Funeral for D. C. Collins

Served as Township Engineer and Member Of Governing Body

Funeral services were held yesterday in Dallas, Pa., for D. C. Newman Collins, 87 years old, former township engineer and former member of the Township Committee, who died Monday morning at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Chamberlain in Dallas. Interment was private.

In failing health for the past year, Mr. Collins was taken to his daughter's home about three months ago. He formerly resided for many years at 232 Walnut avenue.

A native of Haddonfield, Mr. Collins had been a resident of Cranford since 1905. He learned structural steel engineering and was with E. F. Millikin Co. prior to opening his own consulting architectural and engineering company in New York. He constructed many steel office and industrial buildings and was the architect for Cleveland and Lincoln Schools here.

Following a three-year term on the Township Committee, he was named township engineer in 1922 and served until 1932. He supervised construction of Cranford's first storm sewers in the northwesterly and southeasterly sections of the community, installed the first local traffic lights at Walnut and South avenues and North and North Union avenues, and was engineer during construction of the Rahway Valley Railroad grade crossings and helped design the present underpasses.

During his years as township engineer, Mr. Collins strongly advocated that the houses in the Normandie Park area of the community be moved and that the section be converted into a park. He also made several suggestions for the development of the Union County Park System.

Although essentially self taught, Mr. Collins was a licensed engineer and architect in both New

School Bonds Sold To Newark Bank

National State Firm Bids $1,252,000 At 3.10 Percent — Would Pay $1,260,178; Suburban Trust Company Only Other Bidder

Bonds to finance the construction of two new elementary schools were sold by the Board of Education last night at a special meeting in Cleveland School.

A syndicate headed by the National State Bank of Newark bid $1,252,000 at 3.10 percent which would pay $1,260,178 in bonds. The only other offer was received from the Suburban Trust Company which bid $1,255,000 at 3.10 percent which would pay $1,260,396.51.

The other members of the syndicate are Harriman Ripley & Co., Inc., Braunhall, Fallon and Co., Inc., Ryan, Hanauer and Co., Andrews and Wells, Inc., and Ewing and Co.

Following the receipt of the two sealed bids, the board went into executive session to discuss the offers. The vote to sell the bonds was unanimous and followed a recommendation by John McClintock, chairman of the finance committee, that the offer of the National State Bank of Newark be accepted.

The board plans to construct two 12-room elementary school buildings, one in Brookside place and the other in Walnut avenue. If plans go according to schedule, bids will be received in May or June. The trustees are aiming at completing the schools in June of 1954.

At a special school election in November, the voters of the school district authorized a bond sale of $1,260,000 for the two schools. The expansion program was approved by an over-whelming margin.

The bonds will be dated April 1, 1953, and will mature as follows: $35,000 on April 1 from 1955 to 1960, $40,000 from 1961 to 1968, $45,000 from 1967 to 1974 and $50,000 from 1975 to 1983. Interest will be payable April 1 and October 1 of each year.

Louis G. Troutman, president, presided at the special meeting and all members, George Sauer, counsel, and Dr. Howard B. Best, superintendent of schools, were present.

Leaves Post As Aviation Supervisor

Major Easley R. Bennett, Jr. of 2 Roosevelt avenue, State Army Aviation Supervisor, has resigned to accept a new position with the New Jersey Highway Department.

Since 1948, the local man has controlled the operation, training and maintenance of army pilots and aircraft assigned to New Jersey National Guard.

A veteran pilot of 4,000 hours, Major Bennett was a member of the original staff that developed the technique and employment of light aircraft for military combat missions in 1942-at Ft. Sill, Okla. Following two years as an instructor, he joined an artillery unit in Europe as a fire direction and reconnaissance pilot, and flew 39 combat missions before Germany surrendered.

Upon reorganization of the New Jersey National Guard in 1946, Major Bennett was assigned as air officer of the 50th Armored Division and given the task of organizing and developing a post war army aviation program. He was placed on full time supervisory status. Since that time, National Guard pilots have flown thousands of hours in New Jersey and at Camp Drum, N. Y., during field training without accident, a record which Major Bennett attributes to a combination of conscientious flying and maintenance personnel and a constantly stressed safety program.

The first New Jersey National Guard army pilot to be awarded the coveted star on his wings and the rating of senior army pilot, Major Bennett also holds commercial ratings to pilot single and multi-engined aircraft of both land and sea types, a versatility evidenced by an extraordinary function since 1946 as the pilot of Governor Driscoll's small private amphibian used for personal flights.

Major Bennett, his wife and two daughters have been residents of Cranford since 1945.

The speaker, who exhibited replicas of many of the better known diamonds, said many of the diamonds in rings today may have come from some of the large famous stones. He suggested that owners of diamonds have them appraised periodically, both for value and insurance. Charles F. Schillinger was program chairman.

Card Parties To Aid Club's Scholarship

Table reservations are coming in rapidly for the Cranford College Club's card party April 23 at Knox Bros., Rahway, it was announced this week. More than 75 members have reserved tables or have planned parties in their homes. Seventy-seven others have promised outright contributions.

All proceeds from the party will be used to increase the club's annual scholarship award to $1,000. Half of this sum was made at the annual used book sale last fall, and the club is hopeful of clearing an additional $500 on the card party.

The annual scholarship award is one of the College Club's principal projects. The award has been made annually since 1940, when an original scholarship of $100 was presented. During the past three years the award has amounted to $500.

Increased costs of education has made it almost imperative that the scholarship be increased. The high school enrollment also has increased, making a larger number of girls eligible to apply for the award.

Contributions may be made or tickets purchased for the party by contacting any of the following members: Mrs. F. F. Voorhees, Mrs. George S. Sauer, Mrs. Raymonroe Gilbert, Mrs. Lewis Bonham or Mrs. Douglas Bonham.

Applications for the scholarship award will be made available at Cranford High School for several weeks, Mrs. Kenneth A. DeLong, club scholarship chairman, has announced that her committee will consider all applications returned before Easter vacation. Members will be announced and presented at the club's annual banquet May 18 at Hotel Suburban, Summit.

Joan Miller was welcomed back to the troop. Joan had earned three badges while living in South America this winter. The three patrols entertained with songs and served refreshments. The flag ceremony was directed by Betty Wiskunder, the program aid.

The troop has donated $5 to the capital campaign fund. Twelve girls expect to go to the camp this summer.

Cancer Drive Nets $34,241

A toal of $34,241.71 was raised in the 1953 Heart Appeal drive of the Union County Heart Association, Mrs. Helen M. Glaeser, county drive chairman, announced today.

This figure represents about four-fifths of the quota of $44,850 for this year. It is higher than either of the two previous drives. In 1951 receipts were $25,136 and last year, $19,332.90.

The money will be allocated to the American Heart Association for research and education and to the Union County Heart Association for community services.

In the Cranford, a total of $1,486.32 was collected. Cranford's total was $2,103.46. Ira D. Dornan was the chairman of the drive.

Garwood where a total of $409.53 was collected will probably top its quota of $502.17 when all its returns from the plastic hearts in the schools have been counted, according to Mrs. Clinton H. Patten, chairman.

Kenilworth obtained a total of $277.17 of its quota of $547.17. Mrs. George Berger was the chairman.

Mrs. Glaeser has thanked all the participants in the drive. Each chairman submitted reports on this campaign and recommendations for next year's drive.

Preliminary reports showed that tag days, house to house canvasses and plastic hearts in the schools produced the best results.

passed on first reading was an ordinance vacating Challer Street between Adams and Van Buren avenues. Public hearing will be April 14.

Dr. Jean Herz, 1130 Raritan road, complained of damages to his property by the installation of a storm sewer in the southerly part of town. The installation is being made jointly by Cranford, Clark and the Union County Board of Freeholders. The complaint was referred to Attorney C. H. Warsinski.

