Sickert Details Trip

PBA Local 52 held its bi-monthly meeting last Wednesday night at the VFW Hall. A minute of silence was observed in the memory of Norman W. Smith, a member of the board of trustees and former president.

Membership chairman Thomas J. Butler introduced three new members, Charles Pace, J. Donald Savercool and John J. Senk Jr.

Otto G. Sickert, president, gave an illustrated talk about his recent trip to Europe.

While in Berlin a reception was given him at the City Hall on John F. Kennedy Platz. Walter Sickert, president of the Parliament, presented him with a replica of the Freedom Bell of Berlin. A Berlin newspaper reported: "If one would try to repeat what the quick and lively gentleman from New Jersey had to say in one hour, no doubt, one would need two hours and one half."

Mr. Sickert traveled with Schwaben International, Inc. where he is a member of the board of directors.

The following members were named to the nominating committee: Thomas J. Butler, John J. Delany, Herbert R. Jacobsen, Marvin C. Kniserin and James B. Murdock.

Israel Rodriguez To Read Poetry

Israel Rodriguez of 313 Retford Ave., a professor of Spanish at Newark State College, will participate in a bi-lingual poetry reading today at 1:30 p.m. in Downs Hall Lounge at the college, sponsored by the departments of foreign languages and English at Newark State.

Mr. Rodriguez and Dr. Edwin Thomason of Elizabeth will read their verse and discuss them. The public is invited.

Mr. Rodriguez's first collection of verse, "Patria Nueva," published in Cuba in 1952 and 1954, presented patriotic and revolutionary songs of protest against the dictatorship of his country. These poems were suppressed only when they were in their second edition.

While head of a section in the department of the treasury, Mr. Rodriguez publicly denounced the Castro regime in his poem, "Father Marti, forgive us." Because of this poem, he was forced to find sanctuary abroad.

The poet's first collection published in the United States, "Poemas de Israel," are not political in nature, but are metaphors of erotic, spiritual and patriotic love and express his positive view of the human condition.

In his search for the myth of our age, the Cuban poet has created the ecological cycle, "Virgin Matter." This forth coming work in bi-lingual edition presents a means of transcending elemental progress and thereby depicts the incarnation, the destruction and the resurrection of matter.

Speaks at Convention

Miss Martha Meyer

Miss Martha Meyer, a senior at Cranford High School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer of 313 North Union Ave. was a guest speaker for the New Jersey Classical Association at a meeting of Latin teachers and professors on Friday, November 3 at the Chalfonte Hotel in Atlantic City during the NJEA annual teachers' convention.

Miss Meyer, a fourth year Latin student this year, traveled with the New Jersey Junior Classical League in its 1971 springtime in Italy study tour. This past spring she received the honor of being selected to return to Rome in the capacity of a junior counselor working with the league's Latin students and assisting the senior counselors who direct and guide the educational experience.

On Friday, Miss Meyer shared with the educators her thoughts and experiences, as well as the benefits she derived in studying Rome and its environs both as a student and junior counselor. Her talk was illustrated with slides and other visual media.

Medoc is a triangle of land in France, world famous for its red wines — it is a red wine appelation well above Bordeaux Rouge or Bordeaux Superieur — some of the most celebrated wines in the world come from this region and even the least expensive Medoc must, according to French law, come from what is recognized as one of the best wine districts in France — they are generally well balanced clarets of good quality and definitely a superior wine. Three-Part Flood Control Plan Unveiled

AGAIN THE WATER — Flood waters swept over residential areas of Cranford last Wednesday for the third time since 1968. Hardest hit again was the Riverside Dr. area and sections of the connecting streets. In the picture above a police rescue boat ferries out a resident along Claremont Pl. on Thursday morning. The photo was taken just beyond the intersection with Normandie Pl. Many residents of this area were forced to flee their homes during the night. More pictures of the flooding in Cranford are on Page 5.

The Township Committee's announcement of a three-part program for flood control, the Flood Action Committee's request for a grand jury investigation of the county's maintenance of the dikes, and the introduction of a bill in the New Jersey Assembly for the creation of a Rahway River Authority were the principle developments that followed last week's flooding in Cranford.

Mayor Jack C. McVey, speaking to the more than 200 residents who jammed Tuesday night's meeting of the Township Committee, outlined a short-range program to be completed in four to six months, an intermediate program which may take as long as 18 months, and a long range program which the town will continue to seek.

Included in the first phase was the hiring of a hydraulic engineering firm to develop plans for preventive measures that can be undertaken by Cranford. A resolution authorizing the emergency appropriation of $20,000 to hire the consultant was approved by the committee.

The committee has held discussions during the summer with a consulting firm and some of the points in the new proposal are based on the firm's preliminary observations. Mayor McVey indicated that the consultant will be concerned with pumping stations, dam improvements, diking, feeder streams and other aspects of river and runoff flooding.

Also included in the program announced by the mayor were provisions for a survey of the recent flood damage, a demand that the county restore the dikes to their original condition and dredge the entire length of the river in Cranford, the construction of an underground reservoir at foot of Balmiere Pkwy. and the installation of permanent pumping stations, the improvement of existing portable pumping equipment, the establishment of a Cranford Flood Task Force which make monthly reports and continued efforts to speed the progress of the Army Corps of Engineers and the creation of a Rahway River Flood Control Authority.

Mayor McVey remarked that changes in the watershed have created a unique situation for Cranford which has suffered greater damage than other communities in the 1971 and 1972 floods. "The bulk of Cranford residents seem interested but not actually involved in flood problems. We must stimulate greater personal involvement and concern not only among our Cranford residents but all of Union County," the mayor commented.

He also announced that Freeholder Harold Seymour said he will introduce a resolution at the board's executive meeting Monday to provide funds for the dredging of Nomahegan Lake.

The mayor's appeals for public support were echoed by Committeemen Burton S. Goodman and Irwin I. Kent. Mr. Goodman urged residents to follow the example of the citizen groups who fought for a footbridge and against the powerline proposal by petitioning their county, state and federal representatives. Mr. Kent pointed out that it was important that residents support the committee, particularly at budget time when capital expenditures for any projects must be allocated.

Joseph Dunn of 5 Clinton Pl., one of the organizers of the Flood Action Committee, explained that his group has encountered some difficulty in determining the present and original height of the dikes. Last Friday some 30 residents met with the Union County prosecutor in an attempt to initiate a grand jury investigation on the basis that the Board of Freeholders and the Union County Park Commission are guilty of nonfeasance in allowing the dikes to erode. Mr. Dunn asked that any residents who could supply reasonable estimates or photographs of the dike conditions or erosion to contact him.

The Flood Action Committee will meet with the prosecutor tomorrow morning. At that time they hope to provide him with additional information concerning the erosion and the meetings at which they and other residents have asked the freeholders of park commissioners to repair the dikes.

Kenneth A. McGrath of 3 Normandie Pl. repeated his long-standing requests that the town immediately install pumping stations where storm sewers enter the river and to increase the elevation of the dikes. He also questioned the committee as to why a flood gate in the Hansel Dam had not been opened by 5:30 a.m. on Wednesday. Later in the evening, Richard Hurley of 128 Eastman St. accused the township, engineer of dereliction of duty in failing to open the flood gates in sufficient time. Mr. Hurley contended that if the gates had been opened earlier a substantial portion of the damage could have been avoided.

Mayor McVey responded that the opening of the gates depended on experience and that the engineer opened the gates when he thought it was the proper time. Mr. Gehri has said he ordered the gates to be opened at 7:30 a.m. on Wednesday.

Other residents at the meeting expressed a variety of views on street flooding, runoff water, the need for a town-wide approach to the problem, the effect of Union

200 Residents Flee Storm Waters

For the third time since 1968 and little more than 14 months after tropical storm Doria wrought its havoc in Cranford, heavy rainfall pushed the Rahway River over its banks and into the low-lying areas. Approximately 200 residents fled to safety in the darkness as the flood waters swamped scores of homes.

When Thursday dawned, the cold, brown water had spread over nearly the same sections that were hit in 1971 and 1968, Riverside Dr. from Springfield Ave. north to Kenilworth Blvd. was covered with water that was six-feet deep in places. Also submerged were sections of Normandie Pl., Claremont Pl., Franklin, Henley, Richmond, Belmont, Venetia and Edgar Aves., Edgewood, Brookdale and Glenwood Rds.

West of the river the water spread over Balmiere Pkwy., Crescent Pl., sections of Springfield Ave., Willow St., Eastman St., Central Ave., and Park Dr. To the south, the area surrounding the High St. bridge was flooded along with sections of Chestnut, Bluff and neighboring streets.

According to the Union College weather station, the storm deposited 5.9 inches of rain in Cranford, the bulk of it falling Wednesday night. At 5 p.m. on Wednesday, 3.12-inches had been recorded at the college. An additional 2.78 inches were recorded between 5 p.m. and 2 a.m. Thursday.

Cranford's Police, Fire and Public Works Departments worked from Wednesday through Friday evening in meeting the emergency and in mopping up after the water receded. Also participating in the operations were the First Aid, Civil Defense and Red Cross units in the Township. Aid was also received from neighboring communities.

While many residents in the areas hardest hit by the flooding found refuge in homes of relatives or friends, 22 people were housed overnight in the Municipal Building. Other residents spent the night in nearby motels.

Many residents reported extensive damage to automobiles and equipment or furnishings in cellars and garages and some unofficial estimates put the total damage near $1 million.

Approximately 100 homes were damaged in the Cranford flooding, which appeared to be the worst in this area.

The rainfall, which on Wednesday morning was predicted to amount to only one-inch, initially kept the Public Works crews busy cleaning catch basins and sewer grates that were clogged with leaves. During Wednesday there were numerous reports of street flooding from all areas of the township.

Township Engineer Norman E. Gehri ordered the flood gates to be opened at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday when the crews came on duty. As the rain continued and the storm sewers started to surcharge because of the heavy flow in the river, the engineer directed the portable pumps into service at 2 p.m.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES — A prospective buyer might have found a boat was needed to inspect this house for sale on Brookdale Rd. where flood waters Thursday morning reached right to the foundation. This photo was taken near the intersection with Glenwood Rd. Scores of property owners have suffered property damage in this year's and previous years' floods. Some residents fear the value of their property has diminished and some say they are ready to move.

Residents Air Views on Flooding

Some people want to move out as soon as they can find a buyer. Some blame government at all levels and are demanding corrective action. Others, though far from happy about the situation, are resigned to living with it.

This is the aftermath of the flood that hit Cranford last Wednesday. The torrents of rain left their mark in ruined furniture and floors, ruined furnaces, recreation rooms covered with dirt and silt, a lingering stench and the memory of being evacuated from one's home in the middle of the night. And there is the constant fear that it could happen again at any time.

Residents of Riverside Dr. and portions of the connecting streets were hardest hit, although not as badly as last year.

One young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hecht, moved into their home at 11 Henley Ave. at the end of August, with no forewarning that it was located in a flood-prone area. On Thursday afternoon the Hechts still had six feet of water in their basement and a few inches in the recreation room. Mr. Hecht could not hide his bitterness when he spoke of the flood.

"I guess somebody will have to die before they do anything," he complained. "The election's over, so nobody cares. I have flood insurance, but we'll have to clean up the mess and everything is filthy and destroyed."

Mr. Hecht said it is hard to describe the situation to friends and relatives.

"I never thought I'd hear a motorboat buzzing in front of my house at 3 in the morning. Nobody believes it," he said.

The Hechts, who have a young son, are hoping to get their money back for the house and move elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kreutel of 87 Glenwood Rd., parents of two daughters, also want to sell their house. The flood left three feet of water in their ground-level den and completed them to leave their home at 1 a.m. and spend the night at Holiday Inn. A washing machine, dryer, built-in TV, furnace, water softener, floor and wood panneling were damaged. Although the Kreutels, too, have flood insurance, they think it's time to get out.

"We can't go through this again. It's happened three times in seven years. It's stupid to stay," Mrs. Kreutel commented.

The Leonard Barmaks of 101 Glenwood Rd. have mixed feelings about moving. They like the neighborhood, but three floods and many scares during the past 10 years have forced them to think seriously about leaving.

"People who talk about keeping the beauty of the river have never been flooded, but I really can't blame them," said Mrs. Barmak.

James M. Shamey of 12 Kensington Ave. made it clear he has little sympathy with the views of those who want to keep the river's scenic beauty intact.

