

Science Workshop Held For Elementary Teachers

The first of two in-service workshops in science for elementary school teachers was held last Thursday at Lincoln School. The second workshop is scheduled for next Thursday.

These workshops, conducted by William G. Koellner, mathematics coordinator, are a continuation of a program started by Raymond Pantuso, who resigned in February as science coordinator to continue his graduate work at Lehigh University.

Mr. Koellner said the workshops center around experiences recommended by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which stresses a process approach. Last week's workshop was devoted to the control of variables in determining reaction time and to the testing of hidden electrical networks in which hypotheses have to be formulated as to the structure of the circuit.

"Elementary school science has been and will continue to go through significant changes as has elementary mathematics," Mr. Koellner said. "The processes of science will see more children performing experiments and carrying through experiences in line with what a scientist does."

Participating in last week's workshop were:

Bloomfield School — Miss Elizabeth Kelly and Mrs. Mary Polidoro, fourth grade, and Miss Mary Vitale, sixth grade; Cleveland

School — Mrs. Marion Eschenlauer, sixth grade; Brookside Place School — Mrs. Evelyn McCord and Miss Carol Kaiser, kindergarten; Livingston Avenue School — Mrs. Marjorie Boardman, fifth grade, and Mrs. Ann Waters, sixth grade; Roosevelt School — Mrs. Sara Abitanti, Mrs. Dorothy Gross and Mrs. Deborah Oliver, third grade.

UJC Alumni Fund Raising Head Named

Former Assistant Prosecutor Richard P. Muscatello of Elizabeth will serve as chairman for Union Junior College's 1967 Alumni Fund-raising campaign, it was announced today by Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, president.

The annual fund-raising campaign is sponsored by the Union Junior College Alumni Association.

Mr. Muscatello said an attempt will be made to contact every known alumnus of Union Junior College to seek their support for the college's ever increasing service to the community.

"The alumni have responded in the past to the building needs of Union Junior College," Mr. Muscatello said. "We now ask their support of the college's general fund in the form of annual giving, so that those standards of quality which have become synonymous with Union Junior College can be maintained."

Mr. Muscatello, a member of the Class of 1940 at UJC, was awarded an alumni citation by Union Junior College in 1957 during its Silver Anniversary Convocation. Following his undergraduate days at UJC and Seton Hall University, he completed his legal training at the Rutgers Law School. He has law offices in Elizabeth.

School Board Members Attend Regional Meeting

Three members of the Board of Education attended a recent regional meeting of the State Federation of District Boards of Education at Trenton State College.

Attending were Robert P. Blunno, president; Carter E. Porter, vice-president; and Robert W. Seavy, Dr. Clark W. McDermith, superintendent of schools, also participated.

During the morning session, they heard representatives from South Brunswick and Trenton describe new programs for individualizing instruction.

Dr. John Almond, principal of the Washington School, Trenton, told of a federally financed experiment which bases student math work on individual work prescriptions for pupils. He said the new procedure puts the teacher in the role of an "educational physician," who diagnoses the student's deficiencies and then prescribes the instruction and practice needed to correct the deficiencies.

Prof. John Metzler of Newark College of Engineering told the afternoon session that "school on an approach invoking human resources should develop special mechanisms for avoiding educational disputes between board and policy development is the underlying reason for much teacher mil-

To Your Health

By RON SOBELSON

A rookie halfback grabbed a kick in the end zone and ran back the full length of the field for a touchdown. With a wide grin, he trotted up to the coach and said, "How was that, Coach?"

The coach put his arm around the boy and told him how he had liked it.

"Son," he started, "when you caught the ball, you knew the play should have gone to the right, but you went to the left. And you carried the ball in your right arm, which you know is wrong. Then, when you were hemmed in at the thirty yard line, and had to run around those tacklers, you came back about five yards before you turned up field again. Very dangerous. At midfield, you dodged that safety well, but you let the ball swing way out, just asking to be knocked loose."

After about five minutes of this the halfback asked, "Well, how'd you like it for distance, Coach?"

There's an old saying that "It's tough to argue with success" and the American medical profession has given us one of the highest health standards in the world. It has prolonged life, and it has reduced pain and suffering. And when you talk of a doctor's job, that's success.

Quality Concert by Symphony With Bernstein as Soloist

By Edna M. Reagan

The Suburban Symphony plus pianist Seymour Bernstein last Wednesday gave us a quality concert to compare with world-famed orchestras and pianists. The crowded auditorium of Cranford High School gave full attestation to its pleasure, enjoyment and appreciation.

The first part of the program was "Symphony No. 5 in B Minor," by Tchaikovsky. The conductor, Henry Bloch, led the orchestra in such refined control of tempo, in the change of moods from gloominess to beautiful, smooth cantabile introduced by bass strings and horn, intertwining. The light Valse had well spaced crescendos, a violent mood, then again gloominess. In the Andante Maestoso the brasses made a fine line drawing.

All in all, the orchestra, now shines, polished with professionalism. The opening concert of the 1966-1967 season was such a surprise in quality. But now, wow!

The second part of the program gave us the guest artist, Seymour Bernstein, as solo pianist with the orchestra, playing the Liszt "Piano Concerto in E Flat" and the "Rhapsody in Blue" by George Gershwin.

