AN APPEAL

Belleville, N. J., March 11, 1929

Fellow-townsmen:

On a Sunday, more than five years ago, twenty-six men met together for the first time in a morning Bible Class. That first session was an inspiration to those present and they resolved that it was a good thing. They started a recruiting campaign. The membership increased at an astonishing rate, until within a comparatively short time the numbers reached the hundreds. (The largest attendance on any one Sunday was 346).

The class was organized on what is known as the military plan, with generals, majors and captains heading competitive groups for the purpose of augmenting the membership and getting out the attendance at Sunday morning sessions.

Citizens of Belleville, from every walk in life, church-goers, members of fraternal organizations, etc., united in strengthening the class.

Dr. George G. Yarrow, at that time a prominent citizen of Belleville, and one of our town commissioners, became the first leader.

With unbounded enthusiasm, men whose ages ranged from 18 to 60 years, worked for the upbuilding of this class, attending the sessions regularly, week after week. (We have one member who has not missed a Sunday since the day the class was started except when death or sickness compelled his absence).

The interest among the members has never lagged; as proof of this we point with pride to the fact that so many men have made their way through all kinds of weather to the class Sunday after Sunday. They get a real "kick" out of it.

Just here may I say, this is not an ordinary Sunday School class, where questions are asked that might be embarrassing to one not versed in the Scriptures.

We meet every Sunday morning at half past nine. Our doors are open to all comers; there are no denominational bars. We meet in a Methodist Church, and have for our leader, an elder in the Presbyterian Church. We call ourselves The Everyman's Bible Class of Belleville and our class is a member of the National Federation of Men's Bible Classes, comprising many states of the Union.

The Mosaic Orchestra furnishes music every Sunday and with these musicians accompanying them, the men have a little singing fest from 9:30 to 9:45. Maybe those fellows cannot sing and whistle too. Occasionally we have special music by a quartette. After the fellows have tested their lungs any business requiring action by the class is then disposed of.

Following this, we have a period known as the "Get Acquainted Minute" when every fellow meets the other fellow.

Ten o'clock has now arrived and the leader delivers his address—a message filled with food for thought; a message that helps us to be real men; a message that sends us on our way during the week that is before us, filled with new hope and determination. After adjournment new contacts are made, closer acquaintances are formed, and I venture the statement that many a home has been made happier by a husband or father who has spent an hour in The Everyman's Bible Class, enjoying its atmosphere.

We are so absorbed these days with the affairs of life that we give little or no thought to the One who so bountifully deals out to us every day untold blessings. I fear indeed, that some have forgotten the God of their fathers and mothers.

When sickness and trouble come, we turn quickly to Him for relief, but in the midst of our prosperity we are indifferent, and selfishly ignore Him.

Fathers may well pause and consider the effect their connection with such a class as "The Everyman's" will have upon the growing son or daughter. "Dad's" example is surely followed for good or evil.

To the man who is discouraged, and loaded down with the weight of life's struggle, I say pay. Everyman's Bible Class a visit, see what a fine bunch of fellows we are, clasp hands with us and imbibe some of that fine spirit and fellowship that fairly permeates the air. To every man in town, I say come, and look us over.

Mr. O. R. Ebel, our leader for more than four years, is connected with one of the great financial institutions of New York City. He is an elder in the South Park Presbyterian Church of Newark.

Receiving a college education in Princeton and Johns Hopkins Universities, and being a great Bible student he is also an able speaker, and brings to us each Sunday, a message bristling with good things, helpful and uplifting.

And now my good and patient reader, accept a very cordial invitation to meet with us next Sunday. "Seeing is believing."

WILLIAM H. BRADSHAW,
President

3 Plants Menaced By Fire In Brush

Belleville Blaze Covers Mile Area; Three Alarms Turned In.

A brush fire extending over an area a mile square Friday threatened three factories and a row of two and three-family homes in Belleville.

The blaze thought to have started from a spark of a passing locomotive brought all the Belleville fire apparatus to the scene after three alarms had been sent in. The area affected was from the Nutley line to Greylock parkway, and from Washington avenue on the west to the Erie Railroad on the east.

The Westinghouse Lamp Works, the Sonneborn & Sons Paint factory and the plant of the American Cirrus Company, as well as a number of dwellings, all on Washington avenue, were directly in the path of the fire, but firemen kept the brush within 200 feet of the buildings thoroughly wetted until the blaze was under control after a hard battle.

$100 reward will be paid for information resulting in arrest and conviction of persons who set fire to 24 Bayard street, the night of January 31. Address M., Belleville News.

Interior of the New Building of the First National Bank which opens tomorrow.

The First National Bank of Belleville will throw open its doors tomorrow for public inspection of its new and enlarged quarters at Belleville and Washington avenues. Modern in every sense of the word, the structure has been enlarged ten feet in the rear, eight feet in width and seven feet in height. Charles Granville Jones was the architect of the new building, as well as the old one. In place of the old lodge meeting room which was upstairs the bank has provided a small room for storage of records.

A directors' room has been fitted up on the mezzanine floor above a new vault which is built of reinforced concrete with walls sixteen inches thick and reinforced with one-quarter inch steel bars. The vault is completely wired with burglar alarm wires. The steel door of the vault weighs nine tons. There are 691 safety deposit boxes of the latest latest type with changeable key locks a new feature by Sergeant and Greenleaf. This is the finest lock in the country. Diebold Lock and Safe Company furnished the balance of the vault, a feature of which is an air ventilator in case anyone becomes locked in it. A modern burglar alarm system has been fitted up with eight-station stations in the bank. This was supplied by O. B. McClintock.

The floor of the bank is of terrazzo with a border of red Levanto marble. The space behind the counters is fitted up with linoleum and the offices with rugs. Specially designed draperies add to the effect.

Cageless counters afford better contact with employee and customer. Instead of the old architecture which afforded five windows the bank now has ten.

The face of the cages is of Botticino marble with red Levanto base. The architectural bronze work was designed by Neuman and Co., of Canton, Ohio. All the equipment for the cages and counters was furnished by E. G. Yerg, Inc., of this town and New York.

A revolving door leads from the entrance near which are telephone booths and private booths for safe deposit box patrons. A specially designed clock by the Electric Clock Company of New York adorns the space above the vault. The face of the clock is silver with bronze hands. The numerals are set in ornamental array.

The lighting fixtures of bronze and amber harmonize with the general scheme. The walls and ceilings are of Roman design.

A special room has been equipped for women. There is a kitchenette and dining room for employees in the basement. A night depository to protect after hour deposits has also been installed.

The Tela Autograph Company has equipped the bank with a communicating device to facilitate messages between departments.

Outside the building two especially designed flood lights have been placed to illuminate the building at night.

Who Pussyfoots?

The Belleville News intends to take a decided stand on each local issue that arises whether or not it concerns the political ambitions of our "Hello Boy" Mayor, Sam Kenworthy, and his clique.

When an issue arises don't look for us to pussyfoot around it like the Times, which doesn't want to print anything that would look bad for the Mayor. Why shouldn't the Belleville News talk on Belleville affairs. It is the only paper printed in Belleville.

TOWN FEARING REVENUE LOSS

Belleville Preparing to Fight Bill Voiding Old Sewer Charges

If Assembly Bill No. 166, now before the Legislature becomes a law, Belleville may lose sewer assessments in the amount of approximately $600,000.

Town Clerk John J. Daly reported this Tuesday to the Town Commission, pointing out that the bill would make it mandatory that assessments be confirmed not later than six months after the work has been done. Sewer assessments not yet confirmed in Belleville date back a number of years. And the bill would be retroactive, said Daly. With Town Treasurer Russell T. Sargeant, he will appear in Trenton against the bill.

If the law is enacted and Belleville fails to have its assessments confirmed within the six-month period, the town will have to raise the money in its budget to pay off bonds which have been issued to cover the work.

Director of Revenue and Finance James Gibson has had auditors going over records to make the assessments and Town Engineer Albert S. Blank has made some maps in connection with the sewer system. Months of work on the proposition are still looked for.

It is said that previous boards evaded the task of making the assessments, because maps and other data were not available, the engineering department of by-gone years having operated on a percentage basis, the records now being in the hands of previous engineers not as town records, but personal records of the engineer.

An ordinance providing for re-division of Belleville into four wards instead of the present three passed first reading. The measure called for the appointment of a commission of three to study the situation and define, within sixty days, the boundaries of the proposed new wards.

Those appointed by Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy were: Thomas Berry, chairman of the Belleville Republican Committee; John J. Daly, chairman of the Belleville Democratic Committee, and Homer Zink, Joseph W. Steinmetz, president of the Affiliated Improvement Associations of Belleville, asked by the Mayor Tuesday night to serve as the third member, refused on the grounds a rule of his organization was no official thereof could hold public office or be connected with the town government.

According to a tentative map presented by Mr. Berry at an afternoon conference the new wards were proposed as follows: First, all the section east of Washington avenue; Second, Washington avenue from Mill street to Joralemon street, west to Garden avenue; Third, Washington street from Joralemon street to King street west to Passaic avenue; Fourth, the remainder, which includes all of Silver Lake and Soho.

Repairs to the Town Hall to cost about $12,000 and erection of a municipal shop and garage in Cortlandt on the municipal shop.

street to cost about $16,000 will be started soon, it was decided. Architects will be Charles Granville Jones on the Town Hall and Paul B. West

Belleville Issues 68 Motor Summons

Wholesale Inspection Of Autos Conducted By Police

Motorists passing through or stopping in Belleville are more careful in their observance of the traffic laws, owing to a wholesale inspection conducted Thursday by the motor vehicle inspector's office, in conjunction with the Belleville police department sixty-eight summons in all being given to luckless drivers.

The inspection was directed by Deputy Chief Inspector Snyder, and took place along Washington avenue. Thirty summons were issued Friday for various offenses, and thirty-eight were given out Friday night for improper lights.

Inspector Snyder was assisted by Patrolmen Anderson, Smith, McArt and Nourse.

Kills Fowl In Alley Privilege Costs $25

An alleyway is no place in which to kill chickens, unless one cares to pay $25 for the privilege.

So ruminated James Russo of 83 Franklin street. Haled before Recorder Geo. A. Fitzsimmons Police Court Friday night on the complaint of Health Officer Berry, Russo was fined $25.

The officer charged Russo would kill chickens in the alley and take them into a nearby butcher shop.

Four Hurt As Auto And Truck Collide

Carlo Orcoibo, 19, of 45 Washington avenue, Nutley, is in Beth Israel Hospital, Passaic, suffering from a deep scalp wound which he received Thursday night when the automobile in which he was a passenger collided with a truck. Two girl passengers and the driver of the truck were also injured.

Leo Christiano, 17, of 75 Washington avenue, Belleville, was backing his truck out of the driveway at his address when it collided with the car operated by Joseph Bamback, 20, of 45 Van Winkle avenue, Passaic.

The two girls, Julie Kolosum, 17, of 303 Sherman avenue, Newark, and Emma Swartz, 17, of the same address, were passengers in the Bamback car. They were treated by Dr. Thomas Meehan, town physician, for injuries of the arms and legs and taken home.

