MAN ON ROOF WORRIES FIREMEN AND POLICE

Threatens to Jump, But is Finally Eased Off Perch

Stepping precariously near the edge of the roof to which he had climbed at his home, 8 Bell street, Monday, Ernest J. Sheppard, forty-five, threatened to leap forty feet to the ground.

While police and firemen went to the scene, the latter with a net which they held in readiness to catch Sheppard should he jump, Mrs. Elizabeth Sheppard, his mother with whom he lives, implored him to go back to his room through a corner window by means of which he had reached the roof. Sheppard, an electrical engineer, was steadfast in his resolve to stay on the high perch for an hour until a neighbor, who had gone to the room, spoke to Sheppard from the window and finally convinced Sheppard he should shake hands. At this moment police, who had also gone to the room, grasped Sheppard and hauled him back into the room.

Sheppard, it is reported, had remained home from work Monday because he was not feeling well. His mother discovered him on the roof and, finding her pleas to him to come down of no avail, called the authorities. Police Chief George Spatz, Patrolmen Gross, Monaghan and Christiano responded with Fire Chief Alec Reid and Firemen Oldham, Finn and White. Sheppard, who is not married, was taken to Essex County Hospital, Cedar Grove, for observation.

POPPY DAY SET FOR SATURDAY

American Legion Auxiliary Will Have Volunteer Workers

Saturday is Poppy Day in Belleville and throughout the United States. Millions of little red poppies will be worn in honor of the World War dead. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will be contributed for the welfare of the war's living victims, the disabled veterans, their families, and the widows and orphans of the dead.

Members of Belleville Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets here early Saturday morning with baskets of poppies made by disabled veterans at Lyons Hospital. They will ask everyone to put on a poppy as an individual act of tribute to those who gave their lives in America's defense, and to contribute something toward the Legion and Auxiliary work for the disabled veterans and dependent families.

The poppies will be crepe paper replicas of the wild poppies which grew in such profusion along the battle front in France. More than ten million of them have been made by disabled men working under the direction of the Auxiliary in government hospitals and special poppy workrooms. Hundreds of veterans unable to do other work, have been given employment through the winter and spring shaping the little red flowers.

Poppies Hand Made

"Each poppy has been shaped with painstaking care by some disabled veteran," said Mrs. Arthur Christie. "Each one is slightly different from the others because they are made entirely by hand. Some are more perfect than others, due to the varying skill of the veterans, but all represent the best efforts of their makers to reproduce in crepe paper the wild flowers which grew in every part of the battle front in France and Belgium."

"The idea of the poppy as the memorial flower for the war dead sprang naturally to the minds of the men in France when they saw these brave little flowers blooming on the bare battle graves. Colonel John McCrea expressed it in his immortal poem, and one of the first acts of the American Legion was the adoption of the poppy as its memorial flower. The British Legion also adopted the poppy and the flower is worn in every part of the world to commemorate the sacrifice of those who fell in the ranks of the democratic powers."

More than 100,000 women will be in the Poppy Day army, distributing flowers in memory of America's more than 100,000 World War dead. They will ask no price for the poppies but will give them for any contribution the wearer feels able to make. Every penny of the money contributed will go into the relief and welfare funds of the Legion and Auxiliary, where it will work for needy veterans and veterans' families during the coming year.

Stadium Shapes Up At Turf Bog

Full speed ahead seems to be the slogan out at the old peat bog where WPA laborers are transforming a quagmire of town-owned lots into a $400,000 municipal athletic field and stadium. Pillars of concrete, which ultimately will be a stadium 300 feet long and capable of seating 5,200 persons, are taking shape and roads are being constructed in the section. According to Director of Public Works Patrick A. Waters the project is about twenty-five per cent ahead of schedule and, if the present rate is maintained, the field will be in playable condition by next fall. The area to be used for football and baseball is already graded and ready for seeding. Several other plots for other sports have already been thus completed. The playground area, tennis courts and field houses will be started after the main portion of the work is completed. "In addition to the sports already mentioned," Waters said, "the field when finally completed, will have accommodations for every type of sport. Eventually we expect to construct a wading pool for children, handball and basketball courts and a cinder running track which we believe will be one of the fastest in the country."

