COURTSTERS TH ALUMNI 34-25 IN OPENER

Varsity Brilliant At T; Reservemen Show Good Possibilities

Ragged in spots and brunt in others, Belleville's court stars drubbed the Alumni 34 last night in the year's first basketball opener at the high school. A comparatively green team was unveiled by Al McBride but a quintet which may be able to do great things when it gets rolling. There are plenty of rough edges to be smoothed and some finesse to be gained but the flashes of excellence shining through gave promise of good season.

The present-day Be boys jumped into the lead at start with a foul by Ted C. relinquished it briefly a moment later when Don Richard came through with a two point shot back in front on a longop by Jack O'Grady and stay there for the remainder of the first.

The score was close to the time Pat Tortorello sank a long shot for the Alumni to tie the score to 9-8 at the beginning of the second quarter. The Gold powerhouse then started to click and drew away gradually but steadily.

Jack O'Grady Sh...

Biggest improvement those left from last year seem to be Jack O'Grady. The center was all over the court occasionally showed remarkable accuracy. He split the ds for eight points. Jack Avery had little opportunity to exhibit his play last season. His still favoring a twisted knee which was injured during football practice last fall.

SECOND GUESSING ON GRID COACH

Joe Vollmer, Nutley Assistant, Now Being Prominently Mentioned

Sports followers are doing a lot of speculating over the man who is most likely to replace Coach Garfield High when he leaves as the high school baseball coach. The Nutley location has said that the man will be made until the next month and that those who file applications have been tight-lipped about their thoughts on a successor.

While there have been reports circulated that Art Argauer, coach of the state championship Garfield High eleven, might be offered the job, most now put Joe Vollmer, assistant to George Stanford at Nutley High, as the No. 1 nominee. Vollmer, who is a resident of Leonia, is reported to have been one of the first to submit his application.

Is Columbia Graduate

The Nutley assistant is a graduate of Columbia University, New York. After graduation from Leonia High where he played football, Vollmer went to Horace Mann School. From there he moved to Columbia where he learned to play ball under Lou Littles. He played in the Blue and White backfield and as a member of the Columbia even which went to the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day, 1935, and provided the year's upset by trimming a highly favored Stanford team 7-0.

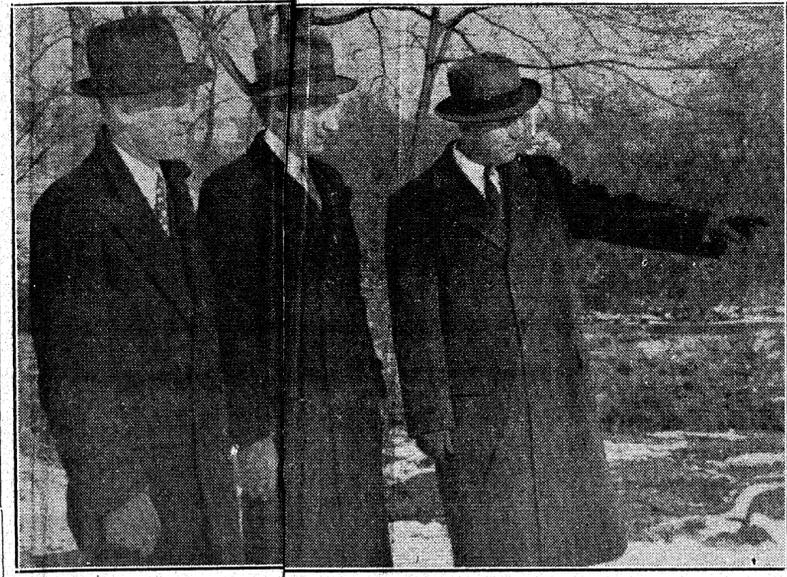

Vollmer came to high school in the neighboring town in 1927. In addition to serving as Stanford's assistant, he teaches history and English in the high school. Since Vollmer has been there Nutley has had only one grid game. For several years Stanford has been using a variation of the single wing system employed by Little at Columbia.

Daly, Wische In Training

Two others receiving considerable play from the cond guessers are Jack Daly, former Belleville High and Matattan star, and "Jitty" Wische, who has been assistant to Smith for several years. Daly is at present coaching and teaching at Antic Highlands. He established his name for himself on the gridiron and during the past two seasons has played with the Jersey City Titans, American All Star Association pro team.

Wische, who got his first football lessons at St. Side High in Newark under J. Thornton, also coached football at Panzer College in East Orange for two seasons.

Looking Over Their Pet Project

The town is doing its part to complete the construction of rinks at Camp Carragher in the Third River and at the Turf Bog Pond. The three men who are responsible for this work were caught by the photographer while they were inspecting the work at Camp Carragher yesterday morning. On the left is Edward Lister, recreation director, who will have the men to do the labor, in the center, while Commissioner Noll, under whose supervision the rinks were planned and constructed, is on the right.

May Have Ice Rinks Ready For Weekend

Skaters Will Swirl in Swim Time on Pond at Camp Carragher, One of State's Largest Rinks; Also Enlarging Turf Bog Pond

Completion of work is being expected on what is expected to be one of the finest municipal ice skating rinks in North Jersey, at Camp Carragher on the Third River. It is hoped to have it open to the public this weekend. Another rink on a smaller scale at the pond in the Turf Bog should be ready by the same time. Commissioner Noll said yesterday that the Carragher rink is a new program in our parks and public property district, is head of recreation.