Christiano was treated for a scalp wound and then arrested and held in $100 bail to answer a charge of auto assault. Bamback was also held in $100 bail to answer to the same charge, in addition to the charge of operating a car without a license.

Orcoibo was treated by Dr. Rubin. It was necessary to put twelve stitches in his scalp.

"Our Gang" Vamp At The Capitol

Betty Lott, 5, pupil of the George Cole School of 56 Overlook avenue, who has been selected by Hal Roach as the vamp of "Our Gang Comedies" will be seen in person tomorrow afternoon at the Capitol Theatre with "Bob" Cole's all-star Kiddie Revue.

Betty has been selected as the most perfect baby at Atlantic City for three consecutive years. Betty is rehearsing at present with a show being produced by Mrs. Churchill of New York's 400 set. She has been a pupil of the Cole studio ever since she was able to walk, and has shown the future possibilities, with her wonderful work, including singing, talking, jazz and classical dancing.

"Bob" Cole is a student of Eddie Russell, connected with George Cole Studios of New York City, 1658 Broadway. Mr. Russell was director of the New York Hippodrome and also director of many Broadway hits.

"MAY BE FOR BEST INTERESTS" IS SAID

The separation by the Belleville Board of Education last month of the dual positions of supervising and high school principal held by George R. Gerard in town twenty-two years was approved by the executive committee of the Belleville Parent-Teacher Association Monday night. Mr. Gerard's retention, however, in this capacity as supervising principal was deemed for the best interest of the school system.

The P.-T. A. was the object of criticism by School commissioner Paul J. H. Hollberg, who said, it was the cause of Mr. Gerard's trouble. The association up till this time had taken no public part in the discussion.

It has been rumored about town that Mr. Gerard is to get some sort of a contract from the school board and that no further trouble will be given him—at least at this time. This rumor persisted before the P.-T. A. meeting.

The committee met at the home of the president, R. G. Manderson of 325 Union avenue. A resolution was passed to be presented to the school board Monday night, with reasons advanced by the association last year advocating the separation.

Last year efforts of the association to have the old school board separate the positions was met with a three-to-two vote of that body, giving Mr. Gerard a three-year contract in the dual capacity. The main reason advanced for the separation by the association was Mr. Gerard did not have time to supervise properly both the high school and the system as a whole. Upon reorganization last month, the school board canceled the contract and divided the positions.

Citizens and members of the Belleville High School Alumni Association have made formal objection to the board's action, saying Mr. Gerard was entitled to his contract as a close to his career in building up the Belleville school system. Mr. Gerard has employed Merritt Lane as counsel to secure his reinstatement in the dual capacity, but no action has been announced yet.

The resolution adopted and signed by the committee follows: "Resolved, That the executive committee of the Parent-Teacher Association of Belleville express its approval of the action of the Board of Education in separating the positions of supervising principal and principal of the high school.

"And be it further resolved, that this committee express the hope that the Board of Education may be able to find an amicable, fair and satisfactory solution to the problems now before it and that it may be deemed for the best interests of the school system that the supervising principal be retained in his capacity as such."

At a meeting of the association at the high school March 21, several matters will be discussed relating to assisting the school board and supervising principal in a progressive school program, it has been announced.

Tax Rate 4.15

Tax Assessor W. George Hunt has announced that Belleville's tax rate for 1929 is 4.15. The net valuation taxable locally this year is $30,714,804. Last year it was $28,964,210.

Andrew Bodnar, in charge of the Orphans' Court, Kings County, New York, and Mrs. Bodnar, Stanley Cain, building inspector of Kings County, Mrs. Cain and Mr. and Mrs. Anton Hecker, prominent building supply broker of Irvington, were guests of Tax Assessor and Mrs. W. George Hunt of Union avenue over the week-end. They were entertained in a novel manner by Home Talking and Sound Motion pictures; some of which were made by Mr. Hunt.

Belleville High Downs Morristown Springs Surprise Game In Tournament By State

Belleville High School registered the biggest upset in the state tourney by downing Morristown, 21-14, Saturday night, at the Madison High school gym. The blue and gold displayed all kinds of form and literally played rings around the favorites.

The local quintet started off with a rush and compiled an early lead. At the end of the quarter they held a 5-2 advantage. With their attack functioning in excellent style the "Bell" boys ran their lead to 14-5 at half time.

Easing up in the next two periods, the Belleville outfit played on even terms with the losers. However, Morristown never menaced the local five, playing a listless type of ball.

Petrie, Mayes and Arman were the high lights for the Belleville team, the former netting seven tallies and the latter two accounting for six apiece. Jackson also contributed a field goal towards the evening's scoring. Short and Lamb played strong floor games while Bennett shone on the defense.

Campbell and Jones were the individual performers for Morristown with Vigilante playing a steady floor game.

Mayes suffered an injury to his hand which may keep him out of the rest of the tournament, which would considerably handicap the local five.

Ironbounds On Top In Junior League

Standing	W.	L.	Pts.
Ironbounds	7	5	829
Hamilton Aces	6	6	849
Comets	6	6	824
Neverspores	5	7	813

The Ironbounds now rest at the top in the Nutley Junior League. The boys from the Center street section have not lost a match since the defeat they met at the hands of the Hamilton Aces the opening night. Last Saturday night they took two games from the Aces to leave them in first place. The Comets and the Neverspores fought it out for last place and as a result of a double win the Comets are now tied for second place with the Aces. Next week the Ironbounds meet the Neverspores and the Aces and Comets tie up in the other match. The young Nutley boys reserve a lot of credit for the way they conduct the league. The league calls for a twenty-seven game schedule, and games are rolled Saturday nights.

Imperials And Comets Win In Junior League

League Standing	W.	L.	Pts.
Imperials	9	1	900
Comets	8	2	800
Riveras	3	6	333
Hawks	0	9	000

Last week's game in the Junior League showed the leading Comets and Imperials again victors. The Imps won their contest with ease, outscoring the last place Hawks, 46-7. The Comets, however, found it a little more difficult and it was only a tight finish in the last quarter that assured them a victory. The score at the end of the contest stood 36-25 in favor of the Comets.

Maroon And Gray Ends Year With Win

The Nutley High School travelled to Newton Friday night and closed the season with a victory over the high school of that place, 30-14.

The Nutleyites started fast and got off to an early lead and added to it as the tilt progressed.

Baykowski and Crawford were the individual performers with seven and eight points respectively. Gibney and Sentner were close behind with six apiece.

Smith was the outstanding luminary for Newton garnering four goals for eight points.

Nutley High Made Excellent Record

Maroon And Gray Took Thirteen Games In Nineteen

Nutley High School compiled an auspicious record during the past season winning thirteen out of nineteen games. The maroon and gray boys met with a few reversals at the beginning of the year but after the second South Orange contest ran up a streak of seven consecutive victories.

The quintet garnered two games from Belleville. The highest number of points in one game was tallied against Kearny when the Nutley five ran up forty-five points.

Captain Baykowski leads the individual scores with seventy-five field goals and twenty-five fouls for a total of one hundred and seventy-five points, an average of ten a game. Crawford is next in line with one hundred and fifty-two tallies followed by Gibney with ninety-nine.

ELECTIVE METROPOLITAN BOARD URGED UPON STATE BY THE NORTH JERSEY TRANSIT COMM.

TRENTON, March 15.—An elective North Jersey metropolitan board with power to finance, construct and administer the operation of a system of rapid transit for northern New Jersey, and have charge of co-related regional activities including water supply, sewerage and sewage disposal, meadows reclamation, and subdivision control, is urged by the North Jersey Transit Commission in the annual report of that body transmitted to the Governor and State Legislature.

This follows closely a Senate Joint resolution now before the Legislature authorizing the appointment of a commission to draft necessary legislation for setting up such a board. The Transit Commission asks for a definite mandate requiring submission of this legislation for action at the legislative session of 1930.

In the meantime, pending the creation of a metropolitan board, the commission advocates the continuance of the work of all present investigating and planning commissions "so that plans for intrastate rapid transit, meadows reclamation, sewerage and water supply may be placed in readiness for action by the metropolitan district when that new governing body shall have come into being."

Other recommendations are for the early construction of a Newark-Paterson rapid transit line as an initial unit of a comprehensive North Jersey system, furtherance of studies for the extension of the line from the Newark end to Elizabeth or Irvington as a second step, clothing of the Port of New York Authority as the most practicable existing agency with power to construct interstate connections with New York, and empowering the new metropolitan board to contract with the City and State of New York for the building of a commuter distribution system in Manhattan.

Necessity for a metropolitan board to govern rapid transit and its kindred regional activities is shown through previous attempts to carry out projects involving more than one municipality or county by boards equipped with inadequate regional powers because of the State's hampering laws, the report declares. In the specific case of rapid transit, it adds that "ever since the intensive studies of the legal phases of rapid transit construction which this commission conducted in 1926, it has been apparent to its members that handling problems which concern more than one municipality or county."

The boundaries of the district to be governed by this board, the commission believes, should be somewhere between those of the North Jersey Transit District comprising the counties of Hudson, Essex, Passaic, Bergen, Union, Morris, Monmouth, Middlesex and Somerset and the straight lines connecting points of known latitude and longitude which bound the Port of New York Authority district, possibly excluding some marginal townships but following in all cases the boundaries of existing municipal units.

It declares that "the sole purpose in the establishment of such a district should be the creation of a body capable of handling those matters which no single municipality or county within the district can handle of its own accord," and to facilitate this

Selection of a Newark-Paterson line as the first step in the construction of an intrastate rapid transit system, the report says, is based on the desirability of initiating rapid trans-

CURTIS AS BUFFER

President Hoover is going to adopt the expedient of President Harding, and invite the Vice-President to "sit in" at the meetings of his Cabinet. Mr. Curtis is an old stager in the Senate and can tell the President the lay of the land on many important measures there, if he cares to. But what will he impart to the Senate as to the way of things are shaping in the Cabinet? Nothing, if he is a wise and discreet gentleman, as he has the reputation of being.

It will be remembered that, when Mr. Coolidge acceded to the Presidency he did not follow his deceased chief's example. Mr. Dawes did not attend the meetings of the Cabinet. Perhaps Mr. Coolidge did not care to take the risk of having so impetuous a gentleman the confidant of all the Cabinet secrets; perhaps he disagreed with the principle entirely. He may tell us in some of his forthcoming articles.

As a buffer, Mr. Curtis should make an admirable one, and should be of value to his chief.

LAND FLOWING AWAY

Probably few of us realize how much of our arable land is being washed out to sea, a total loss. But the amount is enormous. Hugh Hammond Bennett, a specialist in the Department of Agriculture, estimates that more than 513,000,000 tons of soil are yearly carried away by rivers from the farms of the United States. The Mississippi system alone is responsible for 428,000,000 tons of wastage. On the basis of chemical analysis of nearly 400 surface soils it is believed that the amounts washed away from the fields of the country each year contain not less than 126,000,000,000 pounds of plant food, about 21 times the annual net loss of plant food taken out of the fields by all the crops that are harvested.

YET WE WORK HARDER

Everyone knows how much time Americans save by using labor-saving devices, but no one seems able to discover the time that is saved. It is one of the most puzzling problems of modern civilization.

