Introduce Sidewalk Ordinance; Public Hearing to Be Sept. 22

The long-delayed ordinance providing for construction of sidewalks on a dozen streets traversed by youngsters to and from school was introduced and passed on first reading by Township Committee Tuesday night. Public hearing is slated for September 22.

The 12 streets selected for sidewalks as a safety measure were chosen from more than 100 studied by the governing body and Local Traffic Coordinating Committee last year. An informal hearing on the initial proposal was held last December by the governing body and a number of changes were made from suggestions offered at that time.

Cost of the project is estimated at $20,000 and it will be assessed against benefitting property owners. Residents will have 30 days in which to construct the walks following adoption of the ordinance or the work will be carried out by the township and the cost assessed against the properties.

Streets or portions of streets on which sidewalks will be constructed include Denman Rd., South Union Ave., Elise St., Centennial Ave., Lambert St., Bloomingdale Ave., Pacific Ave., Brookside Pl., Winans Ave., Lexington Ave., Orange Ave. and Walnut Ave. (A detailed description of streets on which sidewalks are to be constructed appears in a legal advertisement elsewhere in today's issue).

Also introduced and passed on first reading at the meeting was a bond ordinance authorizing the issuance of $1.3 million in bonds and notes for construction of a second swim pool utility at Memorial Park. Hearing on this measure also is slated for September 22.

In the feasibility report presented Tuesday to the Division of Local Finance in Trenton, it was noted that "upon review of all available statistics a policy decision was made to increase the membership for the two swimming pool facilities to $80 per year so that the entire operation will continue to be economically feasible, on a self-liquidating basis, so as to not effect the net debt of the township and also to permit an additional property tax on those residents in the community who do not avail themselves of the facilities."

The presentation indicated anticipated revenues of $308,520 from 2,750 members of summer swimming pools, 809 members of the winter pool and 314 members of the health club. Miscellaneous anticipated revenues include: interest on investments, $6,500; guest fees, $10,500; locker and other fees, $4,000; and food concession, $37,000, for a total of $58,000 in miscellaneous revenues. Total estimated revenues are $396,520.

Estimated operating expenses total $332,337. These include: salaries and wages, $82,000; other expenses, including utilities, maintenance of buildings and grounds, refreshment stand and $12,000 payment to township for use of township land, $102,850; capital improvement fund and capital outlay. ## Clergy Committee Chairman For Centennial Observance Appointment of Rev. John R. Dexheimer, pastor of Cranford Methodist Church and president of Cranford Clergy Council, as chairman of the clergy committee for the township's Centennial Celebration in 1971 was announced this week by Boris Bergen, general chairman for the observance.

Rev. Mr. Dexheimer reported plans for special programs in connection with the observance will be discussed at a Clergy Council meeting to be held at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday at Calvary Lutheran Church.

LABORING TOWARD THE STARS — Labor Day 1970 was not a holiday for everyone in Cranford. Shown are some of the boys and adult volunteers working Monday on the Washtolsky Planetarium being constructed on the grounds of the Hillside Avenue Junior High School. Contributions are still needed to cover the cost of materials and furnishings for this dream project of William Washawanny, Anthony Tola and Mark Matusiefsky.

Increased Service Available From Scavengers Now

The majority of local residents are not aware of the increased garden refuse service available to them since the new scavenger rates went into effect August 1, Public Works Commissioner Burton Goodman declared this week.

The new agreement with the scavengers provides for the curb pickup of one 20-gallon container of garden refuse with each collection. Under the former agreement, only one container of garden refuse was picked up with the second collection each week.

Commissioner Goodman said this additional service should eliminate the dumping of debris on vacant lots and also provide better sanitation for homeowners.

The public works commissioner again advised residents not to accumulate large, bulky items, normally saved for "cleanup weeks," as it is doubtful whether the township will have a community-wide cleanup week because of the jump in costs and lack of lands on which to dump.

He suggested that bulky items be broken down and disposed of in regular weekly collections or special arrangements be made with scavengers to remove appliances or other large items.

Commissioner Goodman invited residents with any questions regarding scavenger service to call the Board of Health office in the Municipal Building for full information.

300 New Voters Register

More than 300 new voters have registered here thus far. Township Clerk John F. Laezza, Jr. has announced. Deadline to register is Thursday, September 24.

Ralph Nader to Speak Here On Environmental Hazards

Ralph Nader, who is often referred to as "the champion of consumer rights and a man vitally concerned about our environment," will speak at Union College on September 18.

Mr. Nader, popular lecturer among college students who recently voted him the national leader they most respected, will speak in the gymnasium of the Campus Center at the Cranford campus on Friday, September 18, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Nader will be introduced by Robert Lospinoso of Elizabeth, acting president of the Day Student Council, which is sponsoring the consumer expert's visit. Mr. Lospinoso extends an invitation to the public to attend the lecture by Mr. Nader. Admission is free to all Union College students. All other guests will be charged $1.50.

Mr. Nader will discuss environmental hazards which plague society every day — hazards which are man-made and which can be man-remedied.

Staff, Curriculum Additions For Schools Opening Today

There will be several new additions to the staff and curriculum in the public schools when they open today, it was reported by Vincent F. Sarnowski, superintendent of schools.

At Cranford High School five new courses will be introduced — computer mathematics, theatre arts, African studies, cabinet making and carpentry.

Orange Avenue Junior High School will offer for the first time a course in introduction to vocations, which has been part of the curriculum at Hillside Avenue Junior High School for the past three years.

Two additional guidance counselors, one for each junior high, have been hired to reduce the load from 345 to 260 students per counselor.

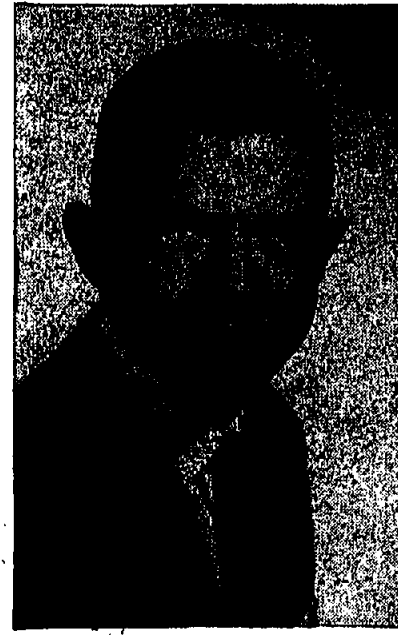

In the science department, Mrs. Sylvia Halpern of Springfield, a Cranford High School science teacher from 1958 to 1965, will return to the local school system as full-time, non-teaching chairman of secondary school science. Prior to her employment, the secondary schools operated with three science chairmen, one in each building.

"Since these chairmen were full-time teachers, time was not provided for classroom observation nor for the other leadership responsibilities which are normally delegated to department chairmen," Mr. Sarnowski said. "With the hiring of one department head, we are, of course, eliminating the other three."

Another new position will be that of system-wide audio/visual specialist. Sheldon O'Desky, science teacher at Hillside Avenue Junior High School, will assume this part-time position. He will be responsible for the requisitioning and distribution of film rentals throughout the school system, assisting librarians in the development of multi-media centers in each school, developing in-service activities for the teaching staff on the proper and effective use of new equipment, and making recommendations for equipment which should be housed in school centers or in a central location for system-wide use. He also will be responsible for inventories, standardizing equipment appropriate to grade level use and making small repairs.

In the elementary schools, implementation of "Science — A Process Approach" will be

ROBERT W. MCARTHUR

General Chairman For United Fund Drive Named

Robert W. McArthur of 725 Willow St. has been appointed general chairman for the 1970 Cranford United Fund campaign, it was announced today by Albert M. Gessler, fund president.

In his first official statement Mr. McArthur announced a 1970 goal of $98,000 to support 18 agencies servicing the community.

"I'm pleased with the manner in which Mr. McArthur has approached this demanding job," Mr. Gessler said in making the appointment. "He has brought to it a high degree of efficiency and enthusiasm. In fact, Bob has completed the recruitment of division chairmen and is expected to announce the appointments within the next two weeks."

In speaking of the 1970 campaign Mr. McArthur said:

"We have two basic objectives this year. First, to meet our $98,000 goal, which incidentally is a conservative estimate of what our agencies need, and second, to reduce our cost by 10 percent by improving the efficiency of our operation. We think this is important, not only because it will provide more money for our agencies, but because we feel the United Fund should utilize the best management procedures possible."

Mr. McArthur, president of Robert Durr Associates of Union County, has been active in many community organizations including the Cranford YMCA Extension Division, the First Presbyterian Church and the Westfield YMCA. He lives with his wife and three children, Robert, Jr., 14; Scott, 12; and Carol Lee, 5, at the Willow St. address.

Lincoln Ave. Playground No Longer Considered For Sr. Citizen Housing

Plan Development In Bloomingdale School Vicinity

A 20-home development on the 2.8 acre William Fordham property behind Bloomingdale Avenue School will be undertaken by Park West Estates, it was revealed at Tuesday night's Township Committee meeting as a street vacating ordinance for the area was introduced on first reading. Public hearing is slated for September 22.

The developers recently obtained a major subdivision from the Planning Board as well as approval of their plot plan, which, it was explained, will have a revamped street layout for better traffic flow. Homes in the development will be in the $35,000 to $40,000 price range, it was reported. The streets to be vacated are Whitewood and Albany Aves., both paper streets which have never been opened.

The committee adopted on final reading an ordinance vacating a portion of Adams Ave., also a paper street, which will bring together all Board of Education property adjacent to Bloomingdale Ave. School.

William J. O'Donnell of 211 Elm St. and James F. Sloan of 211 Holly St. were named probationary patrolmen in the police department, effective September 16. One replaces Patrolman Russell Thomas, who resigned, and the other is an addition to the force. Public Safety Commissioner William Meyer said the two were chosen from more than a dozen applicants who took the test following interviews and examinations conducted by chiefs from four neighboring police departments.

Appointed callmen in the Cranford Fire Department, effective September 8, were Guy Patterson, 14 Locust Dr.; Robert C. Dickey, 437 Brookside Pl.; and Kenneth A. Curtis, 102 Hawthorne St.

