Hyde Urges County Park Commission To Compensate For Land

Local Director Of Parks And Public Property Wants Replacement For Land To Be Lost Along Passaic River To Route 21 Expressway

Director of Parks and Public Property Elmer S. Hyde revealed this week that he has contacted the Essex County Park Commission to point out to that group the serious effect that loss of park and recreation area along the Passaic River would have on Belleville. Under present plans, a major portion of county park land along the river will be lost when the construction of the new Route 21 expressway is started.

Two residents, and the recreation department, will be deprived of softball diamonds as well as land used for football games during the season.

In writing to Robert B. Kinsey, secretary of the county park commission, Hyde said, "Important recreational facilities will be victims of the highway, as we anticipate the loss of two softball diamonds, eight tennis courts, a football field, play area, field house, benches, and shade trees. These facilities, once lost, will be difficult to replace. In turn, it will also impose a serious burden on the recreation department, which is under my jurisdiction."

Hyde suggested that a proportionate share of the funds realized in the sale of the Belleville property be allocated here as a replacement program and virtually supplanting the lost recreational facilities. Hyde also stated to the commission that the recreation department should be given a program aimed at beautifying certain sections of town and to provide local citizens with facilities equal to those presently offered along the banks of the Passaic.

In emphasizing his argument, Hyde continued: "I cannot stress too strongly the concern of my department with regard to the recreation loss. We have been diligently pursuing a program that has brought many recreational benefits to Belleville, and I am certain this program has made a salient contribution toward keeping the level of recreation at a very low level in our town. It will be extremely difficult to even carry out our present program and virtually impossible to progress unless the park commission cooperates with us in replacing the lost facilities."

Local Tax Rate Below $7 Distinct Possibility For 1957

Large Jump In Ratables And Small Increase In School Costs Foretell Tax Rate Reduction

It looks like there might be some good news in the mail for Belleville taxpayers later this year when they receive their second half tax bills for 1957. From preliminary reports, it appears that the local tax rate may drop below the $7 mark for 1957. Unfortunately, the final rate will be determined too late to show on the tax bills local residents will be receiving this month. However, tax collector William Friel pointed out that necessary adjustments will be made in the second half bills to reflect any reductions. For bills mailed next week, residents will still be paying at the old 1956 rate.

The biggest cut in Belleville tax bills will result from the huge increase of ratables reported last week by tax assessor Arthur Clark.

According to figures released by Clark, the town shows a hike of more than $8 million in ratables this year. The bulk of this increase is due to the recently completed property revaluation, but a sizeable share is attributed to new business additions.

With the revaluation completed, Clark says all town residents will be carrying a fair share of the cost of government this year. He said the school board was behind the project.

In addition to the good news from the tax assessor's office, the new school budget tentatively approved by the Board of Education shows that the schools will be holding their own this year. Although the Board's overall budget for the 1957 - 1958 school year showed an increase of $54,479, the taxpayers' share of the increase has been held down. By utilizing surplus funds, the Board requested that only $11,000 more be raised by taxpayers this year than in the previous year's appropriation. This represents a tax rate of approximately two points.

In view of the fact that more than $700,000 has been added to the school budget for teacher's salary increases, and considering the fact that the Board of Education Board President William A. Boyd said he feels the Board was most successful in its negotiations in cutting spending to the bare minimum.

Town Budget Although no official word has been received on the municipal budget, all five departmental budgets are expected to be ready by the end of the month. The Mayor, Arthur Ackerman, has been studying the departmental requests prior to drafting a revised town budget.

It is hoped that the budget expected or new major expenses are contained in the departmental budgets. The Board of Education's official comment has been made by the Mayor.

Commissioner Harry J. Sullivan revealed yesterday that a $140 across-the-board salary raise had been granted to all police and firemen.

TEENS LAUNCH OWN MARCH OF DIMES

Plan Varied Activities For Raising Money

Chairmen and co-chairmen of the "Teens Against Polio," of Essex County, rallied last Wednesday at Kresge, Newark, to help launch the store's first "Teens Against Polio" Booth. After helping to complete the decor of the booth, and contributing their dimes to their individual token collection bottles, the teens were then paired to the store's seventh floor restaurant where they were the guests of Kresge at a Parfait Party.

Attending the affair from Belleville were Duke, of 45 Van Riper Place, and Bruce McDaniel, of 429 Union Avenue.

There, each reported what their community group is doing to advance the March of Dimes Campaign. Saturday, January 12, the first weekend in the campaign, a sale of balloons, lollipops, and peanuts to raise funds in the Orangetown West Orange scheduled a sale of balloons, lollipops, and peanuts to be held February 1.

Stanek was arrested Saturday by Detective James Maltack for molesting the young girl in the Capitol Theater. He was released on $1,000 bail pending the hearing.

County's 57 Budget Up Six Tax Points, Freeholders Trim

Essex Budget Reaches $31,886,315, Increase Of $2,877,969 But Freeholders May Trim

A tentative budget of $31,886,315 for the administration of Essex County was set this week by County Treasurer John E. Cash, which represents an increase of $2,877,969 over 1956.

