week as a secretary and two days a week as a waitress to support herself and her twin 13-year-old daughters. "The awful thing is that the children blame themselves for the divorce!" she said. Getting together with other families in the same situation - "It's not just men who are deadbeats" - might lead to some improvement in the system to obtain support payments, she said. "Just by talking to each other, we might come up with some action." As often happens, the laws are on the books to protect the families, but the actual implementation of those laws falls short of expectations. Fortunately, Ms. Welch owns her own home. "I inherited it from my family which has been three generations in Belleville." She can be contacted at (201) 844-1642. . . .

Support group formed

Parents and professionals in the Essex County area have combined efforts to form a local support group called Children and Adults with Attention Deficit Disorders (CH.A.D.D.) of Essex County.

This chapter of CH.A.D.D. will be one of more than 600 chapters of the national nonprofit group which offers monthly meeting to provide information and support for parents of children with attention deficit disorders and to the professionals that deal with these children.

Meetings will be held on the third Monday of each month, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., at Vincent United Methodist Church, 100 Vincent Place, Nutley.

Attention deficit disorder (ADD) affects 3 to 5 percent of the school-age population. Core symptoms of impulsivity, inattention and sometimes hyperactivity may present social, psychological and educational difficulties for the child.

For more information on CH.A.D.D. of Essex County, or attention deficit disorders, call 661-2997.

Belleville law firm hired by Bloomfield school board

The Bloomfield Board of Education has named the Belleville law firm of Gaccione, Pomaco and Beck as its new board attorneys, effective July 1.

Gaccione, Pomaco and Beck was chosen from a group of five major law firms that interviewed for the position, in an attempt by the Bloomfield board to curtail spiraling legal fees and replace the firm of Schwartz, Simon and Edelstein.

Frank Pomaco, a senior partner in the firm, who heads the educational law department at Gaccione, Pomaco and Beck, will serve as lead counsel to the Bloomfield board.

Pomaco has served as attorney to the Belleville Board of Education for the past 10 years and also represents the North Caldwell Board of Education.

Kelly Ann Guariglia, an associate with the firm, will assist in the legal representation of the Bloomfield board. Guariglia is a former high school teacher with a master's degree in education and concentrates her practice in the area of school law.

Gaccione, Pomaco and Beck was established by Robert A. Gaccione and Frank Pomaco in 1972 and is currently celebrating its 25th year in business.

Pomaco said he feels confident that his firm can provide top-quality and cost-effective legal representation with the parameters established by the board, which has put a cap on legal fees of $75,000.

Pomaco said his firm's long-term representation of the Belleville Board of Education gives it an advantage with the Bloomfield board, as the districts are similar in terms of size and education and community issues.

Friendship

Friendship is a precious bond,
So fragile, yet so strong.
It's nurtured by our deeds and thoughts,
And soothes when things go wrong.
Friendship is companionship,
The joy of sharing fun,
Of bridge games, golf and notes we send,
That keeps us on the run!
Friendship also shares the times
When sorrows come our way.
To have dear friends who really care
Makes "gray days" much less gray.
Friendship never can be owned.
Or chained, or bought, or sold.
It's a special freely-given gift
To treasure and to hold.
Friendship is a lovely gift,
A special gift from God,
To bring us happy memories
As life's long path we trod.

Two weeks ago, the Friday Senior Club held a very successful pizza party at the senior center. A great number of seniors enjoyed the pizza followed by dessert and Bingo after that. Thanks to Chairperson Elenor Hresko and her committee of Millie Falcone, Theresa Leonadis, Mary Melchione and Marion Maggio. President Nick Mauncelle told me that special thanks are due to Lucy and Carmen Urso, Ann Livecchi, Natalie Toman, Rose Ellino, Ciel Cohen, Edith Risoli and Antoinette Pettito for helping in the kitchen.

Don't forget the trip to Hampton Inn on Sept. 24 and 25. Chairperson of the Friday Seniors, Josephine Molinaro, asks that you call Elanore at 751-1731 and Gert at 759-6830.

Thank you dinner for Eileen Brown

The Belleville Kiwanis Club and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will host a Thank You dinner for Eileen Brown, secretary of the Chamber, on Sept. 18 at the Branch Brook Manor in Belleville.

Mrs. Brown is recuperating from a recent stroke.

Funds from the dinner will help defray Mrs. Brown's medical expenses, according to dinner co-chairpersons Grace Purdue and Bob Reiser.

Music will be provided by Mike Chieffo.

Information and tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Purdue at (201) 759-6059 and Mr. Reiser at (201) 759-4848.

home. Hey, Dan, Erica sends her best wishes.

Happy 80th birthday to Regina Nucci. Happy birthday, Antoinette Pettito.

Happy anniversary to Yvette Santora and her husband.

Congratulations to Francis Malizia, proprietor of White Oaks Pharmacy, on his marriage to the beautiful Donna Guenther. Lots of luck, Frank.

Congratulations to Bill and Phyllis Grainger who became great grandparents on Aug. 5 when Bradlie David Unger was born on his grandfather's birthday (Bill Grainger, Jr.).

On Aug. 6, my wife and I attended a piano concert at the Belleville Public Library given by a high school senior from Bloomfield High School. This was no ordinary senior; this young man is the talented grandson of Ida Hovsepian, treasurer and sunshine lady of the Friday Senior Citizen Club, Inc. And talented this young man was. He put on a display of classical music that was a delight to hear. He played selections of Mozart, Chopin, Debussy, Beethoven and also Gershwin. I know Ida is proud of this young man and we should express our thanks to Adrea Cohen for presenting this program. A special thanks to Marcia Miele and Dina Cetulo for sponsoring this concert and to the Friends of the Library who donated the piano. There were many people present from the senior clubs as well as Marge and Anthony Lordi from the Friends of the Library and Maria VanderZwan from the Clara Maass Women's Auxiliary. Needless to say, there was a standing room crowd that gave Mr. Bender a well-deserved standing ovation.

Last week's poem, Wedding Day, was written by Dorothea Behan. Thanks, Dorothea.

A special welcome to Father Peter Zaccardo who is the new pastor of Holy Family Church in Nutley. He is replacing Msgr. Louis Fimiani who was appointed pastor of Our Lady of the Blessed Sacrament of Roseland.