The committee denied the request of W. E. Cooper, attorney representing F. A. Weidknecht, for a waiver of a deed restriction to permit construction of a Cape Cod style house on Setarin Court. The township, in selling the property, specified that a two and a half story house, in keeping with the neighborhood, be built on the property.

Referred to attorney was a request from the Board of Adjustment for a clarification of the recent powers in light of a recent Supreme Court decision.

KOOS BROS. OPEN NIGHTS 'TIL 9:30
So Beautiful...and cushioned in Foam
59.95
Trust Koos Bros. to round up five beautiful chairs and tie a price tag like this on every one! The manufacturer who made them, styled them detail-for-detail like the chairs he makes to sell for double this price! How could he do this? Well, there were two big reasons! First, he picked up a thousand yards of beautiful fabrics at a good discount . . . second, he made them up during his slack season. Tomorrow, Koos passes the savings along to you . . . and, believe us they're big! Most of the chairs are deep-seated lounge chairs, big enough for a 6-footer to sprawl if he wants to. Others are decidedly feminine in scale and styling, like the handsome barrel chair. Every single one is cushioned with costly, comfortable, lifetime foam-rubber. • Community Council

Delegates to the Cranford Community Council will meet Tuesday night to decide whether to disband or reactivate the organization.

Composed of representatives of 66 local clubs, the council has sponsored the Cranford Adult School, conducted surveys on recreation needs, and coordinated townwide projects.

While all of its past accomplishments are commendable, it appears that the council has strayed from its original purpose which was principally to coordinate the activities of the many organizations already at work in the community. It became, in itself, another organization.

As a coordinating group, the Community Council serves a worthwhile and important place; as another organization endeavoring to undertake projects to justify its existence, it would seem to be overlapping into the province of many long established clubs in a community already over-populated with organizations.

The Community Council should be activated to coordinate work of the 66 or more clubs in the township. It should be in the form of a President's Council, where the heads of various groups could get together two or three times a year, set up their calendar of important dates, discuss projects which require cooperation of many groups, such as the annual Cranford Day celebration, and promote a better acquaintanceship among the presidents of all local clubs.

Such a council could be an important and effective force in the community if the presidents of the various clubs came together periodically. A long-needed community calendar, which would avoid conflicts of important events, could be quickly put together by the heads of the various clubs. Opinion on proposed projects could be easily and quickly compiled at a meeting of such a representative group.

There is a need for such a council in Cranford and the continuation of the Community Council appears to be the easiest and quickest way to get it into operation.

• A Fine Record

After a mediocre start, Coach Bill Martin's Cranford High School basketball team wound up the season by going to the semi-finals of the Group II State Tourney. They lost to the team which eventually won the championship.

The basketball team brought to Cranford High its second sectional title of the season, the football team coached by Stan Grayson having carried off similar honors last fall. And Coach Seth Weekley's indoor track team has been first at the finish line in the majority of its meets and just last week the relay team won the combined Group I-II state title.

All in all, this has been a banner year in sports at Cranford High School. While every team cannot be a sectional or state champion, there is something about a winning team which arouses a community spirit which cannot be aroused in any other fashion. This is good for the school and also very good for the town.

We congratulate our fine high school athletes, and their very capable coaching staff on the many laurels they have brought to Cranford this year. Keep up the good work!

• A Goal Attained

The entire community joins in congratulating the congregation of the Methodist Church on the attainment of their $100,000 building fund goal.

Good churches are one of the most valuable assets of any community. More important are active congregations within the churches. The Methodists have demonstrated their interest and activity in their church even beyond the expectations of their leaders.

We commend them on attaining their goal and wish them continued success in their project which will culminate in a long-needed new church edifice at Walnut and Lincoln avenues.

YOUR GARDEN This Week

By ERIC H. PETERSON, JR.
Union County Agricultural Agent

The clover mite is a very small reddish-brown creature about one tenth of an inch long. Its body is oval and without segmentation. It feeds on grass and other lawn plants and sometimes becomes abundant in grass plots. At various times in the year, but particularly in the spring and autumn, the clover mite crawls about extensively and often enters houses and other buildings in annoying numbers.

As it is entirely a plant feeder, it will not attack people or property, although it can be a very serious nuisance. It does not bite and it is not poisonous. If crushed, it is likely to cause an ugly stain. Fortunately, the atmosphere in houses in the cooler seasons of the year is likely to be too dry to permit individual mites to persist more than a few days. The problem is primarily one of preventing further entry of the mites into the house.

To achieve this, sprinkle a band of naphthalene flakes ("moth flakes") on the ground along the side of the building. Usually this is needed only along the southern and western sides of the house, although entry from the east sometimes occurs. The band of flakes should be several inches wide, and for best results should consist of several "layers" of flakes. It is often advisable to prepare a small trench about one inch deep and a few inches wide at the corners of a building, and extending for a foot on either side of the corner. Sprinkle flakes liberally in this ledge. Its purpose is to provide a pocket in which the fumes will be held despite the scouring action of wind at the corners of buildings. However, be sure to look at the corners after a rain in order to add more flakes if soil has washed into the trench.

If grass or other herbage lies against the building, this is short in order that mites may not climb to the wall by that means. Flakes may also be placed on window ledges to deter entry by mites already climbing the foundation wall although some of these flakes from wind is to be expected, and some people find the odor too unpleasant.

Mites already within rooms are not easily killed. In using household sprays it is necessary to hit the mites directly with the spray and such applications are usually damaging to walls, floor coverings and curtains. Aerosol bombs containing pyrethrum are moderately effective, but DDT materials are not.

In some cases, invasions of the mites occur regularly year after year. Heavy fertilization of lawns, producing rank growth of grass, favors growth of the mites. More judicious use of fertilizer in such some cases resulted in greatly reduced mite population.

Insecticides for control of mites on grass are only temporarily effective and are slow-acting. Complete control rarely lasts longer than one month and a lapse of about ten days from time of application to achievement of control should be expected. Finely ground sulfur at the rate of 1 pound per 1000 square feet may be used. Do not apply on or next to a freshly painted building as a reaction between the paint and sulfur will result in damage to the paint.

The New Jersey Poll

Statewide Survey Indicates Close Gubernatorial Contest

By KENNETH FINK, Director, Princeton Research Service

First indication of the results strength of the two major political parties in this year's New Jersey gubernatorial election is revealed in a "trial heat" survey completed by New Jersey Poll staff reporters among the state's voters between March 1 and March 11.

On February 19, the New Jersey Poll reported that a majority of the New Jersey voters expect a GOP victory in November's gubernatorial election. (58% of the state's voters expect a GOP victory; 29% believe the Democrats will win; 13% had no opinion as to the winner.)

Today's survey findings indicate how wide is the spread between the party the voters expect to win and the party they would like to see win.

In the first test of strength between the two parties and before either party's candidate has been officially selected, exactly the same number of people in the state say they would like to see the Democratic Party win as say the Republican.

When New Jersey Poll staff reporters asked on accurate cross-section of the state's voters:

"If the elections for governor were being held today, which party would you like to see win in this state—the Republican or the Democratic Party?"

The vote was:

STATEWIDE
Like to see GOP win	41.2%
Like to see Democrats win	41.2
Depends on candidates and campaign waged	17.6

"Princeton Research Service studies over the years show that people generally like to see what they say they would vote for," Dr. Fink said.

Perhaps the most interesting findings in today's statewide survey are the replies from the three major political groups. These provide an excellent "grass roots" report on present sentiment in the state insofar as this year's gubernatorial election is concerned.

For example, 19 out of every 100 Republicans questioned in the survey say that it depends on who the candidates are.

Whereas only six out of every 100 Democrats say it depends on who the candidates are.

At the same time, 88 per cent of all Democratic Party members in the state say they would like to see a Democratic Party victory; whereas only 72 per cent of the GOP members questioned in today's survey say they would like to see a Republican victory.