In terms of tax points, the increased county operating overhead will add about 6 points to Belleville 1957 tax rate. For the past three days, and continuing today, the Board of Freeholders has been paring down the various departmental budgets in an effort to run the county budget below the thirty million dollar mark.

On the basis of present estimates, however, the county tax rate which stood at 65 cents per $100 of assessed valuation here and throughout the county will rise to about 71 cents.

The Freeholders' attention, this week, is directed to cutting down all non-mandatory costs. Some of the increases are mandatory, such as contributions to the employees' retirement system, which are up 14.4 per cent from $465,326 to $487,864. In addition, another $59,725 had to be earmarked for the Public Employees Retirement System to create a new fund.

The Face Is Familiar:

Mrs. Yankowski Has Plans For Police Force Career

"This is the goal I've wanted to reach all my life," said Mrs. Pauline Yankowski, of 117 Brighton Avenue, when asked why she had become one of Belleville's five lady traffic officers. "In that way it was, really, a family tradition, you see, my father was a fireman, and I even wear his old uniform," she said. Mrs. Yankowski's is a face which is familiar to many people who live in the vicinity of St. Anthony's Church and school, since her traffic post is there, as well as the center of many of her social and civic activities.

Directing traffic at the parish school has been Mrs. Yankowski's assignment since November. Before that, she was stationed at School No. 10 for two months.

The decision to do this kind of work was all mine," she said. She explained that she hadn't worked since her marriage, and when I heard there was an opening for this job, it was just too good to pass up. She admitted that for many years she had wanted to do just such an opportunity. "My husband is a hunter and fisherman, sometimes I go with him and the gun just fascinates me. I usually hit nine out of ten times when I practice with my target rifle."

Two Sons Mr. and Mrs. Yankowski have two sons, Paul, 8, and Peter, 3. Mr. Yankowski is with Kruger Brewery of Newark. Son Paul who was home with a cold this week,

In addition, the Belleville Conference will announce next week its choices to receive support for the two seats to be filled by February 1.

Twichell clarified one other point concerning the forthcoming election. He said that the revised school law regarding elections provides that the candidate may act as a challenger and may appoint any one challenger for each polling place. The appointment of challengers shall be in writing under the hand of the person appointing them and shall specify the names and addresses of the challengers and the polling places for which they are severally appointed.

The appointment of the challengers shall be filed with the Secretary of the Board of Education.

men. Certain salaries in other town departments are also being raised by Commissioners, it was learned.

Provided that the town budget hold, its own, or show only a slight increase, and in view of the small jump in the school budget, local taxpayers are in for a treat.

The one dark spot in the picture was caused by the announcement this week of the Essex County budget, of which Belleville residents share the cost. The county expenditures total $31,886,215 this year for an increase of $2,800,000 over last year. However, it is still possible that some money will be trimmed from this first request.

In connection with the construction of the Route 21 Freeway, water main construction is contemplated with the State Department hearing the entire cost.

The water system will be improved with the construction of a regulator pits to City of Newark standards.

Extension of mains are planned in the Overhill Road and Fleming farm areas, but the Public Works director said plans for these developments have not advanced sufficiently to warrant anything concrete being presented to the Board of Commissioners.

Two Local Girls Reign As Queens For 1957

Miss Lois Conklin

A reign of one year will begin tomorrow for Miss Lois Conklin, of 39 DeWitt Avenue, when she takes over the monarchy as CYO Snow Queen at the annual Snow Ball dance. The 16-year-old junior at Belleville High School was chosen as representative for the prize from St. Peter's church. She won the honor over 14 other young hopefuls between the ages of 16 and 18.

As winner of the title, Lois will receive gifts valued at more than $100, including a watch, an evening gown, flowers and a trophy.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Conklin, Lois spent Christmas vacation working in Haine's department store in Newark. She told the Times-News that she had previously modeled for Kroger's department store. Her future plans include secretarial work in a small office.

phatically, "If women are ever admitted to the Belleville police force as officers, I'll be the first to apply. Right now, I watch all the detective programs I can on television. I especially go for 'Dragnet' and 'Highway Patrol'." she concluded.

Miss Gail Porsavage

Recently crowned "Miss Chinchilla of 1957" was Miss Gail Porsavage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Porsavage, of 120 Hornblower Avenue. The award was presented by the Eastern Chinchilla Ranchers Club, in Shillington, Pa.

The 13-year-old beauty stands 5 foot seven inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. She is a graduate of St. James High School in Newark, and has lived in Belleville for over three years.

At present she is employed with Forstner Corporation of Washington Avenue, where she does secretarial work. Most important of her hobbies is making most of her own clothes.

The increase is accounted for primarily through the freeholders' action in authorizing county-paid hospitalization and medical insurance for employees.

Of the total of county departmental requests, $17,581,051 is earmarked for salaries, compared to $15,777,696 appropriated last year. The increase is 11.4 per cent.

