Two Of Eight Candidates To Have Backing

Michael Rubino and George H. Brown won support for election to the Board of Education at Tuesday's meeting. ## Plenge Farm Sold To Newark Developer For 275 Private Dwellings

Rutan Estates Inc. Buys Land For Close To One Million Dollars As Plans For Single Home Development Are Revealed

Sale of the Plenge Farm for use as a home development site was announced this week by Attorney Everett B. Smith, representing the Plenge estate. The farm, located in the extreme northwest section of town and extending into Nutley, is the last large tract of undeveloped land in town.

The 45 acre farm was sold to Rutan Estates Inc., of Newark, home development firm which already has developments in Union and Short Hills. Max Sherman, Newark attorney representing the buyers, revealed that only 18 acres of the farm have been bought outright at this date, but that the remainder of the estate is under option. Walter S. Hupfel, Jr., of Short Hills, a president of the Rutan firm with Joseph Dunn of Belleville, vice president.

Although none of the parties involved were willing to disclose the actual amount of money changing hands in the sale, it was learned from reliable sources that the land brought about $225,000 an acre. This would place the total amount of money involved at close to one million dollars.

Waits Final OK

Sale of the 45-acre parcel of land is practically complete and awaits only the final approval of Town Commissioners of the sub-division and engineering details. Tentative plans accompanied by a rough map of the area were submitted to Commissioners Monday afternoon in a closed caucus. Commissioners stated they would wait for submission of final plans before giving their final approval.

However Mayor Lyndora J. Padula said that as long as the developers adhere to all town zoning and building codes, there was no reason why approval should not be granted. He stressed that no commitments had been given by Town Commissioners at the Monday meeting.

State Conducts Hearings On Route 21 Expressway

The State Highway Department will hold a public hearing in Belleville to listen to any objections to plans for the proposed Route 21 expressway to be built along the Passaic River. The hearing will take place on Wednesday, January 30 at 10 a.m. in the Town Hall.

The hearing is being conducted to explain the state's plans for the project and to get rid of any objections concerning either the road alignment or property confiscation. The expressway will be widened from William Street to Roosevelt Avenue as part of an overall thoroughfare connecting with Route 3 and continuing northward.

President Goes Out On Limb For Incumbent

Ernest S. Aridson, president of the Belleville Conference, will back Mrs. Edward Rochau for re-election to the Board of Education. The Conference voted on Tuesday night to back Michael Rubino in his bid for the post currently held by Mrs. Rochau. In a statement to the Times-News, Aridson said:

"Many of the organizations which previously participated in the Conference did not take part this year, and therefore felt that the Conference must strengthen itself by more stringent laws pertaining to eligibility. The officers of the Conference were instructed to submit such recommendations to the first meeting of the Conference in the fall, to be held in October."

"No participating organization is bound by the Conference to support the Conference election."

"Confidence in the Conference is certainly outstanding persons in the community and would make excellent members on the Board of Education. The Conference has again served its purpose which is to encourage outstanding people to run for office. Because of Mrs. Rochau's many years of experience on the Board and her deep sense of civic responsibility and her interest and knowledge of all Board matters and problems of education in Belleville, I personally support Mrs. Rochau for re-election."

Most Gratified

When asked for comment, Mrs. Rochau told the Times-News that she was "most gratified" by Aridson's support. She further added that she was not alarmed by the Conference action. She felt most of the organizations were backing her, although she did not expect the majority. She felt that the Conference was a representation of voting districts.

"I had no comment on Aridson's position," she said. "I thanked the Conference for its endorsement, and promised Belleville that he will be able to contribute all his efforts to the 'continual progress of our schools.'"

MOTHERS' MARCH ON POLIO SET FOR WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Mrs. William J. Long Urges All Local Residents To Contribute Generously

Mrs. William J. Long, Mothers' March Chairman for Belleville, says as a fund-raising close to the month-long drive for funds by the March of Dimes, some 7,000 or more mothers of Essex County will stage a grand march known as the "Mothers' March on Polio."

On Wednesday evening from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., these mother volunteers will call at every home where the porchlight is turned on to invite them in for a contribution, or some other sign is given that day will be welcome. Ample protection will be given the Mothers by the regular police in every community, reinforced by a defense auxiliary police and other volunteers. At every home, the mothers will leave a card on which the family can record the date when each member receives his or her Salk vaccine shots. This part of their work will be given special emphasis because of its importance to everyone still unprotected against polio.

