VICTORY GARDEN APPLICATIONS ARE PILING UP

Mayor Names Plenge As Head Of Committee And Consultant

With over 30 applications made at the town hall after the announcement that Victory gardens would be available to all citizens, Mayor Williams named last week William Plenge as chairman of the Victory garden committee of the defense council. Plenge will also assume the duties of consultant to all victory garden growers, at his farm. He has suggested that people call Saturday afternoons if they have any questions that they want to ask or any problems to be solved. According to Plenge, cabbage, beans, carrots, and tomatoes are the best plants to grow in local gardens. The good ground here requires mainly lime as a fertilizer, which may be obtained from local hardware stores. At a meeting of the Victory Garden committee, Tuesday night, discussion centered around distribution of literature for all those interested and possible forum discussions.

In cooperating with Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, to increase the number of Victory gardens to 20 million, the importance of buying good seed, correct preparation of the ground, cultivation, fertilizer, insecticide, and fungicide protection of the crop are the most important phases to the victory garden grower. But there must also be protection of valuable and scarce seed from the diseases carried on the surface of the seeds, the seed destroying organisms that live in the soil and also the organisms which cause seedlings damping off.

It is useless to buy the best seed, plant it and trust to luck that weather conditions will be right, the seed will be free of disease, and that the humidity will not affect the seeds. The one positive and inexpensive way of reducing these hazards is to soak the seed in a solution of several seed disinfectants now available to all gardeners.

The practice of seed disinfection, for the protection of the seed against certain surface seed-borne diseases, seed decay, and damping off, is one recommended by most experiment stations and by the U. S. department of agriculture.

The results of seed disinfection give greater results for the small cost than does any other

TOWN CONSIDERS HORSE MEAT SALE

Length And Rate Of Newark Contract Under Discussion By Commissioners

Discussion on tentative sale of horse meat was brought up during the town meeting Tuesday night by Mayor Williams who requested views of other members of the board on rulings that could be made to protect the town.

Public Affairs Commissioner King stated that no dealers in the town had yet contemplated selling horse meat and suggested that the board find out what provision for the sale of such meat had been made in other towns. The state law requires that horse meat be stamped with a green stamp, and Williams suggested that the town might create an ordinance complying with that of the states since it was not possible to rely on local merchants not selling horse meat.

Town attorney Keenan was asked to study the regulations of the State Health department in order to find out what they had done in the case of horse meat sale. The commissioners also held a closed conference in regard to a contract offered to Belleville by Newark for the sale of water at $90 per million gallons on a 15 year basis, at which it was decided that Williams would confer with Newark Public Works Director Byrne. Since Belleville is a present only paying Newark $80 per million gallons, the length and rate of the contract was questioned. The water for the town comes from Wanaque reservoir.

Two local lads have gained honors in marksmanship. The boys are Pvt. Matthew J. Smith Jr. of 115 New street, who was praised for his merit in marksmanship in firing a submachine gun for which he obtained a perfect score, and George Vanz of 715 Belleville avenue, who qualified as a rifle sharpshooter at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Fighting Plasma To Be Given In Red Cross Blood Bank

Third Visit of Red Cross Mobile Unit On Tuesday Will Take 150 Pints of The Life-Saving Fluid For Use On World's Battlefronts

Fighting blood for the members of the armed forces wounded in the various theatres of war will be contributed by patriotic townspersons on Tuesday, when the Red Cross Mobile Blood Bank returns for the third time.

The donations which have been increased from 120 to 150 will be given in the high school gymnasium from 2 to 7 p. m. Of the 190 who have already volunteered for this bank, 23 members of the fire reserves registered in a body. Collection of the plasma is being stepped up to supply the demands of the army and navy who have called upon the Red Cross to collect more than four million pints of the life-reviving fluid from civilians to check death on the war's battlefields during 1943. This means more than 70,000 Americans will have to donate each week if the quota is to be reached. Previous mobile banks visited Belleville in July and November and another was taken at the Walter Kidde plant the first of the month when 147 employees contributed. John Charlton is local blood bank chairman.

The Motor corps under Mrs. Madeleine Cort will be present for transportation assistance and the canteen unit under Mrs. Horace Knox and Mrs. B. G. Cavalier, co-chairman, will serve refreshments. Plasma which is the best known remedy for shock, is now also available for civilian use. According to Red Cross area headquarters in Newark, plasma reserves have been set up through the North Atlantic target areas, as well as in regional and state O. C. D. emergency medical service offices. Reserves most available to Belleville are at the Jersey City medical center and Beth Israel hospital in Newark.