Civility in the courtroom is the goal of Kelly Connors, Esq., who practices law with veteran Belleville attorney Samuel A. DeGonge. "We have too many Rambo lawyers, and not enough respect for the practice of law," Ms. Connors said. She has been elected to the National Board of Trustees of the American Inns of Court, an organization of some 20,000 members which purports to provide a meeting ground for younger lawyers and older, more experienced, and presumably non-disbarred attorneys. According to Ms. Connors (Her married name is O'Shea - "But he's half Italian") the sharing of information is extremely helpful. "A lot has to do with ethics," she said. Ethical behavior of lawyers is something we all know about from watching television series and the Court Channel on television. Apparently, some of the courtroom behavior on fictional television has spilled over into the actual courts. Our own opinion is that if you show us a decorous criminal defense lawyer, you will show us 1) someone with a terrific investigator who has really provided the lawyer with an unbeatable case; 2) someone who has a long standing poker playing relationship with the judge's best friend, or 3) a loser. After all, you're dealing with jurors who want to be convinced you really think your client is innocent. The Inns of Court in this country is derived from the British institution of the same name, which has a more official status. You don't practice law in England if you are not properly affiliated with an Inn. And if the wigged judges do not like you, you don't practice law at all. British law is very prosecution oriented and does not tolerate vituperative lawyers who too often defeat the Crown. . . . Having stated that, we hasten to note that Ms. Connors received her law degree from Villanova University of Law in 1994 and that she won the Reimal Moot Court Competition in 1993, with Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia presiding, and won Best Brief honors at the 1993 National Moot Court Competition. Moot Court, of course, is a practice trial session in which issues are raised which would be far beyond the ability of a real court to adjudicate. The answer - stay out of litigation. . . .

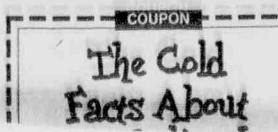

Linda Welch is organizing a support group for victims of deadbeat parents. "In the year we have been divorced," she said of her former husband, "he has contributed nothing. Not medical expenses for his daughter. Not the payments the Court ordered him to make. Nothing." She said that not much help is found from the Essex County authorities who are supposed to collect the money owed her. "We get an order, and nothing happens." Ms. Welch - that's her maiden name - works five days a week as a secretary and two days a week as a waitress to support herself and her twin 13-year-old daughters. "The awful thing is that the children blame themselves for the divorce!" she said. Getting together with other families in the same situation - "It's not just men who are deadbeats" - might lead to some improvement in the system to obtain support payments, she said. "Just by talking to each other, we might come up with some action." As often happens, the laws are on the books to protect the families, but the actual implementation of those laws falls short of expectations. Fortunately, Ms. Welch owns her own home. "I inherited it from my family which has been three generations in Belleville." She can be contacted at (201) 844-1642. . . .

Fifth Ward Councilman Harry Zilch thinks the United Parcel Service strike will bring conversation back into the home. "We have been too much a consumer society, eagerly awaiting the next shipment of gifts and purchases. As people realize that no package is ever coming, they will stop standing at the doorway and turn to their families for consolation. They may even find out what has happened to the three oldest kids, and catch up with the family news since September 1974." . . . Zilch's political supporters, the Kool Kumber Boys, are closing out the season at Cape May, where they attend Camp Whadda, devoted to the encouragement of Official Jersey as the national language. "Our project this year was road signs. They come up on you too sudden, particular you're doing 75. A mile before the exit, we want a set of signs, each saying, 'Hey, stupe, slow down!'," posted every 100 feet. The last three signs would be, 'Ready', 'Get set', 'Stupid, why diddenya turn!'"

Belleville law firm hired by Bloomfield school board

The Bloomfield Board of Education has named the Belleville law firm of Gaccione, Pomaco and Beck as its new board attorneys, effective July 1.

Gaccione, Pomaco and Beck was chosen from a group of five major law firms that interviewed for the position, in an attempt by the Bloomfield board to curtail spiraling legal fees and replace the firm of Schwartz, Simon and Edelstein.

Frank Pomaco, a senior partner in the firm, who heads the educational law department at Gaccione, Pomaco and Beck, will serve as lead counsel to the Bloomfield board.

Pomaco has served as attorney to the Belleville Board of Education for the past 10 years and also represents the North Caldwell Board of Education.

Kelly Ann Guariglia, an associate with the firm, will assist in the legal representation of the Bloomfield board. Guariglia is a former high school teacher with a master's degree in education and concentrates her practice in the area of school law.

Gaccione, Pomaco and Beck was established by Robert A. Gaccione and Frank Pomaco in 1972 and is currently celebrating its 25th year in business.

Pomaco said he feels confident that his firm can provide top-quality and cost-effective legal representation with the parameters established by the board, which has put a cap on legal fees of $75,000.

Pomaco said his firm's long-term representation of the Belleville Board of Education gives it an advantage with the Bloomfield board, as the districts are similar in terms of size and education and community issues.

Friendship

Friendship is a precious bond,
So fragile, yet so strong.
It's nurtured by our deeds and thoughts,
And soothes when things go wrong.
Friendship is companionship,
The joy of sharing fun,
Of bridge games, golf and notes we send,
That keeps us on the run!
Friendship also shares the times
When sorrows come our way.
To have dear friends who really care
Makes "gray days" much less gray.
Friendship never can be owned.
Or chained, or bought, or sold.
It's a special freely-given gift
To treasure and to hold.
Friendship is a lovely gift,
A special gift from God,
To bring us happy memories
As life's long path we trod.

Thank you dinner for Eileen Brown

The Belleville Kiwanis Club and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will host a Thank You dinner for Eileen Brown, secretary of the Chamber, on Sept. 18 at the Branch Brook Manor in Belleville.

Mrs. Brown is recuperating from a recent stroke.

Funds from the dinner will help defray Mrs. Brown's medical expenses, according to dinner co-chairpersons Grace Purdue and Bob Reiser.

Music will be provided by Mike Chieffo.

Information and tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Purdue at (201) 759-6059 and Mr. Reiser at (201) 759-4848.

