

United Fund Team Visits Begin Friday

Two Cranford United Fund divisions will kick-off teams today with meetings scheduled both afternoon and evening, Earl L. Shea, general chairman, announced that the commercial division will launch its phase of the 1967 fund appeal with a 5 p.m. meeting at the Cranford Savings and Loan Association, and the Special Golden-Gifts section will launch its drive at the New Jersey Bell Telephone Accounting Center at 8 p.m.

Charles J. Post, commercial chairman, along with 25 account salesmen, will begin to make visits to all business and financial institutions beginning tomorrow morning.

"We want to be right on the ball this year with every local business cooperating in the fund," Mr. Post said. "No worker will be asked to take more than six business accounts, thus giving him time to make a thorough visitation with each prospective donor."

Albert Gessler, chairman for Special Golden Gifts, assisted by three vice-chairmen, Robert Baines, Daniel H. Terry and Homer C. Fisher, will direct the efforts of 40 team members. The kick-off program will include remarks from Robert M. Crane, United Fund president; General Chairman Shea and Thomas W. Miller, campaign director. Mrs. Bette Kisner, executive secretary, will be in charge of the prospect assigning to workers.

Fourteen agencies will benefit from the annual appeal with a goal of $95,000. Participating agencies include: Boy Scouts, Cerebral Palsy, Girl Scouts, Homemakers Service, Mental Health, Multiple Sclerosis, Psychiatric Clinic, Red Cross, Retarded Children, Salvation Army, USO, Visiting Nurse Association, Welfare Association and Youth - Family Counseling Service.

This week's industrial kick-off was postponed to next Tuesday, at Maria's Restaurant at noon. Charles M. G. Wilder reported that vacation schedules of key workers interfered with previous plans. The division is broken into two groups.

Group A is headed by Robert Max of Multi-Amp, and team members include: I. M. Gross, Multi-Amp; William McKinlay, Bell Telephone; Boris Bergen, Bergen Camera Exchange; and Edwin Lewis, Union County Trust.

Group B is headed by Roy Burpee of Clark Door Co., and team members include: Donald McGinnis, Chamber of Commerce; Frank Hayes, Construction Specialties; Clinton Crane, Keel-Strong; Ronald Osherich, IBM; and Norman Roden, Roden Co.

Committee members named this week to the Special Golden Gifts division include: Charles Goodfellow, Jesse Patberg, Kenneth DeLonge, Harold Deen, Charles Ammann, W. W. Morris, Robert H. Harmon, Albert Schetelich, J. H. McAtter, Norman Brubaker, W. J. Miller, William Miller, Jr., Francis J. O'Reilly, S. E. Curtie, W. S. Craft, K. L. Estabrook, D. R.

Union Junior On Way Out

Today marks the end of the line for Union Junior College, because tomorrow the "two-year college of the academic disciplines" becomes Union College.

This means there will be four Union Colleges in the United States, and means headline writers and students will lose the convenient abbreviation of UJC.

"Despite the name change, we will remain a two-year college and we will continue our role as a transfer institution," Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, UJC president, said. "Everything remains the same except the name."

The other Union Colleges are located in Lincoln, Neb.; Barbourville, Ky.; and Schenectady, N. Y.

"Our name change is simply in line with a nationwide trend, which recognizes a two-year college as an institution of higher learning in every sense of that phrase," Dr. MacKay said. "The word 'junior' in our title was often considered by the public and especially by high school students to indicate inferiority or something less than college and in no way did it help to identify the institution."

The name change emphasizes the college's location in Union County, Dr. MacKay said, and its relationship with Union County in a new cooperative tuition aid plan with the Board of Freeholders, which provides grants of $400 annually to

Cranford Night to Open 'Sing-Out' at Carnegie Hall

Cranford residents are being given a special opportunity to view and participate in the "Up With People!" program to be presented by "Sing-Out," an enthusiastic group of young people sponsored by Moral Re-Armament, in Carnegie Hall, New York, next month.

The opening night of the production, Saturday, September 9, has been designated as Cranford Night, and tickets are available in advance at the office of Multi-Amp Corp., 61 Myrtle St.

"We have bought out almost the entire hall to enable our citizens to benefit from good, clean fun as well as to become aware of the honest down-to-earth message that Moral Re-Armament has to tell," I. M. Gross, head of Multi-Amp and president of the Cranford Chamber of Commerce, reported this week.

"Sing-Out" was born in 1965 during a youth conference held by Moral Re-Armament at Mackinac Island, Mich. Young people attending criticized the image of American youth being created by beatniks, draft card burners, campus rioters and protest marchers. They decided that to counteract "the screaming of the loud-mouthed, pacifist minority about 'what they're against' they would 'stage a demonstration of what we're for.'"

"If we're going to debunk the myth of a soft, indulgent, arrogant America and show the world that we care about tomorrow, we've got to sing-out our convictions loud and strong," one of the participants said.

As a result, a nucleus of 130 students canceled personal plans, sold their cars and emptied bank accounts to help finance the "Up With People" production. And with their convictions put to music in the fastest, freshest way possible, they took to the road to demonstrate a new purpose for their generation.

"Up With People!" soon multiplied from one touring cast to three, involving 600 young people, and 128 local "Sing-Out" groups sprang up in America in 1966 involving 10,000 youths.

In the ensuing months, "Up With People!" has been seen by 100 million people throughout this country on coast-to-coast television; seen by 25 million Germans on their national TV; sponsored in Washington, D. C., by 161 senators and congressmen, and toured 340 colleges and high school campuses, 81 military bases and four service academies.

"We are doing more than writing songs," says Herbert Allen, musical director of the "Sing-Out" spectacular. "We are attempting to set a trend."

"Protestors are writing songs against obvious wrongs in society. Some people are writing love songs. Others are writing excellent music with a general popular appeal, but few express in song" (Continued on Page 4)

Public Schools Open Next Thursday With Anticipated Enrollment of 6,300; Teacher Assignments Are Announced

Orientation Session Held For Teachers

"I am proud to be a member of the Board of Education and am proud of our community and its interest in education, which has made our present system possible," Robert P. Biunno, president of the Cranford school board, said yesterday at an orientation program for new teachers and other personnel at the Hillside Avenue Junior High School.

Mr. Biunno outlined the board's policies involving teachers in the areas of salaries, incentive fund, sabbatical leave, sick leave, health benefits, in-service training opportunities, grievance procedure, and extra compensation for activities.

"These policies are not designed to make your life easier," Mr. Biunno told the new teachers. "They exist to permit you to do a better job in teaching our youngsters. These policies would not be possible without the leadership of our superintendent and his staff."

Mr. Biunno said the school system's administration is designed to assist the teacher in the job of educating.

"We believe that additional academic training along with experience is vital in the difficult task of teaching young people in a changing environment," the board president said. "Even our policy of teacher evaluation is designed to improve your teaching and not to check on you."

Mr. Biunno outlined the requirements for membership on the Board of Education and the board's responsibilities. He presented a thumbnail sketch of each board member.

"Without our outstanding superintendent and his administrative staff, many of our accomplishments would not yet be fact in Cranford," Mr. Biunno said.

The board president was guest speaker at a luncheon for the new personnel.

Introduction of 'New English' Major Change in Curriculum

The introduction of a linguistic approach to the teaching of English, known in some educational circles as the "New English," into the curriculum of the Cranford public school system will be the major curricular change when the schools reopen next Thursday.

In this approach, grammar textbooks are based on the science of linguistics rather than the traditional Latinized grammatical forms that most Americans have studied, Dr. Anne V. Bailey, coordinator of language arts, said.

"The linguistics approach uses patterns of language as people speak them," Dr. Bailey said. "We take patterns people use in their every day speech and show the students how they can be used in reading, writing and speaking."

The linguistic approach to the teaching of English will begin this year at the third-grade level and will gradually be extended from the kindergarten through the 12th grades. Current plans call for introducing linguistics at the seventh grade level in September, 1968.

Another major curriculum advance will be the use of individualized reading at the third-grade level. The program was introduced last year at the second-grade level as a follow-up to the use of the Initial Teaching Alphabet at the first-grade level.

Under a program of individualized reading, each child reads at his own pace and teachers confer with students individually to discuss strengths and weaknesses in their reading ability. Dr. Bailey said. There is no grouping of pupils for reading under this plan.

All first grade classes in the Cranford public schools will continue the use of I.T.A. Cranford was one of the first school systems (Continued on Page 8)

All classes in the Cranford public school system will open next Thursday, September 7, with an anticipated enrollment of 6,300, it was reported today by Dr. Clark W. McDermith, superintendent of schools.

A year ago an enrollment of 6,290 was anticipated.