Aside from the $17,581,051 for salaries, the budget is made of $10,745,953 for other operating expenses, $125,000 for capital improvements, $2,640,286 for debt service and $794,016 for deferred charges and statutory expenditures. The debt service is down Charitable, correctional and penal services will cost $15,627,281, an increase of 13.4 per cent.

Educational services are estimated at $1,644,290, a 6.1 per cent increase, while the Park Commission is requesting an appropriation of $1,627,864, an increase of 6.3 per cent.

Notable decreases are in the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, down 3.1 per cent from $62,401 to $60,608; Commissioner of Registration and Superintendent of Elections, down 3.2 per cent from $382,679 to $370,171; and civil defense, $3.9 per cent, $18,352 from $27,775.

involved and has worked out data sheets on the individuals so that all necessary information will be available to the full membership.

Arvidson said it was the policy of the Conference to persuade people with outstanding qualifications to run for the Board of Education, who might not otherwise run. This year the group will back two candidates, one for the full three-year term, and the other for the two-year unexpired term of Mrs. Charles Cassidy.

Since its inception two years ago, the Conference has met with marked success. The first year school board elections were held in Belleville, the group backed William Allison Boyd who became the first elected board member and is now serving as president. Last year, the Conference supported successfully Mrs. Cassidy and Dr. Frank DiGiorgio. The third candidate, George Meagher, came in fourth.

Thirteen organizations have submitted delegates to the group, each with one vote. In order to qualify for membership, an organization must have been in existence for at least one year and have no political affiliation.

Russians, and we began to fight back." No one seemed aware of the gravity of the situation. No one seemed to realize that this was to blow up into a world crisis.

Fought For Week

The fighting continued for a week, during which time Tar stayed with the men in the heart of it. Then when tanks and bombs began to take the place of guns, they began to realize the gravity of the situation. "Then slaughter was like that in a butcher shop," he said.

As soon as he realized what this was, he made plans to rejoin his family. The first problem was to cross the Danube river which separates the two sections of Austria. His wife and family were on the other side of the river. Getting across was no easy matter, as the bridges were bombed and guards were posted everywhere. Tar waited all morning, and during the changing of the guard, he managed to slip across, to join his family. They decided that their only hope was to escape to the Austrian border.

12 Dispersed

They bought a dozen diapers for the baby, and left for freedom, with only the clothes on their backs. It took them six long days to reach the Austrian border, as they had to circle cities in order to avoid being caught. Altogether, they walked over 150 miles.

Crossing the border was no simple thing, as Russian guards were posted all over. There were 10 people who crossed the border that night. The Tars had put their baby in a feed bottle. As they were about to begin the dangerous border crossing, Russian guards set a rock attached to a string to illuminate the countryside. The baby was frightened and began to cry. The guards began to shoot, and the whole party had to retreat, and to cross the border at another point. Luckily, all members of the party were unharmed. When they reached Austria, the whole family had to be hospitalized for three weeks. Then they began their journey to America.

When they stepped off the plane at Maurice Air Base, their first impression of America was that the whole countryside is made up of nothing but colonies of houses. "We missed the farms, and we saw no animals, we thought you didn't have any cows, horses or dogs," said Tar. "Now we feel wonderful about everything. Everyone has been so kind, especially our landlord. We have everything we could possibly want," the grateful man said, "it seems like an act of God, that first. He should take everything away, and now he gives us everything we could need." The family was sponsored by the Forest Hill Reformed Church of Newark.

The family plans to stay in town. Tar, who is a photographer and portrait painter, naturally hopes to continue in this type of work. His wife, who is a former school teacher, was busy ironing and taking care of the baby when we dropped in to see her. Daughter Julia is attending classes at School No. Eight, where principal Thomas Gryczka commented, "She seems to be doing fine."

We asked Tar if he was afraid of possible retaliation to his family in Hungary as a result of this. His answer was, "print the whole story, the whole truth, there's only one thing they could do to our families which they haven't done yet, that is to kill them."

One White Word

I thought to write a sonnet all in white
 And silver sentences like crystal spun
 In finest filaments of first starlight
 Tangled in wild plum thickets just begun
 To bloom; with older images that shift
 Across the mind's wide screen, brittle as glass
 Or feathers soft as slow, insistent drift
 Of silent flakes on winter-winnowed grass.
 But one white word eluded me until
 I put the books aside, searching no more;
 Rested unfinished. Suddenly a spill
 Of sunlight drew me to the opening door
 Where still white wonder waited, and the lost
 Word glittered up at me, spelled out in

Brighter Tax Picture In Store For Residents

Mayor Isadore J. Padula last week optimistically predicted that Belleville's tax rate for the coming year would take a sharp nose dive to somewhere around the $7 mark. The statement must certainly bring joy to the hearts of Belleville taxpayers who have been carrying a tremendous tax load for the past several years. If the Mayor's estimate of the 1957 tax rate turns out to be true, it will be the first time in five years that any appreciable reduction in the tax burden has been received. The overall picture is even more alarming when it is noted that since 1947, the local tax rate has jumped a total of $2.90.