Aside from That

By Howard Klausner

Dominick Porcello, so far as we can gather, is an example of a disabled person who has fallen between the cracks of federal, state, local and private bureaucracy. There is no question that he is disabled. Now in his 20s, he has been cared for by his parents, Florence and Joseph, who is himself classified as disabled. Billions of dollars have been appropriated over the years to provide the disabled with assistance they need to maintain life, from medical care to special housing. Somehow, it has dribbled down to Dominick at the rate of $150 a month. His father receives another $150 a month in benefits. His mother brings home $300 a week as a nurse's aide at Clara Maass Medical Center. The combined income would be barely enough to support a three-member family in the best of health. Yet the Porcellos do not seem to qualify for the kind of assistance that one would think that any American citizen should receive, in view of the humanitarian legislation that has been enacted in the past century. . . . A problem may be that Joseph Porcello is not the easiest person in the world with whom to deal. Overwhelmed by the day-to-day responsibilities of looking after a son who is virtually helpless, he has flooded the mails with inquiries, protests, demands and pleas to the point of being dismissed as a crank. But no matter how annoying the elder Mr. Porcello may be, he is a crank with a valid cause. He needs care and his son needs care, and the care they receive - so far as we can determine - is inadequate. We do not think that institutionalizing the son is an answer. Aside from the devastating effect on the family, it is far less expensive to look after Dominick at home than in any group living center, or hospital. There are families with lesser problems that are receiving more help. At a time when the State of New Jersey is forking out a couple of hundred thousand dollars to meet the legal bills of a legislator accused of sexual harassment, there has to be something available for someone whose only sin is to be physically disabled. . . .

Civility in the courtroom is the goal of Kelly Connors, Esq., who practices law with veteran Belleville attorney Samuel A. DeGonge. "We have too many Rambo lawyers, and not enough respect for the practice of law," Ms. Connors said. She has been elected to the National Board of Trustees of the American Inns of Court, an organization of some 20,000 members which purports to provide a meeting ground for younger lawyers and older, more experienced, and presumably non-disbarred attorneys. According to Ms. Connors (Her married name is O'Shea - "But he's half Italian") the sharing of information is extremely helpful. "A lot has to do with ethics," she said. Ethical behavior of lawyers is something we all know about from watching television series and the Court Channel on television. Apparently, some of the courtroom behavior on fictional television has spilled over into the actual courts. Our own opinion is that if you show us a decorous criminal defense lawyer, you will show us 1) someone with a terrific investigator who has really provided the lawyer with an unbeatable case; 2) someone who has a long standing poker playing relationship with the judge's best friend, or 3) a loser. After all, you're dealing with jurors who want to be convinced you really think your client is innocent. The Inns of Court in this country is derived from the British institution of the same name, which has a more official status. You don't practice law in England if you are not properly affiliated with an Inn. And if the wigged judges do not like you, you don't practice law at all. British law is very prosecution oriented and does not tolerate vituperative lawyers who too often defeat the Crown. . . . Having stated that, we hasten to note that Ms. Connors received her law degree from Villanova University of Law in 1994 and that she won the Reimal Moot Court Competition in 1993, with Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia presiding, and won Best Brief honors at the 1993 National Moot Court Competition. Moot Court, of course, is a practice trial session in which issues are raised which would be far beyond the ability of a real court to adjudicate. The answer - stay out of litigation. . . .

Linda Welch is organizing a support group for victims of deadbeat parents. "In the year we have been divorced," she said of her former husband, "he has contributed nothing. Not medical expenses for his daughter. Not the payments the Court ordered him to make. Nothing." She said that not much help is found from the Essex County authorities who are supposed to collect the money owed her. "We get an order, and nothing happens." Ms. Welch - that's her maiden name - works five days a week as a secretary and two days a week as a waitress to support herself and her twin 13-year-old daughters. "The awful thing is that the children blame themselves for the divorce!" she said. Getting together with other families in the same situation - "It's not just men who are deadbeats." - might lead to some improvement in the system to obtain support payments, she said. "Just by talking to each other, we might come up with some action." As often happens, the laws are on the books to protect the families, but the actual implementation of those laws falls short of expectations. Fortunately, Ms. Welch owns her own home. "I inherited it from my family which has been three generations in Belleville." She can be contacted at (201) 844-1642. . . . Fifth Ward Councilman Harry Zileh thinks the United Parcel Service strike will bring conversation back into the home. "We have been too much a consumer society, eagerly awaiting the next shipment of gifts and purchases. As people realize that no package is ever coming, they will stop standing at the doorway and turn to their families for consolation. They may even find out what has happened to the three oldest kids, and catch up with the family news since September 1974." . . . Zileh's political supporters, the Kool Kukumber Boys, are closing out the season at Cape May, where they attend Camp Whadda, devoted to the encouragement of Official Jersey as the national language. "Our project this year was road signs. They come up on you too sudden, particularly if you're doing 75. A mile before the exit, we want a series of signs, each saying, 'Hey, stupe, slow down!'," posted every 80 feet. The last three signs would be, 'Ready', 'Get set!' and 'Stupid, why diddenya turn!'"

Support group formed

Parents and professionals in the Essex County area have combined efforts to form a local support group called Children and Adults with Attention Deficit Disorders (CH.A.D.D.) of Essex County.

This chapter of CH.A.D.D. will be one of more than 600 chapters of the national nonprofit group which offers monthly meeting to provide information and support for parents of children with attention deficit disorders and to the professionals that deal with these children.

Meetings will be held on the third Monday of each month, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., at Vincent United Methodist Church, 100 Vincent Place, Nutley.

Attention deficit disorder (ADD) affects 3 to 5 percent of the school-age population. Core symptoms of impulsivity, inattention and sometimes hyperactivity may present social, psychological and educational difficulties for the child.

For more information on CH.A.D.D. of Essex County, or attention deficit disorders, call 661-2997.

OUR OPINION

My Daily Prayer

God, be my resting place
and my protection,
In hours of trouble,
defeat, and dejection...
May I never give way to self-pity and sorrow,
May I always be sure of a better tomorrow,
May I stand undaunted come what may
Secure in the knowledge
I have only to pray
And ask My Creator
and Father above
To keep me serene in His Grace and His love!

When you need a cop, you can appreciate it

Where is there a policeman when you need one? In Belleville, they are within minutes - or seconds - of any resident.

The day to day routine of any policeman involves public service. His - or her - uniformed presence is itself an assurance, and few are the motorists who speed up when they spot a police car.

Sadly, the commission of a crime is in itself a failure of law enforcement. It means that society has not acted in time to prevent a crime.

But crimes are prevented every day by the police, and there is no way to measure the crimes that do not occur, except in a general statistical report which shows that crime is dropping. At the moment, happily, it is.

