

TO ACT QUICKLY ON 2ND RIVER PROBLEM

Williams Asks Freeholders To Approve $20,000 Transfer For Flood Work

Town Engineer Matthew J. Sheehan met with officials of other municipalities Tuesday afternoon in the office of County Engineer Stickle and the conference unanimously adopted the report of the committee which had investigated flood conditions along the Second River.

Possibility of quick action was indicated when it was reported that Mayor Williams went before the Board of Freeholders Monday to request the transfer of $20,000 from the dirt road fund to help in Belleville's share of the projected work.

The committee's report recommended widening, walling and deepening of the river which goes on a rampage every time there is a heavy rainfall. The most recent was in the cloudburst of two weeks ago which, however, was not as serious as that in July, 1938 when the water washed over bridges causing the span at Main street to sink four inches and carried away part of a factory.

The work was studied from several angles since plans must also be made for control of several streams which empty into the Second River. They are Wigan Brook in Orange, Nishuane Creek in Montclair and East Orange and Tony's Brook in Bloomfield. These municipalities together with Belleville, Newark and West Orange will be asked to cooperate in the flood control plan.

Total Cost Not Estimated

Williams' request for the transfer of funds is said to have been made to care for the portion of the walling which will be necessary for the section between the Essex County Park wall and the Hendricks Dam. No estimate of the cost of the whole project has been made.

Sheehan said yesterday that should the other municipalities decide to carry out the plan, Belleville will have no alternative but to complete the work here. The town is situated at the mouth of the river, he pointed out, and if the waters are confined above Belleville and not here the flood conditions will be unbearable every time there is a slight rain.

RED CROSS LISTS MORE DONORS

Additional Names Released As Among Those Helping To Make $2,898 Total

The Red Cross released yesterday the names of some of the additional contributors to the total of $2,898.16 reported last week. Additional donations continue to come into the local chapter. Funds are being sent on to Washington for the use of the national headquarters as they are accumulated. The additional contributors and the amounts they have given are as follows:

George R. Gerard, $10; Joseph Hutchins, $10; Mrs. E. J. Bell, $10; Belleville Hardware Company, James Boyd $5; Harland Box, Anonymous, Howard Holmes, $5.

HOPE TO LAUNCH SCOUT BOAT SOON

Work Is Being Completed At North Newark Drydock; Will Christen It Here

The new cruiser of the Belleville Sea Scouts will probably be launched by the end of next week, Fire Chief Alec Reid said yesterday. Reid, together with Fire Battalion Chief William Dunlevy and Police Lieutenant Kenneth Smith, is directing the work on the boat, which is in drydock at Croll's Boatyard in North Newark.

About ten members of the local scouts have been working daily on the craft. It is being cleaned "down to the last board on the bottom" and repainted. A new ninety-horsepower Universal motor has been purchased for it.

After it has been launched the craft will be brought to Belleville for christening. No date for the ceremonies has been set but it is believed that they will take place within two weeks.

Twenty Years Ago Residents Fought For Right-of-Way Over Railroad

Hot Battle Was Waged After Erie Blocked The Tracks With Steel Girders

The twentieth anniversary of the battle of Greylock vs. the Erie Railroad finds the residents of Greylock avenue still resentful of the silent guardianship of the large girders which effectively block passage over the railroad's right-of-way at the street. The Erie placed the girders there twenty years ago this month and there they have stayed despite violence and protests from the citizenry many times during the succeeding years. Greylock avenue is paved on both sides of the tracks but in the few feet between the ends of the paving and the girders tall weeds have grown as if to blot out the twenty-year thorn in the people's side. A small foot path cuts down to one side of the girders but it is not used much any more.

The trouble all started in April, 1920 when Mary Natale, Florence DeMeio, Nicholas DiNicola and several other residents of the street complained to the Board of Commissioners that the Erie had ripped up the little crossing that they had laid across the tracks. John H. Waters was mayor in those days and the commissioners were John J. Hannan, Edward E. Mathes, Edward E. Livingston and Robert G. Minion.

Complained of Hardships

The complainants told of the hardships they would have to endure because of the fact that there was no place to cross the railroad between Little street and Park avenue, Nutley. They said they were determined to see the crossing left there and claimed that there was a "map on record in the Court House which would show the right of way existed here before the railroad was built."

The commissioners each agreed to help, saying that if there was such a map there would definitely be a crossing, if not it was a matter for the Public Utilities Commission. A month of searching by Town Attorney Connolly finally brought to light the fact that such a map was believed to have been attached to a petition for paving Greylock avenue in August, 1915.

On August 2, 1920, the fight came into the open and the violence started. Said the Belleville Times of the occurrences of that date:

"Stealing a march on residents of Belleville, lured into security by a promise that the Greylock avenue crossing dispute would be settled in court, an Erie Railroad construction gang stopped a work train at the crossing, swung off a sixty-ton section of steel bridge with a crane and effectually blocked the way across the tracks. "Throughout the morning a group of disgruntled citizens were making futile attempts with jacks and crowbars to tip the girder on to the tracks."

About midnight of that day the citizens ripped up one section of wall from the tracks and gressed both ends, stopping a hundred feet. Mayor Waters finally persuaded them to replace the rail and to wipe off the grease.

The next night at the commission meeting Hannan introduced a resolution to petition the Public Utilities Commission for permission to construct a public right-of-way over the tracks and make a full-fledged crossing there. The resolution passed unanimously and it was followed up the next week by an ordinance, first reading "laying out, opening, widening, establishing and extending of Greylock avenue to a uniform width of fifty feet across the tracks." The ordinance passed final reading August 24.

