St. Peter's R. C. Church was the setting Saturday afternoon, Oct. 12, for the wedding of Miss Louise Marie Pesci, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Pesci, of 60 Harrison Ave., and Joseph Russo, son of Anthony Russo, of 14 Belmont Ave., and the late Mrs. Russo. The Rev. Albert Wickens performed the double-ring ceremony.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a princess-style gown of Skinner satin with chantilly lace over it. The gown came to a V-neck at the neckline and was trimmed with seed pearls. A cathedral train was draped from the waistline. Her three-tiered, finger-length veil was attached to a pearl crown. She carried a white orchid and two dozen stephanotis on a white prayer book.

Mrs. Russo's only attendant was Miss Lucy Russo, of Bloomfield, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a custom-made forest green crystal-embellished dress with a duster and matching accessories. She carried a slim, colored orchid on a clutch bag.

Daniel Russo of Newark was best man. He wore a tuxedo. The bride's bridesmaids were Bruno Mancuso of Newark and Angelo Meese of Fort L. J. The groom's best man was Bruno Mancuso of Newark and Angelo Meese of Fort L. J. The bride's bridesmaids were Bruno Mancuso of Newark and Angelo Meese of Fort L. J. The groom's best man was Bruno Mancuso of Newark and Angelo Meese of Fort L. J.

The bride's brother, Joseph Pesci, and his orchestra, "The Dovesbats," furnished music at the reception.

The bride is a graduate of Belleville High School and is employed at Tung-Sol Electric Co., Newark. Mr. Russo is employed in the U. S. Army, part of the time in Korea.

The young couple will make their home at 122 N. 16th St., Bloomfield, after their return from the honeymoon in Miami Beach, Fla.

The bride's father is well-known in the community as a leader in the Republican Party and an officer in the George Washington Association.

Teachers Elect Officers; Scholarship Winners Told

Michael Rosamilla, history teacher in the high school, was elected president of the Belleville Teachers Association at a recent meeting of the board of governors. The organization met in the school auditorium. Joseph Groch, School Four, was re-elected vice-president; Eleanor W. Arthur, School Eight, re-elected secretary; and Helen O'Brien, School Three, re-elected treasurer.

The Belleville Teachers Association scholarship was awarded to Joan Smith of the 1957 high school graduating class. She is attending Montclair State Teachers College.

Francis Machie, a Sophomore at Newark State Teachers College, was awarded a second scholarship.

Three Known Authors To Speak Oct. 28 At Club Lunch

Three outstanding authors will be guest speakers at the annual book and author luncheon of the afternoon membership department of the Woman's Club Monday, Oct. 28, at 12 o'clock, at the Woman's Club, 51 Rossmore Place.

Agnes Sligh Turnbull, Mrs. Lillian Watson Applegate and Dr. Cynthia Westcott will be the guests.

Mrs. Turnbull is the author of "The Bishop's Mantle," "The Gown of Glory" and "The Golden Journey." Her newest book for children, "Jed-the-Shepherd's Dog," was published two weeks ago.

Dr. Westcott is an authority of long-wide fame on gardening and her many publications are read by gardeners throughout the country. Her latest book, just published, is "Plant Doctoring is Fun."

Mrs. Applegate is well-known throughout the country for her books of poetry. She is especially known in Essex County for her home in West Orange. She interrupted a promising concert career to marry Stanley Applegate. They have four children and 14 grandchildren.

Mrs. Applegate has been an ardent civic and church worker for a number of years, having served in many capacities in numerous civic projects in West Orange and Montclair as well as in national organizations.

Mrs. Applegate has published two books of poetry, "Homespun" and "The Sampler," both of which won first prizes in creative writing in the Montclair hobby show.

Mrs. Thomas G. Graves, Fine Arts chairman of the Woman's Club, invites to the luncheon all members of the Women's Clubs as well as any other women of Belleville who are interested in hearing these three speakers. Owing to the limited seating capacity, reservations must be made as early as possible with Mrs. Harvey R. Thompson, ticket chairman, at PL 9-2077.