All of which leads up to the fact that good police work prevented what could have been a major tragedy when a man with two loaded weapons seemed bent on holding three children as hostage, and who made threats to kill a member of his estranged wife's family.

Apparently, he was talked out of the idea by the police. The prompt appearance of uniformed officers at the scene may also have had a beneficial effect.

What we do know is that a dangerous situation was defused, and calm was restored to a frightened neighborhood.

It is something to think about when people start raising budgetary questions about police pay and the cost of public safety.

What price is too high to pay for public safety?

tomato, macaroni and green. From the grill, hot dogs, hamburgers, ribs, steaks and sausage. Oops, I almost forgot the chicken savoy and the corn on the cob. Mmm, mmm, good. I must commend Nicolina Caterers from Bloomfield for a job well done.

And to add to the ambience of the day we were serenaded by some lovely Italian music.

Stumpy, next time I run a party, I'll make sure that you plan the menu. You did an excellent job.

What I forgot to tell you is that the Legion has an adorable wishing well in their front yard. So why don't you mosey on down to Belmont Avenue and toss a coin into the well and maybe your dreams will come true. Hey, you never know.

To end on a sad note, we lost another fine lady in Silver Lake. Her name was Carmella (Millie) Sorice DiVincenzo of Heckel Street. Condolences to her husband Jerry, brother Angelo and family. Millie was a sweet, sweet woman, a member of the Silver Lake Civic Association, and an asset to Silver Lake. She will be missed. Rest in peace, Millie.

Remember, we love Silver Lake.

P.S. To my friend from the Belmont Tavern, Greg Grant - keep reading the column, 'cause it's coming...

Robert Browning; Chaplain Alex Picone; Judge Advocate Joseph Morano; Historian Jimmy Veneziano; and Sgt.-at-Arms Thomas DiStasi.

The commander was proud that Robert Browning from Post 299 was elected vice commander of the entire Essex County area giving Post 299 representation on the county level. Some honor, I would say.

Over the weekend, my husband Charlie and I were lucky enough to be invited by the commander to attend the annual picnic of Post 299. So we strolled down Belmont Avenue to enjoy the afternoon. A tent was set up to shade everyone from the sun. I understand that since Stumpy has been the commander, he changed the guest list to include members as well as family and friends, all compliments of Post 299. Listen up and I'll tell you the menu.

To start off, we had clams on the half-shell, steamer clams, all kinds of salads including potato,

Silver Lake Night Out a time for togetherness

To the editor,

Tuesday, Aug. 8, started out so great. We set up Salter Place for our Street Party - gathered a few people - walked to the Silver Lake Police Headquarters - saw a clown - walked around a few streets - got a free coupon for Rita's Lemon Ice - walked back to Salter Place where the party was under way.

Neighbors had cooked, baked or contributed money - and in some cases did both. We had lots to eat - the Bloomfield police came with all kinds of goodies - the new Belleville Mobile Precinct van - the fire engine and Goldie the Horse surrounded us.

There was so much activity going on and it was so great to see neighbors again sitting, talking and getting to know each other.

The rain came and we picked up the tables and continued either in the garage or on the front porch. It dampened our streets a little, but we did okay.

Thanks to all the neighbors - Belleville and Bloomfield - who went out of their way to be with us that night. We look forward too doing it again next year.

Angela Cuozzo-Zarro
Block Captain

• LAST Saturday, according to the Associated Press, 94 percent of Texas voters approved a billion dollar property tax cut for homeowners, believed to be the largest margin of victory for a constitutional amendment in Texas history. Governor George W. Bush celebrated the overwhelming victory with the observation, "This is definitely a step."

In unofficial results, 690,678 Texans, about 94 percent of those who cast ballots, voted in favor of the measure that triples the homestead exemption from $5,000 a year to $15,000. The tax break will save the average homeowner about $140 a year.

For two years, Bush has pushed for a cap to lower school property tax rates. The state has budgeted a billion dollars in the next two years to replace the money Texas schools will lose because of the higher exemption approved Saturday. Bush and lawmakers say they will continue to budget that money in the future. The hard pressed New Jersey real estate taxpayer will be willing to canonize the politician who pulls off this miracle for New Jersey taxpayers.

• YESTERDAY, August 13th, we joined in the celebration of International Left-handers Day. Life is getting easier for us as more vendors realize that we make up 13 percent of the population. Lefty notebooks have spirals on the right or the top; left-handed scissors are now available relieving the stress of using a right-biased tool. Lefty watches worn on the right wrist put the "set" buttons on the left-hand

During the Salem, Mass. witch trials of the 1600s, lefties were more likely to be found guilty than righties because people associated left-handedness with evil and believed the devil was a lefty.

For years, teachers and parents tied left-handers' hands behind their backs or rapped their knuckles until they learned to use their right hand like "normal" children.

It's still risky to be left-handed today. A 1996 study reported that lefty children needed emergency treatment for accidental injuries twice as often as right-handers, according to Dr. Stanley Coren, author of The Left-hander Syndrome. Boys are more likely than girls to be born left-handed. The major difference between right-handers and left-handers is how their brains work. Each side of our brain specializes in certain skills and controls the opposite side of the body. There is a belief among the professionals that lefties are right-brained - in other words, we're always in our right mind, and therefore, excel in right-brain fields like art, architecture and music. Creative stars like Paul McCartney, Keanu Reeves, Julia Roberts, Oprah Winfrey and Jerry Seinfeld are all lefties. Both President Bill Clinton and George Bush are southpaws. Many of baseball's best hitters including Ken Griffey, Jr. and Tony Gwynn bat left-handed.

Forcing me to write right-handed contributed to a speech impediment that had me stuttering for 15 years. It got to a point that I couldn't say two words without stuttering. Doctors in later life informed me that it was the result of forcing me to write righty when I was naturally left-handed with the right side of the brain dominating the left motor nerves.

• NUTLEY homeowners and business owners will soon have their properties subject to revaluation. The sooner the better. Let the chips fall where they may. If the past experience is any indication of what the future holds, business and industrial owners will pay less taxes and one-family homeowners will see an increase in taxes. No doubt, there will be exceptions - and plenty of appeals from real estate owners who feel their properties are worth less than appraised values.