The orchestra opened the concerto a little loudly, but Mr. Bernstein proceeded with the motif and launched such curly scales; there was ecstasy in the phrases. His fingers floated, sang; had depth control, fluidity, sparkle. The crescendos and decrescendos were beautifully controlled. Liszt himself seemed to be with us with his dexterity, ease, self-assurance and poise.

Truly Seymour Bernstein is a pianist to compare highly with the most famous. In the "Rhapsody in Blue," Mr. Bernstein launched a fast tempo which he handled with complete control. He surely had the jazz feeling and carried the orchestra with him. Even the middle section of the "Rhapsody" was delightful. Bernstein was thoroughly enjoying himself as were the orchestra members.

Mr. Bernstein must command the highest respect in the world of music. Bravo Mr. Bloch, Mr. Bernstein, Suburban Symphony.

'Wonderful Second Career'

His second successful career after retiring from his first, has earned feature treatment for Henry S. Orth of 214 Oak Lane in Humble, N. J., a Humble Oil & Refining Co. publication which goes to 50,000 Humble employees, annuitants and others throughout the nation.

Mr. Orth, a Humble annuitant who retired from Bayway Refinery in 1963 as field electrical engineer, has been named a vice-president of Multi-Amp Corp., 61 Myrtle St. The Humble News article relates that in his work at Bayway, Mr. Orth had developed good contacts with Multi-Amp, a company that specializes in manufacturing test equipment for electrical protective devices such as circuit breakers and relays. Mr. Orth got the job.

"It's been a wonderful second career, because I'm teaching in the field I love," he said.

He set up the Multi-Amp Institute, planned comprehensive teaching programs, and now supervises and conducts about 40 classes a year. He has trained more than 100 electrical specialists from the U. S. Navy, General Electric, Westinghouse, DuPont, Humble, and many other large companies send people to the course.

Mr. Orth also writes articles in his field for trade publications and he frequently speaks at electrical engineering seminars.

Speaker Takes College Club On 'Trip Through Thailand'

Gowned in a pink floor-length sarong made of Thai silk, Mrs. Charles E. Self conducted the College Women's Club of Cranford on a verbal and pictorial trip through Thailand on Monday night at the club's meeting in Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Self, a College Club member, explained that Thailand, known as Siam until 1939, is a country the size of France, but because its population is in the neighborhood of only 23 million, there is no problem of job or food shortage. Strides are being made to make agrarian practices more modern, however, she added.

In this land, where 95 percent of the people are Buddhist, and only one-tenth of one percent Christian, there is a great respect for education, the speaker related. Seventy percent of the population is literate, since education is compulsory to the age of 16. Thailand has six universities and 30 teacher training institutions, Mrs. Self reported. English is taught in the schools from the fifth grade on and is the second language of the country.

The name Thailand means "Land of the Free." Since the country has always been free and never colonized by a western power, there is no dislike of western nations, the speaker said.

At the conclusion of her talk, Mrs. Self showed many slides taken by her during her year in Thailand, as the YWCA's first international "internette."

Mrs. S. Elliott Hume, president, conducted the business meeting and announced the board members for 1967-68 as follows:

President, Mrs. Hume; first vice-president, Mrs. William H. Meyer; second vice-president, Mrs. George A. Holden; recording secretary, Mrs. Forrest H. Blanding; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William J. Miller; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert I. Mitchell; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Malcolm S. Pringle.

Committee chairmen were announced as follows: Art, Mrs. Edwin Younghouse; auditing, Mrs. Ernest C. Ullom; banquet, Mrs. Bruce Steele; Christmas supper, Mrs. Robert Baines and Mrs. William A. Thornton; community service, Mrs. William Holzappel; dance, Mrs. James E. Ray.

Drama, Mrs. Gene Stephens; education, Mrs. Edward Gilroy; finance, Mrs. Holden; hospitality, Mrs. James S. Clarke; legislative, Miss Ruth Compton; membership, Mrs. William H. Meyer.

Music, Mrs. John O'Mara; program, Mrs. George W. Chase; publicity, Mrs. George Dalack; scholarship, Mrs. Kenneth A. DeLonge; telephone, Mrs. W. T. Higgins; book sale, Mrs. Robert A. Brooks; Citizen and Chronicle drive, Mrs. Robert H. Seavy; yearbook, Mrs. Robert F. Murphy.

Members-at-large, Mrs. Thomas

Refreshments were served following the meeting by hospitality chairman Mrs. F. George Walton, Jr., and her committee: Mrs. J. Jerome Behan, Mrs. Burton H. Leonard, Mrs. Joseph Schroetter and Mrs. Paul L. Jones.

Ways Told to Discourage Unwelcome Pigeon Guests

It's no big trick to get rid of homeless pigeons that come around begging food and making nuisances of themselves.

So says Ernest M. Mills, wildlife services supervisor with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, who takes a strong anti-pigeon position.

"Pigeons are scavengers and entertain those who feed them, but their constant disease threat overshadows any benefits," Mr. Mills says in a statement from his office at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, New Brunswick.

"They may transmit disease such as ornithosis, histoplasmosis, encephalitis and others directly to man."

Mr. Mills cited six human cases of a fungus disease, cryptococcosis, recently reported in New York.