Here's how Republican Party members in the state voted:

GOP MEMBERS ONLY, STATEWIDE
Like to see GOP win	72%
Like to see Democrats win	8
Depends on candidates and campaign waged	19

And here's how Democratic Party members in the state answered:

DEMOCRATIC PARTY MEMBERS, STATEWIDE
Like to see Democrats win	88%
Like to see GOP win	6
Depends on candidates and campaign waged	6

Perhaps the most significant vote in today's survey is the division of opinion among New Jersey Independent voters.

At the present time, one out of every three Independents say it depends on who the candidates are and the kind of campaign waged.

Equally important is that among Independent voters who express an opinion as to which party they would rather see win—those who say they would like to see a Republican victory outnumber by a margin of three to two those who say they would like to see a Democratic victory (At the present time, one out of every four voters in the state considers himself an Independent. This Independent group holds the balance of power in all statewide elections and will decide the winner next November).

Here's how Independent voters voted:

INDEPENDENTS ONLY, STATEWIDE
Like to see Republicans win	42%
Like to see Democrats win	29
Depends on candidates and campaign waged	29

FAMILY LIFE TODAY

By PHYLLIS PAGE BRADSHAW

MISS BRADSHAW

Are you too busy to enjoy your children? Do you become annoyed or irritated so that you don't enjoy anything? And isn't it usually at such times that your children seem particularly bothersome? Do you think that to enjoy children, it's necessary to work hard at enjoying them every minute? Are you so concerned about doing the "right" thing, that you don't have fun with your children?

Parents who answer "yes" to such questions are cheating themselves out of one of the great joys of life. Children can be such fun. It's true that they grow up much too soon. Nevertheless, much of parents' enjoyment can come from watching and helping their children grow and develop. This means that parents grow and develop, too, right along with their children.

More important is the fun parents and children can have together. The depth of parents' love and understanding of their children makes a difference here. Parents enjoy their children so much more when they sincerely respect children as persons and appreciate their individuality.

The parent who treats his child as a possession doesn't really have fun with the child. This parent is too busy being proud of his possession or is too concerned that his possession does everything better than anyone else. This parent exploits his child's individuality sometimes. At other times, individuality is suppressed, depending upon the wish of the parent rather than the development of the child.

Parents are busy these days. Yet the time spent with children is so well spent that some priorities can be established. Some parents find that when they sit down and relax because they are rushing around so much and what they are accomplishing by it, life slips back into its proper perspective. They see that first things come first. And taking time to have fun and enjoy children is first.

It's not necessary either to enjoy your children constantly. Sometimes children are annoying and it's no wonder parents become irritated. But children are fun most of the time. Don't worry about whether you are doing the "right" thing. The relationship built between parents and children when they enjoy each other are so much more important.

Number Registered To Vote Increases

According to an announcement from the Union County Board of Elections, 10,979 Cranford citizens will be eligible to vote at the April 21 Primary Election.

This is an increase of 34 eligible voters since the November General Election and a hike of 1,723 since last year's Primary Election.

Throughout the county, a decrease of 163 voters was reported. The county-wide total is 223,940, an approximate increase of 30,000 since the last Primary Election.

Mrs. Doran Places Second in Examination

A Cranford woman, Mrs. Alice I. Doran of 442 Orchard street placed second in a recent Civil Service examinations for public health nurse supervisor, the State Department of Health announced.

Mrs. Doran's average was 71.350 percent. A Newark woman placed first with an average of 80.165. The salary for the post is from $3,840 to $4,740.

Mrs. Doran, public health coordinator for St. James Hospital, Newark, formerly served for about 12 years as a nurse in the state department.

College, Secretarial School Accept Two

Miss Frances Moore, daughter of Mrs. H. B. Moore, 7 Birchfield avenue, has been accepted at Marygrove College, Detroit, where she will take matriculation in the nursing program.

Berkeley Secretarial School, East Orange, has enrolled Miss Louise Lane in the September secretarial class. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas A. Lane, 18 West Holly street.

Miss Moore and Miss Lane are students at Cranford High School.

The inactivity of George Mory, president, on the Cranford Community Council was due to an accident and not to poor health as reported in last week's edition of The Citizen and Chronicle.

Programs for the Coming Week in Cranford Churches

Schedule Passover Services

By RABBI PHILIP BEAND
Temple Beth-El

Passover, the Jewish festival of freedom, will be observed this year from sundown Monday until sunset Tuesday, April 7. This festival commemorates the deliverance of the Hebrews from Egyptian bondage.

In all generations, to all people, Passover became the symbol of man's quest for liberty. Bluroch of old is not merely our ancient patriarch. He represents all tyrants of all ages. As in ancient days, so yesterday and today, Pharaoh is proof that tyrants can be defeated, the chains of slavery broken.

During the Passover week, Jews abstain from leavened bread or of any food prepared with leaven. Special sets of utensils and dishes are used and matzos are eaten as a reminder of the Israelite's hurried departure from Egypt when they had to bake bread in haste without permitting the dough to ferment.

During Passover the family gathers for one of the most beautiful and solemn ceremonies, the special Pesach Seder. Seder, which means "order," refers to the order of events and arrangements which is conducted on the first two evenings of the festival. The symbols included in the Seder are arranged in a special dish and consist of three matzos, bitter herbs, (a reminder of the bitter times in Egypt), Parsley (reminder of the spring season), salt water, a combination of nuts, apples, cinnamon and wine (Charoses), a roasted lamb bone and a roasted egg.

During the Seder service every member of the family seated around the table drinks four cups of wine. The height of the Seder for children comes with the asking of the four questions as to why this night is different from the other nights of the year.

By the Passover theme, Jews signify for every person to live in accordance with his faith, freedom of the Jews to live as a nation in Israel, and without, and freedom for every people to live in their own country with a government of their own choosing.

St. Michael's Corner

By JAMES F. WOODS

Hasn't Lent slipped by quickly? Here we are on the threshold of Holy Week. I do hope you've secured one of the booklets I spoke about last week. You know, the one which contains the Holy Week liturgy. With it you'll be able to follow more closely and better understand The Divine Tragedy as it unfolds during the week. If you plan to participate in the tremendous events of the coming week, why not participate fully? You can't do this unless you understand what it's all about and you'll never understand unless you read, study, and meditate.

Thousands of pamphlets have been written, printed, and distributed to help us understand this Mystery of Divine Love. You'll find a number of them in the pamphlet racks in St. Michael's and in nearly every other church you visit. You simply can't afford to pass them by, too often. Why not make a practice of stopping at least to examine some of them? They are put there expressly for you.

Holy Week offers us a chance to finish Lent in a blaze of glory, to renew our good resolutions and to carry on strongly to a glorious Easter. To some it is a last chance to salvage something from a "What might have been." To all it offers an opportunity to practice more fully those virtues Holy Mother Church so ardently recommends to us; prayer, fasting, and almsgiving. Almsgiving means more than just dropping a coin in the poor-box. It entails praying for all the "have-nots."

Not only must we pray for those who are devoid of worldly goods, we must also pray for the spiritually poor. In praying for the "have-nots," you might say a special prayer for those who "don't have time" and those who "don't get around to it." Each one prayed will do because they are invariably the same people. You know, the ones who are always "up to here." They don't have time for devotions, for worthwhile reading or for any of the things associated with Lent. They are always "too busy" and strangely enough, they are the ones who "never get around to it" — no matter what it is.

The pamphlet racks in St. Michael's (which incidently are operated by the Parish Library) are conveniently located so that on your way in or out you can select in just a minute one of the many interesting booklets which will prove so helpful, if given a chance. The racks are frequently restocked to supply you with a constant source of new and interesting information. For those who don't have the time or the inclination to read a worthwhile book, these pamphlets fill a very real need. Just think, here is a vast hoard of material more precious than gold and you only don't have to dig for it. It's there for the taking. Why don't you resolve to do a little "prospecting"? It pays big dividends and the investment is small — ten minutes a day. O sure you can of ten minutes a day. Or are you one of those who "are up to here?"

Sell Religious Articles At Church Library

Francis Gleason was commended by the Library Board for the job he is doing with the pamphlets to be found in the vestibules of the church.

