An outpouring of welcome St. Peter's installs Rev. Girone

By Howard Klausner

The Most Reverend Nicholas A. Di Marzio, Auxiliary Bishop of Essex County, presided Sunday at the formal installation of the Rev. Joseph D. Girone as Pastor of St. Peter's R.C. Church.

An overflow crowd of parishioners and well-wishers, many of them friends from previous parishes in which Rev. Girone served, filled the Church during the Solemn Mass of Installation.

The ceremonial robes of the clergy and the blue, red and white uniforms of the Honor Guard of the Knights of Columbus added color to the occasion.

Much of the ceremony was bilingual, in deference to Rev. Girone's service in Hispanic parishes, and to the growing Hispanic community in his new parish.

Present were clergy from other parishes, and among the celebrants were Rev. Girone's parents, Anna and Louis Girone, who will soon be marking the 56th anniversary of their wedding.

The Mass was followed by a luncheon at St. Peter's School, attended by hundreds of parishioners.

Sunny skies marked the event, as Rev. Girone greeted virtually everyone in attendance personally.

He arrived in Belleville in June, and it was decided to hold the installation at a time when most parishioners would be back from vacation.

It is the first pastorate of the native of Hudson County, who was a teacher before entering the priesthood.

Visit to the Rain Forest 'opened her eyes' Selected for college level study

By Howard Klausner

Lauren Rosenfeld, now a Senior at Belleville High School, was selected in her Junior year to attend a college level course in science at Stevens Institute of Technology.

She was among 40 high school students across the nation to be so honored.

"We studied bio-medical engineering," she said. "It included everything from orthopedic implant to testing an enzyme that exists in both plants and the human body. It was wonderful."

At school, Lauren, 17, attends three college level classes in biology, history and English, which may qualify for college credits when she passes them.

She is also on the girls varsity volleyball team and she enjoys driving the car given her on her recent obtaining of a driver's license. It was the gift of her mother, Patricia, who is a teacher of autistic children at the Community Mental Health School in Belleville, and her stepfather, the Rev. William Moheit, Pastor of the Belleville Reformed Church, the oldest existing religious congregation in New Jersey.

Lauren is a High Honors Student, and was named Bausch & Lomb Scholar last year, an award which entitles her to apply for certain scholarships and grants from Rochester University, for which she has applied for enrollment.

Her hope is to become a Doctor of Medicine, she said. "I want to help people, hands on."

She noted that support for her dreams has come from all her teachers in the Belleville school system - "Not one of them has turned me off. They have all given me encouragement," - and she credits Science Supervisor Bruce Kemnitz in particular for "opening my eyes to biology."

She accompanied a group of teachers and students led by Kemnitz to the rain forests of Belize in Central America last year.

"I just loved it. Visiting the rain forest opened my eyes to nature. And being there made me realize how fortunate I am. I don't take things for granted any more."

"When I came home, I found myself conserving water and not wasting food. I'm a lot more fortunate that so many people, I found."

Belleville teacher presents TV check

Marie Rinaldi, Kindergarten teacher at School 7, and Arlene Yaoto and Jessica Spera, pupils at the school, were seen on the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, presenting a check for $27,183 to fight the disease.

The money was raised by schools throughout North Jersey, and the honor was given to School 7 because it had raised the most money, $3,700, mainly through a Hop-a-thon by Miss Rinaldi's Kindergarten Class.

Principal Marilyn Hawthorne of School 7 accompanied Miss Rinaldi and the children to the studios of Channel 9 TV in Secaucus, where the presentation was televised live.

The Crime Watch: Head on!

Police Officers Joseph Bagonis and James Sochaski were on police car patrol in Silver Lake on Sept. 9 at 11 p.m. when they swerved to avoid an oncoming car, coming the wrong way down a one-way street.

They pursued the car, as it swerved from curb to curb, finally bringing to a halt at Harrison Street and Brighton Avenue, police report.

They arrested the driver, Ernesto Gaglione, 23, of Bloomfield, and charged him with drunk driving.

On Sept. 14, at 2:50 a.m., Police Officers Rocco Andreatolla and Giovanni Torluccio flagged down a car operated by Freddie Pacheco, 29, of Paterson, noting that the side window of the 1989 Monza was broken. The car had Massachusetts license plates.

Police said a screw driver was stuck in the ignition, and a marijuana cigar was on the front seat. A device to heat up narcotics was also found, police said.

In addition, Mr. Pacheco was found to be driving on the revoked list, and there was an outstanding warrant for him from Belmar.

On Sept. 11, at 8:50 p.m., Detectives Dante Pasquale and Gerard Corbo were on patrol on Route 21 when they stopped the car of Luis Velez, 35, of Newark, who reportedly had been speeding north on the highway.

Police said Mr. Velez was in possession of a packet of heroin with the trademark "High" and that the Essex County Sheriff had a warrant for him for drug offenses. There was also a warrant for Mr. Velez from West Orange.

On Sept. 11 at 8:50 p.m., Police Officers Torluccio and Nicholas Breiner investigated a car at the dead end of Mill Street.

The police reported that a marijuana cigar was found in the car. They arrested John Diaz-Morales, 20, of Newark, and a 17-year-old juvenile from Belleville for possession of narcotics.

On Nov. 11 at 11:44 p.m., Police Officers John Pinto and Anthony Weedo arrested a 33-year-old Belleville motorist who reportedly had been speeding on Watsessing Avenue.

Police said they found two vials of a powder which they suspected was narcotics in his car. The suspect was charged with possession of drugs.

PREPARERS OF THE FEAST - Holy Family Church will sponsor a traditional Italian Festa in Nutley, Sept. 25-28. Gina Tamburri, is organizer of the event, with the Rev. Peter J. Zaccardo, Pastor.

Aside from That

By Howard Klausner

Anyone can grow nine-foot high tomato vines, as Fire Captain Chuck Aughenbaugh can testify. Just get 300 pounds of cow manure, a high school student named Joe to turn over the turf and ladle in the compost, throw in the seeds and jump out of the way. A photograph in the Times will attest to it. But Captain Aughenbaugh knows there is more to life than tomatoes. Well, a little more, anyway. . . . In the comfortable, photograph-lined confines of his rambling frame house on Smallwood Avenue, a tree-shaded redoubt bounded in the rear by the Second River and the railroad, Captain Aughenbaugh pursues his many interests outside of his first love, the Belleville Fire Department, which he joined 31 years ago. "If my wife brings home any more strays, I'll need a zookeeper license," he said. Barbara Aughenbaugh, nee Higgins, brings home any stray or homeless creature that comes into her ken. "My son, James, found some baby falcons that had fallen out of their nest. Barbara nursed them until they could go on their own. She has taken care of baby raccoons, squirrels, chipmunks, rabbits. Everything." At one time, she was looking after James' boyhood pet, a boa constrictor. "We finally talked him into trading it for a puppy, a small puppy." The puppy grew, and grew, into a Doberman, able to lean on Aughenbaugh's shoulders. . . . James has forgotten such childhood fancies as a boa constrictor. He now owns a five-foot iguana, which he keeps in his bachelor apartment, along with the iguana owned by his fiancée, Christine DaCunzo of Belleville. The couple was married this past Sunday at St. Thomas Church in Bloomfield. The Pastor put his foot down on having the iguanas in attendance. With James out of the house, the Aughenbaughs are left with two rabbits, three dogs, one cat and no iguanas. Daughter Janice Huber keeps an active business life, operating the Total Eclipse tanning salon on Washington Avenue and operating an ice cream truck in warmer weather. . . . Captain Aughenbaugh's grandfather came from Pennsylvania to open a tavern in Jersey City. The captain's father, Charles, operated the bar at the old Harborside Restaurant in Jersey City, where he became the confidante of every captain who sailed for American Export Lines and a host of celebrities and seafarers. The ability to like people and deal with in a friendly way was passed on to Chuck Aughenbaugh, who likes all creatures, great and small, and does what he can to keep them from becoming fire statistics. He is head of the state Deputy Fire Chiefs Association, and he has written a great deal of the legislation which now codifies fire fighting operations in New Jersey. "Our biggest problem was cooperation in emergencies. We have now accomplished a great deal in providing that." . . . Among his immediate ambitions is to complete his Doctorate studies in Education. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from New York University in Business, and he has a Master of Arts degree from Montclair State College in Adult Education. He also holds two teaching certificates for Business Studies and Computers, and has taught at Passaic County Community College and Jersey City State College. When last we heard, he had topped the Civil Service list for Fire Chief, so who knows?

