

"Citizen Of Year" Contest Is Being Repeated For 1937

Second Annual Event To Be Co-Sponsored By Two Local Service Clubs, Chamber Of Commerce, This Paper; Nominations Open

The highly successful "Citizen of the Year" feature inaugurated by The Times-News last year will be repeated this year.

Thus will be realized the hope expressed last year, that the contest would "become an annual event."

There will be a few changes in procedure this year from the plan followed in 1936. First in importance among these differences is the co-sponsorship of the feature by three of Belleville's leading civic organizations.

The Times-News has recognized "Citizen of the Year" feature the hearty endorsement of the Lions and Kiwanis Clubs, and the Chamber of Commerce.

The organizations mentioned have appointed representatives to the committee as follows: Chamber of Commerce—Edward W. Briggs, secretary.

A second important change in the method of operation is that comments on any person is being nominated will be required from those submitting nominations.

These remarks will not be published but will be considered by the committee as an aid in determining the winner.

Now we're ready to launch the "Citizen of the Year" contest for 1937. It will continue until Dec. 20, with the winner being announced in the Dec. 27 issue of The Times-News.

Clip the coupon printed elsewhere in this issue of The Times-News, fill in your name and address for submitting the name you are nominating and send (or bring) it to the office of the Chamber of Commerce, 407 Joralemon Street.

Anyone active in Belleville—man or woman—is eligible to be nominated. The number of nominations received by any one person will be a deciding factor in choosing the recipient of the award.

Your nominee may—but need not—be an elected official in Belleville; your nominee need not be a resident of Belleville, provided he is actively engaged in the work for the welfare of the town; your nominee's activity may be in any field of service to the community.

That's it, folks. The "Citizen of the Year" contest is on its way. Just as last year, we hope this feature would become a fair and enjoyable contest in this year's contest will far surpass last year's in interest and number of nominees.

Richard G. Post, assistant to the vice-president at Federal Industries, Belleville, has been named general chairman of the 13th annual institute of the New Jersey Industrial Editors Association to be held at the Military Park Hotel, Newark, on Nov. 20.

MRS. MOREY LEAVES TOWN EMPLOY END OF THIS MONTH

Clerk Is Seeking Retirement; Employed By Town 30 Years; Efficiency Lauded At Meeting

It has been known to a number of people for some time that Mrs. Florence R. Morey, a town employee for 30 years, 27 of which she has served as Town Clerk, wants to retire. She has applied to the Public Employees Retirement System at Trenton for retirement, effective Dec. 1.

While she has been known for months, the matter of Mrs. Morey's retirement has not been a subject of official discussion at Board of Commissioners meetings.

There was no indication that anything would have been said about it at Tuesday evening's session of the governing board had not James R. Golden, of 62 Joralemon Street, called for confirmation of rumors he had heard.

Mr. Golden, who addresses the Board of Commissioners from time to time, is an efficient administrator of the duties of Town Clerk. Merchants, Hyde In Clash On Erecting Lights Over Street

Business People Seek Usual Payment Toward Cost; Commissioner Stops Action Through Objections To Type Of Decorations Planned; Nothing Done

The downtown merchants of Belleville appeared at the pre-meeting session of the Board of Commissioners Tuesday evening—in the person of Saul Smoller, owner of the Mary Oliver Dress Shop—and asked the town to contribute $250 towards the cost of stringing lights across Washington Avenue for a Christmas project.

The business men's representative wanted to know if the merchants had come to the Commission for permission to place the lights and if he had to "crawl on his knees" to Commissioner Hyde, who had to be "begged" in past years, to obtain the town's contribution.

The merchants will string the lights across the street, but if this is done the newspapers in the area will know how it came about.

Mr. Smoller said he had tried to get Commissioner Hyde to explain what he would like to have the merchants do in regard to decorations but could not pin down the Commissioner. As a result, he pointed out, time has passed and arrangements had to be made for the decorations by some would be erected at all. The contract for this season has been signed, he said.

When asked what he wanted the merchants to do, Commissioner Hyde said he had heard criticism of the lights from church people, to the effect that they commercialized the holidays.

Members of the Board appeared on the subject and did not tell the merchants where and what kind of lights to place, except where town-owned property was involved. The suggestion was made that the merchants omit the lights on their own property.

By a four-to-one vote at its meeting Tuesday evening, the Board of Commissioners denied the petition presented by G. George Addonizio, Belleville attorney, for permission to erect a service station at 855-860 Joralemon Street, near Hoover Avenue.