Commission Manhandled

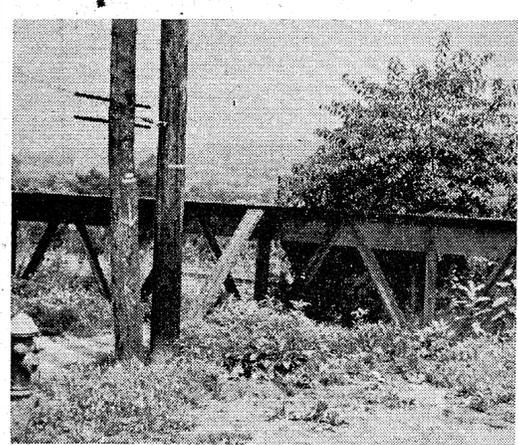

Immediately after the latter meeting came the only time in the history of Belleville that members of the Town Commission were bodily manhandled in the council chambers. Some fifty men and women, many of the latter with infants in their arms and clinging to their skirts, attacked the board and "for nearly half an hour prospects for physical injury to the members of the town's governing body became brighter each minute," according to The Times.

The crowd, most of whom were unable to speak English, just could "no comprehend" the slow workings of the law and would believe only that the commissioners were siding with the railroad. "When they found that the big girder was not to be taken away the next day," said The Times, "they made a concerted rush for the commissioners who were seated as usual behind the railing."

Doctor Was Peacemaker

"The women took the most active part in the attack. They seized members of the board by their clothing and pulled them around to the accompaniment of shouted questions and imprecations. Dr. Frederick S. Bootay, who resided in the section and is known to most of the mob, became active as a peacemaker but despite his efforts the disorder continued for twenty minutes. When it began to subside the crowd was worked toward the door and they went home without further trouble."

Monument To Great Battle

These girders are what twenty years ago nearly caused bloodshed and which today are tolerated but still resented by residents of Greylock avenue. A week from tomorrow the sixty-ton girders will be in place exactly twenty years, having been put there by the Erie Railroad to prevent passage of cars and pedestrians over the tracks. Greylock residents still call it the "spite fence."

TO CLOSE BRIDGE ON WEDNESDAY

Rutgers Street Bridge Repairs Will Be Completed Before Labor Day

Work on the two big Valley jobs which are still pending is expected to start about next Thursday, according to announcements made yesterday by Public Works Director Waters and County Engineer Stickle. The resurfacing of Main street and the repair of the Rutgers street bridge have both been awaited for several months. Repair of the bridge fenders is now scheduled to start on Wednesday. Stickle said that the bridge on Thursday so that the work may be completed before Labor Day. It had been delayed because of the scarcity of steel due to the national re-armament program.

Waters said yesterday that work on Main street north of the bridge should begin next Thursday at the latest. The project has been approved by the State WPA office and is now in the county office awaiting action. The only delay now will be caused by the inability to obtain workers, Waters declared.

Library Adds More Books To Non-Fiction Shelves

Many books have been added to the non-fiction department of the Free Public Library in the past few weeks. Among them are:

Bloody Mohawk, by T. Wood Clarke, a history of the Mohawk Valley of New York State and the part it played in the nation's development.

March of the Barbarians, by Harold Lamb, the story of the amazing "Golden Family," Mongol sons and grandsons of Genghis Khan.

How They Blazed the Way, by T. Walker McSpadden, a collective biography of eighteen famous men down through history, including Hippocrates, Gutenberg, Faraday, Curie and Edison.

Books most in demand, according to reservation lists this week are:

Grapes of Wrath, Steinbeck; Kitty Foyle, Morley; Nazarene, Asch; How Green Was My Valley, Llewellyn; Kings Row, Bel- lamann; Smattering of Ignorance, Levant, and Stars on the Sea, Mason.

Lions Club Will Adjourn For Rest of Summer

The Lions Club will hold its final meeting of the summer season today at the Forest Hill Country Club. The Lions recently furnished a three month's supply of milk for the W. P. A. Nursery School at Veterans Hall. An attempt to bring the U. S. Navy Band to Belleville has so far been unsuccessful because of lack of adequate space, it was reported by Harry Ziegler, publicity director. The Lions will resume the weekly meetings in September.

Youth Cuts His Thumb While Playing Ball

Carmen Del Russo, eighteen, of 273 Lake street, was treated at Columbus Hospital Tuesday for a laceration on his right thumb requiring three stitches. The accident happened while he was playing ball at Edison Field.

Boy Treated For Dog Bite

Leonard Bonucci, eleven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe Bonucci of 185 Heckel street, was treated at Columbus Hospital for a dog bite on his right thigh on Tuesday. The owner of the dog is Mrs. Clarence Wolf of 193 Heckel street, police said.

SIX REGATTAS FOR NEREIDS

Oarsmen Will Meet Tonight To Discuss Plans For Next Two Months

The rowing members of Nereid Boat Club will meet tonight at 8:30 in the clubhouse to discuss plans for at least six regattas which remain on their schedule for the rest of the season. The meeting will be under the direction of Andrew McMaster, president, and Alfred Walker, captain.

The club will engage in four informal races at the New Rochelle Rowing Club August 4 and hopes to play host again to Ravenswood Boat Club on the Passaic the following Sunday. Nereid will compete in a regatta sponsored by the New York Rowing Association at Orchard Beach August 13 and is expected to send representatives to the Middle Atlantic States championships at Philadelphia on September 1.

The Metropolitan championships will be held on the Harlem River about mid-September and Nereid will make a bid for the title which it shared with New York Athletic Club last year. The annual club championships, featured by the singles race for the C. Leverich Brett Trophy, will be held on the Passaic late in September. Eliminations are expected to start in the next few weeks.

TAIN'T POLITICAL WEATHER

So Opines Joe King In Delaying G.O.P. Drive For Fall Election

Initiation of the local fund-raising for the coming Republican campaign will depend entirely on the weather, Commissioner Joseph King indicated yesterday. King, who is chairman of the Belleville Republican Finance Committee, is headed by William J. Friel of 132 Belleville avenue, includes John Callahan, Nicholas Cosmesky, John Baney, John Barnett, William Hood, Edward and Thomas Lakowiak, John Sullivan, Thomas Haney, George Kiernan, George Urcioli, Frank and William Neary.

He expects, however, to form a small directory committee in the near future to lay plans for the drive. He did not indicate who would be invited to serve on the committee.

The organization would then branch out all over the town with sectional committees, he said. King also said that a women's division would also be formed, probably in another month.