Its existence, but not its spectacular value was known during the first World War, although little was done with it until 1937. The treatment for shock is urgent. During World War I, the mortality due to shock was as high as 40 percent. It has also been recently announced that the red cells which up to now have been discarded in the preparation of plasma, have a distinct healing quality in the treatment of burns and deep wounds.

Although the most effective method of application is still to be determined, it is expected that army and naval base hospitals will eventually be instructed in its use, making donations doubly effective.

Plasma Is Universal

Plasma is the fluid part of the blood which remains after the red and white corpuscles have been removed in a machine that looks and operates like a cream separator. On the battle-line doctors merely open the tin can which contains two bottles—one dried powdered plasma, the other distilled water. It takes but a moment to mix and inject into the veins through a needle and tubing provided in each unit. There is no question of delay for typing, since plasma is universal.

In this powdered form, the life-giving power can be held for five years in intense heat or cold. The Red Cross Blood Donor project is the largest singly controlled medi-

8,000 People Register On First Ration Day

Eight thousand people registered for their War Ration Book No. 2 on the first day of rationing, leaving approximately three-fourths of the town to register yet. Voluntary demand is heaviest around opening time, grows slack around supper time and is increased again during late evening registration. The "eight thousand" figure is that of stating the amount of cans one has on hand as the number in excess, when in reality the amount does not even cover five per person and should not be stated. There have been few large declarations of excess amounts to date.

Major General J. C. McGee, surgeon general of the army, just back from North Africa has told of the effectiveness of plasma in caring for 400 men burned on a ship during one of the North African landings. "Between midnight and 8 o'clock in the morning, everyone had been properly cared for and only six died. Blood plasma gets the credit, to a very large degree," the general has stated.

During the battle for Buna in New Guinea, aid stations were set up within a few hundred yards of the firing, and as the injured were brought in, plasma was administered. For those men with more severe injuries additional injections were given them to withstand the trips through the jungles to the hospitals, and in many cases plasma was injected again on reaching the hospital. American army doctors in the southwest Pacific have put blood plasma in the same category as the sulfa drugs, and sodium pentothal. They say these three are most important, but because of the plasma scores of Americans in New Guinea, with wounds that would have been fatal in the last war are alive today.

NUTRITION SPEAKER AT WOMAN'S CLUB

Canteen And Nutrition Committees Will Hear Home Economist There Tonight

Belleville's nutrition and canteen committee will meet tonight at the Woman's club at 8 to hear an address by Mrs. Edna Herr, home economist for the municipal administration in Trenton, who will speak on nutrition with special emphasis on the restrictions in point rationing. Three leaders of the nutrition and canteen committee, who have received training from the Essex county extension service, are arranging classes on the subject of "meat extenders." They are Mrs. Thomas Jackrell, Mrs. Victor Hart and Mrs. John Charlton. Anyone desiring to enter the classes, which will probably be held in Fewsmith church kitchen may enroll by calling Mrs. Jackrell at Be. 2-4206-M.

These leaders are also prepared to present lessons on nutrition to any group who calls on them. A few of their timely subjects are bread, vegetables and hunches on lunches. They feel that adequate lunches for defense workers and school children are of the greatest importance now. Mrs. Jackrell will arrange discussions.

STRAY DOGS ARE NO LONGER SAFE

Dog Catchers "Hound" Strays; Homeless Placement Bureau Is Established

Since the eighth of February 82 dogs stray dogs out of an estimated 600 unlicensed dogs, have been rounded up by the Belleville Cat and Dog hospital, authorized collectors, in an effort to stave off the stray dog menace and protect the town.

When it was found that complaints of strays were well founded, Mayor Williams hired the Cat and Dog hospital to collect them. Dr. Cecil B. Gates, hospital head, maintains two trucks for the purpose, though only has been used up to date. For each dog taken the town pays $2 plus 50 cents daily for seven days for the animals food and care.

A homeless dog placement service was established by the Mayor so that homes might be found for some of the dogs. In order to assure the dog of adequate food and care a fee is collected for registration. Located by the dog catcher and returned to their owners.

Since all the dogs collected cannot be maintained over a long period of time, some of the oldest, sickest and largest dogs are destroyed after seven days have elapsed and the dog has been examined by Police Chief Spatz. The problem of stray dogs rests with the police and with the dog owners, according to Mayor Williams. The dogs collected by the hospital are humanely cared for until they are destroyed.

