The stage presentation differs in many ways from the screen play, Mr. MacDonald states, since it contains more comedy.
Many Attended Affair
Given By Woman's Republican Club
Prominent Women In Politics Gave Short Talks
Here
The Belleville Woman's Republican Club met on Thursday afternoon at the Woman's Club house, 51 Rosmore place. The president, Mrs. John F. O'Brien, Jr., presided. Two new members were welcomed, Mrs. Anna Lanza of 114 Brighton avenue, and Mrs. Alberta Raymond of 10 Belmont avenue. The club went on record as endorsing Hon. Joseph G. Wolter, senator, for governor. It is planned to have the candidates for town commissioners present at an evening meeting of the club some time in March, the date to be arranged later. Following the business session, Mrs. Mary T. Yuill of Newark, assemblywoman, gave a most interesting talk, describing the opening day of the Legislature at Trenton on the preceding Tuesday, which marked the 155th convening of that body.
Mrs. Yuill said: "First the old legislature convenes and then the new comes into action. There were two speakers of the house present on Tuesday."
Mrs. Yuill was for ten years county committee member and is now on her third year as assemblywoman.
Mrs. Abbie W. Magee of Nutley, vice chairman Essex County Republican Committee, then spoke. Mrs. Magee, who was assistant supervisor of bills last session and who has been made supervisor for the 1934 Assembly, is the first woman to hold this position.
"This is considered a wonderful recognition for women in general, and a forward step for them in public affairs. I look upon this not as a personal appointment but as a recognition of these women through their leader," said Mrs. Magee. Her topic was "Why Women Should Enter Politics."
She said: "Woman in politics is as important as in the home. As there is partnership in the home, between man and woman, so it should be in politics, not 'stag-nation.' There is a deep need for organization of women in politics."
Mrs. Magee complimented Mrs. O'Brien and the members of the Belleville Woman's Republican Club upon its organization and progress.
Mrs. William P. Adams, membership chairman, poured. Mrs. W. H. K. Davey, first vice president; Mrs. Arthur Darvo, house chairman; Mrs. James K. Alexander, treasurer; and Miss Esther H. Adams, secretary, assisted in serving.
Among guests were Mrs. Elizabeth A.

Water Department Shows Large Profit Sales Of Water Increase While Purchases Decrease

Walter R. Darby, State commissioner of municipal accounts, has made the following comment on the operation of the Belleville Water Department during 1933:
"The water department shows a decided improvement this year; showing an operating profit of $17,743.37. The purchases of water as compared with 1931 reflected a decrease of $4,373.70, while the sales as shown by the records were $2,838.01 greater."
The department made a gross profit of $31,815.88 during 1933, but after the expense of debt service on bond issues was met, a net profit of more than $17,000 is shown.
Responsibility for the operation of the water department is vested jointly in the department of revenue and finance, directed by Commissioner Williams, and in the department of public works, directed by Commissioner Waters. The public works department has charge of the maintenance and construction of mains, while collections, reading and supervision of meters, sale and purchase of water are made by the finance department, under the direction of Thomas W. Fleming.

Phonograph Recording Won't Replace Counsel In Harrison Court

Defense counsels will not be replaced by phonograph records, even in this mechanical age, if Judge Lenahan of Harrison Police Court has anything to say about it.
Fred Slaughter of 257 Main street, Belleville, was brought before him Tuesday morning, entered a plea of not guilty and offered an electrical transcription of the voice of Judge Rutherford to plead his case. The charge was distributing circulars.
The trouble of bringing the phonograph to the courtroom was of no avail however, since the judge refused to listen to the record and fined Slaughter $5 and sentenced him to three days in jail.

Finance Head Approves Revised School Budget

"The revised school budget adopted by the board of education Monday night is satisfactory," Director William H. Williams of the department of revenue and finance stated Wednesday night. "While the board did not make its changes in the tentative budget in exactly the manner I recommended, the revisions amount to the same saving to the taxpayers."
The first budget prepared would have meant an increase of 33 points in the Belleville tax rate, while the revised budget only indicates a rise of about 10 points, the director explained. He said that though the amount set aside for reserves to make the change back to the former school fiscal year, which must be done in five years, according to law, had been slashed, he had learned on reliable authority that the State allotment might be $193,000 this year instead of the $176,000 anticipated, which would allow ample reserves.
At the present rate of establishment of reserves by the school board, the director stated, the change back to the former fiscal year could be made in two and one-half years, well within the time allowed by law.

