Local Man's Letter Shows Seriousness Of Drought In Middle Western States

Locusts Have Hay Fever; Residents Catch Fish Baked And Ready To Serve, "Baldy" Davis Writes From Kansas City

With the entire world and the New York metropolitan area in particular looking askance upon the severe drought that is turning the middle west into one large clay, sunbaked inferno readers of the News can glean a first hand picture of the severeness of the conditions there from a letter received yesterday from "Baldy" Davis, former Nutleyite, who now resides in Kansas City.

Addressed to the editor of this paper, Davis' letter vividly portrays weather conditions so terrible there that President Roosevelt has stepped into the breach in an endeavor to provide relief for stricken farmers and to assure adequate food supplies for the nation's consumers.

Continual Turkish Bath

"We have been in one continual Turkish bath for weeks," Davis says. Writing in humorous fashion, despite the seriousness of the drought, the former Nutleyite displays that typical American outlook on life that is the envy and wonder of the world.

"Lawns, there are none, and to look at the trees you would think it was early fall," his letter reads.

"No birds, no bugs, no flies. Only locusts and the dryness has given them hay fever. Springs, ponds and lakes are drying up. Some are absolutely dry for the first time in their history."

Catch Baked Fish

"Residents here fish by walking over the beds of the lakes and rivers. Then they pick up a cake and break it open and there is the fish all baked and ready to serve.

"We'll have to get out the old red flannels if we ever get down to the 80 degree temperatures and less that you are having. It was 106 in the office all day yesterday and the same now. Street temperatures are considerably higher."

Thermometer readings enclosed in Davis' letter show that during the last two months the mercury hovered considerably over 100 degrees on an average.

Running as high as 110 only on a few occasions did it drop below the century mark.

Housewives Stock Up Here

Meanwhile the Federal administration continued to purchase cattle from western ranches and ship them east to graze in fertile pastures. President Roosevelt asked Secretary Wallace and Aubrey Williams, acting United States relief administrator, to work out a system to permit Federal purchase of surplus foodstuffs and feed which might otherwise go to waste.

In Essex County housewives continued to stock up on groceries and edibles fearing a rise in prices that would dig deeply into their pocket-books. Reliable sources here point out that butter may sell for 50 cents a pound in less than a month. The price of eggs is considerably higher.

Local Man Arranges Horseshoe Tournament

H. J. Foote, of 48 Essex street, is the representative for the Western Electric Kearny Works Technical Branch on the Wekearnyan horseshoe committee which has made arrangements for the annual tryouts which began Monday at the plant. The try-out are held to determine the flight contestants in singles and doubles. They will be terminated in a final clash for the works championship. The tourney will be played on the works ground.

Honeman To Race Against Tandem Team On Sunday Night

Grimm And Peden Will Ride In Attempt To Defeat Sprint Champion

Bill Honeman, the bicycle champion of America, in a class by himself among sprinters, will attempt to beat two men on a bicycle Sunday night at the Nutley Velodrome. Manager Harry Mendel says it is impossible to find one rider to cope with Honeman's speed and on Sunday night, he will match Honeman against Willie Grimm and Torchy Peden on a tandem.

A race like this has never been attempted at the Nutley track, and in fact there hasn't been a similar one in New Jersey for more than twenty-five years. The last race of this kind was when Frank L. Kramer rode a match against Frank Cavanaugh and Freddie Hill at the old Velodrome. Hill and Cavanaugh were successful in beating Kramer, but Honeman is confident he will lick Grimm and Peden.

Alfred Letourner of France; Franco Georgetti, of Italy; Gerard Debaets of Belgium; Franz Deulberg, of Germany; Tino Reboli, of Newark and Charley Jaeger, of Flemington, will meet in a 50 mile motor-paced championship race, the sixteenth of the series of twenty-five races to decide the title. Letourner is still leading in the battle for the title, closely pursued by Franco Georgetti, Gerard Debaets and Franz Deulberg.

The professional riders Sunday night will meet in a ten mile open, with a sprint every mile for points. There will also be a miss and out Class B invitation and a handicap race. The amateurs will clash in two races.

Manager Harry Mendel has cabled to Europe to see if he can land Joe Scherens, of Belgium, who won the world's sprint championship for the third successive time. If Mendel is successful in getting Scherens he will put him up against Honeman in a series of match races.

