A 19th century title, 21st century responsibilities

BY RICHARD DICKON of Belleville Times

A century ago, the word constable was synonomous with a police officer. Today, most towns still have constables, but their duties are very different.

In Belleville, Police Chief Joseph Rotonda said there are six constables that are appointed by the Township Council. In Nutley, they are appointed by the mayor.

In Nutley, the handful of constables are appointed by the mayor, according to Mayor Joanne Cocchiola.

Rotonda said the constables perform a variety of functions in 2008, but are not involved in direct police work or even paid through the police department.

"They serve warrants, serve civil court papers, serve subpoenas," Rotonda said. "They can also repossess cars, serve eviction notices, and evict tenants."

Among the other possible duties would be the seizing of assets under a court order.

to Rotonda.

"They are paid for by the person who hires them for a particular duty," Rotonda said.

In Nutley, applications are made first, Cocchiola said. Next, the township runs a criminal background check on each applicant, she said.

"The are then taken to the full Board of Commissioners for approval," Cocchiola said.

She said that earlier in Nutley history, the constables "did a whole lot more" in town law enforcement. Now, they primarily perform the duties of process servers.

"The servers are paid for by private lawyers," Cocchiola said. "They are not paid by the municipality. I don't know that we even use them?

According to the state, a constable is considered a "peace officer" under NJ statutes. Modern-day New Jersey police officers inherit their authority from the constable. Constables may exercise their While Belleville appoints the functions and perform their duties constables, they actually work for anywhere in the county wherein the county courthouse, according the appointing municipality is located

Constables are appointed by their city government (city council) via the Clerk's Office and their office term is determined by the municipal government body.

They answer to the city council or police chief via monthly activity reports. There seems to be some confusion as to whether they should be identified as municipal, town, city or county constables.

Their powers are mainly focused on the enforcement of civil law although state legislature grants them the power to also enforce criminal and motor vehicle laws. Currently, there is legislation pending approval which will require all current and future NJ constables to undergo police training within six months of appointment.

An inquiry using a well-known search engine turned up a half dozen constables, including one from Bloomfield and Gerald Reif of Nutley. The site was an advertising spot for constables.

Belleville joined cities nationwide for the 25th "America's Night Out Against Crime."

On Tuesday, Aug. 5, neighborhoods throughout the township were invited to join forces with thousands of communities nationwide for the national crime/drug prevention event, according to Sgt. Gerard Corbo.

The Belleville Mobile Precinct. with Community Police Officers including Corbo, were to be out and about all night long. They compiled a list of people who will be throwing block parties, picnics and barbecues, Corbo said.

"We have various giveaways, talk about crime and drug awareness, and look to start neighboranswer any questions they might have," he said. "We are looking to strengthen community relations, with a positive interaction between police and neighborhoods. We are sending a message to criminals, that neighbors are organizing to fight against crime."

Among the official National Night Out giveaways are T-shirts, balls and Frisbees for youths, along with the distribution of safety pamphlets.

Corbo said the police want to acknowledge the efforts made by citizens by spending time with different groups.

As always for many years, Christ Episcopal Church at 393 Washington Ave. was once again to kick off the night at about 6 p.m. The church's festivities were to include free food and participating businesses featuring information and handouts, according to Rev. Paul Walker.

Corbo said the church is one large gathering the police would attend, but they also go where there's just a few people, to be

The other confirmed block party/barbecue sites were 75 Van Houten Pl., 54 Salter Pl., 41 Naples Ave., 17 Lake St. and 85 Rutan Rd. National Night Out is sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch and co-sponsored locally by Belleville. It involved thousands of communities from all 50 states.

Residents were urged to lock their doors, turn on their outdoor lights and spend the evening outside with neighbors and the police. The township and police department view National Night Out as an ideal opportunity to build neighborhood unity and strengthen police/community partnerships in the fight for safer neighborhoods, Corbo said.

After fire, apartments making a comeback

BY RICHARD DICKON of Belleville Times

A year after a devastating fire gutted a 41-unit apartment com-Hiplex at 1-7 Rutgers Pl., the Zoning Board has confirmed that the 41st gunit is allowed as a rental, even Sthough it may have served for years as a superintendent's resi-

Even as reconstruction of the apartment complex is under way, ≩the zoning board found no reason ຊີ not to allow the 41st housing unit, after hearing from longtime occupants.