All teaching positions within the school system are filled for the opening of schools, it was reported by Anthony J. Terregino, director of supporting services. Mr. Terregino said the only unfilled positions are coordinators for mathematics, science and social studies. He said persons with the qualifications for these positions are extremely difficult to find.

The position of assistant director of curriculum and instruction has been filled with the hiring of Gabriel Massaro. Mr. Terregino said the position could not be filled during the 1966-67 school year.

The following assignments of personnel were announced by Dr. McDermith:

Bloomington Avenue and Roosevelt Schools — Thomas Tpalidi, principal; Mrs. Ruth Kurtz, helping teacher; Mrs. Mary Bogatko, art; Mrs. Virginia Schultz, music; Miss Jean Voorhees, physical education; Thomas Nicola, instrumental music; Mrs. Elizabeth Brake, librarian; and Mrs. Mary Karlson, nurse.

Hardy Patriots Defy Downpour In Newark March

The Cranford Patriots proved their mettle as they marched before more than 20,000 spectators under darkening skies in Newark's third annual Puerto Rican Day parade last Sunday afternoon.

Cranford's drum and bugle corps had just reached the City Hall reviewing stand occupied by Archbishop Thomas Boland, Governor Richard Hughes, Mayor Hugh Addonizio and other dignitaries when the clouds opened up with a drenching downpour, sending the crowds scurrying for cover but leaving the Patriots still marching up Broad St. like seasoned troubadours.

After the parade, through the combined efforts of the committee and members of the Parents' Auxiliary, a clean-up operation was begun, and in a short time all the uniforms and equipment were in top shape for Monday night's parade for St. Theresa's Carnival in Kenilworth.

The Patriots are scheduled to march this Saturday for the Morristown Resolute Hook and Ladder Co. in a firemen's parade to be held in Boonton, starting at 2 p.m.

There will be a meeting of the Parents' Auxiliary at the Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center, 216 Holly St., at 8 o'clock tonight.

Solomon Pastuzyn, president, issued an invitation to interested Union County residents to join the auxiliary. It is not necessary to have a child in the Patriots to be eligible.

Vincent P. Flanagan, president of the Cranford Drum and Bugle Corps Association, this week issued a special invitation to join the corps to any boys or girls living in Kenilworth who saw the Patriots marching there on Monday.

Interested young people between the ages of 10 and 17 years may attend the practice session held Friday evenings at 7:30 in the Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center.

Postmasters To Attend School

Postmasters Arthur Boertmann of Cranford, John Masterson of Garwood and Nicholas Capece of Kenilworth will be among those attending a two-day Postmaster Training School to be held at Princeton University next Wednesday and Thursday.

The unique school is a joint venture of the New Jersey Chapter, National Association of Postmasters, the Washington and Philadelphia headquarters staffs of the Post Office Department, and the Postal Inspection Service. It is designed to give the state's postal managers an opportunity to delve into areas that will better equip them to handle the daily complexities of their jobs, and prepare them to meet the rapid technological innovations taking shape in the Department.

Postmaster Joseph M. Gondola of Clinton, recently-elected president of the New Jersey Chapter, NAPUS, commented:

"These are trying times for New Jersey's postmasters. Most of us live in areas where residential and industrial patterns change constantly, and we must be prepared to skillfully implement techniques that will bring the mail home to our patrons as quickly and efficiently as possible. The Princeton experiment is set up to provide training in 25 special areas from which the postmaster can select."

Mr. Boertmann is a member of the executive committee of the state association and also a member of the credentials committee of

Careful Inventory Important Before Insurance Settlement

If your house is damaged as a result of fire, riot, or some other catastrophe, don't be in a rush to sign a settlement with an insurance adjuster. It could take a substantial bite out of what you are entitled to receive on your policy.

This was the warning issued today by Arthur G. Welch, president of the Union County Association of Independent Insurance Agents.

"It is natural for a home owner to want to collect as quickly as possible on his loss," Mr. Welch said, "but by doing so before making a careful inventory of his losses, he could be cheating himself out of a substantial sum."

"Before dealing with an adjuster, the policyholder should contact his independent insurance agent, whose primary responsibility is to the person to whom he sold the insurance," Mr. Welch advised.

As an advance precaution, Mr. Welch suggested that homeowners periodically make an inventory of their furnishings and other possessions. Forms for this purpose are obtainable from independent insurance agents, he said.

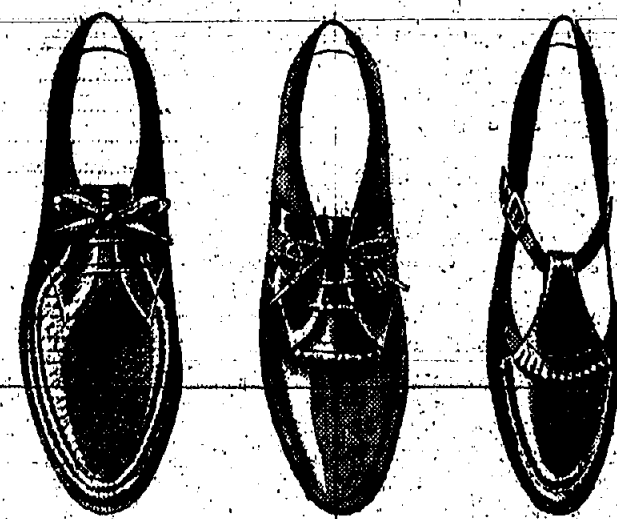

He also suggested that home owners review their policies at reasonable intervals with their independent insurance agents to provide for any changes in values, up or down, and to take advantage of new types of policies.

"Some home owners are paying more for their protection than is necessary," Mr. Welch declared. "A number of new policies have been developed in recent years that may be more suitable for a home owner's needs than his existing policy and will actually cost him less. His independent insurance agent can provide him with details on what is available."

Mr. Welch said that the recent disturbances in Newark and other New Jersey cities revealed that a large number of people do not have adequate protection.

"In some areas of the country, it

Nylon, Tough Man-Made Fiber, Has Many Uses

By CAROLYN F. YUKNUS Senior County Home Economist

Nylon is the most versatile man-made fiber and has become a general household word in less than 30 years.

This wonder fiber was first introduced in October, 1938, at a New York World's Fair preview and rumors flew that nylon was a "miracle" fiber that would "never wear out."

Although nylon was first introduced in toothbrush bristles and fishing leaders, its early major impact was in women's sheer hosiery.

After serving in World War II, nylon came back to civilian use in 1946. Since then, nylon has found a wide range of uses from apparel and home furnishings to industrial and recreational equipment. Today, nylon is found in delicate lingerie, sturdy luggage, mammoth balloons, brushes, defense installation coverings, tents, surfing gear, wedding veils, automobile tires, carpeting, golf balls and countless other items.

Nylon's toughness, non-absorbency, heat-setting property, resiliency, resistance to abrasion, resistance to insect damage and mildew are some of the properties that have become familiar to many.

New developments in nylon production are going to be available soon. One is the creation of a tri-jobal nylon filament that will provide unique luster. The other development is a high temperature resistant nylon.

With all of nylon's versatility, it is still one of the easiest to launder. Basically, nylon is easy to remove, and it dries quickly and requires little or no ironing if directions are followed carefully.

It is important to recognize that nylon has some disadvantages that need to be considered in relation to end use. Nylon is damaged by sunlight, accumulates static electricity, is affected by acid substances, tends to retain body oils and perspiration and is a bad color scavenger.

These disadvantages should be kept in mind in caring for nylon garments to the extent that white nylon should never be washed with other colored clothes, and a fabric softener should be used to reduce static electricity. Hanging nylon lingerie in the sun can cause yellowing, and a hot iron setting will melt the fiber.

Marihuana, Pornography Arrests Here

Police investigating a party in progress at 302 Centennial Ave. at 10:25 p.m. on August 19 discovered a package of marihuana in the rear yard, Police Chief Matthew T. Haney reported.

The area was staked out, and approximately one hour later John F. Carew, 24, of 119 North Ave., W., was taken into custody when, according to the police report, he entered the yard and picked up the package.

Subsequent investigation, Chief Haney reported, revealed pornographic films in a car in which Victor Colosi, 26, and Robert Callow, 23, both of Brooklyn, were found waiting for Carew.

All three were charged with possession of pornographic films and Carew also was charged with possession of marihuana.

They were released in hall of $250 for Carew and $100 each for Colosi and Callow, pending arraignment in Municipal Court.

The investigation was conducted by Sgt. Harry W. Wilde, Detective Stephen D. Schlapak and Patrolmen Leonard Miller and William A. Connell.

With servicemen in Vietnam and other trouble spots around the world as well as in training camps, what has been called "the world's largest Bible reading class" takes on special significance for military personnel this year. More than 40 million people all over the world are expected to participate as the American Bible Society's World-wide Bible Reading program and National Bible Week of the Laymen's National Committee are combined for the first time this year.