Commissioner Elmer S. Hyde, without explaining his reasons, was the only affirmative voter. Mayor Isadore J. Padula, Commissioner Robert C. Grabin, Kenneth D. Smith and Harry J. Sullivan voted no.

The vote was taken following a hearing on the petition and after the Commissioners had recessed to discuss in private what had been proposed for and against the proposition.

In asking for the right to erect the station, the petition had complied with all the requirements.

Although a hearing will be held on Dec. 20, it is hoped that all who intend to enter do so by Dec. 16 so that this paper can announce the names of the permit holders.

Letters with return envelopes have been mailed to all residents of the town who are voters. Chest leaders urged appeal to recipients of these letters to sign their contributions to the drive.

"It cannot be too strongly emphasized," said Mr. Lewis, "that the burden of responsibility for the support of the seven agencies is on the shoulders of the residents of our town."

Thomas J. McLaughlin, Purchasing Agent for the Town of Belleville, points out that among the items he is advertising in this issue of The Times-News to be sold on Nov. 22 are several bicycles.

He offers the suggestion that anyone desiring a second-hand bike for, say, a holiday or birthday gift, might well attend the sale. Past experience has shown, Mr. McLaughlin said, that these items are disposed of at very low prices.

Community Chest Campaign Lagging; Leaders Want To Reach Drive Goal By Nov. 22

Leaders of the Belleville Community Chest campaign for funds to maintain its seven affiliated welfare organizations, this week expressed disappointment at the poor results of the drive.

It had been hoped by the volunteer workers and officials of the Chest to be able to end the drive by Nov. 8. However, the lagging response to the efforts of the volunteers has forced them to extend the campaign until Nov. 22.

Henry Lewis, campaign chairman, said that the most recent tabulation only 40% of the $30,000 quota had been accumulated. He expressed the hope and belief that the amount required to hit the goal would be obtained by Nov. 22.

Letters with return envelopes have been mailed to all residents of the town who are voters. Chest leaders urged appeal to recipients of these letters to sign their contributions to the drive.

Belleville Singer Appears In Movie At Newark Theatre

A member of the cast of "Forty Guns," the movie appearing at the Newark Theatre, which opened at RKO Proctor's in Newark Wednesday, is a native of Belleville.

He is Vincent Riccio, a baritone, who goes by the name of Jiggs Carroll. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Riccio, and his wife, the former Francis Smith of Newark, live at 87 Magnolia Street.

Carroll, who has been compared to Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra, is a graduate of Belleville grammar and high schools and is the brother of Frederick Riccio, Dorothy Riccio, Mrs. Mary Riccio, and Mrs. Francis Riccio of Tom's River and Mrs. Francis Guardway of Bloomfield.

Belleville Golfer Wins Trophy

Gordon Weigmann, youthful Belleville golfer who learned the rudiments of the sport at the local Hendricks Field course, added another laurel to his list of achievements recently when he won the annual Fall tournament sponsored by Public Service Electric and Gas Company.

Playing the difficult, windswept course at Lakewood Country Club, Weigmann turned in a score which was good for low gross honors and the coveted President's Trophy, awarded each year by Donald C. Luce, president of Public Service.

The slightly-built, long-limbed young man is no stranger on the golf links, for he has been at it since he was 12 years of age. As a Freshman at Belleville High, Gordon was proficient enough at the game to win the title to earn a place on Coach Jitzy Wisocki's golf team and he played for four years. In his senior year, Weigmann captained the team and won third place in the State Scholastic tournament, coping a medal for his efforts.

A four-handicap player at Brook, or Hendricks Field, Gordon is regarded as a fine student of the game. He practices regularly—daily, when the weather permits. In his home at 22 Fairview Place is adjacent to the golf course, and after working hours he heads for the links. Last year, playing in the junior Public Golf Organization tournament, Weigmann battled his way to the finals and lost a heart-breaker.

His talent on the course comes naturally, for Gordon's father, the late Fred Weigmann, was an excellent golfer—Gordon plays with his mother, Mrs. Madeline Weigmann, and both mother and son are employed in Public Service, where his late father worked.

The tournament at Public Service is sponsored by the Public Service Terminal Athletic Association, an employee organization.

Pat Tomasso, one of the parade marshals and one of the most active committee members in getting the paraders in line at Greylock Parkway for the procession, stated that the reason there were no military units in line was delay in getting invitations out to the groups desired. He added that there was a some discussion under way about changing the parade time from the evening to the Sunday afternoon, nearest Veterans Day — care being taken, he pointed out, that the parade would not conflict with the Nutley parade.

