SENATOR EDGE HERE

Good sized audience greets the Senator and former Governor Stokes. Congressman Ackerman also makes short address.

About 400 people attended the meeting arranged by the Cranford Republican Club at the Cranford School Auditorium last Monday night. It was an unusual opportunity presented to hear United States Senator Edge and former Governor Stokes. The same evening, Governor Stokes came in. Mr. Ackerman said the purpose of the hour would be to hear the Senator and former Governor Stokes. The Senator spoke first, and then Governor Stokes. The Senator spoke in a clear, strong voice, and his address was well received. He spoke of the work of the Republican party in the country, and of the need for a strong executive. He also spoke of the work of the Cranford Republican Club, and of the need for a strong executive. He spoke of the work of the Cranford Republican Club, and of the need for a strong executive. He spoke of the work of the Cranford Republican Club, and of the need for a strong executive.

for him. Assemblyman Herbert J. Pascoe followed Senator Edge and he said over ground so ably covered by the previous speakers and he didn't but very good monologue to the great enjoyment of the audience. Assemblyman George Compton followed when Congressman Ernest R. Ackerman came in. Mr. Ackerman said the purpose of the hour would be to hear the Senator and former Governor Stokes. The Senator spoke first, and then Governor Stokes. The Senator spoke in a clear, strong voice, and his address was well received. He spoke of the work of the Republican party in the country, and of the need for a strong executive. He also spoke of the work of the Cranford Republican Club, and of the need for a strong executive. He spoke of the work of the Cranford Republican Club, and of the need for a strong executive.

Senator Edge spoke at three meetings Monday night, Plainfield, where he opened, Cranford and Rahway. He then went to Rahway where he spoke at the meeting of the Cranford Republican Club. He spoke of the work of the Republican party in the country, and of the need for a strong executive. He also spoke of the work of the Cranford Republican Club, and of the need for a strong executive. He spoke of the work of the Cranford Republican Club, and of the need for a strong executive.

The music was furnished by the Cranford Orchestra of six pieces and the audience joined in singing several selections under the leadership of Julius Dufuray. The Cranford Dramatic Club will hold its first assembly this season on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 6th, at the Casino. These are the officers: first vice-president, William Hickey; second vice-president, Mrs. Edgar Heston; secretary, Miss Katherine Greene; treasurer, Kenneth Jones. Ten directors have been appointed: R. R. Barrett, W. W. Buck, Curtis G. Culin, Jr., Mrs. F. B. Gilpin, Karl E. Herick, Mrs. John Frank Spole, Mrs. F. C. Truslow and Mrs. James R. McKeen.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN'S UNIT TO MEET TUESDAY, OCT. 24

The Women's Unit of the Cranford Republican Club will meet at Hampton Hall Tuesday (24th) at 2 o'clock sharp. The meeting will be called to order by Mrs. Betsy Edwards, is due in Summit another meeting at 3:30 o'clock.

Miss Edwards is a special speaker for the Republican National Committee and is well known in the country. Cranford is very fortunate in being able to have Miss Edwards, and no one should miss the opportunity to hear her.

NO SLAUGHTER HOUSE

Citizens Assured No Permit Will Be Given. Mayor Roach Protects Action of Committee in Woods Case.

Thursday night over 70 citizens were at the meeting of the Township Committee, most of these coming down to enter protest against the granting of a permit for a slaughterhouse, which it had been learned would be built on Centennial avenue, beyond the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks. David Brown presented the matter for these protesting and assurance was given at once that no permit for a slaughterhouse would be issued. Building Inspector Moore stated application for building permit had been presented but that same had been returned.

On the reading of the minutes of the last meeting at which Mayor Roach was not present, the Mayor called Mr. Aldrich to the chair and said he objected to the resolution by which Officer Woods had been reinstated with pay during the time of his vacation with pay and that he would not sign any check for same. Mayor Roach called in Chief Hennessy, who stated that Officer Woods had been suspended without pay. The minutes were approved and the matter of Officer Woods' pay for future adjustment. John J. Sheehy of the new section of senior avenue, wanted quite a lot of things. He told of the poor condition of the street north of Orange avenue, and asked that the street be graded and curbs be put on same. Mr. Sheehy also stated the sewer was not working as it should.

asked for sidewalk grade on Union avenue, North, and residents on Meeker avenue, asked the same. These requests were referred to the Engineer.

Protests against the curbing of Norman Place were read and referred to the Engineer to take up with the petitioners. By letter, Freeholder Dreescher requested that resolutions be passed to have survey made on Harlan Road, the boundary line, and (2) authorizing the extension of the Kenilworth Roadward through to Springfield avenue. These were adopted as requested.

Bids for the 9th street sewer, received last week, were too high in the estimation of the Committee, and same were ordered readjusted.

Engineer Collins reported with regard to the Walnut avenue grade crossing at I. V. H. that County Engineer Bauer had submitted a plan but that no agreement with the R. R. had been reached. Mayor Roach reported the expectation of Judge Keck, special commissioner on furrough from Rheek, that in a comparatively short time an order to abolish the crossing would be issued by the State Board of Public Utilities.

CRANFORD CASINO

The coming social season promises to be the best ever. The entertainment committee is formulating plans, full announcement of which will be made later. The Assembly dances, so popular last season, will be repeated and there will be many other popular and attractive features.

On Friday night, October 31st, Halloween, there will Open House for members and their out-of-town guests. All members are cordially invited to come.

On Thursday night, November 4th (election night), Bridge, both progressive and pivot. Special arrangements will be made for election returns. Remember the date. Come get the election returns at the same time.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will meet at 3 p. m. on November 3rd in the chapel. Mrs. W. Marshall, a missionary on furlough from Rheek Lung, China, will be the speaker, subject being "China." Miss Elizabeth Conkling will be in charge, and the hostesses will be Mesdames Goll, Schell, McKeen and Lewis. In addition to the attractive program there will be music and tea.

When Mr. Sheehy asked for road improvements, Mayor Roach said it would be better to have petition filed to have the street paved. Mr. Sheehy claimed the people on the street could not afford this but it was pointed out that many other streets had been paved and the cost assessed. There were many at the meeting who are paying road assessments and these were not bashful in stating other streets should pay too. Several requests for street lights were referred to committee. Mayor Roach said he was glad to see so many citizens present, and assured all that the Township Committee would do all it could to help on the various matters presented.

H. J. Craig, representing Plinke Post, asked permission to put up a small tent on the triangle at station to advertise an entertainment to be given by the Post. Permit was granted.

Bids for sidewalk construction were submitted by three contractors. Frank Bruno $270, Michael E. Starr $1422. The bids were referred to the Engineer and Road Committee with power. The wide difference in the bids is hard to account for.

A letter from President Frank Bergen of the Water Co. suggested again that Cranford help the Company in the suits being brought by Plainfield through the Attorney General. If successful Mr. Bergen claimed no water could be delivered east of the river by reason of old description of territory to be served. The letter was ordered filed.

Attorney Austin handed in an opinion on the way the proposed Recreation Commission (Play Ground Commission) should be handled under the law. This was referred to Mayor Roach.

Why Wood Fire Cracks
In wood there are a great many small holes called pores. Some of these have a little moisture in them. When the wood dries, this moisture turns to steam and bursts the cells. This makes a noise like a small explosion and a great many such noises together make the crackle of the fire.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES
There is more building going on in the borough at the present time than there has been at any one time since the early days of development when one hundred houses were under construction. James Arthur has nearing completion, and some already completed houses on Passaic Avenue. A construction company of Jersey City is nearly complete two houses on Michigan Avenue and foundations laid for two more. On Twenty-third Street five houses are under construction, one for O. C. Eden, one for Claude Butler, and one being built for sale by K. G. Morris. Oswald Nitsche is building two houses on this street, one for his son David who now resides in Elizabeth, and one for his son Hugo who now resides on Twenty-third Street near Passaic Avenue. Mr. Miller contemplates the erection of two houses on Commerce Street. All of which indicates progress and healthy growth, this sort of development being of a healthy and substantial nature. While these operations do not permit directly effect the public, they do without question indirectly affect each resident in the borough and should be encouraged by the right kind of co-operation from the municipal authorities.

ABOUT TOWN
Mr. Alonzo H. Letzler and family of Houtzdale, Penn., have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hargreaves for the past two weeks. Miss Anna Carlson, of Middletown, Conn., is making her home at present with Miss Helen Delar. Mr. Carl Lindegren of Brooklyn, was a weekend visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Delar. Mr. Carl Olson, who has been a resident of the Borough for some time, and who is now living in New York, was a visitor over the weekend. Mr. and Mrs. William Gustafson are contemplating moving to East Orange, at the end of the month. They have long been residents of the Borough and will be missed by their many friends. Miss Frances Delar has joined the ranks of commuters. Miss Florence Benson of Williamsport, Pa., who is now residing in Kenilworth, has accepted a position with the Standard Oil Company. Mr. Edgar Noble, of Blue Point, N. L., was the weekend guest of Miss Florence Benson. Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hollis visited relatives in New York over the weekend. Miss Grace M. Gow spent the weekend with friends in Atlantic City. Mr. Herman Boyle, formerly a professor of Upsala College, was a guest over the weekend of Mr. Gunnar Carlson. Prof. and Mrs. Charles A. Peterson have taken up their residence in East Orange, where Professor Peterson will continue his work at Upsala College. Mr. Gunnar Carlson entertained his brother and sister of Quincy, Mass., over the weekend. Mrs. Joseph Benson, with her daughter and son visited Miss Florence Benson over the weekend. Prof. N. A. Nilson visited his home town, Hillsdale, N. J., over Saturday and Sunday. Councilman John J. Flanagan, who has been confined to his home for the past ten days by illness, is regaining his health, having returned to business Monday, after an absence of two weeks.

SINGER ORCHESTRA AT INN
On Saturday evening, Oct. 18th, seven members of the Singer Orchestra played at the Kenilworth Inn. A number of Cranford and Elizabeth people as well as most of the members of the Kenilworth Country Club were on hand to enjoy the good music and dancing. It is understood that an orchestra will be on hand every Saturday night during the fall and winter season for dancing at the Inn.

