Dr. McDermith's Service Here Spanned Ten Troubled Years

By CAROL BUNCE

To those who admire him, Dr. Clark W. McDermith is a progressive educator who will be missed when his resignation as superintendent of schools becomes effective next November 1. Others see him as the architect of policies designed to clean out the pocket-books of Cranford taxpayers.

The superintendent counts among his admirers the Association for Better Cranford Schools (ABCS), which upon learning of his resignation, passed a resolution commending him for "many years of devoted service" to the school system.

Another tribute came from Herman Lieberman of 39 Rutgers Rd., president of the newly-formed Cranford Citizens for Peace.

In a letter to the editor, Mr. Lieberman called attention to some of Dr. McDermith's accomplishments, including "the pioneering effort in I.T.A. reading, the vigorous encouragement of the new math, linguistics, remedial reading and speech programs; the emphasis upon smaller size classes and proper facilities for the school program; the establishment of math and science workshops for teachers, and the coordination of the science program with institutions such as the Union College Observatory."

Also cited were "the expansion of the secondary school program to include courses in Far Eastern civilization, calculus, sociology, and economics; the introduction of work-study programs in industrial arts and business education for the non-college bound student; the constant updating of textbooks, the extensive use of special teachers for the handicapped; the expansion of school library facilities, and the encouragement of" (Continued on Page 4)

Forum Monday On Presidential Peace Candidates

Rev. Robert Bizzaro, rector of Trinity Church, will deliver the benediction at the Cranford Citizens for Peace forum on presidential peace candidates at Union College at 8:15 p.m. Monday. The forum will feature Willard Hecker, dean of Rutgers University Law School, speaking on "The McCarthy Candidacy."

In announcing Father Bizzaro's appearance at the peace forum, Herman Lieberman, Citizens for Peace president, said:

"All our forums will begin with a prayer for peace led by clergy of the various faiths in our community, and we shall do our utmost to make these prayers come true. When it comes to 'peace on earth, good will to men,' there need be no separation between church and state."

As part of its program to provide the community with information on the Vietnam war, John Burton of 56 Spruce St., Citizens for Peace education chairman, announced that the group will donate various books about the war to the Cranford Public Library. These include (Continued on Page 5)

Board Cuts Budget Items, Administrative Salaries

By a 7-0 vote, the Board of Education Tuesday night designated where cuts will be made in the twice-defeated 1968-69 school budget to comply with the $106,800 reduction ordered by the Township Committee.

The board will take the following action: Apply $20,000 from surplus; eliminate data processing at a saving of $10,700; assign data processor to teaching duties, eliminating a teacher at a saving of $7,000; eliminate the $10,100 appropriation for field trips; defer the hiring of three subject coordinators to save $40,500; reduce the public relations appropriation by $2,300; cut back the summer school program to the 1967 level at a saving of $4,200; eliminate $3,200 for a summer writing project involving three teachers and a coordinator; eliminate a part-time office clerk to save $1,800, and cut $7,000 by not hiring an additional guidance counselor.

In a related action, the board voted to transfer $7,320 from the administrative salary account to the teachers' salary account, where it will be used to hire an additional teacher.

Mr. Porter, board president, explained that this will cut by about $300 the proposed salary increases for administrative supervisory personnel, reducing their raises from an average of $1,400 to $1,100.

Mr. Porter, however, did not approve of the action and voted against it. He was joined by Robert Seavy and George H. White, Jr. The affirmative votes were cast by Richard J. Anderson, John J. Vassallo, George W. Morton, Jr., and Mrs. Dorothy Preston. Absent were Dr. Thomas E. Dooley, vice-president, and Mrs. Margaret Gillespie.

Formal adoption of the administrative salary guide will take place at a future meeting. During the public portion of the session, a few complaints were made about the board's decisions. Edmund Klamie, chairman of the Cranford Forum League, told the board it should have eliminated a "far greater amount" from the salary hikes.

He added that some of the administrators should themselves be subject to cuts.

Serving on the committee are: Mrs. N. H. Brubaker, secretary; Louis Goldberg, Mrs. C. A. Hagser, Mrs. W. T. Knox, Mrs. B. B. Kott, Dr. F. W. Krause and Bernard Litvack.

Chairman Poppert said he will welcome comments and suggestions from community members for areas the committee might study.

Further limitations will be studies of crime and local educational problems, since Mayor Gill is in the process of establishing other lay committees to work in these areas.

"It's my thought," the mayor said, "that a group of interested citizens can let us know what it is we're missing. We may be too close to the forest to see the trees."

The committee will operate independently of the Township Committee but can feel free to call upon any member of a governing body for information or assistance. Except for activities already handled by an existing government body, the planning committee may concern itself with any facet of community life.

The function of the committee, explained in a brief appearance by Mayor Edward K. Gill, will be to offer recommendations for community improvement to the Township Committee.

The Mayor's Community Planning Committee, headed by William J. Poppert of 4 Indian Spring Rd., held its organizational meeting last Thursday evening in the Municipal Building.

Child Care Center Closing Because of Lack of Funds

The Cranford Child Day Care Center will "temporarily close" as of April 15 because of lack of funds, it was announced this week by the center's board of directors.

Opened in October, 1967, and housed through the generosity of Calvary Lutheran Church in its Sunday School quarters, the center has provided for the needs of a dozen preschool children while their parents were working.

The center, administered by Mrs. Robert Romick—who was assisted by another teacher, Mrs. Esther Gipson and the housekeeper-cook, Mrs. Mildred Redd, provided the benefits of physical, mental and social stimulation which are not available under ordinary baby-sitting services.

The staff of three plus several volunteers, cared for and guided the children five days a week from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for a fee scaled to the family's ability to pay.

A spokesman for the center said: "It is with great regret that we are suspending services at the center. We are making every effort to place the children we now have in another suitable situation and hope that soon Cranford will be able to support such a project successfully."

The league program supports organized baseball play for over 800 boys in the community and is supervised by a dedicated group of managers and coaches. The CBBL has been active since 1954.

Committee chairmen reported that everything was in readiness for the season opening on Saturday, April 20. All new equipment has been received and distributed to the team managers. Spring practice has been underway for the past two weeks.

A resolution was passed to name the new Unami League diamond (Continued on Page 8)

Preparations are under way for the annual Cranford High School Senior Prom to be held on Friday evening, May 24, at the Coronet in Irvington.

Prom committees and their chairmen are as follows: Table decorations, Linda Cook; bids, program, and photography, Debbie Upton; entertainment, David Hampton; decorations, James Stickle; publicity, Richard Wagner.

Lori Griffiths has been chosen as general chairman of the Prom. Mrs. Norman Brubaker and Mrs. Raymond Van Jaekel are PTA co-chairmen, assisted by Charles Mahken, class adviser, and Henry Doscher, assistant principal.

The Drifters, a popular singing group, will provide entertainment for the Prom. The theme of "Springtime" will be highlighted by flower decorations on all tables. A full-course roast beef dinner will be served.

The committee hopes that the cost of bids can be kept at $10 per couple, which was the cost of last year's Prom bids. The final decision on cost will depend upon other sources of income, including gifts from parents. The Cranford High School PTA is soliciting contributions from parents so that the bid cost can be kept at $10, while the actual cost for each couple is approximately $19.

Comprehensive Spring Cleanup Program Announced by Mayor

Mrs. Matlaga Seeking GOP Nomination for Tax Collector

In an expected move, Township Treasurer Agnes Matlaga announced last night she will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for tax collector in the June 4 primary election.

Following the announcement last week by Township Committee of its consideration of merging the positions of treasurer and tax collector as moves aimed at greater efficiency and economy, it had been expected that Mrs. Matlaga would announce for the tax collector's post.

As township treasurer, she has a four-year appointment which expires at the end of 1970.

A native of Cranford, Mrs. Matlaga resides with her husband at 2½ Washington Pl. She lived in Garwood for several years, returning to Cranford about 17 years ago.

She joined the township treasurer's office in September, 1957, and was named acting treasurer in April, 1968, succeeding the late Dudley J. Croft. She was appointed as the township's first woman treasurer January 1, 1967.

In announcing her candidacy, Mrs. Matlaga said:

"I am supporting the Township Committee's plan to eventually consolidate the jobs of collector and treasurer with a reduction in the salary of tax collector to a level more in line with that proposed for the township clerk. If I am elected, I will give my best efforts to providing residents with an efficient and economical administration."

Mrs. Matlaga is a member of the Cranford Republican Club, the Business and Professional Women's Club and the Municipal Receivers, Tax Collectors and Treasurers Association of New Jersey.

She has two sons, Patrolman James Washbourne and William Washbourne, both residents of Cranford.

Chief John N. Schmitz reported this week that there were more grass and brush fires here last month than were recorded for March in any one of the past five years.

Members of his department were called upon to fight 22 such fires in the last five days of March, he noted.

A comprehensive program aimed at cleaning up accumulated winter debris, repairing and painting stores and residences and "the general improvement of any conditions that will make Cranford more beautiful" was announced this week by Mayor Edward K. Gill.

"Many of us have been waiting for the start of spring to launch the second stage of our town beautiful program," the mayor said. "We must now continue the rejuvenation begun so dramatically last year."

The spring cleanup program includes a garden material cleanup from April 15 through April 24 followed by a general cleanup of trash and unwanted household materials from May 6 through 11.

The vegetation cleanup will be handled by public works department employees under direction of Township Engineer P. J. Grall. Only garden waste and leaves, placed at the curb in containers, and branches tied in bundles, will be collected. A schedule of collection days by election districts will be published in next Thursday's Citizen and Chronicle.

Health Officer Louis Surano will coordinate the May cleanup program in which local scavengers will cooperate in removing all trash, except rocks, placed in containers at the curb. Weight capacity of cartons or boxes is not to exceed 50 pounds.

Another program for the repair or replacement of curbing will be started by Township Engineer Grall, who also will coordinate the replacement or repair of broken sidewalks in the business area.

"With the cooperation of local merchants and some prodding by the recently created Housing Authority, we would hope to see some much needed painting and remodeling carried out," Mayor Gill (Continued on Page 8)

Realty Dispute Settled

Under terms of a settlement reached last week following a three and a half week trial, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Willoughby, operators of B. S. Willoughby Real Estate Co. here, will pay a $250 fine to the Union County Multiple Listing Service. Union County Court Judge Julius Kwilick, who heard the case, approved the consent judgment. The Willoughbys had sued in Superior Court to challenge their expulsion from the Multiple Listing Service. Also called for in the agreement is the immediate reinstatement of the Cranford real estate firm as a member of the listing service. In addition, the firm was given until July 29 to become affiliated with the Cranford Board of Realtors, which limits the number of part-time salesmen as required by the listing agency. The firm, which is not a member of the Cranford Board of Realtors, allegedly had to hire part-time salesmen because it was deprived of the county organization's service and did not have access to enough real estate to maintain a full time staff. On February 23, 1965, a five-member ethics and arbitration committee appointed by the listing service held a hearing on charges that the Willoughbys had violated two rules and regulations of the service — failure to supply a sale price on a listing and failing to file a withdrawal form when the owners removed the property from the market.