Some of these diseases can be transmitted by dried pigeon droppings blown about in the air and breathed by humans.

Having made his point about the health hazards of pigeons, Mr. Mills suggests some of the ways to keep them under control.

First of all, don't make your yard attractive to pigeons by feeding wild birds on the ground. The leftover feed will attract pigeons, and so will any table scraps left in the open. Keep refuse cans tightly closed.

But most practical in the long run may be pigeon-proofing methods. Just keeping them out. For example, use 1½-inch mesh wire to screen open areas such as under cornices. Prevent roosting on sills and ledges by installing wood, metal or concrete on a steep slant—about 45 degrees. Pull down nests with a hook on the end of a long pole.

A special sticky glue is often effective for many months. This stuff sticks to the feet of pigeons and other birds, making them so uncomfortable they take the hint and go away.

This glue won't kill any birds, but only repel them, Mr. Mills emphasizes. It comes in an aerosol can for treating only small sections. Or you can get it in a cartridge and use it like a caulking gun to spread a narrow ribbon of glue along sills and ledges.

Trapping works, too, especially at a season when food is scarce. In winter pigeons are fairly settled in their roosting sites, and their removal will relieve the situation many weeks.

Traps work best on a flat roof rather than on the ground. Several manufacturers sell these small ready-to-use cage or box traps. Certain commercial firms will apply sticky glues or trap pigeons. They may even use a chemical that frightens a whole flock when only a few pigeons eat it. This chemical is not for general sale.

Mr. Mills would like to help anyone who wants to cut down on the pigeon nuisance and health hazards. He offers a free booklet, "Vagrant Pigeon Control for the Homeowner" and a list of dealers who sell pigeon control supplies.

His address is Short Course Building, College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, New Brunswick 08903.

Drying Complaints

Denise Durkin Places in National Oratorical Contest

Denise Durkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Durkin of Seattle, Wash., formerly of Cranford, recently won second place in the annual National Catholic Youth Organization oratorical contest in Washington, D. C.

Now a senior at Blanchet High School in Seattle, Miss Durkin was a student at St. Michael's School here before moving to Seattle in 1958.

Prior to her arrival in Washington, D. C., for the national finals in the CYO contest, she spent a few days in Cranford as a guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Durkin of Parkway Village, and renewed acquaintance with many of her former friends and neighbors here.

Following graduation from Blanchet High School in June, Denise plans to attend Gonzaga University, Spokane, Wash., where she has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship. As second place winner in the CYO contest she will receive a scholarship of $100 for each of four years at the college of her choice.

The former local girl won first place March 18 in extemporaneous speaking and third place in oratory at the National Forensic League Washington District Tournament at Seattle University.

She was the top girl winner in February in the Archdiocesan CYO competition preliminary to the national finals. In January, she was women's oratorical winner in the three-state Northwest High School Debate Tournament at Gonzaga University.

Miss Durkin also was a princess at the CYO Christmas ball.

Start of Aldene

Louis Tenich still swing shovels, and have for many years. They are the last "black gang" on the Hudson.

A typical voyage across the river by Elizabeth is steady and measured. At peak hours she carries 2,000 passengers. "One less than capacity," Captain Boyle puts it. The old lady moves slowly, like a lowager on a ballroom floor, but still has the power and will to sprint. She gave The Tides, an oil-electric ferry leased by the railroad from New York City, a run for her younger age and better condition a year ago, April 28. Time and tide put the two boats into a "race" for Manhattan, and passengers off the 8:04 a.m. from Cranford cheered the Elizabeth as she churned for New York, a slight bone in her teeth (white water rippling past her bow), alongside her younger contemporary.

As she crosses the Hudson with "one less than capacity," Elizabeth's helm is slow and sure. It responds with confidence, with a comfortable, dependable "feel." She is stately in manner as she moves in the evening tide on a heavy trip. Now and again a passing tug toots in deference and greeting. "Respect for an old lady," Capt. Boyle says. He toots and waves and remarks on Elizabeth's friends.

Coming into the slip at Jersey

City, Elizabeth swings in the current and bears in at an angle. Her engines are cut from full to half, then to slow. She glides. Capt. Boyle brings her in with a combination of steering, speed, tide, and 19-year-old seamanship. Elizabeth draws water as she approaches the terminal apron. Deckhands Leif Anderson and Victor Gotta make ready to tie her fast and open the safety gates. In the wheelhouse, Capt. Boyle centers the helm, checks the trip log, and lights his pipe.

She's a fine old boat, Elizabeth, but her days are numbered. Only a few remain. Her career in the scheme of commuter travel ends April 28. Capt. Boyle will go on vacation April 30. After that he may go back to sea.

"After all," he says, "I'm only 62. There's time enough to make a trip or two."

Elizabeth will fade away, leaving a void in the life of the Hudson. She will also leave behind a memory of a tradition maintained and a job well done.

Model of UJC Campus On Display in Union Bank

A model of the Union Junior College campus in Cranford will be on display in the main office of the Union Center National Bank through April 21 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays.

The model, done to a scale of one inch equals 25 feet, was made by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, UJC dean. It is 84 inches long and 48 inches wide. It contains exact replicas of the five buildings on the UJC's 30-acre campus — all done to exact scale — as well as all parking lots, roads and the two brooks which run through the center of the site. The exact topography of the site is reproduced to scale also.

