Plan $178,000 school cut; teachers hired

The Board of Education has agreed tentatively to cut $178,000 in personnel, maintenance and materials from the 1975-76 school budget, Board President Arnold Warhaftig reported yesterday.

Warhaftig said the board will hold a special public meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Lincoln School to discuss the proposed cuts. Formal action is scheduled for the board's monthly business meeting Sept. 16.

"An attempt was made to affect program as little as possible," the board leader commented.

The cuts will make up all but $84,000 of a $262,000 loss in state aid to Cranford schools. Warhaftig said the $84,000 is building aid for debt service, which the board cannot reduce because of commitments to principal and interest payments.

He said a bill is pending in the Legislature which would restore the building aid. Should it not be restored, the board would have to borrow the money and raise it in next year's taxes. Warhaftig pointed out the board does not have the legal right to make up the building aid loss by transferring funds from the operating or capital outlay accounts.

Tuesday's meeting also will include a discussion of the attendance and tardiness policy at Cranford High School. Robert Seyfarth, principal, will speak.

Two of the three new teachers the Board of Education failed to hire at its Aug. 5 meeting will be in their classrooms today for the opening of school. At a closed workshop Tuesday night the board agreed to appoint Ellen Hoffman as a biology teacher at Cranford High School and Maria Mykulak as a Spanish teacher at Hillside Avenue Junior High School.

The third instructor, Elynn G. Ruzicka, who was to teach high school chemistry, took another position, according to Assistant Superintendent Anthony J. Terregino. Terregino said yesterday he is interviewing candidates for the chemistry position. All other classes in the system will be covered, he said.

The three teachers had been proposed as replacements for staff members who resigned. At the Aug. 5 meeting the board prohibited such reassignments after May 1.

HAM WHAT AM — Four 60-foot poles on side and rear lawns of Alfred A. Greenberg at 313 Bloomingdale Ave. are designed for communicating with distant parts, but to neighbors they're an eyesore. Greenberg faces charges of putting up structures without building permit.

He turns on globe, but not home town

By J.G. Rush
Internationally, Alfred Greenberg has no problems with his ham radio operation at 313 Bloomingdale Ave. He gets Asia, Africa, South America, India—all with no difficulty.

Locally, though, he has difficulties. He can't get township approval to erect two new antennas on four 55-foot poles in his side and rear yards. In fact, he has incurred local disapproval and faces a court hearing before Municipal Judge Charles J. Stevens on charges of violating the local building code by putting up the poles.

According to a complaint filed by Building Inspector Robert Fuller, Greenberg's poles violate local regulations in that they exceed 16 feet in height, two are located in the side yard where construction is prohibited, and all were put up without first obtaining a building permit.

SAYS COURTS BACK HIM
As far as Greenberg is concerned, the town is meddling into something that really isn't its business. He maintains that ham radio operations are the exclusive domain of the Federal Communications Commission and the town lacks jurisdiction.

October target for seniors' housing start

The possibility that construction of the proposed Cranford senior citizens' housing project may begin by the end of next month loomed yesterday. Final approval by the State Finance Agency is being awaited.

Final steps leading to actual construction of the project were outlined by Edward K. Gill, president of the Cranford Housing Board, in an interview by the Cranford Citizen and Chronicle.

Gill pointed out that all required approvals had been obtained from the Cranford Board of Adjustment, Cranford Planning Board and Cranford Township Committee.

All privately owned lands have had title transferred to the Township or are under contract to do so, he revealed, and test borings and site surveys, a requirement of the State Finance Agency, are completed and approved.

At this point the former mayor revealed, nearly fifty per cent of the schematic or working drawings have been approved by the state. Working in close cooperation with Goldstein and Partners, architects, and B & J Contractors, the Housing Board is putting the finishing touches on plans for flooring, lighting, landscaping and similar areas.

The architectural committee, headed by Roman Chappelsky and including John Matson, Jay Jackson, and Malcolm Pringle, and Gill is liaison between the architects and the State Finance Agency. This sub-committee has been responsible for much of basic design in building and grounds.

Subcommittee active
Administrative routines, including application forms and criteria, continue to be developed by the administration sub-committee headed by Ed Temkin. In this connection, Gill asked the Citizen and Chronicle to remind potential applicants that by law no applications can be accepted until six months prior to the occupancy date. Gill estimated that if construction can begin by October, the project will be completed by late 1976.