CWA Officials Express Satisfaction With Public Works Projects In To- Waters Denies Political Favoritism, Spikes Rumor Investigation—Prompt Action Gets Town 340 Jobs Over Official Quota

County CWA Supervisor Henry Lewis, the State engineer of the CWA, CWA Engineer Emmett R. Olcott, and Town Construction Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan made a complete inspection of the storm sewer being constructed in the northwest section of town Wednesday afternoon and the visiting officials expressed complete satisfaction with the work and the manner in which it is being carried on.
The project was also visited by county CWA representatives Monday morning, and stated that conditions on the job were far better than those on any other project in the town that they had inspected.
Commissioner Patrick A. Waters, director of public works, whose department the project and sanitary sewers maintained for Belleville, denied the rumor that men are being placed through political favoritism. He declared that all jobs were given through the county CWA of Newark, and that he had never his influence to give political men work.
"Just because certain persons need of employment happen members of the Democratic Committee they should not be jobs," the director stated. "The persons mentioned in newspaper reports as being employed by me are working on county projects in Newark or other nearby towns. Waters said that he had been visited by Lewis that Belleville has more men at work than are provided for in the quota allotted the town CWA heads, and that this was the speedy action of the public department, in which Sheehan, engineer, in submitting project proposals.
The director branded as a news item, published in a local newspaper, which stated that "investigators" were at work on the project of "politics," called investigators merely Federal "checkers" on every CWA project in the county, Waters said. The job since it was made necessary by the practical putting men to work immediately investigating their need later, according to the director.
Charges of inefficiency and "sloping" on the public works project were refuted by the testimony of county representatives, who stated that the men were working industriously and that the job was being rushed to completion.
No probe is in progress or is contemplated, Lewis announced last week, in substantiating the statements of Waters.
Olcott, who together with Lewis has been supervising the work, it was started, also denied investigation rumors, and added that he not see how Waters or Sheehan could be held responsible for any difficulties, which have not ironed out through routine checkings.

CWA To Conduct School Census Here Vocational Data On High School Graduates To Be Secured

The Civil Works Administration will be asked to provide workers to conduct a school census in Belleville, the board of education decided at its meeting Monday night.
Supervising Principal Wayne R. Farmer advised the board that the CWA had asked to do the work, which will include registration of all children of school age and the collection of vocational data on graduates of Belleville High School in the last three years. The board felt that the information obtained would be of value, and approved the project, since it will be done at no cost to local taxpayers.
CWA painters and plasterers are engaged in repairs to many schools, John P. Dailey, chairman of the building and grounds committee, announced Charles Gebhardt chairman of the health committee, said that dentists and nurses employed by the CWA were making examination of the teeth of all school children. If it is found that the parents of children with defective teeth cannot afford treatment, the CWA will furnish dentists and supplies for correction.
Gebhardt reported that a nurses' room should be equipped at the high school to receive ill pupils, and that a nurses' room and refurbishing of the teachers' rest room were required at School No. 7. The board appropriated $275 for equipment.
On the recommendation of Mrs. Porter Sheldon, the board authorized Farmer to go to the annual convention of the National Educational Association at Cleveland as its representative.
Ruel E. Daniels, district clerk, told the board that the owner of the vacant property adjoining the high school grounds on the south had given permission for it to be used as a playground, provided he was not held liable for any injuries received.
It was suggested that the board lease the property at a nominal rental of $1 a month, thereby placing it in the category of school property, which, by a recent act of the Legislature, is immune to claims for damages. Some members doubted if the responsibility could be transferred in that way and it was decided to refer it to counsel.
A communication from Good American Council, Daughters of America, was received, asking permission to present an American flag to School No. 1. The board granted the permission and moved that the flag be accepted with thanks.

Senator Kean Proposes
Sandy Hook State Park

With the reopening of Congress, Senator Hamilton F. Kean has undertaken, in addition to his other tasks at Washington, an intensive campaign to secure for New Jersey a 4-mile strip of beach land on the narrow neck of Sandy Hook for a State Park.

A bill proposing to transfer control of this property from the War Department to the State of New Jersey was introduced in the Senate by Senator Kean last spring, and later withdrawn, pending a report by military officials on the project.

In November, Senator Kean called at the White House and asked President Roosevelt to give his support to the Sandy Hook Park program. The President displayed a sympathetic interest in the project, and called upon the War Department for its own recommendations.

At this time Senator Kean pointed out that while Sandy Hook was a government military reservation, the area sought by New Jersey for a beach-front park was not utilized for fortifications, maneuvers or target practice, and its development by the state, under lease from the government, would benefit Fort Hancock, rather than weaken its usefulness.