According to the latest figures, about 40,000 people under 40 who are protected, Mrs. Long said there still remain some 64,000,000 people under 40 who have not received even one shot of the Salk vaccine. If we are to reduce the casualties from the crippling polio next summer, everyone up to 40 must have his shots before the next polio season.

The Mothers of Essex County will keep marching against polio as long as the possibility of an epidemic exists and as long as polio victims need their aid. To help the paralytic polio a thing of the past, give to your March of Dimes on the night of January 30, and give generously, Mrs. Long urged.

Temperatures will take another dip this weekend but weather man predicts that skies will be sunny.

FIRST HALF LOCAL TAX BILLS MAILED

Collector William J. Friel Sets February 1 Deadline

Tax bills for the first two quarters of 1957 have been mailed out this week to some 12,500 Belleville residents and taxpayers. William J. Friel, municipal tax collector, revealed. The tax bills cover personal property, real estate, and building assessments for the first half of the year.

First-quarter taxes are due February 1, while second quarter bills will not become due until May 1. Friel said. However, Mayor Lyndora J. Padula, director of revenue and finance, explained that a 15 day grace period will be allowed on tax bills before interest would be computed for delinquent taxes.

Friel said that the preliminary 1957 bills, which are being sent out this week, are required by law to be based on the previous year's tax rate. The local rate for 1956 was $7.81 per $100 of assessed valuation. However, the bills have been computed at a new rate of $8.10.

Payments may be mailed accompanied by the entire bill.

PUBLIC HEARING ON SCHOOL BUDGET MONDAY NIGHT

Board President Boyd Releases Statement Which Explains New Expenditures

The public hearing for Belleville's 1957-58 school budget will be held this Monday evening at 7 p.m. in the Board of Education chambers at School No. 8. The hearing will precede the regular meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. at which time Board members can make any necessary changes prior to giving final approval to the new school year's appropriations.

In order to clarify the new budget, Board president William J. Boyd released the following statement concerning the expenditures and how they were arrived at by the Board. He states:

"Last year, the Belleville school budget presented to the voters for their approval was $2,254,414 of which total taxes and $435,435 by state aid and other revenue of $128,752 which the Board rightly could anticipate. Specifically, this extra aid was not to be used to receive only $435,435 in state aid and therefore this figure was used in preparing the budget for '56-'57."

"After voter approval of the budget, the board was informed that an additional $24,220 in state aid funds would be sent to Belleville, but instructions were given that this extra aid was not to be used to reduce district taxes. So it was possible therefore for town officials to use this $24,220 to reduce taxes. The money represented funds available to the Board of Education, but not having to come from local taxpayers."

"This year, the amount to be raised by district taxes is $1,701,000."

TRUSTEES ELECTED BY CLARA MAASS

At the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital, last week, John F. Kiddle, President of Walter Kiddle & Company, was again elected one of the Vice Presidents.

Other Belleville businessmen who will continue as members of the hospital Board are Robert M. Jackson, Vice President and Treasurer of Wallace & Tiernan, Inc., Frank M. Walden, Vice President of Fidelity Union Trust Company, Evan H. Thomas, Superintendent of Belleville Schools, and Webb, Vice President of Eastwood-Nealey Corporation.

In addition to the election of officers, the most important item discussed was the progress of the Memorial Equipment Campaign headed by Raymond S. Barry, President of Federal Telephone & Radio. While the results to date have been encouraging, it is hoped that in the next few weeks contributions will be stepped up to the point where all the equipment needed for the new hospital will be made available.

Resolution Sponsored By Smith Gets Spectator Applause, But No Commissioner's "Second"

A resolution to appoint Attorney Robert C. Gruhin to the post of Director of Public Affairs was quashed by Commissioners in conference Tuesday night. Commissioner Kenneth D. Smith had drafted the resolution and presented it to the governing body in the regular pre-meeting conference session where it drew immediate opposition from the three other Commissioners.

The Public Affairs Department has been operating without a fulltime director since the death of Commissioner Joseph King on January 8. Smith said that his resolution was drawn up in accordance with the Waish Act which provides for a resolution of the Board of Commissioners must be filed within 30 days.

Mayor Lyndora J. Padula had previously expressed the feeling that no action should be taken to fill the position for at least 30 days out of respect for the late Commissioner. He reiterated this belief at Tuesday night's pre-meeting conference.