Small Girl Injured

Marie Vara, five, of 8 Carmer avenue was treated for bruises on the back and both legs yesterday by Dr. Caprio of Nutley when she ran into a moving automobile in Carmer avenue. According to police, the child ran from between two parked cars and into the side of a car driven by Joseph Spasini, thirty-eight, of 53 Beech street.

Petreaun Club Arranges Ride To Coney Island August 23

Arrangements for a bus ride to Coney Island were completed by an executive committee of the Petreaun Club on Tuesday. The trip, to be held August 23, is open to members of the club and their friends. All reservations must be made one week prior to the date set.

HAS NO MONEY TO CUT DOWN RAGWEEDS

Berry Says Few Hay Fever Sufferers Have Complained To Date

Hay fever sufferers have not been complaining to the Health Department as yet, but Health Officer Eugene Berry is keeping his fingers crossed. Although prevalent in some sections, the growth of weeds, particularly ragweed, which is the nemesis of most hay feverites, has not been as great as in past years.

Berry said that if sufferers complain to the town about a certain vacant lot, it will be cleared by the town. No town-wide drive to clean all vacant property is anticipated, the health officer said. It would cost considerable money, he said, explaining that at present there are no men available to do the work. The town has an ordinance requiring property owners to destroy poisonous weeds but there is no ruling which applies specifically to ragweed.

In recent years hay fever sufferers have made a drive in many communities to have the towns annually clean off all vacant lots or force property owners to do so. Because of this movement, some municipalities are placing appropriations in their budgets annually to provide for the clearance of weeds during July and August from lots. In most places, relief labor is used to do the work under the supervision of the health enforcing agency.

Town Charges Them

Property owners are required in most places to cut weeds on their property. If they fail to do so, the town does the job and charges the labor expense against their annual tax bill. This has resulted in protests from property owners but has generally resulted in causing them to do the work the following year themselves.

EXPECT 2,000 ON OUTING

St. Peter's Annual Boat Ride Will Be Held On Tuesday, August 6

More than 2,000 are expected to attend the sixth annual excursion of the Social Society of St. Peter's Church Tuesday, August 6, according to Miss Teresa K. Salmon of 81 Rosmore place, president of the society and general chairman of the affair. The outing will sail on the steamer Clermont from the Port Newark wharf at 9 in the morning. After spending the day on a cruise up Long Island Sound with a stop at Roton Point, Conn., the party will return at night.

Greater crowds attending the excursion each year have necessitated the chartering of larger boats. The Clermont is the largest to date and more than 1,000 reservations have already been made, Miss Salmon said yesterday.

Special buses will leave from in front of the church at ten-minute intervals from 7:45 to 8:30 in the morning and will carry the fare-seekers to the dock. There will be dancing on the boat and at Roton Point. The Social Society will operate all concessions on the boat.

Miss Greta Kinnealy of 35 Church terrace is secretary of the general committee. The ladies' committee chairmen are Mrs. Thomas McNair, tickets; Mrs. Thomas Dillon, amusements and music; Mrs. William Sullivan, refreshments; Mrs. James Mooney, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cousins, coffee; Miss Helen Kelly, candy; Mrs. Patrick Gelshen and Mrs. John Sullivan, refreshment tickets.

The men's committee, which is headed by William J. Friel of 132 Belleville avenue, includes John Callahan, Nicholas Cosmesky, John Baney, John Barnett, William Hood, Edward and Thomas Lakowiak, John Sullivan, Thomas Haney, George Kiernan, George Urcioli, Frank and William Neary.

John F. Reilly

John F. Reilly of 29 Belmoor street died at his home Tuesday from a heart disease which he had been treated for by a doctor for seven years. Born in Belleville sixty-four years ago, Mr. Reilly, a salesman for the James A. Coe Company, had lived here all his life. He was active in the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church in Nutley.

Surviving are a nephew, John E. Baldwin, and a niece, Mrs. A. R. MacPherson. A mass of requiem will be said in St. Mary's Church this morning. Funeral will be from the Stanton Funeral Home tomorrow. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Rotarians Hear Reports

The regular meeting of the Belleville Rotary Club at the Forest Hill Country Club yesterday was devoted to the hearing of reports by the secretary, treasurer and auditor for the year 1939-40. Next week the club will again have as speaker John C. Allen, whose topic will be "Latin-American Relations." It was reported by Edgar S. Peierls, director of publicity.

Utilities Board Head Says Bus Company Must Act

Bacharach Claims That Garden State Lines Has Not Applied For Pick-up Privilege; Women's G. O. P. Group Joins In Plea For The Service

The next move in the controversy over passenger service on the Garden State Crosstown bus line was put up to the bus company this week in a letter from Harry Bacharach, president of the Public Utilities Commission, to one of the scores of Belleville residents who have written him letters protesting the restrictions placed on the little line which runs from North Newark to the Brookdale section of Bloomfield. Meantime, the two other parties involved entered the picture. Garden State said that it is watching the situation closely but is not ready for an appeal.

Leaders of the citizen group, including the Belleville Woman's Republican Club, urged that residents "continue to bombard the Utilities Commission and the Garden State Company with letters so that, should the matter be considered again, the voice of the people may be heard."

The Woman's Republican Club, through its civic chairman, Mrs. Thomas B. Ferguson of 28 Bell street, sent the Commission a petition bearing thirty names and wrote letters to Bacharach and Commissioner Frank Riorden. The petition was gotten up without knowing that another petition of 127 names had already been sent to the Commission.

Bacharach's letter acknowledged the "list of names of 127 persons who have expressed a desire for restoration of bus service by Garden State Lines in Belleville."

No Application Pending
"I have examined further into this matter and find that there is presently no application pending before the Board for the modification of existing restrictions which were imposed by the Board to protect other existing facilities. The Board has twice passed upon this matter, once when an application was made by Garden State Lines for approval of municipal consents of the Town of Belleville and a rehearing was held upon the request of the municipal officials of the Town.

"In both instances the Board declined to relax the original restrictions imposed, on the ground that to do so would create a competitive situation with the operation of Public Service Co-ordinated Transport in this territory. It now remains for the Garden State Lines, if it proposes to render this service, to make proper application to the Board for modification of the existing restrictions."