As for the Commissioners, all of them, he said, had treated her in a very fine manner, "have been like fathers to me," and she intimated that it would be no easy thing to break away from her long association with Town Hall and its staff.

CONFERENCE

Leading the third division were Marshal Angelo Benavato of Newark and nearly all the youngsters of the Veterans Day of the Knights, Holy Name Society men of St. Peter's Church.

The fourth division, led by Marshal Art Sharrock included Sal Drindi Drum and Bugle Corps of Union City, Browns and Girl Scouts led by Mrs. William Long, president of Belleville Girl Scout Council; Boy Scouts led by Harry T. French; Belleville Chapter, American Red Cross, led Mrs. Howard Ryer, chairman of the Chapter's Motor Corps Service.

The first division, led by Marshal Nicholas Raimo, was composed of Blessed Sacrament Band for many years, the champion Guard of Salaam Temple of the city, and a band of 50 on foot, some on motorcycles, and all color-protective police car brought out the parade.

Although this may not be apparent at the times the sacrifices are made, we live in a good world, said the speaker, despite the negative view of some people. The sacrifices made by the men and women who were being honored that evening were not in vain, he said, officers "made by you and me and all our countrymen in the hope of peace," he added, also.

Loyal devotion to the ideals of peace and a better world was in time being about these desirable states and thus we are hardly discouraged from day to day — such devotion was not in vain.

Mayor Padula spoke briefly on behalf of the town, and expressed surprise and regret at the small size of the attendance. He congratulated the committee that had worked so hard to prepare the program.

Chairman Mitchell introduced to the assembly Richard Folio and Vincent Strumolo, general chairman and assistant chairman, respectively, of the Veterans Day celebration, which included the parade which was to take place the following evening, Monday and other members of the committee.

The ritual team of Post 105, composed of Arthur Christie, Walter Weiss, Henry Flago, Robert Shipley, Otto H. Braunschweig and Alvin Clark, presented an impressive tribute to the war dead. An illuminated colored scene of the long rows of crosses in Flanders Fields, together with background music furnished by Mrs. Carroll A. Treney, soloist, who sang, "My Buddy," with Mr. Jacobus at the piano, helped in setting the mood for the recitation by four members of the ritual team of the well-known poem, "In Hallowed Fields."

The evening's program was brought to a close with "benefit" being pronounced by Vincent Vecchione, of Barbone Masco Post, No. 7, Italian-American War Veterans.

Thomas Genco, Belleville Building Inspector, opposed granting the petition, making it clear that he was speaking as a private property owner in the vicinity of the proposed business establishment and not as Building Inspector. His objections were that the area was zoned for homes, not for business; that there was no need for a gas station in that area; that a such an operation would create a traffic hazard, that property values in the neighborhood would depreciate.

Rodman Elfin of Newark, an attorney representing Rutan Estates, a development company operating in the locality under discussion, added that new homes being occupied were bringing children into the neighborhood and that a gas station would be a hazard to their safety. He thought, too, that granting the permission requested would establish a precedent for the infiltration of home business. He added that people were purchasing homes in that section of

Belleville Romps Over South Side; Plays Here Saturday With Kearny

BY DAVE THALER
Belleville's powerful scoring machine, which experienced operating difficulties in Garfield two weeks ago, was in good working condition at Municipal Stadium last Saturday, when it produced 32 points against South Side.

The streaks, on the other hand, were unable to reach the Blue and Gold end zone during the course of the afternoon, and had a 32-0 whitewash tacked on to their record.

Gene Barra, Belleville fullback, tallied three times for the Bellboys. Barra, who has his scoring in spades, now has 61 points for the season, placing him among the top five in the Essex County scoring race.

South Side was unable to stop Barra or any of the other Blue and Gold backs — and there were many. Coach Ed Berlinski, who was the director of a very weak bench at the season's outset, has been able to give the second team enough game experience to strengthen the Bellboys' bench.

Kearny Here Saturday
The second team should see some action Saturday, when the Blue and gold gridder take on Kearny. This game, to be played at the season's outset, will be the first of four Big Ten Conference games on Belleville's schedule in the last four weeks of the season.

It should also be the easiest. Kearny has been having its toughest time of late, and this year shouldn't give the Bellboys any trouble.