In ancient Greece the number of holidays each year was about the same as our holidays added to our Sundays. An Athenian who was not married could get along comfortably if he worked only one day in every three working days. A married man could work two in every three working days and have about everything he wanted. We have innumerable labor-saving devices, but we have to work harder than the Athenian who had none. It is a curious situation.

SOMEWHAT CONTRADICTORY

"In the end, it won't matter whether the pictures talk or not," remarks an oracular critic of the movies. "If it's a good picture, talking or silent, people will come to see it. If it's bad, they won't."

Like so many expert opinions of the day, this sounds more wise than it actually is. Producers have assured us for years that they have lost money by making pictures too good for the demand. They have made money on pictures that they knew were inferior. It is rather difficult to reconcile these statements of the men who know with the assertion that people will throng to see a film if it is a good film.

FREEDING THE PRESIDENT

Congressmen will presumably advise President Hoover that his popularity will be seriously impaired if he abolishes the noonday receptions to all comers at the White House. But the average voter is imaginative enough to realize that shaking hands daily with hundreds of men and women whom he does not know may be a serious drain on a President's strength.

Presidents differ as greatly in temperament as other men. The daily receptions did not prove a strain on Mr. Coolidge, but they might very conceivably irritate Mr. Hoover greatly. If he decides to give up the custom, he will not offend any intelligent voter.

Child Seldom Will Be Found Better Than Home From Which It Came

By DR. ALBERT PARKER FITCH, New York (Presbyterian).

The human race as far back as Plato has been trying to find a substitute for the home so we won't have to be bothered with the annoyance and care of children, but no one has ever succeeded. Fathers and mothers represent God to the child, who says nothing and sees so much, and in my 18 years of teaching undergraduate boys and girls I have come to know that you can expect the child to be just what the home was from which that child came.

There are two ways of loving your children. One is in the creative way, which sees in them the coming man or woman that should be fine and great, and the other is the lazy and indulgent fondness which a cat will give to her kitten. This kind of love makes a milkop of the boy and a shallow, inefficient woman.

If the parents never talk about God, read the tabloid newspaper and cheap literature, the boys and girls will never learn the supreme value of life. They will not get it anywhere if they don't get it in the home.

Takes An Airplane Ride

Editor The News:
I am writing a story which I hope you enjoy and will publish.

A RIDE IN AN AIRPLANE
I went for an airplane ride with Mr. Wedlof and my sister, Anna. The airplane in which we rode was a Ford. It had three motors and carried about eighteen passengers. We went over New York and Manhattan Island. We saw the Statue of Liberty and a lighthouse in the middle of the Hudson River. We went over Central Park; it looked so small we could hardly see it. The airplane was going 100 miles an hour and was about 2,500 feet up. We had a very good and thrilling time and hope to go again soon.

Has your husband any hobbies? asked the neighbor who was calling.
"No," said Mrs. Neurich, "he has rheumatism a good deal, and hives now and then, but he ain't never had no hobbies."

An officer on board a battleship was drilling his men. "I want every man to lie on his back, put his legs in the air, and move them as if he were riding a bicycle," he exclaimed. "Now begin." After a short effort one of the men stopped.

"Why have you stopped, Murphy?" asked the officer.
"If you please, sor," was the reply, "Ol'm coasing."

"How long has your hired man been working for you?" inquired farmer Bentover.
"About two hours," replied Farmer Fumblegate.

"Why, I thought he had been here longer than that?"
"He has. He's been here two months."

Patient: "Awfully sorry to call you out on such a night at this, Doctor, but you see it was a case of necessity."

Doctor: "Oh, that's all right. I have another patient down the road so I can kill two birds with one stone."

When Fred Kennedy enlisted in the army he was first mustered into the cavalry. On the first day on the drill grounds, the sergeant ordered: "Now none of you guys is to dismount until you get orders."

A moment or so after that the rear end of Kennedy's horse rose suddenly into the air, and Kennedy started in the other direction over the horse's head.

"Did you hear me say that nobody was to dismount without orders?" roared the sergeant.

"But I got orders Sir."
"Right from headquarters," I suppose?" the sergeant sneered.

"No, Sir, from hindquarters," was Kennedy's clever answer.

SCHOOL BOARD'S SANCTION NOT GOT FOR GYM

Realizing the belligerent state of affairs the present school board finds itself in and further realizing that the spacious high school gym floor would hardly accommodate the monster crowd expected to attend the dance they will hold on April 13, the Belleville-on-the-Hill Association did not request permission for the use of the town's seat of education for their Third Annual hop. The Elks' Club which has a larger hall will barely accommodate all those who are planning to attend. The first thousand tickets which supply at first was thought to be ample has already been exhausted and quite a number of the prospective prize winners are clamoring for more of the admission cards. The committee takes this means of asking their friends to be patient for a few days when the second lot of one thousand will be received from the printers. The great interest manifested in this dance is no doubt due to the high calibre of the social atmosphere which is a feature greatly stressed. Both the modern and old fashioned dances may be seen entered into with equal gusto by young and old. In addition to the various prizes which include gold pieces to the members selling the greatest number of tickets, $5.00 in gold for the door prize, valuable prizes for the two novelty dances there will be an attendance competition limited to the four associated improvement associations for a silver loving cup or a trophy of similar value. Each of the various organizations have designs on carrying away the attendance prize, this being the first time such a trophy has been offered. The members of the various improvement associations are requested to make their returns promptly to their respective secretaries while the members of the Belleville-on-the-Hill Association will make returns to Mr. Ed. Delhagen, 47 Belmont street Belleville.

Living With Your Self
Have you ever thought when you waken
Whether your day starts with a growl or a grin,
And how much of it, is of your making
As to how much of joy you let in?
Perhaps it is hot—maybe frosty.
You're late—Big Ben you've forgotten to wind.
Watch out! the start may be costly.
As you mutter "The darn same old grind."
You begin to hate Polly Ann as Crepe hangers are more to your mind
"Then you pass on your grouch to the family
"Then there are more of a kind.
"Then again they may be far from unhappy,
"Still you mutter "This day started blue."
Best snap out of all this self pity.
For no one is suffering But You.

SHARP DUST PARTICLES 'HOOK' THEIR WAY INTO MEMBRANES AND DISEASE RESULTS

Science Tells Why Some Trades, Dry Sweeping and Mopping on Certain Highways Are Dangerous to Health in Bringing on Respiratory Maladies.

Cross-Section of Human Head Showing Mucous Membrane of Nose and Throat.

SCIENTIFIC research is gradually finding out why dust kills one out of every seven persons. The Harvard Medical School, the United States Public Health Service, various insurance companies and the great labor organizations of the country are all interested in the problem.

For example, according to Dr. L. R. Thompson, of the United States Public Health Service, the sickness record of granite workers shows that the greater part of illness proceeds from respiratory conditions and that respiratory diseases are three times as prevalent among granite workers as among workers in general industry.

"It is clear," said Dr. Thompson, "that wherever there is a great amount of granite dust there is a dangerous hazard, a mortality which seems inevitable and which is rising all the time."

Incidentally, according to Federal statistics, from 450,000 to 5,000,000 persons are employed in the dusty trade, but everyone, from the man who fears "dry sweeping" by housewives on their front steps to the motorist who must find his way through clouds of dust on the highway, is affected by the menace of fine particles in the air.

Various theories have been proposed to explain why dust should be such a danger to health. The usual explanation seeks the cause in the tenderness of the mucous membrane lining of the throat and nose.

Healthy throats and noses secrete a fluid—the mucus, which is just "un-cient to take care of ordinary dust in the air. If that amount should be exceeded, the dust becomes too great to be handled by the mucus and the dust penetrates into the deeper parts of the body lining.

Dust is of various kinds, but whether it is organic or inorganic in origin makes no difference. What makes the dust particles dangerous is their shape. Particles that have sharp corners, such as dust from marble, metal, wood or stone, cut into the membrane very much as an old-fashioned knitting needle cuts into worsted and there the dust particles become fastened.

The mucus fluid referred to passes over these particles, moving them to and fro, and causing the membrane to become tender and then inflamed.

Should the process become continuous, as so often happens, serious sinus conditions result and in aggravated cases, tuberculosis may be their termination. That, in brief, is what happens.

Scientists have tried with all the resources at their command to combat dust in the air, but so far, with a few exceptions, the results have not been fruitful. As a means of prevention, suggestions have been made in various quarters that the dust might be laid with some sort of physical or chemical means and in many sections of the United States municipalities have been laying the dust with calcium chloride. That is a chemical capable of absorbing a high degree of moisture from the air, hygroscopic, it is called, which acts as a binder of dust on the highways. It also has great germicidal value.

Mooseheart Legion Plans Card Party

Members of the Belleville Women of the Mooseheart Legion are planning a card party on March 21 at 2:30 in Oppenheim-Collins, Broad street, Newark. The affair will be under the auspices of the drill team. Mrs. Mae Hank is captain of the team.

The legion met last night in Elks' Home where matters of importance were discussed. The chapter is planning a social and luncheon in April to celebrate its anniversary.

Members are asked to visit Mrs. Lou Black, Mrs. B. Esposito and Past Regent Helen Slater, who are ill in their respective homes.

SAWS By Viola Brothers Shore

FOR THE GOOSE—
THERE'S no flaws in a thing you want bad enough.
The difference between the woman of yesterday and the woman of today is, when the one was jealous she said: "How can I get him back?" And the other says: "How can I get him sore?"
Providence don't settle accounts weekly. But it strikes a pretty clean balance at the end.

Newest Symbol of New Jersey Growth

IN size, modern architecture and equipment, the new Telephone Headquarters building truly symbolizes New Jersey growth and progress.

This great structure, towering twenty stories above the street and housing 2700 telephone people, will be dedicated within a few weeks in the fiftieth year of the telephone in the State of New Jersey.

At Telephone Headquarters plans are being made for the service needs of the years ahead. Enlarging the State-wide telephone system this year alone requires an expenditure of $22,000,000.

New Jersey is growing. Telephone Headquarters is a symbol at once of State progress and of our purpose to do our part to promote State growth along sound lines.

Elective Metropolitan Board Urged Upon State By The North Jersey Trans. Com.

(Continued from Page Three) sit in a sector of greatest population density, the necessity of recognizing Newark as a metropolitan focal point for traffic, and the lack of adequate rail connections between Passaic and Bergen Counties and that metropolis and the railroads leaving it for southern Jersey points. It warns against jealousies, and to show the lack of bases for them cites the growth of Newark as a result of the opening of the Hudson and Manhattan electric train service from there to New York a point of greater attraction.

Non-inclusion of Jersey City and other cities along the Palisades Ridge in the recommendation for initial service is because of the travel tendency of that section toward Manhattan and the consequent almost interstate nature of requirements there. Coordination of earlier interstate plans of the Transit Commission with suburban transit plans of Westchester County and Long Island in New York is in the hands of the Suburban Transit Engineering Board, an agency created by the commission in cooperation with the Port of New York Authority which in addition to these interests represents the Board of Transportation of New York City, the ten principal commuting railroads and the boards of supervisors of Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

Four alternates, said to be most representative of eleven studied, are given for the Newark-Paterson line. Two utilize the bed of the old Morris Canal, one follows the rights-of-way of the Erie Railroad main line and Newark branch, and the fourth is wholly on public streets.