"and when application is received from Garden State Lines for the modification of restrictions, I desire to assure you that this Board will pass upon the matter promptly.

"It should be kept in mind that any time had legal right to pick up and discharge passengers in the town in which you reside. The fact that they did so for a period was definitely not in accordance with the rights granted by this Board."

No Appeal At Present
Bernard Sperber, traffic manager for Garden State, the only official of the company available for comment, said Tuesday that the company was following the fight of the people of Belleville with interest but that "there is no appeal planned now." He declined to state that the company might at some future date try for a third time to have the restrictions lifted.

Leaders of the citizen groups were fearful this week that Bacharach's letter might tend to "dampen the ardor of the protesters." They were emphatic in declaring that "anyone who might at any time use this bus owes it to himself to continue to bombard the Utilities Commission and the Garden State Company with letters." Only by letters, they said, will the Commission be able to know how the people themselves feel.

The Utilities Commission sent a canvasser out to sound out public sentiment Saturday. The surveyor visited many homes on Hornblower avenue and on other streets over which the bus route travels.

The Woman's Republican Club sent almost identical letters to Bacharach and Riorden and outlined "a few reasons why this utility should be maintained."

Cite Need For Bus
"There are seven blocks between the parallel bus lines of the Public Service in the Greylock section of the town (from Washington avenue to Union avenue) and the terrain between those lines is a very hilly nature, which makes it difficult for many people to either climb the hill to Union avenue or walk up from Washington avenue. This walk is particularly exhausting in hot weather and is very difficult in heavy winter weather.

"High school students have been accommodated by the use of this bus line on wet days, particularly those living in and around the Greylock section, and church-goers depend on it.

"We are also aware of the fact that the taxpayers of this town have not only paid for their streets but that they are financially responsible for them. Why then should we not have the roughness of transportation through these streets? In putting forth these facts we believe that in giving this matter your consideration from a citizen's point of view you will permit a spirit of justice to prevail in making your decision."

HARTLEY REPLIES TO ATTACKERS BEFORE D. OF A.

Congressman Defends His Questionnaire; Charges They Resent Keep Out of War Stand

Charging that recent attacks on him were not political but rather in opposition to his pro-American policies, Representative Fred A. Hartley, Jr. flayed his Democratic opponent for the Congressional seat, William E. Holmwood, Tuesday night without mentioning Holmwood by name. Hartley spoke to the Good American Council No. 102, Daughters of America, as the Council held its public installation of officers for the coming year.

He defended his actions in recent weeks which had been butts of particular offensives by Holmwood and announced that he would make public on Sunday the results of the questionnaire which he recently sent to his constituents in this Tenth Congressional District.

He said that more than 51,000 answers had been received from the 133,000 letters which he sent out last month. His speech was interrupted many times by applause in the hot council chambers of the Younginger Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars where the installation was held.

When he finished his address, Mrs. George E. Brink of 88 Eichen street moved that all who would support Congressman Hartley in everything" rise and the council stood up and applauded.

Not Campaign Literature
Hartley first defended himself from the charges made by Holmwood that the questionnaire was a "campaign document" sent at the expense of the government.

Hartley refuted the charge hotly, denying that it was campaign literature and stating that the mailing of the questionnaire "personally cost me $1,500."

He claimed that the issues now before the Congress are among the most weighty in history and that "this is, as far as I know, the first time that any Congressman has written to all his constituents to ask their advice" as to the course of action he should pursue.

He warned that "between now and the first of next year Congress will have to cast votes which will vitally affect the future, safety and happiness of your homes." Congress would be called upon to vote on compulsory military training and "possibly even war," Hartley said.

"In view of the seriousness of the situation I felt it necessary to ask the advice of my constituents. More than 51,000 replies were received and the vast majority of the people of this district approve the course of action I have followed thus far," he continued.

Defends Picnic Appearance
The Congressman then defended himself from the attacks which followed on his speaking appearance at a recent picnic of a German-American association in Springfield. He declared that the organization has nothing to do with the German-American Bund, that it was a "strictly American meeting," that there were no swastikas in sight, that "there were no stiff-arm salutes and no healing Hitler." He said that it has been his custom for twelve years to attend this picnic.

Because he attended he was called Bundist, spy, traitor and fifth columnist, he said. He pleaded that Americans avoid hysteria and "respect all our love, all as long as their loyalty is unquestioned." He said that "we must be on our guard at all times but we must be tolerant and have proof before we condemn people simply because they have foreign names."

Would Deport Un-Americans
"As for the Bund, let me state once again that I have always publicly and vigorously advocated the adoption of Resolution 55 to outlaw and deport every Bundist, Communist and every other member of a subversive element in the United States." He pointed out that the Daughters of America favor restricted immigration but that he went further and demanded the deportation of every un-American in the country.

"If they don't like our way of doing business and they are making a living here, let them go back and see how they like it where they came from. Those who criticize me for appearing at that outing are those who resent my stand in trying to keep America out of war," the Congressman charged.

He then spoke briefly on the unpreparedness of the United States should it be forced into a war. He declared that there are only 223,000 in the Regular Army and 200,000 in the National Guard but that there is equipment for only 75,000; that division after Truce may yet be the only solution to Raymond Paige's battle of music after it gets under way. Monday evening saw the opening of this series known as "Forecast" and Monday's program was a battle of music if ever was one. Idea is there are two bands, one recruited from such famous halls as Carnegie, Aeolian, the Met, etc., the other from such halls as Cafe Society, Dicks Den or Pete's Hangout...

MINORS WIN ONE OUT OF THREE

Drop Slugfests To Newark Birds And To Linden Colored Nine

The Pittsburgh Minor Leaguers won but one of their last three games when they defeated the Newark Red Wings, 10-3, and dropped a 6-1 decision to the Elmwood Tigers and an 18-9 drubbing to the Linden Colored Giants over the weekend...

