Question Period Reveals Sentiment Runs Heavily Against School Plan

Thirty minutes of questions last Friday night on the proposed $5.3 million school bond referendum following a 20-minute presentation of the Board of Education's package proposal indicated sentiment is running heavily against the school board plan.

Dr. Clark W. McDermith, superintendent of schools, outlined the Board of Education's proposal to rehabilitate Cranford High School, Roosevelt and Lincoln Schools, and replace Cleveland and Sherman Schools with new buildings, at a joint meeting of the Republican Citizens Committee and the Cranford Republican Club in the community room of the Municipal Building.

More than 80 persons attended the meeting and more than 20 persons questioned Dr. McDermith and Robert Blynn, vice-president of the board, on the package proposal. None of those present appeared to offer any strong support for the bond issue to be voted on December 8 other than Board of Education members and Dr. McDermith. Also present were Dr. Henry Mincur and Mrs. Margaret Gillespie of the school board.

By prearrangement, the question period was ended after 30 minutes and many who attended remained following the session to confer with the school officials.

Dr. McDermith asserted that the community in the late 1950s permitted its school population to get ahead of its facilities. This problem, he said, was basically resolved in 1961 when the voters approved two new junior high schools. The school system, he said, has been in pretty good shape for space since these schools were opened in 1963.

While the school population growth has slowed down and the enrollment should be fairly stable over the next few years, the superintendent said the problem now is "space versus curriculum—what we do with and for the children."

He explained that the curriculum has been changing rapidly as demanded by society. This, he declared, requires more space per child and different kinds of space to support a program of learning experiences.

2 Teachers Join Cranford System, 3 Resign

At its meeting Tuesday night in Lincoln School the Board of Education hired two new teachers and accepted resignations from three.

Mrs. Elizabeth Neumann of Union was hired as an elementary school teacher at an annual salary of $5,900. A graduate of Trenton State College, where she received a B.A. degree in elementary education, she has had two years teaching experience.

Hired to teach secondary school business education was Mrs. Janet Woerner of Clark, who is a candidate for a B.S. degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University in January. She performed her senior practice teaching in Cranford. Her salary will be $5,500.

Resignations were accepted from the following: Edward Boyle, secondary school social studies teacher, effective November 30 or earlier if possible, to accept employment in another school system; Mrs. Lois Flowers, secondary school Spanish teacher, effective December 31, due to pregnancy; and Mrs. Elizabeth Shea, elementary school teacher, effective November 11, personal reasons.

Mrs. Carol Varulo was appointed a remedial reading instructor effective yesterday after having taken a leave of absence. She will teach on a three-day per week basis at an annual salary of $6,030.

A maternity leave-of-absence without salary was granted to Mrs. Sue Ann Johnson, elementary school teacher, from January 1, 1967 to June 30, 1968.

The board awarded a contract for the busing of handicapped pupils to classes outside the community to the Suburban Bus Co., which was the lone bidder. The total cost will be $4,756.

An authorization was made for the board to obtain extended liability insurance for employees through Heddenberg-MacBean, effective November 18. The annual cost will be $696.

Litwack Sees New Building Project Upgrading Every Elementary School

Every elementary school in Cranford will be up-graded educationally with the construction of two elementary schools to replace Cleveland and Sherman Schools, Bernard Litwack, president of the Board of Education, said today.

The new buildings will contain 24 classrooms to replace those now being used in the Cleveland and Sherman Schools and space equivalent to two classrooms in each of the other elementary schools to provide space for enlarged libraries, science and skills centers, and small areas for conferences and small group instruction, as well as space for special services personnel.

"It is our goal to provide equal facilities in all our elementary schools and to provide a common program," Mr. Litwack said.

The board president said a new curriculum is not envisioned by the Board of Education, but only an extension and broadening of the present curriculum.

"These small areas and special centers will greatly increase the flexibility of our educational program, so that the individual needs of every child can be met," Mr. Litwack said.

A $5.3 million school building program has been proposed by the Board of Education to meet these and other needs. It includes two new elementary schools to replace Cleveland and Sherman Schools, renovation, rehabilitation and expansion of Cranford High School, and rehabilitation of Lincoln and Roosevelt Schools.

"We need a modern elementary program that provides more adequately for the different needs and interests of individual pupils," Mr. Litwack said. "This means programs for students with handicaps of all kind, for slow learners, for those with learning difficulties of any kind, and for the academically talented."

To provide programs for these young people, space is required for library centers, individual learning centers, areas for individual and group instruction, work areas for special services personnel like psychologists and speech correctionists, and areas for teacher-parent and teacher-specialist conferences. Few of these areas are now available in any of our eight elementary schools.

The board president said a modern elementary program also requires science centers and skills centers.

"In the science centers, young people will be provided unusual opportunities which greatly enhance and enriches their learning of science concepts, methods and facts," Dr. Clark W. McDermith, school superintendent said. "In this scientific age, is it too soon to begin these studies? Third through sixth graders will use the skills centers for 'independent or small group study beyond that normally required or provided in the typical classroom.'"

The children who will use the library centers, individual learning centers, special areas for individual and small group instruction, and conference rooms are the so-called "phenoms," Mr. Litwack said.

"They are the reason present facilities are inadequate and obsolete," the board president said. "They are the reason simply rehabilitating present facilities is not enough. The 'phenom' is the kid next door with a learning difficulty. And the child up the street who is mentally retarded. And the kid around the corner who is a victim of polio. And that unusual kid who" (Continued on Page 8)

School Plans Draw Criticism At Lengthy Board Meeting

The Board of Education faced another long public session Tuesday night, as some 70 residents turned out to voice displeasure about the board's $5.3 million referendum proposal calling for the replacement of Cleveland and Sherman Schools and the rehabilitation of Roosevelt and Lincoln Schools and the high school.

Many of the questions had been answered before, but the board answered them again. There were questions about rehabilitation as opposed to replacement of Cleveland and Sherman Schools, arguments over the choice of the Holly St. site, questions about what new programs would be offered if the proposal passes and why they are necessary, and a discussion of the perennial issue of the effects on the taxpayer.

Board members reiterated their contention that rehabilitating Sherman and Cleveland Schools would not pay in the long run and would not provide the modern educational program they think Cranford should have. They said that a rehabilitation program would only be a million dollars cheaper than building two new schools, and that it would not be worth the money.

Harold Vogel of 6 Hampton St. said that granting the two schools should be replaced, why couldn't they be built several stories high so it would not be necessary to condemn property?

The answer is that it "costs more to go up in the air," replied board member S. Robert Christensen. Architects and other experts had told the board that building on a broad scale was the most economical method, he explained, adding that extra stories and you need wider halls and more exits. Mr. Christensen said.

But Mr. Vogel remained unconvinced.

Dr. Clark W. McDermith, superintendent of schools, said the use of a large land area was in keeping with the suburban nature of Cranford. He said he didn't think Cranford residents wanted high rise schools any more than they wanted high rise apartments.

Other residents asked the board what new programs they would be getting for their money and why such programs could not be offered in the existing buildings.

There will be skill centers, elementary science centers, audio-visual resource centers, expanded library facilities, an improved summer school program, use of team teaching and greater opportunities for small group learning, Board President Bernard Litwack replied. He also pointed out that the two (Continued on Page 8)

"Although primarily legislative and spot-making bodies, school boards should take courageous programs and better facilities for learning."

"The industry division under William McGrath deserves special praise," the chairman's report continued. "Corporate and employee gifts of $23,000 at this time last year are now at $24,000 and are expected to hit $26,000. School employees as a group also are doing very well, with totals in several schools running 30 percent ahead of 1965."

"We are seriously concerned, however, about several residential districts where reports are spotty at best or entirely missing," Co-Chairman Hall said. "Some of these areas where last year's totals were exceptionally good, and yet our captains say they were unable to find workers to cover the area."

"For example, there are several whole streets near Roosevelt School and Union Junior College where not a single worker was found."

Persons living on these streets who have not yet been reached are requested to call the United Fund office at the Municipal Building to make their pledges.

"Better yet," Dr. Hall said, "what we really need is a few volunteers in key areas, to call on their neighbors who gave last year and are definitely interested. By now, I mean that in several districts even one or two workers could make all the difference."

"Our current program deals with curriculum expansion and changes, and with new methods and new materials which require more space per child," Dr. McDermith said. "It also deals with space for children who are physically, mentally, or emotionally handicapped and with the use of special materials to meet the individual differences of children."

Dr. McDermith said the present $5.3 million building program provides for rehabilitation, adapting and enlarging Cranford High School, rehabilitating Lincoln and Roosevelt Schools, and rebuilding Cleveland and Sherman Schools with larger editions.

"On a year-to-year basis we will adapt space in the other six elementary schools to new uses," the school superintendent said. "This program will require three to four years to complete and the cost will be spread over 25 years."

Dr. McDermith quoted from "This We Believe," published by the American Association of School Administrators and the National School Boards Association, to outline the role of the Board of Education in the school building program:

"As legal officials of the state and legally selected representatives of the general public, school boards are obligated to take leadership to provide over-improved educational programs and better facilities for learning."

Speaker at VFW Breakfast Cites Forces Shaping World

There are five great forces shaping our world today which must be understood and faced up to if our way of life is to survive, Rev. Laurence T. Murphy, director of the Newman International Office in New York, told those attending the annual Veterans' Day breakfast held by Capt. N. R. Fiske Post 335, VFW, at Veterans' Memorial Home on Friday.

Father Murphy, a scholar, lecturer, teacher, magazine editor, Naval Academy graduate, World War II combat veteran and priest, who has traveled widely throughout the world, listed these "five enormously important forces which are shaping our world and making it so different" as:

1. Communism, which he said we must understand not only as an enemy but as a competitor for the allegiance of the peoples of the world.
2. The population explosion. Father Murphy said the world's population is now double what it was 100 years ago and will double again before the end of this century, posing problems of how to feed, house, educate and transport all these people.
3. Technology. "We are so much under the influence of technology," that our standard of living may have to be curtailed or "otherwise it will be destroyed," because "80 percent of the world is not going to just sit around while conditions get worse and worse."

The speaker declared that our present foreign-aid program is "an illusion," since there is waste, corruption and mismanagement, and "we spend more on cigarettes, liquor and even pet food that we do on foreign aid."

East Commander Philip Berard, inelli of the host VFW post served as master of ceremonies at the breakfast and introduced the following at the head table, each of whom addressed brief remarks to the assemblage:

State VFW Commander Vincent L. Brinkerhoff of Cranford, Fifth District Commander John Kopik of Rahway, County Commander William Wolf of Roselle Park, Commander Joseph Tineo of Post 335 and Mayor Wesley N. Philo.

Other guests introduced included Public Safety Commissioner Edward K. GRI, Public Works Commissioner Charles G. Siegfried, Police Chief Lester W. Powell, former Mayor C. Van Chamberlin, G. Frank Zimmerman, former principal of Cranford High School and now director of business and plant operations in the local school system, and Commander Thomas Leahy of Cranford Post 212, American Legion.

Also introduced as special guests were the officers of the Student Councils of Orange Avenue and Hillside Avenue Junior High Schools and Marine Pvt. Stephen S. Korner and Army Pvt. Philip J. Healey, Jr., both home on leave from service.

Past Commander Thomas J. Korner of Post 335, general chairman for the breakfast, opened the program by reading a poem urging more general flying of the American flag.

The breakfast was served by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Post 335.

Chamber Gets Forecast on 1967 Business

The worst of the "tight money" situation is now behind us and the economy should continue reasonably strong in 1967, Paul C. Bosland, executive vice-president of Suburban Trust Co., told members of the Chamber of Commerce at their annual dinner meeting Monday night in the Coach and Four Restaurant.

The bank executive predicted auto makers should enjoy a good year in 1967 and that expenditures for new equipment should about equal those of the current year.

He predicted, however, that there will be tremendous pressures for wage increases during the coming year and notes that many more union contracts expire next year than in the current year.

Profits, he said, may be up modestly, if at all, and said that the stock market traditionally is ahead of corporate profits and the market has not been "up" of late.

Mr. Bosland said the pace of the nation's economy has slowed down to the point where the administration may not deem it necessary to change the tax structure at all. He said he does not foresee any increase in personal taxes and only a moderate increase, if any, in corporate taxes.

The War in Vietnam, he said, is still a major factor and any change in this area could bring about marked changes in the nation's economic health.

He added that if business happens to take a rapid downward turn, the government will step in quickly to take whatever corrective measures are necessary.

The tight money situation, which probably was at its worst last August, was caused by four major factors, the banker said. The nation has had a strong, dynamic economy since 1961; the Federal government has become involved in almost everything; a pronounced difficulty developed with international balance of payments; and an acceleration in the Vietnamese war occurred to the point where this nation is spending $20 billion annually and the cost may reach $30 billion next year.

So the nation has gone from a depression to a strong boom and the current situation is a logical result, he said.

During the past several months, the country has experienced its lowest unemployment in years and the country has strained its manpower to a point where there are more jobs than there are people to fill them.

