"Butch" Kowal, William A. O'Leary, PBA secretary, and John DeStefano, PBA state delegate. Mr. Kowal was given a silver life membership card because of his long, loyal support to the Rahway Police Department.

103 DONORS, 3 POSTPONEMENTS

Bloodmobile Collects 100 Pints During Rahway, Clark Stopover

More than 100 pints of blood were donated at the Community Bloodmobile conducted by Rahway-Clark Chapter, American Red Cross last Monday, at the Columbian Club.

A total of 106 donors were on hand from nine organizations and the community at large. Blood was accepted from 103 and there were three postponements.

Mrs. George M. Kotuby, blood program chairman, was in charge. She was assisted by 23 volunteers, who donated a total of 85 1/2 hours of service.

They included, Dr. Manley C. Williams, who organized the group; Dr. Melvin Lipowitz, Dr. Richard Newman, Dr. Robert Zweibel, Dr. Ray McArthur Freeman and Dr. Bernard J. Nicora.

Also, nurses Mrs. Marie DeStefano, Mrs. Frederick Fairclough and Mrs. Irene Dolinich; nurses' aide, Mrs. John Stopka; staff aides, Mrs. Leland Pohl, Mrs. George Guiler, Mrs. John Major, Mrs. William Pearson, Jr., Mrs. Thelma Little, Mrs. John Nemeth, Mrs. John Thun and Mrs. Donald Bartlett.

Key Club members from Rahway High School who aided the Bloodmobile crew were Glenn Rice and Thomas Reid; Motor Corps, Mrs. Leona Werbeck and canteen, Mrs. Irene Gonczlik and Mrs. Minnie Verrillo.

Participating blood groups included Rahway Council 1144, Knights of Columbus; Zion Lutheran Church, Rahway Hebrew Congregation, First Baptist Church, Trinity United Methodist Church, First Presbyterian Church, Second Presbyterian Church, St. Mark's R.C. Church and United Church of Christ.

ALL AFIRE WITH ENTHUSIASM... Members of the Key Club, their faces all aglow, cradled no doubts about the Clark Crusaders winning the Watchung Conference grid championship on Turkey Day. An indication of their optimism is this mini-mountain of wood which they collected for a bonfire rally on Wednesday night. Then, alas, some culprits poured gasoline on it and burned it down ... on Tuesday night! Then Clark beat Scotch Plains, 13-7, to annex their first title ever and ignite anew the ardor of the Key Clubbers.

Clark Grabs Grid Title, First in School's History

Happiness is winning the Watchung Conference football championship. Which makes coach Toad Mercer and his Clark Crusaders the happiest guys in these diggings in the last 13 years.

The Crusaders, under the able guidance of first-year mentor Mercer, clinched their first Watchung crown ever by defeating game, stubborn Scotch Plains, 13-7, before 5,500 hysterical fans on Thanksgiving Day at Nolan Field.

The victory enabled the Crusaders to finish the league season with a 6-1 record. Berkeley Heights, which had displayed lots of run in the stretch, lost the title to Clark in a photo-finish 5-1-1 record.

Ruling Reversed, Proposals to Stand

Frank T. Swain, assistant township attorney, has ruled that the two negative votes cast against each of three ordinances brought up at the last meeting of the Clark council were not sufficient to block introduction.

The ordinances pertain to vacation days, rezoning and police uniform allowances. Swain is a member of the law firm of Johnstone and O'Dwyer whose senior partner, Irvine Johnstone, is township attorney, and after research reversed the ruling which held the ordinances blocked by a 3-2 vote. Councilman Bernard G. Yarusavage said that research had revealed that only a majority of members present is needed for approval on first reading. Approval by four members is applicable only to final reading. Yarusavage introduced the measures on increasing vacations from 14 to 15 days for employees who have worked for the city for six

Was It Really for More of the Same?

Most people assume, I am convinced, that the election returns on Nov. 5 show the American people voting for a change. It is true of course that President-elect Richard M. Nixon and Vice-president Hubert H. Humphrey received about 43 per cent of the ballots each, and that the popular vote difference between them was only several hundred thousand in Nixon's favor.

It must be remembered, however, that 10 million Americans, 13 per cent of those voting, also cast their ballots against Mr. Humphrey by voting for George C. Wallace. As a consequence it is fair to say that 56 per cent of the electorate voted for a change from the policies of the Johnson-Humphrey administration.

As a matter of fact, it was President Lyndon B. Johnson's uncertainty about the likelihood of his being re-elected which caused him to announce last March that he would not seek another term in the White House.

What kind of change was it that the people voted for last month? Well, they certainly wanted an end to what they had been getting from the incumbents. First of all, that meant the seemingly endless war in Viet Nam. It was also characterized by a progressive breakdown of law and order, and an alarming increase in the crime rate in the nation's cities. Deficit spending and inflation, a new high in government give-aways, and an accelerating surge toward the welfare state and socialism were other features of the regime that was voted out.

Conversely, if the people had wanted a continuation of the Johnson-Humphrey program, they could have had it by making the Vice-president our next Chief Executive.

Accordingly, in view of what can only be interpreted as a mandate for change, it comes as something of a surprise to read in a United Press story last week that the President-elect has been presented with a book, Agenda For The Nation, which, except as regards the southeast-Asia war, calls for "more of the same."

To be sure, everyone agrees with its contention that Mr. Nixon's "paramount task must be to stop the fighting," and that this must be done as quickly as possible. Unfortunately however, from the taxpayer's point of view, the claim is then advanced that the money saved thereby ought to be used to solve "America's urgent domestic troubles."