The Cranford Police Reserves are in need of additional personnel to complete the unit's roster. Interested men are requested to contact Police Chief Matthew T. Haney at police headquarters in the Municipal Building.

Guides to Buying Fresh Vegetables Of the Season

By ANNE L. SHELEN County Home Economist

Include the fresh vegetables of the season often in your menu plans. From now until frost, you should find many opportunities for using them in order to add a unique color, flavor and texture to your meals.

Some of the more prevalent varieties available and guides for purchasing them include the following information.

Fresh beets are marketed four beets to the bunch with the tops left on. When choosing beets, size is your best guide to quality. Beets measuring from one to one and a half inches in diameter are more tender than larger sizes. Plan to use the greens. They contain valuable vitamins and minerals, and have a definite place in the menu.

Eggplant, also in season, may be a little higher in price this year due to a smaller crop.

Quality eggplant is small in size and can be long and thin, an elongated sphere, or bell shaped. Gloss and color are important points to consider. Glossy eggplants have better flavor, as compared to those colored a dark, intense purple. The calyx, or five-pointed top, is another sign of quality. Depending on the variety, it should be either green or purple and appear fresh. If brown, it is an indication the eggplant was picked too late.

Iceberg, Boston and romaine lettuce, as well as escarole and endive, are also in season. The escarole crop is 14 percent above a year ago, which would suggest it to be a wise consumer choice.

Heroism on Forrestal Told In Letter From Commander

The tragic fire aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal off the coast of North Vietnam on July 28 brought sorrow into the lives of many who lost loved ones, but it also has brought pride to families of men serving on the carrier as a result of praise expressed by their commanding officer.

This was revealed when John N. Thompson, whose son, John, Jr., serves with an attack squadron on the Forrestal, forwarded a "Familygram" from the commanding officer, Capt. John K. Belling.

"In the very first minutes of our tragedy I realized how maligned the youth of America really is," Capt. Belling wrote. "By their valor, bravery and general concern for their own lives, and their determination to save the ship, your men in Forrestal were examples of American youth at its best. To me, these are the finest men in the world. Words alone cannot describe their efforts and bravery in the face of danger and tragedy."

The letter went on to describe how the men responded instantly when the Fire Quarters call was sounded after a plane fuel tank broke open and spewed forth volatile fuel which caught fire and spread through a line of aircraft.

"The action of many was heroic—above and beyond the call of duty," Capt. Belling related. "For one example, a chief petty officer, armed with only a CO2 bottle fire extinguisher, ran up to a bomb in the middle of the fire, followed by men with fire hoses."

Crew members, risking their lives, assisted pilots out of their aircraft. But then the bomb which the chief was attempting to cool, exploded, killing the chief and a number of other men in the area. The exploding bomb ruptured more fuel tanks, additional bombs detonated, and the fire raged throughout the after areas of the ship.

"As the fire spread, our concern moved to other areas where aircraft with ordnance were ready for the next strike. If fire had reached these aircraft, it could have spelled disaster for the ship and crew.

"As bombs were exploding aft, men rushed immediately to offload weapons from aircraft and to jettison all other ordnance on the flight deck and hanger deck. Individually and together, they carried bombs weighing 250, 500 and 750 pounds, missiles and rockets to the deck edges and tossed them over the side. Then they turned to assist those fighting the fire . . ."

"The men were at General Quarters for 26 hours and continued to work for another 24 hours. They were so ambitious we couldn't pass the word for 20 volunteers, because hundreds would answer the call. Exhausted, tired yet filled with determination, we arrived in Subic Bay on Monday, July 31, for the shipyard experts to assess the damage."

"The damage Forrestal sustained necessitates her return to a shipyard in the United States. Thus enters the sole happy note in the tragic affair—namely that our men will be reunited with their loved ones soon."

"The letter noted that 182 men lost their lives in the tragedy and that two men are missing without hope of recovery."

"Their sacrifices and those of their families were made for freedom," the commanding officer wrote. "Forrestal and Air Wing 17 had trained and were present here to continue the United States effort in securing the freedom of the people of South Vietnam. Successful strikes against North Vietnam had been conducted for several days before the tragedy. The men who died and those who were injured made their contribution for the cause of freedom around the world.

"The men of Forrestal have always performed magnificently in fulfilling their responsibilities, but never have they served their Navy and their country with greater valor than our crew did on July 28, 1967. Many of our brave Forrestal men gave their lives that other shipmates might live. Heroism was commonplace and even after two weeks of careful investigation of all aspects of this disaster, not one single case of cowardice has been reported."

"Our news media have recently devoted much front page space to the doings of draft card burners, LSD, 'hippies' and a few vociferous leaders of one ethnic group's rebellious element," Mr. Thompson wrote in a letter accompanying the forwarded "Familygram."

"Lest the American public be misled into thinking this represents the best efforts of American youth, I offer evidence to the contrary."

Mr. Thompson's son, a graduate of Cranford High School, has been in the service two and one-half years. He and another Cranford man, Richard F. Korse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Korse of 6 Garden Pl., a fire technician on the Forrestal, escaped injury during the fire. They were not on the flight deck at the time the fire broke out because they were off duty and one was sleeping and the other getting a haircut.

The Forrestal left Subic Bay on the way back to the United States on August 11.

"It goes without saying that the men will be happy to return to their loved ones," Capt. Belling wrote. "The date on which we will arrive in Norfolk has not been established. However, approximately 36 days will be required for the transit. The news media in Norfolk will be notified well in advance."

The Cranford Police Reserves are in need of additional personnel to complete the unit's roster. Interested men are requested to contact Police Chief Matthew T. Haney at police headquarters in the Municipal Building.

NJEA Urges Police Status Upgrading

The New Jersey Education Association has endorsed as "a social necessity" a recent proposal by Governor Richard J. Hughes to upgrade the salaries of the State Police and the training of all policemen.

"This is a step toward making police work an inviting profession for able and idealistic young people," said Dr. Frederick L. Hipp, executive secretary of the 58,000-member state teachers' association.

"You can't hand just anyone a gun and say he's a policeman," Dr. Hipp warned.

"As the city representative meets continually in contact with the people, the modern-day policeman has to be sensitive to the problems, pressures, and motivations of all segments of the population. Anyone should feel free to ask him for protection, assistance, or advice—and get it promptly, considerately, and thoroughly."

Rutgers University and Ocean County College are establishing two-year programs in police science—stressing psychology, sociology and community relations as well as criminology—to help develop policemen who are community leaders.

"NJEA hopes these new college programs attract the highest type of high school graduate," Dr. Hipp said. "However, this is not likely unless the public makes drastic, early improvements in the salaries and working conditions of policemen and in the popular view of police work as a muscle job for those with strong backs."

NJEA disagreed with Governor Hughes' statement that paying higher police salaries is "up to individual communities." Instead, the NJEA executive suggested that the state establish a minimum salary schedule for policemen just as it has for teachers, along with minimum standards for policemen.

Minimum floors placed under teacher salaries have effectively reduced the teacher shortage of the past 20 years, Dr. Hipp said, adding:

"Many good persons who would previously have bypassed the classroom were assured of half-way reasonable pay in the least of our school systems. This not only boosted teacher morale but so established New Jersey's reputation in neighboring states that thousands of out-of-state teachers have been attracted here to keep our schools staffed with qualified instructors."

"Society can only benefit by doing the same thing for police. The result will be police forces known not for the number of arrests they record but the number of crimes they prevent."

Floor Care For Kitchen

By CAROLYN F. YUKNUS
Senior County Home Economist

Care of the kitchen floor is often a concern of many homemakers. First of all, how often should a kitchen floor be scrubbed? There is no exact schedule, but when dirt sticks to the floor and cannot be picked up with a vacuum cleaner, or when the wax cannot be buffed to a sheen, then floor coverings except wood and cork should be scrubbed.

Undoubtedly the best way to scrub a floor is to use electric floor care equipment. A solution of detergent and ammonia can be used to remove old wax. Other methods of floor scrubbing include using a mop or the old hands, knees and scrub brush method.

In floor care it is important to rinse thoroughly. Residue from dissolved wax and detergent can cause a poor wax job. If detergent remains on the floor, the following wax application may be streaked or slippery.

A water base wax may be used on kitchen floors other than wood or cork. A solvent base wax can be used on materials other than asphalt or rubber tile.

One thin coat of self-polishing wax is usually sufficient for most floors, but two thin coats of a buffable wax gives a better finish. However, each coat should be buffed before applying the next coat. Wax should be thoroughly dry before it is polished. The length of drying time is determined by the humidity in the room.