Models like the one Dr. Iversen built are often done by architectural or planning firms, and usually cost $1,000 or more to produce. Dr. Iversen's model cost about $25 for materials and several hundred hours on his part.

A great deal of ingenuity went into the project. For example, the domes on the William Miller Sperry Observatory are made of two halves of a parakeet's ball, and the blacktop parking lots and roads are of black construction paper. The sidewalks are of sandpaper and the roofs of white sand paint on black paper to simulate stones. The buildings are made of poster board and balsa wood, and the contours of the site were made from special cardboard.

The new science building posed a special problem. Dr. Iversen finally decided upon lint remover to simulate the sunscreens on the east side, and used clear acetate film used for overhead projectors for the greenhouse. The flagpole is an aluminum nail — and it has an American flag.

The model is on display at the Union Center National Bank as part of Union Junior College's campaign to raise $1 million for the science building. Under the leadership of former Union Township Committeeman Robert P. Ostertag, an effort is underway to raise funds for the project among Union business and industrial firms.

has raised more than $800,000 to date. The current phase of the campaign is to raise an additional $200,000. In addition to these funds, Union Junior College has been awarded a federal grant of $307,000 for the science building under the new Higher Education Facilities Act.

Construction of the science building is more than 60 percent complete. Current plans call for opening the all air-conditioned, electrically-heated building for use during the summer session, which opens on June 26.

With the opening of the science building, Union Junior College expects to increase its enrollment by about 300 students.

Report Given On Introduction Of Math Books

William G. Koellner, coordinator of mathematics for the Cranford public schools, reported today that the introduction of a contemporary series of mathematics textbooks, "Elementary School Mathematics," published by the Addison-Wesley Publishing Co., "is going well with began using the series in September."

All first through sixth grade classes in the local school system began using the series in September.

"Adequate reference materials and equipment are on hand to begin work in the area of providing for individualized differences," Mr. Koellner said in a report to the Curriculum Council.

Mr. Koellner said the Addison-Wesley series was selected following an extensive evaluation of all available contemporary mathematics series. Prior to being adopted for the entire school system, it was tried out in first, third and fifth grade pilot classes as well as in all the first and second grade classes at Lincoln School.

The evaluation of contemporary mathematics textbooks was initiated during the mathematics summer projects of 1965. During the writing of the Sourcebook in Elementary Mathematics by a team of classroom teachers, every series was examined and evaluated. The analysis was continued during the 1965-66 school year, through the use of teacher committees and classroom teacher evaluations. In addition, an intensive survey was made of schools using contemporary series to obtain their reactions.

We'll be glad to go over your present home, car or business insurance protection with you. Point out any weak spots or holes in it. And make recommendations, if needed, based on insurance offered by the many strong, reliable insurance companies that we represent.

All without cost or obligation to you.

From the study and discussion of world affairs to reading Bernard Shaw to making hats, the members of the seven departments of the Wednesday Morning Club reviewed their activities at a meeting last Wednesday morning in Mrs. P. J. Plattner's home. Mrs. Paul Buongiorno was program consultant.

The current affairs committee studied air pollution, the Supreme Court, the Alliance for Progress and foreign aid, and took a trip to Cuba Co. and a day's visit to the State Legislature at Trenton.

Mrs. Robert Wiese, chairman of the antiquities committee, displayed a patchwork quilt made around 1750 belonging to Mrs. P. M. English. Old silver, dishes, quilts and samplers were studied.

Mrs. N. G. White said the art department has done a variety of projects—oil painting, tinseled pictures, tape painting, decoupage and others.

Mrs. H. E. Young described the home and garden projects of antiquities, paper weights, hats and sewing.

The projects winning ribbons at the Sixth District Creative Arts Day were on display. Other objects like a sampler by Mrs. G. L. Griffiths and quilts made by Mrs. A. R. Morante also were shown. Miss Johanne de Wolff, described and showed samples of her Danish applique work.

The drama department studied George Bernard Shaw in depth. Mrs. W. J. Hoffmann, chairman, reported: His books and plays were reported and discussed at their meetings.

A quiz to test members' knowledge of titles of books was conducted by Mrs. E. A. Koyen for the literature department. During the year the members reviewed authors and their books included in Roy McQuist's "Counterpoint."

Study of the structure of a symphony was the program of the music department. Mrs. B. C. Metzner, chairman, related. A record of part of a symphony was played to demonstrate.

At the business meeting, Mrs. W. H. Lang and Mrs. W. H. Old were elected delegates for the convention in Atlantic City on May 9-12. Alternates are Mrs. Morante and Mrs. H. E. Young.

Mrs. Hollis Leland, senior member, and Mrs. James Stokes, junior member, will represent the club on the Joint Civic Committee.

The chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. E. W. Schroeder, read the following slate of officers to be elected and installed at the May business meeting: Second vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Skillman; recording secretary, Mrs. R. G. Strobl; treasurer, Mrs. H. T. Reardon; assistant treasurer, Mrs. E. A. Heim.

The executive board will meet on Friday April 28, at 9:30 a.m. in Mrs. C. W. McDermitt's home.