The committee announced on March 8, 1965 that it had found the firm guilty of the charges and recommended a 30-day suspension from the service. However, the listing agency's board of directors imposed a $250 fine instead. When the Willoughbys refused to pay the fine, they were expelled. The Willoughbys sought punitive and compensatory damages against the listing service, claiming loss of income due to the suspension of the listing organization's services. A talk on "Investing in the Stock Market" was presented by George E. Lewis of Clark, a member of the Passaic firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, at a meeting of the Cranford Kiwanis Club in Marisa's Restaurant last Wednesday night.

Mr. Lewis suggested that even the small investor consult a reliable broker instead of taking the advice of a friend or a neighbor on stock investments. The meeting was conducted by William Leone, president.

30 and the board appointed an acting superintendent.

Soft-spoken and scholarly, Dr. McDermith seems miscast in the role of the controversial public figure, yet few could deny that his 10 years here have been troubled years for the school system. It was a period that saw the defeat of three building referendums and eight school budget proposals. Observers believe the most recent budget defeat in February sparked Dr. McDermith's decision to leave his post six months before his contract was due to expire.

Despite difficulties, however, the administrator has succeeded in implementing many new policies to keep local schools in tune with the computer age. Some of these were outlined in Mr. Lieberman's letter.

Dr. McDermith assumed his duties here on June 1, 1958, after serving 12 years as superintendent in Passaic. He came at a difficult time. It was the post-Sputnik era when pressure was on educational institutions throughout the country to catch up with the Russians by pushing science and mathematics.

It also was an era of skyrocketing birth rates and expanding school populations.

In 1958 the Cranford birth rate hit an all-time high of 547, and there were predictions that schools would soon be overflowing.

One of the more dire forecasts came from a long-range planning committee headed by Board of Education member James E. McGovern, which predicted that the 1958 total enrollment of 5,021 would jump to 6,900 by 1960 and that existing elementary school facilities would be exceeded before 1961. It was noted that conversion of auxiliary rooms to classrooms was already taking place.

A more conservative estimate was compiled by Forrest H. Bland, of 6 Forrest Ave., who forecast a high enrollment of 5,940 in 1967 and a leveling off to 5,880 by 1970.

Although the two estimates differed, both indicated trouble ahead unless more classrooms were found.

By September, 1959, the school board was forced to schedule some high school classes after hours and convert all special activities rooms in the elementary schools to regular classroom use.

To solve the problem, Dr. McDermith and the board proposed the construction of a three-year high school on Orange Ave. and the return of Cleveland and Sherman Schools, which were then serving as junior high schools, to elementary use. The present high school on West End Pl. was to be converted into a three-year junior high.

Designed to house 1,300 students, the new school was to contain facilities for modern programs in science, languages and business education. A swimming pool was even considered, but this was dropped because of excessive expense. The final price tag for the building was $3,772,000.

But instead of solving the school problem, the proposal created a new one—a split between the north and south sides of town, what was tagged by some as "Cranford's civil war." The southsiders wanted the school in their part of town or in a central location, since the present high school had been constructed on the north side.

"The south side homeowners are being completely overlooked," said one irate citizen in a letter to the editor.

Another argued that the Orange Ave. site was "completely inaccessible for most of the town."

The Cranford Watchdog Association, precursor of the Forum League, charged the Board of Education with "outright discrimination" in the choice of the site, and vowed to fight the referendum "tooth and nail."

Board members argued in vain that there were no central locations available and that the south side locations were inadequate.

In February of 1960, a month before the referendum was to be submitted to voters, there was a preview of what was to come. In the annual school election, three north side board members: Edward K. Gill, Leonard E. Moody and Mrs. Marguerite Kott, were voted out of office and replaced by three south side residents, H. Randall Kruger, Gus A. Gutierrez and Bernard Litwack.

The controversial building program came up for vote on March 15 and went down to defeat 3,783 to 3,145. The three south side districts opposed it and the three north side districts favored it.

In the meantime, Cranford High School was preparing for a return to double sessions in the fall. Ninth graders were to attend classes from 12:45 to 5:30 p.m. and the three upper grades from 7:40 a.m. to 12:50 p.m.

Under pressure to come up with an acceptable building program, Dr. McDermith in July recommended the board resubmit the same high school proposal, adding to it a plan for a 600-pupil junior high school on Hillside Ave. Presumably this would satisfy the demands of those who wanted a new school on the south side.

The school board took the superintendent's advice and formally adopted the program in September, setting a January referendum date. But despite the inclusion of a school on the south side, the new program was destined to be scrapped by voters.

One consideration was the cost, which many residents could not swallow. The $3.7 million proposal was the highest ever submitted here and would have added $44 a year to the tax bill of an average homeowner.

Furthermore, the initial opposition to a high school on Orange Ave. had not disappeared.

Finally, there was opposition from two board members. Trustees Kruger and Litwack, who proposed a plan of their own, calling for a new high school on Hillside Ave., the continuance of Sherman School as a junior high and conversion of Cranford High School into a 1,000-student junior high.

On January 17, 1961, 3,278 voters — a record for a school election — went to the polls and defeated the referendum by a vote of 4,827 to 4,331.

With two defeats behind them and the school population still climbing, Dr. McDermith and board members began work on a third alternative. This time they proposed two 900-pupil junior high schools, one on Orange Ave. and one on Hillside Ave. The new schools would house seventh through tenth graders and Cranford High School would be converted into a two-year senior school, giving the school system an unusual 6-4-2 grade pattern.

Dr. McDermith took pains to point out he saw nothing detrimental about the pattern. Said the superintendent:

"With the four-year intermediate school, we can expand curricular and extracurricular opportunities, do more to develop leadership abilities in tenth graders, appeal to more men teachers and use staff and plant more efficiently."

"The two-year senior school will serve older students who have a more concentrated sense of purpose toward their next step into college, employment, adult citizenship and family life."

Board members, in taking their case to the public, pointed out the two schools were designed economically but would provide facilities for a modern educational program. The tax increase that would result from the $4,735,000 bond issue was estimated to be 30 percent less than for the last issue.

To the relief of the board, no opposition to the plan was expressed at a public hearing September 14, and on September 28 a light turnout of voters passed it 2,921 to 1,618. Even the influential Watchdogs, who had vigorously fought the previous two proposals, took a neutral position.

The new schools opened in September, 1963, right on schedule, and the system was finally back to single sessions. Enrollment then was 6,015.

Thereafter, the number of additional students entering the school system began to slack off, giving Dr. McDermith a chance to direct his energy more toward improving the quality of education.

Accordingly, in 1966 he and the board unveiled a $5.3 million expansion and rehabilitation proposal aimed at modernizing the educational program and providing better opportunities for elementary school pupils with different learning capacities.

This "new look" in elementary education was to serve every kind of learner from the fastest to the slowest, Dr. McDermith explained. He maintained that Sherman and Cleveland Schools were too old to function adequately in the space age, so plans called for them to be replaced by two new 900-pupil elementary schools. One was to be built on the present 4.7-acre Sherman site and the other on a five-acre site on the northwest side of Holly St. In addition, Cranford High School was to be expanded and renovated and Lincoln and Roosevelt Schools rehabilitated.

The new schools were to contain such facilities as skill centers, science centers and audio-visual centers, and both would be air conditioned.

Plans for the high school called for a new library, additional science laboratories, a lecture room, enlarged auditorium and enlarged music rooms.

Rehabilitation of Lincoln and Roosevelt Schools would include new lighting and other improvements, a project that had been under study since 1962 and was thought to be long overdue.

The program embodied Dr. McDermith's concept of progressive education.

"While it will serve our expected enrollment increase, this program basically will meet the educational challenges of tomorrow as we see them today," he said.

To many residents, however, it seemed to be the most ill-considered proposal yet suggested by the superintendent.

One citizen, in a letter to the editor, suggested replacing "the good doctor's subscription to Better Homes and Gardens with Consumer Reports."

Some of the strongest opposition came from residents of Holly St., where eight homes were slated for demolition to make room for the new Cleveland School. The Holly Streeters, calling themselves the Homeowners' Protective Association, began an organized campaign to defeat the referendum under chairmanship of Dr. Thomas E. Dooley, now vice-president of the Board of Education.

Other residents, though seeing the need for rehabilitation, argued that Sherman and Cleveland Schools were sturdy, well-constructed buildings and there was no need to replace them. Few would buy the argument that they were obsolete and it would be a waste of money to rehabilitate them. Sherman had been built in 1924 and Cleveland in 1913.

Thus, on December 8, 1966, township voters handed Dr. McDermith the most decisive defeat so far of his administration. They rejected the bond issue by an overwhelming 8,388-602 vote.

Today, the board and superintendent are still grappling with the problem of rehabilitating the older schools in the system, and a new referendum is expected to be submitted to voters in October.

In addition to trouble over new building programs, Dr. McDermith has been plagued by difficulties arising from steadily increasing operating budgets. In 1962, 1964, 1967 and this year budgets were rejected twice at the polls for a total of eight defeats.

The first budget to be submitted during Dr. McDermith's administration totaled $2,283,107. For 1968-69 the figure has more than doubled to $4,687,132, and this is after $156,000 was cut by the school board and another $106,800 by the Township Committee.

In the late 50's and early 60's, the steadily increasing school population was cited as the major reason for budget hikes. More students meant more teachers, more supplies, more of everything.

But as enrollment pressure began to subside, teacher salary increases began to take bigger and bigger bites out of the budget.

The situation has become a "keeping up with the Joneses" phenomenon. To compete for teachers, each school district feels it must improve its salary scale every year. If it should fall behind, the argument goes, its teachers will leave for greener pastures.

Dr. McDermith subscribes to this theory as do most other superintendents in the area.

As a result, salaries here have been climbing year after year. A decade ago the range for a teacher with a bachelor's degree was $4,100-$7,300. For 1968-69 the range will be $6,400-$10,700.

While Cranford teachers have never become as militant in their demands as those in some neighboring communities, there has been trouble on a few occasions.

In 1963, the Teachers' Association accused the school board of "timidity" in its salary proposals for career teachers.

A stronger statement came in 1966, when Frank D'Amico, chairman of the teachers' welfare committee, called the board "petty and childish" and referred to the trustees as a "supposedly intelligent group of pompous individuals" who had created "dissension and ill will in the ranks of the teaching staff."

