Class Night Is The Best Held So Far

Senior Class Presents 300
Books To New Library

The auditorium of the high school was filled beyond its capacity at the annual class night exercises, Tuesday evening. A crowd exceeding one thousand, witnessed the program in which one hundred and eighteen seniors participated.

The program consisted of nineteen well arranged numbers which were carried out to a point of perfection; in one of the finest programs of this type ever held in the high school.

Presentation Of Books
The outstanding event of the evening, occurred when Robert Hawthorne presented the school with 300 books in behalf of the graduating class. These books will go to the school's newly established library. James De Rosset, president of the Board of Education, accepted the class gift.

William Brumbach, president of this year's class, delivered the "Mantle Oration." Arthur Leadbeater, as president of the class of 1933, accepted the mantle and delivered the speech of acceptance.

Writes Class Poem
Maie Moore, of the Class of '32, composed the class poem, "To Our Alma Mater." Margaret Skarvan recited the poem.

The class history was commendably delivered by Helen Harrison. Her biographical outline of the senior class was one of the best individual presentations of the evening.

Quite some enjoyment was received by the audience when "The Class Prophecy," a comical skit portraying various students' activities years from now, was presented by the following: Dorothy Bloemke, Helen Gilson, Albert Ward and Elmer Struyk. Class elections were announced by Ena Holden, assisted by John Bakalian. The class will, was dedicated by Leonard Hodgkinson, assisted by Elinor Robinson.

Several well chosen musical numbers were presented, which included: a saxophone solo by Harry Stratton; "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," by the male quartet; "Auf Wiedersehn," by the girls' quartet, and "Washington," the class song, by the entire group.

"Where My Caravan Has Rested," and "Song of Songs," were presented as vocal solos by Elizabeth Wortman and Margaret Spaulding, respectively. Both girls sang beautifully. Mildred Drentlau, a sophomore, accompanied them at the piano.

De Haas Splendid
The program, given as a radio broadcast, was clever and pleasing in every respect. Cora De Haas, mistress of ceremonies, acted in the capacity of announcer.

Her's was one of, if not, the most difficult individual parts of the entire

No Action Taken On Teachers' Pay

School Board Waits For Action To Be Taken
By Town

The question of payment of teachers and other Board of Education employees is still unsettled. Thus stated James L. De Rosset, president of the school board, at the last meeting of the month, Monday night.

Mr. De Rosset stated that no funds are available and no assurance would be given the teachers until further word had been received from the town.

A second group of bids for the system's coal supply, was received by the board. They are as follows: Essex Coal and Lumber Co., stove, $10.15 per ton; rice, $5.08; Belleville Coal Co., stove, 10.18; rice, $5.12; Terhune Jacobs, stove, $8.90; rice, $4.60; Smith Brothers Coal Co., stove, $10.10; rice, $4.98; and Jaegels Coal Co., Co., stove, $10.20; rice, $5.05.

The bids were referred to the building and grounds committee for tabulation and report at the next meeting.

James J. Turner, business manager of the board, submitted a lengthy report on contemplated repairs in the schools this season. As this project would require a considerable amount of money, the report was referred to the building and grounds committee for further study.

K. of C. Entertain At Irish-Scotch Night

Final Affair Of The Season Draws Large Crowd

The fourth and final Irish-Scotch night of this season, was successfully carried out by the Knights of Columbus at the home on Rossmore place, Saturday night.

Approximately one hundred attended this final affair and everyone, young and old, enjoyed themselves immensely. From all appearances, this type of entertainment is the most popular with the Knights and their many friends. On each occasion, these parties have attracted people from out of the state, who, upon attending one such affair, voiced their enthusiasm and kept coming back for more.

Strange as it may seem, these affairs are popular with the younger generation as they are with the old-timers. At each of the Irish-Scotch Nights, more younger people are in evidence than old.

An Irish-Scotch night consists of old time Irish and Scotch music, songs and dances. In addition to these, several modern songs and dances are provided for the younger folks.

Two local vocalists who entertained Saturday night are Mrs. C. McCabe and Miss Dolly Ryder. Mrs. McCabe sang "The Darktown Strutters' Ball," and Miss Ryder rendered "Please Don't Talk About Me When I'm Gone."

Miss Anne Durkin, of Montclair, sang a sentimental Scotch ballad "Home O' Mine." Bill Walsh sang the popular "Paddy Mc Ginnitie's Goat." Other old time favorites were presented by Bernard Sullivan and Patrick McKeown.

As at the previous affairs, "The Minstrels of Erin," lead by Jimmy Burns, supplied the music. This trio, in addition to being radio artists, are among the most popular musicians in Essex and Hudson Counties. The group is composed of Jim Burns, Bill Walsh and Pat Gallagher.

When you leave on your vacation have the Belleville News follow you. You may be sure of getting all the news. WHEN IT'S NEWS, keeping you posted on political, social and civic matters of interest to you.

Miss Margaret G. Hughes has returned to her home in Belleville avenue, following a three weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Malloy of Hawthorne.

The association cordially invites the public to attend. Remember the date, Friday, July 1. Many remember the good times they have had at past card parties given by this association, also the many fine awards to say nothing of refreshments. Future Activities

The regular meeting of the Wesley Men's Organization will be held at the Wesley M. E. Church on June 27 at 8:15 P. M. Additional numbers of music will be presented, after which the necessary branch of the committee shall serve refreshments to the members. Judging from the enthusiasm manifested among the men of the Wesley Church, a good turnout is assured at this meeting.

The scheduled monthly meeting of the executive committee will be held in the church parlors this evening.

Bloomfield Torahs Defeat Locals

Beautiful Trophy To Be Presented The

The final game of the inter-Talmud Torah League was played off last Friday, June 17, at Belleville Park. Between the teams of the Talmud Torah of Bloomfield and Talmud Torah of Belleville. The Bloomfield team winning by the score of 12-11.

The Belleville team made a last inning rally knocking in eight runs but it just lacked a bit of winning the beautiful loving cup donated by the Progress Club of Belleville.