Resolution Doodled The resolution was doctored when Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde said he would also be opposed to taking any action at the time.

Smith stressed the fact that he believed the post should be filled at the earliest time possible. Hyde and the other Commissioners were prepared to adopt the 1957 town budget. Smith pointed out that the resolution was not a big business, and that if Commissioner King were here, he would want to see affairs run in a businesslike manner.

Sponsored by Smith, the resolution appointing Gruhin was read by Town Attorney Lawrence E. Keenan at the regular meeting. It was greeted with a solid round of applause from the Commissioners gallery, but nevertheless received no second from any of the three other Commissioners.

Will Be Re-Introduced When questioned after the meeting, Smith said he intended to introduce the same resolution at the next Commissioners meeting following the 30 day period. Other Commissioners refused to comment on how they would react to the measure when it is re-introduced.

The next Commission meeting has been set for Friday, February 8, since the regular meeting fell on Lincoln's birthday. That day, Mr. King's death can be expected that Smith will

Band Popular Activity Since Mattick Arrived At BHS

The increased interest in music at Belleville High School is largely due to the work of man who has been named a bundle of energy — Herbert A. Mattick, Director of the high school band since 1948. Mattick has spent much time in developing interest and enthusiasm, until, at present, Belleville has a total of three bands, the concert band, the varsity band and the dance band.

"The bands are now made up of a good cross section of students with all kinds of backgrounds and interests," Mattick said. "I have found that students specifically interested in music come out, now we have a band of 30 members."

Mattick attributes the increased interest in music to "a lot of winning around talking to people and just getting them interested."

Good On Trombone He describes himself as the violin and the viola, but not at all good on woodwind instruments, though. "I'm passing on all of them."

Music was the third love of young Herbert Mattick back at Montclair High School. First and second came athletics and science, and third came music. The first two were eliminated when he realized that he was too thin for sports, and too interested in the science of sounds. So music became the chosen field. After graduation from high school, he

Veith Starting For Niagara

Richie Veith, Belleville High School's latest gift to Niagara University's varsity basketball team, has arrived! The popular six-foot sophomore guard cracked the Purple Eagles' starting lineup last Saturday night in an 86-75 losing decision to arch rival St. Bonaventure University and, judging from his 16-point performance, seems ready, willing and able to help the right the reeling Eagles.

In answer to this writer's request for the answer to Veith's sudden elevation to first string for the crucial Little Three Conference game, Coach Taps Gallagher had this to say:

"He deserved the chance to start a game. In our last game, a 99-74 rout of highly-regarded Morehead State, he gave us a big boost in both halves when we needed it most. I figured he might give us the spark we needed against St. Bonaventure."

Veith replaced Jim Maloney, a junior, in the lineup for the St. Bonaventure game. Maloney, runner-up in scoring on the team this year as well as last, saw limited action in the game until the Eagles' veteran guard Tom Mulroy was injured late in the first half. Mulroy aggravated an old ankle injury and is now hobbling around the campus on crutches. He will be sidelined for an indefinite period.

It definitely is a bad break for Niagara, in that this softened some-what with Veith being available for full-time duty. However, it also means that the Eagles will lack the "sixth-man" or No. 1 reserve at guard when Veith moves up.

Richie Veith

Veith has caught the Niagara fans' fancy this season with his deadly, soft jump-shot and his all-out play. In the Morehead State game, for example, he came into the fray late in the first half and swished three quick jumps to enable his teammates to pull away to a lead. The early in the second half, he was called upon again when Morehead began to roll and closed to within three points of a tie. At this point Veith and another sophomore from Essex County, Bob Tighe, of Bloomfield, joined forces to puncture Morehead's rally.

Veith and Tighe combined for an eight-point streak that opened up the lead once more and the Eagles went on to a decisive victory. Niagara could have hit the century mark were it not for Coach Gallagher's "ordering" his club to remain at 99 points near the finish.

In this game Veith scored a total of 12 points, hitting six for eight on field goal attempts. Against St. Bonaventure, Veith continued his sharpshooting with six of 11 field goal attempts and four-for-four from the foul line.

He also scored 10 in Madison Square Garden against Villanova and 10, also at the Garden, against Manhattan. He now has 75 points in 13 games to date.