Miss Florence Vanu was elected to the Library Board.

After the meeting, Dr. Bluemel showed colored movies of the Christmas Crib Display.

Choirs to Sing Special Music At Osceola

THE TWO WAYS

Text: He that seeketh his life shall lose it: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is with him. —John 7:18

These Lenten days are periods of spiritual stock-taking. As no business could long endure without time for inventory, no spiritual life can be sustained without times for meditation and prayer. So, during Lent, we wish to re-think the direction of our lives.

Two ways of life are presented in our text: We may choose to seek our own glory, or we may choose to seek the glory of Him who sent us into the world. The first way of life asks, "What's in it for me?" The second: (and this is the way on which God pronounces His blessing) "How can I further the kingdom of God?"

"What's in it for me?" A college dean, addressing the graduates, urged them to join a church if they were not already members. His main reason was that the doctors would meet people and thereby get more patients; the lawyers would get more clients; and the insurance salesmen would make more sales. Of course, each church wants to give all possible business to its own members; that is right and good. But the dean would pose material gain as the primary reason for uniting with a church. Our text tells us this course of action has God's disapproval.

"How can I further the kingdom of God?" This is the question that mature religious people ask. There is a selfless people, our thoughts turn to Holy Scripture. We see Jesus in an attitude of prayer at Gethsemane, the night before he was crucified, attending a meal and saying, "Not my will, but thine, be done." Here is Paul, writing to the Galatian Christians, reporting to them his utter surrender to the Master: "I am crucified with Christ: neyertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." Listen to John the Baptist, following the baptism of Christ, saying, "He must increase, I must decrease." We see Jesus, Paul and John the Baptist losing themselves for the sake of the kingdom of God.

The by-product of each one long his life that he may find it is its blessedness which comes from God, the happiness that comes from the Father. As John Oxenham said:

"To every man there openeth a High Way and a Low,
And every man decideth the way his soul shall go."

Let each one, then, decide to be not one who seeks his own glory, but one who seeks the glory of Him who sent us.

CS Lecture Presented

A lecture on Christian Science was delivered in the church auditorium Springfield avenue at Miln street, last Thursday, entitled: "Christian Science: The Mankind of the Letter and the Spirit" by Mary C. Holloway, C.S., of Shreveport, La., member of the Board of Lecturership of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

E. C. Butland, first reader of First Church of Christ, Scientist, introduced the lecturer, who spoke substantially as follows:

Christian Science, in accepting the challenge to prove its faith by its works, challenges you this evening to focus your attention and open your heart to the spirit and the letter of its teaching to the end that you may be healed by the spiritual understanding it imparts.

The spiritual inspiration of the Christ set aside, finally and completely, the letter or law of matter. Let me illustrate how this may be proved in Christian Science, by relating an incident that happened to a member of my family.

He went unannounced into a house set apart for the use of a certain site late one evening, and in reaching for the light switch stepped on a loosened radiator grille in the floor. The resulting fall snapped the bone in his leg halfway between the knee and ankle. Still in darkness, he crawled to a bed nearby and managed to lie down, straightening the limb as best he was able.

From the moment the accident occurred, his consciousness was flooded with God-sent ideas about the perfection of God and the man of His creating. Clear conviction came to him that since he was that man of God's creating, he could no more fail than could God, for reflection is always true to its original. His work, therefore, was to discern this lie of the fallen man or Adam and replace it with the reality of man, the unfallen spiritual consciousness which is the embodiment of every quality of good.

In a short while, all pain had ceased. By two in the morning such peace was his that he fell asleep. Awakening in the daylight, before he remembered what had occurred, he was standing, and a short time later met the company physician on his way to the office. At his request, they stepped into the doctor's office—and an X ray was taken. It gave evidence of a full fracture which had been most beautifully healed, and to this day the good doctor delights to give Christian Science credit for a remarkable piece of mental surgery.

In just such ways does the Christ come to the flesh to destroy error. It reveals the real man, your perfect spiritual selfhood and wipes and destroys the incubator of materiality.

All over the globe the daily study of the truth goes on. Whether in the quietness of home, on the battlefield, on the high seas, or within the blessed refuge of public Christian Science Reading Rooms, hundreds of thousands of individuals turn for daily spiritual sustenance, refreshment, and healing to this study. They study in common with most other Protestants, the King James Version of the Bible. But they have also the joy and profit of spiritually understanding the Scriptures because the Christian Science textbook is the key which opens the Bible's deep meaning. The results of this study are shown in multiple healings, in sinful lives regenerated, homes established in harmony, lack replaced with abundance, pain and bodily discord dispelled, and health and poise restored.

"One of the most solemn days in the Christian year," the Rev. Frank V. H. Carthy, rector, said, "is Palm Sunday when Christians everywhere remember the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem. The liturgy of the day calls to the remembrance of the faithful the great acts of the final week leading up to the Crucifixion."

In the afternoon, many parishioners will accompany the choir to Long Branch where at 7:30 p. m. the choir of the local church will sing a service of Passiontide Liturgical music. St. James' Church in Long Branch is the home parish of Trinity's rector, the Rev. Mr. Carthy.

CHURCH SERVICES CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

God is ever with man who constantly needs to be gratefully aware of this spiritual fact. The Lesson-Sermon on "Reality" in Christian Science Churches this Sunday will enlarge upon this theme.

The Golden Text is from Isaiah: "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him." 64:4)

A further citation from the King James Version of the Bible reads: "Behold,the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God." (Rev. 21:3).

Selections to be read from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following: "Take heart; dear sufferer, for this reality of being will surely appear sometime and in some way. There will be no more pain, and all tears will be wiped away." (p. 573).

Temple Players Stage Mature Performance of 'The Heiress'

By BERNICE W. HARRIS

The Temple Players of Temple Beth-El really came of age on Saturday night at Lincoln School with the presentation of "The Heiress," the two-act play by Ruth and Augustus Goetz that brought such plaudits to the Broadway stage play and the Hollywood movie of the same name.

It was hard to believe you were not on Broadway when the curtain rose on "the beautiful Victorian setting which elicited murmurs of appreciation from the audience.

The play opens on an October evening in the year 1850 at the home of Dr. Austin Sloper, who had lost his wife in childbirth 20 years before but still carries the memory of a happy marriage and the wife totally different from his embittering, humiliating, inarticulate daughter who will eventually be an heiress, his $30,000 estate. When Catherine meets Morris and quickly falls in love, and he professes love for her, the doctor fears that the man is simply a fortune hunter, and takes her to Europe for six months to test their love. When they are away, Morris spends much time with Catherine's aunt at the Sloper house, relishes the comforts of someday being the master, and plans for his elopement with Catherine on her return.

However, on Catherine's return, circumstances are such that she disclaims her inheritance, is devastatingly informs Morris of this. He fails to keep their elopement plans, and the scene where Catherine and her aunt wait, at first full of hope, then doubt and resignation to the truth, was full of poignant sadness and most impressive. The character change in Catherine toward the end was very well done. After an absence of two years, during which time Dr. Sloper dies, Aunt Penniman contrives to bring Morris and Catherine together, and he pleads for forgiveness and reconciliation, feeling that there could now be no bar to their marriage. Catherine seemingly agrees to elope and he departs, thinking he has won the girl, the house and the money in one fell swoop., and Aunt Penniman is besides herself with happiness. But Catherine has other ideas, and orders the door barred against his return. The lights lower as she puts them out one by one, and one hears Morris pounding at the door in vain as Catherine resolutely and purposefully, carries her lamp slowly up the stairs, and the curtain falls.

A capacity crowd of five hundred persons applauded for numerous curtain calls and the president of Temple Beth-El, Jess Bernstein, presented Mrs. Bernard Kott with flowers and Lawrence Raff with a gift in appreciation of their efforts as directors. By its continued applause the audience registered its approval of the versatile and highly seasoned talents of the entire group. The play showed the hand of unusually deft direction of Mrs. Kott and Mr. Raff, a team that has always turned out an excellent evening's entertainment.

