

SLATE TO OPPOSE CLEAN FORCES MAY FORM

Local Support Reported For Plan; Formation Is Up To Hoffman

There is support being aroused in Belleville for a county slate to be entered in the May Primaries which would oppose the Clean Government organization. Some of those who are receptive to the idea are also affiliated with the Hoffman-for-Governor movement locally. Leader in the movement to form an anti-Clean Government slate is Mayor Herbert Kruttschnitt of Irvington. When the last opposition ticket was put in the Primaries to run against the Clean Government candidates two years ago, Commissioner Louis Noll was actively associated with it. He is campaign manager for the Hoffman-for-Governor Club which is headed by Elmer Hyde.

An offer is reported to have been made to Belleville workers by those interested in forming the new ticket to permit them to name one local man on the proposed Assembly slate. The decision on whether or not the ticket will enter the field apparently rests with former Governor Harold G. Hoffman, who is candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. While some insist that Hoffman has already given his assent to the formation of anti-Clean Government slate, there are others who are friendly to Hoffman that claim that the pudge politician from South Amboy has not said that he favors any active campaign in the county.

Oppose Forming It

Some of Hoffman's friends opposing the formation of the ticket insist that the formation of an opposition slate could only serve to make the Clean Government forces work harder and turn out a bigger vote for Hendrickson. While they concede that Hoffman will not carry the county, they argue that Hendrickson's majority can best be kept down by the present state of affairs.

With the help of the Newark organization and the silent but active campaigning that has been done in Hoffman's interest in the suburbs, they calculate that he will be better off. On the other side of the picture is a group which contends that this is the year to make a stand against the Clean Government forces. They would like to get a grip on some of the patronage in the county which Clean Government now does out in wholesale fashion. Although there has been a denial that there will be any big fight for the control of the local county committee, there are persistent reports that candidates pledged to support Hoffman and the man he chooses as his choice for county leader will be entered in the local race.

Elective School Board? Maybe, 'n Maybe Not

Some Are Thinking Out Loud About It But They Are Not Talking For The Reporters;
It's News To The Mayor

There's a dearth of news in the town's political quarters at present, but going around the local "grapevine" circuit is a story that is gaining momentum. In a year that is devoid of local political issues, it may take hold and amount to something. The only trouble is that nobody wants to be quoted, even those who say that action soon is a certainty. There's talk of trying to steam up enthusiasm for a referendum to make the Board of Education elective instead of appointive.

Those interested will talk to reporters up to the point of being quoted and then — sh-shoosh. Mayor Williams, who generally knows what's hot on the political wires, said yesterday afternoon that he'd missed that one. If true, says Hizonner, it would only be a move to make the school board a political organization. The school board members are now appointed by the Mayor.

Present Board Okay

Those who did the ear-whispering about the idea insisted that there was nothing wrong with the present board. Oh, no. There's higher motive than that in the desire to make the school board an elective body. There's no interest in the schools now. They point to the .60-0 vote on the budget back in February. If the public had a chance to choose the people who would be members on the board it would stir up more interest in the schools.

One of the service organizations is reported to have more than a passing interest in the idea. But, up until the present, that's all it is, an idea.

THIEVES ENTER ELKS' CLUB

Open Members' Lockers,
Taking Cash and Articles;
Tools Stolen

Tangibles and cash worth nearly $75 were stolen from the Elks' Club yesterday morning between 2:30 and 6. The break was reported by Charles Oliver, janitor of the club. Patrolman Raymond Domgard, who investigated, reported that the thieves had cut the screen and broken the glass in a window on the north side of the building.

Seven members' lockers were broken into and the contents scattered. Reported missing were cigarettes, cigars, a radio, several bottles of liquor and the cash from the juke box. It is said that the thieves confined their activities to the basement where the bar and grill, the bowling alleys and the private members' room are located.

Another theft was reported at the same time by the Jackson Construction Company. Thieves broke into the tool shed of the company at its development at Hornblower avenue and Lloyd place and stole saws, hammer, hatchet, brace and bits, chisels, plane and other tools.

Truckers Among Those Fined

State Inspectors Nab Them
At Railroad Crossing;
Speeders Pay

Motor vehicle law violators took another licking before Recorder Smith last night at the Wednesday police court when they were assessed fines and costs totaling $246. As usual the majority of the penalties were paid by Washington avenue speeders, out a new note crept in when it was learned that state inspectors have been watching railroad crossings and nabbed operators of nine trucks for crossing the tracks without coming to a full stop.

Each of the latter were fined $35 plus $2 costs. They were Henry Clay of 84 Magnolia avenue; Charles R. Misivocchia of 31 Belmont avenue; Josiah Abersold of Lyndhurst; Joseph Kerner, Gaetano Esposito and Thomas Goldrick of Newark; Frank Pitch, Samuel Aramando and Edward Meeker of Bloomfield.

STADIUM WILL BE READY JULY 1

Waters Denies Ground Settling
Possibilities; Not Sure
About Streets

The baseball field and track at the new municipal athletic field at the Turf Bog will be ready for public use before July 1, Commissioner Patrick A. Waters announced yesterday. The stadium will be ready a month earlier.

The announcement was made in a statement issued by Waters and Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan in which many questions which had been asked of the commissioner, the engineer and other officials, were answered.

In response to queries regarding the water table and its distance from the surface to the playing field, Waters stated that the table was three feet down. In certain sections water is laying on the field but he pointed out that no filling has been done there nor have the drains been constructed. He expects this work to be done some time in the summer.

"We are lucky that the water table is near the surface," he said, "because the water will prevent the peat from settling appreciably." On the question of settling he said that there was no danger of damage to the stadium because of ground dropping. The stands are built on twelve-foot piers and do not rest on peat. The ground settled a foot when it was drained in 1933-34 and has dropped little since then.

One Diamond Ready

He said he expected one of the softball fields to be completed this summer but could make no promises regarding the other. He said he could not speak definitely on the completion of the streets surrounding the bog. It was pointed out that Nolton street and Grey-

Glen Gray Will Swing Out At High School

Famed Casa Loma Band Will Appear At B. H. S.
This Afternoon; Brought Here By Frank
Dailey; Proceeds To Help Music Groups

High school jitterbugs will be in seventh heaven this afternoon when Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra visit the school to play in a special assembly program at 2:30. Gray will be the first of several, "name" bands who will make their appearance in the local school between now and the end of the term in June.

Arrangements were completed last week by Hugh D. Kittle, principal, and Frank Dailey, manager of the Meadowbrook on the Newark-Pompton turnpike at Cedar Grove, where the Casa Lomas are now playing. The orchestra has received considerable applause around Belleville since Tuesday night when it played for the annual card party and dance of the Lions Club.