Both Morris Canal routes follow the same course from Paterson to Bloomfield. They start in subway in the vicinity of City Hall in Paterson, follow Main street in subway and come to the surface near the Paterson Lackawanna station where they swing into the canal bed and utilize it with the exception of some straightening to Bloomfield. There they diverge, one continuing in the canal bed through Newark in conjunction with that city's canal bed high speed trolley line and Pennsylvania Railroad station project, and the other making use of an ornamental elevated structure in Bloomfield avenue, Newark, and a Broad Street subway to Lincoln Park.

Cost of the former canal route is estimated at $14,400,000 for construction, $5,200,000 for real estate, and $4,400,000 for equipment, and the latter, $20,700,000 for construction, $900,000 for real estate, and $5,500,000 for equipment. The former, it is declared, would have traffic of 16,200,000 annually if it were in operation today, 24,000,000 in 1933, and 39,000,000 in 1938, and would require an average fare of 11.2 cents to meet fixed and operating charges which might be reduced to 9.1 cents in 1938; the later, traffic of 25,000,000 at the present time, 37,000,000 in 1933, and 60,000,000 in 1938, and an average fare of 10.1 cents which in 1938 could be reduced to 8.4 cents.

The Erie route is planned to follow the Erie main line right-of-way from Market street, Paterson, to Passaic, using separate tracks, private right-of-way to Nutley, and the right-of-way of the Newark branch of the Erie from there to Fourth avenue, Newark. At Fourth avenue it would go on elevated in Ogden street to Lombardy place where it would enter subway and continue to Lincoln Park.

The cost estimates given are $22,900,000 for construction, $4,800,000 for real estate, and $5,400,000 for equipment; traffic is estimated at 21,500,000 now, 32,000,000 in 1933, and 52,000,000 in 1938, and the average fare required would be 11.6 cents which might be reduced to 9.3 cents in 1938.

It may not be possible to consider this route since after the engineering portions of the report had been drawn executives of the railroad made it known that they did not see their way clear to permit use of the Erie rights-of-way. Negotiations may be reopened, however, the commission believes, if power to contract is provided by the Legislature.

The private right-of-way route shown is an elevated structure along principal streets except for stretches of subway in Paterson and Newark which parallels and closely follows the Erie route. These subway portions are the same as those of the Morris canal route in Paterson and in Broad street, Newark.

Costs are estimated at $34,600,000 for construction, $50,000 for real estate and $7,900,000 for equipment; traffic at 39,000,000 at present, 58,000,000 in 1933, and 94,000,000 in 1938, and operating fares at 10 cents with a possible 1938 reduction to 8.3 cents.

Total traffic between Newark and Paterson the report discloses, is 155,000,000 fares on buses and trolleys now operating of which 41,000,000 are on through routes and 114,000,000 on short lines. The estimates for 1933 and 1938 traffic are based on the rate of increase in the past without taking into account added impetus that might come from the institution of rapid transit service.

In this connection, the commission points out that the Erie and private right-of-way routes are through territory already developed and those in the Morris Canal bed through much that is sparsely settled, a factor that might mean a much more rapid increase in traffic in the latter once service is inaugurated.

It holds, however, that "much more detailed studies will be required before a definite decision can be reached regarding which one of the several alternative routes should be selected for actual construction," and declares that "a premature decision on this point—a decision arrived at and broadcast too far in advance of the creation of a body with power to build—might have untoward effects in stimulating speculation along the route selected." In a financial summary, the report lists expenditures of approximately $216,000 made by the commission in conducting its investigations since the first appropriation for its work was made available the latter part of 1924. The preliminary work accomplished, according to the commission, advances the cause of rapid transit to a point where plans for actual construction can be begun as soon as proper legislative authority is granted, and would have been necessary no matter what broad powers were vested in the original investigating commission.

ELECTRICITY and YOUR COMFORT

THE first commercial plant for the generation of electricity was opened in 1882, yet today less than half a century later—you—

Push an electric door bell, you are carried to your apartment in an electric elevator; you snap a switch and flood your home with light; sit down to a meal of food preserved in an electric refrigerator and cooked in part on electric table appliances; make your toilet by the help of electric toilet accessories; wear clothes laundered electrically; walk on rugs electrically cleaned; listen to an electrically operated radio, and retire to your bed at night, comforted by an electric heating pad.

These are just a few of the many things that electricity does for you in the electrically equipped home, but enough to show you how essential it is that every residence should be adequately wired for electric use and provided with a sufficiency of electric outlets for your convenience.

Just What You Want --- From Whom And Where To Get It

In Machinery Causes Blast That Breaks Windows and Spoils Rice Pudding.

Forgetful surgeon who sews up instruments inside his patient, mechanic Monday left a wrench in a clutch he repaired on a Montpelier City bus.

Nothing happened until late Monday night when the bus driver brought the bus to a stop before a traffic signal at Belleville and Washington streets. Then without warning the clutch case exploded, sending pieces of metal and steel in all directions.

Bits of metal shot from under the bus and smashed through a window on a nearby lunch wagon. Rice puddings landed neatly in a large number of windows. Bits of metal, which whizzed through the air with the rapidity of a gangster's bullets, crashed through a taxicab window and the window of a service station across the street.

Although pedestrians and bus passengers were thrown into confusion, no one was hurt. The passengers were referred to another bus and the broken one towed to a garage.

The mechanic put a monkey wrench in the works is not known, but it is unlikely that police will investigate.

The same street intersection was the scene of more excitement a short time later, when Mrs. Lucy Dreikarn, 89 Broadway, Newark drove her car into a safety light and ripped it from its foundation. The Dreikarn car then swerved about and crashed into a safety light on the opposite corner of the intersection.

More Successful As Letter Seekers

Twenty free tickets are being sent to the lucky ten who found the correct number of "N's" in the advertisements appearing on the front page of the Comic Section of the Belleville News, and we hope they enjoy the performance at the Capitol Theatre.

They are as follows: Irma Mayer, 51 Campbell avenue; Donald Frazer, 507 Washington avenue; Margaret MacNair, 73 Preston street; Edith Ferguson, 23 Bell street; Evelyn Abramson, 500 Washington avenue; Edward Howell, 703 Belleville avenue; Myrtle Muller, 54 Campbell avenue; Katherine Casale, 13 Mary street; Alberta Evangelista, 425 Washington avenue and Marie Renza, 425 Washington avenue.

Attorney to Speak to Improvement Group

Victor H. Schleicher, attorney, will address members of the Belleville on the Hill Improvement Association at the next regular meeting on March 22 at Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian Church, Little street and Union avenue.

"Some Phases of the Emancipation of Women in the Eyes of the Law" will be Mr. Schleicher's subject.

Important items as regards the annual dance at the Elks' on April 13, the membership drive and reports from the paving and parkway committees will be heard.

Odd Fellows Plan Smoker On Monday

Harmony Lodge, cordially invites all Odd Fellows and their friends to attend a Smoker in Masonic Temple, Monday evening. The committee has arranged for an enticing show of professional acts.

The legislative department will hold a meeting at the club house this afternoon at 2:30 P. M. under the direction of the chairman, Mrs. Norman A. Manderson.

Tickets for the progressive card party, Thursday evening, March 21 at 8:30 P. M. may be obtained from the chairman Mrs. W. V. Irvine, 276 Washington avenue.

ANENT SAFETY ISLES

Editor The News: Will you please publish this article in your next edition. In regard to those so-called Safety Isles now on the avenue.

I wish to say they are anything but safe, particularly at night. They are not visible until you are within ten feet of same.

Perhaps if there were a steady red or white light instead of that little lightning bug it may help.

I sit by my window and see them knocked down as often as three times in one evening. A Party coming through not familiar with them cannot help but bump them off.

As a safety device for pedestrians their lives are endangered by same. It won't always be lucky that the cars hit the posts and swerve to the middle of the road, but will sometime climb the curb and probably kill some bystander which is quite easily done. May I add it is a shame for people to ruin their cars and then pay a fine due to the lack of lights on these so-called safety isles.

I firmly believe if they are so essential remove them at night. Thanking you, A BELLEVILLITE

Editor The News: The article setting forth the news of Mr. George R. Gerard's shameful treatment, has come to our notice and we are very sorry to see how ungrateful some citizens of our town are for all that Mr. Gerard has done for our schools and for the fine way he has treated the pupils. We all hold him high in our esteem and affection and hereby extend to him our sympathies and express the hope that the people who have opposed him and are so doing, will come to their senses and restore him to his former position. It is the only and best thing to do to retain their dignity, is what we think.

The following undersigned are those who cordially resent such harsh treatment to our Supervising Principal of Schools.

NUTLEY AWARDS GRADING WORK

Legal Delay Results In Withdrawal Of Five Bids

Delayed legal proceedings were responsible for withdrawal of several bids for grading of Hancox avenue and Yale street, Nutley, at the meeting of the Nutley Town Commission Tuesday night. Commissioner Charles A. Sherwood announced as the bids were being opened that he had found the town had not acquired property for extension of Yale street. Condemnation proceedings started by the former administration were not completed, he said.

"It would therefore be necessary to award the grading contract with the understanding the Yale street portion may be omitted," Mr. Sherwood declared.

Two contractors submitted their bids to this condition and the contract was awarded the Sost Engineering Company of Belleville of its bid of $2,200. Five contractors withdrew bids.

An ordinance appropriating $115,000 for construction of a police and fire department building at Chestnut and Warren streets was adopted. The plans of W. T. L. Armstrong, architect, which had been unofficially adopted, were approved. His fee will be six per cent. of the cost.

An ordinance providing for concrete pavements, curbs and sidewalks in Orange street, from Montclair avenue to Cathedral avenue, and in Montclair avenue from the present pavement's end to the Passaic County line, was passed for hearing March 26. Cost of the work is estimated at $4,500.

The North End Improvement Association complaint that buses of the Nutley-North Newark line were uncomfortable because of gas was referred to the Department of Public Safety. Also referred to this department was a petition from the organization asking a ban on parking automobiles near the railroad crossing in Kingsland road. The association also asked for a street light in Windsor place. The latter matter was referred to the Department of Streets and Public Improvements.

A petition from seventeen property owners in Willow place and Chestnut place for concrete pavement was referred to the Department of Streets. A properly owner at Race and John streets asked that section be changed from two-family residential to permit apartments. It was referred to the Department of Public Affairs.

St. Peters Down Wesley

The Wesley quintet was defeated Friday night by St. Peter's five, 32-25. At half time Wesley was leading 18-10 but in the second half the brilliant guarding by Welsh and Manning held down Wesley's score and gave St. Peter's time to pile up their score. McGuire and Ryder played best for the winners with eleven and seven. Castle played best for the losers with fourteen points. Huggins of the regulars was absent.

MYSELF AND I

I have to live with myself and so I want to be fit for myself to know I want to be able as days go by Always to look myself in the eye. I don't want to stand, with the setting sun, And hate myself for the things I've done. I want to deserve all men's respect But here in the struggle for fame and pelf, I want to be able to like myself. I don't want to look at myself and know That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show. I can never hide myself from me. I see what others may never see, I know what others may never know. I can never fool myself and so Whatever happens, I want to be self-respecting and conscience free.