"LILY OF THE DUST" DUE
"Lily of the Dust," Pola Negri's new starring vehicle for Paramount, with Ben Lyon, Noah Beery, Raymond Griffith and others just as prominent playing in support, comes to the Cranford Theatre for a run of two days on Monday and Tuesday, October 27 and 28. The story is an adaptation of the immensely popular novel and stage play, "The Song of Songs." It is the story of a young girl and her fight against life—a girl whose beauty and appeal to men is a liability rather than an asset to her. Here is the greatest emotional star on the screen today in what is destined to be the most talked about picture of the current season. Better see it!

Lake Titicaca
Lake Titicaca is in part in Peru and in part in Bolivia, South America. It has an elevation of 12,500 feet above sea level and is one of the highest lakes in the world, if not the highest. Its greatest length is 138 miles and its greatest breadth 60 miles. It covers an area of 1,000 square miles. The lake discharges its waters, which are fresh, through the Desaguadero river.

Mankind's Use of Metals
Gold was probably the first metal to be used by man. Metallic gold was found in the beds of streams. It was used for ornaments before any other metal was discovered. The first metal put to practical use was copper, made into knives and other implements at least 6,000 years ago.

POLICE COURT ITEMS
Henry Decker of Rahway, N. J., was arrested by Officer Ridge on October 15th, charged with petty larceny. The A. & P. store had filed complaint that it had been losing doughnuts which were delivered at the door in the early morning and the gate, and he was charged with larceny. He was taken to the police station and held in the early morning, after Decker, who made his delivery wagon, had taken the act of taking some of the doughnuts, which had been delivered at the A. & P. store car. When arraigned before Recorder Grippo, he pleaded guilty and was fined $25.00.

Umberto Cera of 15th street, was arraigned before Recorder Grippo on complaint of his mother, charged with disorderly conduct, and was fined $10.00. On Sunday, the 19th, Fred Boyle of 41 Durant Place, in the Fred Boyle auto, was charged with driving on the Boulevard, after driving toward Cranford in his Dodge touring car, and completely smashed the Chief Vardakis' car and struck and struck the post, gave chase in a car, forcing car and overtook Chief Vardakis' car, and after getting upon his promise to pay the cost of the damage to the post.

POLICE WELFARE ASSOCIATION SEeks FUNDS
The recently organized Police Welfare Association will make an appeal to local residents for financial aid, according to an interview with Chief Alfred Vardakis. The Association intends to purchase various equipment, which is not now provided for in the Borough budget, but which, according to Chief Vardakis, are very essential for the efficiency of the department. It is understood that the Association intends to purchase from the funds acquired, a motor vehicle to supplement the Borough's motor vehicle and to present the same to the Borough. At a meeting of the Association on Monday evening, a committee was appointed to draft by-laws. Chief Vardakis, Special Officers Joseph Havlicka and Edward Johnson, made up this committee. The Association also authorized Chief Vardakis to purchase six police shields for the marshals of the Borough. These will be presented to the Council for issuance as use are of various designs and quality, and it is the idea of the Association that they be of uniform design. Joseph Havlicka and Alexander Zelinski were elected trustees.

YOUNG MEN'S BIBLE CLASS
Considerable interest has been displayed on the part of a large number of men in Cranford in the race between the Young Men's Bible Church of Cranford and the First Methodist Church of Roselle Park, as indicated in the increased attendance last Sunday morning, amounting to ninety-nine. We are, however, still trailing behind Roselle Park and unless the present members get on the job and bring out their talents, Sunday morning, it is possible that the best attendance will be at Cranford some time next month. It is the desire of every one in the class to participate in the dinner, but it is much preferred that we win this race. The only way this can be accomplished is to swell the ranks considerably and we believe that this will be a reality and that next Sunday morning will see the greatest attendance that the Cranford Bible Class has ever had. The dinner which was advertised previously, to be held some time in November has now definitely been arranged for the gymnasium in the Sherman School has been hired for Friday evening, November 28th. Tickets are now being printed and will be in circulation in a few days at the price of fifty cents each. Any one not approached by a member of our class to purchase one of these tickets, can receive them by communicating with Mr. Kettle, 10 Normandie Place, or telephoning him, Cranford 72, in which case he will see that tickets are delivered.

More members are invited to join the bowling club. They meet every Friday evening in the Recreation Academy, Elizabeth. For further particulars communicate with Mr. Frank Cox, 25 Casino Avenue, Telephone Cranford 228-R. Teacher Fred W. Lange gave a very impressive talk last Sunday morning which was commensurate with very favorably by a great number of members, but this Sunday he has another one with a punch in it that is worth coming to hear. So join in the throng and let us all bring your friends and relatives—the more the merrier.

Not Made From Rice
Rice paper that is used so extensively in the manufacture of cigarettes is not made from rice kernels or straw, but is the product of tungana, a pithy plant that is grown in China, Korea and Japan.

Not on Earth
Reformers are always promising a heaven on earth, when the Scriptures expressly declare that Heaven is a future world.

MOTHERS AND OTHERS SOCIETY MEETS
The Mothers and Others Society of the E. Church held a meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. D. W. Robinson on the Boulevard. The donations of materials for the recent rummage sale, not having been exhausted, another such sale is contemplated in the near future.

KENILWORTH RALLY
On Friday evening, Oct. 17th, the Republican voters held a rally meeting under the leadership of County Committeeman Grippo, in the W. O. Hall. Assemblyman Thos. M. Myr and Sheriff Harry Simmons were guests and spoke on the political issues of the county and state. The local candidates for council, Sheriff and Mr. O'Brien, also addressed the gathering, as did Borough Clerk Hargreaves and County Committeeman Grippo. It seemed the desire of those assembled to reunite the Republicans and would indicate that this was largely accomplished. Refreshments and a social hour followed the business of the meeting.

COUNTRY CLUB MEETS
The regular meeting of the Kenilworth Country Club was held on last Thursday evening at the Kenilworth Inn. A musical dance and Halloween supper were served for Saturday evening, Nov. 1st. It was also decided to have a match tennis game between the local club and the Roselle Park Tennis Club, Messrs. Carlson and Minch playing for Kenilworth.

FIRE AT CIRCULAR LOOM PLANT
Friday evening at 6:45 the local fire department responded to an alarm and extinguished a small fire in one of the tanks at the American Circular Loom Co's plant on 33rd street. The damage was slight.

Thank God Every Morning
Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day which must be done, whether you like it or not. Being forced to work and forced to do your best, will breed in you a sense of purpose, self-control, diligence and content, and a knowledge of the value of the day's work. —Charles Kingsley.

Aimed at Great Britain
The Suffolk resolves were the tongue and covenant made by many Massachusetts towns in 1774 to abstain from all commercial intercourse with Great Britain. They were executed after the closing of the port of Boston by British authorities as a reprisal for the destruction of the tea in Boston harbor by patriots in defiance of the tax on tea.

Birds Rob Mail for Nest
Tomb-tits, the tiny birds whose correct name is the chimney swift, have been the postal authorities' "cat" for some time. Laneshire, England, some cause for worry. The birds decided to nest in a mail box, and appropriated letters one of which contained a check. The letters were torn up.

STAND BY THE CONSTITUTION
The following resolution was unanimously passed at the State Council Session, Jr. O. U. A. M., Atlantic City, October 9, 1924: Whereas, The United States Constitution guarantees our rights and liberties against encroachments by any public official or any organization lawful or unlawful; and Whereas, The Constitution is the greatest charter ever given to mankind, save the Ten Commandments; and Whereas, Its destruction would be a blow to the hope of civilization of the world and of the American Republic;
It is resolved, That we are unalterably opposed to the destruction of our Constitution through an amendment to vest all the powers of government in the Congress of the United States, and in the hands of the President, and in the hands of the powers of the Executive.

This would destroy the system of government, the only free government that has ever permanently survived, and would make it possible for Congress to abolish the right of free speech, at a free press, at a trial by jury, at the right to worship according to the dictates of conscience and of other rights which we hold dear and for which our Anglo-Saxon forefathers fought for centuries. It would substitute the rule of force for the rule of justice. We call on all good citizens and other patriotic organizations to use their utmost endeavors to save our Republic from this dangerous movement and to keep America as it is, the land of liberty under law, instead of a Soviet Russia, a land of oppression under force.

PROTECT OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS
The following has been sent by the Legislative Committee of the State Association, Jr. O. U. A. M., to all councils of the Order:
This election is important to all friends of the public schools. See that every patriotic voter is registered and voted.
For the first time in our history we have candidates for President and Vice President running on platforms attacking our constitutional methods of government and advocating Radical, Socialistic, Communist and Un-American substitutes. The schools of New Jersey derive revenue and support from the railroad Equal Tax Law. This law was advocated by our order and signed by a governor who was a prominent member of our order. La Follette advocates the plan of governmental ownership of railroads. The adoption of his plan means a loss of these revenues and a higher tax rate and a crippling of the schools.

Last year the railroads of New Jersey paid to the municipalities, $5,620,300.25; to the state, $1,640,293.43, and to the public schools, 77,580,876. This money we must safeguard. A vote for La Follette is a vote to impair our wonderful school system.

Swamp Lily
The swamp lily is not one of the water lily family. It is of the Amur-lily family and is related to the narcissus, the snowdrop and the century plant. While the water lily or pond lily, as it is sometimes called, grows in nearly all parts of the United States, the swamp lily is found only in the southern states.

"EVER since I moved into my new house with its Thatcher Round Boiler, I've been taking it easy. That boiler comes nearer to running itself than anything I have ever seen. A few minutes morning and night, and the house is warm and comfortable. No constant shoveling of coal. No needless stair chasing. Take it from me, there's nothing can beat a Thatcher."

Effect of Great War on Wealth of World

The aggregate prewar wealth of the twenty odd nations actively engaged in the great war, according to an estimate recently completed by the research department of the Bankers' Trust company of New York, amounted to $200,000,000,000. The wealth of these same nations today is estimated to be about $19,000,000,000. The prewar wealth of the British empire—that is, of Great Britain, the Dominion, India and the crown colonies—was approximately $140,000,000,000, while today the wealth of this same group of nations is estimated to be about $14,000,000,000. The wealth of France before the war is placed at just under $100,000,000,000, and is estimated to be approximately the same today.