Benner, who handled the towing for many years prior to Sept. 1, 1974, will share it with Cranford Body & Fender Works. Benner is at 606 South Ave. E. and Cranford Body & Fender at 218 South Ave. E.

On the recommendation of former Township Committee member Jack C. McVey, the contract was put out on franchise bid last year and awarded to Basile's Wrecker Service of Roselle Park, whose offer to pay the town $2,500 for the contract was the highest. The tower usually gets the repair jobs.

The new contract was awarded to Benner and Cranford Body and Fender on the recommendation of Police Chief Matthew T. Haney. They will alternate the service monthly. The chief maintained that the Police Department lacked jurisdiction over towed cars once they were taken out of town, and that local traffic sometimes was tied up due to the length of time to tow vehicles to arrive at accident scenes.

Objections were raised last year to taking the towing contract from Benner after so many years of satisfactory service and Benner's practice of not charging for towing municipal vehicles.

The contract for towing disabled vehicles in Cranford has gone back to H.F. Benner Inc. as of Sept. 1.

The township's official Bicentennial flag, presented to Mayor Burton S. Goodman and the Cranford Bicentennial Commission by Representative Matthew Rinaldo on April 19, was stolen from the flagpole in front of the Municipal Building in Springfield Ave. over the weekend.

Also stolen was the American flag which flew above the Bicentennial emblem. The U.S. flag, four by eight feet, cost the township $45. The Bicentennial flag was a gift from the national Bicentennial organization.

Sixty-eight residents have signed a petition to the Township Committee protesting inadequate storm drainage in the Carolina St. area.

The area was among those seriously affected by the July 13-15 flooding and by previous heavy rainfalls. A survey of storm drains is one of the steps in the overall township program aimed at combatting flood conditions.

Text of the petition follows: "We, the undersigned, hereby petition the members of the Cranford Township Committee for action to correct flooding conditions in the Carolina Street area of Cranford.

"Because of inadequate storm drainage facilities the streets floods between the intersections of Lexington Avenue and Fairfield Street in every heavy rain, halting traffic for several hours at a time and causing damage to paving, lawns and shrubs. This condition has occurred many times over the last 15 years during development of the area with no action by the township. The township engineer's office has been notified of the condition on several occasions and has attributed the problem to an inadequate storm sewer line. Schools are reopening today with enrollment of 5,443

Cranford public schools open their doors today to an expected 5,443 students, a drop of 177.

For the second year the school system will operate with six elementary schools. The majority of sixth grade pupils will continue to attend classes at Hillside and Orange Avenue Junior High Schools. Cleveland and Sherman Schools, which were closed after the 1973-74 school year, will remain vacant buildings since the Board of Education has taken no action to dispose of them.

Elementary school enrollment is expected to total 5,520, down from 2,662 in June, continuing a trend of recent years. Orange and Hillside Avenue Junior High School expect a student population of 1,349 in grades seven through nine, a fewer than last year.

Cranford High School enrollment is expected to climb by 20 to 1,574 students. New members of the in-Club at Marisa's Restaurant.

structural staff were honored last night at a dinner sponsored by the Cranford Kiwanis Club at Marisa's Restaurant.

Saturday scrap day
Saturday will be the day to get rid of those old newspapers as well as of glass, tin and aluminum containers. There will be a two-pronged collection of scrap, with paper being collected at Hillside Avenue Junior High School parking lot from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., and the glass, tin and aluminum at the Meeker Avenue recycling center from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Daniel J. Mason, paper drive coordinator under the Recycling Program, said a schedule for paper collection has been set up and that the school units interested in sponsoring them may contact him at his home, 10 Beech St., 276-9692.

CEA unfair labor complaint over custodians hits board

The Cranford Education Association has filed an unfair labor practice charge against the Board of Education on behalf of the building services personnel. The charge was filed with the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC).

Noting that building services personnel have been working without a contract since July 1, 1974, CEA president Thomas Scheffel said board negotiator Irwin Weinberg refused to submit any proposals and rejected the CEA's salary proposals "out of hand."

Weinberg's action, Scheffel said, prevented any negotiations from taking place, and a negotiating session Aug. 16 "ended fruitlessly."

Scheffel said Weinberg was warned at the bargaining table that the CEA would file an unfair labor practice charge unless he changed his position and agreed to submit proposals on behalf of the board.