We know, you're saying "Wedding pictures are wedding pictures." In the world of John Molnar, they are more than that. They are works of art. They are the stuff of history, Mr. Molnar knows wedding pictures. He photographs them for a living - and a rather good living, at that. In recent years, he has been winning prizes from professional organizations for his work. Most recently, it was the Fuji Masterpiece title for a soft focus study of a dark suited bridegroom and an ethereal bride in white, shimmering satin and gold tiara. Posed against the stone battlement of Lambert Castle, it has a quality of escaping time and locale. "A photographer is part historian, part artist, capturing a piece of a person's life that will never happen again." . . . Married to the former Barbara Trabucco, Molnar is a young man with a large family - John, 18; Sara, 15; Marissa, 10, and Rebecca, 5. Born in Newark, he was graduated from the Essex County Vocational and Technical High School. He had entered with the goal of joining the Air Force. "Instead, I found a camera, a Kodak X-15, while I was a sophomore." He began by taking photos of family events, then friends' activities and in 1981, he had his first professional wedding job. "I stuck my hand in the wedding cake." Molnar credits Milt Goldfarb, owner of Milt's Photo in Belleville with his going professional. "Miltie was crucial to my career. He encouraged me to make money with photography. He sent business my way. He has grown with me." Molnar also credits Milt's brother, Daniel Goldfarb, owner of a photo store in Elizabeth, and Milt's son, Howard Goldfarb, with aiding him. . . . Ten years ago, Molnar joined the Gabelli Studio - "The best on the East Coast" - a prize winning portrait photography firm operated by Gene Gabelli in Verona. Molnar prides himself on keeping his appointments, regardless of weather or health. Some of his more pleasant jobs have been aboard yachts. "I'm treated like a guest." While much of his job may be to make people look better than life, a lot is the creation of a permanent memory that in future years may be an inspiration and a comfort. His lens sees a world that may be more beautiful than actuality, but is not to be treasured the less for that. . . . Fifth Ward Councilman Harry Zilch says he is prepared to become Commissioner Zilch at a moment's notice. "With the kind of campaigns I run, titles are meaningless. Street money talks in any language." . . . Zilch's political supporters, The Kool Kukumber Boys, are promoting an ethnic fast food for the benefit of politicians on the run, stuffing themselves in one ethnic neighborhood after another, and taking out their indigestion on the public. "The Bizza is part bagel, part pizza and part Pepto-Bismal. It can't lose." . . . Our Copy Cat, Baldassaro Di Vincenzo Mitten, noted people scraping away at the Municipal Building brickwork on reports that inferior cement was used. "They haven't produced any evidence, but we do have a lot of loose bricks."

Holy Family Church preparing Festa

By James Zoccoli

It was more than 100 years ago that two Italian peasants witnessed a vision of the Lady of Sorrows, Maria Santissima Addolorata, kneeling in prayer in front of the lifeless body of her son, Jesus Christ.

That vision, witnessed March 22, 1888, was later seen by many others. The event is the basis of an Old World-style Italian feast scheduled to take place Sept. 25-28 at Holy Family Church.

This is the seventh year that Holy Family has celebrated the spiritual event. Last year, more than 15,000 attended the celebration.

The historic festival is widely celebrated in the small villages of southern Italy.

Two priests and two nuns from Italy will attend the festival at Holy Family next week.

Father Peter J. Zaccardo, the new pastor of Holy Family, said this year's festival will be the second he has attended in Nutley.

The father said he decided to attend Holy Family's annual feast last year on the spur of the moment.

"Little did I realize that one year later I'd be here as pastor," said Father Zaccardo, who replaced Monsignor Louis F. Fimiani on August 1. Father Zaccardo will be installed officially as Holy Family pastor, 7 p.m., Sept. 20.

The father said the upcoming Italian festival is one method of bringing people together to share spiritual awareness.

"It helps those that do not know the story to learn about the Lady of Sorrows and pass on the tradition," Father Zaccardo said.

Belleville Senior News

By Joseph Restaino

Heavy in My Sleep

Heavy in my sleep, I was stolen
By the unearthly creature of darkness and doom.
He pulled me, fettered and chained, down
Mazes and crosswords of icy, cold mines
Till he shoved me headlong into an orange-red furnace.
The steaming smoke smothered my lungs
And scathed my naked skin.
My burning throat could only choke
And my screams were lost in the red rawness of the air.
His vicious coal eyes, ablaze, he pointed with fiery yellow fingers
To a shrunken, frail soul, gasping and walling in bitter agony.
Pangs of lightning scissored through my corpse,
And then I knew it was my dying soul.
Whimpering and mourning the impending death of my body.

You've sinned!

But you loved and devoured it.

And you chose it, and for sure

You'd do it again if you had the chance.

Now finish yourself. Obey me and reunite

Your diseased body with your ugly soul.

With a stinging hot key, he unleashed my chains.

I felt the black evil in my soul beckon,

But I ran!

I ran and I ran and I ran,

Through the flashing pangs of heat

And bubbling pools of lava,

Through cave after cave of pain,

With the darkness burning at my heels,

His fiery breath scalding my neck.

I ran till my body ached and groaned.

Out of the heat through the icesickled mazes of cold,

Reaching and groping my way

Till I smashed into sunlight and soft, sloping mountains,
To the summit and the cool snow caps
Where I slept and relived my life and my soul
In the thin mountain air and God's majesty

Holy Family Church of Nutley will be holding its sixth annual Italian Festival, celebrating the Feast of Maria Santissima Addolorata Sept. 25 through Sunday, Sept. 28. The highlight of the feast will be the parade of worshippers who will carry the statue of the saint through some of the streets of Nutley. There will be plenty of rides for the children, games for young and old and lots of good old fashioned Italian food, especially zeppoles and calzones. So come one and come all and enjoy yourself.

Tony Rotondo has been transferred to St. Barnabas Hospital. Sylvia Paganelli is still in the intensive care unit at Clara Maass. Pat and Ange Mauriello are ailing. Elanore Belina will be entering the hospital.

Condolences to the family of Julia Albanese who passed away recently.

I read in last week's paper that the council of Belleville has finally introduced an ordinance to fine dog litterers $500 for their first offense and maybe $1000 for their second offense. I see too many persons who won't let their dog or dogs litter on their property, but it's O.K. to do it on their neighbor's property or the high school lawn, the football field and on #7 School property. If they would clean up their pet's mess, it would be O.K. but some think nothing of the mess their pets make. I say it's about time.

Thanks to my daughter Phyllis Lager for the following appropriate article, written by Joe Sabba in his "Here and There" column. It's entitled "Road Rage."

"Apparently we're not the only ones who have noticed the increase in unsafe and over-aggressive behavior being exhibited by drivers on local streets and highways. After our recent editorial 'Summer Stupidity', we have heard about a program begun last week in New York in which state troopers will target aggressive drivers.

According to recent reports in the tri-state area, battling motorists have resorted to throwing objects from their cars, driving other motorists off the road and even firing shots at one another. Just such an incident resulted in the tragic death of a Queens woman who was fatally shot on Christmas Day, 1992, as she rode with her husband. The shooting is believed to have arisen from a dispute between her husband and another driver who wanted to pass.

Whether it is caused by the hot weather, the increased traffic or simply drivers' lack of patience we don't know, but it has definitely made driving more dangerous than ever before.

And not only are we faced with violence-prone drivers, we must also deal with the drunken drivers who kill 17,000 people a year, teenagers — statistically the most dangerous drivers on the road — and the growing number of motorists who use cellular phones when they drive, posing a distraction for some drivers and a threat to others.

But our biggest concern and our most dangerous threat is what state police are calling the 'temper driver'. Determined to stop such drivers, state police have launched a summerlong program to focus on those who speed in excess of the traffic flow and who change lanes unsafely.

While protections are few from such over-aggressive drivers, the American Automobile Association, has some tips on how to avoid being the victim of road rage:

1. try not to make mistakes which irritate other drivers, such as clogging the passing lane.

2. if you drive more slowly, ride in the right lane or pull over and let others pass on roads with no passing lane.

3. do not respond to aggressive acts with obscene gestures or horn honking.

4. don't anger other drivers by changing lanes without signaling, tailgating or unnecessary use of your high beams.

5. leave yourself enough time when traveling. Running late is a primary cause of aggressive driving.

6. try to be courteous no matter what.

These tips may not slow down the traffic around you, but hopefully will make your commute or vacation a safer trip this summer."

Happy birthday to Debra Restaino.

Tid Bit: Giving is a joy if we do it in the right spirit. It all depends on whether we think of it as "What can I spare?" or as "What can I share?" God loves a cheerful giver. 2nd Corinthians.

Rev. Bakal takes pulpit at Grace Episcopal

By James Zoccoli

Answering a timeless call to serve God and follow the prepared path, the Rev. Pamela Brownlow Bakal has embarked upon a spiritual journey that has led her to Grace Episcopal Church, Nutley.

Replacing the Rev. Wade Renn, who retired earlier this year, Bakal will be installed officially in the Nutley church on Saturday.

In the few weeks Bakal has lived in the township, she said she already feels comfortable at her new spiritual home.

"This church is a very warm, welcoming and loving church," Bakal said of Grace Episcopal.

The pastor is a native of Brooklyn Heights, N.Y., and entered the ministry 10 years ago.

She said she is interested in establishing and continuing children's programs.

Bakal said she is also very interested in outreach efforts to help the needy.

She has helped impoverished peoples in other parts of the world, including Haiti and Africa. But Bakal says the need can sometimes be found right next door.