Senator Kean's proposal would permit New Jersey to take over only a four-mile strip of the long, curving hook under a day-to-day lease from the government. The property would be developed with the construction of bath houses, swimming pool, tennis courts, parking spaces and refreshment stands.

From New Jersey's point of view, acquisition of the property under lease from the government is considered important for two reasons:

Sandy Hook is the only stretch of Virgin beach readily accessible to the populous northern counties of the state. Its development would provide a summer playground for hundreds of thousands from the industrial area, who cannot afford the journey to expensive shore resorts.

South of Long Beach, all the accessible beach property has been developed by private interests, and bathing privileges are restricted, frequently by high fees.

Working through the Military Affairs Committee of the Senate, the War Department and the White House, Senator Kean hopes to push the Sandy Hook park project to realization before the present session of Congress ends.

Another Skater Signs
For Newark Race

Bob Ringwald, Newark boy, yesterday signed to compete in Newark's first roller skating championships which will be run at Dreamland Park, in Newark, starting February 7. It will be a 21 day affair and the first of its kind in Newark. It is scheduled to wind up midnight February 28.

Red-headed and a professional hockey player as well, Ringwald will be one of the favorites in the long whirl. Bob is a tall, lean chap and only a youngster. He is twenty years old and besides being a great plugger can sprint too. This will help him a lot as the plugging will no doubt help any of the twenty-three men teams slated to start.

The Newarker has won races in Brooklyn, New York, Philadelphia, Montreal and Toronto. His best performances were in taking a 50 mile victory in Brooklyn and winning 100 mile races in New York and Philadelphia. In handling his signed contract to Victor "Buddy" Brown, Ringwald said, "I can't wait until the opening gun."

Ringwald is the second to sign following Claude Cawthorn, the St. Louis Sheik. The race is being promoted by Brown, Harry Mendel and Jack Mitnick.

Arthur E. Mayer Throws
Hat In Political Ring

The candidacy of Arthur E. Mayer of 114 Division avenue for the town commission at the May election was announced this week by his campaign manager, J. T. Lewis Jr., of 16 Belair place, Newark. Mayer announced the following platform:

"Mr. Mayer states that he pledges if elected to eliminate every unnecessary expense; that he will conduct all town affairs on a strictly business basis and that he will do everything possible to give the taxpayers of Belleville an efficient and economical administration."

"Mr. Mayer further states that the budget deficit must be restored by rigid economies and new revenues."

"He further promises to do all in his power to bring new industries to our town to help relieve the unemployment situation and bring in added revenue. New industries can be attracted, he says, by placing our town affairs in order, keeping taxes low and making concessions when necessary, providing they do not compete with those industries already established."

"With his plan for rigid economy, the establishing of a centralized purchasing bureau, the securing of new revenues by encouraging new industries and apartment houses, it is only logical that lower taxes will result."

Mayer was born in Newark and has lived here ten years. He attend East Side High School and Newark Institute of Arts and Sciences. He is president of the Belleville Real Estate Board, treasurer of the Lions Club and a member of the Royal Arcanum and the Elks.

"The FIRESIDE PHILOSOPHER"

Funny thing about knowledge is: The more you know, the less you know you know.

It's easy to bear other folks troubles with Christian fortitude.

The earth is turning on its axis while it's going around the sun. How can a fellow tell which way he's heading?

They say: "Everything comes to him who waits"—yes, if he lives long enough.

Don't we like to tell other folks what they ought to do with their money!

Purely Personal
SAFE INVESTMENT

"Look here," said Donovan. "I know of a better way to invest five thousand dollars. Alicanna preferred is selling for twenty-five. Why not get two hundred shares and hold it 'till it hits fifty?"

"Not a bad idea," I replied. "Then we could invest our profits in real estate, say in Florida or California."

"That's right. And we could build a bunch of houses—about a hundred of 'em for—well, just for argument's sake, let's say ten thousand dollars apiece. Then we could sink our net profits from the houses in more stocks and bonds. Why, we'd be millionaires in no time. We'd double our money, we'd —"

"Supposin' we lost it?" I interrupted.

"Not a chance," said Donovan, optimistically, "not a chance! Think of owning a yacht like J. P. Morgan's and a mansion like Vanderbilt's. My Lord! we'd have Broadway at our feet and Park avenue at our elbow. We could visit Paris, London—why, we could visit every capital city in the world! How about it?"