The Third River is being cleared of logs, weeds and other debris to make a smooth skating surface. The dam at the camp is being raised two feet to bring the surface area of the rink to 240,000 square feet, approximately 800 feet long and 300 feet wide.

The camp kitchen has been removed to permit open fires in the fireplaces. Benches have been constructed between the trees along the banks and the ice will be floodlighted at night. Loud speakers will be set in place to play music during skating periods.

The rink at the Turf Bog will be as pretentious. The pond is being enlarged to 20,000 square feet, but the other features arranged for Carragher are not planned at the Bog for the present.

BOARD TO MEET WITH DENTISTS

School Trustees Seek Better Program For Care Of Pupils' Teeth

A conference has been called tonight at which the health committee of the Board of Education will discuss with local dentists the problem of the care and examination of school children's teeth. Officials have discussed for some time the possibility of setting up a program providing for oral corrective work among the school population. The dental profession has cooperated with the school in the past, but it is hoped that out of the meeting tonight will develop a more concrete and expansive plan for carrying on this work.

This session is in line with a state-wide plan which is currently being discussed among dental and public health groups. Closer cooperation between the schools and dentists is one of the chief topics scheduled to be discussed when the Bergen-Passaic dentists, health and school officials hold their meeting in Paterson later this month.

Dentists in North Arlington are conducting a corrective examination of all public school children here this week to learn what improvements may be made in that district. Facts compiled by the North Arlington professional men will be presented in a report at the Passaic-Bergen conference.

PIN BALL GAMES UNDER CONTROL, POLICE SAY

Have Been Complying With Warning Note Issued By Prosecutor

Regulation of bagatelle machines in town is already so complete that no special drive is planned for the immediate future, Captain Robert Anderson of the police department said yesterday. This was in answer to queries regarding the recent letter of County Prosecutor Wachenfeld to police heads in the county asking them to clamp down on bagatelle operators who give prizes of merchandise and cash for winning scores.

"We keep a close watch on all places where these machines are located," Captain Anderson said, "and we believe that an intensive campaign is not necessary in view of the precautions we are constantly maintaining."

"We will mail to all operators a copy of the law," he continued, "and it will not go easy with anyone convicted of breaking it."

Wachenfeld in his letter played particularly the operation of bagatelle machines near schools. In it he said:

"The last Grand Jury complained about the operation of bagatelle machines with merchandise and cash prizes."

"This has heretofore been called to your attention as a violation of the law as decided by Judge Brennan in the case of State of New Jersey vs. Silva."

"This sort of violation may be difficult to deal with, but I must insist, nevertheless, upon a renewed drive by your department and the apprehension of all those who violate the law in this regard."

100th Anniversary And Boom In Industry Headed Parade Of Local Events In 1939

Announcement of Jergens' Plant Was Best News; Year Marked By Loss Of Some Prominent Men

The year just ended was an important one in local history for it marked the community's 100th anniversary and was featured by new and enlarged activity in development and expansion of industry. The town's civic and social life kept in step with this march for a month-by-month review illustrates how the various phases of civic life progressed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Halligan of 44 Division avenue were the first of a number of Belleville couples to celebrate long years of married life. They marked their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary.

The town Commission announced the appointment of Julius A. Rippe, Inc. of Newark as the municipal fiscal agents.

Wesley M. E. Church of which Rev. Edgar M. Compton is pastor opened the celebration of its 148th anniversary. Rev. Compton marked his twelfth year as the church's leader.

One Of State's Big Developers Will Erect 250 Houses On Riviera Park Parcel

Shovels Started Digging Yesterday On First Section of Tract Being Developed by Goldfarb Bros.

The town opened the year with the breaking of ground yesterday for the largest single housing project in Belleville's history, which it is estimated will cost more than $1,500,000. The first shovelfuls of earth were dug early in the morning for the preliminary work to be done before the Goldfarb Bros., one of the state's leading home developing firms, start the construction of 250 one-family dwellings in the tract east of Union avenue near the Nutley-Belleville line. Mayor Williams estimated yesterday afternoon that the town would realize approximately $1,000,000 in increased ratables through the erection and sale of the new homes.

Williams Offers New Builders Town's Help

Mayor Williams issued the following statement concerning the new housing development: "I appreciate the confidence that the officials of the White Oaks Corporation have shown in Belleville for the immediate construction of fifty houses and indications of a program to build 200 more."

"Inspection of other developments that the corporation has put up elsewhere and in-gauging the plans of the first group of houses assures us that a section of Belleville that has been barren for many years will become one of the outstanding residential areas of Essex County. School facilities are adequate to care for the increased population."

"While our financial policy calls for the least possible expenditures for capital items, the investments in water and sewer lines by the town to aid in this development appear to me to be a proper action. The White Oaks Corporation will install its own streets, sidewalks and curbs."

"There is at the present time a limited number of single family homes available and the White Oaks Corporation is to be commended for planning this program and will be rewarded by prompt sales, as Belleville continues to develop with its many industries."

May Use College Men

Questioned yesterday regarding additional help in the various recreational facilities, Commissioner Noll said that he may employ college men who are studying recreation to aid at the playgrounds during the coming summer.

Elizabeth and Lyndhurst. The Elizabeth Elks were declared the winners.

Frank J. Carragher Passes

The town lost one of its most colorful and prominent political figures when Former Commissioner Frank J. Carragher, seventy-two, died. Mr. Carragher, serving both as a councilman and later as a commissioner, had been active in Belleville's civic life for more than twenty-five years. One of the town's oldest residents, Mrs. Eunice A. Ackerman, died on the day following her eighty-eighth birthday. She had been a resident of Belleville since 1875.

