WILL SEEK HIGHER OFFICE

Chieffo quish school seat in spring

By Mike Olohan

Aiming for higher political office, six-year school trustee Mike Chieffo announced his resignation Monday night, thanking former colleagues, friends and supporters.

On April 7, when board elections are held, Chieffo will officially resign his post to plan a run either for the State Assembly or Town Commission. "Six years is long enough," he said after Monday's meeting during which he confirmed he wouldn't seek another three-year term.

Though Chieffo admitted he's had plenty of arguments and disagreements with present and past colleagues, he'll depart on a happy note. "I've had disappointments but certainly no regrets," he told a scattered high school audience.

He said his six years on the board brought him experiences and joys he'll never forget. He alluded to his many disagreements and what some saw as a "spoiler" role by saying, "I've tried to call things as I saw them...and I leave with no animosity."

He thanked former colleagues Richard Mahmarian, Matthew Pica and Viola Spray, along with Mayor Michael Marotti, for guiding him and supporting him through six sometimes tumultuous but worthwhile years on the board.

Both Pica and Marotti sat in the back of the auditorium, and congratulated Chieffo after he publicly disclosed his desire to seek higher office. One citizen previously addressing trustees had attacked them for using the board as a steppingstone to

Candidates waiting till last minute

Only Tom Spillane and Board President Ernie Zoppi had officially declared as School Board candidates as of Tuesday, but several other residents were seriously considering filing by today's 4 p.m. deadline.

Two three-year seats are at stake in the April 7 election and plenty of people were being suggested to fill them. The names included Cora Boice, long active in school affairs; Bob May, the outspoken Valley Association president; Doug Cantarella and Niles LaMonica, who engineered Trustee Tom Zampino's landslide win last year; Joseph Del Guercio, a school administrator in Orange, and former board president Ralph Risoli, also Belleville's registrar of vital statistics.

A petition drive to bring back an appointed school board has been started by Risoli, but sources close to the signature effort weren't sure whether the 900 names required to place the question before voters would be gathered by today.

The 1979 Belleville Citizens' Survey showed 72 percent of the 1,200 taxpayers questioned would vote against an appointed board "since the provision for voting on the budget would have otherwise been forfeited."

Hearing dates set for school budget

Trustees and administrators will appear on cable television 12 days from now to present Belleville's $13.1 million school budget to skeptical voters who've overwhelmingly rejected it 17 of the last 18 years.

School Board Vice President Charles Miele, Trustee John DiStasi, Board Secretary-Administrator Mary Shader and School Superintendent Dr. John Greed will form the budget panel for the show set to run 7:30-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 10, on Channel T.

What's peculiar about the presentation is that although more local residents may get a chance to question specific expenditures via a phone-in segment, some may not have a copy of the proposed school budget. Mrs. Shader said copies should be available at the first budget forum scheduled for 8 p.m. next Wednesday at School 8, giving residents less than a week to study and prepare questions before trustees' televised show and no time for next week's hearing itself.

However, a presentation scheduled at School 4 on March 12 and the final budget hearing at Belleville High March 16, at which trustees are expected to okay their tab, will give citizens two more chances to ask questions. A public meeting with commissioners that had been discussed now looks doubtful, according to budget committee chairman John DiStasi, although it's still possible either March 24 or on another mutually agreed-upon date.

While trustees privately concede they don't think Belleville's 11.5 percent "capped" school budget will pass, mainly because of voter apathy and taxpayer frustration, DiStasi says he hopes the TV airing will elicit

Water crisis still with us

Despite several inches of rain the past week, state officials are warning local residents to continue conserving water and improve upon the 24.9 percent savings plateau hit last week.

Newark Water Company's two reservoirs, from which Belleville draws its water, are at slightly more than 30 percent of capacity now, or about a 55-day supply. That's a modest increase in the supply from a week ago, but even with above-normal February rains, the long-range prediction is that residents may be forced to continue conserving for another six to nine months.

Over the next two months, below-normal rainfall is expected, according to the U.S. Weather Service, and local water monitor Steve Vogel hopes residents continue trying to

Bank, restaurant okayed for new Pathmark center

A Howard Savings Bank and a Ground Round Restaurant have been given unanimous approval by the Planning Board to open for business in the new Pathmark mini-mall on Washington Avenue.

The 256-seat restaurant should be in operation by June 1. There was no definite word on when the bank would open its doors, but Howard officials are reportedly anxious for the Belleville branch to be in service soon — possibly as early as March — hoping to take some of the pressure off their facility in Nutley, where long drive-in lines have contributed to a serious traffic problem on Franklin Avenue, that town's main street.

Both the bank and the restaurant will be located in the mall area on the Pathmark's west side. The two new businesses are expected to employ about 55 persons.

The 1,925-square-foot Howard was approved in about five minutes by planners Thursday night. The bank's hours will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Wednesdays, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays. Customers will enter the Howard office from the mall, while the branch's nine employees will come in through a separate door from the parking lot. There will be no drive-in facility at the new bank.

The Ground Round was okayed with planners making just one change in the site plan: The chain agreed to knock down a portion of a wall where a large TV screen was to have hung and install fire doors opening onto the mall.

Otherwise, it was smooth sailing for the Ground Round application, and Stanley A. Platkin, a development representative for the chain, used his appearance before the board for a little promotion. The 5,600-square-foot restaurant will be open 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. seven days a week, 365 days a year, said Platkin, and will employ 45 persons, most part-time and most from the Belleville area.

Ground Round chose to build in Belleville, he said, "because of the uniqueness of the population here." Platkin noted that the company had

Eyesore of the week

Rutgers Rejection — This once-lovely house on Rutgers Street has several broken windows, with boards covering every one on the first floor. With its overgrown yard, the house presents a terrible picture of the neighborhood to passersby on one of Belleville's most heavily traveled streets.

Chamber members get advice on crime

A man takes his pants off, hangs them on the bedpost and retires for the night. The next morning his wallet is missing from his pants pocket. A woman sitting in her living room can't hear over the noise from her television and air conditioner as another part of her house is ransacked. Two men enter a store and browse. The owner doesn't take much notice of them until they pull ski masks over their faces and one of them pulls a knife from his jacket.

All of these incidents have taken place in Belleville. How to prevent them or at least defuse their danger was the subject of a wide-ranging talk given by Det. Sgt. Martin McNish of the Belleville Police Department at the Chamber of Commerce meeting last week.

The man who kept his wallet in his pants would have been better off sticking it in the pocket of a suit in his closet. The woman watching TV in air-conditioned comfort should have had the doors to other parts of her house opened. With the doors shut, she had little chance at all of hearing the intruder. If the storeowner had been more alert, at least giving his two "customers" the once-over and looking them straight in the eyes, they might have realized he was prepared for a robbery and the stick-up might never have occurred.

Much of his advice, McNish admitted, was "old hat," but still well worth reiterating. "Basically, it's common sense," he said. "But how many of us ever think about it?"

For instance, McNish said, in a month's time, he had been in 50 burglarized homes where crimes could have been prevented with a few simple, oft-repeated precautions: leaving lights on, having neighbors watch the house and collect mail and newspapers during vacations, keeping the garage door closed.

The thinking behind most crimes can be boiled down to a few simple

Pathmark appoints manager and assistants for new center

Supermarkets General Corporation has announced the appointment of Ron Bergondo as general store manager of the new Belleville Pathmark on Washington Avenue.

In his new position, Bergondo, who joined the company in 1956, is responsible for all store personnel and operations, including sales, profitability, budget and labor. Most recently, he was general store manager of the Belmont Avenue Pathmark. Prior to that, he was general manager of Pathmarks in South Orange and Elizabeth.

Bergondo, his wife Lorainne and their daughter, Deanna, live in Iselin.

Supermarkets General has also appointed two assistant store managers at the new Pathmark super center here. Dick Marcocci will be in charge of perishables and Art Winter of non-perishables.

Marcocci has served in various capacities since he began his career with Pathmark in 1958. He has been dairy manager and most recently assistant store manager at the Union Pathmark.

He lives in Edison with his wife Georgianna and his two daughters, Millisa and Sharon.

Winter began his career with Pathmark in 1974. After completing the company's management training program, he served as night store manager and as perishable and non-perishable assistant store manager at the Belmont Avenue Pathmark.

Winter received a bachelor of arts degree in history and political science from Westminster College in Pennsylvania. He lives in Cranford with his wife Judy and their two sons, Richard and Gregory.

Supermarkets General Corporation, the parent company of Pathmark, is located in Woodbridge.

Belleville attorney new Wallwork aide

John E. Patton has been appointed issues and policy committee chairman for State Sen. James Wallwork, a Republican candidate for governor.

A member of the Belleville law firm of Gaccione, Pomaco, Patton, Beck, Zampino and Jackson, Patton previously served in the campaigns of President Ronald Reagan and Senate candidate Jeff Bell.

"I am convinced that Sen. Jim Wallwork's personal character, integrity and honesty are beyond reproach, and among the many leadership qualities he offers New Jersey," Patton declared, "he is a proven legislator, with a consistent record of support for programs which help the beleaguered taxpayers of this state."