"While this will provide a recreational outlet for youths in future years," Waters said, "we must take into consideration the fact that the project is employing hundreds of men otherwise who would be on relief rolls." "Figuring conservatively," Waters declared, "the project will employ more than 400 men for more than a year. If these men, all of whom have families, were to be on our relief rolls the cost for one year would amount to more than $250,000. This would mean a confiscatory tax rate."

AMBULANCE DRIVE LAGGING BEHIND SAYS HANDLON

More Action Needed With Automobile As Award

Lagging in ticket sales the drive for funds for a new ambulance, which Director of Public Safety William D. Clark is endeavoring to provide townspeople without dipping into the municipal money bag, needs impetus, says Court Clerk Fred B. Handlon, who urges all who are interested to get behind this worthy movement. "When the last ambulance was obtained for the town, in a similar manner, early days of the campaign proved more gratifying. However, this is no indication that this appeal will not be as successful as the last. Outmoded, the old ambulance has been worth its weight in gold to townspeople who had access to its use free of charge. The new ambulance, capable of transporting two persons at the same time, will be similarly used. Many thousands of Belleville residents have enjoyed the privileges afforded through the ambulance now in use and, it is to those who realize how vitally important it is to the town, that we make a direct appeal," says Mr. Handlon.

An award, in the form of an automobile, has been provided for the drive. Some person in Belleville, who shows the proper spirit of cooperation will be given the car for his own efforts. "Belleville must not fall in this job," said Mr. Handlon today. "We all know how the town has responded before and we are sure that everyone appreciates the fine work done by the ambulance. All we need is a little more action to equip Belleville with a more modern vehicle that can be used as the last one—to save lives of our friends and neighbors. It is only when an ambulance is needed in a hurry—that some seem to sense its vital import to the community."

Elks Donate Services

Belleville Elks have donated use of their auditorium, equipment and members for Tuesday evening, June 6, to assist in raising funds for the ambulance. This was decided by the Elks' Board of Governors Monday night. It is expected that a considerable amount thus will be raised toward purchase of the vehicle.

TOWN MAKES PLEA FOR LIFTING BUS RESTRICTIONS

Utilities Board Hears Discussion On Garden State

An echo of the long drawn-out discussion which followed establishment of the Garden State Alwood-North Newark buses on a route through Belleville was heard Friday before the Public Utility Commission when Mayor William H. Williams and Director of Parks and Public Property Louis A. Noll appeared before that commission on a rehearing of Belleville's petition to lift restrictions or discontinue the line.

Mayor Williams and Director Noll both testified a resolution had been adopted by the commission under which the company's permit to operate would be revoked if full rights to use the service were denied residents. Objection to their testimony was made by Charles S. Straw, Public Service Co-ordinated Transport's counsel, but in the main he was overruled by Commissioner Hanson. At the close of the hearing the town's petition was referred to conference. Mr. Straw was permitted to file a memorandum to sustain his contention that the testimony was not within the purview of a board decision.

Noll testified he had received numerous complaints, including letters and telephone calls, from residents unable to ride the buses owing to restrictions. "I say use our streets, why can't we use their buses?" was the tone of complaints, he said. He told of the need for transportation facilities for the new recreation stadium, which is to cost $500,000 and is under construction. The buses now use Emmet street, he said, by permission, and plans are underway to improve Greylock parkway as a regular route.

Belleville, he testified, is especially anxious to use the buses from the business section of town to their homes, now forbidden in the city of Belleville, save for one street intersection. Also, he added, the high school as well as pupils of St. Peter's School and church parsonages will be served if the petition is granted.

The Bus Route

The line runs from the Brookside section of Bloomfield to the Newark city line in Belleville, and has permission from the utility board to carry Belleville riders only to terminals or to points in Nutley or Bloomfield. The one exception is that Belleville riders may be disengaged at Greylock parkway and Passaic avenue.

Mayor Williams said petitions indicated support of the town's request to lift restrictions by a ratio of three to one. He told the history of a town resolution favoring lifting the restrictions, with an added paragraph, inserted for "harmony," that municipal consents for the line will be revoked if the restrictions are not lifted by the utilities board. He told of new building in the area and testified as to the Jergens plant to be built to employ more than 1,000 people. The county is to finance a road extension, he said.