Antlers Claim Win Again By Forfeit

The Nutley Antlers were again disappointed at their court when the Liberty Big Five failed to put in an appearance, Thursday. This was the third time in three weeks the Antlers were disappointed at Cleveland School court.

The Nutley Antlers who are claiming the state title are now being stepped by the Junior teams they book who are also claiming this title.

"If teams the Antlers book do not wish to play the Antlers they should write to the Antler management and cancel the game but not disappoint the Antlers and keep them waiting at their court," says Edward Thrum, manager, of 723 South Twentieth street, Newark.

Belleville Separates Tackle St. Benedicts

Belleville Separates will start their season on Sunday morning April 14 at Celluloid Field by meeting the St. Benedict C. C. team in the first game of a series.

In opposing the Catholic Club nine or their opening game the Separates have booked a team with a fine record of thirty-two wins and but six losses for last season's play. The St. Benedict team last season was easily the outstanding club hereabouts having defeated such sterling performers as the Ironbound B. B. C. White Hawks, Harrison Hudsons and many others.

The many Separate rooters who care to attend the above game may do so by communicating with Charles White.

Manager Woods has the following players to pick a strong nine from: Parcell, Polasheck, Megra, George, Jacques, Sprague, Juliano, Ross, Fiore, Tuozzolo, Villiaci, Woodruff, and Correll.

The Separates to date have booked many worthy opponents and are anxious to hear from other strong teams having home grounds. For games write Charles White, 127 Passaic avenue, Belleville.

Four brush fires within two hours provided a busy afternoon for Nutley firemen Monday.

Park P.-T. A. Holds Meeting In School

The Parent Teacher Association of Park Elementary school held an evening meeting Thursday night. Mrs. Richard Weiss, the president, presided.

Morris Broskie of the Franklin Franklin Theatre spoke. Questions were asked from the floor. Mr. Broskie pointed out that all pictures shown at his theatre were censored in Newark before coming to Nutley. He asked for suggestions from parents, in showing desirable pictures for children. Papers were read by Mrs. R. C. Sprague and Miss Agnes Kelly. Music by the Glee Club, Harmonica Club and Orchestra was well received.

"Around the World in Thirty-five Minutes," an educational picture was shown, also a comedy. Refreshments were served.

Vail Memorial Bronze Medal Awarded Telephone Operator

A Rockaway girl who averted a train wreck by resourceful and intelligent use of telephone facilities at her command last June has been awarded a Theodore N. Vail Memorial Medal in bronze for her worthy act.

Announcement of the award by the regional Vail Memorial Medal Committee today reveals that the girl, Miss Anna C. Yurecsko, will be the only New Jersey recipient of a Vail Memorial Medal for outstanding devotion to duty and noteworthy public service during 1928.

The Committee voted Honorable Mention to two other employees of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company; Mrs. Elizabeth Ahearn, Central Office agent at Millington, also instrumental in preventing a possible serious railroad accident, and Theodore Hogrefe, cable splicer, Jersey City, for his courageous and effective effort in rescuing a woman from a residence on fire in Jersey City, and extinguishing the blaze in the face of peril.

The medals are given annually, when the Committee considers them merited, in memory of T. N. Vail, citizen of New Jersey and pioneer in telephony whose home was in Morris-town and who was the head of the Bell System for almost fifteen years. He died April 16, 1920. His home in Morris-town is now the Municipal Building there.

Medalist's Act

Late Sunday evening, June 24 last year, Miss Yurecsko, alone on duty in the Rockaway Central Office, received a call from a woman that an automobile containing two men had crashed through the side of Mendes Bridge, spanning the Lackawanna tracks near Rockaway. The car had fallen twenty-five feet onto the tracks—a train was soon due—unless a message could be relayed to the train crew, the train would round a sharp curve at that point, between concrete retaining walls.

The probability of a derailment, injuries to crew or passengers, perhaps loss of life, flashed through the operator's mind.

The sole possibility lay in having the train flagged at Denville signal tower, two miles away. No telephone was there. The passenger agent's office was closed. No telephone was near the tower from which to send a messenger.

Late the previous night she had handled a call for the train despatcher's office at the Lackawanna yards in Port Morris, fifteen miles away. She knew that the railroad had its own telephone system, obtained the despatcher's office, told the story, and relayed it, through him to the train crew just in time.

Honorable Mention

Mrs. Ahearn managed to reach a garageman and get him to tow a stalled automobile off the Lackawanna tracks east of Millington before an express was due, and also to advise the train crew of the danger.

Hogrefe, working on a pole, answered a woman's call of "Fire!" by relaying the call to Fire Headquarters, then rushing into a smoke-filled cellar, rescuing a woman who fainted near the flames, put out the blaze, turned off an open gas jet, all in peril from an explosion of a container of benzine nearby.

The members of the committee which made the awards were: Chester I. Barnard, President of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company; G. W. McRae, Vice President and General Manager; C. F. Brislin, Vice President in Charge of Personnel and Public Relations; Clinton Godfrey, Atlantic City district plant superintendent; Miss Anna J. Dalton, Bergen chief operator, Jersey City; Miss Marion Miller, Plainfield; Miss Kathryn Farley, Newark; James W. Baitman, Passaic; Fred Tabor, Red Bank and Miss Marion H. Kennedy, Camden, all employees of the company.

NO TRICK TO IT

GHOST VESSEL IN NORTH SEA

Ship Without Crew Directed by Radio Control in German Experiments.

Berlin.—Travelers on the North sea may see at times a large dummy ship with masts and funnels, but not a living soul on board, prowling around those waters.

Reminiscent of the Albatross haunted ship of the Ancient Mariner, this weird craft, propelled by a normal ship's engine, will move slowly and then fast, according to the will of its invisible human masters, or zigzag across the waves.

"But few persons are aware that this 'ghost vessel' represents the first experiment of the new German navy with a wireless controlled dummy ship. The vessel itself is the former German battleship Zaehringen, with 11,800 tons displacement. The Zaehringen has been rebuilt at a cost of more than $800,000 especially for this purpose. The German navy decided upon this experiment after similar successful tests had been undertaken by the American navy.

To Serve as Target.

Ultimately, the Zaehringen will be come the target for German naval gun practice. But the initial experiments are limited to trying out the efficacy of wireless control of a moving vessel. The preliminary trial will last a month.

The naval bulk, once the stalwart Zaehringen, after pulsing out of Wilhelmshafen, without a man aboard, will be guided and completely controlled by the German naval radio station on an escorting torpedo boat. In order to avoid a collision of the Zaehringen with other North sea craft, the escort will remain constantly within sight of its dummy ship, although many miles removed.

In view of the high cost of constructing the ghost vessel, precautions have been taken to avoid the sinking of the Zaehringen even during the gun practice later in the year.

To Use Dummy Shells.

Shells to be fired at the Zaehringen also will be dummies. They will be nonexplosive and will, at worst, tear a hole in the bulk of the target ship. But the vast empty spaces in the bulk of the Zaehringen have been stuffed with cork, solid cork, so that the ship must either be hit below the water mark or literally torn to pieces by the nonexplosive shells before it is in danger of sinking.

The solid cork sink-proof scheme was decided upon as being more effective than the use of empty beer barrels, used by the German navy during the war to keep mine sweepers afloat.

Fashioning Fake Gems Brings Alien Wealth

Hollywood, Calif.—This is the story of Willie Peterson of Denmark, worker in jewels and metals. Five years ago, poor and unknown, Willie Peterson arrived in Hollywood scarcely able to speak or understand English. Today he owns one of those movie mansions in Hollywood, a miniature castle surrounded by two acres of garden and fruit trees. He owns a business block; is on speaking terms with the president of his bank, and his automobiles are all paid for.

SHIPPING FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

In Certain Eastern Areas Smaller Markets Appear to Be Well Served.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The larger cities receive so great a proportion of the car load shipments of fruits and vegetables in the United States that the rest of the country might seem at first glance to be rather poorly supplied. In 1928, for example, 86 of our principal cities unloaded 58 per cent of the car lot shipments of 16 leading fruits and vegetables. Nevertheless, according to the Department of Agriculture, the distribution of fruits and vegetables throughout the country is more thorough than these figures would indicate. The explanation is largely the motor truck.

Enlarging the Demand.

As a matter of fact, in certain eastern areas for which information is available, the smaller markets appear to be well served with fruits and vegetables. An average of from 40 to 45 per cent of the car load receipts of box apples in 17 southern cities in 1926 were shipped out, again to the surrounding territory by auto truck or in less than car load shipments.

In general, the machinery for the redistribution of shipped-in fruits and vegetables to the small cities and to the rural population is fairly efficient, and the auto truck is constantly improving it. Thus in Pennsylvania from 10 to 50 per cent of the southern peaches used in 1926 in a number of cities with population ranging from 20,000 to 50,000 were brought in by truck or in less than car lot shipments from Philadelphia or Baltimore.

Southern peaches are on sale in most of the small towns and villages of eastern Pennsylvania during the heavy shipping season. Many dealers in the small cities have their own trucks and make regular trips to the larger markets for supplies.

It has been contended, from the fact that car lot markets, go principally to the larger markets, that more car lot shipments might profitably go to the smaller markets, many of which have cold-storage plants. This may be rather difficult with the more perishable products and these subject to sharp price fluctuations. In small markets it may take a dealer several days to dispose of a car load. Meantime, falling prices in the large markets may enable competitors to bring in supplies by truck or in less than car lot loads at prices which the car lot receiver cannot meet without heavy loss. Lower transportation charges on car lot shipments to small markets may be offset by the greater risk. By using the auto truck, the dealer in the small city often feels he has a better choice of fresh produce, and can be assured of better value in buying it.

Auto Truck Used.

In short, much progress has been made in enlarging the demand for fruits and vegetables by effecting a wider and more thorough distribution among the consuming population. Dealers using their own or hired trucks, and hucksters and peddlers who handle locally grown as well as shipped-in produce, have widened the area and increased the effectiveness of distribution.

Bombed By Dog Biscuits Nutley Resident Wins Lamp

Strange stories of a midnight bomber were telephoned to Nutley police headquarters shortly after midnight Sunday morning from residents of the apartment house at 343 Park avenue. Police hurried to the scene. As late-returning residents of the building would enter a missile, dropped from above, would splinter on the pavement. There were no hits scored. Police pieced sections of the missile together. They first thought it was a bride's biscuit. Completion of the pattern showed the objects to be dog biscuits. The bomber was not discovered.

Albert H. Lindstrom Invents Method Of Coloring Light Bulb

Albert H. Lindstrom, mechanical and metallurgical engineer Westinghouse Lamp Company, Bloomfield was awarded a first of $500 for the outstanding accomplishment in the lamp industry for 1928. Lindstrom's invention was a method of inside coloring for lamps, or turning a bulb out.

The presentation was at the field plant Monday afternoon. A. Black, manager of manufacturing and engineering for the house Lamp Company, and employees of the Westinghouse Company were present in connection center when Black presented the award.

