John T. Connell

Services were held Monday in Jersey City for John T. Connell, 72, of 107 Lincoln avenue, east, who died last Thursday in Rahway Memorial Hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Easton, Pa., Mr. Connell moved here at the age of 17 years before moving to Jersey City. He returned here about four years ago.

A veteran of World War I, he was a telegrapher with the Central Railroad of New Jersey before retiring several years ago.

He leaves a stepson, Peter E. Connell, a stepdaughter, Mrs. Alene "Trotter," with whom he lived; three brothers, Joseph and Francis, both of Byrketown Heights and the Rev. Thomas Connell, pastor of the St. Ignace Church, New York City, at this moment, has 22-locks on Park avenue in flower.

"Cranford, noted years ago as the Venice of New Jersey, could well become the Azalea Garden of New Jersey."

Completion of the annual community project of the Green Thumb Garden Club, a planting of azaleas along the Rahway River, was announced this week by Mrs. Elizabeth Imperato, president of the club's committee for beautifying the town under chairmanship of Mrs. Albert W. Baird, assisted by Mrs. Harold Walsh and Mrs. Alfred Janoff.

With the assistance of R. A. Koller, chief forester and plantman for the Union County Park Commission, 20 Hino crimson azalea shrubs were planted along the river on Springfield avenue across from the Cane Club. The weeping cherry tree in the area also was trimmed and a Scotch pine planted.

Township Engineer Patrick J. Crall contacted Mr. Koller for the club.

In connection with the project, Mrs. Imperato issued the following statement:

"Perhaps other garden clubs and civic organizations would like to pick up the challenge and join with the members of the Green Thumb Garden Club and contribute to this worthwhile project, namely, beautifying the town or focal point of the community."

"Rochester, N. Y., long known as the 'Flower City,' cultivates not only in private gardens, but in public parks as well. Washington, D. C., has the annual cherry blossom festival. New York City, at this moment, has 22-locks on Park avenue in flower."

Inspiring Example of a Well Lived Life

The sudden passing last Wednesday of Robert E. Crane, former president of the Cranford Trust Co. and retired chairman of the board of the Suburban Trust Co., marked the end of a long and full career that was closely tied in with Cranford's growth from "small town" status to its present position as an "urban place" accorded the same statistical recognition as cities in the 1960 Census reports.

When Mr. Crane came here as a boy from Brooklyn in the early 1890's, he found himself in a town with a population of less than 1,800 people. At the time of his death, the community of which he made himself so much a part had just received news of a preliminary 1960 Census population figure of 26,377.

Following his graduation from Cranford High School at a time when it was located in the old Grant School building, Mr. Crane became associated with financial institutions in New York City.

He became a director of the former Cranford Trust Co. in 1919 and joined the bank on a full-time basis in 1940 as vice-president. He was named president in 1948 and chairman of the board following the merger in 1952, when the local bank became the Cranford Branch of the Suburban Trust Co. He continued to take an active interest in the affairs of the financial institution even after his retirement in 1956. Through the years, township officials often sought his advice in financial affairs.

Mr. Crane was always active in local service organizations and civic projects and will be especially remembered for his directing of War Bond campaigns here during World War II. He was a founder of the old Cranford Golf Club and served as first president of the Echo Lake Country Club, in which he held honorary membership in recent years. He was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church, Cranford Rotary Club, Sons of the American Revolution and the Cranford Taxpayers' Association.

His sudden removal from the daily scene in which he was still a well-known and active figure despite his 78 years, leaves feelings of sadness and loss in the community as well as the family circle, but the poignancy of such feelings is tempered by a sense of thankfulness that Cranford during its years of rapid growth had the benefit of the services and example of a man such as Robert E. Crane.

Poppies Provide Aid for Hospitalized Veterans

Members of local veterans' groups in conducting their numerous parades at Veterans' Administration hospitals in this area have many heart-rending facts brought home to them through their first-hand contact with the patients and their families. One of the most striking of these realizations is the fact that some of these men, veterans of World War I, have been hospitalized now for over 40 years! There also are many World War II injured who have been under treatment for close to 20 years, and Korean conflict casualties who are entering their 10th year of hospitalization.

Those who visit the hospitals to entertain these men disabled in the service of their country are deserving of high praise for their year-round efforts to help brighten shut-in lives by providing a little extra comfort and cheer. For others who would like to help in some way, an opportunity is afforded in the annual poppy drive conducted locally by Capt. Newell Rodney Fiske Post 335, VFW, and the Ladies Auxiliary of Cranford Post 212, American Legion.

Of the money collected in the poppy drive, 55 percent goes to the New Jersey Rehabilitation Fund, National Orphans' Home and Hospital, National Rehabilitation Fund and the disabled veterans who make the poppies. The other 45 percent goes to the relief funds of the sponsoring organizations, which funds are protected by by-laws providing that the money can be used only for hospital work and charity projects to help a needy veteran or his family.