The amount of traffic usually determines how often kitchen floors should be waxed. When floors look dingy, or when buffable wax cannot be buffed to a sheen, or when self-polishing wax loses its shine, it is time to damp-mop or scrub and re-wax.

Traffic lanes can be re-waxed if a buffable wax has been used. It is not wise to mix types of wax.

Do not apply self-polishing wax over a buffable wax for good results. Even different brands of the same type will not be as effective. If used on top of each other without first removing the old wax.

Self-polishing waxes build up on the floor and should be removed for best results. Buffable waxes do not build up and additional coats may be applied.

tems in New Jersey to adopt ITA for all first grade students.
At the secondary level, the second stage of a three-year plan to revise the literature offerings in the seventh through 12th grades will go into effect. The first stage a year ago was the introduction of American literature at the 10th grade, while the second stage will be the introduction of British literature at the 11th grade this year.
In September, 1968, world literature will be introduced at the 12th grade. The teaching of literature now begins in the seventh and eighth grades with the introduction of basic concepts.
In the field of mathematics, an algebra course will be added at the eighth grade level. All first through sixth grades will continue to use a new contemporary mathematics textbook, "Elementary School Mathematics," which was introduced last year.
A new course in sociology will be offered at Cranford High School in an expansion of the social studies curriculum. School officials said the course should be of interest to all students "to gain a realistic understanding of some of the complex social problems of our day." A new course in "Far Eastern Civilization" was introduced into the curriculum a year ago and will be offered again this year.

Mrs. Marica Lallis, director of curriculum and instruction, said she will head a committee "to examine our curriculum offerings in the seventh through 12th grades in all areas in order to identify strengths, weaknesses, or problems and to suggest course additions or deletions in light of what experiences are good for the individual child and the future trends of each discipline."
The committee will re-examine the philosophy of the school system, review individual subject areas in relation to that philosophy, assess the course offerings in each discipline, and suggest changes (deletions and/or addition of courses), Mrs. Lallis said.

Dr. McDermith urged all residents not to call the schools or the central office to determine if schools are open.
"It is most essential in such abnormal situations that telephone lines not be blocked by a flood of inquiring calls," Dr. McDermith said. "Telephone lines and attending personnel should be allowed to handle the essential task of dealing with the emergency situation. The safety and welfare of many people may depend on your understanding cooperation in this matter."

The Hall's daughter, Eleanor, should have little trouble talking to Eileen since the local girl spent a college semester last year in Taiwan.
Unfortunately, Eleanor, a student at Beloit College, Beloit, Wis., will have only a day to get acquainted, because she is leaving tomorrow to resume her college career.
Eleanor is not the only member of her family who has lived in China. Her maternal grandfather, Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, was a missionary on the mainland, and her mother spent the first five years of her life in a town outside of Peking.

Eileen, a chemistry student, was graduated from National Taiwan University, and she hopes to teach. She will be the fifth foreign guest to stay with the Halls. The first three were from Germany and the most recent was Judy Valentine of England, Cranford's first American Field Service-exchange student.
Mr. and Mrs. Goscinsky are playing host to their second foreign student, Alexander Hoffmann, 23, of Langen, Germany. Alexander will leave September 11 for Trenton State College, where he will study for a bachelor's degree in physical education. In Germany, he attained the University of Frankfurt.
He enjoys classical music and has traveled all over Europe. Mrs. Goscinsky reports that he "gets along fine" with her teenagers, and "he doesn't need much to keep him busy."
Mr. and Mrs. Patberg's guest is Julio Fabrega of Panama. The 23-year-old Central American arrived here yesterday from Princeton University, where he was studying in the graduate school. Julio is the only one who is not planning to teach. Following in his father's footsteps, he wants to be a lawyer and will enter Harvard Law School on September 10.

Football Prospects Bright At Cranford High This Fall With Many Lettermen Back

Cranford High School's football prospects this fall loom brighter than in many years with more than a dozen lettermen returning from last year's team which had a 7-1-1 record. There also are several excellent prospects up from last season's junior varsity and freshman squads.

Head Coach Merle Jones has called double practice sessions for tomorrow, the first day high school teams are permitted to start fall drills. In order to accommodate several prospective players who are holding down summer jobs, there will be a session from 6:30 to 10:30 a.m. and another from 6 to 7:30 p.m., both at the high school field. Candidates were given physical examinations at the school Tuesday morning.

Coach Jones has a seasoned quarterback returning in Roy Knauser, who threw 34 TDs last year as well as going over the goal line five times himself in leading the Cougar gridder to the best record for a Cranford High team since 1935.

Other lettermen back include Ray Mazzola and Ron Delonge, who are the leading candidates for the halfback spots, while Mark Nordstrom, who sparkled on defense last season, is expected to fill the fullback post.

The coach noted that the team suffered a key loss during the past winter when Mark Detering, line-backer and halfback on last year's varsity, broke his leg in a skiing accident and will not be able to participate in sports in his senior year.

Top lettermen candidates for the important end positions are Jim Nolan, Steve Holleran, Paul Carbone and Charles Birchett.

Letterman Jim Dow is expected to get the nod at the center post, while linemen returning from last season include Mark Ullom, Gary Kamin and Sal LaFerra. Chuck Popik, Ken Korn and Bill Haney are back at tackle positions.

Coach Jones pointed out that most of his returning lettermen played defense last season when the Cougars were rated as one of the strongest defensive teams in the area. He added that all are seasoned and have "an excellent attitude" and "a desire to win."

Two sophomore backs expected to see action with the varsity this fall are speedy Henry Hearn and Tom Smithers, both of whom were standouts on last year's freshman squads.

Cranford meets Linden in the opening game of the season at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, September 23, at Memorial Field. This will be followed by two other equally challenging contests against Westfield and Clark.

The final game in the Cranford Baseball League's summer invitation tournament is scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday at the Patrick J. Grall Field.

With both Cranford teams still in contention, interest is running high locally as well as among other teams remaining in the tournament.

Berkeley Heights and Maplewood were eliminated this week by virtue of losses to Winfield Park and Newark, respectively.

Two games are slated for the week and one ended in a draw after six innings as darkness set in. The Cranford Nationals defeated Roselle Park 5-3 Saturday in a game called in the top of the sixth because of rain. With Rich Klein on the mound, Cranford allowed no runs until the third when Park combined hits by M. Kelly and S. Karchonas plus a walk and an error to tally twice. The local team previously had taken a 4-0 lead in the first inning on two walks and hits by Tom Donovan and Norm Hobbie. Roselle Park scored again in the fourth on a walk followed by a hit by Veltre. In the bottom of the inning, Cranford scored a run on hits by Prutzman, Donovan and Klein. Donovan struck out the side, in the sixth, with two out and two men on base as a result of walks, the deluge came and the game was called.

The Cranford Americans blanked Berkeley Heights 3-0 Monday evening. Feature of the game was a first inning homer by Mike Cuchle who scored two runners ahead of him.

Colonia and Plainfield Americans played six innings of scoreless ball on Sunday. Bob Hess of Plainfield and Mike Allan of Colonia, the opposing pitchers, allowed only one and two hits, respectively. In the top of the seventh, with Blake on the mound for Plainfield, Jacks singled, Franken filed to right, Jacks advanced on a wild pitch, Allan singled and Jacks scored, Allan going to third on the throw. Allan scored on a wild pitch to give Colonia a 2-0 lead. In the bottom of the inning, Jenkins was hit by a pitched ball, Blake sent a grounder to the first baseman who flected to try to get the runner at second but a bad throw saw both runners safe. Martino hit to the pitcher who made a bad throw to second and all runners were safe. Bowden, a pinch-hitter, doubled to right, to bring in two runs with runners on second and third. Caulfield bunted to first to score the winning tally.

Clark defeated Winfield Park 3-0 Monday evening on a fifth inning two run homer by Joe Kellerman off Ken Gerhart, the Winfield Park pitcher.

Sandy Selby, Ty Hill and Bill Moody also were triple medal winners. Sandy won three silver medals, taking second in the 15-17 year old girls 50 meter butterfly, breaststroke and freestyle events. Ty Hill won silver medals in the 15-17 year boys 50 meter butterfly and backstroke, and a third place bronze medal in the 50 meter freestyle. Bill Moody won a silver medal for 13-14 year old boys 50 meter backstroke, and bronze medals for 50 meter breaststroke and freestyle events.

Bob Tudor took a silver medal for the 8-years and under 25 meter freestyle, and a bronze medal for the 9-10 year old boys individual medley.

Rhonda Wenrick took first in the 13-14 year old girls 50 meter breaststroke while Tracey Lyon won a silver medal for the 13-14 year old girls 50 meter breaststroke.

Laurel Pringle and Linda Robinson carried home bronze medals. Laurel took third in the 8 and under girls 25 meter freestyle and Linda for the 9-10 year old girls 25 meter freestyle.