However, for reasons to be offered later, it is the belief of this writer that the President-elect ought to view the recommendations of Agenda For The Nation with a critical eye. In the first place the book was published by "the nonpartisan Brookings Institution, a Washington 'think tank' with the support of a

Under-Feather Agents Being Trained to Spy ... And That's for Real

"Spying ... that's for the birds, according to University of Mississippi psychologists who hope they can train our fine feathered friends to be top - secret aerial reconnaissance agents. The psychologists are studying the chances of teaching ordinary birds -- hawks, sea gulls, or owls (naturals for night work) -- to identify troop formations, weaponry, tanks and submarines. As more far - flown possibilities, the birds might even learn to drop hand grenades, trigger missiles, or guide rescue teams to downed planes. The Ole Miss researchers hope to draw on birds' natural advantages for surveillance work: their keen sight and rather endless camouflage possibilities. The Department of Defense has given the psychologists a grant to find out if birds can be used as under - feather agents."

The foregoing gem is taken verbatim from the November, 1968 issue of AMERICAN EDUCATION, official publication of the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

There will be no effort here to depreciate the ingenuity of the officials who thought up this new way to spend the taxpayer's money. It is, we must confess, unmatched by any previous federally - financed undertaking that has come to our attention, and humble homage is due the originators of the idea. Still, it is doubtful whether it is sufficient justification for the 2 billion, 946 million dollars estimated expenditures for the Office of Education during fiscal 1967.

In an October newsletter, California Congressman James B. Utt advised his constituents of other idiosyncrasies of the Washington spenders as evidenced by these budget items discovered by his colleague, H. R. Gross, of Iowa; studies of Apache Indian history; computer analysis of style problems in epic poetry; a study of the Arabic community in Spain during the Middle Ages; research for a book on Medieval comic drama; a study of aspects of Wordsworth's reading and writing "which may have gone unnoticed or misinterpreted," and, a study of the background of 17th century members of Parliament.

Marine Hubert M. Lifred Will Receive Silver Star

LCpl. Hubert M. Lifred, the son of Mrs. Jane Lifred, of 550 Capobianco Plaza, Rahway, and a 1966 graduate of Rahway High School, is to be awarded the Silver Star for bravery in action. Attached to the Third Battalion, Ninth Marines, as a fireteam leader with the First Platoon, LCpl. Lifred was on duty near Tien on Sept. 12 when his unit was ambushed by a North Vietnam Army unit.

The point element received heavy casualties and when the rest of the platoon attempted to remove their dead and wounded, they were pinned down by intense enemy fire.

LCpl. Lifred then took his fireteam and, moving to the left of his pinned-down unit, approached the enemy position from an adjacent gully. Setting up a base of fire, Lifred and his fireteam, still under heavy enemy fire, began moving dead and wounded Marines to a protected area.

Lifred's actions and ability under such hazardous conditions qualified him as the "Marine of the Month" with his outfit, known as Lima Company.

Hats Off to Candystripers! 19 Get Caps

Nineteen Candystripers were capped at an afternoon ceremony in Rahway Hospital's conference room in recognition of 200 or more hours of service to the hospital.

Mrs. Ann Donovan, director of Inservice Volunteers, greeted the teenagers and their guests. She commended the girls for working many hours in many capacities to earn their caps.

"The hospital awards these caps with pride and knows you will wear them with pride," she said.

Miss Marilyn Pribila, evening supervisor of nursing, capped the Candystripers after certificates were presented to them. The recipients were Patricia Alenczewicz, Cynthia Anderer, Ellen Bahl, Carol Bauernschmitt, Donna Cantalupo, Michaela Bober, Joanne Brooks, Christine Cantalupo, Christine Dands, Janet DiPasquale, Donna Dunham, Kathy Koch, Ann McDarby, Gail Moore, Nancy Pennella, Susan Seals, Joan Stawinski, Robin Syvertsen and Charlynn Tyler.

The Candystriper movement was started during World War II by Miss Ruth Lindsey, who was guidance director at East Orange Junior High School. Miss Lindsey was interested in nursing and thought young volunteers could be very helpful to the nursing department at East Orange General Hospital.

She personally trained the Candystripers, starting with a mere handful. The graduates of the program proved to be so valuable that the hospital requested that they be used in areas other than nursing. Since then, the program spread across the country and today Candystripers are active in several thousand hospitals.

Rahway Hospital has 125 Candystripers on its roll and many on its waiting list. It is required that applicants be 14 years old and in the ninth grade before completing an application form which includes inquiries about special areas of interest and parents' written consent. The junior volunteers then secure the traditional red-and-white striped pinafores, attend orientation classes and receive on-the-job training with experienced Candystripers.

Assignments involve any department in the hospital where an "extra pair of helping hands" might be needed. The girls might file, type, run errands for patients or hospital employees, refill water pitchers, deliver flowers or play with pediatric patients. Through observation, they learn about health careers in hospitals and many are inspired to enter related fields.

The following students in health careers are former Candystripers at Rahway Hospital: Candy Beam, Helen Dands, Diane Dudek, Patricia Epprecht, Judith Hoff, Janet Kazakawitz, Brenda Louy and Nancy Rees, Mary Mellott, Doris Ann Ness, Mary Nowakowski and Madalyn Skorupski. Two current Candystripers have plans to attend nursing schools after graduation. Janet DiPasquale has applied to the Helene Fuld School of Nursing, Trenton, and Ruth Deardorff has applied to the Ann May School of Nursing.

The Benefits of Self-Help

The political campaign which finally came to an end on November 5, served to remind us, again, that this is the age of the "big benefit." Scarcely a candidate failed to register his generous attitude toward Social Security benefits, Medicare benefits, welfare benefits, and on down the list.