The school system employs more than 50 custodians and other building services staff. A petition had been filed by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local 866, with PERC to hold a bargaining election for representation of the group. PERC rejected the petition and ruled in June that the building services personnel should remain an integral unit of the CEA.

Following a mandatory 30-day waiting period, the board and the CEA began negotiations on a retroactive agreement for the 1974-75 school year and a current agreement for the 1975-76 school year. A 11 other units of the CEA are working under a two-year pact which expires June 30, 1976.

GOP committee is formed
Carol Wheeler, campaign manager for Cranford Township Committee, Republican candidates Dennis Irbeek and Clair Flinn, has announced the formation of the campaign committee for the November election.

The following have offered their services to the Republican candidates: Robert Ward, treasurer; Gerda Geiger, assistant to the manager; Edward Gill, publicity; Anthony Biago and Donald Nowicki, publicity aides; Carol Dreyer, home meetings; Barbara Ginsberg, ad committee; Malcolm Pringle, finance chairman.

Special events volunteers are Susan Humphrey, Patricia Hunsenkamp, Jeannine Rowe, Eileen Peterman, May Koehler, Carol Dreyer, Barbara Biago, Janet Barton, Anne Anderson, Cathy Chirco, Marlene Tobins, Barbara Ginsberg, Geraldine Mattison and

Joanne McDonough. Also serving are Lawrence Peterman, historian, and James Robins, Anne Anderson, election night headquarters.

Mrs. Wheeler says, "It is most important for all voting residents of Cranford to take part in the election process in November. Only the active voters will determine the future of Cranford, the town we all chose to live in. Dennis Irbeek and Clair Flinn are two outstanding citizens who have proved their dedication by participation in this community. I encourage anyone interested in helping to elect Dennis Irbeek and Clair Flinn to contact myself or any member of our committee."

Goal of $105,000 is set for United Way campaign

Clinton E. Crane, general chairman of the United Way, has announced a goal of $105,000 for the 1975-76 campaign. He pointed out that if any division fails to achieve its share of the goal, other divisions must exceed their assigned totals.

Division goals listed are $9,000 for commercial and professional, $1,300 for clubs, $1,000 for municipal employees, and $23,500 for the special gifts division. For local industry the goal is $12,000, for schools $3,700, and for residential $20,500. The latter figure is for those on the subscription list, as well as for three districts that will be canvassed house-to-house as in earlier years. A contribution is also anticipated from the Eastern Union County Industrial United Way.

Crane pointed out that the school division has consistently met its goal while some others have failed by wide margins in previous campaigns. He remarked that many of the failures were due to lapses in contacting all those on the subscription list, rather than to a reduction in people's generosity.

Flooding on Carolina St. protested

Sixty-eight residents have signed a petition to the Township Committee protesting inadequate storm drainage in the Carolina St. area.

The area was among those seriously affected by the July 13-15 flooding and by previous heavy rainfalls. A survey of storm drains is one of the steps in the overall township program aimed at combatting flood conditions.

Text of the petition follows: "We, the undersigned, hereby petition the members of the Cranford Township Committee for action to correct flooding conditions in the Carolina Street area of Cranford.

"Because of inadequate storm drainage facilities the streets floods between the intersections of Lexington Avenue and Fairfield Street in every heavy rain, halting traffic for several hours at a time and causing damage to paving, lawns and shrubs. This condition has occurred many times over the last 15 years during development of the area with no action by the township. The township engineer's office has been notified of the condition on several occasions and has attributed the problem to an inadequate storm sewer line. Waters also back up on property between Carolina and Georgia Streets, apparently because of an inadequate auxiliary drain in that area.

The undersigned residents request that corrective action to improve drainage be given a top priority by the township, particularly in view of recent predictions by the National Weather Service that this area will experience an increasing frequency of tornadoes and hurricanes.

Homes entered, jewelry is taken

A jewelry haul of close to $2,500 was reported here Sunday in the course of breaks into two homes here and an attempted break into a third. Entrance and attempted entrance in each instance was by breaking rear windows and unlocking doors from the inside. An intruder was frightened off by the owner in what appeared to be the third try. The three homes are in the same neighborhood.

The jewelry was taken from the home of William Tabat at 18 Shetland Dr. According to Police Sgt. George Kane and Patrolman Jerome Andrews, who were dispatched to the scene, and Detective Samuel Cymbaluk, who is continuing the investigation, more than 15 pieces of jewelry were removed from a bedroom in the Tabat residence.