"Let it run dry. We don't need a place to paddle a canoe," he argued.

Mr. Shamey, who had six

Rod Smith Tribute Sunday

A non-sectarian, community memorial service in tribute to the late Roderick W. Smith will be sponsored by the Township Committee, this Sunday, November 19, at 2:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

The late Mr. Smith died at his home on Sunday, October 29, and his funeral service was held on November 1. The committee has invited residents to attend this non-sectarian memorial tribute.

Accepting invitations to give five-minute talks on Mr. Smith's contributions to Cranford are Reverends Frank C. Goodlake and Dr. Robert G. Longaker, pastor and pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church; Monsignor John F. Davis, pastor of St. Michael's church; Mayor Jack C. McVey; G. Carl Zimmerman, leader of the First Church of Christ Scientist, of which Mr. Smith was a member and former leader.

Also, Reverend Arnold J. Dahlquist, pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church; Dr. Bruce Hall, representing the Clergy Council; Dr. Kenneth N. Albrecht, representing the Union Council of Boy Scouts of America; Sanford K. Thomson, former packmaster of Cranford's first cub pack.

Also, Dr. Hamer J. Hall, chairman of the board of trustees of the Cranford Historical Society; Otto G. Sickert, president of the Rotary P.B.A.; Channing Rudd, past president of the Chamber of Commerce; and Harris S. Swackhamer, assistant to the president of Union College.

Mayor McVey pointed out that many organizations and individuals had wished to express their admiration for Mr. Smith but regretted that the program would have to be limited to those organizations with which Mr. Smith had been closely associated.

Several organizations, such as the B'nai B'rith and the Rotary Club, have indicated their support of the service even though they are not represented in the program. Reverend Rudolph Gibbs, pastor of St. Mark's A.M.E. Church and president of the Clergy Council regretted that a conflict in schedules with activities of this church prevented his personal participation.

Propose New Noise Law

A new noise control ordinance and five ordinances providing for the exchange of lands between property owners at the proposed site of the senior citizens housing unit and the township were introduced by the Township Committee at its meeting Tuesday night.

The noise control ordinance, which would replace an old ordinance that had been found unreasonable in a recent court test, was prompted by complaints from residents of Baltimore Ave. In recent months they told the committee that the 24-hour operation of the Crown Drugs Inc., a warehouse facility in the industrial park, has been disturbing their sleep for several years.

Committeeman Henry E. Hinsenkamp explained that the new regulation, which is based on a 1970 Lakewood, N.J. ordinance, is very technical in nature. He said the committee has some reservations about the reasonableness of the proposed measure but that it planned to have the ordinance reviewed by several independent testing laboratories before final passage.

A public hearing on the ordinance, which is published on Page 13, will be held on December 12.

The five ordinances for trade of lands involve township-owned property on Stratford Ter., Sailer St., Staughton Ave., Denman Rd.,

Residents, Consultants To Meet

Consultants to the Board of Education will meet November 29 with some 75 individuals representing various groups to obtain their views on the qualifications for a new superintendent of schools. Five separate meetings will be held throughout the day and evening at the Lincoln School board room.

President Richard Anderson has sent letters of invitation to students, faculty, administrators, professional educational leaders residing in Cranford, former board members, the Joint-Civic Committee, PTA presidents, the Clergy Council and the Township Committee.

The board will not participate in the discussions in order to permit an unencumbered exchange of views between the consultants and participants. Written comments from any interested person in the community also are welcome. These should be addressed to Dr. Daryl Pelletier in care of Mr. John Dwyer, board secretary at Lincoln School.

The board said its goal is to obtain the best qualified candidate for Cranford's needs. Results of these interviews will be combined with the board's

Town Begins Bike Patrol

A night truck patrol on the lookout for bicycle riders who are violating safety and traffic regulations has been instituted by the Cranford Police Department, according to Chief Matthew T. Haney.

The police chief said there is an increasing number of residents who are riding bikes at night without lights or on the wrong side of the road.

The truck patrol, the chief explained, will confiscate the bicycles of riders who are violating the laws. Residents will pay a $1 fine before the bicycle is returned.

The rules of the road for bicycle riders, which are distributed when licenses are issued, can be obtained at police headquarters in the Municipal Building.

Scouts at Campout

Boy scout troop 178 of St. Michael's Church recently attended a weekend campout at Worthington State Forest near the Delaware Water Gap.

Although rain limited most of the activities planned, the scouts took a six mile hike along the Appalachian Trail to Sunfish Pond. Some of the older boys continued an additional four miles as a requirement for the hiking merit badge.

Mr. Brinkerhoff, a Cranford police lieutenant, is a former state V.F.W. commander. He headed the state organization in 1967. Both he and Commander Heichel are Marine Corps veterans of World War II. Both men saw action in the Asiatic-Pacific theater of operations.

Mr. Heichel, a member and a former commander of the Bay Leaf Post, Garwood, is a former resident of that community. The state V.F.W. head is also a former 5th N.J. District and a Union County Council commander.

Willis C. Bird of Rahway, state chief-of-staff, is serving as general chairman of the program. He and Mr. Brinkerhoff are members of the Captain Newell Rodney Fisk Post in Cranford.

'Impossible Years' Ready for Weekend

The senior play, "The Impossible Years," will be presented this weekend, November 17 and 18, at Orange Avenue Junior High School at 8 p.m.

Debra Del Russo, publicity chairman, said the one week delay in preparation of the play will not affect the performance. If anything, she said, it has made the students work more diligently and enthusiastically. The actors and actresses have worked well into the night learning their lines, cues and blocking.

The play will take two hours to perform and will include one intermission during which the students will sponsor a cake sale.

Students on the publicity committee have been selling tickets door-to-door and tickets will also be available at the door.

On Honor Roll

Paul D. Halligan, 316 Manor Ave., is on the honor roll at Newark Academy, Livingston for maintaining an average of B- or better during the first marking period at the school.

Results of Opinion Poll

Seven times out of every 10 residents polled said the opinion questionnaire for the Republican candidates for Township Committee felt flood control was the most pressing problem facing Cranford in 1972.

Delinsenor Inc. tabulated results received from 226 usable returns out of a little less than 1,000 mailed to residents drawn from the voter registration list.

Results showed 70 percent of those polled were moderately pleased with local government and 33.8 percent moderately displeased. Approximately ten percent were either very pleased or strongly displeased.

Seventy percent felt local taxes were "too high;" 44.8 percent were not satisfied that locally elected officials were trying to reduce spending and hold taxes down, while 34.3 percent were satisfied. Others were undecided.

Voters identified themselves as moderately conservative, 42.9 percent; moderately liberal, 23.5 percent; conservative, 20.4 percent; liberal, 8.4 percent; and 1.3 percent for very liberal and very conservative.

Other pressing problems cited by those polled were taxes, 33.2 percent; drug abuse problems, 23 percent; education, 15.5 percent; garbage collection, 11.1 percent.

More than 72 percent polled felt local government is providing enough services such as police and fire protection, recreation, snow and leaf collection, though, and half collection, however, was cited by 42.8 percent questioned as the service needing most improvement. More than 81 percent said Cranford is providing enough recreational facilities for youth.

A direct vote for mayor of Cranford was favored by 74.3 percent while 57.5 percent disapproved of a full-time elected and paid mayor.

More than half of those polled felt local municipal officials have been responsive to the average citizen's problems during the past three years, while 21 percent each felt officials were either indifferent or responsive. Only 5.8 percent felt officials were strongly responsive.

Board of Education members did not fare as well as township officials. Only 4.8 percent felt the board was moderately responsive, 32.7 percent felt it was indifferent, 14.2 percent felt it was unresponsive and 8.8 percent felt it was strongly responsive.

Half of those polled strongly opposed building low-income housing in Cranford and 18 percent were moderately opposed. Close to 80 percent would not be willing to pay higher taxes to rectify urban plight areas.

Fifty-seven percent felt they were not getting their money's worth from the Board of Education opposed to 29.5 percent who felt they were. Almost 44 percent felt they were getting their dollar's worth from the municipal government compared with 36.7 percent who felt they were not.

'Arsenic' Ready To Debut

Last-minute preparations kept members of the Cranford Dramatic Club backstage crews busy this week as they, together with the cast under George Val Bear's direction, prepare for the opening of "Arsenic and Old Lace" tomorrow at 8:40 p.m. The play will be repeated on Saturday and on November 24, 25 and December 1 and 2.

The setting for this macabre comedy, the Brooklyn brownstone home of the disarmingly homicidal Brewster sisters, has been designed by Harold Owen and constructed by the staging crew headed by stage manager George Shuhan. Lighting is by Joyce Owen, sound by Otto Schwager. The properties committee, with co-chairmen Elsie Midgley and Linda Herman, has furnished and equipped the set.

When "Arsenic and Old Lace" opened on Broadway in 1941, the part of Jonathan Brewster, who according to the script is supposed to look like Boris Karloff, was played by Mr. Karloff himself. The task of creating this resemblance on Cranford stage is in the hands of Ellie Wood and her crew, who will give Ed Robinson a new, sinister face in keeping with the sinister part he plays.

Another challenging make-up assignment is to give Carl Peterson the look of Teddy Roosevelt for his portrayal of Teddy Brewster, who thinks he really is T.R. This image is further enhanced by Teddy's authentic garb, tropical hunting clothes, assembled by costume chairman Mary Crane.

Costumes for "Arsenic and Old Lace" depict two distinct eras. Teddy and his aunts, played by Barbara Florence and Lois George, are right out of 1909, while the others in the cast, who enter the Brewster home from the outside world, of today, are strictly 1972. The contrasting implausibility between the two styles of dress reflects the entire preposterous assumption of the play: that two incredibly sweet ladies are really incredibly efficient murderers.

Tickets are available for all performances and may be reserved by phone or in person at the theatre box office, 78 Winans Ave., weekdays between 8 and 9:30 p.m.

$71,361 For Fund

The weekly report of the United Fund showed an encouraging advance toward the goal of $105,000 this Monday. The total contributions and pledges have now reached $71,361, or 68 per cent of the goal.

At least two divisions are now nearing completion of their assignments. Dr. Herbert Paskow, general chairman, is offering prizes for the divisions first completing their quotas.

Dr. Paskow emphasized that procrastination is the enemy of accomplishment and urged that Cranford residents directly contact the United Fund office at 272-6116 or P.O. Box 171 and that workers maintain their pace in contacting individuals and organizations on their lists.

Boy Scout Troop 178 sponsored by St. Michael's Church will conduct its monthly paper drive this Saturday, November 18 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at St. Michael's School parking lot.

All newspapers and magazines are acceptable and should be tied in bundles. Pick-ups of large amounts of paper may be arranged by calling William Hoffman, 112 Cranford Ave., or Joseph Kelly, 333 Manor Ave.

Bloodmobile Here on Friday

The Red Cross bloodmobile will make its fall visit to Cranford tomorrow at Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church from 2 p.m. until 7 p.m.

Residents of the Cranford-Garwood-Kenilworth area are urged to participate in the blood program, protecting themselves and their families should medical need for blood arise or serving others who may need it.

According to the local chapter, every person may at some time be in need of a transfusion or a medication derived from a human blood component but only a fraction of the adult population ever makes a voluntary donation. The Red Cross feels that all healthy American adults should feel obliged to give blood.

"They should not be fearful of the simple system of taking blood, they should not make excuses that they don't have an hour to give for the process, and they should not be indifferent to the life-saving program which attempts to keep an adequate supply of all types of blood available for use in local hospitals," said the chapter.

Blood donations are processed into component parts to be directed to patients with particular needs. Plasma is used to counteract effects of shock or burns; Anemia is treated with packed red cells. Hemophiliacs need fresh frozen plasma. Fibrinogen in blood has a clotting factor used to treat bleeding. Prevention of infections like hepatitis, measles, and polio may be accomplished by shots of gamma globulin.

Red Cross believes that public awareness of the uses of the blood should increase the number of donors. Residents may find it convenient to set a specific time for donation but an advance appointment with the Red Cross office at 10 N. Union Ave., is not absolutely necessary.

Flood Plain Controls

Mayor Jack McVey in his remarks to residents at the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night observed that changes in the Rahway River watershed have created a unique situation for Cranford which in 1971 and now in 1972 was one of the communities hardest hit by flooding. This situation, the mayor said, must be impressed upon the county, state and federal governments for they, and not Cranford, have the resources and the authority to produce the complete solution.