Taxpayers are conditioned to expect promising politicians to bandy about proposals for increasing this or that taxpayer - financed benefit program by so many millions -- or billions -- of dollars. Yet with all this emphasis on Federal Government benefits we may be guilty of overlooking a self - help benefit program in which millions of Americans participate by choice. Private enterprise has some million - dollar and billion - dollar benefit programs, too.

At hand is a press release from the insurance people, Mutual of Omaha, which drives home the point. On October 31 that company delivered a $532 health insurance benefit check to a disabled, self - employed mason contractor in Cornwall, New York. That monthly check brought the total of the company's benefit payments to $3 billion. In fact, the company states that it is now paying out an average of over $5 million in benefits every week.

That announcement prompted a look in the 1968 World Almanac, and we found that 19 million persons enrolled in the Federal Government's Medicare program in the first year of operation. But the Almanac also notes that two years ago the Health Insurance Institute reported that no less than 158 million persons in this country had arranged for hospital insurance on their own, and paid it out of their earnings, voluntarily. Undoubtedly the number has grown since 1966.

This one company, the aforementioned Mutual of Omaha, has paid out more than $1 billion in benefits to policyholders in the past 4 years, a figure which documents that in this great country of ours the American way is still voluntary self - protection.

It appears to us that most Americans seem to be aware that, while political promises may buy votes, it is self - insurance that buys protection. The "big benefit" in this world is still the one that we earn, or pay for, ourselves.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:
The Executive Committee of The Rahway Citizens for Neighborhood Schools would like to take this opportunity to advise its membership and other interested people of the progress being made through the efforts of our organization. Locally, we are preparing for the coming school board elections to be held in February. We are at present working on assembling an incomparable slate of four people, who will be dedicated to the neighborhood school concept and a pledge to return our school system to normalcy.

Other high priority items will be a review of curriculum, an improved teacher-administration relationship and a comprehensive study and review of the preparation of the annual school budget to eliminate the "credibility gap" that has existed in many of the previous budgets. There will be additional items forthcoming when the platform of the neighborhood school slate is announced in its entirety and when the names of the candidates will be made known.

On a regional level, we have been in contact with many similar type school groups from surrounding communities who are having many of the same type of problems Rahway is having. It is interesting to note that when you analyze some of the edicts from commissioner Marburger's office to various towns that it always fits a pattern to "ELIMINATE NEIGHBORHOOD SCHOOLS" and to "TAKE AWAY LOCAL CONTROL OF THE SCHOOL SYSTEMS" through the "blackmail" type tactics of threatening to take away state and federal aid, the "educrats" are forcing their will on local school boards and are transferring the local board powers to their Trenton, N.J., and Washington, D.C., headquarters. The trend is unmistakable. The usurping of this power must not be allowed to continue. These are OUR hard earned tax dollars and no state or federal officials should have the power to coerce the citizenry into accepting their dictates by threats of withholding monies to the school system. The RCNS feels that only through a statewide organization can we accomplish our goals. We have, therefore, initiated steps to form such an organization composed of various school and taxpayer groups to make our voices heard loud and clear throughout the state. Our state and federal legislative representatives must be bombarded with letters and telegrams demanding a reversal of the present trend. Gov. Hughes must be pressured into putting the reins on Commissioner Marburger. The new administration in Washington must be pressured into halting the Department of Health Education and Welfare's advance into local school issues.

We do not envision any miracles along these lines to accomplish our goals. It will be a hard fight and we need the support of every parent and taxpayer in Rahway to continue the struggle on behalf of our most valued and cherished possessions--our children. Remember, they are your children; they don't belong to any school board, state or federal government. Your wishes must and will prevail if only you make yourselves heard on this vital issue.

The Rahway Citizens for Neighborhood Schools Executive Committee

To The Editor:
Do you know that almost 9,000 voters cast their ballot in the general election on the issue of whether we should return to the appointive Board of Education or retain the elective one?
Do you realize that less than 2,000 cast their vote in a School Board election?
This brings to mind the old cliché "You can't have your cake and eat it too."
You, the voters hold the purse strings on the school budget. I am sure those in administration want to use the money wisely, therefore academics come first as they should.
But what about athletics? Do you remember when Rahway had outstanding teams in all the sports in which they competed? What has happened is simple to explain, the schools with which Rahway compete have feeder pro-

To The Editor:
How long can the American people endure the war in Vietnam? How many more boys will be killed before this war is won?
These are the questions I find many people asking now, but no one has the answers.
Mr. Humphrey says the war might go on twenty years; I surely hope not.
However, the way the war is being fought, it might last a hundred years.
Why must we stop the bombing of the north while the enemy shows no signs of reducing the war effort? Surely it is madness to let the North Vietnam government mass its supplies and rebuild its strength to continue this war.
If our government had the resolve to fight communism, this war could be won as many of our generals have said, without the use of nuclear weapons.
Our boys are entitled to our best effort and that means everything we have to help them.
I pray to God either win or get out of Vietnam; let us end the hoax of fighting communism unless we mean to fight them for keeps.

Rahway

To The Editor:
We must pull ourselves out of lethargy and publish our strong protests against this crime on the high seas. Write to your congressman and your senators telling them to get our men out of Korea before Christmas.
Why is it that the picture of the crew of the U.S.S. Pueblo published by a well-known magazine was suddenly squashed? Is it because their signals for help in that picture might "rock the boat" as far as the U.S. government is concerned? Why is it that a fifth-rate bamboo country can kidnap our men, while our government stands by twiddling its thumbs? What has happened to the spirit of the American people that they can allow this to go on?

$175,000 Ford Foundation grant," to quote the UPI story.