Since there is little actual action to the play, it is to their great credit that the interest of the audience was sustained at peak level throughout. The production was far above amateur standards.

No less effective than any stage or screen star was Gertrude Shapiro in the role of Catherine Sloper, the heiress. Her portrayal of the shy girl, to inept at social graces to the dismay of her father, was excellent. Her emotional shadings were most expertly handled and her stage presence showed considerable experience.

Lawrence Raff grew his own mustache to make his appearance more realistic and he made the difficult role of Dr. Sloper, Catherine's father, most believable, the portrayal of his character never once wavering.

Florence Levy was absolutely delightful as Mrs. Penniman, the aunt who was so romantically thrilled with Catherine's suitor, capturing a quality of impish, wistful hopefulness for Catherine's marriage to Morris despite her knowledge that he was fortune-hunting.

As the suitor, Morris Townsend, who so ardently protested the sincerity of his love for Catherine, Jerry Sawyer was personally charming and handled his role with professional ease.

Jean Havenon's characterization as Mrs. Montgomery, Morris's sister, was so well suited that it brought applause from the audience upon her exit after a single scene. It was done with superb simplicity.

Linda, the maid, was well played by Roslyn Neuman in every scene. Adelaide Isaac and Marion Katz as Elizabeth and Miriam Almond were most satisfactory and decorative and Henry Rickles did well as Arthur Townsend.

Behind the scenes, Lorna Raff and Hannah Breibart proved themselves capable as business managers. Lighting was expertly handled by Irving Myerson and Saul Winkel, of Cranford, to give the illusion of gaslight. The sound effects—so important to this presentation—were under the supervision of Dr. Arnold Levine of Roselle. The stage crew under the able direction of Tony Eudene and Henry Rickles included Wynn Katz, Dr. Bernard B. Kott, Albert Goldberg, Jess Bernstein, William Isaac and Sidney Lauren.

Book holders were Miriam Lauren of Cranford and Selma Mindlin of Westfield. Dressers were Mrs. Henry Rickles of Kenilworth and Mrs. Arnold Levine of Roselle.

Tremendous attention to detail was evident in the authenticity of the entire production. Close collaboration was apparent amongst Leon Mindlin, interior decorator, and Sylvia Goldberg, Jean Havenson, Naomi Friedman, and Ann Scher in charge of properties, and Ruth Rosenson and Iris Garfield in charge of costumes. Everything was extremely effective, attractive and in keeping with the period.

Schedule Earlier Garbage Collections

KENILWORTH — Councilman Oliver J. Brown, chairman of the public works committee, has requested residents to put their garbage out earlier.

Report Theft Of Heirlooms

—Theft of several heirlooms, borrowed for use in "The Heiress," presented Saturday night in Lincoln School by the Temple Players of Temple Beth El, has been reported to the police.

A brown leather bag, containing the articles, was taken last Wednesday night from the car of Mrs. Sylvia Goldberg of Keith Jeffries avenue, while the car was parked on South avenue, west.

In the bag were a bell rope, owned by Mrs. Theodore Genereaux of Millburn, which originally came from the home of Johns Hopkins of Philadelphia, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence; a silver toddy cup, which was a rare Tiffany piece; a miniature antique frame containing a child's picture, and a quill pen.

All of the articles are heirlooms and are valued by their respective owners for sentimental reasons than for their intrinsic value.

The Temple Players have invited the person who took the case or anyone who may find the articles to return them to Mrs. William Haveson, 818 Springfield avenue, or to Temple Beth-El on South avenue and no questions will be asked.—

Garden Club Places First In Contest

The Garden Club of Cranford was awarded the first prize in a table setting contest held recently at B. Altman and Co., New York.

Ten leading garden clubs from New York and New Jersey participated. The representatives from the Cranford Club were Mrs. Richmond P. Wisner and Mrs. Raymond H. Walcott.

The flower-arranging science of the buffet table setting was unique in design and color and consisted of a round-shattered tablecloth with a center-band of black with shades and tints of gray predominating.

Also, white antique spiral porcelain china, chrome chafing dish, glass coffee pot trimmed with silver and black, stainless steel flatware imported from Holland and irregular black metal candlesticks with white candles.

In the twin black ceramic containers, Mrs. Wisner combined Scotch broom and English yews with the New Yorker Rose. Sprays of Scotch broom were painted white to harmonize with the white china and candles. The scarlet color of the New Yorker Rose was repeated in the napkins.

The prize was a complete New Yorker Rose bedroom ensemble. Judges were editors from Gourmet, House Beautiful, Good Housekeeping and Living for Young Homemakers magazines.

Krueger, Brother Form Contracting Company

KENILWORTH — Councilman Robert C. Krueger, Republican candidate for mayor, announced that he and his brother, Howard C. Krueger of Scotch Plains, have formed a general contracting firm.

Mr. Krueger has left his position as methods engineer with Purolator Products of Rahway.

He had been employed by the Rahway company for six years. Prior to that time, he was employed as a yard man by Lofrano Builders Supply Co. of Plainfield.

The firm, Mr. Krueger said, will be engaged in building new homes, remodeling, cabinet work and carpentry jobbing.

The local man said his brother has been engaged in the building field for the past eight years, and developed Mohawk Village in Westfield and Lake Nelson development near New Brunswick among others.

Future plans call for the construction of an office and storage building and area in Kenilworth, Mr. Krueger said.

Asks Insurance Law Survey

Roy H. MacBean, local insurance agent, today warned that it is important to the driving public to understand the difference between physical damage and liability insurance in connection with the new security responsibility law that becomes effective Wednesday.

Mr. MacBean, who is president of the New Jersey Association of Insurance Agents, warned that some motorists might find themselves facing fines of their coverage because they think they are adequately insured when they are not.

"The law," he explained, "applies to liability for damage done to others. Anyone without liability insurance who is involved in an accident after April 1 must post security up to $11,000 or lose the right to drive. If property insured he is protected.

"But the proper insurance in this case means liability insurance with a company authorized to do business in New Jersey for not less than $5,000-$10,000 public liability and $1,000 property damage.

"Some owners carry collision insurance which will repair any damage done to their own car, but does not cover damage they might do to others. The later is known as liability insurance, and it is that which is necessary to cover the requirements of the new law."

Wholesale Production

A single pair of flies, beginning in April, could produce 191 septillion flies by August, if all lived.

National Tool Convicted Of Dumping Violation

KENILWORTH — Following a lengthy hearing in Municipal Court last week, National Tool Company of North Twelfth street was found guilty of violating the borough dumping ordinance by Magistrate William Bruder.

The complaint was filed against the firm by Walter Kwasnick of North Eleventh street. He charged that on February 20 and various other times the company had stored barrels of plastic in Washington avenue, a paper street, which charged up a storm sewer. Sentence was suspended by Magistrate Bruder.

Magistrate Bruder warned the company that if the local dumping ordinance were violated again he would take action against the officers of the firm.

Borough Attorney Earl Pollock represented the borough and John D. Stone of Stein, Stein and Hughes represented National Tool Co.

THE POLITICAL POT

By E. D. STANLEY

PRIMARIES

Voters are prone to discount the importance of the primaries in the belief that the November election is the paramount political event. But such is not the case. The primaries are of far greater consequence, particularly in political sub-divisions where one party is predominant. Such is the case in our Township, County, and State, where nomination at the primary is, at the present time, tantamount to election. If you do not get your favorite candidate selected at the primary, you will have no chance to vote for him at the election.

Authorities agree that the success of our form of government depends on the participation of a large percentage of the eligible voters. And such participation must be intelligent. Every voter should have knowledge of the candidates and the issues. That many do not vote intelligently is evidenced by the fact that first place on the ballot is estimated as a 20% advantage because many automatically vote for the first candidate listed.

