Senate Investigation Discloses 'Reds' Tried To Infiltrate Here

Martha Stone, State Official Of The Communist Party, Said To Be Instigator For Labor And Industrial Espionage By William A. Wallace.

Witnesses appearing before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, investigating the scope of Soviet activity in the United States, in Washington, this week, disclosed that at the instigation of Martha Stone, identified as "a state official of the Communist party in New Jersey," a Communist "party club" was organized for labor agitation and industrial espionage among the workers of the Federal Telephone and Radio Corporation here and existed from 1940 to 1955.

William A. Wallace, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., a former Communist labor agitator

KELLY APPOINTED TO MANAGERIAL POSITION AT RCA

Local Resident Associated With RCA For 25 Years; Attended Bethany, Harvard

Martha Stone (Mrs. Martha Asher), State Chairman of the Communist Party, issued a blanket denial of the Wallace testimony about industrial espionage and espionage. In a recent issue of the Times News she called his evidence "a pack of lies."

Wallace also named the "Singer Club" which was organized at the Camden, N. J. plant, and Elizabeth, N. J., Communist agitators, through a "Singer Club" provoked a 168-day strike in 1940, which cost $4 million dollars — $24 millions loss in production. Elizabeth merchants and $10 million in lost wages to workers.

He told the Senate committee that Federal was designated for "organization" by both the Communist party and its affiliates. In addition to a shop "club" there was a parallel Essex County Club. The "club" was organized in the 12 major industries "organized" in the Westchester area. This week's hearing shows the following testimony:

Mr. Morris (Robert Morris, Chief Counsel) asked Mr. Kelly at this point you will tell us what was the general strength of the Communist Party in Union and Essex Counties in New Jersey, in 1945.

Mr. Kelly answered that he was promoted to trade representative in 1942 and two years later returned to Harrison in Production Scheduling. He was named Sales Administrator in charge of Product Planning and Schedules in 1948.

Mr. Kelly attended Bethany College, Bethany, West Virginia, following which he attended Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

He is married and has three children, Mrs. G. K. Kraft, Sarah and William Kelly.

Water Kidde Announces New Portable Extinguishers

Two new pressurized dry chemical portable fire extinguishers have been announced by the local Water Kidde & Company, Inc. The new streamlined models come in 20 and 30 pound capacities and were designed by Kidde engineers working closely with Henry Dreyfuss personnel.

According to Kidde, their designs stress simplified, self-evident operation for anyone picking up a unit in a fire emergency. Simply aim the discharge horn at the fire and pull the trigger. Immediately a cloud of fire killing dry chemical envelopes the blaze. The unit is charged and ready for action. Finally, they have special baffles which reduce discharge velocity without reducing range.

Local Policemen Display Courage, Quick Judgment Apprehending 16-Year-Old And Rescuing Two Youths

Officers Place And Ricci Capture 16-Year-Old After High Speed Two Mile Chase

Two Belleville policemen, Thomas Ricci and Kenneth Place, on the alert for a stolen car last Sunday night and Monday morning, noticed a green and white car traveling north on Mertz Avenue. The car was identified as one on the stolen car list. On a mad chase which lasted between 9 p.m. Sunday to 5 a.m. Monday morning, a 16-year-old Newark boy was captured by the Belleville police after he had eluded patrolmen in a two-mile, high speed automobile chase through Nutley and Belleville streets.

The boy's progress was described thusly: the car was originally spotted in the Mertz Avenue, Beverly Court vicinity. It made a left turn on Division Avenue at a speed fluctuating between 55-90 m.p.h. Continuing north on Passaic and into Center Street, the stolen car was finally struck by one of the seven pistol shots fired by police. Prior to this four shots were fired into the air before the boy continued across Center Street out onto Park Avenue and on to Union Avenue. With a patrol car close at his heels, the boy's path continued on back to Center Street then to Passaic Avenue. The youth finally stopped suddenly at the intersection between Smith Avenue and Union Terrace. Police in order to stop him, had to ram the patrol car with the stolen vehicle. After the boy hastily ran from the car, it continued rolling, and hit a parked vehicle owned by Ed Ryan, of 207 Belleville Avenue. The rear of the latter's car was damaged.

After stopping abruptly at Smith Street and Belleville Avenue, the boy attempted a getaway on foot. He was cornered by Ricci after running a block.