Agenda Features Told For Board Meeting

Tuesday night's meeting of the Board of Education, scheduled for 8 p.m. in Lincoln School, will feature staff presentations on the summer writing projects in computer mathematics and introduction to vocations, along with a report on the recent science workshop for elementary school teachers. Mrs. Ruth Janovskik and Mrs. Marica Lallia, the directors of curriculum and instruction, will speak.

Staff reports on curriculum or some other aspect of school activity will be a regular part of each monthly board meeting, it was announced by Vincent F. Sarnowski, superintendent of schools.

Township Committee has unanimously agreed that the Lincoln Ave. playground is not the best site for senior citizen housing and the area will be removed from further consideration, it was announced yesterday by Mayor Malcolm S. Pringle.

The announcement precedes an informal public hearing on senior citizen housing scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight in the Municipal Building.

"At a workshop meeting of Township Committee Tuesday evening following the regular public meeting, the governing body, although in general agreement with most of the recommendations of the Cranford Housing Board, determined that no further consideration be given to the Lincoln Ave. playground as a site for senior citizen housing," the mayor stated.

Text of the Township Committee release follows:

"The Township Committee has studied the preliminary report and accompanying back-up data received from the Cranford Housing Board in July, 1970.

"It enthusiastically commends the Housing Board for its comprehensive interim report which provides the basic outline for a senior

Funeral Held for 19-Year-Old Victim of Crash Here

The funeral of James A. Santos, 19, of 35 Burnside Ave., who was fatally injured when a car in which he was a passenger crashed into a utility pole in front of 308 Riverside Dr. shortly after 9:30 p.m. Saturday, was held yesterday morning from the Dooley Funeral Home here.

A high mass of requiem was celebrated at the Church of St. Anne in Garwood by Rev. Robert Rischmann, assistant pastor, who also read the committal prayers at St. Gertrude Cemetery, Woodbridge.

Police reported that the two-passenger sports car was traveling south on Riverside Dr. when the driver, Jeffrey A. Palmatier, 18, of 303 Manor Ave., lost control about 200 feet north of No. 308. According to the police report, the car traveled 85 feet between trees and shrubs before crashing into a Public Service pole on the passenger's side, bouncing off and ending up against a tree.

Taken to Rahway Hospital by the First Aid Squad, the Santos youth died there at 2:15 a.m. Sunday. He had suffered a fractured skull, fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

The police said the driver of the car suffered only a slight scratch behind the right ear and refused medical attention; He was charged with causing death by auto

Orientation at College Friday For Largest Freshman Class

Union College will welcome the largest class in its 37-year history — 700 students — at a freshman orientation program tomorrow in the Campus Center. It was announced by Anatole K. Colbert, director of counseling and orientation chairman.

In addition to 450 freshmen who will be attending classes in the day session at the Cranford campus, 250 full-time freshmen from the new Elizabeth and Plainfield campuses of Union College will attend the program.

Robert Biunno of 805 Springfield Ave., director of admissions service at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, will be guest speaker. Mr. Biunno will discuss "Completing the Degree Program at Union College."

The orientation program is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. in the gymnasium when Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, president of Union College, and Robert Lospinoso, acting president of the Day Student Council, greet the incoming students.

Also addressing the freshmen on the many intellectual, social, and athletic aspects of collegiate life will be: Prof. Elmer Wolf of Cranford, acting dean; Prof. Hermann Bielefeld of Summit, chairman of the academic evaluation committee; J. Harrison Morson of and civic organizations also assisted in clearing the streams.

Over the years, the park commission has cooperated with other public agencies in attempting to prevent pollution in the waterways. These agencies include the Local Boards of Health in the communities throughout Union County, the State Fish and Game Division, State Board of Health, State Water Policy Commission and others at both the State and Federal levels.

Several of the water areas throughout the county park system are stocked with fish by the State Fish and Game Division when the waters are found suitable to accommodate certain types of fish such as trout, various species of catfish, and the like.

"It must be noted that the debris that is found along the waterways is not put in the stream by the park commission, but by people who leave shopping carts, old tires, washing machines, lumber scraps, furniture, and other things they no longer want on lands in the floodplain adjacent to the stream," a Park Commission spokesman said. "Then, with moderate to heavy rain, the debris is washed down the stream causing blockage and resulting in floods throughout various areas. The final result is that these actions by inconsiderate people cost the taxpayers many dollars in the course of a year to clear the streams of debris.

"Another problem, and a major problem in the Park System, is silt. Silt is an earthy material carried by moving water and deposited as a sediment in and along the waterways of the park system. This condition is caused by denuding the earth of its turf, trees, and shrubs in this age of construction of industrial parks, homes, and shopping centers. With rainfall, the runoff water carries the loose earth (silt) which is washed down storm sewers, eventually ending in the various waterways of the park system. During the past seven years, silt has been removed twice from Echo Lake, Briant Pond, Nomahegan Park Lake, Lenape Lake, and Milton Lake. The silt removal chores are also costly to the taxpayers of the county.

"In the area of flood control, the Park Commission is also concerned. For the most part the lands of the park system were sub-marginal lands at the time of acquisition, and over the years, although much of the land has been developed into parks, they still are used to hold back water after severe rains storms. Therefore, after storms some of the park lands are under water for a period of time, then when the water recedes the area again serves a park purpose.

"All of the above situations are concerns of the Union County Park Commission in its interest of preserving and improving the environmental quality of Union County."

Union Co. Park Commission Aids Fight Against Pollution

One of the many concerns of the Union County Park Commission is water pollution along the lakes, streams and ponds throughout the park system. In the county park system of approximately 5,200 acres, there are some 290 acres of lakes, ponds, and streams. Thus, water in some form accounts for 5.6 percent of the total park area.

Since it was first organized in 1921 the Union County Park Commission has had a vital interest in the waterways in Union County. Since that time the Park Commission has been actively involved in acquiring lands along the Rahway River, the Elizabeth River and, in recent years, the Passaic River.

These are the only rivers in the county and over the years the park commission has acquired almost 300 acres of land along the Elizabeth River in Elizabeth, Hillside and Union; 975 acres along the Rahway River in Westfield, Union, Springfield, Rahway, Kenilworth, Cranford and Clark, and 235 acres along the Passaic River in Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights. Even today the Park Commission is attempting to acquire more lands along these three major streams in the county to complete its authorized acquisitions.

For the most part these lands along the rivers are for bank protection and pollution control. With the banks of the streams in the ownership of a sole public agency, such as the park commission, it makes it easier for other public agencies to control pollution and implement flood control measures rather than trying to negotiate with hundreds of private property owners.

When pollutants are found the Park Commission immediately investigates the source and does everything within its powers to curb the polluted effluent from entering the streams. The Park Commission clears the river banks and the stream beds periodically, and the areas are utilized for both recreation as well as conservation. For the past several years the park commission has hired 40 boys during the summer months to work along the waterways clearing the various streams and banks. Many volunteer groups such as scouts

Power lawn mowers — no toys where children are concerned.

Cutting the grass on the family lawn, once a laborious chore for the man of the house, has been made faster, easier and more efficient by the introduction of the power mower. Unfortunately, the power lawn mower can also be a dangerous weapon and last year injured 140,000 people, an increase of 40 percent over 1968.

The power mower may well be the greatest thing to come along since grass, but it is also one of the most dangerous since it often is in the hands of amateurs, women and children. Children, in particular, are too often the victims of lawn mower accidents. The Council on Family Health, sponsored by the manufacturers of medicines as a public service, cautions parents to be watchful of young children when using power mowers during the summer months of fertile lawns.

A study of pediatricians at the Ohio State University College of Medicine reported that most lawn mower injuries to young children occurred under three circumstances: when the children, ranging in age from two to twelve years, were bystanders, when they were operating the machines, or when they were passengers on the mowers.

All three types of accidents could have been prevented if children under 13 had not been allowed to use these machines, if parents had not held children on their laps and if bystanders had been kept a safe distance away.

Some additional advice to parents using power mowers is:

- Never adjust or repair the machine while the motor is running.
- Try to thoroughly rake the lawn clear of stones, twigs or toys before cutting.

- When using rotary mower in tall grass or weeds, slow the engine speed to prevent damage to cutter blades.
- Periodically, clean and inspect mower parts to make sure nuts and bolts are tight.

Age is a very definite factor in lawn mower injuries, as the Ohio State study indicated. The Council on Family Health reminds all parents to remember that children are simply not mature enough to be given the responsibility of operating power mowers.

Repeal of Suspension for Speeding Expected to Improve Highway Safety

Major Vehicle Director Ronald M. Heymann announced this week that New Jersey's repeal of the 60/70 suspension for speeding regulation has gone into effect.

The change as the first to take place since the mandatory license suspension regulation was instituted January 1, 1959. Under the new regulations, points will be assessed against a license rather than suspension.

The change also permits the director to give a first offender the choice of attending Drivers Improvement School. Attendance at the school will be in lieu of all or part of the suspension.

The new regulation applies to speeding offenses on or after September 1, and will be administered by date of offense, not conviction. This, however, does not preclude municipal judges from continuing to suspend or revoke for any speeding offense where such action is warranted.

"Due to the harshness of the mandatory suspension regulation, we found police officers were issuing tickets for only nine miles over the legal speed limit in an attempt to spare the driver the loss of his license," Director Heymann said.

"The change gives us a more realistic regulation to work with. More important, it should get at the root of bad driving habits that cause speeding. By doing so, it should improve highway safety."

The Driver Improvement Schools are conducted one night a week for three weeks. The two-hour classes are designed to change driver attitudes by reviewing safety rules of the road, along with courtesy and cooperative driving habits.

Drivers are administered vision tests and a written examination of New Jersey motoring laws, plus a final comprehensive examination of the course.

"Our instructors indicate many drivers who attend the course come in with the attitude that they know New Jersey laws and consider themselves above average drivers. However, we find that these same individuals prove to have below average awareness of their responsibilities as drivers.

"I strongly feel that subjecting speeders to the driver improvement program is a more positive and beneficial measure than license suspension," Director Heymann concluded.

Every year about 4 million persons, mostly children, come down with measles. While most of us remember this disease as a rather common occurrence of childhood, it does manage to kill about 500 each year — and cause brain damage in several thousand more.