Try small pieces of raw cauliflower in your mixed vegetable salad. Or include them on the roast turkey.

No Time For Procrastinating

Despite a little hesitancy to attend "just another meeting", Bloomfield town authorities have decided to sit down with Nutley and Belleville, Irvington and East Orange municipal officials, State Senator Donald C. Fox, County Engineer Curtis Colwell, representatives of State Highway Commissioner Dwight Palmer and Mrs. Kathryn White and her N. J. Highway Authority, next Thursday, October 24, and try to find a positive solution to the dispute over the Essex Plaza tollgate on the Garden State Parkway.

It is now obvious that if the Authority is willing to compromise, a solution of the traffic congestion at Bloomfield Avenue and the correction of the Authority's illegal status in collecting tolls at Belleville Avenue is possible. If, however, the Authority is going to try to split words down the middle and look only for another way to delay a decision, then it will, certainly, face punitive legislative action in Trenton during the coming session.

It is now certain that, next Thursday, at Senator Fox's behest, Mrs. White, her engineers, her fast-talking but slow-moving legal counselors and her board members, will meet with representatives of the five towns on the spot, at Bloomfield Avenue and at Hoover Avenue. The Authority group will be shown the cheap way out of its dilemma — the opening of a free wicket in the Essex Plaza tollgate to allow the exit of northbound motorists from the illegal tolltrap at Belleville Avenue by the Hoover Avenue ramp.

In Senator Fox's presence, it will be hard for Mrs. White to delay a decision any longer. The Authority has had, since an earlier discussion in Bloomfield last July, plenty of time to reach a decision. Even an Authority engineer cannot now find a new excuse not to act. The stock-in-trade rebuttal of Authority legal counsel that it cannot let its bondholders down can no longer serve to prevent an agreement on Nutley's Hoover Avenue proposal.

Since the collection of tolls at the Essex Plaza tollgate from northbound motorists caught in a toll trap is illegal, no lawyer can argue successfully that by giving up those illegal tolls the Authority is violating its agreement with its bondholders. As it is, the poor bondholders can be assured of cream in their coffee for some time to come by the Parkway's annual report showing a 12-month revenue of $14,596,512, for the year ending September 30, compared with last year's income of $12,284,141.

The Act of the Legislature which created the Authority and authorized the construction of the Parkway, provided for a toll-free section in Essex County from Springfield Avenue, in Irvington, to and including Belleville Avenue, in Bloomfield. In building its road, however, the Authority built no exit at Belleville Avenue. It is not conforming to the Act and is not allowing the toll-free use of the highway to Belleville Avenue. By trapping motorists at a tollgate between Belleville Avenue and the Hoover Avenue ramp, the Authority is guilty of highway robbery — quite an illegal thing.

In next week's "on-the-spot" survey and conference, the Authority has a chance to right itself with the law and to correct a serious traffic situation. It must not procrastinate this time. R.E.H.

Smith Should Return To The Senate

If for no other reason, Senator H. Alexander Smith should be a candidate to succeed himself in the 1958 Senatorial election to retain for New Jersey the prestige which his seniority through years of service have won for him as ranking Republican on the Labor Committee and second ranking Republican on the all-powerful Foreign Relations Committee. Now 77 years old, Senator Smith has sat continuously in the Senate since December 7, 1944.

It is our opinion that Senator Smith deserves, on the basis of his true accomplishments in the Senate, to be re-elected. His experience, particularly in the field of foreign affairs, represents an investment of many years. There is none in the Senate more qualified than New Jersey's senior senator to help shape our nation's foreign policy. In an era as troubled as ours today, it would be an inexcusable waste to sacrifice such experience as his on the altar of political expediency.