The four-alarm fire that displaced more than 50 residents into the rain with no place to live May 1, 2007 was ruled accidental, but the entire two and a half story apartment building at 7 Rutgers Court was virtually destroyed.

Zoning Board Chairman Ottilio DelGuercio said the 'Ierry" board's approval of certification to allow the apartment was easy once the testimony had been heard.

"They had to show us it was there as an apartment before," DelGuercio said. "It may have been a superintendent's residence for some time, but they showed us evidence that it had been rented for years, and we had collected taxes on it, too."

He said the certification was approved unanimously. "It was no problem," DelGuercio said.

The testimony cleared up any confusion, he said.

"We heard from former tenants who had been there for years," DelGuercio said. "It was significant what the tenants had to say."

The officials resolution says that Rutgers Court Associates, the applicant, is the owner of the property. The applicant has applied to under a bed, and the mattress the Zoning Board for a certifica- caught fire, according to fire offition that the existing 41 unit resi- cials dential dwelling on the subject lot in the R-B Two-Family Residential Zoning District is a legally protected pre-existing non-conforming use which may continue as such, the resolution states.

All required notices have been served, and the board has heard and considered the evidence and arguments presented by counsel for the applicant. No neighboring property owners or interested parties having objected, and the board found a number of findings of fact and conclusions based on the evidence. First, the property is located in the R-B Two-Family Residential Zoning District. The submitted evidence in the form of tax records, Department of Community Affair Family registration records, and the testimony of the applicant, the contractor, and former tenant, taken in their totality, are persuasive, the resolution said.

The evidence is persuasive of the fact that the property has been continuously used as a forty-one family residential building without interruption since prior to the amendment to the zoning ordinance prohibiting the said number of residential units at this site, according to the resolution.

So, the board resolved that the application of Rutgers Court Associates, for a certification that the existing 41-one unit residential dwelling on the subject lot in the R-C Multi-Family Zoning District is a legally protected pre-existing nonconforming use which may continue. Budget in limbo as council awaits cap waiver

BY DAVID HINRICHS for Belleville Times

The Belleville Township Council held a work session last Monday night lasting well over two hours to discuss many pending issues around the town including the 2008 Municipal Budget.

Township Manager Victor Canning addressed the council on the budget status and the complications that have arisen with voting ing around ideas to lower the budon it. "The main reason for the dilemma we are in is that we are well above the cap levy for our budget. We cannot vote on this budget until we receive word from the DCA (Department of Community Affairs) on whether they will grant us a waiver on our levy situation," said Canning. "Their next meeting is not until August 13th, one day after our scheduled meeting, which presents a problem for us to vote on the budget."

in length at the August 12th meeting and then schedule to reconvene two days later to vote on the 'Taxes are up budget following word from the DCA. "I really see no other option everywhere and these for us, I think that is our best course of action," said Canning. "If we wait till September for our next scheduled meeting we run the risk of entering into the fourth quarter of tax bills and we could lose money. That is something I don't want to risk."

The council then began throwget between now and the August ... they aren't taking 12th meeting. "I'm really tired of getting nickel and dimed by everyone, that is the real frustrating part of this whole thing. All the OT that comes pouring in is just unacceptable and we have no more big money that can be pulled out of this budget," said Deputy Mayor Kevin Kennedy. "Why don't we freeze the salaries at the rates of the 2007 ordinance?"

Council members also suggested Canning suggested that the cutting back some of the full time council should discuss the budget positions to part time to relieve payments on pension plans and thing we can consider but our last option is to begin cutting positions, that is something we absolutely do not want to do. We can get some part time employees to take over some of our positions and move health benefits. "That is another our full time employees to other make payments, apply for permits areas that would be more produc- and do other activities that would though because we are operating with a budget that is $1.2 million less than it was in 2006 and we are still trying to provide the same services to this town that we did two years ago despite inflation. That $1.2 million represents four tax grants and has already received one to repave Liberty Avenue . "We received $441 thousand towards the repaving of Liberty Avenue, we are getting ready to start that. We also applied for the Community Vision Grant which we will know if we got by the fall," said Canning. "I also have a meeting with New Jersey Transit to discuss how much money they are prepared to give us toward our new firehouse."