However, better things seem to be in store for local residents. Spearheaded by the huge increase in town tax rates, brought about by the recent property revaluation, and aided by the school board holding their own this year, it is more than likely that Mayor Padula's estimate will hold true. The Mayor, continuing in his optimism, also predicted that the tax picture for the next several years would remain brighter than it has been for the taxpaying resident.

The Board of Education set the pattern last week when they revealed their new proposed budget. Although the overall appropriation increased by more than $58,000, Board members made good use of surpluses and state aid. When the final figure was tabulated, it was disclosed that local taxpayers would only be raising about $11,000 more than last year. In view of the fact that teachers salary increases account for more than $70,000 and a new state pension plan for teachers is costing the school district considerably more this year, the Board should be commended for cutting school expenses to the bare minimum.

Faced with increased costs of operation and maintenance, the Board wisely made a choice between necessary and unnecessary expenditures. Teachers were granted pay raises, so that Belleville could continue to compete with other Essex communities for good instructors. Other items were closely checked, as can be witnessed by reductions in many budget categories, in order to come up with a conscientious request for funds.

If the municipal budget is prepared as judiciously, when those expenditures are released this month, local taxpayers will be in a comparatively good situation. From preliminary comments in Town Hall, there is every reason to believe that Commissioners have also held the line as far as additional spending is concerned. No new or unexpected major appropriations are foreseen, and it is believed that municipal spending will be roughly on the same level as last year.

Police and firemen's wages have been boosted $140 across-the-board, but the sum total of increased salaries amounts to only $17,500. Certainly, the increases seem justified in keeping up with increased costs of living.

Even taking into consideration the boost in the county tax rate of about six points, local residents still have much to cheer about this year as they compute their taxes, in comparison to the year just completed.

"High Tax Bobby" To Ride Again

Governor Robert B. Meyner is determined to hike New Jersey's gasoline tax another penny from 4 to 5 cents a gallon and the reason he advances is that everybody else is doing it and New Jersey must keep up with Joneses. Since the Republican majority in Trenton will not go along with him, he announced this week that he will veto the measure passed by the Senate and Assembly to deduct $8,738,036 from the State Treasury surplus to provide matching funds for the Federal highway construction program.

It is obvious that Meyner is not interested, primarily, in whether or not New Jersey gets its share of Federal highway funds. Meyner is interested only in increasing the State's gross income so that he can dip into the new gas tax funds to finance a lot more non-highway ventures. He talks about "our teachers, our pensioners, our sick, our handicapped, our aged and our needy." Our baloney, Bobby. There is enough hidden fat in the 1957 budget of $340,000,000 to finance all those ventures without raising taxes.

The Times-News hopes that the Republican majority in Trenton will have the courage to pass the highway funds bill again over Bobby's veto. His argument that 43 states and the District of Columbia now tax gasoline from one to three cents a gallon more than New Jersey does could be carried on ad infinitum. Many of those states indulge in deficit financing, too, Bobby. Should New Jersey, despite its constitutional ban on deficit financing, resort to it just because some other states do?

It is unfortunate, however, that what one Republican majority can do on a state level, another Republican majority cannot do on a county level. The Essex County budget, published this week, pierced for the first time in our history the thirty million dollar ceiling by well over a million. This county budget is 9.9 per cent higher than last year's despite the vast increase in rates.

That county budget is larded with hidden fat, too. The county payroll, for example, is 14 per cent higher than a year ago. In fact the fat wages of the "old pros" who make a living out of politics make a bigger dent in the budget than any other item. Our county courts, including the vital services of the juvenile court, will cost only 6 per cent more than last year.

This is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the county. Republicans and Democrats alike, our Essex Freeholders should slash that budget right and left and pare it down to size. There is no reason why taxes should rise, under Republicans, on a county level if, in Trenton, under Republicans, on a state level, they hold the line.

The tax-payers need relief, even if it means that the "old pros" won't get their annual pay raise this year. Somewhere, sometime, the worm must turn. The trend towards a constant tax increase cannot lead to better government. It can only lead to wasteful government, to inflation and all its ills.

One Man's Opinion

Selling His Middle East Doctrine To Congress Will Be Easier For President Than Selling It To The Arabs And Jews

By Ralph Eric Helms

Pity poor President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He faces two tasks which might discourage anyone but a five-star general who, thirteen years ago, faced another discouraging task: landing an army big enough to be able to stay on the coast of France where a very determined enemy had had four years to build concrete fortifications.

His first task will be to "sell" to a Democratic majority in Congress and the Senate his Middle East Doctrine, a long-range responsibility for the United States to maintain the status quo between Arabs and Jews and between East and West, Communism and Democracy. His second task, equally difficult, will be to "sell" the doctrine to the Arabs and Jews directly or indirectly concerned.

If, during this year, the White House succeeds in fulfilling its two tasks, the United States responsibilities and headaches will have just begun. Any way we look at it, the United States is in this "One Man's Opinion," trying to do under pressure in a vacuum what peoples with conflicting interests failed to do during more than 20 centuries.

To erect a protective umbrella over the explosive Middle East and keep the Russians out is one thing. That we can do if we are prepared to pay the price.