Patton added, "Just as President Reagan has spelled out the problems confronting American, Senator Wallwork will face up the tasks ahead and acknowledge that more taxes and more government interference are not the solutions to our problems."

Wallwork lauded Patton as "the type of Republican activist we need to generate a firm party structure that can benefit from the direction which President Reagan has steered us to. John's participation is a real asset for my campaign."

Patton lives in Maplewood with his wife Susan and their four children.

Bank Cashier — Dennis M. Tucci of Belleville has been appointed an officer of First National State Bank of New Jersey. He was promoted to assistant cashier at the bank's Millburn office. A graduate of Rutgers University, he is chapter advisor and chairman of the board of control for Theta-Zeta Corporation. Tucci is also secretary of the St. Lucy Guard of Honor, Newark, and a member of the Irvington Knights of Columbus and St. Gerard's Men's Society, Newark.

It is well-known that resistance to disease and the rapidity of recovery from many illnesses often depend on a well-balanced, regular diet. Modify a diet only on a doctor's orders to complement a diagnosis and bodily needs during illness. All the basic food groups should be included in daily meals unless a physician orders otherwise. These include milk and milk products, meat, vegetables, fruit, bread and cereal. We suggest that balanced diets with some nutritional education is far superior to resorting to fad diets to combat certain health deficiencies.

When your physician orders a prescription be sure to bring it to us at ROSSMORE PHARMACY, 338 Washington Ave., 759-1968, 759-1956 for prompt service. # Silver Lakers will fight water rate discrepancy

With $740 already gathered, a determined group of Silver Lake residents now plans to take either Belleville, the Newark Water Company or both to court hoping to recoup "overcharges" the last three years.

School Board attorney Lawrence Schwartz will be retained to handle the group's legal battle, but he wasn't sure Tuesday exactly how he'd attack what the Silver Lakers call "outright discrimination."

Newark's director of customer services, Joe Paradise, told town water monitor Steve Vogel last week that since 1978 the company has been charging 750 Silver Lake accounts about 33 percent more than those in other parts of Belleville.

So far, Arthur Saulino, his wife Rae, and district leaders Marie Gammara and Larry Cuomo have canvassed homes south of Franklin Street, and they will hit homes north of there Saturday to raise funds for the legal battle.

Saulino said 35 people showed up Sunday at Mrs. Gammara's house to discuss Silver Lake's chances of winning a lawsuit, and all agreed those chances look good.

Paradise says some Silver Lake residents are charged more for water because the area was originally a part of Newark and its pipes are still maintained by the city. But Saulino says those higher rates are unjustified unless they're applied to all Belleville residents. An ordinance reportedly pending before Newark's City Council would equalize out-of-town rates for all customers, no matter whose pipes supply them.

"The people don't want to wait any more," said Saulino Monday night, referring to inaction by local officials who were notified of price disparities. Public Affairs Commissioner Vincent Strumolo, also a Silver Lake resident who pays more, hasn't taken any action on the price discrepancies, reluctant to become involved in a court fight. However, he has urged his commission colleagues to look into the problem.

Saulino said Mayor Michael Marotti and Public Safety Commissioner Matthew Pica support Silver Lake's fight, but are apparently unsure how to help them. "I hope we're going to win," said Saulino, adding he wasn't sure either how Schwartz, who agreed to handle the case for $1,000, would tackle it.

Schwartz called his upcoming legal challenge "a novel case" but declined to make any predictions. "It's a shame why they have to suffer over something like this," said Schwartz.

Saulino said a "mass meeting" is planned, probably for sometime next week if his group can use a school one night. The meeting will allow those receiving higher bills to voice their opinions on the lawsuit and possible other action to be taken.

Restaurant is approved

studied the area and discovered that Belleville and Nutley, each with over 30,000 people, also had above-average ratios of children. That made the Pathmark location ideal, he said, because the Ground Round is a family-oriented restaurant, a place where customers can eat peanuts and throw the shells on the floor, watch Laurel and Hardy movies and enjoy the antique decor as well as a good meal.

There will be electronic games and some unusual promotions to attract customers, Platkin said. A scale might be placed at the door, for instance, and children could weigh in. A 95-pound youngster would then eat for a penny a pound, he said.

The way was cleared this week for the Ground Round to serve liquor after commissioners approved a change in town ordinance lifting the 1,250-foot distance restriction between licensees. The restaurant will have a bar, and Platkin said the Ground Round might consider limiting entrance to anyone under 18 unless accompanied by an adult.

The new mini-mall, which will also contain a liquor store and pizza parlor, has gotten off to a good start. Asked by planners if the Ground Round might not eventually be forced to cut back its operating hours if the Pathmark super center curtailed its 24-hour, seven-day-a-week operation, Platkin said based on the volume of business so far, that was unlikely. "Quite frankly, they're doing so much in excess of their original estimates, that I don't see them closing anytime," he said.

(The Planning Board postponed two other applications Thursday. See story on page 8.)

U.S. Savings Bonds Increase Interest Rates
And Shorten Maturity Period.

Here's some good news

for those already holding or about to purchase

U.S. Savings Bonds.

The Treasury has announced that effective Nov. 1, 1980, all Series EE Bonds will earn 8% interest if held for 9 years.

Intermediate yields will also rise from 4½% to 5½% after one year and to 7½% after five years.

All outstanding Savings Bonds will also benefit from a 1% increase to their next maturity. U.S. Savings Bonds are now growing bigger, faster. So they're an even better way to save than they have been over the years.

They're still safe, still guaranteed, still easy to buy through the Payroll Savings Plan. But now the interest rate has been improved.

And the maturity is shortened so that you reach that full 8% a lot quicker.

Take another look at Bonds. As a saving instrument. At the tax benefits. At the new interest rates. The shortened maturity. Bonds do make sense. For you and for your country.

Take stock in America.

Town officials' raw sewerage

All of a sudden, area town officials, including those from Belleville and Nutley, are complaining about the new budget of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission.

These same public officials well knew four years ago treatment of sewage mandated by the federal government would impose an extraordinarily large burden upon the municipalities. Not a single municipal official raised her or his voice objecting to the federal mandate.

So now, the sewage treatment plant is expected to come on line in the fall of 1981, an occasion requiring the employment of several hundred new persons.

Anyone familiar with this kind of facility recognizes a prudent management cannot wait until the day before the plant is opened before hiring four or five hundred new people. In some cases, new employees must come aboard six months and even a year before a plant is put into operation.

Many phases of a sewage treatment plant require highly skilled employees. Where does one get any type of skilled employee today without paying an arm and a leg for the service? Moreover, highly skilled individuals already are employed, and for the most part, these people are satisfied to remain where they are.

Raising a question now over the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission budget and demanding investigations of every nature and description misleads the public into believing there is something wrong with the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission budget.

There is even talk about new legislation to change the method of selecting the commissioners who serve on the board. The politicians who are advocating such an approach know it will not be successful — but then one knows how it is with some politicians — they make every effort to fool the public into believing they are serving the greater public interest.

This is the kind of public official we identify as a phony — preying upon the fears of the people for political popularity. Some of these same town public officials have been the butt of criticism at their own annual budget hearings. They know only too well how difficult it is to keep down expenses in operating government.

The books of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission are open to all these officials. They are also open to the public. Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission officials invite the scrutiny of municipal officials and the public as well. The commission has nothing to hide. Placing into operation a $500,000,000 facility takes an awful lot of money, hard work and many staff people. You can't put such a facility into operation with mirrors or wishful thinking. It takes money. Commissioner John Lucy of Nutley is a former employee of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission. At the Nutley Town Commission level, it is Commissioner Lucy's responsibility to look after the expenses the town pays to the Passaic County Sewerage Commission. Commissioner Lucy is a very knowledgeable town official. He is smart. He is educated. He is informed. Commissioner Lucy believes the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission's 1981 budget is a fair document. Based upon my own experience as chairman of the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission — a 15-year stint — and Commissioner Lucy's studied opinion — we believe those officials who are pursuing an investigation of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission are simply kidding the public.

Letters

Academy Street ice sheet got little attention from the town

To the Editor:

I would like to direct the attention of your readers to a hazardous condition on Academy Street that existed for more than five days. This condition consisted of a sheet of thick ice which froze in the street adjacent to the curb on the south (Belleville Library) side, extending from the curb out into the street for approximately three to five feet. This ice apparently originated at a dwelling located above the synagogue and continued down the street in uninterrupted fashion, to the front of the library on Washington Avenue.

I have been informed that numerous phone calls of complaint and concern were directed to officials in Town Hall during the week. Efforts were finally attempted to repair this leak on Friday afternoon, Feb. 6.

Mr. Hickey and his staff have strived to provide better service to their patrons. It is a shame that their efforts should be negated by the callous lack of concern exhibited by our town fathers.

It is obvious that our precious water supply was seriously depleted during the course of this incident. The ordinary citizen would be held strictly accountable if this needless waste of water were allowed to occur in his home.