At this point it is interesting to note that Mr. Ernest Cuneo, a syndicated columnist who writes for the New-house papers, declared last week:

The United States is famous for developing informal government by institutions not created by law. The latest phenomenon is government by foundation....Foundations are now avoiding the prohibition against lobbying for laws by advising on their administration....the foundations have embarked on wide excursions on "independent fact-finding," "social studies," and "projects" ... These studies have had vast results.

Mr. Cuneo's article is captioned, "Ford Foundation a political machine?"

Now despite the fact that most Americans understand and prefer that the two major parties have more or less the same goals for our society, they do believe nonetheless that there are important differences in their means and procedures. Consequently, if there is to be a nonpartisan program for the federal government, one is tempted to ask - what was the point of the party expenditures of time, money, and energy during the campaign? What about the party members, workers, and supporters who believed in and committed themselves wholeheartedly to their partisan cause - were they just dupes?

Or is it fair to describe the Brookings Institution as "nonpartisan," in view of the fact that some of the authors of the papers in Agenda For The Nation were part of the Kennedy and the Johnson administrations? Or they are affiliates of such "hidebound and traditional" organizations as Harvard University and the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton? Could the views of Mr. Clark Kerr, former President of the University of California at Berkeley, be at all compatible with those of mid-west Republicanism?

According to the UPI story, Mr. James Q. Wilson, a Harvard professor of Government, gave a pessimistic report on the issue of law and order. He wrote:

We must learn to live with crime - hopefully, not as much crime as at present, or at present, or at least not with a crime rate that is increasing as fast as it now appears to be, but with a good deal of crime nonetheless.

But is this "confession of despair" what 56 per cent of the citizens voted for when they cast their ballots against Mr. Humphrey? Or would their attitude be more accurately reflected by the remarks last week of Ex-governor Thomas E. Dewey when he criticized the U.S. Supreme Court decisions that "protect the guilty and not the innocent?"

In marked contrast to the defeatism of the Agenda For The Nation as regards the matter of law and order, Mr. Dewey suggests a program to diagnose the malady - an indispensable first step in solving the problem. He declared, "We are a permissive society. Larceny, arson and assault are condoned and go without punishment."

When one reads that Charles L. Schultze, U. S. Budget Director under President Johnson, is "pessimistic about the amount of money that would be available to the government to spend on social programs in the postwar era," he wonders who won the election on Nov. 5. When he learns that Mr. Schultze goes on to propose "direct bloc grants to the states and increased maintenance programs - ranging in annual cost from $5 billion to $50 billion a year - he is all but convinced that if Mr. Nixon follows the Brookings advice, the United States is far down the road to the welfare state.

Lastly, there is the recommendation of Mr. Kerr that the federal government increase its support for higher education by $15 billion by 1976, because the nation needs "500 more community colleges and 50 more urban four-year colleges."

But there is an irrefutable argument against the proposal of Mr. Kerr. It is this. The justification for the $5 billion federal aid-to-education appropriation each year is the contention that, by themselves, local communities cannot afford to provide 12 years of public school education for their children. In a word, they must have a federal subsidy. Nevertheless, Mr. Kerr wants them to assume the added burden of supplying college-level education. And that without any objective evidence that present college facilities are inadequate. Mr. Kerr's higher education recommendation should be summarily rejected as being totally unrealistic.

Mrs. Coloman Stempel, presided with secretary Mrs. Lester E. Hall, treasurer Mrs. Ronald Ashford and corresponding secretary Mrs. Robert Pegau reporting.

Mrs. Edgar Roberts was welcomed back into membership. A substantial sum was voted for the First Aid Squad for their new inhalator.

STATE GOVERNMENT

Today many states are considering constitutional revision. Is this good? It's wonderful, according to a former Governor of North Carolina, Terry Sanford, who says it is high time, "for the very future of our federal system is at stake."

State government must not be limited to a regulating and holding operation, but should guide and channel growth so as to take its proper place in the world of the future. As Governor Sanford remarked, "A state constitution cannot be a compilation of petty prohibitions but rather must be a guide for progressive state government."

Federal programs will continue to fail, in his opinion, unless the state role is strengthened. Central authority must give way to state-local initiative and construction experimentation to arrive at sound solutions, by eliminating bureaucratic red tape.

"We cannot endure without strong, meaningful state governments. We must have them; otherwise there is no federal system," Governor Sanford says.

Many state constitutions require the election of too many state officials, according to Sanford, and state executive leadership is fragmented. Another hindrance to good state government is the lack of continuity, which makes it difficult to get worthwhile programs under full steam. "The future of American government depends on what kind of future we shape for the states," he observed.

THE BEE

Oh, you little busy creature—
Unspoiled child of Mother Nature,
Where do you get your enormous strength?
Not from stature or your length.
From early morning until night
You labor and work to make things right.
From God's great forest you bring the wax,
Free from any government tax.
Nature's flowers provide your sweetness,
Organized in perfect neatness.
We poor humans could learn a lesson
From secrets held in your possession.
Teach us a lesson on how to live,
That we won't take, but also give.
Oh, that we could obtain your drive,
To make our homes as you do your hive.
Your workers, nurses, guards and drones,
Communicate better than we with phones.
Your society, culture, and your Queen,
To we poor men are still a dream.
Your buzzing tones, your sympathy,
May teach us to live in harmony.
From this little insect learn a lesson:
Be humble and smart, and obtain a blessing.

AND AT NO COWCULATED RISK Cow Plus Computer Equals Computer

Behind every glass of milk you drink stands not only a cow, but probably a computer.

Dairying by computer has become second nature for about a third of New Jersey's dairy farmers, and a Rutgers University dairy science specialist is hard at work trying to plug the balance of Garden State cows into a computer.

