Honor roll for the third period in Belleville has been announced. There seem to be any let-down in ability even though the honor roll for the third period may suffer from fuel shortage.

FOOD AND RENT COMPLAINTS MADE

Committees Watch Violations Of Fair Food And Rent Regulations

The temporary Food Industries committees, recently organized for the purpose of alleviating food shortages in this area, has set up headquarters in room 201, Chamber of Commerce building, 20 Bradford place, Newark. Harriet Smith is in charge of the office.

Retail storekeepers and housewives in the Hudson, Essex, and Union county areas may mail or phone their complaints to this office. The phone number is Market 3-1413. All complaints will be immediately investigated to determine whether actual shortages exist in the shopping area.

Although the majority of operators and landlords are cooperating with the rent control program, Phillips declared he had recently received a number of complaints from tenants of rooming houses charging that maximum rent rules were being violated.

Based On Separate Charges The complaints, he said, were based on separate charges for electricity used for lighting purposes, radio and electric irons, for linen and in some cases, water. The complainants charge that the operators named claim that such services were not to be considered as rent.

Phillips emphasized that OPA regulations specifically state that where such services were included in the rent charged during the period when maximum rent was established, the services must be continued. Where such services were not included during the period establishing the maximum rent, operators have a right to petition the area rent director for an adjustment of the rent.

Cooperation of all landlords and rooming house operators and the elimination of complaints such as have been received by the Newark Rent Control office are essential to the successful administration of the OPA regulations, Phillips explained.

He said that the term "rooming house" means in addition to its customary usage, a building or portion of a building other than a hotel in which furnished rooms or rooms not constituting an apartment are rented on a short-term basis to daily, weekly, or monthly occupants, or more than two paying tenants not members of the landlord's immediate family, the term including boarding house, dormitory, auto camp, trailers, residence clubs, tourist homes or cabins.

A Planning Guide For Victory Gardens

By R. E. Harman, Essex County Agricultural Agent

As an aid to those planning Victory gardens this summer, R. E. Harman, County Agricultural Agent, is writing a series of articles which, clipped and saved, may serve as a guide from the selection of a site and seeds, through the growing period to the "harvest."

The first in the series appears below.

The fever pitch for plowing up lawns and flowers for Victory Gardens was kept pretty well under control last year by Federal, State, County and local Victory Garden Committees. The fever, however, is even higher at this stage than a year ago and the Victory Gardening program again needs some guidance in order to avoid the failures noted during World War I.

The producing food in home gardens is much greater this year than last. More vegetable seed is available than a year ago. There is, however, less of some kinds of fertilizer and spray materials available than last year.

Federal and State Victory Garden Committees have already held meetings on the 1943 program. Policies and plans have been formulated and will be out in a printed circular soon. In brief, this circular will encourage the growing of some vegetables in most gardens. It will urge stress farm gardens, gardens of 4-H Club members under supervision of Extension Service Agents and Club Leaders, suburban gardens where the soil is not too poor, and community, industrial and school gardens where suitable soil can be located and where supervision can be given. The rest will be discouraged except on a small scale.

However, the circular will discourage an all-out effort whereby people spade up their lawns and vacant lots without regard to soil conditions and other factors which spell for success.

A few hours of volunteer labor on nearby farms may produce more food than ten times that much labor expended by that same gardener at his home under adverse soil conditions. Furthermore, the former may be a better conservation of seed plant food and spray materials.

While a lot can be done to improve poor soil before mid-summer, real improvement takes at least a year. That is the reason we suggested a year ago that people who had poor soil grow only enough vegetables to gain experience for a greater effort in 1943 and spend most of their 1942 enthusiasm on improving their soil.

As a rule there are plenty of relatively cheap vegetables in the markets in the spring months, so that one might best, in some instances, devote early gardening efforts to soil improvement and then concentrate on late summer and fall vegetables for use when vegetables are apt to be scarce locally and more expensive to buy.

It will be unpatriotic to start a garden only to neglect it after the spring garden fever wears off, as we have seen too often with lawns and flower gardens.

A later article will appear on "Improving Your Soil." The next one will cover "Vegetables Versus Flowers and Other Ornamentals."

Third Ambulance Corps Lecture Delivered Tonight

The third in a series of illustrated lectures by a representative of the state motor vehicle department will be delivered tonight in School No. 8 to members of the Ambulance Corps, unit of the emergency medical service division of the local defense council.

Recruits for training in this service among those who can serve in case of daytime emergency are badly needed. Chief McCloskey is urging every member to sign up at least one person who is not employed during the day and other volunteers are asked to register with him or assistant chief Edward Vogel.

McCluskey called attention to Belleville's five well-equipped casualty stations out of which many ambulances could be operated if enough people could be trained to man them.

WALTER KIDDIE

In Public Affairs As a life-long resident of New Jersey, Walter Kiddie gave much of his time to public affairs. As early as 1907, he served as president of the alumni association of Stevens Institute, and was head of many charitable, public and beneficent institutions during his lifetime.

Among his many extra-curricular tasks he was appointed in 1937 as trustee of the New York, Susquehanna & Western railroad. His constructive imagination has transformed this road which was rated one of the backward roads of the country to one of the best managed.

ERDMAN DRISCOLL

He has been a member of the New York State Chamber of Commerce since 1919. In 1923 he was appointed a member of the New Jersey State Highway commission. During his term, the first traffic circle at Camden was designed and built, and the first cloverleaf intersection was designed.

Other Activities From 1932 until his death he served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Regional Plan Association of New York and environs, on the New Jersey coordinating committee and the traffic committee of that association.

He was married to Louise Carter of Montclair, in 1902, daughter of the late Archdeacon Frederick B. Carter of the Episcopal church. Mr. Kiddie is survived by Mrs. Kiddie; two sons, Walter L. Kiddie of Verona, and John F. Kiddie, of Montclair; one daughter, Mrs. Walter E. Morgan, Jr., of Glen Ridge. He is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Emil L. Bornemann, Mrs. Emma Kiddie Sanders and Miss Elsa A. Kiddie, all of Montclair. His aunt, Miss home. "Parents," he said, "should be careful where their children go in war-time. The police department," according to Driscoll, "cannot do the job that Woman's clubs, parents, and churches can do." Driscoll believes that young boys going away from home will follow the training that they have received in the home.