Our next (and very important) primary will be on April 21, and the political pot will be boiling till that time. The candidates and the issues will be presented from platform and through the media of radio, television, and the press.

The Citizen and Chronicle realizes its responsibility to its subscribers in this connection. It proposes to present this campaign in a resume of the facts and events of this campaign whenever there are any important developments to report.

It is appreciated that much of this information will not be carried in news and may have been previously published in daily papers, but it will have the virtue of being verified and assembled in one place. Subscribers who habitually read this paper and the daily papers will not have to subscribe to a New Jersey daily to keep reasonably abreast of New Jersey politics.

The column will be non-partisan, but will attempt to interpret political parties, although most of the news will naturally refer to the Republican party. No election will be made, so far as possible, between fact and rumor, and any errors will be acknowledged if discovered.

Apropos questions addressed to the column will be answered if the answer can be found.

Entry on the primary ballot is by petition, which must be submitted 40 days before the primary. That date having passed, the list of candidates is fixed and follows herewith in the order in which the names will appear on the Cranford primary ballot. Positions on the ballot were chosen by lot under the supervision of the County Clerk.

Teachers Term Pay Too Low

Borough Has Lowest Minimum Salaries In District, PTA Told

KENILWORTH — Dissatisfaction with present salaries and the schedule that will be in operation for the next school year has been expressed by Miss Winona Newcomb, president of the Kenilworth Teachers Association.

Speaking at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening, Miss Newcomb said that Kenilworth now has the lowest minimum salary among the schools in the Roselle District and will have the second lowest in September if no change is made in Garwood. The minimum salary is now $2,500 and will be $2,700 in September.

Miss Newcomb said the school system has seven teachers whose take home pay is $37.25 a week and one teacher who has been in Kenilworth two years and receives $39 a week.

"A teacher with 28 years experience and five years training takes home $83.70 weekly," the association president explained.

She asked, "How can we possibly be satisfied? How can we attract and keep competent teachers in the schools with these figures?"

"I would like to make it clear," Miss Newcomb said, "that the Teachers' Association does not blame the Board of Education for the condition which exists here. We are certain that you people are interested in your schools and want to be in a position to compete with other towns for the available teachers."

The teachers' leader pointed out that the town has supported raises at Regional High School and for town employes and expressed the belief the borough would support raises for the local teachers "when you realize how far Kenilworth lags behind the other Regional districts."

"Do you know how long it takes to get a raise in salaries?" the association president asked. "The teachers' committee started work in February, 1952. We met with the Board of Education in June, 1952, and asked for a new schedule. It was October or November 1952 before the Board of Education could present us with a modification of our plan. In February 1953 you people accepted the budget embodying the proposed raises. In September 1953, we will start receiving the salary increase that was first considered 19 months before."

It was pointed out that all Regional districts except Garwood and Kenilworth will have a minimum salary of $3,000 by September of this year.

"As we look at these figures, it is easy to understand why we lost six teachers last year and need as many for September. Besides the replacements each year, our growing enrollment necessitates additional members. In the past two years we have hired 9 new teachers, Mr. Carey of the Board of Education are handicapped in obtaining them. If the low salary they are forced to offer," Miss Newcomb said.

Lions Show Preparations Now Complete

KENILWORTH — All preparations have been completed for the show the Lions Club will sponsor tomorrow and Saturday evenings in Harding School auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

The show, entitled "Nautical Nonsense" will be presented by the Elizabethtown Variety Players for the benefit of the club's fund to build a skating rink in the municipal playground.

If the show is successful, the club announced, work on the skating rink will get underway within a period of several weeks. The fund already has $700.

Tickets will be available at the door, the club reported.

The benefit performance is one of a lengthening list of shows presented by the volunteer entertainers. George White of the Elizabeth YMCA is director. He composed the dialogue and arranged the musical selections and dances. Action of the show takes place on an ocean liner on an imaginary cruise from Southampton, England, to New York.

Vitale, Krueger, Neville to Be Listed on Ballot in That Order

KENILWORTH—Following a drawing last Thursday, John Vitale, one of the three Republican candidates for the mayoralty nomination, won top position on the ballot.

He will be followed by Councilman Robert Krueger and former Councilman Dudley Neville.

In the race for the Republican mayoralty nomination for tax collector and treasurer, Mrs. Frances Condon won first place ahead of the incumbent, E. G. Anderson.

Ernest Vardalis and Dory Hinchcliffe will be listed in that order for the two Republican council nominations, while Edward R. Woodland and Walter E. Bright have drawn that order on the ballot for the Democratic nominations for council.

Mrs. Rita Vitale will be listed ahead of Mrs. Ruth Reynolds, incumbent, for the Republican county committee post in the First District, while Mrs. Ernestine Marino leads Mrs. Margaret Borger, incumbent, in the Second District for the Republican County Committee seat.

Most political observers concede top listing on the ballot helps a candidate, but how much is problematical. With only three candidates in the mayoralty race, this should not make a major difference.

Meanwhile Mr. Vitale announced that he has named a three-man group to direct his campaign. They are: Guy Vetus-

Builders Hit

A lenthy discussion was held by Councilman Robert C. Krueger and Building Inspector Fred Teipel on numerous faults found in some new homes in the borough. Councilman Krueger charged that some builders are skimming homes together, using minimum materials and skipping small items. He blamed poor supervision by the builders as the reason for the poor quality.

Mr. Teipel defended his department, reporting that the buildings meet the borough's building code or general building practices in this area. Mr. Teipel agreed that there was poor workmanship in some of the homes, but said they satisfy the borough's regulations.

Asks Inspection

Mr. Krueger commended the work of the building inspector, but pointed out that the borough cannot afford a fulltime inspector. The councilman asked that the borough attorney check to see if the borough can force a builder to meet standards as advertised.

The board pointed out that it was sending the letter in the "interest of the children's safety."

Willow Avenue Building Plans At Deadend

GARWOOD—A bottleneck which has arisen to delay the development of several lots at the lower end of Willow avenue has resulted in the calling of a special meeting of Borough Council Tuesday at 8:30 p. m.

James V. Cascio of 101 Severin Court, Cranford, March 16 was granted permission by the Board of Adjustment to erect two light manufacturing plants on the lots. The lots 272, 272, 73, 74, 76, 77, 78 and 279, are in a class B residential zone.

Mr. Cascio appeared before the council Tuesday night to say his building plans have been snafued. He asked council to trade one of the lots he owns for lot 278, a piece of property the borough owns that gives it a throughway to the borough garage in South avenue. Failing to come to any decision, council called the special session.

Sewer Pipe Folds, Floods Many Cellars

KENILWORTH — An 18-inch sanitary sewer caved in causing sewerage to back up into at least 15 homes Tuesday evening in the vicinity of Richfield and Faitoute avenues.

Under the direction of Councilman Oliver J. Brown, chairman of the public works committee, a steam shovel was used to break open the street to pump out the sewer to permit the sewerage to flow from the homes. Members of the road department and a contractor worked all night to complete the job.

Mayor William Lister reported that the site was probably cracked when some one tried to connect with it.

Mr. Brown said he did not know how soon the broken sewer could be repaired.

The fire department set up flood lights to aid the workmen throughout the evening. A large crowd witnessed the operations.

Councilman Brown reminds residents that a street opening permit is needed when sewer connections are being made. He said this isn't being done in many instances.

Army Man Issues Appeal

Seeks Clothing For Orphans In Japan

An appeal for children's clothing for orphans in Japan is contained in a letter, received recently by Frank Carey of 210 High street from M/Sgt. Daniel DelGandio formerly of 46 Burnside avenue, now stationed in Yokohama, Japan.

Mr. Carey, who has made a hobby of corresponding with hundreds of local veterans since the outbreak of World War II, has volunteered to collect the clothing and ship it to the former local man who, will supervise the distribution to needy orphan children. Clothing may be left at Mr. Carey's home on High street.

Sgt. DelGandio, who has been in the regular army more than 23 years, reports that he recently returned from six months' duty in Korea. He says he now sees many boxing bouts, but still longs for "the old home town."