Two of the building and loan associations contributed front page news in April. The North Belleville Building & Loan Association announced the maturity of its thirty-sixth series of stock. Twenty-four shareholders received $17,000. Commissioner William D. Clark was elected president of the association for the twenty-fifth straight year. Andrew W. Bray, retired Prudential Insurance executive, was elected president of the Central Building & Loan Association.

Four organizations held elections and chose new officers. Emil Kastner was elevated to the position of exalted ruler of the Elks and Dr. George Kaden became the president of the Belleville Rotary Club. Private George A. Younginger Post V.F.W. elected Richard M. Doherty as commander and Paul deHegara was named the head of the Belleville Taxpayers and Civic Association.

The town mourned the death of two of its leading citizens with the passing of James T. Boylan, eighty, first president of the Peoples' National Bank & Trust Co., and Dr. H. B. Vail seventy-two.

GET INVITATIONS FOR G.O.P. FETE

Local Leaders Among 150 To Attend Barbour Luncheon Tomorrow

Leading Belleville Republicans have been invited to a luncheon in the Newark Athletic Club tomorrow at 12:30 given by U. S. Senator W. Warren Barbour in the interest of the national G.O.P. program. Heading the list of local people to whom invitations have been extended are Town G.O.P. Chairman Harry Machette, State Senator Homer Zink, Mayor William H. Williams, Commissioners King, Clark and Noll. Others invited include Mrs. Julia Alexander, Mrs. Mamie Kender, Mrs. Margaret Gunderman, Mrs. Sue Metz, Mrs. Mildred Ross, Howard Morgan, Otto Brennich, Thomas Berry and Leonard Roberts.

More than 150 of the county's best known Republicans have been invited to the luncheon, which is one of a series that Senator Barbour is arranging throughout the state. Barbour is not expected to dwell on the state gubernatorial situation in which he has kept a neutral position up until the present. In his speeches recently, the Senator has discussed national problems which will confront the party during the coming election.

Two New Streets

Shovels have started digging on two new streets, which will be known as Birchwood drive and White Oaks terrace, running off Union avenue. They will connect with the extension of Bell street, which now runs dead end off Greylock parkway. Work will also start shortly on the latter street. Fifty or fifty-five houses will be erected in the first section.

Although no official of the Goldfarb concern could be reached for comment late yesterday afternoon, it is understood that the houses will be built to sell for about $6,000. This would be in line with the policy that they maintained while building in Nutley.

The houses there contained all modern improvements, presenting an attractive looking residential development. The company, it was learned, has been interested in locating in Belleville for about a year. It was rumored some time ago that a builder would buy the entire tract from Union avenue to Washington avenue, including the Riviera Park skating rink. Purchase of Washington avenue frontage is not contemplated at present by the builders, it is understood.

HAPPY NEW YEAR FOR THE COPS

Weekend Was Quiet For Them; Celebrators Didn't Imbibe Too Much

The police chalked up this New Year's as one of their happiest for there was little or nothing to keep them busy over the weekend. The celebrators apparently did not imbibe too much for not an entry for intoxication was put on the blotter, and despite the icy streets there was only one serious accident among the six reported. Two cars were badly damaged in a collision at Union avenue and Holmes street on Monday.

The car of David Enda, forty-six, of 25 Bayard street, Nutley, with his son Seymour, sixteen, as a passenger, was in collision with one driven by Edward Becker, twenty-one, of 37 Ross street, East Orange. Enda's car overturned.

All three were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, in the town ambulance. Becker and the elder Enda suffered from lacerations of the face. Young Enda was treated for possible internal injuries.

Theodore Rosmillia, seventeen, of 44 Oakwood avenue, Bloomfield, was treated Friday at Columbus Hospital, Newark, for head injuries after the car he was driving collided in Heckel street with an auto operated by Miss Lavern Kroschek, eighteen, of 34 Darcy street, Newark.

A police call box at Belleville avenue and King place was bowled over Monday when a car driven by David Jones, twenty-six, colored, of 249 Roseland avenue, Essex Fells, skidded on the icy pavement. The box was ripped from its stand and broken.

ONCE AMUSEMENT PARK

Advertising Does Pay, Town Is Learning

The town is learning that advertising does pay. Mayor Williams has a file at his Town Hall office which is chockful of commendatory letters from all parts of the country praising the program that has been conducted to advertise the town as a suitable place for industries. In addition to advertisements in Newark and New York newspapers, ads were inserted in such magazines as Nation's Business, National Realtor and Factory.

The Mayor, who prepared all of the copy used, estimates that the amount of free publicity which Belleville received took up three times as much space as the paid advertisement. Several publications which have received no advertising at all have run stories, the Mayor said.

Nothing Definite On Budget As Yet, Says Mayor

Nothing definite has been done as yet about the town budget for this year. Mayor Williams said yesterday that he did not know when he would call a conference of his fellow commissioners although he has asked each department head to prepare a tentative budget. The various branches at Town Hall have been at work for several weeks making up estimates of what it is thought will be necessary to do their work during 1940. Last year's budget was not finally adopted until the end of May. The 1939 tax rate was $4.78.