According to a police teletype alarm, the $2,500 haul included a gold ring with five diamonds, a mesh-designed solid gold band, a double-strand, opera-length necklace of baroque pearls and a number of rings and pins.

Surprises intruder

The series of burglaries first came to the attention of police when Richard Rudolph of 224 Denman Rd called Sunday shortly after 3 p.m. to report that an intruder had smashed the window of a door in the rear of the home and then fled when Rudolph confronted him. No entrance was gained.

In the course of the investigation of the attempted entry at 224 Denman, Kane and Cymbaluk discovered that the Thomas D. McDonald home at 226 Denman Rd. had been entered. Again, the glass in a rear door was broken and the door unlocked from the inside. Nothing of value has been reported missing as yet by the McDonalds.

His professional affiliations include membership in the American Bar Association, the New Jersey Bar Association, and the Union County Bar Association.

Kinnear stated that he readily accepts the challenge and honor of being appointed the campaign manager for Burt Goodman and Ron Marotta. "I'm up to the task of making Cranford an even better place to live."

Discussing issues of the coming campaign, Kinnear said that "flood control continues to be the major issue in Cranford, with emphasis not only on the river improvements, but also stream and sewer improvements. The work which has been done to alleviate flood control must be continued."

Kinnear stressed that "the work which has been done to date is the result of the cooperative efforts of all of the township committee members, and not just one individual. For any one person to claim credit for the improvements made to date does a great disservice to all of those people, Democrats and Republicans alike, who worked so hard to achieve the progress that has been made."

"The quality of the Democratic candidates is exceptional," stated Kinnear, "and I urge all voters to support and elect the team of Goodman and Marotta to the township committee."

Charged as parole violator

A 46-year-old resident of Montclair wanted on a charge of violating his parole from Gateway Prison was arrested Friday night by Cranford Patrolman John Hicks.

The arrest of Alfred Bruce, 46, of 12 Maple Ave., Montclair, occurred in Roselle Park after Hicks had followed him in a police radio car as a suspected motor vehicle violator. Hicks charged Bruce game him a false identification at first until further investigation developed he was an alleged parole violator.

On the basis of the contents of the car Bruce was driving, Hicks charged Bruce with possession of heroin and of narcotics paraphernalia including a needle and syringe. Bruce was also charged with possession of methadone.

Bruce was remanded to Union County jail in lieu of $1,000 bail.

Oct. housing target

October of this year, or occupancy can take place at the end of 1976.

According to Barbara Anderson project coordinator, it is hoped that this final schematics will be completed by the Goldstein architectural firm by October and final mortgage approval will be given by the State Finance Agency by October 1.

Community Affairs Commissioner Patricia Sheehan has indicated the possibility of this right scheduling housing for Cranford's senior citizens is planned on a five-acre parcel adjacent to Meeker and Wynans Avenues.

It is expected that the approximately one hundred and thirty units will be divided between ten, two bedroom units, eight efficiency apartments, and 112 one bedroom apartments. The building will also house a multi-purpose room, laundry, two elevators and a spacious lobby.

The adjacent area will be suitably landscaped and will provide parking to residents and adjacent homeowners.

Fall family camping open at Cranford West

Family camping at Cranford West facilities in Hope, N.J., will be available this fall thanks to a group of Cranford residents. Veteran summer campers, the group is donating its services to keep the facility open.

Their goal is to make Cranford West available to a maximum number of families at the lowest possible cost to the township. Both cabins and tent areas will be available. The group hopes that families who were disappointed by finding the facilities filled during the summer will take advantage of this extended season.

Reservations may be made through the Recreation and Parks Dept., 114 Mill St. for the weekend camping.

Interested persons should notify the Recreation and Parks Dept. at the next meeting of the group on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Center, 114 Mill St.

Heritage Trail flower show plans complete

Plans of all committees and consultants for the Sept. 13 and 14 Bicenennial Flower Show have been completed, according to coordinators Mrs. Arlynn C. Ellis and Wesley Philo.

The committee has invited all Cranford gardeners to enter their flowers, vegetables and fruits in the artistic and horticultural classes which will be judged and awards presented. The classes and rules are outlined in the Flower Show schedule, copies of which are available at the Recreation Center, Cranford Library, Township Clerk's office and the Citizen and Chronicle office. Schedules have already been sent to Garden Club presidents in Cranford.