Greater Show Season Heralded At Capitol

Ben Weshner, Manager, Has Galaxy Of Stars In Pictures

Greater Show Season opens at the Capitol Theater, today with the greatest array of pictures and stars in the history of Hollywood. Always a leader in being the first to bring the best pictures to its patrons, the Capitol Theater will excel itself in this respect during Greater Show Season, Ben Weshner, manager, announced.

The first program offered by the management will be Shirley Temple in "Baby Take a Bow," and Joe E. Brown in "The Circus Clown."

One of the real treats of the year will be afforded the patrons of the Capitol Theater when "Here Comes The Navy" opens at the theater. This picture starring and teaming James Cagney and Pat O'Brien with the glorious Gloria Stuart as heart interest has played to capacity houses wherever it has been shown.

It is the first real and authentic picture of the United States Navy in action and was taken with the full cooperation of the U. S. Navy, more than 3,000 officers and men having participated in its making.

It shows the fleet in action during battle maneuvers off the Pacific Coast, closeups of target practice and life aboard the U. S. S. Arizona as well as on the giant Macon, in the San Diego Naval Training School and in the Bremerton, Washington, Navy Yards.

In addition to those superlative attractions the Capitol Theater will offer the best selections from Hollywood's greatest studios. Among these will be "Dames," with Joan Blondell, Dick Powell, Hugh Herbert and Ruby Keeler, and "British Agent," with Kay Francis and Leslie Howard, two of the outstanding pictures of the 1934-1935 season from the Warner Brothers studios.

Cost Of Traffic Lights Scored By Mayor

Cites $7,000 Expense In Washington Avenue, A State Road

The cost to Belleville of maintaining street and traffic lights in Washington avenue, a state highway, was hit Monday night by Mayor William H. Williams, director of revenue and finance.

The Mayor said it cost the town $7,000 a year to maintain the lights and recommended that the Board of Commissioners seek to recover part of the outlay. The cost of installing the traffic lights and their maintenance, the Mayor stated, "was also borne by the town."

The discussion arose when Louis Noll presented a petition, with twenty-five signers, requesting a traffic light at Mill street and Washington avenue.

"The business people near this corner," Noll said, "have asked for this protection many times, but we have had no action and are told the State Highway Commission is not in favor of a light here."

Commissioner Gerard said he had been in touch with state officials, had a traffic check made at the corner and believed favorable action might be expected soon.

Commissioner Clark said that necessary equipment to install the lights was on hand and Commissioner Waters suggested that they be placed "and then see what the state can do about it."

Gerard was asked to again confer with the State Highway Commission and seek immediate approval of the project.

Gerard Spurs Drive Against Traffic Foes

Director Lists Violations Police Will Be On Lookout For

Continuing his drive against habitual parkers and traffic violators, George R. Gerard, director of public safety, yesterday warned culprits to obey local and state laws governing the highways.

In his edict Commissioner Gerard also called attention to particular infractions. The statement of the director and his deputy, John M. Rainie, follows:

"Two weeks ago we published a statement concerning the enforcement of the state and local laws and regulations governing motor traffic. This we did because of numerous complaints from citizens of Belleville, because of reports from the Police Department and from our own observation. We repeat these statements so as to give ample warning to violators with the hope that life and property may be safeguarded to the fullest extent possible within our town."

"The particular infractions we call attention to are:

"1.—Parking at night without lights and all night parking.

"2.—Double and irregular parking anywhere on our highways, but notably at particular places which were listed in our previous statement.

"3.—Observance of the rule where there is a "No Parking" zone.

"4.—Drive through red lights or making right turns thereon, except where there is a green arrow.

"5.—Speeding on some of our "Through Streets."

"In addition to these particular infractions we also call attention to the "One Hour Parking" areas which have been recommended to us by Police Chief Flynn:

"Washington avenue from the Newark line to Rutgers street on both sides.

"Union avenue from Greylock parkway to Agnes street on the east side.

"Union avenue from Kathryn street to Overlook avenue on the east side.

"Union avenue from Jerusalem street to a point 200 feet north on the west side.

"Union avenue from Belleville avenue to William street on both sides.

"Belleville avenue from Washington avenue to Washington street on the south side.

"Belleville avenue from Stephen street to Main street on the south side.