Both the collection service by the hospital and the placement service established with the end in view that no personal property will be destroyed and that the problem of rabies will be eliminated. Williams stated that "Aside from the danger to persons and property created by unlicensed dogs a financial burden is also placed on the town by the carelessness and disregard of a minority of dog owners, since the town must pay $5.50 for each dog unclaimed."

Williams stated that he was making the request not only as a private citizen but for a group of citizens who felt the same way. According to Voss valuable time had been lost in making up the budget owing to the absence of a fifth commissioner. Voss accused Williams and Commissioner Waters of refusing to cooperate with other members of the board in having another commissioner appointed, thereby depriving the town of 20 percent of their due representative powers.

Though mention of Mertz was made in connection with the appointment of the fifth commissioner, Voss tried to stress the fact that 20 percent of the town was not represented due to the lack of another commissioner. He offered Williams the choice of appointing Mertz as the fifth commissioner or at least of filling the vacancy however he, Williams saw fit. According to Voss this group of citizens wish to see the vacancy filled immediately and feel that Mertz is the logical man for the job.

Voss declined to do so, stating that the disclosure of the names would be premature and would deprive the group of the action it was trying to stimulate. Williams then replied that the charges of Voss would not be considered until the names of the others for whom he was speaking were disclosed.

Commissioners King and Noll had previously introduced the name of Mertz for nomination as the fifth commissioner but came again to a deadlock for the seventh time with the dissenting voices of Williams and Waters.

Earlier Closing Hour Advocated By Board

A move on the part of the town to comply with the rulings of surrounding communities as regards the sale of alcohol was made at the town meeting Tuesday night when an amendment to the present ordinance was introduced.

The present ordinance calls for no sale of alcohol from 2 a. m. to 7 a. m. on Sundays, from 2 a. m. to 7 a. m. on other days with the exception of Friday and Saturday which is 7 a. m. to 3 a. m. The amendment provides for an over all closing hour of 2 a. m.

It was unanimously agreed by the board that the revised closing hours would result in fewer "conflicts with the law. The hours would be in effect for what ever time, eastern, standard or daylight, was in effect at the time.

All places devoted exclusively to the sale of alcohol will abide by the new ruling in the hope that this town will lessen its own problem as well as that of other communities.

He's In The Navy—Now It's Our Turn

ONE OF THE FIRST DONORS when the Red Cross collected blood plasma here last July, Carl Calvert is now at the U. S. Naval Training station at Sampson, N. Y. Carl passed his exams for aviation mechanic and enlisted last month in the Navy for a six-year period. He lived at 75 Hornblower avenue and was employed by the Thomson Machine company. Carl worked three ways for defense—on his job, donating his blood and finally by enlisting. He is one of many in this town who have done the same. Approximately 190 townspeople have volunteered for the third Red Cross Blood bank which will be here next Tuesday. Additional registrations will be needed, however, for future banks. They may be made now by calling Be. 2-2111, Be. 2-3200 or Be. 2-1843.

DRAFTEES LEAVE ON MONDAY

Second Largest Group Goes From Town; 1-A's Make-Up Majority

This month's draft call is the second largest to have come through the local board. The largest group to date left last August. Most of the boys in the present call are 1-A's with a few taken from other classifications.

The board feels however, that by the end of April most of the single men will have been taken although there is still a turnover with high school boys becoming 18. The board has not as yet taken any action with married men but they are being continually reclassified as 1-A. Because the board fills its call as nearly as possible each time it has little trouble in matching the quota.

Appeals cause most of the trouble in filling the quota for some boards. It takes almost three months for an appeal to go through and if the national board does not approve the appeal it is sent to the President who usually returns a 1-A classification. It is not necessary to appear before the local board in person when making an appeal. The appeal is written and given consideration by the appeal board. Anyone making an appeal is exempt from call at the time, causing a shortage in some cases to the board.

As a result of a story which appeared in The Times regarding draft delinquents, one delinquent, George Flynn, was reorted to the board as dead. The others are still being sought.

The Red Cross War Fund Drive

which officially opens this Sunday and runs through the month of March aims to include every resident, business manager and factory worker in the town in an effort to reach the goal of $26,200 by Friday night. Captains of each of the districts will have all the material ready for distribution when they start the official canvassing on Monday to every householder in the town.

The captains will have pledge cards, membership cards and cardboard buttons for distribution to every prospective pledgee. Since it is hoped that every householder approached by the captains will make a cash contribution, they are the first group to be approached. Local businesses will be solicited by the Boy Scouts and will have booths set up in their stores. Booths will also be set up in both banks. The manufacturers are being approached in an entirely new way this year, due to the necessary identification and the time it takes to solicit each concern. Gilbert Wright heads the Industrial War Fund committee and he will appoint one person in each factory who will be responsible for the entire concern and who will turn over all the results to him.

