Wemecs To Present "Broken Dishes" At High School Tonight

This Affair Will Mark The Fifth By Local Players

The WEMEC Dramatic Club will present Martin Flavin's three act comedy, "Broken Dishes," this evening, at the High School auditorium.

"Broken Dishes" is the fifth production of the WEMEC Dramatic Club, and will, according to all reports, delight even the most blasé theatre patron.

It has to do with the marital troubles of Cyrus Bumpsted, played by John Carrough, who becomes a character with whom we can sympathize as readily as laugh at. For many years Bumpsted has smarted under the stinging lash of his wife's tongue. Jenny, his wife, is a perfect example of a shrew, and this role is portrayed by Alma Hosking. Most men would have rebelled during the first year of marriage, but being essentially an easy-going creature, willing to undergo a mild form of torture as long as he is not actually engaged in conflict, he has borne the vicissitudes of life with a shrew until he has reached the age when he is endowed with three daughters, Elaine, Myra and Mabel, played respectively by Esther Forbes, Dorothy Wadsworth and Jane Carrough.

Elaine desires to marry Bill Clark, portrayed by Horace Baldwin, a delivery clerk in Bascom's store, and whose lowly position causes him to be held in contempt and disfavor by Mrs. Bumpsted.

At this point, the well-known worm turns, Cyrus is able to stand the persecution, serious and petty, of his cantankerous wife, but when it comes to his favorite daughter falling under the yoke, he rebels. While Mrs. Bumpsted is out making whoopee at the movies with the other two girls, Cyrus, though he is aware to the bottom of his quaking soul that he will catch perdition when she returns, marries off his favorite daughter to the man she loves, his wife's special anathema. The marriage is performed by Dr. Stump, a deaf old dominy, who lives next door. Dr. Stump is ably portrayed by Vail Ryan. Sam Green, played by Allan Crisp, is an old friend who assists Cyrus to carry out his plans to marry Elaine to Bill. While the father and the newly married daughter are awaiting the return of Mrs. Bumpsted in fear and trembling, a stranger arrives. This stranger is Chester Armstrong, the man Mrs. Bumpsted might have married, which fact she used as a strange-hold on poor Cyrus, for she thinks this might-have-been is a tremendously wealthy individual. As a matter of fact he is a crook and the rebellion in "Broken Dishes" turns out successfully. The part of Chester Armstrong is played by Charles Gebhardt.

A great deal of painstaking care has gone into the presentation of "Broken Dishes" since the Club is striving to meet its pledge towards the purchase of the new Wesley Methodist Church organ and a capadirector is expected to turn out tonight. Doors open at 7:30 and tickets may be obtained at the door.

Miss Charlotte Wright, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Arthur L. Sherman of Brookfield avenue, sailed last week on the President Harding for Assam, India. Miss Althea Wright of New York and Lyman Wright of Hartford, N. Y., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman.

Analysis Of Returns Is Illuminating

Morrow's Win Extraordinary
In Light Of Democratic Landslide

Now that the election is over and all the figures are in, a complete analysis of the returns is very illuminating.

The outstanding feature is the victory of Dwight W. Morrow, Washington to represent New Jersey in the United States Senate by a majority which is really remarkable under the prevailing conditions.

It is true that pre-election forecasts from Republican quarters were for a bigger vote for Morrow but in the face of the unexpected Democratic landslide that was so pronounced in all the industrial states, Morrow's victory was extraordinary.

Inclement weather, too, played a powerful part in reducing his majority as indicated by the fact that from seventy to eighty per cent of the registered vote stayed away from the polls.

In sections where the vote for Morrow should have been considerably higher it rained steadily throughout the day and many supporters remained at home.

Overconfidence in the result also helped to swell the Democratic total despite repeated warnings to citizens of the state.

Taking everything into consideration therefore, Morrow's victory was splendid. His majority might have been increased by 100,000 if conditions had been more favorable.

Sheer admiration of the man, his record and, not the least, his dignified method of campaigning won the votes of thinking people who are eager and willing to have an outstanding figure of his type represent them in Washington.

It is the consensus of opinion that in electing him they have served their own interests best. They have also given the nation a powerful man at a time when fearlessness, leadership and breadth of vision are needed in public affairs.

His election represented the one really important bright spot to Republicans in the Democratic sweep, which, it must be admitted, was greater than anticipated.

Senator Morrow goes to Washington with the three great qualifications of capability, courage and calm which he so strikingly displayed in both the primary and general campaigns. New Jersey is indeed fortunate in having such a citizen. It is doubly fortunate in having the opportunity to present him for service to the nation.

Belleville gave to the three State bond issue referendums which originally were suggested by Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy while a member of the Assembly and while a member of the special tax relief committee of the State League of Municipalities a good vote.

1,777 favored the appropriation of $83,000,000 for highway improvement; 1,406 were opposed. The same proportion approved the other two bond issues: $7,000,000 for the purchase of water sheds and $10,000,000 for State institutions.

Homer Zink registered a greater number of votes than any other candidate.

Editor's Note: This is the twentieth of a series of articles by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, presented by the News as its part in the campaign of education to familiarize motorists with the laws which regulate their conduct on the road.

By HAROLD G. HOFFMAN,
State Comm'r. of Motor Vehicles.

XX.—HOW ABOUT COURTESY

A law is strong and effective only if it has behind it the force of public opinion. A law enacted by a minority and vigorously opposed by a majority is a law doomed to what Grover Cleveland called "innocuous desuetude." So is a law, approved by a majority which feels no personal responsibility for its enforcement.

Motor vehicle and traffic laws were passed in response to public opinion which felt, and clearly indicated its sentiment, that the rapidly expanding use of the automobile unregulated and unsupervised, constituted a menace to human life of unparalleled magnitude.

Experience has proved the wisdom of automotive regulatory legislation. We are appalled by the annual death and accident rate, but it is impossible to realize what conditions would be if there were no laws defining reckless driving, for instance, if there were no constant threat of revocation of the right to drive, if there were no need to display license plates, which so definitely establish identity and responsibility; if there were none of the multitude of safety rules which are found in the motor vehicle and traffic acts.

Neither enforcement nor observance in New Jersey is perfect. Nor is it anywhere in the country. In some States, the stop street rule has the sanctity and reverence accorded a moral law. In New Jersey it is frequently ignored. But in New Jersey other rules are generally observed, although they are broken in many parts of the country.

Proof of the effectiveness of license legislation as an aid to safety and sanity on the highways is shown by the fact that States which have no such legislation are at the top of the list in percentage of deaths and serious accidents. New Jersey's automobile license law is not perfect; many drivers on the roads today should never have been granted licenses. But New Jersey's roads would be intolerable if there were no restriction on the right to drive. Of the 161,309 applicants examined last year, 32,145 were rejected. In view of the fact that the examination, either demonstration or written test, is not difficult, think of highway conditions if those 32,145 were given licenses; or if the 26,924 rejected in 1928 were driving today, even making due allowance for those who, having failed in one year, were later successful.

The effectiveness of the provisions of the statute is lessened because the public, while approving them in theory, is too careless, indifferent or lazy to observe them. The police, municipal and State, and motor vehicle inspectors, are manifestly too few to hope to supervise the activities of more than 800,000 drivers.

He is a pretty bad citizen who shoots by a red light just because no traffic officer happens to be about. But there is something more to it. If he, alone of all the drivers on that thoroughfare, fails to observe the light, its purpose is defeated to a large degree, because his action constitutes a definite threat to the safety of motorists using the intersecting street, who are proceeding in the belief that others on the road will obey the law. In exactly the same position is the driver who fails to observe a stop street sign. Motorists using the stop street have the right to expect that he will stop. If he doesn't, he is responsible for any accident which may result.

In the last analysis, it is the conduct of the individual, both driver and pedestrian, that must either help to build or tend to destroy the traffic safety structure. Courtesy on the street and highway must be that start of individual cooperation in the solution of the tremendous accident problem.

Courtesy as applied to drivers means cheerful obedience to the letter and spirit of the law, and it means consciousness of the rights of others and respect for those rights. When you come down to it, driving with bad brakes or glaring headlights or failing to signal when turning or stopping or driving too fast for existing conditions is nothing more or less than discourtesy.

Until the motorists develop in their driving the same courtesy they display in other phases of their life, efforts to make safety more than a word will be utterly unavailable.

Elks' Boxing Bouts Bristled With Pep

Bill Curry of Newark climaxed a wild series of amateur boxing bouts at the Elks' Hall, Monday night, by copping the 150 pound class final with a victory over Stan Wierzacz of the Bayonne A. C. The Bayonne battler had all the better of the argument for the first couple of rounds but was forced to discontinue when Curry opened a deep eye wound in the third round.

In the 138 pound class finals, another Bayonne mixer, Johnnie Benford kayoed Chip Borandale of Paterson in 2 minutes and 45 seconds of the second round.

Another knock-out resulted in the finals of the 128 pound matches with Georgie Clayborne of the Ascension Parish felling Jack Scilhim of Newark for the count in 1 minute and 5 seconds of the second round.

Both fighters had previously won their right to compete in the finals with knock-out victories. Clayborne's first victim was Les Carroll of the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., whom he sent down for the full count in 1 minute and 25 seconds of the third round. A heavy right to the jaw spilled Carroll to the canvas for the count.

Scilhim's stepping stone to the finals was Joe Bulvich of the Bayonne A. C. Bulvich, a southpaw, was easy for Scilhim, who got him in 1 minute and 40 seconds of the first round on a heavy left to the mid-section.

In the finals of the remaining class, the 118-pound division, Roland Ferguson, colored, of the Salem Crescents, won by default. Ferguson, who was runner-up in a Madison Square Garden tournament recently, eliminated Manny Tillman of Newark, gaining a hair-line decision after three rounds of furious battling.