Mrs. E. C. Fortenbaugh, finance chairman, announced that a meeting of the finance committee will be held in her home at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

Mrs. Jacob Stanley announced that Debra Aaron will be delegate and Evelyn Clausnitzer alternate to the Citizenship Institute at Douglass College for the Wednesday Morning Club.

The antiques committee will meet Monday in Mrs. Plattner's home. Mrs. Raymond Cowperthwaite will tell about Bennington ware. The speaker will help members who bring heirloom pieces of china or glass to the meeting to determine their age and value.

Mrs. E. A. Moody will review "Major Barbara" and Mrs. McDermitt "Heartbreak House" by Bernard Shaw at the drama department meeting at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Mrs. H. S. Allen's home.

Attending Workshop
Dr. Thomas Dooley, a member of the Board of Education, is enrolled in a workshop on "Board-Employee recipient of many awards. Opening reception and presentation of awards by Alvin Mead, president of the Creative Art Group, will take place at the library from 1 to 3 p.m. on April 22.

The exhibit will be open to the public from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday through Friday, April 24-29, and from 2 to 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 29.

Serving on the committee in charge of awards are Mrs. B. J. Mijetli and Mrs. George Skirba.

Awards will consist of cash and artists' material. Two first prize awards have been contributed by the Union County Trust Co. and additional donors are: Suburban Trust Co., Rankin Fuel & Oil Co., Marisa's Restaurant, Cranford Savings & Loan Association, Dr. Frank Krause, Dr. Robert Levine and Bergen Camera Exchange.

Artists' material awards were donated by M. Grumbacher, Bocour Artists Colors, Bientang Paper Co., Winsor & Newton, Watson Guphill Publications, Permanent Pigment, General Pencil Co. and Talens & Son. A floral centerpiece for the reception is being donated by Reckmeier's Flowers.

Applications should be sent to: The Garden Club of Cranford, Committee on Horticulture Grants, 420 Riverside Dr., Cranford, N. J. Any student interested should contact his guidance department for applications and further information, or Mrs. Charles R. Haag of 711 High St., chairman of the scholarship committee.

The grant, a sum of $250, may be used toward the tuition of a student attending a recognized college or university and majoring in one branch of horticulture. This is the third year the club has offered this grant, which was initiated for the purpose of promoting interest in the field of horticulture and plant sciences.

Vocations open to those with a horticultural background include: Agricultural agents, landscape architects, designers and gardeners, estate directors, park horticulturists, foresters, nurserymen, greenhouse operators, florists, propagators, staff members for botanical gardens, plant researchers and conservationists.

The latest gifts came from the following: Newcomers Club, $10; Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Haag, 711 High St., $10; and Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Vogel, Jr., 8 Hampton St., $10.

Because the fund committee of Cranford Council of Garden Clubs, sponsor of the project, fears that the goal of $1,100 will not be reached by the designated planting date of April 18, the landscape architect has been asked to revise the scale drawings to include some smaller plants to compensate for the expense. With some small Scotch pines mixed with the larger in the grouping of seven, and with other younger trees, this can be done.

The committee hopes to have the entire planting made at one time, because if part is planted now and part later, the job will be more costly, due to added labor involved.

It is still stressed that contributions in any amount will be greatly appreciated, and the council hopes that more individuals will support the undertaking. Checks may be made out to Cranford Council of Garden Clubs and mailed to William Kukul, treasurer, at 117 Severin Ct.

Higher Education Report
Frederick Holmes, acting director of Community and Two-Year College Education, State Department of Education, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Union Junior College faculty at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the faculty lounge. Mr. Holmes will discuss recent development in higher education in New Jersey. Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, dean, will preside and will introduce Mr. Holmes.

Nominations Told For Jr. Woman's Club Offices

A new slate of officers was nominated at a recent meeting of the Cranford Junior Woman's Club. Mrs. Richard Kimball heads the nominations for the office of president, while Mrs. Hugh Delano was nominated to fill the office of first vice-president.

The membership will vote on the slate at a meeting at Cranford Baptist Church on April 27.

Sixty-two members and guests were present for the lasagna dinner served prior to the business session. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Balde-schwiler of Cranford gave a slide-illustrated talk on Greece and surrounding islands.

During the business meeting, members voted to support the River Edge Junior Woman's Club in its nomination of the northern vice-chairman, Miss Joan Walker, for the Junior Membership Department honor roll.

It was announced that reservations for those planning to attend the 40th annual spring convention of the Junior Membership Department of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in May in Atlantic City must be made immediately through Mrs. John McCaskill.

Teens Interested In Improving Community Center

KENILWORTH — Kenilworth teenagers want an improved recreational program and they are willing to do most of the work themselves.

This was reported at Tuesday night's Borough Council meeting by Councilman Albert J. Simmenroth, Jr., chairman of water, lights and recreation. Mr. Simmenroth reported that he had met with local teenagers Sunday night, and they expressed interest in sponsoring dances to raise money for the Community Center.

The money would go toward the purchase of recreational equipment such as ping pong and pool tables, and if possible the dances would be held in David Brearley Regional High School.

Councilman Simmenroth noted

Mayor Ahern Uncertain Of Plans

KENILWORTH — Mayor William J. Ahern, Jr., said this week he has made no decision on whether or not to seek reelection to a fourth term.

Discounting a report that he had announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination in the June primary, the mayor said his decision would depend on whether or not the party could present a united ticket.

