Long Postal Career Ending For LeRoy Reinhart Today

Today marks the end of a long career of service during which LeRoy F. Reinhart of 14 Indian Spring road covered a lot of ground and became a well-known and well-liked figure to a host of Cranford residents of all ages.

"Roy, Roy, the mailman boy," as he was known in earlier years to at least one youngster now grown up, is retiring after more than 36 years as a carrier for the Cranford Post Office.

His service record indicates that he entered the postal service on November 16, 1926, but actually began serving the local Post Office before that, delivering special deliveries while he was still in high school. He remembers pushing a cart full of special delivery packages around town during some winters which seemed even colder than the current one.

After high school, Roy, who was born May 20, 1903, in a house on South avenue long since torn down, started work with the National City Bank in New York City. Before long, however, he left his job with the bank and came to work in the local Post Office.

He started as a parcel post driver on an old Model T Ford truck, which he recalls was hand-cranked and the very devil to start in cold weather. He became a regular carrier on April 1, 1929, and during his career served under five postmasters.

Earlier this week, Postmaster Arthur Boertmann presented Mr. Reinhart with a citation, signed by Postmaster General J. Edward Day, according to recognition to LeRoy F. Reinhart for devotion to duty in the course of an honorable career in the United States Postal Service.

"This citation," the inscribed certificate reads further, "tendered on the occasion of retirement from active duty, conveys official commendation and cordial expressions of esteem from co-workers in the service."

Mr. Reinhart and his wife, Olive, who is employed by the Cranford Savings and Loan Association, have two daughters, Mrs. Lois Catter of Scotch Plains and Mrs. Marjorie Baxter of Hazlet, and nine grandchildren.

Although retiring, Mr. Reinhart plans to keep active with his hobbies of tinkering in HO gauge railroading, painting, fishing and playing the organ, and his duties as a school crossing guard, which begin tomorrow.

Introduce Municipal Budget Calling for 105-Point Jump In Tax Rate; Hearing Feb. 26

Township Committee at a special meeting Tuesday night introduced and passed on first reading the 1963 municipal budget calling for a 105-point increase in the tax rate to $11.31 per $100 of assessed valuation. The budget will be published in the February 14 issue of the Citizen and Chronicle and public hearing is scheduled for February 26.

Due to a clerical error in the preliminary transmittal of the Board of Education requirements, the estimated rate reported last week was somewhat higher, Finance Commissioner Farris S. Swackhamer reported.

No Change in Budget Despite Hearing Pleas

The Board of Education approved its $3,616,800 school budget for 1963-64 without change following a public hearing last Thursday night despite pressure from teachers and citizens to add $25,000 to meet two salary proposals by the Cranford Teachers' Association. The budget is up $592,155 over the current budget.

More than 150 persons, most of them teachers, attended the two-and-a-half-hour hearing in Lincoln School auditorium. Gus Gutierrez, board president, presided.

Michael Glennon, chairman of the Cranford Teachers' Association welfare committee, reviewed the teachers' requests for an addition of $100 at the fifth-year level for teachers with a master's degree and adjustment of teachers' salaries to conform with a new hiring policy adopted last spring.

Under the new policy the board pays $200 for each year of experience to teachers coming into the school system. Previously, the board paid $150 for each year of experience up to 10 years and $100 for each additional year. The association wanted this inequity corrected for teachers hired under the old policy.

The board promised the teachers a complete study of this and other problems. The new budget provides teachers with $400-$500 raises in line with a general increment plan and an increase in minimum and maximum salaries.

Edward Gill, president of the Cranford Taxpayers' Association, cautioned the board that "spiraling" of starting salaries every year will lead to financial ruin. He noted that the Taxpayers' Association feels the greatest increases should be paid career teachers.

Mr. Gutierrez said, "We know we cannot go on indefinitely bringing up the scale. We must decide if we have reached the level of a fair day's wage for a fair day's work, but we have not established this level. To compensate the exceptional teacher, we probably will have to go to merit pay," he concluded.

William T. Knox, board member, said the board did not turn down the teachers' request because of amount or timing, but primarily because of the method of compensation. He said, "Once we try a means of compensation it doesn't mean we will continue with it."

The board expects to hire about 90 teachers this year—34 additional teachers and about 60 as replacements for annual turnover.

Herman Lieberman of 39 Rutgers road expressed displeasure with the board's denial of the $25,000 additional for the teachers. "Their request is a pittance," he declared, "in comparison with the total budget which I feel is going to go a long way to meet quality education." Mrs. Marie Elting of the Cranford PTO, which has recently completed a year-long study of teachers' salaries and recommended a $5,500 starting salary.

Col. Osborne In Freeholder Reelection Bid

Freeholder Harry V. Osborne, Jr., of 5 Dartmouth road, announced yesterday that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination to his second three-year term on the county governing board in the April 16 primary election. The local resident, along with Freeholder Edward H. Tiller of Garwood, has the support of the Union County Republican Screening Committee, composed of chairmen of all Republican Municipal Committees in the county.

Mr. Osborne is now serving his third year as chairman of the important finance committee of the Board of Freeholders and also is a member of the administration and health and welfare departments.

A resident of Cranford since 1946, Mr. Osborne is a member of the Newark law firm of Osborne, Cornish and Scheck with which he has been affiliated since 1937. He is a graduate of Dartmouth College and Yale Law School.

He is a veteran of World War II and presently is a colonel in the Judge Advocate Reserve and commanding officer of the 4th JAG Detachment in New York City.

Burditt Corp. Sale Revealed

The Burditt Corp. of 13 North Union avenue has announced the sale of the company to Charter Machine Co., Metuchen, to take effect tomorrow, when it will become the Burditt Tool and Die Division of Charter Machine Co., with Arthur K. Burditt of 18 Elm street as manager of the new division.

Most of the employees will continue with the new company, but Russell E. Howard, vice-president; Mrs. Burditt, treasurer, and George Semonite, die maker, are retiring.

The business was organized and began operations 19 years ago to build tools for blanking and forming sheet metal for manufacturers such as General Motors, General Electric, Fedders Air Conditioning and Estey Metal Products. The latter corporation supplied the shelving in the new Cranford Public Library, made on tools furnished by the Burditt Corp.

Transfer of the business was occasioned by the sale of its building, leased from Ellis Robinson, for the central business area parking lot planned by the Township Committee. Removal of its equipment began this week.

Adult School Registering Tonight

Several hundred persons are expected to register tonight and tomorrow evening for the spring semester of the Cranford Adult School.

In-person registration will be conducted from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight and tomorrow evening at Cranford High School, where all classes will be conducted. Courses open Tuesday evening and will continue for 10 consecutive Tuesday evenings.

Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president-director, said mail registrations are running slightly ahead of a year ago. Enrollment in the driver education course has been closed, because the class is filled to capacity, Dr. Iversen said.

Thirty-three courses will be offered at the spring semester, including four which are being made available for the first time in the 14-year history of the Cranford Adult School. The new courses are: "Conversational Italian," "New Biology," "Comparative Religions and Philosophies" and "Living Theatre."

"We have expended a great deal of time and effort to arrange for the new courses as well as many of those being resumed after being discontinued for several years," Dr. Iversen said. "We hope many Cranford residents will take advantage of these outstanding educational and cultural offerings."

See 2 Cranford Candidates In GOP Assembly Contest

Cranford will have one and perhaps two candidates in the Assembly race in the Republican primary on April 16, it was learned this week.

Alfred K. Frigola of 410 Prospect avenue, a local lawyer, has petitions in circulation this week for the post.

There have been strong rumors—as yet unconfirmed—that Mayor Nicholas S. LaCorte of 101 Maple place, also a local lawyer, will toss his hat in the Assembly ring within the next several days. The mayor's term on the Township Committee runs out at the close of the current year, and he announced earlier this month that he would not seek reelection to the local governing body.