The opening bout of the evening, a 118 pound affair was captured by George Cornfeld of the Newark Y. M. H. A. Cornfeld got the bout on a technical knock-out over Al Boata of the Ascension Parish in the third round. Knock-downs were plentiful in this sortie with Cornfeld dropping Al for counts of eight in the second and nine in the third. Referee Leo Lloyd stopped the fight, awarding it to Cornfeld, after two minutes of fighting in the third round. Cornfeld later lost by default to Ferguson, because the doctor refused to permit him to continue.

Bill Curry, colored, of Newark, won his right to the finals in the 150 pound class with an easy knock out victory over Jim Marion of the Union A. C. It took Curry just twenty-three seconds of the first round to put across a left cross to the jaw that stopped Marion. Johnny Benford of the Bayonne A. C. won his way to the final in the 138 pound division with a quick kayo of Ballirino Figuero of the Salem Crescents in 2 minutes and 32 seconds of the second round. A right cross to the stomach did the trick after a slow first round.

In another 138 pounder Chip Brandale of Paterson copped an unpopular decision from Joe Adler, a southpaw battler of the Ascension Parish. The first two rounds of this bout were slow and uninteresting but in the final both boys mixed furiously to a draw. This required an extra round, Brandale gaining the decision of the judges after another hectic session.

Stan Wierzacz had an easy time of it winning his way to the finals in the same division. His opponent, Sam Peterson, colored, of Newark, defaulted at the end of the first with Wierzacz having all the better of the argument.

Some disappointment was expressed at the ringside when it was learned that Joe Giullana, promising local boxer, had sprained his ankle in training and would be unable to put in an appearance.

Probably the most exciting battle of the evening was the Clayborne-Carroll three rounder. Both boys stood toe to toe and slugged it out for the better part of the match, before Carroll went to the canvas in the third round.

Fire Chief To Get A New Automobile

His Old Roadster Wrecked Recently In Crash With Police Car

A resolution authorizing an emergency note of $700 for purchase of an automobile for the chief to replace the one wrecked in a collision with the police ambulance October 26 was passed by the Town Commission Tuesday night. Director Clark of the Department of Public Safety said a new car will cost $762.50, deducting $137.50 allowance for the old one.

Mr. Clark explained investigation showed the accident was unavoidable. It occurred when both vehicles were responding to a fire alarm. Fire Chief William T. Hirdes and Captain William Dunleavy, passengers in the car when it turned over, were reported recovered from bruises.

In response to the need of Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy for $2,000 additional funds for the poor department, Commissioner William H. Williams thought he could transfer $1,000 or $1,500 from the Finance Department. The Mayor believed he could transfer $500 from his other departments to the poor account. The other directors said they would check their budgets with the town treasurer to see if they could help. The money will be needed after next week the Mayor said.

A resolution was passed authorizing the town to share half the costs with the county for an automatic traffic light at Union avenue and Joralemon street.

A few nights ago, we turned on the radio to listen for a while. The turn of the button "clicked in" a rather rough voice speaking from some roadhouse, and it sounded like this:

"Now before cute and petite Sadie Goldberg sings her next 'numbah' I have a statement to make. It is very important, and I hope everyone within reach of my voice will listen very closely.

Folks, dere is hard times existing everywhere, but you are the one who is making dem hard times by saving your money. The country is going 'Scotch' and it is an awful shame, because if you spend your money it will go into circulation again and it will make more money, bla, bla, bla, and so forth."

A radio station permitting such trash should be highly censured and punished. Think of the poor people who have no other amusement than a little hand-made inexpensive radio set to listen into. It is a bad influence for them to have to listen to such attempted propaganda.

The announcer talking gave a good description of himself by his voice and the nature of his language. Times are hard, and it is no joke. If one is to use propaganda—let it be the type that will be honest and of a spiritual nature at least.

There should be no propaganda about hard times anyway. Persons of standing should know what they are talking about, when they discuss hard times to a needy one. And if they don't know, they should remain silent.

The wealthy are not throwing their money carelessly into circulation and why should the poor do it? The poor are putting their money

Romantic Designs Of Other Years Are Modernized For 1930 Wear

Elegance is the watchword of the new season—an elegance which is expressed predominantly in gown which reproduce the charmingly quaint ideas of other centuries. And feminine interest is very noticeably turning toward styles which possess this romantic allurements and chic!

The court of Empress Eugenie with its glamorously gowned women furnishes Paris with inspiration for many of the season's newest and most appealing ideas. The frock sketched employs many of the trends of that romantic era; to wit, graciously feminine lines, interestingly treated sleeves, and that bit of lace at the neckline that adds so much charm and loveliness to a design. Made up in a luxurious silk or velvet, this will be an ideally fashionable formal frock for the Autumn and Winter wardrobe.

On The Air

Mrs. Albert R. Hunt of Lakeside Drive, Nutley, was guest soloist at Station WAAW at the Happy Hour Service, Friday. She sang "Not Understood," and "I Need Thee Every Hour."

• There is never too much good cooking in America.
• Good cooking deserves to be encouraged.
• Compliments spoken behind the good cook's back would be better said to her directly.

• The makers of Heckers' Flour like to think they do their part for quality cookery. • Heckers' Flour is milled from the world's very best wheats. Expert cooks appreciate its dryness, its satiny texture and the way it handles. • This is a flour of character. Rich body. Superior flavor.

• Who buys Heckers' Flour?

Mostly those people who have tried ordinary flours and who have discovered that Heckers' Flour is the extra special, the superlative product.

• Four generations of cooks have tested Heckers' Flour in their own kitchens and have accorded it their highest approval. • The supreme testimonial!

The Martin-Dennis bowlers, despite a two out of three set-back at the hands of the championship Tiffany's quintet, retained their grip on the first rung on the local Manufacturers' League ladder, Friday night, at Ferrara's. Their lead, however, was pulled down from two to one game, with both Sweeney's and Tiffany's right at their heels, and the rest of the teams but a few steps further back.

Belleville Clintons Play

Congers Tomorrow

Bloomfield Outfit Comes Here With A Good Reputation

The Belleville Clintons will attempt to add the Bloomfield Congers to their rather imposing list of victims when they meet at Clearman Field, tomorrow afternoon, in an all-important grid battle.

The Clintons, in accounting for their undefeated record thus far this season, have been overwhelming their opponents in easy fashion. They expect much stiffer opposition from their Bloomfield rivals, however, who are sure to be formidable all the way.

Manager Monahan of the locals plans on starting his original "Four Horsemen" in the back-field, George Ashworth at quarter; "Sus" Howley and Marty Mallack at the half-back and "Bungo" Gorham at full. These men will have able substitutes in Hughie Clark, Hughie Welsh and Johnnie Mazza, all of whom have seen plenty of service in previous games. Coach Gil Howley of the Clintons believes firmly in the Notre Dame idea of sending in plenty of reserve material, with the result that they will all be given a chance to show their wares.

The line will be bolstered considerably by the return of "Pat" Dunn to the pivot position. Dunn has been the mainstay of the Clinton forward wall for the past few seasons and his re-appearance is bound to be a big help. The line will be flanked by the two veteran wing-men, "Pebbles" Pettit and Herb Otto, two of the best ends hereabouts. Mike Dacey and Howie Irving will take care of the tackles, while Ray Perry and "Monty" Monahan will start at guard. Cancelosi, Hannan, McFadden and Spillane give the Clintons good reserve line-men.

The Congers, who have been one of the stand-out independent grid teams hereabouts for several years, will likely depend quite a bit on an aerial attack in their try for victory. Their running attack has also been extremely effective against opponents to date.

The Clintons expect a good-sized turn-out at this tilt, which they will endeavor to make an annual affair. They will take the field equipped with their new uniforms and are bound to make a natty appearance.

The game will be called at 2:30.

Belleville High Ties With Irvington Team In Hard Fought Grid Game

Two evenly matched grid teams met at Clearman Field, Saturday afternoon, and neither Belleville High nor their rivals from Irvington were returned the victors, a scoreless tie resulting. The local wearers of the Blue and Gold insignia out-rushed considerably the Campdowners, who were full of confidence inspired by their win over Asbury Park the Saturday previous. The visitors were on the short end of a 6 to 9 count in number of first downs, but made up for this deficit with a rather effective forward passing attack that troubled Belleville at times.

"Mac" Lamb, inspirational little back of the Bell-boys, was again the best ball-carrier on the field. Defensively he was equally good, backing up the line with lots of aggressiveness. He had an able mate in this tackling business in the person of Captain Lou Galluba, who was here, there and everywhere, appearing at just the right moments to bring down some ambitious Irvington ball totter.

Irvington began the war-fare by kicking off to Belleville on the local's thirty-seven yard mark. Two successive off-tackle plunges netted Fritz Plenge nine yards, and an in-complete pass exactly nothing, making it fourth down and one to go. Employing the old "Safety First" slogan, Plenge punted and punted well. The kick was good for forty yards, Irvington running it back to their twenty-three yard mark.

In possession of the pigskin for the first time, the Campdowners started plunging viciously at the Blue and Gold forward wall. Three line smashes got them eleven yards and first down. Their next attempts however, were greeted with a little less success, forcing them to kick. The kick was poor, netting them only seven yards and giving the Bell-Boys the oval on Irvington's forty-seven yard line.

"Mac" Lamb got down to the work at hand this time and sliced off tackle on two beautiful plays for thirty-one and fourteen yards each. In the intermission between these two slants, however, a couple of the other Belleville backs had been thrown for losses. This gave Belleville the ball on Irvington's seven yard stripe and first down, and prospects for a score bright, not to say rosy.

The entire complexion of matters changed on the next play when Casale fumbled, causing the ball to change hands. Irvington elected to rush the ball and carried it to the thirty-five yard line just as the first quarter ended. Belleville clearly outplayed and out-manuevered the huskies from Irvington in this period, though both goal lines were unapproachable.