The key change has been the overdevelopment of the flood plain and watershed area in all the communities of the Rahway River basin. This overdevelopment, resulting from the lack of regional planning, has rendered local dikes, flood gates and other measures ineffective in containing a heavy rainfall. If the construction and the paving is allowed to continue at its present pace, the effectiveness of any new flood control project will be very short-lived.

Currently Cranford and the state have under consideration flood plain control measures that will restrict further development. The passage of these two measures is critical to the sensible implementation of any local or regional controls. We would also suggest that serious consideration be given to restricting or carefully controlling all parts of the future development not only in the flood plain but in all parts of the watershed until it is determined that the construction and the resultant runoff water will not exceed the capabilities of the Rahway River drainage system.

Flood Developments

College's development on neighboring areas, the adequacy of the storm sewer system and the water supply.

A bill calling for the creation of a Rahway River Authority, with broad powers to deal with flooding, pollution and the preservation of the beauty of the river, was introduced by Assemblyman C. Louis Bassano on Monday.

"A Rahway River Authority appointed and financed by the state would be far better equipped to solve the problem because it could look at the total picture," he explained.

Under Bassano's proposal, the authority would comprise five members appointed by Governor Cahill, one each from residents of the Rahway River Basin. One member would come from Essex County, one each from northern, central and southern Union County and another from Middlesex County.

The authority would be a subordinate agency of all bodies of water which are potential sources of flooding. It would also take steps to enforce state laws to preserve water quality and prevent water pollution, and take necessary measures to develop and restore the scenic beauty along the river.

Bassano's bill also calls for establishing a Rahway River Local Government Committee, to be made up of the mayor or designated alternate of each constituent community, and the chairman or director of each county. A subcommittee would act as a liaison between the authority and the local government committee.

Details of Flood Plan

Following is the text Mayor Jack C. McVey's announcement of a three-part program for flood control in Cranford. In it he spells out the short, intermediate and long range plans the town will follow.

Short Range: (1) Immediately contract for the services of an hydraulic engineering firm to develop plans for preventative steps that Cranford can undertake alone. These steps could be concerned with pumping stations, dam improvements, diking, feeder streams, etc. (2) Have the township administrator conduct a survey to determine from residents affected by the flooding the amount of property loss sustained. (3) Have the township administrator fully publicize and distribute information on flood insurance available to our citizens. (4) Contact the Union County Board of Freeholders and demand that they help us in this effort by their restoring the dikes to their original height and stability and dredging the river for its entire length in Cranford. (5) Begin now the engineering planning for the construction of an underground reservoir at the foot of Balmiere Parkway and the installation of a permanent pumping station to serve it and a permanent pumping station for the Riverside reservoir. (6) Immediately improve our existing pumping equipment so that it is usable in deep water.

(7) Refine our existing emergency flood plan to better delineate responsibility, authority, steps to be taken, etc. (8) Establish a Cranford Flood Task Force to concentrate on legislative, funding, engineering, legal, emergency planning and all other matters pertaining to flooding. This Take Force will be composed of involved citizens, experienced officials, and area technical experts. We would hope for a preliminary report on the overall picture before the end of the year and monthly reports thereafter. We will be appointing this committee at our next meeting.

(9) Pass emergency resolution 16 and the study outlined in item 1, 100 Pass the flood plain ordinance restricting further building in the flood plain and further defining additional action which might be taken to protect property and prevent losses. (11) Immediately sit down with the Corps of Engineers to review what they have already done in Rahway River flood control, determine what their plans and time table are. Contact our Federal representatives to improve on the time table.

Intermediate Programs:

Noise

Burchfield Ave. and Horey St. in exchange for lots at the Meeker Ave. site of the senior citizens housing project. These ordinances, also published on Page 13, will have a public hearing on November 28 at which time maps of the exact location of the lots involved will be available.

In other matters, the committee authorized the town engineer to advertize for bids for the construction of the sidewalks which were approved last December. Committeeman Burton S. Goodman described this as the next to last step in the installation process.

Mr. Goodman also announced that school crossing guards are still needed and interested residents should contact the Cranford Police Department. He further reported that manufacture of the crossbeam for the partially completed footbridge is underway and the county expects delivery of the beam by mid-December.

To Survey Flood Loss

Township Administrator Sidney Stone, who under the flood program announced Tuesday night will conduct a survey of the damage sustained in last week's flood, requests that residents provide him with a brief description and amount of loss due to the flooding. Letters should be directed to him at the Municipal Building and should include the name and address.

Mr. Stone also said residents seeking information concerning flood insurance should contact their own broker or the Centennial Insurance Co. at 97 Main St., Chatham. The firm administers the program in New Jersey.

(1) Have the County restore the dikes to their original heights. If expert studies show that additional height would benefit without creating problems elsewhere, raise them to the new height. (2) Install the reservoir and pumping station at Balmiere and the pumping station at Riverside.

(3) Encourage the County to budget money and start construction on raising the High Street Bridge and building a large retention basin on the other side of Kenilworth Boulevard in the park. (4) Budget money for the Cranford flood control improvements as developed by the hydraulic studies. (5) Develop in conjunction with the Federal government an early warning system to give us more time to take protective steps. Long Range: (1) Continue to press for the establishment of a Rahway River Flood Control Authority to coordinate the overall flood control effort for the entire river. (2) Continue to follow the Corps of Engineers for the design and construction of the major installations required for the control of flooding along the entire river.

Letters to the Editor

On the Flood

To the Editor:

We would like to thank all our friends who provided food, helping hands and words of encouragement during the latest flood.

We would also like to commend the Cranford Police Department and the Department of Public Works for giving us invaluable support and assistance in every possible way.

Above all, we are most deeply grateful to George Abdo who voluntarily shared our lonely all-night vigil and helped man the pump.

We thank you all most sincerely.

To the Editor:

If ever there was a time in this history of this town when it needed elected officials to represent the people with responsibility and commitment, the time is now, yet the problem of Flood Control is being dangerously neglected.

Talk and empty promises does not take the place of action and elimination of this urgent problem and possible saving of life. Yes, we are fortunate that, we haven't had any loss of life during the recent flood.

Nature Notes

By Farris S. Swackhamer

Every year when we go down into Cape May County for our vacation, I hope to get pictures of species that have previously eluded me. This past August was a banner one. We went down behind the Stone Harbor Sanctuary to try for some photographs of egrets and this silhouetted against the setting sun. However, that evening there were no clouds in the sky and the sun was too bright by half to had sunk far below the tops of the trees, out of sight.

We collapsed the tripod and put the camera and long lens back in the trunk of the car. The easiest way to get home from the sanctuary is to drive around in front of the same many and up the main street. Near the parking area we stopped to watch for a few minutes. The landing gulls of the shallow seas were moving rapidly across the grass in the near part of the sanctuary. All of once we spotted a Louisiana heron walking about snapping up insects. The shallow had almost reached it and I knew that once this happened there would be no chance of getting a picture.

As quickly as possible, a light reading was taken and the camera put back on the tripod. The heron wouldn't cooperate. He spent much of his time in deep grass where we could just glimpse his head. Camera focused on an open spot in the grass, we waited. Once or twice he walked into full view and the shutter snapped. The last few pictures were taken in the shadow and my prediction proved correct: there wasn't enough light to recognize the heron.

ment in a brochure which is to be distributed in a nationwide search for superintendent candidates.

The applications and credentials submitted to the board will then be screened and evaluated by the candidates and the six candidates who best meet the criteria established will be referred to the board for interview and selection. The consultants will not participate in the final selection.

The Louisiana is a slender, graceful, medium sized bird, dark in color, with a clear white belly and white rump, Peterson says. "The contrasting white belly is the key mark in any plumage." It is a rare summer visitant in New Jersey and there is only one breeding record in the greater New York Area.

This summer I determined to get some shots of cattle egrets. I know that if anyone could direct me to their peregrinations it would be Frank W. McLaughlin, retired executive director of the New Jersey Audubon Society. So we stopped to see him and his wife, Doris, one morning. Their home is along that same road to Cape May Point.

Frank knew what I was seeking and said, "Just go up to the next left, turn and continue until you come to a dead end and then turn left again. A little way down that road is a farm where cattle egrets feed with the livestock."

He was right. The birds were about 50 yards from the road and I was able to get some passable pictures.

responsibility and concern on their part. Newer residents who are not familiar with the improvement of our river are most affected.

Here I suggest that the Township make a point of notifying the residents when the river waters overflow the dikes in the future and then a communication center be set up to assist those people affected by the flooding. The flood weary Cranford citizens deserve at least this much consideration from their Municipal Government.

Robert J. Kleissler
2 Franklin Ave.

To the Editor:

For a while our town received some fantastic public attention last week. On national television, radio and newspapers you could see and hear about the flooding that took place in Cranford. I don't believe that the people of Cranford had to read the newspaper, watch the television or hear the radio to know that Cranford overnight could be labeled a "disaster area." I also don't believe that the people of Cranford want to be recognized as "that town that always floods."

This great publicity for our town didn't come free; it came at the expense of every loyal Cranford taxpayer. Extra hours for police, firemen and public works people means extra expense to the town. The expense suffered by the individual flood victims to their homes and property are extra-added expense, something which usually isn't included in the normal family budget.

There is no denying the fact that Cranford has a problem. A problem which should rank high in priority to be taken care of now and not later because later might be too late.

Now that the elections are over and our new officials are done getting up to campaign, let's make sure that they don't sit down because the election is over. The problem is not over and neither is the work to be done.

Cranford and the surrounding communities need some type of flood control. If it isn't received soon it won't be long before the people of Cranford stand up and leave, making Cranford a ghost-town.

On Negotiating

To the Editor:

During the public Board meeting of October 17, 1972, I stated that I saw difficulty following the logic of the Board, inasmuch as in certain areas of responsibility namely, labor relations, it is a "do - yourself" Board, preferring to use Board talent, however amateur that talent is, rather than hire a professional negotiator.

Yet with regard to the duty of the board to hire a superintendent, the board says it is good business practice to employ a consulting firm and it is only too eager to do so, obviously.

Although the Board was very quick to respond to my comments that evening via Mr. Strom, Mr. Baechtold, Dr. Dougherty and Mr. Kleissler, my concern continues to haunt me. During the past election, we had promises, promises from both political parties regarding the word on the tip of everyone's tongue, TAXES. I ask myself, how can a township committee ever control taxes when they don't bite in our community's budget is taken by the Board of Education?

Regarding the subject of negotiations, I feel strongly that the Board is wrong in its approach and attitude for the following reasons:

(1.) Teachers' Union by virtue of large treasuries earmarked specifically for labor relations have access to the very best in the field of skilled professional negotiators. I cannot help but feel that the Board that requires its members to meet night after night for committee responsibilities, in addition to negotiating a contract with the CEA, can be anything but a very inefficient team when pitted against such strong opponents.

(2.) By and large, the mind grows dull and the body stiff in such a situation, and neither are conducive to intelligent and skillful bargaining.

(3.) Professional negotiators are expected to and rely recently the board was quite willing to spend lots and lots of money to save money - the Taxpayer used to tear down elementary schools and build additions. Five million dollars of last year's school budget went towards the salaries of school personnel. Should we not be spending money to save money in this area? I think so.

The board would not use an accountant or a banker if it needed a lawyer. Of course, there is room for days of specialists. In fact, two years ago a public board meeting, Mrs. Strom assured us that Mr. Vreeland was hired as a negotiator.

(4.) I question the efficiency and responsibility of a board negotiating team composed of unskilled and overworked board members. I have much respect for these people and their own special talents which they generously contribute to the board.

However, the Board admitted at that meeting in October that the board negotiating team has little professional negotiating experience in daily work. Robert Baechtold, the chief negotiator, is an attorney of about six months and specializing in patent law. His only experience in labor negotiations is confined to board duties.

(5.) I also fault the wisdom of such a bargaining situation when it is well known, particularly by the teachers' union, that board members cannot always be present for these Wednesday night sessions due to their business and private lives. What happens in negotiations when the leader cannot be at the table and another has to take his place?

Consistency is important in leadership. To deny this element to the negotiating team seems to me a rather haphazard way of assuming important responsibility.

With flooding problems threatening to push property values down, and the consistent rise in taxes to meet the operating and school budgets of the community, I believe it is certainly time that every effort be made to stabilize the tax situation in Cranford.