Mr. Frigola was graduated from the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, Washington, D. C., attended the University of Miami Law School, Coral Gables, and was graduated in 1960 from the Seton Hall Law School. He served as legal secretary to Judge Walter Hetfield, III, of the Superior Court while in law school at Seton Hall. He was admitted to the bar in September, 1960, and has offices at 6 North Union avenue.

Fire Prevention Code Urged By Chief in Annual Report

Adoption of a fire prevention code prescribing regulations governing conditions hazardous to life and property from fire or explosion, and establishing a bureau of fire prevention and providing an officer with the rank of captain" is suggested by Fire Chief Bernard A. Doyle in his annual report for 1962.

"With new industry locating in Cranford," the report points out, "the above ordinance is necessary at the present time and will be needed more as industry and business continue to grow in Cranford."

Fire damage during 1962, the report reveals, totaled $24,745, as compared with the 1961 loss of $28,285.

Members of the department answered a total of 390 calls during the year, including 79 general and 111 alarms, and fire damage listed in the following categories:

Property, $22,700; automobiles, $2,020, and railroad car, $25; total, $24,745.

The largest number of alarms—196—occurred in the grass and rubbish fire category. Other leading causes were: Property, 39; automobiles, 37; no fire, 18; false alarms, 18; inhalator service, 14; and faulty gas and oil burners, 13.

There were 633 fire prevention inspections and 130 oil burner inspections conducted during the year. Other duties listed included: Fire duty, 86; fire alarm box tests, 268; cutting grass and snow removal at hydrants, 21; and Swim-Mobile filled, 40.

Under fire duty, the following services were recorded: Fire prevention lectures and movies, 18; theatre inspections, 52; special fire duty, 3; Cranford fire duty, 8; CYO fire duty, 9; Cranford High School fire duty, 8; total, 98.

Court Action Slated on Parcel For Parking Lot

The township will institute condemnation proceedings in Superior Court this week to acquire the Crane-Washburn property on Mill street for the central off-street parking project, it was announced yesterday by Mayor Nicholas S. LaCorte.

At a conference Tuesday evening, Township Attorney Donald R. Creighton advised the governing body that pre-litigation meetings between attorneys had failed to result in a satisfactory settlement. An ordinance adopted several weeks ago appropriated $20,000 for the acquisition of the prop-

'Helpers' Greet First Round of Visitors

Cranford firemen, policemen and Post Office employees welcomed the first batch of youngsters this week as the yearly study of "community helpers" gets underway in the first grades in the Cranford school system.

The first group to visit the three departments was Mrs. Jean Ronlund's class at Walnut Avenue School. In first grade terminology, Donna Imbrico, Linda Louder, and Steven Silverman agreed that the departments perform a "big job for our town."

Fire Captain Bernard Fleming discussed fire prevention and care of fire equipment. He also explained the correct way to report a fire. Police Chief Lester W. Powell emphasized school safety preceding a tour of the new municipal building conducted by Patrolman George Kane. Sgt. Frank Burr discussed the work of the detective bureau.

At the Post Office each child mailed a letter in order to learn the mailing procedure. Official membership cards in the Junior Postal Service were issued to each (Continued on Page 7)

'Slim and Trim' Leads Courses In Popularity

Contract bridge, social dancing and golf are usually the "big three" courses in terms of enrollment at the Cranford Adult School. But such is not the case this year.

The popularity parade is being led by slim and trim, which has 19 women as students, driver education with 15 students, Latin American dancing with 16 students and typing with 14 students.

Registrar Paul W. Selby reported that only eight persons had signed up for the beginning and intermediate bridge courses, while the two golf courses had only four students. American dancing attracted only two persons.

Nevertheless, by the time classes start on Tuesday evening, Mr. Selby expects that contract bridge, social dancing and golf will be among the most popular courses.

Registration for all 33 courses available at the Cranford Adult School's spring semester will be conducted tonight and tomorrow evening from 7 to 9 o'clock at Cranford High School.

Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president-director, said additional enrollments will be accepted in all courses except driver education, which is filled to capacity. Only four additional persons will be accepted for sewing I and II, Dr. Iversen said.

Three Marks Fall as Methodist Keglers Sweep Petersen's to Take League Lead

Almost every ball fired down the alley by the Methodist Men's Club kegglers helped in setting one record or another last Friday night in the Cranford Bowling League as the Methodist pinners set three new marks and swept past Petersen's into first place.

The new first place pinners rolled a 2037 team series which included a 1040 game for two of the records. Herbert Cory also gained top position in the individual series with a 689 set. His high game of 263 placed him in second for individual game honors behind another Methodist kegler, Harold Doney, who rolled a 267 earlier in the year. Cory's other two games were 182 and 244. The teams after two games were 893 and 1044.

Thomas MacPherson also helped in the Methodist's conquering of Petersen's and knocking them out of the league lead for the first time this season with a 629 series. He had games of 191, 193 and 265.

Acacia Insurance, which won three games from Barnett's Liquors, moved into second place as Petersen's dropped off to third.

Anthony Berard of Builders' General Supply helped his team win a pair of games from Hartig Paint Shop with a 610 series on games of 223, 189 and 198. Joseph Hirsch of Errico Trucking aided his team in a two-game win over Lou's Market with a 606 set on games of 157, 236 and 211.

Raiders Overwhelm Cougar Quintet, 70-41

By RICH RUBENSTEIN

An overpowering Scotch Plains-Fanwood High quintet spurred to a 37-17 halftime lead and outscored Cranford High's cagers 33-24 in the second half to crush the Raiders 70-41 at Scotch Plains Friday night. A large crowd saw the Raiders, with the score 12-10 Cranford, tally 17 points to two for the locals to break the game wide open early in the second quarter.

Rich Smith and Bobby Smith took command of the boards for the Raiders and tallied 12 and 11 points respectively. Andy Myttinger and Art Coon, diminutive back court artists, also gave sparkling performances with Myttinger pouring in 19 markers and with Coon leading off many fast breaks and passing off for numerous Raider baskets. Ron Ritter kept his scoring average intact with a 19 point performance, despite a slow start to pace the Cougars. The loss was the third in a row for the locals who are 4-7 overall while Scotch Plains is 8-5.

With the score 12-10 Cranford on two free throws by Ron Ritter and one by Booney Mazzella, the Raiders caught fire and ripped off 10 consecutive points, six by Andy Myttinger and four by Ken Durrell, to forge into a 28-12 lead after the initial period.

The Raiders continued to pile it on in the following period as they took advantage of a number of Cougar miscues to outscore the locals 17-5 in the stanza for an overwhelming 37-17 halftime lead. Robby Smith dunked seven markers in the quarter, while brother Rich canned five, to lead the parade.

Scotch Plains continued their onslaught 67-19 tallying 10 of the first 14 points of the third stanza. Myttinger, the two Smiths, and Coon did the scoring as the Raiders built a 47-21 bulge midway in the period. Ritter halted the Raider's streak temporarily with a jumper, but Myttinger, who dunked nine points in the quarter, connected for six points around a lone free throw by Robby Thurston for a 53-24 Scotch Plains command. Ritter and Nelson Dittmar sank back to back field goals for the locals, but Tom Rutishauser hit four in succession for the Raiders for an insurmountable 56-28 Scotch Plains lead at the end of the period.

Both squads substituted freely throughout the final period with the Raiders outscoring the Cougars by just 14-13. However, the winners had the game on ice to hand the locals their resounding 70-41 defeat.

Jr. Varsity Cagers Trim Hillside, 55-50

By RICH RUBENSTEIN

A stirring finish and an all round performance by coach Hubie Brown's junior varsity cagers enabled the locals to gain a 55-50 victory over a strong Hillside squad last Tuesday at Cranford High. The Cougars, in gaining their eighth win of the year and second against the previously twice beaten Comets, were led in scoring by Don Auerbach with 20 points, Joel Ostro with 17, and by John Dreyer with 12. Dreyer and Auerbach also were work-horses on the boards with 14 and nine rebounds, respectively.