As the Kardis succeed in stalling Belleville's attack, the Blue and Gold defense will prove too stout to defeat. The defense has been the only consistent feature of Belleville's games, yielding an average of 6.4 points per game. The defense has never been really bad. The secondary has experienced some lapses on passes during the course of the season, but, on the whole, it will stand up against any in the area.

One of the finest showings made by Belleville's defensive forces was against South Side last Saturday. In shutting the Streaks out, Belleville gave up 17 yards in the air and 12 yards on the ground for a total of 29 yards. These figures are even more impressive when it is remembered that Belleville's second string played most of the second half.

Backing up this sterling performance by the defensive squad was the offense. Two fumbles and a clipping penalty cost Belleville one sure touchdown and two other possible scores early in the first period.

But Barra, who has fumbled on the South Side four-yard line in the preceding series of plays, recovered a ball turned loose by the South Side quarterback, Dale Lelov, and recovery gave the Bellboys a first down on the Streaks' 20. Four plays later, the big fullback raced around right end for 32 yards and Belleville's first touchdown.

Between Barra's next two scores (from seven yards and one foot out) John Vitelli, Bellboy halfback noted for his tremendous work as a defensive linebacker, plunged over from one yard away. In the final period Belleville's subs added the icing to the cake. Jim Cardinale, a promising Sophomore, scampered five yards for the final Blue and Gold touchdown.

Benefit Dinner Funds Go To Youth Center

A benefit dinner with proceeds going toward the maintenance of the Friendly House, was held at the Bow and Arrow Manor, 111 Prospect Avenue, West Orange, Saturday evening, Nov. 9, by the Auxiliary of the recreation center. Mrs. Janet Delisio of Bloomfield, formerly of Belleville, was general chairman of the affair.

The dinner, which was for members of Belleville or former Belleville residents who reside in this area whose aim is to provide funds and supervision for the Friendly House.

Included in the committee for the dance were Mrs. Carl Buttlar, Mrs. Carmine Deemoll and Mrs. Vito Filippone of Belleville; Mrs. Ray Williams, Mrs. Samuel Decepoli of Newark; Mrs. Anthony Wadsworth of Bloomfield; Mrs. Rocco Sisto of Newark; Mrs. Nicholas DeMaio of East Orange and Mrs. Nicholas Masina of Nutley.

Local Musicians Serve On Concert Committee

Men's League May Be Re-Organized

Harold "Bud" Brand told me this week that if interest warrants, the Recreation Department may resume operation of the Senior Men's Basketball League. The league was disbanded two years ago because it was becoming too heavy with too much outside talent.

Brand said that two groups have approached him on the possibility of playing in a regular league this winter. "If we get a little more interest then there is a good chance that the Rec Department will once again sponsor the program. There is one stipulation that must be met and that is that all players must be Belleville residents. If there are six interested teams then a league could be conducted with all games being played on one night in the same gym. That would involve only three contests," commented Brand.

Cafone Top Man For Upsala

Rocco Cafone, former All-County quarterback for Belleville High School four years ago, is going great guns for Upsala College, in East Orange, as he leads the team on offense while calling signals. Cafone is only a junior and head coach John Hooper is already looking ahead to next year when Rocco will return for another season and spark the Vikings.

Cafone was the leading quarterback last year for Upsala, however, a leg injury sidelined the ace passer for most of the campaign.

Upsala will wind up its 1957 season tomorrow when they travel to Geveva, N. Y., to meet the undefeated Statesmen of Hobart College. The Vikings' record stands at three victories while dropping five.

Cafone has been Hooper's top offensive threat while working out of the T formation. He is a sick T quarterback and handles the ball like an accomplished magician. Rocco has made his best mark in the passing department.

He is leading the club in two departments. As a passer, he has completed 31 out of 75 attempts for a total of 412 yards and four of them have been good for touchdowns.

As a runner, Cafone has compiled 63 yards rushing to give him the lead in total offense with 475 yards in 138 plays. He is third in scoring on the club with two touchdowns and three out of four extra point attempts for 18 points.

"THEY'RE CATCHING ON, BUT THEY CAN'T CATCH UP." That's how lots of people feel about the "new 1958" cars that are trying to match the Dodge Sweep-Wing 58. These other cars have been lowered some, but still seem high and boxy by comparison. A few are "catching on" to fins, but they're years from "catching up." And the air suspension offered by some cars (at well over $100 extra) can't compare with the sway-free, dip-free ride of Dodge Torsion-Aire (standard equipment on all models). So on your way home from someone else's new car showing, stop in and compare it with Sweep-Wing 58 by Dodge. You'll see what we mean.

old despite his spry appearance — there will be the announcement of candidacies by C. Douglas Dillon, former Ambassador to France; Congressman Peter H.B. Frelinghuysen, of the 5th District, and State Senator Walter H. Jones, of Bergen County.