Tighe, a 6-2, 212 pound forward, is also proving to be an outstanding addition to the club. He edged out 6-6 senior Tom Precioli for a starting role early in the season and has 114 points thus far including 19 against Villanova, 15 against Western Ontario and 14 against Morehead.

Mulroy, incidentally, is also from New Jersey and played his basketball at Camden Catholic High School. He had scored 129 points this season, including six in the first half of the St. Bonaventure game prior to being injured.

Inconsistent Cagers Take On Powerful E. Orange Tonight

Blue And Gold Squad Registers Two Wins In Past Week Over Nutley, 61-58, Kearny, 60-58

By Dave Thaler
Tonight Belleville will have its last chance to make its mark for the 1956-57 season. The Bellboys have experienced a so-so season to date, but they could change the situation with an upset over the highly touted Panthers of East Orange tonight. However, if the last two games, played over the past week, are any indication of what kind of a performance will be turned in by the Bellboys, the Blue and Gold doesn't have a chance. The Bellboys won both of their games this week, defeating two of the poorer teams in the area, Nutley (61-58), and Kearny (60-58). The two victories bring their season's record to 6-6.

Although the scores wouldn't indicate that the Bellboys looked bad, they did Nutley and Kearny are supposed to be the soft spot on the Blue and Gold schedule. Kearny has trouble scoring more than thirty points a game, and Nutley had trouble with the Kards.

Close For Three Quarters
The Blue and Gold encountered the Maroon Raiders last Friday. Nutley was in the game until the third quarter, then the Bellboys outscored them in a 12-2 spurt, and the game was in the bag. Don Klein and Tom Candura were the big guns in that scoring burst. Belleville played it safe all the way, going into a freeze in the fourth quarter, and keeping the first until the end of the game.

In the Kearny game Belleville blew a fifteen point lead, and then had to pull it out in the final minutes. With thirty seconds left to play, Don Klein sunk a driving shot for the winning basket, until then it was touch and go. Landing at the half, Belleville was outscored by 16 points in the third period. Leading the attack against them was Kearny's Mike Svoboda who scored 14 markers in that stanza.

Klein was again the high man for Belleville, this time with 23 points, one less than his total against Nutley. Two other Bellboys were in double figures, Jack Cullen and Tom Candura. Cullen had 17 points and Candura poured in 16 tallies.

Erratic Play
Tonight's game is a mystery. Belleville has come close to Bloomfield that any other team, but the Bellboys have just managed to beat the worst teams around. That they are erratic is an understatement. East Orange brings with them one of the best players in the state, if not the best, in Lee Sager. Sager is 6-5 which enables him to be a tremendous rebounder, but his shooting is his forte. He is a deadly foul shooter, holding the record for consecutive foul shots in the Essex County Tournament, and can move to the outside when he is bottled up in the pivot. He can hurt you wherever he plays.

If Belleville can hold Sager they have a chance. But the difference will be under the boards. The defensive boards will be the story. The Bellboys can't afford to let the Panthers take three and four shots at the basket. If they do, it's sure death.

The Bellboys are also hoping that East Orange is looking ahead to their game with Bloomfield next Thursday. If that happens the stage is set up for an upset.

Finally, Belleville's consistency has to be taken into consideration. They don't have any. They may play a good game for three quarters and then play indifferent basketball the rest of the way. Belleville's offense will be potent but their defense is a question. Two important players are Charley McAdams and Nick Cetulio. If Belleville can get a good game out of these two, Belleville fans will have an entertaining evening tonight.

Whether he gets in will depend on the kind of school and teachers he has now. Good teachers are hard to find and sometimes harder to keep. Tell your friends and neighbors, our board of education members and our legislators that you want to pay enough for his teachers today so he can enter the college of his choice tomorrow.

Unanswerable

"That is the world," I told the wondering child.
 I gestured toward the globe that he had seen
 Across the full length of the shadowed room.
 "I wondered what it was," he quickly said.
 And then he asked me something hard to tell
 In tidy phrases that a child expects.
 The question led us out beyond ourselves
 Through countless countries, over nameless seas,
 And back again with wonder not resolved.
 The short adventure stirred among our thoughts,
 Turned on two axes slanted far apart,
 And yet the marvel must have been the same.
 We stood in silence pondering the ball
 Colored with oceans, island continents,
 Turning an imitation of the world.
 His closing words could never really end
 A study that outreached geography—
 "Why do they say the world is getting small?"