Funds raised by the small admission charge to the concert will be used to defray the expenses of the various musical organizations at the high school. The school's musical program now includes a fifty-piece band, a sixty-five-piece orchestra, a mixed glee club of 110 voices, an a cappella choir which numbers twenty-five members, a beginners' band and orchestra class and a music theory class.

Glen will be introduced by Miss Jean Dailey of 188 Division avenue, niece of Frank and Vincent Dailey, managers of the Meadowbrook. She is the daughter of John P. Dailey, former president of the Board of Education and present personnel manager of Wallace & Tiernan Company.

Featured with the orchestra will be Kenny Sargent and Pee Wee Hunt, vocalists.

Casa Loma is unique among the many famous orchestras which have played at Meadowbrook, not only because it is so popular that it actually broke records there during Holy Week, but also because it is a cooperative corporation, in which each member holds an equal share. Glen Gray, in addition to being the leader, is also the president of Casa Loma Orchestra, Inc., and Sargent and Hunt are respectively vice-president and secretary-treasurer, in addition to being exceptionally well-known ballad and rhythm vocalists and equally well-known

Why not make this year your "Big Moment?"

Business is Good, Thanks—so you'll get plenty for your old car and more in your new one at your Buick dealers

Above is the Buick SPECIAL 4-door touring sedan $996*

WE'RE talking here to those thousands who have not yet achieved a lifetime ambition. That is to say, they don't yet own a Buick.

We want to point out a few facts about the Buick SPECIAL pictured here—show how it swings wide the door on a golden opportunity.

Step into this sleek sweetheart. Your treadle foot touches off a trigger—quick Dynaflex straight-eight engine that's just about the smoothest thing that runs, thanks to micro-poised-balancing after assembly.

Swing through the gear changes and you find the same easy, finger-flick shifting as in the most costly Buick. And the same recoil-mounted Knee-Action soaking up bumps before they reach your hand on the steering wheel.

automatic cut-off, built-in automatic choke, oil-filter, high-capacity water pump—they're all there.

Here's the smart style, the blithe performance and the solid, substantial Buick quality of materials and workmanship that make this the car you've been looking forward to.

Yet the figures on the SPECIAL make you think it's a six instead of a husky straight-eight. Indeed, when you count in the included equipment, it costs no more than some cars with lower advertised prices.

So look into the Buick SPECIAL. See if this isn't the time to "step up" to the car you've always wanted.

You can take a trial drive any time just by asking your Buick dealer.

Prices begin at
for Business Coupe—Sedan prices start at $955—

Automobile Concern Finds That Business Warrants Increase Its Service

Service quarters of Tracey Motors, Inc., of 320 Washington avenue, local distributors for Pontiac, will be doubled by May 1, President Stanley E. Tracey of 6 Division avenue announced yesterday. The company is building an addition to its present service garage which will increase the size of that department to 5,000 square feet, approximately double the present size.

However, Sales Manager A. Theodore Widland and Service Manager Edward Keefe estimate that Tracey will be able to handle about three times its present volume. The addition was necessitated, Tracey said, by the fact that the business of the firm shows a forty-two per cent increase over last year.

The addition, which will cost $3,500, is being built in the rear of 326-328 Washington avenue. As foundation it was necessary to put in a sixteen-foot concrete wall and fill with dirt, because of the steep grade. A fireproof door sixteen feet wide will be cut between the old and new sections. The new part will be of cement block construction and will house the wash rack and another grease rack.

Tracey Motors was founded in 1936 with two employees. Today there are twenty-six in the organization.

Young People Learn About "Doubting Thomas"

The Young People of Fewsmith Presbyterian Church ate supper with a "twin" last Sunday night. The surprise unseen guest was introduced to the group by Dr. O. L. Close. The "twin" was Thomas, one of the twelve disciples, the "doubting Thomas" of Bible. Dr. Close urged all present not to be "doubting Thomases" like this unseen guest, who would not believe the story of the resurrection and had lost faith.

About fifty-five young people attended. Decorations were in pink and white. Miss Anne Eberhard was in charge of arrangements and was assisted by members of the All-Youth committee. The younger girls of the church.

On Tuesday, April 30, the All-Youth group is planning a cafe supper for the church at 8 p.m.

Hoffman Club Switches Meeting Night From Monday To Thursday

Meeting night for the Belleville Hoffman-for-Governor Club has been changed from Monday to Thursday. The move was decided in the belief that Thursday would be more convenient for the majority of the members, said A. Noll, campaign manager.

The Elks Club will be used for meetings instead of the new design headquarters at 360 Washington avenue, Noll said. Headquarters will not be enough to house the crowds that have been attending the meetings, he added.

School Survey By State To Start Monday

The long-awaited survey of the school districts will begin Monday, according to the best information possessed by Herbert C. Schmutz, president of the Board of Education. Schmutz said yesterday that he expected two men from the State Department of Education to do the work.

They will study the town maps and school enrollments and make recommendations regarding enlargement and building of schools.

Oldsmobile Sales Up

Oldsmobile sales of Sixes and Eights for the second ten-day period of March totaled 5,968 cars and gained more than forty-nine per cent over the 3,999 sold during this period last year, according to a report issued in Lansing by D. E. Ralston, general sales manager of Oldsmobile.

Oldsmobile sales from January 1 to March 20, inclusive, now total 36,472 cars or an increase of thirty-seven per cent over the 26,680 cars sold by Oldsmobile dealers during this period of the preceding year.

"Oldsmobile has made consistent sales gains over last year during every ten-day period since then," new cars were announced last fall," said Ralston. "These increases have not been confined to any particular section of the nation nor have they been limited to any one of Oldsmobile's three lines of cars, a record which points to improvement in business generally as well as to one of the biggest years in Oldsmobile history," he added.

IF YOU see a pleasant-looking chap happily devouring a fresh broiled lobster in the Robert Treat's cocktail lounge any Friday lunch hour, you can be sure it is John Cass, Newark Evening News art director. . . . Cass is as punctual about this as the office of his paper's State, City & County or Wall St. editions. No member of the paper's staff lives any farther away from his desk than Cass (he has a bungalow at Fayson Lake) yet he is as punctual as the Spring opening of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus. . . . With a Hollywood background for his mastery of photographic art, he has a personal nonchalance that smacks of Continental training, but never having been abroad, he finds himself mystified by his keen gourmet sense for the unusual in fine foods. . . . He for ever is seeking the right sort of Bar le Duc, Pate de foie Gras, or Terrapin stew. . . . He wholeheartedly enjoys rare vintage cheeses. . . . Recently he went into ecstasy over Rainbow trout that had been flown into Newark from Colorado. . . . He delights in Michigan frogs' legs. . . . He has a favorite table at the Treat. . . . Some of the boys have nicknamed it "Casa Newsa."