Irvington went into kick formation at the start of the second quarter. Belleville returning the well-placed punt to their own thirty-five yard line. Once more the locals carried the ball down the field and again they lost the ball deep in Irvington territory.

Several short off tackle thrusts by Leadbeater, Plenge and Casale amassed just ten yards and first down, following which an Irvington penalty for off-side pushed the ball directly in mid-field.

Then the fellow Jackets opened up via the air route. A toss which Lamb snared from Plenge, accounting for a twenty yard gain and then Lamb personally took care of eight yards more with a sprint around left end.

At this important juncture, those heretofore highly effective line backs failed of their purpose and as a last resort an aerial was attempted. It was just a waste of arm motion, as it fell to earth unattended.

All this being to no avail, Irvington received the ball on her own twenty-six yard line, attempted a couple of not too successful line plunges, and in the natural course of events returned the compliment via the toe route.

This time, however, their footwork was of the highest order, Druze getting off a fifty yard punt to Belleville's twenty-three yard marker. Feeling a bit unusual in their own territory, the Bell-boys under the supervision of "Mac" Lamb, moved the ball up fifteen yards. Lamb stepped around right end for this first down.

Plenge could get but two yards on the next pair of plays and playing the safe game got back to kick. Irvington returned the ball to the forty-five yard stripe, but could do nothing with it, so another punt followed. Belleville finally recovering the oval on her own twenty-three yard line. The Campdowners gained quite some yardage on that exchange of punts.

Failing to gain through the line, the Bell-boys in the person of Fritz Plenge punted the ball back to mid-field and from this sector Irvington started its first real drive of the game with a steady flow of forward passes, some successful and some not so successful.

After an end run had gained them twelve valuable yards, Irvington threw forwards with wild abandon. The first failed, but the second, netted thirteen and first down on Belleville's twenty-four yard line. Two more failed for lack of capable receivers, but a third one was good for fifteen yards and another down.

Just as it seemed the Campdowners were going to overwhelm the locals with their flurry of forwards, the whistle blew ending the first half, with Irvington holding the ball on Belleville's ten yard line with four downs to make the final white stripe.

Following one of many kicks in the third quarter, Irvington got the ball on her own forty-five yard mark. On the second play the Campdowners threw a forward that Lamb managed to intercept on his own forty-seven yard line.

On the first play the hard-working Lamb sliced off tackle for five and then Nick Bonavita found himself with a vengeance and gave "Mac" a welcome helping hand. Six off right tackle and Nick had accounted for a first down for the locals.

Fourteen more, this time around left end, and Bonavita had moved the ball up to Irvington's thirty yard stripe. Not satisfied with merely carrying the ball Bonavita stepped back on the next play and flipped a neat lateral into the waiting arms of Lou Westra, snubbing for Ralph Casale, and Westra went to the eighteen yard stripe before being hurled abruptly to earth.

So near and yet so far seemed to be the order of the day. On the very next play Belleville was smeared for an eight yard loss, which was only partly recouped by a five yard lateral from Lamb to Westra as the quarter ended.

In a desperate effort Belleville tried a forward passing attack, but met with little success, the Campdowners being given the ball on their own thirty yard line as two in a row failed.

For the remainder of the game,

eff. they are indispensable as a health builder. Secondly they help to build that community spirit so essential to wholesome city life. How many less acquaintances would be made if there were no local sports upon which to build them? Thirdly, sports are invaluable as a pastime. They provide places to go, diverting the streams of men with leisure time from less worthy channels. Other minor reasons could be found, but to what avail?

The value of athletics is a known quantity and not one that has to be proved.

Several years ago sports were at an extremely low ebb in this town and going down rapidly. Today there are few faster growing sports communities in the country than this town of yours. The reason for this rapid turn for the better may be found in just two words—American Legion.

It started with the baseball league two years back. Now they have completed two highly successful baseball circuits, are in the midst of their second bowling campaign and are about to open their new basketball loop. Quite a bit of work in two seasons, eh?

"Joe" Williams, likable athletic officer of the Legion, stands out as the father of all these sporting activities. It was through his hard work and unstinted effort more than any other that the change has been effected.

Nevertheless, he has had his aides, who have done considerable to help him in his work. "Larry" Keenan, especially, is his right hand man.

"Larry" helped form the baseball league with "Joe." He acted as secretary through the first heated campaign and then the second. He attended most of the games, giving a hand wherever necessary. His duties as secretary were enlarged to include being treasurer.

When it came banquet time he was an arrangements committee of one, more or less. He took care of the prizes, acted as toastmaster, aided with the tickets and performed other minor but necessary duties.

The bowling league came into being shortly after and the hard-working "Larry" worked just as hard for the success of that venture.

He certainly may be accredited, without any fear of contradiction, of doing more than his share towards putting the Legion's sports program on its present high plane.

Over five hundred boxing fans jammed the Elks' Hall, Monday night, to view the eleven odd amateur bouts staged by the local Hello Bills.

That augurs well for the future status of boxing in Belleville. The Elks will in all probability now endeavor to have these simon-pures on exhibition throughout the winter.

The bouts, themselves, were close and furiously fought, as these amateurs have a habit of doing.

Joe Reilly and the rest of the committee in charge is certainly to be complimented upon the efficient way in which the bouts were staged. The proceeds will go for charitable purposes and if anything more was needed to call the event a success it is indiscernable right now.

In speaking of football and its followers it is hard to bring the topic of Mother into it.

Nevertheless, the part the mothers play in scholastic grid circles is too often minimized. Have you ever stopped to think when you read about this or that high school star being barred from competition because of parental objection, just what a mother has to put up with from her football-inclined son? In the first place there is always that thought of serious injury, hardly a rarity in the grid-iron pastime. Then the many inconveniences to which a mother is subjected because of football follow in rapid succession. Late sappers and other such things keep the mothers on the go a great deal of the time.

SCHOOLS

Colonel R. H. Bullis was the most recent visitor to the high school. He explained the fundamentals of the proposed new calendar. Of all the proposed plans the best one to date is the thirteen month calendar of four weeks each. Mr. Bullis gave the history of the calendar, starting with the Egyptians.

It was the first time the speaker appeared in the high school and we hope it will not be the last.

Norman Thetford, a graduate of the class of 1930 and a member of the high school orchestra, has made the freshman band at Cornell, where he is attending.

The music appreciation class, forty-nine members strong, which meets on Friday morning, has a practice of listening in on the Walter Damrosch hour.

The singing of the Alma Mater a week ago in assembly was proclaimed by Mr. Gerard to be as good as he had ever heard it sung.

Senior assembly was carried on by Alice Compton, Jean Tallman and by an orchestra composed mainly of the Silver Crescent band. The orchestra played a medley of tunes and helped make the assembly complete.

The recent Halloween party conducted by the Seniors was a success.
This year there were no refreshments
because of the condition the lunch room was left in last year. The food had been strewn all about and even carried out around the building. The class of 1931 may not have made so much money but they had a well conducted party. The various committees were: music, Jean Tallman, Charles Cummings, Norman LaBar, decorations, Matilda DeNave, Gilbert Freeman, Hyland McIlvain,

Alice Compton, Edith Robert; prize,
Francis Gibson, Ruth Farrington;
door, Romondt Budd, Alfred Cocks;
chaperone, Mrs. Vanderveer; judges,
Mrs. Vanderveer, Mrs. Kellegher,
Mr. Pagan, Mr. and Mrs. Lowry and Mr. Brennan.

Those present at the party were mostly in make-up. There was but one in formal dress and his name we must give, Hyland McIlvain. After the party had begun to get a bit old, members of the alumni began to drift in and look on.

The costumes were prettier as a whole this year than they have been in a long time. The prize winners were Kathleen Ryan, as the most original, with a gold digger's costume; John Ryerson, as the funniest in a tramp's outfit; Thelma Petith, as the prettiest girl's costume, dressed as an old fashioned girl and Gilbert Freeman, best dressed boy in a pirate costume.

The music was furnished by the Villa Rose orchestra and was pronounced by all to be good.

Coach Erickson permitted the members of the squad to come and make merry until 9:30. The coach was there overlooking his charges and at the stroke of 9:30 there wasn't a footballer in sight.

That reminds us to remind you of the coming game tomorrow with Atlantic City. The students may go by bus at an expenditure of $3 round trip. The squad we hear is going by train.

As we know many have cars we are looking for a big turnout.

Almost 500 attended the Halloween dance given by the senior class in the gymnasium of the building Friday night. Thelma Petith as a shepherdess and Gilbert Freeman as a pirate were voted to have the most beautiful costumes.

Representing a gold digger, Kathleen Ryan was said to have the most original costume, while John Ryerson, as a tramp, scored in the comic class. Paul Dow was general chairman and master of ceremonies. Gilbert Freeman was in charge of decorations and Mrs. Warren Vanderveer was faculty adviser.

Patrons and patronesses included Charles L. Steel, principal of the High School; Mrs. Steel, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lowry, Miss M. A.
Kelleher, Mrs. Vanderveer and Hugh Kittle. The proceeds will be applied to the class fund.

Scout headquarters. Engraved on es Myrtle Schetter, Helen Cullen,

are among the Girl Scout leaders who are taking advantage of a training course in troop management, sponsored by national Girl Scout headquarters in Grand Palace, New York, under the direction of an English Girl Guide, Miss Joyce Welton.
This week the classes are in the evening. Mrs. Sadie Ellsworth and Mrs.
George Peterson attended similar morning classes last week.

Miss Mary B. Konkle of the Public Service Company opened a cooking class at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Second class scouts completing the course will be entitled to their cooking merit badges.

Miss Ethel Ackersten will start a first aid and home nursing class at 7:30 Monday night.

Forty-four Girl Scouts of Troop 8 and six guests took part in a masked Halloween party held on the lawn of its captain, Miss Florence Kelly of Washington avenue, Tuesday evening, October 28. Rose Mc-Nulty was awarded the prize for the prettiest costume, and Mildred Monahan for the most original. Catherine Comiskey, Helen Field and Edna Bunn acted as judges.