The pitching was handled by Jack Levine and Seymour Taffett for Belleville, and S. Eisenberg for Bloomfield.

This league of inter-community Talmud Torahs was just started this year by the Progress Club with four teams participating. Considering that the ages of the boys playing range from 7 to 13 years of age the brand of baseball and sportsmanship shown was marvelous. Henry Abrom-

missioner Carragher
Upholds Teachers

Representatives of the Teachers' Association and the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 1, made another plea for $80,000 due the teachers for May and June, at the meeting of the Board of Commissioners, Tuesday night. No definite promise was made, but assurance was given the teachers' committee that the board is doing all that is possible to bring about a speedy settlement of the payroll question.

Miss Helen Cullen, speaking for the teachers' committee, addressed the board as follows: "We feel that the commissioners should make every effort to secure the $80,000 before June 30, as our vacation is due to start on July 1." Miss Cullen suggested that the town let other accounts slide for a month or so and use all available cash to pay the teachers before the end of the term.

The committee appointed by the Teachers' Association to represent it at the meeting, as composed of Charles L. Steel, Jr., Robert N. Hayes, Miss Ruth Brohal and Miss Helen Daly. Mr. Steel was not present due to the class day exercises at the high school.

Former Telephone Women Hold Picnic

Renew Old Friendships And Discuss Events
Of Past

Mrs. Mary L. Shanahan, of 110 Mill street, Belleville, attended a second annual reunion of women formerly associated in the telephone industry in northern New Jersey last Saturday (June 18). About fifty New Jersey women were present at the all day picnic held in East Stroudsburg, Pa., where the day was devoted to renewing old friendships, talking over former days together in the telephone business and in the usual picnic-day activities. Several of their friends still connected with the business were present as guests.

These annual get-togethers originated last summer when a few old friends met by chance and fell to discussing such topics as the blizzard of 1914, which leveled a great portion of the telephone lines in this part of the state, and other memorable events in their telephone careers. Questions were asked about others who in past years had been closely associated with them in the business. A search for these former friends started, and the first reunion was held last year in Delaware, New Jersey. Some of these present had not met for more than twenty years. It was decided to make the reunion an annual event. Attendance Saturday exceeded that of last year.

Progress Club Has Outing For Kiddies

Annual Affair Was Held
At Lieberman's Farm
Last Sunday

The second annual kiddies' picnic of the Progress Club was held Sunday June 19 at Lieberman's Farm in Mt. Freedom, N. J. Even though the weather was threatening 100 grown-ups and sixty-five kiddies were in front of the Synagogue at 10 A. M. ready to start on a good day's fun. The problem of transportation for the kiddies was handled beautifully by the committee and all the cars got off on scheduled time.

Special arrangement was made with the farm authorities that everything should be prepared for the kiddies and the Progress Club was agreeably surprised with their arrangements for the kiddies enjoyment, swings, see-saws, swimming pool, sand piles and different other novelties that kiddies enjoy.

The kiddies' dining room was specially decorated for the occasion and they were seated 6 at a table with two chaperones at each table to help them. Every child who finished his meal received an award, and balloons were given to all.

The grown-ups were entertained during dinner by the Lieberman Country Club Orchestra and by the social director and his entire staff. Everything from soup to nuts was served and believe it or not even the women who were on diets broke their schedule and ate and enjoyed it.

The surprise of the day for the grown ups was the play and the program arranged by the kiddies to entertain them, under the supervision and direction of Miss Pauline Rosenberg, chief of the Sabbath School of the Talmud Torah. It was wonderful to watch the expressions of surprise and pride on some of the faces of the fathers and mothers as they watched the kiddies in costumes act, recite and sing just like little professionals.

The foot races and athletic games were many and awards given to all winners. As an additional attraction there was a married men's race, a fat men's race, a fat women's race. Lack of space and time prevented from giving the names and awards of the winners of the many events.

The baseball game between the married men and single men was won by the single men by the score of 8 to 3. Frank Goldstein, captain of the married men's team states that next year he won't let his team eat so much and attributes this fact to the defeat of his team. The pitchers were for the married men, M. Kogans and Dave Sarbone; for the single men, Red Kaleshman.

The entertainment committee should be complimented on the way they arranged the picnic and for the wonderful time they arranged for everyone. We feel assured that none of the mothers had to rock or sing the kiddies to sleep that night because they were all tired but happy.

BELLEVILLE BREVITIES

-O- THE SOCIAL GLIMPSE -O-

BREEZY BITS

SCHOOLS

By WILLIAM GRAY

The boys of the high school were afforded the splendid opportunity of hearing a talk on the Essex County Vocational School, in the assembly last Friday morning. Sheldon Parker, was the speaker.

Mr. Parker told the boys about the school, its courses, possibilities, and so forth. He outlined and explained various courses open to boys of grammar school and high school ages. He told of the equipment used in the vocational school in training boys to become skilled artisans and mechanics.

Some of the courses he explained are: Cafeteria, automobile and airplane mechanic and engineer, electrical and plumbing. In his outline of the cafeteria course, Mr. Parker told his audience that such a course did not prepare a boy for an ordinary cook's job. He said: "This course leads to well paid positions, such as head chefs and hotel managers." He told of a man in Newark who is steward of a large club and drawing a good yearly salary. This man, is at present on the advisory committee of the cafeteria course. He is a graduate of the Essex County Vocational School and one of the leading stewards in the east.

In addition to the courses, Mr. Parker enlightened his hearers on the advantages of such training, especially if a boy is mechanically minded and has had the advantage of attending high school for two or four years.

"The various types of boys attending the vocational school at the present time, afford a young boy an opportunity to mix and get used to meeting new friends," said Mr. Parker. "One person, the well-to-do mother of one of our students told me that her son was a changed boy since he had been attending vocational school. She thought the training he was receiving and the boys he came in contact with, were making a new person of her pampered son," he added.