He suggested that the way to stop the upward trend, was for churches to open their doors to workers coming off the night shift, so that they would have a place to go. He also advocated that there be no mixed drinking, which leads to "pick-ups"; a short uniform tavern closing hour in order to rid people and towns of the ill effects of liquor.

Anna Lang, of Montclair, donor of the Montclair Art Museum, died last Friday.

Town of Belleville, N. J. 1943 BUDGET

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

By Mayor-Finance Director

TO THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS:

As required by Law, I respectfully submit Budget Explanatory Statement covering proposed Budget of Town of Belleville for 1943: Cash Data—On Hand December 31, 1942—

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Current Cash Account, Trust Cash Account, Capital Cash Account, Water Cash Account, Relief Cash Account, Board of Education Current Account.

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Total Cash December 31, 1942, Less Current Obligations.

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Less Balance 1942-1943 School Budget—to July 1, 1943.

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Surplus Cash—January 1, 1943, Less Cash used as Credit in 1943 Budget.

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Surplus Cash, after completing 1943 Budget.

Emergency Notes—net—$29,400.00 were paid from surplus cash in 1942.

Surplus Cash reduced from January 1, 1942 to January 1, 1943 by $12,485.26.

Table with 3 columns: Debt Data, Jan. 1, 1943, Jan. 1, 1942. Includes Town Debt, Less Emergency, Less State Road Contribution.

Table with 3 columns: Debt Data, Jan. 1, 1943, Jan. 1, 1942. Includes Town Debt, Plus Water Debt, Plus School Debt.

Table with 3 columns: Debt Data, Jan. 1, 1943, Jan. 1, 1942. Includes Gross Debt, Less Sinking Fund Assets.

Table with 3 columns: Debt Data, Jan. 1, 1943, Jan. 1, 1942. Includes Town Net Debt, Net Reduction Town—School and Water Divisions.

Delinquent Taxes

Due to high percentage of collections of current taxes, delinquent tax totals have decreased—therefore sum used in 1942—($105,500.00) as a credit item in Anticipated Revenue Account is reduced to $75,000.00 for 1943.

Town-Owned Property Sales

$65,000.00 received from above in 1942. Building restrictions preclude anticipating similar sum in 1943.

Emergency Notes

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes $33,100.00 issued in 1942 for: Department Public Safety, Defense Council, Recreation Department, Storm Drainage, Water Department.

were retired from Surplus Cash in 1942, and are not included in 1943 Budget. Item of $10,000.00 Emergency Note in Water Department was required to pay for increased Water costs which was compensated by substantial increase in Water Sales.

Anticipated Revenues

Gross Receipts—Franchise Taxes—Water Sales increased substantially during 1942. These high receipts cannot be considered as permanent as removal of restrictions on passenger cars will reduce our Gross Receipts and Franchise payments from utility companies, and a recession in industrial operations will decrease our water sales. Sums used in the 1943 Budget appear reasonable in relation to present and immediate future business operations.

91.68% collection of 1942 were highest indicated by any Town record—this percentage is as high as we can reasonably anticipate, and anticipated collections for 1943 have been guided accordingly. A decrease of 10% in our current collections—with all other costs, income, and ratable factors remaining as in 1943—could cause an increase of (40) forty points in the tax rate or a very serious reduction in available surplus. This point is cited to emphasize the importance of maintaining payments of current taxes at the present good collection rate.

Ratables

Increasing ratables of 1942 from $31,131,000.00 to $33,224,000.00 for 1943 may lead to conclusions that tax rates should decline correspondingly. Increased ratables at present tax rate produces approximately $90,000.00. Analysis of five items indicates the income from new ratables is barely sufficient to pay for said items—

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Estimated increase County Tax, Estimated increase State Tax, Increase in Local School Tax, Increase in Passaic Valley Tax, Increase in Nutley Sewer Tax.

Realization by taxpayers that the above increases practically equal the income from new ratables—each item wholly non-controllable by the Board of Commissioners—will prevent improper conclusions that new ratables alone guarantee tax reductions.

The above listed increases equal $100,000.00 in budget costs when the Chapter 60 overlay is added—whereas $90,000.00 return from the new ratables actually nets in tax returns about 20% less or $72,000.00 after County and State taxes are considered. New ratables have eliminated the necessity of increasing the present rate.

Water Department

For the 12th successive year the Water Department has been operated on a self-liquidating basis—water operation profits have contributed $28,000.00 to the Surplus Cash used in the Anticipated Revenue Account as a credit item against total Budget Costs.

Relief Data

The Relief Department costs are paid from two sources—contribution by the State and from the local Budget. State Laws require a Special Cash Account to clear all Relief costs. Last year the 1942 Budget included $20,000.00 as the Town contribution. With sufficient surplus cash in this account today—plus the 1943 anticipated State contribution—necessary cash will be available to care for all demands, and my recommendation that the item be eliminated from the 1943 Budget and surplus cash remain in the Town General Account was approved.

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Cash on hand in Special Relief Account on January 1, 1942, Received from 1942 Budget, Received from State of New Jersey.

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Total Available Cash, 1942 Relief Costs.

Cash in Special Relief Account January 1, 1943.. $34,610.59

In addition to above balance and anticipated 1943 State contribution, the 1943 Budget provides $12,000.00 for administration and welfare costs.

Pension Funds

Again I emphasize as I have done annually for past years that pensions paid to retired firemen and policemen or their families exceed the current gross income. The excess costs, 1942 amounting to $5,769.25 is included in the 1943 Budget in addition to the 1943 current needs of $7,000.00. 1943 current needs exceed 1942 current demand by $600.00.

Making up the excess costs of the prior year by subsequent budget action maintains the capital assets of the Pension Fund. This mandatory method requires a total contribution from budget of $12,969.25 and $7,200.00 from members of Police and Fire Departments. State Law action is needed to place pension funds on a sound actuarial basis.