I write this letter in the Spirit of voicing my opinion, not as a citizen of the town.

Leaves

To the Editor:

It is obvious that most of the leaves have fallen and the citizens of Cranford are diligently raking them into the streets.

I feel that the Public Works Department should consider this clean-up to be as much of an emergency as snow. Wet leaves are a hazard to both pedestrians and vehicles. If the clean-up must be done on a weekend or a holiday, as it would be for snow, then it should be done.

Blue Flyer

To the Editor:

I feel I cannot let the election results go into the Cranford history books without making some comment on the despicable "blue flyer" that was distributed by the Republican candidates the last two days of the campaign, and in some areas of town on election day.

It contained smear and unfounded charges designed to scare the voters. The Republicans candidates knew when they distributed this flyer there was no chance for the Democrats to reply with the truth. The distribution of that flyer was an all time low in Cranford politics. One prominent Republican stated that the flyer belonged in the Cranford sewers and not on the front steps of Cranford homes.

Low income housing was never a part of the Democratic platform. Flinn and Koehler knew it and they did not have the courage to make these charges public prior to their last minute attempt to turn the election in their favor by distributing this flyer.

I congratulate those Republican committee members who refused to distribute the flyer and I know that our Republican candidate cooperated they return to pick up the leaves. As, of this writing, they are still in front of my house.

In conclusion, after the inaction of the municipal government to do anything to alleviate our flooding problem, we now see the lack of co-ordination in the clean up process. Just how much are we, the citizens, supposed to tolerate? I, for one, have had it.

Pride in Cranford

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the newly elected Township Commissioners. May their terms of office be a time of continuing improvement and good will in all parts of our community.

It is also to be hoped that the Township Committee as a whole, the Recreation Committee and the Board of Education are cognizant of the substantial number of votes which Mr. Goodman undoubtedly won because of his dedicated stand in support of retaining Grall and Coffee Fields where they belong, where they have always been, where they were built, maintained and improved by concerned parents who have always believed in "Pay as You Play" for their children.

The Cranford Boys Baseball League has for years provided recreation for hundreds of boys and their families without any expense to the taxpayers.

The building of these fields was truly an expression of pride in Cranford and its youth and a tribute to the two fine gentlemen for whom they were named. To even consider destroying them to make a parking lot does not make sense and would be an insult to the efforts of many hard working individuals.

The CBBL has been kept dangling for an answer for much too long and it is high time that they be given a definite commitment that these facilities will be kept where they are, for as long as there are boys - who want to play baseball and parents who care enough to work with them. Knowing Cranford baseball parents, I predict that will be a long, long time.

A Success

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Junior League of Elizabeth and Cranford, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those within the community who supported the fifth Christmas Boutique held at the First Congregational Church last week. Our success could not have been achieved without the gracious assistance of those who publicized, sponsored, participated in or attended the boutique and to the First Congregational Church which very kindly allowed us to have the boutique in its Parish House.

In keeping with league policy, the proceeds are placed in a community trust fund which, in turn, services the communities in our area.

We are deeply grateful for the cooperation of so many.

On behalf of the Cranford Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, I wish to express my appreciation for the recent coverage your newspaper afforded us on our Bible convention held in Westfield this past weekend.

In view of present day world events, people are becoming more and more aware of the fact that Bible prophecies are being fulfilled in our generation, and that only the Bible has the answers to the perplexing problems we face world-wide today.

Your newspaper has provided a valuable public service in keeping your readers advised of the opportunities, such as this Bible assembly, to obtain answers to these questions.

Residents React To The Flooding

feet of water in his basement, was adamant in his condemnation of previous and present township officials.

Mr. Vhoyer was on the Township Committee when permits were issued to build on the flood plain should be arrested," he asserted. "I'm just waiting for the tax assessor to show up and tell me he's going to raise my assessment."

When asked for his opinion as to what action should be taken, Mr. Shamey said the first step should be repair of the dikes by the town and the Union County Park Commission.

"That's a start. Then we'll worry about the regional effort. I think that's a lot of bunk anyway," he remarked.

Another resident who expressed disgust with the way flood control has been handled by government was Mrs. J. S. Hagle of 308 Riverside Dr. Her family was among those evacuated Wednesday night.

"I am extremely frustrated at all levels of government," she declared. "We've been to the Township Committee for three years, we've been to the Freeholders, we've been to the Union County Park Commission, we've been to Senator Rinaldo and we've had Florence Dwyer here. We have not been satisfied."

A member of the steering committee of the Flood Action Committee, Mrs. Nagle was as upset about the latest flood that she telephoned President Nixon at the White House. Since Mr. Nixon was out of town, she was referred to one of his aides.

"I wanted the President to know that I am extremely disturbed about his veto of a flood control bill that would have helped us, and I wanted him to know the plight we are in while he is enjoying the sweet smell of victory," the lady woman said.

The cellar of the Nagle residence was under eight feet of water, and there was damage to the furnace and basement ceiling. Adding to the mess was a heating oil tank that spewed the sticky black substance all over the cellar floor.

Ross Martin Jr. of 4 Venetia Ave. said he was clobbered by the flood, with an estimated $5,000 worth of property damage. Mr. Martin believes flooding would be alleviated if the river were dredged, the dikes leveled and a concrete retaining wall constructed.

"This time we have flood insurance, but how long can you take it?" he asked.

One person who has "taken it" for 20 years is Mrs. J. B. Harrington of 15 Kenilworth Ave. Five feet of water filled the Warrington basement and three feet reached the first-floor solarium. On Friday the house was still without heat or electricity.

"This has happened a number of times, but it gets worse each time. We've been here so long that we've just put up with it, but it's a terrible nuisance," said Mrs. Warrington.

Not all residents of the flood area suffered losses. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson of 308 Edgar Ave., who during three years of residence here have learned not to keep anything of value in their basement. Despite the fact that Mr. Nelson and his wife, their three children and cat were evacuated at 10 p.m. Wednesday, Mr. Nelson spoke calmly about the flood.

"There really is no way of preventing a flood unless you tear down the houses that have been built in the flood plain. You have to live with it," he said.

200 Flee Rising Water

Police Chief Matthew Haney said the police and fire departments were ordered on alert at 5 p.m. Wednesday and by 7 p.m. the entire forces were called in for rescue work. Evacuation of the Riverside Dr. and Balmiere Parkway areas, which were under water early in the evening, began at 8:45 p.m. with the police and fire men manning eight boats.

Chief Haney ordered the evacuation of all houses in the flood-prone area at 10:30 p.m. when the river had risen to within five inches of the top of the dike. He noted there were some refusals from residents who decided to weather the storm in their homes.

By midnight the river had overflowed its banks at the intersection of Lincoln Ave. and High St. A half hour later the river spilled over the dike at Riverside Dr., also causing a break at Henley Ave.

According to police reports, the river crested in Millburn around midnight, at 5:45 a.m. in Springfield and at approximately 7 a.m. in Cranford.

Two gas leaks, at Balmiere Rd. and Springfield and along Henley Ave., were discovered during the emergency and the gas company was notified to make repairs. Additional pumps to supplement the municipal equipment were received from Thomas Gallagher of the Humble Oil Co. who also dispatched personnel to man a large pump. Other pumps were supplied by Holt Machinery.

During Wednesday night, police and fire personnel continued to pump out cellars and ferry residents to their homes as the water subsided. However, some residents were not able to return until Thursday evening.

Chief Haney reported that his department answered 101 calls for assistance during the emergency. The chief commended the police and fire departments, calling their rescue efforts the "most efficient I have seen." The chief also commended residents who supplied boats for rescue work and helped municipal employes meet the emergency.

Fire Chief Bernard Fleming reports his department responded to 232 calls for assistance during the emergency. He reports his department pumped out 70 cellars which amounted to 258 man-hours of pumping time. The department answered 13 fire alarms from Wednesday through Friday. Eight of the alarms came on Wednesday.

Chief Haney said he intended to recommend certain citizens to the Township Committee for commendation for their voluntary efforts.

A Brief Review of Floods

A review of recent flooding and the attempts at controlling the Rahway River begins in 1968 when a rainstorm effected the area and causing widespread damage in Cranford and other basin communities.

As a result of this flood, the Army Corps of Engineers began an in-depth study of the Rahway River basin that will provide a basin-wide flood control project.

Also in the wake of the 1968 storm, federally funded flood insurance became available and Cranford was one of the first communities in New Jersey to be declared eligible.

In 1971 the Union County Planning Board received a storm drainage and flood control plan for Union County from a consulting engineering firm, Killam Associates of Millburn. In the section of the report on Cranford, the consultant recommended the removal of Hansel's dam and the construction of an inflatable obstruction, a deepening and widening of the channel from North Union Ave. to the Springfield Ave. bridge, a new river channel to eliminate the bend in the river at McConnell Park; and the improvement of the channel from Springfield Ave. to Kensington Ave. to include concrete lining. This project was estimated at $2,200,000. To date no action on this plan or the report has been taken.

Tropical storm Doria ravaged Cranford in August of 1971 causing damage similar to the 1968 storm. In the wake of this disaster, Cranford's officials called for the establishment of a Rahway River Flood Control Commission and arranged a meeting of municipal committeemen and representatives with the Engineer Corps, state and federal officials. It was learned that the long-range study was scheduled for completion in 1976 and actual work on a project to begin after that date.

Local officials also requested the county to repair the dikes, to eliminate the arches in the High St. bridge and to construct a retaining wall north of Kenilworth Blvd.

During 1972 several meetings were held with basin communities in an effort to establish the river commission. A group of Cranford, residents also formed the Flood Action Committee and area residents established a Rahway River Environmental Commission.

Cranford this year attempted to purchase five tracts of property under the Green Acres and Legacy of Parks programs. Our reason was to insure that these lands could be used for water retention purposes. Public opposition to the acquisition forced local officials to withdraw the plans.

In recent months the Cranford Planning Board began work on a flood plain control ordinance that is required to maintain eligibility for flood insurance.

At the same time the New Jersey legislature continued its debate on a statewide flood plain control law.

This summer the Township Committee began discussions with engineering consultants in an attempt to pinpoint what projects could be undertaken by the community that would fit into basin-wide project.

During last week's storm, Cranford officials again called for a speedy establishment of the Rahway River Flood Control Commission and an ordinance prohibiting construction, a membership in the commission is expected.

The Flood Action Committee has asked for a grand jury investigation of the Board of Freeholders and Park Commission to determine whether the two boards are guilty of malfeasance in the matter of repairing the dikes in Cranford.

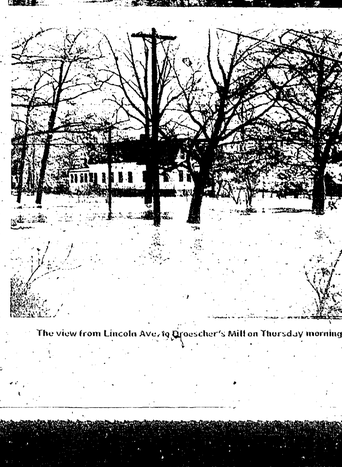

Assemblyman C. Louis Bassano this week introduced a bill in the legislature that calls for the creation of a Rahway River Authority, appointed by the governor, that would have full control over development, preservation of the environment, and flood control along the Rahway River.

Meeting on Police Salaries

GARWOOD — Borough Council will hold a special public meeting Monday, November 20, at 8:30 in Council chambers to introduce a salary ordinance for Borough policemen following many months of negotiations between Council and the PBA local.

In announcing the special meeting at the regular Council meeting Monday evening, Mayor John J. McCarthy said an agreement had been reached between Council and the PBA at a negotiation session November 3 but that too many questions were left unsure for Council to take action at this week's meeting.

The mayor explained that following the November 3 agreement, the attorney for the PBA, Anthony Rinaldo, agreed to gather facts to present to the Borough attorney, Robert Sheldon, so that a contract could be ratified and an ordinance prepared.

Mayor McCarthy charged Mr. Rinaldo with a "lack of communication" and said a letter from the attorney had been received the morning of November 13, the day of the Council meeting.

During the communication was "loosely put together" and having "too many loose agreements to be sound policy," the mayor announced the councilmen unanimously agreed to postpone action.

Mayor McCarthy said another special meeting would be called December 4 to conduct a public hearing. He explained the special meetings were necessary so the ordinance could be advertised legally for 20 days before taking effect, bringing the effective date to Christmas Eve.