"LITTLE AL," the bellhop, says modern youngsters like the flashy sports cars best because there are more smiles to the gallon!

AFTER watching the dancers in the West Orange Kungsholm for an hour or so the other night, an elderly gentleman called Einar, the headwaiter, over to his table. "You know," said the old man, "the more I see of this modern dancing the more I think it's the sport of clings!"

WHICH reminds us of a story we heard the other day at the Alderney Milk Barn on Route 10. A party, visiting the barn, had along a little English boy just arrived from London on a visit here. An attendant took him on a tour of the adjoining model farm where he was quite impressed by the fine Alderney cows, the week-old calves, the too, too formidable bulls. He was further impressed by the Alderney pasteurization process, the almost human machines that fill and cap and hood the Alderney bottles.

Finally, he was shown a place literally filled to the brim with Alderney bottles about to be sterilized. He seemed more intent about this phase of the tour than anything he had seen. When he returned to his people at the Alderney barn his eyes were wide with excitement.

"You must 'av' a look," he stammered. "They've even a place where they GROW the bottles!"

SHORT, shorts: Maurice Shaw's dance orchestra is playing at the Kungsholm now. . . . The West Orange Embassy Club is now The Mosque. . . . Ex-Mayor Fred Breidenbach, stricken with pneumonia in Florida, is (happily) on the mend. . . . The Treat's Lloyd Robinson is back from a fortnight at Hollywood. . . . John Tos is readying new innovations at Livingston's popular Condor cafe restaurant. —Adv.

Outlook Good For Retailers, Rotarians Are Told

The outlook for retail merchandising is very bright, Daniel Eisenberg, proprietor of a retail store and president of the Chamber of Commerce of Plainfield, said, at the luncheon of the Rotary Club yesterday at the Forest Hill Field Club.

"With changes going on everywhere around us," Eisenberg said, "the retail business has not changed. People are still horse-traders." He pointed out that retailers deal with people and not merchandise, that the retail trade today offers splendid opportunities for young people preparing to enter business.

Modern Girls Are Problem To Tavernkeepers

Excise Board Reaches That Conclusion In Freeing Sany Christian Of Charges Brought By ABC Men; Difficult To Tell Ages, Decision States

The "modern American girl" offers a problem to tavern-keepers, the Excise Board decided Tuesday night in reaching a decision in the charges brought by two State Alcoholic Beverage Control agents against Sany Christian, who operates a tavern at 751 Washington avenue. In acquitting Christian of the charge that he had permitted a waiter to serve liquor to minors, the board said, "The practical knowledge of the members of this Excise Board advise that the most conscientious tavern operator can have difficulty in deciding ages of youthful appearing persons, particularly in deciding the ages of the modern American young girl."

The run-in between Christian and the ABC agents is a closed matter as far as the local board is concerned, but there is still a charge which has been filed with the Grand Jury, accusing Christian of selling and serving liquor to minors.

Minors Are Nineteen

It took the Board of Commissioners, sitting as an Excise Board, slightly more than one hour to reach a decision after they had listened to two hours of testimony Monday night. Christian was arrested by police on the complaint of the ABC men on March 16, along with Louis Marone of 19 King street, a waiter in the tavern.

Daniel R. Hara of 43 Holmes street and Samuel Kaufman, investigators for the State Alcoholic Beverage Control, testified that they had visited Christian's tavern and, after having been there about two hours, saw Marone serve beer to a table at which were two couples. They called the police, they said, and arrested Christian and Marone.

Hearing Two Hours

The minors allegedly served the beer, Lottie Stelmack of Lyndhurst, Ruth Jenkins of 545 Washington avenue, and Robert Zeiss of 273 Main street, all testified that they were not asked their ages when they were served. Their testimony was corroborated by Frank Simeone, twenty-two, of 113 Ralph street, who was with the party.

Edward Abramson of 85 Hornblower avenue, counsel for the defendant, attacked the veracity of the minors. Each was asked if he or she had discussed the case with anyone before the trial and each replied negatively. Abramson then made them admit that they had talked to the ABC investigators and to police and branded them as liars when they reversed their previous testimony. In defense Abramson pointed out that Christian had issued definite instructions to his waiters not to serve those who appeared to be minors, that the back room where the party was served was dimly lighted and it was easy to mistake ages, that Hara, the night of the arrest, said he "surmised" the waiter, Marone, asked the ages of youthful patrons at another table when he (Hara) saw the waiter talking to them, that the minors had been served beer in other places, the latter point being made to prove that the appearance of the witnesses belied their ages.

The decision of the board as read by Mayor Williams stated: "The Excise Board finds that Sany Christian is not guilty as charged in complaint. This decision is based on the following: "That evidence of obtaining signatures of persons of youthful appearance but of legal age indicates effort to obey law. "That evidence of A. B. C. investigator he surmised age was discussed with one group of patrons by the waiter indicates action in obeying law. "That evidence of two prosecutor's witness that they were served beer in places elsewhere indicates age of patrons is difficult to determine. "That evidence that birch beer

OVER THE WOMAN'S DESK

by Peggy Patterson

We wonder if you are passing lightly over the really worthwhile things that are being written on the vital problem of youth and unemployment. Are women in general seriously enough concerned with this crying need of our times? Perhaps we feel that it is something to be fought out between youth and its prospective employers who are usually men. Let us be sure that it does not go deeper than that.

The most enlightening expose of this problem which we have recently read brings out the fact that neither youth nor business is to blame for the situation which exists today where the need for capable workers cannot seem to be brought into harmony with the enormous group of capable young people now unemployed. The old-fashioned method of training, apprenticeship and employment was based on the supposition that the young applicant knew that he had a long term of subordination to serve before he would gain recognition. Then came the era when the young man or woman was developed as far as education could go into a very definite personality and, thus established, went out to find the niche into which he fitted the best. In other words, he was a finished product in his own estimation before he applied for a connection. In some cases it worked with astounding results. These individuals who checked into the situation in which they could do the most good actually rose to their heights without the accustomed delay of apprenticeship and service. And this established a precedent which has unfortunately been adopted by too many. For the great group in which most of our young people find themselves it simply doesn't work.