To bring real peace to the very lands where, our Bible tells us, there had been centuries of strife ever before the birth of Christ, is another and perhaps more difficult problem.

Yet it should be very obvious to all of us that, politically, this is the task that the President Eisenhower has set himself for tomorrow's American survival. Better for President Eisenhower to add to Congress, to meet Russia on a neutral field than to face her in control of the Middle East with its monopoly on world oil and astraddle the short-cut shipping lane between East and West.

Actually, according to the best word from Washington, no one seriously thinks any Communist country will actually engage in the sort of armed aggression in the Middle East. Under the terms of the Eisenhower Doctrine, now before Congress, the United States would intervene with troops only if there was "Communist armed aggression."

Limiting War Risks
 The word of the text as drafted by Secretary of State Dulles and his aides specifically omits any pledge of military action in the event of covert Communist penetration or subversion. That leaves only the diplomatic and the economic aspects of the Eisenhower Doctrine with any sense of actual reality.

Difficulties already being raised in Syria and Egypt against President Eisenhower's proposal show some of the difficulties his doctrine must surmount if peace and stability in the region can be attained by economic and diplomatic rather than military methods.

This involves more than the question merely of how much money Americans are willing to provide for economic aid. There is also the problem, now perhaps heightened by events in Sinai and Suez, of how to make financial assistance and Western friendship more attractive than the armaments being sold to Egypt and Syria by the Soviet bloc.

It revises the question of whether now we would be willing to "buy" Egypt the hundred millions of dollars needed to build the great dam at Aswan, to turn the Nile valley into a granary.

It is fresh in the minds of all that it was when we reneged, six months ago, on our promise to help finance the dam that Nasser grew nasty and a typical Arab, turned to the Russians to try to swing with them the deal we turned down.

Syria already has, once, rejected American offers of technical assistance in agricultural development even before Egypt's President Nasser defied the West over the Suez Canal and before the remotely approach except with massive assistance from Moscow.

Need Of Radio Voice

The United States probably could do a great deal more in support of rationalism by more extensive information service in the Middle East, including a radio station to balance factually some of the outpourings from Cairo and Bucharest.

More responsible counsels may begin to be headed as Saudi Arabia and Iraq find their oil revenues severely reduced by Egypt's blocking of the Suez Canal and Syria's blowing up of pipeline stations.

But so long as there is material to be exploited by Colonel Nasser and others in appeals to Arab emotionalism against Israel, economic assistance may appear rather colorless.

Here is where a need for territorial and military guarantees arises. If it be made completely plain to Cairo, Damascus, and Baghdad that they will not be allowed, either on their account or as Soviet pawns, to state a war without suffering its devastating consequences, then assistance in peaceful development may lead to greater attractions.

Praising Problems

Over the long run, the $400,000,000 and more which Mr. Eisenhower proposed to pour into the Middle East could do much to stabilize the area.

But in the immediate future—this is, the next two to three months—there are three political problems too pressing to await the long-range effect of economic aid.

The first, the Suez Canal. In point of fact, much progress has already been made toward clearance, under UN control, as a prelude to dependable operation of this waterway.

The second major problem involves the Arabs and Israel. This strife has defied solution for eight years and could break out in full force in the form of an Arab war of revenge on Israel unless drastic steps are taken to achieve a peace.

The third and final problem is intra-Arab rivalry. Syria and Egypt exorcise Iraq for its ties with the West, and Iraq in turn seeks to prove its Arab nationalism by denunciations of Israel. The artificial Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan is in danger of collapsing and providing a vacuum which its neighbors might compete to fill. Jordan was valued as long as the British were there. On their own now, they are invalid.

Canal's Future Cloudy

Once the Suez Canal is cleared, will there be generally free passage? UN people believe there will, despite periodic threats from Cairo to the contrary. It will continue to deny passage to Israeli shipping.

Will operation of the canal be insulated from the politics of Egypt? Negotiations to this end are expected to begin soon, with Mr. Hammarskjöld acting as intermediary between Egypt on the one hand and Britain and France on the other. High-level diplomats from these three countries are either in New York or on their way here to discuss that settlement.

There is every reason to believe these negotiations will be successful. Extensive groundwork already has been done on a plan for arbitration of differences between the Egyptian operating authority and the canal users, with guarantees that the verdict of the arbitral court would be carried out.

Preliminary explorations have also been made in the direction of an Arab-Israeli settlement. But the Arabs will have exceptions have shown no willingness whatsoever to negotiate a peace at this time, in the wake of the Israeli attack on Egypt's Sinai desert and Gaza strip.

In taking this rigid bargaining position, indeed, in refusing to bargain on any terms—the Arabs have been strengthened by the belief that if they got into serious conflict with Israel and were in danger of being defeated, the Soviet Union would come to their rescue.

If, for example, the Arabs were to launch a war of revenge and find themselves hurled back, they seem still to believe they could count on help from Soviet "volunteers" were sent into the area. American forces would seek to drive them out.

The United States, thus seeking to neutralize the effect of Soviet power on Middle Eastern diplomacy. This, it is hoped, will restore the possibility of negotiating an Arab-Israeli settlement—or, if not of negotiating it, then of imposing it with the reluctant acquiescence of the Arab states.