He concluded his talk by asking those who were interested in the school to pay it a visit and investigate its possibilities. Following Mr. Parker's talk Charles L. Steel, Jr., principal of the high school, addressed the boys.

He told them that 50 per cent of those graduating from high school worked with their hands. This idea that all high school graduates get white collar jobs, is all wrong. Those who have such an idea, are mistaken. Mr. Steel supported the guest speaker in his opinion that vocational education and instruction is a godsend to some boys.

At the regular assembly Friday morning, the high school dramatic club presented a short play. It was entitled "Two Crooks and a Lady." The skit was very well carried out and was appreciated by the students. This was one of the two best plays of the year and was given to the dramatic classes as an examination.

The "Sophomore Hop," held at the school last Friday night, was a success, both socially and financially. As has been previously stated in this column, the sophomores were not trying to make money on this venture. Their idea was to "throw a party" for the other students and as far as money was concerned, they were satisfied to break even. As it is, they not only broke even, but eighteen dollars have been added to the class bank account.

Belleville High's thirty-fifth class night exercises took place Tuesday night. The auditorium of the high school was filled to its capacity and the entire program went off beautifully.

The assembly room was decorated in keeping with the bi-centennial celebration. Red, white and blue flowers were placed across the front of the stage and a picture of George Washington was placed on the rear wall, in the center of two sets of colored numerals. The were 1782-1932, designating the time elapsed between the birth of Washington and the present year.

Teachers Again Ask

when Commissioner Carragher expressed his opinion in the matter. He suggested that the town stop all borrowing until it had paid what it now owes. The commissioner placed the blame for the existing condition on the town. He also voiced his objection to the teachers being left to pay 6 per cent interest on their salaries if they wanted to borrow from the local banks. It is his belief that the school board should issue checks which the teachers could cash, with the assurance that the town would pay the interest. He also stated that the teachers wanted to borrow from the banks, they would several different stories concerning the offer made by the banks last week. He fully explained the offer and stated that loans could be made from the banks on the usual six per cent interest basis and paid back in small amounts. He said no thirty-six dollars would be taken out of each one hundred dollars, as interest.

Commissioner Carragher, however, still maintained that "it is unfair to expect the teachers to pay interest on their own salaries."

Mrs. Elizabeth Morgan, representing School No. 1, suggested the town borrow the money from the banks and loan it to the school board. She is of the opinion that it would be more honorable if the town borrowed the $80,000 at six per cent, than if the individual teacher was forced to give part of his or her salary in payment for the same. "If the banks can loan the teachers money, why can't they loan this same money to the town?" inquired Mrs. Morgan.

After further discussion, the issue died a natural death, upon Acting Mayor Williams' assuring those present that "the commissioners will be as helpful in the matter as possible."

The ordinance on the licensing of beverage establishments came up for second reading at the meeting, but was laid over till next week to afford Mayor Kenworthy an opportunity to vote on it. The mayor requested that such action be taken, as he wanted a chance to cast his vote on this matter. The Mayor favors the amendment, which changes the license fees on such places from $50 to $100.

Belleville Library News

The rediscovery of the public library Reading Rooms over the land are crowded with people seeking means to reshape life and vocation.

A by-product of hard times is the discovery, or the rediscovery, of the public libraries by their owners, the people. Never before have the libraries been so popular as they are now. All of them report increases of demand for their services, some as high as 50 per cent. They boom in the depression, whatever the depression may do to their appropriations. Professor Beard has pointed out that this economic crisis differs from others in that it leads men and women to serious thinking. Raymond B. Fosdick suggests that it may mark a new Renaissance, a new revival of learning. The libraries have abundant evidence of the truth of these observations.

Employed and unemployed alike flock to the libraries. Crowds come for vocational guidance. Other hosts come to study economics, finance and sociology and to find out why the world has fallen into its present state. A third group comes in search of release from depressing reality. Among them are thousands who seldom, in good times, enter library doors.

The librarians, at their meetings and in their professional publications, discuss ways and means of rising to the emergency, of handling the new rush of business and of meeting their responsibility in keeping up public morale. Ralph Munn of Pittsburgh calls the libraries perhaps the most important public institutions just now outside of the agencies dispensing actual relief. Whether or not the compliment is deserved, the libraries are passing through heroic days.

The Heritage American Room

No. 9—Lighting

By CARL HECK

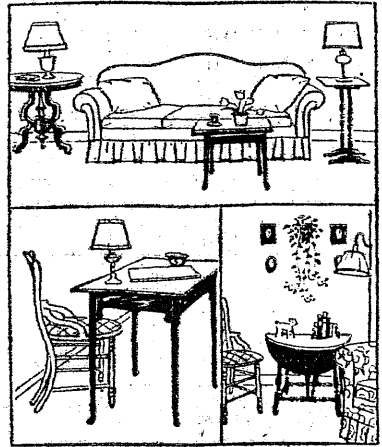

Consulting Art Director, Bigelow Weavers

How frequently only one person in a room can read comfortably at night! Though evening peace of mind is largely dependent on adequate lighting, many homes still lack lamps enough for the entire family to read by.

There was, for example, only one lamp in our old room and that was in the center of the room on the table under the chandelier, with a conspicuous wire connecting the two. There was plenty of light in the center but the rest of the room was in outer darkness so far as easy reading was concerned.

Because of the need for localized light, reflected directly on your book or magazine, chandeliers should rarely be used in the average small home. Accordingly we eliminate the chandelier entirely, installing several base outlets instead, and resort to lamps. The center table, as you remember, we have already removed to the right end of the couch against the wall. The lamp that stood on it was too tall for comfortable reading so was discarded entirely. Its place is taken by a vase-lamp with a round parchment shade. Another small lamp of lighter proportion goes on the end table at the left arm of the sofa, and a bridge lamp is placed for convenience next to the easy chair. The shades of all these lamps are in neutral tints to increase the feeling of restfulness in the room. Both silk and parchment shades are represented. Only the shade on the severely simple lamp used on the writing desk is tinted green, the keynote of our color scheme and the color that is most soothing to the eye.