"Franklin street from the Newark line to the Bloomfield line on both sides.

Bloomfield avenue from the Newark line to the Bloomfield line on both sides.

"Finally we are expecting the members of the Police Department to be courteous and to act with reasonable discretion in these matters, but where these violations are flagrant or without the perpetrators may eva Oremu und excuse the perpetrators may expect action on their cases."

Flames Damage House, Scene Of Recent Shooting

Fire caused slight damage Saturday night to a house at 69 Honiss street, owned by Mrs. Emma R. Jackson, Negro. Four Negro families live in the building.

The house was the scene of a shooting a week ago Sunday, when three men fired four bullets through the door of an apartment, wounding Nicholas Coles, Negro, in the leg. One man has been arrested in connection with the shooting.

Belmar Looks Forward To State Legion Convention

Governor Moore And Other Celebrities Will Be Present

The Belmar State Convention Committee of the American Legion sees every indication that the popular seashore town will be flooded with Legionnaires during the period of the annual convention, September 6, 7 and 8.

The housing committee is already being swamped with requests for rooms and hotel reservations both by mail and telephone. This committee is working virtually day and night in seeing that all requests are attended to.

So much business has piled up the quarters of Belmar Chamber of Commerce at 706 Eighth avenue that an additional room has been acquired in which to conduct it.

A preliminary filip will be given to the convention in the form of a night baseball game Wednesday night August 15, at Memorial Park, the home of the Belmar Braves and the most perfectly lighted night ball field in the state. On this occasion the Cuban Stars will cross bats with the Braves—one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the country.

Fire Chief Ed Wynn of Texaco fame and "The Perfect Fool" will be there in person, as also will Jimmy Fox, home run star of the Philadelphia Athletics. Governor A. Harry Moore will be the guest of honor and will be accompanied by his personal staff and a number of men of prominence in the state.

The entertainment committee is seeing to it that not a minute's slow-up in sport and pastime will occur for either the youngsters or the grown-ups. Legionnaires have the reputation of being lovers of clean, wholesome fun and exercise, and with this in mind they have prepared a program for the boys and girls to disport themselves in the ocean for the entertainment.

Complainant Fails To Appear In Court

Bench Warrant Issued For Man Wounded In Shooting

Recorder Everett B. Smith issued a bench warrant Monday for the arrest of Nicholas Coles, Negro, of 80 South 14th street, Newark, who failed to appear in Police Court as complainant in a shooting in the Silver Lake section August 5.

Peter De Falco, 49 Kentner street, Bloomfield, is held by police under $1,500 bail, as one of three men who fired four shots through the door of a house at 69 Honiss street, wounding Coles in the leg.

De Falco and his attorney, Thomas D'Avella of Belleville, were in court. When Coles failed to appear to press the shooting charge Monday, Recorder Smith asked those present in the court room if they knew of any threats having been made against him.

Receiving no reply, he asked De Falco directly if the later had seen or talked to Coles since the shooting. De Falco denied that he had and Smith ordered a warrant sworn out for Coles' arrest to appear in court next Monday morning. De Falco's bail was continued.

De Falco's two alleged companions at the time of the shooting have not been apprehended.

Clan Stewart Wins Bowling Championship

Dancers Must Seek Taverns With 1,000 Square Feet Of Space, Board Decides

Ordinance Which Was Opposed By Tavern Keepers, Is Passed After A Month Of Discussion

After a month of discussion, an ordinance, prohibiting dancing in a spot less than 1,000 square feet of floor space, was passed by the board of commissioners at its regular Tuesday night session.

Opposed by the Belleville Tavern Keepers' Association, which was represented by Theodore M. Bellet, the measure had been the subject of considerable controversy since its first reading on July 10. An about face on their opposition to the law was indicated by the tavern owners however, at the meeting when the ordinance was passed without a dissenting voice from the commission or audience.

As the bill reads, it will govern all public dance halls, ball rooms and skating rinks. An annual fee of $50 will be charged all applicants for a license to conduct such a place. First offenders, under the ordinance, will be fined $100. That figure will be doubled for second offenders.

Also passing second and final reading was an ordinance that closes down on all future applicants for retail plenary consumption licenses and distribution licenses in town. Broached by Commissioner Gerard, the ordinance prohibits issuance of additional licenses.