Need Happy Medium

And now, having run the two extremes, all sensible people are agreed that a happy medium must be arrived at. Youth must have free rein to bring out the best that is in them coupled with the knowledge that cooperation, apprenticeship and even subordination are absolute essentials if they are to get jobs and hold them. For the present generation, who has been too busy finding out what they are, instead of what they can do, the problem is a very real one and one which they and the business forces of the world must work out together. But for group who are now students in the numerous high schools and colleges of the country this painful adjustment may be avoided if they will look ahead purposefully. The individuals who are interviewing applicants for work today express the greatest need for young people who know what they want to do, who are fitted for some very definite occupation and who have learned through practical experience since childhood how to organize their time. Is there any one of these valuable qualifications which cannot be given to a growing child right in his own home? Must these absolutely necessary weapons be left to the nebulous future, to chance contacts with teachers, companions and employers? Perhaps no one will ever place them in the hands of your son or daughter if you do not. And you can do it for him just as successfully as you guard his health, morale and appearance. Authorities say that children should be pointing toward their careers even before they reach high school. There will be something which holds a strong fascination for your youngster. Watch for it. Encourage him to spend his spare time working on it and studying it. And give him duties which will make it necessary for him to organize his time, to fit himself to a schedule, to fight for a chance at his favorite occupation. If this takes us back to the time when youth looked upon the world as something which could be conquered with his own weapons we will have made an enormous stride in the right direction.

Decorators Are Back

Do you miss the gorgeous roses which trailed over the walls, carpets and hangings of your grandmother's living room? Now is the time to indulge your taste freely for they have come back in profusion and you will be perfectly safe in decorating with this design for the coming season. Porcelain lamps and vases in addition to drapery and upholstery fabrics are covered with lovely trailing roses in every variety.

A caution goes out to the homemaker to watch the directions on the products she buys and uses. You would be amazed at the records, millions of them, which stores all over the country have run up about the complaints on their merchandise which can be traced directly to the misuse of the article. From moth repellents to automobiles the story is the same. Too many people consider that because they have used an ant-killer before or operated a fairly new car, refrigerator or vacuum cleaner that they have nothing to learn and may go ahead without regard to the principles outlined in the directions. Some people have expected an insect killer to work when they have not even removed the string of cellophane which releases the main ingredient. That is amusing. But when many miles of wear are lost to a tire because the owner stubbornly sticks to his idea of what the pressure should be, then something should be done about it. Lawn-mowers, toasters and electric fans by the thousand go into the discard when they could be saved by observing the simple cautions for lubrication which come with them. Get the cooperation of your family and maybe the money which can be saved on this item.

Contest Recipes

Send your favorite and reliable recipes to our contest. Two prizes will be awarded weekly. Each winner will receive two guest passes to the Kent Theatre. The features starting Sunday are "Light That Failed" and "South of the Border."

Periodically, we are sure, you like to include rice in your menu to provide the starch content and vary the usual potato accompaniment to your meat course. For this purpose few recipes can equal the following:

Ham Slices With Rice

1/2 cup rice
1 tablespoon butter
1 1/2 tablespoons minced onion
1 can condensed consommé
1/2 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 half-inch slices ham
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Slowly brown uncooked rice in butter in skillet; add onion and cook until tender. Add consommé, water and seasonings, cover tightly and steam until the rice is tender and has absorbed the liquid. Spread one slice of ham lightly with mustard. Cover with rice dressing and top with second ham slice. Place in a covered roasting pan and bake in a moderate oven 1 1/2 hours.

One meal in your house this week will have the party touch and also a good deal of added nourishment if you serve the following delicious chiffon pie.

Fruit Chiffon Pie

2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup lemon and orange juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks
Grated rind one orange
Grated rind one lemon
1/4 cup sugar
3 stiffly beaten egg whites
1 9-inch baked pastry shell

Soften gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water. Add salt and egg yolks and beat till thick. Add fruit juices. Cook in double boiler until mixture coats spoon. Remove from fire, add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add grated fruit rinds. Chill until partly set. Beat egg white until very stiff adding 1/4 cup sugar a little at a time. Fold into the cooled mixture, mix thoroughly and pour into baked shell. Chill again until set. Top with whipped cream if desired.

Musical Reviews

Three students claim our attention this week. Flora May Davis, daughter of the E. W. Davises of 78 Bell street, was accompanist at the violin recital given by students of Gloria Linde Friday evening in the auditorium of the Bloomfield Library. Flora May also contributed two solos to the program, "Murmuring Zephyrs" by Jensen, and a Chopin "Nocturne." The audience, including several Belleville friends, was enthusiastic in its applause of Flora's playing, which showed good style and nice interpretation. Flora May is a junior at Belleville High School, and is a piano student of Eleanor Bacon-Peck.

Mildred Harrison and Lorraine Copperthwaite, the young pupils of Adell Sutherland who were presented in their first recital on Sunday afternoon at the Eleanor Bacon-Peck Studios, carried off their program with the aplomb of veterans. Friends and relatives were surprised at the real dynamics and expression evident in their work. One felt that here were two youngsters who could go far in their music should they choose to.

SHE PROFITS

Mrs. Cadiz Changes Shopping Day—Wins Five Dollars

Mrs. Frank Cadiz of 149 Floyd street won last week's photo contest and received an order for $5 worth of merchandise at the Big Bear Market where she is a constant buyer. Mrs. Cadiz decided to forego her marketing on Friday, which is her usual custom, in order to complete the spring ensemble which she was making. On Saturday, undaunted by the chilly winds, Mrs. Cadiz donned a very attractive, Easter hat and appeared at her favorite market. Result? She was the lucky winner, which took the edge off her disappointment when the following day proved entirely unsuitable for wearing her new costume.

Maybe you will be the next recipient of our weekly award, either through good luck or good management. Take one precaution and shop in Belleville. Our photographer will visit one of the town's stores on Saturday and snap a picture. Be in the group and if your face is ringed in the picture you will receive an order for $5 worth of merchandise on the store in which your picture is taken.

Window Shopping Tour Brings New Ideas

Princess Line And Reefer Coats Holding On As Popular; Styles In Shoes Are Changing Slightly; Dressing Tips For The "Teen Age" Girl

Unseasonable weather kept many women from wearing the Easter ensembles which they had selected. But, we suspect, there were many who were not fooled and who had not even made their selections beyond the flowery bonnet which topped their furs on Easter Sunday. We did some window shopping this week and have learned that those who are now starting out in earnest on their spring shopping will have the benefit of the advance sales which point to certain definite trends.

The reefer and princess line coats, for instance, have come through on top after stiff competition with the new trend toward longer, straighter lines. Buy the coat which nips in your waistline and slims your hips and have no fear that it will be soon outmoded. Fresh white on these coats is another standby to which you can cling and still be definitely in style.