Congressman Robert W. Keane, of the 12th District, has done everything but slug Senator Smith to get him to retire at the end of this term. Yet the record of Rep. Keane is nothing out of the ordinary; he runs a sorry second to Senator Smith in a comparison of experience and ability.

New Jersey already has an excellent junior Senator in Clifford Case. His excellent fight for civil rights legislation won him considerable prestige, but his lack of seniority which, by the tradition of our political system, comes with grey hair and years of service has hamstringing his political action. It will take many years before he reaches the chairs of power in such vital committees as Labor and Foreign Relations.

Congratulations On A Good Job

The Junior Woman's Club deserves congratulations for initiating a movement to create a Child Guidance Clinic for Belleville, Nutley, Bloomfield and Glen Ridge. It deserves, too, complete co-operation.

The success of its first step in this direction — the meeting held in Belleville last week — augurs well for speedy action and full realization of its hopes.

No one will question the assertion made at the session that there is a real need for a clinic of this type in the towns mentioned, nor will anyone deny the value of the work such an agency can do towards making, to use the words of the principal speaker at last week's gathering, useful and healthy citizens of mentally handicapped children and combating potential delinquency.

The interest in the movement shown by the representatives of government and civic-minded organizations in attendance gives assurance of the necessary assistance from these groups.

We are confident that if the sponsoring club will follow up with diligence the good start it has made, its objective will be reached in the very near future.

We Hope The Scare Helps

One phase of all the hub-bub over Russia's Sputnik intrigues us as much, if not more than, any other.

What interests us beyond the propaganda value of the "flying Red" to the Soviet oligarchy or the fact that the United States may have been caught napping (in our pipe this is a moot point) is the effect of the proof of Russia's scientific and military advancement on the civilian defense effort in this country.

To anyone familiar with C. D. activities, the apathetic, complacent attitude of the American people toward civilian defense is maddening.

Plans by municipal, county and state civilian defense workers for years have been ignored, have fallen on deaf ears, have been shrugged off as unnecessary.

Will the shock of learning that, apparently, Russia can send a missile thundering right into our dining rooms have the effect of jarring the people here to a realization of the importance of preparedness through civilian defense? We certainly hope so.

With a state-wide public-participation alert test scheduled for Friday, Oct. 25, today would be an excellent time for you to sign up for warden duty or some other type of service within the framework of civilian defense.

There is no limit to the number of men and women needed by your municipal C. D. organization. You should look upon giving time and effort to the C. D. as part of the American way of life — a method of being of service to your community, your country and your family.

Accident PREVENTION Important, Too

Belleville's police chief, as quoted in this paper two weeks ago, has pointed out an important function of a police department that may not be generally recognized. Chief George R. Spatz has made it clear that he is just as much interested in PREVENTING accidents as he is in having to deal with them after they occur.

The chief was concerned, in the interview reported, about the consequences of bicycle riding on town streets by children. Causing him special worry was bike riding when streets are made slippery by rain, oil or other causes.

There is little the police can do. They cannot control bicycle riding as they do the operation of motor vehicles. Chief Spatz realizes this. He believes, and we agree with him, that success in this field can be achieved only with the assistance of the home.

Parents should realize the position in which the police find themselves. They know accidents can happen because they already have happened, but their hands are tied. The chief's appeal to those young folk old enough to understand should be heeded. And his appeal to mothers and fathers also should be heeded. He asks that parents caution their youngsters about the hazards inherent in bike riding and to teach them to exercise the utmost care while on their wheels.

We add our hope that parents will accept their responsibility and co-operate fully with the police.

One Man's Opinion

Implications Of Soviet Capabilities In First Contest Of Space Should Orient Our Diplomacy Towards Some Positive Control Of Armaments

By Ralph Eric Heinzen

Leave us have no doubts. The Russians have crossed the frontier of space before us. That they have been able to set a satellite on course in its orbit high in the heavens is secondary in importance. Over-shadowing that tremendous accomplishment is the fact that the Russians have built rockets which carried the satellite almost 600 miles into the atmosphere. Such rockets with atomic warheads, are capable of covering intercontinental distances. We must realize that we are now within range of Russia's ballistic missiles and that the Russians have us within their sights.