Nutley real estate bills were received. The local tax went up 17 cents, the county 2 cents, the Nutley public schools 20 cents and a reserve for uncollected taxes 2 cents, totalling 41 cent increase over 1996. Property tax collection will amount to 62.5 percent of the total budget while 37.5 percent will come from other sources. The municipal budget may be examined at the Finance and Revenue Department Monday through Friday, 8 AM through 4:30 PM.

• THE Teamster strike against United Parcel Post has interrupted deliveries to individuals and commercial establishments that are critical to maintaining a healthy work force. In addition, there are other inconveniences visited upon innocent people and families. For instance, we ordered a toaster form Fortunoff three weeks ago, and it still hasn't arrived. A check with Fortunoff indicated it's one of the packages held up by the UPS strike. Our old toaster will jog along at 50 percent efficiency - not bad when you think of people who don't have bread.

Sandy Lane Nursery School provides warm haven for children

For over two decades, the Sandy Lane Nursery School has provided a warm and caring environment where pre-school children have enjoyed a positive educational experience.

The school is unique in that it offers day care for working parents from the hours of 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.; a full nursery school program with morning and afternoon sessions Monday through Friday; and an accredited kindergarten curriculum. The school accommodates children from 6 weeks to 6 years, with days and hours to meet individual needs.

Day care is continuous throughout the year to suit working parents who are seeking a learning environment for their children. Emphasis is placed on a well-balanced program that provides quality care in a loving and learning setting, while encouraging children to explore and experiment at their own pace and make new friends.

Activities are well planned and provide children with the opportunity to explore new worlds. Developmental programs in dance, gymnastics, art, music, language skills, computers, social development and special art projects are all part of the curriculum, thus providing an opportunity for young children to broaden their scope at an early age. Sandy Lane has long been known for its program excellence and strives to create "a child's world where playing is learning."

The facility is conveniently located on Mill Street in Belleville next to the Montgomery Presbyterian Church. The large spacious building and classrooms make it a cheerful atmosphere in which to learn and grow. Outdoor activities are included in the daily schedule with a fully-equipped playground. A nutritionally-balanced hot lunch program is available; all teachers are state-licensed and certified.

"As early childhood educators, we at Sandy Lane place emphasis on the whole child. Our school is a place where children learn to expand their world and grow physically, socially and intellectually in a quality care atmosphere," said school administrator Elaine Perna.

"We like to think of our school as a 'second home' for our students, a place where they are in a comfortable learning environment, developing a positive self-image and learning at an individual pace."

For information on day care or educational programs, call the Sandy Lane Nursery School at 751-6380.

Miss Roseanna's School of Dance to re-open for 49th season

Miss Roseanna's School of Dance will re-open Monday, Sept. 15, for its 49th season.

Thousands of students have received an excellent foundation at the Bloomfield School in all types of dance during these years.

The staff is proud of those who have become professional performers, teachers of dance, owners of dance studios, and the many who, because of their remembrance of the joy they experienced through their years as students, each year enroll their children and encourage their neighbors and friends to do likewise.

In registering your child, you can be assured of a quality education in all phases of dance.

All staff members are certified to teach through testing by one or more of the following organizations: Dance Masters of America, Dance Educators of America, Associated Dance Teachers of New Jersey and Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing. Miss Roseanna is the current president of Associated Dance Teachers of New Jersey.

Since dance is a performing art, the staff encourages the school's students to gain poise and self-confidence through performances.

Some students prefer to enter competitions where they have taken first and second places. Others fulfill this part of their training by performing in school plays and talent shows, nursing homes, Bloomfield Harvest Fest, Talent Time productions, Paper Mill Playhouse productions, Six Flags/Great Adventure productions, and half-time shows at Giants Stadium conducted by the American Lung Association to raise funds for "Camp Super kids," a camp for asthmatic children. The school also holds a yearly recital.

For a brochure or to register, call 338-8252 or 743-5030 or stop at the studio on Wednesday, Aug. 27, between the hours of 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.; Thursday, Aug. 28, between 9 a.m. and 12 noon; Tuesday, Sept. 9, between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.; or Wednesday, Sept. 10, between 9 a.m. and noon. Early registration is recommended, as class sizes are limited.

Miss Dianna would also like to announce the re-opening of her educational pre-school for its third season.

Classes are conducted in early childhood education for children ages 3 and 4. The sessions are 2 1/2 hours in length and are available four mornings per week for 4-year-olds and three afternoons a week for 3-year-olds.

Classes are conducted by state-certified teachers and specialty teachers with a class ratio of one teacher to eight students.

The state mandates that a pre-school must address the cognitive, social and emotional needs of every student.

Miss Dianna accomplishes this through free play, manipulatives, games, songs, circle time, calendar/current events, activity of the day, special projects/science experiments, learning stations and the most highly recommended educational computer games.

The curriculum emphasizes the basic skills but incorporates art, science, creative movement and music.

For more information, a brochure or to visit the school, call 743-4250 and leave your name, address and phone number.

Both Miss Roseanna's School of Dance and Miss Dianna's Nursery School are located at 403 Broad St., Bloomfield.

FUN TIME -- Patrick Fallon, left, of Montclair enjoys outdoor playtime with teacher Susan Rubinaccio of Bloomfield at the recently concluded Watchung Cooperative Preschool's summer program. Each week for four weeks, classes in the summer program featured indoor and outdoor activities, including crafts, games, singing and sand and water play, all led by certified teachers. Located at 71 Mount Hebron Road, Upper Montclair, the Watchung Cooperative Preschool will be offering programs for children ages 2 1/2 through 5 for the school year beginning in the fall. For more information, call 783-4535.

The PONSI evaluation team poses with RETS Institute staff during their visit to the school. The PONSI team has recommended RETS Institute's electronics curriculum for college credit.

RETS courses recommended for college credit

RETS Institute, a private post-secondary school which trains electronics and computer technicians, recently took another step as one of the leading career colleges in the tri-state area. The school's electronics curriculum was reviewed by a team of college department heads and professors with the purpose of recommending RETS credits for transfer to college credits.

The team found that all courses met or exceeded their expectations, and will make a formal recommendation to the American Council on Education to accept RETS Institute credits. This will allow RETS students the opportunity to transfer their credits to over 1,500 two- and four-year colleges across the nation.

Team leader Dr. James Rattigan, PONSI director of the Thomas Edison State College was quite impressed with the staff and the school's commitment to student education. The team has recommended that over 50 credits be transferrable from RETS's Electronic Engineering Technology Program. The actual number of credits that a college will accept is, of course, entirely up to that school. However, with the recommendation of ACE, a student can be assured that their electronics training is now just the first step in their overall career development.