Historical Thriller At Capitol

DRUMS ALONG THE MOHAWK

Those days when America was wrestling new homes from the wilderness and fighting for independence and its existence, are depicted in technicolor in "Drums Along the Mohawk" starring Claudette Colbert and Henry Fonda which opens Sunday for three days at the Capitol. The picture is based upon the best seller by Walter D. Edmonds. On the same program is "Dancing Co-ed," a comedy in swing time, in which Artie Shaw makes his cinematic debut with Lana Turner and Richard Carlson. In the cast are Ann Rutherford, Lee Bowman, Thurston Hall, Leon Errol, Roscoe Karns and others.

"Mr. Smith" Comes To Franklin

One of the starring vehicles of the past year in motion pictures will come to the Franklin Theatre in Nutley on Sunday when "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," featuring James Stewart and Jean Arthur, arrives for a five-day run. The picture above shows Stewart with his feet propped up on the desk while Miss Arthur is trying to inspire him to carry on his lone battle in the U. S. Senate.

Exclusively YOURS by Bill Myers

IT'S getting so a cow is about as important to our New Year's as a turkey is to our Thanksgiving! Because, if it wasn't for the cow we'd have no eggnog, and if we had no eggnog we'd have no New Year's — at least that's the way we Northerners are making it. Our guess is that more eggnogs were consumed in Essex County this year than all the eggnogs in South Carolina and Georgia combined. The suburbs, it seems, were not only eggnog crazy this year but still are a little eggnog nogy. It was a three-day case of eggnog-nogy, and hy-de-ho! But, all in all, people apparently took the column's tip to make it Take It Easy Week, for there were but few casualties, excepting the customary kind (which nobody has any sympathy for, anyway). The hotels made a nice bit of change, and the clubs' cash registers are still ringing in their owners' ears as they count over the profits. As for the resolutions, they will be torn down faster than the Christmas tree, and remade as quickly as the next hangover!

"God" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, in all Christian Science Churches and Societies.

The Golden Text is: "Ye shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and none else."

Among the Lesson-Sermon citations is the following from the Bible: "I will hear what God the Lord will speak: for he will speak peace unto his people, and to his saints."

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "This is the doctrine of Christian Science: that divine Love cannot be deprived of its manifestation, or object; that joy cannot be turned into sorrow, for sorrow is not the master of joy; that good can never produce evil; that matter can never produce mind nor life result in death."

A new automobile agency was opened this week with the appointment of Thomas Hunt as the dealer for Belleville and vicinity for the Hudson Motor Car Co. of Detroit. The firm, of which Hunt is president, will be shown as the Blue and White Garage and will be operated at 468 Washington avenue. John Hunt is secretary while his brother, Frank, is treasurer.

Local motorists are invited to visit the showroom and inspect the three new lines of Hudson cars which are on display. Numerous improvements have been made in the 1940 models. Particular emphasis is placed on Hudson's entry into the lowest price field. The new Hudson six has several new features, which the company claims have never before been presented in this price field, including new fabrics and a new style of upholstery in addition to engineering advancement in per-

Kivlen attended Belleville schools and in 1924 took a position with the Kassatt brokerage firm in New York. In 1935 he became connected with Herdman Motor Company in Washington avenue where he remained until his recent appointment to North Essex Buick.

With Herdman, Kivlen won several local and national sales banners. The North Essex Buick Company is the oldest in Essex County, having been founded twenty-two years ago.

one, who had been town and school physician and police surgeon. Mr. Boylan, who had been a resident of town for seventy-five years, was honorary chairman of the bank's board at the time of his death.

Rev. Joseph M. Kelly, pastor of St. Peter's Church, left on a six-week trip to California. He was accompanied by the Misses Jane and Nellie Salmon, Elizabeth Donnelly and Marie McKenna, his niece.

Peter Stevenson was granted a permit by the Town Commission to operate a tavern at 170 Washington avenue. It had formerly been known as the Legion Chateau.

Mrs. Charles Hoffman was elected president of the Legion Auxiliary.

Tragic Auto Fatality

The month marked the most tragic auto fatality of the year in Belleville. Mrs. Vitina Cuso, forty-two year old mother, of 23 Bloomfield avenue, Bloomfield, was killed and two of her children, Frank and John, were struck and injured when they were struck in Franklin street by a hit-run driver. Police later arrested Miss Maria Marchione, twenty-one, of 142 Grove street, Bloomfield whom they charged with being the driver of the car, which was owned by Anthony Cottone of 198 Heckel street and had been taken out by his son, George. Miss Marchione admitted that she was not a licensed driver. Cottone later lost his license for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate an automobile. Miss Marchione was released for the action of the county prosecutor in $3,500 bail.

More than 1,500 went on the annual boat ride sponsored by the Peter's Social Society of St. Peter's Church in August. Miss Teresa K. Salmon was chairman of the committee in charge and Rev. Joseph M. Kelly, pastor of the church, and Rev. John S. Nelligan, assistant pastor, were the honorary chairmen.

Ground was broken for the new $150,000 Hoyer Products Co. plant in Cortlandt and Little streets.

Two couples celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversaries. They were Mr. and Mrs. John T. Burke of 63 Van Houten place and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rawcliffe of 868 Washington avenue.

Miss Helen Brissel, twenty-five, of Newark was held in $1,000 bail for the action of the county prosecutor charged with having operated the car which struck and fatally injured Ernest Hecker, fifty-two, of North Arlington.

Local Woman On Athena

The sinking in the first week of September of the British steamer, S. S. Athena, one of the opening blasts of the European war, was brought close to home for among the survivors were Mrs. Helen McFadden of 194 Greylock parkway and Thomas McCubbin of Montclair, father of Mrs. Charles Berle of 22 Fairview place.