The latter three, Nora Spillane and Ruth Engel, were in charge of arrangements for the party.

After refreshments were served,
the girls joined in singing songs.

Miss Kathryn Conklin of Montgomery place, captain of Troop 3, entertained at a Halloween party
Saturday night. Charlotte Voorhees won the prize for the prettiest costume.

The junior division of Troop 7

had a party at headquarters Thursday night, when the four patrols gave a program consisting of singing, dancing and playlets. Games were followed by the regular scout business and ceremony. The older group had a masked party Thursday in the cellar at the home of Helen Colehamer in Beech street.

The younger girls of the troop are making plans for their investment service next week. Invitations will be sent to the mothers of the girls to be "invested."

IT'S UP TO THE TIGHT WADS

Both Irving Fisher and Roger Babson, America's greatest economists, say that the American people have become "niggardly in their expenditures."

A year ago those who are now priding themselves on the fact that they are stinting themselves in buying were loudly boasting about how much money they were spending. They have gone from one extreme to the other.

When the stock market was soaring these same people were extravagant. Economists were urging them to be more conservative and not throw their money away. Today the economists are telling them that they are chiefly responsible for the existing business depression because they do not purchase the things which they actually need.

We cannot expect the people who have no money, who have lost their jobs and their credit and whose business is bad to spend lavishly. They simply cannot do it. But there are thousands of people who have plenty of money to spend. If they "loosened up" a little and bought conservatively the things they actually require, the effect on business would be immediately felt.

American industry has kept its faith with the President by not reducing wages and by attempting to maintain reasonable production. The labor unions have likewise kept faith by precipitating no disturbances or adding to the difficulties of the situation by encouraging extraordinary demands. But the "tight wads," who were the wild eyed speculators and spendthrifts a little more than a year ago, are now being held responsible for conditions which exist in business.

Nobody is urging these people who have plenty of money available to throw it away. They are not being advised to go fourth and purchase commodities which might be classed as luxuries or looked upon as extravagances but they are being told that it is because they are so niggardly and short sighted that they are not buying the things they actually need that there is a great army of unemployed and general depression.

All commodities are today lower than they have been for a great many years. Some of them have reached prices which are far below any figures that have been before known. Everything is cheaper than has been the case for a long time. The person who buys today, no matter what it may be, will be purchasing at the rock bottom price, often below the actual cost of production. So when these persons having money are urged to buy they are not being advised to throw their money away. They are sure of getting excellent values for their money, probably the best values they will ever be able to obtain.

During the World War, American citizens were urged to "buy Liberty Bonds until it hurt." They did it and so enabled the Government to carry on the great war energetically. Today the cry is, not to buy until it hurts, but to buy what is actually needed and can be used.

Buy the clothing that is wanted and would normally be bought without hesitation. Buy the food that is required. Buy the car that is offered at a splendid value and would normally be purchased. Have the repairs made to buildings and property that would ordinarily be made. Get the work done that ought to be done. Spend money wisely, sanely and sensibly. If this is done there will be no depression, little unemployment and no business problem.

NEW YORK WANTS IT

That New York wants the taxes that might come from the huge Chrysler building in 42d street is shown by the assessment of $12,500,000 placed upon the structure, which is a pretty tidy sum for which to assess anything. In this case the taxes coming in the city would be about $331,000 every year—also a neat little amount that the city could use to advantage. But there is a very large "if" about the city's getting it.

For the Chrysler building stands upon land owned by the Cooper Union, and that philanthropic institution had a statute passed in 1859 exempting its holdings and the buildings upon it from taxation. It has successfully resisted several attempts to levy upon its land and buildings. Two years ago the court decided against a move to tax this same land. But the city contends that the building does not belong to Cooper Union, and is, therefore, taxable.

It is a very pretty problem and one that has so much as the stakes of its solution that there is sure to be a big fight for its solution.

TWO VIEWS OF SCIENCE

Strikingly contrasting views of our scientific era were reported recently in statements made by Charles M. Schwab, capitalist, and Miss Mary Anderson, of the Department of Labor. Mr. Schwab looked forward into a future when laboratories would create new industries and there would be no unemployment. Miss Anderson questioned the utility of more machines which produced more goods but which threw men out of work and paralyzed buying power.

The views are divergent rather than contradictory. But the big job of the present generation is with the problems of unemployment. The future may be wiser than we have been in eliminating this as a cause for worry. But that does not justify us in trusting to the future. The big job of this age is to not only put an end in this menace as soon as possible but also to put us on our guard against the obvious perils in a time of prosperity, when the mad race for overproduction prepares for depression and misery.

NOT THE RIGHT TIME

It does seem strange to read of President Hoover's earnest efforts to relieve unemployment in one column of a paper and to learn in another that many members of our coast guard in the federal service are to be relieved of their jobs, on orders from Washington, and tossed into the ranks of the workless. Some of them, too, have reached an advanced age and will have difficulty in securing other employment. A gentle tip to governmental efficiency experts to cease firing for a while might have a good effect. If the great United States cannot retain its employees in times of stress, how can it expect ordinary business men to.

A CLOSE CALL

A set of teeth and a pair of boots were unearthed on a rugby field in the north of Scotland. It is supposed that the rest of the referee must have escaped.

THE FINAL TEST

Times will not really be hard until the great American household begins to wonder where its next gallon of gas is going to come from.

ALL STATES NEWS

POLITICS AND PERSONALITIES

In the Congress that convenes this December there will be many varieties of that curious species known as the "lame duck." A lame duck is a representative or senator who has met defeat in the November elections but, who, according to Constitutional provision, continues in office until the following March 4. His position is not pleasant to contemplate. He must look after the interests of "the people who sent me here," just as though those people had not already recalled him. His speech is a swansong. His votes must be cast with an eye to the welfare of a constituency that has repudiated him. He is, in short, an anomalous and obsolete factor in representative government.

The question arises: why isn't something done about it? Something has been done, but not enough. Senator George Norris, of Nebraska, has successfully introduced five Senate resolutions providing for a constitutional amendment that will, if adopted, cause the newly elected Congress to convene in the January following the November elections. It would also advance Inauguration Day from March to January. All five resolutions passed the Senate, the first on February, 1923, and the last in June, 1929, and all went to the House for further action. But here is the hitch. The House has never acted, despite the fact that some of its members have introduced similar resolutions.

The Norris Amendment now languishes in the House Committee on Election of President, Vice President and Members of Congress. And the American people, with the fortitude or apathy—whichever one chooses to call it—that is bred of a long familiarity with the cumbersome processes of government, still suffer passively the evils of the lame duck system.

HARD ON THE POSTAL SERVICE

Please address your mail correctly. Since the days of Benjamin Franklin, the first Postmaster General this plea has been issued regularly by the United States Post Office Department. Still letterwriters seem to retain a firm faith that their epistles no matter how inadequately or carelessly directed, will reach their destination. And very often their faith is justified—but at an enormous trouble and expense to the Federal government and, therefore, to the taxpayers. It also costs private business a loss of millions of dollars annually, according to the Post Office Department's estimate.

Every year, about 200,000,000 pieces of mail are given "directory service," which means that the postal employee has to take time off and find adequate addresses that the writer failed to supply. A letter delayed in reaching its destination may cause a business firm to lose an order that means thousands of dollars. Postmasters have interviewed business men regarding this problem and have even offered to furnish clerks for a small fee to correct mailing lists. In spite of the improvements effected by these steps, the Dead Letter Office and the Directory Service remain expensive necessities. The Postmaster General has recommended that Congress provide for a two cent charge on every letter requiring directory service, but the recommendation has not been acted upon.

ANIMAL KINGDOM GETS A PALACE

Within a few months' time, the reptiles, insects and fish in the National Zoo in Washington will be housed in a $248,000 building which when completed, will "rival the Garden of Eden" in magnificence. It will be a composite of the finest features of European zoos as studied by Dr. William Mann, superintendent of the Zoological Gardens, and Albert L. Harris, municipal architect, who made a trip abroad for that purpose.

One unique feature of the new building will be the installation of running water and heating facilities in every room. Each of the various species will be housed in a separate cage, and every cage will be heated differently according to the needs of its inhabitants. That part of the building reserved for visitors will be uniformly heated to a pleasant temperature. Pleasant ventilation is assured through special mechanical devices. In spite of these modern touches, it is planned to make the cages look as little cages and as much like natural animal surroundings as possible. The exterior of the new structure is of brick ornamented with images of reptile heads.

So elaborate are the plans for this new "reptile hotel" that zoo officials are already estimating that 10,000,000 visitors will be drawn to view it within the first year of its existence.

LET'S UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER

Just what is meant by the people of one nation "knowing" the people of another? Do we know the people of England, of Spain or of Italy, if we have visited them once or twice, or if we have read much of them or seen them often portrayed in the movies? With this question in mind, it is easier to understand the wish uttered by Leon Bailey, French journalist, on a recent visit to the United States, that Americans acquire a better understanding of his country.

Mr. Bailey, who is Managing Director of the Parisian paper, "L'Intransigeant," would like us to put aside the old ideas of France as a pleasure-loving, easy-going nation. "Instead," he said, "I wish that the name of France might suggest the serious, hard-working nation which, in the twelve years since the war, has restored the agriculture industries, and metallurgy of a devastated region."

"We have read so much about America," Mr. Bailey added, "and listened to so much from our returning travelers and writers who have made an intelligent study of the country that some of our reactionaries have even reproached France with becoming Americanized by the great prestige which America enjoys with us. I wish that the American people would make an effort to understand us, as we have made to understand you."

During his visits to American cities, Mr. Bailey conferred with numerous newspaper editors concerning a better understanding between his nation and ours.