Edward T. Oleskie, the specialist at the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, is superintendent of official testing for the New Jersey Dairy Herd Improvement Program. During his 15 years in this position, he has seen New Jersey move into third place nationally in terms of milk production per cow.

The National Cooperative Dairy Herd Improvement Program has been working in a quiet way for more than 50 years. The basis of the program, in which every state is enrolled, is a monthly efficiency report.

Oleskie explained that dairy farmers keep track of such vitally important statistics as the amount of milk a cow gives, what she eats, what her feed costs and how much profit she shows over feed costs.

All of these figures, carefully recorded by the farmers and their county testers, form a continuous record of a dairy herd from which the farmer can make his business decisions.

With the advent of the computer age, the people in report which the laboratory sends back to the dairyman. Then the most important part of "dairying by computer" begins.

The computer actually enables the farmer to make more money and upgrade his herd at the same time, according to the Rutgers specialist.

From the information that the computer receives it recommends how much grain concentrate to feed each cow. Because every mouthful of feed over what is required to maintain a healthy cow goes into milk production, dairy cows are fed according to their production.

Thus the computer tells the farmer how to get the most milk for the money he invests in feed.

Upgrading the herd by breeding is another vital decision-making process that the computer makes easier for the farmer. The machine knows which cows are unproductive and recommends that they be taken out of the herd, enabling the farmer to maintain a herd of top quality and raise calves from the best producers.

When these records arrive in Ithaca, they are immediately checked for accuracy by comparison with file cards containing an abbreviated life history of each cow. Inconsistencies spotted in the records cause about eight per cent to be returned for correction.

The information on these "barn sheets" is then transcribed into computer language by means of punch-cards.

Next, an operator checks the punchcards to eliminate mistakes made in the transcription process and feeds them into the computer. The machine "reads" the holes in the punchcards at the rate of 1,000 cards a minute and transfers the data to magnetic tape.

At the same time, the computer checks for illogical, inconsistent or missing data and sends bad cards back for corrections.

The final job of the computer is to print the herd

A French Legend tells why the Christmas rose—the only rose that blooms at Christmas—sometimes has a bit of pink on its white petals. A small girl who was accompanying the shepherds on their way to visit the Christ Child, was unhappy because she had no gift to offer the Infant. The Angel Gabriel appeared to her and was so impressed by the little girl's sincerity that he touched his staff to the ground, and a rose—more beautiful than any other sprang from the frozen earth. The rose was originally white, or so the story goes, but when the little girl gave it as a gift to the Baby Jesus, the Christ Child reached out His hand to touch the bloom, and its petals were suddenly tipped with pink.

How to Select Christmas Toys

For parents and grandparents, much of the happiness of Christmas morning is the excitement of youngsters opening their gifts. The squeals of delight that accompany the unwrapping of each present are a rich reward for family Santas who spent hours selecting the just-right toy.

For the preschooler himself, the rewards go far beyond the holiday morning, for well-chosen toys help him learn - while - playing throughout the year.

To make sure that your child has an especially Merry Christmas year-round creative environment for selecting toys:

Choose toys in bright primary colors (red, blue, yellow, green), which are also pleasant to the touch and sight. Wood, for example, has "warmth," solid feel and texture that are satisfying to the preschooler.

Toys should be portable enough to satisfy the child's insatiable desire to move and carry, but neither the toys themselves nor their parts should be so small that they defy a small hand to work them.

Toys should be durably and soundly constructed so that they withstand a child's vigorous use. They should be safe, with well-finished edges and non-toxic paints.

Youngsters like to see how a toy works, to satisfy their curiosity about what makes it go. If the toy is designed to be taken apart, it should be easy for the child to put together again.

Preschoolers need -- and prefer -- toys such as blocks, wagons, pounding benches, and disc stacks which can be "imagined into" many different play situations, rather than toys which merely recreate the adult world in miniature or toys which are electrically operated.

The preschool child needs a variety of playtoys. His toy "wardrobe" should encourage the development of all of his senses, permitting him to exercise his skills, muscles, emotions, and imagination.

Parents can know best the kinds of toys their preschooler most enjoys by watching him at play. When shopping, be sure that you are buying a toy which is suitable for the child's age and stage of development so that he is neither frustrated nor bored by it.

Wise family Santas can make Christmas morning a magical time for the preschooler and provide him with toys for constructive and creative playing-and-learning throughout the year.

Clark Observes Dedication Of New Firehouse

Nearly 100 people, among them Mayor William J. Maguire and members of the Clark Township Council, attended the laying of the cornerstone for the new fire headquarters on Broadway last Sunday.

Fire Chief Robert Volpe introduced the mayor and the historian of the fire department, Martin Haluza, who reviewed the history of fire-fighting in the community.

Robert Jeney, department president, gave the welcoming address, with Council president Alexander Paschenko and Charles Grunder, Public Safety director, also briefly speaking.

The walls of the new structure are completed, but much of the interior work is still to be done--paneling, wiring, flooring and heating. Construction should be finished by the end of the month.

The second annual Crusaders' Basketball Parents Night was held at the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School gymnasium last Friday evening. The program was under the direction of head basketball coach Alan Taback and was supervised by director of athletics Louis Paragallo.

The program opened with the introduction of freshmen and varsity basketball players by freshman coach John Kennedy and jaycee meter Jim Attaway. This was followed by coach Ollie Gelson of Montclair State College, who demonstrated of defensive moves. He was assisted by former Clark star Mike Oakes, now a leading member of the Indians. Jakes scored six points in the Montclair opening victory of the season over Fairleigh-Dickinson University, 100-61. It was the first win for the Indians over FDU since the 1951-52 season.