Because this unsafe condition existed from Feb. 2 until the thaw, I think it is only fair and reasonable to ask the following questions:

Why was this hazardous condition allowed to exist for such a long time without appropriate corrective action being taken?

Why has so much lack of concern existed, jeopardizing the safety of Belleville Library patrons, employees of the library and others as they risked the danger of falling on the ice in the street?

Why were our town officials apparently unable to correct this danger to life and limb, except by spreading rock salt on the ice after four days?

Perhaps someone in authority is relying on solar energy to an excessive degree!

Sincerely,

William J. Herb

(Belleville citizen for 62 years)

To the Editor:

I recently had the privilege to take part in a simulated disaster here in Belleville. Of course, all departments — police, fire, civil defense etc. — performed as always with efficiency and professionalism with the speed needed at a time of an emergency.

It was nice to see citizens of Belleville also respond at the time of an "emergency." Reverend Long — unaware at the time that it was a "simulated emergency" — offered his church facilities to Belleville residents should they be needed.

However, while watching all of this, I was made to wonder how many Belleville residents realize that we have an Auxiliary Fire Department. This year, the department responded to 322 calls in conjunction with our regular Fire Department with a total of almost 2,500 hours given to Belleville. Those volunteers involved are Dept. Chief Baretta, Mr. Choynecki, Mr. Kinsley, Mr. Metzler, Mr. Nicolliello, Mr. Rayston, Mr. Strench, Mr. Swinarski, Capt. Quist and Mr. Zarra. Thank you gentlemen!

Russell Purdue

Deputy Fire Commissioner

P.S. We are always trying to build up the force of volunteers on the Auxiliary Fire Department and on the Volunteer First Aid Squad. Any help you can give will be appreciated.

Geriatrics Center clerk better off than reported

To the Editor:

An article Feb. 12 mentions a clerk who is unfamiliar with medical terminology. I am that clerk and would like to enlighten Mr. Donald Vaillancourt, the Family Council and all concerned as to procedure that I follow as a senior clerk typist. This procedure made me successful in collecting $23,000 more in 1980 than was collected in 1979. We did not use patients' charts when billing was instituted but used a monthly sum of days at a per-diem rate. Medicaid changed that procedure whereby I would pull patients' charts to extract only the date and code entered by the doctor for that particular visit. Most times the doctor neglected to enter the code.

Medicaid once again changed procedure. I continued to pull patients' charts, but it also became necessary to try to decipher the "chicken scratches" entered by the doctors. The writing was illegible 90 percent of the time. If the doctor was available, he was called to the billing department to decipher his penmanship. In his absence, the assistant clinical director was called. When he was available, I endeavored to assist him in translating.

We have on staff a licensed "medical librarian" whom I feel has a thorough knowledge of medical terminology.

Mr. Vaillancourt, please be aware that we do have access to a medical dictionary which is used in deciphering the "chicken scratches." I do not feel the billing procedure necessitates the service of another typist. One diligent worker can maintain complete control.

Senior Notes

By George Chenoweth

Health is understandably a major concern of senior citizens. Too often, the elderly who need drugs and medical care the most are the very people who are least able to afford them. To be sure that you get the best possible price in your medication we encourage you to ask your doctor to prescribe generic, rather than brand-name drugs. Since the Food and Drug Administration periodically inspects all manufacturers, you'll get the same quality in your prescriptions, often at a greatly reduced price.

Along the same lines, writing about health, some people wait until illness strikes before visiting a doctor. You would be better off visiting a physician at regularly scheduled times and staying with a doctor who knows your general health status and medical history and body chemistry record. Your doctor is the best judge of frequency of visits and he advises, diagnoses and treats you, depending on your particular health problem. Confide in him, tell him some innermost secrets, those that your mate may not even be aware of. Listen to his advice, ask about diet, exercise, sleep and medication, all essential to good health. If you have personal problems, make him aware of them also — they may be the reason for your physical illness.

If you believe that it will help, write down the questions that you wish to ask, get answers and remember them. Your doctor is there to help you, his long hours of study and practice are at your disposal for a nominal fee. It will help your well-being if you take advantage of his talents.

Seniors would do well to get away from the stereotype as set by younger people that all of us because of chronological age are destined to spend our remaining years in hospitals, nursing homes or in wheelchairs to be cared for by others. Ninety-five percent of the so-called elderly have the minds and the wills and the physical fitness to keep on enjoying life. Mental health stays with many people, to be adaptable to stress and the aging process is the key to thriving and enjoying each day. And there is more time for our age group to enjoy purposeful social activities.

Companionship is a key word that has many implications: It is necessary to have an interesting involvement and to this end the various senior citizens' organizations are there for you to join and to become involved. We have the senior centers and organizations such as senior citizens' club, the Old Guard, the Men's Club and the Golden Age Club. There are national organizations, the National Council of Senior Citizens, the American Association of Retired Persons, the Gray Panthers and other senior and community groups.

Now that you are retired, you may wish to go back to school. The leisure time is there, and the opportunity for returning to school is great. Check your local high school evening classes.

There is always a need for senior companions and foster grandparents. Become involved in some or all of these activities and learn what a pleasure is derived from helping others. The rewards are priceless!

'Heated' issues are involved in moving Board of Ed office

Visitors to Belleville's school board offices last Thursday saw a prime example of energy waste, a heating system that had second-floor offices at 80 degrees, resulting in an extremely oppressive atmosphere.

To battle the stifling heat, some secretaries turned on an air conditioner at one end of a large room in the Washington Avenue offices. Several said they couldn't wait to go home since the hot, stagnant air caused headaches and wasn't conducive to a work atmosphere. However, they may soon be moving from the frying pan to the fire, at least from an energy-saving point of view.

Mayor Michael Marotti's Parks and Public Property Department controls town-owned buildings — including the one housing the Board of Ed offices — and is responsible for maintenance. While trustees finally agreed several months ago to perform an energy audit of Belleville schools, no such audit has ever been publicly discussed by commissioners for town buildings. Commissioners are expected to relocate Commissioner Joseph McGreevy's Finance Department from Town Hall to the School Board offices whenever trustees decide to move out.

Even though they'll soon be leaving energy-wasteful 383 Washington Ave., trustees will probably be setting up new headquarters at School 1 or 2, neither of which was audited for energy-saving improvements during the conservation check-up they recently okayed after two years of delay.

Both Schools 1 and 2 are being maintained and kept heated to prevent pipes from freezing while trustees decide what to do with the buildings. However, whichever school they move to, trustees may still be wasting tax dollars because they omitted both from an "energy audit" whose cost was minuscule compared to potential savings.

At their present offices, trustees pay $400 a month for heat from November or December through May or June, depending on exactly when the central heating system is turned on. They also pay about $300 more for electricity per month. However, they pay only $1 rent a year to the town. If an entire school building were used for board offices, the heating costs would probably be higher, as would the potential for waste.

Citizens have repeatedly chastised trustees for refusing to perform adequate maintenance on school buildings, but trustees say they are handcuffed by constant budget defeats and cuts in their capital outlay account. They say residents just complain about what is not being done but don't really don't want to pay for improvements.

Most local schools are 60 to 80 years old and would need costly renovations on top of small repairs to be put in top condition, both structurally and energy-wise.

A million dollars is set aside for capital outlay in this year's budget and if it is okayed by voters in April, many renovations will be made. However, because of the large backlog of maintenance needs in local schools, Board President Ernie Zoppi once estimated trustees would require several million dollars to fully repair all nine grammar schools.

However, since two schools were closed, that figure might drop, though trustees emphasize capital outlay funds are desperately needed and the longer repairs are delayed, the more problems both commissioners, teachers and children could have.

Juniors staging 'Bobby'

"Bobby Goes to the Hospital," a free pre-hospitalization puppet show for youngsters, will take place 1:30 p.m. this coming Wednesday in the ground floor lecture hall of Clara Maass Memorial Hospital.

The premise behind the show is that a child's fear of a hospital can be alleviated significantly if an effort is made to expose him to the hospital in a non-threatening situation while explaining simple medical procedures.

The show, a special service project of the Belleville Junior Woman's Club, lasts about 45 minutes, during which time children are encouraged to participate in song and discussion. Refreshments are served to guests and the children are given special souvenirs of their visit to the hospital.

For more information, call Mary Dominski in the hospital public relations department at 751-1000, extension 817. Advance reservations are required for large groups. Individual youngsters may also attend with their parents.

bicentennial observance.

Elected to office with the new president were Mary Gilchrist, vice president; Leonard Bade, treasurer; Marie Hickey, corresponding secretary; Jerry Hickey, recording secretary, and Francis Williamson, Joseph Hatch and Chester Kraft, directors.

Bob McFayden, retiring president, was named historian of the society at the meeting during which future projects such as a history of Main Street, biographical sketches of the

Area Boy Scouts compete in annual Klondike Derby

Over 100 Boy Scouts and leaders attended the 1981 Annual Klondike Derby Feb. 6-8. This year's derby was held at the Conklin Scout Reservation in Boonton Township.