There is no reason why we should be frightened into diplomatic action which we could, someday, regret. Britain has already served notice upon us that she would object to us sitting down with the Russians for two-power negotiations. But we must miss no opportunity to try and establish curbs upon all missiles, all armaments, since we find ourselves suddenly in the era of actual space-flight.

It may be necessary, too, to correct a lot of the thinking which convinced us that the Russians were a backward people, that they sat down when they danced and that they learned our atomic secrets only because they had better spies than we did.

In Russian Character
The birth of "Sputnik", the Soviet "red moon" which now circles the earth every 96.2 minutes, proves Soviet capabilities in ballistic and related military fields.

A handful of brutal revolutionaries are momentarily running a people whom we need only weigh on the record of their imaginative writers and composers of the pre-revolution years to appreciate that within themselves the Russian people have an enormous capacity.

But they are not orthodox by Western standards and our greatest error will be to estimate them on an orthodox basis.

Among my memories as United Press war correspondent during World War II are two which picture the Russians in a light too seldom realized by most Americans.

Under Water Bridge
A German Army was safely dug in for the winter in the bend of a great river in Russia, separating them from the Red Army-controlled area. One morning they were awakened by shouts and ran out to see a frightening impossibility.

Russian tanks were crossing the river with their tracks just awash on it on a slightly-flooded highway. Before they knew it the Germans had been overrun and given a terrible beating.

It was no miracle. The Red Army technicians, working only during the nights, had secretly built a great bridge just under the surface of the river, quite unseeable by daylight.

It was much. It was crazy. It just is not the sort of thing you do militarily. But they had done it.

win the war. Again it was inconceivable from our point of view, but perfectly natural for the Russians.

No Inter-Sector Feud

In this "One Man's Opinion", there are four factors which account for Moscow's success in launching the first celestial satellite. In addition to the fact that Soviet Russia was spared the unfortunate rivalry of the three military services which, without a doubt, hampered research and production in this country.

The four factors which worked in Russia's favor are: The freeing of Soviet thinking in the natural science field; a generally optimistic approach; concentration of the program in the hands of one all-purposed agency; steeply increased financial allocations.

For years the Kremlin has given rocket and nuclear research the kind of high priority which in peacetime only a totalitarian one-party state can give.

Question Of Organization

This priority was not merely one of money, machinery, and talent. It was first of all one of thinking, which in turn was connected with the following developments:

1. The Soviet world picture has become brighter and freer since the shackles of dogma broke after Stalin's passing.

2. Soviet rocket and nuclear research is greatly aided by the fact that natural science, technology, and emphasis on construction occupy an unusually large place in the thinking of the younger generation.

Rolling Out The Barrel

Another example in my memory way that of solving gasoline supplies for the Russian tanks far from their bases in the vast stretches of country over which they were pushing the Germans back. They had poor roads, no rail lines, and no tank truck fleet to meet the enormous demands.

So they filled thousands of barrels with gasoline and started rolling them along the ground — and not by the soldiers who were needed for the fighting! The people of village number one would roll the drums during the night to the next village and wearily walk back home.

The people of village number two the next night would roll them to village number three. And so it went night after night until the fast moving front was reached and then kept up with.

This was a crude pipeline operation so that the Russian tanks had the fuel they needed to

Some Pertinent Questions

FIVE days filled with explanations have passed since this newspaper disclosed that Essex County's Clean Government Assembly delegation has abdicated its legislative prerogatives at Trenton.

When these 12 Assembly members go to Trenton Thursday they presumably go to represent the people of Essex County who elected them. But let's see. Does the delegation in fact represent Essex or has that function been surrendered to Assemblyman Cundari, its leader, and Louis Auerbacher Jr., its well-paid baby sitter?