As far as the third major problem of the area concerned the problem of intra-Arab rivalry—the Eisenhower Doctrine can help remove a motive for further Soviet penetration of Syria.

If Syria became a fully-fledged Communist satellite, it would have to abandon any plans for seizure of Jordan lest it come into direct conflict with American armed forces. The Eisenhower "umbrella" is designed to protect the Middle Eastern states not merely from the Soviet Union but from any Communist-dominated country, even Arab.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor, Times-News:

We found your editorial "Rodino for Senate" of great interest and heartily agree with your conclusions.

Congressman Peter Rodino has done such an outstanding job as a "servant of the people" that he won the admiration and friendship of countless citizens from the whole State of New Jersey, regardless of race, creed or color, and yes, regardless of their party affiliation, Republican or Democrat.

Judging his record in Congress as well as his humane representations, we can rightly say that there are few men in our State that qualify and deserve to be in the Senate more than Congressman Peter Rodino Jr.

Sincerely,
 Hedda Faust

To The Editor, Times-News:

Sickness struck my family twice within the same week, and at times when no physician was available. On both occasions, I telephoned the Belleville Police Headquarters for help and found two officers at my door almost as soon as I hung up the receiver.

On the second occasion, oxygen equipment was required; the officers had it and used it expertly. This may be "all in a night's work" for these men but I must say that I am certainly glad we have such fine efficient fellows on our side.

Sincerely,
 John H. Hucks

P.S. I regret that we did not get the opportunity to learn the names of the officers that helped us.

SPOTLIGHT on SPORTS

by Bob Gorlin

Varsity Club Elects Iacullo President

The Belleville Varsity Club, at its last regular meeting elected Al Iacullo president of the sports minded organization for the coming year. He succeeds Fred McQuilkin as president.

A graduate of Belleville High School, Iacullo was considered one of the best line men in the state while performing for the Bellboys. Following his scholastic play he continued active as a semi-pro and also competed with the professionals.

When you come right down to it, Al is a real Belleville product since he has lived here all his life. He is a licensed plumber by trade and is vice president of the Belleville-Nutley Master Plumber's Association.

Other officers elected along with Iacullo were: Vic Pomponio, vice president; Joe Grosch, secretary; Joe Shanahan, recording secretary; Marty O'Connell, treasurer; Nick Landolfi, assistant treasurer; and named to serve on the Board of Directors were: Al Andersen, Ralph Casale, Fred McQuilkin, Bob Harvey, Jerry Bonavita and Bill Chapman.

One of the first things that Iacullo did after taking over the duties of president of the Varsity Club was to organize a full scale membership drive. "New Blood is what we need in this organization and I don't see why each member can't bring in one new prospect at the next meeting. The club is strictly a sports minded organization and helps promote and back Belleville High School athletic teams and related activities. We all have one common goal, Back Belleville High. It's as simple as that."

Application blanks for prospective members may be secured from any club member or from De Bacco's Sport Shop.

At the last meeting a sound film on bicycle racing was shown. It was filmed by Joe De Bacco, popular Belleville bike rider. The film, which shows races in several European countries, is still available for showing before town groups so contact DeBacco if you are interested.

Big Ten A Good Three-Team Race

The Big Ten Conference is developing into a torrid three-team dog-fight with Bloomfield, East Orange and Montclair easily outdistancing the rest of the field at this point of the race. All three teams have outstanding squads and are putting up quite a battle but after that the caliber of play dips sharply.

After the top three come Columbia, Nutley, Belleville, West Orange and Irvington and bringing up the rear are hapless Orange and Kearny. The "Big Three" are in a class by themselves, however. Going into Tuesday's loop skirmishes Bloomfield and Montclair had four victories and East Orange was right behind with three. Not a single one of the teams had tasted defeat. But when the leaders start clashing head-on, then look out. Something will have to give.

All along the experts have been backing Bloomfield to go all the way but East Orange and Montclair still have to be heard from. One of the big games is on tap for tomorrow with East Orange taking on Montclair at the Blue and White court. East Orange has a natural in Lee Sager but the Mounties have the Haines twins, believe it or not, and they are doing almost as well in basketball as they did last fall in football. Montclair routed Belleville last Friday night, 68-44, and Bob Haines came through with 35 points and Richie chipped in with 17.

Bloomfield is loaded with Mal Abernathy, Stan Kaminski and Bill McCormick, three big boys, controlling the backboards and doing most of the scoring. To show you how strong the three leaders are over the rest of the conference pick one needs only to review last Friday's results. Montclair trounced Belleville by 24 points, 68-44; Bloomfield more than doubled Orange's 30 points and waltzed to a 67-30 cakewalk and Nutley played possum to East Orange, 73-34 with Sager coming through with 28 points.

St. Mary's, Holy Family Field Novice Bowling Squads

Two teams from St. Mary's and one from Holy Family have been entered in novice bowling leagues sponsored by the Essex County CYO. Both St. Mary's and Holy Family have teams in the intermediate boys league where the defending champion is St. Casimir's, of Newark. Ten teams have entered that league.