Having as its motto, "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living," the 1960 poppy drive will begin in Cranford next Monday and continue through May 30, Memorial Day. And we feel sure that the thought of these 40- to 60-year periods of hospitalization mentioned earlier should influence you to contribute more generously than ever this year.

Summer Plans Told for Young Republican Club

Plans for the summer season were outlined by Peter Johnson, president of the Cranford Young Republican Club, at a meeting in the Elks Clubhouse on Friday night.

Members and guests will travel to West Point Island on June 18 for a family fish fry at the home of James Flannery, and on June 22 the club's second annual card party will be held at Bay View Memorial Home in Garwood.

Mr. Johnson also reported that the program at the June 10 meeting will include showing of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. motion picture, "Know Your State."

Plans for a Cranford Days display depicting the club's progress, both politically and socially, were announced by Miss Joan Kaul.

Following the business meeting, the club adjourned to Dunker's in Scotch Plains for a social hour. Miss Frances Johnson, newly-elected national committee member, spoke on the results of the recent state convention.

Mr. Johnson announced that the club meeting night will be changed from Wednesday to Friday to encourage attendance.

Cranford Fossil Discoveries Shown

Fossils discovered in Cranford were displayed by Forrest P. Dexter, professor of chemistry and geology at Union Junior College, during a recent visit to Mrs. Edna Laird's science classes at Sherman Junior High School.

Among the local fossils were a mastodon tooth, squid, and shells. Professor Dexter said most of the fossils in Cranford can be found around Monahan Park. He also explained how to identify common types of minerals in this vicinity.

In addition he showed other minerals and fossils found in New Jersey and gems found in other areas of the country. The UJC professor showed slides of volcanic eruptions in Hawaii, limestone deposits in southern and western Miss Denise O'Connor's fourth grade class presented a dramatization of the story "Hot as Summer, Cold as Winter" last Wednesday.

Taken from the Story Foreman, the story told of a prince, portrayed by Richard Jones, who possessed everything a young boy could possibly desire. One day the prince decided he wanted something different to eat—a food as hot as summer and as cold as winter. The entire kingdom went into turmoil in an attempt to find such a food.

Princesses Dorothea Mann, Elizabeth Roberts, and Sandra Lawton could not help, nor could the king and queen, Peter Anderson and Judith Benedict. Even the dancing dolls, Karen Semon and Dale Evans did not please the prince.

The king summoned his cooks, Robert Brown, Donna Hamilton, Robin Brown, Susan Miller, James Rhoads, Janice Schorstein and Adele Fugli. They could think of nothing.

Finally Alan Bross, the kitchen boy devised a recipe! It was delicious! The prince was pleased. He called the new food ice cream with hot chocolate sauce.

Barbara Garlingham narrated the play. Stage managers were Paul Decker and Thomas Gerity, who also portrayed guards.

Lyrics appropriate to the story were written by the class and sung to the tunes of "Shortnin' Bread," "My Darling Clementine" and "London Bridge."

UJC Student a 'Big League' Operator in Scientific Fields

Edward T. Graney of Westfield is only a college sophomore, but he is already operating in the big leagues. He's not a baseball player but a technical aide at the Bell Telephone Laboratories at Murray Hill and a student at Union Junior College, Cranford.

He made the big leagues, so to speak, while still a freshman by preparing scientific papers for reading professional societies — a quantity of certain "impurities" in metals used in the cathode which gives optimum results.

Mr. Graney has been attending Union Junior College evenings for four years — since he returned to civilian life following a four-year hitch in the Navy air arm. He is a member of the Bell Telephone Laboratories staff under the tutelage of Mr. Graney worked, said.

The UJC student made an oral presentation on "Thermionic Emission from Oxide Cathodes As Related to Glass Envelope Composition" at the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, in the fall of 1958. This was at a symposium on cleaning of electronic device components and materials.

The other paper, "Oxygen in High-Purity Cathode Nickel Alloys," was given at a meeting of the Electrochemical Society in Philadelphia last spring. Mr. Graney collaborated with four of his Bell Laboratories associates, Mr. Kern, C. W. Caldwell of Mountlake, A. L. Beach of Morristown and W. C. Goldner of Bernardsville. Mr. Kern made the oral presentation.

Fundamental research on the cathode, a part of all vacuum tubes, is the project of the group with which Mr. Graney is associated. The aim is to improve performance and life of tubes.

These attributes have made him one of my better students and placed him on the dean's list," Professor Wolf said.

In addition to his work at Bell Laboratories, his time in the classroom and his homework, the youthful-looking Mr. Graney carries the responsibilities of having a wife and three children. He is married to the former Maureen T. O'Connor of Summit.