The Red Wing game, played at Branch Brook Extension, was featured by the pitching of Arnold Clarke and the hitting of Jim Lynch, Roy Walker, and Jack Hurdell, each crediting himself with two safeties. In the Elmwood game Clarke allowed but two earned runs, nine hits, and struck out eight...

The slugfest with the Linden Colored Giants at Warranaco Park saw the home team drive out twenty-three base hits, including four triples, one double and two home runs. Dutch Wilde and Bill Lynch, sharing the pitching burden for the Minors could not stop the onslaught. Ed Fiske, Bill Lynch and Jim Lynch kept up the offensive end for the Minors, the latter with three hits and the others with two each.

WEST ENDS COP LEAGUE TITLE

All-Stars, Eddie's Market In Battle For Senior 2nd Round Honors

The West End Civic Club clinched the championship of the West Belleville Recreation Softball League last week following the complete collapse of the challenge of the Franklin Pleasure Club. The West Enders, sponsored by realtor Arthur E. Mayer of 333 Washington avenue, jumped into the lead two weeks ago and had their job made easy for them when the Franklins, who had been leading throughout the season, dropped four straight.

The Senior League race boiled down last week to a race for the second-half title between the North Belleville All-Stars and Eddie's Market. The latter conquered the mighty Crowns by a single run last week to maintain an undefeated status. The Crowns won the first round. Fewsmith handed St. Peter's its first defeat in any competition last week and, by virtue of two big innings, stepped into the lead in the Church League. St. Peter's won the first round.

The Sport Shop Hawks continued to fade in the Junior circuit last week after a fast start. They dropped a 5-2 decision to the Cardinals. The Hawks, one of the pre-season favorites, have not been able to get back in step after that 21-0 pasting handed them several weeks ago by the league-leading Imperials.

The Monroe Doctrine's Importance

No conference of representatives of numerous countries in which the United States has participated can match in importance the session of the Pan-American Congress in Havana.

Still, stripped of all of its economic and trade finery, the fixture around which the Pan-American Congress revolves is the Monroe Doctrine — a simply worded but broadly phrased document penned more than a century ago which boldly stated to the world this nation's position and the obligation it felt that it had to the other countries of the Americas.

It is not a lengthy document. It is merely two paragraphs taken from a Presidential message to Congress occasioned by a situation which closely parallels that of the world today.

It was then that Monroe put this country on record. Although aimed originally at European countries, the Doctrine has since been interpreted to refer to all nations unfriendly to the policy of the United States.

"In discussions to which this interest has given rise, and in the arrangements by which they may terminate, the occasion has been judged proper for asserting as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintained are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

And, referring particularly to the countries to the south of us, Monroe stated: "In the wars of European powers it matters relating to themselves, we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy to do so. It is only when our rights are invaded or seriously menaced that we resent injuries or make preparations for our defense.

It is remarkable how perfectly a document written more than a century ago fits into the present day world affairs. South America is viewed just as enviously and hungrily today by the European Axis powers as it was in 1823.

The Doctrine implies that this country must have a strong two-ocean navy, a huge army and air force. The Americas to the south of us have grown, but not to the state where they can care independently for themselves.

Thinking The Report Over

The members of the Board of Education were quite annoyed at the opinions and recommendations expressed in the report presented to them by two of the assistant commissioners of the State Department of Education, Howard Dare White and Ernest O. Harding, after a survey had been made by them of the public school system.

Before commenting any further, we must insert one personal observance of most people who are affiliated with our educational system. They are inclined to be more theoretical than practical.

It should not be forgotten that the survey by the state was made at no cost to the town and the experts were not operating under any reminder that a favorable report should be rendered.

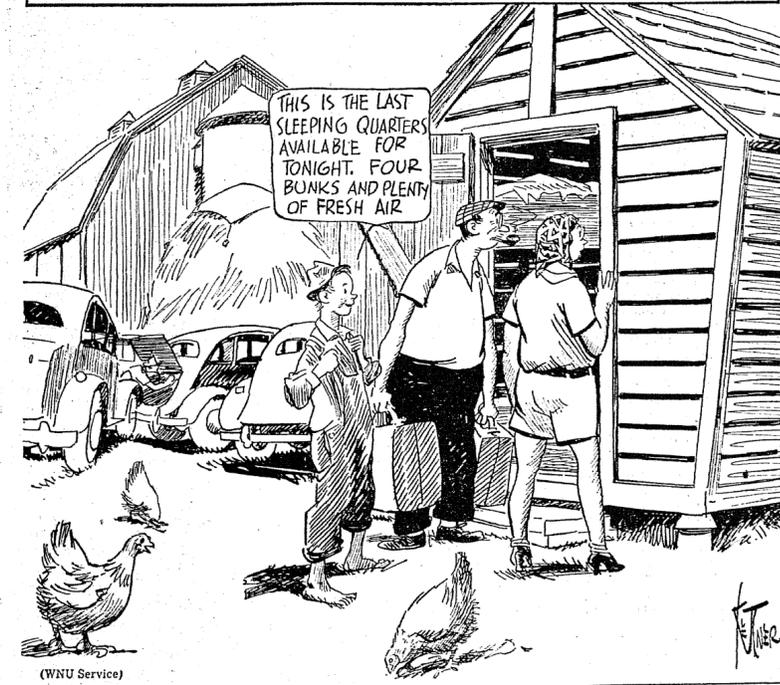

pupils are now not receiving the training that they should. The report also refers bluntly to the absence of certain subjects from the curriculum, particularly manual arts and homemaking for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

We do not put a stamp of approval on this report, but will say that giving our youngsters the best that is possible in the essentials of public school education is quite vital.

Two portions of the report are worth noting. The suggestion to Belleville that the 7-3-3 system of classes be adopted is not radical. It has been and is being inaugurated in many systems throughout this and other states.

While agreeing with the school trustees that a spending spree is not advisable, we think it is worth while to mull over some of the opinions of these experts.

HARTLEY REPLIES TO ATTACKERS BEFORE D. OF A.

Division of mechanized forces were thrown into the Battle of France but that the U. S. has not one completely mechanized division; that there are 900 nineteen millimeter anti-aircraft guns surrounding London alone but that there are only 440 in the entire United States, of which only one is nineteen millimeters; that the air force has a mere 2,700 planes, of which only fifty-two are equal to the best in Europe.