Now, a new live-virus vaccine tested for many years, has been licensed for general use. Preliminary work indicates that the vaccine should give lifelong protection. And, probably that once a large enough number of people who have not already had measles is inoculated, this one-time universal scourge should soon sink into relative oblivion.

Library Exhibit Commemorating Beethoven Birth

The 200th anniversary of the birth of Ludwig Van Beethoven is commemorated with an exhibit in the fourth-floor gallery of the Newark Public Library through September 30.

The exhibit highlights his personal life including his family and the many women in his life. Due to his deafness he stopped playing and composed some of the greatest music ever written. He studied the piano, organ, violin and viola. His compositions included chamber music works for solo instruments and orchestra, including the ever popular Emperor piano concerto, nine symphonies and his only opera, "Fidelio."

Billboard's July 18 issue proclaimed the new pop single, Beethoven's "A Song of Joy," No. 3 on the "Top Forty Easy Listening List." "A Song of Joy" is from the fourth movement (the so-called choral movement) of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

When Beethoven died eight orchestra conductors attended his funeral and all of the schools in Vienna were closed.

The photographs, engravings, albums, scores and books are from the Newark Public Library's art and music department's collections.

Car Hits Pole as Driver Falls Asleep at Wheel

James A. Meany, 23, of Elizabeth, suffered lacerations of the head and face when, police reported, he fell asleep at the wheel and his car struck a utility pole and traffic sign on North Ave., E., at John St. at 1:46 a.m. Monday.

The injured man was taken to Rahway Hospital by the First Aid Squad. Patrolman Michael Cavalla gave him a summons charging careless driving.

The Trallice Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation is open to the public each week, except Friday, from 8 to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m.

A sensible speed is one at which the driver can see danger and will be able to maneuver the car clear of it under all conditions, states the Allstate Motor Club. Since ability to spot hazards decreases as speed increases, motorists will protect themselves by driving only as fast as vision and road conditions allow.

COLLEGE BOARD REVIEW

An Open Letter to Parents and Students

College Board Review is starting our 10th successful year of preparing students for the College Board Exams (SAT). We honestly believe and have demonstrated that you can prepare for the College Boards. Last year the students in our Union County schools averaged 55 points higher in English and 61 points higher in Math than their previous score. Note that 114 points was the average. Many students scored substantially higher and of course there were those whose gap was less than the 114 point average. Our results show a greater gain than is anticipated due to the maturity factor and to us that you can prepare for the boards. Can College Board Review help you? We believe we can, but remember:

1. We cannot magically improve board scores.
2. We cannot in eight weeks substitute for four years of high school.
3. We cannot guarantee that your scores will improve this year.

But we can do the following:

1. Provide you with eight weeks of intensive drill in the areas covered by the boards.
2. Teach you to budget your test time wisely. A critical factor!
3. Review the basic concepts needed in Math and English to score well.
4. Give you sufficient practice in tests that are similar to the boards so you will be confident, relaxed and test ready.
5. Provide expert, qualified teachers who will work with you in small classes. Note that no tests are given in class. All preparation was done at home. Class time is devoted exclusively to teaching.

In short, we can give you the concepts, ideas and help you work to achieve your potential.

Our classes are held on Saturday mornings from 9:00 to 12:00 at Union Technical Institute, 1011 E. St. High School, 10th Floor, 2583 Morris Ave., Union.

Mobile College Information Unit Sets New Record

Union College's college information center on wheels rang down the curtain with a bang on its 1970 Summer visitation schedule with a record-setting, three-day, third and final stopover in Elizabeth on August 24, 25 and 26.

Fred L. Lang of Chatham, director, announced today that when the center made its last stop on Wednesday, August 26, at Elmora Ave. and Fenington St., 20 persons visited the facility, thus bringing the overall total for the summer to more than 2,600, a new high. The previous record was set a year ago when over 2,000 knowledge-seekers utilized the center in order to gain educational and vocational opportunity information.

The record for a single-day's attendance was also broken during the Elizabeth stay. On Monday, August 24, while the center was stationed at Broad and East Jersey Sts., 135 persons came aboard. This was the first time that a one-day total of visitors had gone over the century mark.

The college information center has now closed out its third summer of bringing educational and occupational data practically to the doorsteps of Union County residents. This year the center visited 14 of Union County's 23 communities. This is also the third year that the project has been made possible by financial support from the Humble Oil and Refining Co. and Enjay Chemical Co., both of Linden.

The college information center is a trailer which contains college catalogs, brochures and other printed material, film strips and view-ers. Professional and trained counselors are on hand to aid in the filling out of college applications, requests for financial aid and other forms. The center also provided details on colleges, including Union College's two new Urban Campuses in Elizabeth and Plainfield, vocational programs, technical institutions and scholarships.

The purpose of the rally is to publicize the need for bike ways. At present, bicycle paths are nonexistent in New Jersey. With the increasing popularity of cycling, especially among adults, the New Jersey Dealers are working to correct the situation of insufficient cycling facilities.

JERSEY COLONIAL CORRIDOR.—Dr. Peter O. Wacker, a geographer at Rutgers, has found that the label, "corridor state," used frequently today to describe New Jersey, could have been applied over 200 years ago. A map showing the location of barns and stables in New Jersey between 1725 and 1750 finds these structures, largely associated with inns and ferries and travel in general, lined up from New York to Philadelphia.

Research Indicates New Jersey Was a Corridor State in 1700's

New Jersey, which has increasingly become regarded as a "corridor state" between New York and Philadelphia, was already showing signs of becoming a heavily traversed state as early as 1750, a Rutgers geographer has found.

One evidence of this is a map drawn from data from the New Jersey archives which indicates the presence between 1725 and 1750 of numerous stables along the direct route between the two cities.

These structures, largely associated with inns and ferries and travel in general, clearly indicate the presence of the corridor, according to Dr. Peter O. Wacker, associate professor of geography at Rutgers College.

This finding is one of many he has made from the study and comparison of a series of maps being compiled about the state's geography before 1810, the point at about which urban growth begins.

Dr. Wacker, author of a historical culture geography entitled "The Musconetcong Valley of New Jersey," plans to write a similar volume encompassing the entire state. His work is being supported by a grant from the Rutgers Research Council.

Historical cultural geography, Dr. Wacker points out, is a kind of study which tries to reconstruct the development of an area through the examination of its cultural landscape and its settlement history.

A large amount of data has been compiled about the state in colonial times—from such sources as old censuses, newspaper ads in the archives, documents of the State Assembly dating from 1786, revolutionary war damage claims and old tax rolls.

More data was obtained first-hand, in a series of travels across the state, when the geographer observed and recorded such things as the remains of old structures and barns, and housing patterns.

Because of the availability of voluminous archives, its ethnic diversity, and the fact that much remains physically from colonial times, New Jersey is a natural laboratory for such a study, Dr. Wacker says.

The state's ethnic diversity before 1810 was much greater than that of most other states. In New Jersey, there were, among others, English, New Englanders, Dutch, Germans, Swedes, Finns, Scotch Irish and Negroes.

The legacies of these disparate ethnic groups live on in the cultural landscape, Dr. Wacker points out. One example are the log structures which exist in the western portion of the state, the "pioneer fringe."

They were introduced, Dr. Wacker says, by Scandinavians very early in the state's history and the building methods largely picked up in New Jersey were mostly German. There appears to be an almost total rejection of log buildings by the Dutch and New Englanders.

The best indicator of the Dutch settlements, on the other hand, particularly in the Raritan Valley, is the characteristic Dutch Barn, many of which still exist today. The Deep East Jersey Cottage, a 1½-story, 2-room-deep structure is prevalent in the north of the state, indicating the influence of New England settlement.

Aside from the building type data, such things as place names can provide an indication of the state's cultural diversity. The generic names for the small water-courses that meander throughout the state are such indicators. One of Dr. Wacker's students, Jeff Peake, has mapped the usage of terms such as run, brook, creek, stream and kill and branch, and has found that they largely follow cultural lines.

The terms run and brook, when mapped, show an interesting phenomenon. They nearly delineate the old east-west proprietary line in the state. Run, a West Jersey term, comes from Northeast England and Southern Scotland, while brook, an East Jersey term, comes from the East Anglian area.

The old English term creek is applied to slow moving water in coastal areas.

Stream and kill are not prevalent in New Jersey but have definite locations in the state. Streams, a term which comes from the New England lumbering frontier, is found mostly in South Jersey, while kill is in the northeast, near the Dutch Hudson Valley.

Branch, another South Jersey term, comes the closest to being a pure Americanism.

Dr. Wacker has some 80 maps, compiled by himself and research assistants, that record a large number of such economic and cultural data.

The geographer, a native of Irvington, became interested in the state professionally while doing his doctoral dissertation when he discovered the wealth of data that existed and was not being used.

A photo exhibit, "4-H Faces the Future," is attracting attention in the rotunda of the Capitol Building in Trenton.

It reflects some of the new interests and needs of young people from 9 to 19, and suggests how 4-H programs are changing to help them meet their goals.

Sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, New Brunswick, the exhibit is the work of Vincent A. Abbatello of the college Communications Center staff.

He shows the young subjects in many of the newer 4-H activities—electricity, music, photography, international cookery, boxing, rock and mineral study, bicycle care, and others.

These illustrate the changes in 4-H since its beginnings on the farm several years ago. Today 91 percent of New Jersey's 4-Hers live in small towns, suburbs, and cities. The other 9 percent are farm boys and girls.

The exhibit will continue through September 14.

Tips Given To Minimize Zipper Troubles

By CAROLYN F. YUKNUS, Senior County Home Economist

Slide fasteners are the major type of opening closures used today in many types of garments. Their ease of operation far outweigh any disadvantage of malfunction that will occur from time to time.

Two areas of complaints about zippers are that either the chain separates or the pull gets stuck on the fabric. In either case, the fault generally is due to the installation, use, or care of the zipper, rather than the mechanism of the closure.

Although the interlocking teeth or coils of a zipper have been greatly improved, there is still a limit to the amount of strain a zipper will withstand.

The problem of zippers separating is generally caused by clothes that fit too tightly. If a garment fits quite tightly at the waistline or hip area, it is not unusual to experience the sensation of a zipper popping.