The capital spending boom also has been strong, he said, and the federal government, too, has been extending its spending — without cutting expenditures — and has been seeking capital through an increased interest rate. This has drained money out of savings banks, savings and loans and commercial banks and has helped to force higher interest rates across the country.

The tight money situation hurt the mortgage market, he explained, to the extent that residential mortgage funds almost "dried up" for a few months and speculative building almost stopped.

The speaker said he does not foresee much change in the interest rate structure in the near future.

Mr. Bosland said he did not believe that the tight money situation affected banks and merchants in the smaller communities to the extent that it did in the larger cities.

Realtors Hear Talks On Plans for Schools

A good school system is a major factor in maintaining property values in a community, Robert Blum, no. vice-president of the Board of Education, told the Cranford Board of Realtors last Thursday at a meeting in the conference room of Union Junior College's Campus Center.

Mr. Blum discussed the school board's $5.3 million school building program, which comes up for a vote on December 8. The program includes construction of two new elementary schools to replace Cleveland and Sherman Schools, rehabilitation, renovation and expansion of Cranford High School, and the rehabilitation of Lincoln and Roosevelt Schools.

The speaker said the school building program will not only provide for a better school system educationally, but will assist in the revitalization of the community's central business district.

Mr. Blum said the Board of Education plans to give over to the township the 1.8-acre Cleveland School site for whatever use the township determines is best.

Mr. Blum reviewed all aspects of the proposed building program, and he and Bernard Litwak, school board president, answered questions raised by the realtors.

VIA Hears Talk On Intellectual Women of History

"It's Never Smart to Be Dumb" was the title of Mrs. Jan Schoffman's lecture to members of the Village Improvement Association at their meeting Tuesday afternoon at Sherlock Hall of Trinity Church.

Mrs. Schoffman, of Mountlake, is an extensive traveler who has lived in both Alaska and Hawaii. She said the three most important means of communication are telephone, television and tell-a-woman.

Mrs. Schoffman discussed important intellectual women of history and their conquests because of their intellect. She mentioned Cleopatra, who was more of an intellectual than a beauty, and Queen Elizabeth who was a great linguist. She also spoke on the importance of poised public speaking for women and the role it played in accomplishing the rights women now enjoy. Leaders are never silent, she said, and she urged her listeners to speak up. The more often one does, the easier it becomes.

Mrs. Arthur Veneri, vice-president, conducted the meeting. She reported on the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs sixth district conference which Mrs. Monroe Westover, president, attended recently.

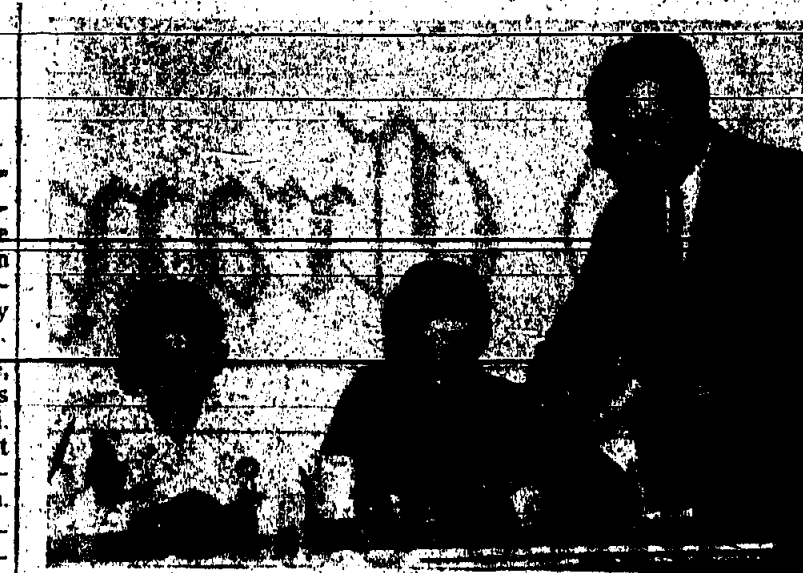

Mrs. Veneri discussed plans for the "Three Generation Christmas Party" to which members, children and grandchildren are invited as well as the Junior Woman's club and their children. She said Santa Claus would present gifts to the children and Jean Rapicano would present a puppet show.

Ways and means chairman Mrs. John Goscinsky reported on the Fashion Show and Luncheon held recently, and thanked her committee as well as the models who were Mrs. C. Leonard, Mrs. Paul Wiegand and Mrs. Veneri. She also mentioned that "Luncheon will be Served" will be included in the January program.

Mrs. S. L. Nunn, junior adviser, reminded members of the Junior Woman's annual dessert bridge and wig fashion show, November 21 at Sherlock Hall.

The American Home and Garden department will hold their Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Louis Lomench. Gifts will be exchanged.

Mrs. Harold Kinney was chairman of the tea committee, assisted by Mrs. T. V. Albert, Miss Mary Anne Albert, Mrs. George Bates, Mrs. Fred Baumann, Mrs. Lloyd Briggs, Mrs. Henry Bohrens, Mrs. W. Burton and Miss Della Hensler. Mrs. Bates and Mrs. William Bubas poured.

By RON SOBELSON

Green leaves have turned to autumn gold, and the dying summer heat predicts the cleansing cold of the winter. The politician knows another election has come and gone. The farmer looks back on one year and forward to another. The child in all of us awaits the holiday season. But your doctor knows that the winter will bring a harvest of its own special ills. Among these is measles, sometimes bringing with it is complication of mental retardation, vision damage and hearing loss.

But it needn't be. We have had a measles vaccine for over three years and according to Dr. William H. Stewart, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, "There is no excuse for needlessly prolonging the fight against this disease."

There are two things you can do. First, naturally, is get your own children into your doctor's office for their immunization. And second, stand behind your school authorities and medical profession in their attempt to take this immunization universal. No amount of medical knowledge can help the child of a careless parent or the population of a quiescent community.

LOCAL SCOUTS IN WASHINGTON — Members of Boy Scout Troop 176, from Brookside Place School, are shown on sightseeing trip in Washington, D. C., last weekend. They visited the White House, Capitol, Washington Monument, Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, Arlington Cemetery, Smithsonian Institute and two Jima Monument.

Scout Troop 176 Spends Weekend In Nation's Capital

Twenty-eight boys and adult leaders of Boy Scout Troop 176 from Brookside Place School spent last weekend sight seeing in Washington, D. C.

Making the trip were: Paul Nappin, William Thornton, Michael Kapin, Raymond Monceli, Richard Monceli, Keith Limon, Michael Totten, Steven Carbone, Bruce Katcher, David Wagner, Kevin Traylor, Michael Golub, Michael McNally, Brad Breslau, Richard Younghouse, Walter Williams, and the two Jima Monument.

At Arlington Cemetery they saw

Speer, James Van Posen, John Franks, Robert Novello.

Also, Assistant Senior Patrol Leader Richard Krieger, Senior Patrol Leader Russell Boyle, Scout Advisers David Speer and Larry Younghouse, Scoutmaster Louis Totten and Scout Committeeman George Krieger.

During their stay in Washington, the scouts, through arrangements made by Committeeman Martin Kapin, were guests of the Crest Hill Baptist Church of Bowie, Md.

The scouts went through the White House and the Capitol, saw Washington from the top of the Washington Monument and visited Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials.

the grave of President Kennedy and the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. One-half of one day was spent at the Smithsonian Institute, where a number of buildings were visited. Boys wishing to join Troop 176 may contact any member or call Scoutmaster Totten or Werner Speer at 27 Cornell Rd.

Books Presented As Memorial To Teachers

Books indicative of teachers' interest were purchased and presented during American Book Week to the Cranford Public Library to establish a memorial collection in the children's section.

President George White announced that members of the Cranford Teachers Association have chosen this plan to honor deceased educators who worked faithfully in various capacities with Cranford students.

Eva Rodimer's "The Year Outdoors," which stresses an understanding of North Jersey's nature through a full year, will recall interests of Mae Hice, who served from 1916 to 1936 administratively in Lincoln School.

F. H. Burnett's "Secret Garden" typifies the magic of finding friends, health and happiness indicative of stories Eunice Thompson read to her classes from 1923 to 1957 in the elementary grades.

Walcott, Platt and Rickett's "Wild Flowers of America" recalls Blanche Abrams' (1916-1952) interest in helping students of special classes and the junior grades appreciate the beauty of colors as she read in class or painted on canvas.

Wende and Harry Devlin's "Knobby Boys to the Rescue," recently written in nearby Mountain-side, brings back again the tales Dorothy Day Hall (1928-1954) shared with hundreds of primary youngsters she taught in Cleveland and Roosevelt Schools.

J. Diggin's "String, Straight Edge and Shadow" historically records patterns of reasoning the early educators used in mathematical problems just as Christina Rau Dill (1920-1923 and 1925-1956) endeavored to have her youngsters in the elementary and junior grades understand the academic program she offered them in Cleveland, Roosevelt and Sherman Schools.

J. Flexner's first volume of the new two-volume work, "George Washington," was added in honor of Patrick Morotta (1965-1966) who was anxious to have his students in Orange Avenue School understand our country's early experiences in world affairs.

Members of the executive board hope to continue this plan annually to develop a definite area in the central library facilities where children may borrow books along the interests of former teachers. The educators honored this year were chosen because of their most recept demise. Book plates were printed by Mrs. V. Gurewitz and inserted in each book presented.

Board President Cites Publicity On School Plans

Twenty-eight major articles relating to the Board of Education's $5.5 million school building program have appeared in the Cranford Citizen and Chronicle since June 2, it was reported today by Bernard Litwak, board president.

In answer to charges that the Board is not supplying information about the program to the public.

"We are striving in every way we know to inform the public about every aspect of this program," Mr. Litwak said. "We have tried to answer every question thrown at us. Every aspect of this program is an open book. We welcome every opportunity to tell our story."

Mr. Litwak said board members have agreed to speak before any and all organizations, have scheduled open houses so the public can inspect the schools involved in the program, and have provided information to all media willing to use it.

"In the coming weeks, a series of paid advertisements will attempt to outline what we are trying to do," Mr. Litwak said. "We also plan to publish a brochure which will be delivered to every home in the community by the Cranford Kiwanis Club. If anyone has ideas on how we can reach the public, we want to hear them. It is our earnest hope that every citizen will read this information and give it their most serious consideration."

H. Gerard Sutter

A high requiem mass was offered yesterday morning in St. Theresa's Church, Kenilworth, for H. Gerard (Jim) Sutter, 63, of 1065 E. Jersey St., Elizabeth, formerly of Cranford, who died Sunday in St. Elizabeth Hospital, Elizabeth, of a heart attack. Rev. Edward Hennessey, pastor, officiated and interment took place in the family plot in Payetteville, N. Y., where Mr. Sutter was born.

Bearers were Douglas Bailey, Thomas E. Powers, Walter D. Ramsey, Earl W. Way and Robert V. Hochreiner, long-time associates of Mr. Sutter on the Daily Journal, Elizabeth, from which he retired last year after 39 years service, and Charles M. Hay, publisher of the "Cranford Citizen and Chronicle."

Mr. Sutter attended Notre Dame Preparatory School and was graduated from Notre Dame University in 1925. Among his classmates were the Four Horsemen of football fame and Red Smith, sports columnist for the New York World Journal Tribune.

He worked briefly for a New York newspaper and the Newark Ledger before joining the Elizabeth Journal on July 18, 1926. He covered Cranford and Garwood for many years and later was assigned to Cranford and Kenilworth until he was named to the newspaper's county rewrite staff in 1938. He held the latter post until his retirement last December 1.

During this period, he covered almost every major news story in the Cranford-Garwood-Kenilworth area as well as elsewhere in the county and was a familiar figure at Township Committee, Board of Education and other public gatherings in Cranford for nearly three decades. Among his stories was the celebrated torch murder here in 1929. A quiet, methodical man, Mr. Sutter was known for his objective and accurate reporting.

Mr. Sutter resided in Cranford for more than 30 years, first in an apartment in Hayashi's Restaurant (where the post office is now located) and later at 13 Boyer Ave. He moved to Elizabeth in 1964. While here he was a communicant of St. Michael's Church.

FETED FOR LONG SERVICE—Scene at dinner last week honoring George L. Rosendale on retirement as captain in the Cranford Police Department after more than 43 years of service. Left to right in picture are: Detective Sgt. Michael F. Fedoroff, committee member; Patrolman Alfred V. Grickowski, committee co-chairman; Patrolman Gerard F. Haney, president of Cranford Local 52, PBA, presenting gift on behalf of local to guest of honor; Capt. Rosendale; Police Chief Lester W. Powell, and Patrolman William F. Crissey, master of ceremonies and committee co-chairman.

Rosendale Honored on Retirement After 43-Year Police Dept. Career

The story of the police career of Capt. George L. Rosendale, whose retirement became effective on September 2 on his 65th birthday anniversary, as told at a dinner in his honor attended by his fellow officers and other retired members at the Coach and Four Restaurant last week, also afforded a picture of growth in the Cranford Police Department over a 43-year period.