Thomas M. Eastwick, president of Eastwick Colleges, Inc., the corporate entity that owns and operated RETS Institute stated, "I'm so proud of this accomplishment. Our students no longer have to choose between a career or a degree, they can now opt for both!"

Another interesting aspect of the review is that students who graduated any time in the last ten years will also qualify for this credit approval process.

"Excellent placement rates, high starting salaries, small classes and now the opportunity for a future degree - our graduates will have all their bases covered," said Martin Klangasky, director of the school. "Our educational delivery system has always been quite strong, and the ACE approval recognizes our education department's hard work and dedication," he added.

RETS Institute is located in Nutley, and is celebrating its 40th anniversary in the state. It specializes in electronics technology, computer repair, and secretarial and business operations training in nine to 18 month programs. For more information, call 661-0600.

A T.E.A.M. Approach

Chiropractic and Physical Therapy Center

By Virginia Schmidt

As a licensed physical therapist and chiropractic physician at A T.E.A.M. Approach Chiropractic and Physical Therapy Center in Bloomfield, Dr. Robert Ruffalo's primary objective is to help his patients improve their physical well-being. Since starting his practice in 1988, he has enlarged the physical space of his office by 600 square feet and provided new equipment to expand the range of services offered.

Dr. Ruffalo believes in the future of the Bloomfield business community and is committed to helping people feel better.

"Bloomfield is a great town with a lot of opportunities. I feel honored to have my practice and home in Bloomfield," he said. Born and raised in Bloomfield, Dr. Ruffalo attended Bloomfield High School where he was involved with the wrestling team. He was treated by a local chiropractic physician after suffering a wrestling injury and became interested in the field of physical therapy and chiropractic care. Graduating from Bloomfield High School in 1980, he continued his education at Kean College, the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey and New York Chiropractic College, from which he graduated summa cum laude and valedictorian.

"I feel strongly about the benefits and the future of health care. I call my treatment approach 'manual therapy', a technique which helps patients regain their function through the use of my hands," commented Dr. Ruffalo.

"My goal is to help my patients recover from pain and injury as quickly as possible. Exercise is the key needed to unlock the door to success," exclaimed Dr. Ruffalo, and that is what A T.E.A.M. Approach offers - therapeutic exercise and manual therapy.

Dr. Ruffalo is involved in several local organizations. He served as a Lions Club officer for two years. As vice-president, he helped organize "White Cane Week," dedicated to the blind. As a member of the National Federation for the Blind, he continues to raise donations throughout the year.

Dr. Ruffalo's involvement is inspired by his personal experience with family members who are blind. "We were raised with motivation to achieve high goals and to inspire others in the process. When you challenge yourself, you challenge others along with you," he reflected.

Currently, Dr. Ruffalo gives lectures to local organizations on stress management. He is co-founder of Rehabilitation Education, Inc., a national seminar organization which offers lectures to other physical therapists, physicians and chiropractors. In the past, he offered classes on stress management at the Bloomfield Adult School.

"I enjoy treating people who work and live in our community - township employees, policemen, firemen, other local residents and business associates who have become my patients."

A T.E.A.M. Approach Chiropractic and Physical Therapy Center is a board member of the Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce.

'Butterfly' soars

By Robert Oakes

Review

As the sun set behind the pines that line Brookdale Park on Friday night in Bloomfield, the lights went up on the New York Grand Opera Company's presentation of "Madame Butterfly."

The performance, part of the Essex County Parks and Recreation Department's summer concert series, drew an estimated 10,000 music enthusiasts, who blanketed the lawn, listening and picnicing.

The opera company, led by conductor and director Vincent La Selva, brought its complete orchestra, chorus and soloists as well as a full complement of colorful costumes and backdrops.

The role of Cio-Cio San was masterfully performed by soprano Christina Andreou, whose deliberate dance-like movements and tireless emotive energy enabled her to portray, quite movingly, the fated Japanese Geisha girl.

Tenor Gerard Powers, who sang the role of Lt. Pinkerton, was robust and powerful, and at times, his rich voice reached some very shattering heights.

Raemon Martin, baritone, kept the smooth, deep bottom tones strongly in place as he portrayed the role of Sharpless, the American Consul.

Mezzo-soprano Leonore Lanzillotti appeared as Suzuki, 20-year company member William Brooke, tenor, portrayed Goro; bass Michael Hajek sang The Bonze, Butterfly's menacing uncle; the wealthy Prince Yamadori was performed by bass-baritone Nathan Bahny; and soprano Mary Zahne, a native of Clifton, made her professional debut in the role of Kate Pinkerton.

The basic yet very tasteful set, designed by Massimo Dante, portrayed a pastoral scene with blossoming trees, a misty mountain in the distance and a sliding paper door with lanterns onstage.

Roberto Stivanello designed the lights, which were often very functional. However, a moment of quiet beauty was achieved at the end of the second act when a pale bluish glow set Cio-Cio San and Suzuki in still silhouette upstage.

Costume designer Anthony Stivanello created some very striking costumes, particularly the colorful and intricately designed robes with matching umbrellas worn by the chorus.

The evening seemed to run smoothly, with only some slight sound trouble during the first act. Occasionally, a passing bird would join the chorus and at times, the chirps of insects in the nearby trees seemed to keep perfect time.

La Selva, a resident of Montclair and recipient of many cultural honors, is widely known for bringing free opera to area parks.

He had a hand in nearly every aspect of Friday's production, from casting to stage direction to production, in an effort to provide the audience with a moving musical experience.

The appreciative applause that resounded around the park grounds, as the cast and orchestra took their bows, indicated a successful effort.

Summer concert series continuing at parks

The Essex County Department of Parks and Recreation is continuing its summer concert series for 1997.

The free concerts will all start at 7:30 p.m.

The remaining concerts, their dates and their locations are:

• Friday, Aug. 15 -- "Jazz Under the Stars" featuring Alex Bugnon, Brookdale Park.

• Friday, Aug. 22 -- The Jazz Knights of the United States Military Academy, Brookdale Park.

• Monday, Aug. 25 -- The Count Basie Orchestra, Verona Park.

• Friday, Aug. 29 -- The Garden State Concert Band, Brookdale Park.