1943 Costs

Table with 2 columns: Description, Amount. Includes Operating Departments, Delinquent Tax Reserve, Town Debt Payments, Contingent Payments, Emergencies, Local School Tax, Estimated County Tax, Estimated State Tax, Water Operation.

Total Costs $2,108,284.67

Amount to be raised by Taxation..... 1,473,925.50

Estimated 1943 Tax Rate — $4.45

The estimated tax rate is based on present advices on probable State and County Tax. In view of the substantial amount of cash ($238,259.17) used as credits in the Anticipated Revenues, decreasing returns from Tax Title Liens, Town-owned land sales, and potential decreases in many items, I recommend our Surplus cash be maintained at $337,514.74 of which $100,000.00 is invested in United States War Bonds.

Your 1943 Budget is made up fully consistent with all legal requirements, and with full appreciation of the seriousness which the present and future financial status of our community deserves.

Federal taxes will undoubtedly prove heavy in 1943 for most citizens. Utmost economy must prevail in all municipal operations in our jurisdiction. Only most necessary new work can receive consideration.

As your Finance Director, I express appreciation of endorsement of policies which have enhanced our municipal financial status. As your Mayor, I appreciate the support of all Board members and public employees in maintaining the local operating policies which have been accorded favorable comment.

With the experiences of overcoming many difficulties in developing a well-managed municipality, we enter 1943 in a financially well respected position. Through the members of this Board, I urge all supervisors and employees to continue their efforts in the prudent management of all departmental work.

Respectfully submitted,

Mayor - Finance Director

Imperial A. C.s Disband As Members Join Armed Forces

The Imperial A. C.'s after four years of successful coaching by Carmine Cafone, who have seen their cop honors as town champs on the diamond are being broken up by another "coach"—Uncle Sam. Cafone, who is a former BHS baseball star, steered the Imperial to the title in 1938-39, a year they were also undefeated in football. In the basketball league they have been runners-up for town champs for two years, and have held first place so far this year. Captain Nick De-... has been in the pitcher's box along with... later will be remembered as a member of the high school football team and this year's crack aggregation of basketballers. Imperial ranks were depleted this week by those leaving in the February contingent. They were Del Guercio, Frunzi, Vito De-Franzoz, Aggie Daddio. Those already in the service are: Dutchy Passo, navy, and Sal Vangiari, army.

With New Balls

Baseball was assured another inning when spring rolls around in a double play made last week by an ingenious manufacturer and the WPB sporting goods division. The great American sport was a bit struck out by wartime demands for the critical materials with which the balls are normally made. But Joe Di Maggio may see a new ball of equal quality next season that has been developed by a manufacturer from materials authorized by the WPB. In the baseballs used professionally for more than a decade is a center of cork cushioned with rubber. When critical cork and rubber were banned in the making of baseballs, a baseball manufacturer experimented with the rubber cores that were used in golf balls as a substitute for cork centers. The golf ball industry was left stranded with 720,000 on their hands. These cores were cushioned with a layer of reclaimed scrap rubber and built up to official baseball center size. Convinced that his new ball compared favorably with the best, the manufacturer petitioned the WPB for authorization to use reclaimed scrap rubber. Baseball is important, WPB said, to the physical fitness of fighting men and war workers, and is of great interest to millions of fans. Besides, only 20 tons of scrap rubber would be used. The golf ball pills weighed 11 tons and 9 tons of scrap rubber were allocated. The new ball has the unequalled blessing of the War Department. After mechanical and field tests, the special service branch changed its specifications to make buying the new ball optional, and people buy a lot of them—80 per cent of all the top-grade balls, schools, colleges, industries and perhaps the major leagues, who use up more than 180,000 of them a year, are expected to absorb the 120,000 left-over balls. But, this, there will be none for you to play with on the corner lot.

Army Life Is "Swell" Little Reports

From Clifford D. Little, Sampson, N. Y. To the Editor of The Times: I wish to report that Belleville was well represented here at the New Naval Training Station at Sampson, N. Y. The station was recently opened in October, 1942. Among those from Belleville here at Sampson are Horace Goussard, who will be remembered for his high school and Manhattan University athletic play. Horace is a chief petty officer here. Others include John Calichio, '41, who is a member of the championship basketball team here; Ed Heimrich, James Kaylor and Ed Heimrich, who is leaving for further training. The news is swell, and the others enjoy it.

The Woman's Desk

by PEGGY PATTERSON

The controversy between the classicists and the jazz lovers goes on and on but there must come a day when the two are bound to merge with an appreciation for the noted foe.

The peculiar thing about the whole controversy, is the fact that classicists raise their hands in horror and shudder, when you mention to them any word linked to jazz, whereas the true jazz artists are never prone to fits of rage when they hear anyone mention classical music or its composers. In fact, the jazz artists are many times sympathetic and understanding towards classical music and have even used the very type and the very music of classicists for their own.

The single reason for this, to our mind, is the fact that the classicists are reactionary and refuse to see the honorary past masters wedded to the contemporary hoodlums of the present. But the day of that marriage is nearly here, for when jazz artists can cram Carnegie Hall, there must be a reason.

When one says "music lover" we immediately imagine a person with a serious intensive air, who listens devoutly to mere classical music. Such a clear cut picture should be forsworn immediately. A true "music lover" is one who is intrigued by good music, but not only classical music. Good music very often impinges on the realms of jazz and a music lover should know and understand jazz as well as classical music.

Forget Prejudices

The way to understanding jazz lies first in forgetting any prejudices one may have towards the music itself or the composers. It is often hard for us to see contemporary music in a clear light. But we read the newest novels, pick up the newest words and talk of modern painting, so why shouldn't we listen to modern music, in the form of jazz. The classicists are willing, at least, to listen and judge, the modern composers of the symphony. Why then don't they open their ears and their eyes, and judge the jazz makers? The new is worthy enough in other creative arts, why not consider the new in music?

Strictly speaking, jazz is not the last word in music. Jazz is now in a youthful stage but it has grown away from the first tottering steps. But the jazz artists of today are constantly on their toes striving for the new and unusual, and appropriate, effect for the very present. Jazz in its first beginnings was a type of music which made you want only to sit and listen, or perhaps to glide across the floor. But the jazz of today and through its various stages has matured into a stimulating, arresting, violent music which makes you want to take part or to listen with both ears for the dangerous cords, and mellow counterparts of melody which continuously fill your head.