A unique feature will be the display of pictures painted by members of the Cranford Creative Art Group to accompany each artistic arrangement class. The artistic classes will be arranged around the edge of the new indoor pool and the horticultural exhibits will be in the field house.

Indoor and outdoor educational and commercial exhibits are also being prepared to fill out the program. Exhibits will include a display of tropical and hardy water lilies and goldfish in the outdoor kiddie pool. An underwater garden of the future will be simulated in the deep diving pool and aqua divers will tend this unique underwater garden.

Cranford's Environmental Commission will prepare a "wetlands" display in the spray pool area depicting their importance to our overall ecology. Dr. Frank Krause will present a display and demonstration on the art of Bonsai. Farris Swackhammer is preparing a display on birds and their importance to gardening and the ecology.

Eric Petersen, our Union County agricultural agent will present demonstrations on lawn care and the Union County Park Commission will prepare an exhibit of berries, vines and shrubs native to Union County.

The show is planned to display a heritage in gardening. Some of our local plantmen will also have displays and material for sale. A donation of $1 for adults, 50 cents for children will help defray costs of printing the schedule and other expenses. Senior citizens will be admitted free. Profits will be turned over to the Corridor of Heritage Committee to further their efforts to restore the Rahway River for the enjoyment of all Cranford citizens.

It is an open flower show and all Cranford gardeners and residents may enter all classes in artistic arrangement and horticulture. Young people are invited to enter the Junior Division geared to their age levels.

CEA militancy

Instead of an attitude of cooperation in solving the fiscal problems confronting the public school system, the Cranford Education Association has elected to take the offensive against Board of Education representatives of the taxpayers who employ its members. "A small group of willful people" is the accolade bestowed by the CEA upon four school board members who voted to consider the possibility of staffing language and science classes with present employees before hiring new ones.

Such an attack on individuals acting in behalf of the taxpayers insults a professional group such as the CEA, which will soon be involved in negotiating a work contract with the school board. The language only serves to create an environment of hostility in negotiations in which the taxpayers of Cranford have so much at stake.

IN A COMPANION GESTURE of militancy, the CEA has filed an unfair labor practice complaint against the school board with the state Public Employment Relations Commission in the course of negotiating a labor contract for school custodial employees whom the CEA also represents.

Here again the CEA put the onus on school board members for causing a stalemate in the negotiations. But it takes more than one side to bring about a stalemate in labor talks. Rather than attempt to work out a solution to the problem, the CEA chose to file an unfair labor practice charge against the school board that must be defended at the expense of the local taxpayers. In its statement attacking school board members who voted against appointing three science and language teachers, the CEA assumed a self-serving attitude. Their target was taxpayer representatives seeking to solve the fiscal problem thrust upon the board by a slash of $262,000 in state aid to Cranford schools.

THE CEA MAINTAINS that its contract with the school board prohibits assigning faculty members to classes in which teacher vacancies occurred due to resignations. Any contract that prevents the reduction of faculty size by attrition during a period of declining enrollment would be an affront to the taxpayers and a discredit to school board members acquiescing to it.

The contract with the teachers does provide that reassignments to classes in which teacher vacancies occur can be made only when necessary and must be made by May 1. Thus the new teachers are being hired, but it was the right if not the duty of board members to determine whether the gaps could be filled more economically.

The strategy of toughness in dealing with taxpayer representatives puts the teacher organization on a collision course in the coming contract negotiations. While it may be difficult for the CEA to accept, there is a trend towards recognition of taxpayer interest in dealings between Boards of Education and employe unions which even the creation of the labor-supported PERC cannot reverse.

Letters to the editor

Scheffel hit

To the editor: As a taxpayer and parent of four children attending Cranford public schools, I resent Thomas F. Scheffel's statement on the Board of Education as published in the Chronicle on August 28. First of all I do not always agree with the actions taken by the Board. I think that the decision, later rescinded, to drop all after school activities was premature and over-reacting to Governor Byrne's attempt to apply pressure for his income tax package. But I do feel that the Board is sincere in attempting to act without malice, and to do the best it can in carrying out its responsibilities.