"We are going right down to the maximum time to institute it," the mayor declared.

Policy Commissioner Frank Spera said the agreement was a package settlement for 1972 and 1973.

PBA had asked for an increase of $7,000 over last year's average salary of $9,310. Council adopted an ordinance for January granting a $515 increase in compliance with 5.5 percent federal guidelines. The PBA local had requested the state Public Employee Relations Commission to assign a mediator in June.

Action Requested On Flood Control

KENILWORTH — A resolution supporting a request that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers develop a master plan for flood control in Union County was passed Tuesday night by Borough Council.

The council said it agrees with a resolution adopted by the Union County Board of Freeholders calling for creation of the master plan. Copies of the Kenilworth resolution are being sent to the Flood Control commission, Governor Cahill and all Union County municipalities.

Councilman Frederick Soos, public works chairman, reported that the Borough "fared quite well" during the heavy rainfall last Wednesday, although neighboring Cranford was severely flooded. Mr. Soos noted, however, that several cellars were flooded in the Borough and had to be pumped out by the fire department.

On the same subject, Mayor William E. Conrad Jr. warned that the Borough will take action "against homeowners who elevate their property in a way that causes flooding of a neighbor's property.

"Very often it gets to be a spite situation. We're going to start cracking down on this now," the mayor said.

In other actions, the council passed on first reading an ordinance that would fix a time limit of a year on the use of variances. At present, there is no limit on the time that a variance may be used.

Council authorized purchase of a fire engine from the Hahn Co. of Newark on its low bid of $40, 50, and purchase of a back-hoe from Case Power and Equipment Co. of Little Ferry on its low bid of $7,000.

A resolution was passed asking the state to conduct a recreation survey in Kenilworth.

James E. O'Brien, Kenilworth's representative on the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority, was appointed to the local Conservation Commission.

In reply to a resident's complaint about slow leaf pickup, Councilman Soos said the public works department is doing the best it can in the face of poor weather conditions.

"The weather has been against us, and the leaves all came down at one time. I know it's a problem, but for a while we'll have to live with it," he said.

NEEDLE WORK — Joseph Dvorsky receives flu vaccine from Dr. Edmund A. Jones, president of the Kenilworth Board of Health, which sponsored free clinic for senior citizens on October 17 and November 3. Assisting the physician is Anne Marie Griffin, nurse from the Visiting Nurse and Health Services. Health Board Secretary Michael Iazzetta reported that 175 persons were vaccinated during the two-day clinic, the largest number since the program was initiated.

Need Truck for Recycling

GARWOOD — Mayor John J. McCarthy asked for a volunteer willing to donate a truck one Saturday a month to assist in the Borough recycling program, at the Borough Council meeting Monday evening.

He said the Borough was losing money in the ecology drive by having to arrange with private contractors to remove the material collected. Presently the Borough trucks are occupied picking up leaves.

The mayor noted the contribution made by local organizations and school children and asked anyone interested in donating the use of his truck once a month to contact Borough clerk A. M. Mosca.

Councilman Charles Horbacz said he anticipated a recycling day this Saturday depending on the availability of trucks.

In other matters, Councilman John J. Gallagher, chairman of streets and roads announced there would be only one garbage pick-up next week because of Thanksgiving. Garbage on the north side will be collected on Monday, November 20 and on the south side on Tuesday, November 21.

He asked residents to be patient with leaf collections. Citing limited manpower, Councilman Gallagher said if weather permits, men will collect leaves Saturday.

Councilman Horbacz, chairman of the Special Committee on the Magnus Building, announced a meeting Tuesday, November 21 with the architect to review preliminary plans.

The Borough will receive $1,395 from the state for a highway safety project grant as reimbursement for radar equipment.

Mayor McCarthy commended members of the Fire Department, Police Department and Streets and Roads for their efforts in last week's storm. He said all available pumps were used in homes until 3 a.m.

Council adopted a resolution asking public agencies of the Borough, local and regional Boards of Education and the Freeholders to use revenue sharing funds to stabilize the tax rate by applying funds to existing programs and not to implement new, inflationary programs.

CD Grant Awarded

KENILWORTH — Civil Defense Director Edward J. Metzner reported at a staff meeting that the Borough has received another check from the State Office of Civil Defense in the amount of $164.56.

This is for reimbursement for one-half of Kenilworth's Civil Defense personnel and administrative costs for April, May and June.

The borough has now been reimbursed a total of $636.72 for fiscal 1972.

Director Metzner also reported that Radio Officer Walter Caldwell and former Radio Officer Ralph Kirchberger, with the assistance of the Fire Reserves, recently completed installation of three new radio antennae on the roof of Harding School. These antennae will provide better short wave radio contact with local and Union County Civil Defense units in time of emergency.

William Gray

GARWOOD — William Gray of Cranford was installed as grand knight of Council 5437, Knights of Columbus, at a recent meeting. Rev. John A. McHale, council chaplain, celebrated the installation mass, and Walter Wasowski, district deputy, officiated as the installing officer.

Other officers installed were: Deputy grand Knight, Michael Galluci; chancellor, Alfred Sicko; warder, Michael McQuade; recorder, John Salvado; treasurer, John McCarthy; advocate, Joseph Perubsky; inside guard, Dennis McCarthy, and outside guard, James Liden.

A reception followed the ceremonies in the K of C club house.

Santa Day Scheduled By Garwood Jaycees

GARWOOD — The Garwood Jaycees announced this week plans to conduct the fifth annual Santa Day parade on Sunday, December 17, at 1 p.m.

The purpose of Santa's visit is to collect toys for mentally retarded children at the state schools. After the parade Santa will be available to meet the children, and collect the toys to be donated to the schools. A float competition will also be held for the floats in the parade and awards will be given to the float which best expresses the spirit of Christmas. Any organization or individual is invited to enter the competition.

The parade route will start from Washington School and proceed to the Garwood Post Office where Santa will pick up letters the children have mailed him. Santa and his friends will then march to Lincoln School. A location for the children to meet Santa will be announced at a later date.

Recycling Set

GARWOOD — Recycling in Garwood this month will be held Saturday, from 9 a.m. until noon.

Residents should bring clean glass with metal rings off, cans with bottoms and tops removed, placed inside cans and flattened, and tied newspapers to the Magnus Building parking lot on South Ave.

Oriental Setting For Student Play

KENILWORTH — "Tea house of the August Moon" will bring a touch of the Orient to the stage of David Brearley Regional High School tomorrow and Saturday. Curtain time for both performances is 8 p.m.

The play, under the direction of Mrs. Terry Metz, assisted by student director Hanne Ries, centers around post-war Okinawa during the American occupation following World War II. Captain Fisby (Keith Schafer) is put in charge of the recovery program of Tobiki where he receives many gifts, including a geisha girl (Shirley Boyden), and "assistance" from Sakini (Jeff Payne), his Okinawan interpreter.

Fisby's orders state that he must build a schoolhouse, pentagon-shaped, and deliver daily speeches on democracy to the villagers. When he has to find an industry to speed up the recovery program, his choice is bootlegging. As the play progresses, Fisby becomes more and more native, wearing a straw hat and a kimono (bathrobe) instead of his uniform.

Other cast members are Wendy Baber, Terri Barbella, Lauren Capaldo, Brian Carroll, Gary Castillo, Doug Ethridge, Donna Ferrante, Jerry Forman, Kevin Fuentes, Vernon Geck, Rose Genova, Andy Hoydich, John Kiriakatis, Wendy Knudson, Linda Koenig, Karen Kosky, Dave Kossor, Steve Kotch, Ed McNamara, Patti Russell, Mike Savorgianakis, Susan Welch and Audrey Williams.

Backstage workers handling with the production are Mr. Ray Johnson, stage manager; Miss Lucinda Sawtick, set design; Miss Ellen Prete, choreography; Mrs. Harriet Kornahrl, sprops; Mrs. Claudia Quinn, costumes; Mrs. Doris Rockoff, makeup; Mrs. Sharon Potter, programs, and Miss Marion Parsiew, tickets.

Each child who attends the show will bring Christmas candy or a gift, which will be given to a child at the Woodbridge State School or the Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside.

The animals are owned and trained by Frank McSweeney of Roselle, a part-time bus driver for the school.

Church Plans Annual Fair

KENILWORTH — "Islands in the Sun" is the theme for the annual bazaar of Community United Methodist Church tomorrow and Saturday.

Explain Bureau

Lincoln and Sherman Schools PTA's sponsored a school safety family night November 15 in the board room of Lincoln School.

Sergeant Donald Curry and officer Leonard Miller explained the goals and functions of the new youth relations bureau of the Cranford Police Department.

Lodge Aids Recycling

Chairman of Community Affairs, Herb Mason, has announced plans for local B'nai B'rith to man the Cranford Recycling Center one Sunday of each month.

The Cranford Lodge will participate by helping to clear up the backlog of glass bottles that accumulates between the center's Saturday openings.

While the Recycling Center stresses the deposit of bottles and metal cans only on the Saturday's that the Center is open, many residents still drop off material when it is closed. It is hoped that by encouraging community participation on "off" weekends, the backlog of material can be better controlled.

B'nai B'rith members, including most members of its board of directors, have undertaken this project under its program of community affairs.

Watershed Discussion Planned Here Nov. 30

Rahway River Environmental Coalition members and the general public are invited to attend a watershed management meeting Thursday, November 30 at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the Municipal Building.

Speakers will include Alfred Linden, director of the Union County Planning Board, and Peter W. Larsen, executive director of the Upper Raritan Watershed Association. This is the first in a series of planned informative programs.

The Rahway River Environmental Coalition is urging intensified regional flood control efforts and how members can participate will be discussed at the next general meeting Tuesday, November 21 at the National State Bank, Morris and Linden Avenues, Springfield at 8 p.m.

Spokesmen of the coalition believe that this last flood shows how important it is to join the newly-organized Rahway River Drainage Authority, a joint commission of municipalities, who would underwrite costs of consulting engineers, ownership of river dredging equipment for regular maintenance, policing the river for encroachments and pollution along the 60 miles of waterway from Verona to the Arthur Kill. Support for the flood plain bill, number 572, is also urged.

More information about the coalition may be obtained from Mrs. S. Cedervall of 531 Central Ave., Rahway.

Cyclist Injured

An 11-year-old Cranford cyclist, Marilyn Proute of 21 Cornell Rd., suffered a bruised jaw and face laceration Sunday evening when she collided with an automobile driven by Frank J. Sowa of 9 Beseler Pl. on Brookside Pl.

The youth was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where she received treatment.

According to the police report, Mr. Sowa was traveling west on Brookside Pl. when the cyclist, who was riding without a light and on the wrong side of the road according to police, suddenly swerved into the path of the car.

No summons was issued but police have announced a truck patrol has been started in an attempt to reduce the number of cyclists riding at night without lights. The bicycles of people who are found in violation of the traffic and safety laws will be confiscated and returned after a $3 fine is paid.

To Review Pinter Play

Antique fans will be the subject of the first meeting of the antiques department of the Wednesday Morning Club to be held on Monday, November 20, at 12:30 p.m. Mrs. L.G. Taylor, chairman, will give the program at her home, 113 Mohawk Dr. with Mrs. H.E. Young as co-hostess.

The play, "Old Times," by Harold Pinter will be reviewed by Mrs. A.B. Mirante at the drama department meeting on Tuesday, November 21 at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. D.A. Rudkin, 217 Oak La., with Mrs. M.A. Craig assisting.

Burlap candle wreaths will be made by the American home department members on Monday, November 27.

This holiday season give Windsor Canadian instead of your usual whisky gift. Windsor is the only Canadian made exclusively with Canadian grain, with water from glacier-fed springs, and aged in the dry mountain air of the Rockies.

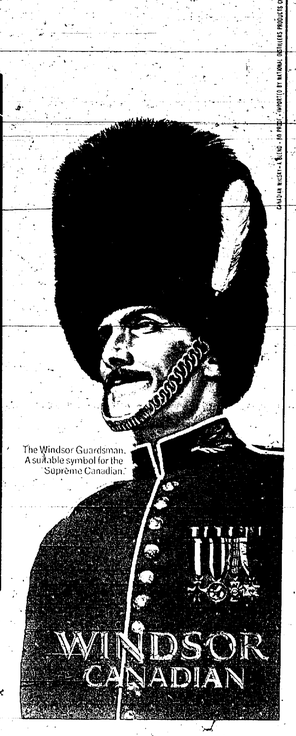

Surprise yourself at Christmas by making your favorite whisky drinks with Windsor instead of your usual domestic whisky. It makes a marvelous difference.