On cross-examination by Straw, Mayor Williams said the new plant location is about three-fourths of a mile from Greylock parkway. Mr. Straw said no new evidence had been introduced to show the line was not in competition with existing Public Service routes.

Garden State officials said after the hearing that all operations in Belleville would have to be discontinued if the town permit was revoked. This would mean, they said, the line could operate only in Nutley and Bloomfield or suspend all operations.

SMALL FIRE

Fire of undetermined origin occurred at 186 Heckel street, Saturday night. Anthony Buttacavillo, 43 Heckel street, was standing near the fire-box when a little girl ran up to him and said "ring the box, my mother and sisters are in the house." Buttacavillo complied immediately and ran to the scene. The mother and daughters were safe. Damage was slight.

RELIEFERS' WORRY IS TEMPORARILY SET ASIDE

Mayor Tells Them 'No One Ever Starved' Here

Temporarily the worries of relief clients that they may starve because their checks for work-relief have been held up have been allayed. Through efforts of municipal officials the clients who formed picket lines are back on the job and all is apparently serene on the relief front.

The relief situation became tense late Wednesday when it became apparent that checks which were due Tuesday would not be forthcoming. Pickets took up places in front of the Town Hall and relief office in Mill street, but Thursday noon they dispersed pending a conference scheduled at 4 o'clock that day by Mayor William H. Williams, Public Affairs Director King, Director of Relief John Hewitt and a committee representing the relief clients.

Issue Food Orders

Facing several foodless days until the town passed its 1939 budget, the clients, following the conference, were told they would be cared for during the interval through food orders issued by Hewitt.

Mayor Williams issued this edict after a personal investigation, which had shown many of the relief clients in actual want and unable to obtain food on credit from local stores. The mayor said he had been told by Commissioner of Local Government Danby that the town was without authority to issue such orders, but he pointed out that he was also charged with care of relief cases.

A confab with Corporation Counsel Lawrence E. Keenan was held to disclose powers authorizing the mayor's action. Checks for the last half of May, amounting to $2,000, due for issuance a week ago Tuesday were held up when it was found there was only $1,100 left of a $65,000 appropriation in the town's temporary budget for relief. Food orders issued had been deducted from the amounts of the June relief checks to save the necessity of rewriting the May 15 checks which were all prepared and awaiting signatures when it was found the temporary budget practically had been exhausted.

State Delay Blamed

It was expected that the $65,000 would be sufficient for the year, but failure of the state to act to provide a share of the cost, the amount raised locally was spent in five months. Last year with state aid Belleville's relief cost $25,000.

The thirty-eight clients, who are paid fifty cents an hour to work out their checks, returned to their jobs Friday on the mayor's word that he would seek an immediate solution of the problem.

On Wednesday the pickets told the mayor they "were being starved" and demanded their checks. They summoned newspaper reporters to "get in on a good story."

Recently a suggestion that all relief clients be fingerprinted brought a storm of protest from those on relief. An official is said to have expressed the opinion that the "strike" was in protest to the fingerprinting and to do away with work relief.

At Thursday's conference the mayor blamed the uprising on malcontents and the wrong "type leaders."

Suggests "American Way"

Police Chief George Spatz and three patrolmen attended the conference at which the mayor asked Frank Marcogliano, Anthony Lombardo and Joseph DiMocica, spokesmen for the group, to urge the men to settle their troubles in "the American way" by returning to work and refusing to pay attention to agitators. The men, it is said, admitted they had made a mistake by leaving their jobs.

On Thursday one of the pickets, John Geluso, who had been ill for some time, collapsed in front of relief headquarters. He was taken home by Hewitt and a doctor summoned. It was said he suffered "a slight stroke due to over-excitement."

Hewitt said Friday several stores had called his office and when told the reason for the delay and its probable length, agreed to extend credit to relief clients.

"Tempest in Teapot"
Public Affairs Director King likened the protests to a "tempest in a teapot" and said he believed it was "agitated" by a small group of men who were (Continued on Page 4)

FOR DEMOCRACY'S FALLEN DEFENDERS

We Americans are thinking more about democracy and valuing it more highly these days because its destruction in other countries has made us consider what life here would be like without it.