For sports we must repeat again, even at the risk of boring you, that matched suits, coats and silk dresses are the most wearable combination that you can buy. Nothing can equal the three-piece suit, matching two-piece tweed suit, matching tweed topcoat and two-piece plain color silk dress. Every becoming color is available and once you have secured one of these ensembles you are outfitted for any sports event of the coming season and lots of other affairs on which you haven't counted.

Selecting The Right Shoe

Shoes are one of the most important considerations at this time. In spite of the support of many stylists for the wedge-heeled shoe on the grounds of comfort, we notice that there is a more than fifty percent representation in the displays and in the style shows of the regular type of shoe. Incidentally, most men are of the opinion that the proper heel spoils one of a woman's greatest claims to good looks—a graceful line. Perforated kid, twill, gabardine and silken materials are giving kid shoes a run for their money. Open toes are still in favor. Very tiny lacing ending in perky bows decorate practically every step-in shoe without making any pretense of usefulness.

Creeping into the picture with increasing regularity is the tendency toward lower heels. "Half-way heels" and "lower levels" are being designed to accompany your street clothes and are found not only in sport oxfords of grained leather but in sandals of leather and faile. The alleged comfort of the wedge heel may be responsible for this new trend.

Look for the new slip which has a bodice cut on the "straight" of the goods, making it impossible for it to twist and slip around. The skirt is cut on the bias for fullness and this distinction between the two should forever end the trouble of the slip riding up when you sit down. A discreet zipper closing in the center back makes it form fitting.

The World's Fair will be the scene this summer of a display of American fashions which should be of great interest to all. American design and manufacture has made wonderful progress but there are still some problems of dress peculiar to American women which need attention. Only recently one of our leading radio columnists visited a number of designers imploring them to create styles in the women's range of sizes which would approximate in design and freshness the clothes obtainable in sizes 2 to 20. Another job which should be tackled, we think, is that of inducing the at designers to do their actual creating on non-professional models. Perhaps some of the problems of the woman whose head is not a perfect model would come to light and thereby would be eliminated the unfortunate choice of the wrong hat which is difficult to avoid when most of the hats are created to frame the beautiful faces and glamorous hair-dos of the professional model.

Learn From Women

As women view the exhibits and attend the fashion shows in the World of Fashion at the Fair this year, they will become thoroughly familiar with the names and objectives of the leading stylists of the country. Famous models will be identified when you see these designers actually at work, draping and cutting on the human figure. It is to be hoped that the suggestions and comments of women will pour into these may individuals so that even more may

LIBRARY TO HELP GARDENERS

Books Will Be Put On Display; Subjects Are Varied

With spring in the air gardeners are starting to make their plans for the coming months. The Free Public Library is ready to help them with their problems and has put on display a number of books on the subject—both about flowers and vegetables.

Among the books are: "How to Plan the Home Landscape," Carhart; "Gardening for the Small Place, Barron; Book of Perennials, Hottes; Rock Gardens, Meredith; Complete Garden, Taylor; Roses in the Little Garden, Stevens; Modern Dahlias, Roberts; Sweet Peas, Unwin; Garden Pools, Ramsey; Colour Schemes for the Flower Garden, Jekyll.

Books recently added to the rental collection include:

"The Floor of Heaven" by Sylvia Bates, a novel set on a lonely island off the New England coast. Here lives Johanna Fair, wife of a roving fisherman, isolated from the companionship of other people. A man is shipwrecked on the island, and the lives of the three characters are vastly changed in the events that follow.

"High Sierra," by W. R. Burnett, concerns a big time criminal just out of prison, seeking companionship amid the high Sierras, with members of his old profession. The suspense, involving the holding up and looting of a fashionable hotel is thrilling and dramatic.

"Thus Doctor Mallory" by Elizabeth Seifert, is the story of a young man's perseverance and hardships in his desire to become a doctor. He fights his way through poverty, shyness, and lack of family and friends, to finally gain a place for himself in a world of people who do big things.

Newark Woman To Speak Before Missionary Group

The Missionary Society of Fewsmith Memorial Presbyterian Church will be addressed today by Mrs. E. L. Ewertson of the Newark Presbyterian, secretary of young people's work.

They're Wasting Your Money

The fire department officials have figured out that every time the fire trucks roll out of the engine house to answer an alarm it costs the taxpayers $35. Of recent date, the local department has been answering five to six false alarms each month. If this average keeps up throughout a year, it means that about $2,500 of the public's money is spent for no good reason at all.

This business of sending firemen on a wild goose chase is an old story. It is generally a case of some over-anxious or mischievous youngster giving way to a hidden desire to see the fire engines come tearing down the street in answer to his call. The only trouble is that after pulling the alarm, the kid usually hotfoots it for the other end of town as fast as his legs will carry him and misses seeing the anger on the faces of the firemen when they find out they have come on a fool's errand.

There's not one youngster who pulls an alarm who would do it if he realized the seriousness of the act. Whether it's mere coincidence or not, it's a fact in many cities that most of the accidents to firemen and fire trucks occur when they are answering false alarms. In Bloomfield two years ago the fire chief was fatally injured while on duty answering a false alarm. Gambling with the lives of men and public property is dangerous business.

Too strong an impression cannot be made on those who are susceptible to pulling fire alarms that what they do is a serious offense which warrants heavy punishment. It used to be that the boys in Silver Lake played false alarm with the firemen, but now the culprits seem to be those in the vicinity of Greylock parkway where there have been a number of alarms recently. Fortunately for them, they have not been caught as yet.

To them and others who may know who they are, we give a gentle hint that what they are doing is dirty, mean and nasty. If caught, it will result in more than a scolding and a good sound thrashing.

National Picture Is Clearer

Political observers and commentators now have a tree on which to hang their hats before starting to gab about the national political picture. Up until now they have taken shots in the dark, hoping that their predictions would come out right. But, with Mr. Dewey's defeat of Senator Vandenberg and the triumph of pro-Roosevelt delegates over those friendly to Vice-President Garner in the same state, things begin to take form. Many interpretations will be made out of the results of the voting in the Badger State.

It would seem that the sound thumping given Vandenberg by Dewey has given the youthful New Yorker a noticeable advantage over the other Republican aspirants for the G.O.P. presidential nomination. Wisconsinites pledged to Dewey stacked up against a group of men friendly to one of the best known of the mid-Western senators. In the lean Republican years, Vandenberg stood head and shoulders above the rest of the crowd. He was a prominent figure in national politics before Dewey was heard of. The Michigan senator was even mentioned prominently during the 1936 Republican convention as a candidate. Yet, the thirty-eight-year-old Dewey, still wet behind the ears when it comes to the national political world, walked away from his older opponent.