St. Mary's is also entered in the junior girls loop where it is the defending champion. Four other clubs will compete against St. Mary's. The 12-week season gets under way in both circuits on Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Star Recreation Alleys, in Newark. Two halves will be played with the winners meeting for the title. A 60 per cent handicap will go into effect after the first two weeks.

Bellboys Drop Two Tilts To Montclair, Bloomfield Cagers

Mounties Win Friday By 68-44 Score And Bengals Defeat Local Cagers In 50-44 Contest

By Dave Thaler

Belleville continued to play according to its set pattern this week, and as a result the Blue and Gold dropped two decisions. The Bellboys offered little competition to Montclair, last Friday, and the Mounties buried them 68-44. Then the home team surprised the mighty Bengals of Bloomfield but not enough, as Belleville went down to a 50-44 defeat.

The Bellboys' pattern of play all year has been to play a good game, and then play a bad one. They haven't always won the good games, nor have they always lost the bad performances, but they've never varied from a first a good game, then a bad one.

After their miserable showing against Montclair, Belleville tried to pull the upset of the season against Bloomfield. They almost succeeded. The Bellboys trailed throughout most of the first quarter, but in the second period they scored five straight points to take a two-point lead. They led until the end when they held the smallest possible margin, 25-24.

Then the bubble burst. Belleville had been playing possession basketball, a type of basketball which allows few mistakes. Belleville made a few, and Bloomfield took advantage of them, scoring six straight points to force ahead. They had another six point score at the end of the third period to open the gap to seven points.

In the fourth quarter, Bill McCormick and Stan Kaminski, two of the larger Bengals fouled out. Belleville had a chance but couldn't take advantage of it. Bloomfield actually outscored the Bellboys after Kaminski and McCormick left. The Blue and Gold made one last bid before bowing, but it resulted in a Bloomfield rout. The Bellboys trailed by four when Al Glatz took the ball out from underneath Belleville's basket. According to the rules, that's a violation and it gave Belleville the ball out of bounds with thirty seconds left to play, and a four point deficit to erase. The ball wound up in Fred Celuro's hands and thought, and the Bengal went to the hay for the basket, killing Belleville's chances.

The Montclair game is one to forget. It was a miserable showing by the Bellboys and the consolation Belleville fans got was seeing the Haines brothers in action. Bob racked up his highest total of the year, 35 points, and Richie scored 17. Combined, this gave the team a production of 52 points, more than enough to beat Belleville.

The Bellboys were in the game for only a brief time. Montclair built up an early 13 point lead and held it through most of the first half. In the last few minutes of the second quarter, however, Belleville came to life and scored, scoring. The Bellboys had temporary control of both backboards, and they cut the Mounties' lead to four points at the half. But the bulge ballooned in the third period, and it was not contest.

Tonight, Belleville travels to Nutley to encounter their arch rivals. The Bellboys are heavy favorites, but if they play according to that pattern, its going to be another disappointing evening.

POLICE CAGERS LOSE THIRD GAME

The Belleville Police Basketball team lost its third game of the season Thursday night to a strong Varsity team by the score of 32 to 69. FBI team composed of all former college players was too much for the Belleville boys. Besides having the height advantage, the FBI team caught Belleville with only five men and it did not take long for the visitors to out run the local boys.

Jim Marshall was the high scorer for the visitors with 30 points. He played at the University of Mississippi and was selected on the all conference team while at college. Mike Marotti was high scorer for Belleville with 27 points and was fouled out by George Lister with 14. Belleville now has a 4 and 3 record.

Monday evening's meeting was craced by the presence of Ed Berlinki, Belleville High School basketball coach, who presented his views on what the boys lack when they enter high school athletics. It was gratifying to hear Berlinki talk, for he emphasized the importance of those points that he looked for in boys who had ambitions toward a high school athletic career. These points were, in the order of their importance, fair play, safety, and enthusiasm. His contention was that if a boy entered any field of endeavor whether it be athletics or otherwise, and possessed these points, he would follow and success in.

LITTLE LEAGUE LIFE

Edward A. Carney

The Little League managers meeting was held at the Recreation House, Monday evening. This was a clinic meeting and was very well attended by all of the Little League managers and many of the Farm League managers. A series of color slides with sound were shown. These films covered every phase of baseball instruction dealing with basics as to throwing, fielding, pitching, catching, base running, batting and bunting. It is instruction clinics of this type being furnished by our Recreation Department, that will increase the knowledge of the managers of both leagues so as to enable them to give proper instruction to our boys and improve their ability along with good sportsmanship. The next clinic meeting is scheduled for February 19 at the Recreation House and it is planned that Gary Anderson, Montclair High School Athletic Director, be the guest speaker.

Monday evening's meeting was craced by the presence of Ed Berlinki, Belleville High School basketball coach, who presented his views on what the boys lack when they enter high school athletics. It was gratifying to hear Berlinki talk, for he emphasized the importance of those points that he looked for in boys who had ambitions toward a high school athletic career. Chief Calls Chains 'Must' For Winter Warning that the worst of winter weather and difficult driving conditions are still ahead, Chief of Police George R. Spatz urged car owners not to fall into the trap of thinking it is too late to prepare their cars for winter driving.