The youth was taken to the Newark Park Parental School on a juvenile delinquency charge. He was returned to Belleville for questioning about a house burglary in the Newark last week. The stolen car he was driving had been reported near the scene of a robbery where three thieves stole $470, police said.

Marotti And Rusomano Rescue Two Youths From Third River Storm Drain

Two other Belleville police were on hand at the right time. Two Belleville youths went from the frying pan into the fire last Saturday when, in search for shelter from the rain, they crawled 20 feet into a storm sewer.

The two, Daniel Oleson, 14, and Obie O'Neal, 13, went from the Camp Caragher playground on an embankment by the Third River to the apparently exciting interior of the storm drain.

A sudden rush of water swept Obie into the river and trapped Daniel in the drain for about 30 minutes. As the little girl in The Wizard of Oz, the boys were carried upon Nature's whims. They were surprised to find themselves floating and twisting — one into the flow of the Third River and the other trapped inside the storm drain. William Montasano, 35, son of Constant J. Montasano of 17 Chestnut Street, fished Obie out. Daniel said he managed to keep above water in the sewer while another boy called police aid as they arrived. Belleville police saw that it was impossible to enter the drain because of heavy rainfall and the terrific flow of water. Borrowing a ladder from a nearby home, Acting Sergeant Robert Rusomano and Detective Michael Marotti lowered it from the top. Rusomano directed the boys to walk towards him. As Daniel worked his way to the mouth of the tunnel Rusomano and Marotti waited for his father, Alexander Oleson of 71 Wilbur Street. No medical attention was needed.

Obie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rosamilla of 46 Memphis Street.

Tabular escapades are over for these lads — until the next time.

Elementary School Music Program Thriving Success

Enrollment in the elementary school's music departments has grown from an original 120 to a number fluctuating between 375 and 400, Frank Selba, director of the summer session of music instruction, said.

The growth of the music program during the regular and summer sessions is mainly a result of Evan Thomas' efforts to convince the Board of Education of the need that existed for such a program. The noticeable increases in enrollment after the sanctioned acquisition of new and more equipment was there.

Flood Control Plan State Starts Survey Here For Third River

Stream Would Widened, Deepened And Two Bridges Would Be Replaced To End Danger Here Of Floods; Riverbanks Would Parked

A master plan for Third River flood control from its source to its outlet into the Passaic River will be drawn up by the Division of Water Policy and Supply, of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development, as a consequence of a regional meeting of Nutley, Belleville and Bloomfield municipal authorities with engineering officials of Essex County and the State, in Newark, last weekend.

Under the master plan, the river would be deepened and widened, curves would be straightened to facilitate a speedy flow of flood waters and two new bridges, one at Passaic Avenue, Nutley and the other at Joramelon Street, are proposed. The lowering of Kingsland dam by two feet is another major item in the project.

The State Division of Water Policy and Supply is having a survey of the entire course of the Third River made and its completion the master plan will be formulated in Trenton for submission to Essex County authorities and to the three towns.

The flood control plan, under State auspices, was first tied in with a proposal by Nutley authorities, with the backing of Essex County, to the Essex County Park Commission that both banks of the stream be acquired for the public and parkland between Harrison Street, Nutley, and Joramelon Street.

The flood control conference, which Commissioner John Lucy, director of public works, and Dudley E. Coe, superintendent of public works, represented Nutley and participated between flood measures and to make the various governmental units aware of what they are doing so far.

Representing the State were two engineers from the Division of Water Policy and Supply, of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development, George B. Shunk and R. B. Cypher. The state must approve all flood control measures.

Representing Essex County was Curtis C. Colwell, county engineer, and Howard J. Finley, superintendent of public works, deputy engineer, represented the Park Commission.

The meeting from Belleville were Mayor Isadore J. Padula, Elmer C. H. J. A. public works commissioner, and Raymond F. Daly, town engineer. Merrill B. Huber, Bloomfield's town engineer.

The master plan, to be prepared in Trenton, will have its basis a survey to start at the bottom of the river.

Bright Interiors, Daylight Add To Hospital's Comfort

Effect Of Colors Expected To Cheer Patients In $5,000,000 Clara Maass Memorial Soon To Open Patients To Be Received After Sunday, August 18

Bright interior colors and an abundance of daylight should do much to help cheer future patients at the new $5,000,000 Clara Maass Memorial Hospital on the Newark-Belleville boundary that is scheduled to receive patients after Sunday, August 18th.