When Capt. Rosendale went on terminal leave last June 1 he was the oldest member of the department in age and service, and when he assumed his duties as a patrolman at the age of 21 on March 15, 1923, he was the department's youngest member.

At the time of his appointment the department consisted of 10 officers and a Model T Ford car, with most patrolling done on bicycles.

The men worked 11 hours a day and had only two days a month off duty. The department now has 42 regular officers working 40 hours a week, plus 25 school crossing guards and clerical personnel.

What type of Man are YOU?

YOU ARE AN ECTOMORPH... If you look younger than your years... If you prefer to be alone with your thoughts — even though you're no slouch on wit. And, most of all, you are if you're on the thin side.

YOU ARE AN ENDOMORPH... If you love food too much to diet... If you believe in lying down until the urge to exercise goes away. Great! But, it probably shows, and your clothes should help to make it look less obvious.

YOU ARE A MESOMORPH... If you love exercise... If you're not afraid to disagree with your boss. You are if you'd prefer to work on commissions instead of salary. Do you dress as a leader, too?

Whether you're an ectomorph, endomorph, mesomorph, or any combination of the three... you should be wearing the proper style that fits your build and your personality... and you'll find that style at John Franks. Here in one of New Jersey's largest independent men's clothing stores you'll find a superb collection of famous name men's suits and furnishings... and expert tailors to see you're properly fitted.

St. Michael's HSA Plans Panel Talks

Topics of Vital Interest to the People of St. Michael's is the agenda for a meeting of the Home School Association scheduled for 8:15 p.m. Monday, November 28, in the auditorium of St. Michael's School. Bernard T. Lyons will serve as moderator for a panel consisting of Sister Geraldine Marie, OSB, principal, and representatives from the faculty.

Dr. Henry Mineur, a parishioner and a member of the Board of Education, will talk about the township issues.

The association is sponsoring a New Year's Eve social beginning at 9:30 p.m. December 31 in the new gymnasium at the school. There will be dancing from 10 p.m. till 2 a.m.; plus, noisemakers, champagne toast, and a buffet supper. Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Schneider are in charge of tickets, which will be limited to 300.

Co-chairmen for the affair are Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry DeRosa. Decorations are by Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Squitieri and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Serzan, are tending to the refreshments.

Bellringers Oppose School Bond Referendum

The Bellringers for the Preservation of Suburban Cranford, who are currently engaged in a struggle to prevent construction of additional apartments in Cranford, announced this week that they will join forces with other organizations who are actively opposed to the Board of Education's single package $5.3 million school bond referendum.

Joseph Polli, chairman of the Bellringers, said his group is determined to bring every doorbell or telephone in Cranford to alert residents of the necessity of voting against the school bond referendum on December 8 in order to bring a stop to McDermith's demolition drive.

He said the Board of Education, which appears to be influenced by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Clark W. McDermith's "pie-in-the-sky" proposals, has called for demolition of two "seemingly structurally-sound schools" and also eight "beautiful private homes" on Holly St.

"We question the necessity of such outrageous destruction and also the wisdom of the school board's refusal to make public an itemized list of how the $5.3 million will be spent," Mr. Polli said.

"When the two new junior high schools were constructed about four years ago, taxpayers were assured that Cranford's educational buildings would be adequate indefinitely. Now the tax weary taxpayers are being urged to spend more of their shrinking dollars for something which they were assured would not be necessary to do for a very long time. When do we stop?" Mr. Polli asked.

within the Cranford school system. However, within the past three years the government has subsidized this program so that now the proceeds of the ball will be used for local and national charities covered by the club's philanthropic fund.

Charities supported by the club's fund include the First Aid Squad of Cranford, Cerebral Palsy Center, Youth Employment Service, United Fund, Harry W. Kohler Day Care Center, and camperships and Christmas gifts for indigent families living in cooperation with the Cranford Welfare Association.

School Plans
new 18-room schools would free one and a half rooms in the other six elementary schools so that all pupils would have more space for modern programs.

Dr. McDermith added that the proposal would provide greater opportunities for children on all parts of the educational spectrum, from the slowest learner to the fastest.

To a question of why such programs were needed, Mr. Christensen replied: "The demands of education are greater every year."

Fifty years ago it may have been all right to have large classes and a limited subject range, he said, but changes in society demand changes in education.

"A school built in 1913 is not made for modern education," he declared, insisting it "will save money in the long run" if the schools are built now.

(Notice was received by the board on Tuesday that a hearing will be held before the Local Government Board in Trenton at 11:30 a.m. next Tuesday.)

It was explained that as of December 8 the proposal would exceed the limit by $944,331 and would add $5.3 million to the existing debt of $6.8 million, although board members pointed out that the limit would not be exceeded as of January 1.

The added indebtedness makes quite a large amount for a town the size of Cranford," said Jean A. Montecourt of 26 Central Ave. Although agreeing improvements are necessary, he said, "I don't feel the board has demonstrated a real and urgent need" for the program proposed.

Fred Lund of 104 Columbia Ave. called the proposal "premature and misdirected" and voiced objections to what he called a "mass propaganda campaign" by the board to sell the program to the voters. Declaring that Cranford residents would be faced with added Social Security payments, a probable increase in income tax and more tolls on the parkway, he predicted the referendum would be voted down.

Both Mr. Montecourt and Mr. Lund received a round of applause from the audience.

What will happen if Mr. Lund's prediction proves correct when voters go to the polls on December 8?

According to board members, a new proposal could not be submitted for several months, possibly not before the summer. Legal restrictions involving upcoming school board and Primary Elections would prevent the board from offering another referendum at certain times before and after these elections.

Furthermore, it would take time for the new board members elected in February to become familiar with the problem and more time to prepare new cost estimates and take care of other details.

Should the proposal be defeated, board members said they would be forced to put the whole issue on the shelf for a while because their next problem is preparing next year's school budget.

leadership roles for better programs, better public understanding, and improved support of the public schools.

"This year Board of Education has done," Dr. McDermith said. The school superintendent pointed out that the building program is based on a comprehensive, five-year assessment of the school system prepared for the Board of Education by the staff. It deals with population, curriculum, personnel, plant and finances.

"We see enrollment in our school system stabilizing about 6,500 pupils with 3,500 in the elementary grades, 2,100 in the seventh through 10th grades, and 900 in the 11th and 12th grades," Dr. McDermith said.

Following Dr. McDermith's presentation, he and Robert Biunno, vice-president of the Board of Education, answered questions.

ple Sinai in Summit where he resided for 14 years. He now lives in Asbury Park. Prior to joining Multi-Amp, Mr. Gross was an officer in a company manufacturing the preservers for use by the Navy during the Korean conflict. He also served as general manager of a New England furniture chain.

Mr. Bergen reported that the past year has been a "healthy and productive year" for the chamber. He said negotiations for the acquisition by the township of parcels in the triangular lot in back of North Ave. are being consummated and that this parking lot should be completed in the near future.

He noted that two retail members, Barnett's and Robinson's, have recently undertaken extensive renovations and that a number of industrial members also have made additions to their local plants.

Mr. Bergen declared that the chamber's strength is based on the number of members it represents and reported that 39 new business, industrial and professional members were welcomed during the year.

He expressed thanks to all members and committees for their cooperation, and extended appreciation to Mrs. A. G. Cramer, executive secretary for her fine work as well as to Mr. Willoughby, who donates office space to the chamber.

Mr. Biunno said the five proposals are being submitted in one package because the Board of Education did not consider any one project more or less important than any other one. Asked what would happen in event of a defeat, Mr. Biunno said the board would "start all over" to assess the problem in light of the outcome of the referendum.

In response to queries as to the proposed site of Cleveland School, which would necessitate the razing of eight residences on Holly St., Dr. McDermith explained that the board desired to keep this school as near its present location as possible, but away from the heavy traffic of Springfield Ave. and away from the business center. He said the present two-acre Cleveland School property is too small to put up the proposed new building and that it also is too close to the business center and adjacent structures.

While the State Department of Education suggests at least 11 acres for the size elementary school proposed, the superintendent said when this size plot is not available the board has to settle for something less.

He admitted the Board of Education owns land but "not in the right location," adding that it is through with a plurality of nearby schools as near as possible to the homes of children they serve.

Another questioner drew attention to the fact that school officials objected to adding to the present high school six years ago, but now propose to put on an addition. Dr. McDermith said the board did not state that it "could" assert that the victory had been not "be done but advocated that it should not" be done in the best interests of education. He said the high school site would not support a three-year high school. The proposed small addition is to support the present two-year high school program.

In response to a question as to whether the board had studied the possibility of building a new three-year high school, Dr. McDermith said it had not.

John Pfeiffer, chairman of the Republican Citizens' Committee, who presided, declared that this "definitely has been a Republican year." He noted that of 21 municipalities in Union County, 15 went Republican and one — Kenilworth — split.

He said this was the result of a hard and united effort on the part of many. He also noted that "in spite of several untimely and unrelated issues," Cranford came through with a plurality of nearly 1,000 votes for its local GOP candidate, and he urged everyone to start working toward an even bigger victory next year.

Freeholder Harry V. Osborne, who was re-elected last week, expressed his thanks to members of the groups who worked in his behalf and reiterated Mr. Pfeiffer's assertion that the victory had been the result of a united effort.

The building plan also provides for a pre-kindergarten program for about 60 children: "from certain kinds of home and neighborhood environments who need up to a year of pre-kindergarten schooling to overcome handicaps related to their environment and to give them a better chance of achieving success and satisfaction throughout their school career and, therefore, throughout their lifetime," the school board president said.

ment our total is ahead of last year, but the residential area as a whole is only up to 75 percent."

"The problem is a simple matter of civic interest," Mr. Crane declared. "If each person who is willing to give says someone else this year can do all the work, we get exactly nowhere."

"Volunteers are badly needed in some of our best areas, and if we can't find individuals, some civic-minded group should take hold. The present unhappy state of affairs is intolerable, and Cranford will not accept this as the final answer."

Workers, captains and majors in all areas were urged by the chairman to complete their calls this weekend and turn in the remaining pledges at a special meeting to be held at the Municipal Building Monday night.

The names of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin K. Gustafson and the Horan Lumber & Coal Co. have been added to the list of Golden Givers who have pledged $100 or more to the United Fund.

Question Period
last year by the school staff indicates, Dr. McDermith reported, that while there may be a growth of only about 200 pupils, the schools will be doing more for pupils which will require additional space, additional personnel and additional financial support.

The pre-kindergarten program, expanding of the regular school curriculum, dealing with pupils with learning disabilities are among areas which will require more space and personnel.

The superintendent estimated the broadened program will require an estimated 58-60 more classrooms, of which 8 to 10 will be at the high school level, 20 at the junior high level and the balance in the elementary schools.

Dr. McDermith said the proposed bond issue would not resolve all the problems, that other schools would be adapted to the new program on a year to year basis.

He admitted that the board purposely was overbuilding at Cleveland and Sherman Schools and that students with special problems from other school districts in the township probably would be brought in to these new schools for special assistance.

Dr. McDermith said the proposed plan is the "most reasonable" solution, of many plans studied by the board and school staff.

Mr. Biunno said the five proposals are being submitted in one package because the Board of Education did not consider any one project more or less important than any other one. Asked what would happen in event of a defeat, Mr. Biunno said the board would "start all over" to assess the problem in light of the outcome of the referendum.

STUDENTS

6,240 students are enrolled in the Cranford public schools. They are what the school building and rehabilitation plans are all about.

The nine members of the Board of Education have been elected by the community at large to insure these students and their parents that they receive the best possible education within the limit of the town's ability to pay.

The Board of Education, like any sound business organization, must plan ahead. Twice — in 1962 and again in 1965 — the board asked the school staff to prepare five-year forecasts. Both reports indicate we are providing educational services and staffing that, to quote, are "of good quality" and "reasonably adequate." The school plant, however, is another matter both reports state:

"THE SCHOOL PLANT, IN TERMS OF TYPE AND AMOUNT OF SPACE, IS BARELY ADEQUATE TO CARRY THE PRESENT PROGRAM OF EDUCATIONAL SERVICES."

Education is changing its focus each day. Not only in Cranford, but throughout the nation and throughout the world. What was good enough yesterday, won't go today and is obsolete tomorrow. Parents need only to look at their own business — at computers, automation, mechanization — to realize the social and industrial revolution which is taking place in their lives every day.

It is for this new world of today and tomorrow — a world of scientific and technological development unprecedented in all history — that our proposed building program is geared. This is the world for which your Board of Education has been charged by you — the citizens of Cranford — with the responsibility for preparing your children.

When they graduate from the Cranford school system — whether they go to college . . . into industry or the armed services — they go into a competitive world . . . a world where they must make their way on an equal footing with the young people from Boston . . . Larchmont . . . Westfield . . . Summit . . . Shaker Heights . . . Waukegan . . . Minneapolis . . . San Diego.

To provide this kind of opportunity, we need a modern elementary program that provides more adequately for "the different needs and interests of individual pupils." This means programs for students with handicaps of all kinds, for slow learners, for academically talented, for those with learning difficulties of any kind.