For some types of zippers this condition calls for a zipper to be replaced because the metal teeth have been pulled off the tape, while coil-type zippers may be restored by zipping it all the way down and then up.

Either repair will not be a guarantee against the zipper popping again if the fit of the garment remains too tight.

If a metal zipper pulls hard or is difficult to get started, lubrication is needed. Frequent washing or dry cleaning will cause this situation.

Rub a little petroleum jelly along each side of the chain, work the pull up and down several times, and wipe off any excess petroleum jelly. This slight bit of lubrication will put a zipper in easy working order.

Always close a zipper before washing, dry cleaning, ironing or pressing. This practice prevents damage to a zipper or to an iron when pressing.

Some types of zippers cannot and reckless driving and released in $500 bail to await a hearing in Municipal Court.

The police reported that two boys riding bicycles north on Riverside Dr. were almost struck by the approaching car and that one of them had to jump off his bicycle and run as the car struck the pole about 10 feet from him.

Three young women also reported that while walking along Riverside Dr. they had to climb up on the river dike to avoid being struck by the car as it passed where they had been standing.

Investigating at the scene were Police Chief Matthew T. Haney, Lt. Myron Cymbaluk and Patrolmen Arthur Anderson, Robert Guertin and William Connell. A follow-up investigation was conducted by Lt. Lawrence T. Bonnell, head of the traffic safety department, and Patrolmen Anderson and Guertin.

This marked Cranford's second traffic fatality this year. There were two fatal accidents here last year and four in 1968. The year 1967 was the last one in which the township recorded no traffic fatalities.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Santos, James was born in Elizabeth and had lived in Cranford for 10 years. He was a 1968 graduate of Cranford High School and was employed as a packer by the J. B. Williams Co. He was a communicant of the Church of St. Anne.

Surviving in addition to his parents are three brothers, Robert, Keith and Mark, all at home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joaquin Santos of Elizabeth, and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Edward Novak of Pembroke Pines, Fla.

Values" will be used in some classes, and a new library reading skills program will be introduced.

There will be continued emphasis on the contributions of minority groups, using the Afro-American Booklet, and black studies will be integrated throughout all elementary grades.

In the area of art education, four Arts Days will be held, one each at Cleveland, Lincoln, Roosevelt and Walnut Avenue Schools. Artists from the community will visit the schools and demonstrate their work for pupils.

A $13,000 federal grant under Title I will finance a special enrichment program, "Readiness for Learning," for about 40 elementary school pupils classified as educationally deprived. Classes will meet on Saturdays and will be similar to the summer program held at Sherman School.

Mayor Malcolm Pringle advised that copies of the feasibility report are available to the public at the municipal clerk's office.

Commissioner Meyer appealed to local residents to drive carefully now that school has opened for the fall term. He also urged youngsters to observe all traffic regulations and in particular not to ride bicycles at dusk or during evening hours unless properly illuminated.

Introduced and passed on first reading was an amendment to the traffic ordinance limiting parking to two hours on both sides of Ludlow St., from Dietz St. to Christian St., from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., except Sundays and holidays. Hearing will be September 22.

Lincoln Ave.

citizen housing program designed, for the specific needs of our community.

"If Cranford is to move forward and meet the needs of its senior citizens the whole community must give serious consideration to the 10 recommendations in the report of the Housing Board.

"Unfortunately, up until now, community discussion has been bogged down by the question of site with little discussion of the other nine recommendations.

"For this reason, Township Committee felt it essential to take some action on the Lincoln Ave. playground site prior to the September 10 public hearing. After thorough study of all pertinent data, Township Committee unanimously agreed that the playground was not the best site in Cranford for senior citizen housing.

"This matter was discussed with former Mayor Edward Gill, chairman of the Housing Board, and he concurred with the decision of Township Committee to remove the Lincoln Ave. playground from any further consideration as a site."

Mayor Pringle added that, as a result of his study of the Housing Board's report, he "was even more convinced of the need and the feasibility of senior citizen housing here."

He said he is in complete agreement with recommendations of the committee that the housing program be executed through a non-profit corporation organized under Title 15 of N. J. Statutes and composed entirely of local residents.

"The charter of the corporation could be written so that Township Committee could appoint some of the trustees and give the project semi-official connection with the township," the mayor stated.

"Other trustees could be appointed by the Clergy Council, Planning Board, Chamber of Commerce and senior citizens. With this type of organization, maximum local control would be insured.

Mayor Pringle also noted that in the Housing Board proposal, Cranford tax monies would not be used in any way. The township would be reimbursed at fair market value for any municipal lands used in the program. In addition, the township annually would receive payment in lieu of taxes for any buildings constructed.

As to a site location, the mayor expressed the opinion that it should be near the town center and within walking distance of stores, churches, recreational facilities and public transportation.

A law enforcement program will be among the educational offerings in the evening session at Union College here in September.

Suggestions Given For Selecting Fresh Peaches

By MARY E. WEAVER
County Home Economist

Fresh peaches are on the market from May and remain until October. However, New Jersey grown peaches are available from mid-July to mid-September, and during these three months, peaches are usually best in quality and in price.

There are many varieties of peaches grown and these varieties fall into two general types: Freestone — flesh readily separates from the pit; and Clingstone — flesh clings tightly to the pit.

The freestones are usually preferred for eating fresh or for freezing, while the clingstones are primarily used for canning, although they are sometimes sold fresh.

Select peaches that are ripe or that are mature enough to ripen. Mature peaches have a creamy or greenish-yellow "ground" color and this means they will continue to ripen. Avoid peaches with a completely green ground color because these peaches will never ripen. Don't take peaches that are soft, overripe, bruised or show signs of decay.

Handle fresh peaches with care and don't pinch them. Sort fresh peaches and use the ripest ones first. The partially ripe peaches should mellow at room temperature. Store ripe ones in your refrigerator.

Keep peeled peaches from darkening with citrus fruit juice. Serve them simply in a variety of ways — out of hand, on cereal, sliced in salads, in desserts, or as an accompaniment to the main course.

When driving on expressways, watch for signs so you can get in the proper exit lane well in advance, the Allstate Motor Club warns. If you miss your exit, don't stop or slow down; go on to the next exit. Decrease speed rapidly once you're in the deceleration cleaner is swallowed. Drippings during the oven cleaning job are sure to happen. Place newspaper on the floor to prevent damage from drips and spills.

If the outside of your range is made of stainless steel or porcelain on enamel the cleaner will not harm it. Other materials such as aluminum and copper should be protected.

The instructions on the cleaner should list other types of surfaces to protect such as electrical connections and temperature sensing devices.

You may be tempted to try one of the oven protectors advertised to make cleaning easier. But don't get your hopes up too high. Tests have shown that the oven protectors have little or no value in making the cleaning job easier.

Deal Only With Reputable Business Firms

By ELAINE MAY
County Home Economist

Hunting a cheap repairman by falling for his advertisement may end up costing you plenty. The expense of repair services lures many consumers into fraudulent offers of low cost services.

The practice has been named low-balling by the Federal Trade Commission. A very low price for a particular service may be advertised by a business. When an item is brought in for the low cost service, many other things are found wrong also. The price can be progressively raised to an exorbitant sum, with the consumer at the mercy of the repairman.

Recently, the Federal Trade Commission issued a complaint, against a franchise of automatic transmission rebuilding and repair shops. The franchise was charged with using deceptive means to get repair jobs, refusing to reassemble transmissions when customers will not authorize further work, not disclosing when repairs are made with used parts, and other illegal practices.

The transmission shops advertised simple adjustments for $4.50, a safeguard service for $13.75, and a removal and inspection service for $23. Few repairs have been made at these prices.

Any type of repair service should be advertised in this way. Often, the customer does not learn of the higher charge until he returns for the item and the work is already done. In some cases, the charged work is actually not done on complicated equipment, the consumer cannot detect the deception.

Consumers can avoid problems with high priced services by dealing with reputable businesses. Contact the local Chamber of Commerce and inquire about a firm's reputation.

Since every repair job is unique, be wary of businesses advertising repairs for a certain price. The honest businessman will be glad to make a fair estimate for your particular need.

Oven Cleaning Chore Made A Little Easier

By ELAINE MAY
County Home Economist

Self-cleaning ovens have been a great boon to the homemaker by eliminating a very unpleasant task. But millions of women still own ovens which periodically require a grimy, messy, cleaning job. Muscle power with a steel wool soap pad or scouring powder can do the job with a considerable amount of work.

Most homemakers will prefer to use one of the special oven cleaners on the market. Some of the oven cleaners can do a very effective job and lessen your work. Since they are strong chemicals, special precautions are needed when using them.

The aerosol spray cleaners which are applied to a warm oven are very effective. Before you buy, read the labels and choose one which instructs the user to warm the oven before cleaning.

Instructions on the label should be followed carefully. Additional precautions which may not be on the label include wearing rubber gloves, a long sleeved shirt, goggles to protect the eyes, and a mask or cloth to cover the mouth and nose.

If any oven cleaner comes in contact with your skin, it should be immediately rinsed off. Read the label for antidotes in case the

Help the Patriots Climb Ladder of Success

The Red White and Blue has shone through again, and Cranford's drum and bugle corps has really started to click, with the Patriots winning two trophies within the past two weeks.

In winning their first first-place trophy in competition at Magnolia on August 29, the local corps outshone all the other entrants, posting the highest scores for drums, horns, and marching and maneuvering. And on Monday of this week the Patriots won the accolade as the best marching and musical unit in the Labor Day parade in South Plainfield. During their first year as a competing corps the Patriots also captured two second place positions in competition with the best units of the National Drum Corps Circuit.

Cranford is proud of the young people whose musical and marching prowess (the result of long hours of practice and adherence to training discipline) is now bringing high honors to their home town, and a vote of thanks also is due the hard working corps director and instructors.

In order to continue their progress up the ladder of success, however, the Patriots are in dire need of more boys and girls in the 10-to-18-year age bracket to expand the ranks of the corps. Interested young people are urged to "get on the bandwagon" for an exciting season of music, marching and travel by reporting in at one of the practice sessions held from 7 to 9 p.m. each Thursday at the Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center Building at Springfield Ave. and Holly St.