Nothing is more charming than a lamp-lit room, and these lamps do more than just supply light where it is needed. By day they serve as decorative accents; at night they Lights should be placed for convenience. This shows how they fit into the new grouping.

Any piece of furniture with vertical lines like these slim book cases tends to draw the vision up and down and a thin vase exaggerates that quality. These interesting, squat vases on the other hand, tend to neutralize this impression. Thus we have added the final touch to our Heritage American room. Our next article will contrast the new room with the old.

TRADING LONG LEFTS

IN the opinion of the editor, Madison Square Garden has undoubtedly won the heavy-weight championship of the world. Sporting writers have disagreed as to the winner of the padded-glove fiasco of Tuesday night; Schmeling carried the fight to the Gob, and the Boston sailor, while he showed improvement, also showed that he had not forgotten his ability to block stinging rights and lefts with his nose.

Viewing it from a neutral angle (we consider it an evil to bet—unless we know we shall win) and being guided by the radio description of the fight, we are at a loss to understand the decision and we are not alone in that opinion if the rumblings around town mean anything. We are not, however, thinking of the decision but of the effect such an apparent lack of good sportsmanship is going to have on the fight game, to mention but one field of activity which offers a chance to "put in the bag."

Good sportsmanship seems to have followed chivalry over the brink and into oblivion. We wonder if the struggle for gold is eventually going to return a lot of us to the bear-skin rug and stone-batchet method of living. Without questioning the decision we admit that New York will always draw a larger gate than will Berlin, for instance, but conferred honor does not taste like the real article, if you know what we mean. The world, said a tune of Revolutionary days, is upside down. Maybe it still is. It will improve as men become men.

A ROAMING DOG HAS BUT FEW FRIENDS

DOGS have long held the attention of Bellevillites both because of their barking and their roaming propensities. Dogs, like the Indian, enjoy freedom, but the streets are hardly the proper place in which they may reasonably be permitted to roam at will to the annoyance of townfolk and the destruction of property. As we write this we are reminded of Senator Vest's eloquent tribute to a dog, but the Senator was not thinking of the mutt that tears through the shrubbery and gladioli as an expression of his right to roam—despite the fact that the great open spaces of his ancestors have been narrowed by modern progress.

It is not a dog's rest, disturbed by these animals. It is discouraging to watch a mongrel dog tear through a freshly planted flower bed and know that the hand that itches for a feel of a 12-bore thunder-pumper is stayed because it has been deemed unethical to splash dogs about the landscape because they don't know any better.

We sympathize with the dog as a member of a breed of pets from which man receives undying loyalty. But the dog that is a household pet to one person, easily becomes an annoying nuisance to others if allowed to stray where he is not wanted. As a dog lover, ourselves, we can feel for the person who loves his dog. As one who has tried to grow a few flowers in a dog-ridden town we extend the hand of fellowship to the man with the hoe. It would seem that admirers of dogs and nature lovers should be able to enjoy the companionship of their four-footed friends or their gardens without encroaching on the other fellow's rights. There must be some method of agreeably solving the problem. There is—think of the other fellow; put yourself in his shoes. The dog's usefulness is increased as his menacing meanderings are diminished.

THE NEW QUARTERS

IT has been a long time since a new coin has been put in circulation. But it will not be long now before the new quarter, bearing a likeness of George Washington, will be ousting the scantily clad young woman who has become so familiar.

The Philadelphia mint has begun to strike off the new pieces and the Denver and San Francisco mints will soon start production. They will not be released, however, until a considerable supply is ready. But that date is so imminent that it will be well to be prepared and not to challenge the first new quarters as strange counterfeits.

LUCKY BROTHER CHARLEY

THERE was but little glory accruing to anyone at the Republican convention but it looks as if the militant Mrs. Dolly Gann achieved a greater measure of success than anybody else. The delegates were in the mood to deny "Brother Charley" a renomination to the Vice Presidency. A very powerful delegation of women, led by Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, were on the ground to help along the revolt.

Mrs. Gann was the filed marshal of the Curtis forces and it must be admitted that she did an efficient job. Even those who do not like her aggressive personality agree that she knows politics and is an asset to the party, in fact a greater asset than "Brother Charley." She proved powerful in rounding up the delegates, particularly the women.

TRENCH MOUTH

Healthy teeth depend on healthy gums.

One of the most serious and widespread threats to the gums in modern American life is called Trench Mouth. The disease is known to doctors as Vincent's infection, but it became so prevalent among soldiers during the World War that the doughboys gave it its present name. It is marked by a slight destruction of the gums, resulting in an exceedingly painful mouth.

Today, the disease is again widespread, especially in our large cities. Proper care on the part of individuals can do more to check the spread of the disease than all the dentists in the world.

Use of glasses instead of paper drinking cups, carelessness in cleaning cooking utensils and promiscuous kissing are also blamed for the prevalence of the disease. The individual who keeps his resistance up and is careful about using proper drinking and eating utensils will be comparatively immune from the disease—if he indulges in no promiscuous kissing!

Acute cases of Trench Mouth are marked by high temperature, headache, nausea, loss of appetite, bleeding of the gums and glandular enlargement. Occasionally these cases prove fatal.

But proper care easily blocks the advance of the disease. Mild cases, if attended to, recover in from one to three weeks. The first essential in treatment is a thorough cleaning of the teeth.

Chronic cases of Trench Mouth result from home treatment. Bacteria becomes firmly entrenched in tartar and soft material on the teeth, and there is no mouthwash for other home-made remedy strong enough to get through these deposits and destroy all the germs. Professional attention is necessary if serious or chronic complications would be avoided.

To avoid Trench Mouth, avoid unclean food utensils and utensils which have been used by someone else.

To prevent serious infection if you get the disease, seek professional advice immediately.

(This newspaper will be glad to receive questions from readers about teeth, mouth hygiene or dental health. The questions will be answered authoritatively but anonymously by outstanding dentists selected by the American Dental Association. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.)