• Friday, Sept. 5 -- Nostalgia night featuring Johnny Maestro and the Brooklyn Bridge, Brookdale Park.

Although the concerts are free, a $2 on-site parking donation is suggested.

For more information, call 268-3500.

HOROSCOPES

August 17-23

ARIES - March 21/April 20

Dream big this week, Aries. When you're determined, nothing can stand in your way. Go for that new project at work; superiors know that you're capable of doing the job well. Loved ones need your help this week. Don't let them down. Cancer and Virgo play important roles later in the week.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

While you're usually not a partygoer, you get the urge this week. You're tired of staying home. Instead, you want to go out and have some fun with your friends. Enjoy yourself, but be cautious. Getting carried away will make you look foolish. You meet an interesting person while you're out.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

You're on track this week, Gemini. Work goes well, and you make headway when it comes to impressing the higher-ups. As for your love life, romance is in the air. A friend of a friend takes an interest in you and asks you out. Go ahead — take a chance. It will be worth your while.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

You're in the spotlight at work early in the week. An idea you have saves the company a lot of money and makes you a hero. Enjoy it! Your personal life isn't quite as rosy. You have a spat with your significant other. Don't worry. The relationship gets back to normal by the end of the week. Capricorn plays a role.

LEO - July 23/August 23

You've got control, Leo. Whether at work or at play, people listen to you and do what you say. While you can enjoy it, don't go overboard. Other people's opinions are important too. Let your friends and co-workers have a say in what happens. An interesting stranger keeps turning up wherever you go. Pisces plays an important role.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

There's a lot going on this week, so keep things in order. It's the only way you'll get through this hectic week. Superiors at work are very demanding. Do the best you can. As for your family, loved ones need your input into a social event. Don't let them take the brunt of your stressed-out mood.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't be indecisive during the middle of the week, Libra. You need to make a choice and stick to it, especially when it comes to work. Don't let office arguments distract you from your objective. As for your love life, you're in for a great time this weekend. That special someone has a romantic evening planned.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

The truth is what's needed at work. Don't lie to cover up for a co-worker; it only will backfire on you. You need to be responsible and do what's best for the company. An old flame calls you from out of the blue. Before you make any commitments, think about the past. Do you want history to repeat itself?

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

A slip of the tongue can cause a lot of confusion with loved ones this week, Sagittarius. Be careful of what you say — you may end up regretting it. As for that special someone, now is the time to make your move. He or she is really interested in you.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

While you're not one to take orders, you're going to have to this week. A problem at work puts the higher-ups on edge, and you take the brunt of their nervousness. Yet, don't get upset; it's nothing personal. Things get back to normal next week. A close friend tells you a secret. Keep his or her confidence.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Your tranquil nature serves you well later in the week, Aquarius. There's a problem at home that gets loved ones upset. You help everyone relax and look at the situation rationally. Someone whom you've been dating wants to intensify the relationship. Don't be nervous.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

It's an easy week for you when it comes to work. You complete a project on time and make progress on a new venture. You really impress your manager. However, your personal life gives you a little stress. A relationship that you thought was going well slows down. Don't get discouraged.

Early baseball memories

In the last issue, I began a column of baseball memories, a subject I would like to continue for the rest of August.

I started with the 1968 St. Louis Cardinals, the first team I remember watching. I actually became a Cardinals fan in 1967, when as a nine year old, I watched them play the Boston Red Sox in the World Series and took an instant liking to their uniforms.

In '68, I followed the Cardinals in the standings in the Newark Evening News, but seeing the team play, even on television back then, wasn't easy. You either had to wait until the Mets and Cardinals played, so Channel 9 would carry the game, or hope that the NBC Game of the Week would be a Cardinals game. Because they were the defending World Series champs in '68, I remember NBC covering a few of the games.

So, with my interest in baseball at a fever pitch at the age of 9 1/2, I tried to watch the game as much as possible, even if it meant the Cardinals wouldn't be the focus. My second favorite team back then were the Yankees. In 1968, they weren't that great a team. They finished .500 for manager Ralph Houk and it would be the last season for a first baseman named Mickey Mantle.

My first trip to Yankee Stadium came in May of 1968. It was Cap Day at the Stadium and the Yanks were playing the Baltimore Orioles. Remember, this was the "Pre-George" days in the Bronx. The Orioles were still a year away from greatness, so this game was nothing more than a Saturday afternoon at the ball park.

I remember the starting pitchers that day were Tom Phoebus for Baltimore and Mel Stottlemyre for New York. The Orioles won the game 5-4, but what I remember most was Bill Robinson, the right fielder, robbing an Oriole batter (I think it was Mark Bellanger) of a homer. In the old Yankee Stadium, the right field wall was pretty low, so a player could easily fall into the stands trying to make a catch.

Robinson made the catch and fell into the stands, which set off a loud ovation from the fans.

Looking back on that game today, it was special seeing Mantle play, even if it was at the end of his career.

I watched the Yankees play regularly on WPIX-Channel 11 during the '68 season. Of course, Phil Rizzutto did the broadcasts then, along with Frank Messer, who I always felt was one of the best baseball announcers I ever heard.

The Yanks were in transition back in the late 60's. The teams that dominated in the early to mid 60's had gotten old and the great teams of the mid to late 70's had not yet gotten off the ground.

This team had players like Horace Clarke, Jerry Kenney, Tom Tresh, Jake Gibbs, Fritz Peterson, Bill Burbach and Steve Hamilton. Hamilton was famous for his floppy-floater pitch, which he would literally lob over the plate and make many big-time major league hitters swing and miss at.

If I was nine years in 1976, I would remember my first Yankees team as the one that beat the Royals on a Chris Chambliss homer. However, my ninth year came in the late 60's, so the Yankees of 1968 became a special team for me, even if the record and history books deemed this team no better than .500 and 22 games out of first place.

What else did I remember from that '68 season? The Orioles became my second favorite team, with players like Bellanger, Brooks Robinson, Frank Robinson, Dave McNally, Boog Powell, Jim Palmer, Andy Etchebarren, Elrod Hendricks, Paul Blair and Don Buford.

(I was probably the only person in New Jersey who rooted for the Orioles the following year in the 1969 World Series against the Mets.)

The Washington Senators had Frank Howard and the Minnesota Twins were led by Harmon Killebrew.

The Tigers won the A.L. pennant, then beat the Cardinals in the World Series with Mickey Lolich leading the way.