At this 324-bed hospital in the Park, the traditional hospital white is practically nonexistent. Instead, bright colors have been used effectively and dramatically in painting the walls of corridors and of patients rooms. Among the colors are two shades of coral, cloud rose, blue, pink, yellow and brown. Furnishings are also done in bright shades and even the individual basins, for the use of patients, are of stainless steel.

A very imaginative touch has also been applied to the fourth floor Maternity Suite where the light nurseries are labeled "The Park." From window-lined corridors, latest arrivals in all of the out-patient treatments have been given. As a result of the Kenny treatment, many have been released to normal lives who otherwise would today be seriously handicapped. Not only Essex County is benefited.

Each of these complex units is a marvel of maneuverability. It can be adjusted from floor to give light exactly where light is required. Moreover, each lighting fixture can be equipped with a remote control to photograph the progress on an operation being performed on the patient.

Other equipment includes a new type anesthesia machine. This unit all of the equipment required by an anesthetist for use in an operation in which it might be necessary to switch quickly to one type of gas to another.

Famous Canadian Artist Recent Belleville Resident

It has been said of Mrs. Julia Schleicher's painting that it grows with "sincerity and elegance." These words can almost be taken out of their context and applied to Mrs. Schleicher herself.

She, in the surroundings of her very lovely home, makes the picture of what is invariably called "elegance." A charming hostess, a delightfully youthful personality, and a devoted artist, Mrs. Schleicher resides with her husband, a well known attorney and her mother, Mrs. Elsie Miller, at 105 Union Avenue.

She has been extremely successful in her chosen art profession, not only because of her extraordinary talent, but also because of her capacity to combine successfully the artistic temperament with the practicality of the business world.

Every time a painting is delivered to its destination Mrs. Schleicher feels a little dejected. "Sending a picture away is sending a child out into the world," she said.

What moved four active young boys to search for "ragged sailors" and construct a somber croix des fleurs for the soul of a hybrid dog, only the boys can tell.

The boys toiled under the hard, burning sun one hot, sultry day last week, Mrs. A. Manzella of 153 Smallwood Avenue reported, in search of flowers and a suitable spot in which to bury the dog's body.

Mrs. Manzella made her offering of red roses to the floral wreath. The boys had found the place. The roses were quickly laid just below Mrs. Manzella's Smallwood Avenue address. She first spotted them from her window.

of each. She finds children a delight, so fresh and unaffected. If she likes to covet, she can converse; if he is more quiet than talkative, Mrs. Schleicher gives him books on anatomy and good humor makes her a pleasure to know.

Beauty is an artist's life. To exist, the artist must surround himself with all the elegance and refinement he can. Mrs. Schleicher's home is filled not only with her beautifully framed paintings, but also with a collection of the finest china. The rooms were quickly cool in a soft blue, dainty and delicate, in keeping with their pretty and delicately feminine interiors.

Every strong and graceful figure gives evidence of Mrs. Schleicher's enthusiasm for figure skating. As a true Canadian, she has skated for years and has participated in many figure skating carnivals in Canada. It is something she never wishes to give up.

She has also given demonstrations in portrait technique. She feels that sound craftsmanship is all-important.

A number of one-man exhibitions and awards are the fruits of Mrs. Schleicher can truly say she is to her work. She works hard in her Montreal studio, and Mrs. Schleicher can truly say she is rarely, if ever, really disappointed in any of her paintings.

She regretted not having all her portraits there to show the Times-News reporter. Most of her many homes and clubs in Canada and the United States.

The "Granite Club" her skating and her friends at home are all missed by Mrs. Schleicher. "One is always happy where his home is," she said. For one from so far a place, coming to a new home is sometimes a strange experience. But Mrs. Schleicher is a unique and a welcome newcomer.

To The Editor

Growth Of Western Belleville

To The Editor, The Times-News: Westward, Ho! The rallying cry of America's great pioneers seems to be Belleville's order of the day, if persistent comment of those in "informed" circles is borne out.

The western portion of Belleville has experienced its greatest growth in the past decade. Most housing developments, gas and electric apartments, school additions and spacious, moderate stores with their own parking facilities have sprung up in the area. The influx of new neighbors has been considerable, thus shifting our community's population center to the western border.

This broad expansion with its attendant growth makes logical and natural the mention that one of our local banks contemplates an early establishment of a branch outlet at the intersection of Franklin Avenue and Joralemon Street in that newly established business center. It is indicated that this venture will spark a widespread shopping area with vast off-street parking facilities offered by the developers. Completion of this planned project will make it the Mecca for most of Belleville's shoppers as well as multitudes from surrounding towns.