Shouldn't Discount It

There is something very similar in the images and feeling produced by one of the great masters of either yesterday or today. Beethoven and Beiderbeck were both able to produce certain chords and sounds which made one feel elemental and heavenly at the same time. Because many people feel that jazz is solely music for dancing they discount it altogether. They forget that often enough, many of the masters wrote their music for dancing of the day and that the jazz of today, the true jazz, is meant for listening also and not only for dancing.

Much of the real jazz music is meant only for listening, its rhythm and sounds are so complex that it would be highly impossible to dance to it. And that jazz is the kind that should be noticed and considered for a permanent place in the repertoire of American music.

Strange as it is, many music lovers disregard jazz because its composers seem to them dissipated and wild. Music produced, should never be abused because one considers the human element by recalling the sort of man who produced it. Yet, if one does, thus judge, he must also remember that many of the masters led lives, not of the purest. Musicians, and particularly the musicians who compose and align themselves with jazz, must work under an intense strain and live a high pitched life. And so it was, even with the greatest of the old masters. Music produced, deprives one of so much physical vitality and spiritual effort, that the brain and the body must be constantly replenishing the store.

Has Power and Beauty

Jazz fiends, those who also appreciate the classicists, do not want to force the strict classicists to their own mould. They only want them to understand the power and beauty that jazz can render. Jazz for the masses is a good thing, but it is jazz for the classicists that the contemporary artists want to have. And the only way to have it, is to let the classicists listen until their ears have become attuned to the different music. When they are given a taste of jazz along with their regular diet, they will soon become immune to their first prejudices. So it is, that jazz is taking a foothold with the non-conformists because it is gradually seeping into the concert halls and creeping into the writings of the new composers. Jazz must never be entirely submerged with the classical or it would lose its successful different quality. It must only come gradually to stand side by side with the classical and be recognized as it deserves.

The second in a series of concerts sponsored by the "Friends of the Fairleigh Dickinson Junior college," a group of devotees of the arts from Rutherford and surrounding communities, will be held next Sunday at 4 p. m. at the college. Angelo Cafarelli, pianist, will be the soloist on the program, with Otto F. Gerlach acting as commentator for the program giving glimpses of the lives of the composers whose works Mr. Cafarelli will play. The concerts which are free, are open to music and art lovers.

As to coffee rationing, we're still the envy of Europeans. It's one-a-day here—but the Belgians (if they're lucky) get 10 cups of chickory a month; Danes get about seven cups each 30 days; French working the "black market" might get a "real" cup every 10 days.

MARK EDISON'S BIRTHDAY TODAY

Inventor Of Modern Forms Honored At Dinner Of Old Workers

The Edison Pioneers, composed of men who worked with Thomas A. Edison, will hold their annual meeting and luncheon at the Hotel Astor on February 11, the birthday of the famous inventor. Governor Charles Edison of New Jersey, the scientist's son, will attend and address his father's old workers.

The featured speaker at the luncheon will be Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowan, who will give a general picture of the Navy at war and will discuss the part that Edison's inventions are playing in the war.

The Edison Pioneers were formed in the last World War and this is their 26th annual meeting. Of the 28 charter members, five are still alive and will attend this year. The membership totals 250 men who either worked for Edison or are his direct descendants. Displays of replicas of the original Edison inventions and the playing of some of the earliest recordings made by him, including his own voice, will be other high spots at the celebration.

At the moment, there is a joint resolution before congress introduced by Frank L. Sundstrom of New Jersey, petitioning the president to proclaim the 96th birthday of Edison, February 11, as Edison day. The Edison's Birthday committee was formed not so much to promote Edison's name as to protect it from misuse through improper exploitation.

Edison is the third great son of February, along with Lincoln and Washington. Edison played a part in many of our modern inventions including typewriters, mimeograph machines, dictating machines, electric light and power companies, telephones and moving pictures.

Edison's life from 1847 until 1931 was a series of inventions and new ideas and he kept on working until the very moment of his death. Actually he is with us, today in the field of communications, transportation and electric power and through his abilities we are helping America win the war. The mementos of Edison towards freeing mankind, which are all around us, should make us cognizant of the full and useful life he led on February 11, which is his birthday.

Bellboy Winning Streak Goes Over Loud Speakers

Realizing the interest the public is displaying in the Bell Boy basketball game, the Bell Boy basketball team is playing a loud speaker system outside of the gym on Washington avenue so that the crowds unable to get inside to watch the footwork will at least be able to hear a play by play description. Since so many people were turned away at the last game, Coach Wische feels that an opportunity should be made to accommodate them. The broadcast of this game to the outer public between Kearny and Belleville will be the first attempt of this kind made by a high school in the country.

The game will take place Tuesday night, February 16, and looms as the outstanding attraction in the New Jersey long awaited duel between Kearny and Belleville, and is expected to fill a capacity house.

In a thrill-packed game, the Belleville high school turned on the heat to subdue a big stubborn Orange high school team to the tune of 23-23 in their twelfth game last Friday night. The ball game was a nip and tuck affair from the outset and the score was deadlocked no less than seven times. Belleville managed to retain its small lead through the third canto in which each side scored seven markers and led 23 to 21 as the fourth canto opened.

Belleville intercepted the ball for basket until three minutes of the time remained when Scrogges of Orange made a long shot and followed up with a foul to put Orange in the lead for the first time in the game. The fighting Bell Boy team came roaring back to take the lead on the McManus two pointer. With less than a minute to play Belleville moved to give Belleville a 36-33 lead. Again with 10 seconds to play, head, Belleville intercepted an Orange pass and "froze" the ball for the remaining 30 seconds.

Showing the effects and strain of an arduous and difficult basketball schedule, the high school team stayed off a last period victory, 24-23 in its thirteenth consecutive game Tuesday night. Jumping off to a substantial lead through the sensational shooting of Neil Finn, Belleville never relinquished its lead and won easily.