KEEPING TIME WITH AMERICA

Grandfather's clock with its sonorous chimes and stately height may have been all right in Grandfather's day, but modern America demands a more practicable timepiece to keep pace with everyday life. So we are not surprised when the Census Bureau tells us that production of alarm clocks during 1929 amounted to more than three times that of all other types of clock combined. The value of the alarm clock industry was more than one-third the third the value of all clocks, clock movement, parts and mechanisms made in the country.

Among the other varieties of the timepieces manufactured in the United States are electric clocks, automobile clocks, one-dial clocks, eight-day clocks, chime clocks, those used by watchmen, and those used for time-recording. Of these, the electric clock showed the most rapid growth in popularity, five times as many of this type being produced last year as in 1927. Customers also exhibited a preference for the cheaper clocks. Watches, on the other hand, were more popular in the higher-priced classifications.

America's clock and watch industry as a whole has suffered from an increased cost of materials, containers, fuels and purchased electric power. The number of establishments in this country has dropped from 120 in 1927 to 117 in 1929, and the number of wage earners has declined by about 2,000.

OTHER NATIONS HELP DRESS US

Even if you buy all your clothes from stores within walking distance of your home, your dress will largely be the product of foreign countries. Or, to express that truth as the National Geographic Society in Washington does, "From top to toe, the American attired for the street, is a walking economic League of Nations."

His hat may have been made in Italy, Ecuador or the Philippines. The Society's bulletin states. If it were made in the United States, then the straw probably came from abroad. His collar is often stiffened with long staple cotton from Egypt. The silk in his necktie is from Japan, and if the necktie is of inferior quality, it is probably loaded with tin from Singapore.

The mohair that goes into a summer coat originally adorned the backs of Turkish goats. Jute from the Ganges delta lines the coat, and the ivory-like tague nuts from Ecuador or Colombia are the buttons. The American's socks are held up by devices made of rubber and fasteners from the Malay States.

Four continents contribute to the perfection of our shoes. Argentina sends hides for leather; Paraguay sends extracts for tanning fluid; the Portuguese Colony of Mozambique sends chrome ore, also for tanning; India sends shellac; and Brazil sends wax for polishing the shoes.

ENOUGH TURKEY FOR EVERYBODY

No American housewife will have difficulty procuring a turkey to grace the Thanksgiving or Christmas table this year, according to official advices from the Department of Agriculture. For this we can give thanks to the drought which created exceptionally favorable conditions for raising young turkeys and, therefore, partially offset the decrease in hatchings that resulted from low prices last year. Although the 1930 supply is three percent less than in 1929, it is still greater than in 1928 or 1927.

Commercially raised turkeys destined for market are graded by the Department of Agriculture at about 60 principal shipping points, largely in Texas and the Pacific northwest. Four different grades are recognized; U. S. prime, U. S. choice, U. S. medium and U. S. common. The department recently had on hand enough labels to take care of 435 carloads of the festive birds.

Did you ever stop to think?

by Edson Waite

R. J. Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver (B. C.) Sun, says: That there are one billion people in Asia, just across the Pacific. Here is a list of some of the principle countries:

Japan	$1,000,000
China	401,000,000
India	319,000,000
Russia	182,000,000
Java	35,000,000
Siam	13,000,000
Manila	10,000,000
Afghanistan	6,000,000

We in Canada and the United States have become so engrossed and enthusiastic over our own social and economic progress that we do not realize how fast these Asiatic peoples are also evolving.

The development which has taken place across the Atlantic in the last fifty years has just commenced in a big way to take place across the Pacific, only trade and travel that took us fifty years to develop between Europe and America is going to take not more than twenty-five years to develop on the Pacific, and that volume will be ten times greater on the Pacific than on the Atlantic.

I have just completed a trip of Asia, India and Europe, and it is as clear as day follows night that the great world trend of the next few years will be the swing of Asia's trade away from Europe across the Pacific to America.

Centuries of trade with Europe has done nothing for Asia; Europe's thought is militant and politic. America's thought is social and economic; that is what Asia wants and needs.

Ten years of the intimate and growing trade which is springing up with America will do more for Asia than centuries of trade with Europe. Our trade and thought will help Asia evolve economically and put her on her feet socially.

Just watch these things take place.

A man who is always hunting satisfaction is sure to find trouble.

A good impulse, unless carried out in action, leaves the fibre of character a trifle weaker than it was before.

Jokes

Shoeman — "Well, here are your shoes all soled. Where is the money?"

Customer — "Yes, where is it? Your sign says, 'Shoes soled while you wait for a dollar.' I'm waiting for that dollar."

A small town editor wanted to say something nice about a retired Army officer living in his community. He meant to refer to him as "a battle-scarred veteran of the Civil War," but the typesetter got it "a bottle-scarred veteran." Because the major was somewhat bibulously inclined the town enjoyed the joke until he called at the newspaper office armed with a gun and horsewhip.

Of course, the editor was willing to print a retraction, which read as follows: "The major's record on the field of honor is so well known that it is doubtless superfluous to explain that what we meant to call him was 'a battle-scarred' veteran of the Civil War."

Dog Catcher: "Do your dogs have licenses?"

Small Boy: "I am certain they have, sir. Dad said last night they were just covered with them."

She: "Which would you rather be—a writer, a doctor, or a lawyer?"
He: "They're all about the same. One dissects your emotions; one your body, and the other your pocketbook."

"So you are shopping for an adding machine?"
"Yes, poor Junior has been having such trouble with his arithmetic lessons."

Wilson & Webster received a letter from a London firm. It read: "We are very much surprised that the money we have so often demanded has not yet arrived."

"What shall we do?" said Mr. Wilson.

"Write them a letter," said Mr. Webster.

They wrote a letter, and when the manager of the London firm opened it he read: "You do not need to wonder: we have not sent the money."

Sharon's mother bought her a toy sailboat and told her to put some water in the bathtub and sail it. Fifteen minutes later Sharon came out on the front porch with the toy boat in her hand.

"Why aren't you sailing your boat?" asked her mother.

"Oh, the tub ran over and the boat kept falling out," replied Sharon calmly, "and I got tired of putting it back in!"

An old merchant mate, who had retired from the sea, for his own satisfaction, hired a small boy to hammer at the cottage door every morning at dawn and howl:

"Cap'n wants you on the bridge!"

"What sort of a mornin' is it?" the ancient mariner would come back.

"Dark as a dog's throat, an' rainin' and blowin' like beggary!"

"Then tell the cap'n to go to h—!"

And he settled down once more to a warm pillow.

SHOW YOUR COLOR

Your colors show; be not afraid, Unless ashamed of what they're made.

If threads of right through them appear,

My boy, there's naught for you to fear.

If warp and woof are made of good,

You'll never be misunderstood: No harm can come if Truth will stand

Beside your form and take your hand.

Boy, lift them high so all may see of what you're made; integrity A precious stone, a jewel is.

And proud is he who claims it his.

A granite boulder be, my son: Stand firm; no need to sneak or run.

Away from what is best and true; Be what your mother called true blue.

Run up your colors; let the breeze Whip out all base uncertainties. When questions rise throughout the land

Be not afraid to take your stand. Come forth as one who goes to war;

Be plain if right you're fighting for.

Because a little learning is a dangerous thing, it does not follow that a college education is a calamity.

NEW NUTLEY BUS LINE AUTHORIZED

Ten Vehicles Will Give Service To Jersey City

Municipal consents of Nutley, Belleville and Kearny for the Jersey City and Nutley Bus Company, Inc., to operate ten buses on the Jersey City-Nutley route were approved Saturday by the Public Utility Commission in a modification of former restrictions.

The testimony was offered by the company to show that the line would afford convenient service between Nutley, Belleville and Kearny without serious competition with existing facilities.

The board ruled the buses shall not pick up or discharge passengers who begin and end their trips between Journal Square, Jersey City, and the intersection of Passaic River Bridge and Rutgers street, Belleville. On inbound trips they may accept passengers in the area between Bennett and Kearny avenues and the Kearny-Harrison town line, who are to be discharged at Journal Square; and on outbound trips, passengers at Journal Square to be discharged in the same area. Buses are not to do a local business between the Nutley terminal and the Passaic River bridge, Belleville.

The operators must sell no commutation tickets to passengers between the Erie Railroad crossing at Rutgers street, Belleville and Journal Square.

Appoint Receiver For Local Nursery

Vice Chancellor Backes Monday appointed Joseph S. Lindabury custodial receiver for the Mountain Pink Nurseries, Inc., at 750 Belleville avenue, and directed stockholders and creditors to show cause November 12 why he should not be continued. Application for the receiver was made by Morrison, Lloyd & Morrison in behalf of David Sorger and Henry I. Silberman, accountants, trading as Sorger & Silberman, creditors for $432.50. Insolvency was charged and it was stated the defendant concerned had suspended business for lack of funds.

The bill of complaint stated the defendant was incorporated in May, 1925, as the Joiner-Hayes Nurseries, an authorized capitalization of $125,000. It was stated 37,000 of the capital stock is outstanding. Assets were listed as $25,000 forced sale value, including real estate and stock on hand. Liabilities were said to total $62,900, including mortgages of $37,700.

Suprised On Birthday

Mrs. John Buckley, of Garden avenue, was agreeably surprised last Monday evening, the event being her birthday. Seven sisters of the guest of honor with their husbands and children made a very happy assemblage. Decorations were gold and white chrysanthemums and a birthday cake with candle holders of minature chrysanthemums with the full complement of candles composed the centerpiece. Throughout the house were white and gold chrysanthemums and autumn leaves and yellow shaded candles. Mrs. Buckley was the recipient of many beautiful gifts of flowers, intimate accessories and a beautiful embroidered bag with gold pieces from her husband, son, son-in-law, and daughter. Mrs. John Neelan of Columbus, Ohio, a sister of Mrs. Buckley, entertained with piano selections and singing as did several nieces. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. John Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Burke, Mr. and Mrs. John Neelan, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh, the Misses Blanche and Eleanor Walsh of Westchester; Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott, Misses Eleanor and Frances Williams, James Williams of The Bronx; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Buckley of Brooklyn; Herbert Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peters and sons Charles and George Peters, and Mr. Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Myer, son-in-law and daughter of the guest of honor, of Belleville.