At present, there appears to be no end in sight to salary increases for teachers, and unless more money is forthcoming from the state or federal government, the board will be forced to send most of the bill to the homeowner.

School officials also have been forced to bill taxpayers for state-mandated programs such as the law requiring school boards to furnish transportation to non-public schools within a 28-mile radius of the district.

and the system was finally back to single sessions. Enrollment then was 6,015.

The new schools were to contain such facilities as skill centers, science centers and audio-visual centers, and both would be air conditioned.

Plans for the high school called for a new library, additional science laboratories, a lecture room, enlarged auditorium and enlarged music rooms.

Rehabilitation of Lincoln and Roosevelt Schools would include new lighting and other improvements, a project that had been under study since 1962 and was thought to be long overdue.

The program embodied Dr. McDermith's concept of progressive education.

"While it will serve our expected enrollment increase, this program basically will meet the educational challenges of tomorrow as we see them today," he said.

To many residents, however, it seemed to be the most ill-considered proposal yet suggested by the superintendent.

One citizen, in a letter to the editor, suggested replacing "the good doctor's subscription to Better Homes and Gardens with Consumer Reports."

Some of the strongest opposition came from residents of Holly St., where eight homes were slated for demolition to make room for the new Cleveland School. The Holly Streeters, calling themselves the Homeowners' Protective Association, began an organized campaign to defeat the referendum under chairmanship of Dr. Thomas E. Dooley, now vice-president of the Board of Education.

Other residents, though seeing the need for rehabilitation, argued that Sherman and Cleveland Schools were sturdy, well-constructed buildings and there was no need to replace them. Few would buy the argument that they were obsolete and it would be a waste of money to rehabilitate them. Sherman had been built in 1924 and Cleveland in 1913.

Thus, on December 8, 1966, township voters handed Dr. McDermith the most decisive defeat so far of his administration. They rejected the bond issue by an overwhelming 8,388-602 vote.

Today, the board and superintendent are still grappling with the problem of rehabilitating the older schools in the system, and a new referendum is expected to be submitted to voters in October.

In addition to trouble over new building programs, Dr. McDermith has been plagued by difficulties arising from steadily increasing operating budgets. In 1962, 1964, 1967 and this year budgets were rejected twice at the polls for a total of eight defeats.

The first budget to be submitted during Dr. McDermith's administration totaled $2,283,107. For 1968-69 the figure has more than doubled to $4,687,132, and this is after $156,000 was cut by the school board and another $106,800 by the Township Committee.

In the late 50's and early 60's, the steadily increasing school population was cited as the major reason for budget hikes. More students meant more teachers, more supplies, more of everything.

But as enrollment pressure began to subside, teacher salary increases began to take bigger and bigger bites out of the budget.

The situation has become a "keeping up with the Joneses" phenomenon. To compete for teachers, each school district feels it must improve its salary scale every year. If it should fall behind, the argument goes, its teachers will leave for greener pastures.

Dr. McDermith subscribes to this theory as do most other superintendents in the area.

As a result, salaries here have been climbing year after year. A decade ago the range for a teacher with a bachelor's degree was $4,100-$7,300. For 1968-69 the range will be $6,400-$10,700.

While Cranford teachers have never become as militant in their demands as those in some neighboring communities, there has been trouble on a few occasions.

In 1963, the Teachers' Association accused the school board of "timidity" in its salary proposals for career teachers.

A stronger statement came in 1966, when Frank D'Amico, chairman of the teachers' welfare committee, called the board "petty and childish" and referred to the trustees as a "supposedly intelligent group of pompous individuals" who had created "dissension and ill will in the ranks of the teaching staff."

At present, there appears to be no end in sight to salary increases for teachers, and unless more money is forthcoming from the state or federal government, the board will be forced to send most of the bill to the homeowner.

School officials also have been forced to bill taxpayers for state-mandated programs such as the law requiring school boards to furnish transportation to non-public schools within a 28-mile radius of the district.

and the system was finally back to single sessions. Enrollment then was 6,015.

Thereafter, the number of additional students entering the school system began to slack off, giving Dr. McDermith a chance to direct his energy more toward improving the quality of education.

Accordingly, in 1966 he and the board unveiled a $5.3 million expansion and rehabilitation proposal aimed at modernizing the educational program and providing better opportunities for elementary school pupils with different learning capacities.

This "new look" in elementary education was to serve every kind of learner from the fastest to the slowest, Dr. McDermith explained. He maintained that Sherman and Cleveland Schools were too old to function adequately in the space age, so plans called for them to be replaced by two new 900-pupil elementary schools. One was to be built on the present 4.7-acre Sherman site and the other on a five-acre site on the northwest side of Holly St. In addition, Cranford High School was to be expanded and renovated and Lincoln and Roosevelt Schools rehabilitated.

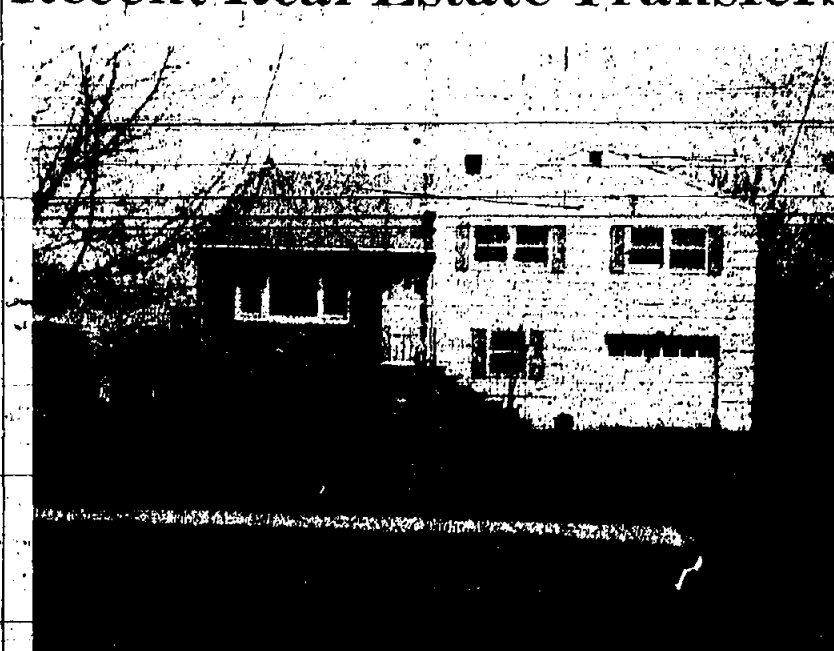

The new schools were to contain such facilities as skill centers, science centers and audio-visual centers, and both would be air conditioned.

Plans for the high school called for a new library, additional science laboratories, a lecture room, enlarged auditorium and enlarged music rooms.

Easter Seals Help Provide Handicapped Club Activities

Every Tuesday approximately 85 handicapped teenagers enjoy their club activities at the headquarters of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Union County. Though the programs are held in Plainfield, the members come from all parts of the county and some come from outside of it.

Since the Society aims at integrating its members into the community, there is an equal number of physically able volunteers and handicapped members of the same age in each group. Activities are of their own choosing and they enjoy everything from pool, ping-pong, shuffleboard or table games to crafts, singing or rock 'n' roll.

There are weekly club programs for adults on Monday evenings, and now the society is co-sponsoring Cub Scouts and Junior Girl Scouts for physically handicapped children.

This is Easter Seal month—the one time of the year when letters are sent to residents of the county asking for support. Donation dollars not only help toward research and treatment but also are used in operating expenses for the programs described above.

Mayors Discuss Chain of Command In Civil Disorders

Declaring that he has been disturbed by recurring predictions of "a long, hot summer," Mayor Edward K. Gill of Cranford told a meeting of the Union County Conference of Mayors in the Municipal Building here Friday night that "mayors have a primary objective to avert civil disturbances."

"Of equal importance," he added, "are steps taken to protect the safety of our citizens. We must all work together to meet both these objectives."

During the meeting, attended by about 50 municipal and law enforcement officials from throughout the county, a question arose as to the authority of a mayor as opposed to that of a police chief regarding the use of municipal police to help quell a riot in a neighborhood.

Questions also were raised as to whether the mayor or the police chief has the responsibility of requesting help from the governor in the event that a civil disturbance gets out of hand.

Mayor George F. Hetfield of Plainfield, where a riot occurred last summer, maintained that the responsibility should be that of the police chief in both cases.

Several officials, including Cranford Police Chief Matthew T. Haney, declared that requesting help from the governor should be the mayor's responsibility.

Mayor Gill, who presided, was authorized to request instructions from Governor Richard J. Hughes on the procedure to be followed in such cases.

Speakers at the meeting included Capt. Harold Seidler of the State Police, who outlined preparations being made by his organization to deal with outbreaks.

400 Attend YMCA Indian Guide Event

Over 400 Cranford YMCA Indian Guides, Adventure Guides and their families attended the annual "Pow-Wow" at the Sherlock Hall of Trinity Episcopal Church Friday evening.

Each tribe presented a display of Indian handicraft and projects prepared by fathers and sons. Nation Chief Robert Kolts opened the Pow-Wow with the Indian Guides pledge and Chief Joe Polli led the flag salute. Medicineman John O'Mara led the peace pipe ceremony.

The theme of this year's meeting was the initiation of the "Help the Hopi" fund campaign. Chairman T. Spetz showed pictures of the desperate needs of the American Indians. He explained that the Save the Children Federation in New York City has been encouraging the adoption of one or more American Indian children to help them in their schooling and fight against hunger in the deprived situation that has occurred on many of the Indian reservations.

The Nomahegan Indian Guide Longhouse is trying to adopt one or more Hopi Indian children. One child requires $180 annually to aid in this support. Donations were received at the meeting and the fund drive will continue during the coming weeks.

The surprise of the evening events followed the presentation of the tribes' charters when Assistant Chief John O'Mara took command of the meeting to present Chief Robert Kolts with a gift of appreciation and thanks from all the braves for his services.

DeForest Tinkler, Chief Red Socks, who was the former director of the Cranford YMCA Indian Guides, complimented the Cranford Nation for its industry and enthusiasm. Mr. Tinkler told some of his famous stories to the delight of the little braves. This was followed by Indian dances performed by Troop 80 Boy Scouts from the First Presbyterian Church under leadership of Scoutmaster Dick Dolsen. The feature event of the evening's program was a lecture-demonstration with live snakes from all over the world by Lester Pilkington of Union.