A senior at the University of Maryland, Tucker helped the Terrapins to earn four first places in the Richmond meet as Maryland established itself as one of the top collegiate track powers in Eastern circuit circles.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Tucker of Newark, Del., formerly of Cranford, Doug graduated from Cranford High School in 1959. He set the Watching Conference records in the 180-yard low hurdles and 120-yard high hurdles in his senior year.

Both squads substituted freely throughout the final period with the Raiders outscoring the Cougars by just 14-13. However, the winners had the game on ice to hand the locals their resounding 70-41 defeat.

The exciting fourth quarter got underway with Dreyer muscling his way in for a Cranford goal. Fishman matched the score with a free throw, but the Cougars dunked five in succession, three by Ostro and two by Shelley Mittleman, to forge back into the lead, 38-37.

Two free throws by Hurewitz knotted the score, but Dreyer and Auerbach combined to tally six straight blue and gold points for a 45-39 Cougar advantage.

Both teams again exchanged points, but after Greg Schorn connected on a three pointer for Hillside to make it 49-46 Cranford, the Cougars led the contest with six consecutive markers, four by Auerbach, for a 55-46 bulge with just seconds remaining. Auerbach's two free throws, on a one-and-one situation, put the finishing touches to the Cranford victory.

The J. Vs will play their biggest date to date when they battle undefeated Scotch Plains at Scotch Plains Friday night. The contest will precede the varsity tilt at 7 p.m.

Final-Second Score Nets JVs Overtime Win Against Plainsmen

By RICH RUBENSTEIN

Shelley Mittleman's last second field goal, John Dreyer's outstanding rebounding, and Joel Ostro's 23 point performance were the ingredients that Coach Hubie Brown's junior varsity quintet needed in downing only once beaten Scotch Plains 57-56 in overtime Friday night at Scotch Plains. The victory for Coach Brown was his team's ninth of the year against two setbacks while Scotch Plains now possesses the identical record.

A big crowd, showing more enthusiasm in the J.V. contest than in the varsity tilt, saw two of the area's finest sophomore quintets jockey horns in one of the most evenly matched games played this year. The statistics showed 18 field goals apiece but a difference of 21-20 on foul line conversions as there were 45 personal fouls with two regulars from both squads fouling out.

It was diminutive Shelley Mittleman who grabbed a rebound with just one second showing on the clock and banked it in for the thrilling 57-56 Cranford victory. Big John Dreyer, opposed by another 6 ft. 5 in. player, pulled down an amazing 21 rebounds, the highest JV total accumulated within the last five years, and tallied 11 points, while Joel Ostro, Mittleman's back court partner, scorched the boards for 23 markers, 20 of which came in the second half. He also was hot from the free throw line, sinking 11 of 14 chances. Ricky Felmeister, Terry Morton, and Dave Long led Scotch Plains scorers with 16, 13 and 11 points, respectively.

Don Auerbach sank seven of his nine points in the opening frame as the Cougars built up a slim 15-11 lead after the period. The Raiders then struck for 10 consecutive points at the outset of the second stanza, four by Felmeister, to forge into a 21-16 lead. The Cougars ran off six straight points, two each by Auerbach, Dreyer, and Mittleman to knot the score at 21 all. Felmeister's layup on a fast break broke the tie and sent the Raiders ahead 23-21 at halftime.

Five points by Ostro and one by Mittleman led a six point Cougar spree at the beginning of the third quarter that produced a 27-23 Cougar lead. The locals kept their lead and with the score 36-33, they ripped off six more points in succession, four by Ostro, to storm into a 42-33 lead. The Raiders, however, tallied the last five points of the period, four by Jim Greaves, to cut their deficit to 32-38 going into the supposed final frame.

Ostro, who pumped in 13 markers in the previous period, continued to bomb and dunked three fast points at the outset of the fourth period to forge the locals into a 45-38 advantage. However, the Raiders, paced by Terry Morton, Felmeister, and Dave Long, exploded for 10 consecutive markers to head into the lead 48-44. Ostro scored four more points, but Dreyer two-as the lead reversed hands to the Cougars 50-48, with 1:13 remaining.

Felmeister sank a set to even the score at 50, but Ostro canned one of two free throws to give the locals a slim 51-50 lead with 29 seconds left. The Raiders stalled momentarily supposedly trying for the last shot, but Mike Gannon was fouled, missed the first attempt but sank the second to tie the game once more, 51-51, with nine seconds remaining. The Cougars brought the ball in bounds but could not get a shot off sending the game into overtime.

The Cougars received control of the jump and dribbled cautiously until Mittleman drove in and scored for a 53-51 Cougar lead. Time was running out and with two minutes left in the extra frame, Felmeister led a six point Scotch Plains outburst with four free throws that vaulted the Raiders into a 59-53 lead with 40 seconds left. Bill Marek, who scored only two previous points, put in a drive, but the Raiders had the ball and the lead with just 28 seconds remaining. Dreyer, however, grabbed a key rebound off a missed Raider shot and the locals brought the ball up court with just nine seconds showing.

Freshman Cagers Gain Fifth, Sixth Straight Wins

By RICH RUBENSTEIN

Coach Bob Belle's vastly improving freshman basketball quintet trounced Rahway, 57-42, Saturday at Rahway and overwhelmed Hillside 64-28 on Tuesday at Cranford to gain their fifth and sixth successive victories after a pair of opening setbacks.

In both affairs, Cranford used an overpowering second half rally to break open very tight contests. Against Rahway, with Cranford leading 26-24 at halftime, the Cougars outscored the Indians, 20-4, in the third period to go into the final quarter with a 48-28 margin.

Tom Archdeacon and Tim Connor tallied seven and six points, respectively, in their hot third stanza. Archdeacon ended the game with 19 markers while Mike Jones took the runner-up spot for the locals with 13 points. Dave Holland and Byron Thomas led the Indians with 16 and 18 points, respectively.

With the score deadlocked at 20-20 against Hillside after the initial half, the Cougars exhibited a team effort to break open the game.

adult school pointed out that the "Living Theatre" course presents an exceptional opportunity for Cranford residents to avail themselves of the outstanding offerings of Princeton's McCarter Theatre at very inexpensive prices.

As part of the "Living Theatre" course, a Princeton University instructor, Arthur Lithgow, will discuss the four plays available: Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," Bertold Brecht's "Galileo" and Lopez de Vega's "Fuente Ovejuna."

Robert Goff, a graduate student at Drew University, Madison, will be the instructor for "Comparative Religions and Philosophies." The 15-hour course will examine some of the world's religions from an analytic and historical perspective, including Hinduism, Taoism, Buddhism and others.

"New Biology" will be taught by Prof. John Siburn, chairman of the Biology Department of Union Junior College. Topics to be covered include: Space biology, DNA and controlled heredity, ocean gardens, and fallout.

Angelo Preite, a Cranford High School language teacher, will be the instructor for the new "Conversational Italian" course. Mr. Preite is a former instructor at the Westfield Adult School.

In addition to Italian, the spring semester's curriculum includes two Spanish courses and a German class.

Three new instructors are joining the adult school faculty for the spring semester. They are: Norman Orenstein, a Cranford High School instructor, "Creative Writing"; Gordon Uglow of Linden, "Judo"; and Theodore Olik, an art instructor in the Cranford school system, "Painting in Oils." Prof. Siburn, Mr. Goff and Mr. Preite also are joining the adult school faculty for the first time.

Returning to the faculty after an absence of several years are Dr. Paul Buonaguro, who taught at the adult school's first semester 14 years ago, and Josef Goodman.