Another way Canning and the council are looking to save money is by placing kiosks at Town Hall where residents will be able to tive," said Canning. "It is tough normally require paperwork and man power. "This will allow us to cut down on the paper used around here and allow my employ-ees to focus on other things. It will g improve the efficiency of how things go around here and save us

To combat these problems the council has applied for several grants and has already received given. "We can complain all we's want but things are bad every-where. This is not a Belleville problem, this is a state problem and it is & time to stop yelling at our local council and time to start yelling at our state government," said Belleville resident Dreana Hinchman. "Taxes are up everywhere and these people are fighting for us, they are trying to get things down but when the money is not there the money is not there. They aren't magicians but they are trying and they aren't taking the easy way out of just cutting jobs so you have to respect that."

ATLANTIC CITY By Ellen Burke Rawls 'Real Magic'

with Jinger & Kalin at Trump Marina

It's been more than a decade since the duo of Mark Kalin and his wife, Jinger Leigh last performed in Atlantic City — a criminally long hiatus. Audiences here have been delighted with the very personable pair - regular visitors throughout the '80s and '90s, playing at what was then Trump Castle, with a new bag of tricks each summer. Now the pair have finally returned with "Kalin & Jinger's Real Magic," which runs through Aug. 17 at Trump Marina. During the years of their AC absence, Mark and Jinger have become a fixture in Reno, where they wowed audiences nightly with the disappearance of an American Airlines jumbo jet on the massive acre-sized stage of the Reno Hilton. They've also established their own freestanding theater in Reno - Magic Underground, an intimate venue where the audience could share an up-close experience featuring many of their incredible sleight-of-hand feats. Although their earlier appearances in AC included several mystifying "transformations" involving a series of tigers or panthers, the exotic big cats were retired in 2003 following Roy Horn's disastrous attack onstage.

The new show running at Trump Marina has a significant gamut of "big" stunts, horrific machines which menace life and limb, some indecipherable works of levitation, and "op art" illusions, wherein Jinger is encased in an assortment of boxes, sawed in half, skewered with swords, and later emerges unscathed. At one point they even tease us by promising to show us how one of the classic tricks is performed, turning their backs to the audience and playing to the back of the stage, that we might "look over their shoulders." It's an intriguing prospect, but at the end the tables are turned and we've been misdirected once again! It's a source of wonderment, but of course in our cynical society we somehow know that there's something going on which we're just not able to see or comprehend. The bit of sorcery which seems most to amaze the crowd takes place when Mark Kalin strolls into the audience and asks individuals to lend him one of their own rings. He invites the volunteers to deposit the rings in a clear glass tumbler. After collecting three different rings from people in different areas of the theater, Mark shakes the glass, then lifts the contents: three rings linked together! He invites the donors to examine and identify their own rings, and challenges them to separate the three linked pieces. Impossible! Again, he shakes the glass and the rings are magically separated and returned to the original donors. This is something that must be seen to be believed....no gadgets, equipment, fake bottoms. It's all there before our eyes. It's "Real Magic" with Kalin & Jinger! Here's a highly entertaining show which appeals to the entire family. The kids love it, but it is not a children's show per se. Catch the show at The Shell Showroom at Trump Marina at 8 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, and 4 p.m. Sunday now through August 17.. Admission is $25 (adults) and $19 (children). Borgata has done it again! The sophisticated new Japanese pub

Izakaya has been added to the roster of celebrity chef destination restaurants including Wolfgang Puck, Bobby Flay and Michael Mina's Sea Blue. Izakaya translates from the Japanese as a cross between a bar and a restaurant, and the new venue at Borgata also offers a more intimate restaurant area offering options for a full multi-course dinner. __ Special Advertising Feature

My pet peeves: These are a few of my least favorite things

My Ghost Writer, who wishes to be anonymous, sent me a list of 'Pet Peeves' that are at the top of her list. I wholeheartedly agree with them. So, listen up!

PET PEEVES People, who live in other towns, but have businesses in Silver Lake and don't keep their property neat and tidy. People who have trees in front of their homes and let the weeds grow around them.