"Outreach can be to your neighbor," she said. "I think we are often called to give and not make a judgement."

Bakal hopes people will fight off the temptation to look upon needy people as different or inferior.

She said the homeless in particular have the same desires and tastes in food as the average middle-class American.

"We must learn to come out from the slim perimeters of our lives," she said.

Bakal called the Episcopalian faith a "bridge church" between Catholicism and the Protestant Church.

She said her faith tries to strike a balance between the two.

The Episcopal Church maintains many of the traditions of the Roman Catholic Church, she said, while offering a unique independence to each individual pastor.

Episcopal bishops can request that a minister undertake a certain endeavor, but they cannot make demands.

"Our ultimate authority is Jesus Christ," she said.

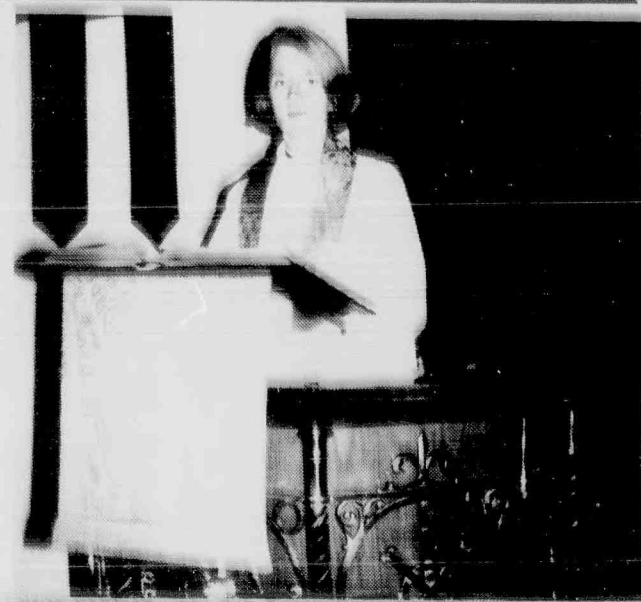

Bakal noted many ongoing archaeological discoveries in the mideast have enhanced the historical perspective of Jesus, which she called "exciting."

This week, Bakal is beginning a Bible study focusing on the the Psalms.

Bakal expressed great pleasure that Grace Episcopal Church already boasts a variety of children's programs and a dance company.

Bakal and her husband, Stuart, have three children, Justin, Evan and Chris.

Grace Episcopal Church is located at 200 Highfield Lane. For more information call 235-1177.

NEW PASTOR - The Rev. Pamela Brownlow Bakal is now Minister of Grace Episcopal Church, with many from Belleville in her parish.

'Cheaper by the Dozen' kicks off Broadway Bound

The Broadway Bound Young People's Musical Comedy Workshop Program is about to hold auditions for its ninth season.

The program, started and run by Maureen and Paul Kastl - former Broadway performers - has been widely acclaimed in the tri-state area for its "outstanding" work in musical theater.

Every year, thousands of New Jersey school children come to see Broadway Bound's "new" original musical. Past shows like "The Snow Queen" and "Welcome to America" have received important-enough recognition that the Kastls are considering producing them in New York City.

"We have a program here that prepares kids as performers. We utilize all three skills - singing, dancing and acting - just as if we were doing a Broadway show," says Maureen Kastl.

And it must be working because the students at Broadway Bound are the kind of performers who succeed in life as well as on the stage. In addition to their yearly performances for local school children, Broadway Bound students have been featured on OBC-TV, TCI and ComCast Television. Several have been in the final rounds for parts in Broadway shows and a few have actually been offered roles on Broadway.

This past year, one of their prized students was given a full scholarship to the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., where she will major in musical theater. She was also first runner-up in America's Junior Miss Scholarship Pageant, winning over $22,000 in scholarships and prizes. Her talent in the pageant was singing and dancing.

"If you are serious about musical theater and you want it to pay off," says Paul Kastl, "you need to be here at our school of performing arts - Broadway Bound."

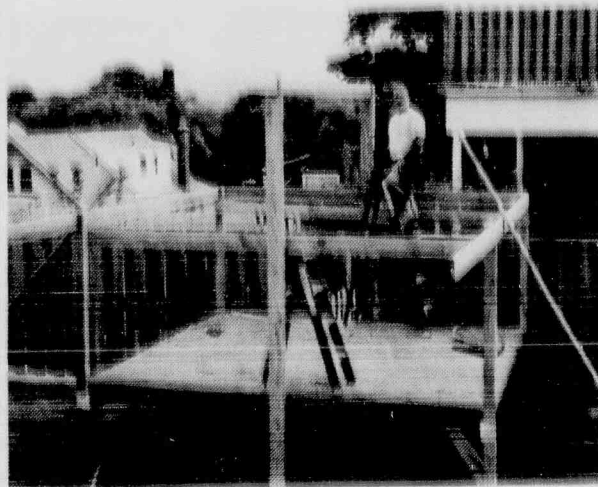

This year, the group will be working on an original musical based on the novel, "Cheaper by the Dozen."

"We're looking for young people between the ages of 12 and 18 who are strong in singing, dancing and acting and who love to perform," Maureen Kastl said.

"Broadway Bound Workshop" is a non-profit N.J. performing arts organization and the group rehearses on Fridays from 5 to 7:30 p.m.

"There is tuition. Nothing good comes for free," said Paul Kastl, "but it's worth every penny."

Auditions will be held at the end of September and the Workshop will begin in October. For an audition time, call Broadway Bound at 935-4924.

EARLY START - Charles Auremma of 90 Mount Prospect Ave., Belleville, has already started constructing his spectacular Christmas display. He said that he starts thinking planning the display in July and that it takes a couple of months to construct. This year, he is adding a 12-foot-high manger to house live animals for his Nativity scene. Auremma said the scene will be completed before Thanksgiving.

Belleville UNICO celebrates

At the Belleville Chapter of UNICO National's celebration party, Maria Alfano became the first female UNICO ACES (UNICO National Youth Group) member in the country to become a member of UNICO National.

Alfano, a junior at Penn State University, was a charter member of the ACES Club since its inception.

She said she was proud that her chapter and mother, Pat Alfano, were instrumental in orchestrating the passage of the Belleville chapter's amendment proposing women as equal members of UNICO National.

The chapter also celebrated the fact that at this year's convention, Belleville UNICO was recognized as one of the top 10 chapters in the country and received second place in the scrapbook contest.

Belleville Chapter President Emanuele Alfano thanked ACES officers Arianna D'Amato, Vincent Milote, and Danielle Lombardi for their participation in preparing this year's scrapbook.

Those Italian-Americans wishing more information about UNICO National, including membership, contact Sam Adornetto at 743-8323.

Respite care service begun

The Continuing Care Centers of Clara Maass, with locations in Belleville and Kearny, have introduced a new respite care service.

This program will provide 24-hour supervised services, designed for families caring for older members who require medical and personal assistance.

The respite care service enables families to go on a vacation or trip up to 30 days, while their older family member receives complete medical care, as well as meals, social activities, and recreation.

"Whether it's a short one-night stay or longer, family members can rest assured their loved ones are receiving the best medical supervision offered in a comfortable, social environment," said Pat Meyers, assistant vice president of Clara Maass Continuing Care Center.

For more information on Clara Maass' respite care service or to arrange a tour of either facility, call 450-2596 or 844-4802.

Clara Maass surgery unit ranks among best

Tying the highest national score, Clara Maass Medical Center's Department of Same-Day Surgery recently recorded a patient satisfaction rating of 99 percent during a Gallup Poll survey.

The survey, conducted by the nationally-renowned Gallup Organization, tracked patient satisfaction in reference to medical treatment, technology, courteousness of staff, and overall environment.

"According to the 500 patients interviewed, they were not only extremely satisfied with the level of medical competency, but were impressed with both the attitude and friendliness of the Clara Maass staff," said Lauretta Elvin, nurse manager of same-day services at the Belleville medical center.

"Whether patients were here for a simple procedure, or for an invasive diagnostic procedure, they recognized and appreciated the attention afforded by the staff," added Dr. Anthony DelGaizo, M.D., medical director of same-day services at the medical center. "Our state-of-the-art, independent facility functions with its own dedicated staff, operating and recovery rooms and parking area."

Last year, more than 5,400 same-day procedures were performed at Clara Maass in specialties including ophthalmology, podiatry, plastic and reconstructive surgery, orthopedics, gynecology, general surgery, gastroenterology — including colonoscopy and endoscopy — urology, oral surgery, and ear, nose and throat procedures.

According to Gallup, 97 percent of Clara Maass' patients would return for additional surgical services or recommend Clara Maass to someone requiring surgery.

"This rating reflects the commitment and dedication of the employees of the Same Day Surgery Department," commented Robert Curtis, president and chief executive officer.

"Although these patients spend only a few hours at Clara Maass, they are still guaranteed the same level of quality care that makes our hospital one of the premier medical facilities in northern New Jersey," he said.

For more information on Clara Maass programs and services, call 1-800-CLARA MAASS.