The program was attended by about 100 parents and friends of Clark and wound up with Hank Slider, a shooting consultant at Lehigh and Lafayette College, demonstrating how young players can improve their shooting.

Clark '5' Small, Quick; Four Lettermen Return

"We're small, but quick," is the way coach Alan Taback of the Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School varsity basketball team analyzes his team for the coming season.

Taback, starting his second season at the helm of the Crusaders, would like to add another Watchung Conference flag to the school, which thus far this school year has taken the titles in football and soccer.

The former Upsala College star will have four lettermen back from last season's team. The big man is again missing at Johnson and thus Taback is going to depend on "lots of speed" and shooting. The front court men are Howard Leipzig, 6-1, senior, a good shooter from inside; Ed McDevitt, a 6-1 senior who just finished the football season and is a good rebounder; John Rogler, another letterman at 5-11 and a senior; Chuck David, 6-0, and Greg MacIver, 5-11, and Fred Bauer, a 6-0 junior who is also a forward.

The center position will have either 6-3 Jim Hoover, who attended a summer basketball school and is looking sharp; juniors Steve Nasto, 6-2, Bob Wilds, 6-1. The back court are lettermen Joe Dunn, The News-Record-Clark Patriot's All-Watchung Conference soccer selection at 5-9 with Glen Matera, 5-8. The juniors are John Stankewicz, 5-8, Robert Blejwas, 5-9, and Charles Bracuto, 5-8.

The team will play a 20-game schedule, meeting such powerhouses as the New Providence Pioneers, Kenilworth Bears, Union Catholic Terriers, Pingry Prep of Hillside, the Colonia Patriots and seven Watchung Conference rivals. The team will play 11 night games.

John Kennedy is jaycee coach, Bob Henderson is the Brewer school basketball coach and Jim Attaway the freshmen coach.

He is a graduate of Thomas Elizabeth, where he didn't play basketball, but he was a varsity player at Panzer College (now Montclair State College) and Delaware State. 3 Clark Booters On 'All' Team

By Ray Hoagland
(Sports Editor)

Three members of coach Louis Peragallo's Clark Crusaders, The Watchung Conference soccer champions, were selected on the All-Watchung Conference team by Ray Hoagland, Sports Editor of The Rahway News Record-The Clark Patriot.

John Mycz, 5-8 forward who set a school record of 15 goals, heads the selection.

Little Indians Climax 4-2-2 Season in Tie

The Little Indians of Rahway completed their season last Friday with a 7-7 tie. This was the second game in a row that ended in a tie for coach Nick Delmonaco's forces. Trailing at the half, 7-0, the frosh took the ball from Union after four downs and marched 70 yards to a touchdown by Duane Sproch from the eight-yard line.

Union was quick to return the ball to the Rahway eight-yard line with a first and goal to go. The Rahway defense, led by linebacker Jack Flath, end Robert Yorke and cornerback Sandy Johnson, cornered Union back to the Rahway 38-yard line. With a fourth and 38, Union attempted a field goal. The ball was blocked by the Middle of the Rahway line and tackle Bob Mensak fell on it on the 40-yard line.

Rahway marched to the Union 15, where a fumble was recovered by Union. This was close to the end of the game. Rahway held Union after the recovery and tried tions. Mycz was a very aggressive and accurate kicker for the Crusaders, who had a season record of 10-5-1. Joe Dunn, a senior, was selected at the other forward spot. Dunn has good speed and was one of the key play-makers of the club. In the back was Mark Tonnesen, who led a defense that allowed 23 goals during the fall season.

Westfield had two members on the team, their goal tender Peter Torgensen, who allowed only 16 shots to pass him during the season, and Richie Suriani. Another who was worthy of such honors is Geoff Griffiths, 5-10, 165-pounder. The team had a 8-5-4 record.

Hillside's gift to the elite were back Gene Pogany and forward Alan Goldberg, who tallied 10 times this year. Scotch Plains, Bob Heldsworth, a 6-1, 170-pounder, an outstanding player, was strong on defense and used his head effectively.

Feverish Library Pace Set Record in October

During October, there was no letdown in the use of the Clark Public Library, Edward Temkin, director, reported to the board of trustees. Borrowers continued to use the library at a feverish pace, the circulation shot up to 8,283 and the staff answered 953 requests for help in finding books and information.

The circulation of 8,283 was the highest for any October on record. It surpassed last October by 15.8%. The exact amount of the increase was 1,134.

This month, requests for help in finding books and information took a new turn. Telephone requests nearly doubled. Instead of the usual 30-35 request, telephone requests rose to 61.

In October, borrowers made greater use of the magazine collection than ever before as 167 magazines, a record for this form of material, were borrowed for home use. In addition, many magazines were used within the library for reference.

Greater use of the magazine collection was prompted by students seeking information on the Presidential elections and on Supreme Court decisions. The collection is the only major source of current and up-to-date information.

So far this year, the library has had a circulation of 77,519. This figure is 12.8% ahead of last year at the same time. With two months yet to go, it looks as if the library will surpass its estimate of 80,000 and end the year with a circulation over 85,000.

So far this year, the library staff has answered 6,770 requests for help in finding books and information. This figure is 16.2% ahead of last year at the same time.

With the increase in circulation and requests for help, the library is finding it extremely difficult to meet borrowers' needs with the present staff. This is the difficulty: the library is attempting to meet 1968 borrowers' needs with a staff designed to take care of the 1967 borrowers' needs. The addition of a full-time librarian would go a long way to relieve the pressure.

Other library activities included a Halloween storytime for elementary school pupils and a Halloween storytime for pre-school children, ages four and five.