However, he said that great progress is now being made in national defense work, that party lines had been abandoned in Washington, that Congress has already appropriated $14,000,000,000 in this session for defense which will assure a two-ocean navy "which will be an answer to all who want to attack us" and a standing army of 600,000.

Mrs. Harry C. Fredericks of 33 Montgomery place was inducted as the new councilor of Good American in a beautiful and patriotic ceremony which lasted more than an hour.

BISHOP-ELECT GIVEN PURSE

St. Mary's Church Parishioners Honor Bishop Boland; Local Priest a Speaker

At a testimonial program in St. Mary's Church Hall, Nutley, Sunday evening Bishop-elect Thomas A. Boland of the Newark Diocese was presented with a purse by the members of the parish with which he was associated weekly for fifteen years as an auxiliary priest.

Bishop-elect Boland acknowledged the gift with an expression of gratitude for the sincerity of the people and impressed on them his affection for the parish which he had learned to look upon as home.

Participating in the musical program were the Suburban Choral Club under the direction of William P. Stanley of West Orange, Grace McManus Smith of Nutley, accompanied by Miss Mathilda Dangelmajer and a vocal ensemble of six members of St. Mary's Church. The committee in charge of arrangements was under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. J. Hermanns of Nutley.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column, are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville News. by Meador Wright

In a dozen spots in suburban Essex there exist the germs of a movement that has considerable potential significance. This is a Willkie-Edison movement. Clubs bearing this name are in the process of formation in Orange, East Orange and West Orange.

Four years ago things were different. Then a Republican could desert Landon for Roosevelt and no one paid much attention. But Willkie sentiment in this area is approaching the point of fanaticism.

LETTERS

From Violet A. Biller 12 Essex street To the Editor of The News:

As a victim of hay fever and a member of the National Hay Fever Society, Inc., I wish to enlist your cooperation in making property owners conscious of the great harm wrought by ragweed.

The destruction of ragweed, which flourishes through August and September, would go far to eliminate this annual plague. Many of our neighboring towns have joined the national crusade against it.

If property owners would see that all vacant lots were cut in June and again early in August, if Boy and Girl Scouts and members of similar organizations were instructed to uproot ragweed wherever they saw it and if the public as a whole would bear in mind its harmfulness, in a few years it would be eliminated and thousands of people would obtain relief from day and night suffering and enjoy the benefits of the great outdoors.

The Mayor has promised his help in the clearance of town property.

The Woman's Desk

by PEGGY PATTERSON

Few sensible women today ignore the effectiveness of a beauty routine; and few, fortunately, go to the extreme in their use of cosmetics and other artificial aids to beauty. For those who have ever had moments of remorse, however, over the time they spend on grooming themselves, it should be comforting to know that they are not indulging in some new pastime but simply carrying on a routine which has been as natural to women as homemaking since the earliest days of recorded history.

This has always been a generally conceded fact, even though in the generations immediately preceding ours there was a lull in the active pursuit of beauty. A recent display in one of the leading department stores reveals some facts which bring home to us in startling fashion that the women of ancient Babylon, Rome and China followed methods which hint very strongly of our own perfected ones. Besides the use of perfumed oils in the bath and on her body, the Babylonian woman of 5000 B.C. "rubbed pure oils into her scalp, cleaned her nails with a sharp instrument, reddened her cheeks and lips, darkened her lashes and brows and had make-up kits to hold a number of items." Typical of the latter is a block of alabaster with small holes in its top to hold the creams and oils with which she worked. Mascara was kept in

A Good Buy

Dresses made in simple good taste like this one are good end-of-the-season buys. Filmy rayon printed in white will not only add to your pleasure this season but may well be your first thought when next summer's first hot days descend upon you.

There are some fruits which must be fully enjoyed during their short season and even the most finicky family cannot object to their being served often. Big, handsome blueberries which are flooding the market now come in this category. Serve them frosty cold with cream and sugar; add their dusky note to your fruit salads or use them for the attractive, and not too rich, shortcake which follows:

- ### True Blue Shortcake
- Layers:
- 1 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
 - 1 1/2 level teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 - 5 tablespoons boiling water

Sift dry ingredients together twice. Beat eggs until thick and light. Add sugar gradually, beating as you add. Add lemon juice. Fold in dry ingredients alternately with hot water, mixing quickly. Bake in an ungreased 8 inch square pan or a tube pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes. Invert pan one hour until cold before removing.

Split the cake when cool with a sharp knife and put together with a generous layer of sweetened whipped cream and blueberries. Top with cream and more berries.

- ### Blueberry Roll
- 1 cup flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 tablespoon sugar
 - 3 tablespoons butter
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1 well-beaten egg

Sift the dry ingredients together and mix well. Cut in the butter and add milk and egg stirring only until blended. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently for a minute. Roll 1/2 inch thick. Brush with 1/2 tablespoon melted butter and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar to which a little cinnamon has been added. Spread with 1/4 cup of well-drained blueberries. Roll as for jelly roll and cut in six slices. Blend a tablespoon flour with 2 tablespoons of sugar and combine with 1 1/2 cup blueberries and 1/2 cup water. Cook—over low heat until thick. Add 1 teaspoon lemon juice and pour into a greased 7 inch pan. Cover with pastry slices and bake in a hot oven twenty minutes. Serve hot with cream.

TIME TO SELECT YOUR CLOTHES FOR THE FALL

Brown and Black Still Lead For Basic Colors; New Styles In Coats

by Genevieve Holland

I would say from the feeling of the weather that summer has finally arrived. What does that mean to us? It spells thinking about our fall wardrobes. Most of us have to plan ahead because of slender pocketbooks. It takes lots of willpower when you start buying because you must stick to your list.

Brown and black are still the best when it comes to basic colors and they will be smart next year when blues and greens may not. It is usually wisest not to buy a dress in the season's newest shade if you are planning to wear it next year, too because the color will date it.