With 30 seconds to play, Mills cut Belleville's primary lead, 32-26. Ullrich gave Irvington the lead, but he was dropped in a long set shot to make the score 32-28. Finn followed up with a lay-up basket nulling the score to 34-28. Belleville ret possession of the ball on an interception and froze it for the remainder of the game.

Mosque Schedules Post War World Symposium

The next meeting of the Town Hall of Essex county—a symposium on "The Post War World" scheduled for 8:40 p.m. on Monday in the Mosque theatre—will bring to Newark three New York City prominent in the religious and educational life of this nation. They are Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Christ church, Rabbi Milton Steinberg of the Park Avenue Synagogue and Dr. Franklin Dunham, executive director of the National Catholic community service.

Dr. Sockman, a native of Ohio, has the distinction—almost unique in Methodist circles—of fulfilling a religious career in but one church. A graduate of Ohio Wesleyan college, he came east in the early 1900's to attend Columbia university, and later Union Theological seminary. By 1915 he was minister at Madison Avenue Methodist, the church which is now known as Christ church. Each Sunday morning he preaches to a nation-wide congregation from the National Radio pulpit. He enters the "Post War World" discussion with knowledge gained in work with the Army Y.M.C.A. during 1918 and throughout the reconstruction period following the war.

Rabbi Steinberg too has come face to face with the problems of the day in his capacity of Divisional Chaplain of the New York Guard and as a member of the Jewish Welfare board's committee on Army and Navy religious activities. Born in Rochester, N. Y., he is a graduate of C.C.N.Y. For a short time he taught classical languages there, and later instructed in Jewish history and religion at the Teachers Institute of Jewish Theological seminary. Before coming to Park Avenue synagogue he was rabbi of Temple Bethel Zedeck in Indianapolis.

Third to outline his ideas on the post war world will be Dr. Franklin Dunham, who for more than 10 years has been educational director and religious consultant for the National Broadcasting company. While he was with NBC Dr. Dunham helped produce some of that network's most popular programs—the Town Meeting of the Air, Walter Damrosch's Music Appreciation Hour, "Information Please," the American Education Forum, and the Catholic Hour and the National Radio Pulpit.

Woman's Club Nominates Coming Officers

The American Home Department of the Belleville Woman's club meets on Monday at 2 p.m. at the clubhouse. Mrs. Arthur E. Mayer, chairman, will present Miss Ena S. Lindman, who will show moving pictures from the Fruit Dispatch company. The department will also have an exhibit of remodeled clothing which has been loaned by the Essex County Extension Service.

At a board meeting of the club last Monday a recommendation was made that a letter be sent to the Student Loan Council requesting them to consider student nurses in their applications for loans. Members of the club have been asked to volunteer their services for point rationing which will begin in two weeks.

Two members of the Woman's club have been appointed to outside posts. One, Mrs. Edgar M. Compton, has been appointed as chairman of the Essex County Symphony concerts which will be held at the Mosque this year instead of at the City Stadium where they were previously held. The stadium will no longer be used due to dimout regulations.

Another member of the club, Mrs. John F. O'Brien Jr. is a candidate for the Office of Legislative and Citizenship chairman of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's clubs.

The names of officers for the coming election of the club on March 8 have been presented by Mrs. R. Clifford Whitfield, head of the nominating committee. They are: president, Mrs. Frank Akerman; first vice-president, Mrs. Dwight N. Streeter; treasurer, Mrs. William V. Irvine; recording secretary, Mrs. Fred Idenden; assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Chapman; federation secretary, Mrs. William P. Adams; trustees, Mrs. John DeNike and Mrs. Leslie Woodruff; legislative chairman, Mrs. Charles S. Smith; printing chairman, Mrs. Daniel T. O'Connor.

The board appointed Mrs. Elwood Russell to the unexpired term of Mrs. Streeter as corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Elmer S. Hyde to the unexpired term of Mrs. Akerman as clubhouse trustee.

Scout Leader Stresses More Scouting During War-Time

A district committee meeting of the Belleville district scouters of Robert Treet Council was held Tuesday evening at 338 Washington avenue, when W. Douglas Clark was elected chairman; Elwood P. Russell, vice-chairman, and Luther VanPelt, treasurer. The committee meets every three months.

Robert D. Smith, assistant scout executive of the council, made an annual report on the growth of scouting in this district during 1942 and outlined the responsibilities of the various appointive positions of scouters who lead the work in its various phases here. He also issued a challenge for more scouting during the coming years in answer to the already mounting rate of youth delinquency contingent upon the emergency of the war effort.

Mr. Smith pointed out that the highly perceptive young people of today can be either much better citizens than we have heretofore had or much better criminals. In increased stress on scouting will do much, he said, to insure that they do not tend toward the latter. The employment of both parents in war industry leaves a great need for social guidance for them.

About 388 scouts were received into Belleville troops this year the highest number in any year of scouting here.

A hike master training course was opened last night at the Washington avenue headquarters. Messenger service training, in cooperation with the local office of civilian defense, will be started next Wednesday night, February 17, at Fawcett Memorial Church. John Charlton will be the instructor.

Boy Scout week will close tomorrow but will be commemorated in several churches with service this Sunday.

The drive slogan, "A book worth keeping is a book worth giving," should be the yardstick in measuring the worthiness of contributions which are being taken until March 5. The volumes which are intended to provide diversion to men not only on the world's battlefronts but to those in this country who will soon join them, should include current best sellers, recently published popular works of fiction and non-fiction, technical books published since 1935, humorous books and small-sized editions of popular titles both current and classical. After sorting at the Public Library, they will find berths in ships libraries in the navy, the merchant marine and the coast guard, they will travel in mobile libraries to out-of-the-way bases for field operations and they will be distributed to camp and naval base libraries and to USO centers. Volumes destined for the "four corners" of the globe should be worthy of the journey. They should provide entertainment, instruction and education for those who thumb expectantly through their pages. We're sure that the remainder of the contributions will surpass the present collection in fulfilling these specifications which seem to us to be more than justified.

ESSEX COUNTY POLITICS

The views expressed in this column are entirely those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Publishers or Editors of the Belleville Times.