Previous to the passing of the measure, a conditional license was granted Samuel Vuono, of 190 Passaic avenue. He is now construct'g, at the address, a building that will house his tavern. Issuance of the permit will be withheld until the board can inspect the completed project.

A report of William C. Knapp, tax collector, shows receipts for the month of July to total $126,262.56.

On recommendation of Mayor William H. Williams a resolution was passed asking the State Emergency Relief Administration to grant Belleville $52,700 for poor relief for September. The resolution pointed out that 1,193 families and 5,635 individuals will probably be aided in that period.

To overcome an unforeseen expenditure for relief in May the commission voted to request of the state a special grant of $17,426.24.

The board decided to renew temporary bonds totalling $57,000 that will mature on August 28. While Edward King, tax searcher is on vacation from August 18 to September Harry Ward will act in that capacity, the Mayor announced.

He also appointed Anthony R. Stefano of 2 Cedar Hill avenue, a stable from the Second Ward for a period of one year.

Pyrotechnics, according to a measure introduced by Public Safety Director Gerard, will be banned when handled by experienced operators with the official sanction of the commission. The board, the ordinance says, will grant permits for their only for celebration of holidays.

Excise Board Meets To Discuss Charges

Sidewalk Cafe Must Close At 11:30 P. M. Under New Ordinance

Under an ordinance passed two weeks ago the sidewalk cafe maintained by the Legion Chateau closes at 11:30 every night, the Belleville Liquor Control Board decided Tuesday night.

Enforcement of the ordinance was ordered by Mayor William H. Williams and George R. Gerard, director of public safety, when Thomas Greaves, who lives in a house adjacent to the American Legion property, complained of excessive noise at late hours.

A hearing on the complaint will be held Monday afternoon, August 27, at 5:30. Owners of the tavern were represented at the excise board meeting by W. H. K. Davey, local attorney. The five commissioners comprise the Liquor Control Board.

Four complaints against taverns here were lodged against their owners by police. After discussion the commissioners decided to serve the proprietors with notice of the charges and request that they appear at the August 27 meeting for hearings.

According to police, Lester Verdon, owner of the Verdon Tavern, Washington avenue and Cleveland street, admitted a customer to his place at 11:45 on the morning of Sunday, August 5. Similar charges were lodged against William Neary, who has a place on Washington avenue, and Enrico Corre, of Belmont avenue, Silver Lake section.

Recorder Smith Talks On Crime Prevention

That this country is fifty years behind the times in crime prevention, is the opinion of Recorder Everett B. Smith, who spoke at the meeting of the Joseph King Association at the Davidson and King real estate offices at 414 Washington avenue Saturday night.

"While the standards of crime detection and punishment are constantly increasing," the recorder said, "we still are lagging far behind in the science of crime prevention. Not until we strike at its roots can we successfully weed out this problem."

Plans were discussed for an outing within the next two months.

Whisky, Melon, Flashlight Are Stolen By Robber

The home of Joseph L. Jordan at 25 Nulton street, was entered Saturday night. Jordan told police the thief took a pint of rye whisky, a melon and a flashlight.

Warren H. Rinn of 298 Greylock parkway reported an attempt had been made to enter his home, and Arthur W. Adams of 136 DeWitt avenue told police a man had been loitering near his house several nights.

Four Hurt As Auto Is Hit By Trolley

Traffic Held Up For Half Hour At Rutgers Street

Four persons were injured, one seriously, Saturday night when a trolley car and auto collided, forcing the car into another auto. Traffic in Washington avenue was tied up for more than a half hour and several hundred pedestrians gathered at the intersection of that thoroughfare and Rutgers street.

According to local police a roadster driven by Michael O'Neill of 226 Sixty-first street, Brooklyn, in which Mrs. O'Neill, B. W. Nelson of 250 Fourth avenue, and Carl Horgan of 226 Thirty-sixth street, also of Brooklyn, were riding was struck as it came out of Rutgers street.

Horgan refused to go to St. Michael's Hospital with the others. He became abusive, police said, and was booked on a disorderly charge. At the order of Dr. Martin Meehan, he was removed to the hospital by force. Police said all the occupants of O'Neill's car had been drinking.

The car was rammed into an auto driven by Daniel Beckett of 226 Little street, Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill were taken to St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, after receiving first aid treatment from Dr. Martin Meehan, acting town physician.