To provide programs for our young people, space is required for library centers, individual learning centers, areas for individual and group instruction, work areas for special services personnel like psychologists and speech correctionists, and areas for teacher-pupil, teacher-parent, and teacher-specialist conferences. Few of these areas are now available in any of our eight elementary schools.

A modern elementary program also requires science centers and skills centers. In the science centers, young people will be provided direct experimentation which "greatly enhances and enriches their learning of science concepts, methods and facts." In this scientific age, is this too soon to begin these studies? Third through sixth graders will use the skills centers for "independent or small group study beyond that normally required in the typical classroom."

This is not a new curriculum. It is simply an extension and an expansion of our present curriculum. It is a curriculum similar to that now offered in most school systems in this area.

"THE SCHOOL PLANT, IN TERMS OF TYPE AND AMOUNT OF SPACE, IS BARELY ADEQUATE TO CARRY THE PRESENT PROGRAM OF EDUCATIONAL SERVICES."

The staff also has identified the need for a pre-kindergarten program for about 60 children "from certain kinds of home and neighborhood environments who need up to a year of pre-kindergarten schooling to overcome handicaps related to their environment and to give them a better chance of achieving success and satisfaction throughout their school career and, therefore, throughout their lifetime."

The children who will use these facilities are the "phantoms." They are the reason present facilities are inadequate and obsolete. They are the reason simply rehabilitating present facilities or adding to present buildings is not enough.

The "phantom" is the kid next door with a learning difficulty. Or the child up the street who is mentally-retarded. Or the kid around the corner who is a victim of polio. And that unusual kid who is an intellectual. These kids are real — very real and very important. They need very real help. And they need it now.

Every elementary student in Cranford will benefit from this building program, as these educational advantages will be made available in every school. This is why two new elementary schools are required.

The new Cleveland and Sherman Schools will replace the 24 classrooms in the present Cleveland and Sherman Schools, and will provide the equivalent of two additional classrooms in each of the other elementary schools. This will provide equal facilities and a common program in all the schools in our community.

"THE SCHOOL PLANT, IN TERMS OF TYPE AND AMOUNT OF SPACE, IS BARELY ADEQUATE TO CARRY THE PRESENT PROGRAM OF EDUCATIONAL SERVICES."

These facilities with all the space they provide will give future Boards of Education the flexibility they will need to meet the future — whatever it may be. No matter what direction education takes in the future, Cranford will be ready! We can do no less for our children.

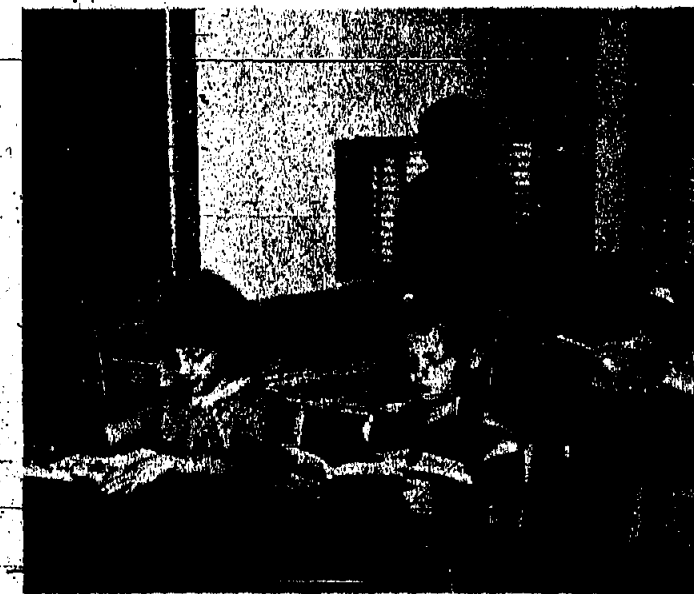

On the secondary level, broad-based educational programs are required to meet the diverse needs of young people. The most able and ambitious students need advance placement courses, which provide extensions in depth in fields of knowledge covered in the standard high school curriculum. These require science laboratories, student research rooms, and areas for pupil-teacher conferences.

A broad-based high school program requires work-study classes with well-trained coordinators.

Home arts and industrial arts majors are needed in a modern high school as an aid in retaining the potential drop out and to provide students with employment opportunities.

A modern high school program includes courses in probability and statistics, computer mathematics, sociology, government, world literature, advanced foreign languages, and advanced business subjects.

These programs require classrooms of varying sizes, lecture rooms, science laboratories, art rooms, and music rooms.

These are provided in the plans to rehabilitate, renovate, and expand our high school.

"THE SCHOOL PLANT, IN TERMS OF TYPE AND AMOUNT OF SPACE, IS BARELY ADEQUATE TO CARRY THE PRESENT PROGRAM OF EDUCATIONAL SERVICES."

Where do we stand today? We have 11 school buildings. Six are relatively new, and five are relatively obsolete. The five older buildings have a combined age of 215 years. Some have poor roofs and others have inadequate heating plants. Some lighting is bad.

These older buildings do not contain science and skill centers. There are few areas for conferences and for independent study. Libraries are too small. And no space is provided for speech correctionists and remedial reading instructors. The high school does not have a lecture hall, or sufficient music facilities, or a student research center, or enough science labs, or enough small classrooms for advanced courses. It's simply obsolete for the Space Age in which we are now living.

What your Board of Education is doing is presenting you with an opportunity to fix up the old buildings including the high school and to replace the two most obsolete schools with two new elementary schools.

The cost for the entire package is $5,300,000. The first payments will be due in 1969 with the maximum due in 1970. We estimate the cost at $42 additional in 1970 to the tax bill of the average homeowner.

The election on Thursday, December 8, is your opportunity to provide Cranford's 6,240 students and others to come in the future with the learning environment they need as they prepare to face life.

Letters to the Editor

6 Roselle Ave.
Cranford, N. J.
November 14, 1966

Dear Sir:
On November 22 the often postponed decision on an ordinance to establish an R-5 Zone (Garden Apartment Zone) in Cranford will be held. Commissioner Edward K. Gill, in many pre-election statements and in the Cranford Citizen and Chronicle, has explained the postponements by stating that he saw no compelling reasons for apartments at this time but wanted to study it further.

Our Planning Board seems to feel that apartments would be a good thing for the town. They base this on the assumption that apartments do not attract families with children. However, the location of the proposed R-5 Zone seems to indicate otherwise. It is situated next to the new and lovely Bloomingdale Avenue School. It is an easy walking distance to Orange Avenue Junior High. It is adjacent to playgrounds and ballfields. If the apartment developers are not able to attract enough childless couples — and bear in mind this project will have 178 units — I'm sure they will very quickly fill them up regardless. Investors are interested in a return on money invested, and in proving that the statistics put forth by the Planning Board are accurate. We hope our Township Committee will bear this in mind especially at a time when the Township's school situation is a major concern to all taxpayers.

Our Township Committee have received the petitions, have heard the arguments and have seen the overflow crowds at the public hearings opposing the apartment zone. If they do not feel that this is sufficient for them to cast a negative vote, we urge them to put it on a referendum and settle this matter to everyone's satisfaction.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Robert A. Grumder

Dear Sir:
It was with pleasure that I accepted an invitation from the Board of Education to attend a meeting, along with other PTA and PTO officers, to discuss the forthcoming referendum.

It was not with pleasure that I voiced my indignation concerning the deplorable conditions existing at Roosevelt School. Falling ceilings at Roosevelt School have been publicized, and most of us in the Roosevelt School area are aware of the condition of our school's roof over the auditorium. But how many parents of Roosevelt School pupils are familiar with the unsound state of some of the classroom ceilings and the roof over them? Not many, I find. This was first brought to my attention when my third grader informed me that bits of ceiling had fallen on and around him, and that on rainy days the class had to evacuate the room. This may be exciting to an 8-year-old, but I find the situation appalling. During rainy weather and following each weekend, the teacher must prod the ceiling to determine whether or not it will collapse before she allows her pupils to enter the room! There is also a considerable draft from this top floor ceiling about which even some of the children have complained. My sixth grader is also in a room that must be evacuated on rainy days because of a deteriorating ceiling.

Why are repairs as urgent as these incorporated in a referendum that will, in all probability, be defeated? How can a situation which endangers the safety of our school children be allowed to exist? The Board of Education is to be commended for the many months of time and study expended on this referendum, but nevertheless it seems evident that some of its members have adopted a "wait and see" attitude in reference to the above mentioned problem.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Daniel Swinton

Dear Sir,
It looks as though the time has finally arrived when we Cranfordians had better arouse our good old-fashioned American pioneer spirit. Let us start by forming an unbreakable circle of cooperation, much like the circle of wagon trains in time of attack.

The Board of Education, with their five million dollar expenditure and the Township Committee with its R-5 apartment house zone, are preparing a double barreled attack on our pocketbooks and suburban atmosphere.

By voting united, we can easily defeat any number of referendums on these two issues.

Remember, united we stand, divided we fall.
Let us begin by standing together at the Nov. 22nd Township meeting, when the final decision will be announced concerning the creation of an R-5 zone which would permit additional apartments to be constructed on Board of Education, Township and privately owned land adjacent to Bloomingdale School.

Yours truly,
John H. McCandless

Dear Sir:
The Board of Education's current proposal for a $3.3 million school building program has stirred a great deal of justified criticism and concern among town residents. With the school budget currently taking the major portion of every tax dollar, this referendum on December 8th is of the greatest importance. It is important because the referendum's outcome will largely dictate the future trend of local taxes, a prudent approach to educational needs and a matter of principle.

I have yet to talk to a resident who is not distressed by the continuing trend to higher taxes. The Township Committee has made a strenuous and partly successful effort to attract new industrial factories and at the same time reduce costs as a percentage of the total. However, no real dollar benefits are being achieved because the school board is using up these new resources faster than they are being developed. Make no mistake about it — your taxes will go up further if this referendum passes.

Mr. Litwack and his associates are making eloquent appeals for parental support on the grounds that if the referendum is defeated, we will no longer be an outstanding community. This is a matter of opinion. What they do not tell you is that if the current trend continues, present and potential home owners will be frightened away by high real estate taxes.

Many arguments why this referendum should be approved have been advanced. In marked contrast, most comments I have heard indicate the educational system of Cranford can be adequate with a far less elaborate program and that the board is wasting its sights too high. Realistically, more conservative additions and renovations could be made. However, the board has chosen to offer voters an all or none package instead of separating renovations from new construction.

The matter of principle involved is the question of displacing residents of Holly St. against their will. I would not like it to happen to me and I do not think most other residents of the town would either. Aside from this, there are questions of accessibility with St. Michael's School in the same immediate area, spoiling a nice part of town and a yet unanswered question of flooding possibilities in the Normandy Park section if the proposed area along Holly St. is to be graded and leveled for the new school. All this when there are open spaces still available in less congested areas!

All-in-all, voters would be well advised to vote "NO" on December 8th and let the school board think again. For the longer term, unless a slate of candidates for the school board can be found which is willing to hold a tighter rein on the purse strings this overall problem will remain with us in the future too! Cranford is a middle income community, those in public office should start acting and spending with a bit more regard for the taxpayers.

Yours truly,
Gerald P. Murphy

Appointment of a committee to study fallout shelters and make recommendations to the Township Committee as to specifications for both private and public shelters was announced by Mayor C. Van Chamberlin. Members included G. Holmes Williams, Civil Defense director; William Massarsky, also of the Civil Defense organization; Harry Spies, architect; Anthony Isaac, engineer, and F. J. The general lengthening of the life span and a corresponding improvement in health are accentuating the role of the elderly in our nation, state and community, remarked Mrs. C. G. Albury. Mrs. Albury was chairman of a meeting sponsored by the Senior Citizens Activities Committee of the Cranford Community Council organized to discuss part-time employment, housing and recreational needs of senior citizens.

Irving Adams was elected chairman of the new Cranford Committee on Open Housing. Also elected were Edward Tristram, vice-chairman; Mrs. Carl Flisk, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Boyd, recording secretary, and Rev. Dr. Albert Allinger, treasurer. The committee was formed to encourage integrated neighborhoods in Cranford.

One of Cranford's veteran municipal employees, Carl H. Warkinski, who had served as township attorney for 27 years, planned to resign at the end of the year. His announcement was expected to bring a flood of applications for the vacancy from local lawyers.

Public Affairs Commissioner Ira D. Dorian was boomed for the Assembly seat soon to be vacated by Congressman-elect Florence F. Dwyer, by Mayor Fred P. Six members of the Cranford Police Department including the class valedictorian were graduated from the Police Training Academy of the Union County Police Chiefs' Association in Roselle High School. Patrolman Robert Ryan, who was elected during the 10-week course by his classmates, delivered the valedictory address. Patrolman William F. Ground was broken on township-owned land in Lexington and Roosevelt Aves. for 20 prefabricated houses to provide temporary housing for local veterans. G. Nelson Kling, chairman of the Cranford Housing Committee, announced that Cranford was among the first to get an allotment of homes in the state and that work began within a week after voters approved an emergency housing bond issue.