Political leaders have been giving thought for a long time to the return of the veterans of World War II, but the public is only now beginning to realize the tremendous impression they will make on the political life of the country. The first soldiers were drafted late in 1940. This group will soon have served three years. They may well have served five years or even longer before they are finally mustered out. The total number of veterans—including the merchant marine—is almost sure to reach 10 millions—and may go to 15 millions—before final demobilization. The third factor that will influence the psychology of the veterans will be casualties. If a great many soldiers and sailors are killed the returning veterans will be in a mood to ask and the public to bestow more favors than if relatively few are killed as in the last war. In the last war approximately 50,000 soldiers were killed in battle or were drowned. Another 50,000 were seriously wounded. This was approximately two percent of the nearly five million men who took part in the war. Almost all of the killed and wounded were among the million men who saw action on the western front. The war was over before the other three million soldiers were in serious danger, and naval casualties were light all the way through. The public remembered these figures when the American Legion began to be active politically, and there was much resentment toward veteran pressure. Even a great many of the soldiers who saw hard fighting refused to be identified with loud talking politicians who had been in the army an average of only six months and had seen little actual fighting. Even the American Legion was a tremendous factor in politics during the late 20's and early 30's. But voters remembered that it didn't exert the influence of the G. A. R. of Civil War veterans. The main reason was that it could not match the G. A. R. either in relative numbers or in degree of sacrifice. Measure of Sacrifice Sacrifice is measured by length and hardship of service and percentage of casualties. Multiply these factors by the number of veterans and you get an approximation of the influence, political and otherwise, the veteran will exert when he comes back. This influence will be tremendous in any event. If we have to use the time and blood necessary to actually storm Hitler's fortress of Europe it will be even greater. Take a man who has given five of the best years of his life fighting for his country and had, say, one chance in five of being killed or permanently disabled and you have a man who will expect some reward for that service and risk. You will also find among those who didn't fight, especially the women, an inclination to bestow what reward they can. Candidates who are veterans will get more votes than non-veterans. Political leaders acceptable to veteran voters will likewise exert more influence. Just when and how the returning veterans will "take over" politically remains to be seen, but take over they will. There is little doubt about that. Some American Legion Posts are already laying plans to admit the new veterans. Many veterans of the last war hope for a "merger" of the two groups. It is only hazardous a guess, but I doubt very much that the new veterans will take kindly to this solicitation. Much will depend upon the length and fighting intensity of the war. My guess is that members of the American Legion will be pushed aside like everyone else. This war is training a

Lauds Women For Doing Their Part In Service

From Mrs. James Petrie 242 Belleville Avenue To the Editor of The Times: Apropos of women in service, I saw an article in your paper by Peggy Patterson to the effect that college students more or less resent the presence of the W.A.V.E. in their midst. It is partly true; a lot of others ridicule the motives of these women wanting to serve their country, saying they are playing at it, etc. It is too bad some people feel that way, for these girls are intensely patriotic and have to put up with some inconvenience, many of them having given up good jobs. They know that women will play a big part in the winning of this war and are preparing now for the big job ahead. Make no mistake—it is a big job. I have no patience with people who say the war is nearly over. The people who really know the enemy tell us they are ferocious and will not give up without a superhuman struggle. The enemy feel as we do—that to lose this war is the ultimate misfortune. Moreover, these men in the "know" tell us that the women in Russia and China, not to leave out Britain, have done a wonderful job in defending their country. Do we American women love our country less? Figure it out. If we cannot encourage our women let us not criticize them destructively. Consider what our boys at the fighting fronts on the land, on the sea and in the air—especially in the jungles and the desert—have to endure. If we had 100 lives, we could never make it up to them, so why shouldn't women—mothers, wives and sisters—want to be in the thick of it?

Dr. Samuel J. Preston Surgeon-Chiroprapist wishes to announce the removal of his offices to 36 Central Ave., Newark, N. J. (near Halsey Street, Street Floor) Ma. 2-1115—Hours: 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Thumbing Files Of The Past

One Year Ago Hugh D. Kittle, high school principal, was elected president of the Welfare Federation at the annual meeting held at the Washington avenue headquarters. A musical program was held for P. O. club members at St. Peter's hall when four artists, Edward Mankowski, Miss Florence Mankowski, Miss Alice Groszicki, and Tony Swinski were heard in vocal and instrumental numbers. The Tonal Art quartette was to be heard in a concert sponsored by the Woman's club with proceeds going to the Red Cross War Relief drive. Belleville was included in a list of some 2,000 communities in every state in the union which were joining in the ninth annual observance of brotherhood week. Air Cadet Howard M. Garland was spending a 30-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Garland of Elena place, while waiting assignment to Maxwell field. Five Years Ago The fifth candidate to officially announce his intention of running for election to the Town Commission in May was William F. Entekin. Others were Elmer S. Hyde, Louis Noll, Frank J. Caragher and Public Works Director Patrick A. Waters. The Belleville Lodge of Elks honored past exalted rulers and initiated two new members, Town Engineer Matthew Sheehan and Frederick Church, into the lodge at its last meeting. "Socialized Medicine" was to be the topic of discussion at the fifth session of the Belleville Institute of Public Affairs in the headquarters at 317 Washington avenue. Miss Jane Warrick of 353 Union avenue was among those attending the annual mid-winter prom at the Peddie school. Charlie Barnett and his orchestra played for the dance. Ten Years Ago A Junior Woman's club was formed in Belleville under the auspices of Mrs. Charles S. Smith who welcomed a number of the younger women at a meeting of the senior group in the clubhouse. Anson C. Depue, Washington avenue tenor, was broadcasting every Friday afternoon over station WOR. James DeRosset was unanimously reelected president of the school board at its last meeting. Mrs. Porter Sheldon was elected vice-president, and James J. Turner was elected secretary. George A. Sturgis of Cedar Hill avenue was one of a hundred Rutgers undergraduates who were initiated into a fraternity. Sturgis was wearing the badge of Alpha Kappa Pi. The Belleville high courtsters fought hard against the Kearny high school giants, bowing to them in a 33-14 score. The Capitol theatre was holding a benefit matinee for women only with proceeds shared by the Ladies' Guild, Woman's club and Areme chapter, O. E. S.