Here is an excerpt from the news columns of The News which gives us a clue as to the men who really represent the county at Trenton.

"At the Jan. 2 meeting Cundari informed the delegation that no bill was to be introduced (in the Legislature) by an Essex lawmaker unless it first had been reviewed by Auerbacher and then initiated by the leader, Cundari."

Mr. Auerbacher is classified as the delegation's secretary. But don't let this lowly status fool you. He is a man of many talents and among them is his ability to draw down $14,500 a year from the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission for a part-time job as counsel.

Now it isn't particularly important that Mr. Auerbacher has thus made a good thing of political baby sitting, nor that assemblymen submit meekly to this use of state funds.

What is important is that members of the Legislature — any member — should so supinely accept political dictation.

Clean Government's leadership ought to take a critical look at its position and relationships. Otherwise Essex voters could do it for them next November when a new state and county ticket is to be elected.

3. Communist peace propaganda at home, its vision of a world community dedicated to peace, and the tangible evidence of swift technical progress in an on-again-off-again war-devastated country, account for what we must call a thoroughly positive feeling of the future.

4. Fanciful fantasies of cosmic domination and wholesale destruction through space missiles, which frequently have colored the popular picture of rocket research in the West, are wholly absent from Soviet writings.

Kremlin's Pretense

Whatever secret plans the men in the Kremlin may have, even the intercontinental ballistic missile has been explained largely with a view to its use for possible transportation of passengers and freight and as a prototype of future cosmic space ships.

This thoroughly positive and optimistic orientation of Soviet thinking is believed to account largely for the high morale of Soviet physicists about which Dr. Robert R. Wilson, chairman of the department of physics of Cornell University, told the annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers last December.

The material rewards and the general recognition which assure Soviet natural scientists the highest place in society also have something to do with it.

The political leaders always have given utmost importance to rocket and nuclear developments, which are firmly in the hands of the party. There has not been the slightest evidence of wavering or difference of opinion in this respect.

There has been no parallel in Moscow to the quarrelling and rivalry of our Army, Navy and Air Force.

According to the most experienced observers, the work of the state agencies in the field of ballistic missiles is purely executive and even ancillary, including that of the technical services of the Defense Department, which even in pre-revolutionary Russia conducted high-level scholarly research into problems connected with artillery and magnetic mines.

The actual direction lies with the party Presidium, whose liaison officer with the "technical members" of the party's central committee is Mikhail G. Pervukhin.

These "technologist members" of the party's central organ all hold high executive posts in industrial ministries' state committees or in agencies now under Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, Soviet Defense Minister, the man who really put "Sputnik" on its celestial orbit.

RELIGIOUS GROUP PETITIONS AGAINST RESTRICTIVE BAN

Jehovah's Witnesses of the Belleville Bible study group met Thursday, Sept. 26, to approve a petition to the Dominican Republic to lift its ban of last July 25 restricting the religious activity of the movement there.

According to L. J. Goldring, Belleville Bible study conductor, the lengthy petition cited specific names and places of police brutality that were personally authenticated by eight of the ten American missionaries reported Aug. 3 from the Dominican Republic. The missionaries related their experiences at a regional assembly in Baltimore, where the petition was originally adopted Aug. 24 by the 35,001 of Jehovah's Witnesses in attendance.

Reporting on the atrocities described in the petition, Mr. Goldring said the Dominican Republic whole families were taken to prison and the male members of the families were beaten senseless before their own wives and children. Other male Witnesses were killed and hit with rifle bullets until they were bleeding and all exhausted. Some were beaten and left unconscious on the ground in the pain of the prison with blood running out of their ears, nose and mouth.

Christian people all over the world, Mr. Goldring said, "We believe freedom-loving people should be informed of it and have published the entire statement of facts with the petition in the Oct. 1 issue of our official magazine, 'The Watchtower,' which is published in 46 languages. At our meeting we determined to try to reach every home in Belleville with this account."