Allergies and the change of season

By Michael Luongo

With the fall season just upon us, there are many changes in the air. A new season brings on allergies and a time to change our daily habits in order to accommodate the new weather which is slowly creeping up on us.

Now is the time to begin looking at our lifestyles, seeing what is being done and what can be changed to maximize our potential for better health.

One great way to ensure a healthy season is proper exercise and diet. An addition which can be made to everyone's diet is Echinacea. This is a wonderful herb which does many things for us, two of which are to boost up our immune system and also to help fight illnesses. The all-to-well-known sinus infections can be put to a stop almost immediately with the right dosage and form of this herb.

Echinacea can be taken in capsule, in a liquid (which we call a tincture), or it can be found already combined with other herbs. Each form has its own purpose and some will work differently than others.

Herbal health care is also great when it comes to an allergy formula. The formula I use here in the office contains Montmorillonite Clay, which absorbs toxins and reduces histamine. Combined with five other herbs, which are in this formula, we have a powerful solution to allergies.

To a new season and good health!

Have I got a headache!

By Dr. Mitch Holsten

Millions of Americans suffer from headaches, and like Baskin-Robbins, they seem to come in 31 flavors: tension headaches, sinus headaches, stress headaches, eye-strain headaches, etc.

There are headaches that stab, burn, pound, or have a combination of all three.

Migraines especially have an aura of invincibility to treatment. Migraine sufferers are in such intense pain that they often retreat to a darkened room with a cold compress on their foreheads.

More than 100 years after aspirin was discovered, there is still no medical cure and the drugs have just gotten stronger: aspirin, Excedrin, Tylenol, Motrin, etc., a sample of the thousands of over-the-counter drugs available.

The misalignment of the atlas (the first spinal segment) or occiput (skull) causes a vertebral subluxation, which causes the headache. This is why chiropractors are trained to locate and treat the subluxation complex. The body has great power for healing from within, when given the chance.

Pressure on the medulla (which doctors are now finding plays an important part in headaches) by either the occiput or atlas can alter the way that our brain receives instruction. Specific chiropractic adjustments to this area removes the pressure by realigning the atlas or occiput.

The results are dramatic. Patients receiving these adjustments experience relief within an hour! No aspirin, no Tylenol, no extended rest.

Although it is still important to curtail some activities that can promote headaches, and proper rest is still one of the most effective ways to keep headaches from reoccurring, the results speak for themselves. Chiropractic is a highly effective, drug-free treatment for headache sufferers.

Dr. Hosten of North Fullerton Chiropractic, 509-7773, has 16 years of experience, is a Life Chiropractic College graduate and is a member of the Christian Chiropractors Association.

Arthritis: a common problem with a therapeutic solution

By Robert Ruffalo, PT, DC, CCSP

If you were asked to name the leading cause of physical disability in the United States, what would be your response? Auto accidents? On the job injuries? Birth defects?

As you have probably guessed from the title of this article, the correct answer is arthritis.

An estimated 40 million Americans suffer from the disease, half of whom seek medical relief. Many must endure limits on their activity due to a condition defined as "joint inflammation."

Though the term actually comprises over 100 separate identifiable maladies, this article will attempt to address the two most common forms: rheumatoid and osteoarthritis. In both, as in all other forms, connective tissues joining bones become stiff and swollen, sometimes to the point that movement is painful at best, excruciating at worst. But beyond this basic commonality, the two are quite different.

Osteoarthritis, the more frequent form, is a degenerative disease found most often in the elderly; its prevailing cause seems to be that the joints merely wear down with age. However, it can also result from infection, injury or surgery, so it is hardly restricted to the aged population. It regularly occurs in athletes and others whose activities create skeletal stress, and is marked by persistent pain and stiffness in one or more joints, especially in the morning hours.

The rheumatoid variety is the most common form of crippling arthritis. It affects as many as 2.1 million Americans and is more common and severe in women. The onset of this progressive ailment usually comes between the ages of 30 and 50. Unlike osteoarthritis, which can be limited to one area, rheumatoid arthritis is systemic, influencing the entire body. Fatigue, poor appetite, and weight loss are among its frequent additional complaints.

The pain and swelling, which may cause visible deformation if unchecked, are usually symmetrical, occurring in the same place on both sides of the body. Most alarmingly, it can spread beyond the joints into surrounding tissues and organs.

Though its exact cause is unknown, it appears to be autoimmune related; researchers do not think everyone who becomes infected with the "virus" will develop the illness.

One thing these two conditions share is that the earlier they are diagnosed and treated, the better. Physical therapy is one of the most important components of treatment that can also include rest, application of heat and cold, weight loss to lessen the stress on weight-carrying joints, regular exercise, orthotics (splints, braces or arch supports) and medication.

In some cases, surgery to replace the joint with an artificial one may be required. But physical therapy can often help strengthen and restore range of motion to arthritic joints, making surgery less likely. If surgery is needed, physical therapy is involved in the post-surgical treatment to restore joint motion, increase strength and help improve ambulatory ability, if the knee of hip is involved.

As the population of the country continues to mature, more individuals will have to deal with arthritis in one form or another. Fortunately, that prospect now is not nearly so daunting as in the past.

MCH sponsors Walking Club

What is easy, fun and free?

The Montclair Community Hospital Walking Club!

A regular walking regimen can help you meet many health goals, from weight loss and strength endurance to cardiovascular exercise and general toning and fitness. It is also one of the easiest exercises we can do. But not enough of us take that first step toward better health.

That's why the Physical Therapy Department at Montclair Community Hospital (MCH) once again is sponsoring the New Friends Walking Club.

The club, open to all residents of the Greater Essex County community, meets at 9:30 a.m., three days a week - Monday, Wednesday and Friday - in the MCH parking lot at 120 Harrison Ave., Montclair.

"We started the program last fall and began again this spring. We had a good turnout each time," said Ann Buckley, director of the Physical Therapy Department at MCH.

Buckley said beginners start off with a leisurely one-mile walk.

"After building up endurance, our goal is to complete a two-mile walk in less than 40 minutes," said Buckley, who maps out different walking routes to maintain variety for the members.

"It is a lot of fun, too, especially if you're in good company," she added.

For more information about the New Friends Walking Club or to sign up, call the Physical Therapy Department at 509-6168.

OUR OPINION

A little nepotism?

One of the more interesting debates on the Board of Education recently was a discussion of nepotism - the hiring of relatives.

Board Member Ralph Mazzuca, whose integrity is a lot better than that of other officials we could name, took the position that nepotism is not all bad.

Prohibitions against hiring a family member, he said, would keep good people from seeking office, particularly if they had an aspiring teacher among their children.

The Board's Policy Committee, chaired by John Notari, is working on a flat ban against hiring relatives.

As far as we can gather, the Board has operated without a formal ban on the hiring of relatives since the time of Noah.

But an unwritten policy has prevented the hiring of relatives for at least the past four years, under the administration of

Superintendent of Schools Michael Lally.

Mr. Lally has prided himself on obtaining teachers and administrators who are "clean" - which is to say, not there by influence.

It is true that a ban on hiring relatives would have deprived the school district of some outstanding teachers.

It is also true that there was abuse of the system, in the bad old days when politics had a lot to say in the school system.

A flat ban on the hiring of relatives of Board Members will probably lose us some good people, as Mr. Mazzuca fears.

At the same time, it will reassure taxpayers to some extent that their money will not be channeled to political appointees.

Today, the safeguards against favoritism in the selection of teachers are working.

The perception that we have the best teachers available is reality.

In closed session

One aspect of the legislative process that is kept from public view, legally, is the closed session of the Township Council in which personnel and litigation matters are discussed.

Often, personnel and litigation are tied into each other, because there are any number of issues among employees - and contractors - which wind up in the courts.

There is good reason for keeping most personnel matters out of the limelight. Privacy is always an issue, and all kinds of allegations may be made without substantiation.

And, boy, would they be good reading!

The infighting that goes on within the various departments of the municipal government, particularly when it comes to such issues as promotion, seniority, vacation, benefits and simple personality clashes might surprise those who see the outward calm of the Municipal Office Building.

Inwardly, the place seethes.

Actually, with the current scattering of the offices, you now have several places seething.

The secrecy involving personnel matters has its value, but there is also a price.

Injustices can be committed because of the lack of publicity involving a personnel matter. In fact, injustices do occur.

It is an area in which the press is handicapped because of the ban on information.

There are many areas in which the press is denied access to information, as a matter of course.

The old police blotter is gone. That was the book in which every incident was duly entered, in plain English. Today, it is in computer gibberish. Do we get the good stories?

We wonder.

Life in Silver Lake

By Marie Strumolo Burke
A feature of Belleville Times

O.K., I know this happened in the middle of August, but it needs to be told...plus I had a lot of news stored in my computer and you know the old adage - "better late than never." So, now that you know all this, let me continue.

Another National Night Out has come and gone, but the memories still linger on. To reiterate (or shall I say repeat), this special night is set aside to get to know your neighbors and make an effort to "barbecue crime" as they say. Well, we all met in the parking lot of Silver Lake's mini police station.