CONSIDERING PLANTS

PLANTS are constantly depleting the soil of nourishment, since they must feed, and these used food elements must be replaced by fertilization. Commercial fertilizers are best, for they contain no weed seeds and are 100% effective.

Lime is not a plant food. Its value is in correcting a sour or acid soil condition and in making clay soils looser and more pliable.

The presence of moss indicates either a sour or impoverished soil. For the first, apply hydrated lime, and for the second use a good quality of fertilizer. Practically any soil, however, will be benefited by an application of lime followed a week or two later by fertilizer. Do not apply both close together.

GREEN PEAS should be cooked shortly after picking to preserve the quality. Four hours after picking the sugar starts to change to starch, and this is the reason that it is impossible to get the full flavor in peas that are purchased from stores. This is also true with Corn.

NITROGEN promotes leaf growth while Potash benefits the root system. Potash is of use in bringing the plant to maturity.

In sowing seeds out-doors, it is desirable to mark the rows. Wooden labels are not expensive, and they serve the purpose best. Any soft lead pencil will do or we list a waterproof soft pencil in our catalogue.

CONTRARY to general belief, worms are not desirable. There are several methods of getting rid of them, but the most satisfactory is by using Worm Killing Plant Food. In addition to eliminating the worms, it has considerable fertilizing value.

DELPHINIUM can be used to advantage in front of shrubbery. The flowers are particularly desirable as cut flowers for use in the house.

The use of stakes with Tomato Plants not only helps the quantity and quality of your results, but it also saves garden room. In fact there are a number of vegetables such as Cucumber or even dwarf peas that are improved by the use of supports.

SOMETHING HAS GOT TO BE DONE ABOUT
PLAYING POLITICS, SAYS HOMER C. ZINK

"The Day Has Finally Arrived When We Taxpayers Find Ourselves In The Saddle And We Shall Ride Hard"

June 20, 1932.

Editor, News,
Belleville, N. J.

Sir:
To me, as to many more, it is a matter of disgrace as well as of great importance, that our school teachers, of all public servants, should remain unpaid. It is adding insult to injury for the town commissioners to offer the excuse that the taxpayers are not paying their taxes as they should.

To use a homely phrase, that excuse gives me a pain, and it does the same to other thoughtful citizens. We all know the reason the teachers were not paid was that Belleville did not have the necessary funds. And we know perfectly well why Belleville was without those funds.

For years, town officials, under our inefficient commission form of government, have been spending our money, often thoughtlessly and sometimes wastefully. Then, too, we taxpayers have at times actually encouraged unwise expenditures for unnecessary improvements. Like millions of others in America, we were on a financial drunk.

Private citizens are no more free from blame than office-holders, for our orgy of spending. Yet, the taxpayers realized, long before public officials did, that the time had come to call a halt. Business men cut salaries, discharged employees and quit trying to keep up appearances.

But our local rulers have not done their share in meeting changed conditions, and have now come to grief. To be sure, they cut their budget this year, although that was nothing compared with what they must do. Everybody knows that salaries will be lower, jobs will be abolished and waste will be cut from overhead.

Any good business man could step into almost any public office in America and reduce expenses anywhere from five to fifty per cent. or more. Even you and I could do it, but we could not, at the same time, make jobs for relatives and friends nor pay political debts nor build up a personal following.

The time is coming, and coming soon, when plain business men will interest themselves in government, will seek public office on a platform of simple business methods, and will govern in a truly businesslike way. So much, at least, will have resulted from the great depression.

Meanwhile, I resent the charge that we taxpayers alone are to blame for the failure to pay the teachers. True, I have not paid my taxes for this year. Nor, unless the commissioners get down to business, shall I pay those taxes until I am forced to do so by the building and loan association which holds a mortgage on my home.

Call me unpatriotic and disloyal, if you will, and I will tell you I am looking out for the ultimate interest of the town, as well as my own interest. I intend to see whether our commissioners are going to govern with real wisdom before I voluntarily pay them another cent.

The day has finally arrived when we taxpayers find ourselves in the saddle, and we shall ride hard. For years, I have quietly urged cooperation between officials and citizens here. I have defended our commissioners as being a bit better than average, and I still say they are. But the average quality of commissioners in New Jersey is so low that it is not very high praise to say that our commissioners are a little above that average. Now, we need something far better than average, in government.

In the present crisis, we have a right to demand that petty politics be thrown overboard, along with all excess freight, such as extravagance, inefficiency, nepotism and selfish ambition. Unless our officials agree on some such program, not one of them can possibly be reelected in 1934. This is perfectly clear to those who can understand the present temper of our people.

It is the brutal truth that, if the Commissioners of the Town of Belleville do not stop playing politics at once, the future of the taxpayers here must be dark and gloomy indeed. And something has got to be done about it!

In writing this letter, I believe I act for a large number of citizens who are too diffident or too modest to speak out in this way. Nevertheless, it will probably be said that I am either a publicity seeker or a disappointed office seeker, or both. Well, I admit the first charge, and brazenly ask you to give this letter a prominent place in your paper. As to the other charge, I defy anyone to say I have ever sought appointment to office in Belleville.

In conclusion, let me say this is not a campaign speech. I am a candidate for no office, even that of coroner—appropriate as that might be!

Very truly yours,
HOMER C. ZINK.

NEW MEDICINE WORKING WONDERS

CONQUERS CONSTIPATION

It is often very difficult to recognize constipation. You may be having regular bowel movements but they may not be thorough. Self-poisoning might occur, which is the absorption into the blood of poisons from accumulating waste matter in the intestines. The blood saturates the body daily with these poisons. Results are often serious. From the continued attack of intestinal poisons some vital organ eventually breaks down and chronic invalidism and shortened life results.

For your guidance in recognizing and hence over-coming constipation and its dread results, we are listing below some of the symptoms by which physicians recognize the presence of constipation.

If you are often subject to one or more of these disorders, constipation is very probably the cause.