Samuel H. Cocks, president of the Belleville Glee Club, passed away at his home in 162 Hornblower avenue at the age of fifty.

Two Belleville women returned from Europe with tales of the war. Mrs. Katherine Schindler, wife of William Schindler, butcher, of 80 Overlook avenue and her son, William, Jr., ten, told of fleeing from Germany while Miss Indra Bryant, music supervisor in the grade schools, arrived from France where she had been studying during the summer four days after the opening of school.

The Erie Railway Co. announced that it would cut train service on the Paterson-Jersey City branch, eliminating all Sunday trains. Permission was granted them later by the Public Utilities Commission.

Harry Machette was re-elected chairman of the local Republican county committee for the fifth consecutive term.

The Washington avenue business section gained a new resident with the opening of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company's super market at 171 Washington avenue near Rutgers place.

Noll Abolishes Commission

Commissioner Noll caused a jolt in some circles in October when he introduced an ordinance providing for the abolishment of the Recreation Committee, headed by Henry Mason, which had been in existence since 1922. The Town Commission later unanimously adopted Noll's bill and he took charge of the recreation program.

Work was started on the erection of a new office and administration building for the primary battery division of Thomas A. Edison, Inc. in the Silver Lake section. It was estimated that the new building would cost $120,000.

The National Grocery Co. opened a new self-service market at 527 Washington avenue.

Honor Rev. and Mrs. Deckenbach

Rev. and Mrs. Peter Deckenbach were honored by their parishioners on the fifteenth anniversary of his becoming rector of the Christ Episcopal Church.

Court Sancta Maria of the Catholic Daughters of America elected new officers, choosing Miss Florence Kelly as grand regent.

John J. Daly, former town clerk and prominent in Democratic politics, died at his home in 49 Adelaide street at the age of forty-nine.

The Community Chest with Walter Price as campaign manager opened its drive early in November to raise $16,000. More than 200 volunteer workers were on the committee.

The Fewsmith Presbyterian Church opened the celebration of its fifteenth anniversary. Rev. O. Bell Close announced that special services and events would be continued through Christmas Eve.

The First Italian Baptist Church of Silver Lake of which Rev. Benedetto Pascale is pastor marked its twenty-fifth anniversary. Areme Chapter of O.E.S. also observed its silver anniversary.

Frank L. Chambers, executive vice-president of the National Grain Yeast Co., was named chairman of the local chapter of Red Cross.

Former Governor Harold G. Hoffman was the speaker at the Grace Baptist Church Men's Club annual banquet.

The town's two banks mailed more than 3,000 checks for $140,471 to Christmas Club members.

Richard Doherty of the V.F.W. was the grand marshal of the annual Armistice Day parade in which more than 2,000 marched.

Loss of Prominent Men

The holiday season of the final month of 1939 was saddened by the passing of four of the town's leading figures. John A. Breen, seventy-five, of 183 Belleville avenue, who had been a funeral director here for thirty-six years, died after a short illness. The Jersey sporting world was shocked by the death of one of its veteran leaders, Horace Butterworth, the grand old man of scholastic baseball. Butterworth, who was seventy, died while visiting in Baltimore. He had been coach of the baseball nine at East Side High in Newark for a number of years. Death also claimed a prominent physician, Dr. John P. Condon, who died suddenly while visiting one of his patients in Glen Ridge. Dr. Condon was one of the organizers and an officer and director of the First National Bank. The Silver Lake section lost one of its most beloved residents when Rev. Cataldo Alessi, who has been pastor of St. Anthony's Church for thirty-one years, died following an illness.

The Belleville Glee Club presented its winter concert with Fred Hufsmith, tenor soloist, and the Boys' Choir of Christ Church, East Orange, as assisting artists. Arthur F. Jacobus was the director.

The Congregation Ahvas Achim Aushe of Belleville started the celebration of its sixteenth anniversary with Rabbi Rubin R. Dobin in charge.

OPENING A NEW ERA

The year on which we are opening holds much for the development and progress of Belleville's community, industrial and business life. The stage was set in 1939 for the inaugural of a period of advancement which should elevate this town to a higher plane, resulting in greater prosperity and happiness for all. This forecast for the future is predicated on the belief that our leaders, both in public and private business, will continue to direct our affairs with the sound judgment displayed in the past. In painting a rosy mural for the twelve months ahead of us, we must keep our feet on the ground and our heads not too far up in the clouds. The shortest route to failure is a sudden over-expansion or acquisition of wealth which shows no mercy when the bottom falls out.

Belleville for the future is in a position of which many municipalities are envious and few can boast. Capitalization on this will depend almost entirely on the use of common-sense business judgment in all that is undertaken.

The decade which has just been concluded is one that will not be forgotten and will have an important niche in the town's history. Most significant was the return from the brink of financial despair to a position where all felt that there was some economic security and an opportunity for the future. No one can deny that Belleville was at a low ebb in the early '30's. Few can forget the days when baby bonds were as common as nickels and every public employee and many business people felt that the time would never come when they would again see an honest-to-goodness American dollar.

The change was not accomplished by the waving of any wand and the muttering of a few magic words. The town pulled itself up by the boot straps through the dint of hard work and effort by the municipal officials in cooperation with both state and private financial interests. When mutterings are heard about some local matters today, we cannot help but think back to those black days and contrast the insignificance of some present troubles with the problems that beset us in the midst of the depression era.