Residents who park on the sidewalk when their driveway is too short.

People who never sweep their sidewalks.

Homeowners who never put their porch lights on during the evening.

People who leave empty garbage cans on the curb long after garbage is collected. People who ride around the neighborhood with their radios blasting

Residents who don't pick up after their dogs.

Those are great ones and if anyone can think of more, give me a call.

The Silver Lake 'Il Fresco' Meeting will be held on Monday, August 18 at The Angel's House on Salter Place.

As we all know, our dessert of the evening is from Rita's Lemon Ice of Silver Lake. So make it a point to come out and enjoy your lemon ice under the stars. Of course, we will have our regular meeting first. Hey kids, don't forget to visit Hey kids, don't forget to visit myour Silver Lake Library for their summer reading program, reading ≥ books.

The Library is open at 2 p.m. and closes at 5 p.m. School starts on September $\overline{3}$ and will be here before you know it. So catch up on your reading!

And remember, we love Silver Lake.

Belleville police take part in county-wide emergency drill

Municipal police and fire played an important role. departments and local EMS and Fairfield Police Chief HAZMAT crews participated in Voelker observed, "In actual drills, the largest, locally organized, emergency management and homeland security drill of its kind in New Jersey recently at the Codey Arena at South Mountain Reservation.

Coordinated by the Essex County Sheriff's Office of Emergency Management, the exercise revolved around a mock chemical attack by terrorists at the ice skating rink.

Also responding to the simulated attack were the National Guard, the FBI's Joint Terrorism Task Force, the New Jersey State Police, the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and the University of Medicine and Dentistry, among a host of other agencies.

"By all accounts, this drill proved that our interoperable communications systems among federal, state, regional and local agencies are a success," Sheriff Armando Fontoura, Essex County emergency management coordinator, stated. "From what we've learned today we can now develop a response matrix to an actual terrorist event that can be utilized throughout New Jersey by local First Responders."

'Making the right decision under life-threatening circum-stances is crucial," noted Montclair Police Chief David Sabagh. "This exercise has taught us many valuable lessons in order to protect the people of our community."

The New Jersey National Guard 21st Civil Support Team provided its medical support staff to the operation and their overhead helicopter recorded the event on videotape.

"Experts from every level of government and the private sector played vital roles during the drill," said Glen Ridge Police Chief John Magnier.

the 25th anniversary of the 1983 Belleville softball team)

Carl Corino remembers well his feelings about the 1983 Belleville High softball team.

"We were returning our starting pitcher and catcher, but we had to rebuild pretty much the entire infield," Corino said last weekend. "I felt confident we'd be pretty good, but there were some question marks."

The battery was certainly not one of those question marks. Junior pitcher Dina DeAquino was beginning her second year of varsity play, having won 15 games in 1982. Junior catcher Tracey Buono was also coming off a big year in '82 and had quickly estabter and marvelous defensive presence.

The outfield returned two key players, senior centerfielder Donna Campana, one of the best defensive players Belleville has ever had, along with sophomore leftfielder Donna Brooks. Graduation had taken away rightfielder Angela Chimento, along with first baseman Mona Stampe, second tremendous defense? baseman Rosie Leonidis and third baseman Nancy Coffey. The four seniors were instrumental in the 24-2-2 season of '82.

"We had a few candidates that (Second in a series, celebrating we felt okay about in replacing e 25th anniversary of the 1983 Angela in rightfield," Corino recalled. "But we had to get the infield in order. Only (shortstop) Kim Indiero was returning to a starting position. We lost some great players in Mona, Rosie and Nancy. To this day, I still haven't seen anyone play first the way Mona did. Rosie and Nancy were key four-year players."

Lois DeLuccio, a designated hitter in 1982, moved to first and played very well in 1983. Corino opted to start freshman Desiree Johansen at second base and used a committee of sort at third that included Cheryl Marion and Oxaris Barbot.

In mid April, with the team struggling somewhat, Corino made a change in the infield that lished herself as a dangerous hit- clearly put the team on the right path. He moved Johansen to third, where she would excel for the remainder of the season and promoted Lorraine Bini as the starting second baseman.