For the children's entertainment, a clown performed a few magic tricks, which I might add, thoroughly amused the kiddies. Lt. Manno, or shall I address him by his new title, Captain, welcomed the residents. The crime prevention officer, Mark Minichini, and one of my favorite cops, Jimmy Guiliano, along with other policemen, were also on hand.

We then strolled a few blocks and greeted the neighbors. Thank God for me, there were some older residents on hand so they shortened the walk. Leading the "parade" was our police van with patrolman Geyer at the wheel along with his "sidekick," my husband, Charles, who was smart enough to hitch a ride.

After the "short walk," we met at Rita's Italian Ice, where we partook in a cup of lemon ice, compliments of the establishment. All in all, the night went well. Next year, we hope to have more residents join in.

At the festivities I met up with a nice woman named Marie Loungo, who happens to be the sister of my friend Gary Markese of Frederick Street. She made me feel good when she said how much she loved reading the column. Marie, it was indeed a distinct pleasure to make your acquaintance.

The Three Amigos (friends) - Happy Birthday to Rita Charles and Angela Cuzzo Zarro, who are all September Girls. Oh, who's the third amigo? Me, of course. Both Rita and I are Virgos and Angela is a Libra. But I figured you guessed that one.

Angela is the balance in between the two of us. When Rita and I get a little rambunctious (defined as unruly or out of hand) she slaps our wrist and were back to business once again. So the three amigos will have a happy, happy day.

Happy belated birthday to Antoinette DePanis of Heckel Street, who turned 66 years old on July 21. You don't look a day over 50, neighbor.

Belated anniversary greetings to Tom and Judy Bowers of Heckel Street. They made five blissful years on Aug. 14. Again, let me say that I matched them, and suggested they buy a home on Heckel Street. This twosome are perfectly matched. Couldn't have done better if I were a dating service.

Get well wishes to "Courageous Tom" on his recent surgery. Because Hannon needs you - yes, I mean you...

And to my friend Vivian Schiavo of Heckel Street, a speedy recovery to you, a gracious lady and my friend.

Remember, we love Silver Lake.

Tribute to Princess Diana

Flickering Star

When she walked down the aisle to meet her Prince
This charming lady has touched all since.
Bewildered by the cameras as her Prince led the way
She has not been alone since her wedding day.

Royalty has taken her beyond everyday living
Always a shimmering smile to her people she was giving.
Along came the children, her pride and joys
"Princes I will make these little boys."

Shielding her children as the flashes came near
In every picture taken the love was so dear.
Looking for privacy so her new love can grow
They went away to Paris to take it nice and slow.

Along came the paparazzi with cameras they stand
Out the back door she runs, holding her new love's hand.
As they fled desperately in another car,
The paparazzi was not far.

"Don't worry, fair princess, I will lose them," said the driver
Screaming through the tunnel, he hit the divider.
As the car stood still with glass everywhere,
For one silent moment the paparazzi stood in a glazed stare.

Always printed on the front page
From her Prince she has taken center stage.
As the light in her marriage grows ever dim
Now always alone, never with him.

When the marriage ended, she started anew
Still everywhere she went the paparazzi was, too.
Trying to give her children a normal childhood
Always in front of them those cameras stood.

Just as she started to go on with her dream
Once again with that smile, such a pretty gleam,
Nothing seemed to stop them as they ran to the car
Taking more pictures of this beautiful star.

How could they think the world would want to see
What it took for our Princess to finally be free?

• THE Orechio Publications photo department is bringing itself into the 21st century. Our staff is now equipped with digital cameras that do not require film. The upgrade should be reflected in better photographs, and since the photographer knows instantly whether the picture is publication-grade, it will be unnecessary for our staff to ask the person or persons being photographed to remain still for another.

• OCTOBER 22 may be a very important day in the history of Essex County. On that day, Jim Treffinger will be honored by a legion of Essex County voters both Republican and Democrats who endorsed Treffinger's policy of three no tax increase budgets and reduction in size of government. When Treffinger took over in 1995, he said he would not seek re-election. A lot has happened since then to persuade Essex County taxpayers to induce Treffinger to seek re-election. In a heavily Democrat county like Essex, the only Republican who has a hope of winning election next year as Essex County Executive is Jim Treffinger.

While on the subject of next year's county executive election, the first Democrat name that comes to mind as a logical opponent to Treffinger is a person with whom Treffinger has worked well and vice versa. He is Nutleyite Essex County Board of Freeholder Chairman Joe DiVincenzo. The last three years has seen a political partnership between leaders of both major parties working every day to the benefit of taxpayers of Essex County. That twosome is Treffinger and DiVincenzo - perfect together.

However, DiVincenzo is a serious candidate for the Democrat nomination for Essex County Executive at next year's Primary Election. Former Newark Mayor Ken Gibson already has staked out a claim to the Democrat nomination. Among others is state and Essex County Chairman Tom Giblin who sought the nomination three years ago but lost in a hard fought Primary to East Orange Mayor Cardell Cooper who recently was appointed to a national position by President Bill Clinton. It's just possible that Cardell Cooper may come back next year with his new found prestige behind him and lead another Primary Election slate against one, no doubt, selected by Chairman Tom Giblin. Is it possible for a three-way fight in the Democrat Primary next year with Giblin, Cooper/Cody and DiVincenzo battling for the Democrat Essex County Executive nomination?

After all is said and done, Treffinger's breathtaking reforms entitle him to another term. If necessary, he should be drafted to seek the nomination.

BUC SHOTS

By Mike Lamberti

Baseball continues to be a key part of so many lives

(Last in a series on baseball memories)

When I first started writing this feature a few weeks ago about baseball memories, I didn't realize it would last this long. However, looking back on my earliest memories of the game as a nine year old in 1968 and now, 29 years later, the game continues to be a big part of my leisure time.

I guess I'll always be a St. Louis Cardinals fan. No question about that. I've rooted for them for 29 years now and still get mad when they lose and am a little happier when they win.

The 80's were a good time to be a Cardinal fan, thanks to three National League championships and one World Series title. Even when they didn't win, they were close, such as in 1981, '84 and '89. I remember the first time I went to a Cardinals-Padres game in '84 at Jack Murphy Stadium.

It was the famous "Chicken's" tenth birthday party at the Murph and a sell out crowd was on hand. The Padres had a good team that year, they would go on to win the National League title, and the fans were really enjoying the ride.

Anyway, the Cardinals had a young pitcher named Rick Horton on the mound that night. There were 50,000 crazed fans on hand and I thought, for sure, that San Diego would cruise in this game. But the Cardinals hit the ball well and Horton was doing a good job. He was so good that he had a no-hitter going until two outs in the eighth inning. He then gave up a double to Kevin McReynolds and ended up with a two-hit shutout, winning 5-0.

I still have the newspaper from the day following that game. I became a Rick Horton fan from that day in 1984. Horton had a pretty decent career, pitching with St. Louis until 1987, then playing for the Chicago White Sox and Los Angeles Dodgers before returning to St. Louis in July of 1989.

I liked Horton so much that I have one of his cracked bats in my sports bar. I have a Cardinals jersey with his number on it.

After Horton retired from the game in 1991, I decided I wanted to interview him, so I called the Major League Office, and they said they would relay the message to him. Lo and behold, an hour later, I get this phone call at work and it's Ricky Horton.

I go on to tell him that I was at the Chicken game in 1984 and he asks me if I can help get him a tape from that game. I had a customer who does video tapes of all major league games and this customer sent him the tape of that game.

I ended up doing a great interview with Ricky and a few days later, he sent me a few autographed photos, one of which he wrote, "to Mike, the best Cardinal fan I know."

Not only was I a big Rick Horton fan, but also a huge fan of his manager, Whitey Herzog. When I spoke with Rick in 1993, I decided to try and get in touch with Herzog, who at the time, was an executive with the California Angels.

I'll never forget it. I called Whitey, left a message for him, and he called me back about an hour later. Later on during the summer of '93, I was in California on vacation and called Herzog's office to see if I could meet him at Anaheim Stadium.

He said no problem and on July 28, 1993, I spent a few hours in his office, talking baseball. It's a day that I'll never forget. We spoke about Cardinal baseball, he showed me letters from his family back in Missouri and he went over his entire farm system with the Angels, telling me who the top prospects were. He even told me the players the Angels wanted to keep and who they probably would re-sign.

Earlier on that trip, I had spent a few days in Denver, and got field passes for the Cardinals-Rockies series at Mile High Stadium. For three games, I was on the field, in the photographers box, taking pictures of the Cardinals and talking to the players before the game.

I remember that Joe Torre was the Cardinals manager then and Don Zimmer was the Rockies third base coach. Today, those two are the brain trusts in the Yankee dugout.

These are events that are engraved in my life. They're good times. My baseball fantasy was to be a relief pitcher for the Cardinals and to warm up in the bullpen during a game. Herzog would then go to the mound and make the signal for me to come in and pitch to one batter.

I would get to the mound. Herzog would hand me the ball and say "just get this guy out". And, in my heart, I know I could get one guy out.