Refreshments followed the program. The coming events for the Cranford Indian Guides was announced at the meeting by Chief Kolts: A bus trip to the circus on April 27, Indian games on May 5 at Nomahegan Park for new fathers and sons who want to join Indian Guides; The Memorial Day parade on May 30. The season's activities will be concluded with a father and son campout to Camp Wawayanda in the Catskills over the weekend of June 7, 8 and 9.

Mayors Organize To Seek Better Rail Service

Prompted by "ever increasing need for a better rail transit system in New Jersey," a group of mayors of North Jersey communities has organized the North Jersey Mayor's Association for Improved Rail Transportation. Union County mayors participating are Edward K. Gill of Cranford, Robert Mulreany of Westfield and Thomas Santo Sr. of Scotch Plains. Each county in northern New Jersey is represented by three mayors.

"Both as a commuter myself and as the mayor of a town with large numbers of commuters, I feel that legislation must be passed and monies appropriated to develop a new rail system," Mayor Gill declared.

As a first step, the association has requested that the major topic of discussion at the forthcoming New Jersey Conference of Mayors meeting be devoted to rail transportation.

Mayor Gill will meet with representatives of the New York Port Authority to better determine the role of that agency in rail transportation.

Mayor Mulreany is meeting with several New Jersey State Senators who are particularly interested in the rail commuter problem.

State Arbor Day Program Will Be Held in Cranford

The Cranford Accounting Center of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., 1100 Orange Ave., will be the scene of the 19th annual "Arbor Day in New Jersey" celebration Saturday, April 27, it was announced this week by Sylvanus J. Shaw, Jr., of Cranford, general chairman.

The state's major Arbor Day program will be sponsored jointly by the Arborists Association of New Jersey, the New Jersey Society of Certified Tree Experts and the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. with the cooperation of the township.

This year's program, Mr. Shaw pointed out, will be a special dedication event in honor of the National Arbor Day resolution, H.R. 67, authored by Congressman Joseph Minish of Essex County. The resolution authorizes the President annually to proclaim the last Friday in April as National Arbor Day. One third of the states, including New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, have selected the same observance date.

Members of the "Arbor Day in New Jersey" committee include: Robert B. Schofield of Englewood, Harry J. Banker of West Orange, Howard Voorhes of Livingston, William Porter of Elmhurst, Anthony C. Knof of Bloomfield, Wylis C. Cass of Clark Township, and William S. MacKinlay and James Field, serving as special representatives of the Cranford office of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co.

During the ceremonies an arboricultural award will be presented to the Bell Telephone Co. for outstanding New Jersey property beautification. The award will be presented by the presidents of the Arborist Association of New Jersey, the New Jersey Society of Certified Tree Experts, Eugene Brennan and William Porter, respectively.

The program will bring together many local, county, state and federal officials who are presently backing the uniform national observance date.

On behalf of the township and the Cranford Citizens' Arbor Day Committee, Mayor Edward K. Gill will present the annual "Pepperidge Tree Award" to the telephone company, citing the company for its outstanding cooperation in the renewal of the Arbor Day tradition for 1968 in Cranford.

A national Arbor Day message prepared by Mr. Banker, who serves as national executive secretary of the committee for "National Arbor Day," which seeks to establish a unified national observance date on the last Friday in April, will highlight the program.

(Continued from Page 1) door fires (except barbecues) are illegal in Cranford unless permission has been granted by the fire department, and violators are subject to fines. Information on the requirements for such fires is available from the department's bureau of fire prevention.

Kirwan Grounded

Public Works Commissioner Henry R. Kirwan, 44, of 23 North Ave., East, had his driver's license suspended for 60 days from February 29 under the state's 60/70 excessive speed program, it was announced this week by June Strelski, director of the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles.

Board Cuts

Mr. Klamie also called for Dr. Clark W. McDermith, outgoing superintendent of schools, to leave his post as of June 30 rather than November 1.

Both the Forum League chairman and Fred D. Lund of 106 Columbia Ave. criticized the board for applying $20,000 in surplus toward the budget reduction. They maintained the money should have gone to reduce the $100,000 expenditure for fire detection systems in the schools. The board will seek voter permission to bond this amount in a referendum April 23. State law requires that the schools have fire detection equipment.

On a motion of Mr. Seavy, the board created a committee to study all libraries in the school system "as to their adequacy to meet the demands of a modern day educational program." The committee will include a board member, a member of the curriculum and instruction division, a school librarian, a librarian from the Cranford Public Library and two interested citizens.

The board also approved Mr. Seavy's motion to expand its public relations program by appointing a citizens' group to study the operations of the school system. This unit will include a board member, a staff member and a representative of each organization interested in participating. Meetings will be held five times a year.

Authorization was made to apply for a Title I grant of $28,340 to finance Project Up-Lift, a summer program held the past two years for 150 culturally deprived or emotionally handicapped pupils.

The board also will file for a continuation grant under Title III for its operational astronomy program, "The Earth and Beyond," which has been conducted in cooperation with the William Miller Sperry Observatory at Union College.

The local firm of William Beckhussen Associates was appointed as consulting engineers for installation of the fire detection systems.

Spring Cleanup

(Continued from Page 1) stated, "I have instructed the Housing Authority to visit with owners and landlords and impress upon them our strong desire to beautify the town."

The mayor said he already has received assurance from some property owners that remodeling of their properties will begin shortly. He revealed that bids have been received for the alteration of the rear of stores backing on the recently completed parking triangle. He reported Louis Goldberg is sparking this project.

In another instance, Fern's Furniture has given assurance that they will paint the recently remodeled rear entrance to their store.

In reviewing the beautification plans, Mayor Gill said: "I know it costs money and effort to do this work. However, we have proved by now that the people of Cranford will repay these expenditures with increased business and there will be stepped up shopping from out of town. In any respect, we will develop a beautiful Cranford of which we can all be proud."

They also may call Mrs. Vito Lee of 316 North Union Ave. to arrange for collection by the club's motor corps.

Federal Grants To Union College For Student Aid

Union College has been awarded federal grants of $8,600 for Educational Opportunity Grants for the 1968-69 academic year, and $2,500 for a College Work Study Program for the fall semester of 1968. It was announced today by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president. The Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the Educational Opportunity Grants — unofficially called federal scholarships — will range from $200 to $800 for each academic year of study up to four years.

These grants go to students of "exceptional financial need," Mrs. Paul W. Selby, financial aid officer, said. The funds are authorized by the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Each grant requires provision of an equal amount of financial assistance for a student from one or more sources: institutional, state, or privately-financed grant aid, compensation from employment programs, and loans. Mrs. Selby said the Union County Tuition Aid

Plan, for example, can be applied toward this provision.

Mrs. Selby said federal funds will provide 85 percent of the student payrolls for the work study program. A matching college or off-campus agency contribution provides the remaining 15 percent. These funds are provided under the Economic Opportunity Act.

Students in the work study program, preferably from low-income families, are employed up to 15 hours a week during the college year and no more than 40 hours a week during the vacation periods, Mrs. Selby reported.

Be a Booster for Boys' Baseball Leagues

Annual fund drive of the Cranford Boys' Baseball Leagues will be conducted this Saturday, with uniformed members of the Nomahegan, Unami, American, National and Cougar Leagues ringing doorbells in quest of funds to help pay for uniforms, equipment and other expenses. The boys will leave a booster sticker and a copy of the 1968 league schedules with each donor.

Main beneficiaries of this Saturday's fund canvass will be the more than 800 Cranford boys ranging from 8 to 19 years of age who will be participating in the activities of the various leagues this spring and summer. Spring practice has been underway for the past two weeks and opening day for the leagues' 14th season is Saturday, April 20.

The leagues are established in different age groups to enable each boy to compete on his own age level while learning the fundamentals of baseball, fair play, discipline and teamwork. There are adult managers and coaches for each team, and the games are played under standard rules with umpires.

In addition to the many boys who benefit directly, the leagues' program also benefits their families and friends and the community as a whole by providing healthful, supervised recreation during the spring and summer months which serves as an effective deterrent to any juvenile delinquency tendencies and helps to mold character and instill principles of sportsmanship and fair play in young minds.

Successful carrying out of a major community program such as this requires the expenditure not only of much time and effort on the part of the many volunteer adult supervisors but also of considerable sums of money for such necessities as uniforms, equipment and insurance. Sources of these needed funds are sponsorship of teams by local business and other organizations and the contributions made by the people of Cranford to the once-a-year appeal for financial support.

You can help insure another season of interesting, healthful and wholesome exercise and recreation for a large segment of the population of your community by contributing to the fund when a representative of the Cranford Boys' Baseball Leagues calls at your home this Saturday.

Those not contacted personally on Saturday may mail their contributions to: Cranford Boys' Baseball Leagues, Inc., P. O. Box 98, Cranford, N. J. 07016.

Grass and Brush Fires Unnecessary Spring Hazards

The arrival of spring weather always means a rush of business for members of the fire department, who are kept scurrying from place to place to extinguish grass and brush fires, hopefully before they develop into property damage blazes.

Most such fires are entirely unnecessary hazards to property and life, whether they are set deliberately by unthinking youngsters or are the result of carelessness on the part of adults engaged in spring cleaning activities.

Just about all of them could be avoided in the first place if the following burning requirements promulgated by the township's Bureau of Fire Prevention were observed to the letter:

"No outdoor fire (other than barbecues) is allowed without the permission of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, Cranford Fire Department.

"Outdoor fires (other than barbecues) shall be limited to plant life (leaves, grass, trees, wood, etc.) and only on the property on which it has grown.

"Outdoor fires not contained shall be small in size and located at least 50 feet from any structure.

"Outdoor fires in a proper container shall be at least 15 feet away from any structure.

"Outdoor fires within the township limits between sunset and sunrise are prohibited.

"Outdoor fires shall be attended at all times and the fire shall be extinguished when the attendant leaves the area.

"No outdoor fire is permitted when the wind is above 15 miles per hour or atmospheric conditions are considered unsuitable for burning.

"No outdoor fire is permitted upon any street, pavement, gutter or curb.

"In certain cases, outdoor fires of building material such as paper or wood only are permitted if the fire is contained in an incinerator approved by the Bureau of Fire Prevention.

"No person shall kindle a fire upon the property of another without specific permission of the owner or his agent."

Fines of not less than $25 or more than $500 or imprisonment for from 10 to 90 days, or both, are provided for failure to comply with the above requirements.

To help keep spring a pleasant time for all, we urge adults to comply with the burning regulations and to warn their children against setting outdoor fires or playing near them.

Report From Trenton

From Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo
Union County Senate Delegation Leader

The recent public hearings on the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgement Law have once again focused attention on the nearly 100,000 uninsured motorists in New Jersey. The fact that the fund established under the 18-year-old law has been substantially depleted makes clear the need for quick remedial action.