"There's still time to replace dried out, smeared windshield wiper blades and weak batteries," the chief said. "And if you haven't got stuck in an accident so far this winter, there's still time to get that set of tire chains you've been thinking about."

The chief remarked that a lot of drivers who already have been victimized by winter weather mishaps are wisely equipping their cars "maybe too late to prevent one accident, but in time to avoid another." Unfortunately, some drivers never get that second chance.

Chief Spatz, when questioned about the safety value of snow tires, said he believes they give some advantage in loose snow or slush.

"But I'll have to go along with the actual scientific tests sponsored by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards on that score," he volunteered. "Those tests showed that reinforced tire chains reduce braking distances on both ice and snow by 50 per cent or more. They improve starting or hill climbing traction by 313 per cent on packed snow, and by 409 percent on glare ice. You can't match that kind of performance with special tires. So I recommend chains to do the best job, even though I realize some drivers don't like to bother with them. If you really want safety and ability to get through severe conditions you won't worry too much about a little extra bother."

The chief explained there is a difference in tire chains, and that the kind which tests proved most reliable are known as "reinforced" chains.

Each link of the cross chain is reinforced by projecting teeth or cleats.

Such chains give improved stop-and-go traction, and superior resistance to side slide as compared

INSURANCE AGENT PARTICIPATES IN TRAINING COURSE

John Walker, 143 Bell Street, well known in Belleville, as a representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has returned from New York City where he participated in a two-week training course on advanced life underwriting techniques and practices.

Among the topics under discussion during the sessions were the latest developments in the field of estate planning for the conservation of both business and personal assets. Included was a detailed study of business life insurance for sole proprietorships, partnerships, and corporations, and for the indemnification of business concerns against financial loss resulting from the deaths of key men in the organization.

Walker has had an outstandingly successful record in rendering service to policyholders. Recently he was appointed to the position of insurance consultant, in which capacity he will continue to be associated with the company's Branch Brook district office at

ALIENS REMINDED OF REGISTRATION

Must Report Addresses In Compliance With Law

New Jersey Immigration officials announced today that alien address report forms will be available at the Newark Immigration office and local post offices beginning January 1 for the convenience of the more than 150,000 aliens expected to report their addresses to the Government in compliance with the law.

H. L. Hardin, District Director, of the Immigration and Naturalization Service pointed out that it is important for each non-citizen to report his address to the Government each January because of penalties for noncompliance.

"A willful violation," he said, "brings a fine up to $200, a jail sentence, and deportation. To avoid possibility of penalty, each alien should go to the nearest Immigration office or post office during January, obtain an address report form, and return the card to the clerk after completing it."

The Immigration official stressed that non-citizen should mail his own card.

The announcement followed a statement from Washington in which Immigration Commissioner J. M. Swing reminded aliens in the United States of the address report requirement.

In his statement, Commissioner Swing stated that the only non-citizens exempt from the address report requirement are persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives in the United States, and Mexican contract laborers.

Any non-citizen outside the county during January is required to file the report within 10 days of his return.

HUNGARIAN RELIEF STICKERS MADE BY EVER READY LABEL

An unofficial "Help Hungary" sticker, has been enlisted in the Ever Ready Label Corporation, of Coraopolis, Pa., whose president, Herman Hollander, yesterday presented 250,000 of them to the International Rescue Committee.

Hollander's firm designed and printed the brightly colored red, white, green and black stamps gratuitously. Measuring three by two inches and gummed for attachment to letters and packages, the stamp portrays the hand of a Freedom Fighter holding aloft the Hungarian flag. The words "Help Hungary" are emblazoned across the base. The stickers were designed to aid in the solicitation of funds through the sale of the stickers.

The same firm has provided seals gratuitously for President Eisenhower's Safe Driving Day and the New York Health Department's chest X-ray program.

TOP ST. MARY'S BOWLING TEAM IN CLEAN SWEEP
 No. 1 Squad Rights Itself With Three Wins Over Vailsburg In CYO Mixed Loop

St. Mary's No. 1 Kegling team picked up some ground in the Essex County Senior CYO Mixed Bowling League last week, sweeping three games from Sacred Heart 1 of Vailsburg, while all the other leaders were losing at least once.

St. Mary's, however, is still in fifth place but is only nine games off the pace.

Except for the first game, when the score was 685-659, St. Mary's won handily, taking the last two, 824-688 and 760-622. Terry Inagurato, one of the leading staff keglers in the league, paced the victory with games of 159, 120 and 161 for 506 series, one of the highest by a girl this year.

St. Mary's 2 didn't fare as well, salvaging only the middle game of its set with Blessed Sacrament, of Newark 681-634. Blessed Sacrament won the opener, 629-566, and the finale, 693-670. The double loss dropped St. Mary's to fifth place. June Philip was high for the locals with a 183 game.