The prewar wealth of the United States is placed at $200,000,000,000, and the wealth today is $200,000,000,000, while the prewar wealth of Germany is estimated to have been upward of $80,000,000,000 and today to be about $5,000,000,000. These figures are all on the gold prewar basis of values, having been adjusted for inflation. The per capita wealth of Great Britain today is placed at $1,489 and of the different nations composing the British empire at $118, including the wealth and population of India. The wealth of France is estimated in 1918 to be $1,484 per capita and of the United States $2,000 per capita. The wealth of Germany is placed at $901 per capita.

The Bankers' Trust company points out that the total wealth of the former belligerents has not materially changed as a result of the war, but that there has been a marked redistribution of such wealth. This redistribution having taken place not only as between nations, but also as between the peoples within the boundaries of each nation. —Manufacturers' Record.

Idaho's National Park

The new national monument, Crater of the Moon, which has just been set aside by a proclamation issued by President Coolidge, is a region of volcanic formation situated 12 miles southwest of Arco on the Idaho Central highway, which connects Boise and all points west with Yellowstone National Park. This new monument has an area of approximately 30 square miles and was called Crater of the Moon from the resemblance of its topography to the surface of the moon as seen through a telescope. The rocky lava is as fresh appearing as though it poured out yesterday. The lava caves and tunnels occurring in the flow are perhaps the most interesting features. In some of the tunnels snow and ice are found which do not melt entirely in the year round. The whole landscape has a weirdness which at certain seasons of the year takes on an equally beautiful effect produced by the myriad clumps of delicately tinted wild flowers blooming in profusion on the black, cindery hillsides.

Has Seen Ghost of Prince

Strange manifestations, associated by some with the unseen world, are reported from Hall place, the beautiful old house in Kent, where tradition says the Black Prince wooed and won the "fair maid of Kent." For centuries stories have been told of the appearance, from time to time, of the armored ghost of the Black Prince whose visitations, say the Kentish people, always are made at times when England is in peril. Lady Limerick, who lives in the haunted house, says she has seen the ghost three times, twice in the war and again recently. "It has always been the same," she says, "and resembles a youth wearing armor while a light partially shrouds the body. It only stays for a second and then disappears." —London Mail.

Had to "See" Peter Pan

Though blinded in the war, a young Australian soldier named Penn wanted to "see" the statue of Peter Pan in London before he was sent home. "I was asked," writes a contributor to Country Life, "whether I would take him out the following Sunday. 'You know,' he said, 'I'm to return to Melbourne in a week or two, and I simply must see Peter Pan before I go.'"

"When we reached the statue Penn put his hand upon it. 'Why,' he said, 'it's smaller than I thought; I shall know it all.' Carefully he felt it place by place with little murmurs of delight. 'Just look at this tiny mouse!' he would say. 'See this lovely little fairy; why, she is stretching up to speak to him.' Then again, 'You are quite sure that I am not missing anything?'"

Remarkable Cure

A marvel of surgery has been brought to light by the visit of a man to a London hospital. He said he had brought his wife to be treated, as the hospital had been successful with him 18 years ago. He stated that he had suffered from cancer, and that his tongue had been cut out in 1905. The man's story sounded incredible, particularly as he was able to talk. —Naturally, an almost unheard-of thing after such an operation, but a medical examination corroborated his statement. The malignant growth had gone entirely, and the man was able to masticate his food and enjoy his smoke.

Saved Obdurate Lady Some Embarrassment

The hindward face of the Rock of Gibraltar stands directly opposite to a conspicuous height, called the "Queen of Spain's Chair." This name has its origin in a legend of the great siege. It is said that the queen of Spain took up a position on this height, vowing she would not leave it till she saw the Spanish flag flying over the Rock of Gibraltar. A report of the royal lady's situation ultimately reached the governor, General Elliott, who at once most gallantly caused the Spanish flag to be waved on the summit of the Rock.

Whether the legend is true or not, it is certain that there are no more striking aspects of the Rock than those obtained by the pedestrians who make the rough ascent up to the "Queen of Spain's Chair." In traversing the Spanish town of Lines, separated from the Rock by the tongue of neutral ground some half-mile in length, pictures of primitive Spain present themselves at every turn.

In making the tower the objective one emerges from the town by narrow footpaths and donkey tracks. The rough slopes of the hill afford pasture for numerous herds of goats, every herd tended by a shepherd with a long staff. A pile of baked rock crowns the summit of the hill. On the topmost of these stands an ancient watch-tower. From here the whole circle of the horizon is a magnificent panorama of sea and mountain, a picture in which the situation of the Rock presents its full significance, thrust out like the blue Mediterranean toward the mountains of Morocco.

Tree Gives Evidence as to Age of Skull

More than four hundred years ago a man died in British Columbia and Mother Nature herself erected over his grave a tombstone on which she inscribed considerable data concerning him.

The tombstone was a tree. Anthropologists, digging under its roots, found a skull of unusually narrow type in which a hole had been bored, presumably so that it could be filled with some preservative material.

How long ago did the red man practice this form of embalming his dead? For a time this question puzzled life scientists. Then they turned to the tree. Annual rings of growth that were more than four hundred years were found on the trunk. A still greater age for the skull is probable, since the outside layers of this stump had been burned off.

The studies leading to this interesting conclusion were conducted under the direction of Harlan I. Smith of the geological survey of Canada.

Protect Birds of Paradise

The lure of the gorgeous plumage of the birds of paradise leads many hunters to the almost inaccessible parts of New Guinea. In spite of the risk and danger, so many are in the business that this wonderful, feathered beauty is in danger of extinction. As a result the Dutch government of New Guinea is considering a law to protect them. The birds are found amid high mountains and waste, foul-smelling swamps and jungle, and hundreds of gunners, brave these perils every year. Sometimes a party is compelled to live for months amid perils of poisonous everglades surrounded by deadly reptiles, hostile savages and prowling animals. The most sought-for variety of the plumes are those of the blue bird of paradise. As much as $500 has been paid for a single specimen, while red, brown and yellow ones command prices from $25 to $500.

The Wrong Hat

The good parson was a bit absent-minded and somewhere or other during the day, possibly at the barber shop, he acquired a hat that looked very like his but belonged to someone else. That evening he dined out and when the guests were leaving the host accompanied them to the door. "This is yours, is it not?" said the host, picking up the parson's hat. "Yes," said the parson. "That is mine." There was a queer smile on the host's face as he handed over the headgear. For pasted in the crown thereof was a card bearing this legend, meant for all and sundry: "No, you fool! This ain't your hat." —Boston Transcript.

Precedent Established

Seated in dignified ease on a mat before his booth, a Chinese vegetable vendor proceeded to arrange some measures of artichokes. A haughty citizen came along and overturned a measure, thus disclosing that the finest specimens were on top. Whereupon he upbraided the vendor, saying: "How is it, wily one, that you put the biggest artichokes at the top?" "Is it not that way with life, honorable?" responded the vendor calmly. "Are not the biggest men at the top?"

Safe

A bright little girl, aged four, and her brother, aged six, were spending the night with their aunt. When bedtime came the aunt asked them how they said their prayers. The little girl answered: "Sometimes I say them on muddy's knees and sometimes to the side of the bed." "And how about you, little boy?" asked the aunt. "Oh, I don't need to pray. I sleep with daddy." —Everybody's Magazine.

STATE POLICE NET $101,005 PROFIT

Fines and Value of Recovered Property Exceeds Cost of Troopers of New Jersey.

FAKE RECEIVERSHIP SCORED

Jersey Lawyers of Repute and Business Bodies Aim to Stop Scandal.
Abuse in Proceedings Due to Attorneys Who Seek Fat Fees.

Trenton—There was a profit of $101,005.11 to the citizens of New Jersey as a result of operations by state police during the year ending June 30 last, says Colonel N. Norman Schwarkopf, superintendent. In his third annual report submitted to Governor Hoffman.

Maintenance of the force cost $354, 173.64, the report shows, while the amount of money collected in fines and the value of recovered property was $195,184.79. And, as pointed out by Colonel Schwarkopf, the latter
services rendered by the state police in other fields.

"Such services as fighting forest fires, rendering first aid, assistance to travelers on the road and co-operative work have a very definite value and afford a decidedly monetary return to the citizens of the state," reads the report, "and yet it is impossible to competently estimate the value of this work. Furthermore, the preventative effect of the presence of the state police has unquestionably prevented much crime, destruction of property and loss of life, all of which has a definite monetary value."

In addition to being responsible for the collection of fines totaling $69, 448.29, the troopers took part in 12, 356 investigations, aided in fighting seventy-nine forest fires. Inquired into 4,018 verbal complaints, interviewed 9,320 persons, gave medical aid in 843 cases and issued 49,704 warnings. Performance of these various duties necessitated the traveling of more than 1,337,000 miles, chiefly by motor. Notwithstanding that this travel was in all sorts of weather and under often difficult conditions, there were few serious accidents and only one death.

Arrests by the state police numbered 5,161 for the year and resulted in 4,237 convictions. There are 760 cases pending, 117 were dismissed and 47 lost on warrant. The high percentage of convictions is cited by Colonel Schwarkopf as indicative of the thorough preparation of cases for court and proof that arrests are rarely without just cause.

At Work Forty-eight Hours

Commenting on the fact that the average personnel of the force was 121 men for the year, Col. Schwarkopf makes it plain that the department could be augmented to considerable advantage. In his opinion, the present force, which has an authorized strength of 140 men, could be doubled and every member profitably employed. The average day of the trooper is fifteen hours, he says, and it is not infrequent that their duties, particularly in serious cases, demand from twenty-four to forty-eight consecutive hours. Because of this condition, it is often necessary, he declared, that minor cases be disregarded.

The greatest expenditure during the year was for salaries and wages, $184,700 going for that purpose. Materials and supplies called for an outlay of $174,450; current repairs cost $15,000 and miscellaneous expenditures totaled $19,600. The sale of surplus horses, salvaged clothing and other goods netted $656.52.

At present the equipment of the troops comprises 40 horses, 37 motorcycles, 19 automobiles and a truck.