Suppose we start with the coat; that should be the most expensive item by far on your list. Do not stint yourself because a good coat will do more for you than any one other thing.

Latest Thing In Coats

The latest and most extreme style, of course, is the new thirty-two-inch length, slim and buttoned all the way down the front. Not too flattering to most figures, so how about buying a classic instead, a nice fitted coat of the reefer style with very good lines; or a good-looking, well-tailored, exaggerated shoulders, depending on your personal preferences. The simpler the coat the more good taste you will show; then you can go to town on your dress.

If you have been active this summer and done lots of swimming and tennis, you probably have gotten a figure that can stand practically anything; so try the new side saddle skirt. If your coat is black, your dress should be black, too. If your coat is brown, why don't you try a nice warm red under it? The lovely fall shade, teal, would be nice with either.

Your dress will have a nice round neck, three-quarter loose sleeves, or else long, tight ones, a slightly bloused bodice and the side saddle skirt, slim on one side and beautifully draped on the other.

Jewelry Quite Smart

Jewelry is still very smart this fall, so with that round neckline let's try something a little different. A single clip at your throat is should be an expensive-looking unusual clip and may or may not have a bracelet to match. You will probably have to do some shopping around to find what you want at the price you want.

Now come the accessories. Your gloves, bag and shoes must necessarily be simple so they will not attract too much attention from the rest of your costume. Your bag should be either a flat envelope stylized by your initials or name, or else a dress bag of suede gathered at the opening.

Your gloves, simple classic dress-length, and your shoes, the opera pump or a slight variation, are best. When you come to your hat you can splurge a wee bit. Try a new shape; there will be many this fall—a huge halo, a profile hat or a slim, tall, cone-shaped affair and no veils or frilly flowers. They simply don't fit.

Driver Hides After Motorcycle Strikes Parked Car

The auto of Harry A. Nielsen Sr., of 293 Stephens street, parked between Bell and DeWitt avenues on Greycliff parkway, was struck by a motorcycle operated by John Gilbert, thirty-two, of Rahway, Saturday evening. Gilbert, driving west, stopped and went north on Bremond street where he left his motorcycle with a flat tire. He was found hiding in a closet in one of the new homes in the White Oaks development, police reported. He was given a summons for reckless driving.

Car Is Overtaken

An auto in which Mrs. Lorina W. Clark, thirty-six, of 178 Floyd street, and her five-year old son, Donald, were riding was overtaken from the impact of a collision with the car of Leonard Cirello, twenty-six, of 15 Sunset avenue Thursday. Cirello helped pull the youngster through the window of the overturned car. Mrs. Clark and her son were taken to Dr. Barney Schaffer at 252 Washington avenue where they were treated for shock and bruises.

Fischer—Young

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young of Franklin recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth W. Young to Elmer J. Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fischer, of Joramelon street at a buffet supper in Franklin. Miss Young is a graduate of Franklin High School and East Orange General Hospital Training School where she is now on the hospital staff. Mr. Fischer is a graduate of Belleville High School.

Dresses With Year-Round Value Being Shown

Perhaps Some of the Newest Styles in Housecoats Will Prove Appealing; Pajama Suits Just The Thing For House or Garden Wear

This, we are convinced is the time of the year when it is possible to stock your wardrobe with some excellent values to which you may look forward with pleasure during the winter months. It must be remembered that the summer season is actually very short and even designers and marketers of hot weather clothes expect them to do double duty. Of course, discrimination must be used. There is a line of very inexpensive summer clothes in radical styles, colors and even experimental materials which can never weather more than a short season. When we refer to end-of-the-season buying we naturally do not include these.

Take, however, the conservative spectator sports dress in which so many women spend every moment of the day when they are not engaged in active sports. These dresses definitely carry over from one season to the next and you may buy them now in perfect confidence.

Two Smart Models

We have seen two models which are in particularly good taste. In one the dress has a V neckline and generous shirring at the yoke to make its bodice softly feminine while the gored skirt flares slightly and is at the same time tailored enough to give a slim line. To be slipped over the dress is a full-length matching coat which is brought in smoothly at the waist by a belted effect and has trim shirtwaist top with dull gold buttons closing the front and cuffs of the short sleeves are smartly turned back. A good quality spun rayon makes this ensemble in white, gray-blue and two engaging shades, which women do not wear half enough, champagne and pale lettuce green.

Another ensemble, even more classic, is the crepe dress which with its wide reverses trimmed with self-embroidery is designed to be worn outside the collarless full length matching coat. This is at its best in pure white and is a must for your summer wardrobe. A good buy right now. In addition we would suggest that you invest in another of the lovely sheer rayons such as the one shown on this page.

This is a material which is bound to be in high fashion for a long time since it has no equal for hot weather comfort. A charming example in cool gray printed all over in white has an exquisite organza collar with insertions of real lace. Your favorite stores and shops are featuring dresses of this type now at fifty per cent reductions. During this first clearance you will find dresses that have not been shown too often and therefore are fresh and desirable.

It almost looks as if some of the loveliest housecoats and lounging ensembles have not been shown until our wilted spirits needed reviving. Crisp and cool is the one in fine-ribbed pique with a sailor collar, turned back cuffs and flaring hip pockets sharply outlined by starched crocheted lace. A trim self bow marks the tiny waist. This is a breakfast treat for your family if you choose it in white or sunny yellow.

Quite the opposite is a sophisticated housecoat of silk jersey in a fairly narrow gray and white stripe. The front panel is solid color, most desirable in crease, crossed at the waistline by a perky bow of the striped jersey. Worn with appropriate costume jewelry and your prettiest hairdo, this costume is nice for an informal dinner and evening with your family.

DOGS

by Laurence Torley

Modern science has found many ways of making easier and more accurate the work of crime detection, and yet it has found no substitute for the nose of the dog. The ability of certain breeds to pick up scents, often quite old and confused by cross trails, and follow them to the criminals is amazing, according to Major General Sir Thomas Russell Pasha. In the March issue of the American Kennel Gazette, official magazine of the American Kennel Club, he wrote an article entitled "Egypt's Star Police Dog," which concerns the ability of "Captain Hall," an amazingly clever German shepherd dog.