Born in Rahway, Mr. Graney is a graduate of St. Mary's Parochial School and Rahway High School and attended Rutgers Preparatory School for a year. Although interested in science in high school, he credits "a good year of electronics training in the Navy" for

Cranford's Fire Dept. One of Best, Inspector Reade Tells Rotary Club

Cranford has one of the best equipped and trained fire departments in the area, Fire Inspector Edward Reade told members of the Rotary Club last Thursday at a luncheon meeting in the Methodist Church educational building.

Introduced by Ralph Henry, President Reade, a member of the local department for 12 years, said the Cranford Fire Department has equipment valued at $130,000.

This includes an aerial ladder truck, which reaches 65 feet in the air and also can be used as a hose tower, valued at $35,000; three 750-gallon pumpers, two with high velocity for apparatus and each equipped to carry 1,500 feet of hose, valued at $25,000; each a fully equipped brush fire truck, valued at $5,000 and two automobiles, with equipment, valued at $2,500 each.

In addition, Cranford has one of the most modern fire alarm systems in the state with approximately 60 fire alarm pull boxes located at strategic points throughout the community. This has a value of approximately $25,000, Mr. Reade stated.

Every piece of apparatus, except the aerial truck, equipped with two-way radio for summertime, additional hose when needed, Cranford is affiliated with other fire departments in a mutual aid system and assistance can be obtained within a few minutes in the area.

Reade also pointed out the fact that the department is manned by 22 paid firemen and 20 call men. Fireman Reade said fire vehicles can reach almost any place in the community within three and a half minutes after an alarm is sounded. Mr. Reade urged residents not to panic when turning out an alarm, but to remain on the line until the exact address has been obtained.

The fire inspector showed a colored sound film of the Chicago Fire Department fighting a fire in a school and told of precautionary measures he urged when making periodic fire inspections of local schools, places of business, public gathering places and factories. He said local schools are in fine condition and the department has received excellent cooperation from school officials.

The club held a brief memorial service for Robert E. Crane, a long-time member of the club, who died last Wednesday. Membership consists of 25 members.

Presidential Politics 1960

By SAUL OREN
Act. Prof. of Political Science
UNION JUNIOR COLLEGE
Cranford, New Jersey

Vice-President Richard Nixon recently agreed with newspapermen that his Nixon-Rockefeller ticket would be the strongest combination his party could field in the fall, and added that he would be happy to have the New York governor as his running mate. Governor Rockefeller quickly retorted that he was definitely not interested in the vice-presidential nomination. Having covered the top spot, the compromise of second place continues to leave him cold. As well it should.