Would Curb Bankruptcy

Recommendations aimed to correct alleged abuses of the present practice in receivership proceedings were submitted to Chancellor Walker at the State House by committees representing the Lawyers' Club of Essex county and the Newark Chamber of Commerce. Chancellor Walker took the request under advisement and promised careful consideration of the proposed amendment.

One of the chief causes asked was a provision that no receiver be appointed or temporary injunction issued without notice to the defendant, unless it was clearly shown by the petitioner that irreparable loss would otherwise result. In cases where appointments were found necessary without notice it was suggested that the court set forth the facts forming the basis of its action and provide for expiration of the order in seven days, excepting cases where good cause was advanced for granting an extension.

Another suggestion was to the effect that the court demand full particulars of all applications for receivers-hips as to the reason for their action and what interests, if any, considered in making the motion had in the petition. A uniform system of fixing counsel and receiver's fees also was declared an urgent need.

Several changes requested were already the unwritten law of the court, said Chancellor Walker. That being the case, declared one of the commission members, it might be helpful if all the rules were in written form.

William Bittles, president of the Newark Chamber of Commerce, was of the opinion that receivers and their committees should be compelled to submit a detailed report of their work in making connections. It was agreed by the chancellor that such might be an excellent idea, though he expressed a view that in some instances it might prove an irksome task.

An special counsel for the Chamber of Commerce Robert H. McCarter spoke at length in favor of the changes, citing several cases in which he said great loss had resulted from the unnecessary appointment of receivers. He told of one instance in which a landlord and mortgagee of a property had been withdrawn for a month by an injunction order and then called to share in the payment of fees totaling between $200 and $3,000 when the order was dismissed for lack of cause.

Prefacing his remarks with the assertion that he was a plain speaker, man, Ural McCarter, member of the trade body committee, advocated the disbarment of any lawyer bringing re-ceivership proceedings to gain appointment as counsel to the receiver.
In that manner, he declared, much of the present abuses would be eliminated. Chancellor Walker, however, was of the opinion that a rule of that sort could easily be circumvented by a lawyer desiring to bring receivership action delegating the task to a junior member of the bar.
And, raising in the background until the matter of appointing counsel to the receiver was discussed, Chancellor Walker pointed out that, of course, it was not the practice of the court to throttle or destroy corporations, but rather to foster such enterprises, though he did admit that there might be instances in which the court was deceived and led to act unwisely.
He expressed appreciation of the petitioners bringing the matter to his attention and voiced regret that the business men of any community should entertain the belief that their rights were being invaded.

Federal Court to Act Also

The United States Supreme Court will take up the reform of bankruptcy and receivership practice in New Jersey according to a letter from Chief Justice Taft, received by Joseph O. Wolber, secretary of the Essex County Lawyers' Club. Chief Justice Taft, replying to Mr. Wolber's inquiry, wrote that the conference of circuit judges had made recommendations to the supreme court for the amendment of bankruptcy rules, and that the attention would be brought to the attention of the supreme court as soon as minutes of the meeting are ready for circulation among members of the conference.

Dixie Hounds Lead Coon Hunters

Progeny of some of the Southland's greatest coon hunting hounds have been brought into New Jersey by resident sportsmen this year for the promotion of the sport in this state. Under the protection of a long closed season, raccoons are said to be fairly numerous in the woodlands. Hunters, enthusiastic at prospect of a revival of this seasonal pastime, are hastening to build up packs of dogs specially trained to follow the strange trail of this wily animal. The dogs are dependent upon to leave for its pursuers.

Although the open season, from October 1 to December 15, is still young, fall nights, with first touches of frost, and quite a few hunters following the baying hounds, while other hunters are kept from the thrilling sport only by the lack of the proper dogs. For say hounds are said to quickly learn the tricks of coon hunting from southern dogs imported to lead the packs on the trail.

Rearing of Quail

On its own game farm next spring the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission will inaugurate a project to raise quail for the restocking of hunting grounds of the state. Previous efforts to import bob whites from southern and western states have not met with great success, and where such birds have been brought in and liberated it is the opinion of many sportsmen that they soon migrated southward or perished before they became acclimated.

Commissioners believe that quail can be reared in semi-captivity as operating pheasants, many thousands of which are now raised on the game farms and turned annually in all parts of the state for restocking. The game farm at Forked river, in the center of a natural habitat for the birds, has been selected for the qual-raising experiment. Superintendent Malcolm Dunn, who has successfully raised numerous covies in recent years, is planning for the wholesale project.

The quail will be reared from native stock, which is strong and vigorous and will not migrate. Protec-tory laws and standards in the game farm will be set open season sportsmen report in most southern counties. The birds reared at the game farm will be sent to those sections where intensive hunting has depleted the wild stock.

Restitution for Child Amendment

Restitution of the children's amendment will be the subject of Assembly Bill No. 1 in the next Legislature. It is the plan of Mrs. Louis K. Rittenhouse, chairman of the Child Welfare Department of the League of Women Voters, co-operating with the Consumers' League and other state organizations, is carried through.

If the amendment should be ratified by the necessary thirty-six states, New Jersey is bound to profit by any subsequent federal law. Other would raise the standard in other states. It would free this state from cheap competition, to consider the question solely from its economic phase," Mrs. Rittenhouse believes.

Woodcock Second to No Bird for Intelligence

If we had believed the naturalists the woodcock is an individual bird.
When hunting the bird is a great height with long wings to rest, and then descends almost perpendicularly to the spot which he has chosen. As a woodcock he is unexcelled, and has a few more to have a better average of him, which is striking his long bill into the turf in search of breakfast.

Among the other characteristics is a dislike of bright light, which makes him keep in the dark during the daytime. Whether this is due to the fact that woodcocks do not feed at all though he is described as having less which are too short for his large body, a neck which is both too short and too fat, and a bill which is too long and too straight. To complete the list of his qualities, his eyes are said to be too far back and his head entirely out of drawing.

Undoubtedly the nature favored him, for they have a complex story that the woodcock is capable of self-surgery, and has been known to put a broken leg in splints and to dress his wounds with plaster made of mud and grass. The authority for this assertion is given in the Living Age as a letter in 1783 by de Parry, who has gathered testimony from witnesses in Sardinia, Thuringia and France. The legend of the woodcock's self-surgery is it for pure asian acumen.

Trenchers of Wood Often Works of Art

Wooden trenchers, commonly called "treens" were in common use during the middle ages in Great Britain. "Masters" or cups and bowls were frequently mentioned in wills and inventories. The finest specimens belonged to the richer nobility. There was the Great Master at York, the Duke of Lanham, and at St. Dunstons, Southwark, there was a "master" with a wooden cup knop of silver and gilt which was given to the church wardens to drink when they met. These valuable wooden cups were sometimes ornamented by a rim of silver, but otherwise they were seldom decorated by more than a few low moldings or incised lines. Their value and beauty lay in the grain of the wood and generally maple, and the old trenchers chose the part of the trunk where it divided off into branches so as to obtain the speckled bird's-eye grain. By Tudor times pewter began to take the place of treens, though poorer folk continued to use these wooden trench-ers and bowls till much later, especially in the north of England and in Scotland.

The Marriage Problem

You can no more make yourself keep on loving some one to order than you can make yourself fall in or out of love with some one to order. It's like asking a small boy to fight a street lamp with only a match. He can't reach—the whole thing's beyond him. That's the tragedy—the whole relationship is dependent on something that falls as a little remote above your head as a drifting cloud. To base on that no irrevocable agreement? It's simply asking for trouble.
It's like jumping into tin from water without knowing whether you can swim or not, and then explaining because you're drowned.
From "The Marriage Craft," by H. H.
Nicholson.

Throw Out the Life Line

Just before the conclusion of the weekly prayer meeting in a country town one evening the parish arose, and glided over the congregation.
"Is there anybody present?" said he,
"who wishes the prayers of the congregation for a relative or a friend?"
"Yes, parson," answered a tall, angular woman, rising to her feet. "I want the congregation to pray for my husband."

"Why, Sister Martha," exclaimed the parson, with a surprised expression, "you have no husband."

"Of know I haven't," was the calm rejoinder of Sister Martha. "I want all hands to pitch in and help pray for one."

Burial of Braddock

Gen. Edward Braddock was buried in the middle of the road about 50 miles from Cumberland, Md. Care was taken to close the grave and have the troops and wagon train pass over it to efface all marks of the burial.
This was to prevent desecration of the remains by the Indians. Many years later General Braddock's grave was discovered when a road was being built through that part of Pennsylvania. Part of the bones of Braddock finally found their way to a museum in Philadelphia. It is said that some of them were also taken to England.
At any rate they were removed from their resting place in the forest.

Bird Imitates Mole

A remarkable bird, in appearance not unlike an ordinary farmyard dezen, and known as a Highland cock, has broken away from the bird tradition and instead of building its nest among the trees or caves, has launched out on bold and original lines of its own and has learned to make a subterranean nest. The idea is exclusive.
So far ornithological experts have failed to discover imitators. Or-tridges have been observed diving with the idea, but so far they have only been able to get their heads below the surface.

Exiled Academics in Quaker City in 1775

Longfellow's monument in the Academy is a reminder that the Academics of "Evangelicalism" in three states in the fall of 1775. There were 43 of these unfortunate, of whom Longfellow's hero and heroine were typical.

Anthony Bonnet, whose name is perpetuated in a German street, obtained funds for them from the assembly. Samuel Emes of the well-known Quaker family gave land for the houses which they put up with the money collected by Bonnet. The little huts were erected on the north side of Fifth street between Fifth and Sixth.

Here they made wooden shoes, and "linen" cloth from rags which they collected.

Christ church and "Old Swedes," of course, are in the poem; the Friends' almshouse at Walnut place has been razed. The traditional resting place of the two lovers, St. Joseph's church, is the oldest Catholic church in the country. Reached through an archway off Willing's alley between Third and Fourth streets south of Walnut, it is like the little hidden churches of London, and the hands of persons well acquainted with such hidden shrines, as Carpenter's hall nearby show of the existence of the church built on the site of Father Grotto's co-sectory "manhouse" put up in the year that Washington was born—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Birds That Keep Up With the Procession

Many species of birds have shown that they are possessed of a progressive spirit that has prompted them to take advantage of improved conditions offered by the advance of civilization. Thus, says an exchange, the chimney swift, which before houses with chimneys were built, lived and built its nests in hollow trees, now usually finds chimneys more satisfactory and fastidiously so.