Some of the troops arrived Friday evening and the remaining troops came up Saturday. The Scouts and leaders of Troop 375 braved the winter weather and slept in tents, while the rest of the troops slept in cabins.

This year's event was hosted by Troop 301, sponsored by Wesley Methodist Church, which was last year's winning patrol. Other units attending were Troop 302, sponsored by Bethany Lutheran Church; Troop 304, sponsored by James G. Shawger School (School 4); Troop 305, sponsored by School 5; Troop 307, sponsored by School 7; Troop 310, sponsored by Montgomery Presbyterian Church; Troop 350, sponsored by Fewsmith Presbyterian Church; Troop 375, sponsored by St. Peter's Church; Troop 387, sponsored by St. Anthony's Church, and Troop 388, sponsored by Christ Episcopal Church. Also attending were Pack 301 Webelos, who were brought up by their leaders, Cubmaster Ed Torti and Webelo leader Tom Goldrick.

The Scouts competed against each other by forming patrols from each troop. The patrols consisted of from five to eight boys. Troops 307 and 350 entered two patrols. The competition events consisted of fire-building, compass-reading, log-pulling up an incline, tent and dining-fly set-up, first aid and a tug-of-war. To round out the event, the Scouts were also judged at an evening campfire ceremony which consisted of skits, cheers and songs. A perfect score of 150 was possible.

Garnering 132 points for first place was the Frontier Patrol of Troop 304, which host the Klondike Derby next year. The Skybird Patrol of 302 won second place with 124 points, and the UFO Patrol of Troop 350 took third with 123 points.

The patrols were also awarded ribbons for the skill in building Eskimo-type sleds which were used to haul their gear around camp to the various events. First place went to the Panther Patrol of Troop 375, second to the Cobra Patrol from Troop 310 and third to the Frontiers of Troop 304.

The patrols were also responsible for making a patrol flag Friday evening after arriving at camp to be displayed by the patrol at the opening ceremonies Saturday morning. The flags were judged and the best overall award went to the Skybird patrol from Troop 302.

Interfaith service set for Christ Episcopal

Belleville District Scouts will hold an interfaith service Sunday, March 8. Boy Scouts, Cubs and their families will assemble at 3:30 p.m. for the service which starts a half hour later at Christ Episcopal Church, 393 Washington Ave.

Pack 387 Cubs receive awards

Pack 387 Cub Scouts, their families and friends held their annual Blue and Gold dinner Feb. 15 following an all-Scout Mass at St. Anthony's Church.

Awards were presented to many of the Cubs. Carl Paserchia was presented a bear badge, one gold and five silver arrows; John Del Russo, a silver arrow and one-year pin; Steven Butkus, a silver arrow; John DiGiovanni, a dinner, and Christopher Kulzu, assistant denner. Ben Conforti and Carl Paserchia were welcomed into Webelos with a small installation ceremony, while Jerome DiGiovanni received outdoorsman, artist and Webelo badges and advanced into Boy Scouts.

Receiving pins were Webelo leader Bob Davies, four years; Cubmaster Thomas Accomando, seven years; Den Leader Coach Peggy Kelly eight years, and Den Leader Mary Mazza, 10.

J&B Delicatessen did the catering, and the food was delicious. Entertainment was provided by magician Phil Nuffrio, assisted by his 4-year-old grandson, David. Last but not least, a huge cake baked by the cubmaster's daughters and decorated by the cubmaster himself, wished Cub Scouting a happy 51st birthday.

Guest speakers will be Rev. Fred Long of Christ Church, Father Lionelli of St. Peter's Church and Rabbi Noah Burstein of Congregation Ahavath Achim.

Local Boy Scout troops and Cub Scout packs put up window displays in stores throughout Belleville recently in recognition of Scout Week.

Troop 350 had its display at Greylock Barber Shop, corner of Greylock Parkway and Union Avenue; Pack 350, Sherman's Children's Wear, Washington Avenue; Pack 302, Laterza's Drugs, Union Avenue and Joralemon Street; Pack 307, Becky's Dance Studio, Joralemon Street, and Pack 387, Prezioso's Butcher, corner of Franklin Avenue and Eugene Place.

Pack 302 pays a business call

Recently the Cub Scouts of Pack 302, Den 2, visited the Garden State Farms located on Franklin Street to take a "behind-the-scenes" look at a 24-hour neighborhood business.

The boys were very impressed with the entire operation and were surprised at the size of the refrigerator, but they were even more impressed with the Tootsie Rolls given by the manager to each of them.

Squabbling finishes meeting experiment

By Mike Olohan

About a month ago, five department heads appeared at a Town Commission meeting to answer citizens' questions, but two residents involved Public Works Superintendent James Soldo and Code Enforcement Official Bob Domenick in circuitous, personal squabbles which ended in sarcastic attacks by both sides.

Since then, no department heads have appeared at commission meetings, and several citizens have asked why. Mayor Michael Marotti had thought having the department heads on hand would provide quicker, more accurate answers to citizen questions, but his unhappiness with the personal disputes caused him to put an end to the experiment after one try.

Several times over the last year, citizens had suggested having the department heads present since questions are often asked that they can best answer. However, one of those department heads complained recently, commissioners were elected to be the people's representatives and run the meetings, and turning over that job to town employees was an abdication of their responsibility. Other department heads looked more favorably on the idea, if not the way it was put into practice.

"I think the concept is good, but not if it's used for personal complaints," said Health Officer Tom Longo, who witnessed the verbal confrontations between citizens Robert May and Henry Chazewski on the one side and Domenick and Soldo on the other.

"I think most of the people know who's who in town, but as long as the questions don't get personal or are loaded, I'd be more than willing to show up," said Longo.

"I've attended meetings for years and no one ever tried to cross-examine me before," said Soldo, whose bemused expression and snappy retorts to Chazewski stirred a small group of onlookers.

"He performed and I performed and it became ridiculous. I have no objection to going to these meetings, but I don't know if this really serves a purpose," said Soldo.

The sight of all the department heads sitting to the right of the room in front of citizens reminded him of an amusement booth "where you pay your quarter and knock down three dolls to win," Soldo said.

"If something's going to get out of hand, that's not the place for it," said Longo. He pointed out that some people have accused his department of "sitting on things" and not responding quickly to complaints.

"But we have certain policies and procedures that we have to follow," he emphasized. Noting some complaints take precedence, Longo conceded some townspeople may think his department is goofing off, "but some problems drag on for weeks and weeks and they don't seem to understand that."

GRINDING IN THE NIGHT

An estimated one in 20 adults and three in 20 children unconsciously grind their teeth at night. It is the sound of bruxism. While the noise may disturb spouses and children, it has a far more distressing effect on the sleeper.

Nocturnal grinding can exert thousands of pounds of pressure per square inch on the surfaces of teeth. It can be rough not only on teeth but on the supporting bone, the gums and jaw joint.

For many years, bruxism was attributed to the release of tension from emotional stress. However, many dental authorities today believe that the causes exist in the patient's mouth. Night grinding may be an unconscious effort to correct irregularities of the chewing surfaces of the teeth. Dentists term this a malocclusion. They grind away to eliminate a spot that is too high or to find a comfortable place to fit the upper and lower teeth together.

If you have this nightly problem, your first stop should be your dentist's office...before you do any serious damage to your teeth.

Title I program given perfect score by state

The Belleville Title I program has again received a 100 percent compliance rating from the New Jersey Department of Education. All federal and state rules and regulations governing the program were granted the perfect rating. The Belleville program serves 452 students.

During the month of February, the spotlight falls on the program at St. Peter's. Title I at the parochial school is a federally-funded remedial reading program sponsored by the Belleville Board of Education. Participants in the program are youngsters in grades one through six. Each student attends daily half-hour sessions for remediation, reinforcement, motivation and supplementary enrichment.

The reading program has three full-time teachers, Susan Drake, Patrice Hermes and Sister Dolores Walsh. Miss Drake teaches students in grades one through four. Their attention is focused on phonics, communication, comprehension and reading for pleasure. They receive phonics and comprehension reinforcement through workbooks, puzzle books and various games. They particularly enjoy making their own phonics gameboards, word wheels, alphabet chains and books and expressing their thoughts (or pounding) on a typewriter. All of Miss Drake's students are participants in an Indian reading club. Once a week each child reads a library book and after completing it, records the title on his reading card, receives a feather for his Indian headdress and adds a design to a teepee. By June, St. Peter's should be a wigwam for a colorful tribe of Indians.

Mrs. Hermes's groups in the lower grades are practicing the consonant and vowel sounds through the use of "Breakthrough Alphabet" and "Troll" filmstrips, their phonic workbooks and Telor machines which have corresponding tapes and a self-checking mechanism.

The children also enjoy the "Woodland Fables" listening tapes and comprehension exercises. They participate in story-telling activities such as being on television or on stage in the "Showtime Box," using puppets and role-playing.

The upper grades are concentrating on reading comprehension through the use of their "Increasing Comprehension" workbooks, the "Reader's Digest Skill Builders" which contain follow-up activities that help them remember details.