LAND OFFER TO SCHOOL BOARD

Owners Of Smith Property
In Avenue Will Sell
For $65,000

An unexpected offer was made Monday night to the Board of Education to sell property adjoining the High School on the south, known as the Smith property, which the board wished to secure three years ago. The price was $65,000, compared to $150,000 previously.

The proposal was referred to the finance committee, comprising Watson Current and James L. DeRosset, for report at the next meeting. The board believed action should not be taken until a state survey of the school system's need is received. One is expected in two or three weeks.

Though it was known to the board the property has changed hands the present owners were not named.

George B. Rosenberg of Union City, the real estate agent who presented the offer, wrote that the present owners have no connection with the former, whose selling price the board had deemed exorbitant. The board contented itself at the time the property was sought with acquiring through condemnation, at a cost of $12,800, a triangular strip to square the high school plot on the south side.

The Smith property fronts 200 feet in Washington avenue and High street.

Supervising Principal George R. Gerard reported fifty-two teachers and six principals have signed to attend the convention of teachers at Atlantic City Monday. Schools will be in session with some classes doubled and about twenty substitute teachers.

Mrs. Potter Sheldon, new appointee to the board, was named chairman of the health committee and a member of the teachers committee, was made chairman of the teachers' committee.

Two Injured By High Voltage Cable

Frederick H. Harris, thirty-eight, of 26 Montgomery place, suffered severe burns and shock Monday when he fell near a cable carrying 26,000 volts while painting a transformer structure at the Public Service power station, 375 Lakeside avenue, Orange. George Crue of 338 Montgomery place, a fellow worker, suffered a lesser shock while endeavoring to aid Harris.

The two were extricated by employees of the plant and taken to Orange Memorial Hospital, where Harris is in a serious condition.

Harris had been painting a transformer six feet above a platform, which is a similar height from the ground. His foot slipped and he fell to the platform. The current burned his left side from head to foot. Crue, who was knocked over when he approached Harris, was burned on the right wrist and injured his nose in falling.

CHURCHES

CHRIST EPISCOPAL

Rev. Peter R. Deckenbach

Twenty-first Sunday after Trinity and Project Service in the Loyalty Campaign. Holy Communion at 7:45 A. M.

Morning Prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock. Theme "Thus Far." The aim is to present the church's program. "Whether or not the life of the Master is increasingly known and lived in 1930-31 depends upon the response of each parishioner."

7:45 P. M. Armistice Day Service. The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars have been invited to attend. Sermon topic: "The More Excellent Way."

Sunday School at 9:45 A. M. every Sunday. Young People's Fellowship at 7 o'clock every Sunday evening. Edgar Williamson, president.

There will be a meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew on Tuesday evening at the rectory.

At the meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society Wednesday evening, Miss Frances Arnold, Field Secretary, Province II of the G. F. S., was present and gave a talk on her work. Miss Arnold attended the National Council in Chicago in October, and is brimful of enthusiasm, which she cannot help but impart to her listeners. There will be a Regional Conference at Trinity Church, Newark, preceded by an informal supper, on Tuesday evening. A number of Associates and members are planning to attend.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting in the club room on Monday evening. The president, Mrs. Edward Nelson, presided. The United Thank Offering (Blue Box Collection) will be received at the evening service on Sunday, November 16, which is very fitting as it falls on Presentation Sunday of our Loyalty Campaign. It is expected to have Miss Charlotte Sawyer, Diocesan Blue-Box custodian, speak at this service. Mrs. Harvey W. Mumford is custodian for Christ Church parish. The call is sent out for second hand and partly worn clothing to be left at the parish house, so that a box may be packed and sent to the Indians at Pine Ridge, South Dakota, by the fifteenth of this month.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Guild held on Thursday afternoon, reports were received from the various committees which assisted at the annual bazaar, which was a great success. Over six hundred dollars was cleared. It was decided not to appoint a November committee, but to combine two units in December, which will finish the list of names alphabetically at the close of the year. Those included in this committee are: Mrs. John J. Scully, Mrs. Ira W. Shattuck, Miss Emma Shattuck, Mrs. D. S. Tillou, Mrs. E. A. Terhune, Mrs. Minnie Ten Broeck, Mrs. John C. Weber, Mrs. George W. Wharton, Mrs. George W. Wharton, Jr., Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. J. C. Wardell, Mrs. John S. Woodhall, Mrs. J. H. Wisschusen, Mrs. Horace B. Winslip, and Mrs. Homer C. Zink. This committee will meet in December and appoint a chairman from among their number. It was decided that four members of the Guild should provide a light lunch to be served each meeting day at one o'clock, preceding the meeting, instead of taking the time to serve tea, after the meetings, as has been done recently. The next regular meeting will be held on November 20, advanced one week on account of Thanksgiving Day.

FEWISMITCH CHURCH

Rev. O. Bell Close

Sunday morning, 11 o'clock — "Peace."

Sunday evening, 8 o'clock, "Bonds of Christian Endeavor, Mr. Willard Brandenberg, organist, will be in charge of the meeting and the hour will be devoted to music."

Addressing the congregation last Sunday evening on the "Citizens' Responsibility in Government," Mayor Samuel S. Kenworthy pointed out the danger of legislative measures being passed which might impede progress and imperil the happiness of people of the nation if citizens do not interest themselves in national, state and municipal government. Mayor Kenworthy told of the million and a half dollars budget passed by the Board of Commissioners last year, which had been duly advertised, in which only one citizen of Belleville manifested enough interest to be present at the meeting. He urged everyone to vote at all elections and primaries in order that the choices at all times represent the majority and not the minority of voters.

Paying tribute to four religious leaders, Dr. Close said he considered Cardinal Hays, Rabbi Wise, Thomas F. McCarter and Robert Speer leaders of the world in social, economic and religious circles. Speaking directly to a delegation of the W. C. T. U. women of Belleville, who were present in a body, Dr. Close praised their adherence to the high ideal of prohibition and reminded them that the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church was on record as opposed to the manufacture and sale of liquor. Individual members of the church, said Dr. Close, are in no way coerced into a pledge on this matter but the General Assembly has for many decades stood for the outlawing of the liquor traffic.

Woman's Guild

The regular meeting of the guild will be held next Thursday afternoon in the church auditorium. The business session will be held at 2:30 pm preceding that will be a covered dish luncheon to be served at one o'clock. The luncheon will be in charge of Mrs. H. H. Putney assisted by the officers of the guild.

Sunday, 11 A. M.—"The King's Highway."
Sunday, 7:45 P. M.—"What Shall We Do With The Alien?"

Last Sunday morning brought joy to the heart of the pastor of Grace Church; as the audience present came near being a record breaker. As the pastor looked into the earnest faces of the large audience present, he felt how limited was his ability, to furnish food for the nourishment and development of these loyal souls. In his endeavor to give at least one thought that will help the people to face life's battle bravely, Mr. McCombe will speak from the subject: "The King's Highway."

Do you enjoy singing? Then you will appreciate our new song books. Those present last Sunday evening are loud in their praise of the song books that were used for the first time at the evening service. Come and have a good time next Sunday evening at Grace Church. Mr. McCombe will discuss the problem of the alien in our midst. It would seem that conditions facing America at this time would give this subject a special interest. You have your opinion, the pastor has his. Come and see how near you agree with the conclusions reached by Mr. McCombe.

The Fellowship Service was omitted last Tuesday on account of the election; but will be resumed next Tuesday evening, with the study of the Gospel of John. Bring your Bibles and help us get at the great truths of the Scriptures; that may mean much to the development of the individual life.

At a meeting of the Broad Street Association of Newark, N. J. Mr. Uzal H. McCarter gave as his opinion that those desiring high school education should be made to pay for it. That is, the high schools of the country should become private institutions instead of being supported by the city or state. There is little doubt but that Mr. McCarter will have a large following, in such a stand as this. It is an old argument dressed in different clothes. There is little doubt that in many places—Belleville excepted—the high school is in need of reorganization, both in methods and government and in these respects Superintendent Logan, of Newark, is doing a fine bit of work; but to take the high school out of the public school system would mean the denial of a high school education to millions of boys and girls, whose parents could not afford to pay for it. Then again to stop the education of the boy or girl after he or she had finished the grades would bring in a privileged class, which we in America feel is out of place, in our great Commonwealth. The Newark Evening News commenting of Mr. McCarter's speech says: "High school costs could be reduced if admission were based on student capacity so that only those who were capable of assimilating higher education could go on. As it is now, the high schools are full of misfits, who simply clutter up the works. The high school ought to be made a privilege for those who deserve it."

The position of the Newark Evening News is not much better than that of Mr. McCarter. If the high schools are full of misfits—which we doubt—it is not so much the fault of the individual boy or girl as it is the system. What we need in the high school is a study of the individual and in accordance with such a study, courses that would meet the individual need. There are courses in the high schools that the boys and girls are obliged to take if they would graduate, that fail to fit them for the particular part which later they must play in life's drama. Instead of even thinking of abolishing the high school, for those unable to pay the necessary expense. Let us arrange the course of study to fit the average boy or girl to enter into their life work, fit for the task of making a living and later a home. If the courses are practical and are planned to fit the individual needs of the students misfits will cease.

Let us keep the high school free for every boy and girl in our great country, but if need be, let us rearrange the courses of study to fit the present conditions of our time. Eliminate such courses that are of little value to the average boy or girl and there will be no misfits. Let us keep the high school free for every boy and girl that desires to fit themselves for life's work; as worthy citizens of this great and mighty republic.