WINDSOR Supreme CANADIAN Whisky
Give Windsor instead. It's Canada's smoothest whisky, and the price is very remarkable. Get Windsor available in fifth, quarter-gallon sizes.

The smoothest gift to come out of Canada.

Mrs. Charles Speaks At Rotary Meeting

Mrs. Rosemary Charles, president of the Joint Civic Committee candidate for the Board of Education, was the featured speaker at the Rotary Club's weekly luncheon meeting last Thursday at the Coachman Inn.

She explained to the membership some new constitutional provisions of the committee; among them liberalized standards for admission to the Joint Committee. Under these provisions, the Church Women United and the Board of Realtors have been accepted as members. Another policy change she said, is the public screening of candidates for the Board of Education, although the public is not permitted to participate in the proceedings.

The speaker said this year's proposals of candidates must be made by November 24. At the December 5 meeting the committee will review the proposals and on December 11, the public screening will be held at Hillside Avenue Junior High School. She said that all candidates must be prepared to spend $200 for fliers and publicity.

They will be given an opportunity for a five-minute statement to be followed by an additional 10 minutes of questioning by the committee. Candidates must have been residents for two years, be 21 years of age and have no business interest in the board. The decision of the committee on sponsorship of candidates follows a review of the screening.

In answer to questions from the membership, Mrs. Charles stated that organizations wishing to join the committee must be civic in nature and must submit their by-laws to the membership committee for review. She said the by-laws of the Joint Committee say nothing about the size of the membership of the organization applying for membership.

The speaker urged all to take an interest in school problems and to attend the monthly public board meetings. She indicated that if a group has favorite candidates, it has been accepted policy for that group to support its candidates.

Mrs. Charles was introduced by Marvin Kaplan, chairman of the club's scholarship committee. The meeting was conducted by the club's president, Dr. Edward M. Coe.

Filing Date November 24

Mrs. Arleen Walsh, member of the Board of Education, spoke this Monday to a meeting of the Joint Civic Committee for encouraging qualified candidates to run for the board.

She presented her views on the responsibilities of a board member declaring, "We are elected to be the linkage between community and schools, guide our schools in the overall view to advise and help with new ideas."

The candidates committee reported that the deadline for applications of candidates to be screened by the JCC is November 24. Applications may be mailed to Marvin Kaplan, 10 Connecticut Ave.

The public is invited to attend a public screening of candidates on December 11 at Hillside Avenue Junior High School cafeteria at 8 p.m.

Holiday Fair Nov.24,25 At St. Michael's School

On Friday and Saturday of Thanksgiving weekend, St. Michael's Church will celebrate its centennial year at the "Happy Holiday Fair." Msgr. John F. Davis, pastor, has invited the Cranford community to share the activities in the parish school on both days from 2 to 11 p.m.

This event represents ten months of preparation by a large committee under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Phil Henehan and Dr. Edward M. Coe. Hundreds of parishioners have donated materials, talent and skill to produce a variety of features for the enjoyment of participants of all ages.

Games of skill and chance have been planned by Edward Quinn and Walter Wasowski, with Mr. and Mrs. Constant Maffey arranging special games for children. William Powers has recruited CYO members for assistance with the children.

Mrs. Edward Galvin and Edward Burke are planning a wide selection of refreshments, which will be served by young adults and members of the Knights of Columbus.

Sales booths will offer many unusual articles at low prices for Christmas shoppers. Novelties of original design and specimens of needlework and other crafts have been created and contributed such as afghans, ponchos, belts, hats, crewel and decoupage. Kitchen delicacies will also be available.

Mrs. Thomas Dooley has been assisted by Mrs. Patrick Callaghan in planning these booths and assigning many workers under the following chairmen: country fair (home furnishings and equipment), Mrs. Edward Quinn; boutique (personal and fashion items), Mrs. John Tuttle Jr.; needlework, Mrs. Eugene Walsh and Mrs. James Stine; Christmas Shoppe, Mrs. Frank Dooley.

Bake shop (homemade jams, bread, cookies, etc.), Mrs. Harry Barnum Jr. and Mrs. Joseph Freed; nearly new shop, Mrs. Donald Smith; Post Office (mystery packages mailed by relatives of school children), Mrs. Joseph Mueller; and children's shop (articles for youngsters' Christmas shopping at prices they can afford), Mrs. James McNamara and Mrs. Louis Zani.

James McGovern is serving as treasurer, assisted by Ray Azar and Ray Miller.

Six Join Rosarians

New members welcomed to the Rosary Society at St. Michael's Church at the October meeting were: Mrs. Nancy Madsen, Mrs. Vicky Tannelli, Mrs. Yolanda Collalto, Mrs. Phyllis Dandrow, Mrs. Carolyn Perdek and Mrs. Sophie Di Tullio.

A cash donation from the society to the Mt. Carmel Guild Christmas project was announced by Mrs. John Pfanne, president.

A good-will basket has been placed inside the foyer between the rectory and the church to receive canned foods for the welfare program being conducted as a civic project by Mrs. Clara Venneri and Mrs. T. J. Gallagher.

Preparations for the Golden Age luncheon on Friday December 8, to be held in St. Michael's School dining room are in progress. Mrs. David Montgomery, Mrs. James Hill and Mrs. Edward Burke of the interfaith relations committee will appreciate the participation of anyone interested.

Rainy Day Blues

By Murray Blinder

If the Cranford High School football team has learned anything from this almost completed football season it is that they can not win in the rain. Three games have been played in the rain and five in the sunshine, the team's record is 5-3.

The latest rainy defeat came at the hands of Scotch Plains on Saturday. Both the Cougars and the Raiders are good teams with Scotch Plains given the slight edge because of a superior running game. Their running game, however, was held in check by the Cougar defense on all but two plays. Those two plays were runs of 66 and 65 yards for touchdowns as the Raiders won the ball game by that margin, 14-0.

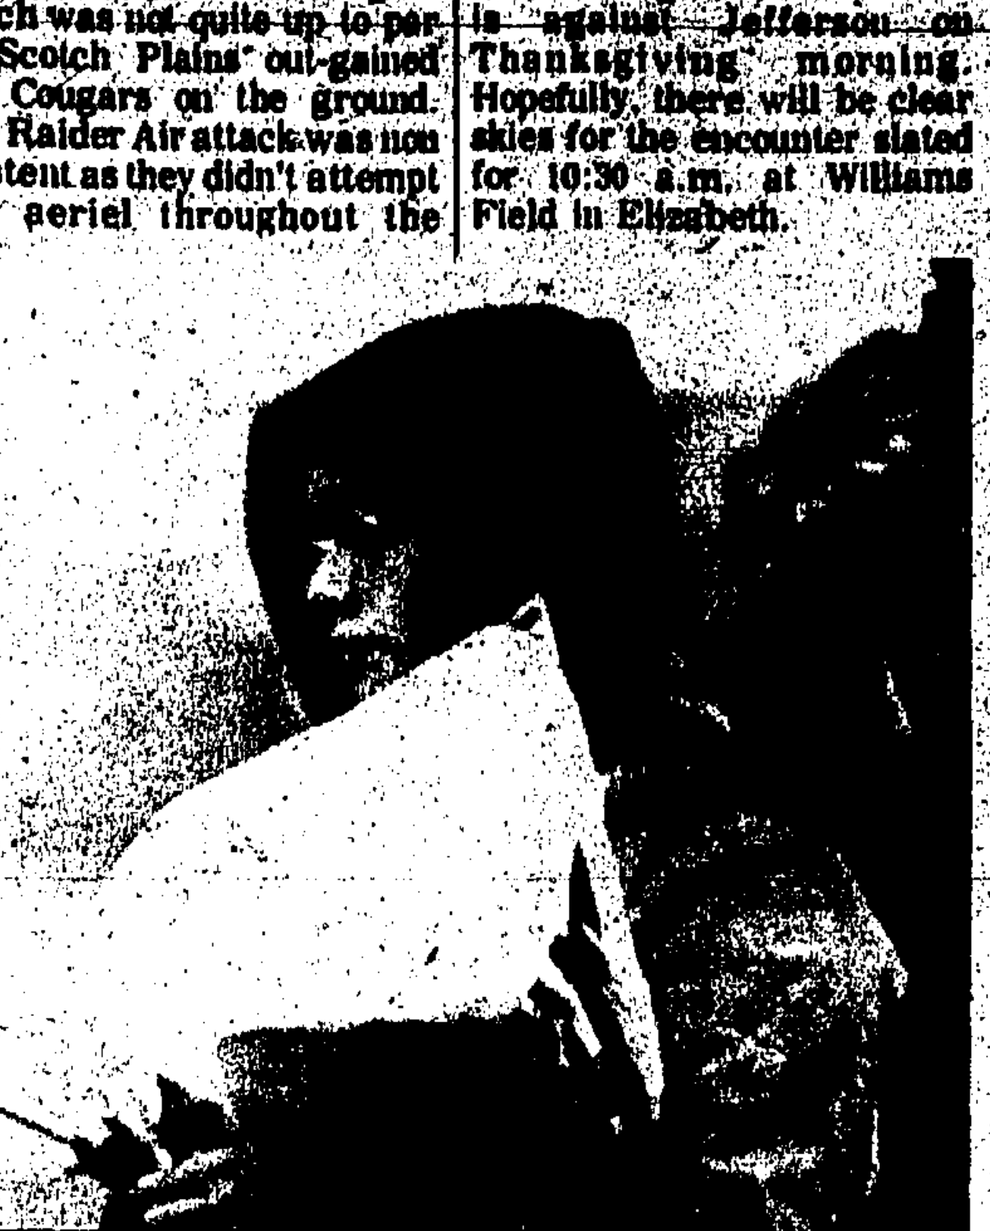

Neither team could get much offense going in the first half. The closest penetration was to the Scotch Plains 14 yard line by the Cougars where a field goal attempt on fourth down was blocked by the Raider defense. The Cranford defense was strong also, not letting the Raiders within the 26 yard line.

In the second half the pattern continued as a combination of unsure footing due to the rain and strong defenses kept both teams from penetrating. Two long dashes down the sidelines provided enough offense for Scotch Plains.

The Cougars were not lacking opportunities in the second half as Gary DeLonge got his passing game into gear. With Bill Svihra, Jerry Haney and Jeff Newman doing the bulk of the receiving Cranford moved into scoring position twice but both drives faltered on fourth down.

Steve Leonard led the ground game for the Cougars which was not quite up to par as Scotch Plains out-gained the Cougars on the ground. The Raider Air attack was non existent as they didn't attempt one aerial throughout the entire game.

The final game of the season is against Jefferson on Thanksgiving morning. Hopefully, there will be clear skies for the encounter slated for 10:30 a.m. at Williams Field in Elizabeth.

A DREARY DAY — Sue Ettleman is the Cougar football team manager but there have been brighter Saturdays for her and the team. In last weekend's rain Sue watched the local gridders fall to Scotch Plains, 14-0.

IN A FOG — As the fog runs in and time runs out, Cougar Coach Norm Koury talks over the final plays with his quarterback, Gary DeLonge.

Environment Topic For Junior Women

Mrs. Phyllis Quain of PEP will be the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Cranford Junior Women's Club of the Village Improvement Association on November 21 at the City Federal Savings Bank at 8:15 p.m. Cranford's environmental problems will be discussed.

On November 4 glass collections at the Cranford recycling center were monitored by the Juniors and also on November 18. Mrs. Paul Krugh is chairman of this project.

All the trimmings for a Thanksgiving basket will be presented to a family in Cranford by the social service department headed by Mrs. Robert Graham and Mrs. Timothy Jones.

A workshop will be held during the first week of December at the home of Mrs. Albert Michaels, American home department chairman. At this time Christmas corsages and boutonnieres will be made for patients at the Extended Health and Care Center.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Salvatore Accardi, Mrs. John Burke and Mrs. John Regenthal.

Kenilworth Falls

By Tom Schetelich

The Cranford varsity soccer team closed out their 1972 season with a shutout victory over Kenilworth, 1-0, and a score-less tie against Colonia. Coach Ray Ward and young squad ended the campaign with a five wins, eight losses, and two ties, three wins better than last year and five more than two years ago.