Each captain in charge of a zone will have an identification card for himself and one worker, and will have met previously with the advisory committee and the planning committee. All those partaking in the drive have been supplied with pamphlets so that they may answer any questions up to them.

A thermometer indicator will be placed next to the Peoples National Bank with the $26,200 as a goal so that the progress made each week can be clearly seen. If the one hundred million dollars, which is the goal for the nation-wide drive, six million is allotted to the armed forces for use in army and navy hospitals, some services, camp services, and service to men disabled in the war.

Allocation of the five million will go toward the assistance of the national chapter itself which includes supplies, field service, public information, and campaign supplies. One million has been allotted for general executive and finance which includes the general administration accounting and auditing. Another one million is allotted for other contingencies. Five million is allotted for Foreign War Relief which includes temporary care for United Nations prisoners, and help to men overseas, blood donor care, emergency service, morale and club service for the armed services which includes movable entertainments which travel to front-line outposts to feed and entertain men stationed in outlying regions, chapter production and service to prisoners of war.

Six million is used for disaster relief and enemy actions. One million goes for health, education and safety service, which includes home nursing, nurse's aide, aid, nutrition, the Jr. Red Cross canteen work and the motor corps.

Fifty per cent of the national roll call goes to the local chapters while the rest of the War Fund drive is retained by the local chapter. Raymond Mertz, chairman of the drive, has stated that all returns from the drive and any separate donations will be made to the headquarters at 258 Washington avenue.

Woman's Club Assists

Rocek, Mrs. William Fichorn, and Mrs. Fred Fisher will also help.

The new headquarters of the chapter were officially opened last Sunday when members of the motor corps, the canteen, and first aiders were present. Paul Baxter, chairman of first aiders, and M. (Continued on Page 3)

TINY SLIPPERS UNIQUE HOBBY

Mrs. Ernest Reock's Collection Of The Varigated Footgear In Library Exhibit

The collection of miniature slippers now on display at the Public library, is one of many similar hobbies possessed by Mrs. Ernest C. Reock of 367 Belleville avenue.

In the collection are baby shoes, slippers, high shoes, Dutch shoes, boots, and work shoes. They are made out of a variety of materials, such as china, glass, wood, leather, and metals.

Mrs. Reock first became interested in the collection two years ago. She was also interested in old glass and when she got her first slipper made of glass, she decided to gather slippers, as an added hobby.

The shoes range in age to hundred-year-old pieces. The oldest is a child's wooden Dutch shoe not in the library display.

Can't Complain Yet

Surprise and consternation are the general reactions to the new food rationing program that went into effect over the weekend. The fiasco of obtaining the most canned stuff for the least number of points—still keeping variety in mind—is giving housewives an additional chore this week, simplification of which doesn't appear imminent, according to reports from local stores.

Those who are inexperienced will do well to follow his advice in the latter caution. Getting the proposed garden down on paper is the most important factor in the successful growing of seeds and supplies. Use this article and save it.

Baked Beans Return To Favor With Rationing

The moratorium on canned goods, followed by the difficulties of skillfully dividing one's points for canned goods, will make many housewives turn with relief to the preparation of dried peas, beans and lentils. Simplest and most ½ cup unsulphured molasses.

Soak beans overnight; drain, cover with water and boil a half hour. Drain and save the water. Place slice of salt pork in the bottom of the pot or casserole and popular are old-fashioned baked beans, yet many people are in doubt as to how they should be prepared. Naturally, to save fuel, it would be well to cook a fairly large quantity. In fact it is suggested that neighbors alternate on baking them. An oven will accommodate two good-sized pans. Your neighbor can bring hers all ready to cook and you can bake yours in her oven when both families are ready for the next batch.

Old Fashioned Baked Beans
1½ lbs. navy beans
2 teaspoons salt
½ pound sliced salt pork

add alternate layers of cooked beans and scored slices of pork; stir molasses, salt and mustard into two cups of the bean water and stir thoroughly. Pour onto the beans; add enough water to cover. Bake covered in a 300 degree oven for 6 hours or a 325 degree oven for four hours. Uncover during the last hour.

Magazines and cooking columns are filled with recipes for the use of other dried beans, such as limas, and when you bake half a ham remember that the bone will be the basis for very delicious split pea soup.