Fifteen Years Ago

The Lions club observed its third annual ladies' night with a dinner and theatre party in Newark. A. E. Locher, Raymond Smith, Thomas McCabe, and Arthur Murray were in charge. A petition was being circulated urging the town commissioners to permit Sunday movies. Rehearsals were being held for a musical revue and dance by members of the St. Peter's Glee club under the direction of Emil Chartrand. Mrs. George Lonergan was accompanist and Richard Planagan general chairman. The choir of the Christ Episcopal church was rehearsing for a play, "The Air and the Heirress." Those in the cast were William Bear, Joseph Moore, Hugh Nash, Stewart McAleese, A. T. Page, Andrew MacMasters, Irene Appel, Ruth Denison, Lillian Harris, and Phoebe Spencer. Twenty Years Ago Contracts were let and work was started on the erection of a brick firehouse on Franklin street, Silver Lake, under the direction of Dr. G. G. Yarrow, commissioner of public improvements. James V. Thetford was the architect. The total cost of the building was $16,876. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. VanHatten returned to their home in Minneapolis after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. VanHatten of Tappan avenue and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. VanHatten of Washington avenue. Mr. and Mrs. John O. Penter and grandson, John W. Grace, left for a visit to Montreal and Quebec. Members of the Belleville Woman's club decided to postpone afternoon card parties owing to the coal shortage. Twenty-five Years Ago Wesley church held special services in commemoration of the 127th anniversary of the founding of the church and the 18th anniversary of the dedication of the present edifice. A surprise party was given for Rev. and Mrs. George W. McComb of Grace Baptist church at the home of Frank Garland on Overlook avenue. Mr. and Mrs. James Travers etc.

A new water-conditioned paper, developed by industrial scientists, is amazingly strong when wet—a property which makes it suitable for use in place of burlap and cloth. Giant steel "sky chambers" now make it possible to study the effects on men and materials of altitudes as high as eight miles. A West Coast druggist solved the problem of slim stocks and scarcity of pharmacists by pooling his drug supplies and prescription business with two neighboring druggists. Rubber is now being produced from soybeans commercially at the rate of 250,000 pounds a month. No substitute for tire rubber, soybean rubber makes good gaskets, belting, insulating mats, etc.

EDISON URGES EDUCATION ON CONSTITUTION

New Jersey Constitution Foundation Would Give Non-Partisan Information "We are putting education to work in the armed forces and in the factory and workshop. It is equally important that we put it to work as never before on the civic front." Governor Edison recently made that statement in a message to 50 educators at a meeting to discuss plans of the New Jersey Constitution Foundation. It is for that purpose that the Foundation was formed and is now working. The Foundation stresses non-partisan education regarding the state's constitution by civic and educational leaders in the state who feel there was a wide gap unfilled in the field of civic education particularly concerning state and local government. "May I bespeak for the Foundation your most earnest and active cooperation?" the Governor said. He said the Foundation does not enter the field as a competitor of existing educational agencies, but rather to assist and supplement the work of others. Duty To Instruct "One of the most precious parts of our American heritage," he said, is the joint regime of liberty and order under law agreed to by the community. One of the most imperative duties of education is the instruction of the people in the principles and techniques required for the perpetuation and perfection of this regime. "No one who looks candidly at the work of our great system of education and listens carefully to the confused, often despairing voices of our citizens when they speak of democracy and what it means can claim that education has fully measured up to this responsibility. "I feel therefore, that the appearance of this new educational institution, the New Jersey Constitution Foundation is very timely. The Foundation plans to conduct and promote non-partisan education in the New Jersey Constitution and on the part it plays in the government, politics and general well-being of the state. "What I particularly like about the program of the New Jersey Constitution Foundation is that it is completely democratic. It is not to be confined by the cloistered walls or even the broad acres of a university campus. The Foundation regards the whole state as its campus, and every citizen as its student. "This is really putting civic education to work, bringing to the rank and file of our citizens wherever they live or work, authentic information which they can put to immediate use in a more enlightened discharge of their own civic responsibilities."

PROTECT TOWN RECORDS DURING AIR RAID DRILLS

State Librarian Also Urges Precautions Against Fire, Floods, Etc. Municipal clerks throughout New Jersey have been advised by James E. Downes, State Librarian and Director of the Public Record Office, to include in their air raid drills the quick assignment of important records in the safest available place in order to protect them from possible destruction. Other reasonable precautions were also recommended by the State Librarian to safeguard public records from fire, flood, insects, decay or dirt as the result of answers to a questionnaire sent municipal clerks last October. Downes stressed the necessity of taking at least minimum precautions to protect important and irreplaceable records from destruction, pointing out that most municipal clerks already realize the importance of this. County clerks were also advised to have duplicates of all minutes made and deposited in a different place from the original, and to build fire proof vaults wherever possible in the basement of school houses, fire houses or other municipally owned buildings in which to store old and valuable records. In larger municipalities where records are kept in the houses of the respective officials, it may be desirable to rent space in bank vaults for storage of important records, Downes declared. "Need Concrete Vaults. Safes and steel file cabinets, in and of themselves, are not sufficient protection from fire," wrote Downes. "The experience of several municipalities attests to this. Brick and concrete vaults within which the safes and filing cabinets are placed are best and would seem to be within the limits of reasonableness for the smallest of municipalities. "Old minute books, etc., certainly should not be stored in wooden boxes in the attics or cellars of private houses or of the municipal building. Everything worth keeping, in fact, is worth keeping safely. Downes called attention of municipal clerks to the law requiring that permission be secured from the Public Record Office in writing before any public document is destroyed. Municipal clerks desiring to clean-out their files in order to secure more storage space will receive the utmost cooperation from the Public Record Office, he declared.