John W. Maynard Dies; Was Belleville Newspaperman

John W. Maynard, editorial writer on the Newark News at one time managing editor of that paper, who started his newspaper career on the former Belleville Sun, died Thursday, Sept. 26, in Orange Memorial Hospital. Had he lived until Nov. 14, he would have been 80 years old.

A native of Belleville, the late Mr. Maynard held several writing and executive positions on the Newark paper, which he joined in 1894, before becoming its managing editor. He left the newspaper field for a time but returned to the News in the 1920s and remained there until his death.

The son of the late Dr. Edward Maynard and a Mrs. Maynard, the late Mr. Maynard was born Nov. 14, 1877, in Belleville, where he had lived during his early years. Later he had made his home at 184 Madison Avenue, Montclair, moving from there when his wife died in 1950. At the time of his death he was at the Marlboro Inn, Montclair.

Surviving the late Mr. Maynard are a daughter, Miss Dorothy S. Maynard, a member of the staff of D'n'a Hall, Welesley, Mass., and a sister, Mrs. George C. Loss of Nutley.

Services were held Sept. 30 at St. John's Episcopal Church, Montclair.

Letters To The Editor

LAUDS JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB FOR CHILD GUIDANCE PROJECT

Editor, The Times-News:

The Junior Women's Club of Belleville should be commended for taking steps leading to the formation of a Child Guidance Center. Mrs. George Kimmeler, chairman of the community achievement project, and her committee are working very hard to make this project become a reality and deserve our strongest support.

The establishment of a Child Guidance Center in this area would not have to be a difficult task if more people were aware of the problem. The importance of the Center lies in the fact that not only do we have a civic responsibility in providing treatment for emotionally-disturbed children in Belleville, but also a moral obligation to help those unfortunate, confused children and their families.

There is on record already a case of a boy, who, while living in Belleville, was exhibiting signs of emotional instability but whose family could not afford private psychiatric treatment. After moving out of Belleville, this boy ultimately revealed his troubled state of mind by murdering a 15-year-old girl. There is no doubt that had this boy received competent psychiatric help, this tragedy would have been avoided.

Family Service and Child Welfare of Belleville, although hampered by lack of funds, has managed to do a wonderful job in community service, but it could not and should not have to shoulder the responsibility of providing a child guidance program. Together, the Family Service and a Child Guidance Center set-up under the direction of the Mental Health Association, could do wonders in making Belleville a safe, happy and productive community in which to live.

Let's help them all we can whenever we can.

PROGRAM AND PLATFORM OF TAX COUNCIL EXPLAINED

I often wonder how the citizens of Belleville would feel if they really had good, clean, economical government. From where it sits, it looks as if most of them liked high taxes, liked being ruled without representation, liked government where they had no say as to what went on in Town Hall.

How many of our citizens know or care where their tax dollar goes or how it is spent? How many of our citizens know or care whether they are getting the best or worst in local government? There is an old saying: "The public likes to be fooled." As far as the majority of our citizens are concerned, that saying should be changed to read: "The Belleville public doesn't care how much it is fooled."

I have been talking about the majority. There is a minority that does care and wants to do something about it. There is a minority that sincerely does want to protect their families, their homes and their hard-earned dollars. That minority, about 600 heads of families representing, roughly, 1,500 votes, does care. They are members of the Citizens Tax Council of Belleville, and more voters are becoming members every day.

The Citizens Tax Council of Belleville did its utmost this year to get the budget cut down and thereby reduce taxes. They had meetings with all five Commissioners at different times. After careful analysis they pointed out where better than $150,000 could have been cut from the budget without reducing or impairing the good and worthwhile functions now being performed by Town Hall. But our worst work for lobbying. The Commissioners did not want to be shown how they could improve the lot of our citizens whom they are supposed to represent.