BURMA BETRAYAL TOLD BY EVACUEE

Mrs. Allen Stresses Unity Of Civilians In Warding Off Hostile People

Mrs. Leonard G. Allen, an evacuee of Rangoon and mother of three children, who spoke before the P.T.A. of Greylock school recently explained the betrayal of Burma by the fact that the real ruling force of Burma was composed of people who were thinking more of themselves than of the government.

According to Mrs. Allen a few thousand Japanese were able to rout 13,000,000 Burmese in December of last year because they were able to buy their way in through the "back door." Mrs. Allen stated that "people out for themselves, people who know no discipline or self-sacrifice, and people with whom money talks, were the people who betrayed Burma."

The speaker felt also that the blame of the ruin could also be placed on each and every person living in Rangoon, people who were all much too complacent, too sure it could never happen to them. They never imagined a year ago, she said, that "American Flying Fortresses would be bombing Rangoon today, that Japanese would be in possession of our homes, our furniture, our gardens."

Had the residents living there known that at the time, according to Mrs. Allen, they would all have learned to pull together much sooner.

She stated that the story of Burma wasn't all black, of course. There were people who were prepared and had already been working to strengthen the inner defenses of the country. They were the strongest obstacle Japan had in the "blitz of panic."

One Village Safe

In referring to the village near the borders of Thailand, she said, "the Japanese had come in over the tortuous mountain passes on Siamese elephants, tommy guns pointing over their ears. A Japanese plane was shot down near there, in which they found the body of a Burmese woman guide. The villages in the whole district were fleeing panic-stricken. Chaos reigned all around, except in this one village. Here men, women and children had learned to think of the country first."

"They decided to do four things together. First, that instead of all running away the way others had, they would send their young men to join the British army. Second, that instead of each man having to safeguard his women alone, a joint plan could be made to have them travel by night and hide by day with only one or two escorts until they should reach the safer hill country in the north. Third, that the rest would stick by, storing food, and taking responsibility for keeping the whole neighborhood in order. And last, that they would send three of their leading men to keep ahead of the Japanese, inspiring other villages they knew to hold firm.

"There were other Government offices and homes which had the courage and determination and fighting faith to stand firm, but in Burma, these were not enough," the speaker stated. Regarding America, she said, it was easy for her to sink into complacency here, too. Not only to be complacent about winning the war, but complacent about the peace that is to come. Here again, she said, "is the same battle-line of materialism and easy living against the self-sacrifice and hard work of making my home, my community a pattern for the sort of new world that is worth the death of our boys."

Mrs. Allen then went on to tell of the experiment made recently by a certain Detroit public school in teaching practical patriotism through a series of lessons called, "Your Part in Winning the War", and made an appeal for the parents and schools to fight for the unity necessary to keep the enemy at bay.

They are fighting from house to house, block by block, in cities overseas.

That is the way civilians must fight on the Home Front.

Civilians wage actual, offensive warfare against the enemy when they unite in conserving rubber, gasoline, fuel oil, and meat, and in turning in scrap. All Civilian War Services represent direct attacks upon the Axis.

Local Defense Councils throughout the Nation are mobilizing an army of Block Leaders to serve the families of every block or neighborhood, and to help civilians to unite in their neighborhood efforts so as to strike HARD and at the same time.

Welcome your Block Leader in your home.

These Are The Vitamins That Build Health and Energy

Vitamin A is the anti-infective and growth-promoting vitamin. Its lack results in susceptibility to colds and other ailments. . . its insufficiency in children results in scrawiness and stunted growth. Principal source, halibut liver oil.

Vitamin B is "the spark plug of the human system" . . . it tones the nervous and digestive systems, promoting growth, appetite and energy. It also helps to remove lactic acid from the blood stream, thus eliminating the feeling of fatigue. Principal sources, yeast and wheat-germ.

Vitamin C protects and feeds the capillaries under the skin; it helps to heal wounds, and prevents sallow complexion. Modern diet is usually lacking in this vitamin because it is easily destroyed by cooking. Principal sources, tomatoes and oranges when freshly picked.

Vitamin D is the "sunshine" vitamin. Tests show that it remedies the disorders caused by the deficiency of ultra violet in this climate's sunshine. Without it, normal formation of blood and bone ceases, resulting in rickets, sagging muscles and decay of the teeth. Principal source, cod liver oil.

Vitamin E is the "anti-sterility" vitamin. It has additional important uses in that it promotes mental vigor and tones the muscles. Principal source, wheat-germ.

Vitamin G is the riboflavin factor of the B vitamin that improves stomach tone, remedies skin eruptions and loss of red blood corpuscles. Principles sources yeast and liver.