Dr. Buonaguro, director of special services in the Cranford public school system, will teach "Public Speaking for All Occasions," while Mr. Goodman, a manual training instructor at Cranford High School, will teach "Wood Working and Wood Finishing."

Other courses available are: Dances, obedience, photography, slim and trim, conversational Spanish, beginners' typing, beginning and intermediate piano, sewing I and II, beginning and intermediate contract bridge, American and Latin American dancing, beginning and intermediate golf, reading, improvement, beginning stenography, first aid, floral design, millinery, and investing in the stock market.

All courses are for 10 weeks except floral design, which will be for five weeks. Floral design will run from March 5 to April 2, but persons interested in taking the course must register tonight or tomorrow evening.

Municipal Budget
private water companies are down from $62,022.08 last year to an estimated $42,000 this year. An item of $80,000 is anticipated from the capital surplus fund in the miscellaneous revenues.

Commissioner Swackhamer explained that the proposed budget provides salary increases of approximately 3 percent for municipal employees, provides for five additional firemen to reduce the work week from 36 to 42 hours and provides increased Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage for municipal employees and their families and one-half the cost for family coverage.

A sum of $100,000 has been set aside in the capital improvement fund for the completion of section one of the off-street parking lot, completion of necessary access roads to new junior high schools and for Green Acres projects. This figure was $120,000 in last year's budget.

An item of $15,000 in this year's budget for industrial development planning covers the retainer and fees for the industrial consultant, appraisal costs for industrial property, and costs for printing and mailing an industrial brochure to prospective purchasers or occupants of local industrial land.

There also is an emergency authorization item of $3,000 to cover increased relief costs in the welfare department during 1962.

Debt service, covering payment of bond principal and interest, totals $30,889 this year as compared with $36,472 last year. The township ended the year with a surplus balance of $792,873.14 as compared with $759,093.84 at the end of 1961. The $500,000 reappropriated in both years came from these balances. The municipality now has a balance of $292,873.14 in this account.

A comparison of the estimated tax rate for 1963 with the actual rate for 1962 is as follows:

plained that the proposed budget provides salary increases of approximately 3 percent for municipal employees, provides for five additional firemen to reduce the work week from 36 to 42 hours and provides increased Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage for municipal employees and their families and one-half the cost for family coverage.

Theatre Course Fee Includes Play Tickets

The fee for the "Living Theatre" course being offered at the spring semester of the Cranford Adult School includes tickets for the four plays at the McCarter Theatre, Princeton, Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president-director, reported today.

Dr. Iversen said, "the student will get tickets for four plays at the McCarter Theatre and a lecture on the four presentations by Arthur Hays Sulzberger of the Princeton University faculty. The fee, of course, does not include transportation to Princeton."

Persons who register for "Living Theatre" will meet Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock to select dates to attend the four plays by Moliere, Shakespeare, Brecht, and Lope de Vega. The lecture by Mr. Lithgow will be on February 12.

The following plays are included in the "Living Theatre" series: Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," Berthold Brecht's "Galileo," and Lope de Vega's "Fuente Ovejuna."

"Some prospective students apparently were under the impression that they had to purchase tickets for the four plays in addition to the $13 fee for the course," Dr. Iversen said. "The fee includes everything except transportation to Princeton."

Support the Mothers' March Tonight

People have long been saying that everyone talks about the weather but no one does anything about it.

Until just recently, a similar observation could have been made about birth defects. Not only had no one done anything about the problem, but, in truth, people have always been reluctant or afraid even to talk about the subject.

The tragedy of this affliction has beset mankind since the dawn of recorded history. Yet no organized attack on birth defects was launched until 1958 when the National Foundation March of Dimes decided to enter this medical area.

The reason for this historic decision was that birth defects constitute the world's greatest unmet childhood medical problem today. Meeting the problem, moreover, entailed fund raising on the same multi-million scale as was required by the long and costly — but successful — fight by that same organization against poliomyelitis.

The March of Dimes, now marking its 25th anniversary, last year appropriated more than $4,000,000 for research on birth defects, arthritis — another baffling disease which is the nation's No. 1crippler — and on certain aspects of polio and other virus diseases.

On birth defects research alone, the March of Dimes approved grants totaling $1,200,000, and earmarked approximately $800,000 more for regional treatment centers. Directly financed by March of Dimes chapters, these "grass roots" centers today number 31 and are located throughout the nation.

The need of funds for these March of Dimes-financed treatment centers, particularly in the area of birth defects, is urgent. In the 50 states, the full extent of the problem was not appreciated until March of Dimes medical advisers reported that about 250,000 infants were born each year in this country with significant birth defects — almost 700 a day, or one every other minute.

Birth defects cause at least 21,000 deaths each year, National Foundation statistics reveal. The chief requirements in the battle to save these lives in the future, and to lessen the damages that birth defects as well as arthritis inflict, are trained manpower, equipment and time — and, of course, the substantial funds that these necessitate.

Research into the physical calamities that birth defects represent costs stupendous sums. The cause of a type of disaster that has bewildered mankind for uncounted centuries is unlikely to be determined overnight at bargain-sale prices, or its prevention quickly found.

In the areas of birth defects, arthritis and virus diseases, scientists supported by the March of Dimes were responsible for important research advances during 1962.

It was found, for instance, that certain white blood cells in the mother enter the infant's blood stream before birth. The possibility exists that such cells may harm the baby later in life.

Belief was considerably strengthened that the hereditary material called nucleic acid carries the blueprint for the production of protein (the basic stuff of living material).

Experiments with pregnant guinea pigs established that certain hormones can provide birth defects in offspring. And evidence obtained by dipping unhatched eggs in a hormone solution led to the conclusion that the problem of what causes some infants to be born with mixed up sex characteristics may be a matter of hormones rather than heredity alone.

Key evidence was uncovered that the mysterious thymus gland is responsible for the functioning of the body's immunity defense mechanism. Abnormal working of the immunity mechanism is believed to be involved in rheumatoid arthritis.

The discovery was made that there is a similar ground plan of chemicals in the connective tissue of many animals ranging from the horseshoe crab to man. This means that research in the connective tissue of animals can be related closely to connective tissue diseases in man, such as arthritis.

Studies of a tumor-causing virus disclosed how it changes normal cells, in tissue culture, to cancer cells.

The ultimate significance of these findings and those in numerous other March of Dimes-financed research studies may not be fully apparent now, but they are valuable clues to further progress in the fight against birth defects, arthritis and virus diseases.

You can help speed this progress by contributing as generously as possible when your home is visited by a March of Dimes representative during the Mothers' March to be conducted between 7 and 8 o'clock tonight as the climax of the National Foundation's annual fund drive.

Nature Notes

Dovekies By The Dozen

Saturday before New Year's Day as observers braved the cold spray along the ocean front from Monmouth Beach to Wreck Pond. Then they struck inland and Red Bank. One hundred two varieties of birds, among them two dovekies, were sighted.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society reports three invasions of dovekies all blown inland by northeasters lashing the coast. These invasions occurred on November 3 and 10 and December 6 and 7. Reports of the birds came from over 45 Massachusetts communities, the most inland being Westminister, 46 miles from the dovekies' ocean home.

The dovekie is the smallest member of the auk family living in the North Atlantic area. About the size of a robin or starling, it is much smaller than its extinct cousin, the great auk. It is a small, chubby bird with virtually no neck and a very short, stubby bill. Its plumage is black above and white below. Visible to land areas are made unwillingly when the dovekie is blown or washed ashore in a storm. Their normal habitat during winter months when visiting New Jersey is on the ocean swells well offshore.

On the American side of the Atlantic the dovekie nests only in Greenland. There, in the Serobys Sound district alone, it is estimated that there are five million of these small auks. They swim, dive and propel themselves expertly with their wings under the surface in the open Arctic waters, feeding on the crustaceans that are so plentiful. In winter, when the solid ice closes in, they move south, sometimes as far as Florida.