Ted Osborne won a bronze medal for the 13-14 year old boys 50 meter backstroke.

Coach Bob Polhemus of the Cranford Swim Club accepted the trophy for second place in the Union County Summer Swim League on behalf of the club.

A novice meet, swim team awards and coke party Saturday will mark the end of an active season for members of the swim team. The affair will be held at the Cranford Swim Club.

The novice meet, for those who have not placed first in any race this season, will start at 10 a.m. Following the meet, Coach Polhemus will award trophies to team members who then will be guests of the club at the party.

The Cranford Police Reserves are in need of additional personnel to complete the unit's roster. Interested men are requested to contact Police Chief Matthew T. Haney at police headquarters in the Municipal Building.

Women do not start smoking as early, do not inhale as deeply, and have not smoked as long as men, the Union County Heart Association points out. But the closer women's smoking habits approach those of men, the closer do their disease and death rates reach the levels recorded for men.

Local Women Play Tonight For Net Title

It will be an all Cranford affair in the finals of the Union County women's doubles tennis tournament at 6 p.m. today at Warrinanco Park, Elizabeth.

Top-seeded June Stevens and Liz Patberg will face second-seeded Karen Andersen and Cymme Phelan for the county title.

Miss Stevens and Mrs. Patberg reached the finals by defeating Sandy Stevens of Cranford and Ann Clark of Clark, 6-1, 6-0. Miss Andersen and Miss Phelan eliminated Ruth Nutt and Mary Dickson, 6-1, 6-0, after defeating Jill and Billie Warrington, 6-4, 6-1.

Candy Stevens and Ann Clark previously defeated Kay Crane and Jean Miller, 6-0, 6-1.

The Cranford Swimming Club relay team placed second in the Union County Summer Swim League relay championships held at the local swim club.

Final scores were: Manor Park, 120; Cranford, 84; Beacon Hill, 80; and Mountaintide, 74.

Members of the winning girls' 13-14 year old relay team were Anne Grall, Rhonda Wenrick, Tracey Lyon and Joanne Brooks of Cranford, who won both the freestyle and medley relays.

Ted Osborne, Bob Duncan, Dean Howell and J. D. Lancaster of Cranford were members of the boys' 13-14 year old relay team which won the free style and medley relays.

Application blanks may be obtained at the Sportsman's Shop, Cranford Sport Center or the Public Library.

Mr. Faxon described his No. 5 wood shot as "a beautiful golf shot." He said it hit the green and slowly rolled toward the cup and then disappeared.

The local golfer tallied his other hole-in-one 43 years ago on the old sixth hole at Echo Lake.

Karen Andersen Wins Women's Tennis Title

Karen Andersen successfully defended her Cranford Recreation Committee singles tennis title by defeating Candy Borges 6-1, 6-3, during the past week. Miss Andersen, who will enter her sophomore year at Colby College next month, had a stronger serve and also was able to take charge of play by gaining control at the net.

The victor reached the finals by edging Candy Pantano 9-7, 8-6. Miss Pantano played for the Montclair State team, and she nearly upset the defending champion with her steady baseline game.

Miss Borges gained the finals by defeating Mrs. Elizabeth Patberg 6-3, 6-1. Miss Borges consistently out-volleyed Mrs. Patberg to gain the win.

June and Sandy Stevens successfully defended the women's doubles title by edging Mrs. Billie Warrington and Mrs. Patberg 7-5, 6-4. The winners-up had a 5-3 lead in the first set, but were unable to win the crucial sixth game. Previous rounds saw the Stevens sisters defeat Miss Pantano and Miss Borges 6-2, 7-5, while Mrs. Patberg and Mrs. Warrington downed Cymme Phelan and Karen Andersen 6-2, 6-2.

In the mixed doubles, second seeded Bill Foreman and Miss Anne Patberg and June Stevens, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3 for the title. The match was unusual in that there were only two games which went to deuce, and the play went all for one team or the other. The Patberg-Stevens duo reached the finals by upsetting the defending champions, Miss Borges and Ed Faulkner, 6-2, 6-8.

The Foreman-Andersen team defeated Jack Robinson and Mrs. Evelyn Turner 6-1, 6-4.

Tournament Director Tom Beam expressed thanks to all of the participants in the tournaments.

VICTORY — John Lenkey III triumphantly holds Rutgers flag and flags of United States and Japan after his arduous and dangerous climb to top of Japan's highest peak, famed Mount Fujiyama. Climb was high point of scheme dreamed up by Lenkey, a 1955 Rutgers University College graduate and resident of Fort Lee, to plant Rutgers flag on famous mountains to mark the 1966 Rutgers Bicentennial. In inset, Sherpa guide Tenzeng Norkay — director of the Himalayan Mountaineering Institute and companion to Sir Edmund Hillary in his historic conquest of Mt. Everest — and Lenkey hold Rutgers signature flag at the Institute, in Darjeeling, India.

Rutgers Flag to Fly on Tops Of Five Famous Mountains

Not even a brush with sudden death on the snow-dusted slopes of the Matterhorn is going to halt an attempt to place the Rutgers University flag on five of the world's most celebrated mountains.

John Lenkey III, a 1955 graduate of the University College evening division at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, postponed an attempt to scale the famous Swiss peak last June shortly after tragedy struck. A member of an experienced team of Japanese mountaineers preceding Lenkey's party up the Matterhorn, in heavy weather and without a guide, was killed.

The idea of planting the Rutgers flag on the famous mountain peaks was dreamed up by Mr. Lenkey and the late Ernest Gardner, who was then director of alumni relations, as part of the 1966 Rutgers Bicentennial celebration. It has no official university backing.

The unsuccessful attempt to scale the Matterhorn was made after the flag had been planted on Mount Kosciusko in Australia, Mount Fujiyama in Japan, and the slopes of Mount Everest in Nepal, the world's highest peak. It will be placed on Mount Whitney, in California, in the fall.

Mr. Lenkey, an international businessman and resident of Fort Lee, now is toying with the idea of starting a Rutgers Alpine Club to "storm the Matterhorn" after a group airplane flight from New Jersey to Switzerland.

"But I'll turn over the flag that failed right now to any Rutgers student or alumnus who wants to carry it to the top of the Matterhorn when the weather is good, this month or in September," said Mr. Lenkey on a recent visit to the Rutgers campus. "It's no job for someone who's been deskbound. But even a rank amateur can do it in August or September if he is in good physical condition and doesn't get giddy at high altitudes."

Mr. Lenkey added that at this time of the year the Swiss guides would guarantee to get a climber to the top.

If he can't find any takers, Mr. Lenkey may simply go back alone next year, but whatever the decision it seems certain that any future attempt to scale the Matterhorn will be made in better weather.

When Mr. Lenkey and his party made their attempt in June the Matterhorn was covered with snow and there were no guides available who were willing to risk the climb to the peak. He reported in a telegram to the Rutgers Alumni office that his party had halted at 10,700 feet, where it was so foggy and cloudy that the major slope could not be seen. It was at this point that one member of a Japanese team from Osaka was killed a short distance ahead, and the other injured seriously.

Aside from the Matterhorn, only Fujiyama has presented any real difficulty, but let Mr. Lenkey describe that climb of last March 8: "About 120 meters from the top the sun had passed over the rim and the temperature, which was minus 22 degrees centigrade, really felt it. We paused on the roof of the last hut and threw on every last piece of clothing and gloves we had in our packs.

"The wind blew down the slope into our faces trying to pry us away from the ice slope. One slip or one patch of rotten ice and you would fall about 4,000 feet. Eight climbers had been killed so far this winter on this same ice face. Dead slow, Shiratori (a guide) led us up about one step every five seconds for safety."

"A U. S. Air Force F-102 flew past, banked and came around inverted to look us over. His jet nozzle thunder was the last thing in the world we wanted — it could loosen the ice we were climbing on. We waved him away. I doubt if he saw, but he went away."

Robert McBride, president of the Rutgers Club of Southern California, will lead the expedition to plant the Rutgers flag on Mount Whitney this fall. McBride said that he expects a dozen club members to volunteer and that they may camp overnight at the 10,000-foot level in order to reach the peak as the sun rises over Death Valley, about 85 miles away, and return the next day.

Harry J. McCarty, chief forest adviser of the USAID mission to Nepal, and his teenage son, Gary, planted the Rutgers flag on the slopes of Mount Everest on April 19: "It was firmly lashed to a stout flag pole and planted in rocks at the highest point in the area above the American camp site and some 18,000 feet above the base camp.

When Mr. Lenkey approached Mr. McCarty about planting the Rutgers flag on Everest, Mr. McCarty at first pretended to be reluctant to do so. He pointed out that he was a graduate of Utah State and that Rutgers had upset the supposedly unbeatable Utah State basketball team in the National Invitation Tournament. Mr.