Naturally, implementation of this progressive shopping center in the new "heart" of our population area would make serious roads upon many of our Washington Avenue merchants. Like Main Street many long years ago, yielded its claim as the town's "main drag" to Washington Avenue, so, too, will that thoroughfare perhaps be obliged to surrender much of its prestige to busy Franklin Avenue.

The prospects of this new and needed shopping facility "knocks for a cocked hat" the idea of the taverns putting up a parking lot at taxpayers' expense, on Washington Avenue. It would be ridiculous. Why sink $200,000 of the taxpayers' money in a wasteful folly?

Why the "spurt" to "put" a town parking lot at this late date? Is it because some investors recognizing the probable loss from a "shift" in the future business center of the town want to "get out" before they take a "hitchhike" and they "pressure" their political "friends" to take them "off the economic hook" while they can still get out from under with their skins? Belleville taxpayers don't want to share the needless burden of supporting a "white elephant" to make a few political favorites "smugly" happy. We don't want our need any "stagnant" Washington Avenue parking lot, municipally paid for in a "dying area."

Don't let "smart" politicians "kid you that lost taxes will result from vacant stores. Maybe realistic routes would solve that problem. Many store vacancies exist in town, where there is no parking problem. What's their

The Viewfinder

Question: Do you think that the Rutan Estates Development will benefit Belleville?

Nick Maunelle, 122 Garden Avenue, proprietor of the Town Cleaners, and local Civil Defense Director:

Eventually yes. It will bring more people into the town. As the town grows and progresses, everything will grow and progress along with it. Progress can't be explained for that situation? How about our merchants presenting attractive prices and inventories that match competitors of surrounding areas?

The Franklin Avenue sector, today, pays agricultural rate taxes in the farm section, the lowest possible figure. With its business development, it will be properly taxed for business with vast increases in rates which will materially benefit the town and more than compensate for any possible depreciation of Washington Avenue properties.

That's progress, brother, and we sure need some of it. Let's not allow the politicians to "kick" it around to serve their special "tastes."

stopped.

James R. Golden, 62 Tappan Avenue, Bus Driver, town critic:

No. The amount of tax rates which the municipality will receive from Rutan will be insufficient to compensate for increased costs occasioned by the providing for the essential services of fire protection, police protection, schools, etc.

Max Schwartz, 47 Carpenter Street, local Board of Education Attorney:

Belleville is a growing suburb and to eventually give way to a residential housing development. Vacant land is no good to a community unless it is developed into an area for common public use.

The building of one-family residential dwellings is probably the best use for which this land could be utilized. Any responsible building company erecting good homes in compliance with all legal requirements should be permitted to develop the area. I do not know whether the Rutan homes meet these qualifications.

J. Goldberg, 142 Holmes Street, Salesman:

I don't think it's going to benefit Belleville. Belleville would have to spend additional money to carry the added expense. I don't think the income from the development would be enough to cover as much as the Town would have to put out in terms of additional facilities, etc. Along with it, the tax derived would not help pay for that additional expense to the town.

I can't see why the town fathers went along with it. I don't understand the logic. Most businesses anticipate the money that will come from an expense. But I don't see where the Town of Belleville will get anything from it. There would be a limited amount of business from the development. There would have to be more fire department coverage, more police and other expenses.

We are already getting taxes from the area, the farm taxes, with no additional expense. The development has no profit from the town. It would be no help, economically speaking.

Many of the top varieties of Garden State peaches were developed at the N. J. Agricultural Experiment Station at Rutgers, the State University. Local residents can get these delicious peaches for their table fresh from the orchards because they are grown so close to nearby markets. With the exception of some earlier varieties, they are free-stone and suitable for canning and freezing. They are picked at a near-ripe stage and pre-cooled before shipping. Next time you are buying fruits and vegetables, ask your grocer: "Can they from Jersey?" Help yourself to the riches of the Garden State.

Not Our Problem Alone

Belleville's efforts to convince Essex County authorities to assume the burden of costs of a Third River flood control plan have been given the approbation of Nutley and Bloomfield. At a flood control conference last weekend, Belleville's request that the county acquire the open land along the river and preserve it for public enjoyment while widening and deepening the stream was laid before the county.