"Bini solidified our infield," Corino recalled. "She didn't hit a lot, but she played a good second base for us. And Desiree was perfect at third for us. She played

Legion had tremendous '08 campaign

A division championship, an appearance in the county championship game, along with a win in the state tournament highlighted the 2008 Belleville senior legion baseball team's summer campaign. "It was a big step for us,"

Buccaneers' varsity mentor, said. "Our kids are in the mindset that they can't wait for more now. They had the opportunity to advance this summer and now, we're hoping that carries over to the fall and 2009."

The next step for most of the players will be the fall baseball sea-

You did good, Danny and Rich

I love the oldies music, so when Johnny Maestro and the Brooklyn Bridge came to Municipal Stadium last Thursday, I couldn't resist. I've always been a big fan of Johnny, as well as Kenny Vance and the Planotones, not to mention the Duprees and some of the other groups of the 50s and 60s. And of course, I'm still a sucker for those great Disco songs of the mid to late 70s, which were popular when I was a student at Belleville High.

Anyway, when I got to the stadium last week, I ran into a long time friend in Danny Grasso, himself a big Maestro fan. I first met Danny late in the '73-74 school year. It was my first year as a student at the high school. Danny had just completed his first season as Belleville's head boys basketball coach and he was getting ready to a lot of memories with Danny, all run his summer basketball league of which are great. In fact, the first at School #8. Danny needed a scorekeeper and asked me if I'd be interested, which I was. In the summer of '74, I was barely 5'7" tall. so I didn't think he wanted me to be his next basketball star, especially with a guy named Abdel Anderson on the team.

great year in the Big 10 Conference, which is long since defunct, but continues to be considered the best conference Belleville ever competed in.

"I was really tough on you guys back then," Danny said to me, a little wistfully. To which, I said, "are you kidding? We loved it. Those were great times."

"I've mellowed a lot since those days," Grasso said with a laugh. "I can't coach the way I did with you guys with the kids today. It's differ-ent."

And while Grasso is correct that times are different, I just wanted to er but still coaches basketball at let him know that as tough as he Montclair Immaculate High might have been on us some 30 years ago, guess what? We all survived, and we loved almost all of it. teacher, or coach, was pretty much the final word, and if we gave that person any trouble, you can be assured our parents wouldn't put up with it later on. We all knew it, and I, for one, always enjoyed it.

would sound something like this. Okay, run to Brookdale Park (from our home course at Belleville Park), run five miles at Brookdale, then run back here and run two more miles. I'm going for doughnuts (or Egg McMuffins) now. See you in three hours."

And that would be it. We'd go off on the 15 mile run, and Ruffalo would be waiting for us back at Belleville Park, knowing which kids might have dogged it, and that was without even following us along the route.

Sometimes, during track season, Ruffalo would have us do these We grew up in an era when the animal drills in the gym, where we would start with 25 jumping jacks and one push up. That was easy, I thought. But then it would be 24 jumping jacks, and two push ups, and continuing until it was one jumping jack and 25 push ups. It was tough, and Ruffalo would be like a Marine drill sergeant, telling us we were babies if we didn't man

You know what? It was great. I'll never forget a time when I was on the Belleville track team and we had a home race (yes, that's right, a home race). I was a two-miler, and was just getting over pneumonia. Six laps into the race, I stopped for a minute to catch my breath. And as soon as I did, I heard this voice, booming, "Lamberti, don't stop! You finish this race!"

And you can guess who it was. I finished the race. Years later. Ruffalo would say to me how bad he felt about pushing me when I was sick. I told him he was right, that part of facing adversity is to work through it and he taught me that lesson during that particular race. I was cleared by my doctor to run that day, it wasn't Rich's fault. I'm grateful that he pushed me to be better.

So, here's a note to two former Belleville coaches. You worked us hard as kids and you provided us some wonderful memories. The hard work was all a part of those good times. I can't speak for everyone, but most of my friends from that era will say today that they loved it, too.

outside, it's early August and the last thing most kids want to think about is the start of school. I know when I was a kid, I tried my best to stretch this time of year as best I could, hoping it would push back that inevitable Wednesday-after-Labor Day, which, of course, never happened.