Malcolm Johnson, attorney for a group of residents who filed a petition with the township clerk November 1 asking for a referendum on dividing the township into wards, planned to seek a court order to compel placing the question on the 1967 ballot. Mr. Johnson said the township attorney's decision that the petition did not comply with the law was in error.

As a highlight of the 75th anniversary program of the Cranford Methodist Church, the mortgage was to be burned symbolically at two Sunday services, canceling all church indebtedness.

Appointment of Peter J. Clark of 300 South Union Ave., veteran employee of the Cranford Post Office, as superintendent of mails was announced by Postmaster Arthur F. Metz. The position, which carried an annual base salary of $3,600, was new in the local office.

Striving toward a goal of $3,000, captains and workers had launched Cranford's annual Red Cross roll call drive. Edward Montonecourt was chairman.

Indications were that an additional Cranford Church would result from steps being taken by the Elizabeth Presbyterian in arranging for Sunday services for residents of the new housing development in the southwestern portion of the township in the Clipper homes and Sunny Acres sections. Donald K. Theobald, a senior at Princeton Theological Seminary was conducting worship services for persons in those sections at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rogers, 38 Munroe Dr.

Mrs. Harry E. Atwater, 82, a resident here since 1870, died at her home, 313 North Ave., E. Born in Ohio, she had lived in Brooklyn before coming to Cranford. Low was directing "The No. Count Boy" with a cast of Miss Madge Tallacero, Harry Folk, William Ferrelval and Mrs. John F. Fay.

Speaking on "Use of Leisure Time," Supervising Principal Howard R. Best told members of the VIA at their quarterly meeting at the home of Mrs. F. R. C. Whickler, 755 Willow St., that advances in scientific and mechanical lines were giving persons more leisure time, but that as a whole, it was not being used advantageously. His suggested solution was a planned recreation program.

Holidays Here — Help Spread Good Cheer

Would you believe — the year-end holidays already are upon us?

Yes, even though the weather of recent weeks has seemed more spring-like than "fallish," next Thursday will be Thanksgiving Day, and it will be followed inevitably by the annual feverish period of shopping and mailing of gifts and cards and other traditional holiday preparations and activities continuing right up to and through January 1 of the new year.

One sure sign of the start of the holiday season was the announcement this week by Mrs. Arthur G. Lennox, executive secretary of the Cranford Welfare Association, of plans for the association's annual distribution of Thanksgiving baskets and foodstuffs "so generously contributed by Cranford citizens for their less fortunate neighbors."

Many civic, church, scout and school organizations, as well as individuals, are participating in the association's Thanksgiving program, and between now and Christmas Mrs. Lennox also will be distributing more than 325 articles of new, warm clothing contributed in the annual Ingathering of the Cranford Branch of the Needlework Guild of America.

In her annual report last month, Mrs. Lennox revealed that relief costs for the past year totaled $8,888.33. Maintenance funds are supplied by the Cranford United Fund, which apportioned $8,289.86 to the Welfare Association for 1965-66.

The story of how supplemental funds and other donations by organizations and individuals help the association meet its basic costs and also carry out special projects to brighten the lives of less fortunate members of the community during the holidays was told in Mrs. Lennox's report as follows:

"Funds for supplemental help came from the Junior League of Elizabeth and Cranford, $1,900; the township of Cranford, $2,500; Lions' Club, $356, and church organizations, service clubs and many individual and personal gifts.

"Thanksgiving grocery donations from Cranford schools — Lincoln, Livingston Avenue, Walnut Avenue and Brookside Place — help with food costs. Brownie and scout troops also collect canned goods for our pantry shelf. Donations of used clothing and the Needlework Guild Ingathering with new articles of clothing, lower clothing expenses.

"Other projects of special nature such as bedding from the Wednesday Morning Club and camp pajamas from Calvary Lutheran Church Sewing Circle, plus the adoption of certain children or families for yearly care by organizations, supplement actual funds.

"The activities of the Christmas holidays were reported in our Christmas story. Forty-seven families were remembered by the many projects channeled through our office. Ninety-two children enjoyed Christmas parties given by the Lions Club, Jaycee-ettes, VFW Post 335 and Iota Xi Omega Fraternity of Union Junior College. Response to the 'Bank-Aids' in our December request for funds determines the extent of our services to those in distress at holiday time.

"Our community knows no bounds, no racial discrimination, when it comes to sharing at the holiday season."

There is still time for you to take a personal part in this worthwhile program and at the same time give a fuller meaning to your own celebration of Thanksgiving by making a special gift to the Cranford Welfare Association's holiday program for less fortunate families in the township. Thanksgiving contributions of foodstuffs and donations for baskets should be taken to the association's office in the Municipal Building before Tuesday. Donations of new and used clothing also are vitally needed and especially appreciated during the holiday season.

And your support of the Cranford United Fund will help assure continuance of the Welfare Association's good work during the coming year.

Action Needed to End Hazardous Traffic Conditions

As the township grows and traffic increases, it becomes necessary to impose more regulations for the safety of all.

At a recent Township Committee meeting, two communications were received suggesting that steps be taken to correct a hazardous condition at the intersection of Springfield Ave. and Riverside Dr. This long has been a dangerous intersection, partly because of the incline on Riverside Dr. up to Springfield Ave. and partly because vision is cut off by the bridge. Suggestion that Riverside Dr. be made one way from Springfield Ave. to Normandie Pl. warrants consideration.

And, as long as traffic surveys are being made, we suggest a study of conditions at North Ave. and Orchard St., which also constitutes a dangerous intersection, particularly during morning and evening rush hours. Some years ago a policeman was stationed at this intersection during the busy periods but this was discontinued.

While traffic lights may not be required at these two points, it is to be hoped that a traffic study will result in the elimination of the existing hazards and an improved traffic flow at both intersections.

Nature Notes

One of the recurring problems of bird watchers is the cat next door. Squirrels can be lured by an inverted funnel on the pole supporting the feeder and big birds like the pigeon can be discouraged by specially designed feeders, but cats are an ever-present challenge.

One reader says she isn't going to ground feed this winter because the cat next door had kittens not long ago and the whole family is on the prowl. They're all belled but bells don't ring when the wearer is lying in wait under the lilac bush. Eliminating ground feeding doesn't help a great deal though, because jays scatter seed around the base of the feeder while sorting out the sunflower seed.

Many of you have written me from time to time asking what to do about cats and asking that I not mention your name since the neighbors might be annoyed. Short of fencing in the entire yard, I don't know of any way to stop cats. As a matter of fact, we had a cat for years and the people next door to us have one now. Both of them stalked our feeding birds but they seemed to have little luck. Nor did they discourage birds at the feeder. For the most part the birds ignored them.

Then too, cats are only a minor factor in the destruction of birds. They are one of the natural controls nature has put into the universal system. If there were no control we'd be knee-deep in birds and there wouldn't be enough food to go around for them.

Many of these columns have been on the subject of robins. Once, a day in the life of a robin family was recounted and on another occasion the way in which robins locate worms was analyzed. The latest issue of the "Auk" has two accounts of robins. One concerns the mid-winter nesting of a pair in western Pennsylvania. The nest was located in Willow City and found to contain three eggs on January 4. It was built in the crook of a maple tree about seven feet above the ground. Some artificial icicles from the Christmas tree were woven into the outside of the structure. The eggs were incubated until January 30. Only after a heavy snow was the nest deserted.

The other note describes the use of telemetry to follow a robin's activities on a campus. (Continued on Page 3)

Cornerstone Ceremony Held For Science Building at UJC

This building attests to the continuing partnership between Union Junior College and Union County. Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, UJC president, said at a cornerstone laying ceremony last Thursday for the $1 million science building under construction on the UJC campus.

"What we do here today is representative of the viability of the thrust of this college and the significance to higher education in New Jersey," Dr. MacKay said. "It is a voucher of our commitment to quality education."

Dr. MacKay pointed out that a cornerstone is defined in Webster's as "a thing of fundamental importance." He said the science building is "a thing of fundamental importance" to Union Junior College and to higher education in New Jersey.

Freeholder Director Frank Cuchie, of Cranford, an alumnus of Union Junior College, congratulated the board of trustees and Dr. MacKay on making the science building a reality and on the continuing development of the college. Cranford Mayor Wesley Philo said Cranford is "so proud to have these facilities here."

Arne Hook of Rahway, president of the Student Council, welcomed the guests to the campus. He said the students are "looking forward to using these new facilities which are an additional chapter in the growth of our college."

Hugo B. Meyer of Summit, chairman of the board of trustees, presided. The benediction was by Dr. Gershon Chertoff, rabbi of Congregation Bnai Israel, Elizabeth, and a UJC trustee.

Mr. Meyer introduced Dr. Francis M. Hammond, regional representative of the Bureau of Higher Education of the U. S. Office of Education; Richard P. Muscatello of Elizabeth, president of the UJC Alumni Association; Robert C. Miller of the architectural firm of Elsassor & Miller of Union, and Walter Sellers of the Sellers Construction Co.

The cornerstone was laid by Dr. MacKay, Mr. Meyer, Prof. John Siburn, chairman of the biology department, and Mr. Hook, representing the trustees, administration, faculty and students of the college.

Included in the cornerstone was a piece of a mastodon tooth found on the campus site by Prof. Forrest P. Dexter, Jr., of Cranford, a geology instructor; red shale about two hundred million years old, a fossil found on the site by a golfer about 25,000 years ago, a golf ball found on the site representing the recent past when the site was the Nomahagan Golf Course, and a brick from the building representing the present.

The cornerstone also contained articles written by the late Prof. David G. Fables, Jr., who was one of New Jersey's leading naturalists and conservationists, and by Prof. Farris S. Swickhamer, chairman of the chemistry department, who is author of the "Nature notes" column published in the Citizen and Chronicle each week and another "For the Birds" which appears monthly in about 30 New Jersey newspapers.

Other items in the cornerstone include: Copies of local newspapers, the college catalog and brochures, the fund-raising brochures for the building, construction pictures, photographs of the ground breaking ceremonies, lists of science students, a list of all contributors to the Science Building Fund, and a copy of the grant of $307,000 provided for the project under the new Higher Education Facilities Act.

The science building, which is more than 50 percent complete, will contain five science laboratories and preparation rooms, six classrooms, student research center, science resource center, computer rooms, 14 faculty offices and two large lecture halls.

The structure will be New Jersey's first all air-conditioned, electrically-heated college building. It is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1967 and will be ready for use at the next summer session.

Dr. MacKay said the college expects to increase the size of the freshman class next year by 10 percent with the opening of the new building.

This does not mean that a spokesman could not be sent to a town meeting as an adviser or a commissioner to the Board of Education when there is an issue concerning the school. This certainly would eliminate many things that have snowballed into issues that have consumed the taxpayers' and councilmen's time and efforts.

As taxpayers we are deeply concerned with the school issue and I would appreciate if our commissioner and Board of Education members could clarify some facts and maybe make it easier for the taxpayers to understand some of their nonsensical actions.

1. The Board of Education has adopted a $5,300,000 bond issue to improve the schools and the school system which they say would increase property values and resale prices in a community like Cranford. Then why does the Township Committee want to change a lovely country-like residential area to an R-5 apartment zone decreasing our property value and resale?

2. Dr. McDermith's future plans include the expansion of Bloomingdale School to accommodate 600 students. Then why are certain members of the Township Committee persisting on adding greater burden on the taxpayers by placing a 178-family garden apartment directly adjacent to the school making still a greater future demand on the school and taxpayers?

3. As residents of the Bloomingdale School the land which is now being used as play area would be absorbed leaving our children without a play area. Then why does the Township Committee want the Board of Education to want the school property for the land across the street for private enterprise?

4. Years ago the Board of Education had the foresight to know that this land directly adjacent to the Bloomingdale School, which is now being considered for swapping, would someday be used in our school system. Then why does the Township Committee want the Board of Education to swap this land which they have held for years to private enterprise for a 178-family garden apartment which the town does not need?

5. This land in question was purchased by the taxpayers through referendum in 1961-62, with the sole intention that it would be used for Bloomingdale

CORNERSTONE RITES — Mayor Wesley N. Philo, Freeholder Director Frank Cuchie, a UJC alumnus; Hugo B. Meyer of Summit, chairman of the board of trustees; and Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, UJC president, left to right, place cornerstone for $1 million science building last Thursday. The ceremonies were held between showers with several hundred students and other guests on hand. The all air-conditioned, electrically-heated building is scheduled for opening in the summer of 1967.

School. Then why doesn't the Township Committee rescind the proposed ordinance or place the issue of changing a residential zone to apartment zone on referendum so that we the people may again decide what we want the town to do with the same land we purchased. Shall we use it for our school or the 178 families?

6. The Board of Education stated with the support of the new sales tax, increase in industrial developments, and the anticipated leveling off of the enrollment, all points to a good future financial picture for our town. Then why is the Township Committee trying to change a residential zone to apartment zone bringing in 178 families for these apartments will offer everything to encourage children. Can the Township Committee really say that these children would not disturb the anticipated leveling off of enrollment and distort this beautiful financial picture?