Headache, Gas, Belching, Bad Breath, Dizziness, Coated Tongue, Flatulence, Insomnia, (Sleeplessness), Indigestion, Constipation, Pimples, Hemorrhoids, (Piles).

Abdominal Tenderness, Lack of Appetite, Insatiable Hunger, Nausea (1-3 Hrs. After Eating), So-called Rheumatism, High Blood Pressure, Auto-intoxication, Springtime Weakness.

Unfortunately, up to within recent years it was difficult if not impossible to secure efficient evacuation of the bowel contents. It cannot be accomplished by the use of drugs commonly known as purgatives, cathartics, or laxatives, such as castor oil, pills, salts, mineral water and the like. These disturb and irritate the stomach and often affect the kidneys. Only through the principle of absorption as embodied in Alagar can regular thorough elimination of waste matter be harmlessly accomplished.

Alagar is an emulsion of Russian Mineral Oil with Agar Agar and the well-known intestinal antiseptic Phenolphthalein. Its distinct Maple Flavor makes it very pleasant and palatable.

This product, Alagar, which contains pure ingredients, is a finely emulsified preparation of a pinkish color and is prepared with special care by our chemists in our own laboratory. It is regularly prescribed by leading physicians in their daily practice and in hospitals.

Look for the Two Red Diamonds on the Label. The sign of the genuineness.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed
in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25¢ at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

St. Peter's Batting Swamps Bachelors

Collect Fifteen Hits In An Easy 11 To 3 Win

A supposedly crucial and close tussle was turned into a batting carnival by St. Peter's ball performers, as they drubbed the Bachelors, 11-3, Thursday night, at Clearman Field, in the American Legion circuit. This marked the season's first defeat for the Bachelors, and sent them scurrying into a tie for first place with their conquerors, St. Peter's, and the Elks.

ONE-THIRD OVER

THAT well-played St. Peter's-Elks' overtime battle, Monday night, was a fitting wind-up to the first round of American Legion Baseball League play.

With the playing of that contest, the loop officially became one-third over. For the next two rounds, which will embrace the next ten weeks, six teams will play three nights a week. The Giants, of course, automatically forfeited their league franchise due to their failure to win a single contest of the six played in the first round, and their subsequent finishing in last place.

Getting back to Monday's game, we think that the acme of Legion League performances was reached in that tense, thrilling struggle. Carl Gordinier and Ral Flynn pitched like demons, and but for some rather sour support by his mates in that frantic eighth, Flynn might just as easily have finished on the victorious end. He allowed but six hits to his opponent's seven, and was just as effective with runners clogging the base-paths.

Too much credit, however, cannot be given Gordinier, who should be rated the best twirler in the circuit for his invariably fine performances. Stopping powerful St. Peter's with but one run for eight innings is no mean feat in any man's league.

Among other things, the contest proved that Jim Mallack has lost none of that throwing skill from the outfield, that makes him pretty nearly the most feared outer-gardener in the circuit for picking men off the bases. His beautiful throw to third in the fourth to cut down Savino standing up saved Gordinier a heap of trouble.

TRADE WINDS BLOWING?

WE have often wondered why the local Legion League has not been able to foster more trading of players than has been the case. In all three preceding years of the Legion League's play trading of players has been the exception, rather than the rule.

After Monday's game, however, we got word of a trade which is practically consummated that seems the biggest of the early season. Manager McCarthy of the league-leading Bachelors Club has been after "Mac" Lamb, ace infielder of the Belleville A. A. for some time.

It seems now that he has reached a fairly definite agreement with Manager Noonan of the Belleville A. A., whereby the Bachelors received Lamb in exchange for their hard-hitting outfielder, Paul Belrose. The addition of Lamb, together with the powerful clouting McDaniels, should do much to put the Bachelors right in the thick of the pennant dash for the entire season.

YOUTHFUL ACES

IT is seldom that youngsters put on an exhibition, such as the youthful baseball representatives of Post 30 of Newark and local Post 67 of the American Legion staged Saturday afternoon.

Belleville's 2-1 victory in ten innings of play, which incidentally evenged an old score, was as sensational as it was gratifying.

Exactly six hits were pounded out between the two teams, as Travers of Belleville and Caruso of Newark hooked up a stirring mound duel. And hey played before a full house, too.

Amer. Legion All-Stars To Meet Nutley Here

Manager Lawlor Expected To Use Ral Flynn On Mound Tomorrow

The Belleville American Legion all-star baseball nine, made up of the pick of players in the local ball circuit, will open its 1932 campaign, Saturday afternoon, with the Nutley A. C. furnishing the opposition in the first game of a home-and-home series.

Johnny Lawlor, veteran player and manager, who has managed the all-star teams for the past several seasons, will again be at the helm of the locals.

Ral Flynn will likely be Manager Lawlor's selection to toe the slab against the Nutleyites, with Gene Gelshen receiving his slants.

Bachelors Vs. Elks Tonight In Legion Game

Two League Leaders To Meet In Crucial Tilt At Local Oval

The Bachelors meet the Elks tonight at Clearman Field in a ball tilt that should decide temporary supremacy in the local American Legion baseball circuit. Both teams are at present tied for first place in the loop.

Manager McCarthy of the Bachelors is expected to trot out in addition to his regular cast, "Mac" Lamb and McDaniels, both former players with the Belleville A. A. Lamb was secured in an even-up trade for Paul Belrose, while McDaniels comes to them on transfer.

Lou Beliski and "Lefty" Kintzing are expected to be the opposing moundsmen, with Matt Ryan and Gene Gelshen on the receiving end for the Bachelors and Elks respectively.

This was the seventh straight win for the locals. The Wall Streeters have lost but two matches this year of a hard schedule and are rated well up in golf rankings hereabouts.

Belleville Post Youngsters Nose Out Newark By 2-1 Score

Travers Was Pitching Hero Of Extra Inning Win

For Locals

Belleville Post 105, American Legion junior baseball representatives nosed out Newark, 2-1, in ten innings of play, Saturday afternoon, at Clearman Field. The victory enabled the locals to get revenge for a defeat at the hands of the Newarkers earlier in the season.