With Commissioner Needed

A time for action came Tuesday night, but Belleville Town Commissioners preferred not to act. At least this time, they had a respectable excuse.

Since the unfortunate death on January 9 of Commissioner Joseph King, the Department of Public Affairs has been without a fulltime director. The Board of Commissioners, themselves, have been without a badly needed fifth vote to break any deadlocks which might arise. With all due respect to the late Commissioner King, a replacement is needed to carry on the work of his department.

For the past month, 1957 budget figures have been under preparation and on February 8 the new appropriations will be formally introduced. It is indeed a time when the town's governing body should be at full strength.

The Walsh Act, which governs commission type governments, specifically states that any vacancies which occur on town commissions shall be filled by appointment within 30 days. With municipal government a multi-million dollar business, there is obviously sound reasoning behind this stipulation.

However, in contradiction of the Walsh Act and contrary to sound business practices, three Town Commissioners this week blocked action to appoint Attorney Robert C. Gruhn to the existing vacancy. A resolution by Commissioner Kenneth D. Smith making the appointment, failed to receive a "second" when Mayor Isadore J. Padula and Commissioners Elmer S. Hyde and Harry J. Sullivan failed to take action. They expressed the belief that out of deference to Mr. King no action should be taken until after 30 days.

If Mr. King, who was both a wise legislator and a sound businessman, were here, I think we could be assured that he would want the matter handled in a sensible business manner. There is too much at stake for the taxpayers of town to let the post remain vacant any longer than necessary.

Nothing can be done now to correct a mistake at this week's town meeting, but let Commissioners not delay beyond the next meeting on February 8 to fill the vacancy with a permanent appointment.

Give Generously To Mothers March On Polio

Wednesday evening, one of your neighbors will visit your home to explain how you can join the 1957 March of Dimes and help finish the polio job. This neighbor of yours is called a marching mother and she is one of the unsung heroines in the fight against polio.

Chances are that she — or another person like her — has been coming to your doors for some years. And over the years you have welcomed her with a lighted porchlight and a generous contribution.

In past years you gave because you knew that the March of Dimes had pledged that no polio victim would have to go without needed care for the lack of funds. And because you knew that something was being done about a polio vaccine. A large part of the funds backing this vital research were gathered by marching mothers in towns and cities all over the country.

Then, sometime in 1954, your children came home from school carrying information about a polio vaccine that was being tested for effectiveness. And in April, 1955, the word came that there was scientific proof that the Salk vaccine was effective against this crippling disease. During the whole time that the news of the vaccine held the headlines, the marching mother kept at her work.

This marching mother's quiet, determined work has affected every home in our country. Only a few days ago the U. S. Public Health Service released statistics showing that polio incidence in 1956 was half of that in 1955.

And Wednesday she'll be at your door again. She'll be at your door to ask you to help finish the polio job, for much remains to be done. It is for the Mothers' March on Polio of the March of Dimes that thousands of mothers in Essex County volunteer for one hour's work from 7 to 8 p.m. You can help in two ways. Give to the March of Dimes — to remember the thousands of children and young people now disabled by polio who still need care. And you can help by getting vaccinated against polio.

County Shows The Way

You can turn in to the glory of the Essex County Board of Freeholders, for they truly understand the plight of the taxpayers.

Faced with budgetary demands of the county's spending departments which overflowed the 30 million dollar level, for the first time, by several millions and which threatened to add six tax points to our 1957 tax bill, the Freeholders resorted to surgery. As a consequence, county taxes will rise barely one cent this year. We can only hope our Town Commission, now in the throes of budgetary pains, can do as well.

County Treasurer John E. Cash announced yesterday, after the Freeholders handed back what was left of the budget, that last year's county tax rate of 65 cents per $100 of assessed valuation will remain fairly firm. County costs have risen, of course, but the rise is virtually neutralized by the swift gain in county rates, the consequence of the building booms of recent years.

And while you are at it, give thanks that you live on the Belleville side of the line. Across Route 3 in Passaic County, Passaic's tax rate may jump 100 points, from $7.33 to $8.33, blamed partly on a loss of real ratables. Clifton, on the other hand, reports an increase in ratables of five and a half million dollars and may be able to hold fairly close to its $4.95 tax rate of last year.