McCarty finally agreed after Mr. Lenkey swore him in as an honorary member of the Rutgers Alumni Association. The exhausting and treacherous climb on loose rocks covered with snow took five and one-half days.

Mr. Lenkey originally planned to drop the Rutgers flag on Everest from a small airplane, which could be rented at $3 a minute but was informed by the Nepalese that if permission was granted, which was doubtful, he would have to use a larger plane at $19 a minute. The reason was, Mr. Lenkey had every reason to believe, that he could be accompanied by the required military observers only in a larger plane.

Mount Kosciusko, the highest elevation in Australia, is only 7,314 feet above sea level, but planting the flag there had an amusing after effect. On the afternoon of the day Mr. Lenkey and a young Australian university instructor had raised the flag on Mount Kosciusko, a Rutgers graduate — A. H. Burkhardt, Class of 1928 — went to the top of Kosciusko and was amazed to find the Rutgers flag flying there. Mr. Burkhardt wrote to the Rutgers Alumni Office inquiring whether anyone there knew who had raised the Rutgers flag in such an unlikely spot.

The Cranford Police Reserves are in need of additional personnel to complete the unit's roster. Interested men are requested to contact Police Chief Matthew T. Haney at police headquarters in the Municipal Building.

Act Now to Help Cut Holiday Traffic Toll

"Most of us think of a traffic accident as happening very suddenly. To the driver and his passengers it does seem sudden. However, the more we are able to understand accidents, the more we can observe that accidents and their consequent injuries result from a sequence of events that began a long time before."

As we approach another long Labor Day weekend with its dire forecasts of increased traffic tolls, all motorists would do well to ponder the above statement made in a booklet of highway accident data ("Was It Sudden?") published by the Travelers Insurance Companies.

There are many ways in which individual drivers can help to break the chain of events leading up to a traffic accident, the booklet notes, and the following suggestions are made as to what you can do to help prevent the accident in the first place:

Maintain your car. Faulty lights and brakes led the list of causes for rejecting nearly half a million cars in a 1966 nationwide safety check.

Practice "defensive driving." Keep fit and healthy. If you have any complaints, consult your physician. Make sure your vision is sharp.

Limit your driving when you are tired, ill, emotionally upset, under medication, etc.

Don't drive if you are under the influence of alcohol.

Adjust your speed to highway, weather, traffic and other conditions. Plan, so as to avoid hurried driving. Don't rush. It is much better to telephone ahead to say you'll be late.

Keep your temper under control. On new cars, look for these standard or optional safety features: Braking system with back-up feature in case of failure; four-way flasher; side marker and back-up lights; non-glare surfaces on wiper arms, horn ring, etc.; outside rear view mirror; two-speed windshield wipers not affected by engine load; windshield washers; tires suitable for your driving.

On used cars, be sure to have a competent check-up covering brakes, lights, steering, tires, exhaust, glass, wipers and washers, mirrors and horn, etc. Update your driving skills. Take a driver refresher course.

Support better law enforcement, highway improvement, improved driver licensing, etc.

The following suggestions are given to help reduce the likelihood of injury in the so-called "second collision" of driver and passengers against the interior of the car in the event that you have an accident:

For the front seats use "three-point" seatbelts (having diagonal upper body belt). Provide seatbelts for all back seat passengers.

Try to obtain doorlocks that children can't open unintentionally.

Keep articles off the rear shelf of your car.

Fasten the spare tire, tire jack and all tools securely.

Always remember: The higher the speed, the greater the severity of the accident.

In choosing a new or used car, look for interior design features, such as padded dashboard, that reduce the severity of impact injuries.

Also look for impact protection from the steering control system.

If you ever need to replace the windshield, be sure to specify the new safety glass called for by the new federal standards.

To help reduce the likelihood of serious injury or death following an accident, the booklet suggests:

Take a first aid refresher course. Carry warning flares, a first aid kit, flashlight, etc.

There is still time to take many of the above suggested steps before taking to the road over the Labor Day weekend and thus help prevent yourself and members of your family from becoming statistics in the annual holiday traffic toll report.

And year-round observance of all of those suggestions by every motorist would do much to reduce this country's annual traffic accident toll, which in 1966 reached 52,500 deaths and almost 4,500,000 injuries.

Nature Notes

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER

STONE HARBOR — There are 20 or 30 laughing gulls lined up on the peak of the roof across the street facing into the storm wind, half a dozen house sparrows doing the same thing on the fence surrounding the house next door and three unused rolls of color film lined up on the table in our dining room. The film is not likely to get used if the rain continues the way it has since last Saturday night. This has not been the week for bird watching, sunning or swimming in the surf.

Before the rains began on last Friday I set out to take some pictures of the various markings on laughing gulls this time of year. Normally in summer they have black heads that are quite distinctive. Late in August they molt and acquire their winter plumage which includes a mottled head. I'd often seen the gulls feeding along the beach, picking up popcorn, potato chips or, in one case, a cigar butt. They frequently land in someone's backyard for table scraps. So I loaded the camera, took some wholewheat bread and went up to the beach.

I broke the bread into small pieces and threw them along the mark left by the receding waves, walked 30 or 40 feet toward the bulkhead, sat down and focused on the bait. There wasn't long to wait. Three gulls appeared almost before I was set, swooping low, looking over the food. Finally they decided I was not out to harm them and settled down on the sand and walked over to the bread. Fortunately one was in winter plumage already so I was lucky in that respect. He and one of the black-headed individuals obligingly posed together so I could get the picture I wanted. Just to be sure I snapped the other 19 exposures on the roll and went back to sunning.

The rain stopped for a short while on Sunday evening so we went for a walk on the beach. Far up the coast was a huge flock of laughing gulls milling about in the air near one of the town's pavilions. As we neared the activity, we could see someone was tossing food up into the air and the gulls were catching it. There were 75 or 100 birds in the flock. The food was potato chips, bread and buttered popcorn. At least three birds would dive at each morsel and the one who got the brass ring would quickly swoop away while he swallowed. Then he'd rejoin the flock and mill about some more, jockeying for a new run.

When we reached the edge of Avalon, we decided it was time to come back as the clouds looked threatening. Walking along First Ave., which borders the ocean, we noticed a number of gulls availing themselves of fresh water in puddles in the street for drinking and bathing. Just as the herring gulls come to Cranford to bathe in the river, their laughing cousins use whatever fresh water is available near the ocean. Sometimes they help themselves out of a backyard bird bath.

One of the projects I'd hoped to get done this year was determining where the territory of the herring gull stopped north of here and where that of the laughing gull began. Maybe next week will be better, weatherwise, and I'll have a chance to find out.

Begin Traffic Safety Lessons Before Child Enters School

By MABEL G. STOLTE

"A 4-year-old child was seriously injured yesterday when she ran into the street after a ball. Witnesses said that Janie Brown darted between parked cars into the path of . . ."

Stories like this are constantly appearing in our newspapers. Your child doesn't know instinctively that flames will burn him. He must either learn the hard way or be taught.

Have you restored to scolding, punishment or the warning method? This seldom works. It may also frighten your youngster because he's too young to understand.

Before your child enters the first grade or kindergarten he can be taught without frightening him. Teach him that the street is for automobiles — never for play.

Teach him to find a crosswalk each time he wants to cross the street. Make sure he looks before he steps from the curb and pauses when he wants to cross the street.

Start teaching your baby about traffic before he is old enough to play outside an enclosed yard. It will be more difficult if you have to re-educate him after habits of street play have been formed.

Start the training in an enclosed backyard. Make believe you are taking a walk and set up imaginary streets and crosswalks. Paper can be used to mark off the

Summer Camp Exodus
Ah, this is the season of the year that many parents have learned to fear;

Instead of just Junior and his trunk, they depart with a car full of junk.

Camp Chatter
"The answer is 'No.' Daddy read the fine print in the lease, and you can't keep a skunk in our apartment."

Camp Counselor's Soliloquy
A fond farewell, my little lads, your departure fills me with joy;

Why compared to you a J.P. is a little Lord Fauntleroy.

There is a stillness at Kamp-Heap-A-Jack. The only sound heard in this Fort Knox in the pines, is the clicking of the adding machines as the accountants run up the summer's take. And a goodly sum it is too. Better I owned some of this stock, than my cats and dogs. As for the camp counselors each has hurried down to his friendly neighborhood psychiatrist for an annual repair job to get the tigers out of his think-tank. One of the warden's pardon-me, I mean counselors who had a real rough summer, threw himself on his head-shrinker's couch and said: "Look, Doc, no questions please. For the first visit I'll just take $25 worth of shut-eye."