The local Democrats have been plagued in recent months by intra-party divisions. The trouble came to the surface last summer when Walter E. Boright, Jr., became an insurgent candidate in the Democratic primary for councilman. The regular organization, including Mayor Ahern, supported the incumbents, Michael C. Bury and Peter S. Patuto.

Mr. Boright defeated Patuto and went on to victory in the November election, along with Republican Albert J. Simmenroth, Jr.

When the new council was seated in January, more trouble resulted for the mayor when several of his appointments were voted down by a faction headed by Council President Frank Mascaro. This faction also voted to strip the mayor of his power to appoint standing committees.

In general, the mayor has been supported at council meetings by Councilmen Frank Johdos and James O'Brien, while Councilmen Mascaro, Boright, Simmenroth and Richard Lomax have opposed him.

Mayor Ahern was first elected in 1961 as the candidate of his predecessor, Walter E. Boright, Sr.

As of yesterday, the only candidates who had filed petitions to run in the primary were Councilman Mascaro and C. William Gutekunst. Mr. Gutekunst is a candidate for the Republican council nomination.

Councilman Johdos, also up for reelection, said he would announce his intentions in a few weeks.

New Harding Shop Should Be Completed by September

KENILWORTH — The new Harding School shop should be ready for use by students in September, it was announced at a Board of Education meeting Monday night at the school. The board is awaiting final approval of its plans by the State Department of Education.

The new shop, which will be located next to the old shop on the north side of the school, is part of a $50,000 program approved by voters in the February school election. It calls for converting the present shop into an all-purpose board meeting room and teachers' lounge and converting the present board room into a classroom.

According to John Kish, superintendent of schools, the new shop will occupy 2,000 square feet of space, 200 more than the old room. In addition to providing added space, it will be furnished with modernized equipment for wood, metal and electrical work and will have improved lighting. It will accommodate 360 seventh and eighth grade students a week.

In the event the shop is not completed by September, Mr. Kish said the cafeteria would be used for mechanical drawing and shop theory instruction.

Preliminary plans for the project already have state approval, and the board expects a reply to its final plans in two to four weeks. The program is being handled by the architectural firm of Elsassner and Miller, Union.

Some questions were raised by board members about the fee of the architect after a letter was received from the New Jersey Society of Architects, saying the standard fee for such a program is 9 percent of the cost. Since the board had anticipated a fee of 6 percent based on past rates, it was decided to ask the Union firm for a letter designating the specific figure.

School Board Raps Fair Bus Bill

KENILWORTH — The Board of Education sent a letter on Tuesday to the General Assembly expressing opposition to Assembly Bill 21, known as the Fair Bus Bill, which if passed would require that local school boards furnish transportation to private schools within a 20-mile radius of their districts.

The bill, supported by Governor Richard Hughes and already passed by the Senate, is scheduled to come up for a vote in the Assembly today. Public hearings were held last week after legislators received complaints about the proposal from school boards in the state. Among those opposed to it are the Union County Board of Education and boards in Cranford and Westfield.

The action of the Kenilworth board followed a public meeting on Monday night at which a motion was passed indicating the board's opposition.

Alfred Wood, board vice-president, who introduced the motion called the proposal "ridiculous" because it would authorize the expenditure of public funds for private school education and would

Brearley Council Proposes School-Community Programs

KENILWORTH — The development of scholarship and business-industry recruitment programs was among the topics discussed at the initial meeting of the Citizens' Advisory Council to David Brearley Regional High School last Wednesday at the school.

The council was organized to provide a liaison between the civic service, religious, social and governmental organizations in the borough and the school administration, teachers and student body. The business-industry program would involve the sending of representatives of local firms to the high school to describe the positions available at their companies and the qualifications needed. Interest was also expressed in a community resource file of businesses.

Another possibility mentioned was a summer cultural and recreational program co-sponsored by the borough and the school.

Further details about the proposed scholarship program will be disclosed at the next council meeting on May 24.

Those attending last week's meeting were Mayor William J. Ahern, Jr., Police Chief Edward Stupak, Walter Stollen of the Kenilworth Manufacturers Association, John Patkus and Sol Pacific of Post 470, American Legion, and Mrs. Helen K. Smith of the high school PTA.

Community organizations interested in attending future meetings are asked to contact the school to be placed on the mailing list for notification.

Annual Band Concert Tonight At Harding School

KENILWORTH — The annual spring concert of the Harding School band will be held tonight at 8 in the school auditorium, under the direction of Miss Lorraine Conover, music supervisor.

The concert will include music by the 55-member band, piano and accordion solos and a drum solo by Michael Nimaroff, a first grade pupil. Piano accompaniment for the soloists will be played by Mrs. Theresa Ostrowsky, music teacher.

New instruments added to the band include a flute, saxophone, 11 clarinets, six trumpets, three trombones and three bell lyres. Tickets are available at the door or from any band member.

CDA Installs 13 New Members

KENILWORTH — Court St. Theresa's 1781, Catholic Daughters of America, held installation of new members on Sunday night in the school auditorium.