Threats Are Bad Business

Newark is wrong to resort to threats to force the other members of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission to concede a preferential rate of $16 per million gallons for that city's sewerage carried to the Newark Bay pumping station by its own proposed South Side interceptor sewer.

Threats are bad business. If a demand is legitimate, threats are unnecessary. Threats, generally, are used as a club to put over a bad deal.

Basically the problem is this: Newark wants to pay only $16 per million gallons for processing its sewerage at the disposal plant on the grounds that it will deliver the sewerage to the plant in its own pipeline. Belleville, and other towns, would continue to pay the present rate of $36 per million gallons plus a surtax of $8.50 per million gallons to cover the cost of plant modernization.

An allowance could be made to Newark for building its own sewer, but not in the proportion of 54 per cent. Nor should Newark escape the modernization surtax. If as Mayor Leo P. Carlin threatens, the alternative is that Newark builds its own municipal disposal plant our answer should be: go ahead and build. Newark, like Belleville, should pay its share of plant operation and modernization, regardless of any trunk sewer costs.

One Man's Opinion

Oil-rich Arab Countries Now Seem To Find Eisenhower's Offer Of Protective Mantle Worthy Of Consideration

By Ralph Eric Heinzin

It already is becoming apparent that despite the tendency of the Democratic majority in Washington to stall and play politics, the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East is gaining friends in many of the lands most directly concerned — excluding Egypt, of course.

It becomes increasingly apparent, too, that the President would hold the status quo in the Middle East more by the economic power, which the United States can wield, if it chooses, than by its military power. If by economic assistance, the sale of surplus goods or the grant of fresh credits or the release of frozen credits we can contribute to the political and moral stability of the Middle East we can, ipso facto, reduce the lure of communism.

That is, in this "One Man's Opinion," the prime motive of the Eisenhower Doctrine and in lands where so many have so little opinion can be swayed more easily by material help than by armed might. History has proven that the Arabs have little liking for army life, little stomach for the kind of fighting that they would face in a show-down war and are wholly untrained in the technical tools of today's war — aviation, motorization, radar, tanks and artillery.

The wily Egyptians, always fast in striking a bargain with very poor soldiers, appeared this week to sense a danger of isolation. Washington's refusal to release $40,000,000 in frozen Egyptian funds, this week, until the issue of the Suez Canal company investment is settled with France and Britain, provoked a vigorous attack by the Egyptian press against President Eisenhower and his Doctrine.

The attacks stressed the hostility of the Doctrine to Nasser's regime and its aims. When that truth sinks in Egypt, rather than put up with costly economic isolation, may do something about Nasser.

Egypt Sees Isolation
 The Egyptian dictator seems to suspect that the United States is preparing — by means of the Eisenhower Doctrine and by such action as the invitation to Saudi Arabia's King to visit Washington — to isolate Egypt.

Cairo envisages a tier of nations being lined up by Washington, including Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Libya, and perhaps even Jordan — all hostile to Egypt's expansionist aims.

The Egyptians could be right. There is no American policy aiming at the destruction of the Nasser regime, but Washington has thought carefully of what economic pressure could accomplish in the event that Nasser should oppose and sabotage efforts to build a genuine Middle East peace.

Nasser scored a victory of sorts when he succeeded in enticing King Saud of Saudi Arabia to Cairo, on his way west on a state visit to Washington, and came up with a purported agreement whereby Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia would replace Britain as underwriters of the annual $33,000,000 subsidy to the government of Jordan without which that sandy kingdom could not survive.

Now it remains to be seen how Nasser is going to raise the money. There is no question of King Saud's ability to peel it off his bankroll without feeling the pinch. The monarch's yearly income is in the vicinity of $300,000, 2,000 and comes from the oil extracted by an American oil firm, Arabian American Oil Company.

If the three Arab nations cannot dump from 30 to 40 million dollars a year, starting when Britain's aid would cease in March 15, to keep Jordan's army and economy afloat, then Hussein will be in trouble.

Pinning Down Nasser
 The practical effect of the substitution of the three Arab states for Britain, involving Jordan, breaking its ties with Britain, would be to place Jordan under the Egyptian control. King Hussein knows that and that is why a four-man Jordanian delegation in Cairo today trying to pin Nasser down to details.

It is generally known that Egypt, with its foreign exchange assets frozen here, in Paris and elsewhere in the West, need money itself, and until the canal is cleared and reopened to traffic there will be no money from that source. Syria is poor and without any surplus. Saudi Arabia's oil revenues, while big, are, traditionally, committed far in advance.