"Well, I'm kind of skeptical, Donovan," I replied, a bit leary of his enthusiasm and the imaginary fortune he was accumulating for us. "Five thousand dollars isn't a penny, you know. It's a lot of money, and if Alicanna preferred should hit bottom —"

"Nonsense," said Donovan. "It's one of the safest investments in Wall street. And anyway, old girl, we'll never get anywhere if we don't take a chance once in a while."

"You're right, but —"

"Of course I'm right. Come on, don't let cold feet keep you from winning a fortune."

"Okay, I'm for it," I said. "Let's go!"

"Swell," replied Donovan jumping from his chair. "Now all we gotta do is find someone who'll lend us the five thousand."

Patrick, scoutmaster; George Bright, assistant scoutmaster; William Terry, junior assistant scoutmaster; Walter Garabrant and Harvey W. Mumford Jr., senior patrol leaders; Joseph Caskey and Edward Dunham, patrol leaders; and William Fehon and Donald Richards, assistant patrol leaders.

The troop is planning to spend next week-end at Camp Mohican, near Blairstown.

Curtis R. Burnett, president of Robert Treat Council, Boy Scouts of America, which has supervision of scouting in Newark, Irvington and Belleville, has approved, and the Sea Scout program for older boys has been officially launched, and becomes a recognized individual unit of the general movement.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of a council committee, as follows: Robert L. Hatfield of Montclair, former scout commissioner, who will be commodore; A. L. Brett of Newark, and Homer C. Zink of Belleville, who will act as a policy forming group in this project.

Sea Scouting is designed to reach scouts who are at least 15 years of age and have attained the first class rank. The program teaches marine lore and history, navigation and marine spike seamanship, rowing, sailing and general nautical practices. There are four ranks in Sea Scouting: Apprentice, ordinary, able seaman and quartermaster. The last named division is difficult to attain because it involves considerable knowledge of navigation.

The local sea scouts have applied for their charter. Paul G. P. Scholtz is skipper, Raymond H. Patrick is first mate, and William Meeker and William Terry are coxswains, each of the last named is in charge of a crew of seven "seamen." They meet on Friday evenings either at the "parade grounds" (Christ Church parish house) or in "the ship's cabin" (basement room at 10 Oak street.)

Scott Urges Payment Of Veterans' Bonus At V. F. W. Meeting Plan Would Place Currency In Circulation, "Vets" Are Told

"Payment of adjusted service certificates, as advocated by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, is possible without the issuance of 'flat' money or 'Printing Press' currency. There are sufficient gold resources on hand in the United States to increase the currency by more than 50 per cent, according to Federal Reserve figures recently announced in an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C."

This statement, made by past commander H. J. Scott of Younginger Post was the keynote of an address on "The Veteran and the National Recovery," given by Scott at the meeting of the post last Thursday night.

"There is just $49,895,186.95 owed to the veterans in the State of New Jersey by the United States. The Veterans of Foreign Wars have been advocating for years an increased amount of currency in circulation. Why is not this debt paid to the Jersey veterans so they can pay their debts and circulate the currency in this state?"

"We have maintained that there is sufficient gold backing for every new currency note that would have to be created to pay off this debt to the veterans. Now it is officially confirmed by Federal Reserve figures which disclose that the system can issue nearly $3,000,000,000 in new Federal Reserve notes, every dollar of which would have a gold backing well above the 40 per cent required by law.

"This controlled inflation of currency constitutes one of the principal objectives which the V. F. W. will seek during the second session of the Seventy-third Congress, now at Washington," Scott stated.

"The news dispatch which brought this information from Washington also contained the statement that the Federal Reserve system is ready to increase the currency in circulation as rapidly as new note issues can be pushed into the channels of industry and commerce through outlets that are clogged at the present time," Scott said.

"In our advocacy of immediate cash payment of these certificates, the V. F. W. offers a solution to this problem. Our plan not only would be in line with controlled currency inflation, but it offers a thoroughly sound and practical method of obtaining the widest possible distribution of the proposed issue of money. The payment to three and one-half million veterans in the United States of the $2,500,000 owed them on their certificates would immediately place the greater part of that money in country-wide circulation. It would stimulate and refresh every phase of industry and business."

V. F. W. Snap Shots - Leven, Alden, Costello, Weston and Scott broke out into society last Saturday night by attending the Progress Club dance.

Mike Maffia and Donald Kurtz were elected trustees. Norman Collard was elected delegate to the Essex County Council.