A witness to the accident, Fred Heinzmann, 46, of 216 Bowen street, Jersey City, said O'Neill's car had been struck on the Belleville turnpike and had failed to stop. He was chasing O'Neill, he said, when the latter turned into Washington avenue against a red light and struck the trolley.

Board Of Education Accepts Resignation Of High School Teacher

Making public no reason for the act, the Board of Education, in special session Monday night, accepted the resignation of Mrs. Anna Van der Veer, a high school teacher.

Teacher of history and Latin she had been connected with the high school for the past twelve years. Mrs. Van der Veer was coach of the high school dramatic society and had also been advisor to last year's senior class.

The board has not yet appointed her successor.

Declaring that 1934-35 coal bids were "excessively high" the board for the third time rejected them. This action will necessitate advertising for bids for the fourth time.

Of six bids received Monday night only one quoted different figures than previously. All were above the NRA minimum code price, it was said.

Advertising without success the board rejected all bids when no firm would agree to accept municipal bonds in payment.

Lions Roar At Forked River On Fishing Trip

Fourteen members of the Lions Club journeyed to Forked River last week to try their skill (or luck) at deep sea fishing. They sailed on the good ship "Carrie H" commanded by Captain Nelson G. Rogers, who, it seems, according to reports, caught most of the fish. According to Lion Victor Hart he snared 21 weakfish but due to politics or something, the award went to Henry Charrier who caught a three and one-half pound sea robin.

Those making the trip included Louis Noll, Abe Atkins, Harry Zeigler, Capt. William Dunlevy, Edward Locher, Dr. Morris Rochlin, W. Brand Smith, William Abramson, Harold Gahr, Wilfred Booth, John P. Dailey, George H. Wench, Mr. Hart and Mr. Charrier.

Linden Greyhound Races Have Proven Most Successful

Track Jammed Every Night Since "Puppy" Races Started

There is no question of the popularity of greyhound racing within the confines of New Jersey, which permits of mutual betting on such events. It has been proved in the meeting at the Linden track, which is now on its second week. Nearly every night the track has been jammed with patrons of the speedy, lithe racers and the enthusiasm has been becoming an international sport event.

It's an event, which may show the way for the State Treasury to help out the needy and unemployed for the tax derived from the mutual betting may be appropriated for the use of supplying the wants of the less fortunate folks. With four tracks now operating in New Jersey the revenue to be secured should reach close to the $250,000 mark, a sum of money which could not be otherwise realized were it not for the liberality of the legislative solons in permitting of legalized betting on the greyhounds.

The dogs have been most consistent in their running. Nearly every one of them has his followers and there seldom is a race in which every dog is not well played. But it's Ben Andrews which continues to be the popular favorite. This fellow is one of the world's greatest racers and the Linden patron cannot be told that there is any dog which can beat him at any distance.

So far more than 100,000 people have seen the races at Linden and it is the prediction of many people that the track will not be big enough to accommodate the crowds when folks return from the country in September.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 2% of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomato, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, erodes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25¢. ©1934, C.M.C.

"NATIONAL PARKS YEAR"

This 1934, which has held so much of trial and tribulation in almost all parts of the world, is moving on very successfully at our national parks. It is expected that more than 1,000,000 more persons this season than last will take advantage of the scenic beauties of these government-owned recreation places.

Already attendance has been 38.8 per cent more than in the same period last year, with a total of 922,937 visitors up to June 30. With the largest three travel months ahead, officials expect the total of visitors to reach 4,000,000 as compared with 2,982,474 during last year.

Officials believe that this big increase is due to the fact that this year is being celebrated as "National Parks Year" with a special effort being made to let the public know the delight of vacationing in government reservations. If that is so—and there is no way to disprove it—the fact is shown that it pays to advertise.

THE PRICE OF FAME

Caroline Miller, who won the Pulitzer Prize for the best novel of the year, has found that the fame which came to her when the award was made has its disadvantages. She has been so busy seeing people that she hasn't written a line since the prize was presented. When she went on her vacation she tried to avoid public notice, but her presence at the vacation place became known and she was lionized to the point of exhaustion. That is the price of fame, and it seems a small price to many who strive for acclaim.

ONE IN FIVE

It is interesting to note that despite what the country has been through, one person in every five in the United States is the owner of an automobile.