Such invasions take place at long intervals. Just what brings about these mass movements is not known. The periodic influxes recall those of the lemmings in the Arctic and the occasional visits of the snowy owls to this area.

The dovekie is an integral part of the life of the Eskimos. Large numbers of the birds are captured with nets or killed with stones to be used for fresh food. Thousands are stored in nature's freezer for winter meals. The eggs, too, are considered delicacies.

Humans are not the only ones to eat the birds and their eggs. Foxes, ravens and gulls also regard them as a delicacy. But in spite of all their enemies, dovekies continue to thrive in enormous numbers.

The natives use the dovekie skins to fabricate warm shirts. The fox population depends on the availability of the birds for food, and without foxes, Eskimos would be poorly clothed. So in the far north there exists what might be called a "dovekie economy."

The dovekies that were blown into Massachusetts this winter were taken to the sanctuaries in paper cartons, parakeet cages, cat baskets or whatever container was handy. The people that found them were puzzled by their apparent tameness. The birds were exhausted and their finders did not know that the dovekie cannot take off from the land. It takes a long run in the water before the stubby wings will lift the heavy body into the air.

The stranded visitors were fed raw liver and fish. Then they were taken to the nearest open water so that they could start their journey back to the open sea where they spend the winter.

Readers Reports

At least two sharp-eyed residents have spotted a robin busily eating berries of one sort or another in their backyards recently. Mrs. C. E. Schaefer of Central Avenue and Mrs. W. A. Babson of Tuxedo place both called to say that they thought spring might be just around the corner. Mrs. Babson's robin was accompanied by a mockingbird.

Although robins that spend the winter nearby generally stay in the heavily wooded areas, they occasionally venture close to human habitation to feed on the berries that cling to our ornamental shrubs. The mockingbird has similar habits. One has been feeding on the flex outside my office window in Union all winter.

OLD BERGEN — Dutch settlers who founded Bergen in 1660 drove their cattle and wagons outside the stockade each day to "buyten tuyn" or the "outside gardens."

Tercentenary Tales

New Jersey's First Town Built To Foil Indian Raiders' Attacks

By JOHN T. CUNNINGHAM

Law-abiding Dutchmen on the west side of the Hudson River had every reason to be perplexed by a February, 1660 order from Peter Stuyvesant that they move off their isolated farms and get promptly to "the village or settlement nearest or most convenient to them."

The order was hard to obey. There were no villages on what is now the New Jersey side of the river — near or far, convenient or inconvenient.

Actually, there weren't really any law-abiding Dutchmen either, in the strictest sense of the word. Those who lived west of the river were there against the law, for in 1656 Stuyvesant had decreed that settlers could not cross the Hudson from New Amsterdam unless they would agree to "settle themselves together in the form of towns, villages and hamlets, like our neighbors of New England."

Indians worried the governor. Twice — in 1643 and 1655 — warring tribes had laid waste to every dwelling from Kill von Kull to the Palisades and had sent settlers fleeing to New Amsterdam. Stuyvesant recognized that wide distances between farmhouses "tempted the savage barbarians."

Independent Dutchmen hated the thought of being huddled together in villages. To prove it, most of them who had escaped the Indians showed their displeasure with Stuyvesant's 1656 order by stubbornly huddling together in New Amsterdam rather than submit to a law which said they had to be neighborly across the river.

Law or no law, Indians or no, some of the free-spirited went back anyway.

One Jacob Stoffelson, for example, pleaded that he had fled Indian raids in both 1643 and 1655, and therefore ought to have another chance. Authorities expressly forbade his crossing the river, but he returned anyway.

Others followed Jacob, enough to make Stuyvesant both angry and worried. Hence, his February, 1660, decree warned that anyone who hadn't removed "houses, goods and cattle" to a village before the end of March "or at the latest, the middle of April," would suffer "the pain of confiscation."

That threatened blow at the pocketbook brought a result that Indians hadn't been able to bring by plunderings. Thusly was the first village in New Jersey born. Inspired by the February order, one Tielman Van Vleck twice petitioned for permission to begin a village "on the maize land" or Indian cornfield atop a small hill overlooking the Hudson River. Twice authorities refused permission, but Van Vleck at least had the spot selected when New Amsterdam authorities approved a village in August, 1660.

Someone named it "Bergen," but the name has been lost in time, and so thoroughly lost that historians have argued whether Danes or Dutchmen really founded Bergen.

There have been claims that Danes (or possibly Norwegians) who had come to New Amsterdam founded the village and called it Bergen after a Scandinavian town. More likely, since a Dutch town named Bergen on Zoom existed in Holland, the name came straight from the old "Bos" land. Old Bergen on Zoom in Holland was on a slight hill, surrounded by marsh lands, and so was new Bergen. More simply, "Bergen" in Dutch means "hill."

Peter Stuyvesant took a personal interest in the settlement, possibly even to the extent that he helped lay out Bergen.

The village was a simple square, 800 feet on each side, with two streets crossing in the middle to divide Bergen into quarters. In the exact center of the village an area 165 feet by 225 feet was set aside for community use. Completing the plan, a street ran around the outside edge of the square.

Settlers drew lots for property within the village, promising to help protect the town by standing watches. During the winter a tall wooden barricade was built around the outside edge, just outside the perimeter streets.

Safety lay inside the walls, but the Dutchmen of Bergen were happiest with "buyten tuyn" or the "outside gardens" beyond the enclosure. Out there they raised their vegetables and grazed their cattle in the lush salt hay of the meadow-lands.

Each night the settlers herded their cattle back inside the walls and then closed the wide wooden gates against possible Indian attacks. Early in 1662 the problem of watering the cows became so acute that everyone, "on pain of arbitrary correction," was called out to dig a village well.

All was not paradise. So many absentee landlords owned lots in Bergen but lived in New Amsterdam across the river that Bergen residents complained in November, 1663. They claimed to be "so much fatigued that they cannot any longer stay at their posts."

It didn't really matter, in the long run. Within a year all of the provinces, including Bergen, passed from Dutch to English rule. Bergen Dutch families lived precisely as they always had, regardless of who ruled the land, and the village retained both name and character for nearly a century and a half.

Eventually time engulfed old Bergen in a way which neither Indians nor English ever fully accomplished. Yet, the conquering last complete, for-in street outlines at least, old Bergen still lives a block west of what is now Journal Square in Jersey City.

Four city streets, named Newkirk, Van Reypen and Vroom streets and Tuers avenue, trace the same lines that the original streets followed around the outer edge. Inside the area is Bergen Square, much as it was in 1660 — in size, at least.

Old Bergen isn't dead, merely grown, but "buyten tuyn" is gone forever.

Authentic Japanese Articles Sought for Drama Club Play

The script of "A Majority of One," the Cranford Dramatic Club's production which opens on February 16, calls for an arm rest, among other things, to be used in a Japanese home scene. To Mrs. Herbert I. Mitchell and Mrs. Robert Collins, co-chairmen of properties, this constituted a real challenge.

A local search proved fruitless, and the next best thing to a quick trip to a Tokyo department store was the Japanese consulate general's office in New York City. The intrepid Mrs. Collins told her story to an amused official there who promised to make a sketch and description of the arm rest and send it posthaste.

A Tokyo telephone directory also was needed, and a man who does a good deal of business with persons there kindly loaned his book for the duration of the play. A highly decorated Japanese household ornament that bears a striking resemblance to a fancy oversized ping-pong paddle was located for the set as well as a saki set and Japanese lacquered trays. Authenticity is obviously the hallmark of the Cranford Dramatic Club's properties committee.

However, Mrs. Mitchell, who lives at 728 Willow street, is still on the prowl for two Japanese musical instruments for "A Majority of One," a "koto" and a "semi-san." Anyone who can help her in this category is assured of the gratitude of the club and Mrs. Mitchell's assurances that the instruments will receive the best of care.