If Dewey had beaten Vandenberg out in Wisconsin by a small majority, the effect would not have been so great. But, the yearling's decisive victory will be helpful to him in other states in which his name will be put up before the voters. Dewey has won the first test, thus gaining a lap on the rest of the field.

If the result in the Illinois primaries next week is the same as in Wisconsin, it may be the tip-off that the country is in earnest about wanting a change of faces in the national household. Dewey represents an entirely new group. The Tafts, the Vandenburgs and others of that ilk all have ties with the old guard of the Republican ranks. The public may want to shy away from that and lean toward an ambitious, youthful person such as Dewey.

We find ourselves decidedly in the minority on the point which we have frequently debated in our own mind — Mr. Dewey's age. While not definitely opposed to the New York district attorney as the Republican choice, we have questioned both his age and experience for the important job of President. But, we have found many of our friends who feel that the very fact that Dewey is young makes him most acceptable as a candidate.

Dewey will be unopposed when he runs in the primary here in May, so it will be difficult to tell how he stands with New Jersey voters, but general consensus would seem to indicate that at present he is far and away the most popular of the men being mentioned for the G.O.P. nomination.

Back To The Farm Movement

High tax rates have forced many folks to forsake their homes in city and suburban areas and move to the country. Some of them have given up the metropolitan life for good and have gone back to the farm, while others have taken up their rural residences within commuting distance of the cities. A recent survey shows that three out of four people applying to farm brokers for property are from the city. More than eighty per cent of those making the inquiries were interested in securing farm land for either part or full-time productive use of the soil.

Most of the people sought farms with small acreage. Nearly half of those buying farm land, the survey showed, are middle-aged couples with growing children who would be able to help them till the soil.

While probably not in the scope of this

Destroying Publicly Owned Property

One of the hardest things to understand about many youngsters is their destructiveness. They apparently receive some satisfaction out of damaging other people's property. We wonder if they would keep this up if they realized how much of their parents' money is spent annually to repair and protect from harm many of the publicly owned buildings and parks.

Warnings are now being issued by park boards asking that people refrain from damaging trees, shrubbery and other property. It seems that this is the least they can ask of the public in return for the privilege of using park lands. School buildings are one of the most popular targets for vandalism. We recently visited a school in a nearby community which is less than two years old. The damage which has been done to the building is a shame. What is gained by this destructiveness is one of the things which is hard to understand, especially since it seems to be that the older and more educated the young folks are, the more damage they do.

We are not condemning all young people, nor do we say that their parents are shirking their duties. But, it would be helpful if all would do their part to see that youthful vandalism is prevented as much as possible.

Counting Noses

THIS BUSINESS OF GOVERNMENT

by Samuel S. Kenworthy

Executive Sec'y N. J. State League of Municipalities

Now that our municipal authorities have finally determined upon budget appropriations and taxpayers are aware of their tax rate for the current year, it might be well to consider for a moment the difficult problem which faces local governing bodies in the preparations of their annual budget.

Municipal authorities control only about twenty-three percent of the total budget appropriations they are called upon to raise. The balance is dictated by mandatory legislation. Hundreds of such laws clutter the statute books, invading local government rights and imposing all sorts of demands. Many require the appointment of officials with fixed minimum salaries that cannot be reduced, even in time of emergency.

One of the largest expenditures for local purposes goes for the education of our children. Municipal officials have nothing to do with the preparation of the school budget. Tentative expenditures are first determined by the Board of Education and in municipalities such as Belleville, the budget is then submitted to the voters who approve or disapprove of the proposed expenditures. This applies to school revenues raised locally. State school aid is distributed through the following formula: Ninety percent of the State School Tax is paid directly to the counties. The main stem railroad tax is distributed to the counties on the basis of ratables. The State School Fund is on the basis of attendance. Surplus Revenue is distributed on the basis of the investments held for each county. Ten percent of the State School Tax is kept by the State to be distributed on different bases. $45 for each dependent child is paid direct to the school district. One percent of the total State School Tax is given to the poor school districts.

How It's Distributed

The remaining portion is distributed to the counties which do not receive sufficient to provide $600 for each superintendent or supervising principal, $500 for each special teacher, $400 for each four-year high school teacher, $315 for each junior and senior high school teacher, $250 for each junior high school teacher having no senior high school, $200 for each elementary teacher and accredited evening high school teacher, $80 for each part-time and evening school teacher, $300 for each full time nurse employed, $60 for each high school pupil, $15 for each elementary pupil, and $25 for each crippled child, sent to another district, three-quarters of the cost of transportation and three cents a day for attendance. The last two years the State has made a deficiency appropriation to meet the legal quotas and the allowance of three cents a day in fourteen counties for 1936-37, and fifteen counties in 1937-38. In addition to this,

Fiscal Tangle

Some idea of the extent of Newark's unbusinesslike management can be had from considering the situation disclosed by Local Government Commissioner Darby. Mr. Darby has been waiting since March 1 for a proper financial statement of the city's 1939 operations as required by law. He has the 1940 budget, but can't submit it (he doesn't intend to approve it as submitted, anyway) until he gets the 1939 data. The city is above the legal debt limit of seven per cent, it appears, and recent changes in ratables are in a muddle.

In their effort to keep the tax rate below astronomical limits, the city commissioners tossed into the budget offsetting items that won't stand up. Mr. Darby wants to know about $635,000 anticipated as a cash refund from the county, which has no budgetary provision for that particular payment. He wants information about a $1,175,000 bond issue that the commissioners hoped could be used to reduce the rate. Set up in the budget also is a 5,000,000 "non-cash" surplus. Mr. Darby wants a breakdown of that.

Explanation is still lacking of the ratables decrease "to relieve taxpayers," which Commissioner Murphy for months said would amount to $900,000, but which turned out to be $50,000,000. Perhaps there is a clew to this situation in the debt limit excess, which would have been larger still if the higher amount in reductions had been granted. Whatever the reason, the public is left by Mr. Murphy and his aides to wonder. Mr. Darby can take comfort in that. He is not the only one mystified by the muddling at City Hall.

A Nickel Here, A Nickel There

Ten nickel-squeezing, chiseling baseball players — some of them members of the Browns and the Kansas City team have had the crust to apply for unemployment insurance in Missouri. Not only to apply for it, but get it. One of these players receives between $8,000 and $9,000 a year from the Browns, yet is willing to take $15 a week from the state, and apparently there is no way under the law to prevent him and his fellow-chiselers from doing so. Another good way for these boys to get money would be to put on a fake limp and buy a tin cup.