Next week, a look at more memories of baseball in the 70's.

Once again, if anyone would like to tell of their early baseball memories, or of a favorite game or team, please call me at the newspaper.

Summer going by quickly

I know the kids don't want to hear this, but we're half way through August and school starts earlier than normal this year because Labor Day is on September 1. The varsity sports in the fall will be starting practice soon and we'll have coverage of the football team as it begins a new era with Patrick Dowling as the new head coach.

Over the next few weeks, we'll wrap up summer with coverage of teams that did well in the Belleville Minor League and some future Belleville High School softball stars who had excellent summers.

We'll also have coverage of the Belleville Junior Legion baseball team, which was coached by Rocco Constantino. And the Belleville Twins just completed their season in the Essex County Baseball League and we'll have a wrap up of their season coming up soon.

Another summer swimming season comes to a close

The LeTerrace Swim Club swim team wrapped up its summer season with the team's annual Blue and White fun meet on July 31. The swimmers of the Nutley based team also received their ribbons and other awards accumulated throughout the summer. Here is a look at some of the scenes from the Blue and White meet.

Twins playing hard in Metropolitan League

Dan Pena of Belleville Twins holds third base bag to show he stole base during game with Secaucus Indians last Sunday in Met League action. Pena eventually scored a run and Belleville won the game, 4-1, earning a split in the double header. Twins will wrap up season this Saturday at home against Moonachie.

Dan Pena slides hard into second base in an attempt to break up double play. Pena, who played his high school ball at Bloomfield High and is a college player at R.D.U., has been an effective center fielder and lead off hitter for the Twins.

Joe Chorba shows good form in delivering pitch last Sunday in second game of twin bill with Secaucus. Chorba pitched a complete game, holding a tough Indians team to one run. Prior to that win, he pitched a shutout against powerful Saddle Brook. Chorba and his teammates will wrap up season this Saturday at home against Moonachie.

Sylvestro's wins A.L. championship

Sylvestro's Garden Market captured the American League crown in Belleville Little League action, putting together a 12-0 record.

Coached by Carmen Michelle, Steve Peterson and Jim Healy, this team worked together every day, using discipline and hard work to compile the perfect regular season mark.

The pitching staff was led by Jeff Cruise, who put together a 6-0 mark and tied a little league record with 17 strike outs. Joey Healy was also 6-0 and Frank Tarraglia compiled a 2-0 record. Mike Bruno also played a key role on the pitching staff.

At the plate, Jeff Cruise crushed nine homers. Marco Erosa had three and Mike Bruno hit two out of the park.

"I am proud to have sponsored this group of boys who worked hard all season and had the whole team come into my store to tell me so," said sponsor Vito Sylvestro.

Garden Market made it to the World Series, losing a tough series to Optimist Club, 2 games to 1.

NEWS FOR ASTHMA SUFFERERS

People who use high doses of glucocorticoids to treat cases of chronic asthma should be especially vigilant about getting regular glaucoma screenings. That is the conclusion of a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association which shows a 44 percent higher risk of glaucoma among elderly people who used high doses of beclomethasone (or other inhaled steroids) daily for three or more months. These medications are thought to increase fluid pressure within the eye, which is the hallmark of glaucoma. At the same time, researchers stopped short of recommending that patients should discontinue use of the drugs. The dangers of ceasing to use them are greater than the risk of glaucoma.

If you have any questions about a particular drug you are using, take the time to talk to your pharmacist at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Avenue (759-1968, 759-1956). We have been serving the Belleville area for many years and are well known for our friendly, attentive service. Hours: 9am-10pm daily, 9am-5pm Sundays.

HINT: Glaucoma, which can lead to blindness, can usually be managed with the use of eyedrop medications.

WHY TITLE INSURANCE?

Problem Encroachment

(NAPS)—When buying a home, what you acquire is title to the property—ownership which may be limited by the rights and claims of others.

The American Land Title Association cited an example where a real estate buyer consulted a land survey showing that all structures were well within the boundaries of the property. A subsequent survey made immediately before the purchase confirmed the boundaries and the transaction was completed.

All seemed in order until the adjoining real estate was placed on the market at a later date. The survey conducted at that time revealed a garage and driveway thought to have been acquired in the original transaction actually were located on the neighboring land.

The unsuspecting owner in the original transaction was faced with the necessity of purchasing a strip of land wide enough to bring the garage and driveway within the boundaries as initially intended.

If owner's title insurance with survey coverage had been acquired to protect the buyer at the time of initial purchase, ALTA pointed out that the undiscovered encroachment problem would have been that of the title insurer. A title policy is based on a thorough search of public records so that hazards of title can be located and cleared up prior to the closing whenever possible.

Title insurance also protects against problems including those even the most exhaustive search will not reveal.

ALTA reminded that owner's title insurance—not the lender's title insurance required by mortgage lenders—is necessary to fully protect a home buyer. Lender's title insurance, which usually is required by the mortgage lender, serves as protection only for the lending institution.

ALTA is the national association of the abstracting and title insurance industry. Members of the organization search, review and insure land titles to protect real estate investors including home buyers and mortgage lenders.

For free information on owner's title insurance, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Owner's Title Insurance, American Land Title Association, Suite 705, 1828 L Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20036. Questions may be directed to an ALTA member listed in the yellow pages.

Real estate market changing

For the past few years, it could take up to a year or more to sell your house in Bloomfield, Belleville, Nutley or Glen Ridge, with prices on the decline.

At the end of the first quarter of 1996 in Belleville, Nutley, Bloomfield and Glen Ridge, there were approximately 1,200 homes for sale. That figure in 1997 first quarter was down to approximately 825, a reduction of about 30 percent.

The net result is that real estate values in this area may be finally hitting bottom.

In the early 1990s, homeowners held back on selling their homes, hoping that the prices would stop dropping and the prices of the 1980s would return. In due time, these people had to sell, and the result was an oversupply of homes in the marketplace.

With property taxes under control, and low interest rates, more people can now afford to buy a home in this area. If homeowners were ever considering making a move, now is the time to put your home on the market with a local realtor.

"We have many more buyers now than ever before," said Wayne K. Thomas of Century 21 in Bloomfield.

"We must all work hard to satisfy their needs. Please list your home now instead of later. We never know when interest rates will begin to climb again," Thomas said.

For more information, call Century 21 Wayne K. Thomas in Bloomfield at 429-7400.