His wife and two daughters are now in Pennsylvania awaiting orders to join Sgt. DenGandio in Japan.

He is married and has two children and resides at 15 Madison avenue.

The report of last year's executive chairman, Richard M. Van Horn, showed that $20,325.10 was raised during the fund drive. The quota was $20,000.

Resolutions were adopted commending the fine work of Mr. Goodfellow during his two years as president and expressing appreciation to Mr. Van Horn, now a resident of California, for his leadership of last year's drive.

Cranford Has Fifth Lowest Tax Rate

Cranford has the fifth lowest tax rate in Union County this year, according to tentative rates for 19 county municipalities released yesterday by the Union County Board of Taxation. The local rate this year is $5.85 per $100, an increase of 28 points above the 1952 rate.

Summit with a $5.35 rate, a decrease of three points from 1952, has the lowest rate in the county. Other municipalities with rates lower than Cranford are: Linden, $5.47; Mountainside, $5.75; and Hillside, $5.80.

New Providence has the highest rate in the county, with $8.80.

Garwood's rate for 1953 is $6.89 as compared with $6.84 last year, while Kenilworth's rate has been set tentatively at $6.58 as compared with $6.10 in 1952.

Smith Reports 167 Had X-ray Examinations

William Smith, local health officer announced that 167 x-rays were taken during the week of March 24 at the Cranford Board of Health.

These x-rays may be picked up at the Board of Health, Alden place, any time after April 6.

Cleveland Pupils Send Books To 'Poor' Kentucky School

As the Easter Season draws near, the spirit of giving again encompasses almost everyone. And this spirit is also in evidence today in the Cleveland School.

To aid a school in Kentucky, which has been described as "possibly the worst school house in Kentucky, if not the nation," the students through their student council have sent books to Tabernacle No. 2 School in Adair County.

The whole project began when the student council decided to aid some group in the United States rather than a foreign nation this year. Last year, for example, flour and seeds were sent to a town in Greece. A letter was written to the Department of Education of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The superintendent of public instruction, Wendell P. Butler, sent them newspaper clipping from the Louisville Courier-Journal describing conditions at the Tabernacle No. 2 school.

A letter was then forwarded to Mrs. Iva Williams, teacher for the one-room school, requesting what type of assistance the school could use. The names and ages of the students was also requested.

Mrs. Williams suggested library books, work books to supplementary busy work for grades, a portable phonograph with school records and a water tank.

"I want to extend to you our heartfelt thanks and to assure you that anything you choose to get for us will be a help and will surely be used," Mrs. Williams said.

Even a quick look at the newspaper article about the Kentucky school will convince anyone that any assistance at all can be used. Because the area where the school is located is isolated from the remainder of the county, pupils are unable to attend school which has better facilities. According to the article, there are so many schools in the state in similar conditions that the state cannot afford better facilities.

The school consists of one room 28x14 feet, but only half of it is used for classroom purposes because there is only one old potbelly

Clarence Fritz Tells Local Lions Club Unit Favored by Committee

Speaking on behalf of Township Committee, Clarence Fritz, public safety commissioner, Tuesday told a meeting of the Lions Club at the Coach and Four Restaurant of the need for an active first aid squad in Cranford.

Following his talk Victor Shaheen was appointed to represent the club on a committee that is being formed to organize a squad. It if expected that various organizations in Cranford will also appoint representatives to the committee.

Guest speaker at the meeting was the Rev. Orlo C. Hopper, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and first president of the Lions Club, who delivered his annual Easter message to the group. The Rev. Dr. Hopper, who is pastor emeritus of Princeton Seminary, preceded his talk on Easter by telling of the demand for ministers and missionaries throughout the United States and the world.

The Rev. Dr. Hopper pointed out that the need has been especially great since World War II because the facilities for training ministers for the jobs are limited. He added that the building of new churches is sorely needed in new, growing

With $14,038.23 or 87 percent of the $16,057 quota reported through Tuesday night, Paul O. Dunham, executive chairman of the 1953 fund drive of the Cranford-Garwood-Kenilworth Chapter, American Red Cross, announced yesterday that the local campaign will be extended another week.

The chairman pointed out that returns are incomplete from several residential districts and he expressed confidence that the quota will be reached if all workers complete their calls. He appealed to the volunteer canvassers to make their final calls and turn in their kits to Red Cross headquarters, 10 North Union avenue, tonight or next Tuesday night.

District 3 reported the banner collections Tuesday night followed by Kenilworth area. District 4 still tops all residential collection areas in Cranford.

Easter Egg Hunt Slated By VFW Post

All Cranford children between the ages of four and 10 have been invited to participate in the second annual Easter Egg Hunt Saturday.

Capt. Newell Rooker Flake Post 335, VFW, and its Ladies Auxiliary will sponsor the hunt from 1:30 to 3 p. m. at Nomahegan Park. It is expected that 90 dozen eggs have been colored and will be distributed at the park. There will be a booth for the children featuring the gold and silver eggs and other marked-eggs. The child finding the gold egg will receive a $25 war bond. There will be numerous other prizes.

Practically the whole area of the park will be used this year, the sponsoring organizations announced. The committee urged all children participating to bring some contain such as a basket or bag for the eggs found.

The ladies auxiliary colored the eggs Monday evening at Veterans Memorial Hall and the men of the post will distribute them Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Schwarz are in charge of arrangements.

Jerry Wald, His Orchestra To Appear at CHS Prom

Jerry Wald and his Orchestra, now appearing at the Paramount Theatre in New York, will play for the Junior-Senior Prom in the Cranford High School gymnasium on Friday night, May 22, it was announced yesterday.

Ray Eberle, former feature vocalist for many years with Glenn Miller's Orchestra, will sing with the Wald band. This talented and versatile artist, now on radio and television, is a great favorite wherever he sings.

Ever since he first organized a dance band, Mr. Wald has maintained a high degree of musical integrity. Recently, however, he has made changes which have created much comment in musical circles. Employing modern ideas with his basic talents, Mr. Wald has come up with what is undoubtedly one of the most talked of orchestras in the nation. Feeling the public's need for more than just ordinary dance music, he has combined satisfying tempos and arrangements with modern instrumentals that rate with the best anywhere.

Music critics agree that his present aggregation is the best he has ever assembled. His previous tours have included appearances at the Hotel New Yorker and Paramount Theatre in New York, the Palladium in Hollywood, Steel Pier in Atlantic City, and many other entertainment centers in the country.

Immunization Week Slated By Physicians

The week of April 13 has been designated as Immunization Week in Cranford, according to an announcement this week by the Cranford Physicians Club and the Board of Health, joint sponsors of the project.

Parents have been reminded to take advantage of this opportunity to protect their children against the childhood diseases of diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox by having them immunized.

"It is only by maintaining a high level of community protection that these diseases may be controlled," Dr. Anthony Sorelli, president of the Physicians' Club, declared. "Sporadic and occasional cases are a constant reminder that neglect and apathy are an invitation to severe outbreaks. Parents who cannot afford to pay for injections should make their problem known to the Board of Health."

Booster shots are required for all children entering the Cranford schools in the fall. Because of the incidence of polio during the summer months, most physicians hesitate to recommend injections at that time as there may be some damage to body tissues, thus lowering resistance to the polio virus.

Health Officer W. P. Smith also pointed out that the Civil Defense recommendation of adding protection against tetanus cannot be underestimated. If tetanus toxoid has been used a booster shot will suffice without the danger of serum reactions from other agents in case of injury. The latter is of particular importance to youngsters who may suffer from allergies.

GOP Club to Hold Candidates' Night

Candidates for state, county and local offices will attend the annual candidates' night meeting of the Cranford Republican Club at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday in the VFW Memorial Home, South avenue, it was announced yesterday by Weyman O. Steengrafe, president. Cooperating in sponsoring next week's meeting will be the Women's Republican Club and the Young Republican Club.