All the groups use word search puzzles, crosswords, games, filmstrips, listening tapes and teacher-made materials to make learning an enjoyable experience.

A variety of reading materials is used in Sister Dolores's fourth, fifth and sixth grade classes. "Reader's Digest Skill Builders" motivate students to read, using fascinating subjects and dramatic illustrations. Sprint Library Books are designed with high interest, easy leisure reading stories. "Look, Listen and Read" filmstrips help students learn to appreciate well-written stories, attractive artwork and musical background while they learn to develop their own reading and comprehension skills. The students enjoy participating in educational games, such as boggle, scrabble, word nerd and spello.

A Title I District Parents Council meeting will be held 8 p.m. tonight at the Board of Education offices, 383 Washington Ave. All parents are invited.

County a wellspring of basketball talent

Many experts on the high school level have called the Essex County Basketball Tournament the most prestigious in the state. From that tourney have arisen such stars as Notre Dame's Kelly Tripucka, Virginia's Craig Robinson, Belleville's Abdel Anderson and the Nets' Edgar Jones who played for Barringer High School.

Last week, the tourney entered its quarterfinal round for the boys and the competition was indeed hot and heavy. I attended the Barringer-Shabazz game last Saturday at Bloomfield High School and came away amazed at the raw talent that those two schools have.

Shabazz won the game by 12 points after trailing by eight at halftime, mainly because Barringer could not hit a 15-foot jump shot to save its life. However, the Bears certainly have the talent to defeat any team on any given day. After all, Barringer is the defending state champ and has practically everyone back from last year's club, everyone except Jerry McMillan of course who is now at DePaul University.

Both teams displayed a great deal of quickness and the Barringer squad especially showed terrific versatility. A prize example of this was when Barringer's 5-9 point guard, Troy Chandler, was called for goaltending. Now if you know what goaltending is, you certainly realize what an incredible achievement it is for someone just 5-9 to commit such a violation.

The tournament has been full of surprises throughout the year, but never without some A-1 basketball. Let's go back to the 1975 Essex County Tournament when East Orange and Essex Catholic met for the title. East Orange had breezed by Belleville, Irvington and Barringer to reach the final, while the Eagles coasted by West Essex, Seton Hall and Montclair to meet the Panthers.

To make things more interesting, both clubs had undefeated marks, with East Orange the state's top-ranked club and Essex Catholic, the second-rated squad. Both clubs had talent that most coaches just dream about. East Orange had Cleveland Eugene, Mike Booker, Tyrone Miles and a host of others, while Essex Catholic countered with Ron Cowan, Tyrone Anderson and other players just as gifted.

The game was a classic. East Orange won 90-85, using a full-court press in the final minutes to pull away to victory. Oddly enough, the fine East Orange club would lose in the state tournament to Lakewood in the championship game by one point as Kelvin Troy, now at Rutgers, hit two free throws after the clock had expired. Meanwhile, Essex Catholic regrouped and won the state crown in Parochial A.

The 1976 and 1977 games were both barnburners as East Orange took the crown, defeating Bloomfield High School and Kelly Tripucka on both occasions. Tripucka did everything but run the scoreboard in boosting his team, but the Panthers were too loaded with talent to lose to the Bengals.

Perhaps the finest team that I've seen play on the high school level was Valley High School which won the crown in 1978 and 1979. A technicality cost the school the '79 crown when it was learned that Valley had played one too many games going into the final of the tournament. In any case, the Knights still won the game and that merits calling them the champs.

The Valley squad was loaded with extraordinary talent and was very well coached by Ted Fiore who is now the assistant to Bob Dukiet at St. Peter's College. I'll never forget the 1978 game against Shabazz at Seton Hall University. Shabazz had defeated East Orange in the semis knocking the Panthers out after East Orange had won the title four straight years. Shabazz had everything, height, jumping ability and speed. However, Valley countered that with good all-around play and five smart players, very similar to the Boston Celtics.

So, while Shabazz took turns dunking the ball in practice, Valley worked on the basics — layups, jump shots and passes. The Knights then went out and showed Shabazz how to play the game, winning by seven points, but leading by as many as 17 in the third quarter.

The following year, they were matched in the finals against Orange, then the No. 1-ranked team in the state. The game was for the county title, but also for bragging rights in Orange since Valley High School is also located there. Once again, it was a matter of who was better coached. Valley played so disciplined a game that Orange could not believe what was happening. Valley won this game 90-88, but once again had led throughout and allowed Orange to come close, though the Tornados never led after the first quarter. In 1980, Valley reached the finals for a third straight season, but this time was denied the title by Weequahic which used its superior height and speed to advantage. The game was anti-climatic, however, because the most exciting contest in last year's tourney took place in the semifinals as Valley defeated Barringer, the eventual state champion, on a Jerry Galichio jump shot with eight seconds left in the game.

The 1981 title will be decided this Saturday at Seton Hall University. If you have the time, come out and see the championship game. The basketball played is exciting and first-class. The players in this area are as good as any in the state and the Essex County Tournament is indeed the top-ranked tourney in New Jersey.

Speaking of the ECT, the girls' version has also produced some exciting, nail-biting affairs. Top-ranked Shabazz had to rally to defeat Glen Ridge last week, while East Orange, the defending champ, also needed a fourth-quarter rally to prevail. The semifinal round, like the quarterfinals, was held in Belleville yesterday and the finals will be tomorrow night at Seton Hall University.

If basketball is not your bag, the wrestling district championships begin tomorrow night at Belleville High School and will conclude on Saturday. The Buccaneers have a number of athletes who are favored to win. For a more in-depth look at their chances, read Joe Piegare's article on this page.

Did you see the Virginia-Notre Dame game Sunday? The Fighting Irish always seem to find a way to defeat the top-ranked team in the country and with a screaming home crowd lending its support, Notre Dame added to its bag of victories by beating Virginia on a last-second basket. The sport of college basketball is so unpredictable that it's totally impossible to say which teams will be in the final four next month in Philadelphia.

The Belleville High School athlete of the week is an honorary award to Lisa Aulisi, the very capable scorekeeper of the girls' basketball team. Keep up the good work!

The Belleville quote of the week belongs to Barbara "The Bouncing Bubble" Gundry of the girls' basketball team. Barbara

District 7 mat tourney starts tomorrow night

By Joe Piegare

Starting tomorrow evening, Belleville's Cinderella wrestling squad will find out if its fairy tale season will wind up wearing a glass slipper or turn into a pumpkin.

The boys will have their last chance of the year to perform as a team as they try to regain the title they lost last year to archrival Nutley High School. As a team, the grapplers have fashioned an impressive 13-1 record for the year against some of the stiffest competition in North Jersey.

Unlike last year when Chris Musmanno was the obvious star of the squad, this season's edition is a more rounded, well-balanced group. At one time or another, each boy has taken a turn in the spotlight.

Winning the district title will be no easy task for the Buccaneers as they will suffer a bit from facing so difficult a dual meet schedule. Most of the boys have impressive won-lost records, but no one is undefeated or even has a single defeat on his slate. When the seedings are announced, don't be surprised if our boys are placed rather low on the charts.

Now, let's get on with the business of predictions, a few criticisms and some well earned praise.

Anthony Stefanelli became the varsity 101-pounder as a sophomore after starring on Coach Dennis Vilano's freshman squad only a year ago. "Stef" has compiled a 13-5 log so far this year but is 3-0 against District 7 competition. Additionally, he finished third in the county championships last week and should be considered the favorite to win the title in the 101-pound division.

Frankly, unless "Stef" does a complete turnaround of his successful season so far, this writer doesn't see any way he can avoid becoming a district champ.

At 108 pounds, Ricky DePrizio is also in his first varsity campaign. Ricky hasn't done as well as Stefanelli, but he does have good reason. Actually, DePrizio is a true 101-pounder in his own right and is wrestling out of his weight division. He has compiled a 6-9-1 record for the year with three of his losses and the tie coming against senior grapplers. Ricky might get lucky and finish as high as third or fourth in the tournament if he corrects some of the mental errors he has committed over the course of the season. Realistically, he has no chance for a district title this year as Nutley's Bob Ayala and Kearny's Kevin Grier should battle for the right to go on to the regionals, being held this year at Kearny High School.

Team captain Tommy Graziano has held down the 115-pound spot all year and has compiled a 12-7-1 record. "Peanuts" has had his ups and downs for the season and is a vital factor in the Bucs' drive for the championship.

During the year, "Peanuts" earned his 41st career victory, good enough to place him in a tie with Bob Racioppi for 11th place on the all-time win list for Belleville wrestlers. However, Graziano has recently been in a terrible slump, losing five and gaining a draw in his last 10 decisions. In addition, "Peanuts" has only one victory this year over district foes.

Under normal conditions, this

Hoopmen close out disappointing year

By Mike Lamberti

And so it continues. The tough losses, the hard work that seems to go for naught, the disappointment afterwards.