Bill Moleney picked up the winning goal in the next-to-last-game. Dave Hicks started his first game of the year as goalie and combined with fine fullback and halfback play to register the second shutout of the year.

Hicks again was in the nets and again came up with a shutout effort in the last contest against Colonia. The Cougars controlled the game but could not break into the scoring column.

Looking back on the season it can only be judged a success. Of their eight losses three, Union, Westfield, and Hillside, were decided by one goal in the final moments.

Next season the team will see the entire front line of Dan More, Bill Moleney, Gino Labbate and Jim Sarknowski return. The toll of graduation will be greater on the defense, which played well all season. Gary Coleman, Mike McNally, and Stu Yaguda along with starting goalie Steve Salton and halfback J. D. Lancaster have played their last game as a member of the Cranford varsity.

Plan Trophy For Grid Star

Paul J. Spanton, president of the Cranford Democratic Club, announced the club will present its annual Most Valuable Player trophy again this year to the member of the Cranford High School football team who is judged to be the most valuable player in the Thanksgiving Day game against Jefferson High School. The panel of judges are Murray Greenspan, Kenneth Klein and Edward Iwanski.

Plan Teen Cage League

Registration for the Cranford Recreation Department's teen basketball league is presently being taken at the Cranford Community Center.

The league is open to 11th and 12th grade boys living in Cranford. League play will be held Thursday evenings at Orange Avenue Junior High School.

Clippers End with Sweep

The Clippers trounced the Clark Crusaders in their final games of the regular season with impressive wins in all three divisions.

In a hotly contested midget game the Clippers came off the field with a shutout win, 13-0, and a 5-4 record for the season. The Clippers got their first score in the second period on a 32 yard pass completion, Billy Thompson to Eric Tarver. The extra point attempt was missed. In the final seconds of the fourth period, Eric Tarver intercepted a Clark pass deep in Clark territory setting up a handoff from Thompson to David Rhaods on the Clark three for another score. Eric Tarver converted the extra point and Cranford had the win. The outstanding Clipper defense came up with their second shut-out performance of the season.

The Pee Wee contest was a strong performance by the Clippers who won it 18-7 ending their season with a 6-2-1 record. The Clippers scored first on a one yard run by Pat Garrett after Ray Dente picked off a Crusader pass on their 17 and ran it back to the Clark one. The Clippers scored again in the third period on an 11 yard touchdown jaunt by Mike Morley. The last score for Cranford came on a Brian Bradford 19 yard carry into the end zone. The stingy Clipper defense allowed Clark only one touchdown seconds before the final whistle.

The Cranford Bandits also turned in a gem defeating Clark 20-0 and winding up their year with a 6-3 record. John Perdek intercepted a Clark pass early in the first period deep in Clark territory. Four plays later Larry Watson burst in from the Crusader three yard line for the score. Watson also converted the extra point on a quarterback keeper. Early in the second period Steve Lisner got Cranford on the score board agaoin with a 21 yard gallop to pay dirt. Larry Watson converted his second point after the game. The final score of the contest came on a 51 yard scamper by Steve Lisner, his second touchdown of the afternoon.

The Bandit shutout defense picked-off two Clark passes and recovered two Crusader fumbles to stall Clark drives. All three Clipper teams completed the regular season with winning records. The Clipper Midgets and Pee Wees will play a post season "Turkey Bowl" game at Linden this Sunday for their last contest of the 1972 season.

Blinder Receives Mini-Grant

Morey A. Blinder, a student at Cranford High School, is one of 80 New Jersey students named by Newark College of Engineering's Sigma Xi Club to receive a "mini grant" this fall for a research project.

Morey's project will be an investigation into the basic vitamins, their effects and uses.

The "mini-grants" are sums of $25 to $50 to support outstanding high school level research projects. The awards are made on a "no strings attached basis," meaning the recipients do not have to make a strict accounting of their expenditures or provide the organization with any detailed results of the work. A simple report is expected at the end of the school year.

Following enthusiastic responses from students and teachers to last year's initial program, the club has decided to continue the grant program on a regular basis. It is the only one of its kind in the country.

Haney Urges Drivers To Winterize Autos

Cranford's Chief of Police, Clarence T. Haney, recently reminded area motorists that "Don't let mild fall weather fool you. It's time right now to take a look at your car with an eye for winter safety."

The Police Department is beginning its program of preparing department and emergency vehicles for treacherous winter duty. The chief is convinced, from past traffic tie-ups, that every motorist should also prepare his car now for winter's deadly tricks.

Chief Haney said that department mechanics use a check-list recommended by the International Association of Chiefs of Police in winterizing its cars. He suggested that area citizens also use this basic checklist.

Engine tune-up - Inspect the battery, generator and electrical systems for dependable starts and to avoid stalls in severe weather.

Anti-freeze - Most "permanent" anti-freezes should be replaced every two years. Check and replace if necessary.

Brakes - Check to be sure they are adjusted properly. Poorly adjusted or grabbing brakes will throw you into a skid on slippery pavements.

Exhaust - Carbon monoxide kills. Be sure your exhaust system is tight.

Lights - Be sure all lights on your car are in perfect working order. Clean all lenses frequently so you can see and be seen.

Windshield - Defroster must be able to clear the glass of ice and fog quickly. Dead streaking wiper blades must be replaced. Windshield washers need a proper mix of anti-freeze and cleaner to prevent icing when the solution is squirted onto glass.

Tires - Good tread is essential to grip snow and ice. Snow tires provide better traction in snow than regular highway tires, but neither snow tires nor radial tires are of much help on ice. For icy conditions, studded snow tires are recommended on all four wheels. However, reinforced tire chains are best for both deep snow and glare ice conditions. Add a pair to your emergency kit.

The chief also said, "No matter how good equipment may be, it is still the driver's responsibility to know how to drive in winter conditions. Many drivers equip the rear wheels of their car with traction aids -- snow tires, studded tires and tire chains -- and then go out and try to drive as they would on dry pavement."

With the front wheels "unaided," they're likely to skid out on a turn. The driver has lost his steering ability, according to the chief, and realizes too late he has no control even with plenty of driving traction on the rear wheels.

Santa Claus Is Booked For Personal Appearances

Today's youngsters are more apt to associate Santa Claus with a helicopter than with a sled. Which is just as well, since the jolly old gentleman will make his first appearance in the area stepping from his flying machine at Saks Fifth Avenue, Springfield, today. Wednesday he is scheduled to land at 4 p.m.

Shunning such new-fangled notions as planes, Santa will arrive by undisclosed means at Lord & Taylor, Millburn, on Friday, where he will be available for consultation in the childrens' department on the lower level, from 10 to 5 p.m. daily.

In his own mysterious way, Santa Claus will arrive the same day at the Mall in Short Hills.

Where Santa has landed by helicopter in the past, this year WOR's fearless Fred Feldman will be at the controls of helicopter 710 when Santa puts down at 11 a.m. on Friday. Both Fred and Santa will greet visitors awaiting their arrival in the Mall's upper level parking area.

Once on terra firma, Santa will take up residence in a plush, new Santa's Palace which has been constructed for the old gent's stay through Christmas. The indoor facility offers not only warmth and comfort for the little ones and their parents, but also affords the opportunity for color photos to be taken with Santa. Holiday gifts also will be offered without charge to each visitor to Santa's Palace.

Outside, the Mall will sparkle with color and light, provided by gala holiday decorations, topped off by a 37-foot shimmering gold tree. In the weeks approaching Christmas, local caroling groups will serenade Mall shoppers, on weekday evenings, and the Mall shops, of course, will glimmer with holiday delights.

Festive Fashions

Holiday partying fashions follow the season's trend toward the classics. But there are classics and classics.

The glamorous classicist bares it in a movie-star tradition with a sequinged "Chiara!" dress, see-through embroidered sheers or, body-conscious jersey gowns.

The conservative classicist wears the favorite separates in luxurious fabrics. The long evening dress teams with a sweater or fur-trimmed jacket to match. Flaring flare of chiffons, liquid chemises, smock gowns and the ever-present dolman sleeves, are evening beauties in lame or chiffon.

The short gown in black or brown lace, tulle or net is a winter winner as are long, knit gowns with metallic threads.

Most popular evening cover-ups are the velvet chubby and the poufed sweater-chubby.

No Problem!

With men growing more fashion conscious each year, the task of choosing wearing apparel for them becomes easier, too. The age-old choice of another tie or a different shirt ... anymore.

Jackets come in innumerable styles and weights. Leather is a top favorite. Whether cropped to the waist, at hip-length, they are in lined and unlined models. Vests, jean jackets, denim are other articles of apparel today's man will appreciate.

Sweaters were, and still are, a welcome gift. But today the styles are even more varied, ranging from turtle necks to sleeveless vests and offered in innumerable colors. Many of these days, are machine washable.

Even ties are more interesting to buy these days. Newest is the solid color knit tie with the square end. But the majority of ties are still the "skinny" and offered in innumerable patterns and colors.

Size Him Up

The wiser shopper checks on a man's size before buying him any article of wearing apparel. You may remember sizes from last year, but they may not be valid now. So for the store-bound snoop, here's what to look for.

Shirts – Both neck size and sleeve length are imprinted inside of the collar bands. A typical marking would be 15½-34 or 15½-4, meaning collar size 15 and one half inches, and sleeve length 34. Short-sleeved shirts carry no sleeve lengths.

Sport shirts — Knit ones especially are marked S, M, L, XL, ranging from small to extra large.

Slacks — Waist measurement may be found with a tape measure, going from the button or clasp around to the button-hole. Most slacks come in even sizes, ranging from 30 to 52 in or 50 inches. Inseams usually come in full inches ranging from 28 to 33.

PARTY PAIR — One of the holiday dress footwear fashions for men is the sleek Johnstone and Murphy model. Available at John Frank, 207 East Broad Street, Westfield.

Happy Shopping!

For those holiday parties slightly flared skirt. Topping the Stones, 44 Elm Street, it is a long sleeved jacket with Westfield, has a brown velvet, sable-dyed fox tuxedo collar, cap sleeved gown with short. It is priced at $345.

IT'S IN THE BAG — The perfect gift for the male or female golfer. The one shown is of white with colored leather trim and is available at the Short Hills Golf Center, 685 Morris Turnpike, Springfield.

For Santa, Sportsman

Even if he's an armchair athlete, Santa can be outfitted with some very special gifts, oriented to his appreciation of sports.

With daily pressures taking a toll on many Santa's "Yule Time Spirit," a novel gift might be to arrange a short vacation for him. Many resorts have special weekend package plans geared especially to sports.

Another suggestion might be to supply him with tickets to his favorite team's big game.

Of course, if he is a real practicing athlete, he might like additions to his sporting gear. Some careful detection will enable one to determine what he needs.

First of all check his present equipment. Usually, any self-appointed Sherlock Holmes can easily determine the condition of Santa's sporting gear.

As a rule of thumb, if the equipment is over three years old, chances are that he can probably use new gear.

One note of caution. If the equipment has to be custom made or sized, it might be better to wait till after Christmas for the actual purchase. In this case, kindly gift certificates, cleverly wrapped, allow Santa's helpers to gift him, yet let him select the correct item.

In any event, giving sporting equipment to that special man for Christmas can mean a more healthful, and happy Santa the whole year 'round.

Hobby

...'s nation of ... theme is ... brothers and ... and flying ... binoculars, for sighting at long distances (target and shooting a sharp telephoto picture at the same time. Another less costly camera is enclosed in a miniature "flying saucer," a protective covering for underwater photography.

Handcraft kits for any one with an interest or insipient interest might include those for needlepoint, quickpoint (needlepoint with thick yarn); bargello (a kind of free form needlepoint) or macrame (braiding and knotting of ropes).

THAT SPECIAL GIFT— A studio portrait is probably the most wanted of all holiday gifts. Sara Ruth's picture was taken by her father, proprietor of the Cranford Studio of Photography, 11 North Avenue, East, Cranford. His specialty is distinctive photography with a contemporary approach.

IF THERE'S A SCOUT ON YOUR LIST — Gift giving is easy if he's a Scout. Wyatt Brothers at 138 Central Avenue, Westfield has everything from A to Z that's listed in the Scout and Cub Gift Book.

'Theater' Is More Than A Building

(The following review was written by Anne Shuhan, publicity chairman for the Cranford Dramatic Club.)