Believe it or not, the 2008-2009 school year begins at Belleville in less than a month, and with that, practice sessions for Belleville High's fall sports are just about to begin in earnest.

Most of the varsity sports will be playing their respective season openers four weeks from tomorrow.

There will be some new looks to the varsity teams this fall, beginning with the most recognized fall program, which has put together as Belleville's head coach.

Strumolo, who played his high school football at Nutley, has a good coaching background as a valued assistant with some solid programs.

This will be his first head coaching job and if Strumolo's enthusiasm has anything to do with a team's performance, Belleville could be pretty good this year.

Strumolo replaced Joe Fischer this spring after Fischer resigned. In four seasons, Fischer steadily guided the program back to respectability, including last year's 5-5 mark which included Belleville's first NJSIAA playoff included appearance in 23 years.

Good things should also be happening for Belleville's boys soccer

The Belleville volleyball program will once again be led by Grace Worley, who begins her 30th year as head coach. Worley is the only head coach in the program's history. Other girls sports at Belleville this fall include soccer and tennis.

Once again, the Belleville Times will provide complete coverage of the varsity teams, beginning later this month with season previews, as well as some feature stories.

average. Gonzalez, who will be a senior this fall at Belleville, stole seven bases and scored 15 runs while reaching base to a .500 average.

"You can't ask for more from a leadoff hitter," Sorce said of Gonzalez.

The number two hitter, Eric Mieloch, played a solid centerfield and hit .350. Chris Judge led Belleville with 12 RBI and 13 walks while hitting .290. Joe O'Donnell, a sure-handed shortstop, hit .291.

Our 1-4 hitters were also our top hitters, average wise," Sorce said. "That was very encouraging." The pitching was led by Judge, ERA of 1.32. Judge, an upcoming senior, struck out 62 in 58 innings.

Gabe Rivera, a sophomore righthander, was 3-3 with a 2.85 ERA. Rivera walked just 12 batters in 34 1/3 innings while striking out 24.

Sorce was also encouraged by the team's defense, something which needed work after the '08 g varsity season.

"We got real good defense from Anthony Cianciulli at second base," Sorce said. "He made an error in the first game of the season and didn't commit anoth-≧ er one for the rest of the season. O'Donnell was good at shortstop and Rivera played a solid third N base while Gonzalez and Mieloch solidified our outfield."

Sorce expects a different mindset for the varsity program next spring

"We'll be coming in not thinking about making the states, but hoping to advance in the states, as well as making some strides in the GNT," Sorce said.

"There's no reason why we can't compete at the higher level of our conference and playing for a conference title. We had a good summer and now, we'll get ready for the fall, with an eye toward Corino also made a change in the batting rotation, moving Brooks to the leadoff role, where she would flourish.

"Brooks was an outstanding player," Corino said. "She had all the tools. She could hit, run the bases and played outstanding defense. She went on to a great collegiate career at Montclair State."

Belleville started the season 5-2, but then got hot, winning 18 of its next 20 games. The schedule had been revamped from 1982 because Belleville was in its first year as a member of the NNJIL. The school had joined the league in September 1982, after spending the last four years playing an independent schedule following the demise of the Big 10 Conference.

"People forget that in our first year of playing in the NNJIL, we won the conference," Corino said. "Our schedule changed a lot that year from '82."

The NNIIL was broken up georaphically in '82-83, with Belleville playing in the Essex-Passaic Division, which featured familiar schools in Bloomfield, Nutley and Montclair, and some new entries such as Passaic Valley of Little Falls, Paterson Kennedy, Paterson Eastside and Clifton.

"It was a tough schedule," Corino said. "There were a lot of good teams in the league?

Next week, we'll look back at some of the key games and performances of that season.

Pascrell holds a high-tech 'town hall meeting'

BY DAVID HINRICHS of Belleville Times

For the first time ever, Congressman Bill Pascrell, Jr. held a telephone town hall meeting with the residents of the 8th Congressional District while in Washington

The meeting, which took place on the evening of July 23rd and included more than 3,800 residents, discussed topics ranging from the recent real estate crisis to the war in Iraq to gas prices. "I am thrilled with how this innovative teleconferencing technology allowed me to share my views with thousands of constituents," stated Pascrell in a press release. "I thank everybody who joined the call for making this maiden voyage such a for me to feel the pulse of the peo-impressed with the depth of knowledge demonstrated by so many of the callers."