On January 28, the January Birthday Group of the Auxiliary will present a "Manless Wedding" in the auditorium. It promises to be a side-splitter. So if you want a good laugh, be on hand that evening and witness the wedding ceremony of a uxorious bride, and a shrinking groom, the company of interested notable guests, such as Amelia Earhart, Kate Smith, Ed Wynn, and others. Absolutely—yes—in person. Everyone of them! Tickets on sale at the door Friday evening, January 28.

Wise growth in a community is better than striving for mere bigness. The Irvington Herald feels.

"With rare exceptions, American communities large and small aspire for larger population and greater territorial size. Among cities and towns and even hamlets of nearly equal size there exists keen competition. The big city would like to annex its small neighbors. Newark would like to gobble up Irvington.

"There are advantages in urban bigness. The more people the more business, and the more business the greater prosperity for all. The larger the city the greater its cultural advantages and the more numerous and varied its sources of amusement and recreation. For many of the best things in life the people of the smaller communities must go to the big cities.

"But there is also a price to pay for the distinction of urban bigness. As a city grows in size and population its people become more and more like so many scurrying ants in a disturbed ant hill. Homes become tenements. The few blocks between homes and place of employment become miles. Privacy vanishes, the cost of living keeps pace with the growth of population, and even the pure air and quiet are taken away. It is as important to the community to guard against the disadvantages of bigness as it is to strive for bigness. The place which grows wisely need not regret its greater size."

The Bloomfield Independent Press urges replanting to replace elms destroyed by disease.

"More than 2,300 elm trees have recently been cut down in New Jersey, according to a report from the United States Department of Agriculture's emergency headquarters in the East Orange Post Office. They were elms already infected by the Dutch blight or which had rotten places in them likely to harbor the small beetle, scolytus multistriatus, which is now believed to be the carrier of the disease from tree to tree. "Much hope is held out that the disease which has taken 90 per cent of the elms in Europe and which was first discovered in this country last summer will be checked. Most of the blighted trees are in New Jersey and all of them are believed to be within a 30-mile radius of the Statue of Liberty.

More than 1,000 men, most of them employed under the CWA program, are at work in New Jersey, New York and Connecticut, 350 of them in this state under the supervision of 75 technicians, who declare that private property owners need have no reluctance in allowing them to examine their trees—they will not prune or take down any that do not show signs of the blight or the beetle.

"Since last summer about 500 elms have been cut down in Essex County, several dozen in Bloomfield and Glen Ridge. Naturally drastic measures must be resorted to in order to prevent the more rapid spread of the disease with its inevitable destruction of practically all elms. But a movement should now be started to have these trees replaced by other shade trees, not class-definitely whether the disease has been stopped. Perhaps the Department of Agriculture, the state, and local shade tree commissions can co-operate in filling in the bare spots now made in our towns by the removal of great old trees."

The West Hudson Record finds that the CWA is removing families from the relief lists:

"Tabulations from all counties of New Jersey just compiled at Emergency Relief headquarters show that between November 30 and December 15 a decline of 41,733 occurred in the number of persons aided. The comparative figures were 395,429 and 363,696. In this decrease for the half month were included 4,605 families.

"The drop was undoubtedly due very largely to the Civil Works Administration program in the State. During the first half of December this program was effectively getting under way. It had been initiated only November 20. The impulse since has been so accelerated that last week 99,445 men, women were on the CWA payroll. The number this week, it is expected, will be still greater.

"The recession in relief cases would have been larger but for the addition of new ones. Between November 15 and December 15, these numbered 21,963.

"An increase of cases after October had been anticipated by the State Emergency Relief Administration. Before the CWA program was put into operation, the growth was expected to be even greater than during the early winter of 1932-33 because more families were constantly reaching the end of their resources.

"Since the launching of the Civil Works program there has been a large increase in applications for relief. This is probably due to the wrong impression that the only way to get employment is to be registered in the relief rolls. The Emergency Relief Administration is asking careful investigation of all new cases in order to be sure that only deserving ones are accepted.

"For the first half of December, relief expenditures were $1,143,244.79. This represented $5.33 per family, $1.34 per person. In addition to the food, fuel, medical aid, clothing and shelter included in the State expenditures, families also received supplies of surplus foods from the Federal government."

The Monmouth American urges prompt steps to end the evil of lynching:

"It is a source of pride to thinking Jerseymen that Senator Hamilton F. Kean has taken the lead in Congress in warning upon the rising tide of lynching lawlessness by sponsoring a bill to make the offense a Federal one and a capital crime. The Senator has correctly appraised an alarming condition and taken the initiative in seeking to have it dealt with with a firm hand. He has made the subject a major one for Congressional consideration this winter, and it is not to be wondered at that his quick perception and sound reasoning have earned him encomiums from all parts of the country.