SB Problems In 1942 Tell Work That Lies Ahead

Dislocations Caused By War Have Required Personal Service; They Include Homes For Children

Local families have answered a query of the Community Service Bureau for foster homes for children. Because of the large number of adults seeking residence in the town many children are in their own devices and are dependent solely on those who are kind, to care for them while their parents go off to work. Some who have room available and time due to the loss of sons in the armed forces is asked to try to provide board and room for children who are now without proper care and guidance. The effect of the war upon children who have no security is more than it otherwise need be if children were properly cared for by relatives and friends in cases where the parents are unable to provide them the emotional and physical stability needed to combat the ill effects of being left to themselves.

Below is a report of the past year's work of the Community Service Bureau, made by Mrs. Julia O. Reimer, executive secretary for the bureau. The report covers the various problems which the bureau has had to face during the past year and the means of solving these problems which has helped partially or completely to solve them.

Year of Trial

For the Community Service Bureau 1942 has been a year of trial; of deep perplexity and groping in a national crisis without precedent; of a rebirth of conviction and confidence, holding fast to the human facts as we know them, and the values we know that are good.

We know that the wave of war industry and employment which has swept the country has not solved all human problems. We know that war brings new difficulties, and dislocations of all sorts, sufficient to swamp even the strongest. We know that in war as in peace there are still the sick, the aged, troubled families and unhappy children, who require help with the problems of ordinary living.

And as we look ahead into the coming year, we see that the country has been through its beginning of hardships from which none of us will escape.

For these reasons we hold fast to the belief that the kind of skilled personal service which the Community Service Bureau has to offer to troubled people is valuable and necessary if our community is to remain strong and effective for war.

One of our basic principles is that families in need can be helped and re-established before they reach the point where their only recourse is public relief. Perhaps their ability to maintain themselves is being sapped by illness, mental or physical, by the emotional drain of marital difficulties, by lack of specific job training, or by the strain of trying to carry too many responsibilities of family responsibility.

We have found that many of our own people can turn the tide, provided this assistance is given in time, and the family desires the assistance and knows how to use it. The large majority of families helped by us in the past year were not economically dependent in the strict sense of the word but in many instances temporary aid given at a crisis in the family fortunes for a specific need meant all the difference between their going on independently or going on the rocks.

Need Fresh Resources
More than ever, people must be helped to develop fresh strengths and fresh resources in their daily living. During the past year an increased number of serious family problems needing extended assistance have been brought to the Community Service Bureau. There is every reason to expect that more families will be facing still more serious problems during the coming year. We have always been concerned with "home defense" in the most intimate meaning of that term.

Last year 190 families, or 817 individuals, in all walks of life passed through the open door of the Community Service Bureau to ask for some form of help in carrying their responsibilities. It is safe to say that every one of them came with fear of some kind, and most of them experienced an alleviation of that fear and renewed confidence as they entered into a cooperative partnership with our agency. As an individual or family develops a sense of security in the bureau and in the case workers helping them to meet their difficulties these fears are shaken off.

"It seems funny now to remember how terrified I was when I walked into your office the first time," wrote Mrs. A. W., recently to the case worker. "I don't know when I stopped being afraid, but perhaps it began when the doctor you sent me to, told me, so emphatically that I had to believe that I was going to get well."

SEIBERT GRANTED P.H.D. DEGREE

Made Only Investigation Of Eye Photography On Belleville Students

The degree Doctor of Philosophy from N. Y. U. has just been granted to Earl W. Seibert, guidance director and psychologist of the Board of Education, which he will receive at the June commencement.

Earl W. Seibert

Seibert's contribution to the field of scientific knowledge was an investigation involving photographic eye movements of eighth grade children while reading varied types of subject matter. Sixty Belleville pupils were the subjects in the investigation. This is the first national report of intensive eye study movements ever to be made in a single grade.

Before coming to Belleville in 1939, Seibert was guidance director and psychologist in the public schools at Hershey, Pa. He holds degrees from Elizabethtown college, Boston university, and Penn State. He has been a contributor to educational journals and his most recent article entitled "Growing Into An Occupation," was published in the November 1942 issue of The School Review, published by the University of Chicago. He is the author of two guidance booklets, "Who Are You?" and "Individualized Group Guidance," both of which have been sold in 35 states. These booklets are also used in the guidance work of Belleville schools.

Seibert is married and has a son. He lives at 364 Washington avenue.

In Canton, N. Y. this week, Mrs. E. B. Loughlin of Terrace avenue, attended the graduation of her daughter Margaret Jean from St. Lawrence college.

"MADE-OVERS" FOR 1943 WARDROBE

Extension Service Plans Exhibits Of Restyled Clothing In view Of Future Rationing

Since clothing may soon be rationed, the well-dressed family in 1943 will wear restyled dresses, men's suits, and remodeled clothing. Textiles play an important part in the war effort and it is necessary that all clothes on hand be reused. By reusing material, textiles are released for more important purposes.

Exhibits shown in Belleville during the coming weeks will illustrate what can be done to restyle, mend, or remodel clothes. These exhibits will be held today at the Fewsmith church at 2 p.m., on Monday at the Woman's club, on Feb. 25 at Wesley M. E. church. All of the garments in this collection have been remodeled and assembled under the supervision of Mrs. Seibel, assistant home economics demonstration agent of the Essex county extension service. The material in most cases is superior to that which is now obtainable for civilian use.

Mrs. John DeNike, Belleville representative of the extension service, will describe the original garment and explain how each was remodeled. Those who attend the exhibits will have a chance to examine each garment individually.

No "Made-Over" Look

Restyled clothing does not have to look made over. This year's style can be obtained by changing sleeve lines, neck finishes, fullness of skirt and length. If the work is done properly the dress will be in "style and look its part."

Men's suits can be mended by homemakers and can be given that professional look if tailoring techniques are used. Frayed cuffs, worn pockets and collars, rips, tears, and holes can all be mended at home. Children's clothes suffer least from the shortages caused by the war. Adult garments can be cut down and remade without that appearance. It costs almost nothing to make children's garments from old clothes because there is always enough material on hand. Men's overcoats, women's coats, suits, shirts, and dresses can be made into attractive coats, suits, rompers, and sun suits for children.

Classes in sewing remodeling, restyling, and mending will be held in Belleville if there is enough demand. Anyone interested may contact Mrs. John DeNike or Mrs. Thomas Jackrell, local representatives of the County Extension service.