The Third River will, increasingly, become a serious flood menace. There was a time, as late as a decade ago, when the stream flowed through a series of swamps, lakes and dams for almost its entire length. Clark's pond, in Bloomfield, is an example.

In the past ten years, Clark's pond had been dried up, filled in and covered with homes. The Lobnitz dam was removed. All those natural barriers served to hold back flood waters. Now that the stream is little more than a canal, into which culverts dump the drainage of the many new housing developments, it has no barriers to slow down the flow after bad storms.

The waters of the drainage of Bloom-pour into Belleville. We get all of the flood waters—which can no longer be held back by swamps, ponds or dams. The cause is not ours, yet the menace of floods is ours.

The county owes us protection and the Third River should be a county flood control project. And while the county is at it, it should compel developers to respect the law which requires the stream to be kept at a minimum width of thirty feet. In many places, developers have dumped fill into the river banks and have cut its width to barely 15 feet. When the floods come, the narrowed riverbed will be unable to handle the flow of waters.

School Aid Would Have Been Costly

The Times-News is content that a partisan conflict in Congress killed the Federal School Aid Bill. We believe that public and parochial schools are traditionally and rightly a local responsibility. There is no more good reason why there should be federal aid for our schools than there should be for our police or fire departments, shade tree commission or municipal garbage collection.

Nutley has all the schools it needs; it built and paid for them itself. Only a very few communities in a very few states are so poor that they cannot build their own schools without federal aid. Most states already provide state aid — from taxes on cigarettes in New Jersey — and we have the sorry example of a diversion of that tax revenue to other uses.

Giving towns school aid would simply mean that Washington would have to raise more taxes, keep its share and dole out a portion as a deceptive and expensive political sop. It would take a very costly array of new functionaries to operate the handout. Every dollar of school aid would actually cost two dollars in tax money.

One Man's Opinion

France's Gold Pile is Fast Disappearing In What May Prove To Be The Bankrupting Pit Of Her War To Retain Algeria

By Ralph Eric Heinzen

How long can France go on, fighting a bloody and costly colonial war in North Africa and living on borrowed money while storing up a trade deficit at the rate of $145,000,000 a month?

The printing presses are roaring, day and night, as more banknotes are pouring out to pay the costs of the war in Algeria. Each banknote is, ostensibly, guaranteed by the gold bars in the vaults of the Bank of France — $850,000,000 worth of gold bullion—but the gold veneer of each banknote grows thinner as the presses turn and the inflation worsens.

During the past week, the French Government had to go to the National Assembly and ask for its approval to raise its borrowings from the Bank of France by 100 billion francs, about $285,000,000 at the official rate, to settle its foreign debts. That act alone mortgaged one-third of France's gold reserves. The Bank of France is nationalized but does not belong to the French government, enjoying a somewhat autonomous status.

France is paying now the political folly of having no national income tax. Taxes in France are collected on cigarettes, wine and liquor, shoes and stockings, gasoline and ice cream—on almost everything a Frenchman wears, drinks or eats, but not on his wages.

As an American domiciled in France for 25 years, I was taxed not on my salary but on the number of windows in my apartment. That was the only basis of taxation—if you had a better apartment than your fellow whose income obliged him to live in fewer rooms with fewer windows.

Indirect taxes alone are insufficient to raise the vast sum, in billions of francs, which the French Government needs to carry on the Algerian rebellion. France needs a trade surplus. Instead she is burdened with a trade deficit. Each month she must dip her gold reserves to pay her foreign creditors.

Trade Deficit Pyramids

Now armed with a vote of confidence from the National Assembly approving its financial plan, the French Government will try to check France's dangerous growing debt to the outside world.

First, the Government will use one-third of the nation's gold reserves to pay off part of the trade deficit. Then, it will seek foreign loans for the same purpose. It counts on borrowing up to $400,000,000 or $500,000,000 abroad.

These moves will represent merely an emergency holding operation. France cannot pour out money or gold at such a rate for long. The $285,000,000 gold credits from the Bank of France would last only two months, the anticipated foreign loans only three or four months, if the country's trade deficit continued at the present rate. It was $145,000,000 for May.

Solvency can be assured only by reducing the gap between exports and imports to a point where the deficit is manageable, as it was until last year.

Borrowing From Friends

Such a reduction will be the aim of the long-range program of the Government. It will seek to reduce consumption through at the last accounting in May. France has an embarrassingly huge deficit, amounting to $332,000,000 at the end of May.