In 1917 and 1918, likewise, Americans did not count the cost of defending democracy. The cost for some was their lives.

On Poppy Day, Saturday, we will have opportunity to pay special tribute to the men who died for the cause of democracy.

We will have opportunity, too, to help those who sacrificed health and strength in the conflict, their families and the families of those who have died.

A poppy on our coat on Poppy Day will mean that we honor the dead who fell for democracy and that we are aiding the living who gave health and strength in patriotic service to America.

ONE THING AT A TIME

If one only had the time to enjoy the Spring days with the tiny leaves on trees and shrubbery, the new green of lawns and the bright, early blossoms.

PROGRESS AT THE TURF BOG

Contrary to the general opinion that most WPA projects represent the acme of slowness, it is gratifying to note that some real ticks are being put in by those who are building the stadium out at the old turf bog.

eye failed. From the plate to left field is exactly 310 feet, over 100 yards, which is quite some distance to tap the horsehide.

MORE MILLIONS FOR WHAT?

President Roosevelt has asked Congress to appropriate nearly two billion dollars more for the WPA. The request comes at a time when the WPA is being investigated by a special committee of the House of Representatives.

Also, the request was almost simultaneous with several startling revelations before the investigating committee. One was that the WPA had spent approximately twice as much to construct a building at the New York World's Fair as it would have cost had it been constructed by any other government department or by a private contractor.

Another revelation was that the WPA had spent a considerable sum to publish a voluminous book of nude photographs. And for what purpose? The only explanation offered was that it was for use of artists!

It seems only reasonable now for the public to ask Congress to think twice, and certainly to wait until all the facts have been uncovered by the investigating committee, before granting this latest request for additional WPA millions.

Congress should know for just what it is appropriating the money of the taxpayers.

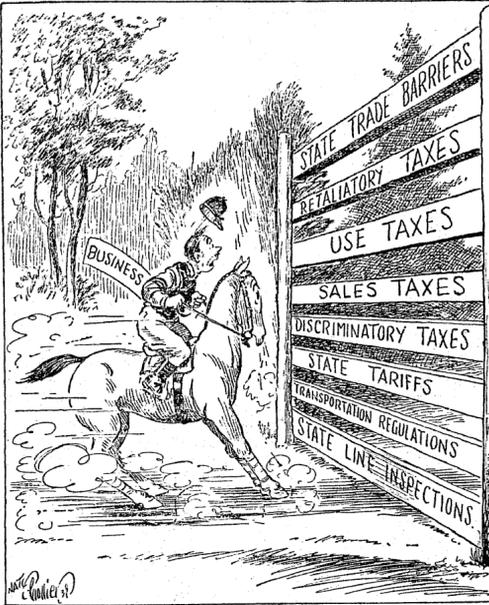

UNCLE SAM'S HEALTHY ARMY

It is pleasant to hear from Major General Charles R. Reynolds, surgeon general, that the standing army of the United States is perhaps the healthiest in the world. The 175,000 men in the army had the lowest disease and sickness rates last year ever recorded.

DANGEROUS NIGHTS AND LIGHTS

Motorists should take cognizance of street traffic research which has disclosed that night drivers have killed 45,000 more persons on the highways during the past eight years than were killed by day drivers.

THE BARRIER

THIS WEEK

by "Guardian"

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

A busy week in the news—and all of our hearts this moment are joined with the hope that more men will be saved from the sunken submarine Squalus than at the moment of writing seems indicated.

Well, President Roosevelt has done it again. Every time during his administration that there have been indications of a change in policy on his part and on the part of the Administration, it has been followed by a declaration somewhere or somehow to the effect that everything that the Roosevelt Administration and the New Deal has done is all right and is going to be continued.

But we cannot help but point out that the National debt has doubled in six years; that every year the Government is spending four billion dollars more than the Government is receiving and that the unemployed continue to number approximately ten million people.

The President not so many weeks ago in another declaration said that if Government spending was continued the annual turnover of business in this country could be restored to the 80 billion dollar a year level that existed in 1929 and that if it was restored to that level, our unemployment would cease.