A survey by the Department of Commerce disclosed that the number of automobiles registered throughout the world, as of January 1, was 35,562,059, but most of these are here in the United States. The nearest approach to us is France, which had 1,890,174 registrations. This is against 24,057,027 cars registered in this country. It is computed that in France one person in every 13 owns an automobile; the ratio of automobiles to population for the world is placed at one car to every 60 persons. This indicates the widespread use of automobiles everywhere—but no country approaches the United States.

FIGHTING FOG

The ceaseless battle of science to overcome fog, that dread enemy to all modern methods of transportation, is almost weekly showing considerable progress. Down in South Dartmouth, a Technology research worker managed to dissipate a fog and clear a path at the airport. Now a new application of ultra-short-wave wireless by the eminent Marconi is announced. It is a device to enable a ship approaching a harbor in a fog to place itself on a hypothetical straight line leading into the port. The exact distance of the vessel from a signal position can be told. Sooner or later, science will overcome fog, either by some such signal method as that of Marconi or by new developments in photography. When victory comes, it will be a great triumph.

HEART SERVICE

You can buy brain, lip and physical service. Did you ever stop to think that there is one kind of service that you cannot buy? That is heart service. It is the only kind that really counts after all is said and done and you are lying quietly in your last six feet of earth. You can never pay for it in gold or silver. It requires the very precious coin of kindness, appreciation and consideration.

DOING IT OVER AGAIN

A few months ago the spectacular pouring of molten glass for a 200-inch mirror for a telescope attracted a great deal of attention. At the time of the pouring some of the cores were released by the heat and floated onto the surface of the glass. It was feared at the time that this would damage the mirror, and the fear was partly justified. But, although the damage could probably be overcome by machine-work, the manufacturers have decided to do the thing over again. It is an expensive proposition, but the decision to do the thing over is a tribute to the pride and sense of workmanship of the manufacturers. It is a typically American gesture, and will ultimately pay dividends.

Comments On Execution Of Women

Editor of The News:

The reading public gets its shocks ever and anon when some woman criminal is dealt with as were Mrs. Ruth Snyder in 1929, and Mrs. Anna Antonio last Thursday night, particularly the latter case was a harrowing one. I do not think the people of New York would have felt disappointed with Gov. Lehman, if he had commuted to life imprisonment, the sentence upon Mrs. Antonio since she had been reprieved 3 times. It would have been easier to have put her to death the first time, since the reprieves only prolonged uncertainty and anxiety. As it were she died a second death. Governor Lehman could have said that he was not the same man as he who had been governor in Ruth Snyder's day that after all the pardoning power must not be riveted in a close analogy to the law; that he was vested with the responsibility of balancing the claims of justice and mercy; that this was a case where the public good was more benefitted by the exercise of mercy than by the execution of the law's mandate. It is hardly conceivable, but it takes great moral courage to do a thing that many will mistake for weakness and lack of a backbone, to go along what people mistake for the line of least resistance. But please understand that I am not assailing Governor Lehman. He might have been equally courageous and consistent in the course which he took in the Antonio case. Really it is hard to tell about his motivation.

If, as Warden Lewis Lawes says, the capital penalty is futile it is not so because of itself, but because of its surrounding circumstances. England retains the capital punishment of murderers, but its appeal system is a prompt and limited one, over within three weeks from the date of sentencing to be hanged.

The appeal system in America prolongs agony and suspense, so that when the execution of the sentence may go into effect, newspapers disloyally and to the subversion of public order carry the headlines, "THE STATE KILLS MRS. ANTONIO." In other words, casts its influence on the side of antipathy to the state.

The state is society formulated. The best illustration that occurs to me is that of a delicately constructed graft, in which there must be a trimming of the ship. Even small crimes tend to disturb the equilibrium of society. Great ones, like murder, put a great strain upon social equilibrium. After all the murderer, himself, is producing the necessity for his extreme punishment. His life has got to contribute to the remedying of the evil he has done. It is noticeable that in England the percentage of murders to the population is much smaller there than here. It would become much smaller here if the appeal opportunities were more restricted than they are.

The arguments in favor of abolishing the capital penalty for life imprisonment evince their weakness once the possibilities of lynch law in the southern states are considered. I think the foregoing reflections about summarizing the situation. At any rate we should sympathize with the state, and not with the murderers, as a class, particularly a woman assassin who hires assassins to remove her husband. Sanctions should not be weakened.