Third, Paris may try to obtain loans of $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 in the United States.

If France asked the United States loan, it would be the first time since 1953 that she had sought American financial aid.

Her Government did so in that year with success because of the burden of the war in Indochina, which the United States considered worth financing.

Now, however, the situation is different. France's troubles in Algeria are local, not one of NATO's worries.

Washington may not want to invite the animosity of the Arab world or indirectly by underwriting France's military action to crush the freedom hopes of the Algerian Arabs—even though they are inspired, organized and paid for by Cairo.

Earlier, France received aid through bilateral accords with the United States, Canada and the International Monetary Fund, then through the Marshall Plan and then through "off-shore" purchases, contracts for defense supplies let in France but financed by the United States in the interest of North Atlantic Alliance countries.

It was when this aid began to dwindle that the foreign trade debt began to rise. In its statement to the Assembly, the Government said that United States aid in various forms had brought France $800,000,000 in 1955, nearly $400,000,000 in 1956 but only $170,000,000 in 1957.

Meanwhile, France's industrial expansion, at the rate of about 10 per cent a year, led to a rise in imports just when the dollars that had largely financed imports were ceasing to be available.

There is great reluctance in Paris to do anything to check the industrial expansion that has brought momentum in recent years. It is this expansion that may enable France in the long run to balance her foreign accounts by paying for imports mainly with increased exports.

Whatever doubts Washington may have about France's Algerian policy, it can hardly be indifferent to France's finances and economy just when the dollars that she needs to make possible the European Common Market and atomic pool that Washington

CD TO MOVE 50 TO 60 PATIENTS TO CLARA MAASS

Six Ambulances, Internes And Nurses From Neighboring Hospitals To Assist In Move

The 50 or 60 patients and the personnel of the old Clara Maass Memorial Hospital in Newark will be moved, in mass evacuation style, on Sunday, August 18, to the new hospital in Franklin Avenue, opposite Branch Brook Park, by the Newark Civil Defense forces.

In a letter to State CD chief Thomas S. Dignan, Wright said his civil defense organization will handle the entire project. The aging buildings at Newton and 12th Avenue will be emptied of all personnel and patients who will be delivered to a new structure at Franklin Avenue, at the Belleville-Newark City line, about four miles away.

Howard Wright, Newark CD director, is calling it the project "Operation Good Neighbor." It will begin at 9 A.M. and will take about four hours. The distance between the two hospitals is four miles. Other hospitals in the Newark Area are providing internes and nurses to accompany each ambulance in the move. Wright said six CD ambulances will be used on a rotating basis with two on the road at all times, in addition to squads of other CD emergency vehicles.

Explorer Scouts, trained in casualty removal for civil defense, will serve as litter bearers. Wright has issued orders for the Newark CD organization to be activated. He plans to have CD police at each intersection to assure uninterrupted passage of the emergency vehicles. Mobile communications units will be stationed at several points along the course and a mobile canteen will serve refreshments to CD workers.

"Operation Good Neighbor," Wright commented, "will attempt to prove that a hospital patients can be moved out of danger when enemy attack or natural disaster threatens our communities. Although most hospitals have such plans, few have been tested."

has commended. Britain long had an adverse trade balance without an adverse balance of payments because her income from foreign investments, insurance and shipping brought in foreign exchange and was equivalent to an export. France today has no comparable income from abroad to offset her large adverse trade balance.

Letters To The Editor

"Dragstrip" Setup To The Editor, The Times-News: I was glad to see the editorial in Friday, July 26, Belleville Times, entitled "The New Jersey Cars Have Been Neglected," signed by "B. H."

Clubs have been and are being formed throughout the country to organize those who are interested in "Cautions," "Hot-Rods" and "Dragsters." One of the main purposes of these clubs is to uphold safe and good driving on the road. If at any time, a club member receives a ticket for any unsafe driving practice, he is immediately suspended from the club.

As President of "The Draggin' Dragons", one of the Clubs in Belleville, have approached some of these boys who have spent much of their time, money, and knowledge to build their cars into something special that will not only be powerful and fast, but will also be safe. They may really be interested in the Club, but the temptation to try their cars out for acceleration, or "Drag", as it is commonly called, is too great for them; and as it is too far to the nearest "Strip", i.e. Westhampton, Long Island or Park or Lancaster, Pa., they therefore take to the roads. In so doing, they cannot abide by our Club's rules and cannot belong.