Everyone in this country rejoices at the triumphant progress of the King and Queen of England across Canada and anyone who was fortunate enough to listen to the Empire broadcast, celebrating Empire Day, must have gained the impression that the King is the symbol of unity in the British Empire.

No show boat ever plied the Passaic River. No levees stacked with cotton bales lined its banks. But to the Belleville of 1839 the Passaic was what the Mississippi was to St. Louis when Mark Twain made that river famous.

the great mass of unemployed the level of business transactions has probably got to go to 85 or 90 billion dollars per year to solve our unemployment problem.

And how is business going to get to those levels? There is just one way and that is through development of new products for existing markets and to create new markets for new products. It has always happened before and it will happen again.

While we are worrying about our unemployment and while business levels become currently lower and have, almost without exception, gone lower and lower each week since the turn of the year, the country's labor leaders—at least those connected with C.I.O., continue to make it harder for men to find work.

Everyone in this country rejoices at the triumphant progress of the King and Queen of England across Canada and anyone who was fortunate enough to listen to the Empire broadcast, celebrating Empire Day, must have gained the impression that the King is the symbol of unity in the British Empire.

Belleville As A River Town

This is the sixth of a series of stories compiled and written by the Federal Writers' Project of New Jersey. These stories are excerpts from the forthcoming "History of Belleville," sponsored by the Town of Belleville to commemorate its centennial.

No show boat ever plied the Passaic River. No levees stacked with cotton bales lined its banks. But to the Belleville of 1839 the Passaic was what the Mississippi was to St. Louis when Mark Twain made that river famous.

Budget Meeting Scheduled For Next Wednesday

The Town Commission last night adjourned its meeting to adopt the municipal budget until next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Radio Editor

Special to The Belleville News SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Miss Ellen M. Conry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Conry, 39 Preston street, Belleville, N. J., has been named radio editor of the Daily Orange, Syracuse University newspaper, according to an announcement by Dean M. Lyle Spencer of the Syracuse School of Journalism.

While we are worrying about our unemployment and while business levels become currently lower and have, almost without exception, gone lower and lower each week since the turn of the year, the country's labor leaders—at least those connected with C.I.O., continue to make it harder for men to find work.

Daughters of America

Good American Council No. 192, Daughters of America, Tuesday evening in the American Legion Chateau, 170 Washington avenue, held a nomination of officers.

enger runs to New York was the Wadesworth. Her owner was Captain Caleb Neagles, who for years had been operating a line of schooners and sailing barges between Belleville, Newark and other Passaic river ports and New York.

To many the sidewheelers of the day were nothing but new-fangled and dangerous contraptions, and the Wadesworth herself was hardly able to convince these cautious souls otherwise. Her boiler leaked. Her engine creaked. And lack of funds prevented her owner from ever giving her the necessary general overhauling.

On May 25th the soldiers made their last trip, bid their friends farewell, and with many it was forever, for their bones have bleached or have been buried in southern soil.

The Confidence nearly took an active part in the Civil War herself. Transports were needed to carry 16,000 men under Brigadier-General Burnside on their way to take Roanoke Island. The Government offered Holmes $75 a day for six months on the Burnside Expeditions and only furnish one man.

Boat Was Community Venture Despite the uncertainty of early machinery, Belleville in 1856 was sufficiently steamboat-minded to form its own river transportation company. Improved transportation to Newark was badly needed for the stage coaches of the time were the sole means of public conveyance.

A legislative charter was obtained by Hugh Holmes in February, 1857; a board of directors was selected, with S. H. Terry and Holmes as treasurer and secretary, respectively; the Governor Kembal was named the Belleville, and the Belleville Steamboat Company was ready for business.

The boat, pronounced by Holmes "a picture, a little floating palace," was "inaugurated" on April 13, 1857 by "a pleasant excursion" from Newark to Belleville. Of this event the Newark Daily Advertiser rendered a truly scintillating account the following day.

will add diversity to the picturesque shores of the Passaic, besides doing honor to the liberal spirited owners who have established this novel means of connecting the manufacturing metropolis of our State with the Belleville of our river.