Travers was the big star for the Bell-boys letting down the hard-hitting Newarkers with four hits and their single tally, in accounting for a fine mound performance.

Belleville High School Tennis Players Lose To Lincoln, 3 To 2

Anderten Figures In Lone Two Wins Of Locals

The Belleville High tennis players received a 3-2 set-back at the hands of the gifted Lincoln High netsters of Jersey City, Monday afternoon, at the Clearman Field clay courts.

George Anderten came back to form for the Bell-boys, figuring in both of their triumphs. In the singles he turned back Groschel of the visitors in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3. He also paired up with Ray Smith in the doubles to defeat the Edelman-Groschel combine, 1-6, 7-5, 9-7. After taking the first set at 9-7, Billie Caldwell dropped the next two to Fealkoff, 6-3, 6-2, to lose his singles match. Morris defeated Ray Smith of the locals, 6-0, 6-4, in the other singles match. The duo of Gauss and Manger lost the deciding set, losing out in the doubles to Starr-Morris, 6-0, 6-3.

DAVE WALSH SPEAKS HIS MIND...

The Law Is With Us—Landis

BELIEVING that baseball is in a position to do something for those who have done much for it, this newspaper has instituted an inquiry, impartial, unbiased and without venom, into the situation in connection with the impending 10 per cent. tax on admissions. We have done this, not with the idea that legally baseball must assume its share of the burden, but that morally it should. We have our answer today.

It comes from a man who is my friend. I honor him and respect him, but feel no obligation to temper criticism of a cause that does not seem wholly defensible. In other words, I think the following, while technically right, is morally wrong:

"The law imposes a tax of 1 cent for each 10 cents admission quote to be paid by the person paying for such admission unquote. It is my understanding that clubs will act in accordance with this provision."

"KENESAW M. LANDIS."

Could—but Won't

We know the law, commissioner. We know its purpose, its intent. But we also know that a lot of people will have to strain to meet this demand and that, in some notable cases, baseball could discharge the obligation readily, if not easily. Baseball is the poor man's pastime, but, mostly, it is the rich man's business. Some of the owners were rich to start with; others became so in the years of prosperity. Some of them could afford to disgorge a little now. They could reduce the price of admission sufficiently to take care of all or any part of the tax. They could, but, apparently, they won't. It wouldn't be good business. They have the law with them.

Baseball IS the Public's Business

Of course, the natural rejoinder is that an admission is something you pay or don't, at your discretion, and that the result of the tax, the major leagues happen to play on the benches, that will be baseball's problem. I'm not so sure that even this is right.

In times like these, baseball serves a distinct purpose, and fills a real need. It isn't a luxury now; it's almost a necessity, for it lightens cares that otherwise might become all too ponderous. It takes the man with little money, or at least none, out into the sunshine of an afternoon where he can forget himself and, for the moment, become a boy again.

It is a substantial safeguard against national hysteria. It sustains a morale of the home, for what is more disturbing to the masculine mind than an afternoon spent in what is known as the bosom of the family? There, the daylight hours seem strangely unreal, unconvincing. They brand him as a failure. The little woman is wielding a mop. He sits abjectly in a chair and stares morosely before him. But why go on with this? I'm only proving what is already known and, indeed, accepted as fact—that, in times like these, baseball isn't an entertainment; it is practically a need.

Speaking of Discretion

So when its club owners and executives give the public the privilege of liking it or staying away, they are laying down, not an alternative, but an ultimatum. They are not extending a choice. In many cases, they are taking this away at a time when it is needed.

There are needy ball clubs, of course. The Boston Red Sox, for instance, claim that they are about ready to pick up what chips are left and take a big loss on their venture. The Cincinnati Reds lost money when other clubs won, but are doing well now. Still, nobody in baseball is walking around on a pair of spats, and, for every club that is tottering a bit, there is another that is hale and hearty and financially sound, with big profits to show for the immediate past and a comfortable surplus available for the emergencies of the present.

I think these particular clubs could do the handsome thing, if they wished, and, apparently, they can, for the judge's opinion speaks of his "understanding that the clubs will act" in accordance with the law, which indicates that the disposal of the tax is a matter for individual discretion.

And if ever there was a time for baseball to be discreet, this seems to be it.

State Tennis Tourney Scheduled To Be Held At Montclair

Thirty-Ninth Annual Affair Will Start Saturday Afternoon

The thirty-ninth annual New Jersey State men's tennis championships in singles and doubles will get under way Saturday, June 25, and will continue nine days at the Montclair Athletic Club, Montclair. Robert P. Swift, chairman of the title committee, announced that more than 100 players from the United States, Canada and South America will participate.

Four members of the Brazil Davis Cup team, including Ricardo Perinambuco, Humbert Costa, Carlos Aranha and Ivo Simoni, will take part in the singles and doubles. The 1931 champion, Dick Murphy of Utica, N. Y., will defend the honors and it is expected that David N. Jones, who lost to Murphy in a four-hour five-set match last July, will also enter.

The committee consists of Mr. Swift, R. S. Deane, Herbert W. Schick, Conway Hoffman, W. Scott Johnston, Franklin C. Koss, William E. Marcus, Jr., Wallace McBurney, Samuel F. Melcher, Chester A. Muller, Hugh Oakley, George R. Reilly, H. Levan Richards and Remsen Schenck.

St. Anthony's Win 11-8 Hitting Game

Defeated Giants Forced Out Of Legion Loop

St. Anthony's turned back the Giants, 11-8, Friday night, at Clearman Field, in a hard-hitting, loosely played American Legion League ball game. The Giant defeat caused their elimination from play in the second and third rounds, as they finished the first six games without the solace of a single victory.