An invitation to attend the gathering and meet the various candidates for office has been extended by presidents of the three groups. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Scouts on TV Program Friday

Scoutmaster Kenneth Robinson and Scout John Kling Monday of Troop 79 will present over WATV tomorrow night a preview of the forthcoming Scout-O-Rama to be held April 11 at the Elizabeth Armory.

In the Scout-O-Rama, 300 Scouts and Cubs will demonstrate scouting skills and training to an estimated audience of 10,000 people.

Rev. Longaker Elected Head Of Rotarians

The Rev. Robert G. Longaker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was elected president of the Cranford Rotary Club last Thursday at the annual meeting in the Methodist Church educational building. He will succeed John L. Blach on July 1.

Other officers for the coming year follow: Vice-president, C. Van Chamberlin; secretary, Arthur Burditt; treasurer, Peter J. Clark; and directors, Mr. Blach, Joseph Guker, Dr. Edward M. Coe and Charles Hill.

Past President Carroll K. Sellers, chairman of the nominating committee, conducted the election.

John A. Manger, chairman of the recent play for benefit of the club's student loan fund, announced that profits from the play will net the Rotary Club more than $1,350. The Dramatic Club received a similar amount for its building fund.

Secretary Chamberlin reported the club was fifth in attendance for February with 94.28 percent.

Seek Help For Clinic

Mental Hygiene Unit Asks Local Residents To Donate $1,500

Letters were mailed out this week to local residents requesting funds to help defray Cranford's share of the expense of operating the Mental Hygiene Clinic of Union County. Local quota is $1,500.

Robert M. Crane is chairman of the local fund-raising committee, assisted by Mrs. Edmund B. Faulkner and Mrs. J. Bradford Wilson.

The clinic, located in Plainfield, serves residents of Cranford, Westfield, Summit, New Providence and Plainfield, and the cost of operating this important and vital service is apportioned among the five communities.

Fourteen adults and six children from Cranford were among the 371 individuals who were served by the clinic during the past year.

"The need for mental hygiene clinic service hardly needs to be demonstrated," Mr. Crane declared this week. "At present, more persons suffer from mental illness than from polio, cancer and tuberculosis combined and the growing awareness of this situation on the part of the public is resulting in a tremendously increased demand for psychiatric treatment on the part of the people of Union County.

"Modern mental health clinic treatment is an essential in any mental hygiene program because it is through such services that the terrible increase in admissions to mental hospitals and corrections institutions can be cut down. Such clinic treatment can similarly decrease the number of maladjusted. Because a number of youngsters have not made their final returns, the contest will be extended to Saturday noon. All boys who have obtained new or renewal subscriptions have been requested to make their returns by that time to the newspaper office. Consolation prizes will be awarded those who do not earn baseball gloves or balls.

A total of 157 boys participated in the five week contest and thus far 58 of this number have received prizes. Nearly 100 New Method subscriptions and 75 renewal subscriptions have been turned in.

Those who earned baseball gloves during the past week included: Raymond Xifo, 92 Winans avenue; Rickey Vitale, 304 North Nineteenth street, Kenilworth; John Gillis, 27 West End place; Billy Schultze, 201 Locust drive; Wells Jones, 2 Retford avenue; Peter Occi, 523 Lincoln park, east; and Ronald Vitale, 304 North Nineteenth street, Kenilworth.

Carl Harbaugh, 109 Oak Lane, earned three baseballs, while David DeLonge, 215 Central avenue, and James Cascio, 101 Severin court, each received two baseballs. Record Last-Minute Rush Hits Cranford MV Agency

The local agency of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau experienced the heaviest last-minute rush for new license tabs and driver's licenses in its history during the past week, Harry R. Heins, agent, reported yesterday.

Although the rush tapered off yesterday afternoon, there were long waiting lines at the agency, 17 North avenue, east, from Friday through yesterday morning. Tuesday was the heaviest day, with the lines extending up Alden street and along North Union avenue to the Charles Kurtz Market.

The agency will be open until 5 p. m. today and will be closed all day tomorrow, Good Friday. On Saturday, the agency will be open from 9 a. m. till noon, and regular hours of 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. will be resumed on Monday.

Mr. Heins estimated last night that there still are a number of motorists who have not obtained their new tabs and driver's licenses. This was verified by police who reported they issued six summons yesterday to motorists found driving with their 1952 plates.

Through Tuesday night, the local agency had issued a total of 12,458 license tabs, an increase of 1,826 over the same day a year ago. Driver's licenses issued totaled 12,765, representing an increase of 338, and the 887 commercial licenses showed an increase of 79 over last year's figures.

On Tuesday, the banner day at the local agency, 731 license tabs, 1,026 driver's licenses and 86 commercial tabs were issued. There were from 50 to 150 persons in line throughout the day, and the "early birds" were in line at 7:30 a. m., although the agency did not open until 9.

The Motor Vehicle Inspection Station in Westfield also reported a speedy business during the past week. Some motorists were in line six to eight hours before the station opened Tuesday morning to obtain their final inspection in order to renew their licenses. Others reported it took them from one to three hours to get their cars through the inspection station on Tuesday.

Community Unit Votes to Continue

Thirty-five Representatives See Need To Keep Organization; Amend By-Laws Asking Appointment of Club Leaders

Thirty-five representatives of the 46 organizations comprising the Cranford Community Council voted unanimously Tuesday night to continue the council.

Meeting in the municipal building, the various representatives decided, however, that one major change should be made in the council's by-laws. It was recommended that delegates from the participating organizations in the future should be duly elected officers or directors.

The council's present by-laws provide that each participating club is entitled to two delegates and the council meetings also are open to all interested citizens. The latter membership will be continued but it was the opinion of those present Tuesday night that officers or directors of the organizations should be in a better position to speak with authority for their respective groups.

Mrs. Ralph Noland, vice-president, presided in the absence of President George Mory. He appointed Channing Budd, H. Stanley MacClary and Mrs. Charles Redden as members of the nominating committee to submit a new slate of officers. The annual meeting will be held April 27 in the municipal building.

Among the various delegates who urged the continuance of the council were: Weyman O. Steengrafe, representing the Cranford Republican Club; Mr. MacClary, representing the Rotary Club; the Rev. Albert Ahlinger, Cranford Methodist Church; Mrs. C. G. Alexander, Cranford Council of Church Women; Channing Rudd; Kiwanis Club; and Robert M. Crane, Cranford Business Association.

The Community Council has sponsored the Cranford School of Adult Education, conducted a survey of recreation facilities in the township, coordinated the efforts of various local clubs and organizations, and made an attempt to establish a community calendar to avoid conflicts in dates of events of a community-wide nature.

Betty Wikander One Of Four From State To Attend Encampment

Senior Girl Scouts of Cranford will be represented at the 1953 All-States Encampment by Betty Wikander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Wikander of 17 North avenue, it was announced today by Mrs. H. C. Belden, president of the Cranford Girl Scout Council.

Betty will be one of four representatives from New Jersey at the event which will be held next August at the Buffalo Bill Youth Camp near Cody, Wyo. Campers will come from every state in the Union.

Official notification of Betty's acceptance was received from Girl Scout National Headquarters in New York City, which holds the encampments.

Mrs. Belden said that this will be the third All-States Encampment and the largest, with twice as many girls in attendance as in the previous two years — nearly 200 in all. The encampment is the gift of Glenn E. Nielson, president of the Husky Oil Company, and Paul Stock, independent oil dealer, both of Cody. They provide funds that will cover the basic costs of operating the camp.

The site of the encampment is in Shoshone National Forest near Yellowstone Park, about 40 miles from Cody, and provides opportunities for the scouts to explore the countryside, take trail trips, camp out overnight and study the wildlife of the area. The general program of activities for the two-week get-together is planned by campers with the help of their counselors.

In selecting Senior Scouts for the encampment, much consideration had been given to their skill and knowledge of camping techniques as well as to their qualities of lead-