If we do not stop the apartments today we might find them extremely expensive tomorrow. Isn't it almost unbelievable that members of the Board of Education, of whom is a member of the Planning Board, doesn't know what is going on?

Cranfordites, wake up, don't become apathetic. Don't keep leaving it up to the next guy. We urge all residents to attend the Town Meeting on November 22 when the final vote will be taken on this issue.

Yours truly,

Mrs. Joseph Ackerman

UJC Professor a Plaintiff In Reapportionment Suit

Prof. Saul Orkin, chairman of the social sciences department of Union Junior College, is one of five plaintiffs in a suit filed last week challenging the constitutionality of the legislative reapportionment plan approved by New Jersey's voters on November 8.

Named as defendants were Secretary of State Robert J. Burkhardt, State Senate President John A. Lynch and Assembly Speaker Maurice V. Brady.

Joining Prof. Orkin as plaintiffs were: Former Assemblyman James M. McGowan, a UJC alumnus; Allen Durling, city editor of the Daily Journal; Elizabeth Nancy L. Kemper of Toms River; and Robert DeLazaro, a Daily Journal reporter.

The suit maintains that the reapportionment is unconstitutional on three grounds. It contends that there is unlawful under-representation for the districts of Union and Ocean Counties and that other districts are affected which compounds the disparity between population and representation; that various districts are malapportioned, resulting in cumulative disparity, which constitutes violation of the one-man, one-vote principle called for by the U. S. Supreme Court; that population deviations exceed those necessary to respect existing political subdivision boundary lines on a county-line basis; that a minimum percentage of the people of the state can elect a majority of the members of both houses; that the plan prohibits allocation of an odd number of assemblymen to any of the 15 legislative districts, regardless of population; that the reapportionment amendment was a political compromise rather than a rational reapportionment which should have been based more on population, and that the amendment creates a special classification for two Senate Districts (three and four) which establishes a separate procedure for senators in those districts.

In the second count, the plaintiffs attack the establishment of an apportionment commission consisting of 10 members who would be appointed by the chairmen of the two major political parties. The plaintiffs declare this is a conflict of interest, because the party chairman owe a duty to their party which conflicts with their duty to apportion on a non-partisan basis. They further charge that the provision for establishing the commission is void, because it is an unlawful delegation of legislative powers.

The third count contends the inclusion of an explanation of the reapportionment plan on the back of the sample ballot prevented a fair election and tainted the election to the extent that the principles of substantial justice and safeguards to a fair election and due process were violated.

Prof. Orkin and Mr. McGowan were delegates to the Constitutional Convention which drew up the reapportionment plan. Both opposed the plan at the convention.

The plaintiffs went ahead with the suit following the plan's rejection by Union County voters, although it was approved state-wide.

Detective Injured Chasing Suspect In Meter Looting

Detective Sgt. Michael F. Fedroff suffered an injury to tendons of his left hand requiring putting the hand in a cast when he fell while chasing one of two men arrested here last Thursday night on charges of larceny of coins from parking meters.

Alerted by a woman who reported seeing two men tampering with parking meters in the municipal parking lot on the South Ave. side of the Jersey Central Railroad station at 7:40 p.m., Patrolman John M. Timmons took into custody James Fitzgerald, 26, of Little Falls, but a second suspect escaped.

Capt. Matthew T. Haney, Sgt. Fedroff, Detective Thomas R. Benton and Patrolman Samuel W. Cymbaluk responded to a call for assistance, but the second suspect eluded them also.

While Sgt. Fedroff and Detective Benton were at the east side of the parking area they observed a man running down the bank toward High St. When Sgt. Fedroff jumped out of the police car to give chase, he fell and hit his hand on a parked vehicle. He was treated at the scene by Dr. James J. Daubert and then taken to Mulenberg Hospital, Plainfield.

At 11:30 p.m., Patrolman Harry W. Wilde and Andrew Sharo, while checking taxi stands and bus stops, took into custody Ralph J. Duesler, 29, of Harrison, near a bus stop at South and Walnut Aves.

Police Chief Lester W. Powell reported that Fitzgerald had $23.34 in coins on him and Duesler had $33.99 in coins in his possession when they were arrested.

They were released to await hearing in Municipal Court with bail set for Fitzgerald at $100 and for Duesler at $200.

National VFW Commander Brinkerhoff Dinner Speaker

Leslie M. Fry of Reno, Nev., commander-in-chief of the National Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be principal speaker at the testimonial dinner in honor of State VFW Commander Vincent L. Brinkerhoff of Cranford.

The event will take place Saturday, December 3, at the Robert Frost Hotel, Newark.

Mr. Fry, a Reno attorney, ascended the top rung of the 1,350,000 member veteran organization last August at the national convention in New York City.

State VFW Chief-of-Staff Willis C. Bird, also of Cranford, is general chairman. He has announced that invited guests include Mayor Wesley N. Philo, Public Safety Commissioner Edward K. Gill, Public Works Commissioner Charles G. Siegfried and Police Chief Lester W. Powell, all of Cranford.

A local husband and wife duo, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Butler, share the chairmanship of the ticket committee. A souvenir program book is planned.

Arthur R. Morin of Mount Holly, a former state VFW commander, will be master of ceremonies.

Action Asked On Intersection Traffic Control

Township Committee last week relayed two communications urging that "something be done" to improve the traffic situation at Springfield Ave. and Riverside Dr.

The Village Improvement Association suggested that one block of Riverside Dr. from Springfield Ave. be made one way, while Mrs. Francis J. Klimicki, 803 West End Pl., whose youngster was injured recently at the intersection, suggested that a traffic light be installed or that police be stationed at strategic locations along Springfield Ave. Both communications pointed out that the street is traveled by many school children and that the congestion at Springfield Ave. and Riverside Dr. constitutes a dangerous situation.

Mayor Wesley N. Philo, who presided, said Finance Commissioner Malcolm S. Pringle will present the township's current financial picture, including anticipated new rates, projected tax rates and other information, at a public meeting on November 29 in the Municipal Building. The mayor said the information should be of value to all residents in light of the forthcoming referendum on the school bond issue.

A resident of Manor Ave. complained that only two leaf collections had been made in his area during the past five weeks. Public Works Commissioner Charles G. Siegfried said the leaf collection work had been slowed down by inclement weather but that PW employees worked election day, Veterans' Day and Saturday to endeavor to get back on schedule. The commissioner said his department is trying to get to every area in the township about every eight to 10 days.

Municipal Court Clerk Harold H. Linnell was granted sick leave to November 28 and announcement was made that former Township Treasurer D. J. Croft had entered the hospital again last Wednesday.

The acting township treasurer was authorized to purchase $100,000 in Treasury Bills maturing in 1967 from current township funds and $50,000 from the swim pool account. Finance Commissioner Pringle explained that these are renewals of Treasury Bills in line with the township's policy of keeping surplus funds invested at highest interest rates.

Kenneth A. McGrath, 3 Normandis Pl., said the Municipal Swimming Pool is an expensive thing for the 8,000 township families who use it.

He suggested that the annual fee be increased so that the pool could pay something to the municipality for the use of the land, as well as police and fire protection and for other services for which all residents presently foot the bill.

Announcement was received of a public hearing November 28 at the Public Utility Commission office, Newark, on the application of Villani Bus Co. to discontinue service for the transportation of Humble Oil & Refining Co. workers from Cranford to the Linden plant.

Police Capt. Ralph J. Koury, who is a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Academy in Washington, D. C., received a personal letter of congratulation from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover on his recent promotion to his present rank in the Cranford Police Department.

"This action," the FBI director wrote, "is indicative of the high esteem in which you are held, and my associates and I want to wish you every possible success."

Capt. Koury also received a special commendation from Director Hoover at the time of his graduation from the FBI National Academy.

Rotary Fellowship Winner Tells of Oxford Experience

Robert K. Hornby of Scotch Plains related to the Cranford Rotary Club his experiences as a fellowship winner as the feature of the Rotary Foundation's 50th Anniversary Week. He spoke at the club's luncheon meeting at Marisa's Restaurant last Thursday.

The speaker was introduced by Albert Palermo of the Linden Rotary Club, who is a member of the district's Rotary Foundation committee, and the program was arranged by Henry Fell of the Cranford Club.

Prior to winning his fellowship, Mr. Hornby graduated from Princeton University and Columbia Law School. His Rotary Fellowship in 1938 led him to spend a second year at Oxford to earn another degree. He also served two years in the army artillery as a first lieutenant. At present he is associated with a Somerville law firm, having passed his bar examination in 1935.

The speaker said there were several Rotary Fellows at Oxford during his stay, and that one of them was a native of North Korea whose family fled to the south and finally to Pusan, where he got a job as a UN interpreter. An American paid his way through Georgetown University and then obtained his Rotary Foundation Fellowship.

Mr. Hornby said he felt that the Rotary type of fellowship reached people that were frequently in need, while the Rhodes or Fulbright Scholarships more often were awarded to students from more prosperous circles. He said, however, that the one-year awards were too short to permit obtaining advanced degrees, which was why he continued a second year on his own.

He said that Oxford and Cambridge were somewhat of an anticlimax after his Princeton years, but that the British people were exceedingly friendly and helpful and wished that American Rotarians would devote as much attention to foreign students in the United States.

He was assigned to visit 14 clubs in Kent during his vacation. He found the clubs more formal in their meetings but just as gracious as their American counterparts.

The meeting was conducted by club president Horace K. Corbin, Jr., who thanked the speaker for his talk.

Retired Man Keeps Busy As Artist

Martin F. Norr of 3 Cherokee Rd. retired four years ago from his job as instrument technician with Bayway Refinery, but for him retirement did not mean a life of inactivity — it gave him a chance to develop his talents as an artist.

Mr. Norr took an interest in art at an early age, but it was not until six years ago when he joined the Cranford Creative Art Group that he was able to develop his latent talent. Now the group's vice-president, he has exhibited his work in a number of shows, including a one-man show at a local bank and an exhibit at a hotel. He has sold a few paintings as a result of these showings.

Since his retirement he has been able to devote full time to painting and sketching in his basement studio. He gets material for his work from a variety of sources. Sometimes he drives off into the country looking for old houses or barns, and other times he reads books on folklore and mythology.

The local man also keeps busy around the house. He designed paneling for the living room fireplace and developed a patio area and frequently works in the yard.

As for Mrs. Norr, she too likes to keep her hands busy. While her husband is at work painting, she is busy refinishing antiques and reweaving the cane seats of old chairs.

Miss Walsh Director For Regional Senior Play

Miss Isabelle Walsh of Cranford is directing the senior class play, "Mister Peepers," tomorrow and Saturday at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark.

The local resident is a graduate of Chestnut Hill College, Philadelphia, where she was active in dramatic and vocal music groups. She has begun working toward a master's degree in theatre arts at Newark State College, Union, and currently is an active member of the Cranford Dramatic Club. Miss Walsh traveled extensively last year as a stewardess for Pan American World Airways.

Happy-Go-Lucky Traveler Home After Hitchhiking Across Europe

By CAROL BUNCK

Always dreamed of seeing Europe? Don't be discouraged if your bankroll is on the small side because all it takes is a spirit of adventure and skill in the art of hitchhiking a ride. At least that's all it took for 26-year-old David Beach of 214 Columbia Ave., who returned October 9 after thumbing his way across the continent for 13 months.

David, son of Mrs. Albert F. Beach, Jr. and the late Mr. Beach, started out with only a small pack over his shoulders. By day he hopped trains and buses and hitchhiked rides, and by night he slept in parks, tourist hotels or any place he could find with a roof over it. Although his accommodations were not exactly deluxe, he saw as many sights as the most sophisticated society tourist, visiting 23 European and Near Eastern countries. Among other activities, he rummaged through the ruins of ancient Greece, swam in the Dead Sea, drove through a scorching Israeli desert and sunned himself on the Italian Riviera.

The local traveler set his sights on a European trip after meeting Bob Kowalewski of Glasgow, Scotland. He admitted he was "scared green" about leaving for foreign shores entirely on his own. "I felt completely isolated," he said. But it didn't take him long to make friends with some fellow travelers he met along the way.

In France he encountered a friendly Dane, John Rasmussen, who conveniently was equipped with a car. David offered to pay 50 percent of the traveling expenses, and the two of them drove off together. David said he had expected to head for Africa but somehow ended up in Italy.

After stops in Nice, Venice and Milan and a visit to the Riviera, David and John traveled a rather bumpy road to Yugoslavia. In fact, the roads were so bumpy that the car's gas tank sprang a leak, and they found themselves stranded "out in nowhere" with the car coughing and sputtering.

As if that weren't enough, they discovered their passports only allowed them three days in the country.

Wondering how they could ever make it to the border in time, David and John limped into a nearby town, had the car fixed and then went to the authorities to see about getting an extension.

What they got was the "third degree." "There were questions and questions and questions," said David. "They wanted to know where we'd been, where we were going, and what my grandmother's middle initial was."