Pascrell went on to say that the only thing he would have liked to change was how many of the callers he was able to speak with directly, citing a lack of time for why he was unable to.

The telephone town hall meeting did allow residents the chance to get their message across instantly to Pascrell, something he enjoyed greatly. Residents were able to listen in through the telephone and ask Pascrell questions while he addressed the large audience. "Last night's telephone town hall meeting provided a new way

Pascrell. "I have relied on letters, emails, phone calls and public meetings for years to gauge the concerns of my constituents. This new media has proven to be another productive way for me to listen, and given me reason to schedule more telephone town hall meetings in the future."

Local residents were just as excited about the new technology and hoped they could share some of their concerns with Pascrell during the next meeting. "This is the kind of thing we need our politicians to do. The key for residents is how accessible their leaders are and this is a serious step toward voice," said Belleville resident important for them to know that I like to hear that so many topics were discussed, including ones as large as the war. When we go to these local meetings we can never branch off from the agenda but sometimes we want opinions on larger matters."

According to an article published in The Montclair Times, 19 questions were fielded from those who live in Belleville, Nutley, Glen Ridge, Clifton and Montclair and their topics ranged from terrorism to the light rail system. "I'm glad to hear our area got some representation and that some of our giving us, the residents, more of a residents gave this a voice. It is phone town hall meeting.

IBUPROFEN LINKED WITH REDUCED ALZHEIMER'S RISK

According to a recent study that involved nearly 50,000 U.S. veterans aged 55 and older who developed Alzheimer's, and nearly 200,000 who had no form of dementia, long-term use (more than five years) of the painkiller ibuprofen reduced the risk of developing Alzheimer's disease by 40 percent. other drugs in the nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory (NSAID) category, of which ibuprofen is a member, reduced the risk of developing the illness by 25 percent. Because Alzheimer's disease has been associated with inflammation, it is thought that such anti- inflammatory drugs as ibuprofen may delay the onset of the disease. However, because all NSAIDs have significant risks, such as gastric ulcers, no one is suggesting that they be used primarily to fend off Alzheimer's.

While this recent study suggests that ibuprofen, an over the counter painkiller, may be linked to a reduced risk of developing Alzheimer's disease you should consult with a pharmaceutical professional before taking any medication. Located at 338 Washington Avenue, the experts at ROSSMORE PHARMA-CY are more than happy to discuss any questions or concerns you have regarding medications. we want you to ask questions and express your concerns so that you will feel safe and comfortable. Call 973-759-1968 or 973-759-1956 to schedule a consultation today.

P.S. While celecoxib (Celebrex) is an NSAID, the study mentioned above did not find that the drug was associated with a lower risk of Alzheimer's.

Tips for our readers on how to submit photos

to the Belleville Times

BELLEVILLE Organizations often hold a meeting, ceremony or fete and seek a mention of it in the newspaper. The event often can be summed up in a photograph, THURSDAY, which, if done right, can be more attention-grabbing than a press release.

The standard "passing-a-check" or "line-'em-up-and-shoot-'em" photographs usually go unnoticed 👸 by readers. Recognizing this fact, Belleville Times is reluctant to publish photographs of static lines of people staring at the camera. Candid photos of people having a good time or actually doing something will draw readers' interest.

Changing the angle from which you are shooting can make significant difference in the aesthetics of a photo. Try shooting from a higher or lower angle. Photos of a few people, rather than a large group, are more noticeable, as readers respond to faces and the newspaper can identify them in a caption.

Editors choose photos that are of the best quality. Please make sure your group's best photographer is behind the lens and captures an imaginative image.

Please also include the photographer's name with the photo submission, and identify everyone in the photo, with their first and last names.

And, obviously, the photograph must be relevant to Belleville.

Pictures may be submitted electronically in JPEG format, with a resolution of at least 200 dots per inch, to bellevilletimes@ northjersey.com.

Send hard copies to Belleville Times, 90 Centre St, Nutley, NJ 07110-1093. For more information, call 973-667-3895.