These meetings drove home to the Council membership one very important truth. We must have a change in our form of government before we can have a town we can enjoy and be proud of. The Citizens Tax Council, therefore, has gone on record as approving a Council-Manager form of government for Belleville and has pledged itself to fight for it with every legal means at its command.

We believe that this is the only way that our citizens can get the clean, economical and representative government that lies down in our hearts. We all want. Under the Council-Manager set-up, a councilman would be elected every two years from each district. Being from his own district, he would be truly representative of that district and would fight for the things that district needed.

The Council has also pledged itself to fight for other improvements. It stands for, among other things, a reduction in taxes, better educational facilities without expenditure of huge sums, better public safety facilities, more adequate recreational facilities and for representation at all civic, county, state and federal meetings where legislation might affect our town.

And, most important, the Council has pledged itself to fight for the election of five candidates at the next Commission election who may seek our support, pass OTR right requirements and who will pledge themselves, without reservation, to give their whole-hearted support to our program.

The man who, with his usual pen and drive, is greatly responsible for the Council's growth is the president of the Citizens Tax Council, Louis Donato, 261 Greylock Parkway.

Citizens of Belleville: wake up now before it is too late. Join the Citizens Tax Council. Help improve the lot of yourself, your friends and your neighbors. We need your support. Membership dues for 1958 are $1 per family.

HITS AT COUNTY ACTIVITY IN LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT

Editor, The Times-News:

The quality of law enforcement often reflects the administrative capacity and bent of the department director. Sloven, indifferent enforcement may be expected from loose, casual remoteness at the top level. Men entrusted with the duty of public safety have an uneasy, almost intuitive, capacity for knowing what is expected of them, and what they can get away with. The "push-over" boss may be well liked by his charges who welcome laissez-faire treatment, but it does not provide the answer to efficient, qualitative law enforcement.

An unhealthy situation pervades any community which finds itself in the throes of having the major serious arrests for flagrant crime within its borders performed by county law agencies, rather than the local constabulary. It leads to suspicions of a breakdown in enforcement at the local level.

Crime of long duration cannot long flourish in an environment subjected to efficient law enforcement.

There is no area of crime curbing in which local enforcement cannot function with the same effectiveness as do the county authorities, if the will to operate diligently is present. Constant and vigilant alertness, combined with the determination to stamp out corruption, seems to be most essential ingredient needed.

Questions may well be raised regarding the need, within the past year, of the county's law forces moving into Belleville on four occasions to stage raids on gambling joints and a brothel. Regardless of the circumstances, considerable embarrassment results from the black-eyes. Rigid and stern police policy from the director's office down, seemingly, could accomplish much in preventing such unenviable incidents.

Vice-lords, gambling titans and commercial prostitution have no place in our community. A hush-hush approach in correcting the morals such corrosive crime and depravity may have made, must give way to prompt, firm and decisive action to permanently extirpate such corruption. The people have the right to demand that a firm, resolute and forcible hand be exerted at the helm to "rub out" the conditions which permitted the evils recently found besetting our community.

The stage is set for action. Commissioner Sullivan, Public Safety Director, must not be found waiting in overrunning the past laxities which, apparently, paved the way for the sad and unspeakable conditions which abash self-respecting people.

The pride of our community will maintain nothing short of a vigilance which insures no recurrence of unfortunate law enforcement debacles such as those we have been subjected to during the past several months.

PROGRAM AND PLATFORM OF TAX COUNCIL EXPLAINED

I often wonder how the citizens of Belleville would feel if they really had good, clean, economical government. From where it sits, it looks as if most of them liked high taxes, liked being ruled without representation, liked government where they had no say as to what went on in Town Hall.

How many of our citizens know or care where their tax dollar goes or how it is spent? How many of our citizens know or care whether they are getting the best or worst in local government? There is an old saying: "The public likes to be fooled." As far as the majority of our citizens are concerned, that saying should be changed to read: "The Belleville public doesn't care how much it is fooled."