Senator Smith, obviously, would save the Republican Party a major headache if he announced immediately that he intends to run to succeed himself. By quibbling and delaying, he invites competition. By stating his intentions promptly and clearly, he may discourage some. This is no time for the G.O.P. to get into a domestic dog fight. The party's hopes of sorely needed harmony could be wrecked in a five or ten-sided Primary. And then, of course, there is the possibility that in such a dog fight a Democratic candidate might make off with the bone.

Happily for the Republicans, the Democrats have almost as bad a hassle. Our own Congressman Peter W. Rodino has made no secret of the fact that he would like to move into bigger quarters. With eight years of Congress behind him, experienced, likeable, a proven vote-getter and with a spotless record which is above criticism, he wants to be the party's candidate for the Senate against Smith et al.

There are others, on the Democratic side of the fence, who have similar ambitions. Congressman Harrison A. Williams, of Union County, is one. Handsome, wealthy, a sophomore in Congress, he must be put high on the list. Then there is State Senator James F. Murray, Jr., the Kenny-tamer in Hudson County, and there is also Charles W. Engelhard, of Somerset.

As you can see, its six or one and half a dozen of the other. This would, indeed, be the time for Senator Smith to run again on his record. By seniority, he is top Republican on the influential labor committee of the Senate and second Republican on the foreign affairs committee. If he steps down and out, New Jersey would lose those important committee privileges. If for no other reason than to retain those two chairs, Smith should run again. R.E.H.

Give Deserving Thanks

It may not be an elegant way of putting it, but the old saw about "giving them flowers while they can smell them" describes rather succinctly what prompted The Times-News to inaugurate its "Citizen of the Year" contest last year and to continue the feature this year.

There are many men and women who are striving valiantly in the field of welfare, in government, in cultural or educational activities and in other areas to make Belleville an even better place in which to live, work and pursue happiness.

All too often these hard-working, earnest people give years of effort to their community and receive not so much as a "thank you". We hope to correct, this situation to some extent through our search for Belleville's "Citizen of the Year" for 1957 — this year with the co-operation of the Lions and Kiwanis Clubs and the Chamber of Commerce.

All residents of town are invited to participate. All that is required is that you send in the name of the person you believe has made the outstanding contribution during the current year to Belleville's progress and/or betterment.

At the close of the effort, the person chosen as the most deserving of it will be rewarded with a rousing "thank you" on behalf of the entire community.

Solid Support In Trenton

The new Essex County Assembly delegation, keeping a campaign promise to act in the dispute between Nutley and four other Essex towns and the New Jersey Highway Authority over the Garden State Parkway tollgate at Belleville Avenue, has named one of its twelve members, Richard Lynch to attend the November 26 conference with the Authority as its delegate.

With solid support in the Senate and the Assembly in Trenton, Nutley and the other towns, Belleville, Bloomfield, Irvington and East Orange, appear likely to win their point, after two years of effort.

It is particularly fitting that it is a new Assembly delegation which is joining our fight with us because it was an earlier Essex Assembly delegation which fell asleep at the switch and allowed the unfortunate bill to pass which put the disputed tollgate where it now stands. R.E.H.

In A Race of Scientists Into Germany Russia Beat Us Into Peenemunde And Got Away With Secrets Of Nazi Rockets

By Ralph Eric Heinzen

With two satellites rocketed into their orbits above us, the Soviet Union has surpassed us in a test of speed. Once before, the Soviet Union beat us in another test of speed and this accomplishment in launching her satellites while we are still looking for the formula-is a direct consequence of Russia's victory in the first race — twelve years ago.

It was early in the Spring of 1945 that the race took place which decided the Russian victory in the satellite competition. Russian scientists got to Peenemunde Island, in the Baltic, before American scientists did and made off with the German scientists and all of their experimental laboratories and their completed and incompleting rockets before we arrived.

Those German rocket pioneers, builders of the V-2 and V-4 rockets with which Hitler blasted London and came near to forcing Britain to her knees, told all they knew to the Russians. Many of them stayed on and worked for the Russians. Today's satellite rockets are merely the V-4 grown up. The origin of Russia's scientific victory is German.