Guess Who?

In Hudson the Democratic primary is entering its final phases. The organization has nominating petitions in circulation and they are being signed. To be sure, the name of candidate for United States senator is missing. But who's business is that? Certainly not the signers of the petitions. All Hudson has to do is sign on the indicated lines and leave the rest to Mr. Hague. He will fill in the name of the nominee in due time. The candidate might be Assemblyman Squilch for all Hudson knows. But he won't be. Guess who.

Gardens Help Relief

Toronto isn't going to dish out as many relief supplies this year. Instead of the usual weekly quota of vegetables, the city is going to pass out seeds and garden implements and plots of land. From then on, it will be up to each relief client whether he wants to eat or not.

The city tried it last year as an optional proposition, and 1,500 families raised about $50,000 worth of vegetables. This year, every person on relief will have to work the plot that's allotted to him, and the city expects to save a comfortable little chunk of cash.

In a small way, this system has been tried in this country. A few people have been given tracts of land on the outskirts of some cities and have managed to stock up their larders. It might be advantageous for cities here to consider using the method on a more wide-spread scale wherever possible. Not only would the city save money, but the clients themselves would have useful and pleasant occupations and would have the satisfaction of knowing that they are earning at least part of their living.

MUSICAL SILHOUETTES

A Musical Commentary by Leon Carson

"Music when soft voices die Vibrates in the memory."
—Shelley.

Warmers:

Tito Schipa, former celebrated operatic tenor of both the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera Companies, has had the distinction of 45,000 automobile heaters falling into his hands. These are in lieu of the payment of a sixty-day note owed him and defaulted by the Continental Automotive Corporation of Chicago to which he loaned $5,250 last year. This is quite a large order for Mr. Schipa, but perhaps a blessing in disguise. Most singers, but tenors in particular, require a considerable amount of "warming up" of the voice before performing, and certainly from now on this great artist need never want for artificial assistance, at least, in the preliminary operation.

Wagner Again:

Now that the Metropolitan Opera season is on the wane, many comments and "I told you so's" are in the air as to the merits and demerits of the current closing season. As a matter of statistics, so far as number of performances given, Richard Wagner once more takes the lead. His "Walkure" led all works with seven performances on the schedule. Of four operas with six performances each, two have been by Wagner, — "Lohengrin" and "Tristan and Isolde." The others have been Verdi's "Aida" and "Tosca." Wagner's "Meister-singer" has been heard five times. Other past season Wagnerian performances will follow.

If Mme. Flagstad should decide not to return next year, it is problematical as to how greatly the popularity of the German wing will suffer. Eric Leinsdorf, this year's very young leading conductor at the Metropolitan has made an excellent record, particularly as to the German operas he has conducted; nevertheless this part of the conducting staff requires strengthening for next season.

Streamline?

At a recent luncheon of the Rotary Club of New York, Edward Johnson, general manager of the Metropolitan, made the statement that opera had to be sold like any other business. Long robes and flowing hair are things of the past, he declared, and he asked his listeners to think of opera as an industry, with new artists streamlined as the times in which we live.

We hope Mr. Johnson will not go to the extreme on the streamline question, for after all, too slender singers do not always make good operatic artists. Many of the young women singers recently acquired by the Metropolitan are too thin, and a little more "beef" here and there would help the vocal phase of things. However, flair, personality and clever stage appearance are also factors in the selection of the day, with voice-qualifications running a poor second.

Eternal Feminine:

To our dismay, we sometimes

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

by Meador Wright

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News.

A complete opposition ticket to Clean Government in Essex is in the process of formation, and will probably be announced very shortly. Mayor Herbert Kruttschnitt of Irvington is the recognized leader of the movement and probably will be the candidate for county clerk. Determined efforts are being made to induce Mrs. Parker O. Griffith of East Orange to accept a place on the freeholder bracket, but the chances are said to be that she will not run. Former Surrogate Fred Herrigel of Millburn and Walter Whitehurst of Cedar Grove will oppose Arthur T. Vanderbilt and Joseph A. Bower for delegate to the National Convention from the Twelfth Congressional District. Candidates for delegate and alternate in the Eleventh District will be selected from East Orange with the idea of capitalizing on opposition to City Chairman Stanley V. Krusen that is thought to exist. Krusen is the Clean Government candidate for alternate. For the other delegate and alternate, support will probably be given to Mrs. Agnes Jones Gifford and Mrs. Horace A. Woodward who are running independently.

Much attention in the movement, which has the designation of Progressive Clean Government, will be given to county committee dates will be loyal Harold G. Hoffman supporters. The main object in electing all possible county committeemen is to secure loyal Hoffman workers in the campaign against Charles Edison. The idea is also in the back of the heads of the leaders that a majority in the County Committee is possible even though the ticket should lose. They remember that that happened under similar circumstances in 1928.

Hoffman Leaders in Accord
A rival ticket to Clean Government has been discussed for some time, but opposition from Hoffman strategists tended to discourage it. This opposition has now been withdrawn. The conclusion has finally been reached that Senator Hendrickson will get fewer votes in Essex if local candidates here do not have so much time to campaign for him. Trades are already being reported whereby certain Clean Government candidates will "go easy" on Hoffman in return for similar consideration for themselves. In some cases this no doubt is idle gossip, but one is never warranted in assuming that a politician will act other than toward his own immediate interests.

More interest centers around the candidacy of Herrigel than any other contest. The former surrogate is out to cause his neighbor, Vanderbilt, all the trouble he can. Herrigel blames Vanderbilt for his close defeat for re-election as surrogate last fall. As the former tells the story he was prepared to announce his candidacy for re-election at an early date, but deferred upon the advice of Vanderbilt that he would probably be included on the regular Clean Government slate.

Instead, Eugene Hoffman of Bloomfield got the designation. stop and realize how inseparable women and music have been in the mind and imagination of man since the Art was first invented. Do you recall the "music-mad-maids" who slew Bacchus for a song? Also the Old Testament wherein women were inevitably and continuously interwoven with tales of dancing and lyrics? Women played upon the shawn and psaltery, and Jephthah's daughter went to her fate dancing,—and with measured "tones." Perhaps Judith crooned some kind of a melody at one time or other to ravish the ears of Holofernes. If we remember correctly, an early keyed-instrument called the virginal was so named in honor of a woman. And after all, wasn't the first printed piece of English music called "Parthenia," with a title page showing a smirking young damsel? Piano music of the 18th century was written for women and is woman's music. Are not all these virginals, spinets, clavichords and harpsichords feminine? Surely, they are the musical-rib, as the late James Huneker once wrote, plucked by fate from side of the masculine church organ. Chopin and Mendelssohn were lovely, feminine music and so were Schubert's "Moments" quite that way. Women virtuosos are as plentiful as the sands of the sea, during the past thirty-five or so years, one cannot catalogue the Lisztis in petticoats. A charming woman once asked Jean de Reszke if he cared for Jean Romeo or Tristan with a particular singer. "I always go to my ideal woman," replied the great artist. And so in pursuing that illusive, fantastic phantom, man has veritably "let himself go for it" and is today prostrate before that invincible composite thing he has himself created, "Woman and Music."