Last month, articles about the library appeared in The Clark Patriot dealing with Halloween storytimes, the Oct. 12 closing, director's September report and a picture of the children's furniture donated by the Clark Lions Club with Harvey Richer, Bill Wetzler and Margaret Shipley.

CLARK GRID

(Continued from Page 1) bounced twice and was fumbled. Unable to punt, the hard-running Clark fullback took off around his left end and, behind sharp blocking, cut toward the middle of the field and was in the clear on the Raiders' 20 for first blood in the game. Steve Strakel's kick for the extra point was low.

The Blue and White scored their second and winning touchdown late in the second period following an exchange of breaks. Tom Ricciuti of the Raiders punted from his end zone to Markovic, who fumbled and Cliff Winans recovered for the Raiders on his 40. On the next play, Ken Pariza intercepted a Barrett screen pass on the 27 and ran back to the 21-yard line with 40 seconds left on the clock.

Scott Schaefer's pass missed and then hit Mike Nisky on the 6-yard line. Schaefer then rolled to his right and fired to Nisky, who made a diving catch in the end zone for the touchdown.

Steve Strakel added the extra point with three seconds left in the half. The Raiders broke into the scoring in the final minutes of the third period, when Graves took a reverse from Joe Lanza and chipped off these 84 yards to score. Davis kicked the extra point.

The Crusaders dominated the final period, as they were able to control the ball for 6:11 on a drive from their 26 to the Scotch Plains 12. After three plays, Strakel's field goal attempt from a right angle on the 20-yard marker was wide.

Scotch Plains had two more chances in the final 2:26 minutes of play, but three passes failed. Mike Ciccoletti virtually stole the ball away from Graves in the final 1:18 to seal the victory and the conference flag.

Hand-written message enhances Christmas Cards.

Christmas cards — like Christmas — come just once a year, but how much joy and happiness they bring!

The greetings which we send to friends are received in large, small, formal white and brightly colored envelopes. All send messages of holiday cheer. Christmas cards are even brighter when there's a hand-written message inside, personal wishes for the happy season.

Christmas cards, 93 years young in our country, started in England more than 125 years ago. In the days when penmanship flourished and school children were given daily exercises in the art of good penmanship, school masters gave exercises even at holiday time. Children wrote Christmas greetings — and the Christmas card was born.

At first, Christmas cards failed as a business venture. Though inexpensive, the cards were not accepted. Then in 1860, they began again, this time marked for success. Fifteen years later, they came to America where they started as large, flowery, expensive greetings.

Today, more than two billion cards are mailed each year, according to the Paper Mate Company's research. Today cards are of every size and description. Some are serious, some funny, some bright and cute. Many still place prime importance on the religious significance of the Christmas season.

For a few years, the printed names appealed as a time saver when sending holiday greetings. But soon the cards began to lose their meaning and thoughtful greetings — they seemed too businesslike for the merry season. Today, most people are writing their cards, personally signing each card with the hope that the receiver will have a very merry Christmas.

Now it's fun to receive hand-written notes on Christmas cards, a very special greeting. And it's fun to write them, especially to those we don't often see or hear from. It makes Christmas even more meaningful.

Now that red and green nylon tip pens are available, writing notes and signatures is no longer tedious. And those who like to design and make their own Christmas cards can use the pens to form fine or bold lines, to draw and to write.

The Christmas card has had a long history. From schoolchildren to the American family gathered about writing Christmas messages, the card brings, as always, a hope for the very merriest Christmas and the happiest New Year.

New Roller-Skating Setup

Because of the increase in the Rahway Recreation Department's roller-skating program at Franklin School on Saturday afternoons, a new schedule, effective this Saturday, Dec. 7, has been formed. Skating for boys and girls five to seven years of age will start at 12 noon until 1:15; for boys and girls eight to ten, skating will be permitted from 1:30 to three o'clock, while boys and girls from 11 to 15 will skate from 3:30 to 5:30. Doors will open at Franklin School on the Harrison St. side at 11:30. The department, incidentally, has purchased 15 new pair of skates.

ATTENTION! All releases sent to The Rahway News Record and The Clark Patriot must be TYPEWRITTEN. No hand-written material of any sort will be published due to the difficulty in deciphering and the great possibility of error.

ATTENTION, ALL GIRL CAGERS

All seventh and eighth-grade girls who are residents of Rahway and interested in playing in the Rahway Recreation Department girls' basketball program should report to the Rahway Middle School gym (Kline Place) tonight at 7 p.m., sharp. Please bring gym shoes and suitable attire for playing. All girls signing up will receive instructions and will play in the league.

Don't Install a New Humidifier in Your Home Until You Read This Ad!

It can save you a lot of hard-earned dollars — and prevent disappointment from a faulty installation! 9 times out of 10, we find that humidifiers break down simply because they are not designed to cope with local water conditions.

George Katzenberg, President of Katzenberg & Org., one of New Jersey's oldest and largest installers of home heating, Air Conditioning and Humidification equipment.

Check these points before you buy any automatic Humidifier!

- BEWARE OF FLOAT-VALVE UNITS! Minerals in the water build up fast on a float-valve. If the valve gets clogged in the open position, you get a flooded basement. If it sticks in the closed position no water vapor is produced. In addition, this type of unit demands a fixed water level in its reservoir, which calls for frequent maintenance and cleaning by the homeowner.
- BEWARE OF SPRAY OR ATOMIZER UNITS! Minerals remaining in the water vapor are carried throughout the house, covering everything with a powdery residue of lime dust.

Here's why we recommend and install

RP Aprilaire® and RP Chippewa®

Humidifiers exclusively

NO FLOAT VALVE to clog and stick. No reservoir to be cleaned. An exclusive Water Panel Evaporator traps most of the mineral hardness. The rest of the deposits go down the drain... never into the house air!