Another period as changing as the 1930's decade will be difficult to find in local history. Opening as it did shortly after the roof fell in during the late part of 1929, it was only natural that Belleville because it contained numerous industries and that many of its residents depended upon these concerns for their existence, was dealt a hard blow. Some of these same industries and others which have been lured here through the town's accessibility and a fine job of municipal salesmanship, have done most of the pushing which has put Belleville back on the road to progress.

We are opening a new decade and what is hoped will be a new era in Belleville history. We have celebrated our 100th anniversary as a town. The first 100 years are the hardest. Let us work to make the next 100 the best.

COMMUNITY OF HOMES

Home developers have been quick to see that the industrial advancement contemplated in Belleville means that more people will be looking for places in which to live. It is important that these home seekers be acquainted with this town's advantages as a home community for we want them to accept Belleville as ideal in which to reside, just as we are pleased to see them earn their living here.

This town has lagged behind some of the surrounding neighbors in home development in the past two years. The announcements by several builders who are already active here that they are planning a greater construction program for the new year and the coming to Belleville of one of North Jersey's largest home building firms is good news.

While putting out the welcome mat to good industries, Belleville does not want to have the title of a "factory town" hung on it. A good residential development is the backbone of all progressive communities. Manufacturers have responded to the town's invitation to locate here. Our efforts should now be bent toward interesting not only builders but prospective home buyers in settling here.

Optimism is the note of the building and real estate business for the year. Throughout New Jersey there was a noticeable upswing in home buying during 1939. The big share of the credit for this upward trend goes to the Federal Housing Administration which made it easier for the average man to own his own home. The gains made in industry and general business conditions in the last half of the old year are already reflected in the announcements from the building trades.

VERY MUCH UNSETTLED

The opening skirmish in this year's gubernatorial race is four months away, yet both the Democratic and Republican chieftains are no nearer to a decision than they were six months ago. There is only one thing that seems definite. Perth Amboy's cherubic gift to those who go in for listening to after dinner speeches, former Governor Harold G. Hoffman will be one of the G.O.P. candidates on the mark when the shooting starts. While he has shied away from any outright comment on his candidacy, Hoffman is doing a thorough job of keeping his political family in good humor for the May party. Nothing quite so optimistic can be reported for the other side of the fence where the Clean Government Republicans are trying to hatch out some opposition to Hoffman.

Their position is desperate for if that faction of the G.O.P. is to hold sway they must select a man who has an even chance of defeating Hoffman. Murray H. Coggeshall, the Morris County G.O.P. boss, invited fifty of the leaders to a dinner in Newark last night where over the demitasse they conferred on a candidate. What the result of this conference was—if anything—may not be known for some days to come.

Whether it is to buoy up the spirit of party workers or that they are just attempting to make themselves believe that it is true, there are some Clean Government loyalists who still insist that President Dodds of Princeton will forsake the halls of Old Nassau for the political arena. Dr. Dodds has pretty definitely indicated that he prefers Princeton and its youthful problems to trying to balance a state budget and satisfy a pack of hungry politicians. Still in the running is the Newark minister, Dr. Lester H. Cleé, whom many regard as the man most suitable to be pitted against the pudgy ex-Governor.

The Democratic house is apparently in no better order than the Republican political manse. While outwardly there is a lot more calm than there is in the G.O.P. camp, the Democrats are having their troubles. Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City may still hold the balance of power in the number of votes cast, but the unfavorable publicity and the jams in which Hague has been caught in the past year or so have altered the opinion of him held by even some of the most loyal of Democrats. Probably the most important point to be decided in the coming year is whether Hague or one of the more suave leaders is to hold forth as the recognized No. 1 man of the party.

If men such as James Cromwell of Somerville and Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison are to be moved into the limelight, Hague will have to take a back seat. They are of a different political school than Hague. They have gained their positions in the political sunlight by conviction rather than by brow-beating and dictating. If either one of them were to be elected, Hague and his legions would find them more difficult to handle and to force to be obedient to their wishes.

While we know no more about Edison's position in the gubernatorial picture than the other political second guessers, our viewpoint is that his standing has been enhanced as a possible nominee for the office in Trenton's State House. Some regard President Roosevelt's appointment of Edison as permanent Secretary of the Navy as closing the door on the West Orange resident's likelihood of becoming a Democratic candidate for governor. There is no definite assurance that President Roosevelt will seek the Presidency for a third term.

Thus, Mr. Edison may be out in the cold within a year and aspiring to continued success in public life may be receptive to the acceptance of the party's gubernatorial nomination. Certainly, it is hard to visualize how his present position will prove a handicap to whatever fate the party gods may hold for him. His name will be in the limelight for the Navy Department is currently an important one and Edison should repeatedly gain much recognition in the press.

WELL, WELL, LOOK WHO'S HERE!

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

by Meador Wright

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

Events in New Jersey's highly complicated gubernatorial race are moving at a rapid speed these days. Last Saturday Charles Edison (his name is not Charles A. Edison as Newark News editorial writers repeatedly mistake it) was named Secretary of the Navy. This Wednesday Dr. Lester H. Cleé made his historic statement that he was not a candidate. Other announcements may be forthcoming before these words appear in print.

While the Edison appointment and the Cleé letter were both of great potential importance, neither decreased very much the uncertainties in their respective parties. Edison has not said that he would not run. Until he makes a definite announcement to that effect he is as much a potential candidate for Governor of New Jersey as Roosevelt is a potential candidate for re-election as President. Nothing short of a statement along General Sherman's lines that if nominated they will not run and if elected will not serve will remove either from consideration.