Other members of the drama group working on properties include Mrs. George W. Marton Jr., Mrs. Harold D. Owen, Mr. J. V. Starr and Mrs. Richard L. Garroll. Chairman of the costumes committee, Mrs. Eugene N. Geddings, and her co-chairman, Mrs. Crosby P. Baker, discovered a wealth of Japanese kimonos and tabs (cotton shoes) in the homes of two Cranford women who had lived in Japan for some time. Because of the generosity of the donors, several members of the cast of the three-act comedy will be dressed in beautiful material and colors in a realistic stylized manner.

Mrs. Geddings has one frustration at the moment though. She has had difficulty in finding an American "Marlon Brando" type black leather jacket in size 40, to be used in one scene of the play. The costume chairman, who lives at 8 Makatom drive, would be most grateful for the use of such a jacket.

Michael Stanton, a member of the costumes committee as well as a member of the cast of "A Majority of One," is putting his designing talents to good use by designing and making a white suit worn by Miss Diane Horton in the play. Other members of the committee, Mrs. Ronald H. Randall, Mrs. Webster Van De Mark, Mrs. E. W. Stanton, Miss Patricia Stanton, Miss Diane Stevens, Mrs. Joseph R. Gallant and Mrs. Robert E. Bair.

A telephone call to the Cranford Dramatic Club box office at 78 Winans avenue is all that is needed to make reservations for "A Majority of One." The play will be on-stage February 16, 18, 22 and 23 and March 1 and 2. Box office is open from 7.30 to 9.30 Monday through Friday evenings.

MV Questions

Q. A member of my family has passed away. What do I do with his driver license?

A. The driver license of the deceased should be mailed to the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicle, 25 S. Montgomery Street, Trenton, New Jersey, with a notation across the face of the license, "Deceased."

This will assist the Division of Motor Vehicles in the proper maintenance and purging of their records.

All musicians interested in playing with the orchestra should contact Mr. Goldberg at 26 Rutgers road. The orchestra rehearses every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Walnut Avenue School. Thought for the Week

By The REV. CLARK L. VAN AUKEN, Assistant Pastor Cranford Methodist Church

We hear a great deal these days about surplus food. We have millions of tons of wheat and corn and other foodstuffs in storage, costing the government millions of dollars each year. In addition to this the government pays out millions of dollars to farmers not to plant crops so as not to increase the ever increasing surplus.

We hear preachers preaching about this and advocating that we give our surplus to the underprivileged, starving peoples of the so-called backward countries of the world.

Why don't we do that? Surely the program of government subsidies and surpluses do not seem to make sense—especially when people elsewhere in the world are in such dire need. Where is our generosity?

It is not always easy to give something away. First of all, we have a very complicated market structure. It is quite certain that the giving away of millions of dollars worth of food and stored up goods of any kind would upset the market in a possible disastrous fashion. In our own state of New Jersey there has been rather heated controversy about the price of milk. The supply of milk is such that the price of milk ought to be cheaper. It is a few cents cheaper, as a result of the controversy, but the price is still set—regardless of the supply. We do not hear of milk being given away. In fact dealers could be fined for selling milk below the set price. All of this gives us an idea how hard it is not only to give certain marketable products away—but but even to sell them at a reduced price. But the above is not the only factor involved in this business of surpluses. Another factor is the effect on people of giving them something for nothing.

To illustrate the point we are after let us turn to that story recorded in the third chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. When Peter and John went up to the temple to pray on a certain day, they encountered a lame man sitting at the gate asking for alms. This same man asked Peter and John for an alms. But Peter asked the man to look intently at them. Then Peter said, "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk." And the man did rise up and walk, and there was one less beggar at the gate of the temple that day. If Peter had had silver or gold he might readily have handed the man a coin and the man would have still been a cripple and a beggar.

The fundamental purpose of charity is to help people to help themselves. If we do not help people to help themselves we make beggars of them. To give to people indiscriminately is to do them a disservice. The most essential element in every life is good character, and good character comes from painstaking effort and down right hard work.

In times of disaster such as earthquakes, floods, fires, tornadoes and drought, food and clothing can be given away to the victims with utter abandon and should be so given. But we can not do this to people whose troubles are of their own making or if they lack industry and thrift. They need to be taught to stand on their own feet—otherwise we make beggars of them permanently.

If the peoples of the backward areas of the world would accept instruction and guidance in the ways and means of using the good earth to grow their own crops and manufacture their own machinery and their own consumers goods of all kinds, then maybe we could give instructors and surpluses to set them up in business so that they could go forward on their own power. In this way every one would be benefited and the high purpose of charity would be achieved.

County Colleges Committee To Confer With UJC Group

A committee appointed by the Union County Board of Freeholders to study the need for a county college in Union County will confer Wednesday with the education committee of the board of trustees of Union Junior College at the college.

Under legislation signed last spring by Governor Richard J. Hughes, counties are authorized to establish two-year community colleges. The law provides for the county and state to share capital costs on a 50-50 basis and for the state to provide for up to one-third of the tuition costs.

The legislation also provides for counties with a population of more than 300,000 to make contributions to existing independent two-year colleges. Union Junior College could benefit from this legislation.

Max Bussell of Plainfield and Dr. Minor C. K. Jones of Mount Pleasant are co-chairmen of Union County's county college study committee. Dr. Kenneth C. Mackay, president of Union Junior College, and County School Superintendent William H. West of Cranford, who is a trustee of Union Junior College, are members of the county study committee.

Dr. Albert E. Meder, Jr., of Westfield, vice-provost and dean of Rutgers University, heads the Union Junior College board of trustees' education committee.

At the conference, Union Junior College's present and future role in Union County's system of higher education will be considered. Union Junior College receives no financial aid from any level of government—federal, state, county or municipal. UJC emphasizes a two-year program in liberal arts, engineering, science and business administration, which is comparable with the first two years of a standard college curriculum.

Union Junior College transfers 85 percent of its graduates to more than 300 colleges and universities throughout the nation. Nearly all UJC students in both the day and evening sessions plan to transfer to four-year universities and colleges.

Budget Catches Up With Effects Of Double Sessions

The new school budget is an attempt on the part of the Cranford Board of Education to bring the public school system back on a par to what it was before the change to double sessions several years ago. Gus Gutierrez, president of the Board of Education, told members of the Cranford Rotary Club last Thursday at Cranford Methodist Church.

There has been a growing demand to make many of the present courses set up in the schools available to more students which has brought about the need for more teachers. Teachers also have been added to meet the state minimum requirements in health and physical education plus others to meet the increase in enrollment. Mr. Gutierrez also stated that the Board of Education has come up with a five-year plan which gives the goals and objectives for the school system over the next five years. He added that the system has become too large to run year by year and that the new plan will enable the board to make reorganization changes and have a more detailed study of future plans.

The board president gave a detailed account of the new budget with explanations of changes and additions that would take place in the school system. Dr. Clark W. McDermith introduced the speaker. Dr. Fletcher Gilpin presided.

Wednesday Club Guest Tells Magnificence of Indonesia

The magnificence of Indonesia was explored by Mrs. G. Derwood Baker, guest speaker, at a Wednesday Morning Club tea last Wednesday.

Mrs. Baker illustrated her talk with slides taken while accompanying her husband on a UNESCO mission. She pointed out that music, creative art and the dance are an important part of everyday life in the islands, described in the New York Times as "magnificent and exasperating." Influences of a blend of Islamic, Buddhist and Hindu culture are to be seen everywhere, she said.

Her slides showed terraced rice growing, temples, native costumes, Balinese dancers, shadow puppets and musical performances. She displayed theatrical costumes, bolts of batik materials that take six to eight months to print by a wax process, colorful carved and filigree jewelry and wooden statues.