The barn swallow, which formerly built its nest on a ledge on the side of some cliff or cave, a situation still sometimes utilized in the wilder parts of the country, now generally makes use of the rafters of barns as offering better protection both from the elements and his enemies.

The natural nesting place of the phoebe is a narrow ledge on the face of some cliff, but the greater majority now find that bridge, overpasses and other man-made structures offer more advantageous situations, and a pair is rarely found occupying the former site. The martins and vireos, which once nested in hollow trees exclusively, now prefer the bird boxes built by kindly humans beings when they can find one before it is pre-empted by the ubiquitous English sparrow.

Wouldn't Stand for That

She was a plump widow, with two charming daughters, and was beginning to wear her "widow's" dignity.

All the same, when the minister called she said: "Ah! I feel the loss of my poor, dear husband very much. I never have any appetite for anything now."

The parson was all sympathy, and in the attempt to cheer her by pointing out what a comfort to her her daughters must be, replied: "I can quite understand that but you are misled."

"I'm not," interrupted the indignant woman, "allow me to inform you that I am not led in at all."

Ancient Wine Press

From the scanty notices contained in the Bible, it appears that the wine presses of the ancient Hebrews consisted of two receptacles at different elevations, in the upper of which the grapes were trodden, while the lower one received the expressed juice. The two vats are mentioned together only in Joel 3:12. "The press is full, the vats overflow"—the upper vat being full of grapes, the lower one overflowing with the juice that had been pressed out and had come down from the upper vat. The two vats were usually hewn out of the solid rock. Ancient wine presses so constructed are still to be seen in Palestine.

A Simple Matter

They were sitting on the piazza of a summer hotel, swapping stories. "Ever hear this one?" asked the dark young man. "A dog was tied to a rope fourteen feet long. Twenty feet away was a fat, juicy bone. How did the dog get to the bone?"

"Oh, that's an old gag," said his companion. "You want me to say, 'I give it up,' and then you'd say, 'That's what the other car did.'"

"No, you're wrong, for the dog got the bone."

"Well, how did he get it?"

"Why, the other end of the rope was not tied."

Mending Glasses

There are several good preparations for mending broken spectacles and other glassware. The following is highly recommended by a housewife, who claims the mended article can be put into boiling water without breaking apart:

To make the preparation add one part solution of bicarbonate of potash to five parts of glycerine. Cover the broken edges of the glass with this, press them together and wash the mended article in the strong solution for a few hours. It is equally effective for mending broken glass.

Advance Made During Span of Four Lives

In the eleventh month of his ninety-third year, G. W. Baldwin, Yale '53, wrote a letter to the secretary of the Yale Alumni fund on March 23 last, which contains a statement well worth reflection, says the Independent. Mr. Baldwin said:

"I have argued cases before Chief Justice Lemuel Shaw of Massachusetts, who died at the age of eighty-six. He once said in my presence and hearing that he had talked with a man who had talked with Peregrine White, who was born on the Mayflower in 1620."

These four lives span the history of America from the landing of the pilgrims to the present. Peregrine White's father died in that first terrible winter at Plymouth. His mother's subsequent marriage to Governor Winslow was the first wedding of Europeans in New England. Peregrine himself lived to be eighty-four, remaining "vigorous and of comely aspect to the last," as one of his contemporaries delightfully described the original Mayflower descendant.

Between the death of Peregrine White at Marshfield, Mass., in 1704, and the birth of Lemuel Shaw at Barnstable in 1781 stretch some forty miles and seventy-seven years. It is a pity that the chief justice did not identify the octogenarian who as a small child talked to the still comely Peregrine at Marshfield about 1705, and who in 1785 or thereabouts, himself nearing ninety, passed word of that meeting along to young Shaw at Barnstable. But though that ancient worthy is unidentified, the incident is entirely credible.

A chain of only four lives connects the Mayflower and the giant dirigibles that cross in two days an ocean upon which the weary pilgrims were tossed for seventy days. The beginnings of America are thus brought intimately near.

Yet it is even more significant to reflect that only the last of these four lives covers the transition from sail and horse to railroad, motorcar, airplane and dirigible. Chief Justice Shaw traveled no more swiftly in his youth than did Peregrine White. The competent industrialist of our day would be almost as foreign to one as to the other. The acceleration of civilization, as measured in human triumphs over time and space is seldom to be visualized so sharply as in this contrast.

Molasses as Fertilizer

Molasses is being used with rather sensational results as a fertilizer for sugar cane fields in the British island of Mauritius in the Indian ocean. Increases in yield of about nine tons an acre are recorded after molasses applications. The colonial department of agriculture has made a close study of the experiments and has arrived at a tentative explanation. When first applied the molasses partly sterilizes the soil in consequence of which ordinary soil organisms are for the time greatly reduced in numbers while other organisms, notably molds, are stimulated. The astringent of the soil is suspended and nitrates already in the soil disappear. When the effects of the molasses treatment wear off, nitrification is resumed at an enhanced rate, and apparently leads to an accumulation of nitrates at a time when they can best be utilized by the growing plant. Ammonia and nitrates are said to have a marked tendency to revert to insoluble forms in the soil of the island. Molasses does not increase the rate of nitrogen fixation in the soil.

Banana Fibre Pencils

Banana fibre is being experimented with by European pencil manufacturers as a substitute for the ordinary graphite. The fibre is first burned in "fibre," crushed and then mixed with what is technically known as "binding" to give it a gluey consistency and to improve its marking qualities. The whole is then worked up into pulp by machinery, and when partly dry, is crushed again and forced through golds under considerable pressure. The rolls are then baked, cut into lengths and packed with great care in cast-iron crucibles and kept at red heat for two hours. After cooling gently, the "leads" are ready for the wood.

Quite Likely

"Ah! What picturesque scenery you have here!" rhapsodized a motorist who had stopped for a drink of water. "How sublime are those hills! How—Great Scott! Look at that little boy playing with a revolver! Is it loaded?"

"I reckon so," replied Gap Johnson at Bumpus Ridge.

"My heavens! Don't you know that a child of that age hasn't sense enough to handle a loaded revolver, and—"

"Aw, he's got as much sense about handling a weapon as I—yaw-wa-ha-ha!"—Kansas City Star.

"Sleepy" Schools

The announcement of a school for sleepy children who seem unable to keep awake in their classrooms is being discussed by the London county council education committee. The school would be given special ventilation and the lessons would be taught in a way to "awaken" interest in the youngest children.

REPORT FINDING OF MAYAN THRONE ROOM

Excavators Uncover Royal Relic in Buried City.

Advice received at Washington from the archeological expedition of the Carnegie Institute to Yucatan says that the excavators at work on the ruins of Chichen Itza have penetrated to the throne of the king, perhaps the most magnificent spot within the columns of the buried chief city of the prehistoric Mayan empire.

The throne is a magnificent affair, thirteen feet wide, seven feet deep and three feet high. On the sloping sides are carved elaborately costumed warriors, wearing in and out among which are serpents, sacred to Kukulkan, principal god of the Itza. The throne was painted in deep red, warm yellow, brilliant blue and green.

The throne and council chamber were found in the northeast corner of the buried city. The excavators were guided in their work by four sculptured columns, the rest of the 48 which compose this colonnade being plain. The walls and plain columns were painted with frescoes in bright colors, now almost entirely destroyed. The floors were of hard lime plaster, painted a rich red. Around the back and side walls runs a deep, broad bench with sloping back, where perhaps the Itzan dignitaries, priests and councilors sat in solemn deliberation with the king seated on his throne.

Another very important discovery has been the outer wall of the colonnade, with its sculptured decorations uninjured, in position at the southeast corner. This shows the original height of the building to have been 194 feet. Around the top of the building there had been a sculptured cornice. Below this there were two great, grotesque human heads with square eye sockets, curling noses, filed teeth set in grinning mouths, and square earrings. These are representations of none less than Kukulkan himself. Below is another cornice.

Life in Chichen Itza, however, was not entirely one of grotesque reverence to Kukulkan. The Carnegie Institute excavators announce the uncovering of a ball court just north of the throne location in which a game similar to the American basketball was played. The game, which was introduced by the Toltec-Aztec conquerors of the city, had for its object the driving of a solid rubber ball through a ring fastened in the side of the wall. The court just uncovered is the third to be discovered in the "New" Mayan empire.

The game was known as "tlachtli." The hole through the ring being perpendicular to the wall, it was necessary to stand very close to the wall and throw the ball practically parallel to the axis of the wall. The ball would not be thrown directly with the hand, but had to be struck with the elbow, wrist or hip. The players wore leather pads on these parts to make the rubber ball bound from them more easily.

The winning shot was so difficult, and so seldom made, that according to another rule of the game, the lucky player had forfeited to him all the clothing of the spectators.

At the court of Montezuma, where the game first was witnessed by the Spaniards, high stakes were wagered on the game by the Aztec nobles—quills filled with gold dust, estates, even liberty, the holders becoming slaves if they lost. It is notable that from the balls used in this game the Spaniards gained their first conception of rubber.

The excavating work has been brought to an end for the year, due to the rainy season, which prevents any operations for the greater part of the time.

An Example

A Methodist minister on Michigan Avenue made a fine example of the contagion of marriage. He told of a couple last week who decided to become married after they had seen a wedding party emerge from his church. They were walking along the street, the minister says, and were watching the members of the party leaving the church. A hasty consultation was held, a marriage license was obtained an hour later, and within three hours of the first wedding, the minister was asked to marry the couple.—Detroit News.

No More Invitations

I had been working for a concern for some time, and was often invited to the executive's home for dinner.

After dinner one evening, when we were sitting in the library, he appeared with an envelope album, and brought it to me showing me a picture of his sister, the other one being his Cousin Kate.

Finally he said, "And this is my wife's first husband."

"My, what a peculiar looking person!" I exclaimed. "But your wife never mentioned being married before."