Tuesday afternoon the Ladies' Auxiliary went on a sight seeing trip to the Muir's Carpet Factory and enjoyed seeing how things were done. The following made the trip:

Mrs. M. Parker.
Mrs. H. Hickok.
Mr. D. Parker.
Mr. J. Stoddard.
Mrs. G. Weirick.
Mrs. G. W. McCombe.
Mr. G. Weirick.
Mrs. H. Lambert.
Mrs. J. Phelps.
Mrs. H. Jacobus.
Mrs. Switzer.
Mrs. Jarvis.
Mrs. Stevenson.
Mrs. Karner.
Mrs. Thomson.
Miss E. H. Heinites.
Mrs. A. Cooper.

All reported a good time and enjoyed seeing the work done by the aid of modern science.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute reports that the cost of living is twice what it was thirty years ago, and that the wages paid today to the workman are three times as high as they were thirty years ago. If that is so, then, the dollar is greater in purchasing power by one third, than it was thirty years ago. This ought to do away with the cry that it costs so much more to live today than it did in former times.

The Bible School of Grace Church under the able management of Superintendent Irving H. Russell is growing in interest and number. Mr. Russell is gathering around him in the Sunday School a corp of teachers that are loyal to the best interests of the church and school. New faces are to be seen each Sabbath morning. The classes are growing and a happy spirit prevails throughout the entire school. Friday evening, the teachers are giving a "Hallowe'en Social to the scholars. The social is limited to the members of the Bible School. A great time is anticipated by the boys and girls.

A member of an infidel club in London, England, said he wished all the churches were burned to the ground, beginning with Spurgeon's. A friend standing near asked him the pointed question, "Would your infidel club then take charge of Spurgeon's Orphanage?" Friend, it may be alright in your estimation to decry the work of the church, but how much of true civilization would you have, if it were not for the influence of the church? Be fair, get out your best bib and tucker and meet me at Grace Church next Sunday.

WESLEY M. E.

Rev. Edgar M. Compton

Don't forget tonight in the High School auditorium, the Wemec Dramatic Club is presenting the domestic comedy, "Broken Dishes." Proceeds will go into the organ fund. Come out and help a worthy cause. The cast includes Esther Forbes, Vail Ryan, John Carlough, Alma Hosking, Charles Gebhardt, Dorothy Wadsworth and Allan Crisp.

The regular monthly meeting of the Young Woman's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Thompson. Mrs. Malcolm Budd and Mrs. Howard Box assisted Mrs. Thompson. Mrs. Leroy Bunnell, the president, presided. In spite of the inclement weather, the meeting was unusually well attended. Plans for the annual supper and fair, November 13 and 14, held the center of interest. The auxiliary will be in charge of the candy booth under the direction of Mrs. Christian Hansen. They will also be in charge of the dining room with Mrs. C. H. Thompson supervising. Each member has pledged to contribute at least three pounds of home-made candy for the booth, and forty members have promised to bake pies for the supper, so helping the Ladies' Aid with their stupendous task of cooking for two hundred guests.

A financial report was given by each captain of the six teams into which the auxiliary is divided. When the sums were added, it was found that one hundred dollars had been earned by the teams collectively, and would be turned over for the organ fund.

The Ladies' Aid Society held a Hallowe'en luncheon yesterday noon at the home of Mrs. James Campbell, 49 Rossmore place. The luncheon was in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Budd, chairlady of the supper committee.

Mrs. Charles H. Thompson of 21 Reservoir place, was hostess to the Young Woman's Auxiliary of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, on Tuesday night. Mrs. Harland Box and Mrs. Malcolm Budd assisted in entertaining. Arrangements were made for participation in the fair and supper of the Ladies' Aid Society November 13 and 14.

The auxiliary was in charge of the dining room and waitresses under the direction of Mrs. Thompson.

Her assistants were Mrs. Florence Williamson, Mrs. Elsie Blamire, Mrs. Kresten Peterson, Mrs. John Ran, Mrs. John B. Brown, Mrs. Fred Gillespie, Mrs. Robert Fritts, Mrs. Owen Vaughan, Mrs. Arthur Kunze, Mrs. Howard Virtue, Mrs. George Cameron, Mrs. John Pole, Mrs. Ira Cornell, Mrs. Norman Wilson, Mrs. John Welsh, Mrs. H. L. Hamilton, Mrs. Warren Robst, Mrs. Laidy Graves and Miss Dorothy Allaire.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"ADAM AND FALLEN MAN" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 9, 1930.

The Golden Text is: "As by the offence of one judgement came upon all men to condemnation even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life." (Romans 5:18).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace." (Psalms 37:37. "Be ye therefore perfect even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." (Matthew 5:48).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If man was once perfect but has now lost his perfection, then mortals have never beheld in man the reflex image of God. The lost image is no image. The true likeness cannot be lost in divine reflection." (p. 259).

REDEEMER LUTHERAN

The Sunday School will meet from 11:30 to 12:30 in the church. Sunday afternoon the Newark zone of the Junior Walther League will hold a rally in Harrison. Miss Emily Siebert of our church is the councillor. The outstanding feature of this rally is a debate on foreign missions.

Saturday evening, November 15, the Senior Walther League is planning a card party in the parish house 100 Grafton avenue. Members and friends are cordially invited.

The Ladies' Aid Society held their meeting Monday evening in the parish house with about twenty-five members present. Plans for the bazaar to be held December 5 and 6 were furthered. Mrs. Paul F. Arndt, wife of the pastor, is in charge. Mrs. G. S. Coeyman of Rossmore place has charge of the bms ride to Breyer's Ice Cream Plant December 11. The next meeting will be Monday, December 1.

Ladies To Attend Everyman's Bible Class Sunday

There was joy in the "Blue" camp at Everyman's Bible Class last Sunday because they had completely routed the "Red" Army in the week's activities. They not only reversed the attendance record, but on Saturday afternoon scored heavily against the "Reds" at quilts after suffering two defeats the week previous. Then on Saturday evening at the opening of the Chess Tournament, every team was made up of "Blue" men, the "Reds" failing in representation.

The attendance last Sunday was the largest registered this season.

On the coming Sunday (Ladies' Day) the number of men will likely be augmented considerably, as the wives will best their husbands and insist on their going to Class that morning. The ladies of the community are cordially invited to bring their husbands and enjoy an hour of spiritual uplift. Hear Dr. Cairn's message, help in the singing and be entertained by the orchestra and quartette.

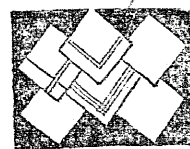

Dr. Cairn's topic will be "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

The meeting time is 9:30 A. M. sharp at Masonic Temple, Joralemon street.

JUNIOR SUNBEAMS

The Sunbeam Juniors of the Roof Tree Branch of the International Sunshine Society, held a meeting October 30, at the home of the president, Helen Ruff of Bell street. The Roof Tree Branch meeting took place Wednesday afternoon at the Recreation House.

Judge VanRiper Tells Audience Wasted Life Is Economic Loss

Duty Rests With Home And Church He Tells Men's Club

The greatest economic loss to a country is a wasted life, declared Walter D. VanRiper, judge of the Court of Common Pleas, speaking before the Men's Club of Grace Baptist Church, Thursday night.

The occasion was a turkey dinner held in the social hall of the church. Elmer S. Hyde, banquet chairman, was toastmaster and introduced the speaker.

The judge pointed out that the government spends large sums on punitive measures but the duty of prevention rests with the home and church mainly. To one in his position the value of right training and environment is made peculiarly evident, he stated. Men's clubs and kindred organizations can be made a strong influence for good among the youth of the country, he added.

USE THE LEAVES

By R. P. WHITE,
N. J. Agricultural Experiment Sta.

Do not make the mistake of burning the leaves that fall from shade trees. Such burning destroys a large amount of humus, much available plant food, and an excellent mulching material for many plants.

Oak leaves are most desirable for ericaceous plantings such as rhododendrons, azaleas, and laurels. Because of their high tannic acid content, oak leaves keep the soil acid, which is desirable for these plants. Other types of leaves can advantageously be used about box and coniferous plantings.

Much winter injury to evergreens of all types is due to a drying out of the foliage. This moisture cannot be replaced by soil moisture that is frozen. Therefore heavy mulches are advised to prevent deep freezing and to keep the soil moisture available. It is also especially advisable this fall to be sure all evergreen plantings are thoroughly watered this fall before freezing weather sets in.

Mulches on permanent plantings should not be removed in the spring, but should be allowed to decay in place. They supply nutrient for the plant, conserve soil moisture, and maintain the humus content of the soil. Moreover, they keep the soil in the loose friable condition conducive to growth.

Further information on this and other garden, flower or agricultural questions may be obtained from the County Extension Office, R. E. Harman, County Agricultural Agent, Caldwell, (Phone Caldwell 6-0572).

Planting The Rose Bed

By A. C. McLEAN
N. J. Agricultural Extension Service

Fall planting of roses is one of the most satisfactory ways of establishing a good rose bed. Fall planting should be done not later than November 15, and planting earlier than that date is advisable. Then there will be enough root growth this fall to allow the roses to become well established. Prune heavily and, with the approach of freezing weather, bank soil around the base of the plants at least six inches high. A good practice, when the ground starts to freeze, is to cover the whole bed with a mulch of leaves or peat moss.

The rose starts very early in the spring. For this reason best results in spring planting will usually be obtained with potted plants. Any rose that is at all hardy in our climate will do better with fall planting than spring planting. Most of the so-called ever-blooming, hybrid teas can easily be planted in the fall, although they are not especially hardy. However, by banking and protecting well over winter, they generally do better than when spring planted.

Bank the roses fairly high with peat moss at the approach of freezing weather as a means of protecting the wood around the bases of the plants. Then there will be a number of strong, healthy eyes to start the growth in the spring. It is not necessary to save much of the top of the roses, since it will be taken off anyway in the spring pruning.