Cranford's new anti-loitering ordinance would be enforced with discretion, Mayor Nicholas S. LaCorte declared upon final passage of the measure by Township Committee. The new ordinance made it unlawful to loiter in any public or quasi-public place so as to obstruct the free passage of pedestrians or vehicles, or to utter loud and offensive language or make offensive remarks to or about another person in public. Mayor LaCorte noted that the ordinance was not passed because of a juvenile delinquency problem, since out of some 6,000 young people in Cranford only about 30 had showed a tendency to loiter or annoy shoppers and merchants.

An ordinance appropriating $4,000 for the construction of a parking lot on the Mill St. side of the old Public Library site was introduced by Township Committee. It was the first step in the construction of a proposed off-street parking area in the town center, to be located in the rear of North Union and North Aves., Alden, Mill and Eastman Sts.

How the State Helps Pay for Education

(The following explanatory article was released by the New Jersey State Federation of District Boards of Education in a series entitled: "What Do You Know About Your Schools?")

The biggest share of the money we spend for education still comes from the pocket of the property owner. In recent years, however, the state has helped pay for public school education in order to lighten the burden on the local taxpayer. The 3 percent sales tax, which went into effect on July 1, 1960, also helps to ease the load which the property owner bears.

How much does the state pay toward the cost of education? Well, that varies from district to district. It works like this: The state has established a foundation program sum of $400 per pupil. Stated more simply, $400 is considered as the very least amount which should be spent on the education of each child per year. (Actually, the cost in New Jersey today averages about $600 per child.) The state doesn't pay $400 per child. It pays $400, minus the Local Fair Share, which is the amount the school district itself can raise by a 10 1/2 mill property tax ($1.05 per $100 of property value). The Local Fair Share is simply a minimum tax levy required to participate in the program.

Let's see how this works out. Say, for example, that in district X the Local Fair Share raises the sum of $250 per child. We have, then —

$400 State Foundation program sum
250 Local Fair Share

$150 Amount of State aid per pupil

and $800 Actual cost per pupil in District X

150 Amount of State aid per pupil

$450 Actual cost to District X for schooling per pupil

As you can see, the local school district usually pays much more than does the state to educate each child. In this case, the actual tax rate necessary to raise $450 per pupil would be about $1.90 per $100 of property value. In some districts — the wealthier ones with high property values — the local fair share can be as great or greater than the foundation program sum. To make sure that each district gets some state aid, the law says that every district must get at least $75 in state aid per pupil. The state also contributes in other ways to public education. It gives financial help to counties which operate full-time day vocational schools. It gives aid for education of handicapped pupils (the physically handicapped, mentally retarded or emotionally disturbed.) It contributes to the building of new schools. It even provides emergency help for school districts faced with unanticipated financial calamities.

The state sets two prequalifications for school aid. (1) The school district must live up to certain standards for its schools as set by law, or by the State Department of Education, or by the Commissioner of Education. (2) The district must operate its schools at least 180 days per year.

Lots of people think the federal government helps to pay for the public schools. This is true only to a limited extent. The federal government provides moneys for certain special programs or activities such as school lunch and milk programs, some industrial and vocational programs, and a few others. Recently, under the Elementary and Secondary Education Acts, the federal government has made funds available for programs for disadvantaged children or for experimental or novel programs. The Head Start programs are one such example.

Weeds In Your Weeds?

Does it seem to you that you have weeds growing in the weeds this year?

Almost everyone is in the same boat — which is a fairly apt phrase, considering the amount of rainfall that goes a long way toward explaining your success as a weed producer.

We all have our favorite enemies among the weeds, but according to a Rutgers weed specialist, John Meade, the stand-out performers this year are spotted spurge and nut sedge.

Spotted spurge is a close-growing weed with two small opposite leaves, each with a red spot. When you pull a plant you find the stem is filled with a milky juice.

Nut sedge, also called nutgrass and coffeegrass, has three light green, shiny triangular stems and looks something like grass, but coarser. After mowing, it usually pops ahead of the grass.

Try Chemicals
In a normal season or during the kind of drought we had last year, chemical weed control is not recommended during warm weather. But this year, with all the moisture in the soil to keep the grass growing, you can try chemical weed control as long as the temperature stays in the low 80's, according to Dr. Meade.

A broad-leaf weed killer, used according to directions — even if it means reading the fine print on the label — should help reduce the spurge nuisance.

Nut sedge is a tougher enemy. Try a post-emergence crabgrass with 2, 4-D added two or three times a season. Even then you may not win the battle for a couple of years.

And Dr. Meade reminds you that a routine application of 2,4-D for dandelion control will be in mid-September.

If you're the least bit doubtful about chemical weed control, ask the advice of your county agricultural agent.

When we talk about recreation, it means more than "play money" to New Jersey

Vacationers come from all over the country to enjoy New Jersey's famed resort areas and cultural facilities. And so do industries. It's an accepted fact that business locates in areas where there are abundant and varied recreational facilities for their employees.

Public Service has been conducting national advertising campaigns to be sure that America's business community is fully aware of the good life to be found in the Garden State. We feel it's an important function because when a firm moves into our state, new jobs immediately open up, "new" money circulates and New Jersey's entire economy is stimulated. It's as simple as that.

Rotary Club Hears Address By Past District Governor

Past District Governor F. S. Mathewson was Cranford Rotary's guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting last Thursday at Marisa's Restaurant.

He pointed out that the original purpose of classifications adopted by Chicago Rotarians in the ancestral club was to encourage the exchange of business between its members.

This purely selfish goal was quickly dropped in favor of the objective of community service. The classification system, however, was retained to insure a wide cross-section of the community in each Rotary Club throughout the world.

All attempts to modify the limitations of classification have been defeated at Rotary International Conventions which now represent 621,250 Rotarians in 12,917 clubs in 134 countries and geographical areas.

The speaker said that the limitation of one member for each classification has stood the test of 60 years of experience. He stated that the newspaper publishing field had been the single exception, for many years, and he had been surprised when the industry was accepted from this limitation. Attempts to include radio and television in the excepted area had been defeated.

The new Classification Directory was offered as a guide to all clubs in the application of the classification system. He said that while it had been simplified, it was essentially the same in contents as it had been in previous issues, and that clubs could add classifications to the directory where the spirit of the system was adhered to in making such new designations.

Mr. Mathewson praised the Cranford Club's classification survey as essential to broadening the scope of its membership by electing members to fill a classification rather than trying to arrive at classifications to suit prospective members.

Another result of the good classification survey, pointed out by the speaker, was the securing of a balanced membership in which no more than 10 percent of the club's membership would be elected from the same field, such as medicine or law. He pointed out that in some communities, such as college towns, Rotary International made an exception and permitted more than 10 percent of the membership to be selected from a college or university, but that even in this case, broad coverage of university departments was sought.

The value of senior active memberships was cited by the speaker, as providing a means for renewal of a club's vitality and for balancing the expansion of a club's membership. The senior active member retains the designation of his original classification, but by accepting senior active membership, those with long standing in the club permit others to be elected to Rotary without disturbing membership balance.

The speaker announced that there would be new district forums to educate responsible committee chairmen and officers in the objectives and operations of Rotary Club constitutions and by-laws, and in the modification and proposed modifications that had been developed. He cited Rotary as a live and vibrant organization.

Sorry, lady, the advertised special is "sold out!"

Ever show up at a store the morning that a big discount sale is advertised and find the "special" is sold out? To combat such phony advertising, the Democratic Legislature set up the new Office of Consumer Protection. New Jersey now has wider powers to fight deceptive advertising, mail order comons, fine print distortions and business frauds. Milk dating was made meaningful. Our food and drug laws were modernized. Finance companies were required to state clearly the total annual interest on loans. This action angered some special interests. But you needed the protection. And you got it.

Hurricane Booklet Now Available At CD Office

Copies of "Hurricane Precautions," a booklet published by the New Jersey Division of Civil Defense and Disaster Control, are available at the CD office in the health department at the Municipal Building, it was reported this week by CD Director Charles Patterson.

"Hurricanes are more prevalent during August, September and October," the booklet notes, "with September being the time when the largest number have struck in New Jersey."

"Public awareness of the dangers of a hurricane is the greatest safeguard against this type of natural disaster. By taking common sense precautionary measures, the loss of life and property caused by hurricanes can be greatly reduced."

The booklet tells what constitutes a hurricane and lists precautions that should be taken before, during and after such a storm.

Spirit, Intellect Not Separate, College Students Are Told

Man's intellectual thrust and religious insight must grow together. They cannot really be separated.

This was the message that 5,000 Christian Science college students heard from a leading British historian, an American diplomat and a theatrical director. They were among the speakers at the three-day Biennial "College Meeting" which concluded Saturday at The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. Students from nearly 40 countries around the world attended.