FREDERICK A. HEISLEY.

Purely Personal

By LILLIAN THOMAS

"If you want to be a writer, go out and fall in love. Get some experience. Learn about life. Learn about love. Learn about men. Find out what makes them tick!"

This advice was given me ten years ago by the editor of a "smoothpaper" magazine.

Ten long years have passed. Ten years in which I've learned a lot about life and love and men. But I haven't written The Great American Novel yet. I never will. I'm having too much fun juggling life and men, and I'm having so much fun playing with hearts, that I haven't the time to devote to the writing of a masterpiece. I keep notes of my experiences; the men I meet, the love affairs I have, but that's all. I've never tried to embody any of these notes into a fiction story. The notes are so strange I'm afraid they would never be accepted as truths. And they sound too absurd for fiction. There should be a happy medium between truth and fiction. That happy medium is missing here.

Too, it would take more than one volume to explain life and men and love.

Take love for instance: I've looked at it through a telescope, weighed it in a scale; balanced it on a rod; peered at it through a microscope; bounced it on hard pavements; sealed it in a bottle and thrown it into the sea; taken it up to the clouds and scattered it to the four winds.

I've burned my fingers playing with love, and I've seen my heart go clattering down the street because of it. I've been raised to the heights of heaven, and plunged to the depths of hell. I've cried for love, and I've laughed at it. I've been made gloriously happy by love, and again, I've known solemn sadness. There were times when it made me clear-eyed and strangely kind. And there were times when it made me bitter and turned me to cynicism.

As for men—time and space does not permit for a characterization of the types I've met, their traits and weaknesses, faults and merits, sins and virtues. However, suffice it to say that if the merits and virtues of every male creature in the universe were embodied into one man, he still would not be the answer to a maiden's prayer.

An explanation of life, also, calls for too much space and time. But I can say this of it—which is only a repetition of the most trite remark. Life is what you can make it. You get out of life only what you put into it. If you're out to learn about life, stand on the rim of things, and watch the world go by. Be a spectator rather than a participant. It's so much safer and nicer.

Factfully Yours

— LILLIAN THOMAS —

Giovanni Boccaccio, the father of Italian prose literature, composed many of the hundred stories in "The Decameron" solely for the amusement of his wife. Petrarch was so delighted with the tale of Griselda, with which the Decameron concludes, that he learned it by heart. Tennyson, Chaucer, Keats, Dryden, Lessing, all have been inspired by the Decameron.

Lessing's play, "Nathan the Wise," turns on "The Three Rings," and allegory from the Decameron. Jane Austen's famous novel, "Sense and Sensibility," was first issued under the title of "Elinor and Marianne;" it was recast and revised under its present title. All her books were issued anonymously. Her best known novel, "Pride and Prejudice," was called "First Impressions" when first out. Her two youngest brothers, Francis and Charles, both rose to the rank of admirals in the British Navy. The "Quest of the Absolute" is considered Balzac's masterpiece. It depicts the ruin of a man wrought by a fixed idea. Balzac was well qualified to write this novel, because he himself wasted much of his life in struggling to find a short cut to wealth. A young French archeologist by the name of Edmond About was working at Athens, where he discovered there was a curious understanding between the brigands and the police of Greece. That was in 1854. It seemed to him that brigandage was becoming a safe and almost respectable industry. So he produced, in 1856, "The King of the Mountains," one of the most delightful of satirical novels. Hans Christian Andersen's ambition was to win fame as a novelist. He set no great store by his fairy tales, which today are world-famous and have been translated practically into every language. There is as much doubt about the history of "The Thousand and One Nights," sometimes called "The Arabian Nights," as that which veils the origin of the Homeric poems. The French poet Baudelaire has been called such names as "The Flower of Evil" and "The Professed Satinist." The poet Heinrich Heine is a great poet to readers of German only. His lyrical work is untranslatable. "Maxwell Gray" is the famous pen-name of that gifted lady Mary Glead Tutti. "Les Miserables" is said to be the greatest work of fiction ever conceived. Victor Hugo says that his great tragic romance, "Notre Dame de Paris," sometimes called "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," was suggested to him by the Greek word Fate which one day he discovered carved on one of the towers of the famous cathedral. The English author, George Payne Rainsford James, wrote upwards of a hundred novels, but only one, "Henry Masterton," is read today.