Baseball memories will last in the hearts of many people, regardless of age. I'm almost 39 years old, but still a little kid when it comes to watching a ball game. I remember being at Dodger Stadium in 1990 when Fernando Valenzuela pitched a no-hitter against my Cardinals. Even though I didn't want my team to lose, I knew I was watching history when a pitcher threw a no-hitter.

I started watching baseball because my mother was in a World Series pool in 1967. I became a big fan and loved the game because of all the games my father and I would go to together in the late 60's and 1970's. Hopefully, I'll be able to share those times with my own kids one day.

I have wanted to write a book for a long time, and the theme is basically the "Wonder Years" of growing up as a sports fan. I'm not talking just about baseball, but the other three major sports.

It's a project that I hope to begin soon, and these columns certainly helped in getting some ideas together.

Thanks for letting me share some memories with you and thanks for your input during these past few weeks.

Scotch Plains comes to town

Bucs tee it up tomorrow

By Mike Lamberti

With its season opener set for tomorrow night, Buc football coach Patrick Dowling is in the final stages of fine tuning his 1997 team.

The Bucs will welcome Scotch Plains to Doc Ellis Field tomorrow night in the season opener for both teams. Kickoff time is 7 p.m.

Dowling, in his first year as the Bucs head coach but no stranger to being a head coach in the tough forum of Northern New Jersey football, noted that his young team was defeated in its last two scrimmages.

"We were beaten pretty good," the coach said, referring to pre season tilts with J.P. Stevens and Parsippany Troy Hills.

"It wasn't physical as much as mental. We're making a lot of mistakes, which happens with a young team. Our inexperience is showing. We have shown some good signs, with some good drives, but we're making mistakes, mainly penalties and fumbles."

Dowling, the head man at Ridgfield High School last fall, knows that pre season is a time of learning.

"We told the kids, 'next week, we start at 0-0'. Hopefully, we learned a little bit from these games. The kids can't go by last years team (which finished 3-6 with a senior laden lineup).

"It's a different group of kids. The main thing is that they learn from the mistakes made in the pre season."

After a spirited competition at quarterback, senior Greg Sheridan will get the nod on opening night.

Anthony Marcantuono and Mike Abidelli will both see time at full-back and Frank Zarro and Ricci Bello will be the halfbacks.

"In our offense, all four guys will be playing a lot," Dowling said.

The wide outs are John Farina, Chris Michel and Jeff Larkins. The tight end will be Cesar Rosado.

On the offensive line, the Bucs will have Chris Gamaro at center, Mohammad Shama and Gary Miscetelli at guard and Anthony Mongelli and Chris Muscara playing tackle.

On defense, Vin Fiscella will start at nose guard. The tackles are either Muscara or Pete Zangari at one spot and Miscetelli at the other.

The defensive ends are Lance Bowers and Shama.

The three linebackers should be Abidelli, Marcantuono and Zarro.

In the defensive secondary, Farina starts at strong safety, Tom Barbello will be the free safety and Larkins and Bello will be the corner backs.

On special teams, look for Sheridan to be the punter and Nick Senatore to be the place kicker.

Dowling and his staff got its first look at Scotch Plains last Friday in their final pre season game and the Bucs coach was impressed with what he saw.

"They've got just about every-one back from last years team," Dowling said. "It's very similar to last year, but the roles are reversed. Last year, Belleville was the more experienced team and Scotch Plains had a lot of first year starters."

"This year, we're working with younger guys and they've got key players back.

"They're quarterback is very talented and they've got a half back who if he breaks loose will be very tough to stop. It's going to be a good test for our team. Scotch Plains will be looking for revenge after last year."

NOTES: Last year, of course, Belleville won at Scotch Plains, 33-13 on opening day. Bucs last win on opening day, prior to last year, was in 1993, at Don Bosco.

The last time Belleville won a season opener, at home, was in 1992 when Mike Citarella and John Alvarado paced the defense to a 12-0 win over Don Bosco.

Opening day results are not always indicative of how the team will do for the season. Last year, the Bucs were 3-6, in '93 they were 4-4-1 and in '92, 3-5-1.

The last time Belleville won its season opener and went on to a winning record was in 1984, when the Bucs won at Don Bosco 14-0 and went on to a 6-3 regular season and playoff berth.

Clarke-Cameron, Green, Sanitago score

Lady Bucs win season opener

By Mike Lamberti

The Carlos Folleco era began on a positive note last Friday, as the Lady Buc soccer team stopped Glen Ridge 3-1 in the season opener for both teams at Clearmon Field.

The Lady Bucs will host Ridgewood this afternoon at 4 p.m. Next Monday, it's off to Montclair, also at 4.

Folleco was happy with the win, but knows there's a long season ahead.

"We played very well in the second half," the coach said. "We were kind of stale in the first half, but the kids responded."

"We have some tough games this week with the start of our conference schedule."

Belleville scored first last Friday on a penalty kick from Malerie Clarke-Cameron. Glen Ridge, which was playing its first varsity game, ever, responded with a goal before halftime.

In the second half, Danielle

Green put Belleville ahead for good, scoring on a cross pass. Belleville then put the game away on a goal from Jessie Santiago.

Anabelle Rodriguez played very well in goal for Belleville.

"She did a fantastic job," Folleco said of Rodriguez. "Anabelle turned in an excellent job."

Folleco's half time adjustments included a more aggressive defense and a 5-3-2 formation, with an emphasis on the midfield.

"We needed to step up the pressure," Folleco said. "We had to get more intense on defense and step up our overall play."

"It was good for the girls confidence to get that first win. It will help us when we play Teaneck next (last) Tuesday."

While it was just one game, it was certainly a good start for the Lady Buc soccer team. Folleco and his crew will learn more about the teams progression following this weeks games.

Jill Ernst throws in pass during season opener between Belleville and Glen Ridge. Lady Bucs scored two goals in second half to win 3-1.

DeJesus, Arcilla, Tran hope to key '97 tennis team

By Mike Lamberti

A strong singles group and an improving doubles squad gives Lady Buc tennis coach Tony Salese optimism for the 1997 season.

The team began its season last Monday against Paterson Eastside. Today, the girls are at Montclair and tomorrow, it's off to Hackensack. Next Monday, Nutley comes to town and Next Wednesday, the team is at Ridgewood. All matches begin at 4 p.m.

"We're hoping for a .500 season," Salese said. "We've got a lot of experience in the singles categories and our doubles kids are beginning to come around."

"This is a great bunch of girls. They work hard and really want to learn."

Fatima DeJesus returns for her senior year and will play first singles. Last year, she had a successful season at second singles.

Shalimar Arcilla, a junior, plays second singles and Quyen Tran, a senior, will start at third singles.

The first doubles team will be sophomores Christine Cajilig and Ana San Luis.

The second doubles team features sophomore Lauren DeFilippo and junior Margo Bautista

"We have 15 kids on the roster this year," Salese said. "To have a J.V. team would be great for our team. Only seven girls can play, so we're hoping that the other kids can see some playing time during the season if the other teams have players in the some position."

"Maybe they can play some instructional matches."

'C' Team wins 33-0

The Belleville Junior Buc 'C' squad opened the season with an impressive 33-0 win over Bloomfield at Foley Field on September 8.

Leading the way for Belleville was Joe Roberts, with a touchdown run of 55 yards, Joe Muraglia with a 60 yard punt return, Joe Droz with two scoring runs of eight and seven yards and Joe Pizzi, with a six yard touchdown run.

Mike Biasi added one extra point along with Droz and Roberts to wrap up the 33-0 decision.

Highlights of the game included David Caruso's three on-side kicks, one which was recovered and two near misses, Dominic Malanga's punt return for 30 yards which was one block away from scoring a T.D. and the solid defensive effort.

The defense was paced by Jon Yochum, Pete Maccarone, Miles Machado, Henri DeFrance and Nick Riggi.

The 'C' team congratulates the Junior Buc 'A' squad for its 13-0 win and also wishes to thank the Jr. Buc 'C' cheerleaders.

Tina Auerbach heads upfield with ball during game with Glen Ridge last week. Lady Bucs won in Carlos Folleco's debut as head coach.

Lady Bucs' Jill Ernst (right) and teammate look to keep ball away from Glen Ridge defender. Belleville won its season opener, 3-1 last Friday at Clearmon Field.

Gymnasts open season today at Ramapo

By Mike Lamberti

The Belleville gymnastics team will open its season today, at Ramapo, in a 4 p.m. start.

Head coach Donna Richardi is very hopeful for the '97 campaign.

"We have some young kids who have varsity experience," Richardi said. "We'll be facing some tough teams this year, but I think we'll be pretty competitive."

"One of our goals is to hold on to the Bloomfield-Belleville trophy."

In order to do that, the Lady Bucs, obviously, have to defeat Bloomfield when the teams meet on October 21.

In the meantime, Richardi will go with a lineup consisting of three seniors Liz Noonan, Dina Elhew and Samantha Gulick, one junior, Anjali Doshi and three sophomores, Jennifer Constantino, Janelle Romano and Lindsey Giordano.