"He does not exaggerate the peril when he points out that this violence is a bold defiance of orderly government and might grow to the point where it would destroy American society and institutions. The crime itself is essentially American. In England a mob would as soon charge the fixed bayonets of the King's Guard as attempt to lay waste to a prisoner of the CWA. But here trees

"Lynchings affront the government of the United States. They bring down upon our nation the ridicule of the world for countenancing this "vile form of collective murder." They only continue because of the impression that they may be perpetrated with impunity. When a Governor actually applauds and defends mob lawlessness and when the number of these crimes suddenly sears, it is apparent that leaving to local governments the remedy is indefensible, but that the Federal government must act.

"Senator Kean, an outstanding figure in the business and financial world, very wisely stresses the economic angle, pointing out with clarity that unless mobs are curbed "we shall never be able to bring back prosperity. YOUR PET and ITS CARE

by
CAMERON C. W. ARGUE, D. V. M.
Essex County Veterinary Hospital,
Orange, N. J.

The winter season brings with it the idea of having a pet to live the long indoor hours. In choosing a pet the principal thing is to get a healthy one. Puppy markets often foster malnutrition and disease due to the conditions under which the animals are kept. Pets are often sold before they show any symptoms that the layman would recognize.

For this reason it is a wise precaution to have your new pet examined by a competent veterinarian in order to be sure that he is not diseased, and to secure information regarding his diet and care. Like an infant, the beginning of an animal's life means much to his future well-being.

Puppy Hints

Of course it is impossible to give complete advice as to diet and care without having seen the animal and knowing its individual peculiarities. There are a few points, however, that may be followed in all cases.

Feed a puppy often and not much at a time; its stomach should not be distended after a feeding. Never give a puppy anything cold, as it takes so little to chill their delicate bodies.

A dog should not be bathed until he is about four months old, and then care should be taken that he is properly dried. Provide a comfortable place for the animal to sleep where he is away from draughts and dampness. Give a puppy plenty of exercise. As soon as it is old enough it should be taken outside for exercise in the sunshine, but take care that it does not lie on the ground after frisking about. Secure a large knuckle bone for the pup to chew on to satisfy that craving that comes at teething.

Housebreaking

As for the matter of housebreaking start training your puppy immediately upon its arrival to its new home. The trick in housebreaking a pet is to start right away. The best method is to take the puppy outside first thing in the morning after each feeding and finally before its bedtime.

Apartment dwellers find it convenient to train their pets to a shallow box lined with papers. No matter which method you choose, the little animals readily grasp the meaning of what they are supposed to do, and can be housebroken within a few days. In some cases slight punishment such as scolding or using a folded paper to spank the offender will shorten the period of training.

In training a puppy to come when its name is called, try this method: put the little fellow in a corner and stand about five feet away. Call its name. If it runs either right or left, spank it gently and set it in the corner again. Then when it comes to you pet it to show your approval and repeat the process. The pup will soon learn that its name means "come."

Send me a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of The Belleville News if you have any questions concerning your pet. Remember that your dog looks on you as a god. Return his esteem by treating him as intelligently as you can.

Editor The News:

While the sun moves a little more to the west every evening, now setting a little before five o'clock—4:53 Monday evening, the 19th—hopes of the advent of the spring revive or strengthen. These hopes are partly natural, partly circumstantial. They are natural, because no one likes short days with their preponderance of artificial illumination over natural; circumstantial, because we expect the lifting of the depression. Hope, which springs eternal in the human breast, will not be thwarted. President Roosevelt is trying his wizardry on gold. Like a good cook with the mixing of the pancake batter, he is giving us a different proportion on the gold the dollar should contain. From that song of the cook book, "One pound of pancake flour, two cups of milk, one spoonful of melted butter, one spoon of molasses, stir well, thin or thicken with milk," we turn to the Presidential chant: "69 per cent gold, 11 per cent copper, 15 per cent silver, 5 per cent white metal, thin or thicken with the imagination."

Geel! Some job being President of the United States. Mayor Reinheimer would naturally shove such a job over upon Director Rife. He'd say to him "that's not my job." Wouldn't you, also? But you see, the President of the U. S. A. is the very point of the wedge. Oh, yes, he may have the help of the very best advisers, but after all, they make their reports and leave the President to take the responsibility of deciding. The depression may lift in honor of the spring's coming, again it may not.