'Drive Safely' Plea Has Added Meaning Here

With almost 600 persons dead as a result of traffic accidents throughout the nation over the long Labor Day weekend, including one here which took the life of a third Cranford teenager within a month, the "Drive Carefully" admonition in our editorial cartoon takes on added significance this week.

That admonition is especially apropos at this time each year, for during the summer months drivers tend to forget the need for extra caution in the area of school zones, and youngsters returning for the new term are still bubbling over with vacation exuberance and may not settle down at first to strict observance of the rules and regulations necessary for their personal safety on the way to and from school.

News of the fatality right here in our town should give the "Drive Carefully" plea an even greater effect here this year, and help us all, young and old alike, to "settle down" more quickly to the routine observance of safety rules that is so important to every one of us every day of the year.

Says Willoughby Letter 'Guide' for Committee

3 Normandie Pl.

Dear Sir:
Congratulations to Mr. B. S. Willoughby for his fine timely letter relative to Moderate Income — Public Housing, and his conclusions, published herein last week. There is no question that Mr. Willoughby's thoughts on this matter accurately reflect the views of 99 percent of the residents and taxpayers here in Cranford. It is now time for the Cranford Township Committee to take cognizance of the thinking of the local taxpayers and voters. Thanks to Mr. Willoughby, he has provided the Committee with a printed guide. In its printing, a genuine public service has been rendered by the Cranford Citizen and Chronicle.

Rich Men's Housing Projects Suggested

203 Elizabeth Ave.
Cranford, N. J.
September 4, 1970

Dear Sir:
All this silly talk about housing — low, middle, moderate, et al. This discriminates against the rich. What we need is rich men's housing, which can be financed easily by our Mr. Charles J. Irwin's wage tax bill No. 948 now in the hopper in Trenton. Mr. Irwin wants to deduct only $320 a year from those earning $8,000. Another $80 would make a nice round figure of $400 (and who doesn't like nice round figures?). This extra $80 per wage earner would cover the cost to house every Cranford rich man, and quite nicely.

Oh, sorry to have to close now, but my head shrinks as just come in for his weekly visit and is complimenting me: "A good idea, eh, Dr. Lenin?"

Be Wary of Door-to-Door, Telephone Sales

By ELAINE MAY
County Home Economist

Books and magazines are among the items most frequently peddled by door-to-door and telephone sales. The sales offer may be a good buy for something you want. Unfortunately some salesmen pressure consumers with various gimmicks to buy something they don't really want. All organizations and individuals concerned with fair business dealings frown on gimmicks which misrepresent a sale for what it really is. Claiming that books or magazines are "free" is one common sales gimmick. Don't believe it. The price you have to pay for "postage" or "handling" will amply cover the cost of the magazines.

Some salesmen begin by saying that they are conducting a survey or doing research. Ask for the salesman's credentials. If he is really a researcher or surveyor he will not try to sell you anything.

Be wary of appeals to sympathy. A salesman may claim to be working his way through college or that he is a contestant for a scholarship. Maybe he really is, but the emphasis of his sales efforts should not be for your sympathy.

Never believe that a book or magazine is needed for your child's school work without checking school authorities.

Unless you are familiar with regular prices, don't fall for the "special price" story. Don't believe that you can "cancel anytime" unless it's written in the contract.

Many magazine and book sales contracts are binding for several years. Perhaps you are interested in a certain magazine, but it may not prove to be one you want to receive for the next five years. Think about the time element.

Practice caution when you allow a salesman in your home. Never leave the person alone in a room when valuables such as your purse or checkbook are nearby.

If you are considering signing a contract for magazines or books, check on the reputation of the firm. The nearest Better Business Bureau is located in Newark at 671 Broad St., telephone 643-3025.

If you make an installment contract with a door-to-door salesman for an amount in excess of $25, you can exercise a right to cancel within two business days. Notify the seller by certified mail, return receipt requested, postmarked not later than 5 p.m. of the second business day following the sale. Business days do not include Saturday, Sunday or holidays.

Drug Abuse Education Required in Schools

Drug abuse education will be a part of the curriculum in all public secondary schools (Grades 7-12) in New Jersey by January 15, 1971.

In keeping with the goal of a new state law and a program established by the State Department of Education's Office of Health, Safety and Physical Education, a minimum of 10 hours of instruction in drug abuse education must be a part of each school's curriculum.

The program was established as a three-phase operation under the drug education bill (Assembly Bill No. 1056) which was passed last spring by the Legislature and was signed by the governor.

Phase I was completed during the summer. This provided for three teacher-training seminars in drug education. The seminars were conducted in conjunction with the Department of Higher Education in Newark at the New Jersey College of Medicine and Dentistry, in New Brunswick at Rutgers University and in Camden at Rutgers' South Jersey campus.

Phase II (local in-service programs) is scheduled to start September 15 and to finish by December 15. The teachers trained in the summer seminars are to conduct eight half-hour workshops for their local districts.

Phase III begins January 15 when classroom instruction in drug abuse becomes part of the schools' existing health education program.

Evaluation of the program will be made by the commissioner of education.

Law Enforcement Is Not Repression

(The following message from J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is reprinted from the August issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.)

People do not always say what they mean, sometimes intentionally. For instance, there appears to be a deliberate attempt to place a disparaging label on a proven principle of our society. I have in mind the current practice of some who purposely complain of "repression" when they are talking about the supremacy of the law. Apparently to them, any law enforcement function is repressive.

I want to state emphatically and unequivocally that vigorous, effective law enforcement is not repression; rather, it is an integral part of a free society, and it is necessary to our survival. This becomes clearer with every violent demonstration. There can be no freedom and there can be no liberty without supremacy of the law. And we cannot have supremacy of the law unless the law is enforced.

Much of the talk about repression comes from those involved in or in sympathy with revolutionary violence on our campuses and in our streets. With blind enthusiasm for their diverse causes, they defy all authority, burn, loot, and destroy property, and assault police with bricks, bottles, stones, and sometimes firearms — all in the name of dissent.

The first amendment is explicit as to "the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances." This is a popular and cherished freedom, and rightly so. Peaceably is a key word of the above quote; however, it is conveniently ignored by many persons who equate dissent with destruction. A defiant militant, with a brick in one hand and a firebomb in the other, standing shoulder to shoulder with hundreds of similarly armed protesters, blocking a main thoroughfare and silhouetted against a flaming public building, shouting that his right to dissent is being repressed is a picture of paradox. He may be making news, but he is perverting freedom.

There is nothing in the first amendment which guarantees people the right to riot and plunder as means of dissent. Invariably when incidents and altercations occur during public dissent, the trouble is started by unpeaceful participants who knowingly and willfully break the law. Then, when the constitutional functions of enforcing the law and restoring order are brought into play, the participants and their sympathizers scream "repression," a typical anarchic response. No one claims that members of law enforcement have never overreacted to physical and verbal assaults by rioters — one excess against another as it were. But, let us get one thing straight. Prompt, effective law enforcement to stop rioting mobs and wanton destruction is not repression. It is a vital cog in our democratic process.

Some people imply that our choice today may be between anarchy and repression. Indeed, it is not. Our choice today is the same as that of our Founding Fathers some 200 years ago — liberty and freedom under the rule of law. If we enforce the law when it is violated, we will perpetuate this choice, and we will have nothing to fear from either anarchy or repression. Thus, let us make certain that the distinction is clear — the law and its enforcement are pillars of freedom, not repression.

Nature Notes

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER
Special to the Citizen & Chronicle

Even in late July or early August the edge of the salt marsh is tempered with traces of autumn. There are unmistakable signs where the water gently washes the shore just below the line of marsh grass.

All spring and summer big footprints of herring gulls and smaller ones of laughing gulls have been left until the next high tide. Now they are joined by dainty prints no larger than a penny. Tiny sandpipers, enroute from their Arctic nesting grounds to as far as the South American shores, have left their four-toed insignia. These are surrounded, here and there, with a pattern that might have been made by a small boy idly poking a random design in the wet silt with a sharply pointed stick. Here's the evidence that the wee shore birds had feasted on bits of marine life hidden from human eyes.

On the ocean side of the barrier beach another little fellow delights his watchers. Like a wind-up toy, he runs just ahead of the waves washing up the beach and then follows them back as they recede into the sea. In the late summer and fall, sanderlings have almost all-white bodies supported on jet-black legs. They keep so close to the water that footprints are seldom noticed, so light are they on their feet. Occasionally holes where they found a gourmet's delight last until they came in under the next wave.

Few feathered species can match the globe-trotting of the sanderling. He nests in the Arctic regions of both hemispheres and migrates across every continent to the tip of South America and Africa and even to Australia.

Many leave their southern resort before the position of the sun officially proclaims spring up north. The start of the journey may come at any time from mid-March to late April with a few stragglers lingering until May. Although advance parties may reach New Jersey by the end of March, the main flight generally arrives in the latter weeks of May or early June. A few may stay behind and spend the summer along Jersey beaches. The vanguard alights on its breeding ground in northeastern Greenland in early June.

Pairing begins about the middle of June. The male makes what has been described as a snarling or neighing sound as he flies, almost frantically, six or seven feet above the tundra. Frequently he sits on a large stone, puffing himself up and extending his wings. The female remains mute. Almost pleadingly the male seems to creep towards her until pairing takes place. Then the two rush away and later return to the nesting spot.

Around the turn of the century and perhaps still today, sanderlings are one of the commonest breeding birds in northeastern Greenland. Their nest is on the ground in the extensive stretches of moor and marsh. Generally fresh water is nearby. Four greenish olive eggs are laid in a grassy cup lined with withered leaves. The young are hatched in about three-and-a-half weeks. Then, for two weeks, until they can fly, they're carefully tended by their parents. Should the family be approached by a human or other animal, the female uses all her wiles to lure the intruder away from the chicks.

The return journey brings them to our shores again in late July or early August. The young linger behind and come through in September after the adults have left. As in summer, a few will linger through the cold weather. Sanderlings generally turn up in Christmas counts, where the area includes a beach, as far north as Massachusetts.

Standards for judging the true value and substantiality of the things mankind desires are set forth in the lesson-lesson on "Substance" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday.