Edison As Weapon

Cleé's statement of renunciation may have a great deal more behind it than appears on the surface. Basic strategy of Arthur T. Vanderbilt and other Anti-Hoffman leaders is to maneuver Hoffman into such a position that he, like Cleé, will agree to retire in the interest of Republican harmony. Strangely enough, it is the potential Edison candidacy that is being used as the most telling weapon against Hoffman.

The latter is being told that under no condition save that of a Republican national landslide could he hope to defeat Edison should the latter be the Democratic nominee. The corollary to this argument is that Hoffman's probable nomination would be the very factor that would make Edison decide to run if he is giving any consideration to the matter. The Edison candidacy is likewise being used as an argument for those who favor President Dodds of Princeton. The Dodds advocates are telling each other—as well as him—that he is the one man against whom Edison would make no headway. One reason why Dodds is favored above others is the belief that if Edison and James H. R. Cromwell run together for Governor and Senator, one of the main planks in their platform will be the pledge to put into effect the recommendations of the Princeton Survey which Cromwell has helped to finance.

Worthless To Dodds

Such a platform plank would dovetail nicely with a general campaign in which Hoffman would be the Republican nominee. The very fact of the former Governor's candidacy would drive many independent Republican voters into voting for a man like Edison. The Princeton Survey plank would attract others. But such a plank would be worthless were Dodds—the man who actually directed the survey—the Republican nominee.

The general feeling is that Edison's appointment as Secretary of the Navy will make him less inclined to run for Governor, but in this I do not share. Edison would be under no compulsion to resign his Navy post until a few weeks before the general election. This would carry him to within three or four months of the end of the present administration, when presumably his Navy job would be finished anyway unless Roosevelt should be elected for a third term. It would likewise fit in well with Edison's reluctance to take part in political campaigns. The primary could be ignored entirely, and the general election campaign would be short.

Alderney Dairy 1940 House of Health

These two great buildings in Bridge street, Newark, housing Alderney Dairy Company's general offices, testing laboratories, pasteurizing and ice cream plants, are miracles of cleanliness that form one of Essex County's great monuments to health. The huge Alderney neon sign atop the plant as well as the giant replica of a quart bottle of Alderney milk are familiar beacons for motorists and other travelers. 1940 finds the Alderney Newark plant, with its sub-stations in Orange, Montclair, Hackensack, Elizabeth, Plainfield, Jersey City and Asbury Park, an important part of New Jersey's great milk industry.—Adv.

MUSICAL REVIEWS

The Realm of Music

If January is any criterion, we shall have an affluent year, musically speaking, for this month's calendar is crammed with musical events of all kinds. It would seem appropriate to list them for the benefit of those who wish to follow activities closely in this section.

The Newark Museum's concert presenting the Oxford Ensemble, an instrumental group, is on Sunday afternoon. The program begins at 4 and is free to the public. Friday evening, January 12, at the Bloomfield Woman's Club, Hazel Ellsworth, young Belleville pianist, will be the artist at the monthly musicale given by the music department of the club.

Miss Ellsworth will be assisted by Peter Arella, Newark violinist. Vladimir Horowitz, pianist, will appear at the Mosque Wednesday evening, the 17th, under the auspices of the Griffith Music Foundation for the benefit of the New Jersey College for Women Scholarship Fund of the Woman's Club of Orange. Since Mr. Horowitz is Maestro Arturo Toscanini's son-in-law, and Toscanini has promised to attend as guest of honor, this event will probably be a colorful one.

For the same evening is scheduled the January meeting of the Music Educators' Association, featuring a stringed group. It is possible that this date will be changed

Iron Business Still One Of New Jersey's Industries

The advent of new industry, or the reactivation and improvement of former industry in New Jersey, is good news.

In mentioning in an earlier article that New Jersey was once an iron mining center, I said the discovery of vast quantities of ore in Pennsylvania ultimately led to the abandoning of the iron industry in New Jersey. A letter from R. E. Crockett, superintendent of the Scrub Oaks Division of the Alan Wood Steel Company in Dover, reports it is true iron ore mining in New Jersey became almost non-existent after 1850 and the industry was practically inactive for more than thirty years, but during the last ten years the mining of iron ore has been making a comeback in this state.

New methods of mining and concentrating iron ores, recently developed and now being used in New Jersey, will enable the New Jersey industry to meet competition in the Eastern states and point the way to greater activity and production than ever before, Mr. Crockett believes.

The mining superintendent says New Jersey iron ore industry's worst competition in normal times will be from foreign sources. For example, iron ore can be mined from a hillside in North Africa by steam shovels, operated by a native runner who is paid the small wage of ninety cents a day, and the ore can then be shipped to the United States as ballast in empty returning cargo boats at extremely low freight rates. There is no duty on this incoming ore, according to Mr. Crockett, which means real competition to New Jersey's mining interests.

Mr. Crockett expects the Scrub Oaks Mine, which employs 500 men and is the largest of New Jersey's iron mines, will produce more than 700,000 tons of ore this year. There are only three other mines now active in this state, compared to the large number of small mines active prior to 1890,

MUSICAL SILHOUETTES

A Musical Commentary by Leon Carson

Clippings From Williamsburg, Va.