Last week, the Belleville boys' basketball team dropped two more games to lower its season record to 3-18. The boys were beaten by Kearny 65-59 on Tuesday and on Wednesday were stopped 66-43 by an awesome squad from Queen of Peace. The team had lost eight in a row when it closed out the season Tuesday this week with a home game against Arts High School.

What has made this season so frustrating for head coach Joe Papisidero is that his team does have some good talent and on a number of occasions has played well enough to win. However, the club has almost always dropped the close games with some late errors that have proven very costly.

"The kids certainly are trying," a

One More Time? — Joe Iacona tangles with Nutley's Burt Simone in the county 141-pound finals. The two could well meet again in the District 7 Wrestling Tournament which starts here tomorrow.

writer would predict a gold medal for Graziano, but too many negative factors have surfaced to make such a forecast. Graziano has been making too many sophomore mistakes and has lost a great deal of confidence during his extended slump. If he can put all the pieces back together by tomorrow evening, there is no one in the district who can beat him. If he continues to make the same errors, he could be destined to finish as low as fourth.

Chris Botta is the representative for Belleville in the 122-pound division. In his first varsity season, Chris has compiled a 5-9 record against brutally difficult opposition. The likeable senior has wrestled nothing but the best all year and will probably be a very low seed in his weight class. What might save Chris in the districts is the fact that the 122-pound bracket is this year's weakest division. If Chris doesn't draw the first or second-seeded wrestler in his first bout, he might surprise a few people and finish as high as third or fourth in the tournament.

Competing in the 129-pound weight class is senior Jimmy Lombard, a third-place finisher in last year's District 7 championships. Lombard is 12-4-1 on the season with three of those defeats against Gene Kelly of West Essex. Jimmy should be seeded first in his weight class and will probably run away with the gold medal in a relatively

Girls facing Scotch Plains in first matchup of states

By Mike Lamberti

The Belleville girls' basketball team closed out its regular season by posting its second straight major upset, a 46-45 victory over 18th ranked Kearny at Belleville last Tuesday.

The girls, now 14-6, will not play until 3:45 p.m. Tuesday, March 3, at home against Scotch Plains in the first round of the Group IV, Section 2 playoffs. Should Buccanettes win, they will travel to Morristown for the tournament's second round.

The Kearny win was sweet revenge for the local girls who were plastered by the Kard ladies 69-42 in an earlier meeting at Kearny in January. In that game, Jennifer Apicella was hampered by an ankle injury while Carol Ann Salerno was battling a bad cold. This time, the local girls were ready and took the hard-fought victory in overtime as junior Barbara Gundry proved to be the hero. Gundry made two key steals, one in overtime, to preserve the triumph.

As usual, Apicella was the top scorer for the Buc girls, hitting for 25 points, which put her over the 400-point mark for the season. The freshman has been on quite a tear recently, hitting for 130 points over the last five games, an average of 26 points an outing. Meanwhile, Dawn "The Enforcer" Ritacco continued her mastery of the boards, hauling down 19 rebounds. Ritacco has been a story of steadiness all season long, making major contributions under the boards both offensively and defensively, as well as scoring at a 15.2 clip.

Head coach Karen Fuccello would not have been any more pleased with the outcome. "I was very happy with the way we played. We were waiting for Kearny to come back at us, and this time we were prepared for the close game," she said. "I think that the three close losses we have suffered the last couple of weeks have made us a better ballclub. Emotionally we were charged for the game and (Barbara) Gundry's steals were really a big help."

Now that the team has some time off, Fuccello will work on the press, a weapon she hopes will be to her team's advantage once the state tournament begins. "We will practice all week on our press," the coach said. "It's funny because against Kearny we didn't press at all and still won. However, I know how good we can be with an effective press so I intend to use it."

The coach hopes to arrange some scrimmages in the next week in order to keep her troops sharp. With

Rec basketball begins playoffs

The top three seeds for the upcoming championship tournament in the Recreation Boys' Basketball League were decided last week as victories by Charles Jewelers, Sandra T's and the L&Z Lakers earned them the first, second and third-place positions, respectively. At press time, Belleville-Newark Honda and DeBacco's will have met in their last regular-season game with identical 4-4 records, while another 4-4 team, Silk-Screen Photo, will have met the Outlaws as they all battle for the fourth-place edge.

Charles Jewelers shined its studs at the expense of the Outlaws 67-29 and remained unbeaten at 8-0. League scoring leader Allan Talmadge tossed in 26 points to raise his season total to a phenomenal 164 points. Johnny Brooks supported the cause with 10, while Greg Bever pitched in 10 for the Outlaws (3-5).

Sandra T's struggled past Silkscreen Photo 43-40 to improve to 7-1. High scorer Steve Byers used the two most important of his 15 points as the game-winning basket with 30 seconds remaining for a 41-40 lead. Frank Kokos dropped in two foul shots with five seconds left to insure the victory. Billy Sotomayor scored 11 points for the winners, while Nick and Joe Biase led Silkscreen with 20 and 10 points respectively.

The L&Z Lakers jumped to their 6-2 mark by defeating the Raiders 53-20. Phil Cerza (21 points), Jerry Ross (12) and Dave Grant (10) provided the margin of victory. The Raiders (1-7), led by Mike Vega with 14 points, were destined for a very difficult game in the playoff.

The Telegram (3-5) and DeBacco's accepted forfeits during week eight and used the time of to tune up for the playoffs.

Men's Basketball League

The highlight game of the evening was the matching of last season's league finalists, Triple "S" Sports and Chief Motors. Triple "S" emerged with a 78-72 victory to raise its league-leading record to 8-0. Bernard Cosby led the way for Triple "S" with 25 points and Abdel Anderson chipped in 21. Todd McDougal scored 19 points and Dan Dunn 16 for Chief Motors (6-2).

The Garden Avenue Boys rallied from a halftime deficit to take a 60-51 decision from International Paint. Mike McAvoy hit for 21 points for Garden Avenue. Rich Baker scored 28 for International Paint.

In another close game, the Red Shingle Inn edged the Minuteman Press 58-56. Mark Veniero scored 19 points and Mike Dondarski 17 for Red Shingle. Bob Baumgartner topped Minuteman with 24 points.

The Knicks (6-2) defeated the Aces 92-46 behind a high-power offense led by Gary Mascitelli with 27 points, Dennis Kiel with 21 and Bob Thrash with 19. Neil Aurrechio scored 14 points and Ron Thompson 12 for the Aces.

Bruce Gardner poured in 51 points to lead Nu-Plaz Tavern to a 95-64 victory over BJ's Tavern. His total is believed to be the league record for most points scored in a single game. Nu-Plaz raised its record to 7-1 overall, keeping it in second place. Gary Bell led BJ's with 24 points.

Record Shop had all its could handle from DeBacco Brothers but hung on for a 72-70 victory. Rich Clark popped in 17 points and Paul Lade added 15 for the winners. Bob Testa topped DeBacco's with 17 points and Gary Pitts had 13.

Men's Over-30 League

The Mavericks advanced to the semifinals of the Men's Over-30 Basketball League playoffs by beating Floor-Lift of New Jersey 66-34 in opening round play.

The Mavericks were led by Tony Sorrentino's 28 points and Pete Gerst's 16. Henry Lazorko scored 16 points for Floor-Lift. The Mavericks will meet the top-seeded defending champion Rec House this week.

The Radio Shack rolled to a 58-16 victory over the Lenape Indians to advance in the playoffs. Frank Caraccia had 20 points and James Riley 14. Radio Shack, whose size was too much for Lenape, plays second-seeded McCabe's Tavern in the semifinal round.

'Dancercizing' starts March 5

The Recreation Department is offering free "dancercize" classes for women 18 and over. Dancercizing is a form of aerobic activity in which exercises are set to music. The program is aimed at improving lung efficiency, circulation and muscle tone.

The class will begin 7:30 p.m. next Thursday, March 5, at the Friendly House, 21 Frederick St. Donna Aulisi, a Belleville High School graduate now teaching physical education in Montclair, is the certified instructor. She recommends loose-fitting clothing be worn and asked those attending to be on time. If there is a large turnout, the class will be divided into two groups for the session the following week.

Participants must be Belleville residents and must wear sneakers to be admitted.

McNish offers bleak picture of crime situation

factors, said McNish. First a person must have the desire to commit a crime. Next he must have the ability. With those two basics, the criminal will look for a place to commit a crime and then an area or means for escape.

Taking those factors into consideration can help prevent a tragedy from occurring. McNish used jeweler Aaron Cohen as an example. "He is one of the best targets for a crime I have ever seen," said the sergeant as Cohen, an older, portly gent, stood. A criminal would be attracted to the watch chain hanging in the open from Cohen's vest, McNish pointed out. Because of the jeweler's age, the criminal would see he had the ability to commit the crime.

The thief wouldn't be very likely to strike in a public place like the Casa Polizzi Restaurant, where the Chamber luncheon was held. Rather, he might follow Cohen to his car and confront him when he was alone. The attack would probably be a violent one, McNish said. "He'd rip your fingers apart and find something to hit you over the head with," the sergeant said.

As people living in a free country, we might think we have a right to dress up and wear jewelry, "but in our society today that isn't possible," said McNish.