One of the Bible quotations is from Paul's letter to Timothy, in which he wrote, "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy."

A citation from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science, reads: "To himself, mortal and material man seems to be substance, but his sense of substance involves error and therefore is material, temporal. On the other hand, the immortal, spiritual man is really substantial, and reflects the eternal substance, or Spirit, which mortals hope for. He reflects the divine, which constitutes the only real and eternal entity."

New Format For Methodist Worship

Cranford United Methodist will take the first step toward a new Sunday morning program of worship, learning, discussion and fellowship when they attend church services and Church School classes this week, according to Rev. John R. Dexeimer, the congregation's senior minister.

Church-goers attending the 9:15 a.m. service will experience a somewhat informal service only 45 minutes long, which from time to time will include participation by Church School classes, orientation toward families, and innovative forms of worship. Church School classes for children ranging from crib nursery through sixth grade will meet in the education building from 9:15 to 10:15 a.m.

At 10:05, starting this Sunday and continuing as a regular feature, coffee and buns will be served in Randolph Hall. Attendees will be invited to enjoy a half hour of conversation and relaxation together. This period will be expanded on October 11 when a series of short and long-term courses for adults and older high school students will be initiated, accompanied by extension courses for students from kindergarten through grade 6 who elect them.

Each Sunday at 11 a standard one hour church service will be held, and this service will begin this week, said Rev. Mr. Dexeimer. During each Sunday's second service Church School classes will meet for crib nursery through grade two students and for students in grades 7, 8 and 9. Classes, like the worship hour, will conclude at noon.

The object of this programming, Rev. Mr. Dexeimer reported, is to attempt to meet society's many changing patterns by increasing the kinds of things going on in church on Sunday mornings — varied types and lengths of worship, cycles of elective study courses for adults alone and for adults along with teenagers, unstructured fellowship for all ages, family events oriented toward worshipping and studying together, classes for everybody, with duplicate classes where most needed and several chances for extended learning.

The plan evolved after a year's study by the church's council on ministries and administrative board, he said.

Blind Veteran Returning to Union College To Prepare for Career Helping Others

A Spanish philosopher once wrote, "The blind man moves his cane as if he is taking the temperature of human indifference." But for Dennis Cadigan of 222 Centennial Ave., a sandy-haired ex-Marine and Union College student, a cane is just a means which enables him to be the independent young man that he is.

"No, I'm not usually bitter about my state," Mr. Cadigan said, referring to the accident he suffered in Vietnam which left him totally blind and his left arm disabled. "I realize I must help myself and I don't like leaning on anyone."

Yes, Dennis Cadigan is independent. He is also responsible, intelligent, friendly and optimistic. He wants to do something for others — to help those less fortunate than he. And this September, Dennis will begin traveling that road toward making a lasting contribution to society.

This fall, he will enroll in Union College in a liberal arts program. He wants to major in psychology and minor in English and hopes to work in the field of vocational rehabilitation or clinical psychiatry. But, as a teenager, this future was the furthest thing from his mind. After graduating from Sacred Heart High School in Elizabeth in 1966, he entered Union College. He wanted eventually to study special education and work perhaps with handicapped children. However, after a short while, Dennis became disillusioned with the academic life and sought fulfillment elsewhere.

"I guess I was a typical young man," the ex-Marine reflected. "I didn't see anything beyond my own immediate world and I wanted something different."

That "fulfillment elsewhere,"

A FRIENDLY WORD — George P. Lynes, director of admissions at Union College, offers Dennis Cadigan of Cranford some personal advice about the young student's future. Dennis, who lost his eyesight in Vietnam almost two years ago, is returning to Union this fall. The ex-Marine is determined to complete his education and work in either rehabilitation or psychiatry.

Dennis thought he might find in the Marines and so he enlisted in February, 1968. After basic training at Parris Island, S. C., he went straight to Vietnam, where he rose to the rank of corporal. He was there three full months when on Thanksgiving Day, 1968, he was critically wounded.

From Vietnam, Dennis was sent to the Philippines, Guam and Japan, for several eye operations and various operations on his left arm which also is permanently disabled from an accident suffered in a booby trap.

Then he went to Bethesda Hospital in Maryland, where a team of eye specialists confirmed that he would be totally blind for life. Afterward, he needed another arm operation, for which he was hospitalized five months in St. Albans, L. I.

For the next eighteen weeks, he underwent rehabilitation training at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Chicago, Ill. He learned Braille and cane mobility and took some shop courses.

Dennis credits this experience with having taught him "how to live with my problem."

After finding an apartment for himself in North Elizabeth, Dennis decided to return to college again. He entered Union for the spring semester of 1970, but had to withdraw because his arm was acting up and needed another operation.

Now, he feels he is ready to go back to college. How will Dennis succeed in a college which has no real facilities for blind students? The independent young man has this problem almost licked already.

"With my own perseverance, and a little help from my professors and friends, I know I can do it," he stated.

This fall, Dennis will carry 12 credits and will take all sophomore courses — psychology, economics, Spanish and English literature.

During lectures, Dennis sits in the back of the room with a small tape recorder and microphone which he whispers into to make notes. This, the young man emphasized, is not disturbing to other students of the professor, who cannot hear him. But when Dennis plays back the tape, the voices is distinct.

His schedule is set up so that after each class Dennis has a free hour. During this time, he and another student discuss what happened in class that day. Dennis makes sure he understands everything and has all important points on his tapes.

"I have to do this because I don't have textbooks and, if I don't get it the first time around, I never will," he said. "This system is really helpful for me as well as my reader. It's always beneficial for two to go over material together, especially Spanish. It seems to stick longer."

Dennis's favorite pastime is "reading." He borrows books regularly from the Trenton Regional Library and Reading for the Blind, Inc., New York. These institutions record books — on records and tapes and Dennis plays them. He also holds a life membership in the Best Book of the Month Club in Phoenix, Md., which sends him two current bestsellers every month.

Dennis enjoys going to the shore too — he likes the sun, although he is still not allowed to swim because of the injury to his arm.

Perhaps his greatest satisfaction is obtained from music. Dennis likes all types, but especially jazz, blues and hard rock. He has many tapes and albums, mostly those of Jimi Hendrix, Janis Joplin and Ten Years After.

Dennis also likes concerts. He speaks of the times he has gone to Flitmore East and to the Garden State Arts Center to hear Janis Joplin.

Dennis recently moved from Elizabeth to an apartment in Cranford. He lives alone, although he is one of 14 children.

"I have to spend long hours studying, playing my tapes, and making more notes," Dennis explained. "I also spend time reading and listening to music. This would not be possible if I were not alone," he added.

Does he encounter any special problems living by himself? "Not really," Dennis commented. "In rehabilitation, they taught us how to take complete care of ourselves. I cook, do my own cleaning, and travel with friends or else walk. At first, I was afraid of a gas stove but I got used to it. Now I always make my own breakfast," he noted.

Dennis runs into some difficulty in unfamiliar surroundings but usually someone offers him assistance. Understandably, this assistance is not always appreciated.

"When people see me crossing a street, they immediately feel sorry and offer to help me," Dennis explained. "But when they do they grab my left arm, which still hurts often, and do not give me time to explain. I can't very well say 'Leave me alone—they're only trying to help. But what can I do?' he wondered."

Dennis is not a man to feel sorry for himself and is not hesitant to discuss any topic. He does not resent the government or the war, either.

"Although a little resentment is natural, I usually only feel it when I am depressed," he said. "I try to curb my feelings since I realize it could happen to anyone."

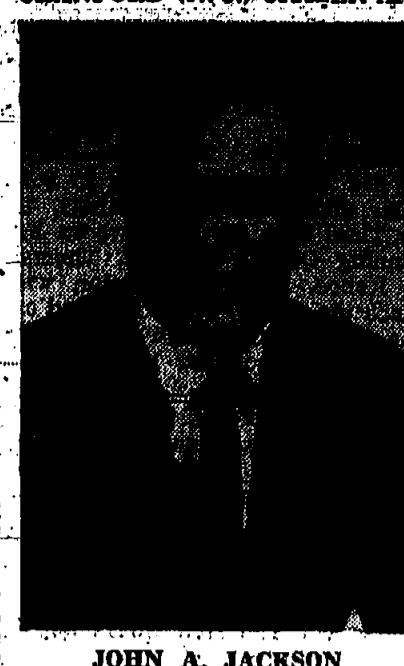

He did offer a thought or two on the war, which he hopes he has thought about objectively. The South Vietnamese have become tired and apathetic of foreigners fighting on their soil and only would be satisfied tending their little rice paddies, he said.

"I believe that we should only sacrifice American lives if the people are grateful for American assistance," he stated. "This is not the impression I received in Vietnam. If, however, our government feels it necessary to ward off Communism in that section of the world, then we should send them ammunition, supplies, medicine — but not our men."

Dennis believes that his experience in the Marines matured him a great deal. "Before I entered the service, my outlook was very irresponsible; I thought of myself mostly. Now, I can see that there are others who need something I can give and I want to see that they have it," he explained.

The journey will be long. After Union, Dennis hopes to transfer to Rutgers, New Brunswick, and he realizes he will probably need a master's degree to work in the field of psychology. But he's determined to make it.

Violent crimes increased in 1969 by 11 percent as compared with a 10 percent increase in 1968.

Wide Range of Adult Courses Listed For Weekend College Opening Oct. 8

What is James Baldwin trying to tell us? How critical is the Middle East to American foreign policy? How did ragtime give away to progressive jazz?

These are some of the questions that will be answered at the Weekend College to be offered at Union College this fall.

Weekend College, according to Prof. Richard Setcoe, director of the Division of Community Services, is a new dimension in adult education. The non-credit courses, workshops and seminars, open to all adults, 19 and over, will explore current topics and areas of which will be offered on the Cranford campus of Union College, include:

Foreign Policy Priorities—Classes are Friday evenings, 8 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday mornings, 10 to 11:30 a.m. for four weeks beginning October 9. Prof. Thomas J. Kehoe, history instructor, will teach the course, which is based on the American Foreign Policy Association's report for 1970-71.