Belleville And Nutley County Leaguers Drop Close Games Verona And Caldwell Are Victors In Thrilling Games

Both the Belleville and Nutley outfits in the Essex County Baseball League lost close games, Saturday afternoon, to strong teams. A three run rally in the ninth inning was needed by Caldwell before they finally whipped Belleville, 8-5, at Clearman Field. At Park Oval, Nutley, the league-leading Verona nine was pressed to the limit, before it finally managed to cop in 9-6 figures. All Sunday games were rained out.

The Belleville tossers staged an uphill battle all the way. Trailing 1-5 going into their half of the eighth, the Bell-boys put on a four run rally to tie the score and send their mound opponent, Bill Sweeney, to the showers. They were not quite equal to the occasion, however, with the result that Caldwell cinched the game in the ninth on singles by Mullich and Sempf, plus Ace Miller's double.

The deferred card of races held over from Sunday on account of rain, was put on Wednesday night which was Harold G. Hoffman Night. The Republican gubernatorial candidate was present with many political luminaries. The theatrical world also was represented. Irene rich, celebrated movie, stage and radio star dropped in to say "hello," and Baby Rose Marie, juvenile radio entertainer, got a big hand from the crowd when she sang one of her popular numbers. The Stewart E. Edgar Post drum and bugle corps, in snappy uniforms, played several selection for the entertainment of the crowd.

All in all the Velodrome put on a festive air, with banners and posters for the Republican candidate displayed everywhere. Miss Rich fired the gun starting a field of about forty-five professional riders in the twenty-five mile middle distance championship race, paced. But as the race progressed and the pace got faster, this number dwindled to less than twenty at the finish.

El Club Registers Fourth Win Of The League Season St. Anthony's Lose To Lawlormen by 7-5

Johnny Lawlor's El Club continued to display its dominance over its fellow tail-enders, the St. Anthony H. N. S., last week, at Clearman Field, copping a 7-5 decision in the Belleville American Legion Twilight Loop. This win was the fourth of the season for the Lawlormen, three of them having been at the expense of the Silver Lakers. Youthful Danny Byrnes again showed to advantage on the mound for the Els, restricting the Saints to five hits and whiffing seven. Leo Oshinski's big bat accounted for three of the winners' eight hits.

Martin-Dennis Loses To Nat'l. Lock Washer Game Was Held At Belleville Park Last Week

Hart lost his first diamond contest this season when Martin Dennis was defeated 5 to 4 by the National Lock Washer Co. at Belleville Park last week. In the first inning Hart couldn't find the plate and walked three batters. Pat Renner hit a single scoring two runs and two other runners crossed the plate on an error. Following this, the next batter hit a single, scoring the runner on second, which made a total of five runs. Hart finally got control of himself, striking out the next two batters, ending the drastic inning.

Martin Dennis collected one run in their half of the first but after that it settled down to a pitchers battle with neither side scoring any runs, until in the sixth Cancelosi got on base running for Payne. Joe Hahn, following, hit a scorching home run to deep center scoring Cancelosi.

Annual Tennis Tournery At Clearman Field Is Started Gordan Heads Select Singles Group; Anderten-Moss Doubles

The second annual Clearman Field tennis tournament, which is open to Bellevillites and out-of-towners alike, got under way this week on the local clay courts. Many of the best players in this section are included in the select entry list. Dick Slauer, for several years Belleville's singles champion, and more recently Nutley's, heads the list, although Cy Gordan of Newark, last year's singles victor, is seeded No. 1.

Don Gauss, seeded No. 2, is Belleville's chief representative in the singles, with Ray Smith, former town champion, and southpaw George Anderten pressing him for the honors. Walt Moss and Johnnie Manger, both of Belleville, and Joe Huemer of the Forest Hill T. C. of Newark, complete the list of eight seeded players in the singles.

Anderten and Moss, winners of last year's doubles event, are seeded No. 1, with the Manger-Gauss combination No. 2. Following is a list of players also entered in the singles event: Quinn, Emerson, Wermuth, Thompson, Mackay, Maher, Petith, Bennett, Karoser, Harvey, Kraemer, Karrer, Turner, Beams, O'Toole and Proven.