Mrs. Baker said, "Going to school in Indonesia is a great privilege and being a teacher is an even greater privilege." She ended her program with a slide showing a group of happy Indonesian children who have roots in "a very old culture but turn hopeful faces to the future of this new old nation."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Bruce Gillespie, who recalled that her family was living in Indonesia in 1949 when the Islands received their independence.

The monthly meeting will be at 9:45 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Richard Dorian, 214 Elizabeth avenue. The music committee under chairman Mrs. H. Z. Homer will present the program, "Music of the Civil War." Mrs. P. E. Snyder and Mrs. W. A. Stanger will present the commentary on the music to be played by Mrs. E. C. Fortenbaugh.

The current affairs committee will meet at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Donald Creighton, Dartmouth road. Mrs. Charles Redden will present a paper on

"The Communist Bloc and World Trade."
The American home and art committee under chairman, Mrs. J. H. Brockbank and Mrs. G. L. Griffith attended a furniture auction at the Pagke Bernet Gallery, New York.

Lecture Series Continues Tonight At Temple Beth-El

The second of the Julius A. Babat Lectures will be presented at 8 o'clock this evening at Temple Beth-El, 300 Walnut avenue, by Dr. Abraham S. Halkin of the Jewish Theological Seminary.

This lecture, the second of a series of four devoted to the theme of "Jews at the Crossroads of History," will deal with the relative economic and political freedom which the Jewish community enjoyed under the Muslim reign. For a number of centuries, a reciprocal influence was allowed to flow between the two communities. Prof. Halkin also will discuss how a large body of learning which Islam absorbed from the Greek world was in turn taken over by the Jews.

Dr. Halkin is an authority on Jewish and Muslim history and culture. He is a member of the Medieval Society, the Israel Exploration Society and the American Oriental Society. Among his published works are "Moslem Schisms and Sects," "Maimonides' Epistle to the Jews of Yemen," and "Zion in Jewish Literature."

Dr. Clark W. McDermith, superintendent of schools, will introduce Prof. Halkin.

The lecture series began last Thursday with an address by Dr. Judah Goldin of Yale University on Jewish history in the Hellenistic period. An introduction on the Greek world was given by the Rev. Walter Wagner, pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church, and the lecture was followed by a discussion period.

The dates for the third and fourth lectures have been interchanged, it was reported this week by Robert Ackelsberg, chairman of the adult education committee of Temple Beth-El. On February 7, Dr. Louis M. Leventky will lecture on "Jewish Life at the Crossroads of the New World," and the February 14 lecture will be given by Dr. Solomon Grayzel, who will speak on "The Jews in the Age of Christian Religious Reformation."

Tickets may be purchased at the door this evening. Reduced rate tickets are available for Cranford students.

Trustees Approve Budget, 8-1

KENILWORTH—In an 8-1 vote the Board of Education approved the $442,642.50 school budget following an hour-long public hearing last Thursday night attended by 30 persons.

The dissenting vote was cast by William Clark who had announced his opposition to the renovation of the Harding School auditorium at a preliminary budget meeting with the mayor and council earlier this month.

Renovation of the exterior and interior of the Harding building has taken place over the past several years, and the auditorium is the last major repair needed to complete the job. In the new budget the board has appropriated $20,000 from its surplus to add to $20,000 set aside in the 1962-63 budget for improvements in heating, ventilating, lighting, stage and ceiling in the auditorium.

Mayor William J. Ahern and others in the audience suggested using the $20,000 for improvements at McKinley School rather than the Harding auditorium.

Charles Lennon, board president, pointed out that the two are separate projects. He emphasized that the board has reached no decision on McKinley School and will not make any decision until a study is completed. Any recommendation by the board on McKinley will be put to the voters in referendum form in a separate election, Mr. Lennon declared.

A detailed explanation of the budget was presented by Dory Himpele, finance chairman, who declared, "The budget is the best possible proposal for the best possible education." The budget is up $35,403.43 over the current year, an increase of 6.98 percent.

The largest increase is for instruction, up from $337,351.67 to $359,585, a rise of $22,233.33. Teachers will receive salary increases averaging $382.37, Mr. Himpele said. The new salary guide increases the salary for first-year teachers with a bachelor's degree from $4,800 to $4,900 with corresponding increases at master's and doctorate levels. At the minimum level, nine area schools pay more; nine, the same, and three below, he noted.

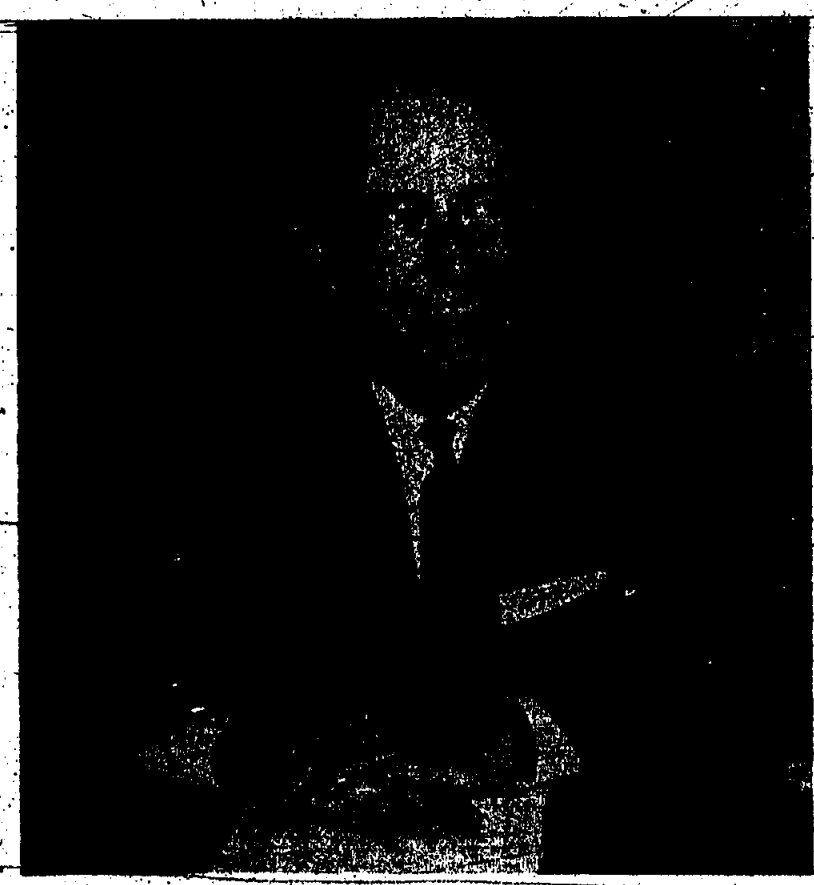

The school system will receive state and Federal aid amounting to $79,492.65. The school budget will be put to the voters on February 13 in the annual school election. The new budget will require $443,149.85 in municipal taxes.

Dance Lessons Start in February

KENILWORTH—A free eight-week dance course for Kenilworth adults will be sponsored by the Kenilworth Recreation Committee starting Wednesday, February 13, in Harding School.

The course will include instruction in fox trot, waltz, thumba, cha cha, tango and other dances for beginners and persons wishing to learn variations of basic dance steps.

Registration will be held at 7 p.m. on February 13 preceding the dancing lessons from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Instructors will be Mrs. Bernice Yerlick and Mrs. Helen O'Neil of Bernal Dance Studio, Irvington.

BOROUGH CLERK PHILIP J. MCGEVNA

Borough Clerk to Be Cited For Outstanding Citizenship

KENILWORTH—Borough Clerk Philip J. McGevna, a key figure in the operation of the borough for the past 19 years, has been named recipient of the outstanding citizenship award given yearly in this area by Kadimah Chapter, B'nai B'rith Women.