Ecology Seminar—Five Fridays from 8 to 9:30 p.m. beginning October 9. The seminar will be directed by Prof. Bernard Solon, professor of biology, and will include three Saturday field trips.

Art Workshop—A series of classes in arts and crafts for adults working with young people. The course will run five weeks beginning November 8. Classes are Fridays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Jane Law, professional artist and teacher, will conduct the workshop.

Jazz Workshop—This three-week workshop begins October 16. Classes are Fridays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon. The workshop will be under the direction of the Institute of Jazz Studies in Newark and is designed to give an insight and an understanding of the roots and artistry of jazz from the blues to the present sound.

Contemporary Afro-American Literature—Rev. William Eichelberger, chaplain at Rutgers' Newark campus and instructor in Afro-American History at Union College, will devote five weekends to a study of black authors from Richard Wright to Leroi Jones. Classes begin October 9, and will meet Fridays from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and Saturdays from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Contemporary Literature—This course will offer students the opportunity to examine books by four modern authors and to compare their views with fellow readers and professional critics. Mrs. Margaret Gill, a member of the Union College English department, will teach the course which will run Friday evenings from 7:30 to 9 p.m., beginning October 9.

Computer Age—This five-week seminar will offer lecture-discussions on the history, present uses and future impact of the computer. Robert Schmonsees, an employee of IBM, will conduct the class Fridays from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Focus on Southeast Asia—Asian diplomats and scholars will deliver the four lectures in this series which meets Fridays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. beginning October 30.

Developmental Reading—The six-session course is intended to increase speed and comprehension. James Carrell is the instructor. Classes meet Fridays from 7:30 to 9 p.m. beginning October 9.

Investments—The one departure from the weekend schedule, an advanced level course on the mechanics of investing, will be given Thursdays for six weeks beginning October 8. Investment counselors from Merrill, Lynch, Penner, Pierce and Smith will conduct the classes from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

There is a $3 registration fee for the Weekend College, which covers all courses. Tuition ranges from $12 to $40, depending on the course.

Alicyclic Chemistry, Immunology Courses Offered at Union College

Two science courses aimed at those with a moderate knowledge of organic chemistry or those with a background in biochemistry and interested in immunology will be offered at Union College this fall by the Division of Continuing Education in Sciences at Rutgers University.

The 10-session courses will meet weekly beginning in late September.

"Recent Advances in Alicyclic Chemistry" is suggested for those with some awareness in organic chemistry and some facility with organic reaction mechanisms. A general review of the different types of alicyclics and their syntheses and properties will be presented in the earlier sessions. The latter part of the course will be devoted to the discussion of topics of current interest. Solutions for synthetic and mechanistic problems will be discussed in detail.

This course will be taught by Dr. Heinz D. Roth of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Murray Hill. Dr. Roth received his Ph.D. in organic chemistry from the University of Cologne, Germany, and has been with Bell Laboratories for three years. He is the author of several publications in the field of alicyclic chemistry and other topics in his field.

"Immunology" will survey that general field and examine several specific areas of current research interest. Although no previous training in immunology is necessary, the level of instruction will be relatively advanced. The course will be the most profitable for those who have had a background in bio-chemistry and molecular biology.

Topics presented will include the structure of antibodies, molecular and cellular aspects of antibody formations, tumor immunity, and transplantation.

"Immunology" will be coordinated by Dr. A. Arthur Gottlieb, associate professor of microbiology at the Institute of Microbiology of Rutgers University. Formerly a member of the Harvard Medical School, Dr. Gottlieb is the author of numerous papers dealing with Rutgers faculty as well as outside speakers.

Registration forms may be obtained by writing to Mrs. Anne Castele, University Extension Division, Rutgers University, 35 College Ave., New Brunswick, N. J. 08903.

Convention Committee
Leon Shulman, 42 Blake Ave., is serving as a member of the 34th annual convention and trade show committee of the Hobby Industry Association of America. The convention will be held at the Sherman House, Chicago, January 31 through February 4.

The Trullside Nature and Science Center in the Watchung Reservation is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m.

Board Names Buckley To Superintendent Post

GARWOOD — Appointment of Teaching Principal Bruce E. Buckley to succeed Lewis F. Laird as superintendent of schools was unanimously approved by the Board of Education at a special meeting in Franklin School last Thursday night.

Mr. Laird's retirement became effective on September 1, ending a 39-year career as an educator. He had been superintendent of the Garwood public schools for the past 18 years.

As he prepared to assume his new post, Mr. Buckley said his plans in general will aim at "enlisting the aid and cooperation of all the teachers to continue our search for the best educational techniques in order that Garwood children will receive the highest calibre education possible."

He added that he also has special plans "to create study groups in order to innovate a science program for kindergarten to eighth grade children."

Mr. Buckley came to Garwood as teaching principal at Lincoln School in September, 1969, prior to which he had been an elementary teacher in the Newark public school system for four years.

A native of New York City, he attended the Kearny public schools and is a graduate of Kearny High School. He received a bachelor of arts degree from Rutgers University in 1951 and his master's (Continued on Page 7)

Police Photo Laboratory Completed

GARWOOD — Completion of the addition to the Borough Hall Annex to house the new photography laboratory of the police department was reported by Councilman Edward W. Krempa, chairman of building and grounds at Tuesday night's Borough Council meeting.

Commissioner Krempa expressed thanks to Public Works Superintendent Joseph A. Stibler and the members of his department for constructing the addition and members of the police department for working on their own time in setting up the new laboratory and detective bureau in the annex.

Mentioned specifically were Capt. Thomas J. Colwell, Detective Warren R. Opie, Patrolman Vincent J. DiBattista and Special Officers Warren Ricks and John Herr.

Police Commissioner Harry E. Hartman also praised the members of the police department for working on the project on their days off and in their spare time, and thanked the public works department men for their work in constructing the addition.

In also expressing his thanks, Mayor John J. McCarthy said:

"As a result of their efforts, we now have a modern detective bureau and an up-to-date photography department (previously located in the cellar of the Municipal Building), and all at great savings of expense to the borough."

Rosary Society Country Fair At St. Anne's This Saturday

GARWOOD — The second annual country fair sponsored by the Rosary Altar Society of the Church of St. Anne will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. this Saturday. The event will be held, rain or shine, in the parish school auditorium and in the rear parking area.

County Crime Control Unit Favored

GARWOOD — A letter reporting that "we are in favor of the establishment of a Union County Crime Control Unit" is being sent to Union County Prosecutor Karl Asch by Mayor John J. McCarthy and Police Chief Fred Falzone, it was reported by the mayor at Tuesday night's Borough Council meeting.

Noting that the prosecutor has applied to the state for a law enforcement grant to enable agencies on the county level "to assist us in law enforcement," Mayor McCarthy reported:

"This borough has tried twice to apply through the state for such aid, but small municipalities can't get anywhere. So we approve the county approach."

The mayor stressed that "it is not the intention to have a county-wide police force."

Council passed a resolution pointing out that "the power of zoning historically has resided with local governments" and advising Governor Cahill and the Union County legislative delegation in Trenton that Garwood "is unalterably opposed" to any legislation putting the zoning power on the state level.

Mayor McCarthy reported that he has nominated the Accurate Bushing Co. for a Good Neighbor Award for its new building on North Ave. He said the action was taken in response to a request from the Good Neighbor Award Committee for a local nomination or nominations for its annual competition to honor companies throughout the state which prove themselves "good neighbors" through the appearance of their facilities in their respective communities.

The mayor said that if any other industry in the borough wishes to enter the competition he will be (Continued on Page 7)

Cancer Drive Donations Exceed Goal

KENILWORTH — Contributions to the Kenilworth Cancer Crusade have reached $1,817, exceeding the goal of $1,800, it was reported by Walter E. Boright, Jr., chairman.

Mr. Boright, who has been chairman of the drive since 1966, thanked those who contributed and praised the 135 volunteer workers, district captains and the honorary chairman.

District captains were Councilwoman Mary J. Kelly, Mrs. June Carlisle, Mrs. Amella Cooney, Michael E. Iazzetta and Mrs. Adolph Rein. Honorary chairman was Capt. Det. Joseph T. DiMario.

The final tabulation of funds collected will be announced shortly, Mr. Boright said.

He made the following statement on the use of the money:

"Cancer research is a very costly endeavor. It takes, for example, $35,000 in American Cancer Society research dollars to purchase an electron microscope and $1 million to have one adequately equipped cancer research laboratory for 25 technicians."

"The American Cancer Society has devoted more than $180 million to the cancer research program since its inception in 1945."

"The research attack against cancer has been barely launched. We have learned much about the disease, but much more remains to be learned. There will never be enough money for cancer research until we have found a practical means of curing or preventing cancer."

"Early detection and treatment of cancer are vital in reducing the tragic toll of deaths caused by this disease. The American Cancer Society believes that through a program of public education some 103,000 Americans who needlessly die of cancer each year could be saved."

"The goal of the American Cancer Society's education program is to save lives by alerting the public to two vital facts: The annual health checkup by a physician is the best insurance against needless cancer deaths, and prompt action of a cancer warning sign can often detect cancer in time for cure."

Rosary Society Of St. Theresa's To Seat Officers

KENILWORTH — Installation of new officers will be held at the first meeting of the season of St. Theresa's Rosary Society following 7:30 p.m. mass Monday in the church auditorium.

New officers are: Mrs. Frank Ciemiernicki, president; Mrs. Pat Ivone, vice-president; Mrs. Peter Matlaga, secretary; Mrs. Ernest Hammer, treasurer; Mrs. Pasquale Scorese, membership chairman; Mrs. Helen Cahill, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. John Sabolchick, publicity chairman.

Mrs. Ciemiernicki succeeds Mrs. William Jeans. Rev. Allen H. Weber is the new moderator. He succeeds Rev. Salvatore P. Citarella, whose new assignment is with the Mount Carmel Guild in Cranford.

Articles left over from the Kenilworth Carnival will be on display for sale at this meeting for the Rosarians.

Final plans will be made for the Communion breakfast to be held in October.

Jaycees Conducting Membership Drive for Community Swim Pool

KENILWORTH — The Kenilworth Jaycees have taken over the drive for a community swimming pool in Kenilworth, it was announced Tuesday night at the Borough Council meeting.