It's a mistake to segregate the intellect as something distinct from spirituality, said Sir James R. M. Butler, a former member of the British Parliament and chief historian for "Great Britain's World War II" archives.

There are even some, he observed, who regard the intellect as "an obstacle to spiritual progress." But the real obstacle, he suggested, may often be a limited concept of what intellect is. It is more than a process of "brain and nerves," more than reproduction at second hand of the thoughts of others.

From a deeper standpoint, man's ability to think and know is an expression of divine intelligence available to all as their inherent birthright, declared Sir James. He described this as an "open-ended" view that eliminates pride of intellect and helps to bring out freshness and originality of thought, in "our neighbors as well as ourselves."

Howard P. Jones, chancellor of the East-West center at the University of Hawaii and former U. S. ambassador to Indonesia, told about his experiences in major diplomatic situations in which spiritual insight played a decisive role. He indicated this role will grow bigger in the future.

"The most important development on the international scene in this generation," he said, "has been the acquisition of freedom by the new nations." Stepping forward to claim their place in the sun, although many of them represent ancient civilizations and cultures. They are breaking their bonds of whatever kind—colonialism, ignorance, superstition, poverty. They are claiming the heritage of all free men.

Those who seek the insight and inspiration to meet the challenge this presents, said Mr. Jones, will find the increasing necessity of reliance on God in reaching decisions.

George Hamlin, associate director of Harvard University's Loeb Drama Center, spoke of the spiritual and intellectual ferment taking place in the theatre. It is "in the midst of a revolution," he said, that requires audiences more than ever "to look perceptively... to be mentally active."

Although admitting that much in today's theatre is either nihilistic or frivolous, Mr. Hamlin urged the assembled students to look for the deeper values that are also present.

Sleep Schedule Changes Needed With School Start

By MABEL G. STOLTE
County Home Economist

"Jerry, will you please get up—you'll be late for school!" These familiar words will soon be heard once again in many homes.

When school opens, your child's relaxed schedule of going to bed will be over. Your youngster must awaken early and be alert throughout the day. This means he will need sufficient sleep for a child has to be rested if he is to think clearly.

How can you help your child adjust to these correct sleeping habits? Start by awakening the late "snoozer" a bit earlier each day. Have a systematic plan so that by the time school begins, he will be getting up at the proper hour.

At the same time regulate your child's night-time schedule. Got your youngster to bed earlier. Talk this over with him. Help him to understand and become a part of the program of getting to bed.

"But I can't sleep," he may complain.

One possible answer to this problem is to be certain he plays actively early in the evening—after dinner. Make sure to allow for a relaxing, quieting down period before bedtime or he will be too keyed-up to sleep.

Planning and making just a little extra effort now, will help you resolve this traumatic experience of readjustment in your youngster's sleeping hours when school starts.

Two More Hospitals Joining Nursing Program at UJC

An expanded nursing program will be launched by Union Junior College with the opening of the fall semester, with about 130 first-year student nurses from four hospitals enrolled.

The Schools of Nursing of Beth Israel Hospital, Newark, and Somerset Hospital, Somerville, will join the program this year along with the Schools of Nursing of Elizabeth and Perth Amboy General Hospitals. Under the program, the student nurses will attend classes at Union Junior College four days a week, beginning September 15, and will earn 22 college credits.

Union Junior College is expanding its nursing program as the result of opening its new $1 million Science Building. The all air-conditioned, electrically-heated building contains five science laboratories, six classrooms, two large lecture halls, a science resource center, a student research center, a computer center, 14 faculty offices, and other facilities.

The four hospitals participating in Union Junior College's nursing program are three-year, diploma-granting nursing schools. The college credits earned at Union Junior College are transferrable to other institutions of higher learning by student nurses desiring to earn a baccalaureate degree.

The student nurses will take courses in anatomy and physiology, general chemistry, microbiology, general psychology and sociology. They are encouraged to participate in all college activities and have representation on the Day Session Student Council. Mrs. Robert Leary of Cranford, nursing coordinator, pointed out.

In addition to their academic studies at Union Junior College, the first-year student nurses will take clinical nursing courses at the four hospitals.

Union Junior College setup its nursing program in 1949 in conjunction with Elizabeth General Hospital. The program was expanded five years later when Perth

Amboy General Hospital joined.

"Our aim is to stimulate critical thinking and develop reasoning and judgment by the nursing student dealing with the sick, in the maintenance of health, the promotion of human welfare and the prevention of illness," Mrs. Leary said. "We believe the student who completes her first year of nursing studies at Union Junior College is well prepared for her future experiences with the sick and for continuing her education at the hospital School of Nursing."

Your Garden

By Your Rutgers Garden Reporter

"Chop, Chop... No Lawn" "Chop, chop right down to the ground and destroy the grass blades and stunt the root."

So goes a card I received from a gardener along the Shore who uses this bit of vigorous prose to describe the way he sees some of his friends abusing their lawns.

"They chop right down to the ground and never have a lawn," he says with either indignation or pity. And then, pretty well crushed: "I tell them to cut as high as the mower will cut but I only get vacant stares."

This champion of the lush lawn thinks a word from someone at Rutgers might help convince his friends that they're putting themselves out of the lawn business when they don't leave enough of the grass blade to help the root do its work.

He's Right

Well, this zealous partisan of the lawn with the high cut must have missed a chapter or two because county agents and Rutgers lawn specialists for these many years have been saying the same thing. Over and over. Time after time.

The standard recommendation is to cut the typical lawn no closer than 1½ inches — even higher in summer. This reduces the crabgrass problem and does a lot of other good things besides.

A lawn that's cut high like this can look every bit as neat as one that's scalped.

Could it be that many home owners go on "chopping" their lawn because they don't know how to regulate the height of cut?

Every mower can be adjusted but sometimes it may seem easier to use it as it came from the store than to get out the tool kit. But it's a simple job for your mower shop if you're not in the mood to play technician for a few minutes.

Objectives Told of Schools' Eight Curriculum Committees

Eight curriculum committees operated within the Cranford public school system during the 1966-67 school year, it was reported by Mrs. Marica Lallis, director of curriculum and instruction, in an annual report submitted to Dr. Clark W. McDermith, superintendent of schools.

Three of them have completed their work and disbanded, and the others will continue to function during the 1967-68 school year, Mrs. Lallis said. Those which completed their work are: Linguistics committee, which recommended that the school system adopt a linguistic approach to the teaching of English; pupil evaluation grades 7 to 12, which prepared specific methods and criteria of evaluation for each subject area and prepared a revised copy of the 1965 "Pupil Evaluation Guide"; and a "special curriculum study" group, which included members of the community and the school staff.

The special curriculum study committee assessed how well the curriculum provided for the need of the total school population to know and appreciate the important contributions which Negro citizens have made and are making to America and determined what more might be suggested in terms of courses of study, materials of instruction, teacher orientation and community involvement.

The committees which will continue to operate in the 1967-68 school year are:

Audio-Visual Aids, Fritz Brown, assistant principal of the Orange Avenue Junior High School, chairman, will survey audio-visual materials and equipment in all schools.

Curriculum Review, Mrs. Lallis, chairman, will examine curriculum offerings in the seventh through 12th grades in all areas to identify strengths, weaknesses or problems, and suggest course additions or deletions in light of "what experiences are good for the individual child" and the future trends of each discipline.

Project Up-Lift, Mrs. Lallis, chairman, planned administrative and curricular aspects of the summer program for disadvantaged students and will evaluate the program.

Reporting to parents, elementary, Thomas Tipaldi, principal of Bloomingdale Avenue and Roosevelt Schools, chairman, planned meaningful procedures of reporting pupil progress to parents and will evaluate the effectiveness of the new procedures and make suggestions as needed.

Sex Education, kindergarten through 12th grade, William H.

Marlin, director of health, physical education, safety and athletics, chairman, set up to establish a philosophy and objectives of sex education in the Cranford public schools, review available reference materials, plan sequential sex education program and plan public relations steps to inform the public on the subject.

Social Studies, kindergarten through 12th grade, Charles Mar-golin, social studies coordinator, chairman, to increase articulation in this area, review kindergarten through 12th grade curriculum, investigate new social studies project and assess social studies needs within each building.

Special Education, Mrs. Lallis, chairman, to review knowledge of growth and development of children, review goals of special education and examine and assess present curriculum guide.

Student Teaching, Mrs. Lallis, chairman, to review and improve procedures used in assigning student teachers and issue bulletin to assist cooperating teachers in proper guidance of student teachers.

Testing, Miss Beatrice Warner, coordinator of special services, chairman, to develop the purposes and procedures of a system-wide testing program, evaluate tests now in use, make recommendations concerning a complete testing program, kindergarten through 12th grade and recommend how test results are to be used.