McNish also advised women not to carry their purses when shopping and said shoppers should park as close to stores as possible to minimize walking distance and danger. Once inside a store, a person should show only a "working amount of cash," rather than a large wad of bills. You never know who's watching, McNish warned.

"The only way we can come to grips with it (crime) is the help of the people," the sergeant said. "It's not your taxes, you're already paying enough. It's your eyes and some of the other gifts God gave you."

If you are robbed, try to stay as calm as possible, McNish said. That will reduce your chances of getting hurt because "the person you have to be afraid of the one who's afraid."

"If you're held up, give it all to them and more," McNish advised. While you're doing that, though, have enough composure to get a description of the thief in your mind. Eighty-five percent of all criminals are repeat offenders, the sergeant noted, and their pictures are on file. Statistically speaking, 15 percent of the persons attending the Chamber lunch could expect to be held up, he said.

McNish told Chamber members they should wait for a crime to occur before calling police, though. If you see someone strange in the neighborhood, get on the phone, he said, making a special point of adding that people shouldn't be afraid of feeling prejudiced when they call. If a white person were seen walking through one of the projects on McCarter Highway, Newark police would get five phone calls. "So if you see somebody black who isn't delivering papers, call in — that's our job," McNish said.

Sometimes when a criminal walks into a store, his intent isn't to rob it but to unload his ill-gotten gains. Unfortunately, McNish noted, there are all too many "law-abiding" citizens willing to help. A big business is being done in stolen gold items which are being bought for cash and melted down. "The evidence is gone, there's no receipts, it's history," said McNish.

Be on the lookout too for traveling salesmen offering bargains. A woman on Mill Street bought a 25-inch television set from a man who came to her door, the sergeant said. When she discovered it didn't work, she called police to report she'd been ripped off, apparently unconcerned that somebody else had been ripped off to provide her with the TV in the first place. McNish said he had trouble staying in the same room with her.

There are no easy answers to the crime problem, either in fighting it or in getting at so-called "root causes," the sergeant said.

Criminals are getting more professional and sometimes even the more sophisticated alarm systems won't stop them. McNish told Chamber members he personally didn't like the idea of hook-ups to the police station. "To be honest with you, we would arrive very quickly and the man is still going to be in the house." Safety should be the crime victim's first priority and he should get out of his house or business rather than stay and fight.

Gun control laws aren't likely to stop murders or robberies because criminals will always have easy access to weapons and aren't thinking about laws or the consequences of violating them, McNish said. The large majority of crimes today are drug-related, and Essex County is one of the five most crime-ridden in the nation. Heroin was 5 to 15 percent pure when he was a rookie in the 1960s, the sergeant noted. Now it is usually 80 percent pure. All that means criminals who are addicts and will stop at nothing for drug money.

McNish said poverty or joblessness had little to do with crime in his experience. "I have never seen in all my days a time when a guy says, 'Hey, I committed an armed robbery because I don't have food on the table,'" McNish noted.

What police officers do see, he said, is "the worst there is to see." He told Chamber members he would leave their luncheon to work on a case involving a man accused of molesting several young girls. (The arrest was made later in the week. See story this issue.) Later in the day, McNish said, he might be in on a drug bust or investigating a robbery. "These are all things that we do in the course of a day." So if a police officer is sometimes gruff or rude, the public should treat him with understanding. "Don't forget we are human," the sergeant said.

McNish heads Belleville's Juvenile Bureau, and he sees that as the department's most important work since youngsters can be set on the right path if they are reached early enough. Here again, though, the outlook is not good, the sergeant said, because the family structure is deteriorating. The economy does play a role in this situation because in many homes, both parents must work, leaving children without supervision, McNish noted.

Even in more recent times, it was generally the boys who ran afoul of the law, but no more. "The promiscuity among the girls is unbelievable. ERA has really been effective at the junior high school level:

The girls are committing crimes just like the guys, breaking into houses and taking drugs," McNish said.

The jail population is overwhelming, and police "almost have to make an appointment" to put a criminal behind bars. Unfortunately, McNish said, the crime problem seems destined to get worse. Juvenile programs like the one in Belleville are failing. "I am not cynical, I'm an optimistic person — they don't work," said McNish.

"Bleak? Yes, but we have to trudge along," he concluded.

Man, 66, is arrested for child molesting

Belleville police have arrested a 66-year-old Jorammon Street man and charged him with molesting four pre-teen girls.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Frank Haight said the arrest last Wednesday ended a six-month investigation headed by Det. Sgt. Martin McNish of the Belleville Juvenile Bureau. The investigation began after a complaint by a parent of a school-age child, and led detectives to four other girls, ages 9 through 12, who had allegedly been molested by the suspect.

Police have charged the man with four criminal sexual acts and two counts of lewdness. All the acts allegedly took place in the suspect's apartment or by the side of the pool at his apartment complex. Haight added that the girls had at times gone on trips with the man to places, visiting the Empire State Building in New York City and traveling as far as Florida. Haight noted that all of the trips were made with the consent of the girls' parents.

Panel prepares for first hearing

more response from local voters, who can call a special telephone number (to be announced soon) or attend the forum in person at Bloomfield Public Library.

The hearing will be held in Bloomfield because Belleville High doesn't have adequate television facilities, an appropriation Trustee Mike Chieffo has been pushing for some time.

Though more "exposure" is the word DiStasi emphasizes, most local critics who care enough to attend meetings say exposure whether on TV or at a local school will not prevent another budget massacre; only a detailed, account-by-account delineation of where funds are going, a two-year comparison of account costs and plausible reasons for the increases will prove to residents that trustees aren't hoodwinking them.

Finance committee chairman Charles Miele — who recommended taking an inventory of each account to find out what's left over from the previous year in each and what will be needed for the next — said he has already checked several accounts, notably the one for athletics where $29,000 in cuts were made when sufficient inventory was discovered. He said the new furniture account was also cut, since chairs from the shut-down School I are now being used in other schools.

Yet Miele doubted citizens would be handed a specific line item accounting, adding he really didn't think that was necessary since his committee had already made the cuts. Told citizens took his inventory suggestion to heart, Miele seemed glad but repeated it was unnecessary to go into deep detail.

"The booklets that we have prepared in the past will be prepared again," said DiStasi, who along with Chieffo and Channel T Director Bob LaBruzza is hoping the TV discussion is a hit.

"We're trying to reach a broader base of people," said DiStasi, explaining why cable TV is being used. "At least they'll have a better understanding of what it's all about."

DiStasi said the budget presentation's "Nielsen ratings" would be determined by the number of phone calls received. He said his panel would stress that administrators trimmed $550,000 to bring Belleville's school budget under "cap." Panelists will also be "trying to bring out the budget's highlights."

Asked about Miele's suggestion that line items be inventoried, DiStasi noted the panel would identify "other expenses" and "miscellaneous expenses" in "more specific detail," but he said comparisons for expenses over the last two years "will have to be brought out in discussions with people." He said if a citizen's question couldn't be fully answered, the answer would be provided at the next board meeting or budget hearing.

"The apathy is what kills these budgets," said DiStasi of a town where rarely do more than 4,000 of the 17,000 registered voters cast ballots. At most, the TV budget presentation will reach the estimated 5,200 local homes with cable.

Last week, trustees couldn't decide whether to telecast the presentation live or delay it due to the possibility of obscene calls. Trustee Caesar Romano suggested renting a "squawk box" which tapes incoming calls then plays them over an intercom. However, trustees disliked that idea since follow-up questions wouldn't be possible. "You're going to need somebody who can handle things without getting flustered," said Romano.

Another possibility was to put the show on a five-minute tape delay to allow time for "unstable" calls or profanities to be deleted. Up to $500 has been approved for the show's expenses, mainly telephone hook-ups and background sets, but Chieffo doesn't expect more than $300 to be spent. A proposal to send flyers home with schoolchildren about the show, and possibly have the flyers placed in cable guides sent to local Suburban Cablevision viewers seemed agreeable to most trustees, but nothing specific was okayed.

Chieffo leaving School Board with memories good and bad

higher office, and Chieffo said in reply that Pica "did go on to seek higher office and thank goodness for this town."

Chieffo said he was glad he'd voted to hire both High School Principal John DeCesare and School Superintendent Dr. John Greed and that he'd learned, "it's better to be respected in your job than liked."

Chieffo also praised newcomers Tom Zampino and John DiStasi for helping him, and also had kind words for Assistant Superintendents Seymour Grossman (his elementary school principal) and Michael Nardiello.

"Most of all I'd like to thank your children and my children," he said, referring to the happy, exhilarating moments he experienced being around youngsters.

been riddled with charges of politicking and favoritism in the past, but last year's campaign was called the cleanest in years by many board observers.

This year too so far, the talk has been mostly of issues, and The Times posed several questions to Spillane and Zoppi earlier this week.

Both were asked what voters should be looking for in a potential trustee, other than the legal criteria that a candidate be a naturalized citizen, district resident for two years, be able to read and write, be 18 or over and have no direct or indirect interest in any contract or claim against the board.