But, resolved not to be too downcast, and knowing that the spring and its robins will come, we cheer up with the thought of their certainty. By golly, life is sweet, isn't it? To some the sweetness of life—life in the spring—is concerned somewhat with the cost of license plates and money for gasoline; and some "boot" money, in case we trade in the old car on the purchase of a new one. But there have been found philosophers who construct something that will run out of the junk yards, and fare forth to abstract and endanger traffic at hazardous places on the highway. We object to the ten dollar de luxe plan. Some of the motor vehicles certainly deserve that veneration which is the due of age for they look older than the history of automotive locomotion is long. They would pass for a half-century in appearance out of a thirty-three year totality.

But another class of persons looking out for the coming of spring are only incidentally concerned with the automotive aspect of it. The season in itself, is what they think of. The lilacs emporium, the garden escapes, the "voice of the turtle heard in the land," the sprouting of green vegetable life, the tulip, the jonquil, the daffodil, which on a warmish spring day makes you wonder why the branches of the trees do not afford foliage; the sight of the "first" robin, the cheeping of chicks, the queer cry of the Guinea hen, as she drags her little ones to death through the rough grass—few of the darlings surviving their tenth day of life owing to the disinclination of the mother to hover her brood sufficiently. These make up early spring impressions.

Let me finish on the guinea fowl chord. Apart from being a little hot the egg of the guinea hen is nearly as edible as that of the domestic hen. The flesh is not so dry as that of the quail or pheasant. They take to the wing, hence might afford sport with the shot gun. Few are able to distinguish sex in the guinea fowl. The males have their combat, fighting in what the fanciers of game fowl would call the "wheel" fashion. You see one pursuing another. It goes on so long that you turn away in disgust. Your patience might be rewarded by seeing a sizzling shuffle with the pursuer thereafter becoming the pursued. Having no spurs, the fight ends with exhaustion. Unless you study the paired fighters closely you are unable to discern wherein they differ from their fellows, but could you bag one of them and pen him in a small dark outhouse you would after a while find the vicinity visited by another guinea fowl whose cry would be "Buckwheat. Buckwheat." While the captive would answer, "Chit. Chit."

Whilst you have him is the time to fasten a leg band on his shank, and forever distinguish his sex. His cry of "chit-chit" would seem to voice his recognition of his wife being too great a talker, as the drake's almost voiceless cry in comparison to the duck's loud "quack-quack" would intimate that he wanted to convey a confidential communication and not tell it to the world. A thorough scrutiny of the guinea cock will show his head to be more heavily helmeted than that of his mate. Leon See, commenting upon the cruelty of boxing, says that the human head and face are too delicate to sustain hard blows, therefore he planned that Carnera should be saved from suffering them. Probably at one time the stars in their courses fought for the guinea cowl and endowed him with a helmet, such as nature has never grown for "man that is born of a woman."

Yours respectfully,
FREDERICK A. HEISLEY.

PRaise for RIEPE

Editor Belleville News:

I would like to write a few lines to compliment the district leader in the Fourth District of the Fourth Ward of Belleville, which happens to be my district. He is Henry D. Riepe Jr. of 84 Wilber street, who was only elected to the term of district leader last May and has done more for our community in the few months that he has held office than has ever been done in the past. I believe that credit should be given to those who deserve credit and I firmly believe that Mr. Riepe deserves all the credit in the world for his honest integrity, willingness to work and his friendliness and helpfulness to his neighbors. No task or favor is too great for Mr. Riepe to undertake in helping his neighbors whether they are friends of his or not and whether he knows them or not. Mr. Riepe has been known to put himself out for perfect strangers so that he would be able to do them a good turn and gain their friendship.

For instance, it was through the hard work of Mr. Riepe that we now have bus service, which although it is not quite what we want, still is a whole lot better than it has been in a long time. He followed this bus line through from one meeting of the town to another and from Belleville to Nutley and back until we now have pretty fair bus service.

At the present time he is conferring with Congressman Fred A. Hartley on mail service for Melwex, Charles and Hill streets which do not get mail delivered to the doors of the various residents. Mr. Riepe has been working on this project for the past six months and more, and I firmly believe that it will not be long before the residents on these streets will have their mail delivered to their various homes instead of going to the post office for it or asking some kind neighbor to get it for them from the postman.

This is, as Mr. Riepe claims, a detriment to the Town of Belleville as we cannot rent or sell our homes in this section when we tell the prospective purchasers that they have to go to the post office for their mail.

I feel that in commending him in this way that I am only doing what a lot of others in our neighborhood would like to do but either have not the time to do it or for some reason or other are holding back for a while so that they may commend him for all of his honest endeavors all at once.