At 12 years distance, it is not quite evident that we lost that race to the Russians because we were atom-bomb minded while the Red Army was rocket minded.

Both Russia and the United States sent missions of scientists into Germany along with the first wave of tanks with orders to capture alive as many German scientists as possible. To grab all of their research records and their laboratories.

The only difference was that we were more interested in Germany's research into atomic fission while the Russians were more interested in the method of producing it while Russia, impressed by Hitler's massive use of V-rockets against London, was intent upon capturing the Peenemunde rocket laboratories. Russia even then spoke about intercontinental missiles to come.

Happily, some of those scientists doubling as super — sleuths in our scientific intelligence outfit, have written their memories. Chief among them is a report written by Dr. Samuel A. Gould, an American physicist of Dutch background who knew the principal scientists of Germany and who set out to bring them back alive.

"Alsos" was the code name for the United States' mission, a mission so strange and so secret that only our highest officials knew of its existence or its scientific targets. It took its name from the Greek word for "groves", a tribute to the man who created it and sent it on its way — Major General L.R. Groves, chief of the atom bomb "research" known as "Manhattan Project".

Since General Groves was primarily interested in completing the atom bomb so that it could be used to force Japan to surrender, it is not surprising that he put emphasis on capturing the secrets of German atomic research and neglected completely the German perfection of rocketry. It was that error of judgment twelve years ago which has cost us dearly.

Reds Grab Rockets The Russians actually captured, at Peenemunde, hundreds of rockets as well as the full records of the German research. In all, they picked up more than 40 German rocket engineers and scientists — and took them all back to Russia where some of them still are working for the Russians on space rockets today.

On our side, "Alsos" scientist — sleuths rode into Germany via General Patton's first tanks. They were looking for atomic piles and they hoped to get their hands on Professor Otto Hahn, the German chemist who, it was rumored, had successfully split an atom in 1938, the year of Munich, a year before Hitler declared his war.

It is a matter of record that "Alsos" did find three incomplete German atomic piles — one south of Stuttgart, in the Black Forest, another in a forest near Berlin where the German Army Ordnance had a small experimental station for uranium bomb research and, finally, an underground uranium laboratory of the

Race For A Bomb

In none of them was there any evidence that Germany was any closer to an atom bomb than we were. Tons of captured records were sent back to this country by the "Alsos" mission but long before those research reports could be translated and "checked" against our own Oak Ridge experiments were successful.

One year later, we dropped our two atom bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki and Japan swiftly surrendered.

Left far behind in the field of atomic fission, Russia set out to steal our secrets. That was the era of the Dr. Puchs, the Allan Bush Mays and the other spies who betrayed us to the Communists. In a short time, Russia used stolen secrets and had split the atom, too, and was on her way to making her own tests of atomic and hydrogen warheads.

We never did catch up with Russia in the field of rocketry and it was that superiority, gained by her victory in arriving first at Peenemunde, which gave Moscow the tremendous lead she now enjoys. So, the spectacle of our rocket riding around the earth in an orbit a thousand miles high had its first act at Peenemunde.

British Had Secret

It was only recently that the British Government lifted, finally, the official secrecy regarding its knowledge — long before the Russians reached Peenemunde — of the characteristics of the long-range V-2 rocket. Sir Winston Churchill included the story in the last book he published of his wartime memories.

Both the Government and American intelligence had traced the rocket center to Peenemunde and saturation bombing, day and night, began and continued the earth in the war. The Germans resorted to caveing, going underground to hide their operations.

But it is known now that even before the first rocket was fired on London, the British knew all about it. This was the consequence of a lucky break, a freak error which occurred on June 23, 1943. The test was the first ever made of a steering apparatus to be controlled by an operator, by radio, from a plane.

As Churchill tells the story, it was the first time that the radio operator had ever seen a rocket shot off and he was so entranced that he forgot his part in the test. In his astonishment he pushed the control lever to the left and held it there. The rocket obediently turned to the left and passed out of control range before the operator gathered his senses.

Landed In Sweden

The rocket landed in neutral Sweden, but the Swedes kept that secret from the Germans. British agents in Sweden gathered up the fragments and flew them to Farnborough where British experts re-assembled the V-2 — many months before the first one was fired against England on September 8, 1948.

The first rocket against London fell at Chiswick, at dusk, that day and another fell at Epping. German records have shown that in all 1,170 long-range and 151 rockets against Brussels