Fortunately the ordeal was not in vain, for the Yugoslav officials finally granted the two Westerners an extension. As for the car, they said it for $240.

Then it was on to Greece, where the two travelers took rooms in a tourist hotel for 50 cents a night. In spite of such economical accommodations, John ran out of money and had to give up his travels until he could replenish his wallet.

David resumed his journey by himself, but he was not to travel alone for long. In Athens he teamed up with Ken Hall of Winnipeg, Canada, and Carry Riddle of Beaver Falls, Pa., and the trio made the rounds of the sights in Greece, visiting Delphi, Corinth and Cyete. One rather unexpected sight they came upon was a cave on a cliff of the Mediterranean Sea, where a beatnik from Brooklyn was writing a book.

In Jordan they encountered Towjikas-sayed, an Arab artist who bought them food and drink and acted as a guide. It turned out, however, that their new friend had an ulterior motive. It seemed he had more than a friendly interest in young Carry since Western girls are rare in Arab country.

"We realized he was a phony so I told him she was my fiancée," said David. But the Arab, not to be put off so easily, demanded that the Westerners repay him for the food he had bought them. Carry herself finally told him off, and they were rid of him at last, David related.

Their next destination was Israel. Carry, who had plane reservations, flew off by herself, and David and Ken, in need of some cash, wound up working on an Israeli communal farm. For two months David loaded bananas and watered avocado trees, and Ken picked oranges and grapefruit — all for a salary of $8 plus an additional $17.

After selling blood for another $17 each, they hopped a bus to Beersheba, the gateway to the Negev Desert. Unfortunately, for David it turned out to be a fateful way for thieves. While he was sleeping in a park, someone stole his pack, which contained a diary, a third of his clothes and two pairs of contact lenses.

David's enthusiasm was somewhat dampened by this incident, but nevertheless he was soon ready to travel on. He and Ken took a bus ride through the Negev Desert to the Gulf of Eilat, where the temperature soared to 120 degrees. Next, they boarded a ship for Italy and in Rome parted company, Ken leaving to visit Vienna.

In Copenhagen, Denmark, David met Sharon Wilson of Linden, a girl he had dated in the States, and together they toured parts of Sweden, Germany, Poland, France, Holland and Spain.

One of the more interesting stops on their itinerary was East Germany. Arriving in the port of Sassnitz, they were greeted by torpedo boats and soldiers with machine guns, and in East Berlin they found the streets lined with Russian soldiers, who David said "dressed like 'bums' in dirty, wrinkled uniforms."

East Berlin itself was equally depressing. David passed empty areas which had never been built up after World War II, saw carts being pulled by horses and came upon buildings with walls caved in. At one boulevard he saw some painters sprucing up a "Get the U. S. Out of Vietnam" sign in preparation for an anti-American demonstration.

Getting into East Germany was easy, David revealed, but getting out was another matter. He and Sharon had to undergo a rigid process of passport checks and re-checks and careful baggage inspection because, according to David, the East Germans are constantly on the lookout for smuggled guns, cigarettes and chocolate.

Once out of the Communist country and over the canal to West Berlin, David and Sharon were in another world. In contrast to the drabness of East Berlin, the Western sector was alive with building activity, cars and well-dressed pedestrians. David called it "one of the most dynamic cities I have ever seen."

After leaving Germany, David and Sharon hitchhiked through Holland and Belgium and then arrived in Paris, where they found themselves down to their last dollar. Until they could have money sent from home, they had to subsist on stale bread.

By the time they reached Spain, David was in a weakened condition, having dropped from 165 to 142 pounds since leaving the United States. He finally caught a plane from Amsterdam, Holland, and flew home.

What did he think of European hospitality?

In general, the people in small, out-of-the-way towns were the friendliest and the most impressed by Americans. "They have nothing but they'll give you everything," David explained. He mentioned one benefactor he met who bought him a steak, paid for a room and then "disappeared like the Lone Ranger."

In tourist towns like Rome, Copenhagen and Paris, however, Americans are "nothing special," said David, adding that the French are particularly snooty to foreigners who "don't speak French."

He said he could get by in most places with German and English, but not in France because "the French turn their noses up at you if you don't speak French."

Jordan he described as a "very good country for hitchhiking," one where drivers of even the most crowded cars will pick up hitchhikers. Belgium he found to be "ugly and bland," Italy "much cleaner and more prosperous than I imagined" and Great Britain much less prosperous than he thought.

Holland is the best country for demonstrations," he said, explaining that American policy in Vietnam is very unpopular in many European ports. Several persons he met spoke glowingly of the late President Kennedy but seemed not to think too highly of President Johnson because of his Vietnam policy.

Asked about con men who take advantage of American tourists, David replied that the only real trouble he had was the theft of his pack. He admitted he became "slightly paranoid" after this incident, becoming unusually wary of strangers. He carried a knife at all times and slept with his wallet in his sleeping bag.

He also encountered some trouble in Spain, where he said "you have to be on the alert because the taxi drivers try to pull fast ones."

David, a 1958 graduate of Cranford High School who holds degrees from Union Junior College and Rutgers University, where he majoring in economics, plans to attend graduate school next fall. Does this mean his traveling days are over?

Not if he can help it. He would like to arrange to tour South America in the spring with his Scottish friend, Bob Kowalewski, who is due to arrive in Cranford in a few weeks.

To a question about what he learned from his European adventure, David replied with a simple but true fact of nature: "To exist, all you need is food and a place to sleep."

Ridolfo Appointed To Board

KENILWORTH — Joseph T. Ridolfo, who fell two votes short of victory when he ran for the Board of Education in February, was appointed to the school board on Monday night to fill the vacancy created by the death last month of George D. Conklin.

Mr. Ridolfo, who lives at 524 Richfield Ave., was appointed to a term expiring in February. A Kenilworth resident for 12 years, he was chairman of the business division of the borough's March of Dimes drive last year and is a member of the local Lions Club. He is a general foreman with American Plaster, Linden.

Board President Charles Lennon said he would wait until the new appointee was more familiar with board procedure before assigning him to a committee.

A moment of silence was observed in memory of Mr. Conklin, and a resolution passed a few days after his death on October 20, expressing the board's "profound sorrow" was read.

The board accepted "with regret" the resignation of Mrs. Carol Graddock, a fifth grade teacher who is moving to New York State, where her husband has business interests. Her resignation will be effective December 31.

Approved as a substitute for the 1966-67 school term was Miss Anne Micko of Cranford, a graduate of Douglass College, New Brunswick. The following purchases were authorized: Educational materials under Title III, $1,896; one Gestetner mimeograph machine, $622.50; one standard typewriter, cost not to exceed $265, and one set of the New Book of Knowledge, $129.67.

Resolutions were passed authorizing the board secretary to pay Edward Kramlick $200 for grading the Harding School play area and $80 to power rake the area.

Bids for snow removal were referred to committee for study.

Fight Continues Over Plan To Subdivide Ken Acres

KENILWORTH — Protests are continuing to mount over plans to subdivide Ken Acres into five tracts for industrial development. Residents who live near the 5½-acre plot in the first district took their complaints Wednesday night to Mayor William Ahern, Jr., Borough Council and the Planning Board and then on Monday held a meeting at Union Baptist Church, where plans were mapped to defeat the proposal.

The residents and the two organizations representing them, the Community Action Committee and the Kenilworth Branch of the NAACP, told municipal officials they fear a subdivision of the property would result in the construction of five factories on the land and that this would add to noise, smoke and fumes coming from existing factories in the area. Their proposal would be to use the tract for recreational purposes.

The subdivision application was filed by Halruth Construction Co., who in 1963 bought the land from the borough for $80,000 as one parcel. It was zoned for light industry and research development and thus cannot be turned into a recreational area unless the borough repurchases it.

Mayor Ahern said the council can control the type of industry that locates in the area and pointed out that legal action had already been started against one company for creating too much noise. He promised that any plant moving in would be controlled.

The residents, however, were not satisfied with such a solution. Harold Burwell, president of the Youth Program Criticized; Call Made for Supervisors

KENILWORTH — The borough's recreational program came under attack last Wednesday at a meeting of Borough Council. The mother of a teenaged son charged that Kenilworth was not operating an adequate recreational program for young people at the Community Center.

Councilman Peter S. Patuto explained to her, that the program had once been large and successful but had deteriorated because of a number of rowdies who had driven away the better behaved youngsters, "despite the borough's efforts to discipline the activities."

The only answer, said the councilman, would be a turnout of volunteer adult supervisors. Mayor William J. Ahern, Jr., agreeing with Mr. Patuto, requested adults to offer their services. Councilman Patuto pointed out the center was being used extensively for adult recreation and other recreational purposes.

In answer to a request by St. Theresa's Parochial School for medical services for pupils, Mr. Patuto said borough attorney must decide on the legality of the action before the council can make any decision.

Richard Fox was appointed to an unexpired term on the recreation committee. The term ends December 1967.

Mayor Ahern read a letter from Henry W. Decker, mayor of Roselle Park, thanking the borough's Fire Department and First Aid Squad for assistance during the fire that damaged Roselle Park's business district on October 30.

Hope to Use New Church On Dec. 24

KENILWORTH — If plans go according to schedule, the new St. Theresa's Church should be completed in time for the celebration of midnight mass on Christmas Eve. Rev. Edward D. Hennessey, pastor, announced this week.

Construction of the new building, located at N. 23rd St. and Washington Ave., began in March, 1965, as part of a $1,250,000 building program. The program includes a two-story rectory, which like the church, is of red brick in matching modern design.

Features of the rectangular church edifice include a 45-foot-high chancel, a marble altar and sanctuary and terrazzo flooring. It will seat 1,000, including 80 in the choir loft. There will be three front entrances with arched metal doors.

Prof. Renard Pancroni of Dumont is in charge of the art work, which includes a mosaic background for the altar, a 10-foot crucifix of unique modern design and stations of the cross.

The new building will help accommodate the increased membership of the church, which from 1952 to the present jumped from 800 families to 1,600. Parishioners now worship in the old Columbus Hall on Washington Ave., which in 1942 was purchased and renovated into a mission chapel.

Although parish priests will bless the church before it is used, formal dedication will not take place until March 11.

"The writer cannot see where the State or the PUC has the right to lower real estate values in Garwood and at the same time increase or maintain values in other communities. What are they trying to do — make Garwood a second-class community? I have lived in Garwood all my life and the record will show that I have given some of myself in helping this borough grow and because I like Garwood I hope the governing body will do everything possible within legal means, and the courts, to correct what I consider to be a grave mistake.

"There are a few other thoughts I have in mind:

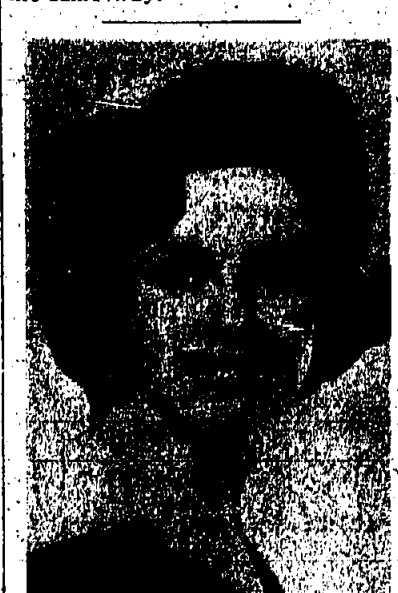

"1. If Garwood is to become a second-class community then I think we should ask for a reduction in assessment on our taxes.

"2. I think it is unfair that the State Government subsidize the Jersey Central Railroad with only portion of Garwood's tax dollar, without receiving a direct benefit from same.

"Please consult the borough attorney on what legal steps can be taken to correct this injustice to the people of Garwood.

"Please let me point out that this is the first letter I have ever written to a governing body and I regret that this one is necessary, but I feel very strongly about the importance of this problem and I am sure many other residents feel the same way."

Letters to the Editor

Kenilworth, N. J.
November 14, 1966

Dear Sir:

My sincerest expression of thanks and supreme appreciation to voters of Kenilworth for giving me the opportunity to serve on Borough Council. Words are inadequate to express my feelings of thanks but through devoted service as a councilman I know you will realize my sincerity.

The enthusiastic rallying and undivided constant effort of all of you working on my behalf has provided security to the Republican Party in Kenilworth and a strong basis for growth.

May this be the beginning of unified bi-partisan community effort in all areas of municipal government.

My goals can only be achieved through your continuous support and I will endeavor to keep you well informed of Borough Council.

Sincerely,

Thank you all again for your efforts on my behalf, and in this respect applied by Calvin Coolidge may we persevere. "Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not. Radio Jamboree at the Union County Amateur Radio Association headquarters at Washington School, Roselle.

The 2½-hour operation enabled scouts to chat with distant colleagues by means of short wave amateur radio. Many contacts were made with scouts on the East Coast and in the Midwest. Ottawa, Canada, and New Brunswick, N. J., were focal points of the contact.