Whatever the action taken—and I am wholeheartedly in favor of taking steps to restore the fund to a sound financial footing—it should not be at the expense of the responsible motorist who recognizes his moral obligation to carry insurance.

In my opinion, the problem could be solved in two stages. One would involve passage of S-254, a bill amending the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgement Fund Law, which I co-sponsored with Senators Sid Riddell and Richard Coffee of Mercer County. This bill, if enacted into law, would require the owner of an uninsured vehicle to pay an extra fee of $50 each year at the time he registers his vehicle.

This would be a 100 percent jump over the $25 fee now charged, but it would increase by approximately two-and-a-half million dollars the revenue coming into the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgement Fund. Adoption of S-254 could prompt owners of presently uninsured vehicles to seek coverage from an insurance carrier.

However, it could also tempt a certain number of irresponsible uninsured motorists to attempt to evade payment of this fee by falsely reporting that they are covered. This could defeat the purpose of the bill because it would reduce the amount coming into the fund.

It is therefore both logical and desirable that S-254 be adopted in conjunction with a bill that would make it impossible for any motorist to shirk his responsibility. S-253, a bill which I co-sponsored along with Senators Raymond Bateman of Somerset and Norman Tanzman of Middlesex, would require all applicants for motor vehicle registration to produce proof of insurance. Such a requirement would block a loophole being used by unscrupulous motorists. In view of the estimate of the director of motor vehicles that 10,000 uninsured motorists are getting off scot-free, this is a serious situation that should be rectified immediately.

Adoption of S-254 and S-238 would, in my opinion, take a giant step toward curing the ills that afflict the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgement Fund. Most important, the enactment of these bills would make it unnecessary to add to the heavy financial burden being born by the little man, that forgotten citizen who faces up to his responsibilities and pays his bills.

If a compulsory insurance requirement is adopted, as has been recommended, (Continued on Page 3)

Letters to the Editor

Cranford, N. J.
March 31, 1968

Dear Sir:

The ABCS thanks Mr. Orens for his interest and concern in Cranford's education problems which he expressed in his letter to the editor last week. We hope that many more citizens will be stimulated to take a hard look at the developing situation and advise the Board of Education of their point of view. We feel certain that an informed public is the only sure avenue to satisfactory solutions of the problems facing our school system.

Mr. Orens pointed out, quite correctly, that salaries paid to public officials are, and should be, public knowledge. Unfortunately, he missed entirely the point which Dr. Harry Dougherty's question to the Board of Education involved. The fact is that salaries paid by the board are public knowledge only after the board has voted to approve them.

The board has always deliberated privately on matters concerning personnel, salaries, and land acquisition. The evaluation and frank discussion which must precede a decision concerning an individual's salary must be kept a private matter. Once the board establishes and votes on a salary or a salary policy then the public has a right to the information.

Since a salary proposal for our school administrators has not been adopted by the board at this writing, the salaries for these people are still open to change and are still the private affair of the board. What Dr. Dougherty questioned was how this highly confidential information which had been delivered in sealed envelopes to only the nine board members was published in a newspaper four days later. This question has been reiterated at subsequent board meetings but no answer has been offered although it is clear that the obvious inference from the facts discloses several of the board members.

Dr. Dougherty was not, to use Mr. Orens' words, "corrected immediately and decisively" because he was not in error and we hope that this explanation not only corrects Mr. Orens' misinformation but alerts the citizens of Cranford to an aspect of the problems that they may not have been aware of. To quote our school superintendent, Dr. Clark McDermith, "people have been elected to the Board of Education who are not sufficiently attuned to the nature of the enterprise."

Only an alert, informed, and active citizenry can rectify the board.

Dear Sir:

I noted with a great deal of pleasure the article in the last issue of the Chronicle about the Cranford YMCA program. I have been a member of the Westfield Y now for almost five years. And although I know all too well that physical exercise isn't the only ingredient in a trim waistline, nevertheless it can make you feel better and keep you much more alert.

I often wondered why Cranford never had a Y of its own. I've heard many reasons for this. Now a major step is being contemplated toward an enlarged program by moving toward a Cranford branch. This is good. Whether that may eventually mean our own building or greater use of Westfield's facilities remains to be seen. However, it means presently the development of a program that can't help but be a real benefit to our community in major ways.

Interestingly enough, no tax dollars are presently involved. This means we can all ask the relevant question, "What can a Y do for Cranford?" without any privileged emotional outbursts. Maybe, therefore, this will be one activity to which our whole town will give a resounding "Yes!"

Nature Notes

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER

I just came in from a stroll along the river. There weren't any birds around that hadn't been there all winter except a handful of plump robins. However, a new look and a new sound were evident in the feathered kingdom. A song sparrow exuberated from a dead oak stump in the middle of a swampy area. The redwing's shoulders are redder and his burble cheerier. The eye stripe on the white-throats is spring yellow. A kingfisher chattered at me from his perch as he took dead aim on carp that were rippling the water's surface. Truly, as John Burroughs said, Nature's door's ajar.

The one little fellow I'd set out to look for wasn't around; it's a bit early for him. The object of my search was the "myrtlebird," the myrtle warbler, so-called because of his fondness for myrtle or bay berries. Many stay around all winter if the berry crop is good. The 67th Christmas Bird Count tallied the tiny birds in Princeton, Peckskill, Philadelphia and 425 of them in Cape May. I've never seen one during the cold months on my ramble; to me he's a harbinger of spring.

The characteristic field mark of the myrtle warbler is a bright yellow rump. Unfortunately this disappears when the bird perches. Edwin Way Teale speaks of them in "North With the Spring": "During one such stop we were impressed by the way the bright yellow rump patches of the myrtle warbler disappeared almost instantaneously when they alighted, leaving only grayish plumage that blended with the tree bark behind it. . . . This swift eclipse of the yellow rump patches produces the impression of watching a creature vanish into thin air."

Peterson feels that it takes many years to make a "warbler expert." In his opinion 10 years are par for recognizing them in fall plumage. However, myrtles are easy to spot and are often the first warbler identified by beginners. They arrive earlier, about the middle of April in our area, and can be seen readily because the leaves are not yet on the trees. The rest of the warbler family arrives from the tropics sometime during the first two weeks of May, and, since many of them feed in the topmost branches, the earth-bound birder only glimpses one occasionally.

During migration, thousands of myrtle warblers move through an area in a short time. An observer in South Carolina counted 24,000 going past his vantage point between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. Early migrants in spring, they are late to leave their breeding ground in fall. Some winter in Panama and others in chilly Oregon and Nova Scotia.

If they're around your neighborhood, you can coax them to the feeder with suet and bits of doughnut. In addition to their berry and insect fare, they've been seen either sipping sap from a sapsucker's excavation in a living tree or eating the insects attracted by the sweet fluid. In Florida they drink juice from fallen oranges.

You may never find their nest. The patriarchs of birders, Audubon and Wilson, never did. If you're lucky enough to follow one home, you may find a startling egg cramping the small nest. Home to the myrtle warbler is anywhere north of the New York Metropolitan area.

A Committee for Educational and Cultural Advancement (CECA) was formed to encourage use of educational and cultural resources in Cranford. Among major ideas under consideration were a month-long festival of arts and an educational conference. Other projects were to focus on literature, religious, moral and spiritual values, life-long education, the sciences, and health, recreation and safety. Committee chairman was Dr. Clark W. McDermith, superintendent of schools.

The Board of Education received recommendations from its architects for renovations at Cranford High School totaling $709,500. Heading the list was transfer to the cafeteria from its present third floor location to the storage area, under the auditorium and conversion of the old cafeteria into a lecture room, teachers' room and conference rooms. Also recommended were the enlargement of the art area and library, addition of two science rooms, erection of a fire escape at the end of the rear wing and extension of ground floor corridor through the shop to bring you the cheery news about how you can overcome many of them. You and your sprayer and your friendly garden supply store.

What I'd like you to know about today is something called "Tree, Shrub, and Flower Pest Control," because I know it will help you and I'm sure you can afford it.

This is a set of fact sheets, 8 1/2 by 11, ready-punched with three holes so that it will snap right into the old binder you used for lab notes in Biology I.

Two Rutgers trouble shooters put it together: Louis M. Vavary, an entomologist, and Spencer H. Davis, Jr., a plant disease specialist.

From long experience they know the kind of information home gardeners need to make their little troubles go away.

And so they start with Andromeda and end with zinnia, with more than 40 trees, shrubs and flowers in between. Listed are pests you can expect, what to use to prevent or control them, and when.

There's even a translation of common names of some insects and mites to help you when you read the fine print on the label, to make sure you're buying the right stuff.

Another thoughtful touch is a table of measures so you can make up a gallon of spray when the label directions tell how to make 100 gallons.

The Board of Education presented Dr. Howard R. Best, who had just retired as superintendent of schools, with a sterling silver tray in appreciation of his 23 years' service.

G. Van Chamberlin, Republican candidate for a Township Committee nomination, criticized the town's library facilities, which he said made it necessary for many students and residents to go out of town to secure necessary books. He called for construction of a new library as the first capital improvement, and said this should be followed by a new police headquarters. The present headquarters, he asserted, was a disgrace for a community of Cranford's size.

Benefit Concert Guest Artist 'A Born Mozart Player'

Dr. Thomas Richner, associate professor at Douglass College, New Brunswick, will be the guest artist at a benefit concert for the Friends of the College of Union College on Sunday, April 28, at 3 p.m. in the theatre of Union College's Campus Center.

Dr. Richner was guest artist at a similar event a year ago sponsored by the Friends of the College under the leadership of Mrs. Bedford H. Lydon of Cranford, chairman.

Tickets for the benefit may be obtained from Mrs. Lydon and other members of the Friends of the College.

Dr. Richner, described by a New York Times critic as "a born Mozart player," and they are few, is the author of a book, "Orientation for Interpreting Mozart's Piano Sonatas," and he has played all-Mozart programs in the capitals of Europe and in New York City.

Dr. Richner is the recipient of an honorary doctorate bestowed by Colby College, Waterville, Me. There, with Prof. Everett Strong, he co-founded the Church Music Institute, which today draws organists and choir masters from all parts of the country.

A native of Pennsylvania, Dr. Richner was born and raised in the southwestern town of Point Marion. He was given his first keyboard lesson at 5 and at 9 gave his first public concert.

Although Dr. Richner had begun playing the organ in church at 12, he little expected the instrument to play such an important role in his education and in his life. But he earned his way through the University of West Virginia with an organ-connected job. Not playing but repairing.

Dr. Richner won the coveted Walter W. Naumburg Competition, which brought with it a New York Town Hall debut. His Town Hall debut was followed by 10 more such recitals over the years, including several all-Mozart programs.