The history of this delightful old country-city extends into four centuries, its principal historic interest being centered around the 18th century when it was the capitol and metropolis of the Virginia Colony. Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. has for the past thirteen years poured money into the restoration of this quaint place, and although the task is not yet half completed, one can imagine himself back in the days of the early 18th century so complete, accurate and painstaking is the program of the restoring of Colonial lustre to its own America.

It is interesting to note, in looking through the old records, that 18th Century Municipal life in Williamsburg, Virginia's colonial capitol, seems to have reflected the earnest desire of the inhabitants to "live in the same neat manner; dress after the same modes and behave themselves exactly as the gentry in London." We find that their newspaper advertised the works of composers then popular in London (in the large sense of the word there were no native American composers at that time). There are existing records of the colonists owning harpsichords, spinets, hautboys, French horns, flutes, organs, harmonicas and pianos, many of them manufactured "by the most eminent hand in London." We saw in the Grand Ball Room of the Governor's Palace a most beautiful Kirkman (of London) Harpsichord, with the date 1761 on it. Perhaps, after all, this musical culture of the middle South was at this time, superior to that of the much vaunted New Englanders.

Many "Parcels of Musik" came over on the sailing packets those days, many works of Handel, Rameau, Corelli, and Scarlotti for the harpsichord. The Johann Christian Bach Concerto and the Abel Sonata, together with 'catches,' ballads and miscellaneous songs of Henry Purcell, Richard Leveridge and other well-known English composers.

Not only in the Palace could music be heard, but in many Williamsburg households, and Old Colonel London Carter of Sabine Hall wrote in his 1771 diary, "No news of any sort . . . only that Ld. Dunmore's dogs had raised the price of beef in the market of Wmnsburgh, and I do suppose they must make a goodly addition to the present modes of concerts, for I hear from every house a constant tutting may be listened to, from one instrument or another, whilst the vocal dogs will no doubt complement the howl," and so on, for through the medium of the recently organized Harpsichord Concerts given at the Palace each May and October, music here still speaks for itself with a voice of great beauty and authority.

In searching through some old records we came across the following promise held out by the managers of the County Fair near Williamsburg in 1737: "A Quire of Ballads to be sung by a number of songsters: the best songster to have the prize, and all of them to have liquor sufficient to clear their wind-pipes." Fair enough, and with this refreshing item of interest, we close.

Program of Vladimir Horowitz Will Be Discussed

The musical program of Vladimir Horowitz, consisting of compositions by Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin and Debussy, will be discussed by Lehman Engel, composer, conductor and pianist, at his lecture Sunday afternoon, January 14, in the Griffith Auditorium at 3:45. The lecture is the fourth in a series of five on compositions performed by pianists presented by the Griffith Music Foundation during the season. Horowitz's recital takes place Wednesday evening, January 17, at the Mosque Theatre, Newark, for the benefit of the Associate Alumnae of the New Jersey College for Women.

because of the Horowitz concert. Wednesday morning, January 17, the third in the series of lectures being given by Eleanor Bacon-Peck of Belleville, before the Contemporary of Newark will be held. The subject is "The Polk Song" as a Forerunner of the Suite." The same talk will be given before the Bloomfield Woman's Club the following Wednesday morning, January 24. Jussi Bjoerlinge, Metropolitan tenor, will give a recital at the Mosque Wednesday night, January 24. The following night is the date of the first musicale in the Nutley Symphony Society series. Held in the high school there, the evening will be given over to the performance of chamber music works as a contrast to the full symphony concert presented earlier in the season. Alexander Brailowsky comes to the Mosque Wednesday evening, January 31, as the third artist in the master piano series, another Griffith Music Foundation activity.

DOGS

by Lawrence Torley

Changed Days Because it is such a simple matter to buy good dogs and keep them, few in the United States realize that they are enjoying privileges that were almost denied to the common people of other times. Old books in the library of the American Kennel Club, governing body of pure-bred dogs, reveal the many restrictions placed on dog-ownership throughout the centuries. And in modern times, this country is one of the few that does not penalize by excessive taxes those who maintain a number of dogs.

Good dogs, and particularly the pure-bred specimens, always were recognized by the landed nobility as being distinctly useful for sport and guarding purposes. They wished to retain this balance of power over the poor, and they investigated laws that made it distinctly dangerous for the common people to give expression to their love of dogs and the sport that went with them.

The preservation of game for the sole sport of the great landowners was always one of the chief reasons in back of the restrictive measures. If a poor man owned a dog that might be used for hunting, it had to be so mutilated that it no longer could serve that purpose. That is why the Old English sheepdog lost its tail. Without a tail it could not turn fast enough to be of value in hunting. Curiously the appearance of the dog without a tail was so unique that it became popular. Subsequent selective breeding resulted in the modern English sheepdog, which often whelped without a tail.

Violation of the old brought penalties so harsh that dog-owning by any but nobility was at a standstill for many centuries. Today, America in the lead, dog-owning is general, not the exception; and pure-bred dogs constitute one of the world's largest divisions of sport.

Junior Music Club Marks Anniversary With Party

The Junior Music Club celebrated its first anniversary with a Christmas party last week at the studio of Mrs. John F. Doyle of 17 Wilber street. Christmas carols were sung with piano accompaniments by members. There were games and refreshments. A short business meeting preceded the social, at which time it was decided work on "My Musical Garden" books would be continued indefinitely. Those present were Suzanne Seiler, Phyllis Wall, Betty Fulton, Alan Rosenberg, Walter Shope, William Best, Robert Thorn and Jack Doyle.