Two freshman, Vanessa Rodriguez and Xarama Cabera have just come out for the team and will probably not compete in varsity matches until later this fall.

Noonan and Elhew will probably be in the 'all around', meaning they'll compete in all four events, the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vaulting and floor exercise.

"We have kids that have varsity experience and I think we'll be strong in all four events," Richardi said. "Liz has a lot of talent and Dina has been practicing all year long."

All three of our sophomores saw varsity time last year, so they'll be ready."

The coach admits she's "hopeful" for the season.

"I think we'll do some good things," Richardi said. "If we continue to improve, we'll win some matches."

'C' team tied by Nutley, 13-13

The Belleville Junior Bucs 'C' team battled a strong Nutley team to a 13 all tie last Sunday.

Belleville opened the scoring on a long 70 yard touchdown run by Joe Muraglia, which was followed by the extra point.

Minutes later, Muraglia had another apparent T.D. run, this one from 60 yards, but the play was called back because of a penalty.

Nutley scored soon after the flag, tying the score at seven.

The second half started with Belleville's Joe Droz exploding for a 70 yard touchdown run up the middle, giving Belleville a 13-7 advantage.

The Raiders came back again, tying the game at 13, which is how the game ended.

Defensive standouts included Jon Yochum, with ten tackles, Joe Pizzi and Mike Biasi with several jarring hits and Jon Flynn with a great hit on the Nutley quarterback late in the game that ensured the tie game.

The Junior Bucs, once again, expressed thanks to the 'C' cheerleading squad for their support on what was a very warm day.

The tie put Belleville's record at 1-0-1 entering this weekends action.

Good luck to the team.

Job Haines Home encourages a safe Halloween for children

Again this year, the Job Haines Home, 250 Bloomfield Ave., Bloomfield, will encourage area children to celebrate Halloween safely through a display at its Bloomfield Harvest Fest '97 booth.

Residents of Job Haines will once again hold a drawing for invitations to the annual "Celebrate Safe" Halloween party, given at the home during October.

"Last year, 25 children attended the Halloween party," said Job Haines Assistant Administrator Anita Merrill.

After trick-or-treating through the 1902-vintage building, the children will attend a party complete with games, prizes, refreshments and fortune-telling.

"Residents and staff look forward to providing a safe, fun alternative for parents and children in our community," Merrill said.

Jacqueline Kerr Harrold, executive director of the home, added,

"The safety of the children in our community is very important to those of us who live and work here at the Job Haines Home."

Invitations to the party will be issued following a random drawing. The number of children invited is limited to 25 and children must be 11 years of age or under.

To enter your child's name, please visit the Job Haines booth at the upcoming Harvest Fest on Saturday, Sept. 20.

In keeping with the "Celebrate Safe" theme, free trick-or-treat bags with safety tips for children will be available at the home's Harvest Fest booth.

A separate drawing will be held for a plush, stuffed version of McGruff the Crime Dog -- a national proponent of Halloween safety.

Gymnasts open season today at Ramapo

By Mike Lamberti

The Belleville gymnastics team will open its season today, at Ramapo, in a 4 p.m. start.

Head coach Donna Richardi is very hopeful for the '97 campaign.

"We have some young kids who have varsity experience," Richardi said. "We'll be facing some tough teams this year, but I think we'll be pretty competitive."

"One of our goals is to hold on to the Bloomfield-Belleville trophy."

In order to do that, the Lady Bucs, obviously, have to defeat Bloomfield when the teams meet on October 21.

In the meantime, Richardi will go with a lineup consisting of three seniors Liz Noonan, Dina Elhew and Samantha Gulick, one junior, Anjoli Doshi and three sophomores, Jennifer Constantino, Janelle Romano and Lindsey Giordano.

Two freshman, Vanessa Rodriguez and Xarama Cabera have just come out for the team and will probably not compete in varsity matches until later this fall.

Noonan and Elhew will probably be in the 'all around', meaning they'll compete in all four events, the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vaulting and floor exercise.

"We have kids that have varsity experience and I think we'll be strong in all four events," Richardi said. "Liz has a lot of talent and Dina has been practicing all year long."

All three of our sophomores saw varsity time last year, so they'll be ready."

The coach admits she's "hopeful" for the season.

"I think we'll do some good things," Richardi said. "If we continue to improve, we'll win some matches."

Recreation Roundup

Fall Programs

The Belleville Department of Recreation & Cultural Affairs has announced the start of its fall activities schedule.

Girls twirling will be held on Wednesday this year at School #7, beginning on September 24 as follows: Grades 1-4 at 6:30 p.m. and Grades 5-8 at 7:30 p.m. Girls must provide their own batons for this activity.

Adult open volleyball will start on Wednesday, October 8, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at School #3 for men and women. Photo I.D.'s are required of all participants, who must be Belleville residents. Call the Recreation office for photo I.D. information.

For more information on upcoming programs like basketball, volleyball leagues and wrestling, please call 450-3422 between 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. All programs are tentative, with schedules subject to change.

Basketball and wrestling applications for children will be available at the Recreation Dept. office, 407 Joramemon Street, by early October.

The girls cheerleading clinics for grades 1-8 will begin in January, 1998 at School #8 on Tuesdays and at School #3 on Thursdays. These instructional clinics are designed for beginners, as well as for those girls who want to try out for the 1998 Junior Bucs Cheerleading squads in May. Please check the newspaper in December for details.

Volleyball teams needed

The Belleville Recreation Department is taking names of people who would be interested in entering teams in the women's and men's volleyball leagues. The women's league plays on Tuesday night at School #3, while the men's leagues play on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Friendly House. Teams must be composed of three-quarters Belleville residents.

If interested in applying for any of these leagues, please call the Recreation office at 450-3422.

Belleville resident women and men age 18 or older, are invited to put their name on the waiting list, in the event that already established teams may be in need of individual players to fill out their rosters.

Basketball team needed

The Belleville Recreation Department is presently seeking at least one team to play in its Men's basketball league beginning in November. The league plays on Thursday night at the Middle School, using primarily high school rules. There is a residency, mandating that three-quarters of the team be Belleville residents. For other information, or if interested, please call 450-3422.

Clara Maass Golf Invitational to be played at Ridgewood Country Club, set for September

The 1997 Clara Maass Foundation Golf Invitational is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 29 at the Ridgewood Country Club in Paramus. Proceeds from this event will assist in the purchase of a CT/Virtual Simulator for the Radiation Oncology Department at Clara Maass Medical Center in Belleville.

The Ridgewood Country Club is renowned as one of the most outstanding golf courses in both the metropolitan area and the United States. Each year, Golf Magazine selects Ridgewood Country Club as one of the top 100 courses in America.

As part of the golf outing, a luncheon and evening cocktail reception will be held on the outdoor patio, which overlooks the golf course. The cocktail reception will be followed by a dinner buffet and a raffle for a number of fabulous prizes. The fee for golfers is $500.

Besides participating as a golfer, there also are a number of ways to support Clara Maass, such as sponsorship of tees, golf carts, the luncheon and cocktail reception. An ad journal also will be distributed at the event.

Last year, 172 golfers participated and the event raised $118,000 to assist in the purchase of diagnostic equipment for the Women's Health Center at Clara Maass. For more information about the Clara Maass Golf Invitational, please call 450-2277.

NJ Football tryouts set

The North Jersey Football League is seeking Belleville teams for its fourth fall/winter season beginning in early October. Teams consist of a minimum of ten men, 19 and over, for two-hand touch games of six on six. Games are played on Sunday mornings and are officiated by referees. Registration ends Saturday, September 20.

All levels of skill may participate. Individual players can be placed on a team. To enter a team or for more information, call Gary at (201) 767-6054 or Mark at (201) 391-2098.

'C' team tied by Nutley, 13-13

The Belleville Junior Bucs 'C' team battled a strong Nutley team to a 13 all tie last Sunday.

Belleville opened the scoring on a long 70 yard touchdown run by Joe Muraglia, which was followed by the extra point.

Minutes later, Muraglia had another apparent T.D. run, this one from 60 yards, but the play was called back because of a penalty.

Nutley scored soon after the flag, tying the score at seven.

The second half started with Belleville's Joe Droz exploding for a 70 yard touchdown run up the middle, giving Belleville a 13-7 advantage.

The Raiders came back again, tying the game at 13, which is how the game ended.

Defensive standouts included Jon Yochum, with ten tackles, Joe Pizzi and Mike Biasi with several jarring hits and Jon Flynn with a great hit on the Nutley quarterback late in the game that ensured the tie game.

The Junior Bucs, once again, expressed thanks to the 'C' cheerleading squad for their support on what was a very warm day.

The tie put Belleville's record at 1-0-1 entering this weekend's action.

Good luck to the team.

The event will feature continuous live entertainment, ethnic foods, high-quality crafts and other merchandise for sale, a health fair, pie-throwing, baby buggy races for adults, classic cars and a kids' amusement area.