STORING DAHLIAS

By A. C. McLEAN
N. J. Agricultural Extension Service

In harvesting dahlias it is especially important to guard against the roots from the corn at the so-called neck, of where the roots join the stem. The best method is to dig all around the dahlia, loosening the soil, and then lift the entire plant. Do not shake too much dirt from the dahlia clumps, especially around the stalk where the tubers join, for this is where all the eyes are to start new growth and the soil helps protect them.

Do not dig dahlias until a good frost kills the tops and a week or 10 days have elapsed, during which time the plants can ripen. Dry thoroughly in the sun for at least a day if possible, or in the shade until the earth feels dry. Pack in dry peat moss and store in a cool place, but not where there is any possibility of freezing. It peat moss is thoroughly dry and the clumps are well dried before storing, the dahlias may be stored in a heated cellar with fair success. Peat moss, better than sand or sawdust, seems to prevent too much drying in winter, which frequently is a difficult problem to overcome.

Further information on this and other garden, flower or agricultural questions may be obtained from the County Extension Office, R. E. Harman, County Agricultural Agent, Caldwell, (Phone Caldwell 6-0572).

Favors Fall Vegetables For The Family Diet

How to conform to dietary standards which call for the serving of three vegetables a day, and at the same time keep the family food budget within bounds is the problem that faces many a homemaker with the coming of the fall and winter months.

Yet the problem is not too difficult to solve, in the opinion of Miss Marie Doermann, New Jersey extension service specialist in nutrition, if fall vegetables are utilized to a generous extent in the family diet.

Such fall vegetables as winter squashes, pumpkins, turnips, celery, and onions are now being marketed, the specialist reports, and they are available to consumers at reasonable prices. She says the only reason these vegetables are not served more often is because "the family has not learned to eat them."

In describing a few of the numerous ways in which these fall vegetables may be utilized, Miss Doermann has the following to relate:

"Winter squash, either the green or yellow variety, retains its flavor and food elements best when baked. Scrub the shell of the squash, then place it on a pan and bake in a fairly hot oven from 1 to 1½ hours, or until a fork will easily pierce the shell. Remove from the oven, cut in half, take out the seeds and coarse membrane, scrape the soft pulp from the shell, mash, and season with butter and salt or with a little cream and nutmeg. Steamed squash may be served in the same way, although more time is required to prepare this dish because uncooked squash is difficult to cut and peel. Pumpkin may be prepared and served as a vegetable, or the pulp may be used for pies and custards.

"Celery hearts served raw, alone or in combination with salad materials, are popular. It is economical to buy two large bunches of celery, cooking the outside stalks and saving the tender hearts to serve raw. Buttered or creamed celery and escalloped celery with cheese are suggested dishes. Vegetable soup and meat steaks of all kinds are improved in flavor by the addition of diced celery.

Some Sauce-y Thoughts On Cooking

Do you know how to sauce-y? Here is a culinary way, of course! Being sauce-y implies no impudence in the kitchen, but it does imply more than a nodding acquaintance with the methods of making sauces, for the dessert and the entree.

If you do know how, you'll be able to add nutrition and flavor immeasurable to your dishes, to tempt appetites galore, and embellish slowly left-overs in such a way as to make foolish the famous Brillat-Savarin who dared say "one must be born a sauce maker."

Most cooks know how to make dessert sauces—or can take recipes and follow them with ease. For those who believe that "sauce is to the entree as perfume is to the rose," here's a sufficient word to the wise about the sauce for the entree, the meat, or the main course.

Generally speaking, the basis for most of these is White Sauce, made from a white stock or milk, and thickened with cornstarch, or Brown Sauce, made from milk or water and brown stock and thickened with part of the "binder" browned and part plain cornstarch. For the stock, the fat in which the meat or vegetables have been cooked is often used, or a melted shortening. For the shortening, modern cooks are using a cooking oil made from corn because it saves time and brings out the individual flavor of the particular dish.

Flour is also commonly used as a thickening agent, but in the kitchen of the experts it has given way to the use of cornstarch, not alone because of the convenience of keeping the small package atop the range but because of the added smoothness of the finished product.

White Sauce

1½ tbsp. cooking oil.
Salt and pepper.
1 tbsp. cornstarch.
1 cup milk.
Heat oil. Mix cornstarch and seasonings, stir to smooth paste in some of the cold liquid, and add to oil. Cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in rest of milk and stir over fire until sauce thickens. Boil three minutes, strain and serve.

Brown Sauce

2 tbsp. cooking oil.
1 tsp. onion.
1 cup meat stock.
1½ tbsp. cornstarch.
Salt and pepper.

Cook onion in oil until slightly brown. Add cornstarch and brown in the oil. Stir in the stock gradually. Add the seasoning. Stir until thick. Boil three minutes and strain. New cooks invariably ask "How much cornstarch shall I use?" Here is the answer: With each cup of liquid; for a very thin sauce, use half teaspoon cornstarch; for a thin sauce, as in cream soups, 1 teaspoon cornstarch; for medium sauce, about thickness of cream, 2 teaspoons of cornstarch; for a thick sauce 1 tablespoon cornstarch, and for a cold paste to use in making mixtures for croquettes, blanc manges, and so forth, 5 teaspoons cornstarch.

If you want to use cornstarch instead of flour in other recipes (and you will if you are wise) use just half as much cornstarch as flour called for.

Always mix the cornstarch with some of the cold liquid, and stir smooth before adding to hot liquid. Cook until quite done—fifteen minutes at least, and decrease heat slowly.

Tomato Sauce

2 tbsp. cooking oil.
1 tsp. onion.
1 bay leaf.
½ tbsp. cornstarch.
½ cup water.
1 cup tomatoes, stewed and strained.

Pepper and salt.
Cook chopped onion and bay leaf in oil until golden brown. Add corn starch and stir until smooth. Cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Add water, tomatoes, and seasoning. Boil three minutes, stirring constantly. Strain and serve with cooked meats or fish.

Hollandaise Sauce

Yolks of 2 eggs.
2 tbsp. cooking oil.
½ tbsp. lemon juice.
½ cup boiling water.
½ tsp. salt.
Few grains cayenne.

Beat yolks of eggs slightly and add oil slowly, beating constantly. Add lemon juice and boiling water slowly, and stir vigorously. Stir over hot water about five minutes until it thickens. Add salt and pepper. Serve hot on cauliflower, broccoli, asparagus or fish.

Mock Hollandaise Sauce

2 tbsp. cooking oil.
1 tbsp. cornstarch.
½ cup milk.
1 tsp. salt.
Pepper and paprika.
2 egg yolks.
2 tbsp. butter.
1 Tbsp. lemon juice.

Heat oil, add cornstarch and stir until well blended; cook two minutes stirring constantly. Add milk, salt, pepper, and paprika. Stir until smooth and thick. Boil three minutes. Add a little of the hot sauce to beaten egg yolks and stir this into sauce. Add butter bit by bit and lemon juice. Beat well.

Long coats should cover one's dress. If the short fur jacket is worn the skirt of the gown should be dark in color, preferably matching the fur of the jacket. But even then there is an opportunity to wear a short colored blouse if you are sure that not even the tiniest bit shows below the jacket.

You know, of course, how good lame' blouses are. With the long coat a tunic of lame' worn with a velvet skirt is smart. Not a great deal of material is required for these tunics—2½ to 2½ yards is sufficient for size 36. The pattern companies offer many designs.

When Children Quarrel

By EDITH D. DIXON
Extension Service,
N. J. College of Agriculture

"Should I interfere when my children quarrel or should I let them fight it out?" asks a mother.

The only way that children learn to settle their own difficulties is by settling them. With children from four onward through school age, striking with the fists and calling names are the favorite methods of expressing anger against others. During a large part of school life, fighting seems to be a habit as much as an expression of passion. Quarrelling is a kind of game; squabbling is an expression of bravery in a daily custom, and two brothers or two chums fight with fully as much pleasure as with wrath.

The story is told of the boy who was questioned him mother about his possible playmates in the country to which they were going on a holiday. His mother replied, "I expect you will find some nice little boys to make friends with."

"Oh, I do hope I shall find some enemies too," exclaimed the boy. "It is so dull when one has only friends."

When the parent interferes it should be on rare occasions and then as an arbitrator, entering the fray with an open mind, hearing both sides of the argument and helping the children to make their own decision in favor of justice.

Too often the parent is emotionally aroused over what she thinks is injustice to her child, and it requires considerable self-control to maintain an open-minded attitude until she has heard the whole story.

Every Troop in town should have considerable interest in the success of the Community Chest Drive for it is through this means that sufficient funds are raised to carry on the great good that results in Scout activities being properly planned under the Council of supervision. The Chest drive is an important factor for everybody, but it takes on an added importance for each and everyone of us connected with Scout activities since we are to receive direct benefits from it.

Recent Bulletin No. 35 from Newark Headquarters has an item of particular interest to all Scoutmasters, Assistants, and troop committeemen. A meeting will be held at the Hotel Douglas on Hill street, on Wednesday evening, November 19, as a get-together affair. A dinner will be served prior to the meeting for the nominal sum of 85 cents. It should provide just the means of everyone getting acquainted, especially for the Troop Committeemen. When each one receives an official notice with postal for return, we hope that the opportunity will be seized to participate.

We also notice in the Bulletin that Robert Dussler of Troop 4 was one of the few who passed certification examinations on the last Certification night.

Troop 62 The meeting a week ago tonight was short due to the spirit of Halloween in the air. Plans for an overnight hike were made and these were carried out on Saturday when the Troop under the guidance of Joseph Cee, Scoutmaster, left headquarters at the Recreation House at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and later returned at 8:30 Sunday evening. Except for the facts that a number of trousers were slightly torn, that most of the hunk had a queer way of accumulating pebbles, acorns, and so forth; that packs did get heavy; that it was rather cool washing Sunday morning; everything went along smoothly.