"No!" he replied. "I happen to be her first husband."—Chicago Tribune.

Happy Thought

Even out in the shadows of Universal City, people do have the measles, and of course, Harriet didn't escape. But even sickness has its compensations, as on the night when her mother crept to the bedside and whispered: "Are you asleep, Harriet?"

"Yes," said Harriet. "I'm asleep, and the doctor said particularly that I wasn't to be waked up to have my medicine."—Los Angeles Times.

Holds Tied Record

In the Bay of Fundy, New Brunswick, the world's highest tides are recorded. Here they often reach as high as 100 feet. On the other hand, the coast of Iceland, at Akureyri, there is no perceptible tide at all, and scientists are making constant study to ascertain the reason for this variation.

PROBLEMS COME IN WITH ADDED YEARS

Provision Must Be Made for Life's Extension.

That the "average man" is now in possession of a considerable span of average good health is evidenced by his being by Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the ministry of health, in his annual report for 1923, "The average man, who is healthy and active, the conclusion that his greatest period of life is likely to be the last twenty years. It may even be extended as far as the year 1930. The beauty of a generation, as evidenced, indeed, that few of the present appear to know what to do with the extra years that are expected of them. They are at an age at which it would seem, appropriate, that they should be making provision for their old age."

of a generation, as evidenced, indeed,
age at which it would seem, ap-

This sense of a new importance in years, and all that it implies, has nothing in common with the old idea of growing old gracefully. Indeed, it is rejection of that doctrine of passive resistance to the inevitable. To have planned the later years as the earlier ones planned is to have filled them beforehand with the spirit of enterprise, which is the spirit of youth.
It is to refuse to grow old at all. Such an attitude was impossible a generation ago; it is inevitable in these days.
Indeed the whole scheme of living is now in process of transformation.
For the added years, which are not immediate, which extend back almost to the schoolroom, they make youth and the thoughts of youth longer, and they amplify and deepen the significance of maturity.

Thus men and women are able to take wider views and to build their hopes higher. The forecasts of pursuing time have lost something of their menace. There are steps in the present world, of the march of this process of evolution. Superficially the pace may appear to be quicker; actually there is less hurrying towards achievement. And resentment is keener against the charge of "growing old." Youth and age, indeed, seem to be discovering fresh bonds of sympathy in the general quickening of enthusiasm which is the accompaniment of an assurance of longer life. Age has so very much to give to youth and is so much more capable now of giving it effectively. The complaint is often made that each year of added existence tends to create an "older outlook" in the general mind by altering the proportions of recruits and veterans. But that complaint becomes groundless when the spirit of youth remains alive and active in the hearts of the old, and when the old, in turn, longer by an impassable physical barrier, age and youth can meet on terms of equality in the common service of humanity.

Plant Trees to Save Birds Three hundred coconut palms are to be shipped immediately to Bird Key, one of the Tortugas Islands off the southwest coast of Florida, to protect the noddy tern from extinction, according to Dr. Paul Bartsch of the Smithsonian Institution. This tiny island is the only place under the American flag where this species of palm-like birds breed. Several years ago a tropical hurricane swept across the island and destroyed the trees in which they used to nest. Now it is planned to grow new trees to provide apartments for these rare terns.

Jewelry From Hard Coal Polished hard coal as a substitute for jet in the production of rings, necklaces, watch fobs, ornamental batteries and similar articles, is being experimented with by a German inventor. Selected hard coal is used and after the substance is cut as near to the required dimensions as possible, it is finished off with fine files and then polished. Monogram rings in scrubbed with minute inlaid in white enamel present a smart appearance, and few are said to be able to guess the nature of the substitute.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Blow Light "On" News
To "blow out" the light was a common expression in the days of oil lamps and candles, but with the advent of a new electric flashlight, the expression "blow out" the light will likely take hold. An ingenious inventor has produced a turbine flashlight for pocket use that resembles a white-tie and as it has no battery to run down and last indefinitely. By blowing through the mouthpiece, a tiny turbine is set going and to producing electricity which is carried to the bulb.

Domestic Economist
The story is told of an excellent Manchester woman who frequently invites her friends to tea, but who furnishes her table far from liberally.
When her guests have eaten all the bread and butter and cookies and realize the repeat is over, she looks brightly at the empty plates. "Well, now," she says, "I triumphantly announce, 'haven't I judged your appetite exactly?'" Boston Transcript.

Must Import Material American ingenuity has devised the lightest and most durable umbrella in the world. But for all the effort of American ingenuity, the industry could not manufacture a single umbrella but for the manganese imported from Brazil and British India that goes into its steel ribs, or the silk which is mixed with cotton to make the covering, or the malacca, bamboo, mahogany or other imported woods used in the handles.

Tribe Dying Out
A puzzling disease similar to lep-rosy is gradually exterminating the Sioux Indians in the Windy river district in northwestern Canada. Less than 200 natives of the tribe are left out of the 1,000 that lived a few years ago. Medical authorities are unable to find a cure for the disease.

Fish Frozen in Ice
It is said that there are authenticated cases of fishes and frogs which have survived after having been inclosed in solid ice. This is because cold-blooded creatures such as fish and frogs have a very low standard of heat. Their body temperature is only slightly above that of the surrounding atmosphere. However, fishes and frogs frozen in ice would not usually survive.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Valuable New Textiles Argan is a new textile fiber discovered by Sir Henry Mckham. It is half as strong again as the best hemp and has, besides the action of sea water and weaves into a fine cloth that bleaches and dyes easily. It is obtained from a plant of the magnolia or pineapple type, which has succulent leaves. The fibers resemble silk.

Whale of an Infant According to Mr. Henry Nesbit, an American authority, the whale is a mammal, and the female bears one whale calf a year. Until the young fish is six months old it is nursed by the mother just as any land baby of the mammal type is. A mother whale has been seen to swim through the water with its young cradled in its flippers.

Electricity's Great Speed Electricity travels with much greater speed than either light or sound.
It covers 288,000 miles in a second; while light travels 186,000 miles to the second and sound only 734 miles in the same time.

MILESTONES IN NEW JERSEY'S PROGRESS

The single span that carries the great Camden bridge over the Delaware River measures 1850 feet and is the longest in the world. The new structure is an outstanding monument to the enterprise of two great states.

THE great cables that will support the sixty-foot roadway over the Delaware are being rapidly laid and the completion of this highway between New Jersey and Pennsylvania is now a matter of months. Current furnished by Public Service Electric and Gas Company played an important part in this construction.

To the rapid development of New Jersey, of which the Camden bridge is a notable example, the services furnished by the operating companies of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey are essential.

More and more electricity for power is being used in industry and construction, gas in manufacturing processes and local transportation to accommodate industrial workers.

Demand for service is back of the great growth of Public Service, and as long as New Jersey continues to expand and prosper, the enterprises that furnish it with gas, electricity and local transportation will keep pace.

Not only do they serve four of every five persons in the state but their patrons are constantly increasing their use of gas, electricity and local transportation.

Investment in Public Service is therefore, in effect, an investment in New Jersey, than which nothing can be safer. It is good common sense, therefore, to buy

MILLAN'S COHORTS WHITE

Sunday, October 19th, 1924, will be a date to linger long in the memory of the members and players of the Cranford Base Ball Club, as well as the loyal rooters of that Club, for they had the satisfaction of humbling Tommy McMillan (their star slapper of the season) and the team that he led into town that day under the name of the "Roselle Police" team.

It seems that a week or so ago Tommy (who as the saying goes had been treated royally all season by the management of the Cranford team) became peeved at some of the supporters of the team and made inference that if he could bring a club here on Sunday, they would prove to the universe that he (Tommy) was the "big work" of the Cranford base ball world in this neck of the woods. The Club, realizing that McMillan was a very capable pitcher, accepted his offer and the game was arranged. McMillan immediately set out to corral a team to "trick" his Cranford friends. Well they came, full of confidence that the game was as good as won and when they looked the Cranford team over they were doubly sure of victory, as they could see no "ringers." Their club was a corking good one—for in addition to McMillan, in the box, they had Al Lorenzo of the Elizabethtown team, at short stop, "Eli" Arthur of the Standard Oil and Garwood teams, on third base; Bobbie Shiner, of the Plainfield Recreation and Elizabeth Casey, at short stop; Kempson of the strong Linden team, at second base; Bobby Houston, of the Garwood team, at first base; Brown, of the Linden team, in left field;

Nick Florio, of the Standard Oil team, in center field, and the right field position was taken care of by Barrett and Cresena. This well balanced team took a neat coat of white wash from the Cranford team, which had in the pitcher's box for the occasion, "Speed King" Van Brunt, of East Orange, who is undoubtedly the best "retro" pitcher in the State today. He has a world of speed and an array of curves that are hard to equal. He is all that had been said of him before the game, and perhaps a little more. However, he did two hits, one of which was a scratch hit by Lorenzo. He took keen delight in striking out McMillan, who had been tipped as a hard hitter. It might be said here that striking out 12 of the above team was quite a feat, and Van Brunt is deserving of much credit. He was ably assisted in his work by the ever reliable infield of Mullin, Holt, Pool and Schulz, who by an outfield which played brilliantly: Spidel, Early and Schulz, composed the outfield and gobbled up everything that went in their territory.

The smaller children of town, determined that their team should win, agreed around the field with numerous noise makers and gave McMillan quite a reception each time he entered the pitcher's box. Tommy, however, did not relish the noise and showed very plainly that he was annoyed, this being to the liking of the boys. Several members of the Cranford police force, accompanied by Commissioner Berge, attended the game, but all attempts to find a policeman on the "Roselle Police" team were fruitless. McMillan proved conclusively that he had "showed up" the Cranford team, and when the game was finally over, he left the field a most humble and dejected person, amid the jeers of the small boys and many of the fans, just to taunt him, asked, "where are you going to play next year, Tommy?" Well it was a fine game and turned out as it should.

Echoes from the Game

The result of the game proved conclusively that there is nothing in trying to "get even" with your friends just because you're peeved, and especially when said friends have done everything possible for your welfare. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Charlie Harris says it is a pleasure to spread money sometimes, especially when it brings the desired result.