The vote taken to hire the three teachers replacements was clearly indicated as an attempt not to act in a piecemeal fashion, to wait for an entire program to be submitted by the Superintendent of Schools. It is more than likely that the three teacher replacements will be hired if feasible, but it did not make sense to hire three teachers, and then sit down and try to reduce costs by $250,000. Administrative and teacher personnel are part of the cost of running Cranford schools, and better utilization of existing personnel and yes, even a reduction in personnel should be considered. I am not saying that reduction is desirable, but it should not be unthinkable.

Regrets closing of center

Announcement of the closing of the Menlo Park Diagnostic Center was received with regret by many VFW members in Cranford.

For the past 15 years the local organization has traveled to the center every Christmas season for a party for the patients. The boys were given new clothes, games and books, Santa Claus was always there in the persons of J. Vincent Brinkhoff, Thomas J. Butler and former township commissioner Charles Segried.

It was one of the most satisfying projects we sponsored," commented Harry Snyder, who along with his wife, Minna have been co-chairmen for the past 15 years. Some of the older members of the post have made the trip every year.

Giving those kids a little happiness at Christmas time really made the season what it was always meant to be," commented past commander Tim Korner, "we always looked forward to it." Now I guess we'll have to find a new project.

The center fell victim to New Jersey's fiscal problems and has officially closed its doors.

Dr. Joshua Segal, Superintendent of Schools

teachers union better become more sympathetic or realistic about the economic facts of life. How can you ignore the fact that you are talking to people in a state where unemployment runs so high. A majority of people in Cranford, I am sure, don't have the security of employment contracts or "tenure" enjoyed by teachers.

Oh yes, who does Mr. Scheffel represent? Surely not the students! I didn't see any statement from Mr. Scheffel when the Board passed its resolution to drop all after school activities. Where was his concern for the children of Cranford? No, his concern is for the teachers' interests. There's nothing wrong with that, but let him be open and honest about it. The Board is responsible to the students and taxpayers of Cranford. Its primary obligation is not to three teachers who are not part of the present staff.

Police work

To the editor: I have today dispatched the following letter dated August 29 to Chief Matthew Haney of the Cranford Police Department:

"Earlier today one of our staff members became ill and needed emergency assistance. Two patrolmen, Officer William Connell and Officer John Itzel, responded to our request for assistance almost immediately and provided first aid and reassurance in a very professional and sympathetic manner until the ambulance arrived.

"I am aware of the many times your people have come to our assistance because of my direct involvement and because of the reports which reach me. This note is to assure you that while we've come to accept excellence in performance of our police department as the norm, we are nevertheless extremely grateful."

Cranford West

To the editor: We recently spent a weekend at Cranford West, the township's family camping facility on Silver Lake, Hope, N.J. We'd like to thank the township for providing this recreational area for its residents.

Although we are veteran campers, until recently we never realized the township offered this complete facility. We hope to see many of our Cranford neighbors at Cranford West in the future.

Blood bank

To the editor: We want to thank all the wonderful people who contributed to the great success of the recent blood drive for Tommy Kane and Judd Kopicki. 310 people gave blood and many more came but were postponed for various reasons.

First we'd love to thank all the great, thoughtful people of our community who so willingly gave of themselves again.

Next we'd like to thank Frank Palmieri, president of the taxpayers and the taxpayers and their wives for planning, organizing, and staffing the drive.

It was very generous of the Community Center to donate the use of their air conditioned facilities which provided ample room. We want to thank the baby sitters and nurses.

At the weekly meeting of Cranford Rotary last Thursday at the Coachman Inn, a lively discussion was held on the proposed New Jersey income tax. Sentiments were expressed both pro and con.

Proponents qualified their support with calls for general tax reform and greater efficiency in government including a restructuring into more efficient and economical governmental units.

Opponents of the income tax cited wasteful government spending, and the discretionary control of local affairs provided by a property tax base as principal reasons for their opposition.

Principal participants in the discussion included Burton

John L. Brennan

John L. Brennan of 320 Casino Ave., has been elected to the Board of Managers of Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside, it was announced today by Charles H. Frankenbach, Jr., president.

Elect Brennan to board of Children's Hospital

Children's Specialized Hospital is a long-term rehabilitation facility for physically handicapped youngsters, ranging in age from infancy to early teens. Brennan, president of Harness Tracks Security, Inc., and a former FBI agent, was an associate chairman of the hospital's recent building drive to raise funds for an addition to almost double the capacity of the facility.