Besides his many concerts, master classes and clinics on both piano and organ, Dr. Richner teaches at Douglass College and returns each summer to teach at Columbia University Teachers College.

Mr. Jaffe said more than 300 residents of Cranford are members of the Eastern Union County YMHA and two residents, Marshall Klein and Walter Weinstock, serve on the board of directors. William Rucker, president of Swan Cleaners, is a past president of the board.

Dear Neighbors:

Spring is here.

Your shade trees that beautify and enhance the value of your home will need care. This year there is evidence already that the destructive scale insects appear more plentiful on our favored oak trees than last year. Don't let your shade trees get infected by these parasites, otherwise their branches would decay and die in time. This is the time to spray and save the beautiful trees that you admire and love. Now through the beginning of April is the time to use dormant spray and we will be only too happy to do it for you expertly. We have the most advanced equipment and the necessary know-how to do the job most effectively. We use high viscosity miscible spray oil which is harmless to humans as well as our birds. Our rates are reasonable. Won't you call us for more information? It won't cost you anything to get an estimate and our service is prompt and courteous.

Kindergarten Roundup Scheduled

The annual kindergarten roundup conducted by the Parent-Teacher Associations for the Cranford public school system will begin on April 30, it was announced today by Dr. Clark W. McDermith, superintendent of schools.

"The purpose of the roundup is to identify all prospective kindergarten pupils for the coming year; children who will be 5 years old by January 1 of next year, and to facilitate their early registration," Dr. McDermith said.

Parents should take a completed kindergarten enrollment form and their child's birth certificate with them when they register. Registration will take place during regular school hours as follows: Tuesdays, April 30 and May 7—Brookside Place School, Roosevelt School and Sherman School; Wednesdays, May 1 and 8—Bloomington Avenue School, Lincoln School and Walnut Avenue School, and Thursday, May 2 and 9—Cleveland School and Livingston Avenue School.

Tree Needs Room
A home owner in Cranford had a letter from me the other day about her spruce tree problem. After consultation with the usual reliable source I had to write her that her middle tree in a group of three wasn't growing because it had so little room.

The three trees, now about 6 feet tall, had only 5 feet between them. This lady's Colorado spruce needs at least 15 feet in all directions if it's to thrive.

This is worth noting now, when so many homeowners are thinking of planting or transplanting. It doesn't seem possible that the cute little tree from the nursery will ever become a forest giant. But it may. Right there in front of the picture window.

suggested by some people, it would cause an immediate and sharp increase in the premiums paid by holders of existing policies. A compulsory insurance program might involve forcing all carriers to accept any and all applicants, some of whom are extremely poor risks. This would necessarily increase the risk factors for the carriers and the premiums for all motorists.

James Porter and Richard Wagner tied for first place in the 19th annual mathematics examination at Cranford High School.

The examination is sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America, the Society of Actuaries, Mu Alpha Theta and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. The test is given nationally in March and was administered to selected juniors and seniors at Cranford High School by the mathematics staff.

Trailing the first-place finishers were Donald Preuss and Perry Sarkisian.

James Porter has been accepted as an engineering-major at Purdue University and has been nominated as a candidate for admission to the United States Air Force Academy. Interested in all outdoor activities, including horseback riding, he is active in the Spanish Club and the Architectural Drawing Club at the high school. His out-of-school activities include the Explorer Scouts and the CYO.

A member of the National Honor Society, Richard Wagner has been accepted to Amherst College as a liberal arts major. His activities at the high school include being manager of the basketball team for three years. Choir, Boys' Double Quartet, junior varsity and varsity soccer teams, Folk Music Club, male lead in "Brigadoon" last year and parts in "Carousel" and "My Fair Lady." Drama Club, Music Club, Senior Executive Board and Prom Committee.

Donald Preuss, a junior, plans to major in chemistry or physics. He was selected last fall to represent Cranford High School at the Chemical Caravan sponsored by the Chemical Industry Council in New Jersey. At Cranford High School, he is active in the Chess Club, Architectural Drawing Club, German Club and Chemistry Club. He is treasurer of Junior Achievement and is interested in swimming, chess and ping pong.

Perry Sarkisian has been accepted by Rutgers University, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and Stevens Institute of Technology. A member of the National Honor Society, he plans to major in electrical engineering. He is a member of the Chess Club, Chemistry Club, Math Club, French Club and Biology Club at the high school, and his out-of-school activities include Explorer Scouts, Junior Achievement, Armenian Church Youth Organization and Sunday School staff work.

DAR to Visit Historic Sites

Members of Crane's Ford Chapter, DAR, will meet at the Boudinot House, 1073 East Jersey St., Elizabeth, at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday for a tour of this historical building, followed by visits to the Belcher and Bunnell Houses.

"The Boudinot House and nearby Belcher House," a DAR spokesman said, "are two of the most distinguished Colonial buildings in New Jersey. They stand as a reminder of the days when Elizabeth was a small though influential town covering about a mile and a half area."

"Across from the Belcher Mansion is the Bunnell House, probably the oldest in the city. The exact age of the Bunnell House is unknown, but it may very well date from the 17th century."

Mrs. W. K. Flanagan, Jr., is in charge of arrangements.

Of course, washing machines run on electricity and electricity costs money. But a lot less money than you might think. In fact, because of rate reductions and increased use, the average unit cost of electricity has gone down 45% in the last 25 years. If your electric bills are slightly higher today, consider the number of appliances you've added. Most homes now use more than four times the amount of electricity than a quarter century ago. Yes, electricity is still the best bargain in your home.

Tuition Aid Grants Available For 600 at Union College

Six hundred tuition aid grants each worth $600 will be available for the fall semester at Union College, it was announced today by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

The grants are provided under the tuition aid plan adopted by Union College and the Union County Board of Freeholders, and financed with county and state funds.

Tuition aid grants go to all Union County residents who attend Union College as full-time students in the day session. Dr. Iversen reported there are 514 Union County residents benefiting from the program during the current spring semester.

Under the tuition aid plan, a Union County student can attend our college for an annual tuition charge of $400. Dr. Iversen explained, "The tuition aid plan will provide the remaining $600."

In February, Union College announced it would increase its tuition for full-time students from $600 to $1,000 annually, effective July 1, 1968. The Union County Board of Freeholders has agreed to increase the grants under the tuition aid plan from $400 to $600 a semester, so Union County residents can continue to attend

Union College for $200 a semester, Dr. Iversen explained.

There will be about 100 more tuition aid grants available for the 1968-69 academic year than were available for the 1967-68 academic year, Dr. Iversen said.

Slightly larger freshman and sophomore classes are anticipated for the fall semester, Union College's acting president reported.

Under the tuition aid plan, a Union County student in four semesters at Union College can qualify for grants totaling $1,200 towards a total tuition charge of $2,000.

No application is necessary to qualify for the tuition assistance, Dr. Iversen reported. He said the grant is made automatically to Union County residents who enroll as full-time students in the day session.

Good Viewing Possible Here Of Lunar Eclipse Next Week

An exceptionally well-placed total lunar eclipse will be visible to New Jersey residents on Friday, April 12, and into Saturday morning, April 13, it was reported today by Anthony Paone, director of the Sperry Observatory at Union College.

"The moon will be high in the sky from beginning to end, with the major part of the event occurring on Friday night," Mr. Paone reported.

A lunar eclipse occurs when the moon falls within the shadow of the earth.

Totality will begin at 11:23 p.m. and will end at 12 minutes after midnight, Mr. Paone said. The moon will enter penumbra—point where the earth's shadow is cast upon the moon (if one were standing on the moon, he would view a partial eclipse of the sun)—at 9:11 p.m., and will enter umbra—which is the deep shadow of the earth (if one were standing on the moon, he would view a total eclipse of the sun)—at 10:10 p.m. It will leave umbra at 1:25 a.m. and leave penumbra at 2:24 a.m.

"The most dramatic changes occur during the partial phases of the eclipse when the moon gradually dims as it enters the umbra and when the moon moves from the penumbra to the darkest umbra," the director of the Sperry Observatory said.

Mr. Paone pointed out that no one need miss the eclipse for lack of a telescope, because it will be visible to the unaided eye and through binoculars. He said binoculars will enlarge the apparent size of the moon without overpowering the eyes as the full moon does in a large telescope.

"Depending on atmospheric conditions, distribution of cloud cover and the amount of dust or other particles, the color of the moon within the earth's shadow can vary from bright orange to a very dark gray," Mr. Paone said. "Recent eclipses have shown moderate coloration as contrasted to the unusual eclipse of December 30, 1965, when the moon was practically invisible during the total phase."

Members of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., who operate the Sperry Observatory jointly with Union College; students in Union College's astronomy course, and adults in an advanced astronomy course sponsored by AAI and Union College will gather at the Sperry Observatory on April 12 to share the experience and to compare notes on earlier lunar eclipse observations.

The 12-inch reflector telescope in the Sperry Observatory will be used exclusively to photograph the eclipse at intervals throughout the night, while visual observing will be done through the six-inch refractor telescope and binoculars.

Cranford Churches

Methodist Church to Hold Liturgical Jazz Service

James Lenney, director of music of Cranford Methodist Church, has announced the planning of a service of worship in liturgical jazz to be held Sunday, April 28 at 8 p.m.

In announcing the project, Mr. Lenney said this will be an opportunity to unite the best of the past and the present in liturgical music. Present planning includes the possible use of John Wesley's Order of Worship, which dates back to 1784.

Placed in the setting of the sanctuary with full choir, jazz combo and organ, this will be a serious attempt to involve the people in worship through the use of the modern interpretation of traditional liturgy and music, Mr. Lenney explained.

"We have seen many attempts to modernize the liturgy of the church," he continued, "but these attempts have not made the kind of impression necessary for serious consideration because they have not really involved the people. What we are attempting to do is to involve the people in the total worship experience not introducing a new form for art's sake alone."

Rev. Edwin Williams, associate pastor of the church, who has given the project his full support since its inception last fall, states that "we must be open to the best of the present and the past. There is a whole world of music awaiting use by the church, and there are instruments other than the organ that can be played to the glory of God."

The commission on worship of the church will sponsor the service under the chairmanship of Mrs. Chaucery Hite. Present planning includes a number of new compositions as well as the arrangement of traditional hymns in the modern idiom.

Set Holy Week Service on Monday

"The Meal in the Upper Room," a Holy Week service for men and women of Cranford Methodist Church, will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. The Women's Society of Christian Service is sponsoring the observance.

A simple meal consisting of foods similar to those eaten at the Last Supper will be served. The participants will eat in silence broken only by hymns, prayers and scripture readings.