Before the development Lindstrom's idea for inside coloring incandescent bulbs, all colored light bulbs were colored by dipping or painting. A very undesirable method, reasons aside from the marring angle. The most important feature was that the coloring became darkened from handling.

After a considerable amount of research work, Lindstrom came up with the idea of the inside coloring. This accomplishment is a new method of manufacturing type of colored lamp with advantages in cost production, service and appearance, the features being that it is suitable for the household bulb with a cloth, thereby its original polished surface is retained.

Lindstrom is a graduate of Lehigh University. He is 34 years of age and joined the house organization in 1919, returned from overseas war is married and lives at 2111 Avenue.

Grace Drive To Church Debt

Much interest has been shown in the newspaper announcement of a campaign sponsored by the club of Grace Baptist Church to raise $25,000 by soliciting contributions of $1. from individuals in the community.

About 1,000 letters have been addressed to a like number in the town and it is expected the appeal will meet with a response.

This plan will be carried out and shortly every person in the community will be presented with opportunity of aiding this cause.

Plans are also under way to have the entire community participate in a house-to-house canvass.

That the cause is a worthy one is evidenced by the assistance committee in charge is receiving many out of town friends.

It is certain that the sum of $25,000 will be raised with the support of the community.

Matinees Only A Hundred Years Old

The many who take their theatre as the mere course of human events will be surprised to learn that matinees are not much more than a hundred years old. This bit of information is furnished by Miss Bertha Belmore who is appearing in New York in "The Whispering Gallery." It was her grandfather, John Henry Cooke, who began the movement which was to end in—"Mats. Wed. & Sat."

The papers which reveal the story tell that the change from the six performance week came about through a desire for greater box office receipts and Mr. Cooke's sadness that the children who patronized the shows with their parents became sleepy as their bed hour approached. When Mr. Cooke suggested additional performances to be given in the daytime he was laughed at by all his theatrical colleagues. Nevertheless he put his scheme into effect—for the sake of the children. He called this extra show "illuminated morning performance" (the term "Matinee" came from the French and was not put into general usage until much later) as it began in the morning and was illuminated artificially by the primitive torches and candles of the period. Had the manager not used the term "illuminated" the general public might have taken it for an outdoor performance, which would not have been an innovation. Reduced rates were charged (that custom persists to this day) and the venture was a success. Borrowing from the French the word "Matin," meaning morning, the word matinee was coined, and that is how we have the name and the extra performances on our theatrical bill of fare. It was not until much later that the curtain time was delayed from before noon until after lunch.

Tourists still flock to the woods left of the ancient Forest of Sherwood in Nottinghamshire in England to see where Robin Hood roamed with his archers in Lincoln green. These woods can be found at Birkland, Bilhaigh, and parts of Mansfield Wood, Harlow Wood and Sassen Wood.

Approximately six thousand ships of thirty-two countries participate in moving passengers and freight of the United States.

If you would see the real "blue bloods of the world, you must be one in the tourist parties which go to Spain every year. They are the blond-haired, blue-eyed beauties which you meet in old brunette Seville, probably derived from the Visigoths, whose strain has given our language the real "sangre azul."

In contrast to the days when you had to come down to the wharf to find a vessel leaving for Europe, you can now book your passage from 10,000 offices in Tourist Bureaus, Railway stations, Stores and Banks on this continent.

Some folk think that D'Artagnan is just as fictitious a character as Mr. Pickwick, but when Dumas wrote "The Three Musketeers," he elaborated a history of a real D'Artagnan. Tourists will find today a statue to a real 17th century hero in his birthplace at Lisle Auch, the former capital of Gascony, and now the chief town in the Department of Gers.

Jack crouched in his seat and pretended to be reading. The fellow passed by but soon came back waving a pistol in his hand and roaring, "Isn't there an actor in this train?" It seemed to Jack that the enraged troupe had played a small mining town in the West. Their reception was worse than terrible. They hid from the noise of the guns and, one by one sneaked out of town by whatever opportunity offered itself. Jack, a little more daring than the rest, caught the afternoon local. Back Door Description

"He's the kind of man," says Evelyn Sintae of "Boom Boom," "who, when he needs a shave, waits until he needs a haircut so he can get them both for the price of one tip." Adelaide Candee of "Pleasure Bound" has no great admiration for her roommate's latest admirer. She claims that he is like the latest thing in pictures—all sound.

Refrain from Meat

Phil Baker, one of the shining lights in "Pleasure Bound" says that it really happened. An actor, after the opening night, entered a restaurant and asked for the dinner menu, explaining that he had not eaten since noon, and had acquired a tremendous appetite. "Anything good in roasts?" he inquired of the waiter.

Unknown to him, a dramatic critic was sitting at the adjoining table. The latter, overhearing the question, turned to his companion. "He wants a roast, does he? he commented, 'Well let him look at my review in tomorrow's paper!'"

New Faces ON BROADWAY

Aileen Stanley Arrives

It is particularly noteworthy that Broadway, the street which likes to think of itself as the standard of theatrical entertainment for each and every one of the forty-eight states, has been the last place in this country to hear the bell-like notes of "The Victrola Girl." Not that Aileen Stanley has been an unknown quantity—no one who has been recorded on twenty-five million phonograph records can be that—but that her first appearance in a Broadway show was made last month when "Pleasure Bound" opened at the Majestic Theatre, New York. A star at her New York debut!

To be literal her name is not Aileen Stanley. It was Nora Bayes who convinced the little girl from Illinois that Aileen Muggridge was not a theatrical name, but it was under that title that she made her first appearance in a variety program in the suburbs of Chicago. They say that the only applause came from members of her immediate family but the managers saw a future in the youngster and gave her other engagements. She appeared in these bills with her brother and, after a year of repeated engagements, the family decided that perhaps the youngsters could sing and took them away from the stage and sent them off to cultivate their voices.

It was during the war that Aileen began appearing in a single act. In one month she was headlining on the Keith circuit and, since that time, has topped every variety bill on which she was listed.

She earned her name of "The Victrola Girl" in much the same fashion. An obscure western company, tottering on the edge of oblivion, gave her an opportunity of recording one of her songs. The first number sold upwards of fifty thousand. The company was saved and Aileen was established as a record artist. Even London had seen Miss Stanley prior to Broadway. In 1925 she was sent for by the Kit Kat Club of London. In England she was asked to sing before Prince George and later for the Prince of Wales. Not until she was homeward bound did she make arrangements to enter an American legitimate production in "A Night in Spain," on tour, and, at the end of its run, entered "Pleasure Bound," her first New York show.

Better Auto Service Is Nash National Contribution In 1929

Better service to auto owners will be the most important national contribution made by the Nash Company in the year 1929. C. W. Nash, president, predicted today following more than a month's personal participation in Automobile Shows throughout the country.

Since the first National exhibition opened in New York early in January the industrial leader responsible for so many major advances in American motor car construction and quality, has traveled almost constantly to the various show centers. With C. H. Buiss, Sales Manager, and other company officials, he has visited most of the principal distribution centers. He has inspected Nash sales and service facilities in each point, has addressed thousands of dealers and salesmen on the Nash sales firing line and has made a special study of Nash service departments and improvements in service organizations.

"One dissatisfied owner can do more damage to a great automobile merchandising structure than dozens of satisfied owners can mend," has been his chief automobile show theme "and in 1929 the Nash car owner should be satisfied in every respect."

In summing up his impressions of the Automobile Show season today, he declared that service is, after all, at the root of success in any public undertaking.

"In all my years of automobile work," he added, "I have tried to base my every activity on the simple rule that everyone is entitled to the kind of treatment I would want in any situation. That has been the policy of The Nash Motors Company since its inception and, I am happy to say, most men in our organization are big enough to be able to step over into the other fellow's position whenever such a question arises and see his point of view as well as their own."

"In our case, service does not lie alone in making adjustments in an owner's car cheerfully and efficiently. It lies in giving the public the last ounce of value in our power for its money; in supplying our cars with all of the advanced features that are exclusive with Nash; in placing the lowest price on our cars compatible with good business, and in guaranteeing strict honesty and fair dealing to the public throughout our great merchandising organization in every part of the world."

"We are entering a year of high promise and are in the midst of the greatest public demand for Nash products in the history of the company. But in spite of all pressure that may be brought to bear on the part of buyers, the Nash policy of making every car as perfect as it can be made before it leaves the Nash factories will be adhered to as rigidly in the future as it has in the past. With a product that we know is one hundred percent, I look forward to our organization setting a new high standard in service for the industry in 1929."

Telephone Co. Plans For Further Growth

Appropriations for additions and improvements in the statewide telephone system of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company totaling $1,263,600 have been approved by the directors of the company.

The expenditures authorized to expand and better the service include $20,000 for buildings; $983,745 for central office equipment; $256,735 for new cable and other facilities outside the central offices, and $3,130 for new equipment on subscribers' premises.

Major items approved include:—general additions to meet growth in communities served by the Humboldt dial central office, Newark, Journal Square Central Office, Jersey City, Nassau-Orange central offices, Hackensack and Port Norris central offices; increased facilities in the Long Distance switchboard facilities in Newark and Trenton, serving large territories surrounding each, to meet increased demands upon the equipment for use of distance telephone service; cable and other outside construction to serve residential and business growth in the ranges, Cliffside and Morsemer, Woodbury and Vineland.

Motorists Fined In Nutley

Thirteen motorists each were fined $2 for parking without lights by Recorder William A. Smith Friday night.

Louis Massiucco, 22 Emily street was fined $12 for parking his truck without a tail light. Complaint was made by James J. Lamb of 293 Chestnut street, whose automobile ran into the truck. Abraham Goldberg of 416 VanHouten street, Paterson, was fined $12 for speeding. John Unit of 25 Dan street, Clifton, was fined $2 for failing to stop at a stop street.

SCIENTIST ENDS 3-YEAR VIGIL ON LONELY DESERT

Smithsonian Institution Astrophysicist Measures Heat of Sun in South America.

Washington.—Buried three years in the nitrate deserts of Chile, in a country so lonesome that even Indians could not be hired to remain, H. B. Freeman, Smithsonian institution astrophysicist, has returned to Washington after scientific research in connection with measurements of the sun's heat.

The Smithsonian solar observatory near Calama, Chile, is one of the three stations scattered over the globe where the institution is making daily computations of the sun's radiation. These observations are being taken over a long term of years with a view of collecting proof of variation and determining the amount so as to provide data from which to learn the influence of the variation on the earth's weather.

What Twin Ignition Does

THE New Nash Twin-Ignition motor has two big aircraft spark plugs for each cylinder, instead of the ordinary single plug, as you can see in the simplified diagram above.

Both plugs fire simultaneously. The gas vapor is ignited at two points instead of the usual one. One effect is quicker combustion, which produces more power, more speed, much faster acceleration.

Another result is, more uniform combustion, which helps to create the very noticeable smoothness and rhythm of Nash motor performance.

And still another result of Twin Ignition is more efficient combustion, which prevents wasted fuel.

With Twin Ignition, instead of single ignition, higher compression is practical, and the same Nash motor produces 9 1/2 more horsepower, 5 miles an hour more speed, and 2 extra miles from every gallon of gasoline you buy.