Prof. promises popular approach to bird study

"Birding in New Jersey," a ten-week series of illustrated lectures on birds that can be seen in the Garden State, will be offered by the Cranford Adult School in its Fall Semester, which begins Sept. 30 at Cranford High School. The course is offered in cooperation with the New Jersey Audubon Society.

Prof. Farris S. Swackhamer of 10 Herring Ave., a member of the Chemistry Department at Union College and noted ornithologist, will be the instructor.

This is the sixth year that Prof. Swackhamer has taught at the Cranford Adult School. His first course, "For the Birds," has been expanded to include greater emphasis on identification and increased use of slides and tapes.

Two classes will be conducted at Union College to take advantage of the College's audio-visual facilities. In addition, there will be two weekend field trips to the Jersey shore and Nomahegan Park. These will be scheduled at the convenience of the class.

"This will not be a formal course in ornithology," Prof. Swackhamer stated, "but a popular approach to the subject designed to develop the skills of birding, rather than merely bird-watching."

Hedistinguishes a "bird" from a "bird watcher," describing the former as one who is interested in the behavior, habits and history of various birds, as opposed to the bird watcher who merely catalogues the birds he observes.

New Jersey, according to Prof. Swackhamer, is one of the finest bird watching states in the country with close to 400 species winging their way through the state and some 180 roosting here.

Some of the topics to be covered include: migration, navigation, identification, evolution of birds, behavior, courtship, territorial protection, seasonal changes and bird photography.

"Birding in New Jersey" classes will meet Tuesdays from 8 to 9 p.m. Prospective students may register by mail prior to September 25 or in person at the high school on Thursday, September 25, Monday, September 29, and Tuesday, September 30, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Democrats name Alimonti manager

Councilwoman Alimonti, who is police commissioner, previously served as fire commissioner. He resides at 211 Fourth Ave. with his wife, Elizabeth, and their five children.

outstanding candidates. Councilwoman Gurrieri is currently serving as buildings and grounds chairman and is working very hard as our newest councilwoman. Robert Renaud is an attorney and is currently chairman of the Zoning Board of Adjustment. His knowledge and expertise will be of great assistance on Borough Council. Speaking of Maley, Alimonti stated, "Bob Maley has taken over the duties of tax collector-treasurer. He has proven to be a serious, hard-working and competent official of the Borough, much in the style of William Gilbert, the former collector treasurer, who moved from Garwood in June.

"These fine candidates are all presently serving the Borough of Garwood with an enthusiasm, energy and dedication to public service that I have not seen in a long time. I know they are an asset to our community at this time and will continue to be so in the future."

Rabbi describes Israeli sabbatical

Rabbi Sidney D. Shanken of Temple Beth-El has just returned from an eight-month sabbatical in Israel. His wife, Sylvia, and daughter, Levia, returned three weeks ago.

"It was truly a spiritual experience," the rabbi stated. "The land is so replete with Biblical and historical associations that one becomes immersed in familiar territory." Rabbi Shanken went on a five-day safari to reach and climb Mount Sinai. "The view of the world there is so awe-inspiring, it is easy to be projected back to that memorable day when the children of Israel heard God speaking to them." He was accompanied by his daughter, Levia, who scuba-dived in the Red Sea.

Levia spent most of the time as a volunteer on a kibbutz, Maoz Haim. She and the rabbi also participated in an archaeological dig in the Gahilee where they helped dig up a Byzantine village of the fourth century A.D.