KENILWORTH — Regina C. Cardella, 33, of 67 Park Dr., had her driver's license suspended for 30 days beginning October 30 under the 60/70 excessive speed program. It was reported by June Strelecki, director of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

In the next 5-10 years, medical leaders estimate, the nation will need 70,000 more doctors, 130,000 more professional nurses, 125,000 more practical nurses, 138,000 more medical technologists, 22,000 more dietitians and 18,000 more medical social workers — to cite just a few of the 700-odd career possibilities in the health field. Ask the Union County Health Association for information about job and training opportunities for health careers.

"The writer cannot see where the State or the PUC has the right to lower real estate values in Garwood and at the same time increase or maintain values in other communities. What are they trying to do — make Garwood a second-class community? I have lived in Garwood all my life and the record will show that I have given some of myself in helping this borough grow and because I like Garwood I hope the governing body will do everything possible within legal means, and the courts, to correct what I consider to be a grave mistake.

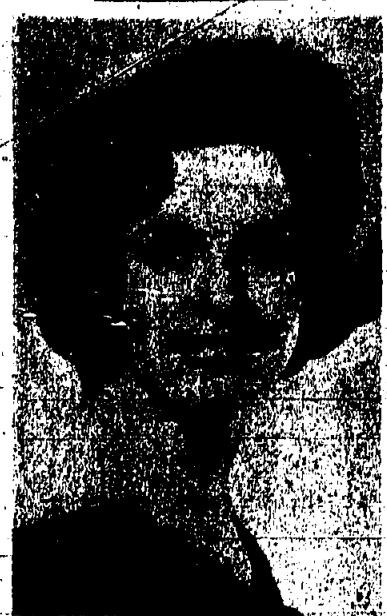

"There are a few other thoughts I have in mind:

"1. If Garwood is to become a second-class community then I think we should ask for a reduction in assessment on our taxes.

"2. I think it is unfair that the State Government subsidize the Jersey Central Railroad with only portion of Garwood's tax dollar, without receiving a direct benefit from same.

"Please consult the borough attorney on what legal steps can be taken to correct this injustice to the people of Garwood.

"Please let me point out that this is the first letter I have ever written to a governing body and I regret that this one is necessary, but I feel very strongly about the

Letters to the Editor

Kenilworth, N. J.
November 14, 1966

Dear Sir:
My sincerest expression of thanks and supreme appreciation to voters of Kenilworth for giving me the opportunity to serve on Borough Council. Words are inadequate to express my feelings of thanks but through devoted service as a councilman I know you will realize my sincerity.

The enthusiastic rallying and undivided constant effort of all of you working on my behalf has provided security to the Republican Party in Kenilworth and a strong basis for growth.

May this be the beginning of unified bi-partisan community effort in all areas of municipal government.

My goals can only be achieved through your continuous support and I will endeavor to keep you well informed of Borough Council.

cl's activities, welcoming discussion of civic problems and constructive ideas, for better methods of community programming from all residents of the Borough.

Thank you all again for your efforts on my behalf, and in this respect applied by Calvin Coolidge may we persevere. "Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not. Genius will not. Education will not. Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent. The slogan 'Press on!' has solved and always will solve the problems of the human race."

May God grant me wisdom and strength in carrying out my objectives.

Maxim Berzins Celebrate Their 50th Anniversary

KENILWORTH — Former Mayor Maxim J. Berzins and Mrs. Berzins of 17 N. 22nd St. celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, November 6, at an anniversary mass in St. Theresa's Church. A dinner party followed at Holiday Inn.

Hosts at the party were the couple's two sons, Walter Berzins of Westwood and Edward Berzins of Elizabeth. Rev. Edward D. Hennessy, pastor of St. Theresa's, attended and read a congratulatory telegram from Archbishop Thomas A. Boland of Newark and presented a blessing from Pope Paul VI.

Mr. Berzins, who was mayor of Kenilworth for seven years during the 1940's, retired eight years ago from the Standard Oil Bayway Refinery, where he had been employed for 40 years. He was a supervisor.

Also in attendance were two brothers-in-law and sisters of Mrs. Berzins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kisly of Newark and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Bozar of Roselle Park. Both couples marked their golden wedding anniversaries during the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Berzins were married November 8, 1916, in St. Adalbert's Church, Elizabeth. They have four grandchildren.

State Rests Case in 2nd Trial of Accused Murderer

KENILWORTH — The state rested its case Monday against Marvin Mathis of Union, who is alleged to have murdered Stanley J. Caswell, North Plainfield insurance agent, in Kenilworth on February 12, 1965. Motions of acquittal by the defense were denied.

This is the second trial for Mathis, and the state is again seeking the death penalty. The first trial was ruled invalid by the State Supreme Court on the grounds that the prosecution did not follow the judge's instructions in some areas of cross examination. The inference that Mathis was likely to commit a crime because he had no visible means of support was ruled improper.

The charged body of the 42-year-old Caswell was found by Kenilworth Fire Chief Dominick Trippi, then a sergeant, when he was called to "extinguish" a fire in the victim's red Renault car at the foot of N. Eighth St. Bullets were later removed at an autopsy by Dr. John K. Donahue, then assistant county medical examiner.

Both the local fire chief and Kenilworth Police Lt. Joseph DiMario testified at the trial, which is being conducted at the courthouse in Elizabeth. Lt. DiMario, who was called to the scene to investigate, said he found a debit book, a billfold and a leather photo container in the car but was unable to obtain fingerprints because of the condition of the smoldering car.

Mathis, 30, is accused of shooting Caswell after "attempting" to rob him and then taking the body to the county park, where he allegedly set the car on fire with the body inside it.

Robert McDonough, chief defense counsel, told the jury of seven men and seven women he will contend that the defendant was in the neighborhood at the time of the crime but was there to visit his father and, never saw, the victim. Defense witnesses started taking the stand on Tuesday.

The judge is Chester A. Weidenbuer of the Superior Court, who also presided at the initial trial in May, in which Mathis was convicted and sentenced to death.

Rotary Club Told Story of Moving, Storage Business

GARWOOD — Henry P. Townsend, president of the Henry P. Townsend Moving and Storage Co. of Westfield, was principal speaker at the Garwood Rotary Club meeting held on Monday at the Cranford, N. J., hotel.

Mr. Townsend related how he spent his boyhood days working in stores in Westfield until he was able to purchase his own horse and wagon to operate an express and baggage business in 1916. The business consisted of hauling freight from the local railroad depot to the various stores and factories.

From horse and wagon, business improved until in 1924 heavy duty trucks began to replace the horse. By 1929, the last team of horses was traded as down payment on a moving van. From this point on, the trucks and moving vans enabled Mr. Townsend to serve the neighboring areas.

Mr. Townsend now operates 57 pieces of equipment in commercial and household moving, and operates warehouses in Westfield, Roselle, Port Elizabeth and Port Newark. He is the father of 11 children, and five of his sons are affiliated with the moving and storage company.

Police Chief Fred Falzone, Garwood, was also present to thank the club members for the plaque received by him on Saturday. The plaque, presented by President Justin Brenner, was to commemorate 25 years of service to Garwood by Chief Falzone.

Oldest Professional Scouter Marks Birthday Anniversary

Clarence W. Hadden, father of Mrs. Robert P. Ferguson of 1 Lenox Ave., celebrated his 91st birthday anniversary last Friday at Ashbrook Nursing Home, Scotch Plains, where he has been for the past six months.

The oldest living professional scout in the country, Mr. Hadden recently received his 55-year veteran card and lapel button from the National Council, Boy Scouts of America. The scout movement is 56 years old.

Mr. Hadden retired in 1940 as scout executive in Minneapolis, Minn.

A native of Elizabeth, he is a descendant of the Crane families who were early settlers in Newark and Elizabeth. He had made his home with his son-in-law and daughter here for the past eight years.

Mr. Hadden is a charter member of the Senior Citizens' Club of Cranford and served as secretary for three years, a member of the Westfield Old Guard and editor of their bulletin for eight years, and a member of the Congregational Church of Westfield.

He is a graduate of Beloit College, Wis., with the class of 1901. He attended the 60th reunion of his class. He also attended Chicago Theological Seminary and planned to enter the ministry but decided instead to go into scouting.

While residing here, his hobby was canning chairs and many local families had chairs restored because of his interest in this field.

Encouragement Important, Parents of Freshmen Told

Parents who have young people in a commuter college have an important role to play in providing encouragement and understanding, Robert Biunno, director of admissions of the Newark College of Rutgers, the State University, told parents at the annual Freshman Parent Day at Union Junior College.

Mr. Biunno told the parents their young people should try to get the broadest education possible, and he described the two-year program at Union Junior College as being equivalent to the general program in any good liberal arts college.

The junior college is playing a tremendous role in higher education in America, and Union Junior College is playing a tremendous role in this part of New Jersey, Mr. Biunno said.

The Rutgers official said his concept of the role of education is to provide students "with an ability to learn and to think, and to enjoy the things around them in a moral framework."

Anatole K. Colbert, counseling officer, and Prof. Marion Leary, financial aid officer, spoke on the counseling services and financial aid available at Union Junior College.

Mr. Colbert said counseling services are offered in the areas of academic, personal and vocational problems.

"Most of the problems deal with how to study, how to use textbooks, and how to budget time, while personal counseling deals with dating and pressures at home," Mr. Colbert said.

"Vocational counseling is a minor problem, because most of our students transfer to four-year colleges and universities."

All professors at Union Junior College serve as advisers to students and have office hours, the counseling officer said.

"My office serves as a central headquarters, and I urge students with academic problems to discuss them with their professors," Mr. Colbert said.

The counseling officer told the parents the competition for grades is much more severe in college than in high school, and college grades mean more.

"Students and parents should not think when a student who received A's in high school suddenly gets only C's in college even though they thought they did well," Mr. Colbert said.

Mrs. Leary told the parents all Union County residents who are full-time students in the day session can qualify for annual grants of $480 under the tuition aid plan adopted by Union Junior College and the Union County Board of Freeholders.

She said scholarships are available on the basis of financial need and academic merit, and Union Junior College students can qualify for loans under the National Defense Education Act and the New Jersey Higher Education Assistance Authority.

The financial aid officer said a limited number of student jobs are available at UJC.

"We don't encourage freshmen to work because their grades suffer," she added. "For those who must work we urge them to work no more than 15 hours a week."

When you love your work, it shows.

And we love our work. So much that we couldn't bear to stop with the slickest-looking split grille ever to grace a Wide-Track. (Or any other car, for that matter.)

We went ahead and made the windshield wipers disappear. The car not only looks cleaner, but the wipers are less subject to icing and freezing, too.

Then we got rid of the vent windows on all Grand Prix hardtops. We replaced them with nifty monograms and a flow-through ventilation system.

We even designed a rather unique hood-mounted tachometer option that's available on all Pontiacs. As are our other new options like stereo tape and stereo radio.

And, of course, our handsome interiors have to be seen to be believed.

All Pontiacs have standard safety features that include a dual master cylinder brake system with warning light, outside rear-view mirror, and GM's energy absorbing steering column.

Isn't it time you decided to see your Pontiac dealer? If you love our work the way we do, it's the least you can do.

'Cold War GI Bill' Provision Covers 133 Students at UJC

There are 133 students attending students in the evening session, Union Junior College this semester. The Veterans' Administration reported last week it mailed out 210,000 benefit checks in October, and had 35,000 applications still to process. Officials said they expect the figure to level off at about 240,000 this academic year, but it could zoom upward if the Vietnam provisions, Miss Wierama said.

Under the measure, signed by President Lyndon B. Johnson on March 3, honorably discharged veterans with more than 180 days of active military service since January 31, 1955 are eligible for educational, housing and other benefits. The new law amounts to an extension of the World War II and Korean War benefits, but on a reduced scale.

Miss Wierama said the total includes 55 in the day session as full-time students, and 79 part-time

War were to be settled. Miss Wierama attributed the large number of veterans attending Union Junior College to be a policy adopted by the faculty and administration to permit servicemen returning to civilian status to file applications even though the deadline had passed for all other applicants. The "Cold War G. I. Bill" went into effect on June 1 and eight students attended Union Junior College this semester.

Local Couple Joins Peace Corps

Ronald F. Farina of 306 Central Ave. and his wife, the former Karen E. Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wells of the Central Ave. address, left last month for Brazil, where they are serving with the Peace Corps.

Ronald and Betsy, as Karen likes to be called, were among 50 volunteers trained 12 weeks at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., to work in Brazil's school lunch and community development programs. They have been assigned to small towns in the State of Espirito Santo, Goias.

Their training at Georgetown included intensive study of Portuguese, Brazilian history and culture, United States history and world affairs. To supplement the classroom instruction the volunteers did field work in the slums of Washington.

The arrival of the new group brought the total number of volunteers in Brazil to 850. Other Peace Corps projects there include health, university education, primary and secondary education, agricultural extension and urban and rural community development.

The local husband and wife are both graduates of Cranford High School. Ronald, a member of the Class of 1961 and Betsy of the Class of 1963. Ronald was also graduated from Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., and Betsy attended Union Junior College.

The young couple has been assigned to Brazil for 27 months.