The next day, the "Gem of the Passaic" made her first regular trip to Newark in forty minutes. She ran for two seasons, carrying reputedly 60,000 passengers, but was eventually sold to Captain Martin, who continued to run her until he met with financial difficulties.

Politics and War

The town was not left without a boat for long. The following season Hugh Holmes bought Charles Field's Highland Chief, and profited highly from the political campaign of 1860. Completely impartial, the Highland Chief carried full cargoes of "Wide-Awakes" as well as "Hickory Boys" to Belleville where many political mass meetings were held.

Along with a new coat of paint the following spring, the Highland Chief blossomed forth with a new name. Thereafter known as the Confidence, she made her first trip of the season one March evening on an excursion to Newark, free to all those who had bought a ticket to hear the great showman P. T. Barnum lecture at the Newark "Opry House" for the benefit of the Belleville Methodist Episcopal Church.

That year, 1861, brought with it the outbreak of the Civil War and a new use for the former excursion steamer. A military company of the town under the command of Captain Aaron Young had offered its services to the Union Army and the Confidence was engaged to carry Belleville recruits as far as Newark on their way to the battlefields.

On May 25th the soldiers made their last trip, bid their friends farewell, and with many it was forever, for their bones have bleached or have been buried in southern soil.

Unfortunatly, the Passaic River pilots were not always as skillful as those of the Mississippi described by Mark Twain. A story is told of one Passaic pilot who bringing a schooner over the Belleville reef, was asked by the anxious captain of the boat whether he were "fully posted."

ark, and then all traces of her are lost. Other attempts to establish freightboat lines on the river met with little success. The Laura Keen ran only one season, "without paying a dollar." But the Combslet, registered at the Newark Customs District in 1867 at 1,370 tons, was for years a profitable enterprise.

Steamboat vs. Horsecar

Though Hugh Holmes did not have his hands in either of these two ventures, he remained Belleville's river transportation pioneer until politics absorbed his interest and the confidence of his fellow-citizens made him, in 1874, mayor of the short-lived City of Belleville and eventually even sent him to the State legislature.

It is interesting to note that the hard-bitten old riverman usually emerged victorious. His reminiscences of early steamboat days are a salty tale of combat between rival interests and of life on the Passaic in the middle of the nineteenth century.

In 1864 the Newark horsecar line reached Belleville at Second River. But the company did not comply with its charter and refused to extend the line to the north end of the town. Its directors' answer to numerous petitions was that, "whatever might be the advantage of extension, the road terminates just at the right place."

As Congress have been expected, Hugh Holmes was duly drafted as operator of the new venture, and two commutation boats, the Rockaway and the General Runyon, were put into service.

While these two vessels were a boon to Belleville commuters, they were headaches for Holmes. The Rockaway, which ran during the first season, had a habit, when caught by nip tides, of getting aground on the Belleville reef, and her passengers had to be taken off and conveyed in carriages to their destination.

Along with a new coat of paint the following spring, the Highland Chief blossomed forth with a new name. Thereafter known as the Confidence, she made her first trip of the season one March evening on an excursion to Newark, free to all those who had bought a ticket to hear the great showman P. T. Barnum lecture at the Newark "Opry House" for the benefit of the Belleville Methodist Episcopal Church.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I would seek unto God, and unto God would I commit my cause: Which doeth great things and unsearchable; marvelous things without number."
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In a world of sin and sensuality hastening to a greater development of power, it is wise earnestly to consider whether it is the human mind or the divine Mind which is influencing one. V.F.W. Notes

Private George A. Younginger Post, V.F.W., and Auxiliary will conclude on Tuesday the annual poppy sale which started last Tuesday. The poppies distributed by the post and auxiliary are made by disabled veterans in the Bronx Veterans' Hospital and at Lyons. They are labeled with the green marker, "Buddy Poppy."