P. S. Plans Wage And
Common Stock CutMore Necessary To Meet
Lower Earnings Under
New Federal Tax Law

Following a regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey this week, President Thomas N. McCarter issued the following statement:

"To meet conditions due to reduced earnings and to additional costs imposed by the new Federal budget-balancing tax law, the directors of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey have voted to make a six per cent reduction applicable both to its payroll and to dividends payable to holders of its common stock. Preferred stock dividends will not be affected in any way. The changes in salaries and wages of officers and employees will become effective as of July 1."

"The added amount of taxes that Public Service will be called upon to pay under the new law, over a twelve month period, approximates $1,400,000. The yearly aggregate of the three per cent tax assessed against users of electrical energy is about $1,300,000. Public Service must thus assume more than fifty per cent of the added burden imposed by the tax bill."

"Estimates were submitted at the meeting to indicate that with allowances for the new taxes the operations of the corporation would show approximately $2,500,000.00 less for the year 1932 than for the corresponding period a year ago."

"The six per cent reduction in salaries and wages will amount to about $1,050,000 for the remaining portion of this year, and the six per cent cut in common stock dividends will aggregate $550,000 for the like period and put the dividend rate on an annual basis of $3.20 instead of $3.40 a share, which should be earned with a reasonable margin of safety."

"In making these adjustments the directors were actuated by a desire to preserve the sound, healthy condition of the corporation and the result will be that the burden which are due to existing conditions will, in accordance with the Corporation's policy, be equitably apportioned among stockholders, employees and the public served."

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 26, 1932.

The Golden Text is: "When ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which effectually worketh also in you that believe." (I Thessalonians 2:13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee; and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about." (Luke 4:14).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science explains all cause and effect as mental, not physical. It lifts the veil of mystery from Soul and body. It shows the scientific relation of man to God, disentangles the interlaced ambiguities of being, and sets free the imprisoned thought." (p. 114).

GIRL SCOUT
NEWS

The Girl Scouts of Belleville hurriedly changed their plans for their June Court of Awards last Friday afternoon. It was planned to have all Scouts in Belleville Park, but the weather prevented and through the kindness and courtesy of Rev. Edgar M. Compton the girls met at the Wesley Methodist Church.

Commissioner Mrs. William Adams and Rev. Compton addressed the assembled girls briefly. Different troops entertained with recitations, songs and dancing. Games were played and many scout songs heartily sung.

Almost 200 badges were awarded, among them: Life saver, child nurse, home nurse, first aid, bird finder, hostess, needlewoman, laundress, craftsman, observer, health winner, electrician, nature, also first and second class badge and gold and silver attendance stars.

Mrs. Charles Kelly, a council member was presented with her silver bar for five years' service.

Marion Miller, Jean McClellan of Troop No. 1, Grace Davies of Troop No. 6, and Shirley Howell, Troop 10, won their first class badges. This is the highest award given out now, except one, the Golden Eagle.

Other Girl Scouts receiving badges were: Ena Holden, Allene Schenck, Betty Crosby, Charlotte Voorhees, Lillian Harker, Jean McClellan, of Troop No. 1; Janet Moyer, Ellen Conry, Ruth Warner, of Troop No. 2; Alice Strack of Troop No. 3; Virginia Entekin, Jané Warrick, Phyllis Ames, Joan Rummel, Jane Dixon, Agnes Gregson, Julie Vessie of Troop No. 4; Claire Flynn, Rita Rackett, Margaret Luby, Margaret Fitzpatrick, Loretta Gillen, of Troop No. 5; Grace Davies, Lorraine Houtsman, Lois Abbey, Verna Lyons, Audrey Epler, Margaret McCall, and Virginia Brunigh of Troop No. 6; Virginia Brown, Estelle De Larkey, Mildred Garabrant, Alice Nordeck, Phyllis Rook, Bertha Sauvan, Dolores Sauvan, Helen Scheer, Margaret Wirtz, Augusta Wernsing, Marion Witt, Troop No. 7; Marie Butler, Marion Malcolm, Eleanor Mooney, Doris Tracey, Loretta Zeiler, Lorraine Dow, Maude Christie, Eleanor O'Keefe, Eleanor Zeiler, Helen McCann, Dorothy Hearn, Marie Mernett, Edna Baum, Irma Maguire, Margaret Lister, Lorraine Shanahan, Grace Jensen, Dorothy Prendergast, Laura Resciniti, Mildred Moneghan, Catherine Hamman, Eleanor Hamman, Ruth Engel, Mabel Baun and Helen Field, of Troop No. 8; Carol Conklin, of Troop No. 9; Edith Ackerman, Shirley Howell, Ellen Hays, and Betty Gibson of Troop No. 10; Maissie Sloan, Jessie Bunn, Berta Wilkes, Leslie Brown, Edith Plunkett and Lieutenant Mrs. Peterson, of Troop No. 11.

This affair was conducted by Mrs. May Holden, director, assisted by the Misses E. Tempest, Charlotte Holden, Mary Grimley, Helen Colehamer, Florence Kelly, Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Ellsworth.

Troop No. 4 postponed their regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon and were asked to meet Wednesday afternoon at Girl Scout headquarters instead. The girls gathered and found the rooms in gala dress—festoons of multicolored streamers hung in all directions. Games were started—cards were handed to each one. Upon inspection two only were accepted—Agnes and Betty Gregson were the ones selected. They were escorted to the front of the room and presented with a large box gaily dressed in pink. The box contained elephant book-ends and an elephant lamp. These girls are leaving the troop, moving away to Pennsylvania and all the girls are downcast over losing two such fine members. They have been faithful workers for their troop.

The committee in charge, who prepared the party in fine style, are: Phyllis Ames, Betty Schwab, Peggy Pelz, Jane Warrick and Virginia Entekin.

Troop No. 6 held an election of Patrol Leaders at their last meeting on Monday, at Fawcett Presbyterian Church. Those chosen were: Margaret Evers, Margaret McCall, Jean Robinson and Marjorie Breen.

The new scouts passed their tenderfoot tests and were invested at this meeting. The new Girl Scouts are: Betty Memmet, Shirley Osborne, and Betty Steel, the daughter of Charles Steel, Jr., principal of Belleville High School.