Four years ago he faced the same situation when Whitehurst fled against him and his running mate, Robert W. Kean. Then, Vanderbilt won almost two to one. But Herrigel is a more tenacious opponent with a larger following. Still Vanderbilt should win easily although he cannot afford to ignore Herrigel.

Will Resume Hearing Monday Against Newark B. & L.

Recorder Everett B. Smith will resume hearing testimony in the town's case against the Junior Order Building & Loan Co. of Newark on Monday. The hearing was adjourned on Friday so that the defense might have time to produce more witnesses.

The town alleges that the building and loan association has permitted two families to reside in a house restricted for a one-family zone. Edward O'Connor of the building inspection department testified that he found the house at 146 Delavan avenue being occupied by two families when he inspected the property February 6.

Town Attorney Lawrence Keenan drew from O'Connor the allegation that the family of Thomas Sars occupied the first floor while that of Einar Carlson had lived on the second floor since February 1.

Defense attorney Arthur Smith pointed out in cross-examination that, while there were cooking and bath facilities for two families in the house, there was no definite proof that there were two families using them. He said that he believed all the occupants were related and therefore constituted one family.

Going On Record

WHAM and RAGTIME COWBOY JOE are joined on Decca to give us another fine Modemore disc. "Wham" is perfectly done by these four harmonious gentlemen and the side possesses some beautiful phrasing, riffs, the final take-out being terrific. Backing by some of Paul Whiteman's orchestra is neat and solid. "Cowboy" is a hard tune with which to do much. "Wham" alone will sell this record (Decca 3032A).

BACK IN YOUR OWN BACKYARD AND AMONG MY SOUVENIRS. Henry Wells and his band do a unique piece of work on both sides of this record. Wells is particularly good on the lead vocal over the mellow blending of voices in the gleeful made up by the rest of the band. This is one of the most soothing, moody records to date. "Back in your own backyard" is a hard tune with which to do much. "Wham" alone will sell this record (Decca 3032A).

REEL WAGON and PURPLE BLUES bring the "Count" back again. Count Basie does these sides with just a rhythm section, piano, bass, guitar and drums. Tempo on both possesses that slow drive for which the "Count" is so well known. The disc offers plenty of kicks and we'd say this record was one of Basie's best. Take a listen. (Decca 3071A).

PARADE OF THE WOODEN SOLDIERS and TURKEY IN THE STRAW played by Jan Savits and His Top Hatters. "Soldiers" has a melodic treatment throughout with excellent trombone and piano solos as the highlights. "Turkey" is done up in a modern arrangement that should make some of the old-timers blush. Tempo is medium and grooved. Tender sax solos add more kicks to the already good arrangement. (Decca 3041A).

Hearing Adjourned In Case Of Marchione Girl

Maria Marchione of 142 Grove street, Bloomfield, was given indefinite adjournment of her hearing on charges of driving without a license and leaving the scene of an accident when her attorney, J. Victor D'Aloia, contended before Recorder Smith Friday that to bring her to trial on these counts would be to try her twice for the same offense.

Miss Marchione was convicted recently of being the driver of the car which fatally injured Mrs. Vitina Caso of Bloomfield in Franklin street, Belleville, last July. She was put on probation for three years. The two charges against her which she was to answer Friday arose out of the same accident. D'Aloia will file a memorandum with the recorder and a date may then be set for the hearing.

Car Quickly Recovered

Belmont Croce of 736 North Seventh street, Newark, set a new Croce first phoned police at 11:10 Friday night that the car had disappeared from in front of 14 Belmont avenue. At 11:25 he called back to say he had found it in Lawrence street. He said half the tank of gas had been used and the back of the car had been damaged.

Town Experimenting On Cost Of Road Construction

The town is experimenting with road construction to attempt to learn the relative cost of the work as done by the town and by private contractors, Mayor Williams said Saturday. Burglars Enter Two Places On Washington Avenue

Burglars were active on Washington avenue Thursday. Two breaks were reported within two blocks of each other only several hours apart.

Patrick Carrigan, owner of a confectionery store at 545 Washington avenue, reported at 9 that morning that some one had broken a window at the rear of the store and had looted it. Patrolman Dotterwich who investigated placed the loss at approximately $90 in cigars, cigarettes, candy, cakes, a radio and cash.

Just before 6 that evening Mrs. Pasquale Iacobelli of 446 Washington avenue reported that her apartment had been entered. Captain Leighton and Patrolman McGinness said that the thieves either had a key or had slipped a piece of metal along the side. Missing were an $85 diamond ring and a wrist watch.

DOGS

by Laurence Torley

The breeding of pure-bred dogs is a great hobby, and it gives rise to one of America's most popular sports — the dog show but it is in many ways different from other hobbies. The lay public is inclined to think of dog breeders as hard-boiled, self-centered people who have long since forgotten that they love dogs. But this impression is entirely wrong. Of some 40,000 people who constitute the backbone of the dog show game, regularly producing the specimens that make up the entries at American Kennel Club shows, the vast majority are as soft-hearted concerning dogs as any owners of lone pets.

Countless cases are known where veteran dog breeders could have sold dogs for sums that would have paid up all their debts and placed them on the right side of the ledger. Yet they have refused to part with their noted specimens. It was not because the dogs were big winners. That was merely incidental. It was because these champion dogs were pets and constant companions.

One man refused an offer of $7,500 for a particularly noted dog. And, as fate would have it, a few weeks afterward the dog died suddenly. It might have been expected that there would be lamentations. There were none. The owner was happy, instead, that he had been with his favorite dog until the end.

This is not an isolated case. Dozens of successful, veteran dog breeders can tell similar stories. Many of them maintain kennels so large that the food bills keep them constantly in debt.

Fatality Increase

Belleville showed a larger increase in motor fatalities during January and February than any other community in the state, according to the figures released this week by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Arthur W. Magee.

Belleville reported four deaths compared to one over the same period last year. Next in the list of increases were Hackensack and Clifton with two each.