Mike Bostinto claims that the pitcher deserves all the credit as he bore the "brunt" of the work.

Fritz Rolfe claims that when the run came over the plate for Cranford, he had to "jump with joy."

Jesse Wheeler had a chill before the game when he took Harris's ice to the ground, but he got warmed up considerably before the game was over.

The man who yelled so loud and often during the game that he has been unable to speak above a whisper since, is generally known about town as "Lem." Nough said.

Fred Jahn made it known to the world that he would supply all the kalsomine necessary to decorate the police team. Fred is certainly a liberal fellow. Anyhow, it's his turn to laugh.

Van Brunt was so impressed with the town and the treatment he received here that he expressed a desire to come to Cranford in the future and it is barely possible that the club will try to secure his services for next year.

The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker were all on hand, but to the butcher must be handed the bacon. His suit was a real "hum-dinger."

It Mrs. Kunkle finds the thief who stole ten of her chickens, she will take him by the nape of his neck and give him the very dickens. If you doubt this, ask her and find out.

Messrs. George H. Bates, J. P. Doremus and P. H. Swackhamer were drawn from Cranford last Monday on the second panel of the petit jury for the October Term of Court.

The Cranford Men's Quartette Club will hold a minstrel show during the coming Winter. They have opened for first and second tenors and any one interested may communicate with Mr. Schenck.

Auro Lodge, No. 87, O. E. S., will hold its next regular meeting on the first Friday in November, Nov. 7th, in the Chapter Room. All members, other sisters and Master Masons are cordially invited.

Mrs. Charles Skillman and Mrs. J. A. Knowles are delegates to the State Convention of the W. C. T. U. being held October 24 and 25, inclusive, at Newark. A number of other Cranford women are also attending.

Keep the date in mind—Nov. 7th, at Sherman School. "The Radio Girls" will appear under the auspices of Fiske Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. It's a good show and a clean show.

Do not forget that Trinity Sunday School is holding a Country Fair at the Parish House next Saturday afternoon and evening. The goods on exhibition will be varied and interesting, and the booths attractively arranged. Miss Merriam's class of boys will exhibit a shooting gallery, and a well-known magician will give a performance at 3:45 p. m. and at 7:30 p. m.

The Green Triangle of Trinity Church will hold its October social on Thursday, Oct. 30, in the Parish House. It will take the form of a Halloween party. All members of the association will receive a notice from the secretary, Mrs. Percival Thomas, of Pine Street, and if any do not they should call her by telephone and be sure their names are on the list.

Trinity Church will hold its Harvest Home festival next Sunday. The church will be decorated with fall foliage, fruit and vegetables, and offerings of jellies, etc. Friends are asked to send in their contributions on Saturday morning.

On Monday morning these donations will be taken to the Home for the Aged at Bound Brook, and the Orphans Home at South Amboy.

Troops 3 and 4 of the Boy Scouts will meet at the Parish House on Tuesday, Oct. 29, at 7:30 p. m. Instead of Saturday evening of this week. They have already begun basketball practice at the Sherman School gym Saturday morning, and will be glad to play any care to a challenge. Leroy Albert is the captain and Rody Denman the manager of Troop 3 team, and Wesley Stanger, Jr., the captain of the team of Troop 4.

Auro Lodge, No. 87, O. E. S., gave an entertainment at the Sherman school last Tuesday evening. A story was read by Mrs. J. H. Doremus, and a song by Mrs. J. H. Doremus. The Michen Cabinet Orchestra composed of Mrs. C. G. Albury, leader, DuBois, Fletcher, Homer, Hopper, Riggs, Kermer, Lord, Olsen, Brainerd, Shepherd and Swazeland. Roselle Park; Mesdames McCullough, Mercer, Vandemark and Miss Corbett, all of Cranford; Mesdames Tulloch, Kelley and Miss Kelley, of Garwood. Miss Carlsson, of Roselle Park, assisted at the piano. Songs were given by Miss Corbett, Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. Swazeland and Mrs. Kelley. Mrs. Swazeland and Mrs. Mercer's Orchestra furnished the music, followed the program.

C. Doppler, Miss Catherine "Chas-wick, Miss Florence Farrell, and Messrs. David Hopper, of Richmond Hill, L. L. Charles Hanna, Donald Warner and the Rev. O. C. Hopper.

SOUTH SIDE CIVIC ASSOCIATION
There was a good sized meeting of the Association at Lincoln School last night, the principal business being discussion of plans for the new clubhouse to be built by the Association. It was reported that $1,700 in bonds had been disposed of.
The committee on the Hallway Dance to be held on the 31st, reported plans complete, and urged all members to come and bring their friends. Six new members were elected.

Nation's Hall of Fame
The Hall of Fame, in New York, belongs to New York University. The money to build it, amounting to $250, 000, was given anonymously for this particular purpose. It is known officially as "The Hall of Fame for Great Americans." Fifty names were to be inscribed on the tablets at the beginning, and five additional names every fifty years thereafter until the year 2000. Only persons who have been dead twenty-five or more years are eligible to be chosen.

Correcting One's Mistakes One cannot too soon forget his errors and misdemeanors; for to dwell upon them is to add to the offense, and repentance and sorrow can only be displaced by somewhat better, and which is as fresh and original as if they had not been. Not to grieve long for any action, but to go immediately and do freshly and otherwise, sub-tracts so much from the wrong—Thorpe.

Policemen as Call Boys In some parts of Europe it is perfectly permissible to use the policeman on a residential beat as a call boy or alarm clock, the only restriction being that in this personal service he does not neglect his official duties. As a result quite a few policemen awaken those who have made a special request to be aroused at a certain hour.

Calcium in Foods Calcium is found in the following foods: Cauliflower, celery, buttermilk, spinach, cheese, milk, cabbage, string beans, carrots, blackberries, strawberries, onions, figs, tomatoes, lemon juice, dried beans, eggs, beef's, fresh peas, oatmeal, prunes, raisins, potatoes, whole wheat bread, green peas, turnips, and cornmeal. Calcium helps to build bones and teeth.

Gorillas Not Man Eaters Gorillas, ferocious though they seem to be, are not man-eaters. If they kill a human being or an animal they do not eat the flesh of their victim.
They kill generally in self-defense.

Intelligence of Pigs Doubtless the ugliness of pigs and the ugly noises they make have earned them their bad name, but actually their intelligence stands on a level with that of a horse.

CRANFORD BASE BALL CLUB CELEBRATES Cranford Base Ball Club celebrated the members of the team and guests at Hayashi's—An Enjoy Evening Thoroughly.
Cranford Base Ball Club wound up its very successful season with a dinner to members of the team and invited guests, held last night at Hayashi's in celebration of the fine finish being 21 wins, 50 2 games lost, an unusual performance from any point of view.
All the members of the team and sub were present except McMillan, who pitched through the season up to the last game and Van Brunst, who pitched the final game with Hoselle.
While the club and guests were dinner served, music was furnished by Schneider's orchestra of Elizabeth, and by the Harmony Four, Perry Watt and Herbert Klags, all hands joining in from time to time in popular songs.
Chet Brady of Fanwood, also entertained with some wonderful songs, which were very much appreciated by the crowd.
Following the dinner, President Jesse G. Wheeler, who was toastmaster for the evening, called on telling what a good advertisement for Cranford the Club had proved.
From the beginning the Mayor said had been with the team and was proud of the record it had made—21 wins and 50 2 games lost, playing a good clean ball all the time. Mayor Wheeler said the team has the best people of Cranford with it and that the season of 1925 would prove more prosperous than the one just passed.
Mayor Wheeler also praised the work of the captain and managers.
Police Commissioner Rogers also had much praise for the team but said he had a team right out of Cranford police force that would make them look for their laurels next season.
Other speakers in similar vein were William McMahon and Charles Kurtz, who said he would back Cranford any time or place and any team, from the Washington Americans to the Boston cops. All the members of the team and officers of the Club in turn were called on including former Manager Al Stump and Umpire Blom. Great credit for successful work by the team was given to Capt. Miller.
The dinner was arranged by a special committee of which Charles Kurtz was head and it was a success. Among those present including guests were: Mayor Wheeler, Police Commissioner Rogers and Fire Commissioner Everett, Chief of Police Brady of Fanwood, Jesse G.
Wheeler, F. H. Jahn, W. A. McMahon, Al Stump, C. C. Harris, Fire Commissioner, Charles Kurtz, A. D. Hough, Doyle, A. L. Stevens, K. M. Rosinto, Frank Taddeo, L. E. Hendrickson, good friends of the team; Messrs. John Holt, Milton Waid, Spidel, Pooles, Diamond, Strauss, Jager and Streit; James H. McMahon, Julius Dreher, F. Roff, E. C. McMahon, C.
Lansh, M. Greco, E. R. Harris, Al Lauriat, Arthur Blumard, and Cranford Police Officers Craig, Bonnell, Rosendale, Metzner, Winana, Coleman, McNeerney and McCaffrey, and J. Doyle.

NEW DIRECTOR FOR FIRST NATIONAL BANK
At a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank, held at the banking rooms, Thursday evening, October 16th, the first steps toward making the bank a strictly home bank were taken when the resignations of all of the outside members were accepted.
The Bank is now in the hands and under the direction of the business men of Cranford, and the aim will be as previously announced, to develop all of the energies of the service of the bank in the development of Cranford interests.
Mr. John Doyle, one of the aggressive young business men, a pioneer in the plumbing business, and one who has been most helpful in making most substantial the property interests of the town, was elected to membership in the Board to fill one of the vacancies created. Mr.
Doyle is treasurer of the Gregory Building & Loan Association, and knows what the needs of the home owner are and will be a great benefit in considering the requirements of the many new as well as the old residents of the town.

Road Taxes Centuries Old Autolates who feel abused at the modern highway vehicle tax may find some solace in the fact that coaches were made to pay highway taxes as far back as 1601. In that year more than 400 coaches operating in London and, vicinly had to pay taxes to use the roads and the money was used to pay the London and Westminster streets.

Cow and Hog Lead
The Department of Agriculture says that, considering the amount of food for humans produced by the animals from the food raised on an acre of land, the dairy cow leads all others.
Next to the dairy cow in food production comes the pig, and then the sheep.
The cow, the pig and the sheep are the most important food producers of the hog.