F. D. R. Accepts Poppy

President Franklin D. Roosevelt officially launched the eighteenth annual nationwide sale of V.F.W. Buddy Poppies on April 17, when he accepted, at the White House, Washington, D. C., the first 1939 Buddy Poppy from five-year-old Ila Ruth Firebaugh, of the V. F. W. National Home for the orphans of war veterans, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Commander-in-Chief Eugene I. Van Antwerp, Detroit, Mich., accompanied the child to the White House. Ila Ruth, her sister and two brothers, are wards of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States at its National Home, established in 1925 for the widows and orphans of war veterans. They are the children of the late Samuel R. Firebaugh, who was a member of V.F.W. City of Detroit Post No. 384, Detroit, Mich., prior to his death in 1937. He was a veteran of the World War, having served with the 72nd Company, Tank Corps, A. E. F. overseas from July 13, 1918, to June 28, 1919.

In accepting the first 1939 Buddy Poppy from Ila Ruth, President Roosevelt endorsed the annual Buddy Poppy distribution conducted by 7,700 V.F.W. Posts and 2,500 Auxiliaries throughout the country. The V.F.W. National Home, maintained by the proceeds of the sale, gives the orphans an opportunity "for happiness equal to that enjoyed by the average American child," President Roosevelt said.

"Buddy Poppies," he continued, "also offer a source of employment and relief for needy and disabled veterans in their home communities. For these two very real reasons we all should wear Buddy Poppies on Memorial Day."

A goal of six million Buddy Poppies has been set for the 1939 sale, Commander Richard Doherty, of Younger Post, said today.

Tonight the Bicycle Safety Club, sponsored by the post, will hold its first traffic court in Veterans' Hall, 17 Belleville avenue, at 7:30 o'clock.

On Sunday afternoon the post members will assemble at headquarters at 2 o'clock to go to Glendale Cemetery, Bloomfield, to take part in the dedication of the veterans' plot, recently purchased by Essex County Board of Freeholders. The evening of the same day veterans' organizations and auxiliaries will attend memorial services in Wesley M. E. Church, Academy street and Washington avenue.

Next Wednesday evening at 7:30 the Junior Softball League of Belleville will meet in veterans' hall. The league is sponsored by the veterans and Recreation Commission.

a recent announcement that all persons on relief would be fingerprinted. Both charges were emphatically denied by strike leaders.
"Our relief has been cut so much that we hardly have enough to eat as it is. This morning my kid was crying for oatmeal, and I didn't have a dime to go and get it," said Marcolliano.

Officials' Views

"We have never let anyone starve or go without shelter or clothing," Mayor Williams said, "a few days' delay cannot work an impossible hardship. Public officials have their hardships as well as you folks. The American way is for you to go back to your jobs and we will work this out together."

"After the town has been maintaining these men for years," Williams commented, "it seems strange they should act in such a manner for reasons beyond our control when we are compelled to ask them to wait a few days for their checks."

"This is the first time relief checks have been late. If an American citizen went to a public official in Germany or Italy as these men came to me they would be turned over to the American consular and deported at once. If some of these men expended the same energy looking for work that they do in trying to stir up trouble I feel sure they would have landed jobs."

"We are on the horns of a legal dilemma. The law says we must care for all persons in need of relief, but at the same time it makes it a misdemeanor to sign these checks when there are no funds available. The town already has paid out relief for one-third of the year and the Legislature has not as yet indicated how it will make available the remaining two-thirds, which it has promised municipalities."

king said, "This business of a few of the men on relief thinking they can run everything the way they want, has got to stop. Ninety per cent of those on relief want to work, it is only the handful who never want to work who cause all the trouble. I understand men were threatened with bodily harm if they didn't quit their jobs. This has got to stop, and you can tell the men it's going to."

JEANNETTE MACDONALD AT CAPITOL

"Broadway Serenade" starring Jeannette MacDonald, opens Sunday at the Capitol Theatre, Belleville, for a three-day showing, with continuous performance on Tuesday, Decoration Day.

The picture is rich in elaborate stage numbers, tempered with a good down to earth story revolving about a girl who climbs from singing in cheap night clubs to musical comedy stardom. It contains every conceivable element of entertainment. The songs sung by Miss MacDonald range in type from hits of the gay nineties, through grand opera selections, and on to top tunes of today.

"For Every Lonely Heart," "One Look at You" and "Time Changes Everything." Excellent performances are given by the supporting cast of Lew Ayres, Frank Morgan, Ian Hunter, Virginia Grey and Rita Johnson.