HUMIDISTAT CONTROL installed in your living area (instead of in the duct system) lets you dial your own humidity-comfort level. Humidistats in the duct system quickly collect dirt and become mineral-encrusted and inoperative.

MAINTENANCE-FREE as a humidifier can be! Requires only once-a-year replacement of the inexpensive Water Panel.

"For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else."

These words of Isaiah are part of the Scriptural readings in the Bible Lesson-Sermon titled "God the Only Cause and Creator" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

One of the correlative passages taken from the denominational textbook will be the following: "Spiritual causation is the one question to be considered, for more than all others spiritual causation relates to human progress. The age seems ready to approach this subject, to ponder somewhat the supremacy of Spirit, and at least to touch the hem of Truth's garment." Yet their voice goes out through all the earth. (Psalms 19:4).

Communication is at the heart of prayer; for prayer is the way by which we reach God, and it is the way by which God reaches us. Communication is at the heart of civilization; for civilization is the result of people understanding and learning from one another. Let us keep the lines of communication open always.

3d-Grade Pupils Music Detective Tracks Display Creative Writing Ability

Third-grade students at Mildred Terrace School participated in a writing contest sponsored by the Walck book company on a non-word book called "What Whiskers Did" by Ruth Carroll.

All the children were invited to the school library to view the book as presented by the school librarian, Mrs. Virginia Panucci.

Under the direction of their third-grade teachers, Miss Judith Tombs and Mrs. Barbara Grumet, they wrote original stories to accompany the non-word book. The compositions were then judged by Mrs. Muriel Cassidy, curriculum coordinator, Miss Claire Lyons, helping teacher, and Mrs. Virginia Panucci, school librarian.

Five winners were selected from each class and given inscribed books as prizes. Their original stories are now being submitted as part of the national book contest. The winners at the school level were:

First prizes, Beth Borus, Elaine Wilkinson; 2nd prizes, Sharon Sims, Donna Smith; 3rd prizes, Deborah Smith, Lorie Richardson; 4th prizes, Mark Weissman, Michael Cantor; 5th prizes, Gretchen Ham, Jon Hobbie.

Down Old Folk Songs

A Douglass College professor has found a musical treasure trove in his hometown backyard -- in New Brunswick, Canada.

Armed with a tape recorder, James R. Wilson, an associate professor of music, spent 10 years researching the folk songs of his native Miramichi Valley. Together with a Canadian historian, Dr. Louise Manny, he has just published his musical findings in a 101-song anthology, "Songs of Miramichi."

The Miramichi is a sparsely-settled valley in the center of the province that has changed very little since it was settled by Scottish-Irish immigrants in the eighteenth century," Wilson explained.

"In the old folk tradition, music is still a part of the people's daily lives."

During the summer, the men work as fishermen or forest guides, but in the fall they disappear into the woods to work in the lumber camps. Except for a two-day break at Christmas, the men stay at the camps till spring, whiling away the long winter nights by singing the native folk songs.

"Sometimes they have 'singing bees' to see which man has the largest repertoire," Wilson said.

The melodies of these previously unrecorded folk songs, which are sung without accompaniment, are of very old Irish and Scottish origin. Through the years, the people have written many verses for the same tunes.

"In one area, you may find a tune being used for a love song and in another for a satiric piece," Wilson commented. Many of the songs tell of lumbering and fishing disasters.

Miramichi women berry on the edge of a forest sing the folk songs as they work.

"This serves as a beacon to their children so that they will not play outside the range of the women's singing," the professor said.

To his delight, Wilson discovered that the old songs are still being sung in the valley, even though it has modernized since World War II.

"I was afraid the younger generation wouldn't learn the songs, but I found them singing the tunes to the accompaniment of an American-style folk guitar at festivals," he noted. "Of course, the real old-timers didn't like the guitar."

A native of the Miramichi village of McNamee, Wilson left the valley at the age of 13 to attend high school in New Hampshire and college at Dartmouth, since there were only three high schools in the province at the time.

WORTH TALKING ABOUT

"In buying and selling in the market place we 'vote' many times a day. ... Decisions on federal spending are made rather differently. The people to be served, or not served, have little direct participation. Those who will bear the taxes have even less opportunity to guide the decisions on spending. Search for ways to improve expenditure decisions -- and search is now a matter of active concern -- deserves continuing support. ...

"The concept of 'national interest' presents not a few difficulties. Identification of what really benefits the whole society is not always evident. ... A program which clearly benefits some people does not necessarily serve the public welfare. ... As particular federal programs get more detailed, the interests of 200 million Americans in this, that, and the other one become tenuous and remote."

Give Nurse Aide Course

The Rahway High School course in Nurse's Aid Training is beginning its third successful year of giving senior students the skills necessary for becoming Nurse's Aides or hospital orderlies. This course is funded by the 1963 Vocational Act.

Eleven girls training to be aides and two boys learning to be orderlies have enrolled in the course. Students in this class receive instruction in the classroom several afternoons a week; on the remaining afternoon, they receive on-the-job training.

The course of study stresses bathing and feeding patients, bed making, cleaning hospital units, and the correct method to answer a patient's call for service. Also emphasized are the communicative skills with the patients, doctors, nurses, and other hospital personnel.

Students are fortunate to have the cooperation of Mrs. Marie Brennan, R.N., Mrs. Genevieve O'Flaherty, teacher of the class, said: "this course is offering many students the opportunity to learn a valuable and useful trade."

Several of last year's graduate students are continuing their educations in the field of medical services and some are already employed as nurse's aides.