Mrs. George Grove is general chairman. Serving on the committee are: Mrs. John Kopf, reservations; Mrs. Stuart Campbell, organist; Mrs. Richard Patton, choir director; Mrs. William Collins, usher; and Mrs. William DiTullio, kitchen and dining room.

Recommends Right View Of Oneself

A right view of oneself brings security from danger and disease and gives us the opportunity to control our everyday life, a Christian Science lecturer told her audience Tuesday night at the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

"How do you see yourself?" Mrs. Georgina Tennant, C.S.B., asked in the title of her lecture. "Your answer to this question is important to you, to me, to all mankind. For the real picture of yourself, you must look deeply into 'the mirror that shows your relationship to God,' the lecturer said.

In Christian Science, Mrs. Tennant noted, man is understood to be "God's reflection," or the reflection of spirit. She pointed out that "nothing can happen to the reflection in the mirror unless it first happens to the original in front of the mirror. Nothing can happen to man as God's reflection unless it first happens to God. Herein lies our security."

But to feel this sense of security as reflection, she added, we must know the nature of our original, God. And this nature must be understood as "an intelligent cause that has conceived and ordered the universe in love."

Library Project Consultant Named by Union College

Donald F. Cameron of Highland Park, retired Rutgers University librarian, will serve as consultant to Union College for the development of plans for a new library, it was announced today by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

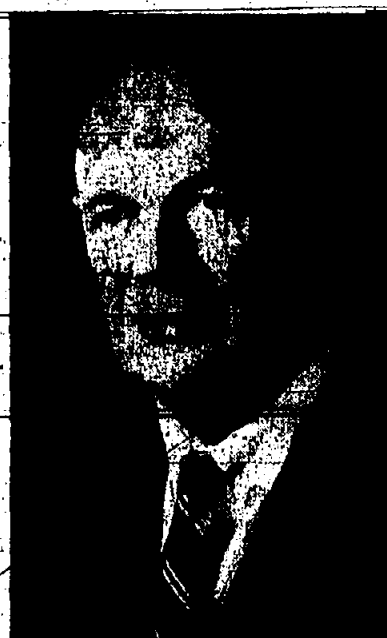

Prof. Cameron will work with Prof. George P. Marks III, Union College librarian, the special faculty library committee, and committees of the board of trustees in the planning of a new library.

The faculty library committee has recommended the construction of a library building containing about 45,000 square feet which would cost between $1 million and $1.25 million.

Prof. Cameron served as Rutgers University librarian from 1945 to 1966. He joined the Rutgers English department in 1929 and holds the title of professor of English.

One of the founders of the Rutgers University Press, and its former editor, Mr. Cameron formerly was secretary to the Rutgers Press Council.

Prof. Cameron helped organize the University Research Council as well as the Associated Friends of the Library at Rutgers University. He is a member of the Bibliographical Society of America, the American Library Association, the New Jersey Library Association and Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. The Union College consultant was graduated from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., in 1924 with a bachelor of science degree. The following year he received a master of arts degree from Princeton University.

Fischer Marks 30th Anniversary At Esso Research

Wilbur F. Fischer of 133 Reiford Ave. has observed his 30th anniversary with Esso Research and Engineering Co. He is a senior research chemist in the Enjay Polymer Laboratories in Linden.

Mr. Fischer's early career experience as a research technician included evaluation of some of the first Butyl rubbers synthesized by the company. He later became supervisor of the rubber laboratory in the former chemical research division.

Between 1943-46 he served in the Army as a radar maintenance man and instructor and later as a combat infantryman in Europe. On his return to the company, Mr. Fischer became a specialist working mainly on oxo alcohols and plasticizers. During this time he helped develop two ideas commonly practiced by industry today: The use of low volatility ester plasticizers for polyvinyl chloride resins and the use of an antioxidant for stabilizing these compositions.

After receiving a bachelor's degree in chemistry in 1951 from Seton Hall University, Mr. Fischer resumed work on elastomers as a member of the newly formed Enjay Technical Service Laboratory, which was concerned with customer use of Butyl, Vistanex and ethylene-propylene rubbers in the electrical field.

Mr. Fischer's 13 publications include a paper he co-authored last year on the oxidation of rubber, which won an award as the best paper at an American Chemical Society meeting. He holds 16 United States patents.

Mr. Fischer is active as a committee member in Boy Scout Troop 75 of Cranford Methodist Church and in church affairs. He and his wife, Anne, have three sons and three daughters.

Cost of Living Plan Adopted For UC Staff

A unique cost of living adjustment will be provided annually to all full-time faculty staff members of Union College under a new plan adopted by the board of trustees.

The plan was announced yesterday at a faculty meeting by Prof. Arnold J. Keen of Plainfield, a member of the humanities department and chairman of the faculty welfare committee, and reviewed in detail by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

Under the plan, each full-time employee will be given a separate check in May each year reflecting the increased cost of living based on data compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Dr. Iversen reported. He pointed out that the arrangement was based on recommendations of the faculty welfare committee.

"This plan is designed to provide for our faculty and other staff members a sense of security," Dr. Iversen said. "It should also be a strong factor in recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff members. I'm sure it will have a great psychological advantage in these efforts."

Dr. Albert E. Meder of Westfield, chairman of the board's education committee and vice-provost of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, said to his knowledge this is one of the first, if not the first, cost of living program adopted by an institution of higher education.

Each year the cost of living adjustment will be determined by the change in the Bureau of Labor Statistics' data from January 1 to December 31. This year's adjustment, for example, will be based on the cost of living increase between January 1, 1967, and December 31, 1967, which was 2.9 percent. In May, each full-time employee will receive his cost of living adjustment based on the 2.9 percent figure.

Dr. Iversen said only the major aims of the cost of living adjustment is to retain highly-qualified, long service faculty members, who are being sought by the new two-year colleges to serve in administrative and department head positions.

"This new plan is an attempt to make it even more attractive for our faculty and staff members to remain with us," Dr. Iversen said.

In the past six years, according to data collected by the National Center for Health Statistics via nationwide sampling household interviews, an average of 3.5 million cases of mumps have occurred annually. The center also reported a total of 31 deaths due to mumps in 1965, 11 of which were in persons 15 years of age and over.

ABC Plans Starting Soon On Expansion

GARWOOD—Preliminary work on the expansion of Accurate Building Co. are expected to begin within the next month, Vincent J. Powers, president and general manager, announced in his annual review talk to the plant personnel last Thursday.

The plans call for construction of a two-story, 37,000-square-foot building adjacent to the company's present plant at 443 North Ave. Mr. Powers said the new structure should be completed and in operation by the first of next year.

Architects for the project are Van der Clute and Spies of 500 Centennial Ave., Cranford. Mr. Powers in his talk assured the company's 375 employees that ABC plans to continue operations in Garwood and to expand facilities and employment as much as possible.

He said some people had expressed concern that Accurate Building might move its operations because of difficulties encountered in getting additional land for future parking.

The new building is to be constructed on property presently used for parking and the company recently made an offer of $20,000 for a 7.5-by-150-foot plot of borough-owned land on Second Ave. to replace this parking area. The offer was withdrawn, however, when an appraiser set a fair market value of $38,000 on the borough plot, and it was announced that the company was considering other areas for the needed extra parking facilities.

Mr. Powers said on Thursday, however, that it could be several years before lack of parking space might restrict employment, and he expressed hope that a solution to such a problem would be worked out by that time.

Drive Begins For Voter Registration

KENILWORTH—Councilman Walter E. Boright, Jr., Kenilworth voter registration chairman, today announced the start of the 1968 registration drive. The deadline for registering to vote in the June 4 primary election is April 25.

New voters must be at least 21 years of age on or before June 4, a citizen of the United States and a resident of New Jersey for at least six months and of Union County for at least 40 days on or before June 4.

Re-registration is necessary if a person has failed to vote in the last four elections, was previously registered in another state, changed his address or changed his name through marriage, court decree or other legal means.

The borough clerk's office in the municipal building will be open for registration any weekday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Monday evenings from 7:30 to 9 p.m. On April 22, 23, 24 and 25 it will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Local residents also may register at the office of the Union County Board of Elections in Elizabeth.

Councilman Boright has served as registration chairman since 1963. He reported that during the five-year period, 900 new voters have been added to the rolls. The net gain, however, was 300 because of the loss of registrants who have moved out of town, died or lost their voting privilege for some other reason.

John C. Gallaghers Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary

GARWOOD—Mr. and Mrs. John C. Gallagher of 636 Spruce Ave. celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday with a nuptial mass offered by Rev. John A. McHale, pastor, at the Church of St. Anne.

The Gallaghers were married at St. Mary's Church in Bayonne on March 31, 1918. The late Ned Mellic of Coaldale, Pa., was best man and Mrs. Gallagher's sister, Mrs. Mary Danback, who resides in Bayonne, was maid of honor.

Mrs. Danback and family joined the Gallaghers at the nuptial mass on Saturday and later attended a family breakfast held at Howard Johnson's in Clark.

A surprise dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher was given by the family in the evening at the Cranford. Scores of friends were in attendance. Congratulatory telegrams were received from their son, Dennis, and grandson, John, who were unable to attend because they are on active duty with the armed forces.

Father McHale read a telegram from Rome congratulating the couple and reporting that a Papal blessing was in the mail.

Mr. Gallagher was born in Letternard, County Donegal, Ireland, and Mrs. Gallagher, nee Anne Johnstone, was born in Bathgate, Scotland. Mr. Gallagher served in the U. S. Army in France and Germany during World War I. Following his discharge, he and Mrs. Gallagher moved to Coaldale, Pa., where he worked in the coal mines.

They returned to Bayonne in 1920, and Mr. Gallagher joined the Best Foods Co., where he held a supervisory post until his retirement in 1953.

The Gallaghers have been residents of Garwood since 1951. In 1955, Mr. Gallagher was appointed a school crossing guard, a post which he still fills. Mrs. Gallagher was a personal dressmaker in Scotland and Bayonne prior to the arrival of her first child, who died shortly after birth.

Their living children include Mrs. Mary Toomey, residing at 634 Spruce Ave. with her husband, Thomas, a son, Councilman John E. Gallagher, residing at 68 Fourth Ave. with his wife, Betty; and a foster son, SP/5 Dennis McCormick, with the Fourth Infantry at Plei Ku, South Vietnam. Dennis is married to the former Joyce Brancaccio of Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher have eight grandchildren: Maryanne, Patricia and Kathy Toomey; Diane, James, Jerry and John Gallagher; and Christine, McCormick. John and his wife, the former Jackie Lipsitt of Garwood, are living in Las Vegas, Nev., where he is serving with the Air Force at Nellis AFB. A ninth grandchild, Beverly Gallagher, died in 1968.