All that will be put to King Saud when he arrives in Washington, his first visit to the United States since he assumed the throne of his late father, Ibn Saud, in November, 1953. It will be our purpose, in the Washington talks, to warn King Saud away from neutrality and Nasser towards an openly pro-western stand.

Action Chiefly Economic
 American policy in the Middle East is not destructive. Much remains to be planned and approved, and considerable assistance will be placed in extending military assistance to nations wanting such help.

But there are also the economic development projects, such as a dam on the Nile which would extend all the way to the river's sources, a project for enlarging the Suez Canal, land reclamation projects for Arab refugees, and development of highway and rail systems linking the various nations.

Already the new American plan for the Middle East appears to be lessening Nasser's monopolistic hold over the politics and pronouncements of other Arab states.

Earlier, among Arab leaders only, Iran Premier, Sardar-Said had dared publicly to oppose the anti-Western and sometimes pro-Soviet line of Colonel Nasser.

Now, however, leaders of Lebanon and Jordan have joined Iraq in praising the Eisenhower program to defeat communism in the Middle East through military and economic aid. In addition, King Saud bin Abdul Aziz of Saudi Arabia is believed to desire a closer alignment of his kingdom with the United States.

Break With Nasser
 Dr. Charles Malik, Foreign Minister of Lebanon, has hailed the Eisenhower Doctrine for "its many guarantees of independence of countries cooperating with the United States."

King Hussein of Jordan told United States Ambassador Lester Mallory that the new American program "was welcomed and appreciated by peace-loving countries and the Arab peoples in particular."

Even Jordan's leftwing Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, Abdullah H. Rimawi, declared he was not "discouraged" by what he had read of the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Clear evidence of King Saud's willingness to consider a mantle of American protection about his kingdom and his acceptance of an invitation to Washington at the end of this month, from three countries — Lebanon, Jordan, and Saudi Arabia — appear to have found in the American program a potential bulwark of support strong enough to allow them a measure of independence of the sternly anti-Western line which has been almost mandatory among the Arabs in recent years.

Even Syria, which many observers consider to be sliding under a Communist shadow, has muted its initial sharp rejection of the program.

Egypt, which stands to benefit greatly from the economic aspects of the American policy, has been officially noncommittal.

Helpful to the United States in this respect was the American condemnation of the Israel-Anglo-French invasion of Egypt. The American stand gave Washington a wedge whereby to introduce its new and massive program for Arab consideration.

Coal Mining To N. Y.

From there, he held various teaching positions, first in a West Virginia coal mining district, later in New York City. Both these were the extremes of rural and urban living, neither of which completely satisfied him. At this time, Mattick gave up teaching and went to work for the National Broadcasting Company, planning short wave programs of recorded music. Three years later, he entered the army.

After service, Mattick received an offer from Raymond Scott, of the NBC "Hit Parade" program. This would have meant moving to California, but "I decided I had kids better than show business anyway," he felt, so he went back to teaching.

Aside from teaching, Mattick spends considerable time every month with the N. J. Symphony, the Oratorical Society of N. J., and directing the municipal band. He is a musical director of a drum and bugle corps in Irvington, and he occasionally plays trombone with small combinations in clubs. "But I've more or less retired from that now," he said.

Mattick lives with his wife and two small children Billy, 12, and Barbara, 10, in Upper Montclair. Both children are currently studying a couple of instruments, but neither has shown a marked desire to go into the musical field. His wife, the former Ethel Schmidt, Mattick declares, "can barely carry a tune."

qualifying the individual for a Board position.

More pointed questions are asked in the second part of the forum. Specifically touching on two of the major problems a Board member must face, the PTA's ask:

(1) What would be your position on the question of the need for a junior high school as part of the Belleville educational system, and

(2) How would you propose to provide the means for the expansion of educational facilities and curriculum of the school system?

The group is also asking whether the candidate's own children were educated in the local school system and how they feel about Board members running for political office while still a member of the Board.

The joint PTA's stressed that it is imperative that each member of a school board represent the interests of the community at large, rather than any particular segment with no personal or group axes to grind.

"The Board of Education wants the budget requests to be fully understood. Its sole aim is to present a careful budget, that takes advantage of every possible reduction without jeopardizing our school program."