Zoppi said being "level-headed and impartial, and having somebody that's willing to sit and listen...and make a decision for the best of the majority" are qualities to be expected in a good board member.

"Forget the fact that you're going to make enemies and friends by being there...some trustees we have now are gun-shy," he said, referring find new ways to save water.

Two weeks ago, Belleville nearly achieved the 25 percent reduction in water use mandated by the state. Vogel credits homeowners, business and industry for that, but fears local tenants aren't doing enough to cut back.

"They probably figure, 'why should I conserve if the landlord has to pay,'" said Vogel last week. But he noted landlords can pass along water surcharges if they can prove to New Jersey's Water Emergency Task Force they've fixed all plumbing leaks, offered to install water-saving showerheads and posted conservation signs available at Town Hall.

Vogel said about 50 signs have already been scooped up, not necessarily landlords, and he hopes more townsfolk are caught up in the conservation movement. "With all the rain we've been having, water conservation may not be on their minds," said Vogel. He said talking to your neighbors about conservation along with planning specific ways to cut back your water bill will save you dollars and help keep New Jersey wet for a few more days, weeks or months.

Vogel said most apartment complexes showed little savings when checked several weeks ago, and predicts that unless landlords and tenants cooperate to save water, many could still be flouting conservation guidelines even if the town as a whole passes the 25 percent reduction goal.

Meanwhile, a bit of zaniness has been injected into an otherwise grim situation. The state task force last Thursday ruled that residents under conservation can't use "recycled water" from washing machines or dish water to wash cars but can use that water to quench thirsty plants, lawns and shrubs. The only reason citizens are permitted to water plants with recycled water is because no "commercial" businesses for plant-watering are generally available. Residents should take their cars to professional washes rather than washing their own cars, the task force says.

Chieffo noted he'd be making a "roman a clef" documentary about Belleville in 12 to 18 months. The show will focus on four characters and will probably be seen on cable TV. He said the documentary was his way of saying "thank you" to Belleville's people.

Chieffo and his wife Gail have two children, Lenore, 12, and Mike, 8. Besides owning Chief Motors, a used car dealership on Washington Avenue, he runs Chief Development Corporation, a home improvement business.

"I leave with no regrets but sincere thanks to all of you," Chieffo said, concluding his resignation speech.

Chieffo gained prominence during his terms for his stands against alleged board politicking on teacher appointments and his attempts to bring more information to citizens questioning trustees.

Along with colleagues Caesar Romano and former board president Ralph Risoli, he opposed submitting a school desegregation plan, believing that the principle of home rule was more important than the state's insistence that moving children around, or "playing with numbers" as he called it, would eliminate alleged segregation here.

Chieffo got much of his satisfaction from helping youngsters learn football and baseball, and he was a guiding force behind the founding of the Belleville High "Hall of Fame" and the creation of a recreation program for 6-year-olds. He worked with colleagues and friends, putting in long hours to encourage future athletes.

Chieffo was instrumental in raising funds to build a senior courtyard at BHS, still awaiting construction, and helping cable TV get off the ground in Belleville. His show, "Belleville In Review," features local news and guests.

As a board member, Chieffo said he's had "the opportunity to meet a good number of people and get a good awareness of what's going on."

"There's a dire need of leadership everywhere," he said last week, before declaring his intentions. He stressed this week that he'd stay in politics because "I have faith in this country and this area."

Besides politics, Chieffo has also been dabbling in show biz, and will be seen in the soon-to-be released "Rich and Famous," starring Jacqueline Bisset and Candice Bergen. Chieffo's film debut has him as a taxi cab driver, but viewers will have to look quickly to catch him, provided the editors don't cut the frames out.

Zoppi is against having an appointed board, and Spillane agrees, saying politicking would occur to a greater degree with commissioners making appointments. Candidates would then be currying commissioners' favor, rather than seeking votes from the public, he believes. Zoppi said commissioners might appoint residents politically "attuned" to themselves, which could taint board members just as much as electioneering. The appointed board issue is one of the few on which Zoppi and Spillane agree.

Asked what issues should dominate the School Board campaign, Zoppi declined to get into many specifics, saying he'd release his full platform next Monday night.

He said he's sorry some residents think he's a political ogre, gaveling them to silence for abusing the board's controversial five-minute time limit on speakers. Zoppi said he will usually open a public executive session to comments if the speaker contacts him before a meeting. Several times when he has opened executive sessions to public comment though, Zoppi has cut off speakers who have personally attacked specific trustees. However, he says the five-minute limit should be imposed sparingly.

"The one time you may want to use it is at a budget hearing, where sometimes one person monopolizes, or tries to monopolize all the time," Zoppi said. "You can call it a 'gag rule' or anything you want, but you won't get anything done sometimes if you don't have it." Zoppi let several citizens talk for about 15 minutes each Monday night.

Agreeing trustees have a poor public image, Zoppi said, "You're never going to be able to change that as long as you have rabble-rousers...most of the clear thinkers don't show up at our meetings to voice their opinions," he said, implying as trustees often do that their public perception is much worse than deserved.

Spillane feels meetings shouldn't degenerate into shouting matches or personal quibbling, but should instead be information-gathering sessions for schoolers who should listen to citizens but avoid needless arguments over untrue accusations. Referring to Monday night's verbal slugfest, he said, "You can't blame the citizens for that, you have to blame the board. The board's public meetings seem to evolve into personality clashes rather than just listening like the commissioners do."

Spillane said part of the reason public meetings turn into personality battles could be because trustees are seated above all the citizens on the high school stage "and it looks like they're up on a pedestal. They should arrange it so the board sits on the same level as the citizens do," he said.

"The board loses a lot by the form they use during meetings," asserted Spillane. "Believe me, doing this couldn't hurt."

Spillane said Belleville's $13.1 million school budget should be the campaign's No. 1 issue. "No savings have yet been evident from the school closings," he emphasized. "There has to be savings. In fuel alone, they saved money, so where is it?"

He said trustees should have looked more closely into the possibility of eliminating some administrative or teacher positions following the closing of Schools 1 and 2. Spillane said trustees seemed satisfied with dropping six teacher positions through attrition, rather than digging for even more savings.

"I doubt if any of the board members could say they're absolutely positive this is the lowest budget they could have," he said.

Spillane also identified as another top campaign issue what he called board interference in administrative decisions. "The board should be in effect a rubber stamp for administrative hiring," said Spillane, stressing trustees pay administrators high salaries to perform their jobs and should respect their decisions.

"By interfering in the administrative process, the board does a disservice to the school system. You've got to make sure the administration's doing their job by allowing them to do it," repeated Spillane.

"If you interfere with their job, you have nobody to blame but yourself for any foul-up. There's no sense in paying them all that money (administrative salaries total $289,829 for 1981-82), if you're going to take their job away from them. I don't want to do (School Superintendent) Dr. (John) Greed's job or (JHS Principal) Mario DiMaggio's job...I just want to be a trustee," concluded Spillane.

Candidates throw parties next week

Ernie Zoppi and Tom Spillane are inviting the public to attend get-togethers they are holding in the next few days to promote their candidacies for the Board of Education.

Spillane's campaign committee will sponsor an open house 4:30-6:30 p.m. this Sunday at the Belleville Knights of Columbus Hall, 98 Bridge St. The candidate, a Bell Telephone engineer who made an unsuccessful run for the board last year, will be on hand to discuss educational issues. Refreshments will be served.

Zoppi, the board's president, is kicking off his re-election campaign with a beer and hot dog party beginning 7:30 p.m. next Thursday, March 5, at the K of C Hall.

Zoppi has put together a campaign committee that boasts some of Belleville's leading citizens. Grace Purdue and Phil Linfante, who sought election to the board in 1979, are the campaign's co-chairmen. Former public safety commissioner Rocco Saletta will direct field operations and former trustee Peter Clarizio has been named treasurer.

The 25 members of the Zoppi committee will meet at the K of C Hall 7 p.m. each Sunday and invite residents interested in working on the board president's campaign to attend.

Alcoholism course starts here March 5

The Community Mental Health Service of Belleville, Bloomfield and Nutley will be offering a five-week course on alcoholism in conjunction with the Belleville Adult Education program.

The agency's decision to present the course was in part determined by the fact that Essex County has one of the highest rates of alcohol abuse in northern New Jersey, according to State Health Systems statistics.

Although New Jersey law has mandated that each local board of education develop an instructional curriculum on the nature of alcoholism, little emphasis has been placed on reaching the adult population with the helpful facts this mini-course will present.

The free course will be offered at Belleville High School and will run 7-8:30 p.m. five consecutive Thursdays beginning March 5.

The classes will consist of lectures, films and discussion groups. There will be guest speakers from Alcoholics Anonymous, Al-Anon, Ala-Teen and Mountainside Hospital's alcohol rehabilitation center. Representatives of the National Council on Alcoholism will also attend. A special series of skits depicting problems related to alcoholism will be presented by the Mental Health Players of New Jersey.

For more information contact, program coordinator Ed Pecukonis at 751-1630.