The Cranford Dramatic Club began its 54th season of theater with the opening last Friday of Joseph Kesselring's comedy of murder, "Arsenic and Old Lace," directed by George Val Beer.

Cranford has come to expect a great deal from CDC, which states as its purpose "to produce and present plays of merit and stimulate community interest in amateur theater." Audiences will once more be pleased to see just what a fine job the local theater group can do.

The term "theater" can refer simply to a building, such as the one the Cranford Dramatic Club owns and performs in at 78 Winans Avenue. Having its own "home" is extremely important to a group such as CDC, enabling it to maintain a large amount of technical equipment and to carry on a full season of public performances and in-club theatrical training activity.

"Theater" is also an institution which one of the characters in "Arsenic and Old Lace," written in 1941, says can't last more than "a year or two." Some blame the crisis of the commercial theater on money, some on television.

Mortimer Brewster, a drama critic in "Arsenic" says, "...they say the critics are killing the theater. It's the playwrights who are killing the theater." Whatever the reason, it is certainly true that the professional commercial theater has been in trouble.

However, the same crisis has not reached the so-called "amateur theater," an institution based not on commercial gain but on dedication to an art form. The latin root of the word amateur means "to love." The term should not be taken to imply a quality judgment: a "professional" production can be excellent or terrible, the same is true of an amateur one.

The stimulating, unique experience of a live performance for those on either side of the footlights—those who act and those who watch—has kept amateur theater alive and well throughout this country, and certainly in Cranford. The Cranford Dramatic Club has frequently been able to obliterate the vague distinction between "professional" and "amateur" by placing particular emphasis on the quality of the plays it chooses to present and on the quality of the preparation that goes into them.

Plays are not chosen simply because they have box office appeal. Casting is done from within the club's membership. The director is not brought in from outside the group, but must first work within the club on non public productions before being given a major production to direct. This method guarantees that the director knows the members of his cast very well, and is aware of their potentials as well as their limitations even before rehearsals begin.

The 13 cast members of "Arsenic and Old Lace" represent varying degrees of stage experience and skill, but all have been carefully and thoughtfully directed and inspired by Mr. Beer, with a great deal of attention to details of characterization.

Their vehicle is a charming play of unlikely happenings in the household of the sweet old Brewster sisters. The focus of attention throughout the play is on these two charmers, and their casting couldn't have been better.

Barbara Florence as Abby and Lois George as Martha have the audience's sympathy on their side from the very beginning, as they try to find just one more gentleman to settle in their cellar graveyard. The two actresses present a nice contrast in personality and appearance, and have worked out their pottering, chattering characters to perfection.

The three Brewster nephews represent three shades of insanity. Teddy

164 Donate Blood Here

One hundred and sixty-four pints of blood were donated to the American Red Cross when the bloodmobile made its biannual visit to Cranford on Friday, November 17.

Sixty-six pints were donated by residents of the Cranford - Kenilworth - Garwood area and the rest were donated by various industrial and civic groups who arranged for group donations. Mrs. Herbert I. Mitchell, chairman of the blood program, reported that the roster included eighteen new donors.

Twenty-two Red Cross volunteers staffed the blood station and seven local registered nurses volunteered their services to take medical histories. This supplemented the regular group of professionals employed by the Greater New York Area blood program.

Special commendation was given to a Cadette Troop of Girl Scouts under the leadership of Mrs. E. H. Koenig who assisted in serving at the canteen from 3 p.m. until closing time. Their service was appreciated by the staff and the donors.

Planning Board To Air Flood Plain Regulation

A public presentation and discussion of a proposed flood plain control ordinance will be held at the December 6 meeting of the Planning Board at 8 p.m. Copies of the proposal, which must be forwarded to the Township Committee for approval or disapproval, will be available to the public starting Monday, November 27, at the clerk's office, Room 106, in the Municipal Building.

In another matter relating to the Planning Board, a group calling itself Neighbors of Union College has decided to retain legal assistance to help in understanding the ramifications of a proposed educational or university zone in the area of Union College. The group was formed November 14 when approximately 40 residents attended a meeting in the Community Center. It is composed of two representatives from each street in the college area.

Ted Spitz, a member of Neighbors of Union College, said legal assistance is necessary to help residents understand what the new zone would mean to them and to help with problems in keeping the neighborhood a residential area.

The Planning Board will conduct a public hearing on the educational zone ordinance at a future date.

Enactment of a flood plain ordinance is required to maintain federally funded flood insurance and requirements spelled out in the proposed ordinance incorporate regulations of the federal flood insurance program.

The purposes of the proposed ordinance are the prevention of loss of life, prevention of construction that would raise the level of flood waters, prevention of property damage, protection of public health, reduction of emergency expenditures involved in evacuation and restoration, prevention of damage to public transportation and utility systems, the removal of impediments to community growth caused by recurrent flooding and the prevention of further unwise development in unprotected flood plain areas.

The proposed ordinance requires that no building may be constructed, enlarged or expanded in any flood plain area unless a site plan is submitted to the Planning Board for review and approval.

Some of the information required for a site plan includes the proposed elevations of the land at the foundation corners, the extent of filling of land, the use of construction materials resistant to flood damage, and new or replacement water and sanitary sewage systems designed and located to prevent infiltration, breakage or contamination during flooding.

Any building or alterations in the flood hazard area must be in accordance with Township zoning ordinances and must meet the following conditions:

The lowest floor elevation, including basement, is one foot above the level of the flood hazard elevations shown on the Federal Insurance Administration Flood Hazard Boundary map; all utilities must be floodproofed at least up to the flood level on the map, and until the federal insurance administrator has specifically identified the floodway, no use, including landfill, may be permitted unless the applicant has shown that the proposed use will not increase the water surface during flooding by more than one foot at any point.

If the boundaries of the floodway, flood hazard or flood plain areas are in doubt, the proposal indicates, the Planning Board may require additional information based on visual inspections, flood records, field surveys and personal observation.

Petition Requests State Set Aside Agreement

A petition asking the New Jersey Department of Education to set aside the agreement and resolution which established a two-year contract between the Cranford School Board and Superintendent of Schools Vincent F. Sarnowski has been filed by Edmond Kiamie of 208 Retford Ave.

The petition, which was filed on November 9, argues that the agreement is illegal because the Cranford Board was acting without authority. Mr. Kiafhie contends that the agreement attempts to bind a future board to the decisions of the current board.

The agreement, which was announced last June, stipulates that Mr. Sarnowski will remain superintendent until June 1973. From that time until June 1974 he will remain in the school system as a member of the professional staff. The agreement says that Mr. Sarnowski will retire at the end of the 1973-74 school year.

Mr. Kiamie also maintains that the board's plan to hire a new superintendent for the 1973-74 term will be wasteful of taxpayers' money. According to the agreement, Mr. Sarnowski will be paid $29,500 for his final year of service. The board has said it expects to pay a new superintendent at least $30,000.

The Cranford board has until December 5 to respond to the petition filed by Mr. Kiamie according to a letter received by the board Monday from Joseph Zach, director of the Division of Controversies and Disputes for the State Department of Education.

School Board President Richard J. Alderson acknowledged the petition but offered no comment on Mr. Kiamie's action. He said the matter would be handled by the board's attorney.

The Board attorney, James J. Kervick, indicated he would respond to the petition by stating that the board was within its authority when it

Music Lovers Flock to Symphony

Murray Rose of 414 Orchard St. and Mrs. Beverly Ammann of 6 Central Ave. will be playing the piano a long time ago, but that didn't stop either from joining the Suburban Symphony, an organization of amateur and professional musicians.

Mr. Rose is president of the Suburban Symphony Society of New Jersey, which directs the activities of the Cranford-based orchestra, and Mrs. Ammann, a cellist, is one of 11 local residents who play in it. There are also members from among its members about 60 non-Cranford residents, including Lewis Goldberg of Goldberg's Men's Store and Robert Yurochko, band director at Cranford High School.

"You do it because you're interested in good music and you think the community deserves good music," Mr. Rose said in explaining the reasons for his work with the symphony. "Without the symphony, people would have to go to New York."

An engineer, Mr. Rose has been active in the group for about six years. While he never took up another instrument after being interested in the piano, he has always been a lover of classical music.

It was not as easy for Mrs. Ammann to drop the piano because her mother is a piano teacher, but she was one daughter who refused to follow in mother's footsteps.

"I hated it," she said of the piano.

Mrs. Ammann, who grew up in Maine, instead developed an interest in the clarinet, later switching to the cello. She has played with the Colby College Orchestra, the Portland Symphony and the Plainfield Symphony.

"It has become a way of life," she commented.

Music also plays an important role in the lives of her husband, Charles, who is treasurer of the Suburban Symphony Society, and their daughter, Julia, who was an oboist in the symphony for two years before entering the University of Delaware as a nursing major.

Mrs. Ammann, a full time social worker, is typical of most orchestra members in that she is not a professional musician.

"It is an amateur orchestra augmented by professionals," Mr. Rose explained. "We have one paid professional in each section to give the amateurs a sense of accomplishment."

The group rehearses every Tuesday night at either Union College or Hillside Avenue Junior High School under the direction of Henry Bloch of New York City. Mr. Bloch conducts tryouts for any prospective member.

Mr. Rose noted that the orchestra has "run the gamut of all kinds of music," and has not restricted itself to traditional classical pieces.

"We have performed music from 'Hair' and last year we offered a rock symphony for the Centennial celebration," he said. "We are geared to playing in the suburbs."

The symphony will present its next performance, the second of the season, on Sunday, December 10, at 3 p.m. at Hillside Avenue Junior High School. This will be the 12th annual free family concert. Other concerts will be held in March and May.

Besides the local performances, the orchestra has played to several audiences outside Cranford and has presented concerts for school children. Last summer it gave a free performance before 2,000 people at the Garden State Arts Center.

Flood Problem Stirs Residents

The Flood Action Committee of Cranford, Inc., a citizens' group formed last summer to work for the implementation of flood controls, has scheduled a meeting Wednesday, November 29, at 8 p.m. in the senior citizens room of the Community Center.

According to Mrs. Suzanne M. Nagle of 308 Riverside Dr., one of the organizers, the goal of the group is to actively seek comprehensive flood controls for Cranford.

"A lack of confidence in our elected and appointed officials to implement a solution to our flooding problem" led to the formation of the committee, Mrs. Nagle explained. Stressing that time is critical, Mrs. Nagle related that studies and plans have been made but since 1968 residents have sustained and anticipated more frequent and more severe flooding.

Residents interested in helping the committee to apply pressure at all levels of government are invited to the meeting, said Mrs. Nagle.

Flood control will be the main topic of discussion at the meeting which will take place on Thursday, November 30 at 8 p.m. at the Cranford Municipal Building, 8 Springfield Ave.

The meeting is sponsored by the Union County Environmental Health Advisory Committee, the Union County Cooperative Extension Service, and the Somerset-Union Soil Conservation District and the Rahway River Environmental Coalition.

Holiday Brings Long Weekend

Municipal employes worked a legal holiday in October but this week they reap the rewards of their labor with a four day weekend.

In addition to the municipal offices, all schools and the Citizen and Chronicle office will be closed Thursday and Friday for the Thanksgiving holiday. Except for special delivery, there will be no mail delivery Thursday.

The library will be closed Thanksgiving but it will open for regular hours on Friday and Saturday.

For local sports fans tomorrow marks the 32nd annual meeting between the Cranford Cougars and Thomas Jefferson of Elizabeth.

Tomorrow's resumption of the rivalry will start at 10:30 a.m. on Williams Field in Elizabeth.

To Draw Plans for 2 Mills

Architect Charles H. Dellwiller Jr. has been authorized to draw preliminary plans for the reconstruction of a cider mill and mill at Josiah Crane Park, according to a resolution approved by the Township Committee at its November 14 meeting.

The resolution stipulates the architect will be paid $25 per hour and not more than $500 for the preliminary drawings. The mills would become part of the Corridor of Heritage that was established by the Permanent Centennial Memorial Committee.

If the proposal is implemented, the memorial lands between the township and property owners at the Meeker Ave. site of the senior citizens housing project.

Also, the mayor is expected to appoint a local Flood Control Task Force, one of the measures continued in the three-part flood control program revealed last week.

A public hearing on the new noise control ordinance, also introduced at the last meeting, will be held at the December 12 meeting of the committee. The committee indicated it planned to submit the new regulation to independent testing laboratories.