A parade down Broad Street will kick off the festivities at 11 a.m. on Saturday, followed by New Jersey Secretary of State Lonna Hooks introducing New Jersey's "Many Faces -- One Family" diversity week on the main stage on the Green. Miss New Jersey, Kathy Nejat, and Miss Essex County, Kameelah Majied, will host Saturday's main-stage performances.

An expanded children's area will feature puppeteer Bob Conrad, who will present two shows at 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. on Sunday. Both days will feature a live wild animal exhibit, hands-on science exhibits, a petting zoo, face painting, amusements, pony rides, clowns and other attractions.

Job Haines Home encourages a safe Halloween for children

Again this year, the Job Haines Home, 250 Bloomfield Ave., Bloomfield, will encourage area children to celebrate Halloween safely through a display at its Bloomfield Harvest Fest '97 booth.

Residents of Job Haines will once again hold a drawing for invitations to the annual "Celebrate Safe" Halloween party, given at the home during October.

"Last year, 25 children attended the Halloween party," said Job Haines Assistant Administrator Anita Merrill.

After trick-or-treating through the 1902-vintage building, the children will attend a party complete with games, prizes, refreshments and fortune-telling.

"Residents and staff look forward to providing a safe, fun alternative for parents and children in our community," Merrill said.

Jacqueline Kerr Harrold, executive director of the home, added,

"The safety of the children in our community is very important to those of us who live and work here at the Job Haines Home."

Invitations to the party will be issued following a random drawing. The number of children invited is limited to 25 and children must be 11 years of age or under.

To enter your child's name, please visit the Job Haines booth at the upcoming Harvest Fest on Saturday, Sept. 20.

In keeping with the "Celebrate Safe" theme, free trick-or-treat bags with safety tips for children will be available at the home's Harvest Fest booth.

A separate drawing will be held for a plush, stuffed version of McGruff the Crime Dog -- a national proponent of Halloween safety.

For more information about the home or the Halloween party, call 743-0792.

RELIEVES PAIN, SHARPENS BRAIN

Alzheimer's disease currently afflicts 4 million Americans. Now, it seems that a drug commonly taken to reduce the inflammation of arthritis also may help prevent Alzheimer's disease. A 15-year study, published in Neurology, shows a link between Alzheimer's prevention and nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs), primarily ibuprofen. According to this research, involving 2,065 men and women, those taking NSAIDs (and ibuprofen in particular) had half the risk of getting Alzheimer's as those who did not take the anti-inflammatory drugs. The greatest benefit came to those who took the NSAIDs for two or more years. And, while aspirin and acetaminophen were also studied, they were not found to have any effect in this regard.

Research is continually finding new uses for currently available drugs, as well as new medications. For information on up-to-date benefits talk to us at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 759-1968 or 759-1956. You will find us at 338 Washington Avenue, where we carry many items including Timex watches, transistor radios, cosmetics, and toiletries. Open: 9am-10pm daily, 9am-5pm Sundays.

HINT: While some NSAIDs taken in high doses can cause kidney damage and ulcers (among other things), the benefits derived from taking the drugs by those who are at high risk for Alzheimer's may outweigh the risk of experiencing these side effects.

HOME ON THE RANGE

Are You A Wall Kicker?

When buying a new home, inspect every detail even down to the appliances that come with the home.

(NAPS)—Some home buyers, similar to the tire kickers in the car showroom, are known as "wall kickers" in the real estate trade. These people want to seem sophisticated when it comes to picking their new place, but don't always know just what to look for.

While you should always have a professional inspect a house before you buy it, there are some things you can check for yourself.

When you get down to it, the basement is a good place to start. Does it smell musty or feel clammy and damp? That could mean a leak in the foundation.

Next, give the floors the old pencil test. Put a pencil or other round object down in the middle of the room. If it rolls, the house could be settling more on one side than the other.

Because homeowners are spending more time in the kitchen, this room is being used more as a family room or gathering spot. As a result, homebuyers expect the kitchen to look better than ever. The trend is toward smooth surface cooktops and ranges with Ceran glass-ceramic panels to achieve an upscale look and offer easy cleaning.

Ceran glass-ceramic panels, supplied by Schott Corporation, are used by virtually every manufacturer of smooth surface cooktops in North America. The material is not only easy to clean and attractive, it is remarkably resistant to impact. It is translucent to show the glowing heating element below, and non-porous so spills never stain.

Free Brochure

For more information on smoothtops with Ceran glass-ceramic panels, write Schott Corporation, Technical Glass Division, 3 Odell Plaza, Yonkers, NY 10701. Or call 914-968-8900.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

A Guilt-Free Home Improvement

(NAPS)—If you've done any backyard construction lately, or plan to, you may be entitled to a U-turn on the guilt-trip highway.

So often, it seems, we hear that something we've been doing or eating for years has just been found to damage the environment or harm our health. Here's a switch: you may have used a product that is beneficial to the environment and not even realized it.

Pressure-treated lumber—the wood commonly used for decks, fences, docks, playsets, and residential landscaping—has typically been purchased because it lasts outdoors and it's economical. But now this long-used building product is getting praise for its new-found environmental qualities.

"If you could magically create the environmentally ideal building material," asks Huck DeVenzio of Hickson Corporation, "what characteristics would you include?"

"You would want it to be renewable and, if possible, rapidly replenished; to use recycled materials and be itself recyclable; to require little energy to produce; to last a long time; to cause no pollution problems; to be installed with light weight, low-impact construction equipment; and, after all this, to be comparatively inexpensive."

"Well," DeVenzio says, "this ideal environmental product is not some futuristic miracle material; it already exists, and it has for 60 years. It's pressure-treated wood."

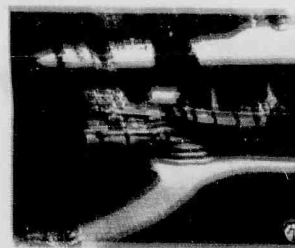

DeVenzio's company licenses the producers of Wolmanized wood, North America's top-selling brand of pressure-treated lumber.

Treated lumber begins with wood, the only major building material that is renewable. The trees, mostly pines, used for treated wood are plentiful, fast-growing, and grown almost entirely on managed timberlands, not in old growth forests or unregulated tropical rainforests.

Wood requires less energy to produce than alternative building products and the preservative treatment incorporates recycled elements that would otherwise be disposed of as waste.

The treating process enables a deck to resist termites and rot damage, which extends the life of wood and reduces demands on forests and other resources. According to the Southern Forest Products Association, the use of treated wood saves 226,000,000 trees every year.

"Many of the applications for treated wood are also good for nature," DeVenzio adds. "Wolmanized wood has been used for boardwalks and viewing platforms that allow people to gain a greater appreciation of the natural world, for tent platforms that minimize impacts at popular camping sites, for dune crossovers that enable sunbathers to get to a beach without trampling dune vegetation, for seawalls and retaining walls that limit soil erosion, for highway sound walls that reduce traffic noise, for greenhouses and raised bed gardens that produce vegetables and flowers, for osprey platforms that are attracting these birds back to areas they had abandoned, and for other beneficial applications.

Treated lumber, such as the Wolmanized wood in this deck, saves millions of trees by its long-term resistance to termites and rot.

"Treated wood is used in national parks, botanical gardens, and wildlife sanctuaries around the world."

So, when you finish building a deck with treated wood, you can sit back, raise a glass of lemonade, and proudly toast yourself for your responsible choice.

Of Safety

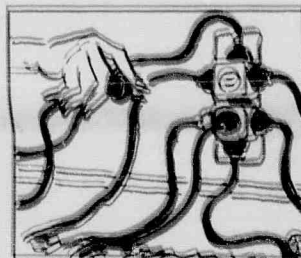

The Four Seasons Of Electrical Safety

(NAPS)—Any time of year is a good time to start practicing electrical safety at home and at work. That's the theme of the Four Seasons of Electrical Safety campaign created by the National Electrical Safety Foundation, in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). The campaign was launched in May, National Electrical Safety Month.

It seems it's not a moment too soon. According to the CPSC, more than 250 electrocutions are associated with consumer products each year. Another 700 people die in residential electrical fires, and these statistics don't include work-related injuries and deaths.

To help keep yourself and your family out of such situations, keep these hints in mind:

- Keep electric cords out of the reach of children and pets.
- Avoid overloading outlets.
- Don't run electric cords under rugs or carpets.
- Wear proper footwear at work.
- Don't use appliances with frayed, cut or damaged cords.
- Never immerse electric appliances in water. Don't use a hair dryer or plug-in electric razor in the tub or shower.
- Listen to local radio stations for safety tips from the National Electricity can be a useful tool if handled carefully—never overload an outlet.

Electrical Safety Foundation. They offer tips and suggestions to help you remember electrical safety rules every day of every season of the year. They feature Bob Vila, host of "Bob Vila's Home Again" television program.

The National Electrical Safety Foundation was established in 1994 to promote the safe use of electricity in the home and workplace. Its three primary goals are: to promote public awareness through ongoing education; to sponsor National Electrical Safety Month; and to serve as a library for electrical safety information.