Tribute will be paid to Mr. McGevna at a special meeting on February 26 in the Municipal Building. Mrs. Clarence Burstein of Cranford, chapter president, will make the presentation.

In his role as borough clerk since January 1, 1944, the versatile clerk has directed almost every operation of the borough at one time or another. This month he is "on relief" while Mrs. Cecilia Upton, welfare director, is recuperating from an illness.

The affable clerk, who came into office under a Republican administration, has served under six mayors, the last two Democratic. "Kenilworth has always had good government with officials interested only in the borough, and I'm real proud of this," Mr. McGevna declared.

Any questions on borough matters elicit one answer, "Ask Phil, he knows." For years Mr. McGevna, a fast-moving man, overwhelmed news reporters by his "bullet-like" reading of ordinances and correspondence at Borough Council meetings.

During his long service, the borough clerk has watched Kenilworth grow from slightly over 2,000 residents to more than 9,000 citizens now. Three police officers and two road department officials helped to run the borough when Mr. McGevna took his job, in which he succeeded Earl Pollack, now borough attorney. The borough now has almost 40 employees, supervised by Mr. McGevna, who was named personnel manager this fall.

In his other roles the capable clerk has set up dozens of local fund drives, helped to form the Little League, and is currently helping to establish a new recreation program for teenagers in the borough.

Born in Yonkers, N. Y., he has lived in the borough since early boyhood and was graduated from Harding School and Roselle Park High School. He also is an alumnus of Union Junior College, which was located in Roselle at the time, and attended Rutgers.

Garwood, Kenilworth to Vote Tuesday on Regional Budget

Garwood and Kenilworth voters will go to the polls on Tuesday to vote on the 1963-64 regional school budget, which shows lowered tax rates for regional school purposes in the two communities.

Polls will be open from 3 to 9 p.m. at Harding School, Kenilworth. In Garwood, Districts 1 and 2 will vote at Washington School and Districts 3 and 4 at Franklin School.

The new budget shows a decrease of 7 tax points in Kenilworth and 25 points in Garwood. Residents will vote on taxes totaling $2,878,031 to support the budget.

The total budget stands at $3,705,751 as compared with the current year's figure of $3,536,331, representing a little less than a five percent increase.

The new budget provides a beginning salary of $5,000 for teachers with bachelor's degrees running to a maximum of $8,300. This is a $200 increase in the starting salary.

The increase in the budget is reflected in an anticipated 10 percent rise in student population requiring salaries, additional teachers, custodians and other personnel, additional transportation, student activities and equipment. The enrollment is expected to reach 4,475, a jump of 416 pupils.

Only voters in Kenilworth will be called on to cast ballots for a Regional Board of Education candidate. Avery W. Ward of Kenilworth is unopposed in his reelection bid for a three-year term.

Methodists To Observe Communion

KENILWORTH—The sacrament of holy communion will be celebrated at the 9:30 and 11 o'clock services Sunday at Community Methodist Church. The altar with the communion elements will be prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rein, newly elected communion stewards of the congregation.

The Rev. James S. Tiller, pastor, will preach a communion meditation on "Two Upper Rooms." Frieder Furer, organist-choirmaster, will direct the Senior High choir at the 9:30 service and the Chancel choir at the 11 o'clock service. The Rev. George W. Kaslow, assistant pastor, will participate in both services.

The Junior Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet Sunday evening at 6, and the Fellowship for all high school students will convene at 7:30 p.m. Members of the Junior MYF are to meet at the church Saturday at 2 p.m. to attend a splash party at Drew University. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dorrell and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oehme, adult advisers, will chaperone the party.

Rev. Mr. Tiller will attend the New York Area Methodist Ministers' Retreat at Buek Hill Falls, Pa., Tuesday through Thursday. During his absence all pastoral duties will be discharged by Rev. Mr. Kaslow.

Citizen citations are awarded by B'nai B'rith in recognition of outstanding work in community and civic affairs and for general advancement of citizenship responsibility.

EDWARD H. TILLER

Tiller Seeking Second Term On Co. Board

GARWOOD—Former Mayor Edward H. Tiller of 502 Locust avenue is seeking Republican nomination for reelection to his second three-year term as a member of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

He was named to the board in the November, 1960, election, at which time he also was reelected for his third two-year term as mayor of Garwood. He resigned as mayor in June, 1961, following a Supreme Court ruling (since reversed) that the office of mayor and freeholder could not be held by the same person at the same time.

Freeholder Tiller was a member of the Garwood Borough Council for four years (including service as president of the council in 1954) prior to his first election as mayor of the borough in November, 1950.

During his three years on the county board, Freeholder Tiller has been chairman of bridges and roads, and this year he also is a member of the administrative and public property and purchasing committees and the school board of estimate. He is county representative to the Inter-Municipal Group for Better Rail Service and the new incinerator study group.

Freeholder Tiller is employed as a supervisor by E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co. in Newark.

The State Federation of Women's Clubs is sponsoring the restoration of the historic site located near Asbury Park.

Possibility of the local club's co-sponsoring and obtaining the state's Historymobile for a day next year in connection with the New Jersey Tercentenary celebration was discussed by Mrs. Victor Nemeth, president.

It was announced that a decorative wall plaque made of photos and cones has been placed in the Post Office by the garden department to replace the Christmas wreath made by members of the department.

Tax Rise Cut by $450 In New School Budget

GARWOOD—An increase of $450 in the amount of state aid to be received by Garwood means that tax requirements for the local schools will increase only $1,024.50 instead of the previously reported figure of $1,474.50, it was revealed as the Board of Education approved its budget for the 1963-64 school year following a public hearing in Lincoln School last Thursday night.

Final action on the budget will be taken by the voters at the February 13 school election.

The budget as approved by the board calls for appropriations totaling $319,216 (a decrease of $3,374.50 under the current school budget) and the paying of $262,682 by taxation.

The original tax total of $263,132 was amended after a report by A. T. Mosca, board secretary, that the State Department of Education had "recomputed its state building aid" and increased the amount coming to Garwood from $9,532 to $9,982.

Prior to adoption of the budget, the board passed a resolution increasing the state aid figure in the debt service account from $4,760 to $5,240 and cutting the amount of the local tax levy by $450.

The teachers' salary item of $192,400, representing an increase of $650, was questioned by Arthur Chalenski, a former member of the board, during the public hearing. He declared that Garwood starting salaries for teachers are among the lowest in the county and that they should be higher to attract new teachers.

During the ensuing discussion it was revealed that the 28 teachers in the system would receive increases of $200 a year in addition to $200 increments. The starting salary is $4,600 and the maximum $7,800.

Mr. Mosca explained that the board was able to provide raises for the teachers while only increasing the salary output by $650 because a teacher who retired last year was not replaced.

Superintendent of Schools Lewis F. Laird pointed out that Garwood teachers have an average of 22.2 years of service, the highest in the county. Mr. Mosca added that half of them are normal school graduates without teachers' degrees.

Mayor Proclaims Boy Scout Week

GARWOOD—Mayor I. George Casabona this week issued a proclamation dedicating the week of February 7 to 13 as Boy Scout Week in Garwood. February 8 will mark the 53rd anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America.

Mayor Casabona urged that our citizens recognize the important role scouting plays in the development of boys, and, further, that they appreciate and support the unselfish, patriotic service rendered to our community by the volunteer leaders of this great movement and the assistance given by religious bodies, school organizations, fraternal groups and civic clubs that use the scouting program for the benefit of the youth of our community in Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops and Explorer units.

Mrs. Richard Seeling, social chairman, and Mrs. William Trebach and Mrs. Piekarski are in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Edward H. Tiller, ways and means chairman, announced that a cocktail party will be held at the Cranwood on March 31.

Mrs. Anthony Gredone, president, named Mrs. Seelig chairman of the nominating committee. A second reading of proposed by-laws was given by Mrs. John Lombardo, chairman of the by-laws committee.