EASTER

By the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Washington, in Minneapolis Tribune.

MATT. XXVIII, 1: "As it began to dawn, toward the first day of the week."
The mighty teaching of the resurrection is associated with the dawn of a new day. It marks the beginning of a new chapter in the life of the world.

L. P. Jacks speaks of the "lost radiance of the Christian religion," and identifies the "man's" primary need is for light. He maintains that man, in his confusion, has turned to education, thinking the while that this will lead him to the new land of promise. We cannot believe that it was without design that the Resurrection was associated with the dawning light of a new morning. It is suggestive of a new beginning, it marks the opening of a fresh experience and is full of the promise of a new day of enlarged opportunities. Man associates action and life in its fullness with light. Night is the symbol, not alone of inaction, it is identified in our minds with the baser things of life; it is a time for treason, stratagems and spoils; it is suggestive of death itself. The patient tosses restlessly through the night, he finds quiet and assurance with the dawning of the day. Even the birds and flowers sleep through the night and awaken with the morning.

In the shadowy hours of the evening of that fateful Good Friday the body of Christ found sepulture in the new and unused tomb of Joseph of Arimathea. The very solemnity and solemnity of the evening hour were fitting accompaniments of such a tragic ending. With the first blush of a glowing morning the risen Christ emerged from His tomb. His first appearances were to those who had come at the breaking of day to pay their loving tribute at the sealed gateway of His tomb. The whole scene speaks of freshness and renewal, it forecasts in no uncertain way the dawn of that eternal morning when, emancipated and redeemed, men shall enter into the fuller and more abundant life. Through the long centuries that followed that first yearningly in its direction and have found in it the assurance and hope of immortality. Victor Hugo expresses his own deep conviction in the words, "Winter is on my head, but eternal spring is in my heart. I breathe at this hour the fragrance of the lilacs, the violets and the roses as I approach the end, the plainer I hear around me the immortal symphonies of the worlds, which invite me. It is marvelous, yet simple. It is a fairy tale, and it is history." With glowing expectation he adds, "When I go down to the grave I can say like many others, I have finished my day's work. But I cannot say I have finished my life. My day's work will begin again the next morning. The tomb is not a blind alley; it is a thoroughfare. It closes on the twilight, it opens on the dawn."

So we come again to another Easter morning. It will be interpreted to us in glowing services, with augmented music and the fragrance of blossoms that bespeak a new springtime near at hand. Those who rarely frequent the aisles of churches will be drawn to them on this day and find themselves responding to the message that tells of Christ's resurrection. Shall it not mean to us something more than all this? Shall we not feel the pulsings of a new life stirring within us? Shall we not acknowledge that the Christ of the early dawn brings to each one of us renewed hope, high and holy expectations and a freshened zest and enthusiasm for that fuller and more complete life of which He is the supreme exponent and embodiment?

"Sing, with all the sons of glory,
Sing the resurrection song!
Death and sorrow, earth's dark story,
To the 'former days' belong.
Even now the dawn is breaking,
Soon the night of time shall cease,
And, in God's own likeness waking,
Men shall know eternal peace."

Rabbit and Egg Legend Universal

Joyous Easter is here. After Sunday school and church where special Easter Sunday exercises make the day more joyous, thousands and thousands of boys and girls will return home and hunt for Easter rabbits and eggs. Then the egg-rolling contests will begin. But this great sport for the youngsters will not stop with the close of the day. Easter Monday is always a great day for the kiddies. If they have any unbroken eggs left for rolling. And there always seems to be a reserve supply. Easter Monday is a gala day for the youngsters of Washington, for on that day they go to the White House grounds where they roll their vari-colored eggs for the President and first lady and of course, for their own entertainment.

Easter is now a Christian festival in memory of the crucifixion and resurrection of our Savior, but it had a heathen origin. It is a relic of the pagan festival of spring celebrating the rebirth of life after the dormant period of winter. It was not until 325 A. D. that the Council of Nice proclaimed Easter as the time for celebrating the resurrection of Christ. The council also decreed that it should be a movable feast which cannot be earlier than March 22 or later than April 25, and that it be determined by the old paschal or Jewish lunar month, always falling on the first Sunday after the full moon on or next after March 21. Thus, if the full moon falls on Sunday, then Easter day is the next Sunday.

Easter Legends.
All youngsters know about the rabbit and eggs and their connection with Easter. The Easter egg and the legend of the rabbit are universal. But how did these symbols of this joyous festival originate? The origin of egg-rolling which most children enjoy so much is supposed to have begun centuries ago from the practice of farmers rolling eggs over their lands to be sure of abundant yields at harvest time. This was because the egg was the pagan emblem of the germinating of life of early spring. The children are told that the rabbits lay the eggs and for this reason the latter are nearly always hidden away in nests or in flower beds in the yard and garden. The rabbit is another pagan symbol and has always been an emblem of fertility. Modern people have lost knowledge of what these symbols mean, yet they have continued these old pagan customs, perhaps by force of habit, and certainly for the amusement of youngsters at Easter time.

Why Eggs Were Colored.
As to the coloring of Easter eggs a religious encyclopedia says: "Because the use of eggs was forbidden during Lent, they were brought to the table on Easter day colored red to symbolize the Easter joy. This custom is found not only in the Latin, but also in the Oriental churches." Christians are supposed to have adopted the egg-rolling custom to symbolize the resurrection, and the eggs were colored red in allusion to the blood of redemption. Yet, other colors were later introduced and now they have no special significance except to make variety.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Three Days

Noont on a Roman road
By weary prisoners trod,
Bowed to the earth a fainting form,
The Son of God
Night! and a united Cross
Lifted ag in the sky,
On whose shaft arms the Sun of God
Lay Down to Die
Dawn! by an empty Tomb,
His who is at my to save,
The Son of God, hath conquered death
And rent the grave.

There is the hazard that one may be wrong on Easter morning, and yet it seems, so far as recollection serves, that Easter mornings commonly are suited to the joyous significance of the day. The sunshine loves the earth, and lingers on it, and trees put forth their leaves in tender haste, and shrub and tree, after their fashion, are in bloom. One would view almost that the cherries bloomed for Easter, and that the quince in the garden had put forth in token of the resurrection.

It is excellent, in all truth, that Easter should fall as it does in this region, and over a broad belt of the planet. For the season is—shall we not say?—synchronized with the message, and the mother earth cries out, albeit dearly, that there is no death, but only the seeming thereof. You will look long in months to come for turf that is greener than the sod of Easter Sunday, for flowers that are more innocent of hue and petal. And if it be fair, as we insist the morning ought of right to be, you will look long for such another morning.

For so many, many days the earth has slept, in that slumber which feigns death. Seed and root in their loam, dreaming of a time when a touch should awaken them, and they should rise to be with and of the world again—a world of sunshine and laughter. Is there aught of sadness in this? There is much of promise fulfilled. For the seed quickens and the fibers rouse once more, that Easter shall be pleasant, and that lane and lawn shall have leaf and flower and bladed green. On all ordinary occasions we have little faith in weather prophecy—but this morning should be blithe and sunny. It really should be for it is Easter.—Portland Oregonian

German Kiddies Believe

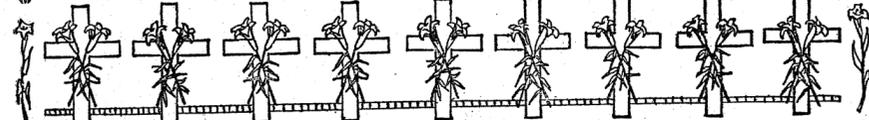

Easter Hare Lays Eggs
The Easter "hare" originated in Germany, and there the little children in the German village are taken to the woods the day before Easter and each child makes a nest of twigs and then runs away. Then when he comes back next morning, lo! the nests are all beautifully filled. Who else but the hare could have laid the eggs? For the hares do not lay ordinary eggs, only large painted, candy eggs. The fact that is what every child in Germany is taught to believe.

In certain English provinces there is in vogue the queer "lifting" custom. If a crowd of women meet a man they seize him and lift him up three times, and he must pay a forfeit if he would escape. On Easter Tuesday the men retaliate. The woman must beware, then.

Easter Day at Dawn in California

Have you ever been in California at Easter time? At Easter time, when the poppies begin to flash their brilliant yellow across the uplands and foothills? When the orange groves waft their perfumes into the face of snow-capped Baldy? If you haven't been so fortunate, you mustn't miss this sight before you leave for the heavenly places. And if you have, you will recall the thrill of the early hour on the road out toward Rubidoux, cross-crowned or down along the Santa Monica palisades, out Hollywood way, or in the Rose Bowl, walled in by the hills of God—the hour before the East "grows gold and overflows the world." Just to join the throngs afoot or in automobiles is to get the thrill of expectancy that comes from the borders of the unknown, a writer in the Los Angeles Times asserts.

Everywhere spring is on the earth. Back yonder, from whence many of us came, the snow is still lying in the little gullies along the hills, or under the trees where the sun is shut out. The trees are burgeoning everywhere; the wild geese fly north, and the birds are busy about their nesting. It's apple-blossom time yonder, and orange-blossom time here. Yonder the farmer trudges in his furrow, here he rides his tractor; the smell of fresh-turned earth is in our nostrils; spring has returned once more. And the God of the Outdoors is again touching up the colors of the earth.

Wait for Word of Hope.
We may not read the secrets of the hearts of men even by studying their faces. Sometimes, yes; for in a sense the face is the playground of the soul, and often a light shines through the thin folds of the fleshy vesture. But oftener, no. Yet we may be sure that many a heart is anxiously trudging towards the horizon, facing the frontier of eternity this Easter-tide; looking up out of some fresh sorrow, turning from some fearful bereavement, hoping for comfort and expecting light. These multitudes are out on the trails this Easter day to catch some token of life's meaning, to hear some word of hope, to feel some impulse that will justify their tremulous expectancy. Day dawns like thunder, they tell us in Mandalay, but in California the sunrise is a sunburst, and beats upon our senses like drums, as does the meadowlark with its buoyant song. Man has never felt quite at home in the earth: "The day comes in upon wings of mystery, and sometimes departs with a glory that makes the heart ache, we know not why. The mountains are sacraments of power beyond our understanding. . . . the stars are lamps that light an endless pathway."

Paradise Always Upheld.
Yet, for all this sense of mystery and wonder, man is a blithe pilgrim and goes on stout-heartedly through

The Easter Sun

(An Old Irish Legend.)
Oh! Well do we remember
The pretty story told!
How Easter's sun, in splendor,
When night was backward rolled,
Would dance with joy and gladness
At its rising, to proclaim
Christ's triumph over darkness,
And lest heaven to reclaim.

With what eager expectation
We look for that bright day!
With what holy exultation
Night and morning did we pray
That good children He might make us,
That God's will on earth be done,
And while angels filed the chorus
We might dance like Easter's sun.

Light was our sleep the night before,
No need for mother's call,
No rapping on the bedroom door
To awake us one and all,
Through sleep our dreams were all on high
And when that sleep was done,
With joy we scanned the eastern sky
To see the dancing sun.