New members are Mrs. Sam Scavuzzo, Mrs. Alfred Morelli, Mrs. Ernest Vitale, Mrs. Samuel Vitale, Mrs. C. Joseph Aragona, Mrs. Gaspare Drago, Mrs. Stephen McManus, Mrs. Albert Anthony, Mrs. Albert Burger, Sr., Mrs. James Allegretto, Miss Lena Mascarillo, Miss Angelina Mascarillo and Mrs. LeRoy Meyer.

Refreshments were served after the ceremony under the direction of Mrs. John Waldvogel.

Spring Cleanup Set

KENILWORTH — The public works department will conduct the annual spring cleanup from April 24 to May 6, it was announced by Councilman James E. O'Brien, public works commissioner. He said the program has been extended a week to make up for the cancellation of the end-of-the-month garbage pickup during the winter months.

Authorize Legal Action Against Service Cuts By Jersey Central

GARWOOD — Noting that the proposed passenger schedules of the Jersey Central Railroad under the Aldene Plan "would eliminate most service to Garwood," Borough Council at its meeting Tuesday night passed a resolution calling for joining with the Inter-Municipal Group for Better Rail Service in an appeal against the plan and authorizing counsel of the Inter-Municipal Group to take legal action on behalf of Garwood.

The step was taken on recommendation of Councilman John E. Gallagher, Garwood's representative to the Inter-Municipal Group, who explained that the legal action would be aimed at maintaining rail commuter service as of 1968.

Also passed on recommendation of Councilman Gallagher as chairman of the finance committee, were resolutions opposing all mandatory fiscal legislation by the state unless additional monies required are made available by the state, and supporting Assembly Bill 737, which would provide that all revenues in excess of the original estimate of $162,000,000 income from the state sales tax be returned to municipalities in the form of state aid to help cut tax increases.

The first of these two resolutions expressed opposition to "legislation that erodes the home rule concept" and declared that "local government" (Continued on Page 3)

Funds collected will be used to help defray operating costs of the league. Plans for the drive were made at an executive committee meeting Monday night.

Men of the league are asked to report at the field house at Guerrero Memorial Field at 12:45 p.m. to assist with the drive.

A reminder was issued to girls interested in entering the Miss Little League contest that applications must be turned in by April 21.

President Humenik issued an appeal to members and fathers to help again this Saturday and Sunday in preparing the field for the coming season.

A meeting of the general league membership will be held at the field house at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Mayor Gill Reviews Progress of Township In 1967's First Quarter

A review of the accomplishments of the municipal government during the first three months of 1967 was made by Mayor Edward K. Gill at a workshop session Monday evening.

Members of the Township Committee have every reason to be proud of the long list of accomplishments for the first quarter of the year," Mayor Gill said. "The citizens of Cranford should be impressed by a record of progress which is making our town the most dynamic in Union County."

Mayor Gill began at the first of the year and described the formation of the Elise Street Fund organized to render immediate assistance to the 57 people made homeless by the fire. Since that time agencies of the township have continued to care for many of the families. A recently formed corporation is now exploring housing measures and rehabilitation steps.

The 1967 budget passed recently represented an effort by the committee to keep expenditures in line with anticipated receipts. This year's budget shows only a slight increase for municipal expenditures over the budget of last year. In the area of budgets, the Township Committee was asked to act upon the budget of the Board of Education and certified a slightly reduced amount to be raised by taxes for educational purposes.

Despite one of the most severe winters in Cranford's history, the Public Works Department kept the streets cleared in a manner that was the envy of neighboring communities. New equipment was installed or ordered to reduce the danger of flooding in some of the areas adjacent to the river.

A new sanitary code was introduced which prescribes the measures to be taken to protect the health of citizens. In this connection a health officer was reemployed and assigned to enforce the new code. Food inspections were stepped up and stricter adherence to prescribed health measures was enforced.

Cranford was represented by its mayor at the Union County Conference of Mayors, a new organization formed to discuss and act upon areas of mutual interest to all county communities. Closer ties with the Board of Education resulted from meetings with the mayor and representatives of the board. More frequent contact with Union County Board of Freeholders resulted from meetings between the mayor and individual freeholders.

In the area of Public Works, new sewers were completed to service the Orchard St. and Belmont Ave. areas. A retention basin was completed on the property of Union Junior College to prevent flooding in the college and campus estate areas. A program on flood control for Riverside Dr. was begun in March for completion by late spring.

The town beautification program got under way with the planting of shrubbery and flowers in downtown areas. Local garden clubs are (Continued on Page 8)

Boys' Camp Reunion Set

Registration for the 1967 season of the Cranford Boys' Camp at Silver Lake will open officially at a reunion of last year's campers at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Sherlock Hall of Trinity Church. It was announced this week by Frank J. Dooley, president.

More than 175 campers, guests and parents are expected to be present for the affair, according to George W. Appgar, Jr., reunion chairman. Free camp T-shirts will be awarded to all boys between 8 and 13 years of age who sign up for the coming season at tomorrow night's reunion.

David Naylor, social studies instructor at Cranford High School, who will be camp director this year, will be present tomorrow night and introduce his staff. David Freese will return as assistant counselor and the long popular chef, Dave Gordon, will be back for another season.

Counselors include Paul Young, house, Jeff LeFrancois, Wayne Krevetski, Alec Wisch, Al Chamberlain and Ricky Terry. Slides taken at the camp last season as well as cartoons will be shown tomorrow night. A feature of the evening will be the presentation of a trophy and the American flag which flew over the camp to Bill Humphries, outstanding camper of the 1966 season.