I have been talking about the majority. There is a minority that does care and wants to do something about it. There is a minority that sincerely does want to protect their families, their homes and their hard-earned dollars. That minority, about 600 heads of families representing, roughly, 1,500 votes, does care. They are members of the Citizens Tax Council of Belleville, and more voters are becoming members every day.

The Citizens Tax Council of Belleville did its utmost this year to get the budget cut down and thereby reduce taxes. They had meetings with all five Commissioners at different times. After careful analysis they pointed out where better than $150,000 could have been cut from the budget without reducing or impairing the good and worthwhile functions now being performed by Town Hall. But our worst work for lobbying. The Commissioners did not want to be shown how they could improve the lot of our citizens whom they are supposed to represent.

These meetings drove home to the Council membership one very important truth. We must have a change in our form of government before we can have a town we can enjoy and be proud of. The Citizens Tax Council, therefore, has gone on record as approving a Council-Manager form of government for Belleville and has pledged itself to fight for it with every legal means at its command.

We believe that this is the only way that our citizens can get the clean, economical and representative government that lies down in our hearts. We all want. Under the Council-Manager set-up, a councilman would be elected every two years from each district. Being from his own district, he would be truly representative of that district and would fight for the things that district needed.

The Council has also pledged itself to fight for other improvements. It stands for, among other things, a reduction in taxes, better educational facilities without expenditure of huge sums, better public safety facilities, more adequate recreational facilities and for representation at all civic, county, state and federal meetings where legislation might affect our town.

And, most important, the Council has pledged itself to fight for the election of five candidates at the next Commission election who may seek our support, pass OTR right requirements and who will pledge themselves, without reservation, to give their whole-hearted support to our program.

The man who, with his usual pen and drive, is greatly responsible for the Council's growth is the president of the Citizens Tax Council, Louis Donato, 261 Greylock Parkway.

HITS AT COUNTY ACTIVITY IN LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT

Editor, The Times-News:

The quality of law enforcement often reflects the administrative capacity and bent of the department director. Sloven, indifferent enforcement may be expected from loose, casual remoteness at the top level. Men entrusted with the duty of public safety have an uneasy, almost intuitive, capacity for knowing what is expected of them, and what they can get away with. The "push-over" boss may be well liked by his charges who welcome laissez-faire treatment, but it does not provide the answer to efficient, qualitative law enforcement.

An unhealthy situation pervades any community which finds itself in the throes of having the major serious arrests for flagrant crime within its borders performed by county law agencies, rather than the local constabulary. It leads to suspicions of a breakdown in enforcement at the local level.

Crime of long duration cannot long flourish in an environment subjected to efficient law enforcement.

There is no area of crime curbing in which local enforcement cannot function with the same effectiveness as do the county authorities, if the will to operate diligently is present. Constant and vigilant alertness, combined with the determination to stamp out corruption, seems to be most essential ingredient needed.

Questions may well be raised regarding the need, within the past year, of the county's law forces moving into Belleville on four occasions to stage raids on gambling joints and a brothel. Regardless of the circumstances, considerable embarrassment results from the black-eyes. Rigid and stern police policy from the director's office down, seemingly, could accomplish much in preventing such unenviable incidents.

Vice-lords, gambling titans and commercial prostitution have no place in our community. A hush-hush approach in correcting the morals such corrosive crime and depravity may have made, must give way to prompt, firm and decisive action to permanently extirpate such corruption. The people have the right to demand that a firm, resolute and forcible hand be exerted at the helm to "rub out" the conditions which permitted the evils recently found besetting our community.

The stage is set for action. Commissioner Sullivan, Public Safety Director, must not be found waiting in overrunning the past laxities which, apparently, paved the way for the sad and unspeakable conditions which abash self-respecting people.

The pride of our community will maintain nothing short of a vigilance which insures no recurrence of unfortunate law enforcement debacles such as those we have been subjected to during the past several months.