Birth of the Skilling An Anglo-Saxon coin, worth five pence, and marked with a cross, in-enable it to be broken into four pieces, was known as a "skilling," from the word "skill," to divide; hence comes the modern term skilling.

RECEPTION FOR TEACHERS
The Parents-Teachers Association and Board of Education, gave the annual reception to the teachers of Cranford on Tuesday night October 21st at Sheraton Hotel.
The co-operation of teachers and parents was highly evidenced by an unusually large attendance.
An opening address by Mr. Samuel R. Jones, President of the Board of Education, made all feel truly welcome.
Miss Sarah Edmund's address was brief, interesting and full of sincerity.
Mrs. C. C. Van Noy, President of the Lincoln-Sherman Home and School League, introduced the program.
A delightful entertainment followed the addresses. The Cranford Men's Quartette Club furnished this part of the program in the setting of a song recital and gave several new songs including "The Song of Southern Melodians." The singers included Messrs. Frank Meyer, director; H. Donnelly, Frederick Deiter, Harry Schenck, Julius Dreher, Herbert Volkman, August Weber, J. F.
Currie, Louis Talbot, William Klein, G. K. Warner, William Milne, Arthur Schenck, E. Schenck.
After the program, dancing was enjoyed in the grand ballroom where parents and teachers had an excellent opportunity to meet and become better acquainted. The music was furnished by the Derry Orchestra.
Excellent refreshments were served and a thoroughly enjoyable evening made the annual reception an event to be remembered and anticipated.
Mrs. Van Noy was assisted by members of the entertainment committee, including Mrs. J. R. Deason of Grant-Cleveland Parent Teacher Association, Mrs. J. F. Van Noy, Chairman of the Board of Education, and Mrs. Schenck, Chairman of the refreshment committee.

RED CROSS ANNUAL MEETING
The annual meeting of the Cranford Chapter, American Red Cross, was held Thursday evening, October 21st, at the Cleveland School. Mr.
Godfrey Hanna, acted as chairman.
Mr. Andrew R. Warnock, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the list of officers for the next year. They were voted on and unanimously elected as follows: Mrs. H. P. Van Noy, Chairman.
Mrs. Ray Clement, Vice-Chairman.
Mrs. F. H. Garry, Secretary.
Executive Committee: Mr. W. J.
McKee, Mrs. G. C. Little, Mrs. David Brown, Mrs. W. S. Gee, Mrs. C. G.
Cullin, Mrs. D. C. N. Collins.
The business meeting was adjourned and Mr. James T. Nicholson, Managing Chairman of the National Red Cross, and Chairman of the Jr.
Red Cross, spoke very interestingly on the importance of the nutrition work now being carried on by Miss Ruth Campbell, of Cranford, as National Red Cross nutrition worker. Mr. Nicholson gave an outline of how much good the Christmas bags, given to the disabled veterans, had done. He also talked of the wonderful work the Jr. Red Cross is doing towards promoting the friendship between nations.
No those that were there enjoyed the heart to heart talk with Mr.
Nicholson, and hope to hear more from him at a future date.

Size of Picture
The size of a picture should be, in general, not more than one-third the wall space which is to be its background. Sometimes a painting or tapestry is hung over the entire wall space. But that is an exception to the general rule.

Destructive Tidal Waves A tidal wave sweeping around the earth could attain a speed of 600 miles an hour. It moves the whole bulk of the ocean in its path and one such wave can do more destruction than years of gales.

Encouraging Lawyer
"The lawyer in the case was so good," said Uncle Ezra, "that he almost kind of sorry he didn't steal several poultry while he was at it."

Starting A City Right

LONGVIEW certainly was started right. That was the unanimous decision of thousands of people from all over the country who attended the recent four-day pageant of progress with which a one-year-old city of more than 5,000 population at the confluence of the Columbia and Cowlitz rivers, halfway between Portland and the ocean, celebrated its first birthday.

The story of Longview is told by Robert Alexander Long, for whom the city was named. "In 1922 the officers of the Longview Lumber company decided to build a huge lumber mill in Washington to manufacture lumber from large timber holdings which the company had in southwestern Washington. After much study of lumbering methods employed in the Pacific Northwest, after a careful survey of the territory between Portland and the sea, it was decided to locate the new Longview Douglas Fir Lumber manufacturing plant at the point where the Cowlitz river empties into the mighty Columbia. The new mills were to become the largest lumber mills in the world; and to operate such a tremendous enterprise, thousands of men would be required. But the site of Longview was only farm land—there was no town—there was no place to house the thousands of men needed to operate this great manufacturing plant, a town was needed. So a town was ordered.

"After much study of the location, the raw materials in close proximity to Longview, the transportation facilities by water and rail and highway, it was realized that Longview offered greater possibilities than merely the building of a lumber manufacturing town. Longview should be more than that—Longview had potential possibilities which in years to come should make it one of the largest manufacturing towns in the Pacific Northwest."

To plan the present and future course of the new industrial city many men famous in this line of work were called in consultation—city planners and builders, landscape architects, engineers and real estate men.

These men, in consultation with a number of others, planned the city of Longview and laid it out in accordance with a definite scheme of city zoning. Under this plan a certain section of the city along the water front of the Columbia river was set aside as a manufacturing district, other sections of the city were reserved for the erection of residences, one for the erection of apartment houses, another section was set apart as the retail district of Longview, still another section was designated for the building of garages, automobile sales rooms and accessory stores. This system of city zoning with stabilizing property values in Longview, for apartment buildings or business houses will not be permitted to encroach on residential districts nor will manufacturing plants be permitted to operate in the retail district. Under this plan there will be a place for everything in Longview and everything will be kept in its place, thus assuring a city of stability, beauty and efficiency.

The main streets of Longview are wide; broad thoroughfares and boulevards are provided along all of the principal natural lines of traffic. Some of these streets radiate in various directions from the business center, yet they are so arranged in their relation to other streets that alternative routes are provided near the center, so that congestion of traffic is not forced to the center.

The arrangement of the principal thoroughfares tends to fix the permanent center of the city with the result that Longview will expand around a fixed pivot and the city should not grow and values shift first in one direction, then in another, as has been so characteristic of many American cities. In the business district the blocks are short and the streets are of ample width to care for present and all future needs. Under this system the greatest street area has been concentrated in that section where traffic will be heavy. In the residential districts, where lighter traffic conditions do not warrant such a large street area, the blocks are much longer. In the hilly sections of the town the streets are carefully adjusted to the topography of the land, thus preserving the unusually fine scenery and home sites in these areas.

Alleys have been provided at the rear of most of the lots in both the business and residential areas. Electric power and telephone lines will be arranged in these alleys wherever possible, and in connection along real lines where there are no alleys, thus clearing most of the streets of unsightly poles and allowing the undisturbed growth of street trees.

A six-acre park has been provided at the center of the radiating thoroughfares, which is the focal point of vistas from various directions. Around this park will be grouped the various public and municipal buildings of a monumental character. Another park of one hundred acres has been provided in the form of a crescent-shaped parkway, from 500 to 800 feet wide and a mile and a half long, surrounding the inner city (known as the Plan of Longview) on the western and southwestern sides. This park is bordered by two boulevards.

On July 12, 1923, this wonderfully located and carefully planned city was formally dedicated. Ten thousand people came and saw a city in the making. They witnessed the beginning of construction of the world's largest lumber mill, they saw the beginning of the Longview dock on the Columbia river, they saw a new railroad being built along the west bank of the Cowlitz to Ryderson, Wash., 30 miles to the north. They saw the beginning of river grading, the erection of business houses and homes.

A year later many of those who attended the dedication of the city returned with thousands of others to help the new city celebrate its first birthday and to witness the opening of the great lumber manufacturing plant. And those who had seen the spot a year previous marveled. What had transpired since their last visit was a monument to construction speed with nothing sacrificed to speed. In 97 days the Cowlitz river had been spanned with a steel railroad bridge.

story fireproof hotel of 200 rooms—a hotel of which a city of a hundred thousand would be proud. Two other smaller hotels had been built. Here had been developed a modern school system with 24 teachers and 932 students enrolled. Longview had a daily newspaper with over 4,000 paid circulation and Associated Press franchises. The year-old city boasted a community church of 400 members which supported a Bible class of 242 men. Two banks with 2,500 depositors and assets of over a million dollars were doing business. Ten miles of streets had been paved and 17 miles of concrete sidewalks had been put in. Fifty-eight miles of streets were graded and 32 miles were graveled. Thirty-two miles of water mains had been laid, 20 miles of storm and sanitary sewers large enough to serve a city of a hundred thousand population had been put in. In the business section of the city the telephone and electric light lines had been placed underground. A railroad car building plant, a strawboard and paper mill, a concrete brick plant, a concrete tile and pipe plant had located in Longview, new factories were in prospect and business buildings and homes by the score were under construction.

Here was a town just a year old that had transportation facilities that would be envied by many a metropolitan manufacturing city. Situated on the water on the Columbia river the young city already had become a port of call for many ocean-going vessels. Three great transcontinental railway systems—the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Union Pacific—to serve Longview in taking its products to every city in the United States, and two famous highways—the Columbia river highway and the Pacific highway—way to care for the motor traffic and transportation.

Four days they celebrated the first birthday of the city and the opening of the large fir lumber manufacturing plant which would give employment to many residents of Longview. The 75,000 or more visitors to the new city were royally entertained by log-ging, sports, a regatta on the Columbia river, ball games and tennis matches, fireworks and dances in the evenings, a Wild West rodeo in the athletic stadium, and a long pageant of progress parade. They listened to speeches by noted men from various walks of life, among whom were senators, governors, business men, an admiral of the United States navy and two sermons on the Sabbath by the Rev. Billy Sunday, the famous evangelist.

And all of the speakers professed a great faith in the future of Longview and paid tribute to the founder of the city and to the men who worked out all of the details and intricacies of the plan by which Longview was built. As they reflected over what they had just seen and what had taken place in the brief period of one year, they marveled at the development and were of the unanimous opinion that "Longview was started right."