I thoroughly agree with "B.H.", that if a "Dragstrip" were set up in this area where we could compete safely and legally, there would be much less of this running wild on the streets, thereby reducing the complaints and the trouble by a great margin.

This has been proven in several different locations, for example: Glen Cove, Long Island, where "Dragging" on the roads became noticeably less after the Police blocked off one street twice a month for the sole purpose of letting these boys try out their cars. The results were so good that a larger "Strip" was built in Westhampton, Long Island.

Couldn't the same idea be used right here in Belleville? The "Draggin' Dragons" would do all possible to help and am sure that the other clubs would do the same.

A "Dragstrip" is very much needed, and in time, we hope the necessity will be seen and something done about it.

Harry R. Bradley, President of "The Draggin' Dragons."

Authorized Warning About Swimming In Passaic River

Although No Law Prevents Swimming He Tells Of Many Dangers That Are Present Such As Pollution, Ship Traffic And No Protection

Belleville Police Officials announced that although there is no law on the books forbidding swimming in the slimy Passaic River, all members of the police department have been instructed to discourage youths from using the "mudhole."

"The Passaic River has improved in purity in the last few years but don't let that lead you into thinking that it is safe for swimming," said Chief Rummel of Nutley.

"Hazards to swimming," Chief Rummel stated, "included the fact that the river carries a great amount of navigation. Additionally, he noted there is no protection for swimmers, there are deep holes in places and an especially deep channel, tides and strong sub-currents flowing in both directions."

With respect to pollution, the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission has done much to clean up the stream, but nothing can be done by the commission about the wastes brought in by the tides, a Commission spokesman commented.

The water of New York Harbor has a very high bacteria count, the spokesman said, since it absorbs the discharge from many sewage plants and some of these finds its way into Newark Bay and up the Passaic River through the action of the tides.

The bacteria count is a standard measure, although how much bacteria constitutes a menace is a controversial question.

A recent test of Passaic River water revealed that the bacteria count varied from an MPN high of 400 per milliliter at the Pennsylvania Railroad Bridge at Newark to zero at East Paterson. A milliliter is one cubic centimeter. MPN means most probable number and is a statistical average arrived through a series of dilution tests starting with one milliliter of the sample water in a culture. In each step of the test, the dilution is increased 10 times until a dilution of 1,000,000 is reached.

The bacteria which are being investigated are the colon bacilli, an intestinal species. The test requirements conditions only at a particular time and place. Results would vary from day to day and place to place. Just how many bacteria render a stream dangerous to a swimmer vary with the authorities. Some want a bacteria count of 100, a condition that is rarely found in chlorinated water. Even rain water running across the ground into a pure stream will often pick up bacteria.

The waters around Caney Island have at times yielded a bacteria count as high as 1,000 milliliter, although apparently no epidemic diseases resulted. Passaic water stood up well under a test for turbidity, or "muddiness." In such a test, the chemist looks for silts, the fine particles from silicate rocks that are suspended in the water. The Passaic yielded 10 high of 30 parts of silica per million of water, which is described as "pretty good."

"CHIPPY" OWENS TO BE FREED

Killer Of Local Bus Driver Paroled Yesterday By Board

Genevieve "Chippy" Owens, one of a pair of Newark women who have served 10 years for murder and robbery committed when they were teen-agers, will be freed soon, the State Parole Board announced recently.

Miss Owens, now 37, became a model prisoner, according to the Board. She plans to get a job as a beautician, a trade she learned during her stay at Clinton Reformatory. After she is paroled, she will live with her mother and stepfather in Newark.

Miss Owens combined with Mrs. Ethel "Bunny" Sohl in the holdup-murder of bus driver, William Barbas, in Belleville, in 1937. Each was sentenced to life imprisonment for the killing. They were also given 10 to 12 year sentences for a $17 holdup at a Lyndhurst gasoline station.

The two escaped from the reformatory in 1943 but were recaptured. After that Miss Owens turned into a model prisoner. She volunteered as a human guinea pig for jaundice experiments conducted by the University of Pennsylvania and also earned her beautician's license.

Miss Edna Mahan, superintendent of the reformatory, said Miss Owens "worked like a slave" and she was paroled on the murder sentence in 1953 and will be released later this month after serving four years of the robbery term. Mrs. Sohl was paroled on the murder sentence earlier this year and must still serve almost four years before becoming eligible for freedom.