Mr. Appgar, Mr. Dooley and trustees of the camp will serve refreshments to the campers following the program.

Cancer Drive Begins Here Next Week

Mrs. Mary P. Knierim, of 307 Central Ave., has been named to direct the Cranford Cancer Crusade for the third consecutive year. Cranford's goal in the crusade is $9,250. Last year, $9,310 was collected in the township.

Assisting Mrs. Knierim will be Mrs. Gilbert E. Howland, Jr., of 1586 Springfield Ave. The local drive is part of an educational and fund-raising campaign being conducted by the Union County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Knierim said that the residential portion of the local drive will begin next week. Residents in the various blocks in the township will be asked to place their contributions in an envelope, and to pass the envelope to their neighbors after their own contributions are made. The last contributors on the lists for each block will be requested to return the envelopes to Mrs. Knierim's home or office.

The fund drive will continue throughout this month. April has been proclaimed "Cancer Crusade Month" by Governor Richard J. Hughes.

Mrs. Knierim, a real estate broker, has been a Cranford resident for 16 years. She has served as a member of the board of managers (Continued on Page 8)

The display, located in the new wing of the museum, will show methods of drying flowers, the various stages of drying and the final results. Books on drying techniques also will be shown.

Several arrangements of dried material will be exhibited by the following members of the club: Mrs. Mathew D. Hall, Mrs. Charles C. Goodfellow, Jr., Mrs. Robert M. Crane, Mrs. William S. A number of period items showing the varied uses of dried material will be on display in a room setting as well as in one of the display cases.

The Garden Club feels that this exhibit will be of interest to many townspeople and hopes that they will stop in during the next three months to view the display and obtain ideas of plant material to grow in their own gardens this summer with thoughts toward drying for use in the home during the fall and winter.

Riverside Dr. Step Delayed By Park Body

The Union County Park Commission Tuesday agreed to delay action on a request from Township Committee to convey the unpaved portion of Riverside Dr. to the township until residents of the area had an opportunity to express their views to the local governing body.

Edward J. Hobbie, attorney, presented a petition containing names of 430 township residents urging the commission not to take action on the township's request, which they charged was "hurriedly passed" at the last meeting. Twelve residents of Cranford attended the meeting.

Mr. Hobbie pointed out that his clients are not opposed to further paving of the street to accommodate the existing building lots but asserted that Riverside Dr. beyond this point should be retained by the Park Commission to preserve the natural atmosphere of the park land.

Residents of the area, said they now plan to petition Township Committee to rescind the action taken at the April 11 meeting and to adopt an alternate measure which would not involve the transfer of land beyond existing building lots.

A spokesman for the group said "we hope to preclude the little-used existing entrance from Kenilworth Blvd. to Riverside Dr. from becoming a busy intersection to the detriment of the remaining park property and its enjoyment by citizens as a small game preserve and bird sanctuary."

During the meeting with the Park Commission, Mr. Hobbie pointed out that the municipal resolution was not specific as to the intended use of the property other than for road purposes. He argued that the only manner that the interests of the general public would be served by such action would be to provide paved access to this area from Kenilworth Blvd.

New Salaries Told Of Administrators In Local Schools

A new salary schedule, providing for increases ranging from $1,035 to $1,687 for public school supervisory and administrative personnel, was approved Tuesday night by the Board of Education, effective July 1.

The schedule includes five scales or classifications, each with the maximum salary provided in the 40th year of service. The highest position is the director of a division, whose salary range for 1967-68 will be $11,556 to $17,820. Next are the secondary school principals, whose salaries will range from $11,340 to $17,226, followed by elementary school principals, assistant director of curriculum and instruction and the coordinator of special services, whose range is $9,720 to $15,444.

The remaining two scales are for subject area coordinators and assistant principals, whose range will be $8,640 to $14,256, and helping teachers, whose range will be $7,560 to $13,068.

It was explained that each step on a given scale has a range of its own. For example, a helping teacher in the 10th year of service can receive a minimum of $9,732 for satisfactory service and a maximum of $10,705 for meritorious service. The annual increments between steps on a scale range from a high of $381 near the top to a low of $26 near the bottom.

The school board also passed a resolution appointing personnel to the positions on the schedule. A request by a citizen for the appointment list, which gave the name of each employee, his salary and the increase granted, led to an argument over the availability of board records.

The request was made by Edmond Kiamie, president of the Cranford Forum League, who charged that on previous occasions he had found it difficult to obtain information about board operations.

Board President Robert P. Biunno replied that such information is available to any citizen at the board secretary's office, but he said he did not feel it was the board's responsibility to prepare information about salaries and other "quasi-confidential" matters and distribute it to a resident.

The list in question is provided below as follows:

G. Frank Zimmerman, director of business and plant operations, 12-month salary of $19,248, increase of $1,492; Vincent Sarnowski, principal of Hillside Avenue Junior High School, 11-month salary of $16,313, increase of $1,587; Richard Wagner, principal of Orange Avenue Junior High School, 11-month salary of $16,051, increase of $1,489; Anthony Terregio, director of supporting services, 11-month salary of $16,051, increase of $1,489.