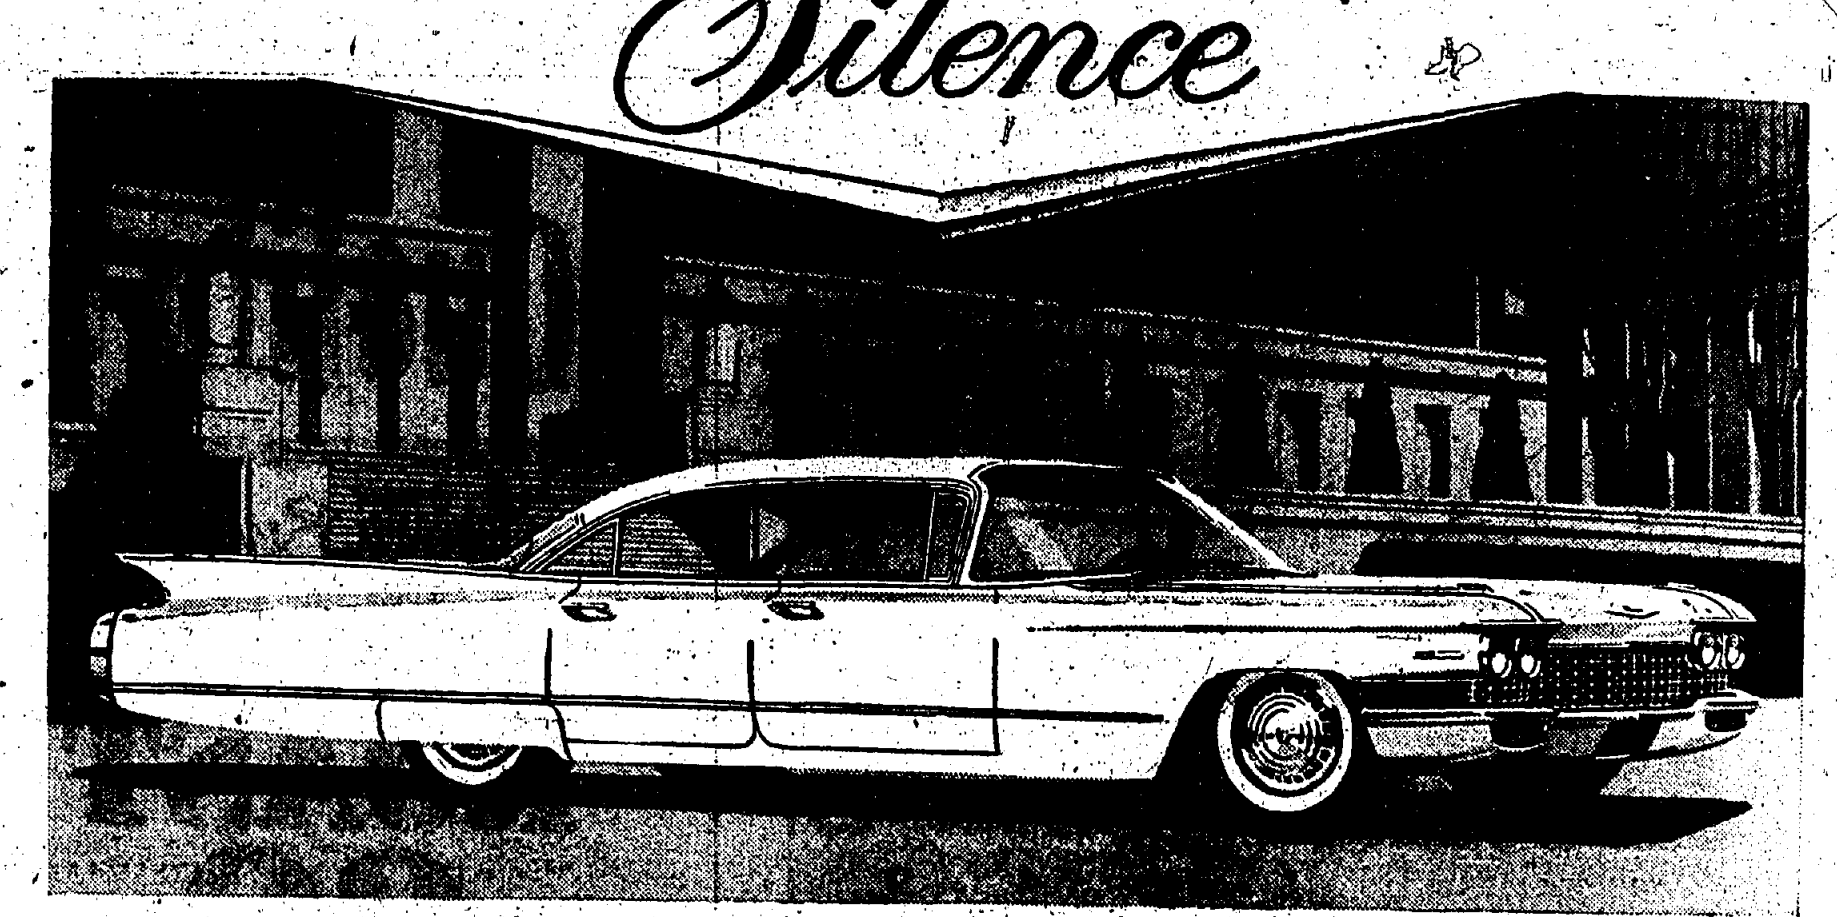

The vice-presidency is a dead-end, ceremonial office with little power and challenge for a dynamic, ambitious man. Constitutionally, the vice-president has but one function: To act as president of the Senate without vote, except in the case of a tie—hardly an exciting, fulfilling task. Only the re-moral of the president from office by death or disability provides the vice-president with the opportunity for advancement. And although ticket would be the strongest combination his party could field in the fall, and added that he would be happy to have the New York governor as his running mate. Governor Rockefeller quickly retorted that he was definitely not interested in the vice-presidential nomination. Having covered the top spot, the compromise of second place continues to leave him cold. As well it should.

Constitutionally, the vice-president has but one function: To act as president of the Senate without vote, except in the case of a tie—hardly an exciting, fulfilling task. Only the re-

Security Council. In short, he has played a vital role in policy formulation at the highest levels of government.

However, only membership on the National Security Council represents a significant upgrade of the vice-president's status. The ticket would be the strongest combination his party could field in the fall, and added that he would be happy to have the New York governor as his running mate. Governor Rockefeller quickly retorted that he was definitely not interested in the vice-presidential nomination. Silence

More eloquent than any words is the silence of the 1960 Cadillac in motion. Eloquent, too, is the delighted look of the man who has just driven one for the first time. It says so unmistakably, "Never before, a car to compare with this!" It is a literal fact that you must concentrate to deflect the sound of a 1960 Cadillac—except, of course, for the gentle whisper of the wind and the soft hum of the tires on the pavement. Your authorized Cadillac dealer invites you to try this unique driving experience.

freshments and cleaning up after the party.

Flowers for the occasion were