After the festivities in their honor, Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher revisited Atlantic City for a second honeymoon.

Local Civil Air Patrol Cadets Eligible for Special Courses

GARWOOD—Cadet Technical Sgt. Patrick J. Laden of 618 Spruce Ave. and Cadet Staff Sgt. Richard Fuentes of 404 Beech Ave., members of the Linden Composite Squadron of the New Jersey Wing of the Civil Air Patrol, have been chosen to participate in special activity courses provided by CAP in cooperation with the United States Air Force.

The special activities include: "Space Age Orientation Course," "Jet Orientation Course," "Federal Aviation Cadet Orientation Program," "Cadet Flying Encampment-Power Solo" and "Advanced Jet Familiarization Course."

To be selected for participation, cadets must appear before a review board and show knowledge of aerospace education along with military courtesy.

Cadet Laden will participate in the "Jet Orientation Course" this summer in Illinois. Taught by Air Force instructors, he will become familiar with aircraft engineering, use of parachute, flight instruments, navigation aids, flight planning and flying safety rules.

He will review the principles of attitude instrument flying and receive instruction on basic jet instrumentation techniques and also will visit a ground-controlled interception station and observe its operation.

Cadet Fuentes is the number one alternate from the New Jersey Wing of CAP. He is capable of participating in any of the five special activity courses available to cadets.

His duties with the Linden Composite Squadron include serving as provisional training instructor and academic sergeant. Cadet Fuentes hopes to attend the Air Force Academy after completing his high school education.

As members of the Civilian Air Patrol, the local young men both took part in aerospace education classes which helped them and other cadets to obtain their student pilot licenses.

Membership in the Civil Air Patrol, an auxiliary of the United States Air Force, is open to all interested males and females ranging in age from 13 through 18 years. The Linden Composite Squadron meets Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock for cadets and at 8 o'clock for senior members, at 213 W. 18th St., Linden.

Community Service of VIA Is Reviewed by President

The president of the Village Improvement Association, Mrs. Monroe Westover, recently announced that during 1967-1968 the VIA achieved renewed prominence for community service.

"The VIA was instrumental in having traffic redirected at a dangerous intersection at Riverside Dr. and Springfield Ave. and held its 21st annual open house for Jacek and Mrs. Maurice Williams. Mrs. Dennis Green of 2-Roger Ave. will be welcomed as a new member.

Volunteers For McCarthy Organized Here

Cranford Volunteers for McCarthy held its first meeting in Temple Beth-El last Wednesday evening. Of the 50 people present at the organizational meeting, nearly half were students.

After introductory remarks by the acting chairman, Mrs. Rhoda Fink and John Burton, Mrs. Roslyn Harrison of the 12th Congressional District McCarthy Headquarters spoke to the group about organizing local support.

An executive committee was elected, with Dr. Nathan Weiss, instructor of political science at Newark State College, and John Witherington, history teacher at Cranford High School, as co-chairmen.

Other committee members include: Mark Lurinsky, publicity; William Thomas and Miss Janine Zimmerman, student chairman; William Armitage, Lester Goldberg, Sidney Goldberg and Mrs. Rene Schwartz, quadrant chairman; as well as Mr. Burton, Mrs. Fink and Mrs. Harrison.

The immediate objective of the group is canvassing the community in preparation for the June 4 New Jersey primary, for which the McCarthy organization is fielding a slate of delegates. Permanent headquarters for the group has been established at 8 North Union Ave.

As in other childhood diseases, immunity to mumps (provided the mother has had it or been exposed enough to have developed an apparent infection) is generally passed on to her infant, at least during the first four to six months of its life.

done for the community, the VIA has made substantial financial contributions throughout the years to many of Cranford's worthy causes. Besides this the club participates in many state federation projects and still has time for many social functions.

Mrs. Westover said she is proud of the VIA and the 72 years of dedicated service it has given to the community.

Mark Tomasulo Retirement After 46 Years With County

James C. Tomasulo of 42 West Holly St., who retired January 1 as Union County supervisor of roads after 46 years service with the county, was honored at a testimonial dinner Friday night at the Winfield Scott Hotel, Elizabeth. More than 600 friends, including present and former members of the Board of Freeholders, sports figures and colleagues in county government, attended.

Freeholder Director Edward H. Tiller, mayor of Garwood, served as toastmaster. He reviewed the guest of honor's life from his birth in Greenwich Village, New York City, in 1896, to the present. With his parents, Mr. Tomasulo moved to Roselle Park in 1906. A few years later he started with Otis Elevator Co., New York, at $4 a week and subsequently was advanced to stenographer, secretary and engineering clerk.

Mr. Tomasulo enlisted in the Navy in 1917, serving until 1919 with a sub-chaser fleet. It was during this period that he won the New Jersey and national bantam weight boxing championships in 1917 and 1918 and went to the finals in 1919.

He was employed by the Marconi Wireless Co., Roselle Park, for a few years before starting with the county, in 1921 at $25 a week. There were nine employees in the county road department when he went to work. He was named county road supervisor in 1945 and served in that capacity until his retirement.

Rev. Sebastian J. Chiego, pastor of the Church of the Assumption, Roselle Park, paid tribute to Mr. Tomasulo's parents and termed the guest of honor "Gentleman Jim." Tomasulo of Union County. Charles M. Speidel, retired wrestling coach of Penn State University, and a life-long friend of the guest of honor, told of their early days together at the Elizabeth YMCA when the late Wilfred Cann, physical director, "made men of us" through boxing, wrestling and other sports.

Mayor Thomas G. Dunn of Elizabeth termed the dinner "one of the biggest testimonials" in the history of Elizabeth and presented the guest of honor with a key to the city.

Sheriff Ralph E. Oriscello presented Mr. Tomasulo with a testimonial from the Big Brothers, of which he is president, and Ralph S. Bowers, president of the County Road Supervisors' Association of New Jersey, gave him an illuminated resolution from the state organization "which he had served with distinction and loyalty" and also presented him with a gold life membership card in the society.

Director Tiller presented Mr. Tomasulo with a plaque containing the Board of Freeholders' resolution of tribute on his retirement, and there were more than a dozen telegrams from friends unable to attend.

A bouquet of flowers was presented to Mr. Tomasulo's daughter, Mrs. Alexander V. Kay of Westfield, who attended with her husband and five children. Also present were Mr. Tomasulo's three brothers, Frank, Joseph and Louis, all of whom now reside in Cranford.

Mr. Tomasulo expressed his gratitude to his many friends who attended as well as to the many organizations for their tributes. Invocation was offered by Rev. Anthony J. Tomasulo, O.S.A., a nephew of the guest of honor, and Rt. Rev. Msgr. William B. Donnelly, pastor of St. Michael's Church, gave the benediction. Postmaster William H. Runyon of Elizabeth, co-chairman with Michael J. Magnolia, also of Elizabeth, gave a welcome. Dancing followed the dinner.

Contrary to common belief, the classic signs of mumps — swelling of the face and neck caused by the infection in the salivary glands — are not always present. Sometimes, other organs may be attacked first — and sometimes only other organs will be affected, although this is infrequent.

Sixth Graders Do Research On Diseases

Jeffrey Fischer did research in epilepsy; Claire Lomack wrote about brain tumors; Kathy Rodriguez learned about muscular dystrophy; and Wanda Zulauf did a study of cancer of the stomach.

A report on leukemia was presented by Joan Bergard, while Jeanette Kearney told about cancer of the lung.

Former Garwood Woman Mother of the Year Entry

GARWOOD — Mrs. Kurt Lerke, of Whitehouse, a former resident of Garwood, has been named as the entry of the New Jersey Chapter of the American Mothers' Association for the national title of Mother of the Year.

She and her husband have gained widespread recognition for their project of raising 12 children — 10 of them adopted, including Koreans, Puerto Ricans, Ecuadorians and a Seneca Indian baby.

The Lerkes adopted their first two children in 1957 while they were still living in Garwood. Mrs. Lerke at the time was doing volunteer work for an adoption agency. "I don't know how it all happened," Mrs. Lerke said. "We weren't looking for these children and they weren't looking for us. We just found each other."

The family now lives in a nine-room house on a two-acre farm in Hunterdon County. They raise their own chickens, goats and vegetables, and the children have 14 cats and two rabbits as pets.

Mrs. Lerke's daily chores include doing 10 to 13 loads of wash, ironing for three hours, canning food, and making all the clothes for the children.

The former Garwood woman will represent the state in the national Mother of the Year contest in New York City on May 4.

The AZA adviser for 1968-69 will be Jack Greenberg of 11 Chester Lang Pl. Mrs. Allan Kane of 105 Wilshire Dr., a member of the RBVQ board of directors, has been instrumental in forming this new chapter.

The first organizational meeting will be held next Wednesday at Temple Beth-El at 7:15 a.m. Election of officers will take place, and plans for the new year will be discussed.

Suburban Symphony Guest Artists Whittemore and Lowe, Duo-Pianists

Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe, world-famous duo-pianists, will be guest artists at the final concert of the season of the Suburban Symphony Orchestra of New Jersey on Wednesday, April 24, at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of Cranford High School.

They will perform C.P.E. Bach's "Two Piano Concerto" and Poulenc's "Concerto for Two Pianos." Under Henry Block's direction, the orchestra will present Beethoven's overture to "Egmont" and Khachaturian's "Masquerade Suite."

Mrs. Gus Cohen of Summit, president of the Suburban Symphony Society, reports there is a limited number of tickets still available. Whittemore and Lowe have run up a record of achievements in all media open to duo-pianists. A measure of the high esteem in which they are held is the number of great symphony orchestras with which they appear as soloists. The list includes the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Boston Symphony and the Philharmonic of London, as well as the orchestras of Chicago, Cleveland, San Francisco, St. Louis, Washington, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, Dallas, Detroit, Oklahoma City, Denver, San Antonio, Atlanta, Rochester, and many others.

FRANK INGRASCIA

The
You

"Let's take it from the top," is not just musician's language. It might be the motto of every girl-watching society. That long, lingering look starts lingering right up where you start. If he's looking for something soft and curvy, this is where he'd like to begin finding it; if he's looking for the healthy, wholesome type, he's going to be registering impressions before he reaches your hairline; if he's so filled with ennui that he's looking for a roller coaster ride like he's never had, the bells should be ringing by the time his eyes reach yours.

Researchers tell us we register, very quickly, but in this order, outlines, then textures, and last detail. Since your hair certainly plays a part in the initial two, a good part of that first impression is made by the time he gets to the rest.

You can't catch rainbow trout with jelly fish bait, (and worse, you might catch jellyfish). That's why we take the time we do to ask what you want from a style or color or cut you've asked us about. It's where you start being you, and we'd hate to send home the wrong girl.