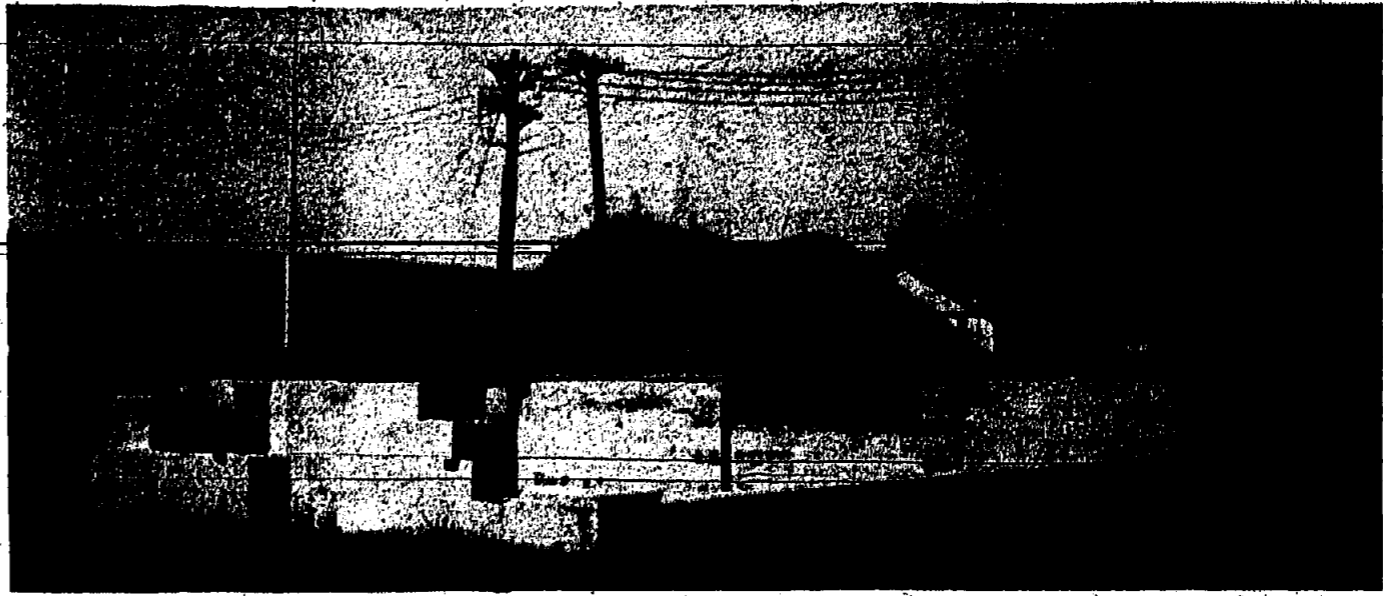

A high point for the rabbi was when he helped build a Jewish settlement called Ofra. "It is just outside of Beth-El," stated the rabbi, and since the synagogue in Cranford is Beth-El, I felt a great identification. "The settlement is in the West Bank, surrounded by Arabs who don't seem unfriendly. In fact, to get there, I stopped and received perfect directions from the Arabs."

Rabbi Shanken took courses in the Hebrew University in Jerusalem as well as lectured and taught. "There is such a wealth of scholarship there that one can add so much to his knowledge. One thing I wanted to do and to a degree succeeded was to learn Arabic. Since I already knew Hebrew, I wanted to be able to speak to all the Israelis. I made many friends among the Jews and Arabs. I even attended a three day conference of the Samaritans in Nablus. I was looking for the "good Samaritan" and I think I found him - they're all good Samaritans, they were so friendly and kind."

The high point of the pilgrimage was the last week. The rabbi was abruptly brought back to modern times by the appearance of Dr. Henry Kissinger in Jerusalem. "Israel has never seen such demonstrations. No one is happy and there are masses of truly angry people. People I speak to want peace with their Arab neighbors and are willing to return territory for an agreement but, to the average Israeli, it seems Israel is giving its oil in Abu Rudeis and strategic passes for three years tentative non-belligerence - not peace," the rabbi said.

FOUNDATION IN — New structure of Raritan Road Baptist Church is beginning to take shape at 611 Raritan Road just east of Winfield Park Circle. Old church on site was demolished to make room for the new.

Construction begins for new church

The Raritan Road Baptist Church of Cranford announces that construction has begun on their new sanctuary. After considerable time of planning and evaluation, it was decided to build on the present site, 611 Raritan Rd. The old church building, built in 1927, was demolished to make room for the new building.

The sanctuary will be of laminated wooden arches and decking. The exterior will be of cedar siding with stained glass windows in the front.

Inside there will be a balcony and full basement. The basement will be used as a fellowship hall as well as Sunday school classrooms. Portable partitions will be used to divide the hall to allow for several rooms of varying sizes. The chancel will be constructed so it can be converted for baptismal services, Sunday school programs or special services when not being used for regular worship services.

The architect is Ken Brutka of Burgh and Bernel Associates of Brick Town. The contractor is Raycon Construction Company of South Plainfield. It is estimated that construction will be completed by early 1976.

In the interim period the church is holding all Sunday services in the Masonic Building, 478 South Ave. The Wednesday night prayer and praise services are being held in various homes of the church family. The church is continuing a full schedule of services and activities while waiting for their new facilities.

Anyone wishing to contact the church, may do so by calling 789-2123.