In making the announcement, Councilwoman Mary Kelly said the N. 16th St. playground, which had been suggested as a preliminary site for the pool, will definitely not be chosen as the site should enough families register for membership.

"There is no proposed site. We don't have a site," she emphasized.

Mayor William E. Conrad pointed out that the pool membership drive is not a council project.

"Our approach has been to take no interest in a pool where the people themselves have no interest. It seems quite futile to me to select a site without knowing if there are enough people interested," the mayor said.

He added that the council will cooperate in moving the project forward once there are sufficient people signed up. A site will not be selected until the membership goal is attained.

A swim pool steering committee was organized last spring and brochures containing application blanks were distributed to borough homes, but not enough residents submitted applications and deposits. A September 1 deadline had been established.

According to a spokesman for the Jaycees, a new committee is being organized consisting of Jaycee members. The group plans to pass out membership forms, solicit members by telephone and place posters around town.

The pool would be a private project, not a town project, although the borough will float the loan," the spokesman said.

Several residents of N. 16 St. attended the council meeting wearing red tags with the words "Oppose Pool Site." They seemed unconvinced, despite Mrs. Kelly's announcement, that N. 16th St. is not the proposed site.

"It's the only land left," one woman declared.

The Jaycee spokesman denied this, asserting that there are several alternate sites.

About 250 families have sent in deposits thus far, and 150 more are needed to reach the quota. A deposit of $25 is required for family membership and $10 for single memberships. Residents wishing to join may address their checks to the Kenilworth Pool Committee and send them to Councilwoman Kelly at Borough Hall.

The contract for reconstruction of the sanitary sewer on Dorset Dr. was awarded to Union Paving Co. on its low bid of $7,780.

An application of Louis Klein for a variance to construct an addition to the front of the Quality Pet store at 737 Boulevard was denied. Among the reasons cited were lack of sufficient space for off-street parking and insufficient rear yard area.

Says IQ of Youth No Greater Than Older Generation's

There is no evidence that young people today are any more intelligent than their forebears, Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of the Union County regional high school district, wrote in the September issue of "Union County Regional News."

Dr. Davis conceded that the present generation is better informed, but cannot take credit for being more intelligent.

Rene Dubas, in his book, "Is Human an Animal," indicated that there was absolutely no evidence that man had improved his basic ability to learn since neolithic times. The children of stone age bushmen in Africa are flying and maintaining our most complex planes. Given the proper training, their fathers could have done the same," Dr. Davis pointed out.

Nothing that there is much emphasis today on the need for adults to listen to youth, he called on the younger generation to reciprocate.

"This one-way monologue has gone on too long," the superintendent declared. "It is time that youth listen to adults as well. We each have something to tell the other. Perhaps those of us on the wrong side of 40 have not had all of the advantages which have accrued to the rising generation, but we do have a fund of experience which may be of extreme value."

Dr. Davis said many members of both the younger and the older generation have wrongfully stereotyped the other. Older people are seen as "a mass of materialistic money-grabbers with no idealism and little selflessness," while youth are viewed as "a band of hippies bent on destruction to the point of self-destruction," he asserted.

Kenilworth Man In Peace Corps

KENILWORTH — Douglas Staiger, son of Mrs. Kurt E. Staiger of 572 Quinton Ave., and the late Mr. Staiger, recently began a three-month training program at the University of California, Davis, Calif., for service in the Peace Corps.

Following the training period, he will be assigned to the country of Nepal, located in the Himalayas on the northeast border of India. He will work in the area of water conservation.

Mr. Staiger, a 1966 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, was graduated two years later from Paul Smiths College, Paul Smiths, N. Y., and earned a B. S. degree in forestry, with a major in wildlife, this year at the University of North Carolina at Raleigh.

Republicans Plan Coffee Hours

KENILWORTH — A series of coffee hours in honor of the Republican Borough Council candidates, Joseph Walyus and Fred Soos, will be held in September and October at the homes of residents in each voting district, Republican campaign manager B. R. Emmert announced.

Mayor William E. Conrad will attend as many coffee hours as his schedule permits.

Residents interested in attending are asked to contact Mrs. Russell Gillet, chairman.

Stickle Appointed Regular Patrolman In Kenilworth

KENILWORTH — Lawrence Stickle was appointed a regular patrolman in the Kenilworth Police Department by Borough Council at its meeting Tuesday night.

The patrolman, who completed a six-month probationary period on the force, is a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, and the New Jersey State Police Training Academy, Sea Girt.

Prior to joining the department, he served in the Marine Corps and was employed by Hyatt Roller Bearing Co. Clark.

He is 27 years old and resides at 26 N. Eighth St.

Republicans Plan Picnic

GARWOOD — The Garwood Republican Club will hold its annual picnic on Sunday, September 20, beginning at noon, Guerriero Memorial Field.

Besides plenty of food, there will be supervised games for the children, and the local Republican candidates, Charles J. Horbacz for mayor, and Harry E. Hartman and Carmelo A. Cusmano for reelection to Borough Council, will be present during the afternoon.

Invited guests include the entire November GOP ticket of Nelson Gross for U.S. Senate, Florence P. Dwyer for reelection to House of Representatives, and the freeholder candidates, Jerome Epstein, Arthur Manner, Charles Tracy and Ed Henry Daaleman.

Garwood families and friends are welcome to attend, and reservations may be made through Thomas Belverio of 338 Hazel Ave. and Richard Polidore of 224 Locust Ave.

County Crime Control

glad to consider their application for nomination.

Former Councilman Frank J. Roth appeared at the meeting and reiterated his objections to the council's action last month in adopting an ordinance providing for the codification of all general ordinances. He declared that "there should have been citizen meetings before hand to explain it to the people."

In response to queries from Mr. Roth as to what changes in zoning and variances could be expected in connection with the codification project, Borough Attorney Robert L. Sheldon, whose law firm is to carry out the project, explained that "nothing will be done to change any zoning without a public hearing."

"It is not up to me as the codifier to make any changes," Mr. Sheldon added. "I will merely make recommendations and confer with the governing body, and the Borough Council will make the final judgement — and only after public hearings. There will have to be public hearings before any changes are made."

With regard to variances, Mr. Sheldon said that "they are up to the Zoning Board, but they must conform with state law, and appeals may be made."

Explorers On Six-Day Canoe Trip

Led by Explorer Adviser Richard Dolsen, a group of young men and adults connected with Post 80, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church, recently traveled 100 miles in six canoes, following the river through the Delaware Valley, from Hancock, N. Y., to Bigman's Ferry, Pa.

They launched their canoes for the six travel days on the river on a Saturday. On Sunday evening, they experienced an extremely heavy rainfall that raised the river almost three feet. The following morning they "shot the chute" at Skinners Falls, the most hazardous stretch of white water on the upper river. While several onlookers on shore marveled, all canoes got through the extremely rough water, although the two heavily loaded equipment canoes swamped and all others took on water.

Rain on two other occasions and water that came over the gunwales after running other stretches of rough water may have dampened the gear but never the boys' spirits, and no equipment was lost or injuries incurred.

Gear and food for the entire trip was carried in the six canoes, so that the group was completely self sufficient.

Boys participating in the adventure were Bruce Keene, Phil Widdows, Eric Weisgerber, Glenn Prinz, Chris Moritz, Joe McDonough, Alf Denzau and Pete Caddle. Adults assisting Mr. Dolsen were Dick and Charles Denzau, and Harry Keene.

Post 80 will be starting its new season in October and any boy, aged 14 years or older, interested in outdoor adventure and camping experiences may call Mr. Dolsen at his home, 225 Sailer St., to inquire about membership.

Children's Fair Produces $110 For CARE

Neighborhood children held a fair on the grounds of the Pearson home on Prospect Ave. at Manor Ave. on Labor Day and netted $110 which they plan to send to CARE for a children's overseas rehabilitation program.

This is the sixth year that the same group has held a fair for benefit of some children's relief organization. Last year they earned $45, which also was sent to CARE.

One of the features of their latest venture was a spook house. There also were games, a toy sale and a Mary Poppins show, and refreshments were sold.

Participating children were Evan, Eric and Meg John, Diana, Ellen and Per Pearson, Tara, Nina and Chip Flanagan, Cathy and Dave Davis, Jane Randall and Cindy Lehmann.

In 1969, the number of serious crimes in the United States increased by 12 percent over 1968, as compared with a 17 percent increase in 1968 over 1967.

All Walks of Life Are Represented In Recreation Square Dance Group

Who square dances in Cranford? Doctor, lawyer, Indian chief... In all honesty, the Odds and Ends square dance group is without an Indian chief at this time, but a look at the roster of professions is a study in itself. The officers this year include a fashion designer, a registered nurse, a packaging clerk, a homemaker and a professional engineer.

Sponsored by the Cranford Recreation Department, this group enjoys many innovations that set it apart from other square dance groups. Most important is the fact that it is an easy level group. This means that only 10 lessons are required to participate in dances of the Odds and Ends. The dancing is a little more involved than one will find at the typical Saturday night square dance social, but then again it's for people who enjoy a little bit more.

Lessons are starting next Tuesday and will continue for 10 weeks until November 17 from 8 to 10 p.m. at Bloomingdale Avenue School. All area residents are invited to attend regardless of their professions. Last year the class was hosted by a professional fire fighter and the head teller in a local bank. Within the class, people with a wide range of occupations participated from a medical secretary, a production engineer and a teacher to a self-employed upholsterer.

A few of the regular dancers include a retired Air Force officer, a chemist in research and development and a hospital comptroller. And then there are more squares full of more interesting people: a project engineer; some students, an office clerk, some more home-

We're building a non-smoker.

Public Service has entered the nuclear age. Through the miracle of nuclear fission large quantities of electricity can be produced without any of the smoke and pollutants formerly associated with conventional generating stations. Nuclear plants produce no smoke, no odor, and help maintain the integrity of our natural environment. Right now, we're building the world's largest nuclear generating station near Salem, New Jersey. In addition, we have purchased two more nuclear units for installation on Newbold Island, near Bordentown Township. The first unit is scheduled to operate in 1975, the second in 1977. We expect to add more nuclear generating stations to meet New Jersey's future needs for additional clean electric power.