Thanking you for the use of space in your paper to compliment one of our honest, rising young citizens,

I am,
Respectfully yours,
DAN MEROLA.

Belleville Library Notes

Of special interest this week at the library is the Western Exhibit. Students of the sophomore English classes at Belleville High School have used "The Virginian," by Owen Wister, which they have been studying for their subject.

Arranged on a table in the library reference room are notebooks, dolls, sketches, and other articles, relating to the "Virginian," and its Western setting.

A group of dolls dressed in the fashion of the time of the story are contributed by Rita Rackett. Shirley Howell presents a doll dressed as Molly Stark Wood, heroine of "The Virginian." A cowboy hat, kerchief and two gun holders are part of the exhibit.

A beautiful water color portrait of the heroine has been painted by Ned Irish. There are three pencil sketches of characters in "The Virginian," drawn by Muriel Ochsner. One of the most interesting parts

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. IN FIRST PLACE ALONE

A N up-hill battle, that started with a close defeat up at Overbrook in the second game of the season, finally was rewarded, as Belleville's Essex County Basketball League team defeated Bloomfield for the second time this season.

The climb was made all the more difficult through the fact that the Bell-boys had absolutely no help from the other teams in the league. They had to turn back Bloomfield in both games of the first half-season. And that's just what they did!

Immediately following that close one-point win at the Recreation Center, some weeks ago, which put the two teams in a tie for the lead, there was some question as to whether or not Belleville rated. A surprising lack of ability at the fifteen-foot, foul-shooting stripe was the only disastrous side of a powerful Bloomfield offense. Many were of the opinion that the latter team lost that night.

So, as if to quell any such thoughts, the Kennymen outdid themselves in conclusively showing their superiority over the Lyceum club, last week. Their outstanding feat, the deciding feature of the battle, blanking Bloomfield 9-0 in the second quarter, was a real exhibition of basketball. And they even carried it into the second half, before they were finally halted.

A SECOND HALF CLUB

ONE feature of the local club's play all season long has been its ability to come from behind to win.

It is a well-known fact that seasoned campaigners are usually slow starters and strong finishers. If that be the case, the Belleville squad can take its rank as the most seasoned of troupers.

Montclair, Bloomfield, Overbrook, among others, have felt the sting of their rapier-like last-minute thrusts, that have been responsible for Belleville victories in the face of seemingly inevitable defeat.

Now with less than two weeks of the first half of the schedule to be completed, and the local lads a game to the good, a first half championship seems highly probable for the local club.

he winning of the first half will mean Belleville representation in the championship finals at the close of the season between the first and second half winners.

"GUNZIE"

THOUGH Captain Parsells, DiFillipo, Levine, Wisniewsky, O'Beirne, McGuire, Bohrer and Knowles have all figured in Belleville's many victories to date, we must hand the palm to Johnnie Gunzelman, at center.

"Gunzie," as he is known to his mates, is as hard a worker as there is on the team and a star in his own right. We have yet to see the game in which the opposing center has outplayed him. Game after game he manages to hold his opposing pivot man to a low score, and tally plenty of points, himself.

It was his sensational last-minutes field goal that won the first Bloomfield game. It was he again who accounted for points that virtually pulled the Montclair game out of the fire, and his inspired field goal shooting in the second winning fight at Bloomfield was the spark that touched off the Belleville blast in that one.

In almost every game he has been either high scorer or at least way up in the scoring column.

The center position is usually the key one in a basketball game, and judging by the high class work being accomplished at that important post for Belleville by Gunzelman, it's small wonder that they are where they are.

WILLIAMS ASSOCIATION ACTIVE

AS the W. H. Williams Association basketball quintet went into undisputed possession of first place in the Recreation Commission's League race, Monday night, the many sports activities of that club are recalled.

Managed by Will Noonan, the Williamsmen have a first class baseball nine in the local American Legion Twilight League in the summer time.

This winter, there are no less than three teams representing Commissioner Williams' Association.

Besides his senior team in the Monday night league, there is a junior team in the Wednesday night loop that is going places. The third team is the bowling quintet, which rolls Monday nights in the American Legion Bowling circuit.

Four teams and three sports are represented in the activities of this association.

Bell-boy NetstersSuffer Their Worst*Defeat In Years*Title-Bound Passaic Five*Administers 57-14*Slashing

A Belleville High basketball team suffered its worst defeat in years, Friday afternoon, as it served as just another stepping stone for Passaic High's title-bound netsters, at the local high school court. The final score of 57-14 gives a true picture of the complete mastery exercised by the whirling, sharp-shooting Woolen City lads.