O, holy, sweet delusion,
So inspiring and so mild,
So fit as a conclusion
To the rapture of a child,
To fill his heart with feelings
Holy, tender, pure and bright,
That in all his earthly dealings
He may dance in heaven's sight.

the fogs and shadows, picking his course carefully along the precipices of life and among the graves new-made from dawn to dawn, feeling the sense of a Friendly Presence in all the awe-inspiring wildness of the land. And in his heart beats the instinct for the horizon and for adventure. He refuses to be intimidated, or to believe that life ends in eclipse. He has never passed this way before; the road is full of surprises and strangeness and often the trail is broken and steep, but he is sure that when he turns the next shoulder of the mountain, or the next, or the next, he will find Paradise stretching before him in all its glory. He is going "west," and he has been a long time traveling, and the road has taken him across more than one riverford, over more than one desert stretch, beyond one frontier after another; but this Easter day his fellow-pilgrims, their laughter and their talk, and the spirit of the day, make his heart fairly burst with hope.

Symbolical of New Day.
That young Roman, Mark, the scholar, years after the first memorable Easter day in Jerusalem, looking back, recalled that it was just at the hour of sun-up, as day began to dawn, that he and his friends first went to the sepulcher of Jesus. The farther that fact receded into the past, the more it seemed to him, symbolical—the rising of the sun, a token to him of the new day that dawned then for humanity.

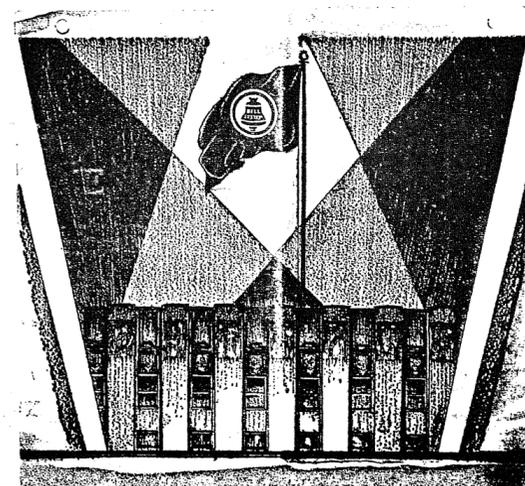

In Russia, on Easter day, the moujiks greet each other with a holy kiss, and jubilantly proclaim, "Christ is risen today!" Faust heard the bells ringing on Easter morning, and the will to live arose in his heart once more. That is the ministry of Easter day.

Easter's Message the Antithesis of Death

Perhaps a crucifixion, a destroying of some hopes is necessary, in order that Easter may be indeed a reality. There was a world of meaning in the statement "and ye now therefore have sorrow!"

To how many sad-eyed mourners will this Easter bring comfort and hope! To how many broken-hearted travelers along the way of life should it speak of a new, higher, better day, just about to break, as certain to break, as spring to follow winter, to the man who hopes and dares, and "keeps a stiff upper lip." So long as life lasts the brave man is never beaten. Life means effort. Without that, it is really death in life, an anomalous thing. Even though seemingly unsuccessful, effort is well repaid to a man's own soul, for success wears many forms, and sometimes comes disguised as failure.

Easter is the encouragement of effort, of courage, of daring, of hope, because it is the antithesis of death. The only death now worth fearing, is the passing of honor, of faith, of the joy of doing, of the blessedness of feeling the glory of life.

NOW TO BUSINESS

Belleville Board of Education has decided to give back to "voided" contract as superintendent and delete from the high school principalship the school authority to the serious business of education and its kindred

What is the cost to our school system of seats vacant because of intermittent absence of pupils? Parents as a rule are not conscious of the loss involved when their children absent themselves from school—loss through interruption or the child's progress and loss through hindrance of classroom advancement.

ing guest all possible information about the next stage of his journey. Much is being said nowadays about the value of impressions. Nothing lingers longer with a motorist than the memory of trouble.

THE COST OF VANCANT SCHOOL SEATS

The waste in money and opportunity is large and school administrators have, like other business executives, had to guard against it.

TRAVEL TRIFLES

More than 65 per cent of the passengers who cross the Atlantic to see Europe are women, many of them elderly. 70 per cent of the passengers on cruises are married couples.

Don'ts for tourists should include—Don't ask to see Raphael's Sistine Madonna in the Sistine Chapel at Rome; don't look in Germany for Carlsbad; and don't expect to see the Pope or enter Italian churches if you are wearing a low evening gown or short sleeves.

Travelers in Germany who are willing to buy a first class ticket for each member of their party and twelve additional tickets can have their own parlor car attached to any through train.

Citizen Cites

Sympathy has saved as many lives as medicine has.

Stretch the truth and it is apt to fly back and sting you.

No matter how much a man wants in this world he is usually compelled to put up with what he gets.

An optimist is a man who, instead of feeling sorry he cannot pay his bills, is glad he is not one of his creditors.

Many a man is kept in the dark because he is continually standing in his own light.

Looking at it both ways, the old maid may decide it's all right to be left.

Those who work never rust,—those who wear longest, wear out.

The gifted person also may have a taking way.

Spring fever is some times the seasonable alibi for a chronic condition.

"Heich-abune the heich," the motto of the famous Gleneagles Hotel and Golf Links in Scotland, has nothing to do with hiking over the moors after the wee white ball. It relates to the service given to tourists and means "supreme superiority" or "better than the best."

Don'ts for tourists should include—Don't ask to see Raphael's Sistine Madonna in the Sistine Chapel at Rome; don't look in Germany for Carlsbad; and don't expect to see the Pope or enter Italian churches if you are wearing a low evening gown or short sleeves.

The bones of Christopher Columbus have often been moved. Americans who wish to see them in their travels should go to the Cathedral at Seville, Spain.

In Ghent, Belgium, there is a "row of monuments" where seven large public buildings stand on almost a straight line of only 700 yards.

Of the quarter of a million Americans who visit France every year, French statisticians estimate 2 per cent are millionaires. American spend $230,000,000 a year in France.

The Taitteann Games in Ireland are the oldest in the world, antedating even the famous Olympic Games of Greece. They were started in 632 B. C.

In Vienna the waiter who brings you your coffee—the aromatic beverage of which Vienna alone knows the secret—cannot accept payment for it. For that you must wait your turn with the "pay waiter," who probably has to deal with the reckoning of every guest in the cafe. Even your "tipping," though inexpensive, is not simple. The "paywaiter" receives the most largesse, the serving waiter a few Groschen, and if you have had wine or beer, the diminutive Piccolo who serves it must have his fistful of tiny copper coins amounting in value to a couple of cents.

To traverse on foot the Riviera roads from La Londe to Cannes has been called "the most enchanting walk in the world." It may easily be done in two or three days. Americans call it "the hiker's heaven."

There are now transatlantic liners so large that Babe Ruth's longest hit ball would fall far short of the length of the vessel.

There is a typical feature of Copenhagen which no stranger can miss as he will encounter it everywhere—the enormous cycle traffic, the like of which is not to be found in any other big town. The ringing of all the little bells of the bicycles as typical of the life on the Copenhagen asphalt as the singing of the larks over the Danish fields.

Rome is not the only city built on seven hills, for Bergen, Norway, where Grieg, the composer, was born and Bjornson and Ibsen were once theatre directors, makes a similar claim.

The total passenger traffic on the Atlantic in 1928 was 88 persons, but now east and westbound, it totals over one million one hundred thousand.

The tourist learns at sea that in steamship terminology a gale, a storm and a hurricane are not the same thing. A gale blows 60 miles, a storm 70 miles and a hurricane 80 miles an hour.

La Pinte, near Ghent, Belgium, has famous greenhouses where exotic tropical plants are developed under glass and their slips and seeds are actually sent to tropic countries for propagation.

The extreme thrift of the French is nowhere better illustrated than in some of the smaller cafes where regular patrons file their napkins in a sort of rack, suggestive of the row of shaving mugs in an old-time barber shop, and pay once a week for laundry of that bit of linen. Some may call it thrift—the French call it "better service."

BEHIND THE SCENES

Two "Boom Boom" Comics Signed by Messrs. Shubert

Neil Kelly, the dashing red-haired dancer, and Harry Welsh, the comic waiter in "Boom Boom," have been signed for three years each by the Messrs. Shubert. They will also be featured in all their future productions under Shubert management.

Phil Baker Has New "Plant"

Phil Baker had a new "plant" (as the fellow actor located in the upper box is called) when he opened in "Pleasure Bound" at the Majestic Theatre, New York, last Monday. The new performer is John Humphrey Muldowney, who has been popular in vaudeville and has been the wisecracking member of various bands. It requires considerable practice for the man in the box to work with the man on the stage so that the maximum comedy and laughs are obtained from every line. From this trouble in raising and training "plants," Phil is calling himself a horticulturist.

E. E. Clive to Produce "The Ringer"

E. E. Clive, who presented "The Whispering Gallery" to New York playgoers several weeks ago, has purchased the American rights to "The Ringer," a mystery play by Edgar Wallace which has had an unusual success in London. Following his example with "The Whispering Gallery" he will present the play for a run in Boston prior to its metropolitan engagement.

East Claims "Young Love"

"Young Love," the ultra-modern comedy starring Dorothy Gish, will not be able to tour the mid-west until late in the season as the demand for the play in the eastern cities will keep it from an extensive tour until weeks after the Easter season.

"Security" to Have Rollo Wayne Settings

Rollo Wayne has been commissioned to do the settings for "Security," the play in which Mr. Lee Shubert will present Margaret Anglin. It is scheduled to open in New York sometime in March.

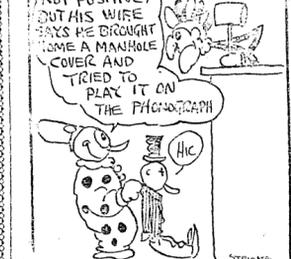

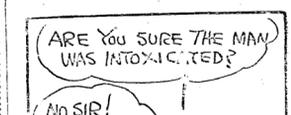

"A Night in Venice" Begins Rehearsals Any Day Now.

After almost a year of preparations the Messrs. Shubert have declared themselves ready to place "A Night in Venice" in rehearsal. This revue is the third in the series, the former two, "A Night in Paris" and "A Night in Spain" having been among the smashing hits of their season. It is planned to make "A Night in Venice," a fitting member of the series, and the delay has been caused by the difficulty of collecting the proper cast, costumes and unique effects for which these revues have been noted.

Frank McIntyre Celebrates Twenty-fifth Birthday

Frank McIntyre, the rotund star of the musical comedy "Boom Boom" celebrated his twenty-fifth birthday last Monday with a little backstage party at the Casino Theatre, New York, given to him by members of his company.

Mr. McIntyre began his stage career on March 1, 1904, when he abandoned newspaper reporting at Rome, New York, to appear in Chas. Kline's comedy, "Honorable John Griegsby." He scored so well that he was summoned to New York the same season to appear in a more important role at the Manhattan Opera House in a piece called "Old Revolution." He next tried appearing with the stars in his firmament, spending several seasons with Mrs. Fiske, Nat Goodwin, Robert Edelson and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Milton Royle. He joined the ranks of the luminaries with "The Traveling Salesman," which ran for more than a year.