In describing the solution of a particularly puzzling murder that involved three Arabs and a donkey, the author writes, in part: "The hero of the piece was undoubtedly the dog, Hall, or 'Captain Hall' as he is generally called. A three-year-old German shepherd, born in Egypt of untrained parents, he has an extraordinary record. During 1938 he was taken to 170 cases of crime; in thirty-two cases the man identified by Hall confessed to the crime; in twenty-four cases the man identified admitted that the tracks were his but denied the crime, while in eighty-five cases the man identified by the dog denied that the tracks were his, but subsequent police investigation proved that they were.

A Remarkable Nose

"The quality of the shepherd's nose is most remarkable. In the case I have just described the tracks with which he had to deal had been made four and a half days before, and lay on dry, stony desert, in bright sunny weather with a strong northwest wind blowing.

"On the parade his remarkable intelligence was shown by the way that he successively took a scent, found his man, dismissed that scent from his mind and took another; and this not twice, but three times, within a few minutes."

This remarkable dog not only clearly identified all three murderers, but then found the donkey they had used to carry the corpse.

"Truth" is the lesson-sermon subject for Sunday in all Christian Science Churches and Societies throughout the world.

The golden text is: "O God, my heart is fixed; I will sing and give praise, even with my glory."

For thy mercy is great above the heavens; and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds."

Among the lesson-sermon citations is the following from the Bible: "But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be intreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without impartiality, and without hypocrisy."

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "We treat error through the understanding of Truth, because Truth is error's antidote."

MISS SANOK FIFTH IN GOLF CONTEST

Montgomery Place Girl Does Well in Driving Competition; Coppola Fifteenth

Miss Helen Sanok of 16 Montgomery place won fifth prize in the women's division of the tenth annual Crescent Fairways free golf driving contest in Vaux Hall Friday night before a gallery of 1,800 spectators who saw her get off a 184 yard drive.

Coppola, twenty-six, of 49 Lake street placed fifteenth in the finals of the men's division with a drive of 277 yards.

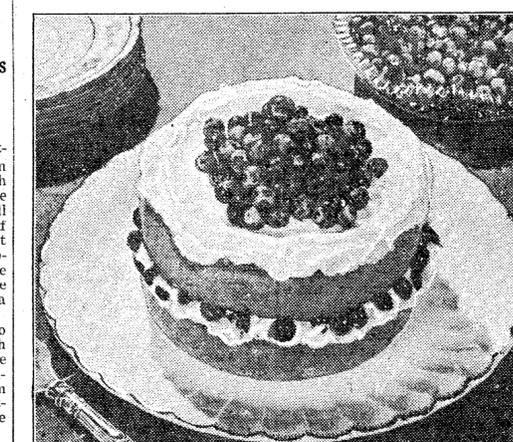

Coppola, a truck driver who plays at Forest Hill and Branch Brook, led a field of twenty-three other Belleville golfers who entered the tourney, three of whom qualified for the finals. He outdrove his two brothers, George and Michael.

In last year's contest Miss Sanok's brother, Teddy, won second prize in the men's division. Mario Morano of 88 Dow street, who placed second recently in the Metropolitan Public Links championship at Hendricks Field and who set a record last year when he won this contest with a drive of 303 yards, did not compete this year.

Other Bellevilleites of the field of close to 300 who were shooting for prizes of golf equipment who qualified were Charles Maglin, twenty-five year-old golfer of 69 Eugene place, Francis Brunio of Florence avenue and Art Benny of Silver Lake.

It was a sweltering day. The Belleville Municipal Building faces the afternoon sun and the office of Mayor William H. Williams, fronting on Washington avenue, gets the full force of it. We had an appointment with the Mayor at 2 and on the dot tall, gray-haired, smiling Bill Williams appeared, cool-looking in a low collar with bow tie, and unperturbed by the continuously rising temperature.

We had arrived ahead of schedule and with no little awe had been examining the six-foot replica of the National Capitol which is the most imposing attraction at the Belleville Municipal Building, excepting Mayor Williams. We had gone there to have the Mayor tell us about it. Carved by hand out of French cane stone, it is four feet six inches high, three feet three inches deep and is electrically lighted. It took a former resident of Belleville, a Welshman, 3,640 hours to carve, or four years, and is true to scale, even to the tiny pillars on the balcony, and the intricate decorative designs in the main windows.

The Mayor recently had it appraised. One expert said it was worth $7,500; another $5,000. It should be on exhibit in the New Jersey Building at the World's Fair, but the insurance and handling runs into big money. Some people believe it should be a gift to F.D.R. for his private museum. In the meanwhile it is Belleville's pet.

UNOFFICIALLY, this is Milk and Ice Cream Month, as you may quickly assure yourself by looking over the luncheons served in such discriminating places as Hotel Robert Treat, better clubs and restaurants. Half pints of Alderney milk are on virtually every tray in the coffee shop and main dining room at the Treat. Alderney ice cream is the popular dessert. At the Alderney Milk Barn, Route 10, rich, flavorful Alderney chocolate maltes, with crisp, fresh crackers, are quite the thing for mid-summer luncheons, often followed by a dish of Alderney ice cream. The Alderney Barn, incidentally, is now at the height of its popularity.

AN interesting collection, indeed, is the rare display of fine gems purchased from estates, banks and other sources by Busch & Sons, jewelers, Broad and William streets, Newark. We saw star sapphires in exquisite twenty-diamond settings, a diamond-sapphire bracelet, with twelve blue-white diamonds, and an equal number of Montana sapphires. Actually, they dazzle you; the prices are unbelievably low.

SHORT, shorts: Coolest-looking fellow in Caldwell on hottest day this week was Chief of Police Simms, who knows how to dress in white shirt, black tie . . . One of the cooler, hot-weather spots is Elmers', Centre street, Nutley . . . Most placid rendezvous in all North Jersey is Deer Trail Lodge, Oak Ridge, in the Berkshire Valley . . . Always popular, always cordial gathering place is Ponte's, Roseland, where you can meet the celebrities of Fistiana. —Adv.
